

Harper wins school board seat

IT WAS A SLOW day at the polls for the Plymouth-Canton school board trustee election Monday. Only 3,597 voters showed up at the 16 precincts. In this picture, the Starkweather precinct was almost empty at 5:05 p.m. Monday afternoon - and the woman on the left was voter number 122. Also on the ballot were the Schoolcraft Trustee election and a millage question for the community college. The only Plymouth-Canton resident to run for Schoolcraft Trustee was defeated, as was the Schoolcraft millage. For complete unofficial results in Plymouth-Canton on the election, please turn to page 4. (Crier photo by Brian Watkins.)

Development rights probed

Canton eyes cost of saving farms

BY CHAS. CHILD

A study to determine the cost of preserving Canton's farmland was considered by Canton's board of trustees last night.

The study by the township's planner, Wade and Trim, will determine and compare the cost of two alternatives: urbanizing the whole township or buying the development rights in the agricultural and open lands (about 6,000 acres) of the western half of the township.

Buying development rights is similar to buying mineral rights to land. The farmer would still own the land but he could not develop it for a specified time.

George Peek, who handles Canton for Wade and Trim, said the study would cost about $40,000 and would take approximately six months. The board also considered a supporting study by an accounting firm, Seidman & Seidman of Troy, to help with the financial end of Wade and Trim's study.

There is considerable feeling in the township that it would be cheaper to buy the development rights of the farmland than to provide services to the developed land, even though the new developments would provide considerable tax revenues.

Two committees, the Land Use Study Committee, and the Growth Management Study Committee, recommended recently that direct purchase of development rights was the best method of preserving the agricultural land in Canton.

Buying development rights is also a key part of the 1976 Master Land Use plan that was passed by the Planning Commission but never implemented by ordinances.

Peek said at last Tuesday's board meeting that until a comprehensive study such as the one approved by the board last night was done, implementation of the 1976 master plan was "questionable."

Peek's study has five major points:

- *Determine the public cost of extending utilities, roads, schools, police and fire, etc., plus the cost of maintaining and operating such facilities in the designated agricultural areas.

- *Project the new property tax base of the township if the agricultural area is developed.

- *Construct a cost-revenue continuum. That is, compare the cost of facilities and tax revenue to see how self-sufficient the developed farmland would be at "any point in time."

- *Determine the cost of acquiring "urban development rights" in the agricultural areas. (Estimated at $12-15 million by Deputy Treasurer Mike Gorman.)

- *Prepare an acquisition schedule and strategy.

Peek also recommended that the agricultural lands of the western half of the township be declared an agricultural district.

Also, with this new zoning, the township should ask the Wayne County Tax Equalization Department to detail their commitments to reduce the taxes on the district.

BY DAWN BOEGLER

A mid a flurry of activity late Monday night the school election results dribbled in with no major upsets or unexpected landslides as far as the Plymouth-Canton School Board election went.

Harper steam-rolled his way to the top with 1,563 total votes, Arlene Callahan followed with 895 and Mary Jane Mulaski trailed with 298 votes.

Steve Harper carried all but four precincts (Fiegel Pct. 8, Eriksson Pct. 11; Hulsing Pct. 10 and Field Pct. 12) with Hulsing being his heaviest loss to Callahan, a 51 to 129 vote lead respectively.

Mulaski's heaviest support came from Farrand Pct. 7 with only 38 votes - nowhere near Harper with 187, and Callahan's 84. Mulaski's heaviest loss came from Isbister Pct. 3, with 11 votes compared to Harper's 182 and Callahan's 62.

Harper and Callahan did well on their own turf. Pct. 6, Harper's precinct, gave him a 202 vote, victory, while Pct. 10, Callahan's precinct, gave her a 78 - vote edge. Mulaski's Pct. 9 voted the closest of all for her, but still went for Callahan and Harper over its favorite daughter.

After the unofficial totals were tallied - the news of the win began to sink in. Winner Harper was excited and pleased, saying he felt numb with the news.

"I can't believe it," Harper repeated over and over. "I think it will take about two weeks before I can make myself believe it's really true."

In comparing himself to the other candidates in the school board race Harper said he felt Callahan was an outstanding person and would possibly beat him out of his win in Monday's election.

"I thought perhaps she would be the one to win - honestly," Harper said later Monday night.

Callahan braved a winning smile, saying she would support Harper and was very satisfied with the school board results.

"I've gotten to know Steve in the past several weeks and I think he will do an excellent job."

Mary Jane Mulaski commented that she was happy the win went to Harper and that she, too, felt he would be a fair board member and do a good job.

All three candidates agreed that campaigning was hard work, "an eye-opener" and that they all learned a great deal from the experience.

"During the campaign," said Callahan, "I learned much and plan to continue my involvement for better schools."

Finally ratified!

The Plymouth-Canton School Board unanimously ratified the umpteenth 45-15 calendar at its board meeting last Monday night.

All board members were present and voted on the calendar which had been agreed upon by the schools and the PEA two weeks ago.

After the board had passed a different calendar at its May 23 meeting, it was taken to the PEA bargaining table, where this last calendar was adopted and agreed upon.

The ratified calendar will be a block start schedule in which Tracks A, B and C will begin at the same time, with Track D beginning three weeks later.

Two more on recall ballot?

Recall grows

BY CHAS. CHILD

Canton Supervisor Harold Stein probably won't be the only one on the ballot of the upcoming recall election.

More than 1,600 signatures asking for the recall of Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley have been handed in, probably enough to put them on the recall ballot.

Friday and Monday, the leader of the recall effort, Lynn LaBell, turned in more than 1,000 signatures to Canton Clerk John Flodin, boosting the total to over 1,600.

His office must now make sure each signer is a registered voter in the township and that their signatures match. 1,252 valid signatures are needed to put Daley and Bradley on the ballot, and LaBell is confident she has enough.

Peter Gabbert, who led the Stein recall drive, said that out of the 1,503 signatures he collected asking for Stein's recall, 1,280 proved valid. So, he said, LaBell appears to have a safe margin.

The clerk's office returned the Stein recall petitions to Gabbert June 6.

Gabbert and LaBell said they were trying to co-ordinate their efforts with the Wayne County Election Commission so there will be only one election for all three officials, who ran as a slate in last fall's campaign.

Friday, June 24 is the date Gabbert set to file the completed Stein petitions with the election commission.

Orville Tungate, chief deputy county clerk, said LaBell should file her petitions with the county within a week to 10 days of June 24 to avoid potential legal stumbling blocks to holding one election.

Board helps gifted and talented students

BY DONNA LOMAS

A resolution to approve a Gifted and Talented Program was passed by a 4-3 vote by the Plymouth-Canton School Board Monday night.

President Joe Gray, Trustees Flossie Tonda, and Richard Arlen voted no on the proposed program, with Vice-President E. J. McClendon and Trustees Tom Yack, George Lawton, and Marcia Borowski voting yes. "It is the wrong time to make this move with all the other changes going on in this school system right now," said Trustee Arlen. "I am opposed to it, it's another school program we're supposed to approve out of the blue."

"The program is not out of the blue," said Trustee Borowski. "Planning has gone on for three years now for the groundwork of the plan, with faculty and parents working on it. It's a program that's 20 years late."

President Joe Gray opposed the program because he said there weren't enough specifics on it.

"I have no problem with it," he said, "but where's the plan? What kinds of children are going to get into it? I can't see spending $23,500 the first year and $55,000 the next year when we don't know what we're buying."

"We have $55,000 to work with said Trustee Yack. "It's a financial guideline so that the committee and the new curriculum director (Michael Homes) know what their limits are."

Liaison to the committee, Administrative Asst. to schools, Sam Ulsaker, said the committee had laid the groundwork.

"The needs in the program have been identified, and the goals set," he said.

The estimated program budget allows $23,500 for the program in the first year, expanded to $55,000 the following year, including the salary of a program director, materials and supplies and equipment.

The $23,500 was earmarked from the 1976-77 school budget, while the $55,000 is an estimated cost for the 1977-78 school year. The resolution had been defeated earlier by the board.

The Gifted and Talented Committee members are comprised of one elementary school principal, two assistant middle school principals, an elementary learning specialist and three parents.

Central lot to be re-equipped

Supplies and equipment for the Central Parking Lot in downtown Plymouth were ordered at a regular City Commission meeting May 16, according to City Manager Fred Yockey.

The equipment, consisting of gates and a guardhouse, cost $11,167. The monies will come from a Capital Improvement Fund, with the exception of $1,000 worth of supplies, mostly tickets. The total cost to the city is $12,167 for the gate and supplies.

"The commission instructed us to get a proposal together," said Yockey. "Then, at the meeting, we decided to order the equipment and have it available."

"The equipment over there is causing all sorts of problems," he said.

Yockey said a report was prepared on the Central Lot and presented at the last city commission meeting. He said he asked for a delay on the report so that downtown merchants could review it.

"Right now, we're waiting to see if they like it or not," Yockey said.

"They're looking it over now, but the equipment would still be used."

According to Janet Curlee at the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, the merchants will discuss a proposal for the Central Lot at a meeting today. (Wednesday).

In the report prepared June 2 and presented to the City Commission at its regular meeting June 8, the total estimated cost of the entire Central Parking Lot project would be $80,000.

Included in the cost were the gate equipment; plus Harvey Street entrance; Ann Arbor Trail entrance, islands, asphalt wedging, asphalt surfacing, alley improvements, striping, restoration, pole relocation, the Reid and Cool Study of the lot and engineering and contingencies.

The City Commission, at their last meeting on the status of the Central Lot, postponed a decision.

Real Indian gets Canton Chief Award

Dr. E. J. McClendon, out-going school board vice president, was presented an award by Canton High School Principal Kent Buikema at McClendon's last board meeting Monday.

McClendon was awarded the "Chief" Award by Buikema on behalf of the Canton High School administration, faculty and students "in recognition of continuing education that enhanced our (Canton) program," said Buikema, and presented the simple framed plaque to McClendon.

Thanking him, McClendon noted that he found it "interesting that an Indian should be getting a Chief Award."

McClendon is an American Choctaw Indian and is an advisor at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor on the American Indian Program.

G'stein to appeal ZBA ruling

BY CHAS. CHILD

The attorney for the Zoning Board of Appeal (ZBA) of former Supervisor Robert Greenstein said last week that he will appeal the recent court opinion which declared his client's ZBA invalid.

Circuit Court Judge Neal Fitzgerald ruled that the ZBAs appointed by both Greenstein and present supervisor Harold Stein were appointed improperly.

Stein's stands to gain, however, because he is in position to appoint a new ZBA. He said Friday that after the ordinances are amended as stipulated by the judge, he will reappoint the same five members.

Stein appointed his own five-member board in February after the township's attorney doubted the legality of the original, Greenstein's.

The five members of Stein's ZBA were: Gary Sands, Bob Padgett, Kathy Prince, William Gilmore and Gene Daley.

S'craft millage defeated

The only millage issue on Monday's school ballot - a proposal to increase the Schoolcraft Community College operating millage by 8 mills - was defeated.

According to unofficial totals, the millage issue went down by a margin of 7,659 "no" to 6,156 "yes". It was the second time voters rejected the requested tax hike.

Plymouth-Canton School District voters themselves voted against the issue, 1,616 "no" to 1,142 "yes".

No change in WACO talks

BY CHAS. CHILD

With the deadline for the threatened cut-off of Wayne County Sheriff's patrol in Plymouth and Canton Townships just 15 days off, Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert reports no progress in negotiations with the County to continue the patrols.

"They are still required by law to provide protection, so I'm not taking their threats that seriously," Notebaert said.

"The law says they aren't required to provide patrols but are required to provide protection. But how can you scratch my back without using your hands?" he said.

A meeting last Wednesday with the Safety and Judicial Committee of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors produced no new proposals or progress. "It was mostly a waste of time," Notebaert said.

In the long run, Notebaert said, his township would have to provide for its own protection. He listed the following options:

1. Starting the township's own force.
2. Contracting with the City of Plymouth for protection.
3. Contracting with Northville Township.
4. Continuing Wayne County Sheriff's patrols.

Notebaert said he discussed with Plymouth City Manager Fred Yockey and Police Chief Tim Ford the possibility of contracting for city police patrols in the township.

"It's still in the planning stages, however," Notebaert said. "It would have to be approved by both the Plymouth City Commission and our Board of Trustees."

Canton Township is in the process of hiring a new police chief, and recently hired 10 new police officers, in an effort to upgrade their force. The Canton police force currently patrols only on weekends and weekday evenings.

Notebaert wanted to emphasize that both the Wayne County Sheriff's and the State Police will respond to calls. The numbers are: 721-2222 for the Sheriff's and 455-5550 for the State Police.

Boston marathoner runs for health

BY MATT NORRIS

"Long distance running is good for the lungs, and patients often use it for cardiac rehabilitation. I think it's good for doctors to set an example for their patients by running long distances," said Dr. Fred Holappa of Superior Township, who has run in two Boston Marathon races in the past two years.

Holappa, 49, a physician at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, runs 60 miles per week, as well as competing in marathons in Toledo, Birmingham, and Detroit. But the two most memorable races for the doctor have been finishes in the Boston Marathon for the past two Aprils.

He finished in the top 1000 runners (out of 3000 entered), in the race from Hopkinton to Boston in 1976, but he hasn't received his official finish for this year.

Although he termed it his "worst marathon", Holappa finished the 26 mile, 385 yard course in three hours and 30 minutes.

Holappa spent three months training for the Boston classic and ran in two marathons in March before the race.

"I might have over-trained - you're only supposed to run two marathons a year," he said. His time of two hours, 54 minutes at the Motor City race last October qualified him for the Boston Marathon.

Standing at the starting line with 5000 other runners, Holappa had one goal in mind. "My only objective was to finish the race," he said. The physician practices running hills in Ann Arbor, but the Boston race (considered the most difficult in the world), is taken as a real challenge by all entered.

Mrs. Holappa was at five-mile intervals on the course to give her husband drinks to retain his strength. She was waiting at Heartbreak Hill, 17½ miles from the starting line, where the series of steep hills causes many runners to drop out of the race. As a doctor, Holappa also knew that the body exhausts its nutrients with six miles left in the race.

Despite enduring pain in finishing the marathon, Holappa has nothing but praise for the people of Boston, especially the 800,000 spectators who watch the race from along the Massachusetts roads. "You can't say enough about them - they cheer you on, and offer you water on the course."

Holappa continues to train and compete between marathons. He finished ninth his age group (40-49 years) and eightieth out of 320 runners in the 11-mile Wide Track race in Pontiac Sunday.

He hopes to run in the Glass City Marathon in Toledo next week, cool weather permitting. "The heat was horrendous at the last two Boston Marathons," was Holappa's only complaint about the races.

Holappa claims that long distance running has become addictive for him (he started six years ago), and he emphasizes the health aspect of it.

The good doctor also recommends a good pair of running shoes for those who take up the grueling but rewarding sport.

Guidelines set for middle sports

At a meeting held between middle school liaisons and Plymouth-Canton schools athletic director John Sandmann has resulted in more middle school player participation guidelines for 1977-78.

The new guidelines, formulated during an early June meeting, reflect a pattern of athletic philosophy similar to that of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Assoc (PCJAA).

The PCJAA had recently requested the school board to take over seventh and eighth grade athletics, with the thought of encouraging more guaranteeing more player participation and saving the schools money.

Although their request was defeated, an amendment was adopted by the board to reflect some of the player participation philosophy in their 1977-78 middle school athletic program.

The following are the changes:

*Golf - and Tennis - The same as before, open to all seventh and eighth graders with a tournament at the end of season for all.

*Swimming - open to all seventh and eighth graders. All will swim in at least one event in all scheduled meets.

*Track - Same, with everyone competing in at least one running and one field event.

*Softball, Baseball - One team each for seventh and eighth graders, coach for each team. Everyone will play at least one full inning and have a one turn at bat.

*Basketball - Same, except on days of scheduled games, there will be two games played for each seventh and eighth grades at opposite sites. All will participate in at least one quarter and sit out at least one quarter.

Farms to be saved?

A public meeting to discuss state legislation aimed at preserving farmland will be held at the Canton Township Fire Hall at Canton Center and Cherry Hill Rds., next Monday, June 20 at 2 p.m.

"The proposal is aimed at preserving farmland on the fringe of urbanized areas where development pressure is the greatest," said the bill's sponsor, State Rep. Thomas Brown, whose district includes Canton.

"In exchange for tax benefits, the land owner would have to agree to escrow his development rights with the local government unit for a specified period of time," Brown said.

Canton is currently working towards a local program similar to Brown's legislation.

Plymouth Chamber to discuss edit

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will meet at 7:30 a.m. Thursday, June 16 at the chamber offices, 878 Wing St.

trial developer - will also be discussed.

AN ANALYSIS of the voting results in the April 23 Plymouth-Canton School election showed that voters in Precincts 6, 7 and 14 were more supportive of the millage issue than they had been previously. The table above shows the "yes" vote percentage on the June, 1976 millage increase (which was defeated by one vote), the second try on the increase September, 1976 and the April 23, 1977 millage renewal. The proposed bond issue on the April 23 ballot did not receive more than 45 per cent "yes" votes in any precinct. Precincts 2, 6 and 9 were recently split, so new precinct figures are included for comparison.

Haze Wilson, Community Relations Manager, Livonia, reminds you:

"How and When you call Long Distance can make a big difference in savings.."

Be sure you know all the ways you can save on long distance. Most people already save by dialing direct, instead of going through the operator. And, on calls within Michigan, you can save most by calling weekdays after 5 p.m. or on weekends till 5 p.m. Sunday. You save when you dial direct on out-of-state calls, too. Check the front pages of your telephone directory for the best times.

When you want to dial direct, but don't know the number, you can receive long distance directory assistance by dialing 1, plus the area code of the city you want to reach, plus 555-1212. You'll find a listing of some distant city area codes in the front of your directory. If you have any questions, just call your local Michigan Bell business office, also listed in the front of your telephone book. We're ready to help.

C of C clarifies stand on politics, meetings

EDITOR:

Within the realm of "Community Opinions" I must lend myself to clarifying what you left as question or not quite accurate information about the Plymouth Chamber relating to endorsement of candidates and SPECIAL meetings.

First of all, as you asked if any person running for any political office had been denied privilege of leaving his brochures etc., at the Chamber office for distribution, had you asked me that question, I would have said "no", no one had been denied that privilege who has asked for it. However, material which has been left in the office is placed on the counter for people to pick up "if they want to" - as you did.

Secondly, at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors on May 20, Racquetball appeared as Agenda Item No 7A (or the 8th item) for discussion out of a total of 13 items. Not only was Racquetball discussed at our special meeting as you choose to call it but the last five items besides Racquetball were discussed at the so-called special meeting due to a lack of time to finish the agenda at the regular Board meeting May 20.

With this letter, I have attached an agenda to which I address myself.

It was decided to Continue Our Board Meeting on June 2 because a number of the agenda items required lengthy discussion and the nine o'clock hour approached and the board members had commitments such as opening their business so we adjourned.

Yes, I am in error in not coming down and phoning you to ask that you place a notice of the extension of the Board meeting in the next edition of The Crier - and I will make it a policy that I do that knowing I will have your cooperation in notifying our membership which is invited to attend all meetings of the board.

I extend a special invitation to our local papers at this time to attend our board meetings so that you may realize first hand the circumstances which lead to so-called special meetings if you can overlook what you have called the "ungodly hour" of 7:30 a.m. Our board - your Chamber representatives welcome you.

Strays need show of 'humane' kindness

EDITOR:

Concerning the letter in response to shooting strays.

Being an animal lover myself, I wonder if this "brainless wonder" has ever heard of the "Humane Society".

For her information, and for any other moron out there that approves of cruelty to animals, stray animals are taken to such a facility and kept for a period of time, during which the owner can reclaim his or her animal and are warned of city ordinances regarding proper care and keeping it.

Those animals that are not claimed, are disposed of humanely and painlessly.

I certainly hope Mrs. Kistler wasn't trying to show her intelligence and humanity qualities with such a statement as she made, because she only succeeded in showing her immense ignorant feelings toward any living creature, be it man or beast.

Yes!! We animal lovers are down on the Police Department for condoing such procedures as these to go on.

I personally do not want such a police officer protecting my city. I would feel more frightened of him than any criminal or animal. I don't feel that he should have the right to carry a weapon anytime. He is a menace to society merely because he does not have a differentiate ability.

If he could cruelly gun down a poor defenseless animal, what in Gods' name would he do to a human being. A police officer should be able to handle all aspects of his position without the use of a gun. His weapon is to be his "last" resort, not his first!

And yes, Mrs. Kistler, there is a big difference between shooting an animal and one being hit by a car. Dog catchers and dog pounds should be available so that these animals could be picked up to avert just such situations as that. The problem would then be put into its proper perspective.

Do you think that animals don't feel love, sadness, and pain? If you believe that Mrs. Kistler, then you are definitely the most ignorant person I have ever read from or encountered.

I think that you should thank the Lord that you are lucky enough to be a human animal, because if you weren't, you just might have been that victim.
DONNA CHALFONTE

'Why all the investigation, when it's obvious that the voters just don't want it?'

I protest your notion of an 'honest lad'

EDITOR:

I would like to comment on your story, "An Honest Lad", appearing on Page 2 of your June 8th edition.

I am the owner of the wallet that was returned and am thankful that I did recover it. However, I must protest your assumption of honesty on the part of Dale Jenkins, the boy who turned the wallet over to the police.

On the way to the store, where the wallet was lost, I cashed my paycheck and specifically asked for four one hundred dollar bills and about $80 in small bills. When the wallet was returned to me it contained the small bills, but only three of the $100 bills. The police officers I talked to must also remember that my initial claim stated that the wallet contained $500 and not $377 as your article stated.

Dale has received a "fair reward" for his "honest deed" and I am grateful that I did recover my papers, credit cards and I.D., but the thank-yous have been given in the same cold manner in which the reward was taken.

GREG P. CAREY

Editor's note: It should be noted that Mr. Carey's wallet could have been rifled by any number of passersby before it was found by the Plymouth youth who turned it in to the Plymouth Police. According to the youth, he received no financial reward for having turned over $377, with the wallet. City Police praised the youth for his honesty, we might add.

We also wonder why Mr. Carey isn't grateful to have received anything back after such carelessness.

City should study RR problem, not street signs

If the city is never going to grasp the importance of the railroad traffic problem and move to resolve it once and for all, it should at least take minor steps which would help.

Instead of worrying about renaming a street, which for many years has been called officially by the wrong name, (i.e. Union Street nee Bennett Street), why doesn't the commission ask the city administration to investigate banning left turns on Main near the railroad tracks?

Several months ago we suggested banning left turns from Main onto Theodore, Union and Amelia streets and to the private driveways nearby the tracks.

(Another newspaper has now also discussed the problem.)

The cost of this would be small compared to the price of an underpass - yet such a move would eliminate the prolonged congestion caused by left-turners after a train clears.

We have given up hope: (1) that the current city administration believes the train delay problem to be critical and (2) that the city commission has the guts to direct the administration on such policy matters as implementing a grade separation.

But what's so difficult about a left-turn ban?

Controlled growth is Canton's best policy

Editor's note: In order to afford space on the Opinion pages for all our readers, we have been forced to curtail the lengthy back and forth exchange between Ms. Miller and Mr. Shefferly.

EDITOR:

Subject: In answer to Mr. Shefferly's rebuttal of my letter of 5-25-77

What does he mean "Recall has no substance?" There are many people who feel the recall took too long coming and can't sign fast enough.

According to Crier's front page, the Stein recall election is assured (1300 registered voters in Canton feel there is substance). Was Mr. Shefferly also supportive of Richard Nixon remaining in office because "he should finish a term he won by election?" How can he support Mr. Stein for "re-election" when he states "he has never met nor spoke to him" and he is rarely in attendance at township meetings? Mr. Stein never attended these meetings either before his election. He criticizes me because I arrived at the conclusion that he is a Stein supporter from some of his statements, such as, "I will do everything I can to help him (Stein) overcome the recall."

I am not actively working on the Bundarin recall drive for Stein as he infers, although I totally approve of it and am proud of having signed a petition. He also accuses me of being "an apparent Greenstein supporter," yet Greenstein is neither in office, nor does he intend to run for office, as far as I know. I am a supporter of Greenstein's slow-growth philosophies.

You will have to admit that it is confusing that Mr. Shefferly states that he was a Bundarin (controlled-growth) supporter during the November election. Now he takes a position supporting the Stein-Dingledey (rapid pro-growth) faction against a Bundarin-led Stein recall. This is a complete reversal of philosophies.

The Dingledey administration's proposed land use plan called for 205,000 residents in Canton, whereas Mr. Greenstein's plan was for one half that amount (100,000). This latter plan received "landslide approval" from voters and yet Mr. Stein's campaign promise was to "discard Land Use plan" (Crier 10-20-76) and stated "plan be declared null and void" (Obs. 2-28-77).

Actually the popular vote was for the two controlled-growth candidates, Mr. Bundarin 3,014; Mr. Greenstein, 3,360 which totals 6,374; while Mr. Stein only got 3,808.

Canton has been the 'hot spot' for building since 1969. I have been supporting a "controlled-growth" philosophy steadily since 1971. There are too many adverse results from too-rapid uncontrolled growth, such as: schools cannot be built and staffed fast enough; roads cannot be built or widened fast enough for increased traffic lights and signs can't be put up fast enough; inadequate police and fire protection; ecological imbalances (soil erosion); environmental impact (clean air); and psychological affects of packing people in like sardines in a can (explosive growth is mind-boggling).

Community opinions

Taxes have to then be increased so rapidly to supply these afore-mentioned services that people cannot afford to live here. Canton will be left with boarded-up businesses, overbuilt schools and empty houses as has happened in other communities. If growth continues at this pace, none of us, new or old will be able to enjoy the "rural life" as depicted by Mr. Shefferly because Canton will be just another abandoned city.

He suggests that I moved here from northwest Detroit, as he did, and therefore should be very pleased at this explosive development because if permitted me to move away from there. Actually, we moved here from another suburban township to be closer to my husband's work - before the growth started. Our services there were totally adequate; schools were no problem - children were not shipped to different schools each year and they were not overcrowded; also taxes were not raised two and three hundred dollars each year. Even Mr. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton School District stated that "Canton's growth is an immediate problem" Mr. Shefferly says "my letter indicated no love for Dingledey". I gave no personal feelings, one way or the other, only facts, which I documented with sources from the various newspapers and which The Crier chose not to print (possibly due to space limitation).

MARTHA E. MILLER

Skeptical voters defeat issue

Voter disbelief in school information and higher taxes were the primary reasons for the defeat of the April bond issue, according to results from a recent school survey.

The survey was taken after some school board members requested information on why the bond issue failed.

In a telephone survey, the school called 76 people, among them school employees (certified and non-certified), parents and voters with no school connection.

More than half the voters surveyed (39 out of 76) said they did not believe the information the schools had on the bond issue. Twenty-eight people said they believed the information and nine were undecided.

Voters were also asked if there was enough information out about the bond issue. Fifty of the 76 called said yes, 21 said no and five were undecided.

In answer to the school's question about what the most important reason was for the bond issue defeat, 28 said they were unhappy with the higher taxes, 14 said they did not believe there was a need for the bond issue, 10 cited lack of interest and nine said they didn't like the way tax money was spent.

Long-time resident, politician retiring

BY DAWN M. BOEGLER
How many of you long-time Plymouthites remember learning to climb trees in Vallier's field? Or playing ball with second base somewhere between two big old apple trees in Vallier's field out behind the big white house in Plymouth?

"They came for blocks and blocks around," said Arch Vallier, "and my wife, Johanna, and I loved having them."

"I'm grateful that our two daughters were able to grow up here in the small-town atmosphere and attend Plymouth-Canton schools."

Arch Vallier, a long-time Plymouth Township resident, and local politician recently announced his retirement from public office by not running for re-election to the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees.

When asked why he decided against running for re-election, Vallier replied, "We have a home in Florida and a cottage up north and I just don't feel it's fair or possible for me to be on any board when I'm out of town five or six months of the year."

But Vallier has no intentions of moving from the Plymouth-Canton Community.

"I was born and raised in a small Nebraskan town and once I saw Michigan and the great lakes I knew this was where I would always stay. My wife and I have a great affection for Plymouth and have no intentions of leaving it now.

"I've been in politics and public service for over 20 years and it may be difficult for me to get used to being 'retired' but I'll give it a try.

"I plan to work behind the scenes from now on and my first priority of business will be to try and form a Public Safety Authority and bring the City and Township of Plymouth together.

"There's such a great deal of waste when you have two separate but close communities like ours trying to establish their own fire and police stations," Vallier said. "In order to bring the two communities closer in their relationships we must start at ground level - which is the safety authority. Once we learn to live together on this level there will be no end to what we can accomplish.

"I feel very strongly about consolidation between Plymouth Township and the City of Plymouth - not annexation."

When questioned on his views of the possible secession of the out-county area from Wayne County Vallier replied that he was "one-hundred percent in favor" of it as long as 20 years ago.

"I think they (all the communities west of Telegraph Road) should have done it long ago and we used to urge them to stay independent of Detroit and Wayne County. I don't know how or even if we can achieve this - either becoming part of Washtenaw County or forming one of our own - but I'll back the effort all the way."

When asked his opinion of the area's rapid growth and the problems it creates Vallier said, "I think people should become aware of what they're doing when they move into this area at such a rapid pace.

"Not that we don't want to share it - we do - but besides the burden that's put on the existing facilities and services with the influx of people, they are destroying exactly the thing they are trying to find when they move here from the inner city. I fear that if we aren't careful, we'll make this another Detroit."

"I'm also saddened to see that the rapid growth is causing the loss of individualism and warmth that we always seemed to have before. People are becoming very cold and indifferent and it's a shame."

Vallier's political career covers more than 20 years and includes - besides six years as a member of the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees - Wayne County Board of Supervisors (the only elected member of that group) for 10 years; eight years as a City Commissioner and an unsuccessful bid for the State Senate.

What does he feel can be done to end the ever-widening gap between the people and their representatives?

"What I'd like to see is a backward movement to the old town hall system of government where the politicians really listened to the people.

"We can't continue assuming that we know what's best for our people without listening to what they have to say about the way things are or aren't getting done. I don't think we have to agree with them but let's face it - we represent them, work for them - how can we not listen to them?"

The first order of business after Monday's election?

"A trip out west for awhile and then maybe some rest and relaxation on my little Swedish motor-sale boat. Then back to work behind the scenes to get things started for consolidation."

And oh yes, fire buff that he is - "I've chased fire engines and helped out at fires since I was a kid - something I plan to do when I'm retired too."

Created by the Chamber Education Committee, the Bank is designed to provide a list of human resources in the form of speakers, tours and films. "It will be set up as a card catalog file of information through-out the community," said Chamber President Janet Curlee.

Come fall, the Education Committee hopes to launch a lunch or dinner program with Salem and Canton High School's cooking students.

"There is so much information floating around the community, but it isn't in one spot. We want to bring it all together and offer it to the community. We want to put our human resources to work and expose them."

"This fall we would like to have either a dinner or a lunch program catered by the high school culinary arts program," said Ms. Curlee. "We would invite restaurant people and hopefully, this would provide job opportunities for people in the program."

The Resource Bank will also provide a list of educational opportunities for businessmen. "Many business people in the Long johns in June

Summer in May was a nice change this year after a long, cold winter. But I think I would rather go back to the old-fashioned calendar of having spring in May followed by warmer weather in June.

June used to be the ideal month for school picnics, outside graduations, and patio parties. Maybe I shouldn't be too critical since June is only half over and besides - it wasn't all that bad wearing long johns to a picnic.

The Three Cities Art Club, like many area groups moved their annual picnic inside this year. The potluck-picnic was held in the home of the new president, Audrey Paul who lives on Crabtree in Plymouth.

Following dinner, past President, Cuyler McCutchan was presented with a gift thanking him for a job well done. The club officers for next year were introduced.

They are: President, Audrey Paul; Vice President, Betty Manthey; Recording Secretary, Fifi McCutchan; Treasurer, Franklyn York; and Corresponding Secretary, Jean Bologna.

The committee chairmen for next year are: Exhibit co-chairmen, John Davidson and Kathy McClung; Panel co-ordinator, Joyce Frederick; Hospitality chairman, Ellen Kenney; and Publicity, Jean DeWaard.

Three Cities Art Club was started in 1959 and met in the home of Mary Ann Sober, one of the founding members. The club now meets once a month at The Plymouth Community Credit Union on Harvey Street.

Tonya Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Wall of 1007 Roosevelt in Plymouth is a member of the graduating class from St. Vincent Hospital School of Nursing in Toledo, Ohio. Tonya is a '73 graduate of Ladywood High School, and will be working at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The Soroptimist Club of Plymouth held their installation of officers last Wednesday night at a dinner. The new officers are: President, Roberta Orr; 1st Vice President, Lucille McKinney; 2nd Vice President, Mary Routeledge; Treasurer, Marianne Lafevre; Recording Secretary, Francis Komtos; Corresponding Secretary, Vickie Lovewell; and Directors, Millie Blackford, and Ellice Kuleck. Carrie Gladstone did the honors of installing the officers.

Reading teacher retires

Catherine Bowles, Central Middle School Reading Teacher, retired earlier this month.

Mrs. Bowles, who developed the Central Middle School Reading Program, has been teaching in Plymouth for six years.

She taught reading to ninth graders when Central was a junior high school, taught for a year at East Middle School while Central was becoming a middle school - then returned to Central in 1973 as the reading teacher.

"Catherine has developed a fine reading program at Central and she has touched the lives of many youngsters who have been fortunate enough to have her as a teacher," said G. T. Gorguze, Principal at Central Middle School.

Mrs. Bowles is a graduate of State Teachers College, St. Cloud, Minn., and earned an MA from Eastern Michigan University. She taught for three years in Minnesota then moved to Monroe, Mich. for two years, and then returned to Wisconsin to teach.

A reception was held for Mrs. Bowles upon her retirement, and in honor of her, a sign was put on the wall saying, "Russia had Katherine who was Great, Plymouth has Catherine who is the Greatest!"

Mrs. Bowles will continue to be active in local politics, and also plans to spend more time with her family and husband, the former Judge George Bowles.

"We'll miss her talents, but we wish Catherine well and much happiness in the future," said Gorguze.

Alternative schools?

Alternative schools and plans for developing an alternative school program in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be discussed in two meetings this month at the Board of Education office.

The alternative school committee met Tuesday and will meet again June 23 at 7:30 p.m. to explore possible strategies or preliminary implementation of an alternative school program. The public may attend.

The School Board-appointed alternative school committee met for the first time on June 2. At that time they reviewed the literature on alternative schools and a proposal prepared by the staff of the Centennial Educational Park.

The committee members are: Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction; Bill Brown, principal of Salem High School; Dr. Jerry Morris, area coordinator at Centennial Educational Park; Gus Gorguze, principal of Central Middle School; Wayne Sparkman and Tad Bury, high school counselors; Dale Yagiela, of Growthworks; and two parents, Steven Harper and Tom Santer.

Among the decisions to be made in setting up an alternative school are the: Goals, selection process, location, evaluation, budget, curriculum and staffing.

Plans made to purchase site for Lutheran H.S.

By Fall, 1982, there could be a new high school serving the Plymouth-Canton area. At that time, the Huron Valley Lutheran High School should open up the doors of its new facility to about 275 students.

In the meantime, plans are underway to purchase a 25-acre site for the school on Prospect Road, one quarter mile south of Ann Arbor Road near Frain's Lake.

"This site is currently under option to our high school association and we are raising funds to make the purchase complete," said Pastor Karl Peterson, Huron Valley principal.

Once built, Huron Valley will offer a standard high school program. Religion, English, History and Physical Education will be required for all four years.

"It's a meat-and-potatoes curriculum," said Pastor Peterson. "After they have that solid background in the basics they can go to the electives as a dessert."

Tuition fees will depend on family income and whether or not a family is a member of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, the school's sponsor.

"Tuition will be on a sliding scale based on joint-family income," said Pastor Peterson.

"It will run from about $600 a year minimum to about $1,100 maximum, depending on family income. And, there is a reduction for a second or third child, but that is for Wisconsin Synod families only. The non-Wisconsin families will pay $1,100 per pupil regardless of family income."

Wisconsin Synod families get lower tuition, says Pastor Peterson, because they support the school.

"The members of the Wisconsin Synod churches are supporting this school," said Pastor Peterson. "The money from their offerings goes to the school. The non-Wisconsin Synod students tuition pays for both operating and capital costs while the Wisconsin tuition just pays for operating costs."

Non-Lutheran families will be accepted if the space permits.

"On a space-available basis, we will accept non-Lutheran families," said Pastor Peterson. "But, when a non-Wisconsin Synod family applies we will require them to sit in on a pastor information class so they will know what kind of religious instruction their children will be receiving."

When completed, Huron Valley will serve all of southeastern Michigan, but so far there is no plan for transportation.

"Buses are beyond our capabilities," said Pastor Peterson. "Right now, the students car pool it to school. We're looking into van pools. We have a committee working on it now, but what the answer is I don't know."

Presently, Huron Valley holds classes at St. Mary's School, Wayne.

Children's author tells tales at Bird

Martha Bennett Stiles, Ann Arbor author of children's books, shared her books and writing experiences with the children at Bird Elementary school.

Janice Elston, school librarian, invited Mrs. Stiles to visit the school to give students an opportunity to meet an author from Michigan.

The Bird P.T.O. sponsored a full day of student sessions with the writer. From 9:30 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon Mrs. Stiles met in the school library with small groups of children she read from her picture books, such as "Dougal Looks for Birds". Fourth and fifth graders heard about the research behind her historical novels for children. The children asked questions and viewed galleys showing how a book is prepared for publication.

Working in her own home, Mrs. Stiles has been writing professionally for 20 years. She has traveled to various parts of Michigan to talk about writing and often speaks to school groups, where she may read her stories or answer questions about her craft.

Children's books written by Mrs. Stiles include: "One Among the Indians", "The Strange House at Newburyport", "Darkness Over the Land", "Dougal Looks for Birds", and "James the Vine Puller".

Hulsing gets mixed review

In a recent memo from Kathryn Otto, principal of Hulsing Elementary School to school superintendent John Hoben, Ms. Otto said that after eight months use, parents, teachers, and students were pleased with the new school.

Ms. Otto cited the landscaping, the play areas, the wooded site, and the interior and exterior of the buildings as items that were particularly pleasing.

Drawbacks to the new building, said Ms. Otto, included the size of the classrooms, poor acoustics, too few toilets, and entrance and exits to the building.

A recent survey of most of the elementary and middle schools in the Plymouth-Canton district revealed that schools are making an effort to conserve energy.

Lowered thermostats and switching off lights when not in use were the chief energy-saving measures cited by the schools when question by Pat Fitzpatrick, assistant principal at Salem High School.

Field Elementary School was missing from the survey.

Isbister tops in safety

Students at Isbister Elementary School competed with 13,000 other students in Wayne County to win the grand prize in a safety contest sponsored by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department last week.

Isbister's prize-winning entry was titled "Summer Safety Slogans" and was the work of George Przydodski's first-grade; Claudette Arumm's third-grade; Nancy Martinez's third-grade, and Margo Drallo's first, second and third grades.

"It was really fantastic," said Wayne County Sgt. Ron Brown of the students entry, an animated display model with safety slogans.

As a reward for their effort, the students won a $100 grand prize, plus a tour of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department today (Wednesday) followed by lunch and 50 tickets to the Sheriff's Association Circus.

Pupils give STP dry run

Thursday, June 16, will be a regular school day for ninth, 10th and 11th graders in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Buses will pick up students at the usual time for school to start at 7:30 a.m.

Among the instructional activities planned for June 16 are Student-Teacher-Planning (S.T.P.) homeroom periods starting at 7:30 a.m. Roll will be taken for regular attendance records.

Students will have an opportunity to evaluate the S.T.P.

program, which was new this year, during the morning session. Homeroom teachers will also explain the new regulations on modular scheduling for next year.

Up-dated verification forms will be distributed to students on June 16. These forms confirm the class selections made by students and sent to the computer scheduling center. Verification forms are not final schedules, however, since possible conflicts have not been cleared.

DOES ANYBODY KNOW THE NAME AND WHEREABOUTS OF THIS BRIDGE? If you do, then please tell us. The bridge is believed to have been located either on Phoenix Lake, Wilcox Lake, or the Rouge River, but no one we talked to can say for sure. In this shot, a portion of the bridge looks like it's ready to collapse, but whether or not it did - and when - remains something of a mystery.

A wooden structure, the bridge also contains tracks that could have been used either for a railroad or the old Detroit Inter-Urban trolley. (Photo courtesy of the Plymouth Historical Museum).

Ford survey finds that voters favor less spending

U.S. Representative William D. Ford, whose district includes Canton, has announced the results of his annual questionnaire survey of residents in his 15th Congressional District.

A newsletter announcing the tabulations has been mailed to each of the more than 170,000 homes in the District. Ford said the results contained no special surprises.

As in the past years, Congressman Ford asked 15th District residents to list the areas in which they would both reduce and increase the federal budget, and then concluded the questionnaire by asking them to name the single most important problem facing the nation.

An overwhelming 81% responded that they would reduce federal spending for foreign aid, and 65% voted to cut spending for welfare programs.

Favored areas for budget increases were energy research (56%) and fighting crime and drugs (55%).

Nearly half of the responses (44%) listed crime as the nation's most serious problem, followed by energy (40%), drugs (32%) inflation (27%) and unemployment (26%).

Ford noted that he has asked a similar question for the nine years, and that crime has led the list of serious problems for four of those years, and has been in the top three every year. In the past five years, the drug problem has been near the top of the list, usually linked with crime.

"This is not a scientifically designed survey such as the highly publicized national polls," Ford said, "but it is a most valuable tool for me in keeping abreast of my constituents' concerns. It helps me confirm the ideas and views I receive in my travels throughout the district, and in the letters, telegrams and petitions I receive in my office."

Twp. park to get bridges

This August there should be a new sight at the Plymouth Township Recreation Park on Ann Arbor Rd - footbridges. The Plymouth Lions Club is donating two footbridges about 20 feet in length which will span the creek in the park at two different locations.

"We plan to see them finished in early August at the latest," said Lion's Club president-elect John Roose. "We are in the process now of lining up concrete forms. Once we inform Dietrich and Assoc. (Norman L. Kietrich & Associates civil engineers, Ply.) of our plans to move, they will go out and set grade stakes within a few days prior to construction."

Once built, the bridges will be about seven feet wide and will feature turning space for wheelchairs.

School center features Indian crafts, lore

BY SUSAN NICHOLAS

Have you ever admired the colorful beadwork in a Cree Indian mocassin or thrilled to the tales of brave Sioux warriors?

Then the Plymouth-Canton Schools Native American Center may be the place for you.

Nestled in a small room in the Central Middle School, the Center provides culture, classes, and tutoring for about 200 Indian children in the Plymouth-Canton school district as well as interested visitors.

Funded by the federal government under Title IV, the Center is run by a committee of Indian parents with Bob Claerr as director.

"Originally, these programs were run by non-Indians and Indians were always complaining that they had no say," said Claerr. "The parent program is designed to help that."

The center also provides field trips and monthly meetings that are open to the public.

"We are going out to Cranbrook soon to see their Indian collection and last weekend we went on a tepee campout so the children got to spend one night in a tepee," said Claerr.

"We also have meetings here once a month that are designed primarily to meet with parents but we also have meetings that include the rest of the community," said Claerr. "Any body that is interested is welcome to come on over. We also have a newsletter where we cover events that are important to the Indian Community."

The center also serves as a resource for teachers and students. In the future, Claerr would like to see this aspect expanded. "I'd like to see the center used more as a resource library for turning out information for teachers," said Claerr. "We'd like to make learning kits so that if someone wants information on music we can hand them a box with rattles and recordings and they can check it out just like a book."

In terms of tribes, the Plymouth-Canton Indian community has great variety, says Claerr, though most tend to be Cherokee.

"They come from all over. We have Oneida, Blackfoot, Sioux, Cree, Chippewa, Missouri and Mohawk," said Claerr. "Mostly though, we have Cherokee and I think that's because they tended to assimilate more. And, they were farmers, which helped them."

"In 1838, the Indian Removal Act moved them to areas west of the Mississippi but along the way many Indians escaped and hid out in the hills so Cherokees were spread all over the country," Claerr said.

The Native American Center is located in Room 110, at Central Middle School and open Monday through Friday from noon to 5 p.m.

Ford wants postal rate freeze

Concerned over Postal Service plans to increase first-class postage rates and eliminate Saturday mail delivery, Congressman William D. Ford, whose district include Canton, is taking action on both counts.

Ford, ranking member of the Postal Operations Subcommittee, this week introduced legislation to freeze first-class postage rates at the present 13 cents, and tie any future rate changes to the rate of inflation.

"In other words, if the cost of living decreases over a two-year period, first class postage would also be decreased, by a similar percentage amount. The cost of stamps would increase only if the cost of living increased over a two-year period."

Ford explained that the bill, entitled the Citizen's Postal Rate Relief Act of 1977, is designed to protect private citizens from rapidly rising postal rates.

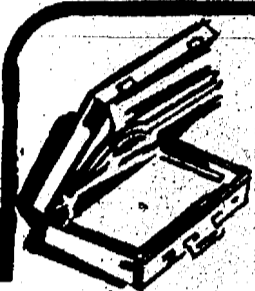

"Over the past six years," he said, "our citizens have experienced a 117-percent increase in mail rates - a rate of increase which has climbed more rapidly than even gasoline prices. This is neither fair nor reasonable," he added.

Our House solves pest problem

"Our House" reopened June 6 with the assurance of professional fumigators that the premises were safe for both staff and clients, said William Henry, Our House Director.

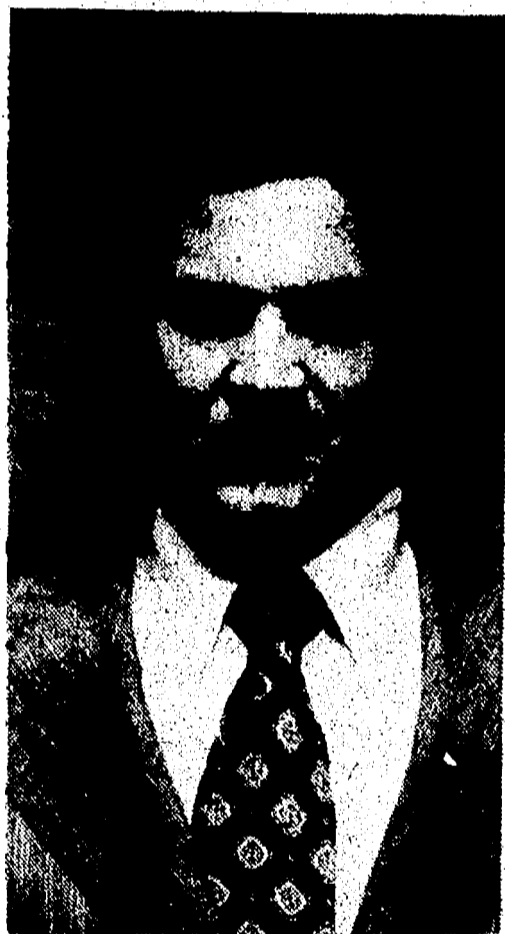

"The crisis which faced us was one of great concern to everyone," said Hendry, "and the support from other agencies and individuals in the Plymouth community gave us a feeling of not facing it alone. We want to thank Rose Exterminators and NJL Maintenance for their prompt and courteous service."

Barker honored

Todd Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Barker of 458 Arthur, Plymouth, has been selected as the first recipient of the Joanne Winkelman Hulce Award sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

An award of $500 will be given annually to a graduating senior who has demonstrated outstanding ability in artistic discipline - visual, performing or literary - and who desires to continue an education in the arts.

The Hulce award was established in 1975 in honor of Joanne Hulce who organized the PCAC and was its director for six years.

During the past four years student Barker has been active in the Dramatic Arts program at Salem High School under the direction of Gloria Logan.

After taking all theatre-related classes he became involved in several independent study courses including a dance/choreography group.

Todd has participated in all the shows produced by Salem, working both on and off stage. Some of his more prominent roles include the mute King Sextimus in "Once Upon A Mattress" in 1976 and Arvide Abernathy of "Guys and Dolls" in 1977.

His latest performance on the Salem stage was as the Jester in the PCAC Follies production "Jest Foolin'" held this past April.

On June 23 Todd will appear in "Portraits of Myself" a presentation of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. The production will feature an expanded look at Walt Whitman's "Song of Myself" through poetry, song, drama and movement.

Todd will be attending Eastern Michigan University this fall where he was awarded a scholarship in Dramatic Arts.

"Because I love all aspects of the theatre I have not yet decided which area to follow," Todd commented. "But I will always be devoted to the theatre."

Salem alumni earn honors

Dennis Cockrum, Richard Kelley and Sue DeWalt, former graduates of Salem High School were part of an Eastern Michigan University Forensics team that won its second consecutive national championship recently.

Cockrum, a junior studying dramatic arts and English Literature, finished in the top 12 in the nation after giving speeches in Prose and Poetry in the Dramatic Duo and Information Speaking events. He is the son of Denver and Dorothy Cockrum of 8348 N. Territorial Rd.

Kelley, the son of Ralph and Elizabeth Kelley of 333 Arthur placed in the top 24 in Rhetorical Criticism and After Dinner speaking and placed sixth in the nation in Extemporaneous Speaking.

Sue DeWalt, a junior majoring in speech and dramatic arts and the daughter of Walter and Patricia DeWalt, 8309 Doe Lane, finished in the top 24 in the nation in the Dramatic Duo Category.

Geake named to Senate committee

State Senator Bob Geake has been named to the Senate Education Committee, it was announced recently.

Geake, an educational psychologist by profession, was a member of the House Education Committee prior to his election to the Senate in March, 1977.

"I am particularly interested in working on legislation designed to reduce or eliminate teacher strikes, to protect school systems with declining enrollments, and to strengthen vocational education programs in our state," he explained. Geake also stressed commitment to maintaining local control over education in Michigan.

Clothes provided

During the school year of 1976-77, the Plymouth Community School District Clothing Bank provided clothing for 172 children and 29 adults, according to a report issued by Marie Hopper and Flossie Tonda, co-chairmen of the Clothing Bank.

A total of 2,623 articles of clothing were provided.

The cash balance of the Clothing Bank is $273.04 as of June 1.

As a member of the Senate Education Committee, Geake will be responsible for reviewing legislation relating to both K-12 and higher education. The Senate abolished the Senate Colleges and Universities Committee last week and transferred higher education legislation to the expanded seven-member Senate Education Committee.

Spare rooms needed

Do you happen to have a spare room you could allow a student teacher to use during her assignment in the Plymouth-Canton School District?

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce has had a number of requests for housing for Student Teachers and asks that you contact the chamber at 453-1540 if you or someone you may know would be willing to house a young person for a short period of time (the usual length of stay is one school semester.)

Unemployment figures released

As of March of this year, the unemployment rate for the City of Plymouth was 6.9% with 425 people unemployed, according to a report from the Research and Information Department of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

In Plymouth Township, 550 people were unemployed for a rate of 6.2%. Canton has the lowest rate, at 5.5% with 300 unemployed for the month of April, according to a spokesman for the MESCC.

Moorehead places 11th

BY CHAS. CHILD

Canton junior Jill Moorehead made a strong bid to travel to the AAU gymnastic finals Saturday but fell short, finishing sixth in vaulting and 11th all-around.

Only the girls who finished first in the AAU region six meet at Canton High School get to go to Lincoln, Neb., for the finals.

Moorehead took second in the Michigan State meet in March to qualify for Saturday's meet.

Girls in two age brackets, 12-14 and 15-18 from West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan competed Saturday.

Volleyball Clinic set

A volleyball clinic has been added to the Plymouth Recreation Department's summer program.

The clinic will be held at Canton High School's boys balcony, June 20 - July 8.

Beginners (middle school, no experience in power volleyball) will play from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and intermediates and advanced (high school with experience) will play from 10:30 to noon.

Both boys and girls are welcome. A fee of $2 must be dropped off before June 17 at the Continuing Education Office, room 117, Canton High School, open 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Canton High School volleyball staff will be the instructors.

Hang-gliding The search for the perfect (air)wave

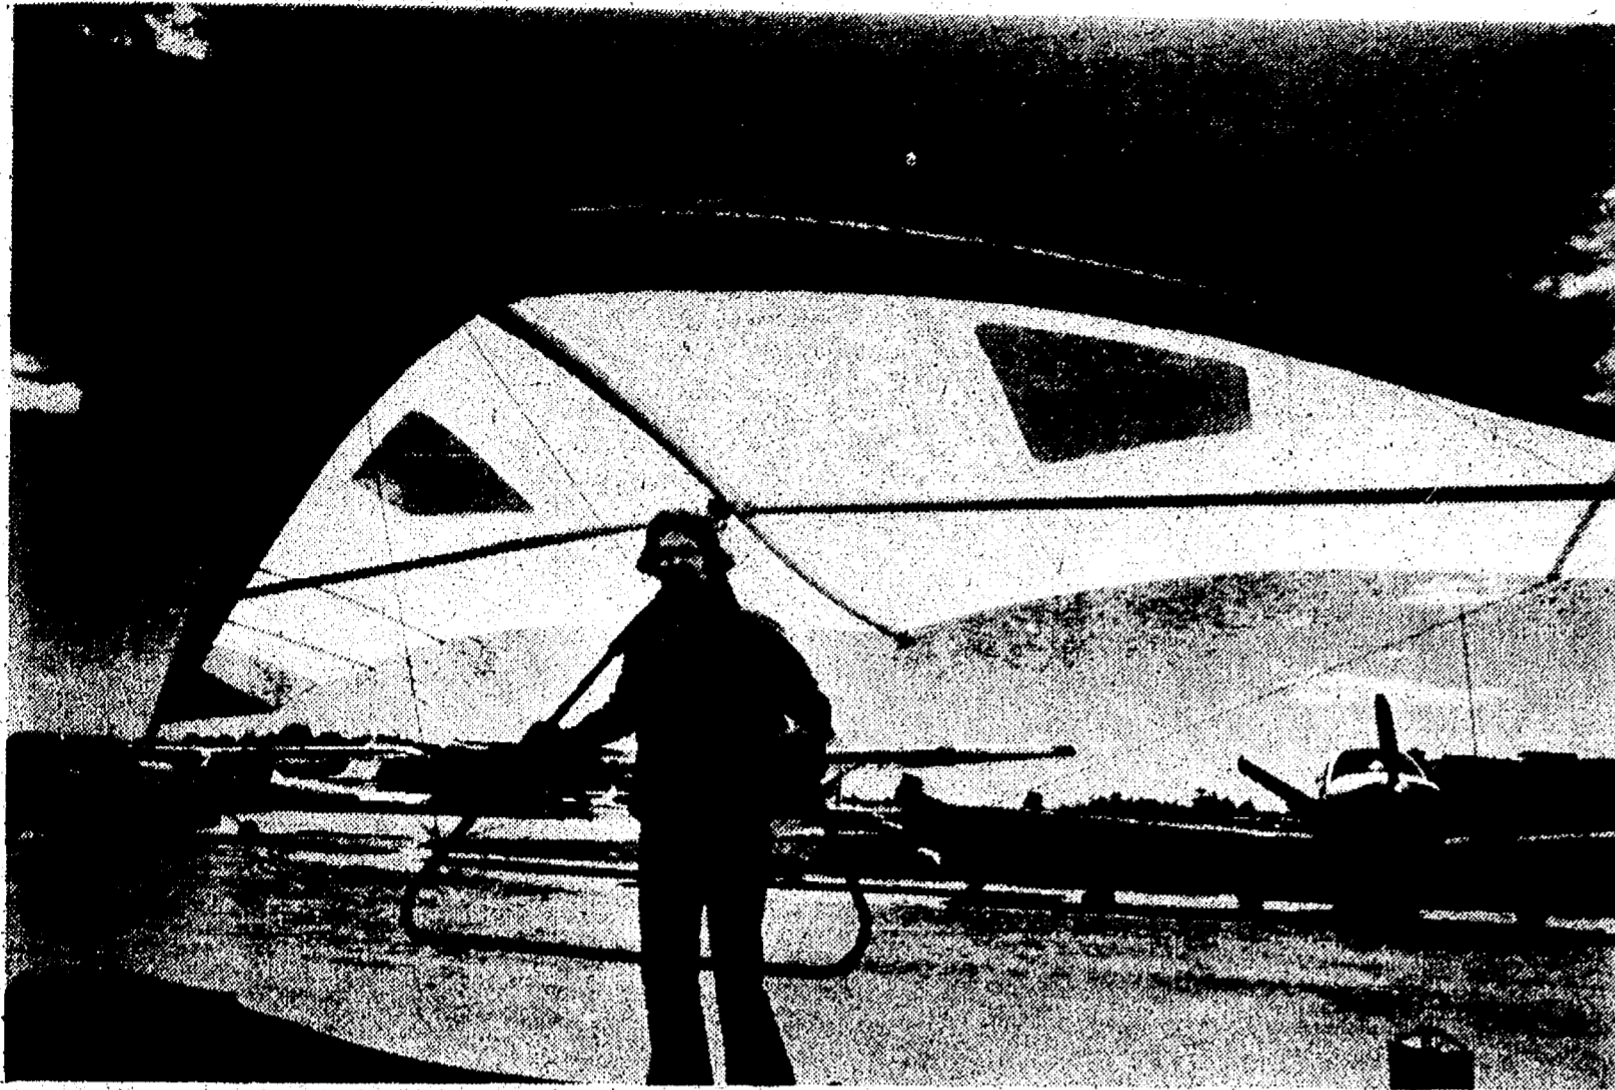

BY SUSAN NICHOLAS
Are you a frustrated Superman? Do you long to be Icarus and successfully fly?

Help is on the way in Plymouth and Canton in the form of a new sport: hang gliding. The sport is taught and ser-vised by a new business, Eco-Flight Systems, Inc., on Lilley Rd. in Mettatal Airport. Using 30 to 35 foot glider, a harness, and a helmet, hang gliders can now take a running jump off a cliff, get caught in the air currents, and soar.

Better building materials have helped to make hang-gliding a safer sport, however, said Nelson.

The present soaring record for Michigan is five hours near Frankfurt, but hang gliders have been known to soar for seven hours in Tennessee and up to 20 hours in Hawaii.

"It's the closest thing to flying like a bird that there is," said Jim Nelson, co-owner of Eco-Flight. "It's also the cheapest way to fly."

Once in the air, the pilot controls the direction of the glider by body movements.

"The same principles that apply to an airplane, apply to hang-gliding, only you control it by shifting your weight," said Nelson.

But the most obvious question is, "What about the dangers in hang-gliding?"

"What's dangerous about hang-gliding is pilot error," said Nelson. "The most dangerous person is the intermediate pilot."

"After a person is on their own, they think they're hot dogs and they exceed their limits," added co-owner Joe Siefker.

"It's really turned out to be a safe sport in the last five years," said Nelson. "It used to be guys up there in their bamboo bombers, planes with bamboo and sailcloth. Now, they're made with aircraft quality materials and people know more about hang-gliding."

Persons interested in pursuing hang-gliding can take a course offered by Eco-Flight, which includes a two-hour ground school followed by a day-long trip to the Warren Dunes near Benton Harbor.

"Once you get rid of that first initial nervousness it's all right," said Siefker, "But that first run is really something."

"Then comes the equipment. A person can spend about $600 for a used glider, harness, and helmet, but a new glider alone costs $900."

Still, hang-gliding is not for the average timid person.

"It appeals to a certain kind of person," said Nelson. "It's definitely not for everyone."

Collins cops all-State spot

BY CHAS. CHILD

Canton shortstop Scott Collins, who set a school record this year by batting .472, was named to the all-State squad.

His coach, Fred Crissey, said it was very unusual for a junior to receive the honor.

"Professional scouts have contacted me about Scott, and I have it from good sources that he'll be drafted next year."

Collins' statistics include: 90 at bats with 42 hits, 31 runs, 14 RBIs, six doubles, two triples and two home runs, and eight stolen bases.

"He also has an excellent arm," Crissey said. Collins was the lead-off hitter on the Chief team that went 23-3.

Two other Chiefs, pitcher Mark Perkins and Steve Morman who played first base and also pitched, were named to all-Metro teams.

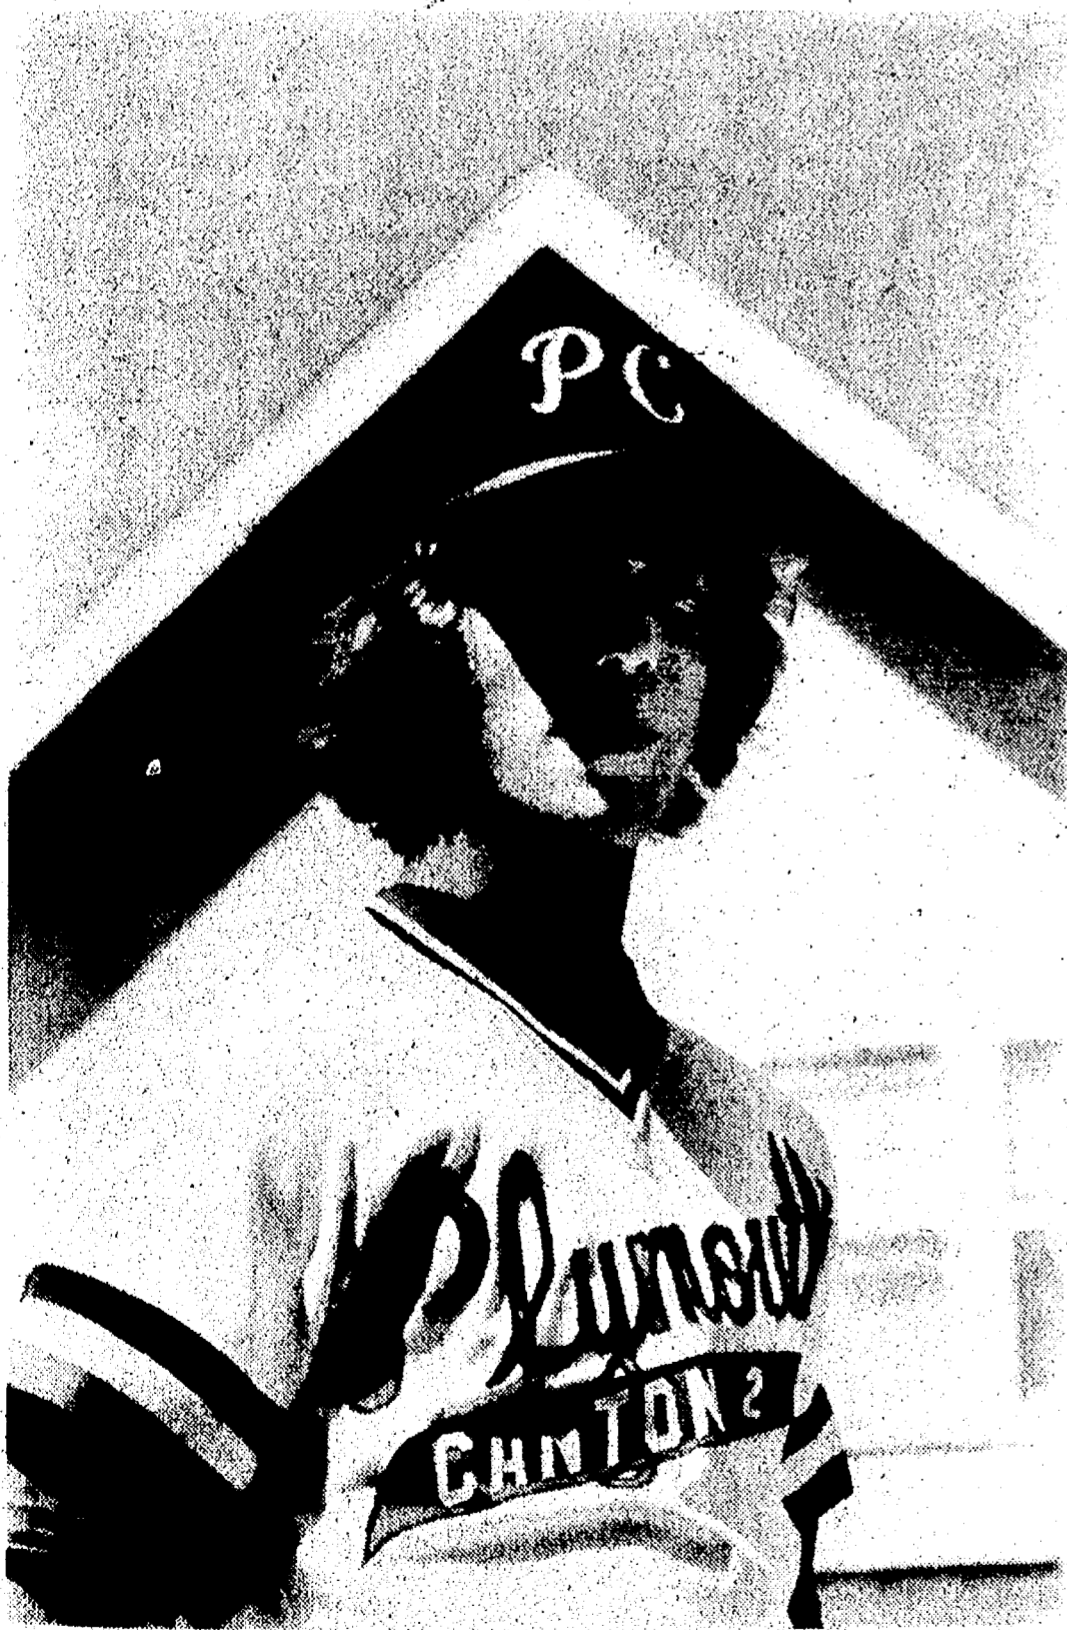

"Morman had a very good chance to make all-State but he was injured and missed some crucial at-bats," Crissey said.

Central takes mid-school title

Central took first place this year in the middle school baseball standings with a 6-3 record. The other three schools, West, East and Pioneer wound up in a tie for second with 4-5 marks.

West beat East in the final day of the season, 4-3, to create the logjam.

"This was the best bunch of kids we've had throughout the program in any year," said Bob Horwood, coach of the Central squad. "They'll be heard from at the high school level."

Shortstop Scott Collins

CANTON JUNIOR SCOTT COLLINS was named to the all-State baseball team last week. The heavyhitting shortstop (.472) led the Chiefs to a 23-3 season, including a victory over cross-CEP rival Salem. "He's also got an excellent arm," Canton coach Fred Crissey said. (Crier photo by Brian Watkins.)

Elem phys. ed. review

BY DONNA LOMAS

Preliminary meetings are scheduled to evaluate the existing elementary physical education program, according to John Sandmann, Athletic Director for the Plymouth-Canton Schools.

"We will look into it, evaluate it, and in some way investigate the possibility of increasing physical education activity at the elementary level," Sandmann told The Crier.

"We'll discuss the 1974 Curriculum Coordinating Committee, which recommended the increase and go from there," he said.

In a report to Supt. John Hoben in April, Sandmann noted that elementary building administrators did not support the CCC recommendation of increasing elementary staff "to the point of having one Physical Education instructor per building." However, he said, they did not disagree to increasing the amount of physical activity.

The April report recommended that additional time for elementary Physical Ed be started. The report also recommended some additional staff, better use and organization of the Unified Arts Program. (Arts, Science and Physical Education each once a week for 45-minute periods), use after school activities, or a combination of all.

The report also strongly recommended that first priority be given to the elementary level as far as addition of Physical Education staff.

In Special Olympics Plymouthites excell

Twenty-four residents from Plymouth Center for Human Development participated in the recent Fifth Annual Summer Special Olympic Games, held on the campus of Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant.

Those residents returned with 23 first place, 18 second place, and four third place medals. Five of those residents succeeded in winning two first place medals in two different events.

Two Plymouth Center wheelchair teams won a first and second place respectively in the wheelchair relay event. Seven members of those teams each won a first place in their divisions of the 25-yard wheelchair race.

The Special Olympics seeks to provide the mentally retarded with positive experiences through physical activities. Through such experiences they are able to gain confidence and an improved self-image which helps them in the classroom, home and community.

The Michigan Special Olympics began in 1969 at Kalamazoo College. This year more than 20,000 mentally retarded Michigan residents participated in local, area and state competition.

Dilcie Green, Assistant Director of Activity Therapy at Plymouth Center, is the Wayne County Area Special Olympics Director. In addition, she serves on the Board of Directors of Michigan Special Olympics, Inc.

Many Plymouth Center residents also participated in the local Special Olympics which was sponsored, in part, by the Plymouth Civitans.
