Is Fowl Festival fouler?

Now that all Plymouth-Canton Schools have a standardized lunch menu, it's tough to find food in sufficient quantities.

And with chicken ala king on the menu for the week of Oct. 8, the schools have been searching for enough capons.

The search is over.

On Sunday, Oct. 7, the 129 losers in the fourth annual Plymouth Chamber of Commerce Chicken Flying Contest will head towards the school lunchroom stewpot -- to become forgotten also-flowns.

Meanwhile, the winning chicken will reap the glory from the frenzied crowd, which is anticipated to swell to record size as the Fowl Festival Parade sets out at 1 p.m. from the Cultural Center down Main Street to Ann Arbor Trail.

In the quest of that glory, the zaniness has already begun.

This year's Chief Cluck, Larry Janes, said that as of Monday, half the entries had been processed and the judges for the contest had already been bought . . . er, hired.

Overseeing the fowl shenanigans will be Hizzonor Dunbar Davis, Herflagwaver Mary Childs, GrandOldPersonage Carl Pursell, Headfeatherer Bob Geake and Egg-head Tom Notebaert.

And those judges may well be put to the test in keeping the cagey chicken fliers on the up and up.

Both the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township officials have begun quasi-legal maneuvers, particularly prohibited by the State of Michigan Open Coop Act of 1975, to outshine their challenger.

After an attempt to annex the township chicken failed, the city mothers' and fathers' chicken was nearly lynched by the chal-

Fund starts 1980 drive

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Thirty five years ago, the Plymouth Community Fund began its annual task of raising and distributing funds for the many social services it supports.

On Monday night, some 120 persons gathered to formally kick-off the 1980 drive which hopes to raise a record $315,000.

Proceeds from the drive go to such recipient groups as: the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Family Service, Girl Scouts, Michigan Cancer Foundation, Plymouth Dental Fund, Salvation Army, Senior Citizens, Visiting Nurse Assoc., YMCA-YWCA, Michigan United Way (and the 23 agencies it supports), Growth Works, Plymouth Opportunity Center, Big Brothers and Big Sisters and the Plymouth Community Council on Aging.

The Community Fund is one of 104 individual United Way campaigns in Michigan which raise funds through direct and payroll deduction plans. Plymouth area residents who work in other communities can donate to the local fund by so designating on their pledge cards. Direct donations and pledges can be made to the Fund at P.O. Box 356, Plymouth, 48170.

Canton offers loan for Detroit water

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Board of Trustees have offered to lend financial assistance to the City of Detroit so it can provide an adequate water supply to the township. And if Detroit fails to act, the board threatened last Tuesday to sue the city.

Engineers have advised the board that the township's water needs could be met for about five years to come if Detroit finishes a stretch of water main and a pump station on Stark Road in Livonia.

City of Detroit officials have said, however, that they cannot fund the Stark Road project because of a suit over water rates filed by numerous suburban communities.

The board offered last Tuesday to lend the money to Detroit to build the Stark project from the township's water revenues, said Supervisor Noel Culbert.

"Detroit is due by the end of this week to respond," said Culbert. An adequate supply is "crucial to industrial development of Canton," he added. "Industry must be guaranteed to water before they'll come in to the township.

"I think we have a good case against Detroit. We've signed a contract in which they guarantee us water," Culbert added.

The township has been plagued with low water pressure for the last two years, mostly due to the fast growth of residential development. The board has declared a water emergency, and permits sprinkling and other such non-essential water uses only on every other days.

The board has also embarked on plans to build a water main along Morton-Taylor Road from Joy Road to add another main connection from the Joy water main.

Township Engineer Robert Wade said this will help take the load off the township's main connection at Joy and Sheldon. "Most of Canton's water goes through Joy and Sheldon, and in the summer, we can't even get it shut down for maintenance," said Wade. "The new connection will take the load off it."

FOUL FOWL tactics such as feeding extra-hot peppers to the flying chickens have been reported in record numbers to the Fourth Annual Chicken Flying Contest judges.

How will ESY make up 9 lost strike days?

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

How will the nine days missed because of teachers' strike be made up for students on tracks A, B, and C of the extended school year (ESY) program?

That question remains unanswered, but about 15 parents spoke to the Plymouth-Canton Board of education about two proposals outlined to ESY parents in a letter mailed by teachers last week.

Proposal A calls for a continuation of the present calendar until June 6 and then split sessions for eight weeks with all ESY students scheduled to finish classes on Aug. 14.

Proposal B, which has been proposed by the Board of Education and school administrators, calls for adding nine days onto the end of the calendar for students on tracks A, B, and C and continuing on a normal school day.

"It's not an easy task (trying to schedule in those missed days)," said Louise Townley of Plymouth. "But the proposal for split sessions is unfavorable. Keep the regular school day; split sessions are not conducive to learning," she said, adding that more than two proposals could be considered.

"I was alarmed by the proposal with split sessions," said Jan Luttrell of Canton. "The kids didn't walk out of classes. The teachers walked out five days before their contract expired," she added.

Nancy Reed of Canton called the letter and proposals "a prejudiced piece of garbage." She also said split sessions were unnecessary and objectionable.

According to Norm Kee, chief spokesperson for the school board's team, 187 work-days for teachers and 180 school days for children will be scheduled into the calendar. "The fact-finder said the board could determine how to make up the time missed in the calendar because of the teachers' strike," he said.

Custodians' pact OK'd

A three-year contract with custodians was ratified by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night.

The new pact includes a 24 per cent increase over the next three years, improved life, dental, and health insurance, and other "slight language changes to help run the schools more smoothly," said Norm Kee, chief spokesperson for negotiations in the school district.

There are about 120 janitors represented in the Michigan Educational Association of Support Personnel.

Meanwhile, contract negotiations are "going smoothly" with the other five employe groups whose contracts expired last summer. They are: teachers' aides, secretaries, bus drivers, cafeteria workers, and school principals.

Will shopping center's sewer strain sub's drains?

BY CHAS CHILD

A proposed shopping center at the corner of Palmer and Sheldon roads was delayed last Monday night to give Canton Township engineers time to see if its sewer flow would strain nearby Forest Brook subdivision's sewer system.

Developer of the project planned to connect its sanitary sewer to Forest Brook's system, and arrangement which is contrary to the township's master sewer plan and "surprises" a former township engineer.

The sewer hook-up replaces an earlier proposal, reportedly rejected by developer Robert Acchione as too expensive, to extend the sewer about one-quarter mile from Morton-Taylor Road to his property at the northeast corner of Palmer and Sheldon.

Instead, Acchione plans to run the sewer from his shopping center across Palmer Road, directly into Forest Brook's sewers. By going across Palmer, however, the sewer would cross a sewer district boundary line, said former township engineer Dale Township. "We tried to stay as close as possible within the boundaries," he said. "I'm surprised."

However, both Townsend and Bob Wade, head of the township's engineering consulting firm, which approved the sewer arrangement, said the sewer master plan is only a guideline.

If the project will not add a significant amount of wastewater to Forest Brook's system, said Wade, the crossing of the sewer district is not important.

Monday night, the shopping center was delayed by the planning commission, so Wade could estimate the impact of running the center's waste through Forest Brook.

Wade's firm only prepared flow estimates of a proposed bank branch planned as part shopping center, he said Monday.

An apparent mistake by Acchione led to the misunderstanding, according to the project's architect, Roy Albert. Acchione signed an application for the project which only included a bank branch on the site. Later plans submitted to township officials, though, included an additional 10,000 square feet of office space in the complex.

Sewer flow estimates were not made for the whole project, outlined in these later plans. Wade said.

It's too late to fight project, says Greenstein

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton Township shouldn't try to stop the proposed shopping center at Palmer and Sheldon, says Trustee Robert Greenstein.

"It's too late," he said. "If we try to delay or table the site plan of the project, he (Robert Acchione, the developer) can sue. Because he's so far along in his requests for a site plan, he'd have a basis for a suit if we tried to rezone it now."

"We shouldn't try to kid the (nearby) residents. The guy's got us beat on the zoning."

Proposed on the 7.5-acre site is a bank branch and a small shopping center.

Greenstein seemingly lent support for the project at a board of trustees meeting in July when he said, "I feel strongly that that zoning (for Acchione's land) should be left the way it is. . . . There is no other commercial (zoning) in that area."

"At that meeting I was trying to get the interim zoning ordinance passed," said Greenstein. "I understood that another

School officials say students reading well

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Are students reading up to par in the Plymouth-Canton school district? Yes, say schools officials, yet 42 per cent of sixth-grade students tested in all middle schools last fall are reading below sixth grade levels, according to standardized test scores included in a middle school reading and spelling report. The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education accepted the report at its meeting Monday night.

However, of the 42 per cent who scored below sixth grade level, 25 per cent of those students were reading at a fifth grade level, said the report. The remaining 17 per cent scored at second, third, or fourth grade reading levels, according to the report.

The median score -- where 50 per cent of the students fall above a certain score while the other 50 per cent fall below it -- is the grade equivalent of about 6.2 (sixth grade, second month), said the report.

"Plymouth-Canton middle school students are reading above their expected levels of performance," said Dave Rodwell, consultant for research and evaluations in the school district.

"We're doing a good job teaching reading now, but that's not to say we can't do a better one," said John Telford, executive director of secondary education.

In the report, Telford recommended that a standardized reading test be given to all sixth and eighth grade students in the district to assess reading for each student entering and leaving middle school.

"The more you read, the better you get at reading," said Patricia Gibbons, assistant principal at Pioneer Middle School.

"Even children who learn to read -- and read well -- don't spend as much time reading (as they used to). Instead they watch television," she commented.

Students at the middle schools are taught reading in their regular 40-week Language Arts class, plus there's an additional 10-week program on reading scheduled into each student's schedule.

"We do have common reading programs throughout the district, but each school has different materials and different approaches (in teaching reading)," said Gibbons.

"Parents may not understand that the programs for reading may be equivalent throughout the district," said Tom Yack, board president.

Students who read two grade levels or below meet with a reading specialist in smaller groups for remedial reading. There are 81 students in remedial classes at Pioneer Middle School.

"We do as much counseling as reading with remedial classes because the kids don't feel good about themselves," said Ernie Bevins, a reading specialist at Pioneer.

"Are there enough reading teachers for kids who aren't reading up to grade level?" asked Sylvia Stetz, a board member.

"More staff won't always mean higher scores because there will always be slow learners," Gibbons responded.

After being asked if the extended school year (ESY) program was detrimental to remedial reading, Bevins said: "Yes, there are problems with cross-tracking, vacation times for both students and teachers, and re-orientation time needed after vacations."

Kids need sameness and security; there's too much disruption with ESY, said Gibbons.

Board member Flossie Tonda suggested the annual spelling bee for middle schoolers get as much publicity as the football teams do every year. "To me, spelling is just as important," she said.

delayed the rest of the shopping center pending Wade's review.

Would the shopping center overload the subdivision's sewers? It's impossible to tell, Wade said, without knowing what businesses Acchione places in the center.

"A restaurant would produce a lot of wastewater, while other businesses don't produce much at all," said Wade.

Albert said no restaurant was contemplated in the project.

The prime alternative to using Forest Brook's sewer system is a proposal to run a sewer line along Palmer from Morton-Taylor to Acchione's property. This sewer would stay with its sewer district boundary line.

In 1977, plans to build this sewer and extending it past Acchione's land to Canton Center Road was discussed at a meeting attended by Supervisor Harold Stein, Townsend, a representative of Acchione, and other persons who owned property along the proposed route of the sewer.

Townsend, who worked for Wade, Trim at that time, said the sewer-extension project was dropped by the landowners because it proved too costly.

"Acchione was the one most interested," said Stein. "He couldn't do it alone, I understand, and he couldn't force the others to go along."

A further complication to the project's problems is that the shopping center was not included in a list of developments which were cleared for water service after the state Department of Health requested Canton to cut back water tap-ins.

Only the bank, and not the shopping center on the site was OK'd for water, since Wade, Trim officially only knew about the proposed bank, said Wade.

Rent-subsidy developer files suit against Canton

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Board of Trustees has been sued by the owners of land who were denied permission to build a large, subsidized-rent apartment complex.

The board, with strong support from neighbors of the proposed project, denied approval of the apartment complex this summer. Attorneys for the township said that the landowners had violated the PUD (planned unit development) agreement of the project's site, on Lilley Road, south of Warren.

The lawyers said that the PUD agreement, which is a contract between the landowners and a municipality governing how the land can be used, says any apartments in the Pickwick Village subdivision must be built before single-family homes.

Since the single-family homes were erected first, the 18-acre site lost its multiple or apartment zoning, the board ruled. Therefore, the board denied the owners, Forest City, Inc., a request for the apartment complex's site plan.

In the brief filed with Wayne County Circuit Court, Forest City claims that the board should grant the site plan because the township approved all construction at Pickwick Village in the "sequence that such construction" occurred.

Furthermore, the landowners said, "At no time prior to 1979 did Canton advise Forest City that its site plan for multiple construction would not be approved due to the fact that single family construction in the planned unit development had commenced 'out of sequence' or for any other reason."

"The alleged breach of the . . . (PUD) agreement was not raised by Canton until after publicity of the fact that the multiple development would be federally subsidized housing open to persons of low and moderate income and members of ethnic minorities," the brief said.

Homeowners in Pickwick said that the complex would lower their property values.

"The refusal of Canton, its township board, its Planning Commission and the individual members thereof to approve the Amurcon (developers working with Forest City) site plan was not based upon any factor relevant to such a review in state statute or township ordinance, but rather, was based exclusively upon the desire of the individual defendants, and others acting in concert with them, to exclude persons of low and moderate income and minority group members from Canton," said the brief.

Lawyers from both sides appeared in Circuit Court Friday, and the hearings are due to resume today (Wednesday).

"We anticipated a lawsuit," said Supervisor Noel Culbert. "If the (circuit) court rules against us, we'll appeal it for years to come. Our attorney, Bert Burgoyne is conservative in these matters, and he's confident we'll win."

Twp. to begin setting sheriff contract wording

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees was scheduled to consider a motion authorizing township officials to negotiate a contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for police protection last night.

"We'd like to start writing up the contract proposal as soon as possible," said Supervisor Thomas Notebaert. He was going to ask township board members for the go-ahead to negotiate as an item on last night's agenda.

At the polls on Sept. 11, township voters approved a one-mill levy for police protection, which will raise approximately the amount needed to fund a contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

A contract proposal for police protection was given the green light by a sub-committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee, in late September.

Before its final adoption, the contract proposal must be approved by the Board of Commissioners, the Wayne County Board of Auditors, and the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

Notebaert said even if all the final approvals are given smoothly, the sheriffs probably "wouldn't be out on patrol before Dec. 1."

Under a rough draft of a contract proposal worked out by township officials and representatives of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department earlier, police services would cost the township about $248,066.

Under the proposal, four officers would be funded by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and five officers would be paid for through the township. The nine-man team would provide around-the-clock police services.

Teacher contract finalizing hits salary snag

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Bargainers for both the school board and the teachers have reported that they've reached snags in writing up a new contract agreement based on a state fact-finder's report.

George E. Gullen, Jr., the state fact-finder, will meet with both the school board and teachers' negotiators on Friday to clarify some of the points in the report, said both Norm Kee, spokesperson for the school board's team, and John Ryder, president of the teachers' union.

Teachers were on strike for 10 days beginning Aug. 27. The dispute was settled after Gullen, Jr. made recommendations to both sides. His report was accepted by both teachers and the school board as a basis for settlement.

"We got through the language of the contract during Thursday's meeting, but salary issues need to be clarified by Gullen," said Kee.

Kee also said one of the main issues to be ironed out is "how the percentages are applied in the compounding factor in the salary schedule."

Ryder, however, did not specify what parts of the contract needed to be clarified by Gullen. Asked if salaries were an issue, he said, "not really, but cost of living may be."

"I don't want to stir up a hornet's nest by saying too much. Patience is the word now," Ryder added.

For an update on negotiations, teachers were scheduled to meet at 4 p.m. at West Middle School yesterday.

Two grievances filed by the school board during the second week of the strike also remain to be settled. The school board's team filed a grievance with the teacher's union Sept. 5 and they also filed an unfair labor practice charges with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC)

Sept. 7.

The grievances charge the teachers with violating the master agreement because their old contract expired Aug. 31 and teachers went on strike Aug. 27. The board also asks for payment for economic damages incurred during the strike.

When teachers accepted the fact-finder's report, the resolution said approval was subject to the fact that "the board drop any unfair labor practice charge and any other damages incurred during the strike."

On Monday night, Kee said the grievance filed with MERC was scheduled to be heard in late November.

Planners delay Stage lot pending intersection study

Approval of a three-acre parking lot for Canton's Center Stage entertainment hall on Ford Road was delayed by the Planning Commission Monday night.

The commission requested township planning officials and the owners of the hall to explore widening of Sandhurst Drive, which runs along the western boundary of Center Stage's property, and will serve both the nearby Village Squire apartments and Center Stage.

The possibility of lighting the Sandhurst-Ford intersection will also be investigated by planners before the matter scheduled back before the commission on Oct. 8.

The parking lot is located west of Center Stage off Sandhurst, and directly south of Village Squire. A wall will be built between the lot and the apartments, according to the project's plans.

"This (lot) has the blessing of the apartment management," said a representative of Center Stage. "We've virtually stopped the problem" of concert-goers parking in Village Squire, he said.

Kromberg, Stillings

Canton ZBA taps 2

Canton's Board of Trustees filled two positions on the township's Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday.

Jim Kromberg and Tom Stillings were appointed with 6-1 votes by the board. Trustee Gene Daley voted "no" in both cases.

Supervisor Noel Culbert had nominated the two incumbents, Cary Sands and Catherine Prince. Prince was rejected by the board on a 4-3 vote, with Daley, Culbert and Clerk John Flodin casting "yes" votes, and Trusttees Robert Greenstein, Stephen Larson, Carol Bodenmiller, and Treasurer James Donahue voting "no."

Sands was approved, however, when Larson joined Flodin, Culbert and Daley in the "yes" column. However, after some discussion, Sands's appointment was reconsidered, and Larson switched his vote to defeated Sands.

The board then proceeded to appoint Stillings and Kromberg.

A SALUTE. Jeanie Adams and Kurt Schubert, field commanders for the Centennial Educational Band, walked tall during a post-game exhibition at the Michigan State-Oregon game Saturday in East Lansing. New uniforms dress up CEP Band for shows

After making their first appearance of the season at the Canton football team's season opener on Sept. 7, members of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP) marching band have been working on more than music to please the usual football audience.

Not having to perform for the home crowd Sept. 14, the band used that week to prime itself for a special post-game appearance at Michigan State University in its annual Band Day.

Spending another week working out the bugs in its competition show, the band used last Friday night's game between Canton and Walled Lake Western to present the "comp show" once more for the home crowd before entering its first full-fledged competition of the season.

That first competition will be Saturday night when the band enters the Clarkston Invitational at Clarkston High School. Last year the band placed third in the open class and will be trying to improve on last year's total score.

Presenting its new competition style uniforms at MSU, the band will again display the gold and black uniforms at Clarkston while it performs the music of "Caravan" "What are You Doing the Rest-of-Your-Life?", a percussion solo titled "Red and Orange" and the Chuck Mangione hit, "Children of Sanchez." All CEP marching band arrangements are done by Ralph Johnson.

Soloists in the show include John Upton on trombone in "Caravan," Bruce Rutenberg on trumpet in "What are You Doing the Rest of Your Life?" and Mark Thrasher on alto saxophone in "Children of Sanchez."

The CEP marching band is under the direction of Jim Griffith and Carl Battishill with field commanders Jeanie Adams and Kurt Schubert.

BITING THE DUST. This old house at 553 S. Harvey St., once the home of Plymouth restaurateurs Bob Stremick (The Hillside) and Ralph Lorenz (The Mayflower) was crunched into rubble early Saturday morning by bulldozers. FINAL CONSTRUCTION along the entrances and exits to the M-14 expressway, which will complete the link of the Plymouth-Canton Community to the highway system, is underway. Here traffic at North Territorial and Beck Roads is directed around the construction by Flagperson Monica Bartlett. According to a state spokesman, the expressway is expected to open this November after several years' delay. Barring unforeseen circumstances -- and many things turn out to be unforeseen by the state highway department -- it may actually make it this fall. Although unnecessarily overdue, the highway's completion will be welcomed for the convenience it offers the community. -- THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Jr. Baseball apologizes

EDITOR:

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League would like to make a public apology to the girls of the Pirates G-Sr.s, Baseball Team.

A protest was lodged against the Pirates which led to their elimination from the championship playoffs. Due to the persistence of Dick Lane (manager of the Pirates) a meeting was held by the executive Board to review the protest decision.

Mr. Lane brought to the attention of that board new facts omitted from the previous written protest. The board then voted and overturned the decision of the Protest Board.

The board apologizes for the error made, and will make changes in the policies of the League to insure that a mistake like this will not be made in the future.

Are carnival rides appropriate?

EDITOR:

While attending the Fall Festival last weekend, I happened to witness an incident that reflects the possibility that too many people looking for a fast buck are becoming involved.

As I stood waiting to purchase tickets for the rides sponsored by The Old Village Assoc., there were a number of special teenage girls from Our Lady of Providence school ahead of me. Two people worked at the ticket table, a woman made change and a young girl handed out the tickets.

Having received their change and tickets, the girls stepped aside for their counselor to check their money. Several girls had received only two tickets for $2. The tickets were 50 cents each.

When the counselor tried to explain the girls had been given the incorrect change, the woman snapped back loudly that she had not. The counselor tried to show the woman the change and number of tickets received and insisted she still owed them each an additional dollar change.

The woman, quite angry by now, loudly replied "I don't care," and then pulled out a dollar bill and threw it in their direction. The girls and counselor walked away realizing it was useless to pursue it.

My daughter and I waited in line for about 20 minutes with these girls before getting on the ride. They were friendly, eager to talk to us and thrilled to be going on a ride. They were hardly the type one would expect to find trying to cheat the Old Village Assoc. out of a few dollars. One girl upset over not getting her other dollar back, was told by her counselor that she would give it to her.

One might ask what difference one such incident makes in such a large happening as the Fall Festival. I, for one, feel it was enough to leave a bitter taste in my mouth and a certainty that I won't patronize the rides next year.

In fairness, I was told the Old Village Assoc. people do not actually participate or oversee the handling of the rides or the money; this is done by the owners of the rides. I think, however, the Association must take responsibility for the actions of the people they have chosen to represent them. It is ultimately a reflection on the Association, even if not directly involved.

There are quite a few people who feel that carnival rides have no place at the Festival. Perhaps the Old Village Assoc. should look into other means of fundraising; something the members can take part in and pride in as other clubs and associations do.

Where's Wizzor?

EDITOR:

I am writing in hopes that you may be of some assistance to me. I presently own a Wizzor, it is a type of bicycle-motorcycle, which is quite old.

To my knowledge a gentleman in Plymouth bought the Wizzor Company and I would like to get in touch with him, so that I may restore this Wizzor to its original condition.

I thought maybe your paper had printed an article on this gentleman or maybe you would suggest how I could run an ad to contact him.

Any assistance you can be in this matter would sincerely be appreciated.

by Fred DeLano through bifocals

Wilma Newton, a self confessed football nut, experienced one of the greatest thrills of her 57 years last Saturday when she watched the entire Michigan-Kansas football game from Bob Ufer's broadcast booth in the press box of U-M Stadium.

Many would envy Mother Newton this unique opportunity which she now recalls as being "loads of fun; I just didn't want it to end." Others might shudder to learn that she actually paid $710 for the privilege.

It isn't that guest tickets to the Ufer broadcast booth are for sale. They aren't and never have been.

But last April, when St. Joseph Mercy Hospital conducted its second annual Radio-Thon Auction, an afternoon with Bob Ufer was one of the items put up for bid.

A number of Plymouth-Canton people were much involved in that fund raising effort, and for a very heart-warming reason. They are members of the hospital's Hazel Larson Auxiliary which was launched in this community by Gae McCord in memory of a tremendously respected, beloved woman who is sorely missed hereabouts.

Not only did Wilma Newton and Nan Cooper head up the campaign for local participation in the auction, but when the Ufer thing came up for bid a lifelong love of football got the best of Wilma. She got the brass ring when she went to $710, which turned out to be the highest single bid of the entire auction.

Overall, the three-day promotion raised better than $30,000 for the hospital out near Ypsilanti. It went for such equipment as an outpatient surgery table and accessories, a Stryker frame bed, blood fluid warmers for surgery, an external pacemaker, infusion pumps and similar trinkets necessary to a hospital.

Local folks can find satisfaction from the fact that upwards of $2,000 came from their purses.

"That Ufer is something else," says La Newton, who never had met Bob until Saturday. "It's a show just watching him."

If the name Ufer stirs no emotion in your own soul, read no more because it means you are newly arrived from some other state and have not yet had time to develop either hatred or devotion for the somewhat prejudiced voice of the Wolverines, heard each autumn on a network of some 30 stations.

Ufer lives and dies the Big Blue of Ann Arbor. To say that he gets excited during a broadcast is the understatement of the century.

He has been doing this bit for every Michigan football game, home and away, since 1944. At the age of 59 Bob is even noisier and more dramatic than in his younger days, if that is possible.

I say that with some personal knowledge, having been the man who pointed Bob toward a broadcasting career while he was only a U-M sophomore 39 years ago. In that era he was best known as a track star and he didn't talk himself into the record book either.

Ufer won enough Penn Relays watches to start a jewelry store (but chose to be a rich insurance guy instead) and was indoor world record holder in the 440. The microphone hysteria came later.

Wilma Newton is extremely effervescent. She bubbles. When she gets her pretty teeth into something, her enthusiasm is infectious. For instance, it was exactly that enthusiasm which in past years provided leadership for raising the money needed to send our high school marching band to the Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl.

Before the Belle of Evergreen went to Ann Arbor she was asked whether she would be able to sit quietly like a nice little girl and just watch, not gab, and certainly not steal the show from the guy paid to do the broadcast.

"That's going to be difficult, but I'll try," she replied.

At that moment she didn't know that Ufer is an Aries type who celebrates his birthday on April 1 as do so many of us who are outspoken. Now she praises him and his technical crew of spotters and engineers, saying, "They couldn't have been nicer."

Ufer took her on a pre-game tour of all levels of the working press box, and along the way it included an introduction to Athletic Director Don Canham. Then, throughout the game, she disdained the chair she was offered and stood next to an engineer who had her flash the station ID card to Bob whenever it was time for a broadcasting break.

"I was really very, very restrained," says Wilma. "They made it plain ahead of time that I had to be. But I just had a ball. It's a world of its own. It's a man's place."

Wilma even wore a yellow mum with blue streamers, sent to her by the St. Joseph Hospital Development Fund.

What happens now? Well, husband Dick, a quiet General Motors executive, will simply have to make allowances if he awakens some night to find his well-known Plymouth housewife writing and wailing, muttering words in her sleep which sound like, "the hole that Yost dug, Crisler paid for and Canham carpeted."

Summer means garage sales

The garage sale is a growing American phenomenon and nowhere is this growth more evident than in the Plymouth-Canton Community. It's a fine way to clean out the basement, get rid of the kid's outgrown schoolclothes and pick up some extra money.

All it takes is a few hours of gathering, and pricing. Keep the prices low so the items sell quickly. Cardboard signs help draw customers.

It might be wise to check with local governmental offices about the legality of posting signs. The ordinances vary from community to community.

If you don't need a garage sale yourself spend an afternoon browsing at several. Where else can you find an outboard motor for three dollars or half of an antique sewing machine?

Learning options smooths the rough teenage years

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Dressed in her worn-out levis, plaid shirt, and sandals, Carrie (not her real name) looks like a typical 16-year-old. She talks like a normal teen; she parties, hangs around, and gets bummed out occasionally when someone gets on her case.

Carrie is a bright student. She was on the honor roll at Salem High School for the first semester of her sophomore year last fall and she was also an above average student at Middle School.

Between honor rolls at the two schools, Carrie tells a story that isn't quite so typical, but is indicative of many of the problems faced both at home and at school by other teenagers, according to Sara VanDeMark, a counselor at Growth Works in Plymouth.

During her freshman year at Salem, Carrie dropped out of school and hitch-hiked to Florida with a 14-year old girlfriend. The two girls were gone for more than a week, a time in which her mom says: "I was frantic with worry."

Following Carrie's venture to Florida, VanDeMark helped Carrie start a new pattern of behavior through the Learning Options program at the Centennial Educational Park and Growth Works in Plymouth.

To begin, Carrie recounts a series of events which lead her to run away to Florida. "When I started at Salem, I began dating a senior, hanging around with older kids, and partying."

"Then I started skipping classes. Once I started skipping, I couldn't explain to my teachers why I hadn't been in classes, so I got behind in my work. It was an endless cycle," says Carrie.

Her mom also noticed a change in behavior. "Over the months it became harder and harder to communicate with her. She'd only answer in short, one-syllable responses and didn't offer any information about herself or her friends."

From middle school to high school over a six-month span, Carrie changed from an obedient child who couldn't help out enough at home to a disgruntled teenager with a reputation for skipping school, says her mom.

"Kids won't listen to you when they're 15. I had never behaved like that when I was a teenager and I didn't know what to do when my girl did," she added.

"Teenage years are rough. Kids are trying to break away and parents are trying to hang on. Drawing the line in the middle is rough for both of them," says Nic Cooper, Canton High School counselor and coordinator of the Learning Options program.

When Carrie ran away to Florida in February it marked the climax of her problems, says her mom.

Carrie says: "I was very, very lucky on the trip. I ran away because I wanted to get away from the hassles. I wanted to be on my own."

At the suggestion of a high school counselor, Carrie enrolled in the learning options program at the CEP after she returned from Florida. The program is designed for kids who have dropped out of school or are on the verge of dropping out. The program put Carrie "back on the right track," according to her mom.

"Learning Options is a slow-down time for students to work through their problems both at home and school. Parent participation and one-to-one sessions with counselors are integral parts of the Learning Options programs," says VanDeMark.

First, Carrie and her mom met Nic Cooper and the counselors at Growth Works. "When meeting the parents and student, usually the kid doesn't talk much. The student often acts disinterested," says Pam Carlson, a Growth Works counselor.

After the interview with parents and the student, the counselor meets the student on a one-to-one basis. "In that meeting I usually tell the student that I've heard what the parents want him or her to do. Then I ask him what he thinks he should do," says Carlson.

The stress on individual problems is one of the keys to the program's success, says VanDeMark. "Classes are taken on a tutorial basis in small group or individual sessions, but behavior is just as important as classwork," says Gina Carrington, the third counselor in the program.

Students can earn up to five credits in Learning Options and although most students usually begin simply by taking classes at Growth works, they usually are weaned back into high school classes after two semesters.

"Due to the large number of students at the Park and the time restrictions there, many teachers don't have the time to help students individually," says Carrington.

After Carrie enrolled in Learning Options, she went to Growth works classes throughout the summer and during the first semester of her sophomore year. "If it hadn't been for Learning Options, I don't know where Carrie would be now," says her mom.

"The 30 or so students in Learning Options each semester may seem like an insignificant number unless one of those 30 happens to be yours," she says.

tell it to Phyllis

The Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) sent letters to families in the school district last week, explaining two options for making up time lost because of the teacher's strike.

While explaining advantages and disadvantages to both schedules, the PCEA recommended a proposal that would mean split-day sessions for eight weeks, beginning in June. The advantages listed are obvious advantages for the teachers, but what about the students and taxpayers?

The students in this school district deserve a full year of education. Residents pay taxes for full-time education, yet the teachers want to work only a half day and receive pay for a full day.

If proposal A, the plan recommended by the PCEA, is adopted, all ESY students would be on split sessions from June 23 through August 14. The teachers list seven advantages to this plan; however, after taking a close look at these advantages, and considering the value of educating our children, only one of these advantages is worth considering: the fact that all children would remain in their usual building.

Another advantage listed by the teachers is earlier school year end for tracks A, B, and C. However, when closely examining the calendars, it shows track C would be going a week and a half longer, while track A would be shortened by three days and track B by four days. Most people agree that we would like to see more time between the school years, but 40 days or half sessions is too high a price to pay for three or four days at the end of the year.

As a parent, I would prefer making up three days in December -- the three days after Christmas. However, I realize this would not be feasible if the majority of students and teachers planned Christmas vacations.

The disadvantages listed are that the hours could be either as long as 7 a.m. to 12 a.m. and 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. or as short as three hours, going from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The three hour sessions meet state requirements. This isn't only a disadvantage, it's a disgrace to the Plymouth-Canton school district. If this district is paying a top salary for top teachers, then the students should be receiving a top level education. How much will the students really learn in a three-hour day?

It's time teachers started thinking about the education they are being paid to provide, and stop worrying about how much vacation they get next August. After all, they're the ones who voted to strike. Now they, as well as the students and their families, are forced to pay the consequences.

Mime, movement, improvisation, and more in acting classes

Young People's Theater of Ann Arbor and the Plymouth Community Arts Council will offer theater classes in Plymouth. Classes will begin Oct. 1 and run for 10 weeks. They will be held in Pioneer and Smith schools.

For young people in third through fifth grades, there will be two offerings: Creative Acting, taught by Jan Quick, which is an early skills class, emphasizing Spolin theater games and voice and movement; and Production, taught by Erica Peltz, choreographer and actress, which is a show class and students will learn acting techniques by preparing a play for performance.

For young people in the sixth through 10th grades, there will be a Creative Acting class taught by Erica Peltz. This is a skill development class, essential for all young performers. This class will emphasize mime, movement and improvisation skills.

For more information about class times, dates, and fees, call the Community Arts Council at 455-5260, Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to noon.

Partial and full scholarships are available upon request for all classes.

Plymouth Community Fund launches record drive

Goal is $315,000

All of these agencies benefit from the single annual fundraising drive now being conducted by the Plymouth Community Fund. Donations may be sent now to the PCF, box 356, Plymouth, or made through payroll deduction. Persons who work outside the area are reminded to designate their contribution to the Plymouth Community Fund.

YMCA, senior citizens

From its pre-schoolers' "Kreatives" class to its Crediteer program for the elderly, the YMCA services Plymouth residents of all ages.

The phrase, Young Men's Christian Association, no longer describes the wide range of family-oriented activities now operating from the Y's second story office at 292 S. Main St.

"Our classes continue to be our mainstay," says program director Janet E. Luce. "Besides the customary exercise and sports skills classes, there are personal enrichment classes, such as plant care, guitar and practical courses like home finances."

Improved human relationships are also the goal of the Y Indian Maidens program for mothers and daughters and Indian Guides for fathers and sons. Gra-Y continues to draw hundreds of third, fourth and fifth graders to its after school activities, while Hi-Y gives teenagers an opportunity to earn their way to Youth in Legislature events.

Area seniors are involved in the Y's Crediteers, a social organization co-sponsored by the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union. The group meets weekly for fellowship, craft and service activities, lectures, parties and other events.

The Y also helps senior citizens in transportation to medical and dental appointments, shopping, etc.

Isabelle Maurer, President of the Independent Senior Citizens Club, said that although members pay nominally for some popular trips sponsored by these groups, they are only possible by the community fund. The Senior Citizens Club meets year around, providing over 150 members with social and educational activities and remembrances to the ill and shut-ins.

Activities and services for older people are provided by many other community fund agencies, such as the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the Visiting Nurse Association.

Older people, in return, are among the most active volunteers in such activities as the Salvation Army's league of Mercy, the Red Cross Blood Drives and the sewing groups which prepare free medical dressings for area cancer patients.

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging, Inc. is a new agency receiving some funding from the community fund. This nonprofit corporation is active in coordinating all local efforts for older citizens. This past year the council accomplished three major goals: Merchant Senior Discount program, the Vial of Life campaign and coordination of information and referral calls.

Family Services,

Growth Works

Each week, hundreds of area residents seek counseling and related services from Plymouth Community Fund agencies, Family Service, located at 880 Wing St., has been providing counseling services to area residents since 1963. Growth Works, one of the

Scouting Big Brothers, Big Sisters

"Theres nothin' to do."

Every parent knows these words, spoken with a shuffle of feet and a whine of despair.

But it just doesn't ring true in Plymouth -- thanks to such organizations as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Hundreds of area boys and girls are actively involved in these programs, due to the efforts of many adult volunteers and the support of the Plymouth Community Fund.

Adventure, friendship, self discovery, citizenship and character development are all goals of the scouting movements in Plymouth.

Gemini District Boy Scout Executive Josef Domfried lists 44 troops active in the Plymouth area with 543 boys in those troops.

The 41 Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scout troops enrolled 733 girls in 1979, along with adult membership and leaders.

Boy and Girl Scouts perform a wide variety of community services, take trips and experiment with new skills and crafts. By the time they are senior scouts, the youngsters take an active role in council decision-making and attend national and international events.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is an agency recently added by the Plymouth Community Fund as a beneficiary. Boys and girls from one parent homes are matched with adult volunteers who on a one to one basis (in cooperation with a professional social worker) meet weekly for communication and recreation.

Volunteers are needed for the programs in the Plymouth area. Boys and girls are always waiting for a Big Brother/Big Sister.

The continued success of these youth activities depends on the success of the annual

Plymouth Community Fund agencies, Family Service, located at 880 Wing St., has been providing counseling services to area residents since 1963. Growth Works, one of the Plymouth Community Fund's more recent agencies, provides youth services and counseling programs.

Both agencies address a wide range of problems and concerns with unique and different approaches.

Family Service serves clients seeking counseling for more ongoing problems which relate to marriage, pre-marriage, alcohol or drug abuse, pregnancies, parent/child relationships, adolescence and divorce. Staff members hold counseling sessions with individuals, couples or families.

The agency also sponsors a number of groups which meet regularly to share mutual problems. These have included a group of pre-teens and older adolescents who were experiencing problems in school or at home, an adult group focusing on new roles for women, and a very successful mother-and-new-infant program.

Plymouth Family Service charges fees on a sliding scale, based on the client's ability to pay. Plymouth Community Fund support insures that the services are available to all regardless of financial status.

The Plymouth Community Fund also supports growth works, an agency with two major program areas -- its Youth Services (formerly known as the Youth Center) and counseling and Intervention Services (formerly the Our House Crisis Center effort).

Counseling and Intervention Services provided programming for over 2,000 people this year. Services include counseling, crisis intervention programming, special self-help groups, tutoring for elementary school aged children, and substance abuse programming. Services are available on a walk-in and appointment basis. The C & CIS efforts have recently relocated to the Growth Works Main Street site.

Growth Works Youth Services, located at 271 S. Main St., provides more than leisure time activities for area youth. During 1978 two major programs were initiated by Youth Services. The first provides alternative education programs in conjunction with the Plymouth-Canton schools for the needs of students who are unsuccessful in the conventional high school environment. The second program is the sponsorship of a Department of Labor Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Project which provides jobs, academic credit, and employability skills training to area youth.

Even with these pursuits, leisure time activities are still an essential part of the Youth Services program. "People don't come here just because they might have problems," staff member Dale Yagiela explains, "they come here to have a good time. However, the contact with other youth and the staff presents opportunities to learn how to get along with others, make decisions and assume responsibilities."

Critical to maintaining Growth Works efforts, which offer their service free of charge, are the extensive use of all program volunteers and the Plymouth Community Fund which is the agency's major local financial resource.

in the Plymouth area. Boys and girls are always waiting for a Big Brother/Big Sister.

The continued success of these youth activities depends on the success of the annual fundraising efforts of the Plymouth Community Fund.

Red Cross, Salvation Army

Bad news and human tragedy.

That's what people usually associate with the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army, because when tragedy strikes, they're the first on the scene providing massive relief efforts by supplying victims with food, clothing and shelter.

The Salvation Army rendered emergency aid to individuals in the form of fuel, rent and transportation, as well as counseling, referral and home visits.

At Christmas, Salvation Army volunteers visited more than 1,900 persons, and delivered food baskets, orders of toys, clothing and checks to 298 local people.

The League of Mercy, a group of volunteers who visit and work with shut-ins, made monthly visits to 1,760 individuals in six local institutions and distributed gifts at Christmas.

But the organization does not limit its programs to people with hardships. Some examples are "Sunbeams" a scouting-type program for girls aged 6-12, a recreation and craft "kids club" and a social and service club for teenagers. The Salvation Army also sponsors local mothers and their children to residential summer camp and summer day camp at the Corps.

A free drop-in nursery school at the Army's headquarters, at 290 Fairground St., continues to thrive. Pre-schoolers attend the two-hour morning sessions, while mothers take turns lending assistance. The program affords some free mornings to the mothers while boosting the children's learning and social skills before they start kindergarten.

The Plymouth Corps is also able to refer people to area-wide services of the metropolitan Salvation Army. The newly opened Evangeline Family Shelter is such a service offered to residents of the tri-county area.

While the Salvation Army collects food and clothing for the needy, the Red Cross solicits another important human resource: Blood.

Blood drives are one of the Red Cross's largest efforts, with collection sites scheduled periodically at area schools, businesses and commercial establishments throughout the year. The agency has been appointed the sole supplier of blood and blood products in southeastern Michigan.

Locally, disaster services such as shelter and food were offered during the 1978 blizzard and 1979 flooding.

The agency also offers some of the country's most active and comprehensive instruction programs in water safety, small craft handling and first aid.

A marked increase in Red Cross Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) classes has been experienced recently. Additional numbers of CPR classes will be offered in the future.

Boosters earn $ for California

On Tuesday evening, September 18, parents of CEP Marching Band Boosters and parents of all bands at CEP, including the Symphony Band, merged into one group calling themselves CEP Band Boosters, with a purpose to support all the bands at CEP.

President Jerry Hotchkin reported $1,500 is still needed to pay for CEP Marching Band Competition uniforms. In addition, band boosters would like to earn enough to deduct $100 from approximately $450 cost per individual for the upcoming trip to San Jose, Calif.

New offices in Canton

Center offers range of birth, family, parenting information

The Childbirth and Family Resource Center (CFRC), 865 Penniman Ave., Plymouth, provides information, books and materials, classes and personal support during the prenatal, birth and postnatal periods, said Diane Kimball, director.

The non-profit organization is beginning its third year as a community resource center. Here is a list of fall programs.

John Ryder, president of the Plymouth-

Canton Education Association, (PCEA), said in an interview Monday afternoon, "The teachers want to see how this year's calendar fits into the calendar for the following year. Teachers are concerned about attendance during the summer months."

At Monday night's meeting, Superintendent John Hoben said: "We hope to bring this (scheduling the make-up days for ESY) to a conclusion by the end of the week after meeting with the fact-finder Friday afternoon."

The two negotiating teams will meet with George E. Gullen, Jr., the state fact-finder, Friday afternoon to clarify some of the issues he addressed in his report. Gullen's report was used as a basis for settlement after a 10-day strike by teachers.

Many states and the federal government are making attempts to preserve natural resources. The increasing demands of population, commercialization and recreation are threatening to eat up or pollute many natural areas. California was the first state to take action and passed legislation to preserve redwoods in state forests. The federal government has taken similar action in creating national parks or national recreation areas such locations as Cape Cod in Massachusetts, Point Reyes, California and others.

Standard lunches coming

Food service takes over lunches

Instead of a variety of lunch menus offered on the same day throughout the school district, cooks at Plymouth-Canton schools will be preparing the same luncheon fare for kids in all schools.

For example, on Monday, Oct. 1, every child in all 14 elementary schools, four middle schools and two high schools can eat a hamburger on a bun, tater tots, buttered green beans, chilled peaches, and a cookie with milk.

Last spring the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education OK'd a contract with ARA Food Service, which has started the standardized approach. "Our first priority is to serve good, nutritional lunches," said Paul Seidel, food service director.

A standardized menu will help simplify buying food, insure fresher food, get cheaper prices on large quantities of food, and enable all cafeterias to offer equitable meals across the school district, said Seidel.

"One student is just as good as another and it's a better policy to offer the same menu to all students," said Seidel.

He said he would like to institute more choices in the main dishes for students at the middle school level. "High schoolers can choose from the a la carte items as well as the main dish, but I'd like to place other choices on the menu for middle schoolers," he said. Such choices may be included in the menus in late October, he said.

"Now, we're still working on setting up the lunches, evaluating our equipment, buying food, and getting organized," he said.

Another idea Seidel would like to see started is a special "make-your-own-salad" bar at the high schools.

In addition to Seidel, ARA also has two assistants, one full-time bookkeeper, and one part-time bookkeeper to assist in the food service program. "Financially, we'd like to reduce losses in serving food and bring the school district closer to the break-even point," he said.

Seidel added that no changes such as layoffs were planned for cafeteria workers now or in the near future.

Wind players needed for Youth Symphony

The Plymouth Youth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Linda Mapes, will be rehearsing each Tuesday evening at 6:30 in the orchestra room of Salem High School. Students interested in playing with a full orchestra are invited to attend. Clarinet, trumpet, trombone, and French horn players are needed, says Joan Seay, orchestra spokesperson.

Among numbers to be performed during this season are: fourth movement of the Brahms First Symphony; William Tell Overture; and musical highlights from "Rocky."

A possible wind ensemble performance and at least one trip to a professional symphony performance are being planned, says Seay.

Chiefs look towards next foe

BY BETTY DeLANO

After enjoying a very short-lived one point lead over Walled Lake Western Friday, the Canton football team suffered its third loss of the season, 25-7.

The Chiefs are now preparing this week for Friday night's match-up against Northville, another Western-6 foe that is 1-2 for the season.

"The size match up between Canton and Northville is pretty close," said Canton coach Dave Schuele. "I'm definitely expecting Northville to play a very outside ballgame with a veer offense. The most trouble we had against Walled Lake was defending against the outside after shutting down the inside.

"We have got to get moving a lot quicker and work on our pursuit game. That's what we've been preaching all season long, pursuit."

Against the Warriors, Canton opened up Walled Lake's first scoring drive early in the game by allowing Walled Lake quarterback Rob King a 16-yard pass completion to Mike Xenos to put the ball on Walled Lake's 19.

Three plays later, powerhouse Angelo Buttazzoni crossed the line for the game's first touchdown. By missing the extra point Walled Lake was ahead, 6-0.

Canton's scoring drive began with its next possession of the game on a 22 yard kick return by Steve Gray. Canton crossed into Walled Lake's territory on a pass to Mike Swisher putting the ball on the Walled Lake 47.

Working down to the 35, Canton quarterback Greg Mallare again went to the air this time for a 22-yard gain and a Canton first down. Taking the ball to the one yard line, Gray crossed over two plays later to tie the game, 6-6.

CANTON'S STEVE GRAY (41) made this attempt to receive a pass from quarterback Greg Mallare before being broken up by the Walled Lake Western defense Friday night. The Chiefs lost the Western Six League contest, 25-7 and will face Northville this week in another league match-up. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Canton's lead was taken with the extra point. Unfortunately, it didn't last long. On the next series of plays Walled Lake added its second touchdown to the scoreboard and again held the lead, this time 12-6, after failing to make the two point conversion on a pass broken up by Canton's defense.

Hurt by bad field position during the entire game (except during their one and only scoring drive), the Chiefs found Walled Lake taking advantage of their misfortune.

Forced to punt from the five yard line, Canton's Kevin Santilli sent the ball out to the Canton 46 where Walled Lake began its third scoring drive of the night.

Helped by a pass interference call against Canton, Walled Lake advanced to the 33-yard line where Buttazzoni took over and ran it to the 15 where Gray knocked him out of bounds.

In a second-and 10 situation, Buttazzoni moved the ball to the five where King went in for the six points. Xenos added the extra point for the 19-7 lead.

Late in the second quarter, Canton recovered, turned the ball over as the result of a fumble on the eight yardline. Walled Lake again gained possession and left it up to Buttazzoni to score. Walled Lake led at the half with what became the final score, 25-7.

Neither team was able to start another drive as the Canton defense stiffened and the Walled Lake offense was plagued by penalties.

Game totals found Canton with seven first downs, two on passing and five on rushing,

Chiropractic Care Is Vital To Auto Accident Victims

Neck and spinal injuries, as a result of automobile accidents, are among the fastest growing health problems in the country today. The ever increasing number of automobiles on our crowded highways provide the ideal opportunity for the type of accident that results in sudden impact injuries.

Whiplash is the most frequent result of the sudden impact injury. The victim experiences severe headaches, shoulder pain, neuralgia of the neck and many other symptoms which are seemingly unrelated. When the head and neck are violently thrown forward and then backward, one or more vertebrae in the spine can slip out of its normal position, interfering with the transmission of vital nerve energy.

Another common injury occurs when a person is thrown from the seat to the floor of a car, or against the car door. The sudden impact will be to the lower spine and, if the shock is great, vertebrae in this area will become dislocated. The symptoms of such an injury can include severe back pain, bladder disturbances, kidney disorders and menstrual distress among others.

As a result of any sudden impact injury, there may be sharp impingement of the nerves and consequent ill effects upon the victim's general health.

With modern scientific methods, we can quickly locate the vertebral injury. Then, with scientific and corrective spinal adjustments, we can realign the vertebrae involved. Even a minor spinal injury can result in an unlimited variety of distressing and painful effects. Many disabling conditions occur years after an automobile accident, but can be traced back to the sudden impact injury.

Our Chiropractic Life Center specializes in treating sudden impact injuries. See us immediately after any type of accidental injury.

Salem cagers remain undefeated

BY BETTY DeLANO

Salem girls basketball coach Bob Blohm had expected the contest between Salem and Dearborn Thursday to be the most competition the Rocks have had all season. Blohm's pre-game prediction proved wrong after the undefeated Salem squad beat its Suburban Eight League opponent, 54-39.

Competition for the Rocks has been hard to find so far this season and probably won't be found until the Plymouth team is confronted by Flint Northern, the reigning class A state girls basketball champion on Oct. 23 in the Salem gym.

"I'm really happy with the development of the younger kids on the team," said Blohm after Thursday night's first league game. Blohm has been able to work his younger players because in each of Salem's games so far this season, the Rocks have been able to give the first stringers a break to give the new players more game experience.

Getting off to a fast 16-3 lead after the first period, the Rocks continued to dominate the boards with another 18 points in the second period. Dearborn was held to seven points in the second period and wound up trailing 34-10 at the half.

Inconsistency at the free throw line plagued Dearborn, as the Pioneers managed to get 13 points in the third period and another 16 in the final period, still not enough to catch the Rocks after they had put another 18 points on the board in the opening period of the second half and its final two points in the fourth period.

"If we had capitalized on free throws it would have made a big difference in the final score," said Dearborn's Coach Bacso. The Dearborn squad was 17 for 32 at the line.

Patty Weidman starred for Salem adding a total of 14 points to the Rock total, with eight rebounds and two assists. Nan Horwood contributed 12 points to the win with two rebounds and five assists. Next in line for the Salem squad was junior Cheryl Sobkow with 10 points, nine rebounds and three assists and sophomore Eileen Moore with eight points and three assists.

Sue Cliff lead the Dearborn squad with 12 points and was followed by Sharon Scala with 10 and Mary Sarb with six points.

"Our ball handling, passing, and cutting is as good as I've ever seen here," said Blohm of his undefeated club. "Anytime a player gets open, they get the ball and then do something with it."

"The inside people did a great job and I'm pleased with the tempo we're setting during the games."

The junior varsity squad was also victorious over the Dearborn school, 46-36. Leading the Salem JV were Linda Lybarger and Bonnie Sutherland with 14 pts. each.

The Salem teams will play Belleville tomorrow (Thursday) in league action and then face Ann Arbor Huron on Tuesday. Both games start at 6 p.m. The Rocks will host Belleville and then travel to Ann Arbor to take on the River Rats.

Rocks shoot for third win Friday

BY FRED DeLANO

After his Rocks crushed Dearborn, 27-6, Friday, Salem football coach Tom Moshimer speculated that this may turn out to be the best defensive club in his 13 seasons at the helm here.

The victory over the Pioneers gave Salem a 2-0 mark in the Suburban Eight and ran the overall record to 2-1.

"Our defense is becoming tops. That's three outstanding games in a row those kids have turned in," commented Moshimer, pointing to the fact that the Rocks have held every opponent to less than 100 yards on the ground.

Livonia Franklin rushed for 83 in its 12-9 upset of Salem in the non-league opener, Livonia Bentley netted 98, and Dearborn was held to 62.

Moshimer is confident his troops will show the same defensive consistency in the trenches Friday when they invade Utica Eisenhower for an 8 p.m. non-league game. Thus, it's defensive alertness against forward passing that is getting heavy attention in this week's practice sessions.

"Eisenhower shut out St. Clair Shores Lakeview 3-0 and Rochester Adams 7-0 in overtime in its first two games before losing last week to Troy 24-0. We expect them to come out throwing," said Moshimer.

The query, "Where's Utica?" has been heard frequently among Salem fans planning to drive to the Rocks' fourth road game in a row. The answer is that it lies north of Sterling Heights on M-53 in Macomb County, and is crossed from west to east by M-59.

As opportunists who can capitalize on fumbles and interceptions, the Rocks put on their best show at Dearborn -- key defensive roles being played by Julian Martinez, Ken Czapl and Stan Snider.

It was cornerback Martinez who put Salem on the road to a 6-0 lead in the second quarter. The stage was set when Phil Anderson and Czapl sacked Pioneer quarterback Craig Wilcox for a 16-yard loss, Martinez then intercepting a Wilcox pass at the Dearborn 45 and returning it 20 yards.

Four plays later, with Salem having first down at the 14, a running play to the right broke apart when quarterback Jim Anderson slipped. But he then came back to the left against the flow to go the distance untouched for six points. Brian Lewandowski's placekick for the extra point was blocked and it stood 6-0 at halftime.

On the second play of the third period Czapl recovered a Pioneer fumble on the Dearborn five-yard line.

Immediately, co-captain Craig Stack exploded through the right side of the line for Salem's second tally. It was the third straight game in which the all-league halfback from '78 has run for a touchdown. The score was left at 12-0 when Salem's attempted quarterback sneak for a two-pointer was stopped cold.

However, two plays later another Dearborn fumble wound up in Salem's possession. This time it was Snider who recovered at the Pioneer 42. Aided by a 21-yard pass from Jim Anderson to Phil Anderson, the Rocks marched to their third score, Stack again going over.

A fake placekick wound up with Martinez passing to Otto Luttmann for a two-point conversion, making it 20-0 entering the final quarter.

The Rocks made it 27-0 on a 52-yard march that saw Dave Skone going the last seven yards standing up, Lewandowski kicking the extra point from placement.

It was not until the last minute of the game that Dearborn got inside Salem's 47-yard line. A pass from Scott Mills to Dave Mifsud for 40 yards put the Pioneers within two yards of the end zone. Mills scored on a bootleg run to the left with seven seconds left, but the attempted conversion was kicked wide.

Jim Anderson's 64 yards on 20 carries paced the Salem ground attack, Stack being second with 27. All 40 of the Rocks who were in uniform got into the game.

Schuele...

and Walled Lake with 11, two passing, eight rushing and one on a penalty.

Stev Gray lead the Chiefs in rushing with 49 yards on 22 carries.

"Walled Lake added up 185 yards in 10 long plays which really hurt us," claimed Schuele. "Buttazoni came out with 196 yards rushing on 25 carries for Walled Lake. He's one hell of a player and we had our hands full trying to contain him."

The Canton squad will be at Northville Friday. game time is 8 p.m.

A GOOD FLOOR PLAN

When considering the purchase or construction of a new home, one of the major considerations should be a good floor plan. What do I mean by a good floor plan?

Most importantly, a sound floor plan is one where you can get to the separate areas of the house without going through another area (a mistake most often found in bedrooms). The different areas should be well separated. The kitchen should be easily accessible from the dining room and recreation area.

Proper placement of closets and stairs should add convenience. Bedroom closets are better placed on inside walls to function as a sound barrier between bedrooms. Improperly placed or oversized windows can make furniture arrangement impossible. Naturally, the size of the rooms will vary from house to house, but the living room should be large enough to contain at least one conversation group and allow room for movement and circulation. A good floor plan is only appreciated when you have suffered through a bad one.

Refer to our Crier Classified Ad for a home which illustrates the information given in my column today.

Dad heads for national putting contest in sunny Miami

How long has it been since a Plymouth golfer has played for a first place prize of $10,000? Answer, probably never.

To carry the point one step farther, how many of you can say that even a member of your immediate family has competed for the big bucks?

State amateur and open championships are pretty common in this area. But a pot of 10 grand? I don't think many of us can say their family has had the chance to win the big money from the golfing profession.

Well I can. Or at least I'll be able to say that I have in about three weeks from Monday when my mom and dad return from the Doral Country Club in Miami, Fla. after dear old dad has competed in the $25,000 National Open Putting Championship Finals.

"What was that?" you say. To explain a bit further . . .

During the summer rounds of golf with my dad, Fred DeLano, it has never been unusual for him to "one putt" many of the greens. (One putt means getting the ball in the hole in one try rather than two or three.) As a matter of fact, it's down right unusual for him to have more than the normal amount of 18 putts for a nine-hole round.

Always commenting on dad's consistent putting stroke that often sends that little white ball into a six inch cup in diameter from 50 feet, I was glad to hear he was going to compete in the regional putting competition at the Pine Knob Country Club Sept. 4.

Like a fool, I passed up the opportunity to go along for the trip and really prove that I was the better golfer as I always claim to be. I probably wouldn't have gotten past the first nine holes.

Well, as it turned out earlier this week mixed in with all the bills was the official notice that dad had qualified for the nationals.

A field of 125 fellow qualifiers will converge on the five practice greens at Doral for a 72 hole tournament, 36 on Saturday and 36 on Sunday, Oct. 20-21.

Sponsor of the tournament is Hannan Associates, Inc., of North Palm Beach, Fla., the same organization which originated the Legends of Golf PGA tournament held recently in Austin, Texas. President Michael Hannan said that he is still working on the sale of television rights to the putting finals. Boy, wouldn't it be something to see dad competing on national television for a first-place prize of 10 grand?

If experience is a major part of the competition dad should be right up with the best of them. Starting to play some 50 years ago, he was the promotional director of the Michigan section of the PGA in 1947, the publicity director of the "Carling World" at Oakland Hills in 1964, and of the 1965 "Carling World" at Pleasant Valley in Sutton, Mass.

Even if nothing else happens, spending a few days in Augusta, Ga., with brother Bob on the way down and living with dad's sister Florence while in Miami will do both mom and dad a lot of good. But $10,000 would certainly buy a nice looking set of wheels.

Golfers fare well in Plymouth Best Ball

BY BETTY DeLANO and MIKE HENSHAW

Neither of the two high school golf teams were to far off the pace yesterday (Tuesday) at the annual Plymouth Best Ball Tournament co-hosted by Canton and Salem at Brae Burn Golf Course.

The Canton squad finished the 18-hole round with a team score of 148 and Salem came in one stroke back at 149. A three-way tie for first place at 146 resulted with West Bloomfield as the new tournament champion after a one hole playoff.

Playing with two man teams and counting the best score hole for hole of the two-some, Canton's Dave Visser and Scott Adler finished out the par-70 course with a 73, 36 on the front nine and 37 on the back nine.

The Canton B team of John Matthews and Kirk Rasmussen finished with a 75 after taking a one over par 36 on the front and following with a 39 on the back nine.

Improving on last year's finish of 162 by 14 strokes, the Canton squad went from 15th to tying for fifth with Farmington, Ann Arbor Huron, Dearborn and Trenton.

Bob Jarvis and Blake Lundberg finished tournament action with a 75 stroke total and Jeff Trim and Butch Recto finished with a 74 for the Salem team total.

Jarvis and Lundberg shot 35 on the front and a 40 on the back while Trim and Recto shot a 38 on the front and then fired a 36 on the back side.

In last year's tournament Salem finished 11th with a team total of 153.

Burnstein gives birth

Plymouth Canton varsity tennis and volleyball coach Cyndi Burnstein gave birth to an eight pound, three ounce baby boy Tuesday morning at 3 a.m. at the women's branch of the University of Michigan Hospital.

Mother and son are still at the hospital at this time and are doing fine according to husband and father Jim.

The new addition to the Burnstein family, according to his father late Tuesday morning, has been named Gabriel Alexander.

Burnstein has been coaching her tennis team this fall until Friday when the Chiefs held a 4-2 record. The squad is now 5-2 and undefeated in the western six conference.

West Bloomfield broke its tie with Redford Union and Ypsilanti, the defending tournament champion, on the first hole of the playoff after each team came in with the 146 totals.

Livonia Stevenson took third place at 147 (71 from the A team and a 76 by the B team) and was followed by the five teams that tied at 148 including Canton.

Salem took fifth place along with Livonia Churchill (74-75) and sixth went to Bloomfield Hills Lahser at 151 (76-75).

Following Bloomfield Hills was Northville at 153 (74-79), Ann Arbor Pioneer (85-71) and Westland John Glenn (71-85) tied at 156, Cherry Hill at 157 (77-80) and Dearborn Edsel Ford at 160 (81-79).

Redford Thurston (84-77) and Dearborn Fordson (77-84) tied at 161 and Crestwood finished with 163 (86-77). Walled Lake Western (79-89) and Livonia Franklin (84-84) tied at 168 and was followed by Wyandotte at 169 (79-90) and Royal Oak Shrine at 171 (81-90). Livonia Bentley was disqualified from the tournament for picking up a ball before putting out.

Ypsilanti's winning team score last year was a 138. Low team score this year was a 69 (one under par) by the A team from West Bloomfield (34-35).

"I'm disappointed that we didn't win it, especially because we were tied for first after the end of the first nine holes," said Salem coach Bob Waters. "Anytime a team is three strokes off the pace, they're playing good golf. Overall I'm very pleased with our performance."

In regular season action Salem added another two wins to its record which is now 7-0 for the season. Last week the Rocks beat Canton on Friday, 156-166 and Northville on Wednesday, 156-164.

Lundberg took low score honors in both matches with a 37 against Northville and an even round of 35 (par) against the Chiefs. Following Lundberg for Salem against the Chargers were Jarvis at 38, Recto at 40 and Trim at 41.

Matthews was low scorer for Canton in the Centennial Park match-up with a 38.

Canton has had a hard time in its last five matches, four of them being to Western Six League rivals.

Rounds of 40 by Visser, Adler and Matthews offset a 37 by Livonia Bentley's Paul Worley in the Chiefs only recent win, 203-207.

Northville was the start of the Canton slump, defeating the Chiefs 198-200. Other defeats were to Waterford Mott, 198-210 and Walled Lake Western, 210-217. Farmington Harrison handed out the last league defeat, 211-217.

Canton coach Casey Cavell sighted team inconsistency as the reason for the recent losses.

"When ever one of our four players has been up, the others have been down," said Cavell. "If we play the way we can and know we can we can come back in the second round of the league matches."

Canton will try to get back on the track in league action against Churchill Thursday. Salem is slated against Dearborn today in Suburban Eight Conference action and will play on Tuesday in a tri-meet against Canton and Redford Thurston at Brae Burn.

Experience pays off for Canton netters

BY BETTY DeLANO

It's always been said that adding depth to a team can make a big difference in the long run. The Canton girls tennis team proved that theory to be true during the past two weeks by opening its season with a 5-2 record and an undefeated 4-0 mark in the Western Six Conference.

The latest of the Canton victories were chalked up against Waterford Mott Monday, Livonia Churchill on Friday and Farmington Harrison on Wednesday. Canton won all three league contests, 6-1, 7-0, 7-0.

Previous to the three wins in the league, the Canton netters held a 2-2 record after opening the season with a loss to Ypsilanti, 4-3, then bouncing back over Livonia Frnaklin, 5-2 and then losing to Livonia Bentley, 4-3. The Chiefs' second win of the season was against Walled Lake Western, 6-1 and was the Chiefs first league win.

The most recent of the Canton victories, against Waterford Mott, included a first place win by Joan Kaiser over Melissa Bachman, 6-1, 6-4. Second singles Lori Smith beat Lisa Marsan, 7-6, 6-1 and third singles Sheryl Smith beat her Waterford opponent, 6-1, 6-2 while fourth singles Kathy Kidston beat Josie Johnson, 6-0, 6-0.

In doubles action the first doubles team of Eileen McGlenn and Pam Schipani defeated Theresa Afles and Karen Pitts, 7-5, 6-2 and the second doubles duo of Barb Rupprecht and Ann O'Connell beat Karen Campbell and Stephanie Morse, 6-0, 6-1. Heather Hawkins and Lisa Scoltz beat Karen Dabbs and Chantelle Randolph in the third doubles spot, 6-0, 6-3.

"We're just playing great right now," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "In past years we've had to start the season out teaching the very basics of the game. This year we have a lot more experience in match play all the way down the line."

Assistant coach Carol Michaels commented that the players are excited and energetic about winning and that the team has high hopes for coming out in either of the top two spots in the Western-6.

The Canton netters will get the chance to prove just how good they are today (Wednesday) when they take on Northville at Northville. The Chargers are also undefeated in the league. Match time is scheduled for 4 p.m.

JOAN KAISER has become one of the main power sources for the Canton girls tennis team so far this season. The Chiefs held a season record of 5-2 and are undefeated in Western Six League play.

Seniors end league; Begg takes title

Bill Begg won the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department Senior Citizens Golf League. Bill's 44 the last week of league play was the best of the day as he picked up four points.

Gary Aleman got five points as he finished in second place. Ralph Deetz shot a 45 and Gary Aleman posted a 48 for the next best rounds.

Canton drops two non-leaguers in a row

Livonia Stevenson handed the Canton girls basketball team their second consecutive defeat, 45-42, in non-league action last night (Tuesday) in the Canton gym.

The Chief's overall record now stands at 2-3 for the season.

Karen Kelly's four free throws, two with two seconds remaining in the game, iced the victory for the Spartans, who evened their season mark to 2-2.

Stevenson jumped off to a 16-11 lead at the end of the first quarter, taking advantage of poor ball handling by the Chiefs.

Canton managed to settle down in the second period and narrowed the gap to 26-24 at the close of the first half.

In the second half the Chiefs fought back and entered the fourth quarter with a 36-34 lead.

Canton increased the margin to 40-35, but Stevenson struck back for eight straight points. Noreen Kelly's basket with 5:16 remaining in the game put the lead back into Spartan hands where it stayed for the remainder of the game.

Kelly pushed the Stevenson lead to 43-40 with two charity tosses from the free throw line. Canton's Jill Peterson made an effort to catch the eventual winner, closing the margin to 43-42 with five seconds left on the clock. Foul action by the Chiefs gave Kelly the opportunity to sink the last basket before time ran out.

"We have to play more as a team," said Canton coach Mike McCaughley. "They pounded us on the boards and our rebounding and ball handling has a long way to go.

"We have to improve quickly with league play coming up because everybody is shooting to beat Canton this year."

The Stevenson coach listed the fact that Spartan guard Beth Mueller held Peterson, the Chiefs high scorer, to eleven points as the key to the victory.

Mueller also lead the Spartans in scoring with 15 points and was followed by Kelly who tossed in 14.

In addition to Peterson's 11, Diane Duracher scored 10 points for the Chiefs, who connected on 16 of 38 attempts from the field and made 10 out of 12 free throws. Vicky Cavallaro had six points and Jean Timlin and Reggie Ruggiero added five apiece.

In the junior varsity game, Stevenson again came out on the winning side, defeating the Canton J.V., 49-30. Freshman Sue Gerke lead the scoring for the Chiefs with 19 points.

Last Thursday Livonia Bentley knocked off the Chiefs, 65-51 in another non-league battle. Peterson was high scorer for Canton with 12 points and was followed by Timlin with eight.

The Chiefs open Western Six League play Thursday against Walled Lake Western at Walled Lake. Game time for the varsity game is slated for 8 p.m.

PUTTING THE PRESSURE ON the Livonia Bentley offense is Canton forward Debbie Gibb during the Chiefs loss to the Bulldogs Thursday in non-league competition.

Racquetball leagues still open

Racquetball leagues and lessons are still available at the Rose Shores Racquetball facility in Canton through the Canton Township Department of Parks and Recreation, starting Sept. 19 for men's league, Sept. 18 for women's league and Sept. 27 for lessons.

Running for 10 weeks on Wednesday nights for the men's leagues and Monday nights for the women's leagues, a $50 fee per person will include all court time, trophies and t-shirts for all participants. Play will be divided into flights for both men and women.

Daytime lessons starting Sept. 27 will be held at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. for five weeks with a $10 charge per person including instruction fees, court time and rule books. A class limit of 12 people per class has been set.

Evening lessons start Sept. 24 and also run for five weeks. The cost of the evening lessons is $12.50 and includes the same things as the daytime lessons. Evening lessons start at 6 p.m.

A teen league is also being offered and will be held on Saturday mornings. More information on either leagues or lessons may be obtained by calling 397-1000.

Hewlett at quarterback; U of M loses to State

Rich Hewlett, former star quarterback for Salem High, started at QB with Michigan's junior varsity squad last week against Michigan State.

"Richard has got all the physical ability needed to be a strong Michigan Player," said Bob Thornbladh, one of the Michigan coaches and a former Plymouth High School player. "He isn't familiar enough yet with the Michigan offense which was obvious against Michigan State. But he's coming along at a fast rate."

Due to a poor kicking game, the Maize and Blue came out on the short end of the stick against the Spartans, losing 21-20.

While Hewlett was in high school he earned honors in both football and basketball under coaches Tom Moshimer (football) and Fred Thomann (basketball).
