Monica Shields, daughter of Canton residents Jim and Margaret Shields. The Christmas tree is that of Canton's Steve and Phyllis Redfern family. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Let your boat of life be light, packed with only what you need—a lovely home and simple pleasures, one or two friends, worth the name,
someone to love and someone to love you,
a cat, a dog, and a pipe or two,
enough to eat and enough to wear,
and a little more than enough to drink;
for thirst is a dangerous thing.

Out of 5 points Hoben ranges from 4.5 to 2.0

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

If you work for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, you're never too old for report cards.

At last Monday night's board workshop, Superintendent Mike Hoben's work was appraised and rated on a scale of 0 (low level) to 5 (high satisfaction) by board members. Hoben's "grades" were an average of seven ratings given by each member of the board.

His "grades" on 65 tasks ranged from a high of 4.5 to a low of 2.0 with 29 tasks receiving a rating of 3.5 or above and 20 tasks still "in process."

"It's an emerging, on-going process that requires continual evaluation and fine tuning," said President Tom Yack after the meeting.

"In a sense, we're trying to see if this process of evaluation works as well as the progress on each of the tasks the superintendent and his administrative staff has been assigned," said Yack.

However, the system is not flawless, said board member Carol Davis as she explained giving a 3.0 rating on one task because "I saw it as a middle-of-the-road-kind of grade that said he was doing alright."

Yack said: "Members of the board had trouble standardizing their ratings. An 'A' means different standards of performance for different teachers," he said.

This goal-oriented process was initiated by both board members and administrators with each task established and given a high-or-low priority rating before July 1, said Yack. Then each task was assigned to Hoben or a person in his administration and given a date to be completed by, said Yack.

Part of this process is an appraisal of the superintendent by the board every three months, said Yack.

The appraisal is separated into tasks under the following categories: administrative management, instructional management, financial management, operational management, research and development management, public relations and community relations management, and human resource management.

Hoben received two 4.5 ratings, both under administrative management for the tasks of: monitoring administrative decisions and procedures and communicating results and positions; and, assisting the board in identifying and prioritizing their goals and objectives for the 1978-79 school year.

His low grade of 2.0 was for the initiation of a transfer plan for exchange of administrators between buildings, programs, or services during the 1978-79 school year.

According to the composite appraisal, only three members of the board graded the superintendent on this item and the reasons for the low rating were because board members hadn't seen a program or plan for the program. The composite paper said the board would discuss this idea more.

Farm issue returns

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

The Canton farmland preservation issue that failed by a narrow margin in the November election is coming to life again.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said the newest idea for preserving farmland would give property owners tax credits on the millage they pay.

Culbert explained that the average homeowner would have paid $108 a year had the four mills passed.

If Congress were to approve federal income tax credits or the state legislature to grant state income tax or property tax credits, homeowners would pay a minimum towards the purchase of agricultural land development rights.

Sewers to be tested

Don't be alarmed if you see smoke coming from City of Plymouth sewers today. The Plymouth Department of Public Works will begin smoke-testing the entire city sewer system beginning Wednesday, Dec. 27 and continuing on Dec. 28, 29 and throughout January.

Smoke testing is part of the Sewer System Evaluation Survey, which was approved by the Plymouth City Commission, said Ken Vogras, DPW director. The object of the test is to determine if all residential, commercial and industrial structures are properly connected to the sewer system and if there are any broken

Knollwood Cemetery faces legal battle

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

A Canton Township cemetery, which has been fighting with the State Cemetery Commission to keep its license since 1974, now faces a stiffer state fight and a foreclosure of its mortgage as well.

According to a spokesman for the state body which licenses and oversees cemeteries, Knollwood Cemetery is currently behind $129,452.20 in its merchandise trust fund and $41,642.28 in its endowed care trust fund.

State law requires that a percentage of "before need" cemetery plots and marker sales be put into trust to insure adequate monies are available at the time of death, and that plots will be maintained after the burial.

Since October, 1974, the State Cemetery Commission alleges that Knollwood's trust funds have been short.

Last March, the commission took steps to reject Knollwood's license but the cemetery filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court and obtained an injunction blocking its license revocation.

If Knollwood's license were revoked, the state will seek the appointment of a receiver for the cemetery.

A spokesman for the Michigan Attorney General's office told The Crier last week that the state would soon seek resolution of the case and its injunction which are stalled on the heavy county court docket.

Gary Eppolito, treasurer of Knollwood Memorial Park Cemetery, Inc., told The Crier he did not wish to comment on the state's allegations about

When asked to comment on the legal problems facing Canton's Knollwood Cemetery, Gary Eppolito, treasurer of the cemetery, said he would not talk to a "Muckraking, degenerating depraved newspaper such as you."

shortages in the trust funds other than to say that laws discriminate against newer cemeteries. (Knollwood was started in 1968.)

He said it takes 15 to 20 years before a cemetery becomes profitable and "legislation is unjust to any new cemetery organization and therefore we have no new cemeteries in the State of Michigan."

Two years ago, when The Crier first reported on the alleged trust fund shortages at Knollwood, Eppolito said then the shortages would be made up soon with the proceeds from the sale of land owned by Sam Tocco, president and principal owner of Knollwood.

A state spokesman said some of the money missing from the trust funds was replaced, but that the amounts never met the required levels since the first audit in 1974 showed a shortage. The state alleges that Knollwood's trust funds shortages have increased since they were first discovered.

The State of Michigan licensing is not the only legal problem facing the Canton cemetery.

According to records filed in Macomb County Circuit Court, Tocco has defaulted on two promissory notes totalling $329,371.85 which used Knollwood Cemetery as collateral.

The notes, dated Sept. 10, 1976 and Dec. 7, 1977 were made to National Bank of Southfield (now Manufacturers Bank of Southfield) which filed suit to collect on the Tocco debt.

If the loans are not repaid, the suit asks that the undeveloped portions of Knollwood be foreclosed upon. The developed portions would not be affected by the suit, according to state law.

Asked to comment on the Macomb County lawsuit, Eppolito said he would not talk to a "muckraking, degenerating, depraved newspaper such as you."

Canton to meet Jan. 9 at noon

The Canton Township board meeting scheduled for Jan. 9 at 7 p.m. has been rescheduled for noon on that day. Most of the board members will be leaving that afternoon for Grand Rapids to attend the annual Michigan Township Association Convention. The board meetings are held in the new township hall on Canton Center Road.

Canton hopes to recover back taxes

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

Canton Township is hopeful of recovering money lost when an error was made on taxing commercial property, located on the northeast corner of Warren and Morton-Taylor Road. According to the tax records, the two parcels of land were assessed at $200 in 1977 after an assessed valuation in 1976 of $6,000.

Someone at Wayne County taxed the property as a park said Township Clerk John Flodin, "but I think the money can be made up."

Mike Gorman, finance director for the township said someone working at Wayne County Bureau of Taxation saw the name of the subdivision, Windsor Park, on the form and thought the land was being used as a park.

He said he did not think there was any misrepresentation on the part of the owner, "if you were taxed at a lower rate on your property, would you complain?" Although the property is not now owned by the same person, Gorman was hopeful that the township would collect the back taxes.

 pipes underground.

Vogras asked residents to put at least one quart of water in all floor drains to prevent smoke from entering the house.

However, don't be alarmed if smoke enters your home. The smoke is not toxic and will not harm household pets, said Vogras.

If smoke should enter your home, contact a member of the crew in the area or call the DPW office at 453-7737 to determine why smoke entered the home, said Vogras.

Vogras expects smoke to be seen coming out of the roof vents of the house or in some older homes that have side vents. If the house has eaves troughs connected to the sanitary sewer, smoke will also be seen there, said Vogras.

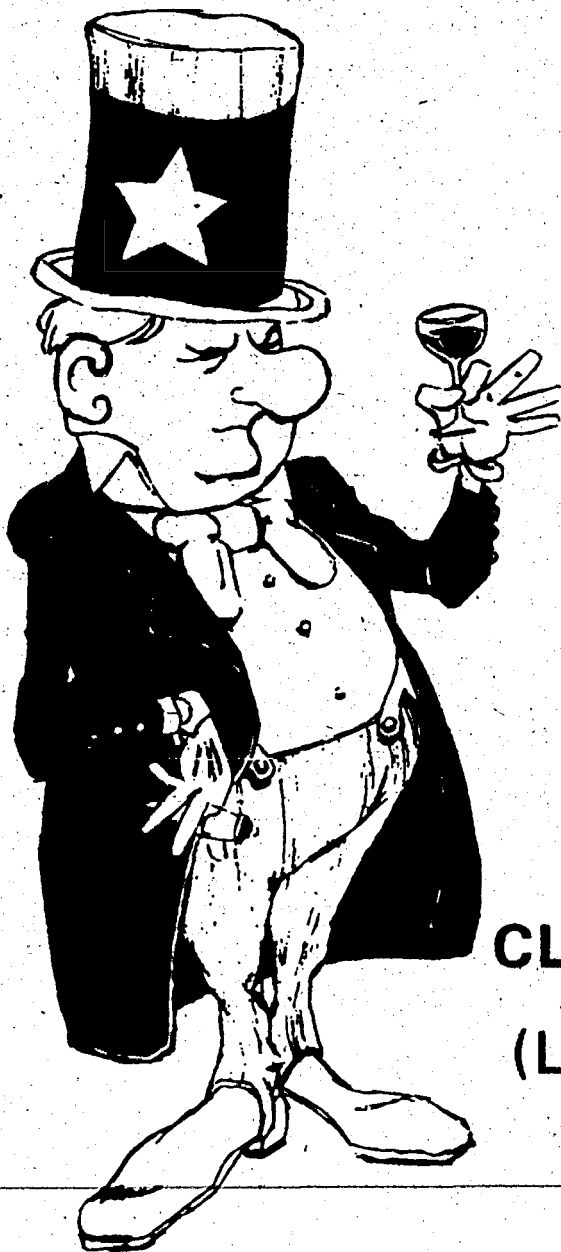

Smoke testing will begin in the area bounded by Leicester to the west, Theodore to the east and Junction north and south to Ann Arbor Trail. This area will take five days starting Wednesday, Dec. 27, 28, 29 and Jan. 3 and 4.

The area bounded by Main Street West, city limits east, city limits north and Ann Arbor Trail south will take three days beginning Friday, Jan. 5, 8 and 9. The area bounded by Sheldon Road to the west, Main Street east, Ann Arbor Trail north and Ann Arbor Road south will take three days beginning Wednesday, Jan. 10, 11 and 12.

The area bounded by Ann Arbor Trail to the north, Ann Arbor Road south, Mill Street east and Main Street west will take two days beginning Monday, Jan. 15 and 16.

During this testing, a representative of the Fire Department will cruise the area to make sure smoke is from testing and not real smoke, said Vogras.

Central Middle kids take the floor

Making learning alive and creative for students at any middle school is not an easy task.

But students at Central Middle School did research and made displays for a Festival of Arts program on Dec. 14.

Parents, friends, and other students were invited to watch their handiwork as students demonstrated such long-forgotten skills such as button-making and rope-making.

Meanwhile other students were singing and producing mini-concerts which included band, choir, stage band and sing-along concerts.

At the pool, students were displaying their finesse in the water as they put on a swimming show.

Science students developed their own individual projects which included: graphs, filmstrips, photographic studies, chemical experiments, animal dissection, and models. Their directors were teachers Fred Bersche and Margo Panko.

Practical Arts teachers who helped organize the event were: Kathy Graham, Chris Hoeplich, Diane Sproull, Diane Gustin, Nancy Mankin, Robert Horwood, Frank Drimbacher, Martha Davenport, Michael P. DiCurici, Judy Plester, Laura Wiener, Barbara Butts, Fred Crissey, Robert Jenner, Mark LaPoint, and Barb MacDonald.

CETA funds are raised

Six western Wayne County communities will receive more than $1.2 million in federal funds next year to provide jobs and training for unemployed and underemployed residents, according to Wayne County Commissioner R. William Joyner whose district includes the Plymouth-Canton community.

"Increased appropriations of more than $370,000 will be received by Plymouth, Canton, Wayne, Belleville, Van Buren, and Sumpter under the re-enactment provisions of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA)," Joyner said.

"These additional funds will allow the six communities to reach many more economically disadvantaged individuals," said Joyner.

Joyner said total CETA expenditures for all the communities amounted to $841,461 in fiscal year 1978. In fiscal year 1979, the communities are expected to receive $440,206 in Title II funds and $773,772 in Title VI funds for a combined total of $1,212,978, he said.

Joyner announced the allocation in conjunction with a community CETA information conference sponsored by the local program's administrator, the Wayne County Office of Manpower.

He said there have been many changes in the CETA act resulting in a general tightening of eligibility and participation requirements with an increased emphasis on training and placement.

Schools set energy fee

An energy-use fee and a set fee for custodial services will be charged by the Plymouth-Canton schools when some groups use school rooms or facilities for meetings.

"We're not going to discourage persons from renting school rooms, but if we have to dial up to heat the auditorium, for example, then we're going to charge the group," said Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business.

For example, Hoedel said groups such as the Boy Scouts and Parent-Teacher Organizations will continue to meet in school rooms free of charge.

A group such as the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association will not be charged for using the gym on Saturdays, but they will be charged a flat custodial rate for each hour, said Hoedel.

Special groups such as the Plymouth Symphony League will have to pay various fees depending on the performance. To rent Salem High School auditorium, the league will be charged a $44 plus help rehearsal rate, a $44 plus help for a performance without an admission charge, and a $60 plus help for a performance with admission charge.

Each group using school facilities has been classified in one of three categories depending on its resident status, its affiliation, the purpose of the group, and whether the group is profit-making or not, said Hoedel.

Loans help farmers

Local farmers who suffered crop damage or loss due to drought are eligible to apply for direct, low-interest physical disaster loans from the Small Business Administration.

Wayne County was declared a disaster area due to heavy crop damage caused by the drought from February through September.

The intent of the program is to return farmers to pre-disaster conditions by helping them meet current financial obligations and/or plant a new crop, said Raymond L. Harshman, district director.

Businesses that suffered economic injury as a direct result of the disaster may also apply for an economic injury disaster loan to provide working capital and meet financial obligations, said Harshman.

Farmers or those desiring further information can contact the Detroit Disaster Office at 226-4030 on Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Physical disaster loans must be filed on or before June 7, 1979 and economic injury loans must be filed on or before Sept. 7, 1979.

'78's been good, but new ideas perk up '79

Here it is — the end of 1978. Wouldn't it be interesting to sit on top of a flag pole New Year's Eve (that's one way of getting high) and view the changes that have occurred during the year.

Let's see now . . . City hall looks about the same, although there may have been a few new faces going through its doors this year. A few of the buildings around town have had a face lifting and some have new shrubs and trees, while others seem to have lost their landscaping.

Over there is the new Forest Place Mall with all its new brick and shining windows. There has been a shuffling among some of the older shops in town, as some of them have moved to new locations in the area.

Then there's that empty building on Main Street that used to be a dime store. It's kind of sad seeing the last dime store in town move out, but I guess it has something to do with progress. Besides, maybe we'll like the new furniture store, once we get used to the idea.

The sound of hammers and saws has been coming out of that big old building up on North Main Street for months now. I wonder what it will look like when completed.

Looking out west of town, into the township (I'm sitting on a high flag pole) you can see all the new homes and subdivisions being built. It will be interesting to see if the new growth has any effect on the Plymouth Heights vote, and the consolidation project.

Shifting a little, and turning south, you can see all the lights glowing from the homes in Canton. The new township hall towers about surrounding farmland, and look, there's a Canton police car traveling down Ford Road. There are many new and returning faces on the political scene (it seems to happen every two years).

I think 1978 has been a pretty good year. It's sometimes sad to see some of the old things being replaced with new, but that's part of civilization that has gone on for hundreds of years. Replacing the old with new, brings new and fresh ideas. It's always exciting to move into a new home or office (once you get past the dread of the actual move).

Happy New Year to all of you!

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

A European vacation is a dream many of us think about from time to time. For Ruth and Fred Hoeplich, when their dreams became a reality, it was more than just a vacation. Their first trip to Europe was to visit the families where their three children had stayed as part of the Youth For Understanding Exchange Program.

"We had two main goals for our children," said Ruth, a secretary in the Plymouth-Canton school district. "Get them abroad and get them through college." When they were juniors in high school, they each spent a summer staying with a family in Europe," said Fred, "and each one was an education in itself." On their first trip in 1971, they went to Germany and Italy (the countries where their children stayed), as well as Holland and Austria.

"We weren't just tourists, we were people visiting other people," said Fred. He added that everyone was very friendly and gave them the red carpet treatment.

On their next trip, they went to Transylvania, where both of Fred's parents are from. "It was like a personal roots trip," said Fred. "I met cousins I never knew I had."

He said jeans sell for about $100 a pair there, so they took a pair for his cousin along with some yard goods.

"We don't come close in matching the education they have there," said Fred. He told about a 10-year-old boy who spoke four languages, and learned English by going to the movies.

Much to his disappointment, Fred said the province is being culturally absorbed by Romania and gradually losing its identity. Where most of Europe has a class-oriented society, Romania is developing a middle class according to Fred.

In 1975 they went to the French and Italian Riviera. There is a big difference between the French and Italian people said Fred. "In Italy everyone is so warm and friendly, they'll do anything for you. I don't like the French, they are not friendly at all. They have such a haughty attitude, when they don't have anything to be haughty about."

said Fred. He and Ruth both agree that it's a great place for a vacation.

This year they went to Hong Kong and Korea. Bangkok is the Venice of the East, said Ruth. "They have canals instead of streets and all the shops are lined up along the canal."

"The people in Hong Kong are very businesslike," said Fred. "they're the sharpest merchants I've ever seen." He said the people in Thailand were very kind and friendly, but also good merchants. "I've never seen so much gold and jewelry all over the place," said Fred. "There is wall after wall of jewelry, at very reasonable prices," he added.

Fred's advice for anyone planning trips abroad is to first get in touch with the embassy here. "They're always anxious to get the American dollar, and usually offer helpful suggestions about their country," said Fred.

His other bit of advice was to watch drinking water. "I never drink the water, or eat vegetables that have been washed in the water," he said. "I always eat fruit like bananas or oranges that you have to peel."

Fading frontier reflected by changes in Plymouth-Canton Community

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

What would old Chief Round Head think if he were to see the Plymouth Canton Community today?

Round Head, who died about 1760 and was buried in what is now Plymouth, was leader of the Indians who hunted and fished the woods and streams here.

No doubt, he would be amazed to find what has happened along the banks of Tonquish Creek (named after a later Potawatomi) where the wolves, deer and bear once roamed.

To be sure, an occasional wild creature may still be seen in the Plymouth-Canton Community, but the continued growth is bound to drive what wildlife survives further and further away.

The acres of subdivisions, new shopping malls and the concrete ribbons of expressway have transformed Plymouth-Canton into a small part of what is called "urban sprawl."

Once described by a local wag as merely "a dusty spot on the road to Ann Arbor," Round Head's hunting grounds are now the western edge of a metropolis — and destined soon to be in the middle of a megapolis.

Time has brought many changes here. Most of them have occurred in the past 10 years when the boom set in.

Saturday last was the final day for the era of soda fountains in the "Phoenix Block" on Main Street opposite Kellogg Park. When the Kresge store closed that day — it's now out of business — that last lunch counter in a block once known for vanilla cokes and cherry phosphates passed into history. Several drug store counters had preceded its demise.

The death of downtown Plymouth's last variety store may be blamed on the national trend of discount-franchise-neon-marketing which has slowly replaced the mom and pop stores because transportation and communication systems have improved the economies of scale to be realized by mass merchandising.

Kresge's closing is not the worst thing that ever happened to the block. In 1856 and again in 1893, the buildings on the block burned to the ground — thereby giving the block its name when rebuilding started.

The spirit that rebuilt the commercial community then may be seen yet today — the Plymouth-Canton Community is one of the few vigorous, independent marketing areas left in the entire Detroit area.

But that same spirit has greatly fueled the changing face of the community.

How did the Plymouth-Canton Community come to change so fast?

Some say it was simply the right time on the economic clock. Detroit's suburban sprawl had pushed out through Livonia and Nankin's cow pastures and this area was next in line.

If any single spark could be said to have ignited the growth explosion here, it would probably be the school board's decision to develop the educational park for Salem and Canton High Schools in Canton. After that decision was made, the Canton Township Board felt obligated to provide sanitary sewers to the site and undertook extension of the sewer lines through acres of Canton corn fields.

It is easy to build a subdivision on a corn field served by sewers, so the boom was on.

With additions of hundreds of homes in some subdivisions, came new business and industry — and then, the expressways.

When M-14 opens to Ann Arbor in 1979, the Plymouth-Canton Community will be the hub of East-West and North-South highways, making the area even more desirable to commuters, commerce and industry.

What few undeveloped portions of the area remain will become even more attractive as growth continues. The woods, fields and marshlands that are left will be gone in 10 years at the latest.

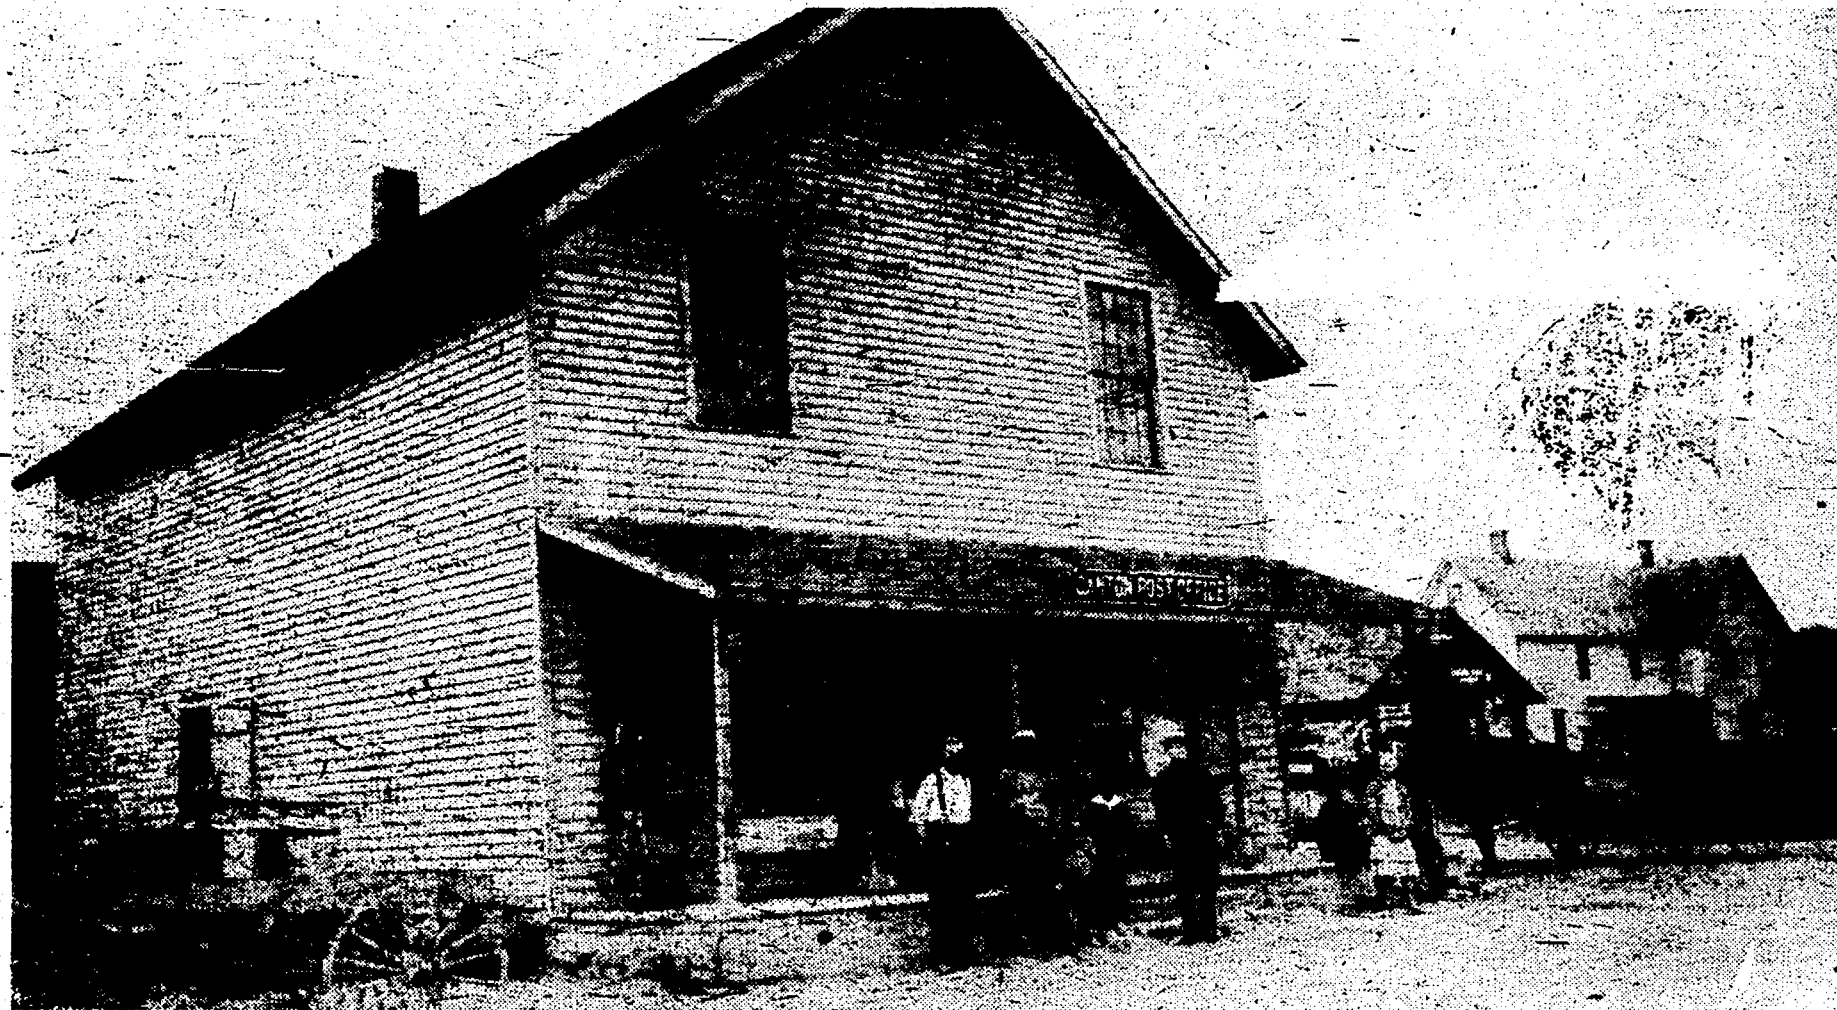

What would Chief Round Head think about that?

AS PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP AND Canton expand, the construction of new homes and small businesses drives pastoral settings such as this further and further into the past. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Sewers hold the key to future development

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: December 27, 1978

Even if both Canton and Plymouth townships stopped approval of new subdivisions today, it would still take years for growth to come to a halt.

Prior agreements with developers have provided for about 1,300 lots in Canton on which houses may be built, according to Township Planner Jim Kosteva.

These include lots in old subdivisions that have not been filled, and new subdivisions in some stage of completion, like Hampton Court West on Canton Center south of Joy Road.

In Plymouth Township, a similar situation exists. Four separate new subdivisions provide lots for 809 single-family homes.

These include Westbury I and II (north of Joy, straddling McClumpha), Ridgewood Hills (north of Ann Arbor Road, east of Ridge Road), and Tamarack (south of Ann Arbor Road, east of Ridge Road). Tamarack also provides for 72 condominiums.

Kosteva added that there's also about 1,000 acres east of Canton Center Road with "prime subdivision potential." Figuring three houses per acre, the planner said this could add another 3,000 houses to Canton in the next 10 or so years.

What about the land east of Canton Center Road? Kosteva said the future of this land is undecided.

About 5,000 acres in the west would have been preserved if township voters had passed the Farmland Preservation Program on the November ballot. Township officials may be back to the residents, however, with a pared down version of the preservation plan.

Otherwise, Kosteva said the township's new master plan, which is near completion, zones most of the west for agricultural uses.

Sewers in both townships hold the key to its future development. In western Canton, much of the land does not perk very well and would require sewer extensions to develop heavily.

The township is at its present purchased sewer capacity. Whether officials can halt future building by claiming that sewer capacity is limited may be the subject of a future court decision. In fact, Canton's Board of Trustees recently asked its lawyer to research the question.

Plans for super sewer, a large project originally planned to run from southern Oakland County south to Belleville would open large tracts of land to development.

Wayne County, which is sponsoring the plan, and the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) are now working out the details of the project with the affected communities, including Canton and Plymouth Township.

The EPA favors cutting off super sewer at Canton, and expanding the present Rouge River system which serves Plymouth Township. County officials, however, want one line running straight from Commerce Township in Oakland County to Belleville.

Either of these plans would spur development of both industry and homes in the Plymouth-Canton Community.

M-14 Freeway will spur commercial development

Scheduled to be opened this spring, M-14 will spur commercial and industrial development in Plymouth Township and later traffic patterns in the whole Plymouth-Canton Community, officials project.

Large parcels of land along the four-lane divided freeway are already being eyed by developers, said Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert.

On Dec. 12, for example, a development group called the Plymouth Commerce Commons proposed to the Board of Trustees a 130-acre industrial park at 5 Mile Road, west of Sheldon.

The park would eventually be divided into about 100 lots and possible occupants would include light industrial firms like tool and die shops, fabricating, assembly and electronic firms, said Notebaert.

"Gould Industrial Park (off Ann Arbor Road on General Drive) is almost full, so this new park will help us fill our needs," said Notebaert.

Also proposed in that same area is a 22-acre shopping center at the southwest corner of 5 Mile and Sheldon roads, and an industrial site of 10 acres along 5 Mile west of Sheldon, said the supervisor.

"There's also interest, I've heard, in an 18-acre parcel on the northeast corner of Beck Road and M-14," he said. This site will be served by a sewer extension recently approved by the Board of Trustees.

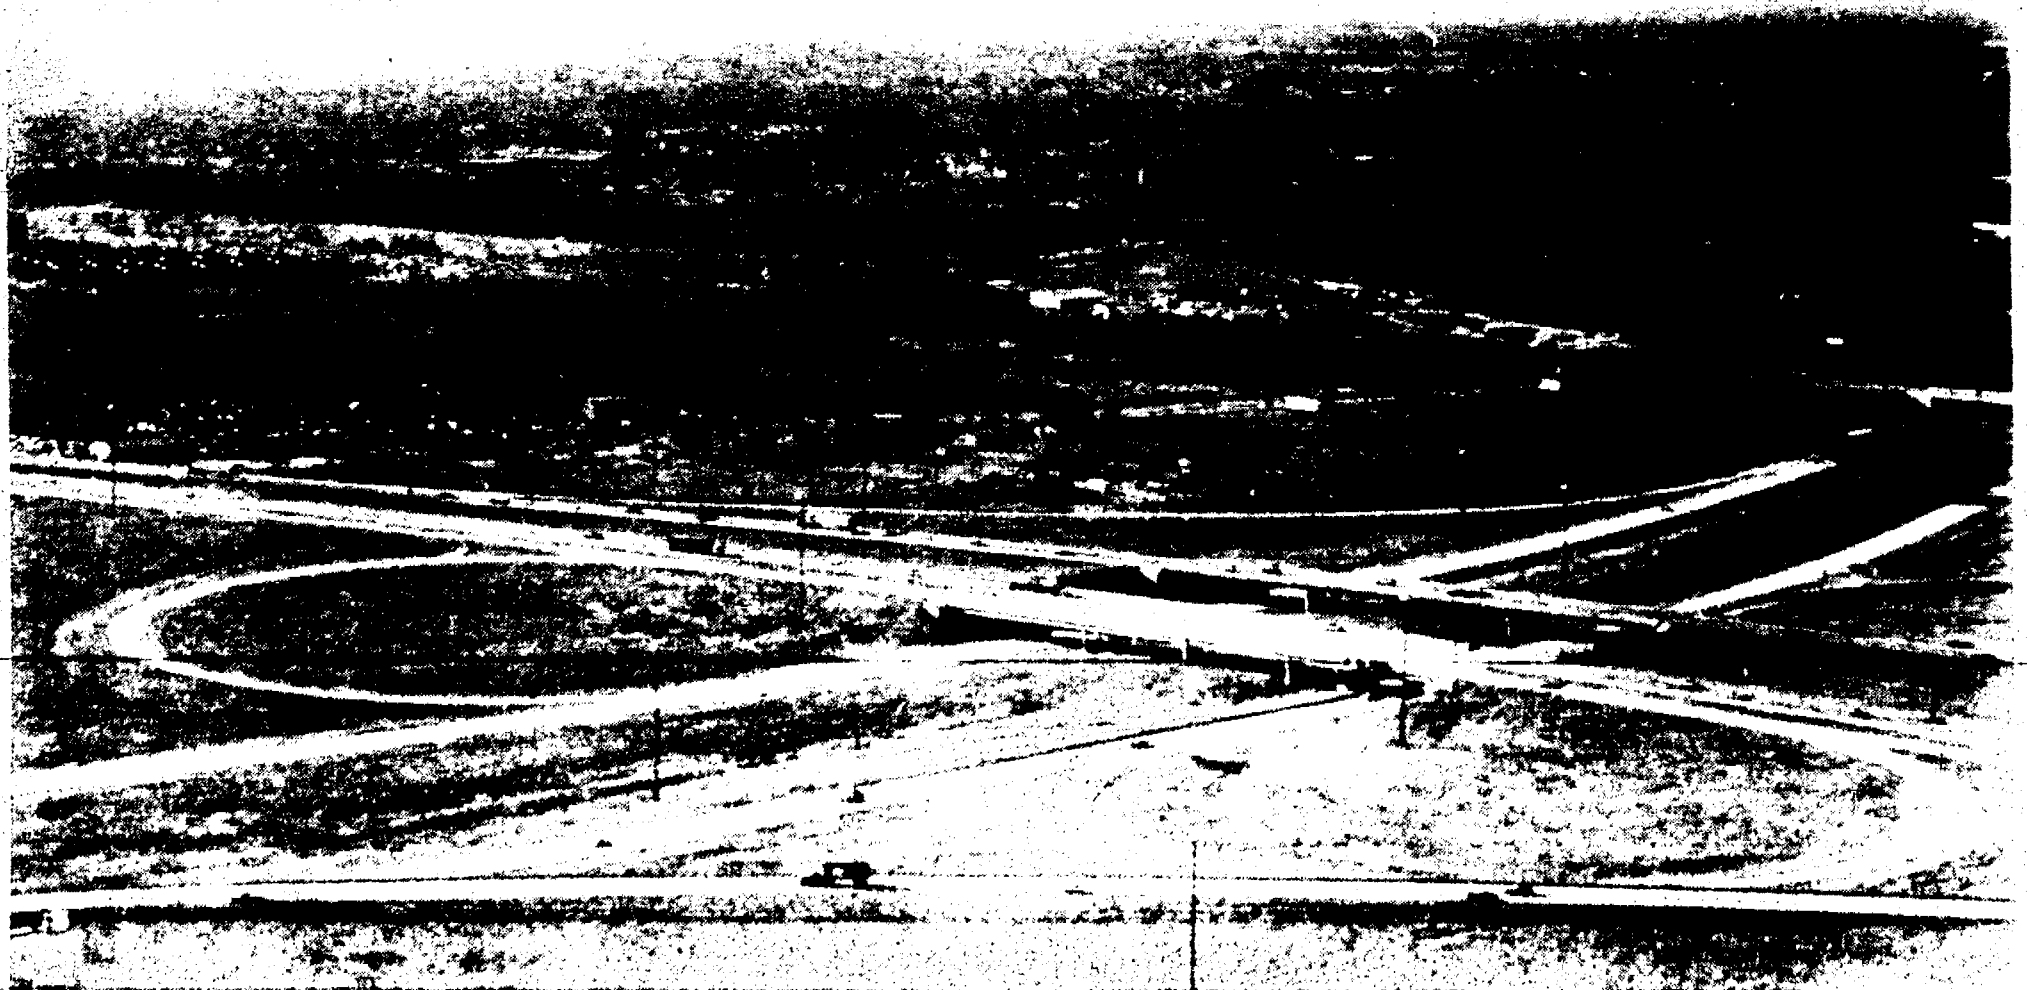

"We have a site at Beck and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad tracks designated for commercial development, which is near M-14," Notebaert said.

"The completion of M-14 will certainly aid commercial and industrial development, especially industrial," said the supervisor.

Will M-14 spur home construction in the area? Notebaert, a realtor, said not much now. "Maybe in a year." Connecting I-96 at I-275 with U.S.-23, the new freeway would put both Ann Arbor and downtown Detroit about 25 minutes away.

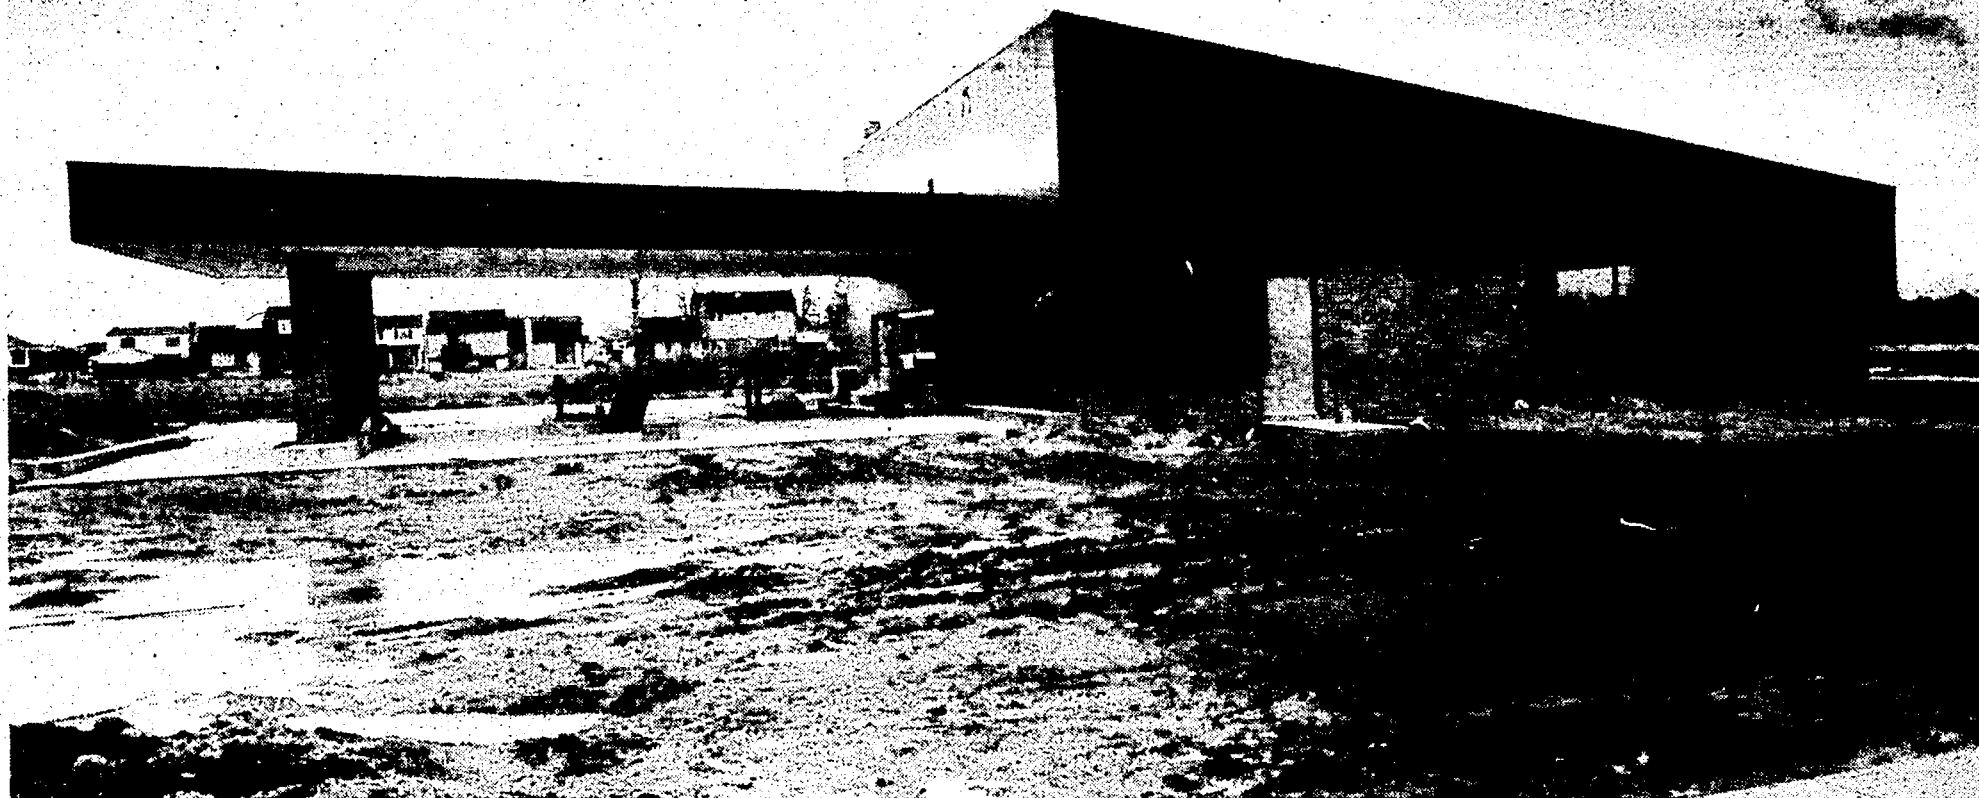

M-14 will also take a substantial traffic load off streets in the Plymouth-Canton Community such as Ford Road and Ann Arbor Road.

However, major exit and entrance streets onto M-14, such as Sheldon Road will bear increased traffic.

Farm land proposal is still alive

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's proposal to preserve about one-fourth of the township as farmland was defeated at the polls in November, but the plan is far from dead.

Forty-seven per cent of the voters said "yes" to the program on Nov. 7, and all four newly elected members of the Board of Trustees support it.

As proposed, the preservation plan would buy the development rights of about 5,000 acres. The property owners would still hold the land's title — they simply couldn't develop it or sell to a developer.

Officials estimated that it would cost about $16 million to preserve the 5,000 acres.

"It's back to the drawing boards," said Canton Planner Jim Kosteva. The federal government might be persuaded to help finance the program, he said.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said the township may lower the millage requested from voters and preserve less acreage. Voters were asked for up to four mills in November.

He added that he would like to see the proposal in an altered form back before the voters.

Even though it failed, Kosteva said it raised interest in communities all over the United States. His planning department even prepared a form letter and information packet to send to inquiring municipalities.

Bicycle paths may connect township

A plan for a network of bicycle paths throughout Plymouth Township is under consideration by the Board of Trustees.

As conceived by Norman L. Dietrich Associates, the plan would connect major subdivisions in the township with such things as Canton and Salem high schools, township park, and the existing bikepaths on Hines Drive.

The final routes are due to be decided by the board at a meeting in late January, said Jim Anulewicz, a planner for Dietrich.

He said the board must also direct which type of bike routes it wants. There are three types of paths (Class I, II, and III), he said. Class I is usually a paved pathway separate from traffic, while Class II is created by designating a strip of roadway with a solid line. Class III is designated with just signs posted near the curb.

The City of Plymouth has a Class I system, the township's plan would connect its bike paths with the city-wide system, said Anulewicz.

"The township could have a combination of the classes," said the planner. "For example, Class I may be necessary for Ann Arbor Road."

Class I bikeways cost somewhere between $10,000 and $14,000 per one-quarter mile, he said.

"We are now preparing general cost estimates (of the system) for the board," said Anulewicz.

In building permits Canton is second

Among Detroit metro communities, Canton Township was second only to Sterling Heights in the total number of residential units authorized in 1977.

According to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), Sterling Heights authorized 2,070 single-family, condominium and apartment units last year, while Canton had 1,625. Close behind was Southfield with 1,602.

The top 10 growing communities follow in this order: Troy, 1,327; Farmington Hills, 1,317; Livonia, 1,133; Clinton Township, 1,024; West Bloomfield Township, 842; Avon Township, 826; and Westland, 653.

Girl Scout cookie sales show growth

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

One indicator of growth in the Plymouth-Canton Community is the growth of Girl Scout cookie sales.

A glimpse at Girl Scout records reveals a steady increase in cookie sales during the past decade as local Girl Scouts topped the million mark in 1978. They peddled 1,255,320 cookies in the Plymouth-Canton community compared to just 380,400 cookies 10 years ago.

A year-by-year synopsis exposes the growing Plymouth-Canton sweet tooth:

1968 - 380,400
1969 - 392,100
1970 - 449,400
1971 - 519,600
1972 - 568,800
1973 - 625,200
1974 - 636,900
1975 - 686,100
1976 - 722,520
1977 - 976,320
1978 - 1,255,320

Girl Scout cookie spokesperson Mary Lou Johnson said Girl Scouts, Junior Scouts, Cadet Scouts, and Senior Scouts are aiming to increase sales 10 per cent in 1979.

The cookie sale will begin in February, 1979 with boxes selling for $1.25. "The scouts take home 20 cents from each box to use in trip expenses, buying troop equipment or organizing other fun projects," said Mary Lou.

Housing prices increase

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

If you're thinking of buying a house, buy now.

That's the advice of Plymouth realtor Jim McKeon. He said the average price of a home in the Plymouth area (north of Joy, south of Five Mile, west of Haggerty and east of Napier) rose 18 per cent since December, 1977, up from $50,630 to $59,837. (New construction not included.)

In Canton, prices have increased even more — up 25 per cent — so that the home which sold for $48,099 in December, 1977, sold for $60,195 in November, 1978, said McKeon.

According to Duané Dub of the United Northwest Realty Association, the Canton-Romulus-I-94 and I-96 Novi corridors were cited as two of the fastest growing areas in the western Wayne and Oakland counties area.

Furthermore, Dub said, "people are still buying."

The number of building permits issued in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton shows Canton is surpassing the other two by far. There were 1,489 single-family, 85 multiple dwelling, and eight duplex-building permits issued from January through November, 1978, in Canton.

Brookside West, Hampton Court West, Sunflower Five, and Greenbrook Village are among the fastest growing subdivisions in Canton.

During the same months, Plymouth Township officials issued 289 single-family building permits. The western portion was cited as the fastest growing area in the township. Some subdivisions currently undergoing construction are: Quail Hollow, Plymouth Meadows, West Briar One and Two, Trailwood Three, Beacon Hill Four and Five, Walnut Creek, and Ridgewood Hills One.

On the other hand, the City of Plymouth, which covers only 2.23 square miles, has little unoccupied land and the scant number of building permits issued reflects that fact. Six single-family building permits (allowing 13 units) were issued by city officials, however four permits (allowing 74 units) for multiple-family dwellings were issued from January through November, 1978. Among those multiple-family dwelling permits will be 66 units for senior citizens to be built at 107 Haggerty Rd.

What's the 1979 forecast for the housing market in this area?

Conrad Jakubowski, 1978 president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors, said "there will be more available houses to look at" and he predicts a good industry in 1979.

Furthermore, he said the cost of new housing will continue to drive up the price of older homes, but mortgage interest rates will not rise above 11.5 per cent.

However, Jakubowski predicted there will be a plentiful supply of mortgage money available, with interest rates at 11 per cent for a major portion of the year.

Jakubowski also recommended persons to buy a house now and refinance it when interest rates are down.

No easy solutions for growth

Schools find more students every day

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

It's impossible for Plymouth-Canton school officials to gaze into a crystal ball and see a clear picture of future growth in the area. Too many variables cloud the future of the district which is still undergoing massive growing pains — about 800-1,000 students are added to enrollment lists each year.

This growing student population, coupled with shifting housing trends in Plymouth and Canton Township, make planning ahead difficult for school administrators.

Even short-range plans are uncertain. Board of Education President Tom Yack called the next 18 months "critical" for the district because: the schools are asking for a 6.5 millage renewal on Jan. 18; contract negotiations for seven master agreements for district employees must be settled; and, the every-day problems of transporting, housing, and teaching more than 16,000 students must be solved.

"By constantly dealing with more kids and more alternatives for growth, administrators lose time that normally would be used in solving the day-to-day problems of running the school district," said Yack.

Administrators admit planning ahead is a lot of guesswork. "We can be fairly accurate as far ahead as two or three years, but beyond that it's a lot of speculation," said John Telford, executive director of secondary education.

Population trends show the community is growing rapidly. With official counts leveling at about 16,100 students this year, projected enrollment figures released from Superintendent Mike Hoben's office earlier this year said the student population may rise to 19,444 students by 1983-84.

To deal with these "guess-timates" for long-term growth, administrators look for the answers to these questions: Where will the new students live? How many students per house? What grades will these students be in? What will be the boundaries for attendance in each school?

Although the answers to these questions are not readily available, school officials are watching housing trends carefully to determine which schools must absorb the bulk of the influx.

"Growth depends on Canton and Plymouth Township. With the sewer line being extended into the western part of Plymouth Township and smaller lots in Canton increasing the density of housing there, both townships are increasing rapidly," said Yack.

Supt. Hoben said three schools in the district — Field, Eriksson, and Smith elementary schools — are already full, and other schools are nearing capacity enrollments.

Not only must officials consider the attendance area of new students, but also they must consider the grade level of the student.

"We've got bulges in the third and fourth grades that make classes larger there," said Hoben. When this bulge moves forward, particularly at the already overcrowded high school level, school officials will have to make accommodations for larger classes.

"The CEP is 300 beyond capacity now, and will be 500 beyond capacity next year. After that, I don't know what we'll do," said Telford.

Two committees — one school administrative group and one citizens group — are currently working on recommendations for dealing with future growth.

About 15 school principals and administrators have formed a district boundary and growth committee. According to Co-chairperson Telford, the committee will deliver its final recommendations soon after January.

The citizens group — the Bond Advisory Committee — was formed after Assistant Supt. for Business Ray Hoedel submitted an administrative report on a possible bond issue to build new schools at a Board of Education workshop in November. The group, working under Chairperson Charles Heidt, will make a recommendation to the board in February.

"Building is seen as the ultimate commitment by the district," said President Tom Yack. "We've used as many reasonable alternatives as possible for dealing with more and more students, but we're running

Sewer extension opens up some housing

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: December 27, 1978

A sewer extension in Plymouth Township will open up much less land for residential development than it was generally thought, said Supervisor Tom Notebaert.

Aimed at drainage problems of residents in Plymouth Hills subdivision off Powell Road, the new sewer will extend beyond the sub to Ridge Road.

Due to the drainage pattern of the land, the extension will open up only about 50 more acres for new houses, said Notebaert.

Another 150 acres will also be served by the sewer, but this land is owned by a school, he said.

Projected to cost about $2.8 million, the project includes extensions of the Tonquish Creek sewer and the Sly drain to Lake Pointe Village subdivision.

The bonds have been sold for the project, and the engineering plans are being prepared, said Notebaert. "We expect good bids because we just beat the Headlee Amendment deadline for selling bonds. Construction companies will be in a lull due to Headlee," he said.

Plymouth Twp. hall will double in size

When a community grows, its government grows with it. That fact was made clear three weeks ago when the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees approved preliminary plans to more than double the size of Township Hall.

Voters OK'd the purchase of the Teledyne building right next door to Township Hall and the two buildings will be remodeled and joined.

As conceived by the township's planners, Norman L. Dietrich Associates, the plan calls for roofing the driveway between the two buildings. This middle portion would serve as a hallway to various offices and as a general gallery.

The present meeting hall, a portable classroom-type structure, would be removed and a new meeting hall would be housed in the Teledyne section of the new hall.

The board OK'd the plan on Dec. 12 and gave Dietrich the green light to prepare a detailed drawing so the township can ask for construction bids. Woody Lynch, a contractor and the husband of Trustee Barbara Lynch, said that the remodeling would cost about $250,000.

The work would more than double the size of the present building and could serve the needs of the township for more than 10 years, said Supervisor Tom Notebaert.

NEW SUBDIVISIONS are cropping up all over Plymouth Township and Canton even though the cost of housing is rising. This home is part of the Walnut Creek subdivision still under construction. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

out of those," said Yack.

He also said that these alternatives have disrupted schedules, transportation and stability in the school district. "The price for alternatives is a poor attitude toward the schools," said Yack.

Other alternatives which both the citizens committee and the administrative committee may consider include: extension of the Extended School Year program; renting or buying schools or its space from Livonia which is faced with declining enrollments and empty schools; shifting the sixth grade back to elementary schools and ninth grade back to junior high schools; and, staggering opening and closing times in high schools allowing for split sessions.

Hoben said initial discussions with Livonia school officials have shown the schools on the western edge of Livonia which are the schools Plymouth-Canton officials would be interested in renting — are unavailable. However, Livonia officials are willing to rent schools in the eastern section of their district, but Hoben said Plymouth-Canton officials weren't interested in those schools.

More specifically, Hoben said the Plymouth-Canton district is interested in the following schools: Lowell Junior High, Churchill High School; or Washington, or Webster elementary schools, however Livonia officials said all those schools were unavailable.

Beyond the district's own growth problems, school officials must also consider the direction and impact of proposals which appeared on state and local ballots in November's election. "The full impact of the Headlee amendment hasn't been determined yet," said Yack.

Yack also said the farmland preservation proposal, if it had passed in Canton, surely would have affected growth in that area, which in turn would have affected the school district.

Educating new voters is also one of the biggest problems facing school persons. "The mobility of our population and the fact that persons move here from districts with problems unlike our own, make voter education one of our most difficult tasks," said Yack.

Yet, ironically, the Plymouth-Canton schools are one of the biggest drawing points for persons moving into the area, according to Telford. "The schools here are much better than average, and the voters care about the quality of the education their kids are receiving," he said.

"If the voters don't support the schools, the whole community suffers and we lose economic credibility and viability," said Telford.

GROWTH in Plymouth Township spurted ahead in 1978 and is expected by some to increase even faster in the future — much like Canton's growth — when the westward extension of sewers is completed. Above is the township and city looking westward while below is the street and foundations of one of the last new subdivisions going in on the eastern side of the township. (Crier photos by Bill Bresler, Flight Service by Hi-Lift Helicopters.)

Tired of those rich holiday delicacies? Don't worry kids, it's SCHOOL LUNCH TIME again! Time to forget about Mom's turkey and gravy and get ready for Field's peanut butter and jelly. No more Christmas cookies, it's beef stew at Salem and Canton.

Betsy is whipping up some of her special pizza burgers at Fiegel. Nice way to end a short week at school. Tell us Betsy, why do you have to spoil that menu with, ugh, peas?

Central Middle serves one of my personal favorites on Thursday. Homemade chili really warms you up on a cold January day. I'll bet Central's cooks don't make their chili as warm as I do.

Farm land issue returns

In a letter to State and U.S. representatives, Culbert listed advantages to such a move:

*The state would not have to directly subsidize the development rights program.

*There would be a commitment from the local level because voters would have to authorize the millage.

*Preserving farmland would limit growth in those communities which have agricultural land.

Culbert said he believes Canton residents are in favor of the farmland preservation, but are against raising their taxes. "The fact that the millage failed by only 500 votes shows the people are interested in it," he said.

Although preserving land for agricultural development is new in Michigan, similar projects are underway in Suffolk County, N.Y. and King County, Wash.

Harvey leaves boilers

Christmas, Harv."

After 21 years of sweeping, painting and repairing, Harvey admits his legs get tired sometimes. But his concerns still center on his work.

"The boiler needs looking at over Christmas. They may be leaking and there will be a crew in to check them out," he said.

Or, while walking by the glass-plated entrance, Harvey said, "The bad part about this is the kids sit on the radiators along the floorboard and then they break."

In the gym, Harvey pointed to broken windows covered by cardboard sheets. "Vandals did that with b-b guns," he said.

Asked how he learned to run a school with over 800 kids running through its halls daily, Harvey said, "Machines and I go hand-in-hand. I've known boilers and heaters since I was born."

Liquor studied

Canton Township Board of Trustees voted at last Tuesday's meeting to set up a study session in order to establish guidelines for granting liquor licenses.

Maria Falkiewicz, deputy treasurer will get information from surrounding areas and find out how other local governments handle liquor licenses. She will then organize the study session with the head of the ordinance, planning and building departments and a representative from the police department. It was also suggested that she inquire into the feasibility of charging a fee for liquor license applications.

Library hours

The Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth will be closed from Dec. 29 to Jan. 1 for the New Year holidays. The library will close at 9 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 28 and reopen at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 2.

At home, Harvey becomes "Big Elk" on his CB home monitor and his car radio. He was given that name at the local Elks Club where he's been a member for six years.

After Jan. 26, you can find Harvey at the Elks - he'll be working maintenance part-time.

Store plan approved

The site plan for a Lawson Store on the northeast corner of Warren and Morton-Taylor roads was approved at the Canton board meeting last Tuesday. The site plan which had been tabled twice before, met with some opposition from area homeowners who were against three convenience stores within a mile. (There is a Quik Pik store on the corner of Warren and Lilley and a Mini Mart on Warren and Sheldon).

The board members unanimously approved the plan after a representative from Lawsons agreed to replace a flat roof with a gabled roof, and put face brick on all four sides of the building.

Planner to confab

The Canton Township board voted to send Jim Kosteva, township planner, and one of the lawyer board members to California to the law and land use conference.

"I think it's a great conference covering many of our problems and situations," said Trustee Carol Bodenmiller. The conference will be held the first week in January.

Julie begins vet studies

Julie D. Schubert, a fourth-year student at Michigan State University, will enter the January class there to study veterinary medicine. She is the daughter of Paul and Connie Schubert of Gov. Bradford Road in Plymouth.

Windows broken

More than $100 damage was done when windows were broken at the McLaren Co., 305 N. Main St. in Plymouth between 5 p.m. Dec. 20 and 7:30 a.m. Dec. 21, police report.

The rocks were thrown from along the railroad tracks near the building, said the report. Police report there are no suspects.

Parks on ice

In a unanimous decision, the Canton Board of Trustees voted to construct neighborhood ice rinks in three area parks.

The homeowners parks will be charged a $50 fee, and the rinks will only be flooded once, in a banked area. Under the direction of the Canton Recreation Department, the ice skating rinks will be open to the public.

Microwave, camera gone

AND PATTY RADZIK

The last time Canton and Salem met on the basketball court it was a close two point game with Canton coming out on top 39-37. But that was a month ago and was the district championship game for the girls.

On Thursday the two schools played again, but this time it was the boys and this time it was not a close game as the Rocks came out on top 65-47.

Salem led by ten points going into the fourth quarter and put the contest out of reach with free throw shooting in the final stanza as they hit 11 of their 17 points in the quarter from the foul line.

Canton was plagued by poor shooting throughout the game and by the inability to get the ball inside and pick up any fouls on Salem.

Butch King, the Chiefs' leading scorer, connected on four of 15 shots from the floor. As a team Canton made 22 of 50 shots, unofficially. They also had only five points from the charity stripe.

The Chiefs closed to within seven points at the start of the fourth quarter, 48-41, but Howard Monk sank four straight free throws and Barry Owens canned a 10-foot jump shot to make it, 54-41. Canton never closed the gap to less than ten points after that point.

Kevin Kelliher paced the Salem scoring with 13 points as he led four Rocks in double figures.

Owens, Rich Hewlett, and Monk each added ten markers apiece. Six of Monk's points came from the free throw line in the fourth quarter.

The Rocks next game is Fri., Jan. 5 at home against Walled Lake Western.

Playing their first Christmas basketball tournament ever, the Canton Chiefs kept their talents afloat, beating Livonia Stevenson 64-53 before sinking to the bottom against Salem.

Tuesday night's game with Stevenson posed no problems for Canton, as Butch King dropped in 22 points. Rusty Mandle added 10, along with an added surprise of nine assists. Mike Leary and Mike Gallnick chipped in their contribution of nine pts. apiece. Mandle and Leary were the top rebounders in the game, with eight each.

From the free throw line, Salem went 23 for 30, while Canton made five of nine shots. "We just had too many fouls," Coach Craig Bell said. "We made some errors that Salem converted on."

"We fell behind in the second half and just couldn't grab them," Bell continued. Salem's tough defense was what kept the Chiefs behind, and it showed point wise for Canton. Mandle was high scorer with 11 pts. followed by Kings' 10.

"I was pleased with our overall performance," Bell stated. "I'm proud of the guys, they played hard. However, league play is our main goal right now."

Canton's next game is at Farmington on Jan. 9. "They haven't been doing too well this year," Bell commented. "But we have to think about ourselves coming off vacation and playing."

In order to keep their basketballs warm, Bell has scheduled several scrimmages for his team over Christmas vacation. Catholic Central, North Farmington, Midland and Salem are all on the list.

On Tuesday, the Rocks opened the tournament against host Churchill and they needed a fourth quarter scoring explosion to knock off the Chargers, 62-42.

Going into the final stanza Salem lead by only two points, 39-37, but in the final frame the Rocks outscored Churchill 23-5 to cast to victory.

Salem's fourth quarter offensively was fueled by Kevin Kelliher and Howard Monk on the boards and Rich Hewlett and Barry Owens with the scoring.

A combination of things - full court press, tremendous rebounding at both ends of the court, and almost perfect shooting from the floor - helped Salem to its big quarter. Salem Coach Fred Thomann said that Churchill had controlled the tempo of the game until the final period and all Fred Price, Churchill's coach, could say about the fourth quarter was, "What can I say?"

Kelliher paced the Rocks with 15 points on the night and Rich Hewlett added 13. Other scorers for Salem were: Owens eight, Monk eight, Matt Etienne eight, and John VanWagoner with four points.

THREE POINT PLAY. Rich Hewlett (No. 31) drives to the basket and is fouled by Butch King (No. 22) of Canton on the way.

Salem's Kevin Kelliher was the game's top scorer with 13 points and Hewlett added 10. (Crier photo by Steve Settles.)

Real Estate
 BY WILLIAM DECKER
 REALTOR

THAT BEAUTIFUL LEVERAGE
 One of the great advantages in real estate investment is that wonderful word called leverage. In its simplest terms, it means using someone else's money to vastly increase your profit potential.

Real estate has traditionally been very good security for loans. This means that real estate can be acquired with a smaller percentage of cash outlay than most other investments.

Leverage arises because ALL of the income and ALL of the appreciation in property value belongs to the property holder regardless of the amount of the loan.

To illustrate, assume a $100,000 property was purchased for only $10,000 cash and a $90,000 mortgage loan. Five years later, the same property is sold for $150,000 (a 50 per cent gain in value). After paying off the $90,000 mortgage, the investor would realize, not a 50 per cent gain, but rather a 500 per cent gain on his actual cash investment because he only invested $10,000 not $100,000 for the property.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main - St. Plymouth. Phone: 455 - 8400. We're here to help!

Salem matmen second

Both the Salem and Canton wrestling teams participated in the John Glenn Invitational held last Saturday. The Rocks fared better than the Chiefs as they finished second and Canton placed tenth.

This was the second straight second-place finish for the Rock matmen in a tournament as a week before they took second in the Redford Thurston Invitational Tournament.

Westland John Glenn was the champion with 249 points and Salem was second with 181½ points.

Both Westland John Glenn and Salem had five individual winners with the Rocks taking four first five weight classes.

Jim Schultz at 98 pounds, Jeff Brown at 112 pounds, Randy Viperman at 119 pounds, and Mark Ross at 126 pounds were all champions for Salem on decisions.

Salem's fifth individual winner was Jerry Valchine at 138 pounds who won by a 9-4 decision over his opponent.

Salem Coach Ron Krueger said that he was pleased with the improvement that his team has shown each week and that getting five individual winners "says something because of the high caliber of the tournament."

Finishing third was Grand Blanc with 103 points and in the fourth position was Dearborn Edsel Ford with 98.

Rounding out the field were Stevenson 89½, Midland 81½, Dearborn Heights Crestwood 63, Garden City West 60, Romulus 51, and in the tenth spot was Canton with 44½ points.

Although Canton finished last and failed to have anyone in the finals Coach Dan Crenko said that his team was still improving and that his kids learned from the experience of the tournament.

Peck cops honors

The Canton girls basketball team held its season ending banquet last Monday with senior Kathie Peck receiving awards for best defensive player and for the player with the most hustle in a vote by her teammates.

Dawn Malek was the Most Improved Player for the Chiefs who were coached by Mike McCauley and Pat Cunningham.

On the season the Chiefs posted a 20-3 record which included a Western Six chamampionship and a district championship.

Dave Vaughn was high finisher for Canton as he was third in the 165 pound division. He lost to the eventual winner of the weight class.

Jay Lee was fourth at 138 pounds, Tommy Harreld took fifth at 105 pounds, and Paul Mooney was sixth at 178 pounds for the Chiefs.
