

Sheriff, City vie to police Township

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD
Plymouth Township officials may be able to do some comparison shopping before signing the dotted lines of a police contract.

Supervisor Tom Notebaert, Clerk Esther Hulsing, and Treasurer Joe West ate lunch with Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas Monday. "Lucas assured us that the contract proposal was expected to be considered by the Wayne County Public Safety and Judiciary Committee either yesterday (Tuesday) or today, said Notebaert.

After the committee's vote, the contract must be approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. It is scheduled for the commissioners' consideration later this week, said Notebaert.

At last night's Plymouth Township meeting, Jim Ahktar, a representative of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department was expected to report to trustees on the progress of the proposed contract with the sheriff.

Meanwhile, township trustees have also scheduled a joint meeting with the City of Plymouth to discuss the possibility of contracting with the city for police services.

That meeting is set for Monday, March 10 at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

"We're in a good position now. We'll have two contracts to compare before deciding which one to sign," said Notebaert.

Plymouth Township's quest for police services started last spring when it became a charter township. Under the charter township act, it must either start its own police force or contract with the sheriff to remain exempt from annexation by neighboring municipalities.

Township residents approved an additional

Schools ponder fate of Central

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

The fate of Central Middle School -- whether it's worth renovating for more than $6 million and if high school or middle school students will attend classes there -- emerged as a key issue during a public forum Monday night.

About 60 persons attended the forum to discuss the Plymouth-Canton schools' three bond proposals on the ballot March 27. The question-and-answer session, sponsored by the local League of Women Voters, was held at Central Middle School.

Proposition I asks voters to approve $14,623,000 for building improvements and installing energy-management systems in schools throughout the district.

Proposition II, for $7,277,000, is for building additional space at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) and refurbishing and remodeling Central Middle School as a high school.

Proposition III asks voters to OK a one-half mill increase for 10 years for an ongoing maintenance program in the school district.

If your home's market value is $80,000 (assessed at $40,000) then passage of Proposition I would cost $77.60, Proposition II would cost $41.20, and Proposition III would cost $20. The total, if all three proposals are passed, would be an additional $133.10 in school taxes during the first year of the bond proposal.

Board members outlined the consequences of the proposals on the ballot to the audience Monday night. They follow:

If Proposition I passes, but Proposition II is defeated, then Central Middle School will continue to house middle school youngsters. In addition, the Extended School Year (ESY) program would be expanded at the elementary schools for all elementaries except Geer, Tanger, and Starkweather schools, said Board Member Steve Harper. Also, the school board would realign the grades so that the grade structure would be K-6, 7-9, and 10-12. This would relieve crowding at CEP by eliminating ninth-graders there.

Canton boosts funds for emergencies

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Board of Trustees allocated $135,000 for police, emergency preparedness, and crime prevention last Tuesday.

The expenditures represented only about one-quarter of all the funds ($480,781) available from the township's share of federal revenue sharing money.

The rest of the allocations, proposed for such things as park development, industrial development, and new vehicles, was tabled because the unsettled national economy is too unpredictable.

"Let's wait to see how the economy goes," said Trustee Robert Greenstein, arguing for the delay. "Maybe these priorities will be a joke."

Greenstein supported, however, spending money on police and emergency preparedness: "If there is an emergency, like civil strife from a poor economy, we'd be in terrible shape. For example, we have only 20 cots for 50,000 people."

Over the past months, Greenstein has said that a depression and a collapse of civil order are reasonable possibilities.

Tabled were such things as $73,000 to develop industrial property in Canton, $40,000 to improve Flodin Park on Salts Road, $10,000 to renovate Canton Center School to house a township museum and historical society, and $10,000 for the farmland preservation program.

"It would be crazy to pay $40,000 on a park in today's budget circumstances," said Greenstein.

Trustee Carol Bodenmiller objected to the tabling of the farmland preservation expense.

No suspects thus far in mall torch job - police

The investigation of the Penniman Avenue Shops fire has turned up no suspects, Plymouth police report.

The spectacular early morning blaze, which destroyed 13 shops Feb. 13 and caused between $750,000 and $1 million worth of damage, was started by an arsonist, police said.

"We're talking to alot of people," said Lt. Henry Berghoff, who is heading the investigation. "So far I've interviewed about one-half of the shopowners."

The investigation is focusing on insurance and tax records, searching for a possible motive for the arson, Berghoff has said.

"So far there's been nothing pointing toward any individual," said Berghoff.

Besides the interviews, Berghoff said the police have also checked a number of leads and tips called in over the last two weeks. None of them have born fruit, he said.

Tests of the carpet and floor of one of the shops, Reflections Boutique, showed that gasoline had been spread and ignited in the store.

Until more investigation has been done, however, "it's unfair to single that store out," said Plymouth Fire Chief Roy Hall. "We might find that gasoline had been spread elsewhere in the mall."

He added that when the building is razed, possibly this week, more research on the origin of the fire will be done.

Will foundations bail out Canton farm preservation?

BY CHAS CHILD

With the defeat of a bill in the U.S. Congress recently that would have funded Canton's farmland-preservation program, township officials are now eyeing a new source of money: private foundations.

Trustee Robert Greenstein, director of Canton farmland-preservation program, said at last Tuesday's Board of Trustees meeting that six foundations will be approached for funds.

He added that he'd like permission from the board offer to the foundations a portion of the "development rights" of the farmland which the township proposes to buy.

Under Canton's plan, the township government would purchase the rights to develop about 5,000 acres in the western half of the township. The farmer or landowner would still hold title to his land; he simply couldn't sell to a developer to develop it himself.

By offering some of these purchased development rights to a foundation, "We could guarantee that they'd wouldn't lose money," said Greenstein. "Nobody offers foundations guarantees like that."

The trustee also asked the board to authorize money to the township's planning consultants, Wade, Trim & Associates, to create a slide show to present to foundations.

In 1978, the cost of the farmland-preservation program was estimated at $16 million by township officials. Township voters defeated in that year a four-mill request to raise this sum.

After the vote, Greenstein pledged to look beyond township taxpayers for money to fund the program.

This effort was dealt a blow last month when the U.S. House of Representatives defeated the Jeffords Bill, designed to fund pilot farm preservation programs such as Canton's.

Twp. firefighters seek arbitration

After bargaining nearly all day last Monday, Plymouth Township firefighters announced that they will seek arbitration to resolve differences on professional qualifications for firefighters.

Dad dies at meet

An apparent heart attack ended the life of Charles L. Snider, 48, of Canton. He died Saturday while at his son's wrestling match at John Glenn High School in Westland.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, Feb. 27 at 1 p.m. at Uht Memorial Funeral Home, 35400 Glenwood Rd., Westland.

Mr. Snider is survived by his wife, Alma, a teacher in the Wayne-Westland school district; daughter, Cindy Lee; son, Stanley Allen; and parents, Charles and Jeanette Snider.

Firefighters have been working under a contract extension since their old one expired March 31, 1979. Negotiations between firefighters and the township started more than one year ago. The two teams met with a state mediator last Monday.

Emergency Medical Training (EMT) is the only issue that remains to be settled, according to Chuck VanVleck, firefighters' president, and Esther Hulsing, a member of the township's team. The township wants at least 80 per cent of the force -- or 12 firefighters -- with EMT cards that are up-to-date; however, VanVleck said that goal is unnecessary and "too much to expect."

Both Hulsing and VanVleck said that the other issues related to the new contract have, for the most part, been resolved.

It will probably take six weeks to assign an arbitrator from the American Arbitration Association to the case, said VanVleck.

Boy hospitalized after fall from school bannister

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

A seven-year-old boy from Plymouth is in stable condition at St. Mary Hospital's intensive care unit after he fell about 17 feet from a stairway bannister at Starkweather School last Tuesday.

Matthew Klepack, the son of George and Kathleen Klepack, has had three operations since he tumbled over the bannister on the second floor and fell to the first floor. He suffered two fractures on the right side of his skull in the accident.

Surgery was performed last Tuesday and Wednesday to relieve pressure, according to John Howe, principal at Starkweather School. On Sunday, doctors performed a tracheotomy to help Matthew breathe. The plastic tubing which connected him to a respirator was irritating his throat, said Howe.

"Matthew's vital signs are good. he's holding his own and we have to wait and see how he'll come out of it," said Matthew's father. The second grader has been unconscious since the accident, although his father said he responds to touch.

The mishap occurred after the boy had eaten lunch. He returned to the second floor to retrieve his coat before going outside after lunch, Howe recalled. Matthew ran to the top of the stairs and jumped up on the bannister to slide down, said Howe. The he tumbled over the bannister and fell, said

Howe.

Howe said he was in the office talking to a group of fifth graders at the time of the accident. After telling an office worker to call an ambulance, Howe went to the unconscious boy, covered him with a blanket, and checked his breathing. After his arrival, emergency surgery was performed.

"This is a very, very unfortunate incident. We can just say prayers for Matthew," said Howe.

Canton OKs police program to stop subdivision crime

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. So goes the old saw and the philosophy of the Canton Police Department.

The Canton force will start a "neighborhood watch" program next month, designed to help citizens prevent crime.

Last Tuesday, The Board of Trustees funded the pilot program with $35,000 of federal revenue sharing money.

Two police cadets will tour Canton neighborhoods in a van. They will instruct residents on such things as secure door-lock systems, how to protect your auto, and how to spot suspicious vehicles.

"It is designed to prevent the whole gamut of property crimes," said Lt. Larry Stewart of the Canton force.

The van will also be stocked with an engraver to identify citizens' property, and pamphlets and other information on crime prevention.

Stewart said his department is in the process of hiring the cadets. If all goes well, he said, the program could start in early April.

Twp. trustee recovering

Plymouth Township Trustee Barbara Lynch is in good condition at Providence Hospital following surgery last Tuesday. Doctors removed a tumor which was attached to her liver. "It was definitely benign," reported Lynch Monday afternoon.

She doesn't know when she'll be coming home. Well-wishers can send her cards at Providence Hospital, Room 245, Southfield.

City takes next step to erect Weidman deck and hotel

BY DAN VALENTINE

The Plymouth City Commission voted Monday night to lease the Weidman Parking Lot to the city's Economic Development Corporation, paving the way for the eventual construction of a parking deck and hotel on the site.

Under a proposal endorsed by Plymouth City Manager Henry E. Graper at the meeting, the EDC would lease the property to Ralph Lorenz, owner of the downtown Mayflower Hotel, for between $7,000 and $9,000 per year.

Lorenz would then be free to construct a 40-room expansion of the Mayflower Hotel on a parking deck over the lot.

Graper stated that the project would be "a terrific addition to the city. It would transform Plymouth into a mini-convention center," he added.

Commissioner Karl Gansler said that "there have been many times when Plymouth has lost a convention because of inadequate facilities. This proposal could solve that."

Phony ads sold

Plymouth police are warning local businesses that imposters are soliciting advertisements in the name of city police and firefighters.

"I want businesses to know that we aren't doing this," said Barb Carpenter, of the Plymouth police. "I won't be calling businesses for ads in our annual book until around Easter."

If you receive a suspicious solicitation for an ad, call the Plymouth police, 453-1234, she said.

So far, about six businesses have been called by the imposters, but no money has been lost, she added.

City to fight Detroit's rule of Wayne County

BY DAN VALENTINE

The Plymouth City Commission is considering joining a consortium in order to fight reapportionment of Wayne County under the 1970 census.

Along with other Detroit suburbs in Wayne County, Plymouth would pledge five cents per capita -- approximately $590 -- in order to file a law suit to prevent such reapportionment.

Wayne County's government is slated to be reorganized through the appointment of a charter commission, which would draft a new county charter and decide, among other things, whether the county will be run by an elected or appointed official.

The members of the commission are to be appointed to each Wayne County district on the basis of population. This apportionment is to be carried out by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

If reapportionment is carried out under the 1970 census, according to Plymouth City Manager Henry E. Graper, "Wayne County would be a county run by Detroit."

Members of the consortium contend that, since 1970, population in Wayne County has shifted so that the out-county area now holds a majority. Therefore, they prefer using the 1980 census for reapportionment.

The 1980 census, however, cannot be used until after it is certified on Jan. 1, 1981.

The out-county, therefore, is attempting to block the Wayne County Board of Commissioners from acting on reapportionment until at least that time.

According to Graper, the out-county needs to attract two additional votes on the commission in order to delay the action.

If reapportionment cannot be blocked and is carried out under the 1970 census, members of the consortium would then take to the courts.

Twp. eyes salary bd.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees was expected to pass the second reading of the Compensation Commission, which will establish the salaries of elected officials, at Tuesday night's meeting.

The first reading of the ordinance was passed last Tuesday night. Two readings are required before the ordinance is adopted.

In addition, the board was expected to appoint five township residents to the commission. They are: Frank Millington, a former township trustee; Jack Bologna, a management consultant with George Odioine Association; John Kenny, a labor consultant for the Chrysler Corp.; Thomas O'Connell, a service specialist for the marketing staff of Ford Motor Co.; and Robert Barbour, vice-president for the National Bank of Detroit. Terms for offices will be five years.

Serving as an information resource person is Ned Sturton, a labor negotiator.

The commission will determine the salaries of elected officials, however, the board of trustees can reject the commission's recommended salaries by a two-thirds vote. If the recommendation is rejected, the salary would stay at its present level.

Also, the commission may be asked by the township board to review the salaries of non-union employees and make a recommendation to the board. The board, however, would set the salaries of non-union employees.

Chief Straley moves again

A former City of Plymouth police chief, Herbert Straley, recently quit as chief of Lakeland, Fla.'s police department.

Straley was Plymouth's chief from 1968 through 1971, when he left to become police chief of State College, Pa.

According to The Ledger newspaper of Lakeland, no specific reason was given for Straley's resignation.

Lakeland City Manager Bob Youkey was quoted in The Ledger as saying Straley was brought to Lakeland six years ago "to reorganize the department. He has done that, and did a good job, but it is time for the department to move in a new direction."

Twp. OKs Hilltop plans

Plymouth Township trustees OK'd spending $28,000 for construction drawings and specifications for the expansion of the Hilltop Golf Course at last Tuesday night's meeting.

Treasurer Joe West cast the only dissenting vote in the motion.

The township purchased 33 acres of land adjacent to the golf course last spring. Current plans call for expanding the Hilltop's nine holes into an 18-hole golf course.

The method of financing the expansion is still uncertain. The majority of members of the golf course committee said the drawings should be completed even if the township doesn't have the money to finish the job entirely.

West, however, took an opposing view, saying that the township's only budget surplus is in the Water and Sewer Department. "We still don't know where we can get the money to finance this expansion."

He wants the township to get a legal opinion from the township attorney on whether the money could be borrowed from the Water and Sewer Department.

The township is also considering applying for federal assistance to fund the expansion.

The motion to spend $28,000 for drawings was approved by a 5-1 vote. Trustee Barb Lynch was absent.

Apts. must be built in 2 years

The Plymouth City Commission has voted that a parcel of land which it recently rezoned from heavy industrial to multiple family will revert to its former zoning status if it is not used within two years.

The parcel in question, which is located south of Ann Arbor Trail and west of General Drive, was rezoned by the commission at its Feb. 19 meeting.

The action had been requested by Kal Jabara, who was speaking for Wedgewood Associates, which plans to construct 145 two-bedroom apartments on the site.

Township truck ban arrives

A traffic ordinance banning trucks from Haggerty and Canton Center roads in Plymouth Township was passed by township trustees

Trucks which usually travel on Haggerty will be rerouted to Lilley; trucks which go down Canton Center can now use Sheldon Road, according to the ordinance.

The ordinance was prompted by Haggerty road residents who complained about the noise the trucks made as they traveled on residential roads.

Supervisor Tom Notebaert will be in charge of making sure the ordinance is enforced.

and it became effective starting Feb. 28, said Clerk Esther Hulsing. The ordinance was passed unanimously by trustees.

If Edward Wendover, publisher of the Crier, was reporting on a major national event, would he expect the President of the United States to parade before us the secretaries of State, Defense, Treasury, and others for their input during a press conference? Each secretary relating how his department evaluated a particular crisis.

Apparently so, as he criticized (Plymouth) City Manager Henry Graper for usurping the authority of his departments heads during his handling of the press conference, concerning the investigation of the fire at the Penniman Avenue Shops.

While the recent fire in Plymouth hardly compares to a major national event, it was of paramount importance to Plymouth area residents. Especially after learning that the fire was the result of arson.

Mr. Wendover is suggesting that the announcement of the results of the fire investigation should have been jointly handled by the fire and police chiefs. Why not involve the head of the DPW, the tax assessor, the State fire marshal, Consumers Power, Edison, and various insurance investigators? Each was involved in the investigation.

While getting bits of information from many different sources might make for a "juicier" story, it doesn't provide for more accurate reporting. The reason we employ a city manager is to coordinate and provide leadership for the many city departments, and to report to city residents a complete and factual account of their activities.

This Mr. Graper did. If Mr. Wendover is unhappy with the information provided during the press conference, I doubt that anyone is preventing him from further investigation.

If Wendover wishes to report on a governmental system where the various department heads "run the show," without leadership from the top, I suggest that he take his pad and pencil to Wayne County governmental meetings and leave us in Plymouth to our more efficient form of government.

With Malice Toward None

Why is it that most folks believe a Chamber of Commerce couldn't organize a one-basket picnic?

That unfortunate state of events applies to both the local chambers as well -- the Plymouth Community Chamber and the Canton Chamber.

Hampered by turnovers, multi-layered committees (you probably know the giraffe is a horse built by a committee) and a general organizational failure created by the diversity of their memberships, chambers are often known for less-than-stellar performances.

The directionless plodding by what could potentially be a powerful force in the Plymouth-Canton Communities is the singlemost reason for the criticisms levelled by members and non-members alike. Many businesses ask, "What do I get for my membership in the chamber?" They join anyway because of the community support, but feel it's like tossing money down the drain.

In hopes to counter the problem, the Plymouth Chamber is scheduling a session at 8 a.m. this Saturday in City Hall "to combine ideas relevant to the expectations and functioning of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce." Not that anyone can expect immediate results from such a brainstorming session, but maybe it's a step in the right direction.

But after years of disorganization, the chambers need quantum leaps -- not just steps -- in the right direction.

Comparison of school test scores is misleading

EDITOR:

The recent article by Patricia Bartold about the Plymouth-Canton results in the state tests left me wondering why anything "well-above average" is considered a "high score."

These tests reflect participation of some large Michigan school districts with well-documented poor performance. Any comparison to "average" is grossly misleading.

More responsible journalism would be the publication and analysis of the actual results so your readers could compare Plymouth-Canton with districts that produce superior results and then challenge our board, administrators, and education to attain similar performance.

THOMAS P. KELLIHER

Child's play

by Chas Child

If you were the major stockholder of a $8-million corporation with 150 employees, would you put it in the hands of amateurs? Of course not. You'd hire a professional executive, with financial and managerial experience.

In effect, the citizens of Canton are its stockholders. Yet no professional has been hired to manage the township government.

Fortunately, a group of Cantonites has started a drive to alter the township's government to provide for a township manager. It's an effort that's long past due.

The present government was designed for small, rural townships. It's a holdover from horse-and-buggy days. It simply can't keep up with the changes that have not only transformed Canton, but the role of local government everywhere.

For example, virtually all of Canton's employees are in unions, which are placing more and more demands on the administration. Federal rules are becoming more burdensome. With the Headlee amendment and the general economic crunch, township finances are becoming more complicated.

And let's not forget Canton itself. In 10 years, it has more than quadrupled in population. Efficiently operating a government of a community pushing 50,000 is a complicated task.

Add to this the special projects, such as farmland preservation, that township officials are attempting to tackle, and you have an even longer row to hoe.

All of this leads to this conclusion: A professional manager is needed to keep a firm hand on the tiller. If you're skeptical, come to a Board of Trustees meeting.

The seven board members spend hours hashing over managerial questions that could be handled in minutes with a recommendation from a township manager. Take the question of whether to hire a new clerk for the tax department or simply transfer one from the building department. The board's debate dragged on and on. And one got the impression that some of the trustees had little idea of what they were talking about. Few are experts on staffing or management.

Free from such haggling with a township manager, the board could grasp its true mission: establishing public policy.

Now, issues that truly need political direction from the elected officials are being neglected. The township's sign ordinance was a good example. It took the board months and months to agree on how signs would look in the township. Merchants were unnecessarily delayed with their plans because the board was bogged down in managerial minutiae.

Another side effect of the board's muddling is the gunshy behavior of township department heads. Trying to please seven different bosses (the board members) forces them to keep a low profile. Effective management requires them to stick their necks out on a decision once and a while. You don't see that much because the board doesn't hesitate to pick them apart publicly.

The board should stick to forming policy and leave its execution to a township manager trained in public management.

So I wholeheartedly support Bart Berg's efforts to bring a manager to Canton. I hope the board of trustees listens to him.

David, 9, and Penny, 10. Leaning on the couch is Clyde, 11. Seated are Kim, 7, Ambrose, 14, Gina, 3, David Cruz holding Gina, 3, and Charlene Cruz with Brandon, 1, in her arms. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Eight is enough for David and Charlene Cruz

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Eight IS enough, say David and Charlene Cruz of Canton, the parents of eight kids, four of whom are adopted.

With coloring books and a checker game scattered around the living room floor of their three-bedroom, ranch home, the living quarters have "the lived-in look." The home thrives on informality -- with undertones of discipline.

On a cold Sunday morning in the fall of 1978, the story of the adoption of the four Canadian-Indian children began. A Canadian television station which regularly airs a program on adoption featured on these four youngsters, who now range in age from 10 to 14.

Agencies were having a hard time finding a home for these kids because the siblings didn't want to be separated.

Mrs. Cruz could identify with that dilemma easily. "I didn't want to see them separated either," she says today. However, it's not easy to find a household that can add four without major adjustments.

After discussion, David and Charlene Cruz decided they could do it. They began filling out adoption papers. Because Mr. Cruz has a Mexican-Indian heritage, the Cruzes thought the youngsters would fit in well. Nearly a year later, they made the 1,200 mile trip to Dryden, Ontario to pick the children up and bring them home.

The Cruz brood now ranges from one to 14 years old. Aside from normal "sibling" rivalry, the children get along well, says Mrs. Cruz. "Oh, they fight, but don't all kids?" she says.

Household chores have become a family affair. The kids clean their rooms, vacuum, and make their beds. "We're all part of a team -- the Cruz team," says mom, an easy-going woman who laughs readily.

Responsibilities for the children are shared, according to Mrs. Cruz. "It's not only a woman's job to take care of the kids. It's a man's job, too." Mr. Cruz works the midnight shift at the Dearborn plant of the Ford Motor Company as a steel worker.

Luckily enough, he says, he doesn't require much sleep. He gets home from work at about the same time the last set of youngsters is heading out the door for school. The two oldest boys, Ambrose and Ben, attend East Middle School; the four younger kids, David, Penny, Clyde, and Kim, go to Fiegel School. Gina, 3, and Brandon, 14 months, stay at home.

A normal school day begins at 6:30 a.m. with the call to reveille. Breakfast is eaten in three shifts, dinner in two. By 9 a.m., all the kids are off to school and they return by 3 or 4 p.m. They do their homework, finish their chores, eat dinner around 6 p.m.

and are tucked into bed around 9.

Oh, yes, it does require patience, says Mrs. Cruz. "And I never stop doing the laundry. I have a perpetual pile of it."

Because it's hard to find a babysitter for eight children, family activities are stressed -- going to the park or the library. Or setting up the sound projector and movie screen and watching cartoons at home.

"We simply take it (raising the children) as it comes. We don't look at the difficulties involved; we just can't look at things negatively. We want all the kids to grow up to be responsible citizens," says Mrs. Cruz.

The recent Glimpse at Yesterday feature on the old Brinks Farmhouse brought in much response. Helen Taylor, Liz Ramsey and John Vernier (the latter a Manley, Bennett, McDonald broker) helped The Crier track down Brinks family members and told us the house, which sat on Ann Arbor Road, served as a stop on the Underground Railroad during the Civil War. Further information on the house will appear in a future edition of The Crier.

Lisa Cross: district's best speller

LISA CROSS AND MIKE BRUNER

After 673 words were spelled by students from grades five through eight, Lisa Cross, an eighth grader from East Middle School, became the 1980 spelling champion of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Finalists from across the school district competed at Central Middle School Wednesday morning.

Two students from each grade from the four middle schools and two fifth graders from Allen, Bird, Eriksoon, Isbister, Tanger, and Geer Elementary Schools took part in the final spelling bee. They had all won the preliminary competitions in their own schools.

In second place was Mike Bruner, grade six of East Middle School, with Jill Savage, grade 7 of Pioneer Middle School third. The top fifth grader was Jennifer Croll of Allen Elementary School.

To win the championship, Lisa had to spell correctly the word "premonition," which tripped up Mike, and then also spell her own word, "malingerer." Jill went out on "tassel".

Judges for the spelling bee were John Telford, executive director of secondary education; Bill Bartlett, teacher at East; and Arlene DeForest, Central Middle School teacher. Coordination was provided by Brian Kidston, assistant principal of Central.

On hand to congratulate the winners were John M. Hoben, superintendent of schools; and Carol Davis, member of the Board of Education.

Finalists in the spelling bee were:

Grade five, Jennifer Croll and Tricia Short, Allen Elementary; Kathy Brown and Susan Cole, Bird Elementary; Kristin Sobditch and Jeffrey Tsacoumangos, Eriksson Elementary; Jenifer Parvin and Marie Crandall, Isbister Elementary; Kevin Seals and Patty Bessler, Tanger Elementary; Wendy His, Lara Bieckschmidt, and Eileen Vacher, Geer Elementary.

Grade six, Stacy Werner and Mike Bruner, East; Sue Kivon and Dave Zdeb, West; Erica Bashor and Marcel Leahu, Pioneer; Paul Makara and Kevin Pint, Central.

Grade seven, Wendy Aquilina and Herdi Jamera, East; Jenny Jenkins and Bill Keros, West; Jill Savage and Rachel Jean, Pioneer; Kari Amador and Erin Boughton, Central. Grade eight, Lisa Cross and Jenni Walsh, East; Brenda Vanark and Kevin Ebmeyer, West; Gina Firreno and Cecilia Haro, Pioneer; Warren Kaericher and Min Sung, Central.

tell it to Phyllis

The definition of a parent is father, mother, or the cause of something, according to the dictionary. Nowhere does it say anything about servant, cook, or chauffeur.

As parents, we want our kids to have everything -- they should get top grades in school, take piano lessons, be popular with the other kids, be able to play in all sports, as well as be involved in many other activities.

Why do we want all this for our kids?

All it causes is a conflict in schedules, indigestion, and $30 worth of gas a week. I sometimes wonder if it's all worth it, but I haven't found time to give it much thought. Besides, I've heard, "It keeps them out of trouble." (Does that mean the kids or their parents?)

What a sigh of relief it is when you finally come to the end of a season in sports. Basketball was very rewarding this year. The kid and I both learned a little about the game, and made a lot of new friends. On the last day of regular play, the boys and their families celebrated with a pizza party.

Then it's on to the tournaments, where the Cougars won the first game (which meant yet another practice), then they won the next game, (another practice) and there they go again, winning another game. Suddenly there they were in the final play-off game.

(Tension ran high the morning of the big game. The kid was up at 7 a.m. (the coach said to eat breakfast early). However, the coach didn't offer to come over and cook it, and since it was Saturday, the kid had to be satisfied with do it yourself cold cereal. Not only was I a rotten mother who wouldn't cook a three course breakfast at that hour, but I also refused to crawl out from under the nice warm covers, get dressed, and go down stairs and move the car so he could practice shooting baskets outside in eight below temperature.

Finally after hours of harassment, we made it to the game. The game got off to a slow start -- we missed a basket, then we missed another (I'm sure the kids weren't nearly as up tight as their parents were, watching from the sidelines. But when the horn blew and the game was over, we were on top -- the tournament champions!

Yea Cougars! We couldn't let all that excitement go to waste, so why not have an impromptu victory party. There I was, inviting all the kids and parents over to my house, forgetting that it hadn't been cleaned in weeks. Oh well, cleaning house has never appeared on my list of qualities.

As the parents sat around rehashing the season, we realized we have a two week break before soccer starts, and we just finished signing them up for baseball following that. I'm not sure what we (kids and parents) are learning from all this, but I think we're having a good time.

Bill Heiney, a 79 graduate of Salem High School, performed a magic show last Saturday, March 1 at Westland Mall. The son of Peg and Charles Heiney of Apple-tree in Plymouth, Bill has been working on children's magic shows since he was 13 years old. He is currently a student at Schoolcraft College.

Students at Central Middle School held a talent show last week. About 100 students performed in a variety of acts which included singing, dancing, skits, commercials, gymnastics, musical instruments, and a rock group. Margo Panko was the director, assisted by Laurie Welsh, a student teacher. Other teachers who helped were: Dee Foreman, Kim Belles, Diane Gustin, Sheryle Rippee, Fred Bersche, and Brian Kidston.

Twp. hunt ban reconsidered

A proposal to ban hunting throughout Plymouth Township may be given a shot in the arm yet.

On Monday, March 17 at 10 a.m., members of a committee which studied the hunting ban will meet again with Bruce Andrews, a representative of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The committee will re-evaluate its recommendation to ban hunting east of Ridge Road and south of M-14.

Currently, hunting is banned east of Beck Road. Some township residents favored a ban throughout the entire township because of new subdivisions under construction in the western portion of the township.

Last Tuesday night, trustees reluctantly passed a resolution in favor of the committee's recommendation. "I'm dissatisfied, but what recourse do we have? If this recommendation is rejected by the board, then we'll be stuck with the current policy," said Trustee Lee Fidge.

"Let's accept the compromise and hope for the best," commented Treasurer Joe West. Clerk Esther Hulsing and Supervisor Tom Notebaert also recommended that the board OK the extension of the hunting ban and then continue working toward getting it banned throughout the township. Serving on the committee were a representative from DNR, Michigan State Police, Wayne County Sheriffs, and Notebaert.

Furthermore, the board encouraged homeowners to post "No Trespassing" signs on their property.

community deaths

Harold Compton dead at 87

Harold R. Compton, 87, a long-time Plymouth resident, died Feb. 22. Funeral services were held Feb. 26 at the First Baptist Church of Plymouth with Dr. William Stahl, pastor, officiating. Burial was at Glen Eden Cemetery. Arrangements were made by Schrader Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions can be made to the Mission Fund of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth.

Mr. Compton is survived by four daughters, Helen Wallace of Plymouth, Catherine Sherrick of Northville, Doris Close of Plymouth, Jeanné Mettetal of Plymouth; 11 grandchildren; and 21 great-grandchildren.

He was born May 21, 1892 in Palo, the only child of Henry C. and Lottie (Minier) Compton.

Mr. Compton moved to Plymouth in 1917 with his parents, wife, and two small daughters. Two more daughters were born in Plymouth. He came here to work with his father in the Millard Bugle Company. His uncle, Frank Millard, a well-known musician, organized the instrument-manufacturing plant to make bugles for the military during World War I. Other residents with them were Herb Goyer, Frank Henderson and Henry Hondor.

The original Plymouth Band was assembled at that time, with Mr. Millard as director. They gave Saturday Night Band Concerts in Kellogg Park and during parades, Mr. Compton was the clown with the tuba. Music was important in his life and he continued actively with the band until 1923.

After the war, Mr. Compton went to work for H. S. Lee at the foundry on Mill Street. He was a pattern maker, and designed and cast the barbecue stoves that were installed in Hines Park in the early 30s. The H. S. Lee symbol marks these items, some of which may still be found.

He was foundry superintendent there until the fire in 1933, continuing as superintendent with the rebuilt Universal Power Sprayer Company, a producer of orchard sprayers.

He joined the First Baptist Church at the original Mill Street location in 1936 and was married there to his second wife Mildred LeFever, in 1937. They were in choir and other church activities with Mr. Compton serving on the mission board, as deacon, superintendent, teacher and lay preacher.

During World War II, he was foreman of the reorganized Universal Stamping and machine Company, engaged with war contracts.

In 1960 his company was dissolved, forcing "early" retirement, at 68. He then served for a time as a consultant for several small machine shops in Southfield. He helped friends and family as a painter, carpenter, electrical, plumber, and all-around handyman. He had a garden and canned much of his own produce.

He was deacon emeritus, teacher of The Loyal Daughters Class and mission treasurer in the First Baptist Church. He played "Abraham" in a recent pageant.

Dunn

Charles T. Dunn, 59, of Canton, died Feb. 23 at his home. Funeral services were held Feb. 26 at St. John Neumann Church with The Rev. Fr. Edward J. Baldwin officiating. Burial was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Arrangements were made by Lambert Funeral Home.

He is survived by his wife, Genevieve; daughters, Kathryn Jobbitt and Deborah Becker of Canton and Karen Korkko of Alta Loma Cal.; sisters, Mary Bunetta of East Detroit, Helen Pescatello of Arcadia Cal., and Eleanor; brothers, Abraham of Livonia and Fred of Detroit and four grandchildren.

Mr. Dunn was a service technician for General Electric.

Polley

Regina Margaret Polley, 79, of Plymouth, died Feb. 24 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Funeral services were held Feb. 27 at Schrader Funeral Home with The Rev. Frank B. Smith officiating. Burial was at Riverside Cemetery.

She is survived by her niece, Regina A. Polley of Plymouth and her sister-in-law, Florence Loughman of Plymouth.

Ms. Polley was a former secretary for the railroad for 54 years, a member of the Plymouth Historical Society, and a lifelong resident of Plymouth.

Memorial contributions can be made to the Plymouth Historical Society.

Will Canton get self-serve gas?

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton's Board of Trustees delayed an ordinance to permit self-serve gasoline stations in the township -- but not for long.

Supervisor Noel Culbert proposed the ordinance, which would lift the current ban on self-serve stations.

But Trustee Robert Greenstein persuaded the board to postpone adoption of Culbert's new ordinance. He said the planning commission should set aside, through zoning, certain parcels for full-service stations only.

The board gave the township's Planning Commission three weeks to review such a proposal and return it to the trustees for adoption.

"I'm asking you not to pass this (Culbert's ordinance) until the planning commission can figure out a way to zone for service stations," said Greenstein.

The trustee said that if the ban on self-serve were lifted, only computerized-pump stations with no service bays would be built.

"Every gas company will convert to self-service, and your wife will be stuck some night with no place to fix a fan belt," said Greenstein. "Give zoning a chance, and then give them (the residents) the right to pump gas."

Culbert's proposed ordinance would not permit self-serve only stations. Stations must provide attendants to pump gas for customers if they request it, under his proposal.

A number of persons told Greenstein that his proposal represents too much interference in private enterprise.

"It is not the function of this body (the board of trustees) to be a market regulator," said attorney Norman Hyman, representing Total Gasoline Company. "Should we ban 7-Eleven stores because they don't provide a full range of groceries?"

"If there is a need in the township for service stations, then the free enterprise system will provide them," added Trustee Stephen Larson.

Culbert said that the current ordinance that bans self-serve pumps has not encouraged the construction of full-service stations. Not one such station has been built, he said, since the ban was passed during Greenstein's term as supervisor, 1974-76.

Culbert brought his ordinance before the board six months ago. The board referred it to the planning commission, asking it to prepare the zoning for full-service stations.

The planning commission, however, failed to review the full-service zoning plan, and so Culbert brought his ordinance back to the board.

"We had a heck of a lot of items besides this gas zoning item to cover," said Trustee Carol Bodenmiller, who also sits on the planning commission. "Give us more time to see if we can work out the zoning."

The planning commission is tentatively scheduled to review the matter at its March 10 meeting, said the commission's secretary, Doris Kelley. And the board is scheduled to review their work at its March 11 meeting, she said.

Canton trustee hits Culbert's criticism of planners

BY CHAS CHILD

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert's complaint that the Planning Commission had delayed action on an ordinance to regulate gasoline stations in the township was "unwarranted, undeserved, and uncalled for," said Trustee Carol Bodenmiller.

Also a member of the planning commission, Bodenmiller said the commission has worked long and hard on more important matters, specifically a new zoning ordinance for the township.

"Culbert has not placed his priorities in the right order," said Bodenmiller.

The supervisor's criticism came at last Tuesday's Board of Trustee's meeting, in which he pushed approval of an ordinance to permit self-serve gas stations in Canton. They are banned now.

Culbert made an identical proposal six months ago, but the board delayed action on it to give the planning commission time to prepare an ordinance that would set aside certain parcels, through zoning, for full-service stations.

Without this zoning protection, said Trustee Robert Greenstein, petroleum companies would only build the most profitable type of station -- self-serve.

The planning commission, however, did not tackle Greenstein's proposal during the six months and so Culbert brought his ordinance back before the board last Tuesday.

After a suggestion to delay action on his ordinance again and return it to the planning commission, Culbert objected. He said the commission already was given six months and that it spent too much time dissecting minor issue of the zoning ordinance.

"Culbert's statements were particularly uncalled for since the board had just gotten done with wasting hours on discussing the revenue-sharing budget," said Bodenmiller. As chairman, Culbert should run the board meetings with more order, she said.

"The planning commission is run in an organized and respectful way," she said. "We don't always agree, but we have respect for each other's opinions."

Culbert should also prevent, for example, Greenstein from leaving his seat during board discussions, which he did last Tuesday and has done at other meetings. "If I were chairman and Bob (Greenstein) left his seat, I would stop the meeting until he got the point."

Culbert's criticism also bodes ill for the new zoning ordinance, which will guide land use throughout the township, said Bodenmiller. "I'm afraid it won't pass," she said.

"One heck of a lot has been accomplished in the new ordinance," she said.

DeHoCo to be renovated

BY JACQUELYNN BOYLE

Renovation of the women's facilities of the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo) is well under way and should be completed sometime in June, a spokesman for the State Department of Corrections said.

"We (the state) are now the proud owners of the facility," said Bill Kime, a deputy director for the department. "We acquired it last year after it had been abandoned and closed when the women were moved to the Huron Valley facilities."

Kime said the buildings, located on Five Mile Road in Northville Township, had some structural damages and needed new plumbing and paint. In addition, workers are installing a new double electronic security fence. When repairs are completed, it will house medium security female inmates on a temporary basis.

Chiefs take district win

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Canton rolled over Garden City West 41-18 in the second half Monday night to post a 70-41 win in the opening game of the district competition to advance to the semi-final round against Wayne Memorial Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. at the Canton gym.

The Chiefs, who now have won 10 straight games for a 15-6 overall record, started slowly against the smaller Garden City squad and trailed 10-9 at the end of the first quarter, despite seven points from forward Brad Westin.

In the second quarter, co-captain Scott Adler got hot for the Chiefs, firing in 10 points in the eight minutes to power Canton to a 29-23 halftime advantage.

"In the second half we wanted to work the ball inside on them more," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "They are a much smaller team than us and they elected to slow the game down. We needed better ball movement."

Ball movement is exactly what the Canton coach got in the third quarter. Leading 31-27, the Chiefs struck for seven straight points and a 38-27 lead and then scored the last six points of the stanza to lead 47-33 going into the final quarter.

Canton continued to dominate, scoring the first seven points to build up a 21-point bulge and then outscored West 16-8 the rest of the way for the win.

"I'm glad that game is over," said Bell. "They played the best they could with what they had and their kids played hard. We played tough defense and had a balanced team effort. Everybody contributed."

Adler paved the way for the Chiefs with 16 points, followed closely behind by Westin with 15 points and Dave Visser with 14. Sean Houle rounded off the balanced scoring attack with 12 points, the Chiefs also getting four points each from Dave Malek and Dave Ursa.

Wayne Memorial should give Canton a tougher game Thursday when the two teams square off. Wayne carries a 13-6 record into the tournament.

"They are a tall team, with a lot of good athletes," said Bell. "I think we will be able to match up well with them and it should be a good game."

In the other semi-final game, Canton's CEP neighbor Salem will face the winner of last night's Westland John Glenn - Garden City East contest beginning at 8 p.m. The winner of those two games will play each other in the finale Saturday, with an early 1:30 p.m. starting time.

Gymnasts 4th at league

BY MIKE HENSHAW

The Canton gymnastics team placed fourth out of 11 teams at the Northwest Suburban gymnastics league meet held Saturday at North Farmington high school.

The meet was won by North Farmington, which was not entirely unexpected, according to Canton coach John Cunningham.

"It is like entering the lion's den trying to win a gymnastics meet against North Farmington at the North Farmington gym," he said. "I felt that Bloomfield Hills Andover did as good a job and were certainly a lot closer than three points away. The judges were probably intimidated by the home crowd and that's why their scores were higher than they might normally have been."

Kathy Temple of North Farmington won the floor exercising, uneven bar, and balance beam events in placing first overall and Sue Ann Cacicillo, also of North Farmington, won the vaulting event.

"I'm not taking anything away from their girls, Kathy and Sue Ann were really fired up and did a super job," said Cunningham. "They deserved to win. It's just that the judges all know Kathy and her capabilities and her scores were too high in comparison to that of our girls, because our girls are still pretty much unknown."

Cunningham felt that with more neutral judging his team could have finished second or third, having told his girls going into the meet that there was no way they would beat North Farmington at North Farmington.

"Although it would have been nice to take home a trophy, what we're gearing up for is the regionals," Cunningham continued. "With better judges and our depth we should do pretty well."

Canton, which compiled a team score of 87.30, was lead by Laura Michalik's composite 29.60 score, good for seventh place overall. Michalik finished fourth on the bars (7.65) and in vaulting (7.75).

Laurie Beale placed eighth overall with a 29.25 score, coming in sixth in floor exercising (8.20), eighth on the beam (7.35), and tenth in vaulting (7.45).

Katy Heaton rounded off the Canton scoring with an eighth-place, 28.45 showing. Heaton finished seventh on the beam (7.55) and sixth in vaulting (7.65).

"The girls turned in fine performances," said Cunningham. "However, I think they will do a lot better at the regionals."

The regionals will be held Saturday at Ann Arbor Pioneer, where Cunningham expects Wayne, Pioneer, and Ann Arbor Huron to be Canton's toughest competition.

Rock wrestlers fourth at state finals

Four premium wrestling teams battled for the state Class A wrestling title last weekend at Lansing Eastern. The home favorite Plymouth Salem was in the fight right until the end but as it turned out the Rocks could only achieve a fourth place.

Davison was first with 90 points, while the Rocks had 72 points. Temperence Bedford was second with 87½, while Hazel Park had 81.

"We were so close but it just was not to be," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "We didn't score when it came to the finals and got edged out."

Senior Mark Ross at 126 pounds was Salem's best finish with a second place. Ross defeated Keith Masters, of Rochester Adams, Mark Stafford, of Centerline and Max Lint, of Traverse City, to reach the finals. In that match Rick Burns of Davison beat Ross 8-0, although it took an overtime for that to happen.

Salem kept in the competition with a strong showing on Friday but was unable to keep up the pace through the final day.

Jim Schultz at 105 pounds lost to Robert Jackson of Lansing Eastern to gain a fourth place for the Rocks, while Jeff Brown placed sixth after losing to Chris Passalacqua of Warren Cousino. Brown wrestled at 112 pounds.

At 119 pounds, Salem's Jeff Dunson lost his first match but came back with a victory in his second match and finally was knocked out by Brad Wilkinson of Hazel Park.

Jerry Valchine split his four matches for the Rocks. He opened with a win and ended with a defeat to Randy Hood of East Kentwood.

"That was a tough loss for us. I thought Jerry was in the top three in the state. It hurt us a little," said Krueger.

Senior Jeff Powers, at 185 pounds fought his way to a fourth place with a tournament record of four wins and two defeats. He beat, George Schultz, of Southfield Lathrup, Erickson, Troy Athens, Matingly, Hazel Park, and Guy Barcroft, Lansing Sexton.

Greg Gattoni, Salem's heavyweight beat Frank Jackson of Hazel Park and Keith Patton of Waterford Kettering before suffering two defeats.

In the fight for fifth and sixth place in that weight, Gattoni went against Patton but ripped his knee early in the match and defaulted. Gattoni had beaten Patton once that day.

Rock cagers knocked by Bentley 52-51

"That's a Salem-Bentley basketball game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann last Friday after his charges fell to Livonia Bentley in their final game of the season, 52-51.

Kurt Thorderson went to the foul line for Bentley with four seconds left to play and the score tied 51-51, and sank one of two attempts to give the Bulldogs the last minute victory.

The game was pretty well deadlocked through all four quarters with each team producing one or two spurts that could have blown the contest wide open.

The Rocks started fast and went ahead 11-4 halfway into the first quarter behind seven points by Howard Monk. The Salem offense looked impressive in that period.

That was not the case in quarter two. The Rocks stalled and the Bulldogs fought back with fury taking the lead for the first time at 16-15 midway in the period.

Bentley built on that edge and went into the lockerroom at the half in front, 29-20. Though the Bentley fans thought Salem was dead that just wasn't the case.

The Rocks came on hard in the third quarter and snatched the lead right back with a spurt of their own. By the end of the period the Rocks were in front 38-32.

Defense was the key to Salem's strong showing in the quarter as the squad held Bentley to just three points.

"We had a very good first and third periods," said Thomann. "We played with that kind of intensity needed to beat Bentley. The great thing about this game is that its the nearest thing to a tournament type game but unlike the tournament games if you lose you still have another chance."

In the fourth quarter, Salem again started off in the dominating position taking a 40-36 lead by the 5:15 mark of the period. At 3:26 the story was different with Bentley back on top 45-44.

From that point it was a fight to the end. Monk fouled out with 2:38 left to play and the score tied 47-47.

Eagles reach regionals

The Plymouth Christian Eagles withstood a very determined but depleted team from Grace Bible Academy of Ann Arbor, and became the Great Lakes District Champs last Monday night.

This earned them a trip to Indiana to compete in the Mid-West regional tournament sponsored by the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI) held February 29 through March 1.

Plymouth retained its lead in this championship game with a strong defensive effort. Leading the way for Plymouth was Brad Mangan with 9 points while 3 other players, Mike Routledge, Darrell Wheeler, and George Matthews each contributed 5 points apiece.

Plymouth is scheduled to play Black hawk Christian of Ft. Wayne, Indiana in the first round Friday night at 6:00 p.m. at Grace College in Winona Lake, Indiana.

WHOLESALE VS RETAIL LAND
In the normal marketplace, there are two price levels - wholesale and retail. The purchase and sale of raw land is no different. A review of the sales price history of any large parcel of land will show abrupt little jumps as the acreage is subdivided and sold off in smaller lots.

Much of this increase is due to the cost of improvements such as sewers, streets, sidewalks, and utilities. But increases of this sort are also due to the wholesale/retail marketing structure of the world. Therefore, consider bulk buying of land at a wholesale level a good way to buy. It may take the pooling of several financial sources (partners, for example). But if ten acres are available for $5,000 per acre, then forty acres may be available for $4,000 per acre if you are buying from one seller.

Conversely, assemblage, which is the act of buying a group of small parcels to make up one large parcel, can prove very costly because the buyer will have to pay retail prices.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main St. Plymouth. Phone: 455-8400. We're here to help.

Salem's swimming depth prevails

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Salem's greater team depth proved to be too much for Canton as the Rocks downed the Chiefs 98-74 in Thursday night's CEP swimming showdown.

In four events Chief swimmers placed first but Rock swimmers came in second and third to either win or tie the event in overall team points for Salem.

"I had to make some changes going into the meet because we needed to go after some second-third finishes to beat Canton," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "Everybody equalled their best times -- it was a great win in front of the large turnout we had."

Canton won the 200-yard medley relay, the team of Jeff Seippel, Paul Petersen, Ron Hurley, and Jeff Rice combining for a 1:45.43 clocking. Salem's tandem of Bruce Harwood, Jeff Stella, Dave Hopper, and Doug Kleinsmith finished second with a 1:47.01 showing.

Russ Shaffer won the 200-yard freestyle event for the Rocks with a time of 1:54.64 but Canton's Troy Haarala (1:55.30) and Bob Simrak (1:57.44) placed second and third, giving Canton a slim 16-14 advantage after two events.

Hurley placed first in the 200-yard individual medley for Canton with a time of 2:09.99 but Salem kept within two points as Tim Harwood took second (2:11.21) and Stella third (2:13.53).

The Rocks took their first lead of the night by placing both first and second in the 50-yard freestyle. Hopper took medalist honors at :23.59 and Kirk Albert was second at 23.85. Mike Sherwood came in third for Canton (:24.06).

"Hopper and Albert did a great job for us," said Olson. "We expected to do well in the event but not that well."

Salem then opened up a 45-33 advantage when divers Joe Rudelic and Todd Riedel placed first and second, respectively, with Canton's Mark Bennett third. Rudelic totaled 173.85, Riedel 148.85 and Bennett 148.45.

Canton came back to win the 100-yard butterfly event, Pedersen finishing first (:53.61) and Pete Stern third (:59.40), narrowing the gap to 52-42. Albert was second for Salem with a :55.58 showing.

Hurley then won his second event for Canton with a time of :51.47 in the 100-yard freestyle, however Salem's Shaffer (:52.07) and Hopper (:53.2) won the event for the Rocks with second and third place finishes, making the score 61-49.

The same thing happened in the 500-yard freestyle and 100-yard breaststroke events.

Haarala won the 500-yard free with a clocking of 5:19.28 with Brian Hendrickson second (5:21.75) and Tim Harwood third (5:24.96) for Salem.

Pedersen won the 100-yard breast, with Stella placing second (1:05.30) and Steye McKenna third (1:07.99).

This, combining with a first-place finish by Shaffer in the 200-yard freestyle (1:54.64), gave Salem an insurmountable 88-70 lead going into the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay. Bob Simrak took second in the 200-yard freestyle (1:02.73) and Seippel third (1:04.34) for Canton.

In the relay, Salem's Kleinsmith, Albert, Tim Harwood, and Shaffer finished first with a time of 3:31.64. The Chief team of Stern, Sherwood, Dave Smith, and Simrak was second with a 3:36.39 clocking.

Canton coach Bill Hahn, although disappointed with the loss, felt the meet was his team's best of the year.

"You always want to win, but we knew going in about the depth Salem had," Hahn said. "As a team our times were excellent overall. Troy Haarala swam out of his mind -- his times in the freestyle events were the best of his career. Keith Greenleaf knocked over three seconds off of his career best time in the 500 free and Hurley won two events for us. I was very happy with the meet."

Canton, which finishes 9-2 in dual meets, competes in the Western Six league meet Thursday and Friday at Farmington Harrison. Salem, finishing 6-6 overall, will be at Schoolcraft College Thursday and Friday for the Suburban Eight league meet.

SALEM'S JEFF STELLA is in trouble already as he starts the individual medley race for the Rocks. Stella hasn't reached the water yet, but is still sprayed by another swimmer already in front. Salem won the meet over rival Canton.

Chief volleyballers end season with win

BY MIKE HENSHAW

The Canton volleyball team closed out its season with a league win over Waterford Mott last Wednesday and a heartbreaking district loss to Westland John Glenn Saturday.

The Chiefs upended Mott in consecutive games, 15-11, 15-4 to finish 6-3 in the Western Six league, good for second-place.

"I was impressed with Mott," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "They hadn't won a game in the league all year and it would have been very easy for them to give up. Instead, they were really scrappy and hustled very well. Everyone on our team got to play, which was good, and although we had some trouble with our serves in the first game we played pretty well."

The Chiefs put together their "best match of the season" according to Burnstein against John Glenn only to wind up on the short end of 15-7, 15-12 scores.

"Everybody played just fantastic," said Burnstein. "They were moving well, calling the ball well. It was the best volleyball we have played this year. The girls were very disappointed they lost, but were also happy because they knew they had played very well."

In the second game, the Chiefs lead 4-0 at one point and, after falling behind, rallied back to tie the score at 12-12. It was then that a bad call by one of the officials hurt Canton's chances of forcing a third game.

"One of the Glenn players played the ball after one of her own players bounced it off the center of the net, so really they had too many chances to get the ball over. The judge must have felt one of our girls blocked the ball first, but that wasn't the case. If we would have had the serve tied 12-12 we might have been able to pull it out."

Burnstein heralded the individual efforts of some of her players.

"Sue Beaune did a great job of setting the ball for us, and Mary Fidler had some incredible saves. Claudia Williams and Marianne Pink played very well and Mary Reardon did a good job despite being ill. All of the girls just worked very hard and have nothing to be ashamed of this year."

Canton basketball team gains league crown

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Canton trimmed Livonia Churchill 46-38 in a tough defensive struggle Friday night to gain a share of the Western Six league championship with Waterford Mott. Both teams finished 8-2 in league play.

"This is very exciting for us," said Canton coach Craig Bell, dripping wet from a victory shower given him by his players. "All year long the pressure has been on us because we were league champions last year, and our young men handled the pressure very well. I'm super proud of this team and our basketball program. I'm also glad this suit is wash and wear."

In the opening quarter the Chiefs, after jumping to a 5-0 lead, had some problems hitting the open shot and saw Churchill pull to an 8-5 advantage. The Chargers lead 11-7 at the end of the eight minutes.

"Our shots were from a little to far out in the first quarter, said Bell. "We worked the ball a little better in the second quarter to get close at the half."

Canton co-captain Scott Adler, who scored six of his 13 points in the second quarter, gave the lead back to the Chiefs at 19-18 with a jumper with :15 remaining, but Churchill's Ron Schueneman connected at the buzzer and the Chargers lead 20-19 at the half.

"In the second half we wanted to work the ball inside a little better and try to bring them out of their zone," said Bell. "Dave Visser turned the ball well for us and our defense allowed us to hang on to the lead once we got it."

Canton's defense set the temp of the game in the third quarter as Churchill was held to only four points in the eight minutes while the Chiefs tallied 10 to lead 29-24 going into the final stanza.

Baskets by Visser and Sean Houle at the start of the fourth quarter gave the Chiefs their biggest lead of the night at 33-24 and the closest Churchill could come was to within four (36-32) the rest of the night.

Brad Westin, who scored the last four Chief points to secure the win, lead Canton with 14 points. Adler was close behind with 13 points and Visser and Houle added nine and six points, respectively.

Brian Kersten was the game's high scorer for Churchill with 15.

"It wasn't a very exciting game to watch, but it sure meant a lot to win it," said Bell.

Wines made from the Cabernet Sauvignon grape require a long time in the bottle before they are really ready for drinking. The Cabernets, as they are known in the United States, and the Bordeaux, as they are known in France, are bottled after about three years of being stored in wood and develop thoroughly after five more years in the bottle. The aging changes the young, bitter taste the wine often has to a pleasing, firm taste. A well turned wine will have a long bottle life resulting in a delightful wine.

Basically by Ken Voyles

The state Class A wrestling finals were held last weekend and the Crier sports crew decided to cover the event which was staged at Lansing Eastern.

It was to be a day of futile efforts along with some exhaustion. Things did not go right from the start. But it was a revealing trip to say the least.

A friend of mine did the driving and we left at noon on Saturday. He dropped me off at what was confirmed as the high school conducting the wrestling tournament, East Lansing.

I had been told earlier that it was Lansing Eastern but three people giving directions said no, it was East Lansing.

So with my friend gone I was left stranded at the wrong high school. East Lansing was conducting it's own tournament, a gymnastic event involving seven teams from the Capital Area Conference. It was in fact their league meet.

So the Plymouth sports team was stuck watching gymnastics with no way of getting to Lansing Eastern for four hours. Nothing really to do about it so I sat and watched the gymnasts perform.

Without trying to offend, it must be said that more than two hours of gymnastics can be a little tedious to watch. The crowd was as loud as the wrestling crowd would later be and it was interesting to see the sport without having to cover it.

By the time my friend arrived back I was ready for wrestling (and heading home). With another set of directions in hand we headed cross town and found Lansing Eastern.

We arrived just in time for the start of the final three matches in each weight class. As of that moment the tournament could have gone any way with the top teams closely bunched.

Temperence Bedford had 75 1/2 points, while Davidson had 74 1/2, Hazel Park had 73 and Plymouth Salem had 72. It was to be a battle to the end.

Greg Gattoni was the first Salem wrestler up competing in the heavyweight class. This writer watched Gattoni's heartbreaking match that lasted no longer than 40 seconds.

He was in trouble right from the start but would have lasted had not it not been for an injury to his lower right leg which forced the end of the match.

It was bad news for the Rocks. Gattoni had been wrestling for fifth and sixth place.

The following match included Salem wrestler Jeff Brown. Brown struggled through his match to the end but it wasn't the Brown of earlier. He lacked that energy to win one more match this year.

Brown also wrestled for fifth and sixth position.

With two Salem wrestlers already down, Jim Schultz took the mats. He started slow and didn't look on top of the situation but then he turned things around midway through the match. The turnaround didn't last long and Schultz was the third Salem wrestler in the span of an hour to fail in his last match of the season.

Schultz was pinned in his effort for third or fourth position in the state.

According to coach Ron Krueger the teams had wrestled all day Friday and had not returned to the hotel until 11:30 p.m. that night. The teams then returned to the mats Saturday morning and continued right through the day.

The strain must have been tremendous. It could be read on Krueger's face as he watched Gattoni struggle in pain. It could be read on Brown's face when his match was over and it could be read on Schultz's face after he was pinned.

No wonder it's called a state final and no wonder only the best wrestlers get a shot at a weight title.

Correction

Salem volleyball coach Cathy Himes was incorrectly quoted in the last issue of the Crier. The coach, speaking about, Salem's three game defeat to Suburban Eight League foe Livonia Bentley.

"We didn't play terrible. We were the only team in the league to take Bentley to three games this year," said Himes. "The girls were tired after the first two games and the gym was very hot making it hard to play that final game."

Salem gymnasts end year

Salem's gymnastic squad completed what coach Carol Micheals called "a growth year" last weekend with a fifth place showing at the Suburban Eight League gymnastic meet.

The Rock gymnasts, made up of all ninth and 10th graders, finished in a tie with Dearborn Edsel Ford in the final league standings.

At the league meet Belleville won the competition with a composite score of 87.2. Salem had a final overall total of 53.15.

The final league results were tallied by giving half for dual meet victories and half for the league meet itself. Belleville dominated both and won the conference with nine points.

Trenton had seven points, Dearborn five and Salem and Edsel Ford had two points each.

"I think the girls did well. It was a big exciting thing for them and they seem anxious for next year," said coach Micheals. "Darla Doumanian was hurting so she didn't compete for us and that hurt our chances."

"It really hurt our score the most, however. With Darla we could have topped a 60 I think," said Micheals.

The top three positions scored in each event. The Rocks failed to place anyone in a top position.

In the vaulting, Cindy McSurely was Salem's best finisher with a 5.75 score, while Kathy Rice had a 4.85. Sue Nitz and Kris Feneske had 4.45s in that event.

On the uneven bars, McSurely again topped Salem finishers with a score of 3.45. Nitz scored 3.2 and Feneske had 2.25.

Nitz topped the Rocks on the balance beam and her effort got her a 5.0 score. Donna Ankofski scored 4.2 and Rice went to 3.85.

On the floor exercise it was again Nitz who topped Salem's gymnasts. She scored 5.8, while Feneske scored 5.5 and Germaine Mason had a 4.85.

"McSurely really got going for us at the end of the year. She has come along well and so has the entire team," Micheals said.

Salem completed the year with a 3-7 overall dual meet record.

Salem spikers knocked out of districts

Salem's volleyball unit was knocked out of the state district competition last weekend by Livonia Churchill. The Chargers beat the Rocks in two games, 15-9 and 15-7.

Churchill, which was state runner-up in volleyball last season, used good serving to blitz the Rocks, which finished out the season with a 7-6 overall record.

"I'm satisfied with this year. We are a very young team and I think we did a good job," said Salem coach Cathy Himes.

As for the Churchill game, Himes said that her squad did a good job in the blocking department and had a good attack in general. However, she added, it was poor serve reception that killed the team's chances.

McAllister's went on to victory by a score of 61 of 52.

Sonny's Metro Sports downed Team #6 by a score of 67 to 55. Sonny's Tom Davis shot for 14 points; Brent Eckles, Ken Britton, and Mike Loden all scored 12 points each for the victors. Dan Moore had 16 points in a losing effort.
