Schools to renovate, rent classrooms

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Central Middle School will be renovated to house high school students and Livonia's Lowell Junior High School will be rented to house Plymouth-Canton middle school students for the 1981-82 school year, according to an informal decision by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

After haggling for months over the problems of housing more and more students in Plymouth-Canton schools, the board lent informal support for those two housing plans at its workshop Monday night.

In addition, the board is seriously studying these alternatives for housing students: purchasing portable classrooms; expanding the ESY (extended school year) program at both the middle school and elementary levels; and continuing using the same grade configuration so that K-5 grades are in elementary schools, 6-8 grades are in middle schools, and 9-12 grades are in the high schools.

Board President Tom Yack took numerous straw votes on the various alternatives for housing students during the two-and-one-half hour workshop.

The board also came closer to honing down the final proposition for funding these alternatives for housing students. Again, in informal straw votes, they supported asking voters to approve a bond proposal which may be divided into two separate issues. The first proposition would raise money for district-wide renovation, ESY expansion costs (including air conditioning) and buying portable classrooms.

The second proposal would be earmarked for buying more classroom space for students at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

The actual dollar value of each of these propositions was not indicated at Monday night's workshop; however, the board has been eyeing a tentative Feb. 28, 1980 voting day, and the bond proposal will probably be set at its meeting on Monday, Dec. 10. The bond proposal is also slated for discussion on Monday, Nov. 26 at the school board meeting.

Meanwhile, at Monday night's workshop, board members rejected a proposed five-year plan for housing students suggested by Supt. John Hoben. The major difference between his plan and the ones tentatively OK'd by the board is the grade configuration. Hoben's plan called for putting the ninth grade back into the middle schools in two schools in 1981-82 while keeping 6-8 grades at the other three schools (Lowell Junior High would be the fifth middle school in this plan).

During 1982-83, the sixth grade would have remained at some elementary schools.

County auditors eye Twp. police

The bid for police services from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department took one small step forward last Tuesday night. After a short update from Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert, the Board of Trustees OK'd sending the contract proposal to the Wayne County Board of Auditors for review.

There may be some changes that have to be made in the contract proposal based on the auditors' recommendations, said Notebaert. "We'll wait and see what they recommend,"

he added.

Negotiations between the township and the sheriff's department have been continuing for months and three drafts of the contract proposal have been written, said Notebaert. The proposal, which costs about $270,000, calls for two sheriff's cars to provide round-the-clock police protection for township residents.

Notebaert added that he didn't know when the county auditors would consider the proposal.

City OKs free Yule parking in East Central lot for CofC

Shoppers in downtown Plymouth during the Christmas season can park free in the city's East-Central lot, next to the Penn Theater.

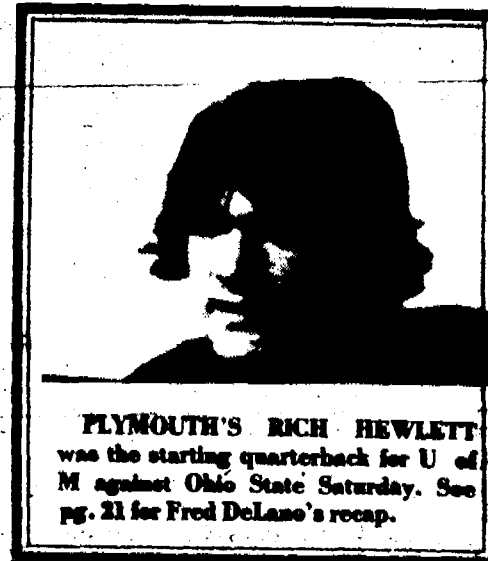

The City Commission voted unanimously to offer free parking at the lot Monday night at the request of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce. Free parking will be available in the lot from Nov. 26 through Dec. 24.

Margaret Wilson, of the Chamber, said the parking offer will 'help alleviate the crunch on the Central Lot, plus establish habitual patrons for the East Central lot, where they can save money (since it has low-cost, long-term meters).'

Also, as part of its Christmas plans, the Chamber will distribute Central Lot validation stickers to all downtown merchants, said Wilson. Shoppers can use the stickers to pay for parking in the lot.

Twp. to air hunting ban, sewer hookups

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Plymouth Township residents can air their views on two issues -- compulsory sewer hook-ups and a proposed ban on hunting west of Beck Road -- at a public hearing Tuesday, Nov. 27.

The Board of Trustees has scheduled the hearing for East Middle School at 7:30 p.m.

About 100 township residents may be required to hook up to sanitary sewer lines if township officials decide to enforce a recent state rule which enable a township to order such connections.

About 50 homes which may be forced to hook up to sewer lines are located in Plymouth Hills subdivision at Beck and Powell roads, according to Tom Hollis, township water and sewer superintendent. The rest of the homes are scattered throughout the township, he added.

Sewage seepage and odors have caused problems in three or four Plymouth Hills homes when septic systems have gone bad, said Hollis. Even is some homeowners have perfectly good septic systems they may be required to hook up, he added.

The cost to the homeowner for the hook-up would be about $1,000, said Hollis.

Trustee Barbara Lynch has also asked that a proposed ban on hunting west of Beck Road be included in the public hearing. She said at an earlier board meeting that she has received "several phone calls from citizens who are concerned about hunters shooting guns in the western portion of the township."

According to Esther Hulsing, township clerk, hunting east of Beck Road in Plymouth Township has been banned for years; however, the area west of Beck Road is still open to hunters.

In 1976, the DNR (Department of Natural Resources) recommended that hunting be allowed west of Beck Road, said Hulsing.

Township residents approved a hunting ban township-wide at the polls on Aug. 8, 1978. The ballot question only had advisory status, however.

Fire damages boxcars

DAMAGE WAS estimated at $30,000 after fire ravaged a storage area leased by Barns Fabrication, 13101 Eckles Rd., Plymouth Township Thursday morning, said Fire Chief Larry Groth. The fire damaged three boxcars on the railroad tracks behind the site plus the steel bulkheads stored there and an Edison pole, said Groth. Rubber on the bulkheads caused an excessive amount of smoke, he added. Fire departments from Canton and Northville Township also helped put out the blaze which required 14,000 gallons of water to extinguish, said Groth. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Canton OKs Acchione's Palmer-Sheldon center

BY CHAS CHILD

Rather than risk a possible lawsuit, Canton's Board of Trustees approved plans for a shopping center at the northeast corner of Palmer and Sheldon roads at last Tuesday's meeting.

The board had a week earlier rejected the site plan of developer Robert Acchione because the township's engineer said it might overload the sewer system of a nearby subdivision.

After Acchione threatened to sue, and the township's attorney advised the board to approve the project, the board reversed its earlier decision and voted 6-1 to OK it.

Township attorney Bert Burgoyne said state law does not permit the township to block the project if it has inadequate sewer.

Whether there is enough sewer capacity for the project is "outside our authority," said Treasurer Jim Donahue. "State law has taken it from us."

"And unless the people wake up, they'll take away authority in other areas from us," added Trustees Robert Greenstein.

Although Acchione now has site-plan approval, which usually guarantees that construction can start, his plans to provide sewer and other utilities must still be approved by township officials.

His current sewer plan, to run a pipe from the project across Palmer Road and into Forest Brook subdivision, was rejected by township engineer Bob Wade.

In his recommendation, Wade listed a number of alternatives for Acchione, including construction of septic tanks or extending a sewer main from the Morton-Taylor right-of-way along Palmer to his project.

The only person who voted against the project was Supervisor Noel Culbert. "I can't believe you want to build this project without even paved roads," Culbert told Acchione. "If erected, you'll take it on the chin. There's no water, sewer, or paved streets, and half of the people nearby don't like this project."

Greenstein objected to Culbert's position: "You're copping out and I want everyone to know about it," said the trustee. "We're sworn to uphold the law. We'll all have to face the Forest Brook folks. We'd all like to take your position. Your position is very safe when you know six others are voting 'yes.'"

Under the township's zoning ordinance, Acchione's site-plan approval expires in one year. If he does not get permission from Wade on the sewer question and other township officials in that time, he must go before the board to ask for an extension of his site-plan approval.

Ford Rd. eatery approved

A new restaurant of Ford Road was approved by the Canton Board of Trustees last Tuesday.

The board OK'd plans of the Ram's Horn Restaurant, proposed on the north side of Ford approximately 150 feet west of Sandhurst Drive. Sandhurst is just west of the Center Stage entertainment hall.

The Ram's Horn will be a full-service, sit-down restaurant.

Culbert suggests regional police department

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert has proposed that the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township form a regional police department.

Suggested in a letter to Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert, Culbert said the regional force would be a preferable alternative to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Notebaert and the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees are negotiating with the sheriff's department for full-time protection and are apparently close to a final agreement.

"Whereas the sheriff's department should be the regional police force, in reality it is spread too thin to provide us all with adequate police protection," said Culbert.

"... the Plymouth-Canton area is closely identified with each other in spirit and proximity," he added. "I think it is in the public interest that contiguous communities help each other out on a regular basis."

Timothy Ford, City of Plymouth police chief, said a regional department was quite feasible. "It's been done in some communities, like Richmond, Va., Dade County, Fla., and Toronto," he said. "If you stop to think about it, it's the least costly way to provide services."

Culbert added in his letter to Notebaert that regional police departments have better chances of receiving federal law-enforcement grants.

The regional police force is an "interesting" possibility, said Notebaert.

He added, however, that it would take a long time to organize such a department. "We want the service, which the people

voted for. I wish it were easy to set something like that up, but it's not."

Ford said that the first step in organizing the regional force would be to set up a community-wide authority that would operate the department. "You must start with a political decision (to set up the authority). After that it's a matter of development and planning."

Because there would be a delay before a regional force could be established, Notebaert said he favors proceeding with a contract with the sheriff's department for pro-

M-14 claims first victim

The first fatal accident has been recorded on the new M-14 Expressway between Plymouth and Ann Arbor.

Dead is a 10-point buck which was hit by a car only minutes after the expressway opened to traffic. Following the car, whose driver was not injured, was Plymouth Chamber of Commerce President Jerry Loiselle.

Loiselle, who earlier in the day served as emcee of the M-14 opening ceremonies, helped move the buck off the road.

"We could terminate the sheriff's contract if a regional force was ever established," he said.

In his letter to Notebaert, Culbert said Plymouth Township may lose control of its police services if it contracted with the sheriff's department.

"The city of Romulus has been under contract with the sheriff for the last several years," Culbert said. "Unfortunately, this year the sheriff has threatened to terminate services until an $800,000 bill is paid. This revolves around interpretation of a wage increase clause in the contract and the city may actually be at fault, although the city claims 'lack of notice.'"

Notebaert replied that he has no "worries" about losing control in a sheriff's contract. "Our (proposed) contract safeguards us so we wouldn't be confronted with that sort of problem," he said.

Although Notebaert said he "had no problems with the sheriff," he said he was investigating other alternatives for police protection, such as starting the township's own force.

It is important to keep in mind when house hunting that while there is no such thing as the perfect house, there are a few very important qualities that go into making a comfortable home. Construction of the home is very important. Check to see if suitable building materials have been used throughout the house. Check the walls inside and outside for cracks that indicate poor construction; floors to see if they are level and free of squeaks; trim around windows and doors for good fit; insulation for adqacy; basement for dryness; and roof and gutters for leakage.

Canton rejects Omnicom 2nd time

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Board of Trustees rejected for the second time a request by Omnicom, Inc. for a franchise to erect a cable-television system in the township, at last Tuesday's meeting.

Omnicom, which already has franchises in the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, and its supporters on the board fell one vote shy of reversing the board's earlier decision to give the franchise to a Canadian company, Maclean-Hunter.

Stephen Larson, who strongly supports Omnicom, said the firm offers better and more complete programming at a lower cost than Maclean.

In addition, Larson said he heard from community officials in New Jersey that a Maclean-owned cable firm there was poorly operated.

"Suburban Cablevision (Maclean's subsidiary) in Orange, N.J., reneged on a promise to put its system underground," said Larson. And in another New Jersey municipality, "Suburban Cablevision didn't provide local-origination programming."

Scott Colbran, Maclean's representative at the meeting, disagreed with Larson: "The New Jersey system has consistently won national awards," he said. "Suburban Cablevision is one of the most outstanding systems in the United States."

Trustee Bob Greenstein, another strong supporter of Omnicom, said he favored Omnicom, in part, because it was American-owned, unlike Maclean.

And Edward Draugelis, Omnicom's attorney, said school children in Canton would benefit if the township were served by Omnicom. Since his firm already had franchises in the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Omnicom could broadcast school events to the entire Plymouth-Canton school district if it also had Canton's franchise, he said.

Greenstein, Larson, and Trustee Eugene Daley voted for Omnicom, while Supervisor Noel Culbert, Treasurer Jim Donahue, Clerk John Flodin, and Trustee Carol Bodenmiller voted against the firm.

Although Maclean survived this challenge, the board still must finally adopt the ordinance which grants it the township's franchise.

Uncertain zoning delays shopping plaza

Approval of plans for a shopping center at the southwest corner of Sheldon and Ford roads was delayed by the Board of Trustees at last Tuesday's meeting.

The board said that the zoning of the proposed site is undetermined. Although the property was designated for commercial uses under a contract called a PUD (planned unit development), the PUD does not assign it a specific category of commercial zoning, such as C-1, C-2, or C-3, the board decided.

Each of these categories permits different uses. For example, C-1 allows local businesses, like a party store, while C-2 and C-3 permit larger establishments like hardware and furniture stores and supermarkets.

To decide which zoning category the property should receive, the board appointed a committee to negotiate the matter with the developers of the plaza.

The developers received approval a week earlier for their medium-sized shopping center, called Three Circles Plaza, from the township's Planning Commission.

The board's negotiating committee, which includes Trustee Carol Bodenmiller and Planning Commissioner Dianne Neihengen, is expected to bring a recommendation back to the board at its Nov. 27 meeting.

After hitting student

Teacher cleared of assault

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

A Central Middle School teacher, charged with assault and battery after she hit a student across the mouth, was pronounced not guilty Monday.

Judge Dunbar Davis, of the 35th District Court in Plymouth, said the teacher, Rosemary Verville, used "reasonable" force when she disciplined the student.

Davis quoted the state law which says a teacher may use "such force as necessary to maintain proper discipline."

"The law permits corporal punishment. I thought that her action was reasonable and not an abuse of discretion," said Davis.

The incident occurred on March 9. Davis said that on that day many of the students were "being very unruly and generally disruptive," according to testimony he'd heard in 35th District Court.

After Verville had assigned the students to sit in alphabetical order to curb the disruption, one girl said to the student sitting behind her that "the teacher is crazy," said Davis.

Then Verville slapped the girl across the mouth. Afterwards, the student went to the lavatory and Verville followed her and apologized there, said Davis.

"I think the girl was more humiliated than hurt physically," said Davis.

The girl's mother, Johnie V. Belcher, filed charges against Verville.

Belcher said that school officials hadn't handled the case properly. "Why weren't we called before she was hit?" she said.

"How good is a teacher if he or she can't control the students?" she asked.

Verville, who had been teaching at Central Middle School for about two weeks when the incident occurred, was not available for comment late Monday afternoon. She had been hired by the school district in February, 1979.

Canton board to reconsider farmland stance

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Board of Trustees will assess and possibly plot a new course for its farmland-preservation program at an upcoming workshop session.

The study was requested last Tuesday by the head of the township's farmland-preservation program, Trustee Robert Greenstein, who asked the board to help him decide how to pursue the township's farm policy.

Greenstein, during his term as supervisor, from 1974-76, launched the program to save Canton's remaining farmland, all in the western half of the township.

Voters, however, defeated a four-mill levy to fund the program, in the November, 1978 election. After the election, the board chose Greenstein to lead Canton's efforts to preserve the farmland.

Since then, Greenstein has pursued funding for the program in both Washington, D.C. and Lansing. But the Planning Commission passed a resolution last week which said not enough was being done on the local level. Further, the commission requested that the board give Greenstein more direction.

"The program needs assistance from every direction," said Thom Carman, a member of the planning commission. "What alternatives to federal funding are there and what would their timetable be?"

Greenstein said he had spent most of his efforts on seeking federal or state funds because, "It's not time to start anything on the local level. It's the wrong time to go to the people for a millage. But if we get federal help, it'll be duck soup to sell this."

He added that before he approached the farmers and landowners in the western part of the township, the planning commission should complete a zoning ordinance which earmarks the farmland in a permanent agricultural district.

While he was supervisor, Greenstein said, he went to the farmers without the ordinance, which was a mistake. "We went to them with a mouthful of 'gimme' and a handful of 'nothing,'" said Greenstein.

Under Greenstein's proposal, the township would purchase from the landowners the "right" to develop their land. With the development rights in the township's hands, the land could then be taxed not at its speculative value, but at its use (farming).

Before Wayne County officials will tax the land at the lower rate, Greenstein has said, the permanent agricultural zoning should be in adopted.

Bart Berg, another planning commissioner, said Greenstein should not spend time seeking federal funds. "It's folly to think you can get a hand-out from the Great White Father (the federal government). It's got to be done on a local level. It's time to fish or cut bait." (There should be another) vote next spring. You've lost interest and impact (by delaying)," he told Greenstein.

Only if the board wants to proceed without federal assistance should it schedule an election before the deadline set by the board to request funding for the program (May, 1981), said Greenstein.

No date was set at last Tuesday's meeting to discuss the farm program.

Cantonite charged in fatality

A Canton man was arraigned last week in connection with the alleged hit-and-run death of a jogger on Ann Arbor Road.

Charged with manslaughter with a motor vehicle was Robert John Uherek, Jr., 44140 Leeann, Canton. Police say he was the driver of the vehicle which struck and fatally injured Timothy Schroepfer on Ann Arbor Road, east of General Drive, on Oct. 22.

Schroepfer died on Nov. 4 at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia.

Uherek was arraigned Nov. 15 in the 35th District Court before Judge Dunbar Davis and released on $5,000 personal bond. A pre-trial examination was set for Nov. 29 in the same court at 1:30 p.m.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison, said Det. Walter Holoka of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

City, Canton, Twp. police force is fresh idea

What I'm about to propose will never be established. Nor even seriously discussed. Why? Because our local leaders lack imagination. They lack vision. Rather than search for creative solutions, they prefer to do nothing.

Plymouth Township, the City of Plymouth, and Canton Township would establish a common police department.

Such a force would save citizens in all three municipalities tax money -- a dwindling commodity.

A regional department would also provide better protection for residents in the three municipalities, especially Plymouth Township, which, unlike the other two, has no force of its own.

A regional force is entirely feasible; it's not a pipe dream. Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, at least, is willing to talk about it. He sent a letter to Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert broaching the matter.

Unfortunately, a minor miracle would be necessary to get the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees and the Plymouth City Commission to respond. For example, in 1974 the city commission filed three annexations petitions with the State Boundary Commission asking to annex all or parts of the township. After five years, the petitions are still hopelessly mired in court or the bureaucracy. Nothing has happened

Child's play

by Chas Child

-- excuse me, I take that back. Lawyers for both sides have probably paid for their summer vacations by arguing the case.

For a regional police force to get off the ground, this kind of narrow-minded thinking must stop. It's that simple. There must be a willingness to seek new solutions to an old problem: getting the most government for the least money.

Maybe a regional police force is a pipe dream. Unless we get a little fresh thinking from our leaders, it will be little else.

Jury's out on Dunbar's courtroom procedures

Well I'll be hornswaggled if it wasn't Dunbar Davis who introduced me to a new twist to the judicial system after I had become so steeped in tradition from many years of court observation as a reporter that I didn't think there had been anything new since the Normans picked the first jury in the ninth century.

Davis, if you're new here, is known professionally as Judge Dunbar Davis of the 35th District Court, an area which encompasses the Northvilles, Plymouths, and Canton.

Dunbar is a white-thatched southern Baptist who has been in the law since '37. Such local legal historians as Bob Delaney tell me I missed something by not living here when Dunbar found relief from the drudgeries of life by riding motorcycles and walking tightropes.

I countered by saying it chilled me sufficiently to find that his bride of many years, the charming Martha Davis, who is as spirited as any filly from the Blue Grass country, for most years has headed the WCTU in our midst. That dedication notwithstanding, Martha does add dignity and poise wherever she treads.

Her marital mate was elected to the bench in 1968 and occasionally I have visited his courtroom in Plymouth City Hall, admiring the decorum he enforces but regretting that he drives such a hard docket there rarely is an hour when a vacant jury box might offer a hideaway for a newsmen's quick snooze.

The judge's trademark is the silver string tie he favors as an additive to his sartorial splendor. Just by itself this should tip any deep thinker off to the fact that he isn't necessarily the traditionalist he appears by Fred DeLano through bifocals to be on the surface. You'll find what I mean if you are summoned to serve on a jury panel.

Old style courts conduct selection of juries one at a time, as each trial comes up. Either you're approved to sit in judgment on that day's case, or you're not.

It is a civic role many people try to avoid, but after having served are glad they did. It is interesting, rewarding, stimulating, and just generally worthwhile to be placed in that decision-making process, affecting as it usually does some facet of the personal life of fellow humans.

Judge Davis has changed the selection routine of juries, and he says he got the idea from a colleague known well to many in this community, Judge William Ager of Ann Arbor. In case you've forgotten, Ager was the tough-minded jurist who forced a settlement to the Plymouth teachers strike in 1969, although it took his steely demand for marathon bargaining in his own chambers to get it.

What Davis does now is impanel maybe about a hundred of our citizenry by a random method and on one given day, when they all are required to be present, he sees to it that jury after jury is selected for future sitting. A future trial date is set at the time also.

Last Friday, the judge broke such a group into two segments. One sat in his normal courtroom, the other in the City Commission meeting room. Juries for 15 cases were to be selected, and 10 were. Attorneys for the other five reached out-of-court settlements in the hallways, men's room, or wherever they are made, before the final gavel fell.

Davis says it speeds the overall process to do it this way. Now, on trial day, attorneys can come to court and go right to work on the evidence. Many cases are spinoffs from Wayne County's Circuit Courts, transferred to other jurisdictions just to catch up. An example was a 1973 accident suit stemming from a collision out on Gratiot Avenue, now to be argued and juried in Plymouth.

No doubt there are flaws in the pattern, and it's understood that Dunbar's confederate on the 35th bench, Judge James Garber, stays with tried and true tradition. Be that as it may, the fact that the Davis imagination still flourishes demonstrates his belief in the basic precept that administration of the law and accompanying justice is based on common sense.

To each his own, and in his own court it's the judge who's king.

Bartold ya'

by Patricia Bartold

Oddly enough, the Nielsen TV ratings are one of those American institutions that hasn't seemed to lose its credibility over the past decade or so. Recite the top 10 shows as reported by TV watchers to the Nielsen and no one questions their validity. No one questions whether the viewers who report to the survey company are telling the truth or not.

I have reason to doubt the Nielsen ratings from now on. I was part of the rating game for one week from Nov. 8 through Nov. 15. And, I can attest, it wasn't always easy to tell the truth.

My kinship with the Niensens started about three weeks earlier when a cheerful woman called me on the phone about 7:30 a.m. Did I have a working TV? Did I use it and would I participate in the Nielsen ratings?, she asked. "Sure," I replied, thinking that at last I could plug National Geographic specials, Leonard Bernstein in concert, and my favorite talk programs.

My TV diary arrived about two weeks later. I listed the age, sex, and first names of all in my household, plus the same for any guest viewers who happened to watch the tube with me while at my home. (There weren't any.)

Then for each day of the week I had to draw a line from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. the next day to indicate whether my TV set was on or off. If it was on, I was asked to fill in the channel, station's call letters, name of the TV show and who was watching it. Simple enough.

Unfortunately, I logged less than 10 hours of TV viewing that week -- and even then, my two hours of viewing on Saturday night were hampered by the fact that, although I had the set tuned to "Saturday Evening" and "The Baxters," I was defrosting the refrigerator, hanging up clothes, dusting, moppin, and vacuuming at the same time. It was not a concentrated session with the tube, I must admit.

However, I did check out "Monty Python" on Thursday night, "Phil Donahue on Wednesday morning, "Saturday Night Live" on that night, and the 6 p.m. news (channel 4) on Monday and Tuesday nights.

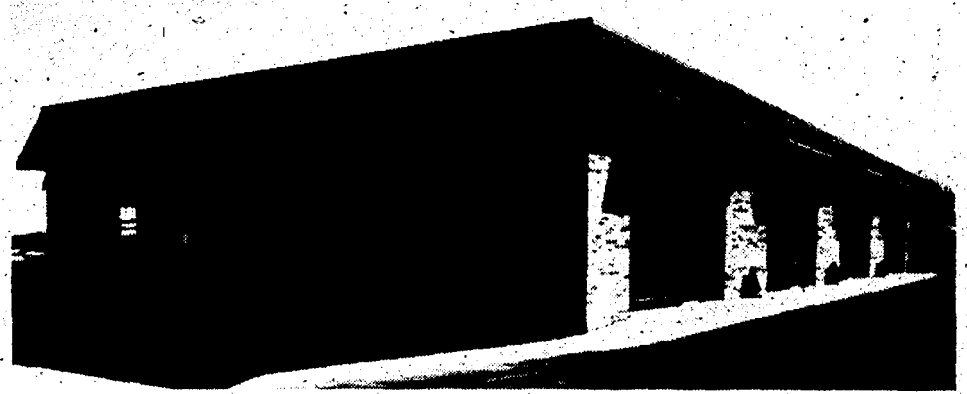

But the real question of whether I should tell the truth or not in the Niensens hit home on Monday night.

As school board junkies will confirm, I attend Board of Education meetings every Monday night. Because of that, I've only watched Lou Grant three times -- and one of those shows was a rerun of an episode I'd seen before.

Ahh, but Lou Grant is one TV show that, newspaper people say, is a good show about some of the real questions and situations that face media folks every day. So the question was: Should I lie and plug Lou Grant or should I tell the truth?

I don't lie very easily -- in school, it always proved to be one of my major character flaws. But I figured that Art Nielsen, Jr. certainly wasn't going to know if I told the truth or not... it was my Catholic conscience that was getting the better of me.

That's when my faith in the Nielsen ratings plummeted. Whether I told the truth or not about Lou Grant is really inconsequential (I didn't check Lou Grant), but after all my hemming and hawing, I figured there were probably hundreds of other viewers who were undergoing the same dilemma as I was. That's why my confidence in the Niensens is iffy, at best.

ONE LITTLE, TWO LITTLE, THREE LITTLE INDIANS. As Susan Carter re-adjusts her head band, Shannon Litton and Christina Stansell fold their arms solemnly during the pow-wow at Isbister School Friday morning. All three are kindergarteners from Sheila Barnes' class.

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL Jim Barke donned his feathers, draped a plaid blanket over his shoulders, and stalked the gym in his bare feet as he became the Indian Chief Hair-on-the-Face during Isbister's pow-wow Friday morning.

Folklore dresses up Thanksgiving

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

To most of us, Thanksgiving means a day's reprieve from the drudgery of work, time to watch the football games, and, most important of all, gorging on turkey, stuffing, and pumpkin pie along with the rest of the family.

However, for some students in the Plymouth-Canton schools, the Thanksgiving ritual may have acquired a slightly different flavor. In some schools, the focus was on American Indians and the lifestyles, customs, and folk tales they contributed to our country.

Students at Eriksson, Smith, Field, and Hulsing schools watched "Totem Tales" -- a collection of stories on the legends, folklore, and customs of the American Indians. The tales were presented by puppets from the Melikin Puppet Theatre of Chicago.

The show is hosted by Chief Whatsit-to-ya, an old Indian story teller with a huge, multi-colored head dress and a large, beak-like nose. He quickly won the students' affection at Hulsing School on Thursday afternoon.

The chief's morals are simple -- but the kind that need to be repeated. "There is beauty in all things if we take the time to find it," the chief recounts during the story of "Ugly Thing."

During "The Rain Dance," lightning flashed across the portable, 12-foot-high puppet stage and a few raindrops flew out across the audience to wet the kids' foreheads and their imaginations. The kids laughed and slapped their knees in delight. In a loud, low voice, the chief boomed out: "Maybe now you understand that we have a sense of humor. I hope you have one, too," he added solemnly.

"The puppet theater is not just a way to entertain kids for an hour or so," said Tim Doyle, a representative of Detroit Youtheatre, a branch of the Detroit Institute of Arts, which helped arrange the show. The show was also brought to Plymouth-Canton through the Plymouth Community Arts Council, which is also funded by the Michigan Council of the Arts.

"Indians as portrayed on TV aren't very realistic. Indians are known for their friendship, love, sense of humor, and emotion. That's the side we want to show kids in these four tales," said Doyle.

Meanwhile, inside the dark gym at Hulsing, the kids sat cross-legged to watch the puppets. The music and voices of the characters in the puppet show are taped, but the hand-and-rod puppets are maneuvered by Mel Biske and his 21-year old son, Neal. The Biskes can fold up their puppet theater into a huge, suitcase-like box with the sound equipment and puppets tucked into smaller boxes inside. The father-and-son team tours throughout Michigan.

For some students, the play marked the end of a unit of classwork designed to help students understand Indians and their folklore and lifestyles before the Pilgrims settled here.

Meanwhile, at Isbister school, students were talking about the spirit of co-operation and friendship between the Indians and Pilgrims in the kindergarten classes taught by Sheila Barnes and Carolyn Kleinsmith.

On Friday morning, the students marched into the gym beating their drums and dressed in their hand-decorated vests (made from grocery bags) and conducted a pow-wow for their moms and dads and other guests.

The pow-wow marked the end of a three-week unit on Indians and the spirit of co-operation they shared with the Pilgrims, said Kleinsmith. To make that message real today, the kids also earned a nickel or a dime to donate to the Plymouth Community Fund.

As Kleinsmith added, "Why not shatter that image of the blood-thirsty warrior chasing pioneers?" That was the message many students were hearing as they talked about Thanksgiving.

With less than five weeks until Christmas, the holiday season is officially upon us. Children are trying to be good (with a little reminder that "Santa knows when you're bad"), and parents are beginning their annual holiday rush (to the post office to wait in line for an hour).

Last week I had an unexpected visitor, the jolly old elf himself stopped by to let me know he's been keeping a close eye on the Plymouth-Canton Community. Since this is his busiest time of the year, Santa didn't stay long, but he did send his greetings to everyone, with a reminder that he could use a little help from his friends.

Santa, commonly known as Gene Reaves by his friends, has been making people happy at Christmas for many years. He first took on the role of Santa in 1935 when he became the official Santa for the J. L. Hudson Co. He was with them for 10 years, riding in the Santa Claus parade each Thanksgiving day.

"I've taught hundreds of men to play Santa," said Reaves. "It's quite an art, learning how to handle the kids," he explained.

After playing Santa in another local store for a couple of years, Reaves met an old friend, Ben Korn, who talked him into being Santa at the Farmington Plaza. They built a special Santa car, complete with sound equipment, and for four seasons he rode around the plaza with area children.

After retiring from the Santa Claus business, Reaves got away from it for a few years, but eventually went back to being Santa for charitable groups.

This will be the 11th year he has been Santa at the Plymouth Training Center. Every year at this time, he begins collecting gifts and donations from local people and organizations. Sheldon Futernick of Royal Holiday Mobile Park supplies Santa with candy canes, and the Lions Club in Canton donates large candy filled canes. He also receives help from the Plymouth and Canton Jaycees and the Canton Jayettes, and many Canton officials, as well as many local friends who donate what they can to help Santa fill those Christmas dreams.

Reaves works through the Foster Grandparent group at The Plymouth Center. Besides money contributions, one of the things they need most is afghans. Anyone who wishes to help Santa's Christmas Fund can write Santa Gene Reaves at 37789 Hixford, Westland Mi. 48185.

Reaves, who is 77 years old, with white hair and spectacles, is a perfect Santa Claus. Next time you see him around town, be sure and greet him with a Merry Christmas. Even if he doesn't have his red suit on, you can tell it's Santa because of the wink in his eye, and that special Santa smile.

Matthew John James Spitz, II, 24, of Heritage Dr. in Plymouth has entered the U. S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program. Spitz will commence four years active duty on December 28, undergoing six weeks' basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., He is a 1979 graduate of Canton High School.

Attention all friends, family, and neighbors of members of the Canton Seniors Kitchen Band -- the band is going to be on television on the P M Magazine show on Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 7 p.m., on channel 2. Mark it on your calendar so you don't miss them.

Lady Luck shines on Suzanne

Good old Lady Luck was on Suzanne Robertson's side last week when she won a $500 savings bond on the day before she exchanged marriage vows with Robert Coon.

Robertson's name was drawn as the grand prize winner of the First National Bank of Plymouth's Fifth Anniversary celebration. Then on Saturday morning, Robertson, a 1952 graduate of Plymouth High School, married Robert Coon, also of Plymouth, who was graduated from PHS in 1959.

Joining the couple to celebrate their marriage vows were Suzanne's two children, Erle, 17, and Tonya, 18.

Following the ceremony the couple returned to the place they had met -- the Box Bar -- in order to watch the Michigan-Ohio football game.

Coon works with the Wayne County Road Commission.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON students may be bused to Lowell Junior High School (in red, below) in Livonia, south of the intersection of Joy and Newburgh roads, in two years. Last Monday night, the Livonia Board of Education decided to close Lowell in June, 1981. Plymouth-Canton officials have expressed an interest in either renting or buying Lowell to house the burgeoning Plymouth-Canton student population. Cross-district busing doesn't pose any problems, according to a legal opinion quoted by Supt. John Hoben at the school board workshop Monday night. To finance the rental or purchase of Lowell, school officials are working with State Senator Robert Geake and State Representative Bob Law to get an exemption which would allow the district to use money from a bond proposal to pay for renting or buying a school from Livonia. School officials are not extremely hopeful that the district could get an exemption or a bill passed which would allow us to use bond money this way, but it's worth the effort, said Hoben at Monday night's workshop. School officials have also expressed an interest in either buying or renting Webster Elementary School, (in red, above) which is between Five Mile and Schoolcraft roads in Livonia. Webster will close in June, 1980, according to Ray Hoodel, assistant superintendent for business in Plymouth-Canton. (Map courtesy of the Livonia School District) in order to ameliorate the overcrowded classrooms at the middle schools and high schools, under Hoben's plan. Then in 1983-84, the CEP would house only 10-12 grades with 7-9 grades at the middle schools, and K-6 grades at the elementary schools, said Hoben.

Hoben's plan also called for the expansion of ESY to some elementary schools -- Fiegel, Allen, and Bird were mentioned -- to add on more space for students at that level.

Board member Steve Harper objected to the gradual transfer of one grade to another school. "There are severe program implications in having some ninth graders at the CEP and others still at middle schools," he said.

Patricia Gibbons, assistant principal at Pioneer Middle School, commented: "Grade realignment means social and classroom changes for students. Don't destroy the middle school concept that we've worked hard to create," she said.

Board member Elaine Kirchgatter also supported keeping the ninth graders at the CEP and renovating Central Middle School to house more high school students. Whether Central will become a third high school with a complete program or be used as an annex to the CEP are two alternatives being weighed currently by school officials.

At Monday night's workshop, enrollment projections based on the first Fourth Friday count taken this year were given to the board. They show that the high school population will soar by about 300 students to nearly 5,000 students by 1982-83. CEP building capacity is 4,200. The middle school group will increase by 1,000 students to 4,700 by 1981-82, and the elementary school level will have peaked at about 8,200 students this year (1979-80).

Furthermore, Hoben added that these projections were taken from the low estimates -- not the high ones.

Read What Chiropractic has done for Mrs. Glass & son

"I read everything I could find about Chiro. care for years, and talked to friends who were pleased with their progress; but I was still hesitant, since I had already been treated by so many doctors: surgeons, internist, neurologist, rheumatologist, etc. Then I hit my head and started having a stiff neck and almost constant headaches. When a tabloid came in my paper, I made an appointment to see Dr. Mashike.

I had been hospitalized so many times in the last few years and had several operations. My health never was the same, each year new problems would arise. These included: migraine & sinus headaches, dizziness, hearing problems, allergies, water retention, low back pain, stiff neck, muscle spasms, arthritis, and diabetes, as well as difficulty swallowing and breathing. I was taking five medicines daily, plus frequently needed aspirin and antibiotics for infections.

My son, Brian was suffering from headaches, dizziness, and stomachaches. After an eye exam, and a good physical, nothing could be found to explain his problems.

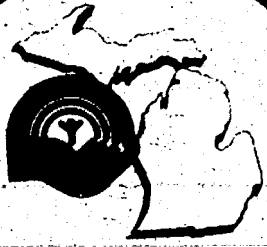

Once we started receiving regular adjustments we both improved. Brian's problems cleared up after only one week, mine took a couple of weeks. I am off all my medicines and feeling alive again.

Unlike regular medical care, which only treats symptoms; Chiropractic locates the cause and corrects the interference, thereby eliminating the disease. I strongly recommend Chiropractic Care to everyone, but please go early -- don't wait till you have a list of medical problems a yard long, like I used to have!"

Head counters organize

To ensure that all Canton Township residents are counted in the upcoming 1980 federal census, Supervisor Noel Culbert has formed a "Complete Count Committee."

At stake is more than $1 million worth of federal grants, which are allocated on the basis of population.

According to the township's grants coordinator, Terry Carroll, Canton would be eligible for $1.2 million per year in federal Community Development Block Grant funds if the census records 50,000 residents or more. Currently the township receives $125,000 in community block grant funds. Since its official population is listed far below this. The township's growth may push it over the 50,000 mark by next year, though, said Carroll.

The township would also receive far more state and federal money from other sources, said Carroll.

Last week, Culbert sent a letter to numerous township and civic leaders asking them to serve on the Complete Count Committee. Those interested should contact Culbert at Township Hall.

Career night scheduled

On Saturday, Jan. 12 at 8 a.m., all juniors and seniors at Salem and Canton high schools can participate in a career guidance and educational planning program, the ACT Career Planning Program.

The program is designed to help young adults make better decisions about their educational and career plans, say Diane Pomish and Don Chumbley, counselors at Salem and Canton high schools. They say national studies reflect that 11th grade students rank "help with career planning" as their most important need.

Participating students can complete the Career Planning Program assessment instrument which measures the students' career related interests, experiences, abilities, and plans.

Then the information is developed into a report for students to help relate this information about themselves to career options and the world of work. The reports will be reviewed with students in group and individual counseling sessions following the administration of the program.

Energy studied

Using energy wisely will be the theme of a month-long series of classroom activities for Plymouth-Canton students during Energy Conservation Weeks, which began Nov. 12 and will continue until Dec. 7.

Activities will aim on helping students learn about wise energy use, develop ways to save energy resources, and plan for making energy conservation an on-going part of the school program, according to a resolution passed by the Board of Education Monday night.

Graduation set

Graduation dates for students at the Centennial Educational Park were approved by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night. Canton High seniors will graduate on Wednesday, June 18, 1980, and commencement exercises for Salem seniors will be held on Thursday, June 19, 1980.

The last day of school for seniors will be Wednesday, June 11, 1980, according to Bill Brown, Salem principal.

DONATIONS to the Plymouth Community Fund this year have sent the thermometer up to the $175,000 mark - which is just more than half of the fund's goal of $315,000.

Applause showed Symphony's mastery

BY PHILIP D. MORSE, II

Sunday's concert by the Plymouth Symphony was an experience on many levels.

There was the joy and laughter of Beethoven's Symphony No. 1. There was the mystery and contrast of the "Dance of the Sprites" from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz. And there was the magic and power of the violinist Alfio Pignotti and cellist Samuel Mayes as double soloists in Brahms' "Concerto in A Minor for Violin and Violincello."

Pignotti and Mayes are truly great performers. Either one alone would have been a treat for Plymouth audiences, but together they provided a musical feast. Brahms' "Concerto in A" was an excellent setting for their performances. This piece gave the audience a wide sample of the capabilities of both violin and cello and also blended them into a rich harmony.

The audience gave a standing ovation to both artists and the conductor and called both back on stage twice.

Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust" also provided musical variety. The story of Faust's temptation by the devil is well-known and has inspired works by other composers as well. Only fragments of Berlioz's work are commonly presented, but these are exciting pieces even as extracts from the whole. There is the ballet-like "Dance of the Sylphs" which contrasts to the sharp, foreboding "Dance of the Sprites." Included also was the "Hungarian March" (or "Rakoczy March") derived from a Hungarian patriotic song of the early 1800's. The moods of this piece were accurately rendered by the Plymouth Symphony.

Beethoven's First Symphony was an enjoyable piece and reflects the musical simplicity and intellectual clarity of the composer in his late twenties. It served well as an introduction to the afternoon's performance. Michael Krajewski was an enjoyable conductor. He wasn't flashy, but he was both consistent and capable, and clearly enjoyed both the audience and the orchestra. His applause was hearty and well-earned.

Coming events of the Plymouth Symphony include the first Young People's Concert on Dec. 15 at 10:30 a.m. and the repeat performance of "Amahl and the Night Visitors" Dec. 16 at 4 p.m.

"Amahl" was a sell-out when it was presented two years ago. Tickets are available at Beitner Jeweler's.

Dine for Canton library

The Canton Rotary Club is holding its second annual Canton Library Dinner, December 3 at the Roman Forum Restaurant, 41601 Ford Rd. just west of Haggerty. They will serve from 11:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. The price is $2.25 for children under 12, and $3.75 for adults. They will have a choice of a complete chicken or spaghetti dinner.

Tickets are available at the Roman Forum, Canton Chamber of Commerce, and the Canton Library.

All proceeds will be donated to the Canton Library for special projects and equipment. Last year the Canton Rotary donated $2,000 to the library from the sale of the dinners.

Lake Pointers tap new board members

At the September general meeting, the Lake Pointe Homeowners Association elected three new members to the Board of Directors: Sue LaSota, Lee Wollgast and Larry Ripple. This group then elected the officers for the current year in accordance with the by-laws.

The results of this election were as follows: President, Benton B. Lindamood; Vice-Pres., Lee Wollgast; Treasurer, Sue LaSota; Recording Secretary, Myrna Hahn; Corresponding Secretary, Nancy Crawe; Directors, Larry Ripple, Bill Golden, Lou Ret, Lee King.

President Lindamood announced that John O'Reilly will head up the snow removal project, Ken Luick will help with starting an Operation Watch in Lake Pointe and Rudy Blancke received thanks for managing the Lake Pointe entry, "Admiral Snow Pointe," in the Plymouth Chicken Flying Contest. The third place winner was sponsored by Dana Burns.

Township to join League

To reduce its workman's compensation bills, the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees gave tentative approval to joining the Michigan Municipal League.

The membership fee is $2,202, but township officials say that charge will be offset by a 10 to 20 per cent reduction in the current workman's compensation bill. Workman's compensation will cost the township about $50,000 next year, and Clerk Esther Hulsing estimates the bill could be reduced by 15 per cent by joining the league. By spreading out the cost of workman's compensation over various cities and townships throughout Michigan, the fee is lowered for each township or city, she explained.

The league also offers better services in claims investigations, said Hulsing.

Other participants in the state include Grayling, Mt. Pleasant, Albion, and East Lansing. Final approval will probably be granted after Hulsing writes to the league to confirm the exact reduction in workman's compensation, she said.

NEWSPRINT COSTS INCREASE

Increases of from 13 to 19 per cent in printing costs and newsprint costs have been passed on to The Community Crier.

Effective with last week's edition, new prices and a newsprint increase -- the second in eight months -- were charged to this newspaper by its new printers.

"We knew that the second newsprint increase was coming this fall, but the general economy increases have hiked other printing costs as well, said Crier Publisher W. Edward Wendover.

"We are striving to attain greater efficiencies to avoid passing these higher costs on to our customers," Wendover added.

Hewlett starts for UofM Wolverines against Buckeyes

BY FRED DeLANO

Rich Hewlett didn't know until 24 hours before game time how vitally he figured in Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler's strategy in trying to knock off Ohio State Saturday.

It didn't pan out the way Schembechler had hoped, the Wolverines losing, 18-15, and a second quarter ankle injury eliminated Hewlett from the plans for the rest of the day.

However, the freshman quarterback from Plymouth, who had won all-state honors at Salem High School in 1978, was tapped by Schembechler Friday for his first starting assignment at Michigan as the coach sought to strengthen his option offense.

Although Hewlett had starred for the JV's in several games, his only experience with the varsity had been a fourth quarter stint in the U of M easy win over Wisconsin.

Against Ohio State, the husky Plymouthite ran for 16 yards on the option the first time he carried the ball, and later he engineered a drive that carried to the Buckeye two-yard line. However, on fourth down Hewlett's bid for a touchdown was thwarted and he was thrown for a loss at the four.

While he was in the game Hewlett carried nine times for 32 yards, but losses of 12 yards left him with a net of 20. He also completed one of four passes for 14 yards and had one intercepted.

After Hewlett was injured, John Wangler, who had started at quarterback the two previous games, took over. Wangler himself was a replacement at mid-season for the injured B. J. Dickey.

Schembechler had this explanation of why he decided to start Hewlett who has been climbing in estimation all fall after an injury before even the first game had been played left him at the back of the quarterback pack:

"We wanted to run the option. We were going to alternate quarterbacks so we could help our running with the option.

"Wangler was going to play. There was no question about that. Our running attack was devised that way (option) and we felt we could maintain our attack with it. I felt we could move the football with our option."

Michigan, 8-3 for the regular season and a third place finisher in the Big 10 behind Ohio State and Purdue, has one game remaining. It will be against North Carolina in the Gator Bowl Dec. 28 at Jacksonville, Fla.

JUST A YEAR AGO Rich Hewlett was running the option for the Salem Rocks, but Saturday the University of Michigan Freshman was the Wolverine's starting quarterback against Ohio State before the largest regular season crowd in history and a national television audience. (Crier photo)

Salem fourth in sub-8 meet

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Dearborn won the Suburban Eight girls swimming league meet held Thursday and Friday at Salem. Livonia Bentley finished in second place followed by Dearborn Edsel Ford and Salem. Belleville and Trenton rounded off the team placements.

Salem did not manage a single first place, but recorded three second-place finishes. Terri Eudy registered two of the three, finishing second to Bentley swimmer Ann McIntyre's medalist time of 2:03.6 in the 200-yard freestyle event with a 2:06.2 clocking and to Belleville's Martha Ryznar's winning time of :58.1 in the 100-yard freestyle event with a time of :58.2.

Rock senior Sharon Ross also finished second to Currie's medalist 200 yard individual medley time of 2:17.4 with a 2:24.7 finishing time. Ross also captured a third place in the 500-yard freestyle event with a time of 5:55.8.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Salem's Linda Wochna came in fourth with a 1:08.33 clocking. Renee Lakatos captured sixth place in the event at 1:10.93 for the Rocks.

Fifth-place finishes for the Rocks were recorded by Sue Evans in the 100-yard butterfly event (1:11.4), Corinne Cabadas in the 100-yard breaststroke event (1:17.37), the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Ross, Eudy, Lakatos, and Nancy Lazarus (4:05.302), and the 200-yard medley relay team of Evans, Wochna, and Corinne and Julie Cabadas (2:05.5).

In diving, Rock senior Natalie McClumpha placed a disappointing eighth with a 288.40 point total. Trenton's Linda Migoski won the competition with a 342.45 score. Patty Larson finished 12th for Salem with 257.20 points.

"We didn't swim too badly, although there were no significant drops in our times," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We swam pretty much the way we did during the latter half of the season."

Four league record times were established at the meet. The Dearborn 200-yard medley relay team of Allyson Brown, Kelly Buck, Brigid Muldowny, and Sheri Harmon recorded a time of 1:56.7, surpassing the old mark of 1:58.96. Bentley swimmer Julia Westhaus finished the 100 yard backstroke event with a time of 1:05.39, erasing the previous record of 1:05.63. Edsel Ford swimmer Karen Enneking's clocking of 1:09.45 in the 100-yard breast stroke broke her own record time of a year ago of 1:09.60 and the Edsel 400-yard freestyle relay team of Penny Currie, Maurcen Burk, Tammy Burke, and Lisa Assenmacher also shattered the old record time of 3:58.70 with a 3:56.487 clocking.

In the final overall league standings, Dearborn and Bentley wind up tied for first place due to Bentley's undefeated league dual meet record before the second place at the league meet. Edsel Ford remains third and Salem fourth, while Belleville and Trenton tied for fifth place.

"I thought we would be a little more competitive in the league," said Olson of the fourth place finish for the girls' team last year.

Athletic budgets not enough for teams

Athletic budgets are a strange and curious thing that have many misconceptions. As a matter of fact, if a poll were to be taken among all the spectators at all the sporting events offered at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) each season, a common understanding of the budget for each of the teams at Salem and Canton would undoubtedly be found.

Contrary to what many believe, freshman, junior varsity and varsity teams are not totally funded for uniforms and equipment by the Plymouth-Canton Community School District. In fact, teams are lucky if they can get the right uniforms that coaches and players want, the right number of balls, or any of the other equipment necessary to run a team with any degree of efficiency.

I don't mean to slam anyone in particular, but if it weren't for fund raisers there would be a lot of athletes wandering around the Plymouth-Canton area with vintage uniforms that are either too small or beat up to be worn. Besides uniforms though, fund raisers help the teams with the expenses of running tournaments and buying extra equipment such as weight machines and timing devices.

For the past three years both the Salem and Canton volleyball teams have been wearing the identical uniforms (except for color), despite the coaches' attempts to vary the two teams.

Finally, with the help of an annual 20-team invitational tournament (scheduled this year for Feb. 2) the two teams will have different uniforms in more ways than just color for the first year. They'll also be the uniforms the coaches have picked out.

New warm-ups are also the results of massive fund raisers. The Salem volleyball team earned enough money last season by selling posters to replace warm-ups that were even too small when I played as a sophomore five years ago. But the volleyball teams are not the only ones that use fund raisers to make up the difference left by the minimal amount in budgets to replace old, worn out equipment.

Last weekend the Canton basketball teams joined forces with the cheerleading squads to stage a joint Play-a-thon/Cheer-a-thon to raise money for uniforms, equipment and season expenses. The basketballs were furnished by the school along with a hoop to throw them in.

The wrestling teams from both Canton and Salem have combined efforts the past few years with an orange grapefruit sale. The proceeds? To pay for new uniforms, warm-ups, head gear and other pieces of equipment needed to run a team.

It's the same for every team at the CEP. Bake sales, bumper stickers, posters, candy, popcorn, flowers, bagels. You name it and some team has sold, is selling, or is planning to sell it in order to raise money.

Coming up this winter, the possibility of a 24-hour volleyball play-a-thon exists for Canton and Salem to purchase the needed extras like an air pump, blocking boards and standards. It's taken the two teams just this long to finally get the right uniforms and warm-ups. Now they can start going for the extras.

So far all I've really mentioned are winter sports and only the more popular ones. During the fall the girls basketball team has had fund raisers to earn money for warm-ups (like the Rock-a-thon held last year by the Salem cagers) and the swimmers got their electric timing set-up through fund raisers.

In the spring, Brian Gilles' baseball players usually hold some kind of money raising project just like Fred Crissey's players at Canton to buy equipment used in improving their fields. Canton and Salem softball teams hold fund raisers to buy jackets or back spring training trips down south. The girls golf teams (yes, golf) have been raising money for jackets, team shirts and light weight bags. All the school supplies for the golf teams are balls.

Fall, winter, and spring sports depend on fund raisers to add to the amount allotted by the school so that they can purchase the things the coaches want that don't come along with the budget, or when the things do they're not what the coaches asked for.

If it weren't for fund raisers and the pledges and donations that come from the athletic boosters, whether they be parents, faithful fans, or members of the boosters clubs the athletes that are involved in the interscholastic athletic program would be missing out on a lot of the pride that comes along with wearing a new, well-fitting uniform or practicing with equipment that is in good condition and up-to-date.

Remember that the next time some player comes knocking on your front door asking you to pledge five cents and hour at a play-a-thon, buy a crate of oranges, or buy a poster. Remember, too, when the next millage election is held.

Rocks take second place

BY BETTY DeLANO

After a tough first quarter, the Salem girls basketball team broke loose against the Trenton Trojans Thursday night to finish Suburban Eight League play in second place with a 45-26 victory over the Trenton club.

"After the first quarter we got back on track," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "Trenton wasn't able to get any inside chances after the first quarter at all. I'm really pleased with the way we played."

Senior co-captains Patty Weidman and Nan Horwood lead all shooting action in the league match-up. Weidman capitalized on seven field goals and one point from the free throw line for a total of 15 points, while Horwood hit on four attempts from the field and dunked four out of five from the line for 12 points.

The six-foot center (Weidman) was also a main power source for the Rocks on the boards as was junior forward Cheryl Sobkow. Both brought down nine rebounds during the game, and Sobkow added four points to the final score.

Other Salem scoring was done by Jacque Merrifield, taking two at the line; Joy Gornick, with four points; Denise Zonca, with four; and Eileen Moore with four.

"Everytime we play down at Trenton we face a real tough game," commented Blohm. "This game was no different in the first quarter where we were still trying to shake off the loss to Bentley on Tuesday night. After that we played real well."

Salem finished league play with a 7-3 record and is currently 13-5 overall.

Undefeated in league

Chiefs champions again

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Canton completed its year-long dominance of Western Six League this past week by edging Waterford Mott 48-44 Tuesday night and whipping Northville 53-33 Thursday night to finish the year 10-0 and capture its third straight league championship.

The Chief girls have now won 15 straight games, after getting off to a slow 1-3 start, to record an impressive 16-3 overall mark going into last night's season finale against non-league foe Farmington.

"It has been a great year for our girls," said Canton coach Mike McCauley. "When you go undefeated in league play and pull off a win streak like the one we're having you have to be pleased."

Canton has now emerged victorious in 35 straight Western Six contests over the past three years, an impressive statistic to carry into district tournament play which begins Monday.

Mott gave the Chiefs all they could handle Tuesday night, battling to a 12-11 lead at the end of the first quarter. Canton fought back to take a 25-21 advantage at the end of the first half, but then watched the Corsairs tie it up at 38-38 at the close of the third stanza.

The Mott squad seemed to wear down during the fourth quarter however, and the Chiefs kept the pressure on with various pressing defenses to record the win.

"It was a good, close game," said McCauley. "By the end of the game we had run them to death, having used a lot of different presses and rotating our players in and out."

Junior Joni Sommerville was high scorer for the Chiefs with 12 points.

She was followed by senior Diane Durocher with eight points and Pearlle Cunningham with seven. Vicky Cavallaro added six points to the Chief total.

Martha Schmitt, Mott's 5-11 center, was the game's high scorer with 14.

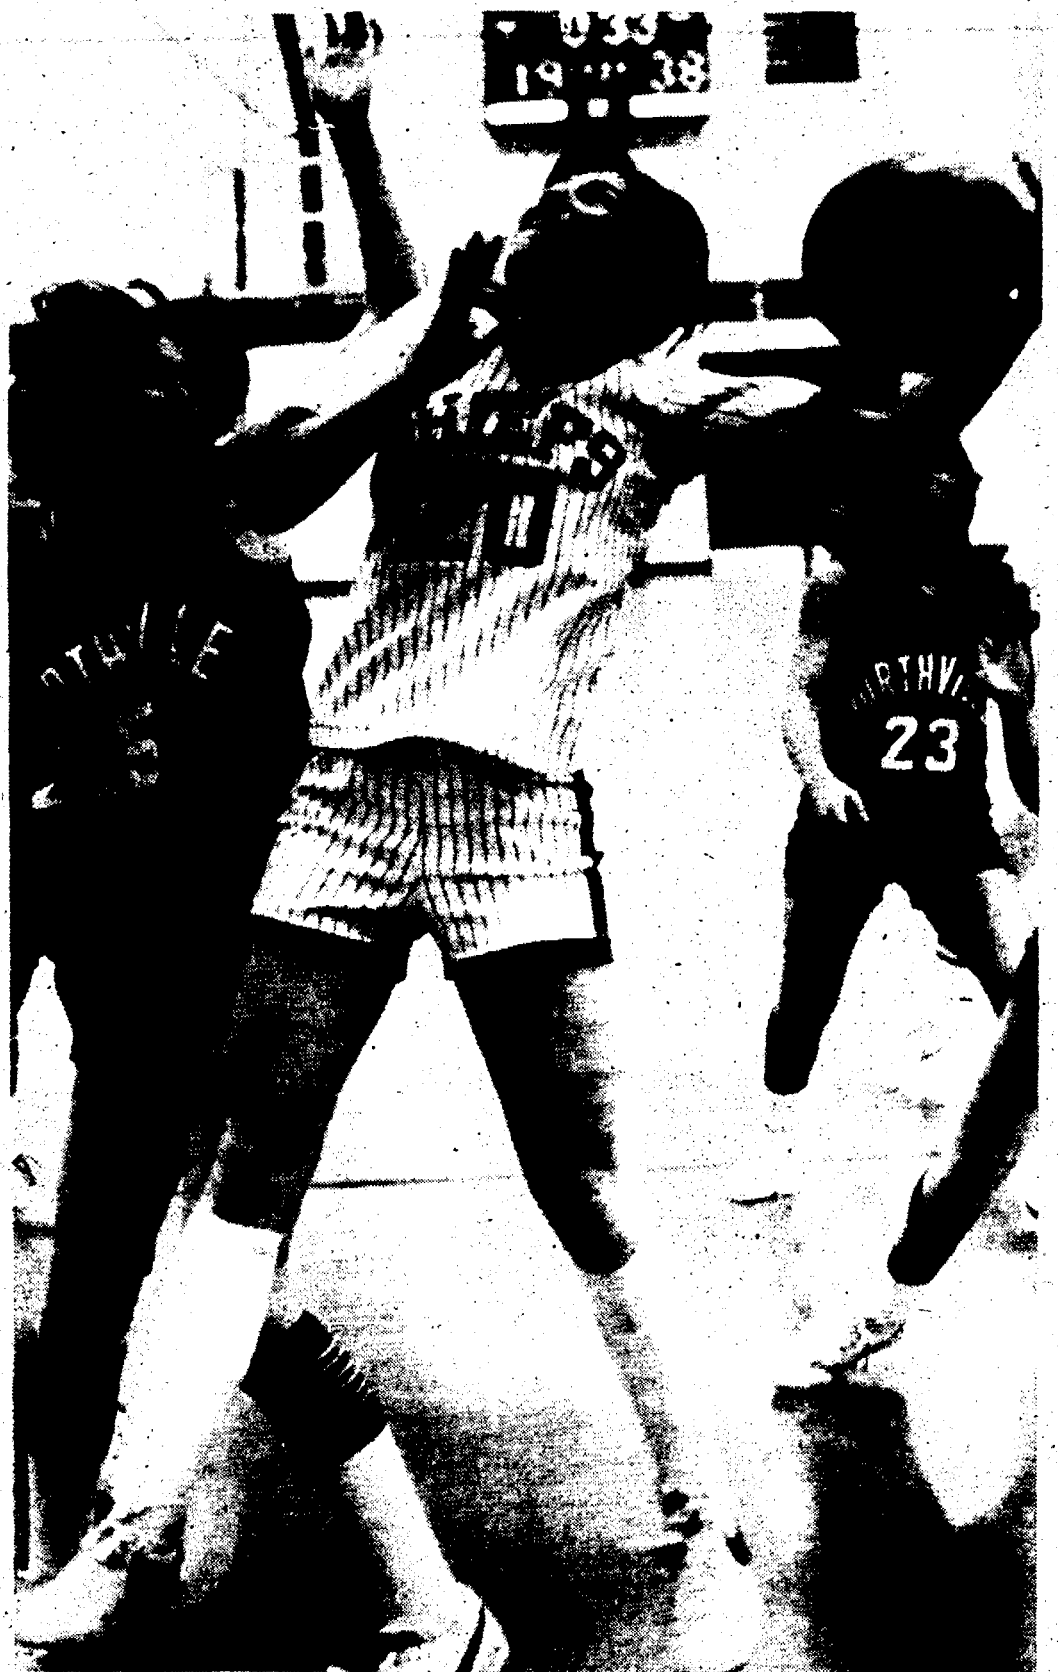

"She (Schmitt) should make the all-league team," said McCauley.

Canton, playing on CEP neighbor Salem's home court due to teacher conferences held at Phase III Thursday night, ran away from the Mustangs of Northville.

The Chiefs rocketed off to a 20-6 advantage at the end of the first quarter before letting up a little to lead 27-11 at the half. Canton upped its margin to 40-19 at the end of three quarters.

"This was the toughest Northville squad I think we've played against," said McCauley. "Their guard (Jacque) Nixon is a fine player who could also make the all-league squad." Nixon was Northville's high scorer with 12 points.

Durocher paced the Chiefs with 12 points and Cavallaro scored eight.

Chief swimmers finish third

Canton placed third in the Western Six League meet held last week at Livonia Churchill. Northville, ranked fifth in the state, dominated the meet to record a first place point total of 368.

The Chiefs, who registered a total of 251 points to finish just behind Farmington Harrison's second place 266 point total, had three individual first place winners.

Tarja Touminen, a junior swimmer for the Canton squad, recorded first place finishes in the 100 yard butterfly event with a league record-setting time of 1:03. In the 200 yard freestyle event Touminen paced the action with a time of 2:04.2.

Kim Massey, also a junior on the Canton lineup, won the 100 yard backstroke event with a clocking of 1:07.1.

The Chiefs 200 yard medley relay team of Kris Burns, Mary Reardon, Massey and Touminen placed second in the event behind Northville with a time of 2:09.1.

First year Canton coach Mark Griffith was pleased with the performances of his swimmers, both in the league and on the year.

"It has been a super year," said Griffith. "The girls had have worked hard all season to improve their times. A first year coach couldn't ask for a better season."

Fenkell's horse wins

LEDGEMERE, a nine-year-old Morgan gelding owned by Neal K. Fenkell of Plymouth Township and daughter Nancy Doherty, of Northville, won the world pleasure driving championship at the recent Grand National Morgan Horse Show at Oklahoma City. With trainer Phil Price driving, Ledgemere Finesse bet out 18 contenders for the title. In 1978, with Doherty driving, the gelding won the ladies pleasure driving championship. Fenkell had another title at Oklahoma City with his three-year-old park Morgan, Cedarbrook Centurion, which won reserve champion in the three-year-old park harness category.

Don't build new schools, say citizens

Realign grades, expand the ESY (extended school year) program, and rent schools from Livonia -- these alternatives for housing the increasing numbers of students in the Plymouth-Canton school district were most popular, according to a survey taken by school officials.

The least popular choices were building new schools, according to the survey.

The survey was based on 766 responses returned to school officials after the survey was mailed to nearly 26,000 residents of the district.

Putting the sixth grade with the elementary school drew the support of 73.1 per cent of the residents who responded. Putting ninth grade back with the middle school was favored by 71.3 per cent of those who answered the survey.

Nearly 68 per cent of the respondents supported renting buildings from Livonia; 61.9 per cent wanted to expand ESY at elementary schools; and 60.4 per cent liked the idea of expanding ESY in the middle schools, said the survey.

Putting up portable classrooms drew support of 57.1 per cent. Other alternatives and the percentage of respondents who favored them follows: Renovate Central Middle School to a high school -- 50.8 per cent; add classrooms to the present high schools -- 47.7 per cent; run the extended day at the high school -- 46 per cent; build a new middle school -- 24.2 per cent; build a new high school -- 20.5 per cent; and build a new elementary school -- 19.1 per cent.

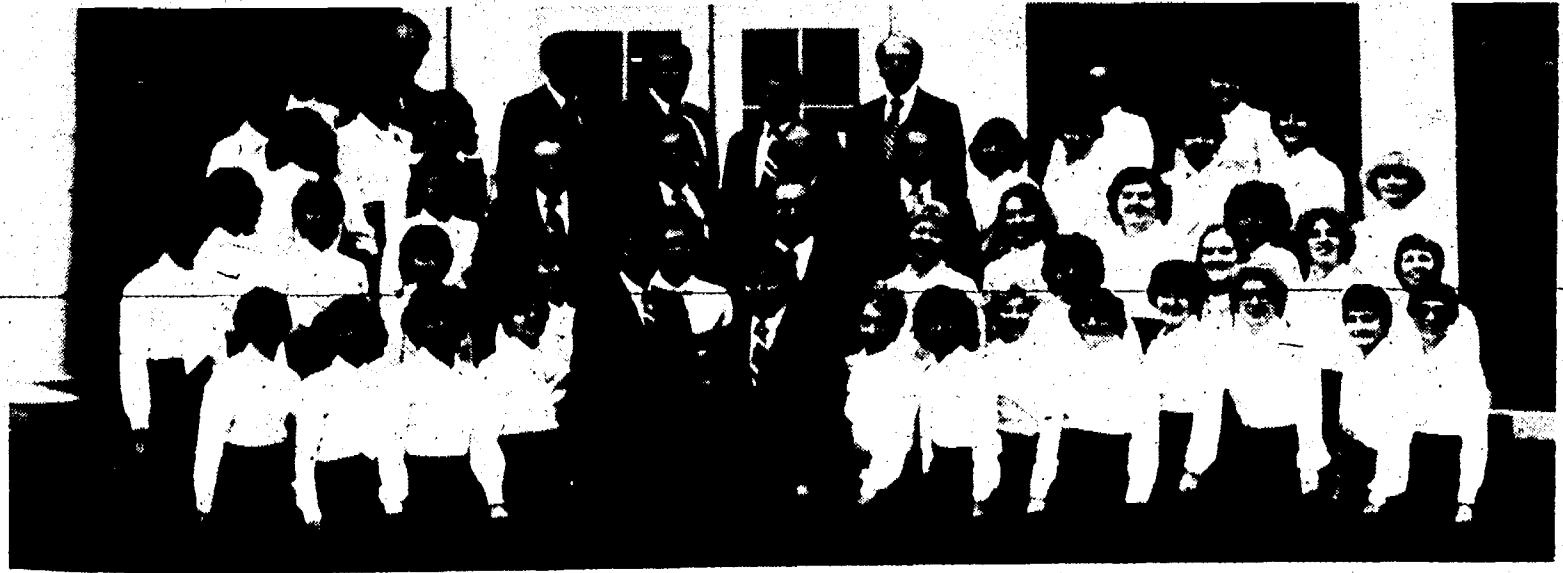

The least popular choices for housing students centered on building new schools with 67.2 per cent of the respondents opposing building a new high school, 63.6 per cent in opposition to building a new elementary school, and 58.8 per cent opposed to building a new middle school, according to the survey.

Of the 766 responses analyzed, 65 per cent came from parents of children attending Plymouth-Canton schools, said the results. The fact that there was little difference between the first results of the survey, based on 589 respondents, and the second, which included 766, indicates that the sample was "valid and fairly representative of residents interested in education," according to a report from Florence Beier, administrative assistant.

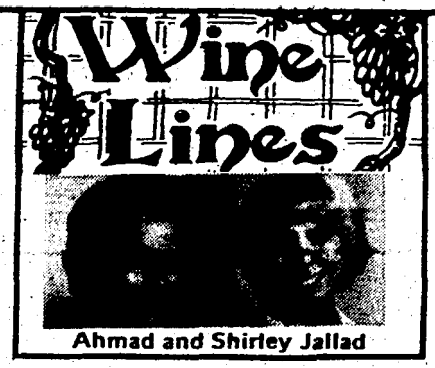

Responses from 44 per cent of those surveyed came from Canton residents, with 34 per cent from Plymouth Township, and 17 per cent from the City of Plymouth. Others came from Salem and Northville and Superior townships.

The survey results were given to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at its workshop Monday night.

WINE
All of the great red Burgundies are made from Pinot Noir grape. Known for its superb balance, fruitiness and lightness, it is at its prime 10 years after vintage but is drinkable after 3 to 4 years. Sugar is added to fermenting grape juice increasing its alcohol content and fullness in French vineyards. California Pinot Noirs, since sugar is prohibited, have a lightness that is lacking in the French Burgundies and do not run the risk of imbalance that some sugar added Burgundies seem to have.

AGE NO BARRIER
There seems to be a misconception about some people being too old to obtain a mortgage loan because they have no chance of outliving the length of the average loan. Thus, the pointed question: Under normal lending conditions, when does a person become too old to buy a home and obtain a mortgage? With certain reservations . . . never!

If the real estate equity is there and the ability to repay is established, what is the difference if a person is 30 or 70 years of age? Each case, however, must be judged on its individual merits.

A survey of loans by one major Savings and Loan Association revealed that 25% of its recent mortgages were granted to families headed by a person 50 or older. One loan was granted to a man older than 75.

As mentioned before, the economic age of the property, its resale value, and the borrower's ability to repay the loan are far more important than age alone.

Another crafts display will be presented at the Plymouth Historical Museum. The Christmas exhibit will include 100 pieces of cut glass, toys and miniature displays, and Christmas decorations.

The Apple Run Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association is also holding a greens market, on Dec. 1 beginning at 10 a.m. in Canton High's cafeteria.

Another Christmas craft, gift wrapping, will be presented by the Plymouth Jaycees at Forest Place on the following Fridays and Saturdays: Dec. 7-8, 14-15, and 21-22. Fridays, the demonstration will open from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and Saturdays, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Forest Place will also feature a rug-hooking demonstration on Saturday, Dec. 1; an artist forum exhibit, including special artist demonstrations, from Dec. 3-9; and a Men's night, Thursday, Dec. 13 from 7-10

There will be two fashion shows during the holidays. First, the Penniman Avenue Shops will present a fashion show on Friday, Dec. 14, from 3-8 p.m. Forest Place will hold a fashion show on Dec. 7, from 3-8 p.m.

What would Christmas be without music? Carolers will sing every Sunday in Old Village and many other times and places in Plymouth throughout the season. The Plymouth Symphony will present a children's concert on Dec. 15, at 10:30 a.m. at Salem's auditorium, and a Christmas concert on Dec. 16 at 4 p.m. at Salem's auditorium.

Local students Christmas artwork featured in Crier

Throughout this 1979 Community Christmas special section and in future weeks, we are featuring artworks by school students in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

We want to thank all the students who participated. We only regret that we do not have space to publish everything we received.

This week's artwork is just the first set of student art The Crier will publish during the Christmas season.

We are also running a Christmas coloring contest (see the ad and entry form in this week's paper), for which the winners will receive gift certificates.

Clubs set green marts

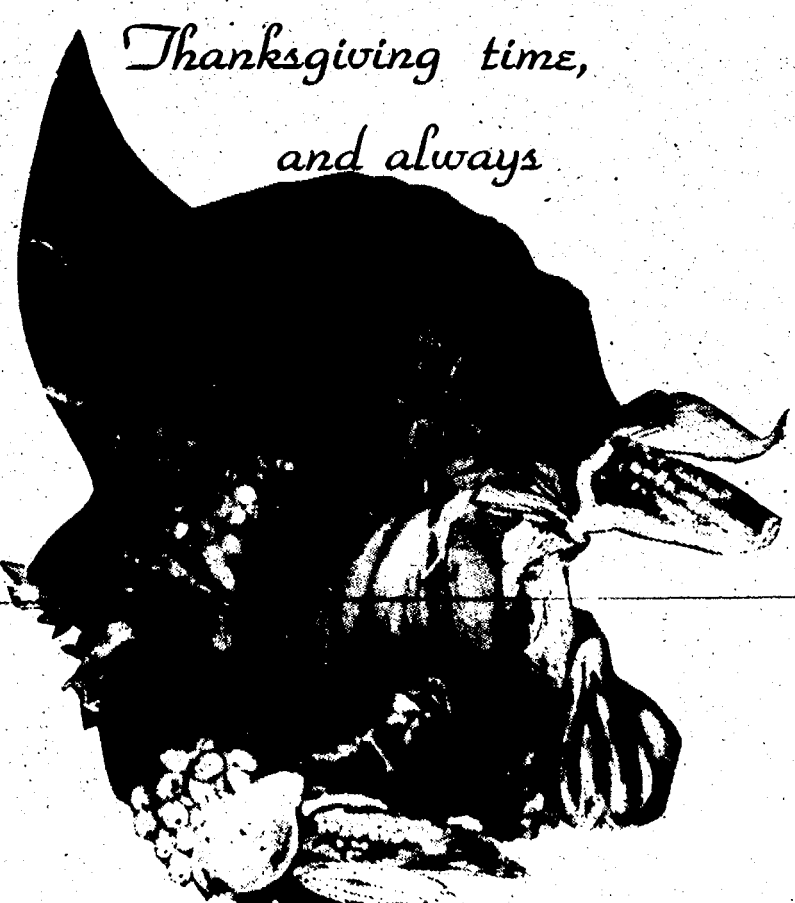

The Plymouth Garden Club will sponsor its second annual Greens Mart on Dec. 7 at Westchester Square, 550 Forest St., Plymouth.

Featuring fresh greens, bows, wreaths, cedar roping, holly, boxwood, mistletoe, and other Christmas tree ornaments, the sale will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For Cantonites, the Apple Run Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will also sponsor a Greens Market on Dec. 1. The market will be part of the Canton Craft Fair in the Canton High School cafeteria. The sale will start at 10 a.m.

Crafts, homemade goods, breads, fresh greens, roping, and wreaths will be on sale.

WOODCARVER LOUIS KISH holds up a chessboard he made which can be placed on top of the backgammon table he designed. Both articles will be on sale at the Plymouth Cultural Center's craft show on Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and Dec. 2. Also pictured is a knife holder which Kish also carved by hand. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Even though he estimates that he earns about $1.50 per hour working 48 hours each week, woodcarver Louis Kish calls these days "the happiest of my life." Living on his pension and the money he earns as a craftsman, Kish and his wife, Viola, go from exhibit to exhibit selling his wood wares which include tables, plant stands, podiums, candle holders, and wine racks.

The 69-year old retiree will join 70 other exhibitors at the Plymouth Cultural Center's Christmas bazaar from Nov. 30 through Dec. 2.

Hours of patient attention go into every article Kish carves by hand. For example, his two-and-one-half-foot plant stand, which holds a tier of four plants, has a low center of gravity so that if one, two, or even three plants are removed, the stand will not tip over. Also, heavier plants, placed on the top tier, won't unbalance the stand.

"It's designed so that plants can be removed for dusting without having the others tip over," Kish said, noting that he used his former engineering experience to develop the idea. The plant stand costs $23 and will be featured at the Christmas bazaar.

Although he's been carving since he was a boy, Kish started taking his craft more seriously soon after he developed a taste for wine and needed a wine rack to store his vintage selections. "I decided to carve it instead of spending nearly $150," he says.

Kish began carving about six and one-half years ago and hasn't stopped since. "I'm up to my ears in sawdust in the garage," he adds.

Also for sale at the craft show will be a backgammon table which can be converted into a chess table. The backgammon table, which features two felt-lined drawers, has a leather game board in the center of the table. It costs $125. A $45 chess board can be fitted on top of the backgammon board.

"I made one table for my son and then my other son wanted one too," Kish explains. The table is made from walnut and maple. Most of his woodcrafts are made from pine and fir, although he carves with walnut, oak, birch, and mahogany, too. The price of his articles varies from $5 to $125.

Kish and his wife usually go to about one exhibit each week and they say they haven't been hurt by the recession. Gifts are always appreciated, they say.

You might recognize Kish, a short trim man with a ruddy complexion at the craft show at the Cultural Center. He'll be there for three days near the center of the large exhibit area. The show will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 30 and Saturday, Dec. 1 and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 2.

Old Village Walk is

Annual Village Walk

As one wanders through the Old Village area of Plymouth, memories arise of Christmas past and present, and the hopes for the future.

A little over seven years ago this neglected section was beginning to reflect the decay so often seen in the older parts of villages and cities. Even as Scrooge was tormented by his past, residents of Old Village were depressed by signs of approaching further neglect.

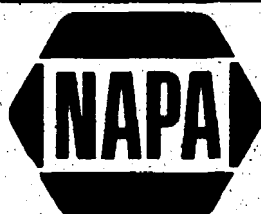

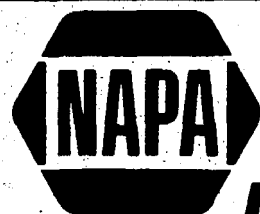

At this time the Old Village Association was formed, for the sole purpose of beautifying this well defined area.

In an unbelievably short period of time with the energetic drive of the first members, and the dedicated effort of the garden clubs, emerged the first blossom of this dream come true -- Pointe Park. Stimulated by the beauty of this park through the changing seasons from the first clusters of lilacs to the falling leaves of autumn, and then on the shimmering snow and sparkling ice on the cold winter night, provided the inspiration for further endeavors. Thus, as with Scrooge, the past led quickly to the present, and in this year of 1979 we are reminded of the high hopes on which Old Village Association was founded.

This year with the greater number of enthusiastic members and the thrill of planning the dedication of our lovely gazebo in Cannon Park, the Second Annual Apple Festival took on an even greater significance.

September brought the culmination of the efforts so far to beautify this area, and people outside of Old Village itself became aware of what had been happening these past years. As the visitors strolled the brick walks they admired the artistic flower plantings, the flower barrels in front of the business places, profusely blooming with multi-colored flowers, and the designed lamps from the past.

Craft tables lined the Fountain Park area, and musicians provided the appropriate music for this country atmosphere, and everywhere one could enjoy the costumes of the merchants and their children in straw hats and old fashioned dresses. The talented artists displayed their canvases. There was delicious food available in many places and games of fun for the children, which insured enjoyment for the entire family.

As the sun began to pass the noon hour visitors and merchants gathered at the gazebo appropriately decorated for this memorable occasion, with flowers and bunting. Formal invitations had been sent to dignitaries of our community and state government. With the opening speech of welcome by the Chairman of the Beautification, Pat Hann, many honored guests responded with congratulatory messages. The first planting of an apple tree in this area took place by the cannon, and is symbolic of a tradition established for the future.

Refreshments were served to everyone, the gifts from the merchants and manufacturing companies in this area, and many residents.

We are not forgetting the fun of Dearie Days in July or the Millionaires' Party in February, as we now anticipate the warmth and friendliness of the Annual Old Village Walk, this Sunday Nov. 25th, noon to 5:30 p.m.

You may recall The Santas Visit to Old Village stories of years past, and realize he would find that many new and innovative shops with interesting merchandise have come to Old Village. Each year all the merchants offer gracious hospitality with this special afternoon walk to start off the Christmas season. Many visitors will Brunch with Santa at the Plymouth Hilton first, and then stroll through this lovely area.

Santa will go from store to store so that all of the children will be able to see and talk with him.

The further beautification of Old Village depends on the continued dedication of our newly selected Board, our recently elected new officers and the total commitment of the residents and merchants in this very special area we warmly call Old Village.

More voices heard, chorus doubles membership

The Plymouth Community Chorus doubled its pleasure by doubling its membership this year, according to chorus director Mike Gross. "Now we can do justice to Handel's 'Hallelujah Chorus,'" Gross notes, adding that the choir has 85 voices tuning up for the Christmas concert this year.

"Christmas is for Children," will be presented on Sunday, Dec. 16 at the First United Methodist Church at 7 p.m. Featured in the concert will be "Christmas Was Meant For Children," "Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas," "Fum, Fum, Fum," "Bethlehem's Star," "Merry Christmas, Darling," "Tonight, Jesus Is Born," "Mistletoe and Love," and "The Hallelujah Chorus."

Accompanying the singers will be Carole Chen.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for senior citizens and can be purchased from members of the chorus or at the door.

OLGC presents Amahl

The combined adult and youth choirs of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church will present "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on Sunday, Dec. 2 at 4:30 p.m. at the church.

Included in the cast are Jan Gattoni as the mother; Andy Hennika as Amahl; Jim Shannon, Mike McGonagal, and Tom Olender as the three wisemen; and Oliver Gumley as the page.

Admission is free. The play is directed by Bert Lord. For more information, call 421-1488 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Music fills the air

CEP Orchestra opens concert season Dec. 6

Bringing in the holiday spirit on a cheerful note will be the hundreds of songsters and musicians who'll be tuning up for school concerts throughout December in the Plymouth-Canton Community.

To begin the concert season, the Centennial Educational Park Orchestra will swing into song at its concert Wednesday, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in Salem Auditorium.

On Thursday, Dec. 6, all the CEP bands will perform at 7:30 p.m. at Salem Auditorium, and the West Middle School choirs will also sing at 7:30 p.m. at the school cafeteria.

On the following evening, Friday, Dec. 7, second, third, fourth, and fifth graders from Field Elementary School will sing Yuletide greetings at 7:30 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room.

Music-lovers can choose from three various performances on Tuesday, Dec. 11. At 7:30 p.m., the Central Middle School Band and Orchestra will play at T.B.A. a Miller School concert, also at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the school. Featured will be the chorus. At 8 p.m. on Dec. 11, Pioneer Middle School's bands will fill the air with music in the school gym.

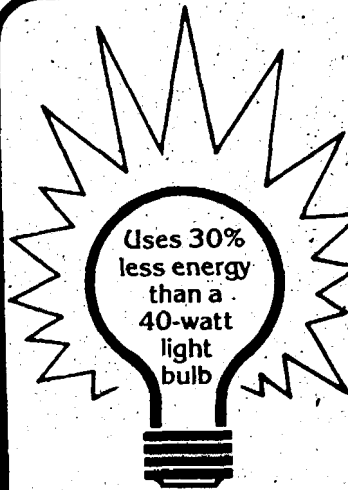

Slated for performances on Thursday, Dec. 13 are the East Middle School musicians in the band, chorus and orchestra and the West Middle School bands. At East, the concert will start at 7 p.m. and the concert at West will begin at 8 p.m. Both concerts will be held in their respective school gyms.

Canton High School vocalists will be in tune on Tuesday, Dec. 18 when their concert starts at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theater. Also on Dec. 18, the Gallimore School Chorus will perform at 7 p.m. in the school gym.

Two concerts are slated for Wednesday, Dec. 19. The Salem High School vocal Concert will be at Salem Auditorium, and the Pioneer Middle School Chamber Music Track B will tune up at 7 p.m. in the school bandroom.

The last school Christmas concert-for the season is scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 20 when the Pioneer Middle School Chorus takes the stage at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Welcoming ceremonies, at 1 p.m., will be followed by refreshments served by the Canton Newcomers Club at the nearby fire hall.

Santa will remain in his motor home until 3 p.m. to hear children's wishes and to pose with Santa for a Christmas picture.

Here is Santa's schedule:

*Fridays, Kings Row, 4-6 p.m.

*Saturdays, Harvard Square, noon-4 p.m.

Santa is coming to town

Santa will be ready to listen to your youngster's Christmas wishes on the day after Thanksgiving, Friday, Nov. 23 at 9 a.m.

Santa and his animated elves will be waiting for kids of all ages, shapes, and sizes to visit his workshop, located in a trailer on the west side of Meijer Thrifty Acres, at the corner of Ford and Canton Center roads. Mrs. Claus will also be on hand to greet children occasionally.

Following Thanksgiving, Santa's hours will be from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 23 and Saturday, Nov. 24. On Sunday, Nov. 25, Santa will visit with youngsters from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 7 p.m.
