Hospital rezoning decision expected

The fate of a $30 million hospital, nursing home and medical office complex proposed for Canton Center Road south of Ford may be determined at a meeting Monday of the Canton Planning Commission.

The commission is scheduled to hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. on the proposed rezoning of a 10-acre parcel adjacent to Thrifty Acres from residential to C-2 commercial. The request has already been denied once by the planning commission, but developer Mel Stein and some township officials blame that setback on an inadequate presentation.

Stein, who represents the Great American Building Corp. of Farmington Hills, has proposed a 200-bed general hospital which would also serve as a teaching center for students of osteopathic medicine. Also called for in the proposal are a 200-bed nursing home - Stein is a licensed nursing home administrator and has developed several in the Detroit area - and three connected professional buildings. Upwards of 1,200 persons would be employed in the complex, he said.

The hospital would be four stories high, the nursing home three stories.

Should the planning commission agree to the rezoning this time around, Stein would still require a certificate of need from the state Department of Health before building a hospital.

That certificate is granted only when the state has determined the need for additional hospital beds in the area.

Stein said the facility would be a private, tax-paying institution. He said tentative commitments have already been received from a doctors' group in Dearborn which would lease the professional offices proposed here.

The developer told reporters earlier this fall that he once owned a hospital in another state, but he refused to identify it or discuss his experiences with it.

The rezoning question had been expected to come before the commissioner in a public hearing last month, but was tabled after The Crier omitted the second legal notice of the planned hearing.

Apartments, shopping complex planned

BY HANK MEIJER

The Plymouth Township Planning Commission is expected tonight (Wednesday) to set a public hearing date on the rezoning of part of a 15-acre site on Northville Road for a proposed shopping center, restaurant and apartment complex.

Six apartment buildings with 204 units are proposed for the rear portion of the site, across from the Plymouth Hilton Inn between Clemons Drive and Hamill, which is already zoned to accommodate multiple units.

Commercial C-1 zoning is being sought for the remaining acreage along Northville Road, currently zoned residential.

"This is the only place of this type between here (Plymouth) and Northville," said Bob Allison of J. L. Hudson Real Estate, which is representing developer Art Kobierzynski, who already owns a majority of the property involved and once owned part of the former Hilton Inn when it was the Thunderbird Inn.

Said Allison, "It's going to be a super shopping center and residential area for the north side of town."

Proposed for the site are the branch office of a financial institution, a restaurant and lounge, a 24-hour restaurant, and some 12 shops in a small shopping center, probably including grocery, drug and hardware stores as well as specialty retail operations.

If the rezoning is approved later this year, the multi-million dollar project should be completed in one and a half to two years.

Allison said the complex would feature a unified design "that will enhance the whole area." Called for in the plans is parking for some 755 cars. Allison noted that because trees cover a portion of the property, the developer would "keep" as much of the treed look as possible.

City calendar errs, election day is Nov. 8

An error in the printing of the City of Plymouth's 1977 calendar and annual report has caused some confusion regarding the date of the upcoming city commission election.

The election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 8, not Tuesday Nov. 1, as printed in the calendar and earlier noted by this newspaper.

Elections are to be held the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November -- not simply on the first Tuesday.

According to City Clerk Paul Brumfield, little more than 27 per cent of the city's registered voters turned out for the last city general election held in November, 1975. That election was preceded by a primary in which only 14 per cent of those registered turned out.

With a turnout of better than 19 per cent in this year's primary race, however, Brumfield anticipates a larger turnout Nov. 8 than was recorded in 1975.

Canton OKs biggest budget

The Canton Board of Trustees unanimously passed the 1978 township budget last Tuesday night.

Trustee Bob Myers was absent.

The budget is a 9.2 per cent increase over last year's $2.2 million budget, totaling $2.4 million. The biggest expenditures will be in employe pay raises and new hirings.

A rise in property assessments in Canton plus a jump in the State Equalized Valuation on property account for the increase in property revenues.

Capitals outlays will increase from $298,885 to $446,554 accounting for the biggest expenditure item in the budget.

Included in the budget is some $115,200 earmarked for the start-up of a Community Development department. Canton Deputy treasurer Mike Gorman told the board that the position of a grant coordinator at $16,000 was included in the department expenditures.

"He will more than pay their wages by the federal grants they can get for us," said Gorman.

"What if no grants are given to us," said Trustee Eugene Daley. "What do we do with him then?"

Clerk John Flodin said the position would be eliminated. "I can't imagine keeping anyone on if there is no work," he said.

Gorman said the grant person would generate an estimated $25,500 in revenues (grants) for the township.

A superintendent of recreation position was created in the full time new budget at $18,000 per year. A bookkeeper and a recreation maintenance person were hired.

The Canton police department will be funded next year by a two-mill levy the board recently approved. This year's $113,000 police budget was released into the general fund.

Purse thief has his nerve

A youth brazenly entered an apartment on Penniman Avenue last week -- while the person who lived there was watching television -- and took her purse from right in front of her, Plymouth Police report.

Nellie Craedock of 620 Penniman Ave was sitting in her apartment watching television at 6:30 p.m. last Wednesday evening when a 16 year old youth walked in. He walked over to a table and said, "This is what I want," grabbed her purse and fled, police said.

Mrs. Craedock's front door was unlocked, police reported. Police said $22 was in her purse.

The suspect is described as a slim man, between 16 and 20 years old with shoulder length hair. He was wearing a tan or brown felt fedora hat with a straight brim, a scarf around his eyes and a dark shirt.

Wing St. blaze blackens flat

PLYMOUTH CITY FIREMAN CLEAN UP after a fire last Wednesday morning in an apartment on Wing Street. City Fire Chief George Schoenneman said they had not yet determined the cause of the blaze. After the fire was out, a Plymouth police officer went into the apartment to check conditions with firemen and saw three large plants in a round wooden tub. The plants were identified as marijuana and confiscated. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler).

Twp. seeks home loans

Plymouth Township residents may soon be able to apply for low-interest loans for home maintenance and repairs under a federal grant -- if any qualify.

Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert told members of the township board at their meeting last Tuesday that he has submitted a request for a $30,000 grant to the Wayne County Office of Program Development of the federal block grant program.

The program would provide qualifying low and moderate income residents with loans with as low as income residents with loans with as low as three per cent interest to fix up their homes.

Sergeants need experience

BY DONNA LOMAS

"With all due respect to the present Canton police force, I don't believe there is sergeant material there now. I hate to hurt their (the reserves) feelings, but the experience isn't there."

So said Canton Police Chief Walter MacGregor to the board of trustees last week while outlining sergeant qualifications for the Canton police force Tuesday night.

"It's my responsibility to provide and give you the expertise in the police department," MacGregor said. "Canton needs the most experienced police officers. If we don't build a proper foundation, it won't be any good to you (Canton) later."

The trustees disputed a residency requirement for the four sergeant positions. Treasurer Anne Bradley said it was unfair to expect police officers to live in the township when no other Canton employe was required to.

The board voted 4-2 for permanent residency within six months after permanent employment was set with the township following a one-year probationary employment period. Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley voted no.

The board unanimously voted on sergeant's qualifications, including no age criteria, eight years of experience, certification by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council (MLEOTC) and the passing of all tests in progressive order.

In progressive order means that a sergeant candidate must pass each test before he or she can progress to another.

The written exam, which will count for 60 per cent of a candidate's score, will be administered by the Michigan Municipal League. The oral exam, which counts for 40 per cent of the total test, will also be administered by the MML.

Physical and psychological testing will be done by a doctor and psychologist appointed by the township.

The board also decided to hire sergeants on the recommendation of the chief of police.

Members of the Canton Police Officers Association (CPOA) asked for the opportunity to apply for the four sergeant's positions that are being planned, saying they had passed all the tests and had experience.

"I was quite frank with the sergeants (in the reserves)," said MacGregor. "I told them I didn't think they were capable of being sergeants, but I invited them to apply."

"It's the street where you learn to be a sergeant," said MacGregor.

Stein pushes choppers

Canton Supervisor Harold Stein took his case to Flint Saturday to convince his critics of the wisdom of buying Army surplus helicopters for the township's fledgling police department - and perhaps for an area-wide cooperative chopper patrol.

A group of township board members, employes and residents; representatives of Sumpster and Van Buren townships and the City of Belleville and members of the press joined Stein for an early-morning drive in a pair of township vans to Bishop Airport in Flint, where Flint Police and the Genesee County Sheriff operate a helicopter patrol similar to the one Stein envisions here.

Stein wants to buy three army surplus whirlybirds for $500 each. The township is currently on a Pentagon waiting list to qualify for the purchase.

Flint, which started its program seven years ago under a lease agreement with Hi-Lift helicopters at Mettetal Airport, now has three choppers of its own, one of which is on patrol now. Stein wants Canton, preferably in cooperation with surrounding communities, also to buy three.

A Flint pilot trained by Hi-Lift was enthusiastic about the program there, as well as the virtues of helicopters as a crime deterrent. Helicopter patrols are now in service in Detroit, Warren, Lansing and Saginaw and Oakland, Genesee and Wayne counties, he said. (Budget cutbacks may soon eliminate the Wayne patrol, which has served Canton).

"The preventive aspect (of fighting crime) is our primary mission," said Officer Dallas Zink, the Flint pilot. He said a few residents complained at first about the noise of the helicopters, but have since proven cooperative with its crime-fighting efforts. The Flint chopper also makes some two dozen Santa "drops" per year, he said.

Helicopters can fly with far less visibility than fixed-wing aircraft require, and as a result, Zink said, are rarely grounded.

Road panel to appear

The Wayne County Road Commission will hold a public hearing on local road conditions Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 7 p.m. in the UAW Local 735 Hall, 48055 Michigan Ave in Canton.

Anticipated by one road commissioner as a "blood-letting session," the hearing is designed to give residents an opportunity to ask road commissioners about problems and plans regarding county roads in local townships.

"They're going to be there to take some heat," said Canton Supervisor Harold Stein, who helped arrange the hearing. Road commissioners will make a presentation of the functions of their operation first, then respond to residents' questions in a public forum session.

Troublesome Footnote 0 proves tough to define

Foot note 0 was discussed at last Monday's City Commission meeting - and neither City Commissioners nor residents seem to be clearer on the meaning of the controversial ordinance.

Footnote 0 is part of an ordinance in the city that sets no limit on height - and its interpretation as it applies to the proposed nine-story Dartmoor condominium project continues to be controversial and confusing.

The City Commission received from city offices a packet of information that contained all - even the slightest references to Footnote 0.

City Commissioner Jack Moehle diagrammed a sentence before the commission, saying its interpretation was clear: the provision for Footnote 0 doesn't apply to B-3 zoning. (Dartmoor is zoned B-3). He also said the planning commission had interpreted the zoning laws improperly and had acted improperly.

Commissioner Bev McAninch noted that the fire department would have to undergo additional training to cope with high-rise fire problems even if they didn't have to add personnel.

She added that taller buildings also bring higher crime rates.

"You can't argue with it," she said. "It's more people, not more crime. Maybe it won't show until the third one (nine-story building) is built, but once they are started, you can't stop them."

City Police Chief Tim Ford said in his letter to the commission that "this department anticipates no increase in personnel requirements from the development... police experience indicates that in comparison there is less demand for service per family unit in a high rise... than for single resident dwellings."

City hopefuls debate taxes, needs of elderly

The distribution of taxes and the future development of the City of Plymouth were central themes in last Thursday's League of Women Voters candidates' night for the seven hopefuls in the Nov. 8 city commission race.

In response to questions from the audience, incumbent City Commissioner John Moehle said he felt City Manager Fred Yockey may be paid too much, at $38,000 per year, and challenger Clay Fechter said legal questions would have prompted him to vote against site plan approval for the nine-story Dartmoor condominiums planned for downtown Plymouth.

Appearing along with Moehle and Fechter before a small crowd in City Hall were incumbent Commissioner Mary Childs and challengers David Pugh, Penny Wright, Mark Wehmeyer and Jim Houk.

Pugh, a financial analyst, noted that "the current city commission is polarized." Calling for a recognition of the need for a thriving downtown business area as well as quiet residential neighborhoods, he said; "We are a two and half square mile island. We must increase our resources. I don't think industry is going to be the salvation of our tax base. I'm strongly in favor of commercial development to reduce the burden of homeowners."

He criticized commission members for their failure to support business development downtown.

Incumbent Moehle defended his stress of Plymouth's "envied" status as a "unique" community among suburban cities. "My stand has never been to discourage business," he said. "I've been involved in business all my life."

Countered Pugh, "Jack Moehle and others don't discourage business, but they don't encourage it either."

"We happen to be caught up in a tide of growth moving west."

In his opening remarks, Moehle said property taxes on residential property in the city are "higher than they need to be." He cited a 17 per cent increase in residential evaluations in recent years, compared to commercial values which he said stayed the same or even declined. "Residential property owners are hit unfairly," he said.

Fechter, an administrator at Schoolcraft College, joined the other candidates in saying, "Our major challenge is to preserve Plymouth's unique character."

He added, "we must continue to create an atmosphere in which business and industry can both thrive."

Fechter said the city's 1969 master plan should be regarded only as a guideline for development, and "may not reflect the views of citizens." He labeled the recent senior-citizen high-rise proposal "ill-conceived."

In contrast to Moehle's comments about city taxation levels, challenger Penny Wright said, "The City of Plymouth is actually a well-balanced community in terms of tax base. Our commercial tax base is healthy and strong. The commercial SEV in Plymouth is $1,787 per person; this is considerably higher than in Westland or Ann Arbor."

"Our residential tax base is experiencing an upturn as older homes are rehabilitated."

Mrs. Wright, one of the leaders of the fight against the construction of tall buildings in the city through her work first in CORP (Citizens for Open and Responsible Planning) and then through PROG (People for Responsible and Organized Growth), said those groups have played a constructive role in the community. "All the dialogue we've had in the last couple of years is the result of PROGRESS," she said.

Commissioner Mary Childs, a supporter of the senior citizen housing project, as well as the more recent Dartmoor condominium, attacked the efforts of Mrs. Wright's group. "You definitely let this community down," she said. "Your group didn't help senior citizens in this community one bit."

Mrs. Childs cited her own "near-perfect" attendance at city commission meetings and her support of open government. "Few people attend our meetings," she said. "They must be satisfied with city government."

She defended the commission's role in city planning. "The master plan is a really great thing," she said. "I have enough faith in our consultants and planning commissioners. I'm appalled people think things just go through (without proper consideration)."

Challenger Mark Wehmeyer, an auto engineer, joined Moehle in criticism of the cost of operating the city's cultural center. He also called for taller buildings downtown only "where acceptable," noting, if Ralph Lorenz (owner of the Mayflower Hotel) wants to put two stories on top of the Mayflower, I'd be for it and fight anybody against it."

He said the growth of the city can't be stopped, but can be controlled, and urged cooperation with surrounding communities - making him the only candidate to sound that note last Thursday.

He urged commissioners each to call up half a dozen people before commission meetings in an effort to boost attendance.

Challenger Jim Houk, a former mayor, cited his long experience in business and city government as qualifications. He urged greater citizen interest in city affairs, saying, "Citizens are very lax in giving input. Somehow we should reawaken them."

Houk, a staunch supporter of high-rise housing for senior citizens, said last year's proposal was killed by rumor. "People were told it would be filled with colored from Detroit," he said.

He called on commissioners to be more open-minded. "It's important we don't put on a show up here," he said. "We shouldn't make up our minds before we come to the commission meeting."

Goulet replaced

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees last week appointed Fred Davids to replace John Goulet on the township's Board of Zoning Appeals.

Goulet told the board that a change in jobs at the Wayne County Road Commission deprived him of time to serve on the appeals panel. Both Goulet and Davids are members of the township planning commission.

Talks continue

Meetings between Canton officials and the township's firemen are being held about once every two weeks in an effort to come up with a new contract before the present one expires on Dec. 31, 1977.

Both sides agreed that wages are the main issue in the collective bargaining negotiations.

result of a hearing set for Oct. 26.

Charges of selling liquor to minors have been brought against the inn by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, and the Washtenaw and Livingston Sheriff Departments.

The Liquor Control Commission in Lincoln Park may fine the Anchor Inn or suspend or revoke its liquor license, a spokesman for the commission in Lansing said.

All but one of the youths who died were minors and they all had Anchor Inn ink stamps on their hands, police said.

The lone survivor of the crash on July 23, Don Gulau of Canton Township, said they were drinking at the Anchor Inn before the accident.

The victims were: Bradley Wilson, 16; Douglas McGregor, 17; William Cook, 17; Brian Stout, 17; and Stephen Radgens, 19. A former Salem High School student, Alan Corey, 17, was also killed.

Schools receive aid

Plymouth Canton Community Schools have received $1,398,160 in state and federal aid payments for the months of October and November.

The schools have received $37,702 for Title I funds to aid educationally deprived children, and under the Vocational Educational Act of 1963, the schools received $5,197.

Stein opens Canton library fund

BY DONNA LOMAS

When it looks as if no one else will do the job, do it yourself. That's how you get things done, says Canton Supervisor Harold Stein.

He proved it last week by opening a bank account with his own $10 for Canton's potential library fund.

"I just want to get it started," he said. "If we want a library, let's get on with it, that's all."

The new Canton township administration hall, slated for opening in May next year, has potential library capacity. So no further building expenditures would be involved for the library, said Stein.

Canton currently shares library services with the Dunning Hough library with the township and city residents of Plymouth. That cost of sharing has peaked this year at $50,750, from $10,327 in 1973.

A Canton library feasibility study reports that a library in Canton could be developed by gradually phasing-out Canton library monies to Plymouth, in such a way to "minimize the economic disruption and potential alteration in service levels" to Plymouth. By 1981, Canton would be supporting Dunning Hough Library with $28,150.

The first-year operation of the Canton library would cost $76,666, with a population of 30,000 people and a book stock of 22,500.

Having a resident library would increase costs do for Canton residents, the report shows, yet it is comparable to other communities that have their own libraries, says Canton Deputy Treasurer Mike Gorman.

Canton hopes that public participation in a "Friends of Libraries" program will help, as well as potential grant support, a possible tax levy of one-half mill to cover operational expenditures and the continuing reduction of participating on the Dunning Hough library.

"It's up to the people in Canton to decide now if they want it," said Stein. "We should get this thing rolling."

Cops watch hunters

The Canton Police Department, according to Canton Supervisor Harold Stein, will be watching all vacant land in Canton Township during hunting season. Those persons who do not have permission to hunt on other people's land will be prosecuted to the fullest extent, said Stein.

The new state law says hunters must have written permission to hunt on privately owned land.

The Canton Police Department will be working extra hours during the daytime to protect Canton residents, Stein added.

Local history groups should merge

It's hard to put boundaries on local history.

Pioneers in Canton and Plymouth used the same farm implements, sent their sons to fight in the same wars, and had grandsons and daughters who grew up to work in the same industries and attend the same schools.

This shared past makes more difficult the task of the two local groups devoted to preserving our history, the Plymouth Historical Society and the Canton Historical Society.

Perhaps they should pool their efforts.

They don't have much in common -- except the bond of a shared history. But that's certainly all they need.

Plymouth's group is well-established. So well-established, in fact, that it operates one of the region's better small museums, opened last year with mostly volunteer labor. The society's roster hovers around 350 members -- and most of those are willing to devote time and energy as well as money to make their museum succeed.

Canton's historical society is still in its infancy. The group numbers only 28 active members and meets but four times a year. This despite the township's population of more than 30,000 people, or nearly as many as the city and township of Plymouth combined.

Right now, both bodies face unusual dilemmas.

Canton's dilemma is an opportunity it's not sure what to do with. The Plymouth-Canton School Board last month agreed to deed over to Canton Township the old Canton Center School, on Canton Center Road at Proctor. The building must be used as a museum, however, the board stipulated, or it will take it back.

The school board's generosity makes the prospects of the Canton Historical Society something similar groups in many communities would envy. But with only 28 members and no experience with any facet of museum operation -- and few clues as to how you get the state or federal or even local funds needed to get such a project off the ground, the blessing is a dilemma in disguise.

In contrast, Plymouth's problem is money, pure and simple. Expenses -- largely in the form of rising utility costs -- will outstrip museum revenues this year by close to $10,000, forcing the museum's parent organization, the historical society, to dip into its $70,000 endowment to pay the bills.

A continuing deficit is forecast for the future. If the endowment must be tapped at the current rate in the next few years, projections indicate that the museum would be out of money within nine years. Might it actually close its doors? It's hard to believe such a fate would befall this facility so soon after its opening, but it could happen if no new sources of revenue are found.

Generous contributions from local service groups -- notably the Plymouth Rotary and Kiwanis -- are expected to ease the deficit somewhat in the coming year, but without another source of several thousand dollars annually, that's not enough.

Historical society officials are studying federal grant opportunities with hopes of picking up revenue sharing funds or other grants, but more long-term funding is now being sought from local governmental units.

Historical Society President Richard Gornick has asked the City of Plymouth and the townships of Plymouth and Canton to consider allocating money on a per capita basis to support the museum. Under such a plan, the governments might vote 10 cents per resident in museum support -- or about $3,000 from Canton, $2,000 from Plymouth Township, and a little more than $1,000 from the city.

But Canton has its own historical society, and now its own building for a museum. With that in mind, its trustees may be reluctant to support what appears largely a Plymouth project at the expense of giving a boost to plans in Canton.

At the same time, however, $3,000 from the Canton Board is not going to be nearly enough for Canton's 28 historical society members to get a museum off the ground. That takes museum experience and manpower -- two ingredients the Plymouth museum enjoys in considerable quantity.

The little Canton museum could not justify the hiring of a curator. Plymouth's barely can, and then at a modest salary. But banded together, they might build a good staff. Plymouth, in turn, needs the kind of across-the-board financial support the population base of Canton can provide.

The Plymouth museum is currently operated by a museum board whose budget is approved by the historical society. Plans have been made to merge the two bodies.

Now may be the time to form one museum board charged with operating community-wide, with Plymouth's modern museum building providing the space to store the reminders of the past that belongs to Plymouth residents and Cantonites alike, and Canton's unusual historic school building offering a setting for special exhibits.

That museum would be Canton's own -- township residents deserve its recognition that way. But the resources of the entire community would be pooled to give us a special combination of historical attractions, rather than two smaller, duplicated efforts, both of which will have a harder time preserving themselves than preserving the past they share.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: October 19, 1977

Dad, Crier miss boat

EDITOR:

To the father of the little guy (if indeed there is such a person).

The point of the whole matter regarding the Pioneer vs. Central seventh grade football game is being missed by both The Crier and the gentleman who wrote the letter to the editor.

The PCJAA was assured at a school board meeting May 23, 1977 that Junior High Athletic teams would adopt the Junior Athletic philosophy of every child playing (In football a minimum of four plays a half) and our mercy rule (when a team is eighteen points ahead eight of the starting players must come out).

This information evidently did not reach the coaches. As a result my husband, not Jim Sinclair, called the Pioneer coach aside after the 48-0 game and very quietly told him that he thought it showed poor sportsmanship.

As for this man's child not playing, I have been assured by both the Central coach and my son who plays on the team that every child does indeed play.

There is no reason for not giving your name when you have a legitimate complaint. I always do, but then I don't lack the courage of my convictions.

Blighted area should change

EDITOR:

It appears to be necessary to clarify that my endorsement of the petition in support of the development of Forest and Wing was just that.

Based on the premise that if the caliber of work is equal to the recently erected units at Forest Place, it would seem to be more desirable than the existing blighted buildings.

Emphatically, I do not support an endorsement disputing the integrity of others who wish to examine further the implications of the development on the community as a whole.

THE OLD BRICK schoolhouse at Canton Center and Proctor may be destined to become the Canton Historical Museum, but that goal is still a long way off.

THE FINANCIALLY-TROUBLED Plymouth Historical Museum is a large undertaking for a small community, and might fare better were Cantonites encouraged to play a greater role in the preservation there of a heritage they share. (Crier photos).

ESY class sizes vary too much

EDITOR:

Is the Plymouth-Canton School District providing an equal opportunity for a quality education for all the children in the district? No!

We give this negative response because of the inequalities of class size on the different tracks at our Extended School Year schools. There are inequalities at all grade levels. Can the administration justly say that children have an equal opportunity for a quality educational setting when some classes have ten more children in them than others? This is happening at the same grade level at the same school in the Plymouth-Canton District.

The teachers are giving 100 per cent to their classes whether they have 32 or 22. Is it fair to the teachers with a high number of children in their classes to carry a much heavier load? Is it fair to the child who will receive half the teachers individual time as others?

This gross inequality came about as a direct result of the Extended School Year (ESY). There is an imbalance in the distribution of children assigned to the tracks. If this imbalance had been dealt with in July or August there would be no need for this letter.

If the schools involved were traditional the teacher pupil ratio would be reasonably balanced as in the past. The fact is the schools involved are EST and the inequalities clearly visible.

Can the situation be resolved? Yes, with the addition of another teacher to the high ratio track there would be a reasonable balance among tracks. This would also allow for the expected growth due to the new homes being occupied within the track boundaries.

Presently the administration has said that they prefer to close a track. This would mean that new students moving within a track boundary would be placed in another track. These children would not have neighbor children as classmates. They would be in school when neighbor children are on vacation and when on vacation themselves the other children would be in school.

It is hard for a child to make new friends and feel accepted in a new neighborhood. We must not penalize him or her any more. If a track is closed then another track must assume the anticipated growth of the closed track as well as their own. This is not fair to the children or the teachers of the new track. The new track is in jeopardy of losing a quality educational situation.

We are paying for a quality education. Mr. Hoben, the Superintendent has pledged "the finest quality education possible within available resources to the parents and children of this fine community."

We are not giving an equal opportunity for a quality education to all of our students. This would change with the addition of another teacher.

New acronym for CORP

EDITOR:

I personally would like to thank Commissioner Moehle for objecting to the idea that the City publically acknowledge Ralph Lorenz's contributions to Plymouth.

After all, what has Lorenz ever done for Plymouth? And, how dare anyone say that Moehle hasn't contributed to the City. I can give you a good example of his personal sacrifice.

I've heard he has done his share in keeping the goods and services offered in Plymouth at a reasonable price by spending his money elsewhere. It's a basic law of economics that if you keep demand low, prices will be depressed.

To prove that I am truly grateful I proffer the following gesture of goodwill. Since some misguided soul pirated his favorite acronym, CORP, I offer him FOOL. Everyone knows FOOL means Flapdoodle Organization of Lackeys.

Now CORP and FOOL are both four letter words, so Moehle should be pleased. However, if he's not completely satisfied with FOOL, I am thinking of many other four letter words.

State affirms it

MacGregor's certification OK

BY CHAS CHILD

The certification of Canton's police chief, Walter MacGregor, was affirmed by a state council last Thursday.

The decision by the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council (MLEOTC) ended the controversy which had been hanging over MacGregor since shortly after he was hired in August.

According to township officials, Canton's police chief does not have to be certified to hold the position, but any officer must be certified to make arrests.

"I felt I was certified all along, and I'm glad this is over with," MacGregor said. The police chief had said earlier that he would quit if the MLEOTC had decided he wasn't certified.

The question arose because state law states that a policeman's certification expires two years after he quits working.

MacGregor retired as chief of the City of Wayne's force on July 12, 1975. Five days before his certification was due to expire in 1977, MacGregor joined the auxiliary of Wayne's force.

A spokesman for the MLEOTC took less than five minutes to affirm his certification. He said the vote was 11-0.

The MLEOTC is made up of leading police officers from around the state, the Director of the State police, the Attorney General, and two representatives of police labor unions.

Streetlight meeting set

Canton's streetlight policy will be discussed by the Board of Trustees at their meeting Tuesday.

The board is scheduled to decide where and how many feet apart streetlights will be placed in the township. The policy is part of the township's whole subdivision control ordinance which the board is due to act on at the meeting.

Now, the township has been using Detroit Edison's guideline of 240 feet between each light, Clerk John Flodin said.

Many subdivisions in the township have no streetlights at all, but Flodin said they are "in process" for many areas.

On Canton resident said, "I have trouble finding my street driving home at night because there are no lights."

Streetlights are paid for by the residents themselves by special assessment districts.

The meeting starts at 7 p.m. at Canton's Meeting Hall, 128 Canton Center Rd.

Canton forms clean-up committee

Canton Township has formed a beautification committee designed to rid the area of "blight and litter," according to Canton Supervisor Harold Stein.

"All of us are aware of the blight and litter that directly undermines the image of Canton," he said in a letter to the township trustees. "If we are to overcome this bad situation, business, residents and government alike must join together and make this a united effort."

Stein said the goal of the committee was to organize township representatives and establish goals and objectives to rid the township of litter.

Volunteers for the Canton Beautification Committee can contact the Supervisor's office at 397-1000.

Pursell was cited for his work, in the Science and Technology Committee and on the House floor, to stimulate an intensified national effort in laser fusion energy research, Steers said.

More taxis allowed

Competing taxi cab companies will be allowed to operate in the City of Plymouth beginning Nov. 8, following the unanimous approval of a revised city taxi ordinance by city commissioners last Monday.

Complaints about the quality and service of the lone city taxi company, Star Cab Co. was the reason for changing the ordinance to allow more cabs in, said City Manager Fred Yockey.

At a commission meeting earlier this month Yockey said he feared putting the Star Cab Co. out of business, but that the complaints were so numerous, they recommended letting other cab companies in.

A $100 fee will be charged each cab company that wishes to drive in the city now, up from $25. A $10 charge will be for each additional cab.

Charles Henry, owner of Star Cab Co., located in Northville spoke to the commission, saying he was doing his best with what he had.

"I own and try to operate Star Cab," he said. "Apparently, we're not doing such a hot job. Well, I have to pay more than $6,000 insurance every year for three cabs.

"I have a hard time keeping drivers and my taxi equipment is worn. You people haven't been any help to me," he told the commissioners.

"I'll admit the service hasn't been that good, but it's the high cost and keeping drivers. Why can't you let me raise my taxi rates if you raise the fee to cabs?" Commissioner Tom Turner, sitting in for absent Mayor Joe Bida, said Henry had a "valid point."

"If rates haven't been raised in two years, then it is time to take another look at it," Turner said. He asked City Manager Fred Yockey to look into the possibility of raising the city taxi rates.

"You should have come before the commission with your problem before this," Commissioner Bev McAninch chided Henry.

You can scare the living daylights from yourself twice this week and next -- for good cause.

The Plymouth Jaycees will host a "Haunted Dungeon" from Oct. 22 through Oct. 30 at Port to Port Travel, 188 N. Main Street.

Admission for the scary event is 75 cents. Hours the dungeon will be open will be from 7 to 11 p.m. Park along Union Street and enter through the back door.

Proceeds from the dungeon will go towards various Jaycee projects throughout the year.

The Canton Jaycees will be stirring up spirits in Canton at their Haunted House on Ford Road, next to the Roman Forum Restaurant, beginning this Friday through Oct. 31, Halloween night.

The proceeds from the Canton Jaycee Haunted House will go towards the Jaycee Scholarship Fund.

Cantonite crafts millimeter fantasy

BY CHAS CHILD

Galloping across the plains of Middle Earth, the evil Orc of the White Hand chases Frodo and Bilbo, the heroes of "The Lord of the Rings."

Except Orc's not in Middle Earth, nor even on the pages of J.R.R. Tolkien's novel - he's a tiny model on the shelf of Robert Mills, amateur historian, fantasy buff, and model builder of exacting detail in Canton.

Mills paints figures measured not in inches but in millimeters - models that are accurate to the color of the buttons on a 17th century Light Dragoon's uniform.

"Hours of research goes into each figure," Mills said. "Take the model I painted of Col. Lewis B. Puller, one of the most decorated Marines ever."

"I read his whole biography to do the figure. His men would do things for him that they wouldn't do for other officers. You have to paint this feeling on his face," Mills said.

Mills created this Patton-like blood and guts look so well that judges at a recent model show in Toledo awarded the Puller figure first place.

Unlike some modellers who create entire battles scenes with hundreds of figures, Mills has created a wide range of characters from many eras.

On his display shelves are painted figures of an Indian warrior offering a prayer after slaying an enemy; a Norman knight in full mail armor; and an Italian pilot from World War II playing with his dog, and many more.

"The essence of each figure is accuracy and detail," Mills said. "About 30 to 40 hours of research and work go into each figure."

His research library for all his models totals between 400 to 500 volumes. "And I'm still adding to them," he said.

Accuracy is important on the fantasy figures, but action and emotion are their forte. Mills' "Gargoyle and Captive" captures a nightmare feeling, intensified by the small scale.

"You need to do a fantasy piece now and again for relaxation and to clear your mind. They don't require any research," Mills said.

Mills objects to modelling being thought of as kid stuff. "Adult modellers are not kids trying to recreate their youth," he said. "Modeling is an art. It takes as much love and affection as any other art."

"My wife is an artist and I get most of my criticism from her."

Building models is good for kids, Mills thinks. "When they start to read about the things they're building, they keep reading. They discover it's not such a chore."

"I really hate it when parents discourage their elder children from modelling thinking its only for youngsters. One of our winners at a recent show was a dentist. And I know that surgeons recommend it to their students to improve their skills," Mills said.

Mills, who combines his hobby with his business by owning the Blue Max Hobby store in Canton, said he knows one 17-year-old who is sculpturing foot-high figures of the entire Kiss rock group. "I've only seen one figure, but he's doing a fantastic job. It's art."

A Response to Commissioner Moehle's comments published in
The Crier Oct. 5, 1977
and the comments at the City Commission meeting Oct 3

Mr. Moehle:

As employees of the Mayflower Hotel, we object to your disrespectful comment, not wanting the city to participate in the surprise testimonial held for Mr. Lorenz on September 24th. We think your comments were in poor judgment and poor taste, especially for an elected official.

Many people were eager to step forward and salute Mr. Lorenz as a leader and for his unselfish contributions to the hotel industry, education, and business as well.

A number of people from the City of Plymouth also realized the role Mr. Lorenz has played in promoting downtown Plymouth and wanted to show their appreciation. Mr. Lorenz originally promoted the colonial theme of Plymouth, so that our city would have a long life, as Williamsburg, Boston, Plymouth, Massachusetts, and other New England cities.

He brought and kept many businesses in the downtown, such as Manley, Bennett stock exchange, Plymouth Travel Consultants, State Racing Commission, The Art Gallery, First National Bank of Plymouth, Law Offices, Graham-Culotta Architects, and many others.

We've heard so many times, "Let's keep Plymouth like it is now." Well, how do you think it got to be the way it is? Through people like Mr. Lorenz, who believed in Plymouth.

There were many people who wanted the city to be included among those paying tribute to Mr. Lorenz, thus coming up with the idea of a tree. A tree and plaque to thank Mr. Lorenz and his family for believing in Plymouth. The tree and plaque were donated with private funds and unselfishly given in the name of the City of Plymouth.

What's wrong with this, Mr. Moehle? You should be as proud as we are that Mr. Lorenz was so graciously recognized as he deserved, not in the name of a few select, but in the name of the entire city.

What have you done for the City of Plymouth?

What a small thing to say, "I'm relieved," but maybe you're right, "you should be relieved." But of your duties as city commissioner, and in November we'll do what we can to relieve you at the election.

THIS SPACE IS BEING PAID FOR BY CONCERNED EMPLOYEES OF THE MAYFLOWER HOTEL.

Schools say to check for lice

Plymouth-Canton school nurses are urging parents to check their children for head lice that can frequently appear this time of year, the schools report.

The nurses are sending letters home with students listing instructions for identifying and getting rid of the lice, which live in human hair.

Head lice can be acquired by personal contact and by putting on garments that have been infested, including hats, caps, or scarves, the nurses said. They can be picked up from upholstered furniture or even loose hairs.

Once a child comes to school with head lice, they often spread to many other pupils. The only solution to the problem is treatment by the parents at home the schools said. School nurses will send home instruction sheets with all the children in a school where head lice have been detected.

Lice-killing shampoo can be obtained at the Wayne County Health Department or with a doctor's prescription. Parents must also take additional steps to clean clothing, combs, and bedding.

The school nurses recommend similar treatment for scabies, which is also a common problem. It is caused by a small, almost invisible insect known as the itch mite.

Additional information may be obtained from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools nurses at 455-0470 or Wayne County Department of Health at 274-2800.

Administrative Assistant Sam Ulsaker said the parents at both schools were given the opportunity to switch to another track. "That would have been fine before school started," said Mrs. Stackpoole. "But not now — the kids are settled and they don't want to move. If they switched, they would go to school alone and from different neighborhoods."

"Hindsight is super," said Board President Tom Yack. "Gallimore and Isbister didn't grow as fast as we thought — all we can do now is ensure quality education. Our only options are to move people from track D to A and wait until other tracks fill up."

Elaine Kirchgatter, representing Gallimore parents, said children on track D are being penalized because of where they live.

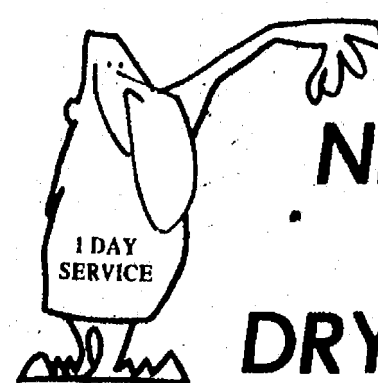

A teacher from Track A at Gallimore told the board to study numbers and dollars.

"The easiest way to maintain equality (in education) is to hire another teacher," she said. "The kids were shifted all last year."

"When will we get another teacher?" Stackpoole asked the board.

"When an average class size reaches 34 or 35 and if monies are available," replied Yack.

The schools report that no additional staff is planned for Isbister of Gallimore.

BY DONNA LOMAS
Saying that their children are not being given the "same opportunity for equal education" as other children in the district, two parents from the Isbister and Gallimore elementary schools voiced their disapproval of class overloading at Gallimore and Isbister.

Janine Stackpoole, representing parents from Isbister in Track D, said that half the classes on Track D had 30 or more children in them.

"If we grow into class size into the 30's, why do we have the extended school year (ESY)?" Mrs. Stackpoole asked. She said tracks A, B and C did not have as many students as Track D.

"If you hire an additional teacher, it will allow for additional growth," she said.

Supt. John Hoben replied that "it is true track D is in excess of 30 at Gallimore and Isbister."

"But my concern," he said, "is that there are no monies to hire additional staff at this time. We have spent all our money on staff for this year."

Hoben suggested that the particular schools "grind it out internally", and then if that didn't work, "unwillingly" go to the fund equity.

"We were told perhaps we could get another teacher," said Mrs. Stackpoole, "but something or someone would be lost in our building. That's not fair either."

Administrative Assistant Sam Ulsaker said the parents at both schools were given the opportunity to switch to another track.

"That would have been fine before school started," said Mrs. Stackpoole. "But not now — the kids are settled and they don't want to move. If they switched, they would go to school alone and from different neighborhoods."

Monday's lunch is a sure thing for most kids next week: with a day off they can spend all afternoon on lunch creating stomach bugglers like tuna fish-banana-mayonnaise-onion sandwiches. Moms will surely want to be around the kitchen before any of that creative 'kookery' takes place.

This crisp fall air calls for a sane bowl of hot soup, huh, Moms? Well, we never liked bananas and onions that much anyway.

I wonder if Hulsing can put anything else besides Burger in front of their name. How about it, cooks?

Surprises are indeed good and hopefully, that's what Thursday's lunch will be for Field.

Harold takes Canton copter critics for ride

"Very seldom is a helicopter kept on the ground," he said. "There aren't 15 days (in a year) when the weather keeps a chopper down."

The choppers can fly as low as they want -- provided their pilots know where the wires are. The only mishap the Flint patrol has recorded was the crash of that first helicopter by an inexperienced new pilot. He escaped uninjured and there have been no mishaps since.

The Flint pilots do all their own maintenance -- except for the most technical work -- to keep the cost of the program low. They place the hourly cost of flying the copter $30 to $40, excluding labor. With the pay of a couple of policemen, flying about 1,000 hours a year between them, the helicopter patrol could be run on an annual budget of less than $100,000, the Flint pilot said. Stein hopes to include Van

Buren and Sumpter townships, the City of Belleville and any other local governments interested in a joint helicopter program, but officials of those communities were uncertain whether their governments would support such a project. Stein stressed that only police recruits already qualified as pilots of fixed wing aircraft would be eligible for helicopter pilot training. Qualified pilots need only take 40 hours of transitional training to be licensed for chopper flying, and Stein says that would cost less than $600 per pilot. A complete overhaul of the $500 machines would cost $6,800, he said, and is required no more than annually. He estimated the cost of insurance at $2,400 per year.

Would Canton pursue the project if no other community chose to join? Stein said yes. "Canton's taking the initiative," he said. "It's not a dog and pony show."

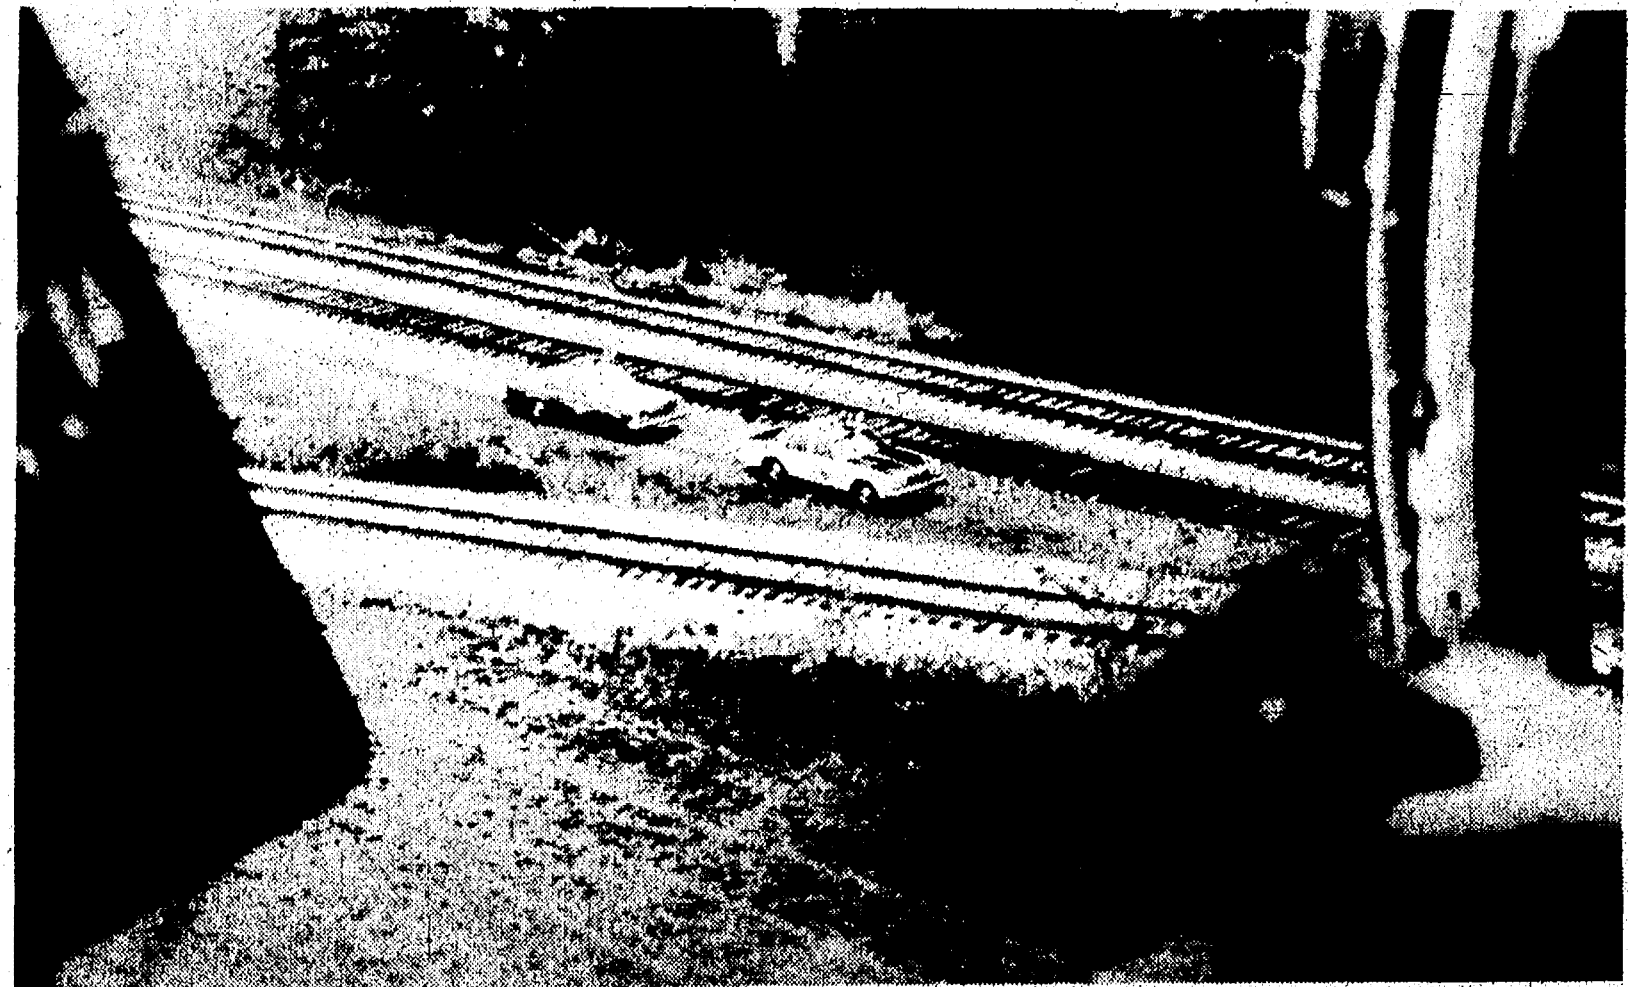

Canton resident Robert Schaeztl, a pilot who has criticized Stein's helicopter proposal, remained unconvinced of the project's value after flying up to Flint to take part in the visit.

He cited limited population -- less than 75,000 people -- in the four townships Stein proposed for the cooperative chopper patrol as insufficient to support the project. All other areas now enjoying such service boast a larger population base.

Stein warned that the opportunity to buy the helicopters from the army for $500 might soon be gone.

Said Schaeztl, still unconvinced, "I give Harold credit for trying. He's a forward-thinking guy."

That 1st ride's a thrill

BY HANK MEIJER

The whirling of the rotor blades shakes you and everything else within the glass bubble of the helicopter. But when you get the padded helmet on, it's really not noisy at all.

Outside, onlookers turn away from the wind and dust, their jackets flapping. The blades pull you slowly upward, with a lift easier than an elevator.

With a pilot from the Flint Police Department at the controls, I took my first helicopter ride Saturday. At 500 feet we followed the expressways and banked northeast over downtown Flint.

Our copter, "Air Three," took a call from the dispatcher just as we passed over an auto plant. On the east side of town someone reported hearing gun shots in a stand of trees.

We turned east at 85 miles per hour, although we seemed to be hovering more than moving. In touch with a Genesee County Sheriff's cruiser on the ground, within minutes Air Three found the woods and descended for a closer look.

"It's better in the winter, when the trees are bare," the pilot said. He was right. We could see the deputy and a state trooper standing on a railroad grade, but the red and gold trees of the woods concealed everything else.

We dropped into a clearing, the wind of the blades blowing leaves in all directions, but found nothing. Whoever fired the shots probably saw us -- they certainly heard us. We couldn't see anything, so we waved at the cops down on the ground and flew on home.

Did we scare the culprits off? The pilot didn't know. You really can't measure the effectiveness of a helicopter, he told me over the radio that connected our headsets. It's mainly a deterrent, he said, you never can tell when a crime has been prevented.

THE VIEW FROM ALOFT in a Flint Police Department helicopter was a highlight of Canton Supervisor Harold Stein's program Saturday to convince skeptics of the need for a helicopter patrol in the township. Above, the helicopter joins in a search of a wooded area after patrol cars reported shots had been fired. (Crier photo by Hank Meijer).

Salem rolls over Edsel Ford, 21-0

BY CHAS CHILD

If Salem's football fans had any doubts lingering after last week's victory over Trenton, there shouldn't be any now.

Salem proved itself one of the top 10, if not five teams in the state by soundly thrashing another pretender to the Suburban Eight crown for the second week in a row.

Rock defensive back Curt Lewis sealed Edsel Ford's fate by intercepting a pass in the third quarter and racing 27 yards down the sidelines for Salem's last touchdown in the 21-0 win.

It was the knockout blow in a game where Salem's defense bent but never broke. Even with the ball on Salem's one yard line, the Thunderbirds fumbled the ball away and lost their only good chance to crack the Rock defense.

The victory leaves Salem alone atop the Suburban Eight standings with a 5-0 record and 6-0 overall. Edsel's record is now 3-2 in the conference and 3-3 on the season.

The Rocks scored on their second possession of the game on a drive sparked by two long runs by quarterback Rich (The Franchise) Hewlett.

Salem recovered an Edsel fumble on their own 42-yard line. From there, Hewlett scampered 23 yards an option down to Edsel's 33 on the first play from scrimmage.

Three plays later Hewlett made it first down and goal to go when he carried 22 yards to the eight yard line.

Fullback Doug Rowe smashed over from the five to put the Rocks on the scoreboard. Dave Basierbe's kick was good for a 7-0 lead at 9:30 in the second quarter.

Salem's next touchdown climaxed a 78-yard ball control drive that coaches like Salem's Tom Moshimer dream about.

Hewlett, Rowe, and halfbacks Chris Ritchey and Bob Waite contributed almost equally in the 12-play drive. Rowe again took it in from the five for the score. Basierbe added the extra point with only 40 seconds left in the first half.

Although Salem was obviously the better team, nothing came easy against the Thunderbirds. Edsel's three longest drives totaled 51, 69 and 37 yards, proving they could move the ball. But when the T-birds got near the end zone, Salem's defense stiffened enough to preserve the shutout.

The Rocks were aided by a slight case of Edsel fumbleitis as two of their drives died when they coughed up the ball.

The most fortunate fumble came on Plymouth's one-yard line after Edsel's quarterback and punt returner, Tim Kososki, returned a punt to a yard from paydirt.

The fourth-quarter scare was over shortly, however, when Defensive End Tony Vitale fell on the loose ball on Edsel's first play from scrimmage after the return.

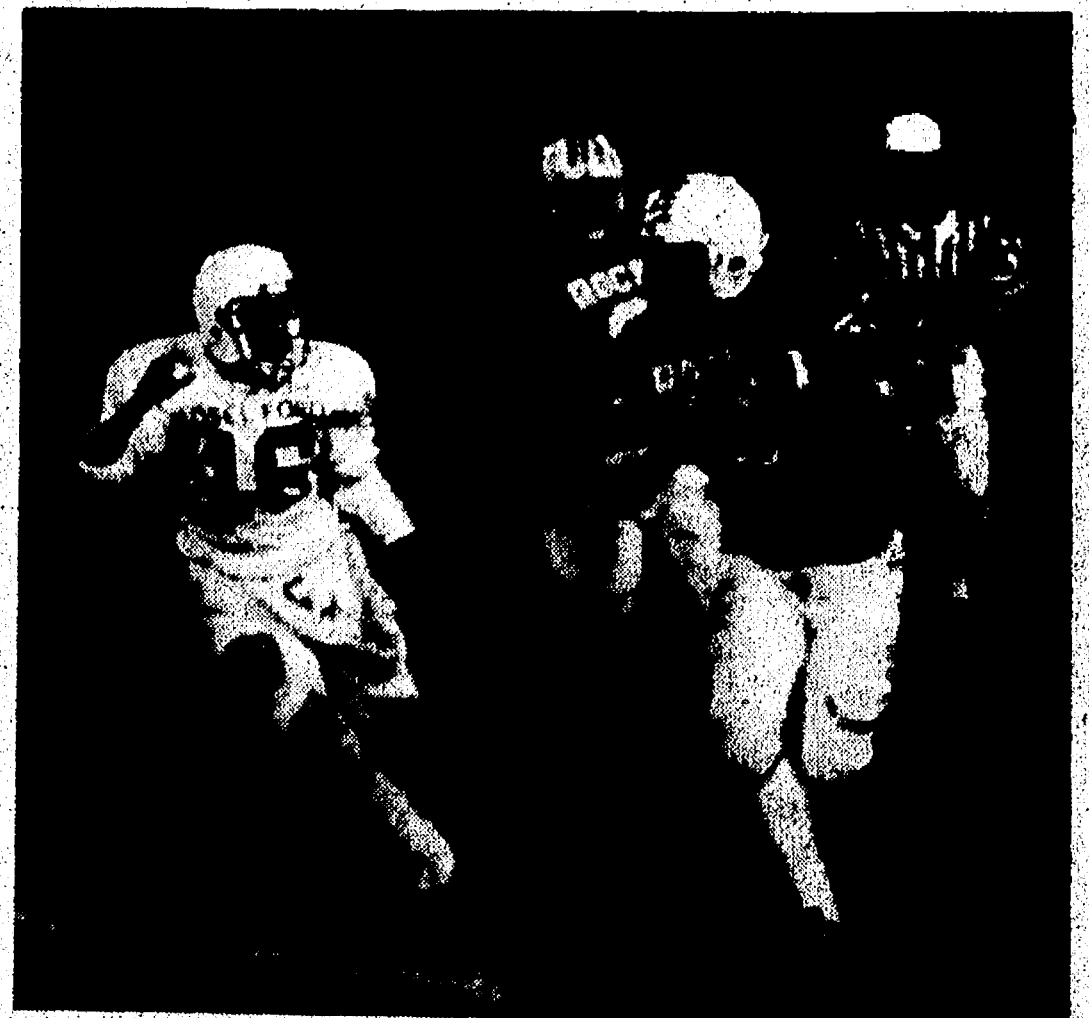

The Rocks looked like they might put Edsel away early in the first half. On their first possession, Salem drove to the T-birds' five yard line before they ran out of gas.

The honor of dealing the knockout punch went to punter Doug Agnew and Curt Lewis early in the fourth quarter. Agnew boomed a 57-yard punt down to Edsel's 10 yard line.

Trying to get out of the hole, Kososki took to the air. But Lewis stepped in front of his first pass and broke three tackles on the 27-yard run into the end zone.

Salem travels to Bentley Friday. The game starts at 7:30 p.m.

Chief cagers whip 2 loop foes; set scoring record

BY JEFF REY

It's getting to be like clock-work for the Canton women's basketball team who seem every week to just go into a game, overwhelm their opponents, and leave.

This week was no exception as the Chiefs crushed Walled Lake Western on Tuesday 89-25 and defeated Farmington-Harrison on Thursday 52-28.

In Thursday's victory over Harrison the Chiefs were not as good as they had been in other outings. Coach Mike McCauley said, "we played a real sloppy game, it's lucky we weren't up against a tougher team."

Evie Pasek led Canton with 13 points followed by Sue Rekuc scoring 12 points.

Pasek scored five points during the first period working out of Canton's four corner offense. Rekuc came back the second quarter to score eight points to give the Chiefs a 23-15 lead at the half.

The Chiefs nearly doubled their score during the third period spurting ahead of Harrison by 17 points, 42-25. During the fourth quarter, Canton's defense went to work holding Harrison to only three points and scoring nine points offensively to record their 10th victory of the season.

During Canton's wide margin victory over Walled Lake Western on Tuesday, Rekuc led the Chiefs with 22 points. Kathy Sochacki scored 13 points and Dawn Malek finished the game with 12 points.

Canton's 89 points ended up being a school record for highest score.

The Chief's next game is at Churchill on Thursday. The junior varsity contest starts at 6 p.m. and Varsity begins approximately at 7:30.

Salem's hot shooting dooms Belleville, 68-28

Playing their best first half of the year, the Salem girls basketball team whipped Belleville Thursday, 68-28.

The Rocks poured in 20 of 34 field goal attempts for 59 per cent. "It's probably the best game we've played, Coach Debbie Hatcher said.

Kathy Dillon led the Rocks with 14 points, all in the first half. Her team rolled to a 46-14 lead at halftime to decide the game. The first quarter score was 22-8.

"Kathy also didn't commit a foul in the whole first half which shows good discipline," Hatcher said.

"Both our defense and offense seem to be gelling," Hatcher said. Besides the high shooting percentage, the Rocks racked up 11 assists and stole the ball 13 times.

"We use a Indiana-style defense which the girls are learning very well," Hatcher said. Erin Moore also contributed 14 points to share the top scoring honors with Dillon, and Debbie Pitara added 12 points.

Last Tuesday, Sophomore Nan Horwood's 15 points led the Rocks to a 44-38 win over Thurston.

Canton's harriers lost to Northville Thursday, 17-41, dropping their league dual meet record to 0-4.

Edsel Ford outruns Rocks

Salem's harriers fell to Suburban Eight League foe Edsel Ford, 20-40 Thursday.

Tom Rubadue and Paul Hess captured third and fourth place but Edsel swept the fifth through ninth, as well as first and second, to lock up the meet.

Rubadue's time was 16:48 on the Edsel course and Hess was right behind with a 16:53. Bob Stiffler finished 10th with a time of 17:34.

Jeff Econom ran the course in 17:38 for 11th. Dan Lybarger ran his best time of the year, 17:44 for 12th and Dave Truesdell also recorded his season's best, 17:45, for 13th.

On Tuesday, the Rocks finished 12th out of 22 teams in the Redford Union Invitational. Hess was 29th and Rubadue was 30th.

"I've been giving the team very little rest aiming for the league meet coming up next week," Coach Mike Spitz said. "Northville was ranked sixth in the state, so I don't feel bad. Our team ran well."

Dennis Hennells finished fourth for the Chiefs with a time of 17:53, breaking the Mustangs' hold on the top five places. It was his best time of the year.

Richard Fleisher ran the Cass Benton course in 18:03, good for sixth. Eighth was Martin Hinckley at 18:15, followed by Dan McGlenn, 18:17 and Phil Simon, 18:35. Jerry Van Berkel and Dave Spitz placed 11th and 12th.

The Chiefs run against Churchill tomorrow and then ahead into the Western Six meet on Tuesday and the regionals next Saturday.

"We hope to knock somebody off in the league meet and get out of the cellar," Spitz said.

Canton thrashed by W.L. Western, 35-6

BY JEFF REY

The Chiefs, unable to get on the winning track all year, saw their losing streak extended to six games Friday, bowing to Walled Lake Western, 35-6.

Canton's offense was almost totally shut off finishing the game with only 142 yards and picking up eight first downs while the defense was picked apart all night.

The game was more a matter of pride for both teams as Canton and Walled Lake were tied for last place in the Western Six going into the contest.

"They didn't really throw anything at us that we shouldn't have been able to stop," said Coach Dave Schuele, "but our pursuit was poor and we didn't get enough individual second efforts."

The Chiefs tried some different things during the game starting off with junior Rusty Mandle who started the game at quarterback instead of full-back. He scored Canton's only touchdown on a three yard run late in the final quarter.

During the first quarter, the Chiefs were unable to pick up any first downs. The Warriors took over after Canton's first series of plays and scored the first touchdown on a two-yard run to cap a 73-yard drive only five minutes into the game.

The Chief's dry offense was forced to punt the ball two more times until Walled Lake began another drive and scored the second touchdown on a four yard run by Rance Hafner.

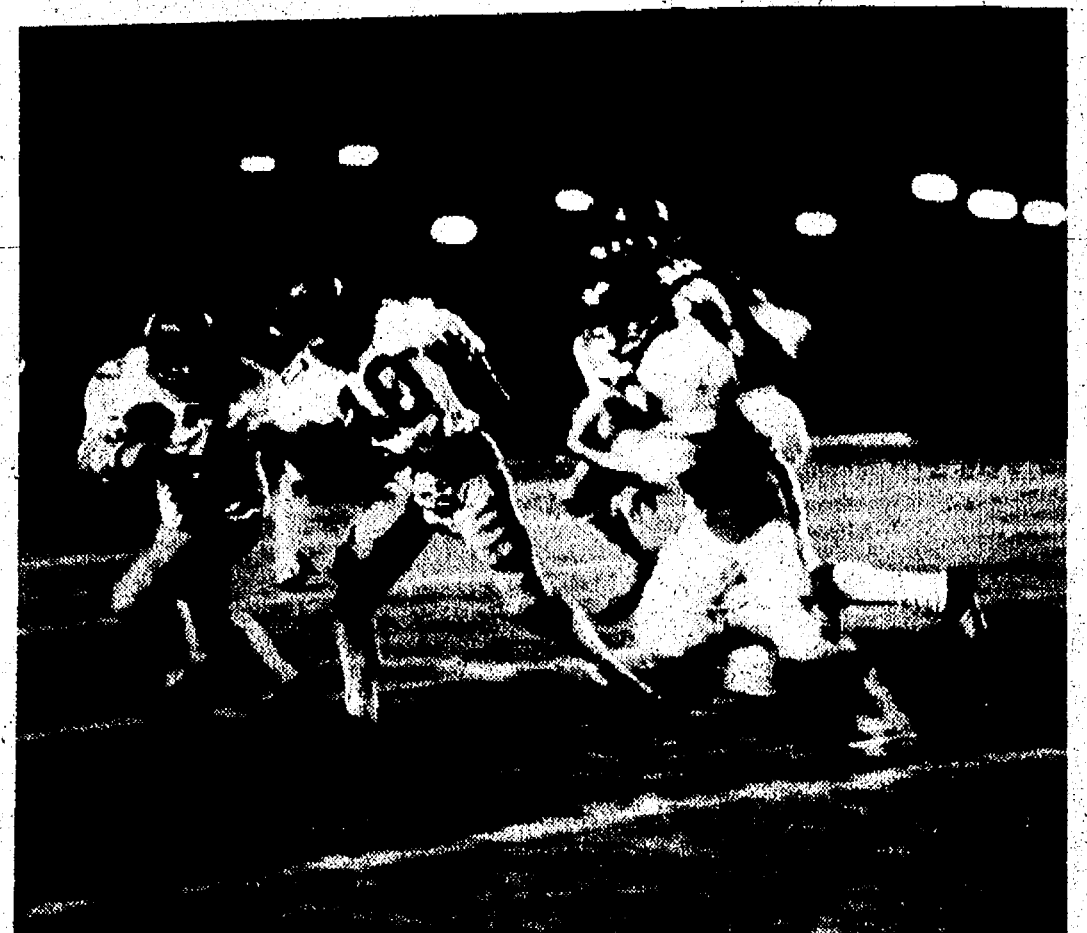

The score put the Warriors out in front 14-0 with 6:47 remaining in the second quarter.

Mandle started to move the Chiefs offense, picking up three first downs, setting up Co-captain Mike Nyhus's field goal attempt on a fourth and goal from the 15. It failed and the Chiefs lost their only chance to get on the scoreboard during the first half.

Canton's defense held Western during their first series of play in the second half, forcing them to punt. But then on their second offensive series of the third quarter the Chiefs fumbled on their own 30-yard line.

Six plays later, the Warrior's John Meyer went 10 yard to paydirt, Scott Evans added the extra point and the Warrior's led 21-0.

The Chiefs went almost totally downhill from there. Less than three minutes later Walled Lake scored their fourth touchdown with 3:50 left in the third quarter when Mike Bryant went five yards to increase Western's lead by six and just about assure Walled Lake of its first league victory of the season.

The Warriors added icing on the cake when they scored their last touchdown on a 30-yard pass during the first play of the final quarter.

Canton's only score finally came when Mandle blasted three yards to cap a 56-yard drive in the closing minutes of the game. Nyhus's extra point attempt was blocked and Canton's sixth game of the season came to an end with the Warriors grinding out the final minutes of the game.

"We're not as good as we were at the beginning of the season," said Schuele after the game.

Canton has three more games remaining in the season, with Northville being their next contest in the annual fight for the Bell which every year goes to the victor of the Northville-Canton game. The kickoff is at 8 p.m. on Friday at Northville.

Rock golfers swing into state meet

BY CHAS CHILD

Led by medalist Ted Kuhns, Salem's golfers qualified for the state meet Saturday by finishing third in the regionals at Brae Burn golf course.

Monday the Rocks finished fourth in the Suburban Eight meet on the same course, a testament to the tough competition in the league. Three teams in the Sub-8 qualified for the state tourney.

Kuhns carded an excellent 74 on the par 70 course to lead the regional field Saturday. Jim Ross fired an 82, Craig Stevens an 83 and Doug Holloway shot an 85.

The biggest surprise of the two days of competition was the incredible turnaround of Redford Union. At the regionals, Redford shot a solid 326, two strokes behind Salem, but not good enough to go to the state meet.

In the league meet two days later on the same course, however, Redford fired an awesome 295, shaving 31 shots off their previous total.

"They had some of the lowest scores ever in high school golf in Michigan," Salem's Coach Bob Waters said. "Too bad we weren't part of it."

Trenton finished second in the league meet; Bentley, third; Dearborn, fifth; Edsel Ford, sixth; Allen Park, seventh; and Belleville did not field a team this year.

Kuhns and Holloway led the Rocks in the league meet with 79s. Stevens fired an 83 and Ross toured the links in 84 strokes.

"They were very respectable scores," Waters said. In any other year they would have been good for at least a second. In most other leagues they would have been good for first."

Last Wednesday, the Rocks killed state-tourney bound Ypsilanti, 149-162. Kuhns and Ross shot 36s, Holloway fired a 38 and Stevens contributed a 39 on the same Brae Burn course.

The Rocks will be hoping to improve their 16th place finish in the state tournament last year out of a field of 20 teams.

The tourney will be played at Marywood Country Club in Battle Creek Saturday.

Volleyballers to meet

There will be a co-ed volleyball meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 25 at 7 p.m. at the Northville Recreation Department. Deadline for entry fees is Friday, Oct. 28 at 5 p.m. Season play will begin on Tuesday, Nov. 8 and Wednesday, Nov. 9.

Salem netters cop second in region; head to state meet

BY CHAS CHILD
 Sending three out of their four singles players to the finals, Salem's girls tennis team pulled a mild upset with a second-place finish in the regionals in Ypsilanti.
 The second place earned the Rocks a trip to the state meet coming up Friday and Saturday at Kalamazoo College.
 The three singles finalists were No. 1 Becky Crespo, No. 3 Kathy Horton and No. 4 Betsy Moon. Unfortunately, none of the three could take a crown.

Parkside in the finals. Mosely was seeded third and had earlier knocked out the first seed.
 No. 3 singles Horton also fought her way to the finals but fell to Susan Kim of Ann Arbor Pioneer, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.
 Courtney Warrick was defeated in the semifinals of the No. 2 singles tourney, but her earlier victories contributed 2 team points to Salem's total. The losing finalists were each responsible for three team points.

Chief netters win 2 points in regional

No. 2 singles Kathy Kidston and the No. 2 doubles pair of Sue Kidston and Valerie Marchand won their first matches of the season in the girls tennis regionals Saturday.
 The victories gave the Chiefs two team points to finish in the bottom third of the 15 team field, and far from Ann Arbor Pioneer's winning total of 26 points.

singles Mary Riffe lost to the eventual winner of the regionals, Keven Mosely of Jackson Parkside, 6-1, 6-0.

"It was a tremendous effort, and I'm very pleased," Coach Janet Lawson said.
 Moon's play was probably the most pleasant surprise, considering she's only a freshman in her first year of varsity competition. She lost to Carol Johnson of Ann Arbor Pioneer, 6-1, 6-0, in the finals.

Two Salem doubles teams also made it to the semifinals before losing. No. 2 doubles Sandy Bozimowski and Wendy Webb lost to Mary Cadwallader and Sherri Fox, and the No. 3 pair of Clarisse Harnett and Renee Braun lost a close match 4-6, 6-3, 7-6. They lost the tiebreaker in the last set 5-3.

 Sue Kidston and Marchand whipped a Detroit Redford pair, 6-2, 6-1, for Canton's other team point. The first seed from Ann Arbor Pioneer knocked them off in their next match.
 In other matches, No. 1

Canton's No. 3 and 4 singles, Mindy Starkey and Chris Stylianou, lost in the first round also.

Pioneer won the regionals with 24 points. Salem was second with 15 points followed by Ann Arbor Huron and Jackson tied for third with 12 points. Flint Carman had nine; Northville, eight and Ypsilanti, six.

Canton golfers claim 13th in regional

The Canton golf team finished its regular season play this week picking up a win against Clarenceville on Tuesday 221-255, and losing to Livonia Churchill on Thursday 204-211.

The luck of the draw dealt No. 1 doubles Debbie Oakley and Julie Kraus a tough blow. The first seeded pair from Ann Arbor Pioneer defeated them in the first round.

The tourney was actually seven separate tournaments as the players in each position compted for their own crown.

Rock swimmers whip Bentley

Salem Coach Chuck Olson swam his whole team Thursday but still swamped Livonia Bentley, 117-55.

No Rock swam twice either, as Salem stayed undefeated in dual meet competition.

Last week, the Rocks won the Redford Union Relays, beating 10 other teams. Salem piled up 81 to second place Northville's 68.

The Rocks showed their team depth by qualifying at least one swimmer in the finals of every event.

"Everyone used to say if it wasn't for the Stanwoods we wouldn't be that good," Coach Chuck Olson said.

The highlights of the Redford Union relays were Rock victories in three relays: the 400-yard freestyle relay, the 200-yard backstroke relay, and the crescendo relay.

Sue Sparling, Kim Coates, Sharon Ross and Marion Stanwood won the 400 freestyle. The 200 backstroke was won by Linda Wochna, Rene Lakatos, Diane Perpich and Jill McCann.

Marion Stanwood, Sharon Ross, Kim Coates and Sue

Stanwood teamed up to win the crescendo relay.

Winners in the Bentley meet include Sue Stanwood in the 200-yard freestyle, Sue Evans in the 200-yard individual medley and Jill McCann in the 50-yard freestyle.

Salem swept the diving, led by Amy McClumpha's 185 points. Her sister Natalie was second and Patty Larson was third.

Sharon Ross won the 100-yard fly, and Marion Stanwood, Sarah Stanwood and Linda Frazee swept the 100-yard freestyle in that order.

The 100-yard backstroke was also swept by the Rocks. Sue Stanwood won, followed by Rene Lakatos and Diane Perpich.

Remember when wire-rimmed glasses were the province of long-haired youth? Your Crier reporter noted last week that all five men on the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees wear wire-rimmed glasses.

Canton swimmers edge Harrison

The Canton women's swim team, coming off a bad performance last week, turned things around by defeating Farmington Harrison by a close score of 87-85.

Kim Massey set two varsity records and Peggy McElmeel turned in her best individual time during the meet.

Massey took a first in the 500 yard freestyle and set a varsity record with a time 5:44.1 and a second in the 200-yard freestyle turning in a 2:07.5 which was also a varsity record.

McElmeel took second in the 100 and 50 freestyle recording times of 1:06.2 and 28.3 respectively. The first was her individual best.

The 200-yard medley relay team finished first with a 2:08 and the 400 freestyle relay team placed second with a 4:29.3.

Cindy Shelansky placed first and second respectively in the 100 backstroke and 200 individual medley with a 1:08.3 and 2:33.

Coach Ann Massey credited the win to the fact that the Chiefs took a lot of second and thirds and said, "we really did a great job even though we had only three first place finishes." Laura Toor took a second in the 100 breaststroke with a 1:22.2, Annette Piethe swam second in the 100 fly turning in a 1:14.5 and in diving Jamie Zuverink took a second totalling 137.6 points.

Overall, the Chiefs took 8 seconds and 6 thirds.

Six houses now stand on the commercial section of the site, which fronts Northville Road with a depth of 300 to 400 feet. In addition, the apartment project would affect seven to eight houses on the south side of Hamill Road. Heights of the planned apartment buildings vary from two to five stories, but Allison said a five-story mid-rise would require a change in township zoning rules, which now permit mid-rise structures only on property adjacent to expressways. The site proposed, while zoned for multiple dwellings, is a block and a half south of the new M-14 expressway.

The township Board of Trustees last year rejected a request by Kobierzynski for a liquor license for a restaurant on a portion of the property included in the project, citing its existing residential zoning.

Township of Plymouth Planning Commission. Re: Action taken at their Special Meeting of September 7, 1977. A) Tamarack Development Company - Application No. 365. Re: Rezoning of approximately 6 acres on the S.E. Corner of Ann Arbor Road and Ridge Road, from R-1-E to C-1. B) Tamarack Development Company - Application No. 366. Re: Rezoning from R-1-E to R-1-S of approximately 117 acres on the east side of Ridge between Ann Arbor Road and Joy. C) Tamarack Development Company - Application No. 367. Re: Request for approval to develop approximately 117 acres on the east side of Ridge between Ann Arbor Road and Joy, under the R.U.D. Section of Ordinance No. 47.
Mr. Gornick moved that Applications 365, 366 and 367 be denied as per the recommendations and the reasons stipulated by the Plymouth Township Planning Commission, as follows: 1) The Planning Commission did in fact consider all three of the proposals together as one entity and that they would stand or fall in that sense together as the applicant requested; 2) With respect to the Commercial Development there is nothing, no demonstrable evidence presented that would indicate any great need for that kind of development in that area; in light of the fact there is some right across the street, and in close proximity in other areas as the planning commission's motion indicated; so there was no present need for commercial added at that point; 3) In elaboration of that, there was sufficient commercial areas within a very short distance both within Plymouth Township and the adjacent communities, in fact, in the whole geographic area.
4) We do not have the concept of neighborhood shopping but neighborhood shopping has not been defined to mean within a given perimeter of a mile or any other such given geographical distance; neighborhood can be extended as a highly mobile society; so that we do not have or had not operated under any concept that there must be such commercial neighborhood shopping available for each square mile of the Township; and 5) with respect to the density requested it is significantly out of conformance with the existing area in that it proposes going to a density of 2.05 dwelling units per acre when a prevailing density there is considerably less than that and in fact, just north of that recently approved density of 2.02 or in other words a 2.2 level and of course, with Colony Farm immediately to the east again the density would be considerably out of conformance with that area so I think the last point has been well taken. There has been nothing demonstrated that shows the economic hardship or lack of feasibility on developing at the density somewhere around that, that is in fact operative in the area around there. Supported by Mr. West.
Mr. Notebaert asked Mr. Gornick, if he wished to make any comments with reference as to the applicant's desire to withdraw their application. Mr. Gornick replied, that only with the respect I concur with Mrs. Richardson's point that our usual practice as we move through our administrative processes, if you will, is that when a recommendation of the Planning Commission reaches this body, to my knowledge, I have never recalled one where it was withdrawn at this point. We acted in good faith on a recommendation that was given to us by our recommending body and I think that I agree with Mr. Gilhool, I don't feel that it requires an extensive discourse; I think it would be repetitive and redundant but I think we are obligated to act and hence the reason for my motion. The question was called and the motion carried unanimously.

Wayne County Road Commission. Re: Proposed Dental Clinic - Main Street South of Ann Arbor Road Drainage Agreement. Mr. Breen moved to adjourn this until the next regular meeting to get a clarification on paragraph 3 of the proposed agreement from the Wayne County Road Commission. Supported by Mrs. Richardson and carried unanimously.
Mrs. Richardson moved approval of the change order on the Sanitary Sewer for the Plymouth Township M-14 Sanitary Sewer Crossing by Holloway Construction Company. Supported by Mr. West and carried unanimously. (An increase of $847.06 on the contract making an adjusted total of $68,934.09).
Norman L. Dietrich & Associates. Re: Award of bids on Shuffleboard Court for Township Recreation Site. Mr. Gornick moved approval of the planner's recommendation for the awarding of the bids on shuffleboard courses for the Township Recreation Site to the low bidder, Wydan Construction Company in the amount of $11,911.00 with the subsequent stipulation that a change order will be forthcoming that will delete the plantings of the Red Maple and the Pin Oak roughly in the neighborhood of $2,000.00. Supported by Mr. Breen, with the comment that the reason being that even with the deleted items they have the low bid. The motion carried unanimously.
Review and Determination on a decision made by Board of Appeals at their September 15, 1977 Meeting regarding Application No. 367. Requesting a variance to occupy and use an Industrial Building for General Automobile Repair. Mr. Gornick moved that we inform the applicant that his usage is a temporary 90 day Certificate of Occupancy Permit and that to obtain a lasting utilization of this site, he will need to return to the Planning Commission to obtain Site Plan Approval under the Conditional Use aspect of the Ordinance which would govern the kind of usage that will occur with all the controls that the Township needs in this situation, so that basically the motion indicates to the user and/or applicant that he has a 90 day temporary permit but that inadvertently he was directed through the wrong administrative procedure which normally in these instances would have been through the Planning Commission and so we are saying we don't want to penalize the applicant because he acted in good faith, so we really are in a sense correcting our error and saying you do have 90 days temporary usage but that a long term usage has to be obtained with all the necessary Site Plan Approvals through the Planning Commission. Supported by Mr. Breen. The question was called and the following roll call vote was taken: Yes: West, Gornick, Breen, Richardson, Notebaert. No: Millington. The motion carried 5-1. Mr. Millington said to clarify his no vote, "that the decision that was made, was made because it was turned over to the Board of Appeals and it was my feeling that while we did wrong there, that in the present instance that we should have left it alone and corrected it in the future."
Mr. Breen moved approval of the Treasurer's request for the increase of working capital from $100.00 to $200.00. Supported by Mr. Gornick and carried unanimously.
Mrs. Richardson moved approval of the recommendation of the Supervisor that Fred Davids be appointed to serve on the Board of Appeals for the unexpired term of John Goulet and accept the resignation of John Goulet with regrets. Supported by Mr. West and carried unanimously. Mr. Breen moved that the meeting be adjourned. Supported by Mr. Gornick. Supervisor Notebaert adjourned the meeting at 10:25 p.m.
Approved,
THOMAS G. NOTEBAERT
Supervisor
Respectfully submitted,
HELEN RICHARDSON
