Court rejects Burrough's lot annexation

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Following Friday's annexation decision, the scoreboard temporarily reads: Plymouth Township -- 1, the City of Plymouth -- 0.

Reversing an earlier decision by the State Boundary Commission, an Ingham County Circuit Court judge has ruled that the 41.13 acres known as the "Burroughs parking lot" should continue to be part of Plymouth Township.

The City of Plymouth has been fighting for the land since it first filed annexation petitions in 1974.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Michael Harrison overruled a 1976 decision by the State Boundary Commission, which awarded the land to the city. His ruling was announced Friday on the case filed by Plymouth Township and Burroughs Corporation against the State Boundary Commission.

The land at issue is located at the northwest corner of Plymouth and Haggerty roads and is bounded by Plymouth Road on the south, Haggerty Road on the east, the C & O railroad tracks on the north, and Hines Park on the west.

The Boundary Commission now has 20 days to appeal Harrison's decision through the state attorney general's office. Asked if an appeal would be filed, Jim Hyde, executive secretary of the Boundary Commission, said, "I have no estimate at this point as to what we'll do."

"It's impossible to say yet. We have to review Harrison's opinion and his reasons for deciding in Plymouth Township's favor."

In his decision, Harrison said that if he had ruled in the city's favor, the Hillside Restaurant and its parking lot (which lie within the township's borders) would be entirely surrounded by the City of Plymouth.

"Contrary to the position of the defendants, this court believes itself not restricted simply to a ruling upon the reasonableness of commission decisions, although an act of leaving only a restaurant and a parking lot might readily lead one to question the reasonableness of the decision in this matter taking into consideration the total picture," said his ruling.

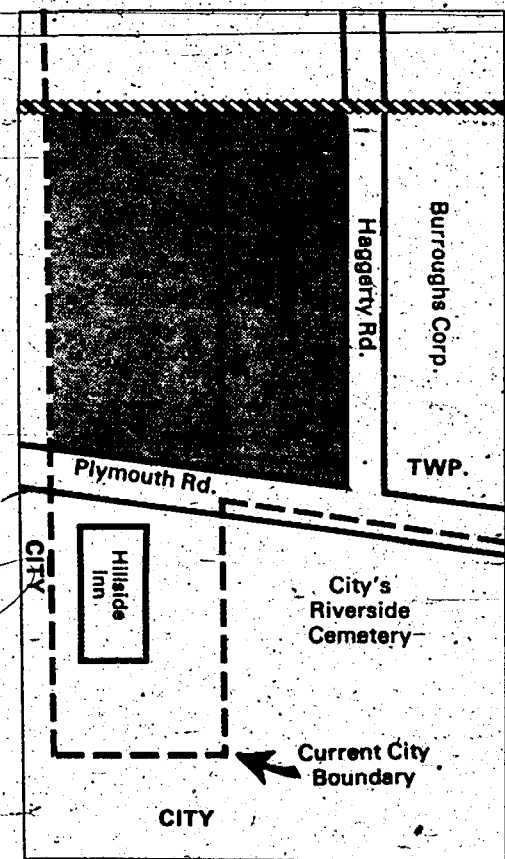

"... this court deems itself bound by Michigan precedent as it understands it to be on the issue of the creation of enclaves," his opinion continues.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert summed up his reaction to Harrison's decision by saying, "I'm delighted."

"I've been greatly opposed to annexation on a piecemeal basis."

"We're asking the city to drop its petition to annex the entire township and we're also asking it not to ask the Boundary Commission to appeal the decision," said Notebaert.

Should 35th District consolidate courtrooms?

BY CHAS CHILD

Judge James Garber, of the Canton branch of the 35th District Court, believes the construction of a regional courthouse may be the solution to the 35th district's long-range growth.

To help plan for the district's future needs, Garber has asked the five municipalities in the district -- the townships of Canton, Plymouth, and Northville, and the cities of Plymouth and Northville -- to form a 35th District Advisory Board.

"The court is growing and we've got to take a look at where it's going," said Garber.

"I anticipate a third judge in the next five to 10 years," he said. "Every other district in Michigan has either created a unified court structure or separated the district into smaller units."

"Ultimately, one of these has to be done, so let's do some planning."

Now, there are three different court rooms in the 35th district -- in Canton Township Hall, Northville City Hall, and Plymouth City Hall. "If we combined these into one building, we could save between $100,000 and $150,000," said Garber.

A regional courthouse would also open up space in the municipal buildings where the three court rooms are housed now, he added.

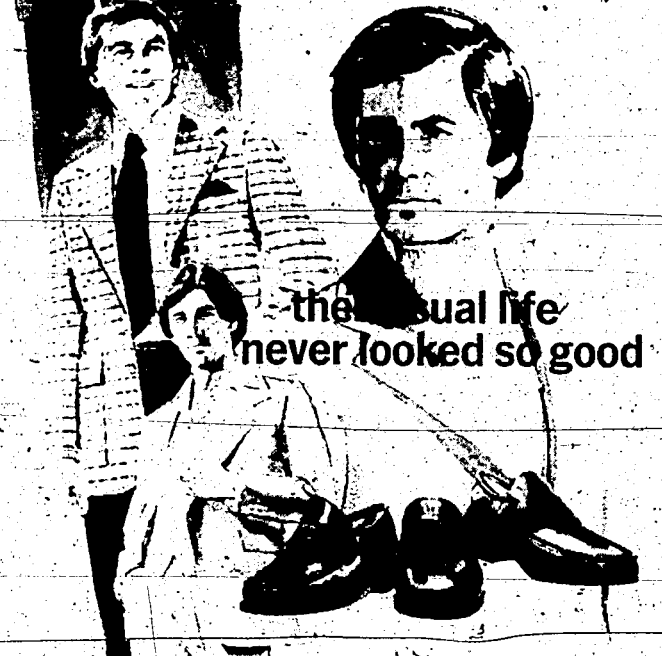

In a letter to the five municipalities, Garber asked each to appoint a member to the court advisory board, which he hopes will meet later this month.

"I've had some preliminary discussion with some of the local leaders they've been very receptive to creating the advisory board," added Garber. "Judge (Dunbar) Davis is also behind the idea."

Henry Ford Hospital plans Township facility

Offering a multitude of out-patient services, a satellite to the Henry Ford Hospital has been proposed to be built in Plymouth Township, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Officials are considering a site near M-14 and Beck Road and "at least two or three other sites" within the Plymouth-Canton Community, said Jane Eckels, Ford Hospital's public relations officer.

The $9 million clinic would feature care in areas such as internal medicine, ambulatory surgery, pediatrics, dentistry, ophthalmology, gynecology and obstetrics, and allergic medicine. Also included would be 24-hour emergency care.

A similar treatment center was built in Dearborn in 1975, said Eckels. Dearborn's satellite hospital has 70,000 square feet and the clinic planned for Plymouth Township "would be similar," she said.

Planning for construction of the out-patient facility "is still in its early planning stages," said Eckels. Before any sites can be chosen and actual building designs started she said the Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan must lift its temporary ban on opening new health care facilities.

When the ban is lifted, probably in April, the satellite planned for Plymouth Township will be reviewed, she added.

City, Graper come to terms

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

A tentative contract between the City of Plymouth and City Manager Henry Graper may soon become official.

Copies of the proposed agreement were distributed to city commissioners Monday although they have already authorized Mayor Mary Childs to execute the contract with the new manager. If no commissioners object, Childs said she would sign the contract today.

The agreement includes:

- *Salary of $37,500 with annual review.
 - *Car allowance of $175 per month plus reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses incurred while on city business.
 - *Retirement annuity of seven per cent paid to a trust of the manager's choice.
 - *Life insurance at double the salary figure and other fringe benefits comparable to other city non-union employees.
 - *Relocation expenses of moving (from Dowagiac) of approximately $1,500.
- The contract includes provision for severance of the city manager. If the manager is terminated by the city "including pressure to resign without a vote of termination," the city must pay a lump sum three months salary. If the manager were to be convicted of embezzlement, no severance pay would be given.

HENRY GRAPER

One month's notice must be given by the manager to resign his position.

If Childs signs the contract, the effective dates will be Dec. 1, 1979 to Nov. 30, 1980.

The termination under pressure clause is similar to the one in former city manager Fred L. Yockey's contract. He was pressured into retirement and the city paid him the lump sum severance even though, technically, he retired from the city.

Canton eyes aging agency

To increase chances of winning federal grants for senior citizens, Canton Township may help form an entirely new bureaucratic panel, called an Area Agency of Aging.

Canton and a number of other western Detroit suburbs recently was denied a $48,000 grant for home chore services for the aged. By breaking away from the current Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging, township officials hope to get out from under the control of Detroit politicians.

"The money is being funneled off by Detroit's patronage system," said Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert. "We got shafted."

Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara is leading the effort to set up a new Area Agency on Aging, said Culbert. Other communities which are being asked to join the effort besides Canton are Westland, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Garden City, Wayne, and Inkster.

Not only was Canton and other communities denied funds by the Detroit-Wayne County agency, but other problems worry suburban officials as well. "The City of Detroit has now expressed its intention to withdraw from the Detroit-Wayne County AAA, effectively eliminating the present AAA," said McNamara in a letter to Culbert.

"It is not at all clear what this change would mean to funding levels of programs in Suburban Wayne County, as well as to whom we would apply for senior citizen dollars," McNamara added.

"One method of protecting our interests and simplifying the administration of senior citizen grant programs would be the creation of our own local Area Agency on Aging for the 13 communities of Northern and Western Wayne County," he said.

National GOP spotlight will shine on Carl in '80

THE COMMUNITY CRIER January 9, 1980

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

When the national Republican Party leaders meet in Detroit this year, Plymouth's "hometown boy made good in Congress" will reap some of the limelight.

Carl Pursell, whose 2nd Congressional District includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township (where he lives), Livonia, Ann Arbor and Monroe, rates as the closest Republican congressman to the convention.

He accordingly will serve as co-host of the GOP gathering along with former U.S. Senator Robert Griffin.

Now a member of the prestigious U.S. House Appropriations Committee, Pursell admits that the national attention certainly won't hurt. For the congressman already admits he's after his third term in the elections this year.

Pursell first won a seat in 1976 when he edged Ed Pierce by fewer than 300 votes for the seat vacated by Marv Esch. Seeking reelection in 1978, Pursell almost went unopposed because of a dispute over his Democratic challenger's nominating petitions. After a court fight, Ann Arbor City Councilman Earl Greene's petitions were found sufficient but the Democrats were never able to muster a serious challenge and Pursell ran away with the race.

Although he'll be keeping an eye on the August primary as well as the November race -- since the Democrats aren't expected to drop the ball in the 2nd District this year -- Pursell will take the time to enjoy the national party gathering.

He'll begin his hosting activities by welcoming the delegates and their families on Sunday, July 13 at an affair tentatively scheduled for Greenfield Village.

But despite his host activities and the chance to gain most of the attention by actually participating in the process, Pursell won't serve as a convention delegate from Michigan. He had served as a delegate at state GOP conventions when he was a state senator.

Each Congressional District is being given four delegates at the GOP and usually, a Congressman could have the job for the asking.

"I just think it's appropriate to let other people in the public have their day in the sun," Pursell explained. "It's a good chance to let the young people in."

The Congressman expects the 2nd District GOP delegates will come one each from Ann Arbor, Livonia-Plymouth, Ypsilanti and Monroe. And while he won't be one of them, the convention still means another feather in Pursell's cap.

CARL PURSELL

Republican convention delegates will stay here

The national Republican convention being held in Detroit this July will net some business for the Plymouth-Canton Community.

According to Karen McNulty, sales director of the Plymouth Hilton, some 180 rooms there have been booked for lodging of conventioners. Details of who will occupy the rooms has not been resolved by the GOP organizers, Ms. McNulty said.

Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower Hotel, said he had originally contracted to supply up to 50 rooms but that those plans, "committed a couple years ago," have been cancelled.

Lorenz said he had hoped to have further expansion of the motel underway but those plans are currently stalled. "The anticipation was we'd have the room," he said.

The Red Roof Inn reported 60 of its 109 rooms have been reserved by the GOP. No further details were given to Red Roof officials.

Schools to discuss bond issue again Monday

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

To hone down the Plymouth-Canton schools' bond proposal, the Board of Education will meet Monday, Jan. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the school district's offices, 454 S. Harvey St., Plymouth.

Monday night's meeting will be a short, "bare-boned" agenda followed by an informal workshop to discuss the upcoming bond proposal. The final components of the bond proposal will probably be set at the board's formal meeting on Monday, Jan. 28, said Board President Tom Yack.

The current plan being eyed by school officials calls for realigning grades throughout the school district beginning in 1981-82. That move, from K-5, 6-8, and 9-12 grades to K-6, 7-9, and 10-12 grades would help relieve overcrowded conditions at Salem and Canton high schools.

According to School Board President Tom Yack, the range of the final bond package will be from $14 to $20 million to be levied over 29 years. Variables which would affect the cost of the final project include: the extent of renovations for Central Middle School; the number of schools which will be air conditioned; and, the number of classrooms to be added on at the Centennial Educational Park. The proposals will be discussed at Monday's workshop.

Also, the board will discuss the cost of providing ninth-grade programs for students who are currently housed at middle schools and the cost of providing programs for sixth-graders at the elementary schools, said Yack.

In addition to realigning grades, the board may: drop the extended School Year (ESY) program at Pioneer Middle School in 1981-82; rent Lowell Junior High School from Livonia; expand the ESY program at four or five elementary schools (which may be Bird, Allen, Farrand, Fiegel, and Smith schools); and, use portable classrooms as needed throughout the district for housing the district's burgeoning population.

Also included in the bond package will be energy-conservation renovations for schools throughout the district.

The board has requested an election date of Feb. 28 from Wayne County, which must approve election dates, but the board is considering setting an election date in March to allow time to campaign for passage of the proposal.

Road

GEER SCHOOL. Even though the Washtenaw County Road Commission will widen Gotfredson Road, the road work will not mean the trees lining the road will be cut down, said Mike Anderson of the road commission. Geer School, above, will celebrate its centennial year in 1980 and Plymouth-Canton school officials objected to the road commission about any changes that would mar the school's setting. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Historic Geer School can keep rural look

It looks like Geer School -- the one-room schoolhouse for students in grades 1-5 -- will keep its shady trees and entire playground.

Because of the widening of Gotfredson Road, the Washtenaw County Road Department had proposed to cut down the trees along the road's edge and move the fence closer to the school.

"We've got a traffic engineer working on a design which would not call for cutting down the trees and taking down the fence," he said. Furthermore, he added that the design will be finished "within the next couple of months" and then will probably be approved.

Gotfredson Road, a gravel road which runs in front of the school, will be widened to 24 feet (a standard two-lane highway) with six-foot shoulders and paved, said Anderson, but the road widening won't threaten the school.

Geer School will also get a new underground pump for drinking water, according to Les Tinson, director of building and grounds for the Plymouth-Canton school district.

"We're definitely going to change the pump to comply with an order from the Washtenaw County Health Department," he said, adding that cost estimates on the new pump will probably be ready the end of the week.

The school's existence isn't being threatened by the cost of a new pump.

Canton eyes 4 proposals

At its next meeting, on Jan. 15, the Canton Board of Trustees will discuss a proposal to place four separate millage proposals before the voters.

The millages would provide money to improve township roads, expand parks, preserve farmland, and to lure industry to the township. The ballot proposals were suggested by citizen Gary Roberts.

Roberts said the millages could be on the Michigan presidential primary, but the state legislature has funded the primary, tentatively scheduled for May 20.

The board's Jan. 15 meeting starts at 7 p.m. at Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd.

Canton asks for Ford boulevard

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Planning Department has strongly urged the state Department of Transportation (DOT) to reconstruct Ford Road into a boulevard.

In a letter to the DOT, the planners said a boulevard is better than the alternatives -- widening to five or seven lanes -- for these reasons:

1) A boulevard would be safer not only for pedestrians and bicyclists crossing the road, but for vehicles using the road itself.

2) A boulevard would produce lower carbon monoxide levels than the alternatives.

The DOT is expected to hold a public hearing in mid-February on whether to turn Ford into a boulevard from Sheldon to Haggerty. A specific date has not been set, however.

"We are confident that with determination and perseverance we will build a dynamic community that will continue to thrive and grow in importance to our region," said the planning department's report. "An uncrowded, safe, and attractive Ford boulevard would significantly assist in this effort."

The disadvantages of simply widening the road to five or seven lanes were listed by the planning department:

1) "Capacity will be reached as soon as the road is opened to traffic."

2) "Increased demands on parallel local roads."

3) "Will handle restrained traffic volumes at capacity."

4) "Difficulty making left turns into and out of business establishments during peak traffic flow hours."

"The most glaring deficiency is item 1," said the planners. "It would appear most inappropriate to select a reconstruction alternative that would reach capacity as soon as it is opened to traffic. (By) the year 2000, traffic volumes are expected to increase

A boulevard would be safer not only for pedestrians and bicyclists crossing the road, but for vehicles using the road itself.

Canton planners

by as much as 8.3 per cent over 1977 levels even if no new construction is done.

Furthermore, said the planners, an inadequate Ford Road would spill traffic into nearby residential streets, which "are simply not designed to carry heavy traffic."

"The only other paved major east-west road in the immediate vicinity is Cherry Hill Road, one mile south of Ford Road. Cherry Hill could only be expected to absorb a small amount of the traffic flow due to the considerable distance from Ford and the extensive residential densities within its corridor."

Arguing for the boulevard, the planning department also told the DOT that it would be more attractive and would mesh with the township's master land use plan.

"It is an expressed community-wide objective to keep it (Ford Road) as attractive as possible," said the planners. "The Township Board received a petition signed by 238 residents living near the Ford Road corridor expressing their desire for a boulevard."

DOT engineers have maintained that a boulevard would cost more than simple widening and take longer to construct.

However, the township planning department said the DOT's proposed boulevard was a good bit wider than necessary (and, therefore, more costly). It submitted a plan for a seven lane boulevard roadway that could be accommodated within the existing 120-foot right-of-way.

The township's plan calls for a 26-foot greenbelt between the eastbound and westbound lanes.

More free Canton cops?

Canton's police chief was expected to ask the Board of Trustees for permission to hire 15 more voluntary reserves.

The extra officers, who will work about 16 hours per month, are needed to bolster the department's undermanned staff, said Lt. Larry Stewart.

The reserves perform office chores and ride "second man" in patrol cars with regular officers, he added.

In addition, Stewart said Police Chief Jerry Cox may ask the board to waive the residency requirements for the reserves so the force could hire persons who may have special skills and who live outside the township.

"We would give preference to persons, say, who know computer programming," said Stewart.

SEV increases mean school tax rollback

Will Plymouth-Canton school officials have to roll back taxes because of the new, tentative state equalized valuation (SEV) factors announced by county officials?

Probably yes, according to Dan White, executive director of finance for the school district. "When the SEV factor grows larger than the inflation factor, then we have to roll back taxes," said White.

"However, until the SEV is announced in May (by the state legislature), we'll just have to wait and see," said White.

Tentative SEV factors -- upon which all property taxes are based -- were announced last week by the Wayne County Board of Equalization for the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton Township. All three SEV factors increased at least 15 per cent or more.

The Headlee Amendment to the state constitution, which was approved by the voters in 1978, limits the tax increase maximum to the increase in inflation -- which means that officials have to roll back taxes when the SEV is larger than the inflation factor.

"If Plymouth Township and Canton have to roll back taxes (in order to comply with the Headlee) then we probably will, too," said White. Both Plymouth Township and Canton officials predict that they will have to roll back taxes because the SEV increase will probably be larger than the inflation factor.

Canton cab

Canton Township may soon be getting a taxicab company.

According to David Nicholson, Canton's assistant planner, he received an inquiry about locating a taxi company in the township.

However, the Board of Trustees may want to consider passing an ordinance to regulate taxis, said Nicholson in a letter to the board.

The ordinance would cover such matters as the fare structure and licensing of vehicles and operators, Nicholson said.

Culbert plans program to control water rates

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert said he expects his fellow suburban leaders to support a plan to give control of the rates of the proposed Super Sewer to the out-county communities.

Under the current financing plan, Wayne County officials will set the sewer rates charged to the user communities. Super Sewer, under consideration since the late 1950's, is scheduled to run from Joy Road, south to Belleville, and then along the Huron River to a waste-treatment plant at Lake Erie.

Culbert agrees that Canton needs increased sewer capacity, but opposes construction of the project unless the user communities control the rates. The proposed financial agreement, being pushed by the Wayne County Board of Public Works gives the communities only advisory powers over the rates.

"At a meeting of the Wayne County Supervisors Association next week, we are expected to adopt a resolution against the county's plan," said Culbert. "After that, I think we'll sit down the county officials and get these changes."

The financial agreement is not the only problem with getting Super Sewer off the ground, however.

"The County doesn't have enough votes to ratify the agreement now," said Culbert. "In fact, they're trying to buffalo the communities (into signing)."

In a report to the Canton Board of Trustees, Township Engineer Bob Wade said greatly increased capacity in Super Sewer over what the township has in the current Rouge System is not guaranteed in the agreement.

Some township trustees have said they oppose joining the Super Sewer effort unless Canton will get more sewer capacity.

Contract hearings delayed

Hearings to settle two disputes between Plymouth-Canton teachers and the Board of Education have been postponed until February, said John Ryder, president of the teachers' union.

Bargainers from both teams were scheduled to meet this week before an administrative law judge from the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) to settle the issues: how the compounding factor is to be applied to the teachers' salary scales, and a grievance filed at the table which charges the teachers with striking over a non-mandatory contract issue.

Teachers were on strike for 10 days at the beginning of the school year, but they went back to work after both sides accepted recommendations from a state fact-finder. Settlement on the two issues will lead to the finalization and ratification of a new contract for the nearly 800 teachers in the school district.

"There's still a question on whether the fact-finder can testify at the MERC hearings (in regards to the compounding issue)," said Ryder.

Teachers' union officials have said the compounding factor was settled by a verbal agreement; however, the school board's team has said that the compounding factor was not agreed to at the table, and if compounded in the way teachers want, will exceed the original percentages outlined in the fact-finder's report.

The second issue to be heard at MERC is about a grievance, filed by the school board's team, which charges teachers struck over the collection of dues for the Voluntary Political Action Fund, which is a non-mandatory issue in the contract.

Goals tapped

Goal-based Approach to Curriculum of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has been selected for the Promising Program Bank of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, according to a letter received here last week. An award of up to $300 comes with the honor.

The purpose of the Goal-based Approach to Curriculum is to provide targets stated in clear and concise terms which can be used in curriculum development, program evaluation, and instructional improvement.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is at the half-way point in developing goals for twelve instructional programs, according to Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction. The Wayne County award will be used to prepare a brochure and handbook on the goal-based approach for use here and in other school districts.

Pugh advocates common downtown parking lots

EDITOR:

In a recent editorial, The Crier indicated that I advocate that the City of Plymouth purchase "more private parking lots and convert them to pay lots."

While I recommended that this alternative be evaluated by the city administration, it is not my opinion this would be the best approach.

What I do advocate is a common parking system within the Central Business District. That is, one that is either all pay or free. This can be accomplished without purchasing private lots.

The conclusion of my study is that pay lots and private free lots in downtown Plymouth compete for the parker. The revenue and use trends over the past four years show that the city's pay parking system has been the big loser. It has lost parkers to the increased availability of free private parking.

My study will be reviewed by the City Commission in the near future. Based on city administration recommendations, it may be feasible to consider converting the present pay parking to free parking.

I believe that competing pay versus free lots certainly will cause the need for continued rate increases or transfer payments from the general fund to pay for parking fund deficits. Doesn't it make good sense to address this issue?

For 35th District

Support regional court

In these days of the shrinking dollar, government officials must look for creative ways to save a buck.

Which is exactly what 35th District Court Judge James Garber is doing. He has proposed consolidating all three branches of the court -- in Plymouth, Canton, and Northville -- into one new building.

Not only would this save the court, and the taxpayers, at least $100,000 per year, Garber estimates, but would free much-needed space in the municipal buildings of all three communities.

Garber is now trying to muster support among township and city leaders. We hope they carry through on his initiative.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Council doesn't represent all

EDITOR:

Let's clear up an ambiguity in the West Middle School Coordinating Council resolution, published Dec. 26, which states, "the staff, students, and parents at West Middle School would find it very difficult to support any millage proposal which does not provide for the continuance of middle schools."

The impression that their resolution has broad based support from West Middle School parents is unsubstantiated and refutable. The parents of West School students were never invited by the council to participate in an open discussion of the issue nor were our opinions solicited in any way.

If our Coordinating Council will amend their published statement, I will be grateful. If not, I trust that parents and taxpayers throughout the district will not accept this resolution as representing all West parents or authoritative in any way.

As a concerned parent I urge all of us to take an active part and become attuned to the responsibilities of our schools so that special groups will not be inclined to "speak for us."

Clothing bank helps many needy families

EDITOR:

Now that Christmas is over and before we get too far into the new year there are so many children and adults in the Plymouth-Canton area that I must thank for all the support they have given to the needy families in the community.

I'm writing about the success of the Plymouth-Canton School District Clothing Bank. To you in the community that have donated and taken time to bag and transport your good used clothing to us we "thank you," very much.

During the last school year we were able to help approximately 250 children and their parents. Due to the high cost of living and the status of the job market it is possible that we are going to have more families qualify for help.

This Christmas most of our schools followed the practice of Farrand school by providing mitten, sock and or underwear trees in their classrooms rather than exchanging gifts with each other. The principals, teachers, secretaries, librarians and other staff members organized this and we thank you and your students.

Because you cared our kids will be able to wear socks that match and have no holes, underwear that fits properly, and little fingers that are nice and warm when waiting at the bus stop or walking to school.

I thank all the caring children and members of the Geneva United Presbyterian Church and the Divine Savior Church for also collecting these much needed items.

The students at Geer School donated mittens and socks but they also donated their pennies, nickels and dimes which totaled $11.67. We purchased a ham and potatoes for one of our families and they thank each of you. The six students at Gallimore School that used the monies they received singing Christmas carols to buy items of clothing for our kids thank you.

Each school in the district has a Parent-Teacher Organization that has been very supportive of the clothing bank. They have provided funds, contacted their parents for special clothing needs and provided us with workers, thank you.

For the last two years the Board of Education office personnel have adopted one of our families for Christmas rather than exchanging gifts. This year it was a mother and four children, they provided a turkey, all kinds of groceries, gift certificates, toys and etc., I'm sure they know a Santa Claus really exists.

I feel it is very important that all of you be aware of the caring community that you live in, Santa Claus doesn't come to the Plymouth/Canton Community once a year -- he never leaves the area as long as we at the Clothing Bank have your support.

FLOSSIE TONDA

P.S. With the winter months upon us keep the Clothing Bank in mind if you, your neighbor or friend has a fire in their home. We help all families in such an emergency, call me at 453-2534 day or night for such an emergency.

Thanks, Canton fire dept. for speedy emergency help

EDITOR:

We would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the Canton Township Fire Department for responding rapidly to the fire in our office building Friday, Dec. 28. Because of their excellent work and efficiency the fire was contained to a small area enabling us to still be in business. To put out a fire of that magnitude with so little damage is a feat that seems almost impossible.

All citizens of Canton Township can feel safe with these fine professionals responding in time of crisis.

Words cannot express our gratitude to the Canton Fire Department.

Student mimes take the stage Friday at 8 p.m.

Mixed fruits

"THE BLENDER." Gloria Logan, the drama teacher at the Centennial Educational Park, described the mimists in her class as a "tossed salad," saying they represented a wide range of students. Here, in their last skit called "The Blender," the students portray mixed fruits as they get tossed into a blender and whipped up into a fruit dessert. "Pantomime" opens on Friday night at 8 p.m. at Salem Auditorium. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Their faces are painted with white pancake make-up. Black lines drip down to accentuate their eyes. Even their eyebrows are arched to enhance expression.

The girls dress in black leotards; the boys wear black trousers and black turtle necks. Their only costumes are the colored t-shirts they wear in various skits. Their props are scant -- a beach blanket, a table and chairs, a few wooden crates to sit on.

Following the tradition of Marcel Marceau and other great mimes, twenty some students at the Centennial Educational Park will take the stage at Salem High School to present a show simply titled "Pantomime" on Friday and Saturday nights. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

This is the ninth year that CEP students in the dramatics class have produced a mime show. "As the students have changed, their taste in music and skits have changed," said Gloria Logan, the drama teacher who has helped direct and produce the student-run show.

The weekend shows will feature 23 skits set to music -- varying from "American In Paris" to "Disco Inferno." All the skits have been written by students and some reflect the awkwardness of adolescence.

For example, the skit set to the music of "Saturday Night Fever," called "Disco Inferno" shows two boys and two girls each on their own side of the stage's apron primping in beat to the music as they get ready for a dance. As the curtains part (and the scene moves to the nightclub), the boys sit at their table and girls move to theirs. Awkwardness and shyness prevail -- but not for long as one of the boys asks one of the girls to dance against the backdrop of the dancing mimes.

One of the girls, however, doesn't want to dance and her facial expressions and outward motions convey to the audience all the awkwardness that she is feeling as she resists his advances.

That's an emotion virtually everyone can identify with, said Logan. "Nearly all of us can remember those eighth grade dances in which we spent 90 per cent of the party in the restroom getting ready," she said.

Humor also plays a part in many of the skits. "Turn Me On" depicts a frazzled woman trying to find a light bulb that will replace her burned out one, but the light bulbs have the last laugh in the short skit. Then there's the greedy beach blanket skit during which a bored blanket, tired of being laid on, develops a life of his own and steals a frisbee and eats a girl's swim suit, among other things, during the short humorous skit.

The skits, which were all written by students in the mime class, are more concrete and not as abstract as in the past, said Logan. "They're not nearly as violent as they were in the past," she said.

Logan describes the student mimes as a diverse group and said their closing skit, "The Blender" in which fruits become animated and get mixed together to make a fruit salad, is appropriate. "There's something during the hour-and-one-half-show for everyone -- from serious comments to light spoofs," she said.

Stage managers are Mike Davis and Cathy Handyside and the house managers are Kris Kelley and Pat Chevillot. The lighting crew includes Dan McNew, Randy Roberson, Linda Spitz, Tim McKenna, Miriam Rozian, Jim Martin, and Greg Shevchik.

Teaching self-expression, co-operation, and working with others is the aim of the mime class, said Logan. "Some students who enroll are really shy and just blossom in the class.

"But when it comes to showtime and the students write their own skits -- I learn more from them than they do from me," she concluded.

Sci-fi addicts join forces

Beam Plymouth-Canton aboard, Scotty, because enterprising science fiction writers, Trekkies, and Star Wars buffs are joining forces at the Plymouth Hilton Jan. 18, 19, and 20.

About 600 sci-fi addicts will attend the three-day convention which includes panel discussions, video-tapes of previous conventions, and seminars on writing and selling sci-fi stories.

Highlighting the futuristic affair will be the masquerade ball on Saturday night, said David Innes, a former Plymouth resident who's organizing the event. Among the attractions Saturday night will be a lazer-powered light show.

"As for the costume party, I'm sure we'll have a few barbarians, some scantily-dressed handmaidens, and some creatures right out of popular sci-fi novels," said Innes. Innes's costume will probably be more non descript. "I've been so busy organizing the convention that I haven't had time to worry about it yet -- I'll probably just wear my caftan."

The taxman cometh...

The Plymouth-Northville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will sponsor a tax training course to be held at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The course, with special emphasis toward helping senior citizens, will deal with the Federal tax return on Jan. 9, 10 and 11. The program will start at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and run until 3:30 each afternoon.

Participants may bring a brown bag lunch.

Coffee and tea will be provided.

On Tuesday, Jan. 15, the state tax advisor will be there from 9:30 in the morning until noon.

Together the two programs will offer help to those senior citizens filling out their own forms and for any seniors who are willing to give of their time (four hours per week) to help other seniors.

Those interested in the program may contact Warren L. Bain, (453-3562).

There was a time when sports was a man's world, but women are finally nosing their way in. That doesn't mean every American woman is suddenly becoming a super jock. It's just that more women are getting into track, basketball, golf, and many other sports as a hobby as well as professionally. Women are also becoming more interested in spectator sports.

Being the only girl in a family, with two brothers and a dad who were very interested in sports, I learned to shoot a basket, hit a ball, and throw a touchdown pass. I was not, by any stretch of the imagination, what you would call a star player. In fact, the only great pass I can remember making sailed right through the bathroom window. That was one time when dad's little girl didn't get away with anything. Wow, I can still remember him coming out the door with the football in his hand.

While enjoying the things that most girls my age did, like talking on the phone or painting my nails, I was fortunate enough to learn a little about sports. However, I think my mother considered me a traitor, since learning to watch football was much easier than learning to cook.

Now, as a parent I'm glad my children show an interest in some sports. We've spent a few afternoons passing a football back and forth, and dribbling the basketball up and down the driveway. I'm thankful girls basketball in school is over for the year. I'm not sure it was my daughter's thing, but she gave it a good try.

The Plymouth Canton Basketball Association has a lot to offer boys and girls in our community. Nothing is more exciting than watching those fifth graders get out there and try their hardest. Those 10-year-olds can make the game more exciting than any professional player ever thought of doing. Of course, being a mother watching her son play may have something to do with the level of excitement.

The ref had a lot of nerve saying that basket didn't count, because my son was in the three-second area too long. Actually, the high school kids refereeing the games do a great job. I'm sure they call things more accurately than some of the coaches and parents might tend to do; besides I learned a long time ago not to argue with the referee.

It's easy to get caught up in the game. Go green! I felt sorry for the poor kid who got confused and made a basket for the opposing team. That's OK, Andy, it was a good shot. Besides they needed a little help anyway.

A big thanks to all the coaches and everyone working with the Junior Basketball Association. A special thanks to Cougars coach Jim Gee, and Mike Mlot, who have a pretty good record so far this year. Keep up the good work.

Basketball can be an exhausting game for the players and coaches, almost as tiring as it is for the parents sitting on the sidelines.

James Galbraith of Plymouth won $7,000 in the Michigan Lottery's current instant game, "Triple Seven."

Gene (Santa) Reaves was honored yesterday by the Westland Chamber of Commerce, as the man of the month for January. Reaves, known as Santa to many area kids (of all ages) received the honor because of his community involvement and achievements.

The chamber honors an outstanding group, organization, or citizen each month at its luncheon.

Hooked on booze? Kick the habit starting Jan. 21

Harry G., a Plymouth-Canton business man, has kicked his alcoholic habit.

A social drinker for nearly 18 years, Harry (not his real name) hasn't picked up an alcoholic beverage for nearly eight weeks -- an accomplishment that he is proud of -- and a feat he has achieved with the help of the alcoholic abuse program offered through Plymouth Family Services.

The program is being offered again this winter -- starting Jan. 21 and will continue for six weeks on Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. The sessions focus on the behavioral, emotional, and physical reactions to alcohol as well as the part alcohol plays in social activities.

Thirty-two-year-old Harry remembered his first drink at the age of 14 when he was with his buddies. He continued drinking throughout college and soon alcohol was a part of his professional life, too. "A few years ago, I was drinking two or three a day, then I'd stop for awhile, then I'd start again. Over the years, my tolerance increased so that I was drinking more and more each day."

Harry went to the program after a friend suggested it to him. "I knew there was something wrong with why I was drinking so much," he said.

During the sessions, which were held last fall, Harry said his family was "100 per cent supportive of my efforts."

Harry said that he had experienced many of the symptoms of alcoholism -- blackouts, lapses in memory, and he was sneaking drinks to hide the amount of alcohol he was consuming.

"It's very difficult to say out loud that you are an alcoholic -- it took me a few weeks before I could admit it to myself," he said.

"There are a lot of people who think they don't have a drinking problem, but many do," he continued. Harry compared being an alcoholic to having diabetes. "Diabetics must be very careful about what they eat; I have to be careful about what I drink," he continued.

Now, when Harry is with friends who are drinking, he sips soda water with a twist of lime. "I wish more programs like this were available," he said.

For more information about the alcohol abuse program, call Plymouth Family Services at 453-0890.

A new dipper?

SPLASHED ACROSS THE front of the Adistra Building are several stars, masking building supports, which look like the Big Dipper gone astray.

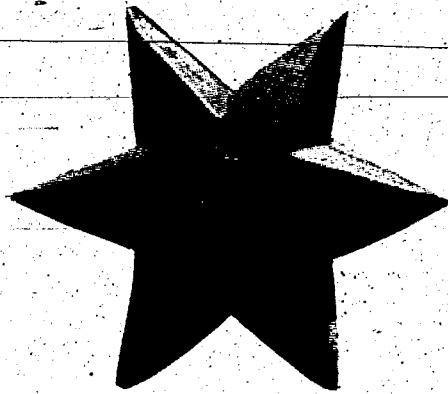

FIVE-POINTED stars dot the top edge of the Old Nelson Hotel in Plymouth's Old Village. The stars help support the building's structure.

Star-studded buildings shine around town

With an abundance of history in the Plymouth-Canton Community, we often overlook some of the smaller items, some of which are of little or no importance at all. Crier photo editor Robert Cameron (often known for things of little or no importance), snapped these pictures of the anchor plates on the tie rods used in building construction in years past.

According to local architect Erick Carne, the use of tie rods today remains as important in keeping buildings where they belong as it was in the 'good old days.' The prime difference today is the rods are firmly imbedded in the walls, with the ends being welded to steel beams.

PRIMITIVE LIQUID

Water can save your life in the desert; it can provide a bundle of fun in the form of a quiet lake or rolling ocean beach, or be the farmer's best friend. But when planning the construction of a new home, the drainage of this primitive liquid should be the source of great concern.

Desirable drainage soils include sand, loam, and gravel. The highest point on the property is often best because it provides proper surface drainage away from the house in all directions and the subsurfaces or ground water will be at the greatest depth.

Also good is a hillside where drainage water can be routed around the high side of the house for runoff at the ends and low side. But there are times when it is most convenient to place the house on flat ground in which case the soil around the structure should be built up or graded to facilitate the flow of surface water away from the foundation.

2 juveniles arrested for Canton B&Es

Canton police believe they have arrested two juveniles responsible for more than 20 breaking and enterings since Dec. 1, 1979.

Lt. Larry Stewart, of the Canton force, said the 16-year-olds were arrested at a Canton home Sunday. During the arrest, two Canton officers were injured slightly in a scuffle with the parents of one of the juveniles arrested, he added.

Stolen during one of the breaking and enterings was a handgun, Stewart said, which was recovered after the arrest. Other items stolen included cameras, money, and calculators, he added.

Most of the crimes were committed in the northern half of the township, especially in Sunflower subdivision, he added.

"We haven't received the final results on the fingerprints back from the lab, but apparently these are the ones responsible (for the breaking and enterings)," said Stewart.

"Patrolman Robert VanLith, who worked on the case did an excellent job," said Stewart. "He gave a lot of his own time to break the case."

City raises burial fees

For the second time in eight months, even dying is going to cost you more if you want to be buried in the City of Plymouth's Riverside Cemetery.

By a unanimous vote (with Commissioner Ron Loiselle absent), the City Commission hiked rates for burial in Riverside by about 6 to 7 per cent.

According to DPW Director Ken Vogras, the increases were necessary to offset higher labor costs.

The charges now for an adult resident's grave are $245 (up from $230) on weekdays, $270 for Saturday and Sunday (up from $250), and $365 for holidays (up from $340). Non resident adults can be buried at Riverside for $320 on weekdays (up from $300), $360 on weekends (up from $335), and $630 on holidays (up from $585).

Zinfandel is the most widely planted grape in California. It is the child of an unknown European vine which found happiness in the cool vineyards of the northern coastal counties of California. When grown and treated well, the grapes produce a full, fruity wine. It is delightful when served with meats, stewed or roasted fowls and all manner of sauced dishes. It is a great wine for anything from the pastas of Italy to the barbecues of America.

Kiwanis to host Australian travelogue on Jan. 12

The travelogue, "Portraits of Australia" will be presented Saturday, Jan. 12 by filmmaker and lecturer Lee Cavanagh. The show, to be held at Salem Auditorium, is free to senior citizens 60 years of age and older.

Cavanagh has had a life-long interest in motion picture color photography and is a veteran world traveler. He and his wife, Lily, are partners in a leading midwest travel agency and have led group tours to various parts of the world.

They have worked together on photographic journeys to many continents and have visited 36 countries -- from Taiwan to Tunisia, and from Brazil to Belgium. They have crossed the Atlantic Ocean 46 times, by air and ship.

"Portraits of Australia" will feature the modern cities Sydney, Melbourne, and Brisbane and the "outback" regions. Wildlife such as koala bears, kangaroos, kookaburras, and duck-billed platypus will romp across the screen during the travelogue.

Free coffee and doughnuts will be served beginning at noon, with the show sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis, starting at 1 p.m. The public is invited.

Canton names 2 planners

Canton's Board of Trustees was scheduled to fill two vacancies on the Planning Commission at last night's meeting.

The openings were caused by expired terms of two commissioners, Chairman Bob Padget and Bart Bert. These two had reapplied for the jobs, along with three others, John Burdziak, Tom Sullivan (a former Plymouth Township planning commissioner) and Betty Hamann.

Need to relax? Try yoga

To help you relax and release tensions, a yoga class is being offered through the City of Plymouth's Parks and Recreation Department at the Cultural Center.

Classes are for the beginner and advanced adult and will help you maintain a limber, flexible body. Yoga runs for 10 weeks beginning the week of Jan. 28 and costs $15 for residents.

The recreation department is also offering a wide range of dancing classes for youngsters. They include pre-school ballet, beginner's ballet, advanced ballet, tap dance, disco jazz, and jazz exercise for 11 weeks.

Disco dance for beginners and advanced students and ballroom dance is also being offered for eight weeks.

An arts and crafts class for children will meet at 4:30 p.m. on Mondays, also sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department. The fee is $10 for city residents and instructor Rena Shah said the course places emphasis on using materials found at home.

The eight-week class is open to youngsters from four to 12 years of age.

To sign up for any of these classes, call the recreation program at 455-6620 or stop by the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Professionals wanted

If you're an architect or a lawyer, you are needed to serve on Canton's Historical Commission.

The commission needs a member of both these professions to fill its remaining vacancies.

If you're interested, call township Planning Director Jim Kosteva, 397-1000.

GOOD DANCE INSTRUCTION

A GUIDE FOR PARENTS & STUDENTS

• My child loves to move. Perhaps now that he/she is over three years old dance lessons are indicated. Or how about me? How can I make a choice?

The purpose for developing this brochure is so that potential students and their parents can make informed decisions about which instructional setting answers their need. The Michigan Dance Association does not make recommendations in regard to specific studios/schools that offer dance instruction. Our concern is only for high quality instruction for all dance students. The following guidelines represent a statement of belief.

• At what age should my child begin dance lessons?

Ages 3-6

Specialized instruction with a teacher knowledgeable about early childhood physical, mental and emotional development is essential at this stage.

Emphasis at this level should be on individualization, on creativity, and on movement exploration. Formalized technique in any specific dance forms should not begin until age 7 at the earliest, and should be directly related to the child's physical development.

Ages 7-10

Instruction in some formalized technique or the introduction to dance styles may begin for those children who have had previous dance or creative movement lessons. Others should begin with an introductory course in exploratory and creative dance activity. Emphasis at this level should be on increased body awareness and skill acquisition.

Ages 11 and up

Students entering at this level should be exposed to introductory exploratory dance activities before formal dance instruction commences. All instruction should include some opportunity for creative dance experiences. Emphasis at this level should be on perfecting of skills and broadening the student dance knowledge. Serious formal study can begin at this point.

• What about the class size and length of time of the class?

Preschool ages 3-5

Maximum of 15 children -- no more than 45 minutes long.

Grades K-3

Maximum of 20 children -- 50 minutes.

Grades 4-7

Maximum of 25 children -- 60 minutes.

Grades 8-12

Maximum of 25 children -- 1 1/4 hours.

Adults

Maximum of 1 1/2 hours -- class size varies as to the situation.

Minimum for all classes at all levels is 6 students. Too small a class diminishes the challenge and effects the group dynamics during class instruction. Private lessons are only desirable in unusual circumstances.

• What about the Activity Space?

An acceptable facility should be clean, bright and reasonably spacious. The facility should be adequate for the class size.

A proper floor, good ventilation, lighting, and a space free from any protruding objects is essential.

A bulletin board with desirable pictures is a nice addition.

A room to change clothes in, if necessary, is a convenience.

• What other things should I consider?

Make sure that the major portion of your child's dance instruction is not devoted to preparation for recitals or performances.

After the first 1-2 years of dance instruction, students with serious aspirations should be studying at least 2 or more times a week. These students should also be encouraged to study a variety of dance forms (example -- modern, jazz, ballet, etc.)

• How do I judge the quality of the dance instruction available in recommended or advertised places?

You should try to observe classes in at least two different situations and ask yourself the following questions:

Does the teacher instill the love and joy of dancing in the child?

Does the teacher exhibit understanding of and interest in the individual child's growth and development?

Does the teacher seem aware of the physical and mental capabilities of the particular age group being taught?

Are the children grouped with consideration as to age and ability?

Does the teacher use imaginative language when giving instructions?

Is the atmosphere comfortable and supportive to all students in the class?

Is formal instruction carefully balanced with creative work?

Does the teacher exhibit a knowledge of anatomy in regard to the bone development and function of the feet and back?

Does the teacher seem to be familiar with any of the increasing amounts of literature dealing with dance education for children?

Does the teacher suggest appropriate comfortable dance apparel for the class?

Does the teacher utilize percussion and musical accompaniment? Is some rhythmic training included in the lesson?

Does the teacher help students make a connection between dance and other art, educational or everyday experiences?

Does the class begin with a warm up and progress to a logical conclusion?

Is the emphasis in the class on child-like natural free expression in movement rather than an adult-imposed style of movement?

This article was published as a brochure by the Michigan Dance Association and was prepared by the following committee: Chairperson: Lilo Fauman, Wayne State University; Carol Halstead, Oakland University; Paula Kramer, Midwest Dance Center; Evelyn Kresson, Evelyn Kresson School of Dance; Michigan Dance Association 1979.

Twp. wins suit

baert.

In a letter to city officials from Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, she writes: "Piecemeal annexation serves neither of our respective bodies very well being unwelcome on both sides of our contiguous boundaries and (it) costs us both time and much money in litigation."

Her letter concludes: "We may welcome a single unit (of government) yet when the proper moment arrives."

Plymouth City Attorney Charles Lowe told the commission Monday night that although the city was not a party to the township's and Burrough's suit against the boundary commission, it affected the city. But because the city was not involved, it had not formally been apprised of the court decision.

"I don't think I can tell you anything more until I talk to the attorney general's office (which represents the state boundary commission in court)," Lowe said.

The city attorney said, "it is possible and quite probable" the state would appeal the Ingham County Circuit Court decision -- maybe even to the state supreme court.

Three annexation petitions were approved by the City of Plymouth on May 6, 1974 -- the day before an election asking both city and township voters to approve of consolidation, which was passed in the city, but defeated in the township.

In its original petitions, the city sought to annex Burroughs parking lot, the Hillside Restaurant and parking lot, and the entire township in that order.

The State Boundary Commission said the Hillside Inn petitions were not legally sufficient to rule upon and they were refiled, placing them after the entire township petition.

If the city still wants to annex the entire township that petition will be acted on next.

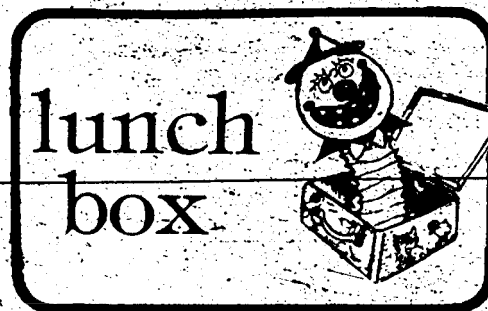

If the boundary commission were to approve the city's petition to annex all of Plymouth Township -- which is considered likely -- township voters could block the move by petitioning for an election and defeating the move at the polls. Notebaert said he expected such a move would happen. "Township residents are not ready to pay the higher taxes levied by the city."

Meanwhile, Harrison's ruling on the Burroughs parking lot may mean a larger tax base for the township -- if all goes as planned by architect and developer Erick Carne and his partner Bob Stremick.

Last summer, the Plymouth Township Planning Commission Ok'd the tentative site plan of a $15 million office and condominium structure called "The Plymouth Atrium." The proposed site for the complex is five acres across from the Hillside and adjacent to Edward Hines Parkway -- it is included in the 41 acres dubbed the Burroughs parking lot.

"Construction of The Atrium would mean an added tax base for the township," said Notebaert.

"And that will certainly help provide services for township residents and help boost our budget in general," he added.

Farmington out runs, out guns Canton

Canton losing streak reached four games last night when Farmington destroyed the Chiefs 65-48.

Farmington jumped to a 18-4 lead midway through the first quarter and the Chiefs could get know closer than to within 8 points, at 20 to 12 early in the second quarter, the rest of the night.

Farmington led 20 to 10 at the end of the first quarter and built up a 12 point, 33 to 21 advantage at the half.

In the second half, the two teams exchanged baskets for a 45-33 Farmington lead at the end of the third quarter.

In the fourth quarter the Chiefs applied full court pressure in an attempt deficit, but Farmington solved the press and outscored Canton 20-15 for its final victory margin.

It was another disappointing loss for the Chiefs and coach Craig Bell, who saw his team's record fall to 2-4 on the year.

"It is a disappointing loss he said, we only got one shot at the basket and let them set the tempo of the game. We'll have to work hard and come back against Harrison Friday night."

Farmington was led by Jeff McGrath's 17 points, Jerry Liphardt added 13 points and Bill Lohman eight.

Scott Adler led the Chiefs with 12 points followed by Dave Fisser, Brad Westin, and Sean Houle, with 10 points each.

The Canton Junior Varsity team upped its record to 3 and 3 with a 51-44 win over Farmington, led by Ron King's 14 points.

Canton travels to Farmington Harrison Friday night for a Western Six contest.

The Chiefs are currently 1-1 in the league.

Braves beat Rocks

Salem's basketball squad gave every ounce of energy it could produce Tuesday night against Ypsilanti, but even though they sweated and sweated for every basket, Ypsilanti still won the game 66-57.

The Rocks may have been outshot but they weren't out hustled as they suffered their first loss of the season.

"We played well for 30 minutes then we broke down when we tried to step outside of our defensive responsibilities," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We didn't cover our free throws and we needed to do that against Ypsilanti."

It took an immense amount of effort but the Rocks dominated both the first and second periods. The style of play was fast and very physical.

Senior Howard Monk kept Salem in the game with aggressive board play and 16 points in the first half.

Salem led 14-12 by the end of the first quarter and upped the margin to 32-27 by the intermission. It wasn't easy though as the Braves used a full court press and hot shooting to keep the Rocks on their toes.

Ypsilanti took the lead with 3:46 left to play in the third period. The Braves went ahead by three points, 41-38, and ended the quarter ahead 51-44.

The final period of play was extremely tough from all angles. The Rocks worked hard just to stay in the game while Ypsilanti continued to lead with its superb shooting edge.

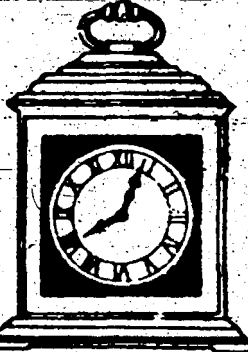

Monk as usual paced the Rocks offense. This time he tossed in an outstanding 32 points. Scot Bublin added 8 points and Jim Anderson had 7 points.

Salem cagers rampage -- win sixth

Salem started hot and they finished hot last weekend in its non-league basketball struggle with Farmington Harrison. The Rocks sailed to a 84-39 victory.

"We expected a much more competitive game. Harrison just stopped playing midway in the game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We created very good defensive pressure on them and forced them to take a lot of poor shots. We also dominated the boards."

The Rocks jumped out to 13-2 lead three minutes into the first quarter and never looked back. Howard Monk and Scott Bublin paced the offensive attack in the first quarter and helped give the Rocks a 24-14 lead by the end of the period.

In the second quarter, Salem's offense slowed down and Harrison was given its only chance to catch up during the contest, but Salem held.

The Rocks ended the quarter with a 10-point blitz from senior guard Rob Neu. Neu too tossed in five buckets with the last coming at the halftime buzzer. The score was then 53-29.

Although the game was pretty much decided there were still two periods to go. Salem plowed ahead in the third quarter as coach Thomann slowly relieved his front line players. The score at the end of third period was 72-32.

The Rocks continued the blow-out right through the final quarter holding Harrison to seven points while adding 14 points to their tally.

Monk charged the offense with 18 points while Neu and Jim Anderson added 14 each.

Bublin tossed in nine points and Mike Sharp added eight.

Tom Kelliher came off the bench and added six points, while Mike McBride had five and Paul Horton four points.

"You really don't find out about a team until after the holidays. Then you have to sit down and grind out the rest of the season. With games coming on Tuesday then Friday we have to get in a groove," Thomann said. "Harrison had us out-sized but that didn't hurt us. It was also the first chance we've had to really play the reserves."

Rock matmen cruise to tourney win

The Salem wrestling squad powered its way to yet another tournament victory last weekend. The Rocks won their very own Salem Invitational distancing second-place Westland John Glenn by 50 points.

Salem tallied 205 points, while Glenn had 154½. Trenton was third with 146. The Chiefs from Canton were 11th among the 16 teams with 61 points.

"We have now won four tournaments in a row and we are 5-0 in dual meets," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "Some of the other coaches really felt our kids wrestled their butts off. We have a lot of overall depth and that carried us through the competition."

The Rocks produced three champions during the invitational in the likes of Jim Schultz, Jerry Valchine and Steve Szilagyi.

Schultz captured the 107-pound weight class with a 11-5 victory over Dave Denny from Farmington, while Valchine defeated Keith Briggs of Bloomfield Hills Lahser 8-2 to win the 140-pound division.

Szilagyi was the surprise of the day for Salem according to coach Krueger. He defeated three wrestlers that had previously beaten him in other tournaments including Dave Vaughn of Canton in the championship match. Szilagyi wrestled in the 169-pound class.

Other finishes for Salem included Greg Gattoni at third place in the heavyweight class and Jeff Vojeck at the sixth position in the 98-pound class.

Steve Slusser of Ypsilanti won the heavy-weight class and Al Prusac of Dearborn Heights Annapolis won the 98-pound class.

The Rocks did not place in either the 114-pound division or the 134-pound class. John Segula of Lahser won the former and Joey Levier, also of Lahser, won the latter.

Jeff Brown was defeated by John Murphy of Farmington in the finals of the 121-pound class and Mark Ross finished third for Salem in the 128-pound category.

Bob Price and Scott Piper each completed the tournament at fourth for the Rocks. Price was fourth at 147 pounds and Piper at 157 pounds. Scott Rechsteiner of Bay City Western won the 147 pound class and Steve Pierce of Trenton won the 157 class.

At 187 pounds Jeff Powers of Salem was pinned by Greg Lamnski of Farmington in the championship match.

Stan Snider was fourth in the 200-pound division, while Gary Black of John Glenn won that division.

"I would like to thank all the parents that helped us with the tournament especially the captain's parents. They put in an outstanding effort for us," said Krueger. "I think it was one of the best tournaments I've seen run at Plymouth."

The Rocks will journey to Schoolcraft College this Saturday for the Schoolcraft Invitational. There will be 32 teams at the competition which will hold its finals Saturday afternoon.

The Rocks will be going to the invitational on a low key according to Krueger. "We are going to the invitational more to have a good time than to win. We need a little rest right now. The team has been going hard for three weeks."

Basically by Ken Voyles

During the past two Saturdays the Salem and Canton gyms have been busy with the likes of two wrestling invitationals. Canton staged its tourney first then Salem had its this past weekend.

It's a very big tribute to all the people who worked so very hard to get the tournaments organized, that they came off as well as they did.

It's no easy chore setting up for a wrestling tournament involving at least 16 schools with matches that run all day and into the evening hours.

The matches themselves are conducted on three separate mats across the gym with action going on at all times. At times there are no Salem or Canton wrestlers on those matches, while at other times the viewer would have to watch all three mats to keep tabs on Plymouth wrestlers.

Salem, with its powerhouse crew of wrestlers dominated the two recent tournaments, but there was plenty of good wrestling from all the schools.

Maybe more surprising to this reporter was the considerable crowd at each tournament. Wrestling crowds can be very vocal, so too can wrestling coaches.

The entire atmosphere of the gyms during the two invitationals had the air of anarchy with a score of different things to watch and even do.

Although at first glance anarchy seemed to rule, the meets were very well organized by a staff at the head table sorting out the first round, the second round, the semi finals, etc. until right down to the finals.

Ron Krueger (Salem's coach) praised very highly the crew of parents and adults working Salem's home tournament. Larry Phillips had a lot to do with the success or failure of the Rocks event, according to Krueger and he came through with flying colors.

It's these kind of tournaments that could and should be held at the community schools. The involvement of both teams and spectators is immense and add to that the hard work of dozens of people and the result is a fine tournament.

Canton cagers suffer loss

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Waterford Mott handed Canton its third consecutive defeat Friday night by beating the Chiefs 61-55 in overtime.

Canton had rallied back from a 44-36 deficit at the end of the third quarter to tie the score at 53-53 at the end of regulation time.

"We played well in the fourth quarter, but our shots at the basket in the overtime period didn't fall and we fell behind," said Canton coach Craig Bell.

After a free-throw by Mott's Dave Miller gave the Corsairs a 54-53 lead, a jumper by Dave Visser gave the Chiefs their final lead, 55-54. Tom Schaefer, who was high scorer for the Corsairs with 21 points, then scored two quick lay-ups to give Mott a 58-55 advantage.

Canton was then unable to connect on another shot as Waterford went into a four-corner stall. A lay-up by Brian Harris and a free-throw by Rob Cate insured the win for Mott.

The Chiefs had been able to force Mott into several turnovers off of its four-corner stall in the fourth quarter to tie the score.

Trailing 52-47, Visser narrowed the Chiefs' deficit to three on a jumper. Harris then threw the ball away on the inbounds pass and Visser connected again from outside to make it 52-51. After a free throw by Cate, Canton's Brad Westin tied the score with 0:52 remaining. The Chiefs got the ball back on a turnover but Westin's shot at the buzzer was short, forcing the overtime.

The two teams had played to a 12-12 tie at the end of the first quarter. Canton pulled ahead 20-15 early in the second quarter but the Corsairs proceeded to out-score the Chiefs 16-2 and held a 31-22 half-time advantage.

Visser led the Chiefs in scoring with 20 points. Sean Houle added 13 points and Westin 10.

In addition to Schaefer's 22, Mott got 12 points from Miller and 11 from Harris.

The loss ended an 11-game Western Six league winning streak, and lowered the Chiefs record to 2-3 overall and 1-1 in the league. Waterford now leads the Western Six with a 2-0 mark and is 5-1 overall.

"We still feel we have the best team in the Western Six," said Bell. "Mott is a nice team and so are Churchill and Northville. The team that wins the most games on the road will win the league."

The Canton junior varsity team's record also fell to 2-3 on the year as the Chiefs lost 75-60 to the Corsairs. Steve Tuttle paced the Canton scoring with 19 points and Ron King added 15.

Canton travels to Farmington Harrison for its next game, Friday night.
