

Ogilvie, Garber top judge hopefuls

PHILIP OGILVIE

JAMES GARBER

Philip Ogilvie and James Garber will vie in November for the second judgeship in the 35th District Court.

The two lead a field of seven candidates in yesterday's primary election.

Ogilvie was the top vote-getter with 2,038, while Garber tallied 1,844.

Aloysius Suchy was third with 1,196 votes, while Maurice Breen captured 1,183. Allen Ingle followed with 727, while Walter Guth had 362 and Craig John tallied 334.

Garber, of Plymouth Township, has been an attorney for 16 years, and is the former Wayne County assistant prosecutor.

The second seat on the 35th district bench was created by the state legislature in May to ease the high caseload in the district which includes the townships of Canton, Plymouth and Northville, and the cities of Plymouth and Northville.

Greenstein, Bodenmiller win Canton trustee nod

Dems dump Stein for Culbert

BY CHAS CHILD

In a shocking upset, Noel Culbert swamped incumbent Harold Stein in the Democratic primary for Canton Supervisor.

Stein's slatemate, Treasurer Anne Bradley, was also the victim of an upset. She lost to Maria Falkiewicz, a newcomer to Canton politics.

The two candidates for trustee who ran with Stein, Frank McMurray and Robert Schaetzl, also finished at the bottom in the five-person Democratic race.

Former Supervisor Robert Greenstein, lead the field for trustee, followed by Carol Bodenmiller.

"I think it showed a dissatisfaction with the Stein administration," said Culbert. "If I had to point to one thing that meant the difference, it would be the homeowners problems. Stein showed a lack of interest in taking care of it."

Greenstein said "Ordinarily someone like Culbert would not be a threat to an incumbent supervisor. This emphasized that the voters have rejected Stein's philosophy of government."

Stein carried only one of 16 precincts. Two years ago, Stein upset incumbent Greenstein by 132 votes in the Democratic primary.

In the Republican side of the ledger, John Longridge won the supervisor's race as he had no opposition.

Likewise, Jim Donahue had no opponent for the Republican nomination for Treasurer, and Gary Roberts will be on the November ballot in the trustee race. A write-in campaign by Sally Mundo for the second trustee spot on the Republican ticket apparently failed.

Culbert's victory was seen by many observers as not a strong endorsement for him, Hulsing routs Fidge; Gornick upset in Twp.

BY HANK MEIJER

Esther Hulsing outdistanced Trustee Weyona Lee Fidge with 63% of the vote yesterday to win the Republican nomination and be assured of election as Plymouth Township clerk.

In an eight-way race for two seats on the township Board of Trustees, incumbent Richard Gornick was upset by two newcomers to township politics, Barbara Lynch and Gerald Law.

Hulsing, who is a former president of the Plymouth School Board and chairman of the township's Civil Service Commission, defeated Fidge 1,275 - 575, according to unofficial results. Frances Ardanowski garnered 159 votes. Only 27 per cent of the township's 11,909 registered voters went to the polls.

Gornick, a Livonia school administrator, was seeking a second term on the board.

He was first elected in 1974. He blamed his defeat on the low turn-out and on Lynch's ambitious, high-spending campaign.

"There may have been a degree of complacency that comes with incumbent status," he said late last night as the returns were tallied at Township Hall. Before the final votes were in, he turned to his wife, saying, "You might have me home some more now, dear."

Lynch and Law are both seeking office for the first time. Lynch lives at 10028 Wolfriver, while Law lives at 45209 Woodleigh Way.

According to unofficial results, Lynch lead all vote-getters with 849 votes, while Law had 756 and Gornick 662. Trailing were Charles Childs, 516; Brian Kidston, 507; Gregory Dean, 291; and Gary Pickering and Woodward Burbank, 78 each.

Lynch and Law both ran strongly in eastern precincts and the Trailwood area. Both will serve two-year terms succeeding Gornick and retiring Trustee Frank Millington.

Many observers had expected a closer race between Hulsing and Fidge, who has

Ambitious burglars loot subdivision

BY CHAS CHILD

Nighttime burglars broke into 25 homes in Canton last week, stealing more than $900 in cash and $9,300 in televisions and stereo equipment, Canton Police Chief Walter MacGregor said Monday.

Working after their victims went to sleep, the robbers have entered through sliding glass doors or adjacent windows in every case, MacGregor said. Hardest hit have been Pickwick, Smokler Truesdell West and Wagon Wheel subdivisions, he said.

"I don't want to scare people to death, but I think it's time to alert the people of Canton," said the chief.

To guard against a robbery, MacGregor advised Canton residents to take the following steps: Keep a light on, especially in the family room; don't leave women's purses in plain sight; lock sliding doors with metal rods; and engrave your driver's license number on valuables.

"If a resident happens to see the burglars, he should try to identify them by their license plates," MacGregor said. "And call the police immediately."

The chief also said he would like residents to report all suspicious persons or vehicles.

"We believe three persons are involved, because they have stolen eight console-type television sets which are very hard to carry alone," he said. They are probably using a van or other larger vehicle to transport the TVs, he said.

Most of the homes robbed have not had fences, the chief noted. Also, no light had been on.

So far, there has been no indication that the burglars have gone beyond the family rooms of the houses entered, MacGregor said. Besides the purses and televisions, some stereos and a gun were stolen.

The robberies started Monday, July 31, and continued about four per night through Saturday, Aug. 5. No homes were burglarized Sunday night.

Brookshire Street in Pickwick subdivision had the most thefts with six. Four streets had two robberies: Copeland, Collingham, Monton and Wagon Wheel.

The other streets hit include: South Drive, Savery Street, Bannockburn, Addison, Honeytree, Edonbrooke, Beechwood, Old Bridge, Lotz, Tamarack and Sutherland.

MacGregor said he has alerted the police departments of surrounding communities, including the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police.

Canton rejects funds for library

BY PAT BARTOLD

Canton voters yesterday overwhelmingly rejected a township request to levy one mill to establish a library in the new administration building on Canton Center Road.

The final vote was 1901-1111.

A one-mill increase would have meant $1 tax increase per $1,000 assessed value of property.

Since the defeat of the proposal, Canton Township will continue making payments to the Wayne County Federation Library System for Canton residents to use the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth and the public library in Wayne.

Mike Gorman, township finance director, had indicated that it would probably not be necessary to levy a full one-mill each year that the library was in operation.

Although the library proposal was defeated, Canton voters approved the establishment of a Civil Service Commission by a vote of 1766-834.

The Civil Service Commission will hire, promote and discipline employees of the township.

In 1976, the Civil Service Commission had been declared invalid due to a technical error in placing the proposal on the ballot. Since then, the township has used the services of the Michigan Municipal League in hiring township employees.

Plant to break ground

INDUSTRY FOR CANTON. Ground-breaking for this automotive spring plant will be held Thursday at Van Born and Lotz roads, officials for the Precision Spring Corporation announced yesterday.

The company supplies parts to General Motors, Ford and Chrysler as well as metal products for many other companies.

Voters nix sewer extension

In what may be a futile gesture, Plymouth Township voters Tuesday rejected extension of sanitary sewers into the western portions of the township.

The vote was 1,809 against extending the sewers and 1,159 in favor. Voters in every precinct rejected the proposition.

The ballot ask voters to approve the sale of bonds to finance the $2.8 million project. While the project would also provide sewers for a section of the Lake Pointe area in the northeast corner of the township, its chief impact would be in the west. There it would serve the Plymouth-Hills subdivision west of Beck and north of Powell and extend along Powell out to Ridge Road.

The Township Board is under court order to proceed with the sewers, and is scheduled to meet next Tuesday to decide what to do.

If they fail to proceed with the sewer bonds, they are under order to return to Wayne County Circuit Court Aug. 18 under terms of a lawsuit filed in 1975 and again last month to force the sewer extension regardless of the outcome of the referendum.

Twp. authorized to buy land, bldg.

Plymouth Township voters authorized the purchase of two pieces of real estate in balloting Tuesday.

Proposition A, asking permission to purchase a 34-acre parcel adjacent to the township's Hilltop Golf Course for additional recreational land, passed by a vote of 1,622 to 1,418. On a precinct by precinct basis, there was wide variation throughout the township. In fact, the land purchase lost in seven of the 13 precincts.

Proposition B, seeking to purchase the building next to the present township hall for additional office space, carried by a vote of 1,799 to 1,206. It carried in every precinct.

An advisory question — which has no legal bearing — on whether to close the entire township to hunting passed overwhelmingly. The vote was 2,289 in favor of closing off hunting to 813 in favor of allowing hunting. It also carried in every precinct.

Township residents also approved the Wayne County one-mill renewal proposition by a vote of 1,939 to 904.

Joyner wins Dem nod for county seat

Appointed incumbent R. William Joyner of Plymouth Township outpolled five other candidates yesterday to win the Democratic nomination for his first term on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

According to unofficial primary results, Joyner tallied 2,137 votes in the 27th District, which includes Plymouth and Canton townships, the City of Plymouth, Wayne, Beileville, Van Buren Township and Sumpter Township. Challenger Frederick Montgomery of Wayne was runner-up with 1,392 votes, with Trustee Robert Myers of Canton third. Trailing far behind were Canton lawyer Walter Hink, Berna V. Chenault and R. Smith (no relation to Royce Smith, Joyner's predecessor in the job.)

Joyner received 872 votes in Canton — the biggest single bloc in the district — to 623 for Myers.

The 28-year old Beacon Hill-resident faces Republican Frank Yonish in the November general election. The winner will serve a two-year term.

EDITOR'S NOTE: All election results are unofficial pending certification in each community.

Hulsing led Fidge in every one of the township's 13 precincts. The closest races came in Precincts Three and Nine in the southeastern areas of the township and Precinct Seven, in the northwest. Hulsing garnered 110 votes in her home Precinct 11 to 17 votes for Fidge.

Supervisor Tom Notebaert and Treasurer Joe West were unopposed in their bids for re-nomination. None of the Republican candidates face opposition on the November ballot, so the nomination yesterday assured their election.

Brown cruises

Unofficial results show that incumbent Thomas Brown won the Democratic nomination for State Representative in the 37th District over Joseph Blitz.

The district includes all of Canton Township and part of Plymouth Township.

Will Pursell face Democrat this fall?

Earl Greene, the would-be Democratic challenger to U. S. Rep. Carl Pursell, the Plymouth Republican, went to sleep Tuesday night not knowing if he's in the running or not.

Greene, who filed against Pursell but was then removed from the ballot because his petitions were found to contain an insufficient number of signatures, mounted a write-in campaign to become the lone Democratic challenger against Pursell.

A last-minute State Attorney General's opinion bouyed his hopes by ruling that a simple majority of write-ins in the Democratic race would assure him a spot against Pursell in November.

But by press time early Wednesday morning, write-in votes had not been tallied for the Congressional district, so Greene's ballot fate was unknown.

Pursell, whose 2nd District includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, was unopposed in Tuesday's Republican primary.

Geake fries Bacon

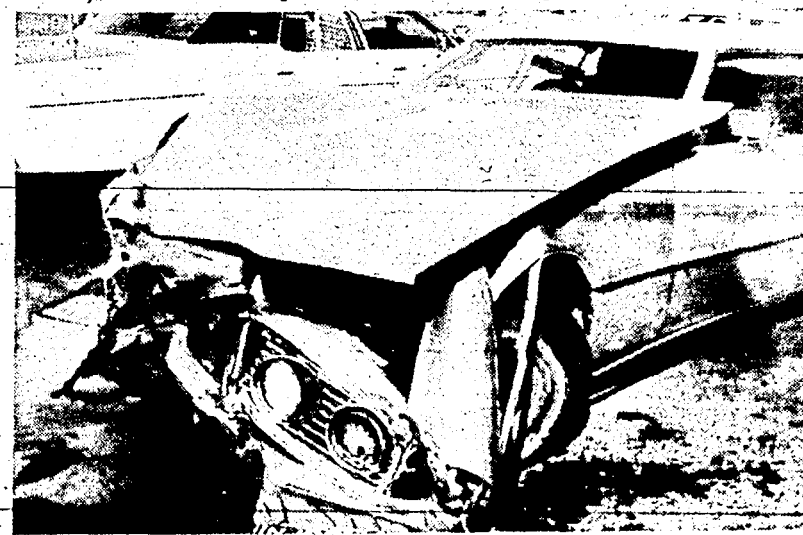

State Senator Robert Geake thwarted a challenge in Tuesday's Republican primary from Livonia City Clerk Addison Bacon and thereby won a faceoff with Democrat Paul Kadish in November.

According to preliminary totals from the 14th State Senatorial district's 146 precincts, with 108 precincts reporting at press time, Geake led Bacon by 6,774 to 1,355.

The November faceoff with Kadish, who was unopposed in Tuesday's Democratic primary, will be a replay of Geake's 1977 victory over Kadish in a special election.

Geake's district includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Apply sign laws to all, board rules

BY CHAS CHILD
Canton's Board of Trustees ordered the township's election sign ordinance to be enforced after a candidate for the board charged last Tuesday that it was being applied unequally.

Gary Roberts, Republican candidate for trustee in the election held yesterday, was cited last month for erecting a campaign sign on his house, which is forbidden, according to Canton Ordinance Officer Bruce Phillips.

Roberts claimed that Treasurer Anne Bradley also should have been cited for a sign on her property. Phillips wrote a citation for the sign but issued it not to Bradley, but to her party organization, the United Democratic Party of Canton.

"I wanted the ticket to go to those responsible," said Phillips, explaining why he didn't cite Bradley. The sign on her property violates the clause in the ordinance which forbids election signs on commercial property, said Phillips.

Overall, Phillips issued three citations of the law, but told the board last Tuesday that he wanted direction on whether to enforce the statute.

Apparently agreeing with Trustee Gene Daley that "We either enforce the law or we don't," the board voted unanimously to enforce the law as written.

The vote came despite statements from two trustees that the ordinance may violate rights of free speech.

"There are some major

First Amendment problems (with the ordinance," said Trustee Brian Schwall, referring to the limitation of one sign per household. "You can speak, but only once."

Clerk John Flodin objected to the clause which forbids election signs on commercial property. "I happen to live on land that is zoned commercial and I think my rights are being violated," he said.

The board voted to send a request to the planning commission asking them to review sections of the law regarding campaign signs on commercial property.

On Wednesday, Phillips said he had two ordinance officials enforcing the statute fulltime.

In contrast to Canton's regulations, Plymouth Township does not limit the number of signs erected, but does require a $5 deposit on each one. The money is refunded only if the sign is taken down after the election.

Plymouth Township Clerk Helen Richardson said she has not seen any signs up in the township, and a spokesman for the building department said Thursday that no deposits had been made.

City buys aerial ladder fire truck

BY CHAS CHILD

The City of Plymouth purchased an aerial platform fire truck Monday night, despite objections that the $238,345 vehicle is more than the city needs.

"I don't question the value of the equipment," said Mayor Tom Turner, "but I think we're going from the horse and buggy to the jet age in one step."

Turner suggested that the city should look at less expensive equipment that would still meet its needs.

The truck purchased has a 100-foot aerial ladder with a platform on which two nozzles are mounted. Capable of pumping its own water, the vehicle could be used for rescues as well as fighting fires.

Due to a backlog at the Sutphen factory in Columbus, Ohio, the fire truck won't be delivered for one and one-half to two years, said Mark Wollenweber, assistant to the city manager.

The city's present truck, a 1945 Seagrave with a 65-foot aerial ladder is now out of service. Wollenweber said the top of the boom is cracked and until the city can determine the cost to fix it, it will remain unusable.

By comparison, the old truck could bring one nozzle to bear on a fire with a capacity of 300 gallons per minute, said Wollenweber. The new truck has two nozzles which can each spray 750 gallons per minute, he said.

Commissioner James Houk, who voted against the purchase as did Turner, said, "I would have a hard time justifying this equipment with the kind of buildings we have in Plymouth."

'We're going from the horse and buggy to the jet age in one step' - Mayor Tom Turner.

Wollenweber replied that "because of the age of our structures, we need this equipment."

Voting "yes" to buy the truck were Commissioners Mary Childs, Eldon Martin, Mark Wehmeyer and Beverly McAninch. Commissioner Dave Pugh was absent.

Turner said the city will pay for the truck with federal revenue sharing and community development funds taken from city budgets for the next three years.

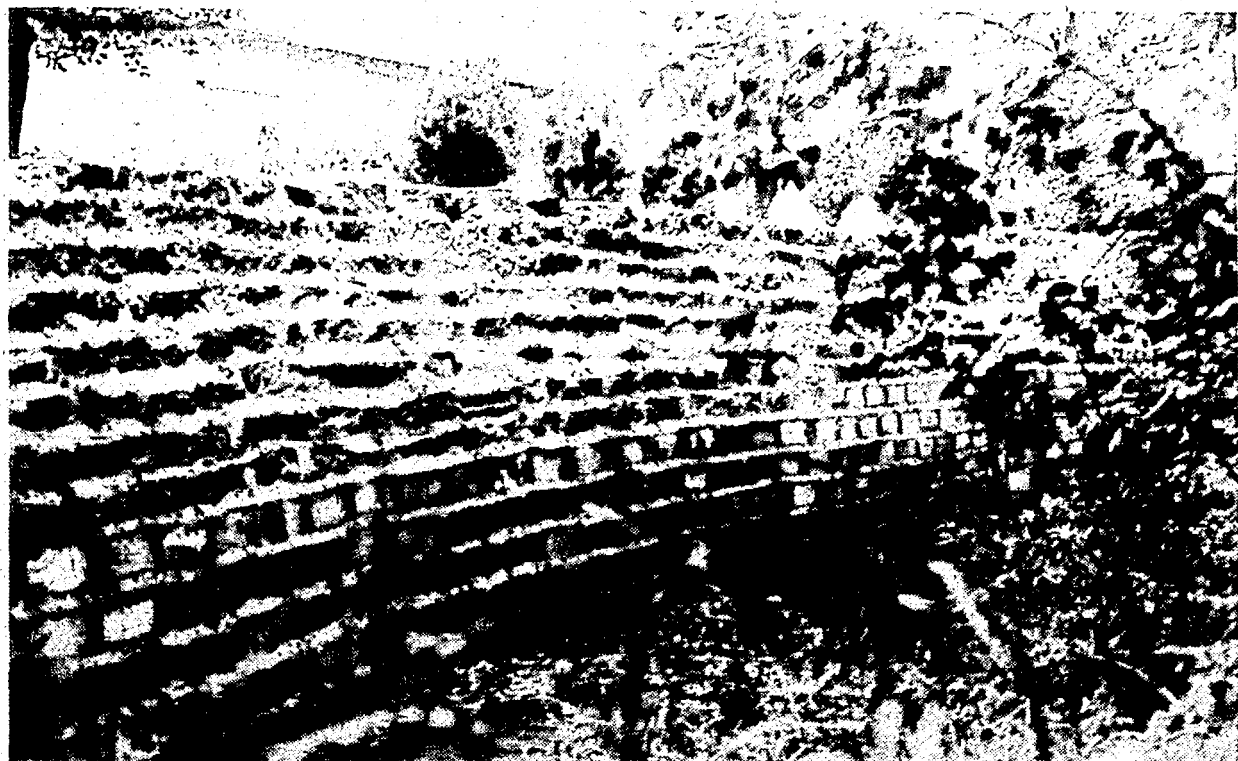

Since a committee is looking at fire protection as one service that may eventually be shared by the city and Plymouth Township, Wehmeyer asked if the township has a similar truck to the one purchased.

Mayor Tom Turner said the township recently purchased a new fire truck, but there would be no duplication if the departments unified.

Dupe machine

Plymouth's City Commission bought a duplicating machine and scanner Monday night.

The commissioners accepted the low bid of the Gestetner Corporation of Southfield $3,159 for the equipment to be used by the Recreation Department.

THE GREAT WALL OF BYRON CREEK. Built by workers from Growthwork's, the City of Plymouth's youth center, this erosion wall on Byron Creek near Byron street will help the creek's drainage. The City Commission allocated an extra $2,000 Monday night to fund similar work on Tonquish Creek. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Walls, lawsuit designed to relieve flood dangers

BY CHAS CHILD

Is anything being done to the drainage on Tonquish Creek in the aftermath of the flood in May?

City officials are moving ahead on three fronts: First, erosion walls are being built along the creek's banks; second, an engineering study is underway to find a long-term flooding solution; and third, a lawsuit is being prepared by the city against the county aimed at improving drainage planning in Plymouth Township.

The erosion walls in the city are being built by student laborers from Growthworks, the city's student center. "We couldn't have done it without them," said Mark Wollenweber, assistant to the city manager.

The work halted last week, however, when Growthworks overspent by $332 the original federal funds of $5,000 allotted by the city.

Monday night, the City Commission was expected to grant about $2,000 more to the project so the wall-building can proceed, according to Wollenweber.

The study on long-term solutions to flooding of the creek, which runs through Plymouth Township as well as the City of Plymouth, is due Oct. 1. According to Wollenweber, possible solutions include retention ponds, covering more of the creek, and enlarging the drainage pipe under the city.

Wade, Trim & Associates of Taylor is conducting the study.

Being prepared by City Attorney Charles Lowe, the suit against the Wayne County Drain Commissioner will try to get him to stop subdivisions in the western part of Plymouth Township until drainage improvements are done along the Tonquish in that area.

The City Commission will decide whether to file the suit when it is ready, Wollenweber said.

telephone tip:

Teach your children how to use the phone in an emergency!

Anyone can have an emergency at home that calls for fast, intelligent use of the phone... a sudden illness, accident, fire. Hopefully, you already have a list in your phone book or elsewhere near the phone, giving the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and your home address. But, if you have children at home, would they know how to use the phone in an emergency? Make sure they do.

Show them where you keep the emergency numbers and how to call the operator, if necessary. Your babysitter should be told who to call, too. Know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical and police help in your area. Nobody likes to think about emergencies at home. But, it's better to give it a little thought now, than be sorry you didn't later. Why not check out the family on your emergency phone call procedure right now?

Canton needs summerfest

When you think of Ann Arbor, the Michigan football team comes to mind. Mention Holland, Mich., and you think of tulips. And when it comes to Plymouth, Fall Festival is mentioned.

All these are examples of how a community can gain a sense of identity with an event, a team, or a local attraction.

Without a sense of identity, a community isn't really a community. It's a place where people happen to live.

So Plymouth has Fall Festival, but what does Canton have? As of now, nothing — which leads to a proposal. Nothing as grand as Detroit's Renaissance Center, but an idea, nevertheless.

What Canton needs is a summerfest. And it already has a good start. First, the Canton Jaycee Fair, could be combined with the Canton Chamber of Commerce Barbecue.

From here, the other service groups in the township could pitch in. The Canton Arts Council, an organization trying to get off the ground, could set up art booths.

A music night during the festival week might be a hit. The Canton senior citizen band could play, and the Plymouth Symphony could perform under the stars.

How about a junior Olympics? The Canton recreation department could organize the subdivisions into "nations" that would compete for ribbons.

The point would be: get everyone involved. Make them feel like they live in Canton, not like they just moved in from Westland.

If planning starts soon, it could be a reality next year.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Businessmen run Canton politics

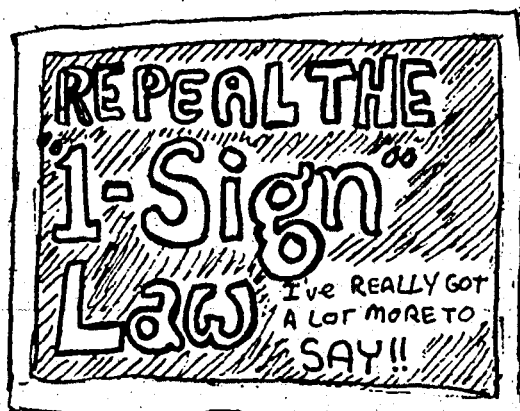

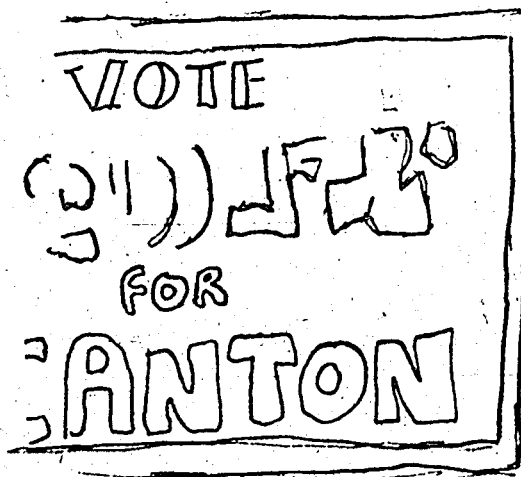

EDITOR:

What happened to the constitutional promise of governmental servants serving all the people? Now existing in Canton is a government of, for and by the Chamber of Commerce, which may become stronger. We have over-representation by a minority group of businesspeople (many of whom do not reside in Canton). These people determine our present/future taxes and quality of life; and leave the majority/residents with taxation and little or no representation. I feel this is gross abuse of power, especially since the newspapers with their well-known power are also chamber members and none of their business offices are located in Canton.

It is my belief that Canton government should be taken out of the hands of special interest and given back to the residents before it goes bankrupt from wild spending of the current administration.

MARTHA MILLER

Sign law violates rights

Anyone who lives in Canton can't help but notice the proliferation of election signs throughout the township. And few residents would probably not want any more campaign signs than there are now.

But an important principle is at stake: free speech. A statute of the township prohibits more than one election sign per residence. We think that's wrong. As one Canton trustee said, "You can speak, but only once."

With numerous races and issues on the ballot, a citizen should not be limited to an expression on only one matter.

When it comes to free speech vs. clutter, we'll take free speech.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Boost education, not pay

EDITOR:

While reading the article in the July 26 Crier regarding the raises our beloved administrators received, my mind couldn't help wondering back to the day we voted down the sizeable millage they asked for.

Their cry since then has been a familiar one to us, "We can't do this, or provide that, because its not in our budget."

Well, just let me ask you why your raise was in the budget and our children's education isn't? After all our children's education is what your job is all about.

There are so many places your raises could have gone, such as providing a textbook for each and every child in our district, so a teacher can send home homework and a child can work at home, hiring more teachers for our overcrowded classrooms and easing caseloads on the teachers in your special education department.

Frankly speaking readers, I feel there has been a gross mismanagement of school monies and their list of priorities needs a good going over.

I speak to you, not as a parent who worries about her two children in the Plymouth-Canton district, but I also think of all the other students as well.

A good education is so very important to all children and having to double up or even triple up on one textbook or putting more students into a classroom where 32 or more students are already is not my idea of a good education.

Think about it parents and voice your opinions too. Thank you.

Crier ignores facts on treasurer opinion

EDITOR:

How slanted and political can a newspaper be? The proof is in re-reading the opinion entitled "Why bother with treasurer?" in the Aug. 2 issue of The Crier on page 12.

If this opinion was taken seriously indicating that The Community Crier has any know how on reporting the facts — forget it citizens of Canton. The Crier was opinionated and lazy — not fact finders.

If any candidate did their so called "homework," Maria Falkiewicz was the champ.

The problem was this biased newspaper (The Crier) never gave Maria a chance either through print or a decent picture.

The Crier was entitled to speak of Bradley if they wished; she has been around long enough to warrant criticism.

Putting down a new opponent (slyly before the primary) because of their incompetence in writing a true story about this candidate was repulsive to a person who knows the facts.

As a committee member of the Friends to Elect Maria Falkiewicz for Treasurer, I was aware of the conservation of funds through her campaign and the integrity (for a change) of a candidate in not using others' influence or smear tactics.

Is it possible that The Crier only fact finds for those with a nice high campaign budget or for those with the "Right Friends?"

Back then nobody had heard of EEE Award homes.

At one time, when they built a house, one of its best features was a big front porch. And the most popular thing a porch could have was a wide, wooden swing.

Nowadays, the most important feature a house can have is energy efficiency because people are very concerned about keeping heating and cooling costs down.

That's why Detroit Edison presents its Energy Efficiency Excellence (EEE) Award to builders whose homes meet maximum standards in energy efficiency. EEE Award homes are properly insulated and are heated and cooled with an energy-saving heat pump, and could save you more than $260 a year in energy costs compared to homes using oil, propane or electric resistance heating.

Major appliances like refrigerators and freezers in EEE Award homes, if provided by the builder, are also energy efficient. Of course, it's important to use and maintain all major appliances properly so they don't waste energy.

If you'd like to visit an EEE Award home, call or stop in at any Detroit Edison Customer Office and ask for the names of builders who have EEE Award homes on display.

Drunkennness: crime, no; problem, yes

BY ROBERT KIAN

Under a state law that took effect in January, simple public intoxication can no longer be treated as an offense in Plymouth and Canton, but as a temporary medical emergency.

According to state representative Thomas Brown, who pushed for the measure, a person appearing drunk publicly is not arrested under this law, but put into protective custody by a policeman and taken to a treatment facility.

"The modern consensus is that intoxication is a medical problem rather than a legal one," Brown said.

But Plymouth Police Chief Tim Ford sees problems spring-

'The law has limited our ability to deal with intoxicated persons who drive' - Police Chief Tim Ford.

ing from the new law.

"The concept of it is fine, but it's solved none of the problems," Ford said.

Officers, he says, are at civil risk by making on-the-street diagnoses. A patrolman, for instance, could "in good faith," diagnose an unconscious diabetic as a drunk. By allowing the person to "sleep it off" at a detoxification center, police would be taking a chance on the person dying at a facility not equipped to treat him, or en route to one that could once a diagnosis were made.

Under the law, persons staggering along the street may not be approached by a policeman. If the persons collapses, the officer may then intervene. Says Ford, "We will treat them as medical emergencies and rush them to emergency service, not a treatment center, where there are competent people to make decisions."

The nearest of the 13 "permanently designated" emergency facilities is Wayne County General Hospital in Westland, a 40-minute drive, according to Ford.

It is a shorter trip to Ypsilanti's St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, which Ford feels is better-staffed and less crowded.

Difficulty arises with the bill's language, Ford noted. The word "shall" mandates transportation provided by policemen. Using police cars to transport incapacitated individuals is taking manpower from the force, Ford said.

Referring to the experience of St. Louis with a similar bill, he said theirs is a model program. Officers are permitted to approach walking drunks and hold them at the station until a designated vehicle can be dispatched to get them to a detoxification center. That way, the policeman is relieved of having to make a diagnosis and risk a possible lawsuit.

Neither Ford or Canton Chief Walter MacGregor has had much experience with the bill. MacGregor says his force has always exercised reasonableness in handling street intoxication, saying,

"It's dependent on the facts in the case and our ability to help him." In some cases, Canton officers have taken drunks home if the intoxicated were already trying to go home, he said.

MacGregor said, "I've got to believe (the law) has got it's good points and bad points - you can't set a total policy in a situation."

The law still allows disorderly drunks to be arrested, yet Ford sees a problem with drinking motorists.

"The law has limited our ability to deal with intoxicated persons who drive," he said. Motorists, once out of their cars, are "untouchable at the scene."

The problems of "letting them sleep it off" include injury to the person while in custody, compounded by the fact that he has not even been charged. Ford says that Plymouth's best protection is direct transportation to a hospital for proper diagnosis.

Mechanics hired despite objections

Two mechanics were hired by Canton's Board of Trustees last week, despite charges from one trustee that the board's employment procedures were being broken.

Trustee Lynne Goldsmith said that the township had not tested applicants for the two positions as required by the board.

Finance Director Mike Gorman agreed with Goldsmith but said that under the township's contract with the union, Canton was required to hire the pair.

"The union agreement states that a person hired on a trial basis is either hired or fired after 30 days," said Gorman. "Since the two have been working longer than that, we should hire them."

Gorman said he realized that the hirings did not conform to the board rules, but "the union agreement supercedes them."

"We should have brought the situation to the board's attention before it was too late, but fortunately they are two excellent people. They have proved themselves.

The two given full-time, permanent positions are: Mechanic Fred Krause and Mechanic Helper Dennis Daley. Krause will earn $7 per hour, and Daley, $2.65.

Native son aims for top

Few Plymouthites may realize it, but the city has a native son running for governor.

Peter Signorelli, Plymouth High School Class of 1959, is seeking the state's highest office on the U.S. Labor Party.

While at PHS, he was editor of the yearbook, a Junior Rotarian and was active in the Model United Nations where he represented Poland.

Caution: sports car may be unmarked cop

Canton Township purchased a 1979 Pontiac Firebird last Tuesday to be used as an unmarked police investigative car.

Selected over a Pontiac Phoenix by the Board of Trustees, the Firebird was recommended by Det. Sgt. Larry Stewart because its console is an ideal place to install a police radio, its resale value is higher, and it "fits the community make-up more closely than the Phoenix."

The Firebird will cost $5,749.

Dear Hank,

On Wednesday, July 5, I received a call from an elderly man I'd never met. He said, "Can I have some of your time?" and asked me to stop by his house in Plymouth Township.

I paid him a visit and he told me he wanted to sell his home. He was 78 years old. He said, "You and I are strangers, but I feel as if I know you, I've been reading your little article in The Crier for some time now - It has good information, and that's why I'm calling you."

He listed his house with me the next day, and I sold it for him the following Monday.

In business, you do so many things to get your name out, to get exposure. Then right off the bat this gentleman says, "I've been reading your column." Advertising in The Crier certainly pays off! Thanks for your help and I look forward to working with you in the future!

Sincerely yours,

Leaders retire; Goodfellow future uncertain in Canton

BY HANK MEIJER

For the first time in more than a quarter of a century, there will be no one in Canton to make sure there's "No Kiddie Without a Christmas" if volunteers don't step forward in the next few months.

"No Kiddie Without a Christmas" has been the vow of the Canton Goodfellows organization since the early 1950s. But this year, the group's long-time president, Ken Witt, and treasurer, John Wiles, have announced their retirement.

"I've just got too many other things going, I just don't have the time any more," said Witt, who is a sergeant in the township fire department. "It's time somebody else takes over."

Witt has been president of the Goodfellows chapter in Canton for five years now. He was recently elected senior vice-president of the township's new Veterans of Foreign Wars post. He's also going to teach township residents cardio-pulmonary resuscitation in classes at the Fire Hall this fall.

Last year the Goodfellows sold their special 'Goodfellow Edition' of The Crier at local street corners and shopping centers to raise money to provide food and toys for more than 50 local youngsters - but only because Witt and Wiles enlisted half a dozen other volunteers.

In a letter to The Crier Monday Witt said, "The books are closed for the year and for the era of the old-fashioned newsboys. This type of newsboy started many years ago, even went door to door with his 'local' newspaper to be sure 'no child went without a Christmas.'

"Those who have served these past years have retired as of this date and will no longer be connected with this organization," he noted. "The bills were paid and things were short this year, but we did the best with what we had... The officers and helpers feel a new way must be found to meet the need, and they feel this must be done with a new staff."

Right now, Witt has no idea who will take over the leadership of the Goodfellows. If no one new steps in, Christmas could be a little darker this year for some needy Canton children.

Growth spurs district to hire new teachers

At a time when pink slips are being littered across the desks of teachers around the country, and school doors are being closed due to a shortage of pupils, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will be hiring about 10-15 new teachers, according to Norm Kee, Asst. Supt. of Employee Relations.

Teachers will be hired in areas such as home economics and media. The list of these new teachers will be submitted to the Board for final approval on Monday, Aug. 14 at the Board meeting.

Kee also added that eight elementary teachers have been displaced and must be placed in other schools, and 10-12 teachers, formerly on a leave of absence, will be returning to teach in the district.

Board talks about how to get along

Members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education spent more than two hours Monday night trying to improve their decision-making abilities at a workshop session.

Board members focused on specific areas such as trust, respect, and unity, and tried to assess their actions in terms of three relationships: board to board, board to community, and board to administration.

In other business, Supt. John Hoben proposed that a researcher be contracted to evaluate instructional programs in the district.

A full-time researcher can be contracted at $125 per day for the school year for about $28,000, said Hoben.

High schoolers: register for scheduling by Aug. 18

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: August 9, 1978

High school registration at Centennial Educational Park through the new arena scheduling is set for Aug. 14-18. Materials for registration were mailed to students last week.

The registration schedule is as follows: seniors will sign up for classes Aug. 14, juniors on August 15, sophomores on Aug. 16, and freshmen on Aug. 17. Special education students register Aug. 11. A make-up day will be held on August 18.

The regular registration period for arena scheduling at the high schools ends at 2 p.m. on Aug. 18. A second registration is set for Aug. 28 and 29 from 1 to 3:30 p.m. in room 128 at Canton High School.

All students who miss the first arena scheduling period for any reason may sign up for their classes either Aug. 28 or 29. Only classes which still have space for students may be chosen at that time. Information about class openings can be obtained at the school during the registration periods.

New students may meet with high school counselors for class selection during any registration day. They can then go through the arena scheduling process at their assigned time or on one of the make-up days.

New students must first call the pupil accountant, Ginnie Bagon, at the Board Office, at 453-0200, ext. 421. She will set up an appointment to draw an assignment to Canton or Salem High School. Counseling appointments for new students are also made through the pupil accountant.

Panel plans survey of merger sentiment

About 500 local residents will be surveyed this fall on their attitudes towards unification of services between the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Registered voters in both governmental areas will be polled by the Citizens Committee for United Services, a group investigating the merger of services in the two communities.

The survey will be done by Oz Olstad, a marketing statistician for Ford Motor Co., who has volunteered his efforts. About $600 will be needed for printing and mailing costs, however, said Ed Wendover, a member of the committee.

"This will be the first survey done on this matter," said Wendover.

S'craft offers adult 're-entry'

Schoolcraft College has scheduled an orientation workshop on Wednesday, August 16, for mature persons considering entering or returning to college.

The workshop will be held from 9-11:30 a.m. in the Liberal Arts Building, room B200. It is sponsored by the Women's Resource Center (WRC).

A tour of the campus will be offered, and for those who would like to stay, lunch will be available in the Waterman Center. To register, call the Center at 591-6400, Ext. 430.

Canton cop pay hike OK'd

Canton police received nine per cent raises last week, bringing their pay up to the level of the township firemen.

The Board of Trustees also approved last Tuesday a pay schedule that will boost the policemen's pay five per cent starting Jan. 1, 1979, and another five per cent on Jan. 1, 1980.

Affected by the salary adjustments are 10 patrolmen and four sergeants in the force.

The nine per cent raise, which went into effect July 31, raised a starting patrolman's salary from $12,343 to $13,454. Similarly, a sergeant's pay went from $17,921 to $19,534.

On Jan. 1, 1979, starting patrolman will make $14,127, while beginning sergeants will earn $20,511. And on Jan. 1, 1980, sergeants will make $21,537.

The board also approved a series of yearly wages for patrolmen. After one year of service, patrolmen will earn $15,683, and after two years employment, $19,115.

Since the force didn't start full time until this summer, the first group of patrolmen will not be eligible for these raises until next summer.

Forest Place lot paved

PLYMOUTH'S newest development, Forest Place, neared completion as workmen paved its parking lot last week. The complex of eight shops will probably open near Fall Festival time in September. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Sprinkling rules watered down

Canton's Board of Trustees simplified the township's sprinkling regulations last Tuesday by eliminating the time-of-day restrictions.

Under the new rules, residents can sprinkle throughout the day, if the rules otherwise permit them to water.

The change puts the following ban in effect to conserve water: If the National Weather Bureau forecasts a temperature more than 80 degrees, residents are restricted to every-other day outdoor watering (sprinkling, car washing, etc.).

Under the rules, if the last digit in your address is an even number, you can water on an even-numbered day, and vice versa for odd numbered residences and days.

The hourly restrictions hurt working couples and lawns that need extra water, according to Clerk John Flodin.

He also said citizens were co-operating with the rules and water pressure in the Canton system has increased.

Yockey back at meeting

City Manager Fred Yockey attended his first City Commission meeting Monday night since undergoing his second operation on a tumor located behind his inner ear.

"The doctors told me I'm doing fine, however I expect a third operation some time in the future," he said.

City allocates drainage funds

The Plymouth City Commission Monday night allocated an extra $2,000 to improve the Tonquish Creek's drainage.

The money will pay workers from Growthworks, the city's youth center, to build erosion walls on the creek's bank in the northwest section of the city.

Growthworks has already spent $5,332 of city-approved funds on building similar walls on Byron Creek in Plymouth.

Tractor bought

A tractor with backhoe was purchased by the City of Plymouth Monday night.

The City Commission voted unanimously to buy the "new heavy duty industrial wheel tractor with loader and backhoe" from the Sinelli Tractor & Equipment Company, Inc. The firm's bid of $24,000 was the lowest of three submitted.

Following court order

Water bills to shrink

Suburban household will be protected against future overcharges and will enjoy a savings in their water bills due to a Federal court ruling on Detroit sewage treatment charges, according to the chairman of the Wayne County Board of Public Works.

County Commissioner William Sullivan (D-Wyandotte) described the orders handed down recently by U. S. District Judge John Feikens as "an important victory for the suburbs that will have far-reaching effects."

The immediate effect for households in 19 Wayne County communities which are served by the Wayne County Department of Public Works (WCDPW) will be a savings of $1.50 per year in their water bills retroactive to July 1, reported Sullivan.

Feikens ordered that all future rate adjustments by Detroit be reviewed by a court-appointed "master." He ruled that suburban customers were being charged for sewage treatment improvements which benefit only Detroiters. He ordered a rate reduction for the suburbs.

The County Board of Public Works passed on the court-ordered reduction in the Detroit rate charged to suburbs by reducing the County rate from $2.08 per million cubic feet to $2 per million, retroactive to July 1.

The rate cut applies to Canton Township, the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and many other western suburbs.

Puppets dance in new theater

BY PAT BARTOLD
Puppets walked, talked, and danced their way across the stage of the new Puppet Theatre at Eriksson Elementary school last Thursday afternoon.

Sixty dollars of lumber and labor had made the new Puppet Theatre a reality for Kitty Touhey, art teacher at Eriksson. She had the idea for constructing the theatre, and her husband, William, built the made-to fifth-grade-size wooden box. The project was funded by the Parent-Teacher Organization.

At the same time that the Touheys were designing and constructing the theatre, fifth-grade students at Eriksson were planning their first production.

In art class, they sculptured plaster-of-Paris puppets around sticks which could be held from under the stage floor. Old men and women, cows and geese, and barnyard kids almost came to life as they molded and painted the characters, under Mrs. Touhey's direction.

In English class, after the text of the story "Gwendolyn and the Miracle Hen," had been adapted to a play by teacher Elaine Aron, the students practiced assuming the voices of their characters. The story was narrated by a chorus of students sitting in the "wings" of the theatre.

All efforts culminated before a kindergarten audience last week and as the story unfolded, the children broke into smiles and applause.

'Tramps Hollow' now a memory

BY CHAS CHILD

A small piece of Plymouth history will be lost soon, although only a few elderly people remember it well.

Tramps Hollow, a wooded ravine just west of the city that for years was a home for train-traveling hobos, has been bulldozed to make room for a new highway, M-14.

Since trains going in all four directions slowed down and stopped near the woods, it became a natural one-night stand for the Knights of the Open Road, who have become as much a part of American folklore as Gen. George Custer and Paul Bunyan.

The wooded acres was also a natural playground for children. "There was not a kid in the area who didn't play in the area," said John Oldenburg of Blunk Street in Plymouth.

"We'd go back there and have cookouts and have fun," he said, remembering back to around 1910. "And we would talk to the tramps, who were harmless, of course."

"Those were the days before social security, and these people didn't have any money. So they traveled from one state to another, doing odd jobs for a meal."

Back then there were as many as eight or 10 tramps on one freight train, Oldenburg said. Also, they used to be kicked off the trains and thrown in jail, where "they got a free meal," he said with a laugh.

Another person who remembers "the good old days" is Herald Hamill, former Plymouth Township engineer.

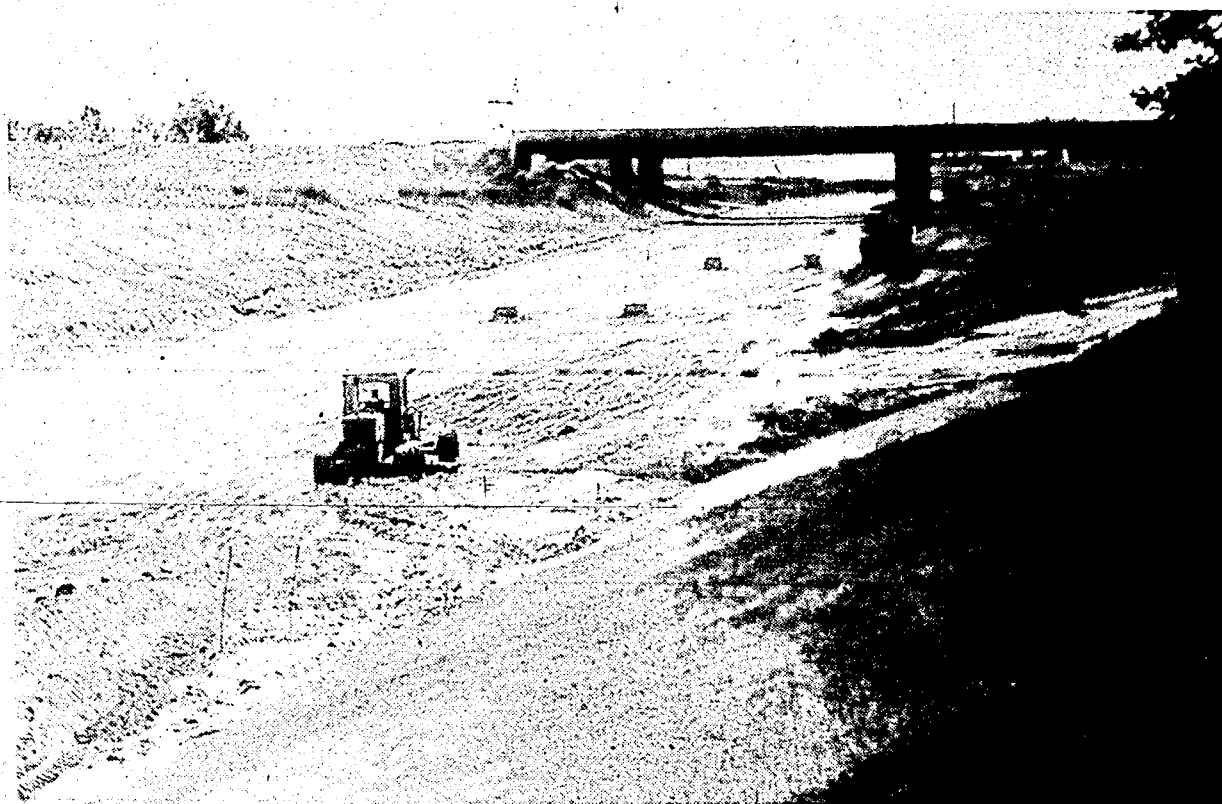

"For probably 100 years, Tramps Hollow was a home for hobos in this area," he said.

"I remember going up there and seeing campfires and shelters in the brush."

The Depression caused many men to wander on the freights, said Hamill. "There was a market in town that gave a load of day-old bread and a can of salmon to hobos during the Depression. Sometimes, they'd give out 25 in a day."

Hamill, who officially gave the area the name Tramps Hollow by putting it on township maps, said the woods would have made an excellent park. "With bicycle paths, it would have been very nice," he said.

"I'm sorry to see one of the old landmarks go," said Oldenburg, "but we have to make room for progress, don't we?"

PROGRESS DOOMS HOBO HAVEN. Tramps Hollow, a wooded area west of the City of Plymouth has been virtually all bulldozed

Most of our grads go on to college

A survey of 1977 Canton and Salem High School graduates indicates that 57 per cent are continuing their education in college, and 68 per cent are employed, either full or part-time.

Further results indicate that 31 per cent are employed full-time, 4 per cent are in the military, and 8 per cent are neither employed nor in school.

Of the 57 per cent in college, 36 per cent attend a four-year institution, whereas 2 per cent attend a two-year college. Forty-three per cent of those attending college are full-time students, and 14 per cent are part-time students. The most frequently chosen field to study is business.

Although 31 per cent of the graduates are employed and not in school, 37 per cent are both employed and attending college. Salaries ranged from $2.65 per hour to $12 per hour with an average of $3.65 per hour.

The survey, conducted by Joyce E. Willise, job placement specialist with the Plymouth-Canton schools was compiled from 78 per cent of the graduates.

To be Canton's big gala?

Fair a winner, Jaycees say

The Canton Jaycees have announced that this year's Canton Jaycee Fair revenues far surpassed those of any previous year.

Revenues raised at July's fair will benefit the Canton library, little league, senior citizens, and the Ann Arbor burn center, in addition to providing funds for other community programs which the Jaycees support.

Although the most successful fair ever, Ed Rasmussen, chairman of the 1978 Jaycee Fair said that "it should have been better. The Jaycees run the annual fair for the Canton community, and will be totally happy with the event only when every church, professional group, social club, and business organization participates. Although the event is called the Canton Jaycee Fair, it really should be called the Canton Fair.

"Farmington has a Founder's week, Plymouth has a Fall Festival, and many other communities have major fairs or festivals. Why can't Canton get it all together and hold a big gala event and put itself on the map?" he said.

The Jaycees wish to thank the following persons and businesses who did get involved in this year's fair: Pat Zelek, Harold Stein, Centennial CBer's, Bob Suggs, Lafayette Coney Island, the Kitchen Band, Mickey's Dance Company, Master of Arts Dance Studio, Klan MacRae

Real Estate

BY WILLIAM DECKER

REALTOR

FALSE ECONOMIES

There are many ways to cut corners when you sell your home. But some of these may be very costly in the final outcome. I refer to selling without the services of a REALTOR and attorney. Their experience and knowledge could easily be the best financial insurance you can buy. An attorney can be well worth his fee if he steers you clear of a single financial or legal pitfall.

Trying to play expert by filling in the blanks of standard deeds, purchase and sales agreements, binders, or financial forms can easily backfire. Some of the biggest monetary losses have come about precisely in this manner.

Select a REALTOR from the start. Listen to his recommendation for the best selling price. He knows the local market. Let him handle the whole transaction for you -- from advertising, showing, financial arrangements down to the final closing. Anything less could be very false economy. Selling a home is serious financial business. It should be handled just that way.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main St. Plymouth. Phone: 455-8400. We're here to help!

THRESHERS PITCH sheaves of wheat into the 54 year old separator.

Vintage steam thresher helps with harvest here

BY PAT BARTOLD

Those good old days aren't quite so old. They happened just last month when Plymouth Township farmer Wilford Bunyea fired up the stove, got the engine steaming, blew the whistle, and let the old steam thresher huff and puff.

The steam engine powers the thresher which separates the grain from the chaff — or at least, it used to, at the turn of the century. The modern combine has replaced the thresher and steam engine.

But the glory of the steam engine still lives in the hearts of old farmers like Bunyea.

Late in July, Bunyea fired up the steam engine just "for fun — it's my hobby," he claims. He wanted to re-enact some of the joys and hard work of using the steam engine and thresher to harvest his wheat.

After cutting the wheat, tying the stalks into bundles called shocks, and letting the shocks dry in the sun, the steam engine was ready to start.

"I fired it up until I had 100 pounds of steam," Bunyea began, "and then we fed the bundles of wheat into the feeder. This cuts the string that binds the shocks. Then it goes through the machine and series of rolling knives actually separate the grain from the stalk, dirt, and straw. The straw is shot into the baler and the grain is loaded into trucks and taken to the mill."

But consider this technological fact: One man can operate a modern combine, but it took 20 men to thresh at the turn of the century. What may be a little bit of history to us, adds up to a lot of hard work and sweat to men like Wilford Bunyea.

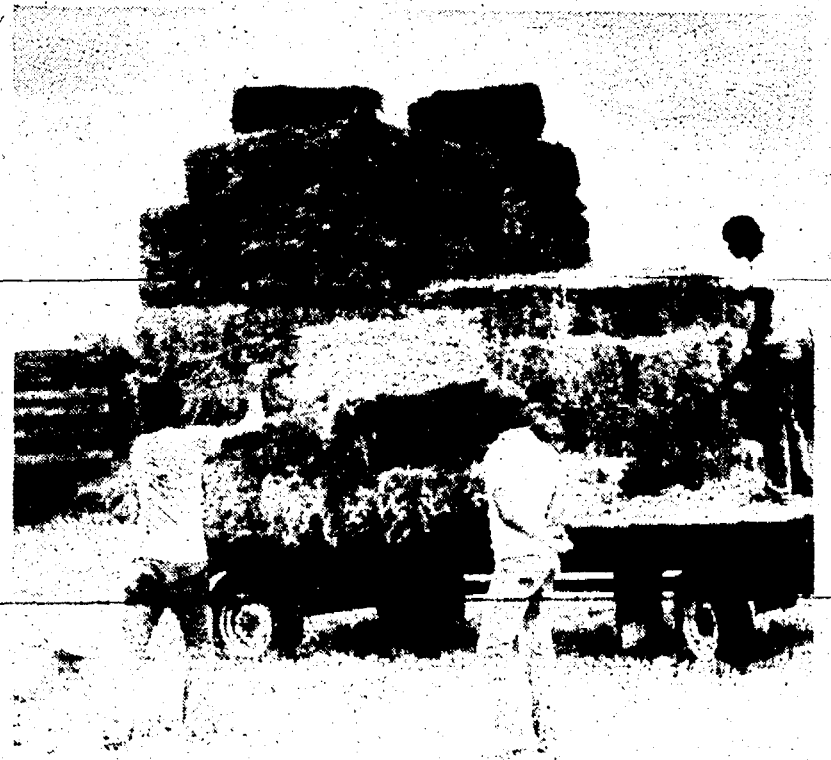

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS like Fritz and Christi gathered at the Bunyea farm in Plymouth Township to 'oversee' the harvest.

"Taxpayers want to see what they're getting for their tax dollar," Tom Yack, president of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education told a group of vocational education teachers, "and we've got to respond to that need. Voc-ed programs suffer from a low-profile image and we must communicate with the public to let them know what we're doing."

Sprucing up a low-profile image for voc-ed programs was the discussion topic in Kellogg Park Friday afternoon.

Vocational educational programs effect about 900 students in the Plymouth-Canton school district. The programs aim to provide students with entry-level job skills in areas such as culinary arts, child care, dental assistance, distributive education, commercial art, auto mechanics, food service management, office occupations, commercial photography, cosmetology, and health occupations.

"We make no distinction between the college-bound and the non-college bound student," said Harold Gaertner, director of the Voc-Ed program at Plymouth-Canton High Schools, "We provide occupational skills beyond general education."

We don't talk about what a kid knows, we talk about what a kid can do, said Pauline Ragland, of Detroit Kettering High School.

"We see voc-ed as a stepping stone to learn a skill to earn money to go to college," said Terri Handlin of business office occupations at Forest Hills High School in Grand Rapids.

Yack offered specific suggestions to teachers interested in improving their relations with the community. "We need to work on communicating and informing the public about our programs, our students, and our willingness to work with the business community in establishing students in job-situations."

Yack suggested that teachers make their programs visible by holding open houses for the public, scheduling conferences for both students and parents, writing newsletters, planning orientation programs for businesses, and sponsoring contests in the community.

He also recommended that an intensive follow-up survey be taken after graduation to count the number of students who have pursued a job in the voc-ed program they studied in high school.

"Voc-ed is one of the best opportunities to teach responsibility," said Yack, "and we should be stressing good attitudes toward work and the work ethic. We've got to teach responsibility, self-motivation, co-operation and teamwork. We can't isolate the educational experience from what will happen to him in the job-situation," he continued.

The teachers met in Kellogg Park in Plymouth in a workshop for the Occupational Educational Teacher's Summer Institute Masters Program at the University of Michigan.

City Hall expansion OK'd

City Manager Fred Yockey got an unofficial green light from the City Commission Monday night to proceed with preliminary plans to expand City Hall.

Meeting as a committee of the whole, the commissioners voiced approval of a scaled down proposal of a more ambitious proposal submitted earlier in the year.

As planned, the $568,000 addition (down from approximately $900,000) would add space for the police and fire departments, and the 35th District Court.

"We've looked at the alternatives," said Mayor Tom Turner. "We need to fish or cut bait on this matter."

Although final figures have not been prepared on the plan, Yockey said the money for the expansion would come from a raise in the city's millage of three-tenths of a mill over 25 years.

He said he would prepare a final estimate of the costs for the commission's next meeting on Aug. 21.

About two-thirds of the extra space is needed for the court, said Turner, to which Yockey replied: "We've maintained that the court should be kept in the city because we have lawyers coming into town. There's no doubt the money returns to the city."

Although both Turner and Yockey agreed that the city is required by law to provide space for the court, Turner said, "I'd like to charge the court rent."

Mark Wollenweber, assistant to the city manager, said he investigated leasing the space in the city, but found that rent payments would be equal to bond payments for the addition.

Assessment meeting set

A public hearing to verify two special assessment rolls on the 1978 street paving program was set by the Plymouth City Commission Monday night.

The assessments will be for asphalt resurfacing of the following streets: Fralick Street

Street to Harding Street; Church Street to Farmer Street; Hartsough Street from Main Street to Roosevelt; and Harvey Street from Penniman Avenue to Junction.

The hearing will be at City Hall on Monday, Aug. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

A Canton woman, Andrea MacVicar, was one of 40 of Michigan's most promising creative writers to attend the 12th Cranbrook Writers' Conference in Bloomfield Hills Aug. 3 to 6.

those writers from Michigan's 34 colleges and universities picked by the competitive manuscript process.

MacVicar, of Courtland Avenue, attends Marygrove College.

Bankers promoted

Two Plymouth bankers have been promoted at the Michigan National Bank of Detroit in Plymouth. Michael L. Nudi and Robert K. Failing have been named Assistant Vice Presidents.

Prior to joining the bank in 1977, Nudi was employed by the U.S. Treasury office as a National Bank Examiner.

Horton cops 2 tennis titles

BY ERIC OLSON

Kathy Horton upended Becky Crespo 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 Monday night to complete the women's 16 and over division of the City of Plymouth Crier Tennis Tournament. The tournament, originally scheduled for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday had to be continued on Monday because of the length of several matches and the work schedule of some of the players.

Rain forced Horton and Crespo to move inside to the Huron Valley Tennis Club courts after the first set.

Horton and Crespo took top honors as they each won three trophies: singles, doubles, and mixed doubles.

In a rematch of last year's final Ken Bloom downed top seeded Curt Schultz in the men's 16 and over division by a 6-4, 6-3 score. Last year Schultz beat Bloom.

Crespo and Horton teamed to win the women's doubles over Louise Stahley 6-1, 6-1. They are also in the mixed doubles final with Crespo playing with Bloom and Horton with Dave Nelson. The match is scheduled for later this week.

Schultz pairing with Dick Cook avenged his loss in singles by taking the men's doubles title by beating Bob Braun and Scott Crespo 6-3, 6-4. Earlier, Crespo easily captured the 13-15 boy's singles crown by trouncing Doug Baker 6-0, 6-1.

Betsy Moon took the 13-15 girl's singles championship by

The Jensen Separates

J-1001 Control Unit...A High Fidelity feature you'd hardly expect to find in a car stereo system.

Two 6" x 9" Woofers. Featuring new 20 oz. magnets for extra power handling and high efficiency. Flexair foam cone suspension for lower distortion. Mount in rear deck for full, well-defined bass.

FAR & AWAY the most technologically ADVANCED CAR STEREO we have ever produced.

- 2- 6"x9" woofers
- 2- 3 1/2" midranges
- 2- 2" tweeters

AT AUTO ENTERTAINMENT YOU KNOW YOU'RE GETTING THE BEST RESULTS

THE PRINCIPLE:

Acoustically, the interior of a car is nothing like a living room. So for optimum sound reproduction in your car, all sound should not originate from the same location.

The woofers need the large volume of the trunk to provide solid, deep bass.

While the midranges and tweeters should be located in the front of the car, where they can deliver all of their mid and high frequencies that could otherwise be lost.

but a definite anti-Stein vote. The incumbent supervisor has been criticized for his alleged failure to deal with complaints of new homeowners in the township and for his "pro-growth" stands.

Greenstein's potent political machine not only boosted him, but propelled Culbert, Falkiewicz and Bodenmiller to victory.

Despite Greenstein's victory in the trustee's race, some persons said he might try for the supervisor's chair with a write-in campaign. Greenstein denied the report. "In Canton, the supervisor really is not the boss," he said.

The unofficial totals looked like this: In the Democratic supervisor's race, Culbert polled 1,663 votes and Stein, 1,077. Republican Longridge got 547 votes.

For Treasurer, Falkiewicz tallied 1,377 votes, edging Bradley with 1,239. Donahue, a Republican totaled 544 votes.

In the Democratic trustee race, Greenstein polled 1,433 votes, while Bodenmiller had 1,136. Larry Bowerman finished third with 952 and McMurray got 913. Robert Schaetzl was fifth with 646 votes.
