Board nears school chief choice

Two Plymouth-Canton school board members will visit the community where Charles Little is the superintendent of schools. He is one of three finalists for the job as superintendent of the Plymouth-Canton Schools.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

After receiving what amounted to a mandate from the community, the Plymouth Canton Board of Education decided to visit the hometown of New Yorker Charles Little, Frontier school superintendent and a finalist for the job of the retiring John Hoben.

Most agreed Little is the candidate who could best motivate and inspire confidence in staff, parents and students.

"If the site visit goes well, we can then report back and say, 'It went OK, here is what we found,' and extend a contract offer," said board treasurer Dave Artley.

Little was chosen over Robert Monson, superintendent of Westwood schools in Massachusetts, and Gary Hughes, superintendent of Durand public schools between Flint and Lansing.

The vote to visit the Buffalo area district was 6-1, with board vice president Carl Battishill supporting Monson.

Described by the board as a visionary leader, Monson appealed to Battishill "because he represents the potential for us to be a world class school district, excelling in the 21st century." Monson is the candidate who could make the school district "what I want it to be for my son. Also, Dr. Monson would bring out the very best of my ability," he said.

Hoben's replacement will earn a minimum of $100,000 and receive benefits including a tax sheltered annuity, car allowance and fringes.

Accompanying Artley to New York this week will be board president Roland Thomas and board secretary

Former astronaut describes power of prayer

BY JULIE BROWN

Sometimes, people ask former astronaut Jack Lousma if he saw God while on his space flights. Those folks are a bit disappointed to learn that he didn't really feel closer to God in space than on Earth.

"We can have a close and personal relationship with God no matter where we go," Lousma told those at Thursday morning's Canton-Plymouth prayer breakfast. "He wants us to know him through his universe."

The annual event, held at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth, was sponsored by the Canton Community Foundation and hosted by the Canton Ministerial Association.

"I believe God answers prayer. I talk to him every day," Lousma told the approximately 225 people at the event, the fourth such annual get-together held in conjunction with the National Day of Prayer. May 5 also included prayer gatherings at local city and township halls at midday.

The morning gathering featured music, a dramatic presentation, prayers and Lousma's speech. The businessman and 1984 U.S. Senate candidate, who lives in Ann Arbor with his wife, encouraged those present to employ the power of prayer.

"We should pray every day for our leaders, and government, and schools and churches," he said. The family remains the basic building block of society, and needs to be strengthened.

"We have heard and we know of all the calamities. We need not enumerate them. We're frustrated as to

Spotlight shines on woman's home

Westchester Square Mall owner Deborah Pennington's Brighton home will be featured today at 4 p.m. on the Oprah Winfrey TV show.

The theme of the show is dream rooms of homes, and Pennington's two kitchens were selected — along with several other rooms of Oprah viewers — from more than 10,000 entries.

It all started for Pennington in March when her sister-in-law clipped a story from a Detroit daily paper. It explained that the Oprah show was looking for people to submit pictures and video tapes detailing special rooms in their homes.

"Seeing how I designed and decorated my home, I included a picture and a letter to Oprah of my entire home," Pennington said.

On April 26 she got a call that her home was chosen, and that crews from the show would come to film in a few days.

"I spent my birthday cleaning," Pennington said.

"What they picked on my house was two full kitchens decorated totally different," she said — a his and hers arrangement.

Youngster aids pregnant mom

■ 'She dislocated her arm and went into labor.'

Gerry Sitko

After her pregnant mom fell down the stairs and dislocated her arm Thursday, 5-year-old Amanda Sitko was able to call 911 to get help.

Jan Sitko, mother of Amanda and Natalie, 3, was kept overnight at St. Joseph Hospital and on Friday remained there, as she is nine months pregnant and had begun having contractions, husband Gerry Sitko said.

The fall happened at about 7:30 a.m. Thursday. The family lives on Baywood in Plymouth Township.

"She dislocated her arm and went into labor," Gerry Sitko said.

"My wife is hearing-impaired, she can't use the phone herself. She started screaming, 'Amanda! Amanda! Amanda! Call 911!' I guess she was real good on the phone.

"My wife has told her (Amanda) about how to dial 911," Sitko added.

"I guess if Amanda didn't call 911, I'm sure my wife could have called if worst came to worst," he said, adding Jan was in a lot of pain after the fall.

On Friday, as Jan remained in the hospital, the family was awaiting a happy ending to the story — the arrival of a third child.

Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury Inc., located in Plymouth, is one of 138 dealerships nationwide to receive the Chairman's Award this year.

"I thank you for your commitment to excellence, your hard work, and your commitment to making Ford the finest automotive company in the world."

Women's group 'strives' to get going

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

Women get together to talk about work and personal growth at monthly meetings at the Water Club Grill in Plymouth Township.

"The benefit is exposure to other women in the workplace, expanding their own self-esteem, education, camaraderie, a feeling of they're not alone out there," said Sue Discher.

She is co-director of Strive, which last month celebrated its first anniversary. The local group is patterned after a successful Strive group in Oakland County, which counts 100 members. The local group has 20 members.

"Our main objective is networking, women helping women," as men in the workplace have long had their own networks.

A meeting typically includes a speaker on issues involving women — health, politics, education, personal growth, and "any areas to help women develop their own self-esteem," said Discher, who works in the travel agency field.

"Some of them are re-entering the job market and don't have the confidence to just jump in there," she said. "We're looking to do some mentoring with Schoolcraft (College's) Women's Resource Center. Women haven't known historically how to do this; they didn't know how to walk into a room and stick out a hand and talk about job-related things."

Strive is affiliated with the National Association for Female Executives (NAFE). "One of the goals is to have 50 percent of women in the workplace and 50 percent of the jobs in power," Discher said.

While members range from executives to women re-entering the workplace, "We feel everyone has something to contribute," said Discher, who lives in Westland.

Betty Rudy of Canton, who owns her own firm, Detroit Water Management, has been a Strive member since its inception.

"With Strive, I'm able to give back to people starting out, and also there's a lot of real good energy, a lot of very positive people belong to it," she said.

The group's next meeting is 6 p.m. Thursday, May 19, at the Water Club Grill. Dinner is optional, and the first meeting is free if a woman chooses not to join.

A meeting typically opens with women taking turns to introduce themselves. In the introduction, each member addresses an agenda topic, such as "Where do we want to be?"

"It opens up the doors for women who are mentoring, who say, 'I can help you with that.' We talk about issues," Discher said.

"Women are there to help each other, not to stab each other in the back anymore," she said, adding the group is nonprofit and provides a directory of members. "We encourage members to use each other's services," Discher said.

Annual membership dues are $49. This includes NAFE membership, bi-monthly subscription to Executive Female Magazine, and discounts at Hertz, Kinko's and other services.

For more information, call the Strive hotline at (810) 253-6800, or call Discher at 722-7937.

New Mettetal manager fields questions

By Jill Halpin
Staff Writer

When newly appointed airport manager Doug Kitze addressed a crowd at the Canton-Plymouth-Mettetal Airport Board meeting Thursday, they had one primary question for him: How does he plan to manage the airport on a salary of $1?

"I keep my overhead down. I paid one dollar a year for the facility — that's keeping my overhead down," said Kitze, owner of Kitze Aviation, recently chosen as the facility's new manager.

Last month, Kitze's bid of $1 for management and $1 for the facility was selected by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission from seven other bids ranging from $82,000 to $145,000. Although Kitze was scheduled to begin taking over operations at the airport on May 1, contract delays have pushed the date back at least three weeks, he said.

"I am not officially the airport manager yet. I plan to be operating in there in the next few weeks, as soon as the contracts are signed," Kitze said.

The selection of Kitze's low bid over that of former airport manager Dan Malone of Emerald Aviation was questioned by some at the meeting. "How can you bid so low and still stay in business?" asked one resident.

Malone, who operates a flight school out of the airport, also expressed anger at the bidding selection. "Operating an airport is not profitable. So what is the reality here?" he asked board members. Malone accused the state of using private business to get a public job done cheaply.

But state aeronautic officials Randy Coller and John Wagner said they remain confident in their selection of Kitze. "(Kitze) is recognizing his ability to turn it (Mettetal) into a successful business," said Wagner.

Kitze, who has more than 30 years of experience in the aviation industry, explained that he plans to make a profit through his on-site maintenance service, the creation of a flight school and by selling fuel. "I'm also looking at the possibility of leasing space in the maintenance hangar," he said.

Kitze lives in Canton. His experience in aircraft maintenance and airport management has taken him from now-closed Westland National Airport in the 1970s to his current position at Oakland-Pontiac Airport, where he operates a maintenance business.

"I had been looking to expand at Pontiac, but there is no space available out there," he said. He spent three years as a mechanic at Mettetal in the 1960s and was drawn to the area, he said.

Kitze said he is ready to get rolling at the airport. Already, he has hired FAA examiner Don Little as his chief flight instructor. "I have hired a chief pilot and he will be able to do pilot check rides and issue licenses," he said.

Pilot Bill Brown welcomed Kitze and urged others to do the same, saying, "We need to get together and give him a chance."

Democratic hopefuls make pitch to local crowd

By Jeff Counts
Staff Writer

The four Democratic candidates seeking to oust Gov. John Engler in November brought their messages to the Canton Economic Club on Wednesday.

They are State Sen. Debbie Stabenow, former Congressman Howard Wolpe, Larry Owen and State Sen. Lynn Jondahl.

Of the four, former Plymouth-Canton school board member E.J. McClendon said he like what Wolpe had to say the best. He said it sought into the problems.

Stabenow, who has been viewed as the front runner, told the more than 200 people that "we need to be smart enough to deal with problems at the front end." She said government, education and business need to work together for job creation.

She took a stab at Engler, saying that "he's not telling the truth about not raising taxes" and added that he has raised various fees and has not eliminated the Small Business Tax.

"Small businesses are where the jobs are at," she said.

On education, she took partial credit for the shift from a property tax to a sales tax to pay for schools. In her campaign literature she contends that "her leadership broke the 25-year gridlock on property tax and school finance reform and has led to a state facility bonded tax and phase-in."

In the Senate, Stabenow was involved in the scrapping of the property tax and is a Democrat received criticism from teachers and educators. Her legislative action set up the groundwork for Proposal A, for which Engler is taking credit in his campaign ads that started airing last week.

Wolpe stressed job creation, calling it the "issue of the day." He said the state must prepare for the restructuring of the economy and look to create high skill, high wage jobs instead of low skill, low wage jobs.

A former teacher, Wolpe called school funding problems "artificially created." He said the key to improving education is to "retool the school system."

On other problems in the state, he said, "we've lost the sense of family and community."

Jondahl took a whack at Proposal A, saying "It's not adequate for the schools. Also, we need to stop raiding the school funds in the state budget."

However, he did take note that "the political climate is not out there to raise taxes."

He outlined an economic development plan that would invest in worker skills to create high-wage jobs.

"The key to the future is to invest in an infrastructure that includes people, utilities, roads and transportation," he said.

Owen hit at Engler, saying that "his only interest is in political power. He has no idea or interest in moving to a new economy."

Owen said the state is competing for jobs with the emerging countries. "We have to hang onto our traditional manufacturing base, while at the same time try to foster growth."

He was critical of Engler, saying, "The state did nothing to recruit BMW when it located in the U.S."

To foster business growth, he said the state needs to encourage marketing groups.

School board interviews last school chief finalist

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

"He really sees the issue of providing good leadership. He listens to people, so there is consensus building. He looks for input from the bottom up. We really need that in this district."

He seems willing to look past the short term to long term planning. As a parent of an elementary school student, I'm impressed with that. I also like the fact he views technology as a tool for the classroom teacher not a solution."

"We need someone like him, someone who gets out and talks to people and is approachable."

"We're in need of a change. We need someone to give us focus and direction. I think any one of the three could do it."

These were some of the comments made by folks who attended the public reception for Plymouth Canton school superintendent hopeful Gary Hughes. He is superintendent of the Durand Area School District, a district of 2,600 students between Flint and Lansing. Hughes formerly served as assistant to the superintendent for the Troy School District.

Plymouth Canton Board of Education members grilled Hughes, a proponent of shared decision making and outcome based education, during a three hour final interview Tuesday. The following is a sampling of his responses.

■ On finance: "We've gone to building level financing, where individual buildings handle their own budgets. They have the freedom to purchase what ever they want within parameters.

Durand has set its goals to balance budget, but maintains a $1 million rainy day fund in its $12 million budget, and has funded six early elementary Reading Recovery programs.

Hughes said "Proposal A hasn't helped us as much as people have perceived that it would. Executive order cuts are inevitable. You can have a new formula but if it's not funded how is it going to be better than what you had?"

"Plymouth Canton ... better have a fallback plan. I think the board will face before July 1995 the necessity of looking at a millage or increasing revenue."

■ On Lansing: "It's very important to work with legislators. I've been able to have input into decision making there because we are close to Lansing."

■ On negotiations: "We accomplished expedited bargaining in a weekend. We were successful because we shared information."

■ On communicating: "I really believe in one on one communication. Communication really isn't the spoken or written word. When trust is there, communication is there. Visibility is key. If they know who you are, you can start building that trust. Despite what the course offer-

Gary Hughes

■ On [illegible]: "I believe [illegible] the best input from the people who work day to day with the programs.

■ On extracurriculars for college bound and non-college bound students: "I'm not sure we alter what we look for in both groups. We want critical thinkers and the same exit outcomes."

■ On technology: "I think we share the same philosophy," said Hughes, whose district also is wired with fiber optics for interactive television and "distance learning." Hughes said Plymouth Canton government officials he met with "would like to see more sharing of technology leadership. There's a positive atmosphere here, this would re-

Consumers Power pays local taxes

The Plymouth community was among other Wayne County communities to which Consumers Power Company paid $2 million in property taxes in 1993.

Among the larger tax payments made in Wayne County were those to the cities of Livonia, $776,230, Westland, $451,851, Plymouth, $75,288, Wayne, $120,889 and the townships of Northville, $307,876 and Plymouth Township, $267,427.

In the utility's Metro Region, a total of $19.6 million in 1993 taxes was paid to local units of government in Oakland, Macomb, and parts of Wayne, Livingston and Washtenaw counties. Over 755,000 natural gas customers are served within Consumers Power's Metro Region.

"Consumers Power recognizes that our tax payments provide vital assistance to local school systems, community colleges and local governments," said Bill Pike, West Metro area manager for Consumers Power. "Many of our employees also supplement these funds through community volunteer efforts, corporate contributions and programs which help ensure that Metro Region is a place in which we are proud to live and work."

Superintendent

Jack Farrow. Trustees expect to make an announcement at their 7 p.m. meeting Monday, May 16, at the board office, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

The board polled the audience at last week's workshop before deciding on what Artley called a "trip of affirmation. This isn't a search and destroy mission," he said.

Canton High School sophomore John Duthie sided with Little. "We toured the school and ate lunch with all three candidates," he said. "As we walked around, he was the most exciting. He had a lot of good ideas and was the only one who asked us questions. I found that intriguing."

Search committee member Betty Bloch said Little would help restore trust. "I think Dr. Little will win over the community at large. He asks tough questions and expects answers. That's OK because we need to be as straight with people as he is, and to be as honest and forthright as he is."

School bus driver Alice Horstead said, "My gut reaction is we have a lot of good staff here, but no one says that or motivates them. Dr. Little would, and that would do the whole district a lot of good."

Vocational educational teacher Betty DuBois said, "I may lose my job with both Drs. Monson and Dr. Little. Dr. Little will make me feel better about it. He has the energy, personality, and excitement this district has been crying for."

Kemmie Schumacher's children graduated from Plymouth Canton. "I hope the superintendent chosen isn't so narrow with his own profession that he is not able to communicate with the majority of voters," she said. "If Dr. Little is chosen, this district is going to be very excited."

Charles Little

East Middle School principal Tom Workman said, "Dr. Little impresses me as the person who can best inspire confidence. Good leaders can motivate and serve as a catalyst. Dr. Little did that for me and the small group of students he met with."

Former board member Jeanette Wines, who took part in the search, was among several who suggested visiting two finalists' hometowns. "It seems like you're putting the cart before the horse," she said.

Wines, who supports Little, said Monson "never mentioned the community, so I have some uneasiness about him."

Prayer

what we can do about it." Prayer's important, Lousma said, but action's needed as well.

"There is a way to be involved, more formally if you wish. This is the International Year of the Family." That celebration is designed to promote the family unit "and thereby raise the rest of society around us. I hope you will get involved."

Lousma's grateful he was raised in a strong family and learned such values as responsibility, fairness and respect for what is right and good. "We ought to take time to define what family values mean." The term has different meanings to different people.

"We can't lean on those more formal entities to do what we should be doing at home," Lousma said, referring to government, schools and churches.

As an astronaut, he saw the world from a new perspective. One thing he saw was that international boundaries that divide sometimes hostile countries weren't visible from space.

The Rev. Rocky Barra, pastor of Tri-City Christian Center in Canton, was impressed by Lousma's presentation.

"I thought it was wonderful," said Barra, who sang a solo during the breakfast. "Very, very inspired."

Those beliefs were shared by the Rev. Marjorie Munger, pastor of Cherry Hill United Methodist Church in Canton. She planned to incorporate Lousma's message into her Sunday sermon.

"I appreciate Jack Lousma's words that brought us a sense of awe," said Munger, who gave a prayer for public and private schools during the event. "We need to recapture a sense of awe."

Students get support

As of this evening, the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools music department will be $2,000 closer to being able to purchase a much-needed $9,700 set of timpani, thanks to the Plymouth Symphony and the Plymouth Community Band.

The symphony and band will make the $1,000 donations at tonight's school board meeting. The board meets at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

"The monies allocated to (band director) Mr. (Jim) Griffith wouldn't allow for him to make such a purchase. It's a token, but we appreciate the use of the schools and their equipment," said Russell Reed, symphony conductor.

Due to the cost and size of the percussion instruments, the symphony, school orchestras and bands share it.

"This is an opportunity for us to give back to the community," said Linda Alvarado, Plymouth Symphony Society president.

"We want to make sure their equipment is up-to-snuff."

Pennington said her kitchen follows a "Mrs. Hollywood" theme, as it's done in black and white and teal. Her husband Denny's kitchen follows a "Mr. Vanilla" theme, done in burgundy, navy and greens.

On the show segment featuring the two kitchens, "They show how I entertain and how he entertains, they flip back and forth," Pennington said.

While Pennington doesn't appear in the studio with Oprah, the show features Oprah with the studio audience and video clips of the dream rooms. Pennington did attend a session where the show was put together.

"There were about 20 of us from around the country. I met Oprah, she's a beautiful lady. I got an (Oprah Winfrey show) T-shirt and hat," Pennington said.

Pennington said she's been into home design and decorating "from the age of 18 on. I'm always stealing ideas with my eyes," she said, adding she keeps a scrapbook of clippings that picture special room design features.

"I like to create a room that when people come over it engulfs them, it's an entertainment experience," Pennington said.

Meanwhile, the Westchester Square Mall, she said, "is doing excellent, business is picking up, we now have restaurants," said Pennington, who with her husband has owned the mall since 1985.

"I would say everything is on the upswing. We still need to see a women's designer shoe store in town, that's a big request," she said.

More money sought for Michigan courts

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

State government would take on a larger burden of court funding under a reform movement taking shape in the Legislature.

Local lawmakers praised Chief Justice Michael Cavanagh when he urged them to assess the proper balance for the sharing of costs between local and state funding sources.

Cavanagh held an olive branch of cooperation in place of a long standing battle line between the courts and the rest of government.

"Think of your recent accomplishments," said the complimentary Cavanagh, referring to the massive transfer of school funding responsibility from local property taxes to the state. Cavanagh, in his second year as chief justice, last Thursday made his first "State of the Judiciary" address to a joint session of the House and Senate.

The state pays about 31 percent of the cost of circuit, probate and district courts. Under a deal cut with Gov. William G. Milliken in the early 1980s, the state picked up the entire cost of Wayne County and Detroit courts the first year.

In later years, the state was to pick up the cost of suburban Wayne and the 82 other counties' courts, but "tomorrow" never came. Outstate counties are suing for equity, and their lawmakers last week began the debate.

"They (outstaters) are absolutely correct," said Rep. Lynn Bankes, R-Redford, predicting more state money for all courts.

Bankes said members of the House Appropriations Committee are working on a plan to raise the state's share above 41.5 percent, but not to 100 percent, by shifting revenue-sharing with counties into courts.

Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights, the Appropriations committee chairman, modeled a visit at Cavanagh's conciliatory tone and contrasted it with past court attitudes.

Years ago, the Supreme Court decided they wanted to fund the Appellate Defender's office and did it out of their budget. They ran out of money before the end of the year and couldn't pay their own salaries. Young recalled. After a showdown conference, the justices got more money, but promised "never again" would they bust their budget.

Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, asked rhetorically, "I wonder how the justices and Court of Appeals judges feel about our taking away their cars." The House passed a budget bill two weeks ago eliminating taxpayer-paid cars for the jurists on the two highest courts.

Cavanagh told legislators that courts need more money because they must:

- Report more offenses to the Secretary of State (drugs) and Department of Commerce (professional licenses).
- Deal with drunken driving cases as a top priority in 77 days.
- Collect traffic ticket surcharges and distribute them.
- Collect crime victim assessments and restitution.
- Collect health department fees in paternity cases.
- Collect forensic lab fees in criminal convictions.
- Facilitate entry of probation conditions on police computer network.
- Provide interpreters for persons who are not native speakers of English, as well as the hearing impaired.
- Comply with the federal Americans with Disabilities Act.

Comment sought on sign ordinance

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Dearborn Heights residents who wanted to place their names on signs at the corner of Edward McNamara Boulevard and Ann Arbor Trail must be on the sign, too.

Last Thursday, the commission rejected an ordinance that would have prohibited anyone but the city attorneys from having their name on a courtesy sign. The ordinance was favored by commissioners Dudley McCotter, R-Lessany, who also represents Plymouth Township, Bryan Adams, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton Township, Alex Richter, R-Grosse Pointe Woods, William O'Neil, D-Allen Park.

The new sign ordinance was opposed by commissioner Michael Piawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township, says that courtesy signs with McNamara's name on them will also have McNamara's phone number and the name and phone number of the commissioner in whose district the sign is erected.

McCotter said support for the ordinance is strong on the commission. "It will be approved. I guarantee you," he said.

There are, according to the ordinance, two only be put up at entry intersections and signs at which the activity is meant to generate an inconvenience to residents and businesses in the local neighborhood.

Piawecki says that the intersection where their courtesy signs are at is "ours and not part of the commission."

McCotter calls it "nothing but taxpayer-provided PR for politicians."

He supports the introduction and passage of the proposed ordinance, saying commissioners need to "stop making signs for themselves."

Less expensive signs, made of plastic, would be permitted under the ordinance, according to McCotter.

The commission also rejected Piawecki's proposed ordinance to the public services committee, which will hold a public hearing on the ordinance at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 12, at the Warren Valley Golf Dearborn.

Piawecki's ordinance also makes it a crime for McNamara's put up a courtesy sign with his name on it and tell the commissioners. McNamara would be fined up to $500 under the ordinance, which was opposed by Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair. He seek the "restitution from a person who misuses the public resources placed in their control for the private benefit of a person or corporation."

CCS exhibits future of art

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

If you want to see what you'll be driving in five years or the art you'll be displaying on your walls, visit the 1994 Center for Creative Studies' College of Art and Design Student Exhibition May 13-29 in the Kresge-Ford Building, 201 E. Kirby, Detroit.

The show, highlighting more than 2,000 works, spans a spectrum of artistic disciplines ranging from glass to painting.

"This is a sneak peek of art and design of the future; this is the next generation of painters, sculptors, commercial artists, ceramicists and industrial designers," said Ann Marie Aliotta, CCS director of public relations. "They're trend setters at the peak of creativity in their young professional lives.

"Many collectors come to the exhibition for that reason, to snatch up the work before the show opens, and the opening on Friday the 13th is one of the hippest parties of the season."

You won't be able to snatch up Robin Scharding's installation piece, but it will give you the opportunity to travel back to the days of Vietnam. Walk into the huge military tent. Once inside, wade through two big black books symbolic of the Vietnam memorial wall in Washington D.C.

The graduating senior assembled them after debossing names from the wall with emulsion coated zinc plates then exposed and placed into somewhat diluted acid which etched away the unexposed areas, leaving the names raised. Each plate was then run through a printing press twice.

Integrated with the pages of names are photographs, some by Scharding, others actually shot on site. A projector focuses on slides obtained from Time and Life magazines.

"I wanted to build an environment that documents the veterans of Vietnam, talk with them, interview them. It's my personal tribute to the men and women who served there," said Scharding, who spent three years intensively conducting those interviews and photographing the veterans.

"When you hear that 58,183 died in Vietnam or that over 2,000 were left behind as prisoners of war or missing, the numbers just don't have the impact that they should. Therefore, I felt that if I could share a photograph and a thought from some of the people who served, the numbers would then become real people one by one by one."

From the onset, the installation presented hurdles. It was no easy task, says Scharding, to find a tent since the army changed its palette from camouflage green to Desert Storm brown, but the thesis project was something she felt compelled to accomplish.

The women, she discovered, touched her most deeply because they have been even more overlooked than the men. Scharding says, that almost 20 years after the war ended, the Department of Defense still doesn't have specific figures on the number of women who served in Vietnam nor have they documented their experiences.

Heavies solidify soulful groove

The Brand New Heavies realize that their jazzy soulful sound is a hard pill for Americans to swallow. Slowly but surely, however, the proverbial black sheep of traditional R&B are inching their way into radio.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The Brand New Heavies are all about having fun. It doesn't take long to figure that out while listening to The Heavies' latest soulful release "Brother Sister."

Kicking off the album by singing "Let's all just have a good time," it's apparent that vocalist N'Dea Davenport has finally found her niche.

"When I started looking around for a solo recording deal, it was very difficult for an African-American female who wanted to make live music," Davenport said. "After (Delicious Vinyl records President) Michael Ross played me tapes of The Brand New Heavies, I wanted to collaborate with them because their live sound excited me and was very similar to the music I'd been making. Two days later, I flew to London, and I've never really come back."

That was in 1991. For the next few years, Davenport appeared as a special guest with The Heavies in live shows and on their first two recordings — "The Heavies" self-titled debut and 1992 follow-up "Heavy Rhyme Experience: Vol. 1."

With Davenport recently joining the group as a full member, the band recently released "Brother Sister," an album which has made it a musical heavy weight. Often a predictor of things to come, the band's first video, "Dream On Dreamer," from "Brother Sister" has been added to MTV's "Buzz Bin." ("Buzz Bin" veterans include Green Day and Counting Crows.)

■ STREET BEATS

"MTV was ready for us," said bassist Andrew Levy from his band's rehearsal space in the U.K. "We have good relations with certain people at MTV. Sheri Howell at MTV respects our music. She knows it takes initiative from a major network."

"Respect" is probably an underestimate of Howell's feelings for the band's music.

"I've known them for years. That first record was such a unique record at the time," said Howell, director of talent and artist relations at MTV. "It's a perfect blend of all different types of music. It's jazz. It's funk. It's rock. It's everything."

Wanting to share her enthusiasm for The Brand New Heavies, Howell arranged for the band to appear in MTV's Spring Break shows and "Yo! MTV Raps." It wasn't until the release of "Brother Sister" that her co-workers caught on to The Heavies' groove.

"When this record came out, it was funny," she said. "You know how you sit through one too many recording sessions? I heard all these different mixes as they were coming out. When the album was finally done, I knew it was going to be good by what I heard."

Drummer/keyboardist Jan Kincaid feels the same way about "Brother Sister."

"We've solidified our grooves for the new album," Kincaid said. "We like to smash the formulas every once in awhile. That's one of The Heavies' important roles."

It's not that the band's first two albums weren't successful. As Levy said, "it's a strange package for America." Stripped-down soul and jazz acts like The Brand New Heavies and Jamiroquai don't seem to fit well with Americans. Tukka Yoot, rapper for the jazzy U3, said that may be due to the differences in soul styles in the United States and Great Britian. Here vocal stylings are more important where in Great Britain the stress is put on music.

"Soul in England has more flavor to it," Yoot said after a recent Detroit performance. "All these artists are comin' up in the United States like Jade, R. Kelly. They all have similar sounds."

The Brand New Heavies' sound runs the gamut fro a '70s smooth tip funk to the sharp-edged hip hop driven grooves of the '90s. That's the sound that founders Levy, guitarist Simon Bartholomew and Kincaid have been striving for since their early teens.

"At the age of 15, we were very passionate about dance and soul music and we got so into it that the only thing was to try and play it ourselves," Levy said.

After playing clubs and parties for several years, The Brand New Heavies officially formed in 1986 releasing their first single in 1987. Featuring vocalist Linda Muriel, the single was followed by a major label deal that sidetracked the band for a year. "It seemed the label was really confused as to what we were doing; it was the height of the acid house movement," Kincaid said.

In 1991 the band hooked with the Atlanta-born Davenport, who Levy said enhances The Heavies' sound with her spontaneous vocal melodies and harmonies.

"It's nice actually. She's great at (improvising) vocal melodies and lyrics and stuff like that. It's great when we jam the music, there's a song already made," he said. "That's what The Heavies are about. That's what most bands would like to do."

Brand New Heavies performs with Sounds of Brass on Friday, May 13, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Tickets are $11.50 in advance, $14 the day of show. Must be 18 to get in. The show was originally scheduled at the State Theatre in Detroit. For ticket exchange information, call (810) 334-1999 or (810) 645-6666.

Soul makes its music work

Blue Eyed Soul lead singer Michael Welchans wants people to expect something different when they come to his band's shows.

"We're going to make your head bop up and down a little bit," he said. "We're going to make your butt move back and forth." But he is quick to add that "the music also has substance."

Most of Welchans' lyrics "tend to be on the personal side, but I try to keep them vague enough so people can have their own ideas about them."

The Canton native writes about things that are important to him "because then it seems genuine to other people."

"The songs I write tend to be on the serious side, sometimes dark, kind of moodily dark," he said. "But it's not my personality. I'm usually a pretty happy person."

Welchans added that the music usually dictates the mood of the song. Sometimes he can't think of anything else because it is the only thing that fits with the music.

Livonia native and lead guitarist Christian Draheim characterizes the music as having "the hook and groove of Motown and the mood and color of '60s psychedelic rock," but the music goes beyond that to reflect the different influences of the individual band members.

"Some of us had really heavy influences and others had lighter and jazz stuff behind them," Welchans pointed out.

Formed in June 1993, Blue Eyed Soul is experiencing rapid musical growth which Welchans attributes to the group working well together.

"Everything we do is for the band. When we write and when we play out, we do it for the band; nobody is trying to stand out."

Welchans said it's even obvious in the way they write.

"Most of the time Chris starts things out with a groove and everyone comes up with their own part," he said. "Then we'll give each other suggestions about how to make each part better. That's how a song becomes totally ours."

Welchans talks with pride about his bandmates which includes bassist Robert Sommerville of Garden City, drummer Daniel Lago of Westland, and rhythm guitarist Allan MacLean of Canton.

Draheim wants people to appreciate Blue Eyed Soul the same way people appreciate bands like Led Zeppelin.

"I want people to enjoy the music, use it to escape, or have a good time."

'Moon' returns Polanski to fine form

By John Monaghan
Special Writer

■ MOVIES

It took 20 years, but with "Bitter Moon," Roman Polanski has regained his place as one of the world's most controversial and stylish filmmakers. This kinky tale of obsessive love and revenge is his most accomplished, audacious work since 1974's "Chinatown."

Slightly snooty Brits Nigel and Fiona are on a luxury cruise when they meet American expatriate Oscar and his sexy wife Mimi. Reluctant at first, Nigel gets drawn into Oscar's confessional stories about a relationship that somehow put him in a wheelchair, paralyzed from the waist down.

The story, which takes up a majority of the more than two-hour film, starts happily enough. Oscar, a wealthy American in Paris, wants to follow in the footsteps of Hemingway and Henry Miller. His own writing is laden with cliches, however, as evidenced in the often hilarious voice-over narration during the flashbacks.

A chance meeting on a cross-town bus introduces him to Mimi. He haunts the bus lines in the hope of running into this "heaven in white tennis shoes" again, but then finds her by chance in the restaurant where she works as a waitress.

Soon, they're living together, spending days at a time without setting foot outdoors. Their lovemaking grows more and more passionate and exotic, but soon, when the novelty wears off, Oscar starts to look for a way out.

Mimi won't budge. She'll stay with Oscar on any terms, and for the writer, who believes that every man has a sadistic streak, this means abuse. He fools around with other women, points out her blemishes in public, and refuses to eat the meals she prepares. Without giving too much away, a bizarre turn of events puts the shoe on the other foot.

It's no secret that Nigel fancies Mimi, especially since Oscar depicts her as faithful lover turned femme fatale whose heart could use some thawing.

Although each part is well cast, Peter Coyote's Oscar steals the film. He's the kind of slimy, strangely enchanting character the failed writer might create in his own novels. You can't help but wonder if his story, which has its own hackneyed elements, is entirely factual. Mimi, after all, is never present during the telling.

Emmanuelle Seigner, the current Mrs. Polanski, is all of the director's previous heroines rolled into one. She has the vulnerability of Nastassia Kinski in "Tess," the obsessive ticks of Catherine Deneuve in "Repulsion," the almost effortless sexiness and spunk of Sharon Tate in "Fearless Vampire Killers."

There are other references to Polanski's previous films. A tense scene here involves a straight razor, an unforgettable murder weapon in "Repulsion." The claustrophobia of a sailboat in "Knife in the Water" doesn't ease up much on this monster cruise liner, especially as it heads into progressively rougher waters.

Only Polanski could steer us through this mix of humor and painful reality. Some moments in the film are laugh-out-loud funny, especially as straight-laced Nigel is plagued by the ubiquitous Hugh Grant flashes at Oscar's graphic descriptions. There are other scenes so raw in their brutality, especially in Oscar's boredom and subsequent abuse of Mimi, that you can't help but walk out of the film feeling a little beat up.

"Bitter Moon," playing exclusively at the Main Art Theater in Royal Oak, isn't easy going. Love it or hate it (most viewers will fall into one of these camps), you can't deny the beauty of its cinematography and the international flair afforded by its blend of British, American, French and Indian cultures.

Unlike the often pretentious globe-hobbing of Wim Wenders, Polanski proves himself a truly worldly filmmaker with something poignant and darkly funny to say.

Due to the advances in medical evacuation operations, Vietnam's female nurses saw overwhelming numbers of injured and dead. The number of lower extremity amputations in Vietnam was 300 percent higher than in World War II and the incidence of paraplegia, 1000 percent higher. The result was that the women suffered more from post traumatic stress syndrome than in any earlier war.

"I had great difficulty finding the women who served in Vietnam, but once I did, it was easy to find others because they have sort of an invisible network of support among themselves," Scharding said.

Scharding has tried to affect as many of the senses as possible within the installation. Look at the photographs, touch the names in the book of the dead, listen to the 71½ minute tape of the women veterans talking about their experiences in Vietnam.

"It's turned out to be quite a space. Robin even talks about the strong odor coming from the tent that helps to transport you back in time," said interim photography department chair Carlos Diaz of Livonia. "It has become a learning process. She has learned about other people, and about herself.

"In the 10 or 11 years I've been teaching at CCS, Robin has been one of those students who is so passionate about the issues her work deals with."

Culled from five CCS departments, including crafts, fine arts, graphic communication and industrial design, the photography department makes a strong showing.

In the industrial design department, CCS sophomores Greg Darby of Canton and Brad Maddalena of Bloomfield Hills have created, one of a kind, hand crafted furniture for the exhibition.

"I like building everything myself, working mainly with wood and sometimes integrating other materials like steel," said Darby, a Plymouth Salem High School graduate.

A tall, mahogany curio cabinet by Darby is an eclectic mix of classic and contemporary. He will also show a small, one drawer end table with wood top leaning more to modern.

A side table of cherry wood, steel and glass, couch of steel, mahogany and fabric, lamp table of steel, slate and fiberglass, and a ceramic and steel table showcase Maddalena's developing talents as a designer and craftsman.

"In my work I like pushing an idea of what furniture is, coming up with new forms and variations on basic everyday furniture," said Maddalena.

For more information about the student exhibition, call the Center for Creative Studies at (313) 872-3118.

Mettetal response

Your editorial accused the Mettetal Airport Board of "overstepping its authority" and urged "Canton Township to step in and make it clear — who should be running the airport."

The editorial suggests "a set of guidelines be established" for the Mettetal Board's operations. Those guidelines were established before the board was selected and were made public.

The editorial criticizes the selection of a new operator. That was the required process under state ownership (through a legal bidding procedure) and did not come under the jurisdiction of the Mettetal Board.

The Mettetal Board, in six months, has:

- Convinced the state to slow its Mettetal master plan process to include public review before submitting it to the federal government. It was the Mettetal Board that held the public hearing on the plan — not the state.
- Implemented a safety audit of Mettetal by public safety officials, pilot groups and citizens.
- Suggested positive steps during the transition to state ownership (such as seeing that fuel was available for pilots until the new operator was officially on board) that the Michigan Aeronautics Commission had not considered.
- Provided a forum for Mettetal related matters that no other state-owned facility (prisons, hospitals or state parks) in this community offers. There have been larger crowds at Mettetal meetings than at some local township, city or school board meetings.
- Added the local communities' names — it's now officially "Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport" — the state wasn't going to do that on its own.
- Met with Canton and Plymouth Township officials on progress at Mettetal and ideas for the future.
- Formed a Mettetal Users Committee to provide even greater access for concerned airport customers. That committee is reviewing proposed policies and procedures for Mettetal; those new policies governing the airport will be passed by the Mettetal Board.

Now to Hough School, mentioned in your editorial as a "financial blunder." The Mettetal Board is investigating a request from the Canton Historical District Commission to move the schoolhouse to the airport. As yet, no firm figures have been obtained as to the cost of moving Hough School to the airport.

The airport lacks adequate meeting space. It's appropriate that the meetings be held where it's the most convenient for participants. The library board meets at the library, doesn't it? You suggest a new building for a meeting room in your editorial, yet criticize adding buildings at Mettetal.

Is all this "empire building," as your editorial described it? Your editorial was based on false or incomplete information on the Mettetal Board's work in just six months. Maybe it would help your editorials' credibility if you assigned a reporter to cover the airport who would return phone calls regarding Mettetal matters and cover more than just a small minority viewpoint on Mettetal.

W. Edward Wendover, Mettetal Board chairman

Health care concern

I am writing to you to express my concern about President Clinton's proposed health-care reform bill. It misses the key issue: Health care is about people and the quality of health care they receive. It isn't about employer mandates, universal coverage, medical benefits and health alliances — it's about people just like you and me.

Already, cold, impersonal physician-patient relationships are becoming the rule rather than the exception. Patients' lives are shorter when there is a loss of the one-to-one relationship between doctor and patient, studies show. The proposed plan just moves further in that direction. Why isn't the debate focusing on ways of motivating improvement in this area?

My husband has a seriously debilitating, chronic disorder that affects his auto-immune system. My deep concern is that with the inevitable rationing that must come in the future of any government-sponsored program — I am not naive enough to believe in miracles — the probability of my husband's health care being limited or nonexistent is too frightening to contemplate, even for an instant.

Ellen M. Moore, Canton Township

Airport debate

The heavy hand of "Big Brother" bureaucratic government has struck again through the Michigan Bureau of Aeronautics.

For the last three years, Emerald Aviation has successfully operated the FBO (fixed base operator) and one of the best flight schools in the state of Michigan at Mettetal Airport.

No citizen of this country — especially those such as myself, who have served and fought to defend it — should be deliberately, politically and prejudicially put out of business by big government. The immorality on behalf of the officials of the Bureau of Aeronautics has made this a monumental injustice bordering on illegality.

We have struggled and invested to survive a three-year onslaught of recession in the aviation business and severe political bickering over the sale of Mettetal Airport.

We ask only to continue our business now with the opportunity to succeed. All of our many predecessors for the past 15 years went out of business because they could not succeed. We have been overwhelmingly supported by the citizens of the area and the pilots at the airport. We continue to be highly praised for our performance and service.

The Bureau of Aeronautics has used our business as bait for the bidding. They are giving the value of what we have earned over the past three years free to another person so that they, the Bureau of Aeronautics, can get the management and maintenance of Mettetal Airport free. They are also looking for something for nothing. I believe they also fear not being able to meet their large financial commitment to Canton Township.

The newly selected operator has offered to maintain the property for $1 per year in tradeoff for rent. A price so ridiculously low that any person with common sense would laugh. The end result will be a poorly maintained eyesore for the communities of Canton and Plymouth. The contract will almost guarantee the failure of the business. This is not just a sad story, it is an issue of freedom, decency and morality. If it can happen to us, it can happen to you. We teach our children what it is to be an American and the freedom it stands for, and we send them to war to defend it. This is as much of an insult to being an American as you can get. It shows that big government can step on the little citizen and justify it with mumbo jumbo so they do not lose their precious jobs.

Daniel E. Malone, president
Emerald Aviation, Inc.

Happy with ad

I received six calls regarding my ad. The sale was made to the first caller who called me even before my paper was delivered. The caller lived in Lincoln Park.

Thought this might be an interesting factor in your advertising. He worked until 3:30 p.m. not in our area. He had to come to Plymouth to get the newspaper, study the ads and be the first to call.

Obviously your paper commands considerable respect from those of us who need to sell or buy.

Also, I compliment your newspaper for the news and how it's presented, positive, negative, nothing hidden. Honest reporting and loads of news about activities and events in the Metro Detroit area.

Anne M. Gurka, Plymouth

Coverage needed

I was disappointed to see that your paper failed to mention that the West Middle School swim team won the swim championship meet on Tuesday, April 19, at the Salem pool.

As I scan daily newspapers, I often see mention of the mischief, crimes and wrongdoing of our adolescents. That kind of news raises fears and a sense that our society is "going to the dogs." We need to also hear of the hard work and successes of our young people for which they ought to receive praise and validation.

In addition to the swimmers of West, all the hundreds of young people who competed for their respective schools put their hearts and hard work into daily practices and workouts.

With the help and encouragement of their coaches, they worked together and did their best to compete. I felt pride for all of them and respect for their perseverance and determination. They should all be applauded for they did their best and made our whole community proud of our young people. Thanks for all their hard work. We're proud of all of them.

Terry Allor, Plymouth

Teacher responds

In response to the folks currently pushing the initiative to strip teachers of their tenure rights, I would like to correct several misconceptions regarding tenure law.

First, tenure does nothing to protect incompetent teachers; it simply guarantees basic rights of due process which almost all workers enjoy. Second, the main reason that incompetent teachers continue to teach is not because of some ironclad job security under tenure. Rather, it is because most administrators have neither the time nor the inclination to implement its procedures.

The fact is that the vast majority of the cases that make it to the Tenure Commission end in the dismissal of the teacher in question. To suggest that in this enlightened age, teachers no longer need tenure protection (Ms. Stimpson intones, "We are all adults ...") ignores the legion of abuses of power which occurred in pre-tenure days, which allowed (a true story) female teachers to be fired because the seams on their hose were not straight.

To respond to the shooting of the superintendent in Chelsea by revoking tenure rights for all teachers is knee-jerk to say the least. I say to Ms. Stimpson and the others of the Parents Alliance to Repeal Tenure, we are all concerned about the state of public education in the 1990s. And certainly teachers are among the most concerned, if for no other reason than that we must stand before the students each day, trying to make sense of the multitudinous and often conflicting "education initiatives" flowing like spring flood waters from virtually every governmental office in the land these days.

I find this proposal to be much like all of the rest: long on emotional appeal and short on logic. Shedding more heat than light on the situation and doing little to advance the cause of education for all of our children.

FirstRate Fund For The Short Term

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to earn a great rate. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.

If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer term deposit and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.

It starts at 3.00% APY. And you'll end up earning 6.00% APY for the final term.* You can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days after every six month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit. Plus, you can get a no service charge personal checking account.

The short view.

If you predict rates will keep going up this year, invest short term with the FirstRate Fund. The APY is based on the 91 day Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

FirstRate Fund Accounts	Annual Percentage Yield (APY)

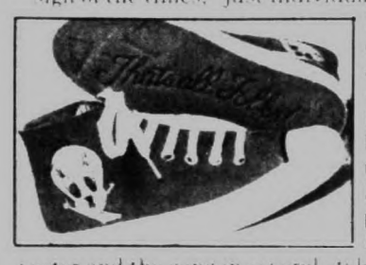
Hip teens are hot for new logo wear

What are teens wearing this spring and summer? Sure, there are bare little slip dresses worn over minuscule white tees, and all the shop windows are showing linen skirts and baggy pants. But what do teens throw on over a pair of cut-offs or jeans? And, what is more important, how do they make a real fashion statement?

For decades, generations of kids have sported logos and messages on their favorite T-shirts. Remember peace symbols and "Make Love, Not War," the mantra of the Sixties? The youth of the 1980s wore alligators and polo ponies on their chests, and musicians and sports teams have always marketed themselves by way of clothing designs.

Today's kids seem to latch onto whatever their peers or the media deem hot. There's no particular "sign of the times," just individual taste and style.



Looney Tunes characters are about this season, putting a little kick into bright red high tops by Keds. Hudson's displays Tweety Bird, Bugs, Sylvester and the gang in several styles and colors ($27-$38).

Also at Hudson's, The Beatles Collection ties. Each silk tie features a different album title: Look for Help, Hard Day's Night and Revolver ($27.50).

World Cup wonders

The World Cup is coming in June, and some famous sportswear names are providing authentic soccer apparel. Hudson's Soccer Shops at Fairlane, Eastland, Summit Place, Oakland, Twelve Oaks and Lakeside offer Umbro's USA '94 Collection. Adidas soccer wear and Magic Johnson T's from $17. Included are sweats, jackets, shorts, bags and caps. Some of the merchandise is officially licensed by World Cup.

Top designers have also adopted eye-catching trademarks for their sportswear. Armani's A/X makes an understated, yet unmistakable fashion statement. His baseball caps are legendary, available at The Somerset Collection in Troy.

If you're into urban contemporary music, you've undoubtedly tuned into "Video Soul," BET's music video program. And you are surely a fan of Detroit native Donnie Simpson, the show's heart-throb host. Hudson's has introduced BET sportswear at its Northland store. The bold creative designs include tees, caps, sweats and leather jackets ($16-$425). "I have to have a bright yellow BET hat and a tee," said Lisa Cunningham, a musician from Detroit.

Motown Madness

If you're looking for a hip Motown logo, check out the "Made In Detroit" line of tees and jackets at Basic Goods, 24 W. Maple in Birmingham. Robert Stanzler, owner of the Detroit Motorcycle Company, designed his working man logo to once again instill a sense of pride in the craftsmanship that made Detroit the industrial center of the world. "A giant gear encircles the man who firmly grips a wrench in one hand. The newest and hottest 'Made In Detroit' wear is a vintage look workwear jacket that zips up the front and is emblazoned with patches that range from 'Champion Spark Plugs' to 'Keep On Truckin'" ($60). Modeling the must-have jacket is Danny Victor, a senior at Groves High School in Birmingham.

Other popular logos at Basic Goods include Mossimo and Stussy. The names sell, especially when featured in movies or on TV. Kids look for a particular color combination or design. Stussy's latest is a crowned elephant with the message: "Large and in charge." And Mossimo touts a gold horn and the words, "Kickin' Brass." Tees are $18-$20 and hats are $20-$25.

Shag's the shape for summer hair

■ Summertime and short hair. Could anything be simpler? Yes, say hairstylists in the malls and on Main Streets. Try a layered shag!

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

Hey, they've brought Mod Squad back to television, so why not another blast from the past this summer — shag hair-dos?

"I have reviewed hairstyles from around the world this season, including Paris, London, Atlanta, New York and California," said Robert Peruski of Robert & Charles Salon in West Bloomfield. "They all have a similar message for summer, the shag is back! Whether curled or blown straight, it is fuller with softness and fringe around the face and nape."

Stoddard's books bring fans out to a Borders signing

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Interior designer-turned-philosopher Alexandra Stoddard said her 12 lifestyle books are bestsellers because "I've hit a nerve with people who want to make the best of life and know it's not about money."

Stoddard and her husband, Peter Brown, came to Borders Book Shop in Beverly Hills last week to autograph copies of her latest publication, "Making Choices: The Joy of a Courageous Life." They were greeted by an appreciative audience of readers who wanted to tell Stoddard her how her books had affected their lives, while waiting for personal inscriptions under the covers of their favorites.

"In my new book, the message is that life is tough, but it can still be beautiful," she said in a pre-signing interview. "If we are willing to face reality, be tough-minded and buck up to making choices, we can lead happy, fulfilling lives."

Stoddard, 52, said her book about choices is autobiographical. "It was meant to share something about herself with the thousands of readers who have written her letters over the years telling about themselves.

"My publisher realizes I have a mission," she said. "And I know I am on a mission. I want to help men, women and young people understand that they have control of their own lives.

"Sure there will be tough times, but they can call on an inner resourcefulness to make positive decisions that will get them through things with grace and move them forward. And if you make a mistake, it's not the end of the world. Correct it and go on with your life."

In 1974, as a successful international designer with her own firm, Alexandra Stoddard Inc. in New York, she published her first book, "Style For Living." In 1986, Stoddard's "Living a Beautiful Life" sold a million copies. Then came "Living Beautifully Together," "The Gift of a Letter," "Daring To Be Yourself" and "Grace Notes."

In addition to writing books, Stod-

Hills and Birmingham agreed:

"Hairstylists take their cue from fashion designers. This season, the flowing, layered clothing called for hair that compliments those styles and moves. Layered hair moves. We look at hair as a fashion accessory for the head."

The popular classic bob, according to Hoffmann, can be altered into a more fashionable hairdo by removing weight and bulk with razor cutting and slicing the hair in a way so that no matter how you move the head or handle the hair, it always looks good."

Jeanine Riley of Livonia recently got a shag cut at Charisma Salon in Livonia after wearing a shoulder-length bob for three years.

"It was a turning 40 thing, in my case," she said with a grin. "I wanted to experiment with a more youthful image. I liked it immediately. It's very easy to care for, very alluring."

Charisma stylist James Dunn is not so sold on the shag:

"I still clients who prefer individualized styling. They are professional, working people who don't feel the shag is a strong enough hair style for them. One-length looks are still very popular. It's bangs that are going shorter and softer around the face."

Hoffmann countered that one shag does not fit all: "It's an important focus of a layered look that each cut is created to compliment each individual's face shape and lifestyle."

Felicia Palazzolo-Shaw of Nino's Salon in The Somerset Collection in Troy said the appeal of short hair is that it can be styled differently, depending on mood and it's easy to care for.

"Cuts with soft fringe around the face and lots of bangs are most popular now," she said."Bangs can be worn heavy or wispy, or slicked back for evening."

Recent shag client Leigh Brandermille of Westland said her shag was the perfect solution to long, dry, over-permed hair.

"My hair's so shiny and soft now, I love it," she said.

dard writes a monthly design column for McCall's Magazine. It was her work as a designer that led her to write inspirational books.

"I've done beautiful homes for people all over the world," she said. "My design background gave me inside information about how people really live and feel.

"I came to realize that it's not the quality of the stuff in your home that matters, it's the quality of the living that goes on inside your home that matters."

Stoddard said it has been a thrill to see her books move through bookstores from the home design section to the inspirational section, to now, the psychology section.

Stoddard grew up in Westport, Conn. She moved to New York City after foregoing college to travel around the world. She said she is self-taught in both design and writing with a strong sense of the spiritual.

At 19, she married her tennis partner, Brandon Stoddard. The couple have two daughters, Alexandra, 27, and Brooke, 24, both journalists.

The marriage ended in divorce, and at 32, she married attorney Peter Brown. Brown had six children, and for the next 20 years, the couple "stayed home on weekends to supervise the children."

Now empty-nesters, they travel together on book tours and adventure tours. "Life changed, and we changed with it," Stoddard said.

The most popular chapter in her new book is "The Art of Saying No." It must be a topic of concern because from coast-to-coast on her book tour, editors are picking up the phrase for discussion according to Stoddard.

"Yes-a-holics end up in depression because their energy runs out and they become martyrs. There are 293 mental disorders, and most are depression.

"You can't give anyone anything you don't have yourself. But it's hard to say no because we feel guilty. We want everyone to like us.

"The trick is to know the energy inside your own soul, then you can say no with conviction when a request takes you beyond your limits."

Jan Young of Farmington Hills said she is a Stoddard fan "because she helps you get in touch with ways of nurturing yourself. She's been an inspiration.

"She got me to use my basket collection, to take the fine china out of the cabinet and put in on the table," Young said.

Jenny Miller of Redford said Stoddard's books served as a guide to help her focus on herself. "She got me loving myself again," she said.

Missie Williams of Birmingham grew up with Stoddard in Westport and stopped by Borders when she saw an ad that Stoddard would be in town.

"Sandy was always very spiritual," she said, "always quoting from The Prophet or Ralph Waldo Emerson. I remember her passion for life, her always wanting things to be nice, just so.

"She lived in some of the most beautiful apartments I've seen. She really is an excellent decorator. It's so great to see her again."

CHEF LARRY JANES

Use new food label to make healthy choices

As of Sunday, any processed food you buy at the grocery store will have a rather ominous label entitled "Nutrition Facts."

Contrary to popular belief, you don't have to be a registered dietitian or nutritionist to understand what these facts mean. Reading labels on food containers can make or break a healthful diet.

The main reason the Food and Drug Administration adopted the new food label was that it has been determined that eating a healthful diet can help reduce your risk factors for some diseases. No one can wave a magic wand and make you healthy, but making good choices when it comes to food can keep you healthy.

Reading labels

Here are the facts on the new labeling in simple, easy-to-understand terms. Directly underneath the big bold "Nutrition Facts" is the serving size. If you are concerned about the amount of calories, fat, cholesterol and sodium in what you eat, you need to know what a serving size is.

If the serving size is listed as one-half cup, the calories and all the things you need to know about that serving size are listed. The only time this gets complicated is when you eat more than the serving size.

This presents a problem when the serving size for Rocky Road ice cream is one-half cup, and I'm trying to figure out what a half a carton equals. To figure out what half a carton of Rocky Road ice cream equals look for the line that indicates servings per container. I figure that if a half gallon of Rocky Road ice cream equals 16 servings per container, a half carton equals 8 servings.

The fourth line lists what we need to know on a per serving basis. The fifth line lists calories per serving and the amount of calories from fat.

Let's say each serving of the Rocky Road ice cream equals 110 calories. Since I ate eight servings, I would have eaten 880 calories of ice cream. Each serving had 40 calories from fat. The sixth and seventh lines list total and saturated fat, respectively.

If I were an average male consuming 2,700 calories per day, I should try to keep my total fat intake below 80 grams of fat per day. Saturated fat is the bad stuff, and that should be kept to no more than 25 grams per day. I'm guessing that my Rocky Road ice cream binge has maxed me out on fats for at least five days.

The eighth line lists total cholesterol on a per serving basis. Too much cholesterol, which is a second cousin to fat, can lead to heart disease. A healthy eating plan should attempt to keep cholesterol below 300 milligrams per day.

After cholesterol is the buzzword of the Nineties "sodium." We call it salt, the label calls it sodium. Either way, consuming too much sodium has been known to be the cause of high blood pressure for some people. The American Heart Association recommends no more than 3,000 milligrams of salt per day for healthy adults. For comparison's sake, a teaspoon of salt has 2,300 milligrams of sodium. Thank heavens my ice cream was low in sodium.

Now for the good news. After reading all those numbers about fat, cholesterol and sodium, lines 10 through 14 list the total carbohydrates, dietary fiber, sugars and protein of each serving size.

Increase carbohydrates

When you cut down on fat, you eat more carbohydrates. Carbohydrates are present in foods such as bread, potatoes, fruits and vegetables. The dietary fiber that's listed is what Grandma Janes used to call roughage. Fruits, vegetables, whole grain foods, beans and peas are all good sources. They help reduce the risk of heart disease and cancer. The sugars are listed because they, too, contain carbohydrates, but our friends at the FDA want us to know that a diet high in junk food isn't as good as the roughage grandma used to offer for snacks.

The final nutritional fact is protein. If you didn't already know, most Americans eat more protein than they need. Where there is animal protein, there is fat and cholesterol. The better proteins are vegetable based, such as those from beans, grains and cereals.

If you feel like you're drowning in numbers, let the percentage of daily values be your guide. The daily values listed give you an overall view. We should strive for low daily values of fat, saturated fat, cholesterol and sodium, and try for high daily values of carbohydrates and dietary fiber.

BAKERS ON A ROLL WITH LOW-FAT

BREADS

Local bakers are developing recipes for breads and quick breads that are rich-tasting and contain no fat or just trace amounts of fat. By using whole grains and substituting yogurt or fruit purees for butter, they've cut fat, not flavor.

BY BARBARA WILSON
SPECIAL WRITER

It used to be considered a dieter's most serious weakness, but now even the most health-conscious diner can say "pass the bread" without a bit of guilt.

Several area bakers have mixed and beaten their way to recipes for moist, rich tasting yeast breads and quick breads containing no fat or only trace amounts of natural fats.

"We tried several things, but couldn't get the taste we were looking for," said John Drozd, new owner of The Gourmet Bakery in Southfield.

Drozd, a former truck driver, stumbled upon part of the answer when his kids were eating applesauce and he read the label on the jar. It said that applesauce could be used instead of oil in many recipes to make them fat free or lower in fat.

The second, more complicated part of the answer came when Drozd began studying the techniques used to mill flour.

"When you buy commercial flour in the stores, it has been sifted too fine and everything has been taken out of it," Drozd said. "There are no nutrients or vitamins left, and that is why the government requires companies to enrich flour with nutrients."

The commercial milling process allows longer storage of the product, but it also makes it difficult to make moist baked goods without adding oils. Grain has its own oils that are lost in the milling process.

By having more control over the milling process, bakers have been able to develop recipes for breads that are hearty, rich and flavorful but have no fat. Drozd located a mill in upstate New York where only organically produced grains are processed. No pesticides or artificial fertilizers are used on the grains, and no nutrients or oils are removed in the milling process. The finished product is grainier and more yellow than the flour bought in most grocery stores. A similar product can be found for home use in some health food stores.

At the Great Harvest Bread Co., milling takes place on the premises, and the flour produced is used within 10 or 12 hours. Husband and wife owners of the Northville franchise, Ray and Lorie Novelly, said the wheat used in their breads is stone milled throughout the day, leaving all the natural goodness in the product.

No fats, oils or eggs are used in the yeast breads made by Drozd or the Novellys. Honey or molasses is sometimes used to add moistness, as well as raisins or other fruits.

The breads will last 7 to 10 days on the kitchen counter. Drozd recommends turning the bread cut side down. The crust will serve as a natural protector of the bread. He doesn't recommend plastic wrap.

Mary Denning, owner of Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe in Westland, has been experimenting with low fat breads for six months. Her breads are currently being analyzed for fat content, so she prefers to call them low fat. Denning uses a commercially milled flour but adds sesame seeds for their natural oils.

Many home cooks are frightened by the idea of making yeast breads, but there are also delicious quick breads and muffins that can be made without fat.

Suzy Modiano, co-owner of Yoz Loaves in West Bloomfield, started out in the frozen yogurt business with an interest in baking at home. She began to incorporate her breads and muffins into her business, and the cries came quickly for products that were fat free.

Modiano substitutes non fat yogurt for butter in her recipes and relies on bananas for added moisture. Egg whites are used in her breads and muffins.

"Some people use applesauce, and we use that in some types of breads, but in general we find the pureed bananas work best for us," she said.

As summer months are upon us, all types of these fat free breads make great meal fillers with salads or soups. And, after indulging in them as a snack or meal, you may still be able to fit in your bikini and head to the beach.

SUPER SUPPERS

High school sweethearts Don and Lisa Andres of Livonia are stars of a family drama involving their talented children, Brooke, 11 and Nicholas, 8. In the wings is Austin, 1, who, with a face like an angel, is sure to be a hit on stage.

"We met in drama class at Churchill High School," said Lisa who enjoys writing plays for children's theater. "He was signed up to take another class, but it was canceled. He took drama because he thought it would be easy."

Drama wasn't easy, but it was fun. Married 14 years, Don and Lisa have passed on their love of theater to their children. They're on the go a lot, and Lisa expertly juggles her roles: wife, mother, cook, playwright, composer, actress and director.

HONEY OATBREAD

1 (¼ ounce) package active dry yeast (1 scant tablespoon)
1¼ cups warm water
¼ cup honey
1 cup old fashioned rolled oats
2 cups unbleached all purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped almonds (optional)

Dissolve the yeast in ¼ cup warm water. Stir in 1 tablespoon honey. Set aside for about 5 minutes or until bubbly.

Mix the remaining ingredients except 1 cup of all purpose flour in a large bowl. Add the yeast mixture. Stir with a large spoon or spatula and when the dough is cohesive, turn it onto a lightly floured surface.

Knead the dough for 10 to 15 minutes or until it is smooth and elastic. Add as much of the reserved flour as necessary to keep the dough from sticking.

Put the dough is a large, lightly oiled bowl, cover with a kitchen towel, and let rise in a warm, draft free place for about 1 hour or until doubled in volume.

Coat a 9 by 5 inch loaf pan with non stick cooking spray.

Using your fist, gently punch down the risen dough. Turn the dough onto a lightly floured surface and knead for about 1 minute. Shape the dough into a loaf and put in the pan. Cover and let rise in a warm, draft free place for 45 to 60 minutes or until again doubled in volume.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Bake the loaf for about 40 minutes or until the bread is lightly browned and sounds hollow when tapped. Remove the bread from the pan and let cool on a wire rack.

Yield: 1 loaf, 18 slices. Calories per slice: 113 grams without almonds, 2 grams with almonds. Percent of calories from fat: 11 percent without almonds, 16 percent with almonds.

BANANA OAT MUFFINS

2 cups unbleached all purpose flour
½ cup old fashioned rolled oats
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 large egg
⅓ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
¾ cup mashed ripe bananas (about 1½ bananas)
¼ cup skim milk
¾ cup non fat gelatin free plain yogurt (Dannon, Yoplait)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Coat one 12- or two 6- muffin tines with non stick cooking spray.

Whisk the flour with the oats, baking powder, baking soda and salt and set aside.

Beat the egg, brown sugar, and oil with an electric mixer set on medium until smooth. Add the bananas, milk, yogurt and vanilla and beat again. Mix the flour into the batter by hand just until combined.

Spoon the batter into the muffin cups so that each is about two thirds full. Bake for 15 to 18 minutes or until the muffins are lightly browned, puff up, and a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool in the tin set on a wire rack for about 10 minutes. kitchen counter. When Don comes home from work, the family will eat, then leave for an evening of rehearsal at the Players Guild of Dearborn. Don and Lisa are directing and producing "Hello Dolly," to be presented at the guild playhouse, 21730 Madison in Dearborn, 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 2:30 p.m. Sundays through May 22. Call (313) 561-TKTS for information. Brooke and Nicholas are performing in the show.

"We like it because the whole family is involved," said Lisa. Don and Brooke were also cast in the Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "Turandot." Brooke, learned Italian and sang in the children's choir. Her father was a guard.

Lisa cooks almost every night. Sometimes the family will order pizza or eat out on Fridays. Their favorite places are Taco Bell, Ground Round and Chili's.

"Anything with chicken is popular around here," said Lisa. "Sometimes in the morning I'll brown a roast and stick in the Crock-Pot to cook all day."

Brooke and Nicholas enjoy helping their mom. Brooke does the dishes, and sometimes cooks. Her specialties are macaroni and cheese and grilled cheese sandwiches. "The cook is always the last to eat," said Brooke. Her brother also helps with household chores including vacuuming and cleaning the basement.

Don does the grocery shopping, often late at night after theater rehearsal.

"I like anything that can be thrown in a Crock-Pot," said Lisa. "The spaghetti I used to cook on top of the stove tastes better cooked in the Crock-Pot. I brown the hamburger first then put it in the pot with the sauce."

Lisa likes to plan her meals in advance. She has a freezer in the basement and buys boneless, skinless chicken breasts in bulk and freezes them. She also has hamburger for spaghetti, lasagna, Shepherd's pie and chili. Roasts are a family favorite, and good because there's always leftovers. They also enjoy pasta.

"I've always liked to cook," said Lisa. "I love to have people over. It's fun to take something easy and make it elegant."

Corn syrup is just another form of sugar

Sugar is found in at least 21 different forms. Here are some of the most familiar. This information was provided by General Mills, Inc.

- Corn syrup: A liquid made from cornstarch. Found in bakery products, soft drinks and canned goods.
- Fructose: A simple sugar found in fresh fruit. Also available as a light-colored syrup.
- Table sugar or sucrose: Made from the juice of the sugar cane or sugar beet plant. Both granulated and powdered sugars are mostly sucrose.
- Molasses: Produced from the refined syrup of raw sugar crystals. Light molasses has a mild flavor and may be used as table syrup. Stronger-flavored dark molasses, or blackstrap, is most often used for baking.
- Brown sugar: Sugar crystals covered with a film of highly refined, dark-colored molasses flavored syrup that adds the characteristic flavor.
- Honey: Produced by bees from plant nectar. Varies in composition and flavor because of differences in the plant source of the nectar, type of processing and storage methods.

Here are some healthy recipes that even the kids will enjoy.

Macaroni With Three Cheeses

- 4 oz. dry macaroni pasta
- 2 tablespoon margarine
- 2 tablespoon all purpose flour
- 1 cup low fat milk
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 cup shredded low fat part skim mozzarella cheese
- 2 tablespoons fresh grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 cup bran crea
- 1 teaspoon margarine
- 1 teaspoon toasted garlic

Cook macaroni in lightly salted boiling water according to package directions. Drain and place in a casserole dish. Meanwhile, in a non stick saucepan, melt margarine, add flour and cook, stirring for 1 minute. Add the milk and cook, stirring until thickened, 2-3 minutes.

Remove from heat and stir in three cheeses. Mix and pour over cooked and drained macaroni noodles. Mix well. In a separate bowl, combine cereal, margarine and garlic in a food processor or blender until crushed. Sprinkle over macaroni. Broil just until lightly browned, about 2 minutes. Serves 4.

Each serving: 299 calories, 14g protein, 11g fat, 18g carbohydrates, 19mg cholesterol, 21mg cholesterol, and 1g fiber.

I love pesto, but it's loaded with oil, Parmesan cheese and pine nuts. Here's a light substitute that certainly not light on taste.

Pesto Sauce

- 1 cup well packed parsley, chopped
- 1 cup well packed basil leaves, chopped
- 4 oz. chicken broth
- 3 tablespoon toasted pine nuts
- 2 tablespoons fresh grated Parmesan cheese
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 teaspoon toasted garlic

In a food processor or a good blender, combine all ingredients and process until smooth. Makes 1 cup.

Each tablespoon: 39 calories, 1g protein, 1g fat, 1g carbohydrates, 32mg sodium, 2mg cholesterol, 0.19g fiber.

Chef's secret: This sauce is great on angel hair pasta and pesto as a topping over poached fish and orzo chicken. It's a totally different taste treat.

Hot tips for chilling foods in a hurry

AP — When you're in a hurry, waiting for foods to chill or thaw is inconvenient at best. The good news for busy cooks is that you can speed up the process. You'll find yourself using these tips again and again in a variety of recipes, from desserts to main dishes.

■ Save thawing and reheating time by freezing foods in small portions. For example, freeze cooled cream and broth soups in ice cube trays. When the cubes are firm, remove them from the trays and place them in freezer bags. Thaw only the number of cubes you need. The cubes will thaw and reheat faster than a big block of soup.

■ To chill pasta for salads, drain cooked pasta and place it in a bowl of ice water. Let stand for 5 minutes, then drain. Remove any unmelted ice.

■ To quick-set gelatin, place the bowl of gelatin mixture in a bowl of ice water, making sure to stir the gelatin as it sets. Or replace a cup of the water in your recipe with 1 cup of ice cubes.

■ Your freezer can also help in quick chilling creamy or gelatin salads, puddings, desserts or cans of fruit. Just cool them in your freezer for 20 to 30 minutes. Be sure to check the foods frequently so they don't freeze.

■ If you love whipped cream but hate the last minute hassle, keep frozen whipped cream on hand. Then spoon or pipe individual servings of whipped cream onto a wax paper lined baking sheet. Place the baking sheet in the freezer and freeze the mounds until they are firm. Transfer them to a freezer bag and store them in the freezer for up to a month. To serve, place a mound of whipped cream on each serving of dessert and let it stand at room temperature about 20 minutes or until the whipped cream is thawed.

OUT TO LUNCH

Parents who think that the lunches provided to their children at public schools leave a lot to be desired in terms of nutrition are in good company. At the beginning of the 1993-94 school year, the Agricultural Department announced that it would double the amount and expand the variety of fresh produce available in 25 million school lunches daily. Before the change, fresh fruits and vegetables accounted for only about two percent of the food supplied by the government to school lunch programs. The new menu was expanded beyond a limited variety of apples, grapefruits, oranges, tomatoes and potatoes. Even with the Agricultural Department's new effort, parents must ask themselves if their children could not benefit from a daily vitamin mineral supplement.

May is National Egg Month dedicated to the versatility, convenience, economy and good nutrition of the incredible edible egg. The GOOD FOOD CO., a natural food supermarket, offers a variety of eggs from free-range bred chickens. These eggs are free of hormones and chemicals. We also offer other quality natural foods, along with vitamins, minerals and supplements to keep you in peak condition. So give us a try — we offer great food at a great price! Please call us at 981-8100. We are conveniently located at 42615 Ford Rd. Hours are Mon. through Sat. from 9:00 to 9:00, and Sun. from 10:00 to 6:00.

P.S. In the future, the Agriculture Department intends to experiment with lower-fat meats and cheeses for school lunch programs.

She calls this way of cooking "speed scratch." The meal starters come Oriental sauces and frozen vegetables. All you do is add meat. The kits are available in four varieties: Szechuan Stir Fry and Teriyaki Stir Fry, both for beef or chicken; Sweet and Sour Stir Fry for chicken or shrimp; and Lo Mein Stir Fry for chicken or pork.

Included in the package are pre-cut vegetables and ready-to-use sauce in a pouch. A 21-ounce bag of Create a Meal! Meal Starters contains 26 ounces of vegetables and 5 ounces of sauce. The kit is available at most grocery stores, or will be soon, and costs about $2.60. Each kit serves two or three people. You can stretch it to four by adding more rice and meat. With meat and rice the cost per serving is about $2.

"It's a nice nutritional meal," said Nelson. "People like control. They like to be able to pick the kind of meat they want, and the amount."

They also have asparagus at Wurd's Orchards in Ypsilanti, (313) 482-7744.

■ One of the newest businesses in Garden City, Subway, 30112 Ford Road, (313) 421-7827, has the community spirit. Owner Al Patel said four employees, including managers, donated their time on Sunday, April 24 to work during a special "Heros for Hunger" promotion for the Gleaner's Food Bank. Customers who brought in canned goods for the needy were treated to a sandwich. Subway collected over 100 cans of food for Gleaner's Food Bank. "Most of the workers make minimum wage," said Patel. "They worked for free, two to three hours each, on April 24 because they care about the community."

■ How are your gardens growing? I've already planted herbs: rosemary, parsley, dill, tarragon, arugula and fennel. The sage, mint and chives I planted last year came back. Sage is wonderful. It stays green until November. I've even picked it as late as December. You can dry the leaves or freeze them to enjoy all winter. It gives poultry an excellent flavor. Sage flourishes and quickly takes over. Plant it in a place where it has room to grow. The same goes for mint. I'm [illegible] until it gets a little warmer [illegible] in my herb plants.

She calls this way of cooking speed scratch. The meal starters [illegible] Oriental sauces and frozen vegetables. All you do is add meat. The kits are available in four varieties: Szechuan Stir Fry and Teriyaki Stir Fry, both for beef or chicken; Sweet and Sour Stir Fry for chicken or shrimp; and Lo Mein Stir Fry for chicken or pork.

Included in the package are pre-cut vegetables and ready-to-use sauce in a pouch. A 27-ounce size of Create a Meal' Meal Starter contains 16 ounces of vegetables and 3 ounces of sauce. The kit is available at most grocery stores or will be soon, and costs about $2.69. Each kit serves two or three people. You can stretch it to four by adding more rice and meat. With meat and rice the cost per serving is about $2.

"It's a nice nutritional meal," said Nelson. "People like control. They like to be able to pick the kind of meat they want, and the amount.

■ What works for you? Call me to share tips for quick after work meals, or send recipes. I need help!

■ The asparagus U-pick season is under way. Always remember to call first before you head out to the farm. Prices range from 70 cents to $1.20 a pound. Rob Long of Long Family Orchard and Farm in Commerce Township was out in the fields picking asparagus Friday morning. Call (313) 360-7734. They also have asparagus at Wurd's Orchards in Ypsilanti, (313) 485-7744.

■ One of the newest businesses in Garden City, Subway, 30112 Ford Road, (313) 421-7827, has the community spirit. Owner Al Patel said four employees, including managers, donated their time on Sunday, April 24 to work during a special "Heros for Hunger" promotion for the Gleaners Food Bank. Customers who brought in canned goods for the needy were treated to a sandwich. Subway collected over 100 cans of food for Gleaners Food Bank. "Most of the workers make minimum wage," said Patel. "They worked for free, two to three hours each, on April 24 because they care about the community."

■ How are your gardens growing? I've already planted herbs: rosemary, parsley, dill, tarragon, arugula and fennel. The sage, mint and chives I planted last year came back. Sage is wonderful. It stays green until November. I've even picked it as late as December. You can dry the leaves or freeze them to enjoy all winter. It gives poultry an excellent flavor. Sage flourishes and quickly takes over. Plant it in a place where it has room to grow. The same goes for mint. Lay it until it gets a little warm at my house plants.

PLYMOUTH SPORTS SCENE

On a roll

University of Michigan catcher Scott Niemiec, a Plymouth Salem graduate, reached base seven consecutive times but it wasn't enough, as the Wolverines lost four straight to Big Ten baseball leader Ohio State.

The streak helped Niemiec take over the U-M batting lead with a .341 average through 41 games (19-22). He has four doubles, one homer and eight runs batted in.

Academic athletes

A pair of University of Michigan athletes with local backgrounds were among the 194 student-athletes presented Academic Achievement Awards, given to those who record a 3.00 grade-point average for two consecutive semesters or who have a cumulative 3.00 GPA.

Ryan Burt, a Plymouth native (Dearborn Divine Child HS), competes in track and cross country. He is enrolled in the College of Literature, Science and Arts.

Also honored was freshman Kelly Holmes, from Canton (Plymouth Canton HS). Holmes is also enrolled in LSA; she is currently pitching for U-M's softball team. Holmes got the win in the Wolverines' 2-1 victory over Iowa April 29. She has an 11-10 record with a 2.54 earned run average and 70 strikeouts in 148⅔ innings.

Miller named coach

Bob Miller, former tennis coach at Livonia Ladywood and Redford Catholic Central high schools, was recently named head men's tennis coach at the University of Detroit Mercy.

He replaces John Cochrane.

"We are very pleased to have Bob join our staff," Detroit Mercy Athletic Director Brad Kinsman said. "He possesses very impressive credentials, has an outstanding tennis background and with his connections in the Detroit area, he will continue to move our programs forward to this new relationship."

Miller guided Redford CC to a runner-up finish in the state Class A meet in 1991. He was voted Catholic League Coach of the that year.

"Successful college tennis teams emphasize team play and we will utilize that attitude to build our teams," said Miller, a part-time teaching pro at the Livonia YMCA. "Our main goals will be success at the conference tournament and recognition of our program within the University and the City."

Miller and his wife Rhonda have two children, Jonathan, a freshman at Albion College, and Anna, a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School.

SOVA teams 1st

The Schoolcraft Ocelot Volleyball Association came away with five AAU age-group titles on April 30.

Among the winners at Schoolcraft College:

■ The 18-and-under elite team defeated the Victors (11-15, 15-4, 15-6) and Blue Water (14-15, 15-11, 15-13) en route to the title.

■ The 16-and-under elite squad, coached by Melinda and Tim Cain, finished 7-2 and beat the Oakland Juniors for the title.

The team consisted of Erin LeSage, Shannon Swish, Jesica Geracz, Angie Groves, Hermina Angeles, Kara Walters, Mandy Daniels, Nicole Vondracek, Amber Wells, Jill Wilson and Alena Simons.

Among the winners at Flint Central High School:

■ The 16-and-under varsity level team, coached by Owen Nakamura, posted a 5-0 record, which included a 15-7, 15-9 win over the Crusader Juniors.

Team members include Theresa Arciero, Kelly Renee Ashworth, Asha Bell, Sarah Brady, Maggie Carlson, Amy Davis, Hilary Desjardins, Laura Grzywacz, Deanna Noaker, Brenda Piwok and Kelly Sheeran.

■ The 14-and-under SOVA team, coached by Marla Evans and Andy King, won the Genesse Area Elite Tournament with a 6-0 record, including a 15-2, 15-4 triumph over Borderline in the finals.

■ The varsity 14-and-under SOVA team added a first, beating Northern Macomb, 12-15, 15-9, 15-12, ending the day with a 6-1 record.

Rocks reign in Observerland

Plymouth Salem made it two Observerland Boys Track Relays championships in the last four years with Saturday's performance at Livonia Churchill. The Rocks dethroned two-time defending champ Redford Catholic Central.

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

The Plymouth Salem boys track team has no pole vaulters but the Rocks will give it everything they have in the rest of the events.

"That's our motto: 'Kick, scratch and fight for every point we can get,'" Salem coach Geoff Baker said.

Salem, which has no pole vault pit or a pole for that matter, overcame an expected slow start in the field events Saturday and vaulted past the rest of the field to win the 24th annual Observerland Relays at Livonia Churchill.

Salem, which won the 1991 Observerland Relays and took third last year, scored 77 points in the rain and cold, followed by Farmington Hills Harrison (64) in second place and two-time defending champion Redford Catholic Central (56) in third.

"We just keep climbing all the time," said senior sprinter and middle distance runner Adam Bakowski, sounding like a pole vaulter. "We just went out and did it."

The Rocks were way behind the leaders with only three points in the field events before dominating the running events with four first place finishes, one second and three thirds.

Scott Pengelly, Jared Biniecki, Josh Stickney and Andy McDonald started the Rocks' rise with first place in the 6,400-meter relay in a time of 18 minutes, 44.2 seconds. Russ Polcyn, Dave Karmann, McDonald and Stickney followed with first place in the 3,200 relay (8:19.0) and Dirk Schmiedel, Dan Miller, Yu Kobayashi and Brian Herc took first in the shuttle hurdle relay (1:04.4).

The Rocks had first place wrapped up before the last event, the 1,600 relay. But the Rocks didn't relax then, either, taking first behind the running of Polcyn, Cory Kingslien, Jason Barylski and Bakowski in a time of 3:30.1.

The Rocks, led by a strong senior cast, have a busy week with Tuesday's Mangan Meet (against Plymouth Canton) and Thursday against Farmington.

"This feels good but it's no celebration by any means," Baker said. "This is just the start of a work week. We've got city pride Tuesday, followed by Farmington Thursday. You can't go through the season without this type of leadership. All of them put forth an effort today."

Harrison's chances of winning its first ever Observerland Relays took a severe blow when the Hawks missed out on a possible 10 points by failing to place in the shuttle hurdle relay. The Hawks weren't able to place because three of the four runners tripped over the hurdles, maybe because of the slippery surface.

Kevin Bryant, Steve Catherman and Jason Ryman each took a spill after leadoff man Tom Sokol had gotten the Hawks off to a good start. Ryman wasn't able to finish the race after his fall.

"We had a good practice week, a good night's sleep but it was just bad luck," Sokol said. "We had high hopes."

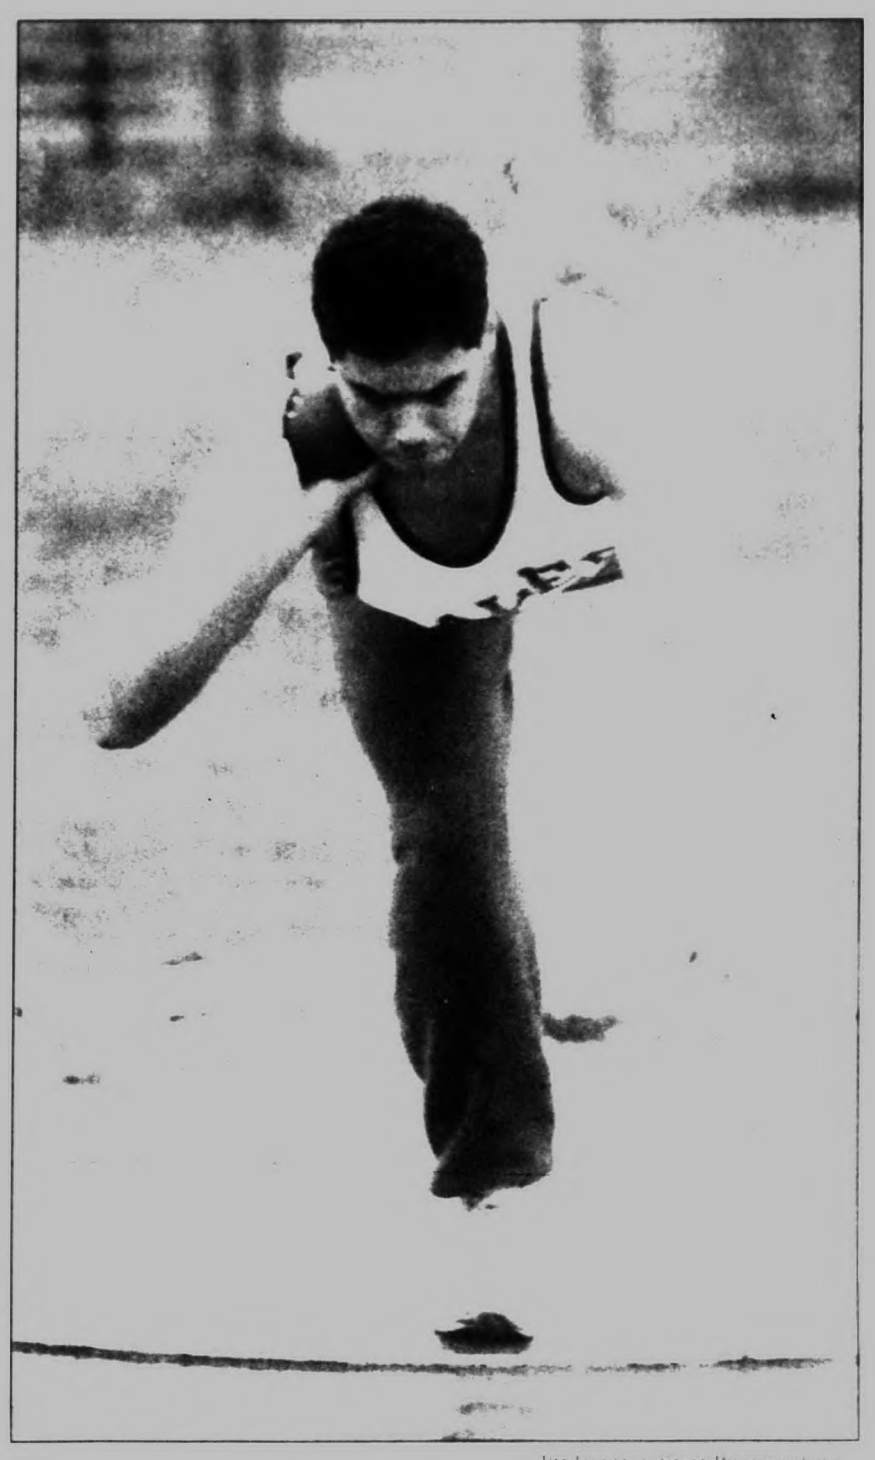
Harrison gained a first place in the sprint medley relay (2:31.5) behind the running of Bryant, Gil Chavez, Jason Granger and Matt Zimmerer. The Hawks also got first from Eshan Allos, Chavez, Bryant and Granger in the 800 relay (1:31.7).

The Hawks took second place in the long jump relay (56-5) and second in the 400 relay (44.5). Granger, who was edged out at the tape by Northville's Brian Dogonski in the 400 relay, also gave Harrison eight points with second in the 100 meter dash (10.9).

"Whether we won or lost, we had some real gutsy performances," Harrison coach John Reed said. "On the shuttle hurdle relay, it looked like the track was slick. I thought we could win that. Personally, I'm just glad that no one got hurt. It was actually more frustrating for the runners than pain."

CC led the meet with 51 points after 10 events but scored only a total of five points in the last six events. The Shamrocks took second in the discus with a combined throw of 384-2 and first in the shot put (Nick Kallas, Doug Brzezinski and Jeff Monnette) with a combined toss of 141-11½. Joe Leo had the other CC first in the 1,600 run (4:37.7).

"We had no sprints left," CC coach Tony Magni said. "Salem is tough. They have sprints, distance. That's all you need in track."



Jim Ingersoll, Staff Photographer

Livonia Churchill finished in seventh place with 36 points, scoring 30 in the field events. Aaron Dusso, Dave Elenich and Rob Loreto took first in the discus (300-8) and the pole vault team of Greg Koehler, Chris Maki and Rick Frizzell also took first (3-0).

Livonia Stevenson's Matt Syverson, Chris Matthews and Steve Ingrao won the high jump (6-10) and the long jump was won by Garden City's Ian Randles, Mike Poshadlo and Mark McCloud (56-5¼).

Crowning glory

Madonna's 'comeback kids' claim district title

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

There was really no other way to describe it.

"This," said Madonna University softball coach Jerry Abraham, "is a team of destiny."

It seemed that way last week at the NAIA District 23 Tournament, hosted by Grand Rapids Baptist. The Lady Crusaders came into the tournament as the top seed but lost to Aquinas College in the second round to fall into the loser's bracket.

The left them with a tough road to negotiate if they were to advance to the NAIA Bi-District round. But they did it, coming back to knock off Aquinas twice in a row on Friday to claim their first ever district championship in softball.

Madonna will host the Ohio district champion in the best of three Bi-District round Thursday, with games at noon and 2:30 p.m. If necessary, a third game will be played Friday at 10 a.m. Where the games will be played had not been determined.

The Bi-District winner advances to the NAIA Tournament, which starts May 19 in Columbia, Mo.

■ SOFTBALL

"Our backs were against the wall yesterday," Abraham said Friday evening. "But the girls never gave up. This team never gives up. They play hard, they do not quit. They believe in each other."

The Crusaders' attitude became evident in their loss to Aquinas Thursday when Ronnie Ronco blasted a two-run home run off district MVP Stacey Barber with two out in the seventh. Their rally ended there, a run short, but the stage was set.

In the first game of Friday's elimination round against Aquinas, Madonna busted loose against Barber in the third inning. The Crusaders trailed 2-0 entering the inning, but 10 hits and a walk resulted in a 10-run rally. Madonna won in a five-inning mercy, 14-2.

The championship game was even more dramatic. Aquinas got a two-run homer from Kara Tidey in the first and a solo shot from Angel DeSantis in the top of the sixth in building a 4-2 advantage.

But in the bottom of the sixth, three straight two-out hits delivered runs ... and the title.

Holly Jondro started the comeback with a single. She was eliminated by a fielder's choice, and Jennifer Pinter followed with a fly out. But Jill Burt came through with a run-scoring single, and Jeanie Baxter (from Redford St. Agatha) slashed an RBI double. Mo Paulin (Livonia Farmington Hills Mercy) then drove in the game winner with a base hit.

Dawn Terrasi, who pitched every inning of every tournament game for Madonna, was the winner. She stopped the Saints on seven hits and no walks, striking out six. Barber absorbed the loss.

Madonna's first game against Aquinas in Friday's elimination round was a bit easier. Terrasi tossed a two hitter, walking none and striking out five in the lopsided win.

Mandi Armstrong had three hits and an RBI; Jondro, Burt, Paulin and Jennifer Czach each had two hits. Jondro and Paulin both had two RBI; Burt and Czach added one apiece.

Madonna

Madonna opened the tournament with an 8-0 five-inning mercy of Tri-State University Thursday. Michelle Birchmeier (Redford Thurston) and Lynda Weichel each had two hits in the game, with Birchmeier driving in two runs. Jondro contributed a hit and two runs batted in.

Terrasi tossed a one-hitter — a fifth-inning single. She did not walk a batter.

The win put Madonna against Aquinas in the second round. Although Terrasi pitched well, surrendering just two earned runs on seven hits and two walks while striking out seven, the Crusaders lost 4-3.

But Ronco's two-out, seventh-inning homer ignited them. Pinter also had two hits and an RBI in the loss.

The Crusaders followed it by eliminating Siena Heights 7-3 thanks to another big inning, this one a five-run third. Baxter and Pinter spearheaded Madonna's third inning rally: Baxter cracked a three-run triple (she had two hits in the game) and Pinter, who had three hits and two RBI, contributed a run-scoring single.

Terrasi outdueled Siena Heights' Robyn Humes — an all-district selection — giving up three runs on nine hits and a walk, fanning one.

Madonna will take a 36-8 record — and a tenacious attitude — into the Bi-District round.

Notes: Four Crusaders were named to the 16-member all-district team, and Jerry Abraham — in his first year at the helm — was selected as district coach of the year.

Those named to the team were Terrasi, a senior pitcher (28-7 overall record, 15-2 against district foes); Burt, a senior third baseman (.442 batting average, nine doubles, 20 RBI prior to the district playoffs); Birchmeier, a sophomore shortstop (.421 with a team-high 51 hits); and Armstrong, a senior second baseman (.356, 13 stolen bases, 20 RBI).

BE LESS PRODUCTIVE AT THE OFFICE.

The office has always been a place to get ahead. Unfortunately, it's also a place where a lot of natural resources start to fall behind. Take a look around the next time you're at work. See how many lights are left on when people leave. See how much paper is being wasted. How much electricity is being used to run computers that are left on. Look at how much water is being wasted in the restrooms. And how much solid waste is being thrown out in the trash cans.

It takes 95% less energy to manufacture products from recycled materials.

We bet it's a lot. Now, here are some simple ways you can produce less waste at work. When you're at the copier, only make the copies you need. Use both sides of the paper when writing a memo. Turn off your light when you leave. Use a lower watt bulb in your lamps. Drink your coffee or tea out of mugs instead of throwaway cups. Set up a recycling bin for aluminum cans and one for bottles. And when you're in the bathroom brushing your teeth or washing your face, don't let the faucet run. Remember, if we use fewer resources today, we'll save more for tomorrow. Which would truly be a job well done.

Canton divides 2; Salem takes a pair

■ BASEBALL

Plymouth Canton experienced both extremes Friday.

The Chiefs opened their baseball doubleheader against visiting Walled Lake Western with a shutout, then got blanked themselves in the nightcap.

Canton won the five inning (mercy rule) opener 10-0 behind a three-hitter by Anthony Pastor, before being held to three hits in a 6-0 loss.

Pastor, a senior right hander, walked four and struck out one in improving his record to 4-2. The Chiefs are 10-7 overall and 4-2 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Canton scored three times in the first after Eric Marcotte led off with a single. Adam Gilles was hit by a pitch. Marcotte scored on a double steal. Ryan Ostach followed with an RBI single.

Marcotte, Gilles, Ostach and Brian Kovach hit consecutive singles in a five-run fourth to put the game out of reach. Gilles and Sean Romanowski knocked in two runs for Canton.

Matt Paupore suffered the loss in the second game. He lasted six innings, struck out six and walked one. Paupore was victimized by a five-run Warrior outburst in the fourth inning. Chris Cortellini hurled the seventh for the Chiefs.

On Wednesday, Canton blew a 4-0 lead to eventually lose to visiting Westland John Glenn 8-4.

Glenn's Bryan Besco ripped a solo home run off loser Scott Valimont to begin the fifth inning. The Rockets narrowed the margin to one in the inning, before taking the lead for good with a four-run seventh.

■ SALEM 5-9, NORTH FARMINGTON 4-6: Plymouth Salem stayed atop the WLAA's Lakes Division with its doubleheader sweep over visiting North Farmington Friday.

The Rocks (13-4 overall, 8-0 in the division) held off North in the first game after the Raiders rallied from a 4-0 deficit to tie the game with a four-run outburst in the sixth, which included a string of five consecutive hits.

Salem scored the decisive run in the bottom of the sixth when Bill Styles knocked in the go-ahead run with a double. Eric Kida knocked in two runs with a double in the third inning.

Mike Marsella lasted the first six innings to earn the win. The senior scattered nine hits, walked one and struck out nine. Jon Patete, celebrating his 18th birthday, relieved Marsella in the seventh to retire the final three batters.

Jason Glasser went the distance for the Raiders (3-10, 2-4). Glasser allowed six hits, walked three and struck out five.

Mike Brannan's two-out, three-run homer in the first inning of the nightcap sparked the Rocks to their sweep. Matt Abbott, who had two hits, also hit a four-bagger. Brad Lear added two hits and two RBI.

Justin Marcis hurled the first five innings to record the win. Ryan King and Damian Payton each pitched an inning in relief.

On Wednesday, Salem defeated Livonia Franklin 4-3 at Ford Field, as the bottom of the order supplied the offensive punch.

Dan Quaine and Bryan Proctor had two hits apiece for the Rocks. The game-winning run came off the bat of pinch-hitter Alan Moran who singled with two outs in the fifth to score Geff Mackiewicz from second base.

Kida pitched the first four innings for the win. Patete and Payton relieved Kida, with Payton recording the save.

Stage set for Mangan Meet

■ GIRLS TRACK

Here's a lesson a pair of coaches will find extremely difficult to teach this week.

The subject: Downplaying.

For both Plymouth Canton's George Przygodski and Plymouth Salem's Mark Gregor, it won't be easy to reach their girls track teams, who clash Tuesday in the Mangan Meet, with that message. Try to keep their emotions in check, tell them it's just another non-division dual meet — and then hope.

The obvious rivalry is difficult enough to overcome. Add in each team's current status, and the task borders on impossible.

Canton is currently ranked as the best in Observerland. Salem, the defending Western Lakes Activities Association champion, is second. Both are unbeaten in dual meets. Both will probably collect their respective WLAA division titles, Canton in the Western and Salem in the Lakes.

Which means they will probably be going head to head for the league crown May 25 at Farmington. The winner of the Mangan Meet — which starts at 4 p.m. at Canton — will be the league favorite.

"This is always one of the best dual meets in the area," said Przygodski. "I don't see any reason why it should be any different this year.

"I don't have to put any emphasis on it. The kids see each other at practice every day. If anything, I have to de-emphasize it."

Gregor agreed. "Our goal isn't to win this meet, it's to win the conference and regional (May 21)."

But don't discount the dual. "It'll be real intense on Tuesday," admitted Gregor. "On paper, I've figured it several different ways, with different lineups, and every way it's very, very close. What it will come down to is which team wants it the most.

"Our girls won't back down."

Past performance is a factor both coaches could capitalize on. Salem has won the last two duals with Canton, and Gregor noted his seniors' experience could be invaluable. Of course, those losses the previous two years could motivate Canton as well.

As Przygodski summed up: "We're going to have to run our best. They're a fine team."

Plymouth Canton

Four double-winners in individual events was more than enough to propel the Chiefs to a 98-30 triumph at Walled Lake Western Thursday in a WLAA Western Division dual.

The win boosted Canton's record to 4-0 overall, 3-0 in the division.

Ndu Okwumabua, Olive Ikeh, Mary Anderson and Lana Boroditsch each claimed a pair of individual firsts. Okwumabua's came in the high jump (5 feet, 4 inches) and 100-meter dash (12.7).

Ikeh finished first in the shot put (31-1½) and the 200 (26.6), while Anderson was best in both the 100 (16.4) and 300 (50.5) hurdles. Boroditsch dominated the distance events, winning the 1,600 (5:40.0) and 3,200 (11:55.6).

Other individual winners for Canton were Becky Bockstanz in the long jump (14-8¾) and Tracey Cavin in the 800 (2:28.5).

Bockstanz, Ikeh, Shawn Champlin and Okwumabua combined for a win in the 400 relay (53.2). Bockstanz, Becky Uryga, Nancy Hoffman and Champlin captured the 800 relay (1:53.5). Hoffman, Alice Alheritiere, Meghan Barresi and Cavin won the 1,600 (4:40.4), and Boroditsch, Brooke Larson, Barresi and Cavin claimed the 3,200 (10:38.2).

Plymouth Salem

A month ago, Canton jolted Walled Lake Central in its opening WLAA dual meet with a 128-0 shutout. The Vikings haven't improved much since — Salem stuck them with a 124-4 loss Thursday at Salem.

"They're really struggling," said Gregor of Central. "They don't have many kids, and what they do have isn't very competitive."

Sarah Makins and Sarah Hamilton each won two individual events for the Rocks, who improved to 4-0 overall, 3-0 in the Lakes Division. Makins was first in the long jump (15-0) and 100-meter hurdles (15.6). Hamilton collected wins in the 200 (26.9) and 400 (1:00.8).

Other Salem winners in field events were Angie Smith in the shot put (28-3½), Donna Bernhardt in the discus (78-0) and Nicole Van Hees in the high jump (4-11).

On the track, other Rock winners were Courtney Sheldon in the 300 hurdles (49.6); Tonya Zgraggen in the 100 (13.5), Kelly Stankov in the 800 (2:31.4); Karen Boudreau in the 1,600 (5:41.9); and Kathy Jost in the 3,200 (12:51.6).

In the relays, Zgraggen, Brooke Kilby, Marcia Parker and Nicole Bolton won the 400 (55.0); Zgraggen, Kim Sheldon, Parker and Makins won the 800 (1:54.4); Kristie Giddings, Bolton, Elizabeth Moyer and Jessica Moyer won the 1,600 (4:29.5); and Giddings, Miranda Wade, Meran Miles and Meridith Davis won the 3,200 (10:55.6).

Central is winless in dual meet competition.

Salem, Canton win duals easily

■ BOYS TRACK

Both Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem are in the midst of a difficult week, one reason they throttled back a bit in their Western Lakes Activities Association dual meets last Thursday.

The Observerland Relays were last Saturday. Now there's the Mangan Meet: Canton vs. Salem at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Canton. After that, Salem must take on Farmington while Canton travels to Livonia Franklin. That's four competitions in an eight-day span.

"We went limping into this meet," said Canton coach Bob Richardson of Thursday's dual against visiting Walled Lake Western. "We're trying to get healed up from injuries with the big part of our schedule coming up."

Which sounded very similar to Salem coach Geoff Baker. "We tried to give some guys who've been carrying the load a chance to rest," he said after the Rocks experienced a closer-than-expected outcome against Walled Lake Central. "We have Observerland, Canton and Farmington in a row — that's a tough row to hoe."

But however busy the schedule, Baker figured the Mangan Meet would produce one thing for certain: "No matter if somebody is up or down, it always seems to bring out the best in everyone."

Plymouth Salem

The final score — Salem 62, Walled Lake Central 57 — hardly indicated how dominant the Rocks were Thursday at Central. They won 11 of 16 events and could have made the margin of victory wider.

"A lot of different kids had a chance to run some in a varsity meet," said Baker, whose team improved to 4-0 overall, 3-0 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. "We didn't stack them the way we would for Canton."

Rocky Johnson was first in both the shot put (46-feet, 7-inches) and discus (131-7). On the track, Salem winners were Dan Miller in the 110-meter hurdles (15.9); Ryan Edwards in the 200 (24.9); Jason Barylski in the 400 (53.4); Josh Stickney in the 800 (2:03.6); Jared Biniecki in the 1,600 (4:42.7), and Scott Pengelly in the 3,200 (9:58.0).

The Rocks won three of four relays: Edwards, Marcus Zevalkink, Andy Coburn and Adam Bakowski in the 800 (1:35.6); Russ Polcyn, Corey Kingslien, Barylski and Bakowski in the 1,600 (3:42.7), and Scott Loewe, Greg Hellmers, Andy McDonald and Dave Karmann in the 3,200 (8:49.4).

Plymouth Canton

A solid performance in the field events enabled the Chiefs to hold on for a 71-57 victory over Walled Lake Western Thursday at Canton.

"We were up 20-16 coming out of the field events, and normally we're down 20 or 30," said Canton's Richardson. "We had to do good in the field events because we knew they had some runners."

The Chiefs finished one-two in both the discus and shot put. Jon Gallinger won the discus (128-5); Brandt Blair was first in the shot (43-10½).

John Martin and Casey Moothart sparked Canton on the track, each winning two individual events. Martin was first in both hurdles, the 110-meter (16.2) and 300-meter (43.5). Moothart won the 1,600 (4:50.4) and the 3,200 (10:31.5).

The Chiefs had two other first-place finishes. Rob Lemasters captured the 100 (11.5) and Todd Smith, Dave Gay, Brian Crocket and Jeff Keith took top honors in the 3,200 relay (9:11.9).

Late-inning rallies give Madonna sweep

■ COLLEGES

A pair of late-inning rallies boosted Madonna University's baseball team to a double-header sweep of Wayne State Wednesday at WSU.

The Crusaders got a run in the top of the seventh inning and made it stand up for a 1-0 triumph in the opener. T.C. Raptis improved his record to 5-1 with a superb performance; he stopped the Tartars on just two hits and three walks, striking out four. Matt Zielinski was the hard-luck loser for WSU, surrendering six hits and a walk, fanning five.

Craig Peterson started the game-winning rally with a single. Shawn Pencza, inserted to run for him, stole second and scored on Dan Taylor's base hit.

In the second game, the Fighting Crusaders got a run in the seventh to tie the game, then pushed across three more in the eighth to post a 5-2 triumph. Sean Henkel (from Livonia Stevenson) tossed 2⅔ innings of hitless relief to earn the win (4-0), giving up just one walk and striking out five.

Jeff Kugelman had started for Madonna; he allowed two runs on six hits, striking out seven, in 5+ innings. Jesse Gerwatowski took the loss for WSU.

George Leung singled in the game-winning run in the eighth. Peterson added a pinch hit, run-producing single and Taylor knocked in another run with a sacrifice fly.

Leung finished with two hits. Jim Solak (Redford Dearborn Divine Child) was 4 for 4 with one RBI.

The Crusaders improved their overall record to 39-16. WSU dropped to 10-25.

Madonna is one of four teams qualified for the NAIA District 23 playoffs. The others are Aquinas, Siena Heights and Spring Arbor. The double elimination playoffs begin Thursday in Grand Rapids.

Rocks romp twice; Chiefs gain shutout

■ SOCCER

It was just what Plymouth Salem girls soccer coach Ken Johnson hoped would happen.

The momentum gained from Monday's 2-2 tie with Plymouth Canton washed over to Wednesday's match with visiting Walled Lake Central. The result: three goals in the first nine minutes, a 4-0 lead by halftime, and a 7-0 victory.

The win was the Rocks' first in Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division play, raising their division record to 1-2.

Jodi Coyle accounted for two of the early strikes. Elizabeth Peltier netted the second goal. Heather Buchanan made it 4-0 at the break. Alexis Marinos, Andrea Sudik and Susie Parrish had goals in the second half.

Marinos also had two assists. Coyle, Leah Retherford, Courtney Garrett and Jamie Gardner posted single assists.

The flow continued for Salem Friday, when Adrian visited. Although they started slow, scoring just once in the first half, the Rocks put together a strong second half in posting a 6-0 victory.

The two wins pushed Salem's overall record to 5-4-2.

Coyle scored two more goals, giving her nine for the season. Retherford had a goal and two assists. Buchanan had a goal and an assist, and Marinos and Garrett had one goal apiece. Jaimie Marinos, Colleen Kirby and Kate Gardner each recorded assists.

Julie Buczek was in goal for both wins. The two shutouts gave her five for the season.

■ CANTON 6, W.L. WESTERN 0: Plymouth Canton overcame a bit of a slow start to bury Walled Lake Western Wednesday at Western.

The win pushed the Chiefs' overall record to 9-2-1. They remain atop the WLAA's Western Division at 4-0, all that remains between them and a berth in the conference championship match is a game with Northville May 16.

Even though the final score indicates a rout, Canton coach Don Smith said the game wasn't that one-sided. The Chiefs were ahead by just a 2-0 margin at the half.

"They're getting better," said Smith of Western. "They made us work for everything. This is one of their better teams."

But Canton proved superior. Alyson Noune and Robyn Vachow each notched two goals. Melissa Tomei (on a penalty kick) and Amicie Crayton scored one goal apiece.

Assists went to Britta Anderson, Julie Majewski, Kristie Drinkhahn, Becci Brown and Susan O'Neill. Sarah Warnke was in goal, but she did not have to make a save.

Smith thought his team reacted well after Monday's somewhat disappointing tie with Salem. "They moved the ball well, did a better job passing on a smaller field," he said.
