BY DAN BODENE

Beginning with a short history of Plymouth-Canton School District boundary changes, community relations director Richard Egli kicked off the first of five public forums on the issue Monday night.

Noting the results of several telephone surveys in the last few years which showed support for the Extended School Year (ESY) program in the district, Egli also said voters have consistently denied bond issues for school construction.

The problem, he said, was a "bulge" in the student population in grades 4, 5 and 6. A lack of space in elementary schools compounds the problem, he added.

Michael Terzen of Ecosystems, the Cleveland, Ohio-based consulting firm which presented five major redistricting plans to the school board, also summarized his company's involvement with the issue. He said a major problem in formulating boundary plans was the fact that although most schools are in the northern portion of the district, most students live in the southern portion.

He said the plan endorsed by the school board, which would phase in the sixth grade and place Fiegel and Bird Schools on ESY, would affect about 60 per cent of the school population. He explained approximately 33 per cent would be affected by the recent lease of Lowell Junior High from Livonia and approximately 25 per cent would be affected by normal transfers, so "the real effect would be on about 20 to 25 per cent."

After Terzen's presentation, Egli opened the floor to questions from parents. Barry

Canton seeks traffic light funding

A delegation from Canton will soon discuss with the Plymouth-Canton School Board a proposal to fund a traffic light in front of Eriksson School on Haggerty Road.

During last Tuesday's board meeting, Marilyn Rickard, a Canton resident, suggested the township equally share the cost of the light with the school district, at a cost of $2,500 each. "My personal feeling is that the school system is not in the business of maintaining roads, (but) the Wayne County Road Commission is not doing its job."

"Everybody admits we need a light," said Rickard. "If a student crossed that road and got killed, there would be a light -- Wayne County would pay for it, probably cheerfully."

City Comish decides to lease Main St. airspace

BY KEN VOYLES

Ralph Lorenz' plans to turn Plymouth into "a convention center" received another boost Tuesday night as the City Commission approved the leasing of the air space over Main Street between the Mayflower Hotel and the Mayflower Motor Inn.

The lease calls for a payment of $1 per year for the next 99 years. Lorenz proposes to use the air space to build a pedestrian walkway that would connect the two hotel facilities.

According to Lorenz, the walkway will be the third and final stage in a series of projects.

"We are trying to establish Plymouth as a small convention center," said Lorenz. "We want something (in the walkway) that will be a definite addition to the city."

As soon as the weather breaks Lorenz says construction will begin on stages one and two of his proposed project. Those include a parking deck on the west side of the Weidman parking lot next to the Mayflower Hotel and an addition of 51 rooms to the hotel.

The enclosed walkway would connect the two facilities and according to Lorenz, would greatly enhance the use of the Meeting House for conventions and other gatherings.

"When the first two stages get done, we'll see what's left of our money," said

Lorenz. The walkway could possibly be started sometime in the spring of 1982.

Lorenz said some conceptions of what the walkway may look like have been drawn, but there is no finalized version.

"We haven't gotten an architectural go yet, that will be coming in the near future," he said.

According to City Manager Henry Graper, Jr., the walkway will be beneficial because it will provide some degree of safety from crossing Main Street at one of its busiest corners.

"Right now crossing the street to get from one building to the other causes some problems, but the walkway will not be done until the other stages are complete," said Lorenz.

Graper also said that when the actual plans for a walkway are drawn up they must be approved by the City Commission and only then can construction begin. "That may not be for two or three years," he said.

When the plans are completed the city will then, Graper continued, make a study to see whether or not it wishes to share in any of the costs based on whether or not the walkway will have public access.

If the city becomes involved financially it will determine at the time of construction exactly what its commitment will be.

A hot week for firemen

Back-to-back house fires kept Plymouth city and township firefighters battling blazes in freezing weather Thursday afternoon.

The first fire occurred at 1:29 p.m. Thursday at a vacant house at Whittlessey Lake Drive and Rockledge in Plymouth Township. According to fire and police officials, arson is suspected. While both fire departments fought the fire in the township, a call at 2:18 p.m. from Walter Roberts, owner of a city home at 166 E. Ann Arbor Trail came in saying his house was on fire. The entire city fire force responded to the call, and on arriving at the scene, the home was filled with smoke and fire was coming from the basement, according to the city fire report. Damage was estimated at $80,000 by city fire officials and the cause of the fire is being investigated.

No injuries were reported at either fire. The township home at 46002 Rockledge is owned by Bonadeo Builders of Detroit. It sustained $75,000 in damage, according to Plymouth Township Fire Chief Larry Groth.

Although short on manpower, the township responded to the fire within minutes and received additional help from six City volunteer and regular firefighters, until they were called away by the city fire, said Groth.

Firemen battled the township blaze until 6 p.m. before it was contained. The inside of the house was gutted, Groth said, and several small fires within the walls required

Canton opposes tax factor

BY DAN BODENE

Canton trustees voted last Tuesday to send a resolution to Lansing opposing any increase in the residential State Equalization factor.

Public Act 114 of 1979, which goes into effect in 1981, will raise the equalization factor for residential property values. Based on sales of the past 2.5 years, when sales were at peak levels, the new equalization factor could raise property taxes 19 per cent from 1980, according to Canton's resolution.

Supervisor James Poole said the resolution opposing new equalization factors would go to State Senator William Faust's taxation subcommittee in Lansing.

Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz said PA 114 would cost Canton taxpayers an average of $300 more in taxes for 1981. She also said Governor William Milliken was apparently not in favor of freezing the current assessment rates. She advised township residents to petition state legislators to delay implementation of PA 114 until more equitable tax laws can be enacted.

Trustee Robert Padgett said, "The property tax structure is doing a botched-up job of supporting school systems and other units -- we need a fair tax system." Padgett added although he doesn't like the present tax system, "This (resolution) supports 1980 levels and it will take the pressure off legislators by just delaying (PA 114). It does no more than perpetuate the present system."

Padgett called for stronger reform measures from state legislators instead of supporting the current assessment strategy, even with older equalization factors.

Poole said, "The purpose of this is to allow more time to write a fair, equitable tax system -- they want time, I've talked to them."

Trustees voted to support the resolution, with Padgett dissenting.

Short robbers with gun take cash

Two white males armed with a blue steel revolver held up Jarohs Party Store on 49429 Ann Arbor Road Saturday night said Plymouth Community Police.

The suspects took $415 in cash and checks and fled on foot in an unknown direction, said police. Lynn Kozlowski was minding the store when the males entered and stuck the weapon in her face, removed the cash from the register and fled, according to reports.

Both suspects were described as 18-19 years of age. One had blond hair and was wearing a brown coat and was about five feet four inches tall. The other had short black, curly hair and a dark complexion and was about five feet two inches tall, according to police.

State offers budget class

A two day seminar on governmental budgeting will be held March 10 and 11 for local officials by the Michigan Department of Treasury, Local Government Services.

The seminar will offer municipal employees an opportunity to learn elements of planning a comprehensive budget, preparing revenue and expenditure estimates; basic accounting and other effective budgeting controls, said a treasury department spokesperson.

The seminar will be held at the Mayflower Meeting House on M. in Street and is $70 per participant. For further information contact Ruth Consteadine at 1-517-373-0232.

Detectives don uniforms

BY KEN VOYLES

City of Plymouth's Detective Bureau are now seen on city and township streets in regular patrol uniform. In the future they will be performing many regular patrol duties.

The bureau, sergeants Dan Carpenter, Ralph White and Lieutenant Henry Berghoff have been assigned to uniform duties as a part of the police sharing plan with Plymouth Township.

"There are several schools of thought on the function of investigating services," said Plymouth Police Chief Tim Ford. "One says it's immaterial whether they wear uniforms or not. Another says plainclothes are necessary and another says there is no one best way to do it."

"The outside man will be our on the scene investigator," said Ford. "He will respond with the patrol officers when investigation is needed."

That detective will make the necessary investigative judgments and decisions.

Although on regular duty, the outside officer will drop everything if a detective is needed at another location.

Ford said that the uniform sergeants on the street will still maintain contacts and develop new ones. The Chief said an investigator will always be available with in-house service.

"This is a new approach," Ford said. "From an operational control viewpoint, what we're getting is two investigators who'll broaden their knowledge."

Carpenter is the force's Community Action Officer and his duties usually center on the city's youth.

"Dan has developed a more viable youth program for us," said Ford.

Ford said there are plans to add regular patrol officers to supplement Carpenter's work.

"We don't know if adding officers will work and we don't know if this move with the detectives will work, but we'll be trying a new way of giving service," Ford said.

Libraries get grant

Plymouth-Canton librarians may soon receive cable-TV programming instruction, funded by a W.K. Kellogg Foundation grant.

The Wayne-Oakland Library Federation, of which the Canton Public Library and the Dunning-Hough Public Library are members, recently received a $102,475 grant from the Kellogg Foundation to train librarians in cable-TV programming and "to test cable television transmission of automated library services."

In 1976, the Federation received a grant of $167,800 to prepare library collection records for conversion to an automated system.

A pilot program, now being installed in the Wayne-Oakland Federation area, will test the availability of information via specially modified television sets located in homes, schools and government offices.

State Police investigate Explosives found in van

BY KEN VOYLES

A quantity of military type explosives were discovered in an abandoned van Sunday afternoon by an employe of a Plymouth Township towing service, according to Michigan State Police Officials.

The State Police bomb squad removed the explosives and are continuing the investigation. FBI officials were informed of the situation Tuesday afternoon, but are not as of yet involved in the investigation.

FBI investigators said they would become involved if the explosives had been transported across state lines or if they had been stolen from a Federal source like Selfridge Air Force Base.

The blue and white Chevrolet van had been towed from Arby's on Ann Arbor Trail at the request of the restaurant owners on Jan. 14, but the explosives weren't discovered until Sunday when the employe was searching the vehicle for identification of the owner.

According to the employe, he noticed some Army colored materials in the back part of the van and found them to be explosives. The explosives were not armed, but devices that could arm the bombs were also discovered.

According to the employe of the towing service, a man called about the van about three weeks ago, asking for details how to get it back. He never showed up, however.

More details are unavailable due to the nature of the investigation said State Police officials.

No progress in Plymouth Stamping strike

Negotiations are at an impasse between management and union workers at the Plymouth Stamping Plant on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township.

"Our goal is to stay in business," said Richard Taylor, vice president of Plymouth Stamping. "No meetings are scheduled for the future. We are continuing to operate at this point. We're still somewhat hampered (by the strike). We have hired workers to replace the strikers."

"The plant is on strike and no progress is being made," said John Ellis, president of Local 985 which represents the UAW workers at the plant.

According to Ray Westfall of the UAW local, the company offered a proposal Dec. 5, 1980 that further decreased wages from the Sept. 1980 proposal.

"It (the December proposal) was in excess of $5 per hour in decrease of wages and benefits," said Westfall.

On Sept. 8, 1980, 35 employees went on strike against the plant after they refused to take pay cuts that initially amounted to $1.50 per hour. In early November, the company then requested $2 per hour pay cuts for production employees, according to union officials.

"We're still somewhat hampered by the strike" plant VP

"That support (for the strike) appears to have dwindled, but they're still (out) there," said Taylor.

City property taxes increase

BY KEN VOYLES

A 20.6 per cent increase in residential property taxes is expected this year, said City of Plymouth Treasurer Kenneth Way recently.

Way added that along with the residential increases, industrial property rates will go up six per cent and commercial will jump 14 per cent.

The tentative assessment of property for tax purposes fall under the SEV (State Equalization Value) factor which says that all property must be assessed at 50 per cent of its value.

The U.S. Congress prohibits assessments over 50 per cent, so 50 per cent is used as a figure for equalizing taxes, said Way. Because not all assessments are at 50 per cent on the assessors roll, the treasurer said, "there must be a formula to increase the level mutually to that 50 per cent figure across the board."

The state will confirm those figures on May 25 and the city will issue its tax bills July 1.

To arrive at the tentative figures, Way starts the process Dec. 31. The city Board of Review confirms the figures in March and then Wayne County reviews the figures then sends them to the state.

SEV factors have been around for 20 years though not in the same form they are today, said Way. In 1979, a new state law was passed that assigns a separate SEV factor to residential, commercial and industry. Before that each city received a single SEV, which applied to all types of property.

Those SEV factors are arrived by two formulas. For residential and commercial property, the formula is a sales study. The figures are reached by using the total sales figure in a given unit to come up with an average.

Industrial property is done by an appraisal, which is a worksheet of the value of the original building and other factors.

"It's a different formula but we come up with the same figures. We try to be as uniform as possible," said Way. "With industry, for example, we try to project what the cost would be to replace the building. Industry just has to be done differently because there are far too few sales."

Residential sales in the community totalled 503 for last year, while industry compares at 27.

"Some people feel we're fair, some don't, but that's always the case," said Way. "It used to be that the assessment didn't have to change every year, now because of inflation that's no longer the case. We figure every year from the ground up."

The equalization process, as it is now, began in the early 1950s when a Pittsfield Township School District official took the assessor to court because he failed to raise the assessments over several years.

Gold crackdown

A bill that will crack down on thefts of stolen gold and jewelry across the state is aimed at closing the market for burglars who steal precious metals and then sell their loot for immediate money with minimal risk.

"Under the provisions of this bill, dealers would be required to register with their local police or county sheriff if they want to deal in receiving precious metals," said state representatives sponsoring the bill.

Dealers would not be able to lawfully purchase precious items from minors, and identification would be required from everyone attempting to sell gold and silver to a dealer. A seven day holding period would also be required so local officials could recover fenced items.

Park force OK'd

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has appointed a task force that will meet with the police agencies of communities adjacent to Hines Park.

The task force resolution was unanimously passed at a recent commission meeting.

The commission will consist of Bill Joyner of Plymouth and two others. They will probably meet early next week with an elected official and a representative from the police districts surrounding the park, said Joyner.

The districts include Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, and Northville Township.

The picture of Plymouth-Canton student Rochelle Patterson on pg. 21 of last week's Crier incorrectly identified the Indian game she was participating in.

Patterson was playing Snovsnake, a game that originated with Six Nations, the name of six United American Indian tribes, commonly referred to as the Iroquois Confederacy.

The Snovsnake Tournament was sponsored by the American Indian Communities Leadership Council, a state wide community action agency. The tournament was held in Milford, not Midland.

KEVIN MURRAY of Plymouth Township pinpoints the location of wife Ramona's diamond engagement ring, now in the stomach of their cat Smokey, alias "Goldfinger." Veterinarian S.R. Purvis x-rayed the cat after Murray received a positive reading while passing a metal detector over the now-extremely-valuable tabby. Smokey apparently ingested the ring after finding it lying on a nightstand in the Murray apartment. (Crier photo by Dan Bodene)

This tabby is a real diamond in the rough

BY DAN BODENE

A valuable cat, indeed. It all started on Feb. 6, when Ramona Murray of 9116 Lilley Rd. in Plymouth Township took off an interlocking set of diamond engagement and wedding bands and placed them on a nightstand with some of her other rings. She and her husband, Kevin, then went to the bank to open a checking account, returning about one hour later.

They soon discovered the engagement band, of 14-carat gold with a one-third carat diamond, valued at $800, was missing. "We figured at first the cat was playing with it, but none of the other rings were gone," says Kevin.

After a search throughout the weekend -- "We looked about a total of 20 man-hours," he said -- the Murrays reported the loss to the state police in order to fulfill insurance claim requirements.

Troopers Rick Percy and Doug Parviainen, who investigated the call on Feb. 9, stated in their report "officers do not feel a robbery occurred."

On Tuesday, Feb. 10, a friend of the Murrays loaned them a metal detector, and after a sweep of the house Kevin decided to check their cat, Smokey. You guessed it -- the detector's buzzer went off.

After a trip to veterinarian S.R. Purvis, an X-ray revealed the ring in Smokey's stomach.

Trooper Bob Garcia of the State Police reports "the cat is now under observation," although Murray admits an operation will be needed to remove the ring.

Until then, Smokey remains a very valuable, if not popular, pet.

Traffic light funding debated

Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, who said she opposed Canton's involvement in funding a light only on fiscal grounds, said she suggested a funding method to Raymond Hoedel, assistant supt. for business for the school system. Falkiewicz explained bi-monthly tax payments are sent to the school district by check. If the payments were wired, she said, several days of interest on the money could be saved -- up to $12,000 per month.

Falkiewicz said Hoedel did not respond to the suggestion.

Trustee Stephen Larson said, "I don't like the Road Commission's attitude, or the school district not following up on Maria's idea, but what I'm most scared of is facing the parents of a child killed."

Trustee Carol Bodenmiller agreed, adding, "Wayne County is not doing what their duty is to do -- and that should go on a motion and into the record."

Noting that "The concerns of the board and school board may not be getting sent back and forth," Supervisor James Poole suggested sending a township delegation to discuss the traffic light funding with school district administrators.

Poole added that although Police Chief Jerry Cox had made a number of recommendations on traffic safety near the school, township legal counsel advised board members to delay discussing them. "There is litigation," Poole explained.

Canton should support court consolidation

Within the new administration's promise of providing fiscal responsibility to Canton taxpayers, we urge township trustees to support the consolidated 35th District Court.

A number of options are available:

The first option is to join with Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township in the unified court district.

The second is to maintain a separate court in Canton, while the other four unite in the Plymouth location, which is now being built in Plymouth.

A third avenue is to petition the state legislature to create a separate court district for Canton.

The fourth option would be for a court to sit in the township, but not actually conduct most court proceedings there. Under this option, Canton would not be required to provide court facilities or staffing, but only hold the preliminary examination within its geographical area where the offense occurred.

Of all four options, joining the unified 35th District facility is most beneficial for Canton because it would not affect the township revenues and because the township could probably save on overhead costs, possibly as much as $40,000.

Although revenues would not be affected with options two and three, costs to the township would increase.

If Canton maintained its separate court facility, costs could rise by $25,000 to $65,000, not including maintenance and the township's share of the unified operation.

If the Michigan legislature split Canton into its own district, costs would increase by at least $100,000 to cover the complete administrative burden.

Option four would be the least beneficial move for the township: not only would Canton be assessed its proportionate share of the unified district if it chose not to provide a facility, its revenues would all but disappear since preliminary examinations only bring in no revenues.

Ultimately, the funds to pay for any of the court options would come from Canton taxpayers.

By joining the unified court district now, the township will be making the smartest financial and administrative move.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

In addition

by Dan Bodene

I thought once I graduated from college I'd never take another test, but last Monday there I was, ready to take the Michigan Educational Assessment test for 10th graders.

Originally, I wanted to take the test for 4th graders, but when I reached for the booklet, school board president Carol Davis snickered and I grabbed the tough one instead.

And the test was tough. Although given to 10th graders, it actually measures what students have learned through the 9th grade, since the test is administered in the early part of the school year.

It was in two parts -- reading and math. Reading was first, and consisted of vocabulary problems and short-story reading with questions. I didn't do too badly on the word problems, and it didn't seem as if the short-story problems were that hard.

Until they were scored.

The math was harder. I have never been a numbers wizard -- keeping my checkbook balanced is more than I can handle under even the best of circumstances.

I mean, there were enough numbers in that booklet to give Einstein a headache. So, I used the tried-and-true method of closing my eyes and pointing, and that seemed to help answering the questions.

Until they were scored.

As it turned out, I ended up with a 91 per cent on the reading portion of the test, and a 96 per cent on the math. Carol Davis and the two other ladies I took the test with all scored 100 per cent on the reading. The two ladies also scored 89 per cent and 100 per cent, respectively, on the math portion. Carol didn't take the math test -- said she had a meeting to go to (Uh, huh).

Comparatively speaking, I scored slightly below the middle of the pack (for which I have a bag full of excuses, but we won't talk about them). That brings up an interesting point.

To backtrack a little, I go a phone call this week from a parent who saw the results of the test, district-wide. She said Canton schools were near the bottom of the list compared to city and township schools, so I asked Dave Rodwell, who handles research and data processing for the school district, why this was so.

He said schools with a smaller number of kids taking the test have a greater chance of affecting the outcome one way or another. Which is the point I was alluding to above. Since I scored below the others, I brought the group average percentile down, all by myself.

This is why some Canton schools may have appeared to score lower than some other district schools -- the smaller Cantons schools' averages had to stack up against larger schools' averages. This is also why Teddy Roosevelt said there are three kinds of lies -- lies, damn lies, and statistics.

Really, a case cannot be made against the instruction in Canton schools versus everyone else's. The test was simply not designed to compare schools against each other, or to compare districts against each other. Newspaper writers are the ones doing that, and yours truly is as guilty as any.

I hope all this doesn't sound like patent acceptance of a line school administrators fed me -- board trustee Flossie Tonda, for one, feels there is trouble in the instruction in some Plymouth-Canton schools, and may be there is.

But before we all get bent out of shape about how we stack up against somebody else (and Plymouth-Canton test scores were consistently higher than state averages), we ought to consider why the test is given -- to help identify kids with trouble, not necessarily their schools.

Because test scores were so high district-wide, there is no need for major program changes, Rodwell said. Which speaks pretty well for the schools, the kids, and their parents.

Theater ad is a moral issue

EDITOR:

It has come as a complete surprise to me to see the ad for Melody Art Theatre's XXX adult features appearing in the February 4 issue of The Crier (p. 23). I have enjoyed your paper in the past and I admit that I have not previously seen an ad of this type in the paper before.

I do not subscribe to the promise that placing this ad is consistent with freedom of expression or that it is a constitutionally guaranteed right for the Melody Theatre, but simply that it is a moral issue.

I am disappointed to see an ad on pornography in The Crier, and no doubt I am not alone in the feeling in the community. Whereas I have previously advertised for my small business in your paper, I regret that I cannot continue to do so and feel comfortable about it until I am assured that I will not be advertising in your paper along with ads promoting pornography. I will strongly suggest other clients of your paper to do the same.

Until then . . .

Parent questions Bird School change

EDITOR:

As a parent of children in Bird Elementary School, I question the School Board's decision to change the school's scheduling from Traditional School Year to Extended School Year. It is not clear what factors were weighed in comparing ESY to other alternatives for handling growing student population. I believe that the following should have been the main considerations -- minimizing cost to taxpayers and disturbance to the lives of the students, parents, teachers and administrators involved. Based on the following disadvantages, I feel that ESY should have been chosen only as a last resort if all other methods proved to be significantly more expensive.

Students and Parents:
 * Working mothers in TSY can have their own or other older children babysit younger children during the summer. Under ESY, with middle schools and high schools still on TSY, the younger children will be home when the older ones are in school. If the mother is a teacher on TSY and her children are on ESY, their schedules go from perfectly meshed to incompatible.

* Parents with children in both elementary school and middle school, will find it difficult to plan vacations with both the ESY and TSY scheduling in effect.

* Mothers who take college courses during the day when their children are in school will have to make arrangements if possible for their children during their semesters for three weeks at a time.

* The children will have three week vacations four times each year. The inefficiency of the last week before vacation and the first week following vacation will be quadrupled with ESY.

* Retention of knowledge without reinforcement is difficult during vacations of one week or more. This loss will also be quadrupled. Research into the science of learning has proven that the largest portion of what is forgotten occurs in seven days.

* The long summer vacation is a fond memory of my childhood. It is a shame to rush small children into the routine of ESY with only three weeks in the summer and the other three vacations at times when the weather may dictate staying indoors.

* Scheduling of school activities, particularly those which meet every week, will be hampered by the students being on four different tracks.

* ESY will involve the same children being together from kindergarten through 6th grade. This will promote formation of cliques and make unruly behavior more prevalent.

Teachers:
 * Miller School has had an extremely large turnover of teachers since it went on ESY. Bird School has numerous teachers who have been there over ten years. This strongly indicates a dissatisfaction with teaching on ESY.

* Teachers on ESY with children on TSY will have difficulty scheduling vacations.

* Many elementary school teachers accumulate classrooms full of useful items and make their rooms comfortable and interesting places to learn. With ESY, they will have to completely clear the room out after every nine weeks of classes.

Administrators:
 * With rooms in constant use year round, it becomes quite difficult to perform major maintenance.

I suggest that alternatives to ESY be seriously considered in order to avoid the above problems. As an example, it would seem that adding temporary modular classrooms could be done for the same or less cost as equipping a school with air conditioning and running the air conditioning all summer along with the large expense of additional staffing at the school. This proposal becomes more attractive economically when you consider that these classrooms could be moved from one school to another if population shifts occur.

I request that the School Board make public the study of alternatives giving the rationale that led to the selection of ESY for Bird Elementary School and seriously reconsider other alternatives.

This type of ad doesn't belong

EDITOR:

After reading our Community Crier today, I turned to the Crier Classifieds and noticed an advertisement on Pg. 33 for the Melody Theatre. I feel this type of ad for adult "entertainment" does not belong in a newspaper that represents our community.

Canton is described as 'no great shakes'

EDITOR:

I found Mr. Bodene's article on the recent Plymouth Canton millage interesting to say the least.

The article was concise, I assume accurate, and most informative. Therefore, I suppose, it qualifies as a relatively good newspaper article.

What I found distasteful was that the vote had taken place without my knowing it. I receive several major and local newspapers but admit I don't read each one from cover to cover, so if the millage vote was posted, I might have missed it.

My point in this -- I pay $2,000 a year property tax for what appears to be very little in return.

Canton is no great shakes!, although I've been in worse places. If our politician "friends" really wanted to hear the voice of the people why don't they send out post cards to residents telling them when a vote will be held?

It costs too much you say! If that is the case why do they send me a card each summer telling me when to wash my car, water my lawn & flush my toilet?

Maybe the solution is to have a vote & stick by the results instead of voting each quarter until it passes!

Opposition to ESY 'disgusting'

EDITOR:

It was appalling to read, these past weeks, of the conduct of the parents at Bird and Farrant elementary regarding the implementation of ESY at their schools (petition drives, pleas before the board, etc.)

If ESY is such a bad idea for children, where were these parents four years ago when ESY was being discussed for my elementary and middle school children? If it is satisfactory for my child, why isn't it satisfactory for theirs? I live in Plymouth Township too. (That seems to be one of the criteria -- OK Canton, not OK Plymouth.)

Even more important, where were these parents when millage and bond committees worked hard to pass financial programs which would have handled these problems differently? I believe these issues were soundly defeated in their particular areas. These children didn't sneak into the district under cover of darkness! It has been common knowledge, long before now, that we would have to accommodate these numbers.

Do they really believe tax dollars should be spent for the convenience of working mothers rather than on the education of all our children? When there are a limited number of dollars available, they'd better be spent on the best possible way to educate, not babysit, children!

On a more positive side, while ESY is not perfect for a family, it's not terrible either. The "off" time can be spent doing things with the child who is out from under school obligations while older kids are not around (and vice versa). Several community groups including the Cultural Center and the Plymouth Community Arts Council run special activities aimed at the "off track" student. Vacations take care of themselves, too. Every track has several weeks off in the summer and everyone has a mutual Christmas vacation. During one year of our ESY experience we had one child in college, one at Salem, one at Pioneer, on ESY, and one at Isbister, on ESY. There were still several times a year they were all free at the same.

The idea that some parents think they should not have the "inconvenience" of ESY and ESY will "destroy the fiber of the family" when ESY has already been implemented in many schools throughout the district, and at a time when dollars are short, is disgusting!

I guess it all depends on whose ox is gored!

Feature editor finds That's Entertainment...

BY DAN BODENE

Midway through the second act I came down with a horrible case of what comedian Jack Carter calls "flop-sweat" -- an awful sensation of swimming in my shoes when nothing feels right.

All I had to do was stand there at parade rest, but I couldn't help it -- within minutes I knew my face was shiny and embarrassingly red.

It was useless to ask myself what I was doing there -- I knew bloody well I had gotten into the play and up in front of what I felt like thousands of spectators to do a story.

Thanks to the cooperation of the Plymouth Theatre Guild, I was cast as a policeman in the drama "Night of January 16" by Ayn Rand. And although it was great to be back in uniform again, standing there in the middle of the second act in the depths of flop-sweat was beginning to overwhelm me. After all, my previous acting experience had been limited to eloquent excuses of why I come to work late. Thank God this was a non-speaking part.

Rehearsals had gone well. Clemie Cyburt, who directs the play along with her assistant, Dave Ide, told me I wouldn't have to show up for most of them due to my non-verbal qualification. So I didn't.

Therefore, I spent the last thirty minutes before the opening night consumed by what veteran troupers call "stage fright." Need I say more?

Years ago in high school swimming practice and during some nasty moments in boot camp I learned just exactly how much agony can be crammed into a seemingly short period of time. In those last minutes before entering the 35th District courtroom to begin the first scene, I got a refresher. In spades.

At five minutes to eight I stumbled woodenly into the courtroom along with fellow "cops" Bob Anderson and Dennis Schlicker and "court clerk" Lynne Risko. We chatted for a bit and I managed to relax for awhile. This isn't so bad, I thought, even during the first act -- I found a way to stare at a spot on the wall until I had to look at the action in front of me at strategic moments.

'Cast parties are a tradition with actors, very close to the post-mortems that newspaper people hold...'

Until the middle of the second act.

Really, as far as I was concerned the whole affair went off without a hitch until then. Nobody else seemed nervous before the show. I walked around all the dressing rooms (knocking first before entering the womens') and it all felt like just another rehearsal. These guys are real veterans, I figured. Producer Robin Galick even looked composed. Then, the real thing began.

Mercifully, Act II was over after what felt like four hours and I led the jury into the deliberation room. Pulling a chair right out from under a woman, I sat down and wiped my face on my sleeve, leaving a nice, wet, darkened stain on it. Oh, well. At least it wouldn't clash with the hair grease already there, remnants of a hasty attempt to plaster down my 1981 layer-cut into a 1940 pompadour.

I don't remember much of the third act.

Janine Kateff, Karen Wendt and Dave Higginbotham.

If the main characters are constantly under the gun, then I'd say the supporting actors suffer through hours of boredom punctuated by minutes of stark terror.

One thing to mention is that the core group of main characters, supported by the "witnesses" and the rest of us in the background, have done such a good job that the final verdict has been the same each night.

It is the background, though, that I watch the most. Dan, Dave, Linda, Pat, Don and Dave all perform so well that I've taken to watching the rest of the cast. Jan Brass as the judge, Pat Butler as a bailiff and Heather Twichell as the clerk, along with the rest of us court personnel, are also on stage all the time but not always in the action.

Consequently, we wring the most out of our parts. Jan and I, for example, arch our eyebrows furiously at certain points, in lieu of words. Pat and Heather deal directly with the audience "jury" at other points, which is frequently funny depending on the group. A few "foremen," for example, forgot which hand to put on the Bible when swearing in. Irene Troth concentrates so hard on a business-like attitude as a prison matron that sometimes I think she looks depressed.

It's tough to mention everybody, not only because this play has a large cast but also because there's a support staff we rarely even see. There are props, tickets, food, makeup, programs and a million other things to be taken care of by someone. And indeed, they are taken care of, somehow, for every show. So if nobody else knows it -- they deserve credit too.

For this week, I've decided to lean against the wall to save my body, drink coffee to keep alert and get my hair cut a little.

But I still can't control the flop-sweat.

Excruciating pain from my back, legs, ankles and feet blocked out everything else. Not having stood motionless for more time than it took to collect unemployment checks since my Army service, my body felt horribly abused.

The cast party helped. Cast parties are a tradition with actors, very close to the post-mortems that newspaper people hold after each edition goes to print. In that respect I felt right at home, even at somebody else's home.

The next night's performance was slightly flawed, probably due to a sluggishness stemming from the afore-mentioned actor's tradition. Another rehearsal was scheduled for the following Thursday. I missed that one, too.

As I write this, there have been two weekends of performances with another five shows to go. With each one, different things turn up.

Audiences react to different things each night, for example. Tony Lawrence, who plays a gangster, has a line, "I'd cut his throat with a dull saw." Not exactly an appetizing suggestion, but for some reason certain audiences have found this absolutely hilarious while others sound utterly horrified.

Mostly, audiences react enthusiastically to the characters closest to caricatures of real people. Maggie Hineman, who plays a Swedish housekeeper, gets universally rave reactions because she has her character down to a cartoon, by puffing, yelling, polishing the witness stand and berating various other actors. Jim Crawford as a private detective and Jim Harkness as a cop also get a lot of laughs, because they're so good at bringing out the buffoon in their characters.

Obviously, the toughest jobs are handled by the principal actors -- Dan Murray and Dave Dixon as the attorneys, Linda Pavey and Pat Troth as the women in question, and Don Starr as the father-in-law. Intertwined in their performances are supporting stints by Dick Merrill, Leona Macocha,

tell it to Phyllis

Editor's note: Crier intern reporter Mary DeGrande wrote this week's column. Phyllis will return next week. Meanwhile, we're trying to talk Mary into taking a paper route.

BY MARY DeGRANDE

Finding carriers to fill newspaper routes is not easy. The problem is simple -- too many kids want to deliver papers in one neighborhood, and there aren't any kids in another.

It's as if carriers all skip the magical ages of 10, 11, 12, and become 16.

This is where my assignment comes in. It's called Operation Route Scout.

You may have seen me in your neighborhood, stomping through the snow delivering papers with the note: The Crier is looking for carriers to deliver in YOUR neighborhood. If you are interested, call 453-6900.

In order to save time, and wear-and-tear on my oversized frame, I go to every other house, or houses that look like they're likely prospects. How can I deduce this, you wonder?

I run through my checklist. Is there a station wagon in the driveway? Are there snowmen, snow forts, and other works of art adorning the front lawn? Does the house still have Christmas decorations up? Are there sleds, hockey sticks, skates, a toboggan, or all of the above, leaning against the garage?

Or maybe the subtle "Have You Hugged Your Ten-Year Old Today?" bumper sticker gives me a clue. (Phyllis says I've got it wrong. It should read, "Insanity is Hereditary. You Get It From Your Kids.") I skipped places with moving signs, Camaros (or other such signs of teenager-hood), untrampled lawns, or clean garages.

As I trudged down each street, I realized that a good carrier really earns his (or her) money. Unshoed walks don't make the going any easier. It was ironic to me that one house I visited had a "Beware of Dog" sign, and as I crept to the front door there was a mat reading, "Welcome to Our Pad." The sign won out, however, as I heard a deep-throated baying from around the corner. I ran, but the brave little beagle stood his ground.

Well, I'm almost done, and my weary, aching cold feet tell of a large route accomplished. (Phyllis assures me that if I hadn't insisted on wearing my tennis shoes, it would have been easier, even if they are my favorites.)

I remember one man who gave me instructions on where to put the paper. (Sorry, sir, but I'm from the Camaro crowd.)

Oh, where are those enterprising, thrifty and dependable future Crier carriers? Did they go from age nine to serving behind a fast-food counter?

Once a week, (on Wednesday afternoons) and taking collections, are not bad hours. In fact, if it wasn't for my 'delicate' condition, I'd take a route myself.

Civitan want essays from CEP students

Any CEP junior or senior under 21 years can enter the 1980-81 Civitan Citizenship Essay Contest, and possibly win a local award of $50 or a Michigan District award of $300.

The topic of this year's essay is "Forecasting the '80s: The Role of the Involved Citizen."

Joseph Henshaw, a science instructor at Canton High and local Civitan representative, says the contest is held "to stimulate student awareness and interest in regard to the rights and responsibilities of citizenship in a free society."

All essays must contain no less than 500 words or more than 1,200 words, and should be typed double-space on 8½ by 11 inch white paper. Writers should list any references used in preparing the essay. Contestants should also include their name, address, title of the essay, high school attended and sponsoring Civitan club on a cover sheet, which will be removed prior to judging to insure judges do not know contestants' names.

Local awards include $50 for first place, $30 for second place and $20 for third. Michigan District winners will receive $300, and the international winner will claim a $1,200 scholarship at the Civitan convention in New Orleans this year.

Entries should be submitted no later than March 15.

For more information, contact English department teachers at CEP, or call 453-7569 or 453-3100, ext. 321.

Cantonites can apply for Congressional Merit Medal

Douglas Ritter of Canton, a chairman of this year's Congressman's Medal of Merit Committee, says the deadline is drawing near for filing applications for the award.

Awarded to outstanding youth each year by Congressman William D. Ford of the 15th District, which includes Canton, the medals will be available in each of the 21 communities in the district in two categories.

One will be for young people 14 to 18 years of age or still in high school, and the other is for high school graduates 18 to 20 years of age.

Selections will be based on outstanding and meaningful accomplishments, although they should not be based primarily on scholarship, athletic ability or organizational membership, nor should they be something for which the nominee has received financial payment, says Ritter.

He adds that a significant contribution by the nominee to his school, church or community could be a reason for nomination. Ritter also said a young person who has put time and effort toward worthwhile projects such as volunteer services, heroic acts and humanitarian efforts will be considered for the Medal of Merit.

Deadline for nominations is Mar. 16. Nominating forms may be obtained at City and Township Clerks' offices in the 15th District; from Committee members or from Congressman Ford's office in the Wayne Post Office building.

PLYMOUTH-CANTON RESIDENTS gathered en masse Monday night at East Middle School to address a proposed redistricting plan endorsed by the school board. Parents voiced their concerns on the plan after presentations by schools' community relations director Richard Egli and Ecosystems representative Michael Terzen. (Crier photo by Ken Voyles)

Parents question schools' five boundary plans

Fielman, representing Ridgewood Hills subdivision petitioned the board for a variance to the plan, citing concerns of busing, the small number of students affected by the plan, limited increases of students from the sub and the effect a move between schools would have on students. Fielman added, "We like ESY at Isbister and we like the West Middle School program."

Delores Wells of the Concerned Parents From Cherry Hill Orchard also presented her group's objections to the proposed plan, noting that a number of students in her sub now being bused out could walk to Field School. She said her group felt the Ecosystems approaches did not take into consideration students who do not have available sidewalks but nonetheless could walk to school.

Terzen said a provision of the plan called for students in the Field School area who are presently bused to Miller to return to Field, adding another 65 students to the Field population and necessitating the Cherry Hill Orchard busing.

Paul F. Fitzpatrick of Plymouth Township opposed ESY in the schools, citing a difference of only three per cent in the cost of ESY versus traditional school year programs with the addition of portable classrooms. Board president Carol Davis explained portable classrooms are "a liability" and are not as cost-effective in the long run.

Many area parents complained of problems stemming from the instability of boundaries and the prospect of their kids attending a number of different schools within only a few years.

Terzen explained although many isolated judgements could be made concerning small groups of students, his company was directed to formulate plans with the best overall effect on the district.

Many parents were also concerned with the availability of 9th grade programs under the proposed plan. Michael J. Homes, assistant supt. for instruction, explained many of programs such as basic and general math, algebra and several languages would be available. He also said "kids with special skills will be dealt with individually."

Two 9th grade alternatives were also discussed by the board -- the West Middle School Parent Advisory plan, which calls for a one-third shift of 9th graders to West School; and question by Gail Weiss of Plymouth Township concerning the feasibility of placing all 9th graders in Central Middle School.

Davis said the West plan was rejected by the school board because the Centennial Education Park is overcrowded by 800 students and because West School's classrooms do not have adequate capacity to handle overflow. "How can you see this as a solution when the facilities are taxed now?" she asked.

Board vice president Stephen Harper said the Central proposal was unrealistic because of the huge cost involved in re-equipping the school to handle 9th grade programs.

An error in the Plan III maps prepared by the school board was also corrected by Terzen -- a portion of the Allen School area bordered by Ann Arbor Road, Lilley, Joy and Main would not "feed" to East Middle School as indicated, but instead to West Middle School.

Marilyn Rickard of Canton said, "We are on ESY, and it does not necessarily disrupt or improve families -- it's just a way to go. This community is becoming divided between TSY and ESY -- maybe we should be asking what is the most economical." Rickard asked the board if they could come up with a new proposal, "not just another variation on a theme."

Davis added, "We still have one program (with Ecosystems) -- maybe we will."

getting down to business

A unique new service is being offered by The Energy Connection of Plymouth. Brenda Croteau, of Canton, and Curt Powers and Jeffrey Powers, of Southfield, have developed a concept geared to cutting home utility bills and conserving natural resources -- in the form of an in-home "energy audit."

Teams of home consultants are dispatched by appointment to homes to determine of home heat loss areas and to detect areas of excessive energy consumption. Each resident is interviewed and offered suggestions that could save on average homeowners at least 10% on their annual home energy costs, said Croteau.

During a pre-arranged follow up visit, the homeowner receives a pamphlet of general energy saving tips plus a written and graphic presentation outlining specific energy saving recommendations (including many do-it-yourself projects), approximate cost factors and calculated savings projections.

Cost of the audit is $35. Additional information can be obtained through The Energy Connection of Plymouth by calling 453-6471 or 354-4285.

Fire fighters enjoy new quarters in City Hall.

BY KEN VOYLES

City of Plymouth City Hall renovations are nearing completion.

The city's fire department has already moved into their new quarters which, according to members of the force, just don't compare to the former quarters.

According to City Manager Henry Graper, 80 per cent of the renovations are done and the rest should be complete by the end of this month.

The city will then conduct an open house to show off its renovations which includes a new elevator, new offices and quarters for the police force and the detective bureau, a remodeled dispatcher's office, the fire department quarters and some work on the island between City Hall and the Plymouth Historical Building.

At a cost of $435,000 the renovations have been under construction for five months. The target date for completion was the end of January, but Graper said all the work should be done by the end of this month.

The living quarters for the fire department are actually 95 per cent done except for a few minor odds and ends said Fire Chief Roy Hall.

"We are practically done. We're living here and from our point of view the work is going very good," said Hall.

The former fire quarters included two rooms directly behind the station's trucks. Size wise, the quarters were cramped for the three men who were on duty continuously at the station.

All office work had to be done in the bedroom area. There was a small kitchen, but the force had to share bathing facilities with another department.

"I can say it in one word -- great," said Fire Chief Paul Sanders about the new quarters, which include several offices, a lounge, a bedroom, a kitchen, showers and toilet.

"There really is no comparison to what we used to have. We used to be behind the ladder truck," said Sanders. "Now we are segregated from the police and not exposed to the prisoners. We just have a lot more room."

Sanders added that the old quarters were not designed for three people.

"The morale in the fire department is at it's highest point right now," added Graper. "They now have a home of their own to work out of."

The police area includes several new offices, a new office for the detectives, a breathalizer and detoxification room.

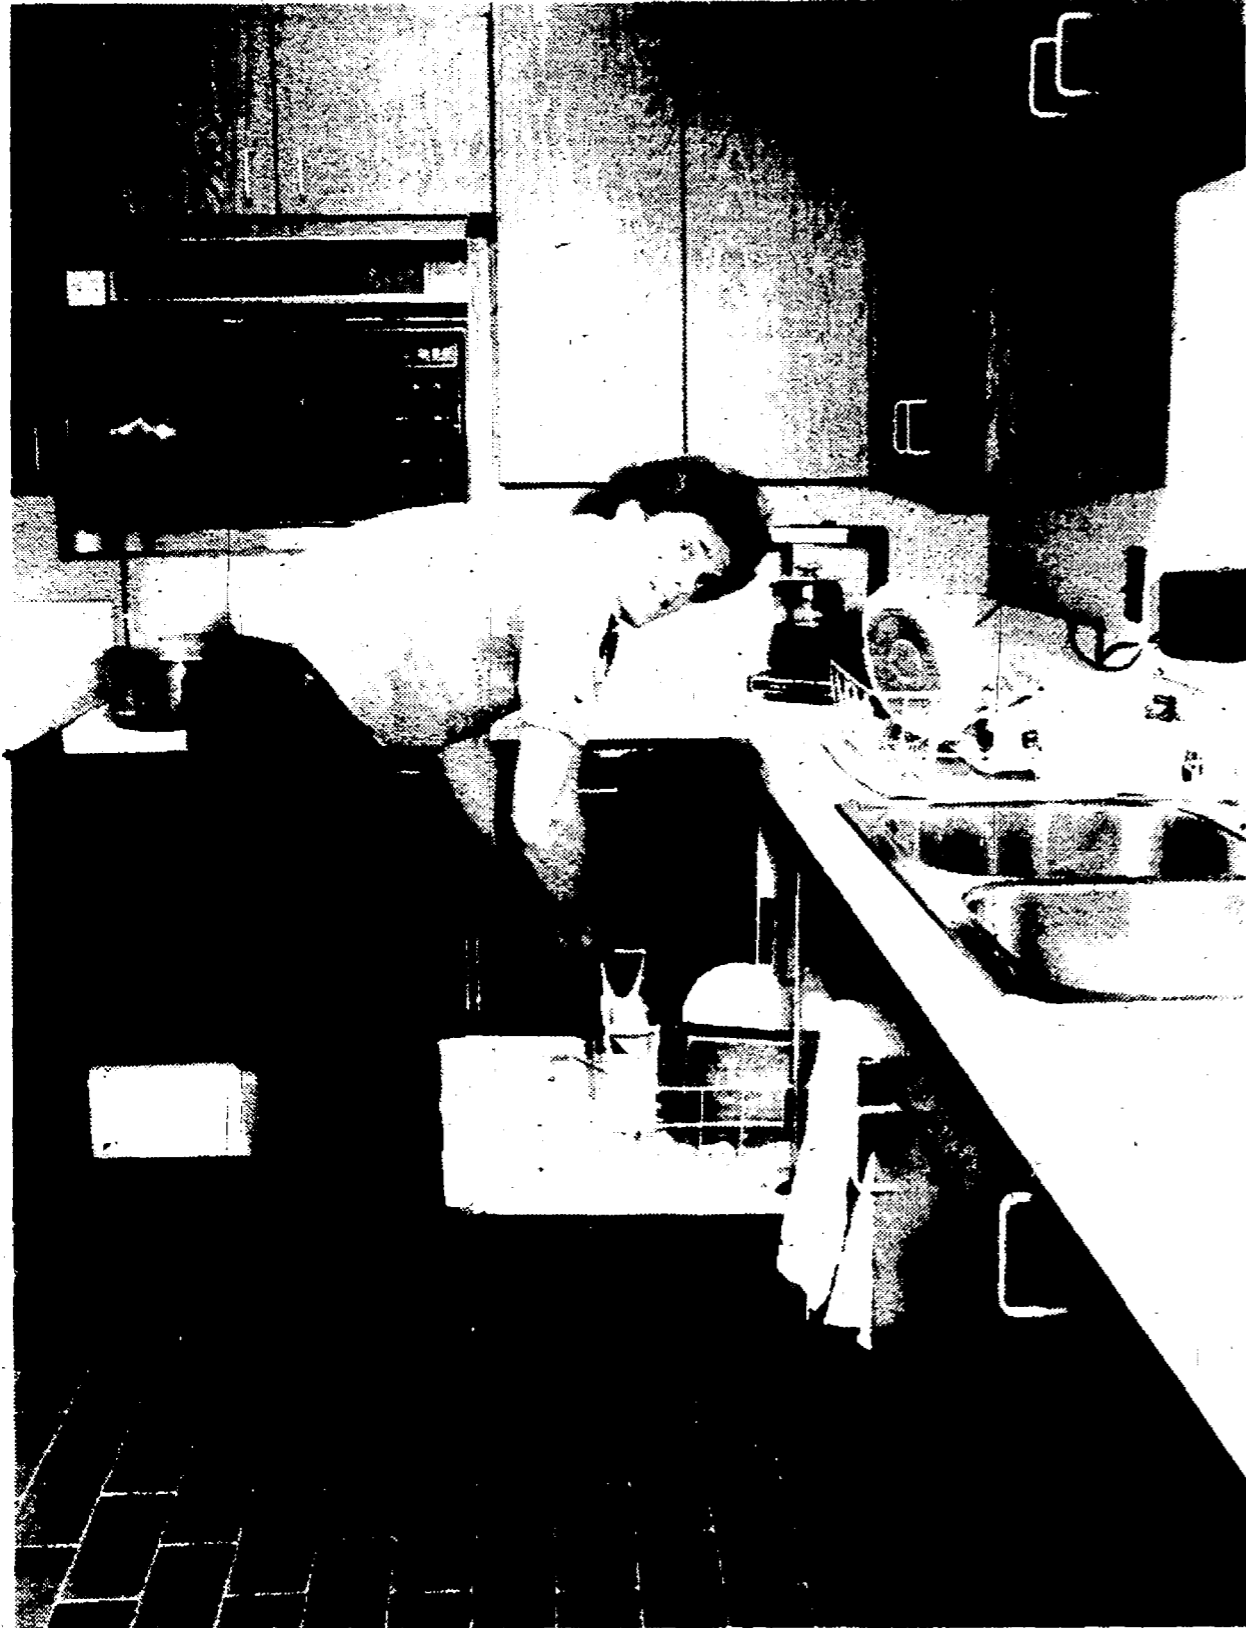

The last item on the renovation schedule is the remodeling of the dispatcher's office to make room for the new police identification panel that the city will soon purchase.

"This has been a good project," said Graper. "We are winding down the work and it's nice."

more time to control, according to the township fire chief.

"We definitely feel it could be arson," Groth said of the township fire. "The Plymouth Detective Bureau is investigating. There are no suspects."

Bob Mateja of Rockledge witnessed the fire after a neighbor called him and the fire department.

"When I got to the house there was smoke pouring out the back. I ran around the building to see if there was anyone inside. The smoke was just tremendous," said Mateja.

According to Mateja, the home was used often by local youths as a hangout and all the back and side windows were broken.

Samples were taken from inside the home to check if any material was used as fire accelerant, according to Groth.

is believed by fire officials to have started in a bedroom in the northwest corner of the home's basement. The blaze spread to the walls above and reached the roof after burning through the ceiling.

City firefighters worked through the night and the next morning to completely extinguish the fire.

Between 5:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. an alarm from Garfield Auto Parts on Ann Arbor Road brought two firetrucks and a squad car to investigate a possible fire, but faulty wiring in overhead lights and not a fire was discovered, officials said.

Another fire occurred at 1:31 a.m. Monday morning in a service truck in the school district bus garage causing $1,000 damage.

Twenty firemen from the city responded to the call, said Fire Captain Paul Sanders.

A short circuit in the truck's booster electrical system caused the fire, according to Fire Captain Paul Sanders. Twenty firemen responded to the call at the garage, where windows had to be broken in order to get to the truck.

The fire was confined to the truck, Sanders said.

Plymouth Patrolman Robert Scoggins discovered the fire while on regular patrol Sunday night.

Damage to school property "hopefully will not exceed $5,000," said Ray Hoedel, assistant supt. for business at the schools.

PLYMOUTH FIREFIGHTERS also responded to an alarm at Garfield Auto Parts, Inc. last Thursday, although the problem was discovered to be a case of faulty wiring. Cpt. Paul Sanders stood ready for action.

Force 5 investigation scheduled for court

Within a month, the first arson case investigated by the newly formed "Force 5" anti-arson squad will begin trial proceedings.

Composed of fire and police personnel from Canton, Plymouth, Northville and the townships of Plymouth and Northville, Force 5 recently completed an investigation of a fire in the Swah Harbor Apartments in Northville.

According to Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court, Cynthia R. Newman of 19237 Silver Spring Drive in Northville testified at a preliminary examination on Feb. 8 that her former boyfriend, Michael Clint Collins of 2108 Glencoe Hills in Ann Arbor threatened her in a phone call on Christmas evening.

Approximately one hour later, Garber said, a light colored Thunderbird similar to Collins' was seen arriving at the apartment complex. Newman's neighbor then identified a man fitting Collins' description walking away from the doorwall of Newman's apartment. Within 10 minutes, the apartment was ablaze.

Before the preliminary examination, Sgt. Phil Presnell of the Northville Police, a member of Force 5, received a phone call from a person stating "there were a lot of hard feelings between the complainant and the defendant, and somebody would bring a gun to court," said Garber.

At the examination, an option was given to all spectators to either submit to a search before entering the courtroom or to stay outside -- "which we have a perfect right to do," Garber added.

Garber said there was no disturbance and no weapon was discovered.

Collins will face an arraignment on Mar. 13 in Westland, according to 35th District Court personnel.

Salem cagers fall to Dearborn

By KEN VOYLES

There is no reason to fear, aggressive high school basketball has not left Salem. The Rocks proved that last night in a tough Suburban Eight league match-up against conference leader Dearborn.

It was John Hollis' tip of his own shot that gave Dearborn a 52-50 win. Salem dropped to 7-4 in the league and out of the league race.

Tuesday's game was heated from start to finish. The two squads fought to a 12-12 tie by the end of the first quarter. Mike McBride scored four of those points for the Rocks and Norm Haygood's basket with two seconds left tied it at twelve.

The Rocks started the second quarter with an aggressive offensive push, but Dearborn was not to be intimidated. The lead changed hands several times until the Rocks went in front 27-24 on a basket by John Cohen at 1:55.

Dearborn came back with four points and led 28-27, but Dave Houle hit a Salem bucket with 20 seconds left in the half to lift the Rocks to a 29-28 intermission lead.

The struggle intensified in the third quarter before Dearborn went ahead 36-33 at the 5:03 mark.

Salem came back to 46-44 on a Cohen basket, then Houle and McBride scored at 5:38 and 5:18 respectively to tie the game 48-48.

Dearborn hit one free throw at the 3:57 mark to lead and then added another two points at 1:28 when Salem coach Fred Thomann was charged with a technical foul. Haygood got the Rocks final point at 2:21 when he hit one free throw to tie the score 50-50 before Hollis' bucket.

Rock gymnasts drop 11th to Edsel Ford

The Salem gymnastic squad may finish this season without a victory, but coach Lisa Marrone has watched her charges improve greatly since the first competition of the year.

Monday night, the Rocks lost their 11th match in 11 outings to Suburban Eight League foe Trenton. Salem scored 60.7 overall and Trenton had 83.35 overall.

Marrone said that she doesn't find the winless mark too frustrating because, "I've seen them improve so much." She added that it probably is very frustrating for her charges.

Mary Cooney scored 5.6 and Beth Delbeke had 5.4 for high scorers in the vaulting for the Rocks.

Germaine Mason scored 5.25 on the uneven bars and Darla Doumanian had 5.5 on the balance beam for Salem.

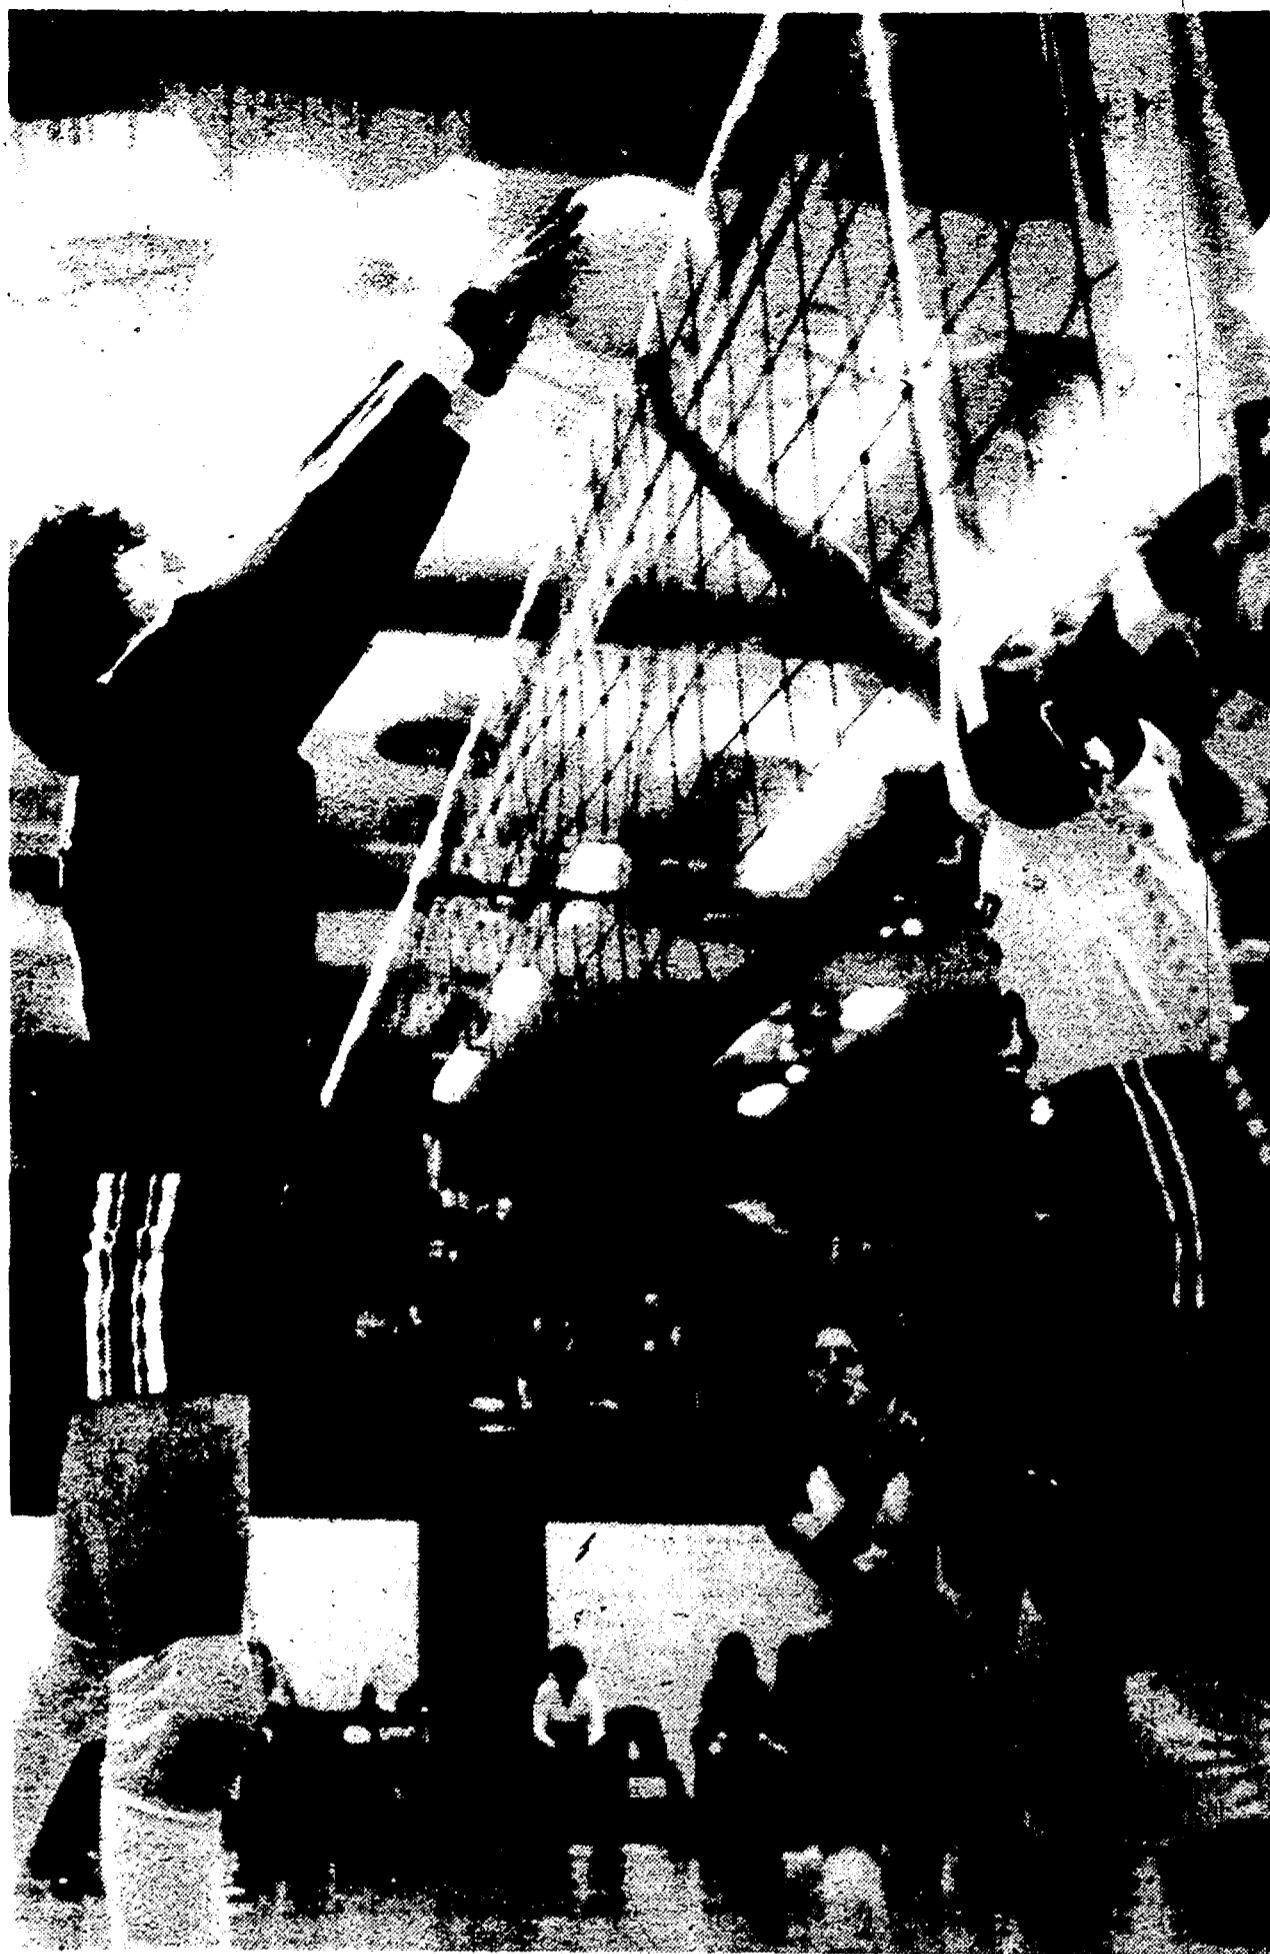

Mason, 5.2, Beth Sieracki, 5.2, and Cooney, 5.1, were Salem's best finishes in the floor exercise.

Salem faces Ann Arbor Pioneer tonight at Pioneer. Match time is 7 p.m.

Salem spikers

Salem's volleyball squad won a Suburban Eight League match Monday night against Dearborn Edsel Ford. The Rocks won in two games, 15-11 and 15-5.

Chief, Rock spikers compete in Ann Arbor tourney

On Saturday the Salem and Canton volleyball teams competed in the Howell Invitational.

Salem placed third in its pool with a 4-4 record, and finished the day eighth overall after losing in the quarterfinals.

Canton recorded a 3-5 mark in its pool, but never made it out of its division, winding up third.

There were three pools, and the top two teams from each advanced to the finals rounds of play. The two remaining teams with the best records also advanced.

Canton started the day off with a victory, while Salem attained only half as much. Canton defeated Brighton 15-13 and 15-10, while Salem split with Howell 13-15 and 15-6.

The Rocks won its second match over John Glenn 15-12 and 15-6, while Canton lost to Groves 10-15 and 6-15.

Canton split with Kettering 15-9 and 11-15, and Salem fell to Kearsley 13-15 and 11-15.

The Chiefs ended its competition on a sour note, dropping two games to Ann Arbor Huron 16-18 and 9-15.

Salem finished its regular action in tournament play by splitting with Ann Arbor Pioneer 9-15 and 15-6.

Eight teams out of the 16-squad field advanced to the quarterfinals. Salem was the eighth to go. Howell was first followed by Fraser, Bentley, Fordson, Groves, Kearsley and Huron.

Salem met Howell in the one-game 15-point quarterfinal match and lost 12-15.

The Rocks led 12-10, but had two bad bumps which allowed Howell to tie it up at 12, before the host team used its defensive hustle to record the victory.

Salem went 17 for 19 at the serving line against Howell, and made good on 13 of 15 spikes.

Tonight Canton plays Harrison away at Farmington at 7 p.m., and Salem will face Allen Park in a league contest at the Jaguar's gym.

Chief cagers fall to RU Tuesday

By JAY KEENAN

What seemed like a good thing turned into a disaster for the Canton basketball squad last night. The Chiefs let a ten-point second quarter lead slip away against non-league Redford Union and lost the dual 63-42.

"We've talked about two words and that's poise and confidence," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "Since we've been up and down lately we haven't had those two words."

"We have the tendency to relax when we get the lead and then we have mental and physical breakdowns which cause errors. Then when we get behind we start to tighten up."

The Chiefs jumped to a 16-12 first quarter lead and upped the margin to 22-12 in the first moments of the second quarter.

The Panthers, however, cut Canton's lead to 26-24 by the end of the first half.

RU tied the game at 28 with 7:05 left in the third quarter, before the Chiefs pulled ahead on a bucket by Steve Tuttle at the 5:45 mark. Canton led 30-28.

RU then scored 12 straight points to lead 42-30. Tuttle added a basket at the three second mark of the quarter to make it 42-32.

The Chiefs made a last ditch effort to overcome the deficit when senior Sean Houle tallied two quick baskets in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter. That narrowed RU's margin to 42-36, but by then the Panthers were unstoppable and they poured on 21 more points in the final minutes of the final stanza.

O.L.G.C. wins

Our Lady of Good Counsel (OLGC) boys varsity basketball squad defeated St. Mels, 35-25 last week. Duffy Kidwell, Mark Pinto and Mike Burke contributed a strong defensive effort for the OLGC.

The OLGC junior varsity boys also defeated St. Mels, 33-22. Dan Gollinger and Ed Ramirez paced the JV.

The OLGC varsity girls squad defeated St. Mels, 36-21, behind the efforts of Leigh Lorange, Kendra Hostynski and Stacey Champagne.

The OLGC girls junior varsity completed the sweep with a 30-17 win over St. Mels. Christis Niebuhr and Ann Muneio sparked the JV as did Amy Harris.

Cagers play Thursday

The Salem and Canton boys basketball squads will take to the courts tomorrow night instead of the usual Friday night games.

The Rocks will face Lincoln Park in a non-league struggle at home. Junior varsity starts at 6:15 p.m. and varsity will begin 20 minutes after the JV complete their game. Varsity will start about 8:15 p.m.

The Chiefs will battle Western Six League foe Farmington Harrison at Harrison tomorrow, at Harrison. Game time is 6 p.m. for junior varsity. Varsity will begin at 8 p.m.

Also tomorrow, both Canton and Salem swimmers will be on the road. Canton will face Harrison and Salem will face Allen Park. Canton starts at 7:30 p.m. and Salem at 7 p.m.

The Canton gymnasts will be on the mats at Walled Lake Central tomorrow at 7 p.m.

Rock, Chief grapplers place at Huron districts

Salem's wrestling squad placed seven wrestlers in the top four positions Saturday and went on to finish second at the Ann Arbor Pioneer Class A Districts.

The Rocks totaled 126 points, just behind Suburban Eight League nemesis Belleville, which won the districts with 184 points.

Pioneer was third with 103 points, Farmington had 88 and Canton had 69. There were 13 teams involved in the competition with the top three wrestlers moving on to the regionals.

Those regionals will be this Saturday at Ann Arbor Huron. Weigh-in will be from 8 to 9 a.m. and wrestling will start at 11 a.m. and run one session. According to Salem coach Ron Krueger wrestling should last until about 4 p.m.

"I thought we did a good job at the districts. We beat some very good people. I just hope we continue," sai Krueger. Only the top two wrestlers in each weight get to move on to the state finals from the regionals. "That's pretty hard to do. If we wrestle good and tough and all five of our guys place well we have a chance," continued Krueger. "Right now we're just trying to get ready for the regionals and hopefully get to state."

Salem had only three dual losses this season and one of those was to district champion Belleville.

The Rocks had four district champions by the end of the day.

Marty Piper won the heavyweight class with a 6-5 win over Vince Candela of Northville in the finals.

At 198 pounds, Salem's Jeff Vojcek defeated Canton's Todd Bartlett in the finals 2-0 for first place.

Bill Ward knocked off Dave Cook of Belleville 7-4 in the finals of the 119-pound weight for first and Steve Szilagyi defeated Jim Steiner of Farmington, 1-0 to win the 169-pound weight division.

Scott Wickens was third at 198 pounds when he beat Jerry Kurbeck 4-3 in the consolation finals. Kurbeck was from Pioneer.

Rob McDonald reached the consolation finals of the 135-pound class but lost to Paul Cotter of Farmington 9-2. Rob Price of Salem was forced to default in the consolation finals of the 155-pound class to Lin Kinsey of Belleville due to an injury.

"I've been saying all along that our league is real tough. That was proved at the districts. We beat a number of league champions from the other leagues and had a good day," said Krueger.

Canton's wrestling squad came out of Saturday's Ann Arbor Pioneer Districts with a fifth place finish and placed three wrestlers into regional action this Saturday at Ann Arbor Huron.

Canton tallied 69 points for fifth place behind Farmington. Belleville won the competition, while Salem was second.

Todd Bartlett lost to Salem's Jeff Vojcek at 105 pounds to finish second and make the regionals. He lost 2-0 and has a 22-10 record so far.

At 155 pounds, Bob Mullen lost in the finals to John Minick of Ann Arbor Pioneer, 9-3 to finish second and reach the regionals.

Mullen defeated Belleville's Lin Kinsey earlier in the day. Kinsey had been the top seed at that 155 weight.

Canton's other regional qualifier was Brett Haarala as he knocked off Mike Evans of Pioneer 7-2 for third place in the 126-pound weight division. Haarala has a 24-15 record so far.

Freshman Tim Collins also placed for the Chiefs but missed a chance to make regionals as he lost to Kevin Frisbie of Ypsilanti 4-3 in the consolation finals of the 115-pound weight. He finished fourth and accumulated a 17-15 record this season.

"The other kids did a good job for us, we just ran into tough people," said Canton coach Dan Chrenko. "I think that's a great job. We did a solid job and everybody wrestled the best they could. This is as high as we've ever finished at the districts."

Regional action will run from 11 a.m. to 4 or 5 p.m.

Chief cagers lose chance for title

BY PATTY RADZIK

All chances for a piece of the league crown were forsaken Friday night as Waterford Mott upset the Canton basketball team 50-44, eliminating the Chiefs from the race in the Western Six.

DAVE MALEK

The loss drops Canton's record in the league to 4-4, and 9-7 overall.

"This puts us out of first, and away from the possibility of a co-championship," Chief coach Craig Bell said. "Now I'm looking for us to finish respectably in the league."

There is still a logjam at the top, as a mad fight for the number one spot continues between Northville, Harrison and Churchill.

For the time being, Northville and Harrison are in a tie for first place with identical 6-2 records. Northville defeated Walled Lake Western 61-56, and Harrison beat Churchill on Friday 75-67.

The Chargers are in second place with a 5-3 mark, but as has been proven in the past, anything can happen and with four games remaining in the season, the race is far from over.

Canton has yet to play Harrison for a second time, and Churchill still has another meeting with Western and Northville. The Mustangs will play Mott this week.

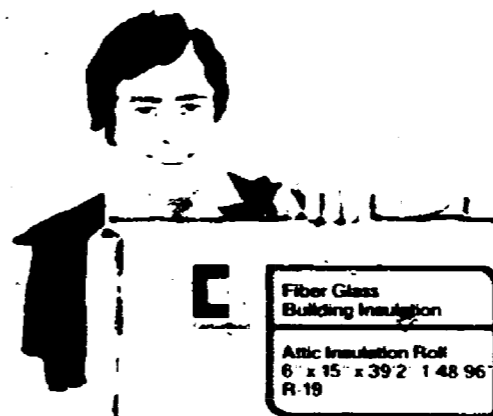

The Chiefs held the lead over Waterford for the better part of the contest, and the Corsairs did not go ahead of Canton until late in the fourth quarter.

Canton gained a convincing 19-12 edge over Mott midway through the second period, using a mixture of zone and man-to-man defenses.

Mott began double-teaming the Chiefs' guards, forcing numerous turnovers, and climbed back into the game at the half trailing 21-18. Th Corsairs used this defensive tactic throughout the contest to its advantage.

Chief swimmers beat Churchill

The Canton swim squad continues to roll along and win Western Six League meets. Last Thursday the Chiefs blew past conference foe Livonia Churchill, 112-59.

Junior Pete Stern was first in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 52.6 seconds, while teammates Greg Schnurstein and Joe Krawzak were second and third.

Ron Hurley was first in the 50-yard freestyle with an effort of 23.5 seconds. Jim Luce was third in that race at 26.6 seconds.

Luce, Hurley, Stern and Joe Gibbons won the 200-yard medley relay for the Chiefs with a time of 1:50.9, while the foursome of Bob Simrak, Tom McKercher, John Simone and Stern won the 400-yard freestyle with an effort of 4:04.5.

Simrak also won both the 200-yard and 500-yard freestyle races with times of 1:57.4 and 5:13.2.

Other Chief firsts included Simone's win in the 200-yard individual medley and Luce's win in the 100-yard breast stroke.

Second places for Canton included McKercher in the 200-yard freestyle, Joe McBratnie in the 200-yard individual medley, Steve Gaggi in diving, Schnurstein in the 100-yard breast stroke, Simone in the 500-yard freestyle, Hurley in the 100-yard backstroke.

What Is A WHIPLASH Injury?

In this age of high-speed transportation and sport, "whiplash" has become commonplace. This is an injury which may cause long-term discomfort, or even permanent damage, to the victim. It offers a diagnostic and therapeutic challenge for which the doctor of chiropractic is uniquely suited.

This trauma to the neck and spine results when one's head, an average seven pound mass, is snapped rapidly backward or forward in a collision, fall, or other accident. Symptoms vary with the degree and nature of the injury to the soft tissue and vertebrae of the upper spine.

Sometimes nausea, soreness or neck stiffness will be experienced shortly after the injury. The swelling which may follow, however, often prompts more serious symptoms up to a day later in the form of a "stiff neck," increasing pain, pounding headache and muscle spasms.

Some late manifestations of "whiplash" injury may not show up on x-ray examinations for months.

Salem cagers dump AP

BY KEN VOYLES

The Salem basketball squad warmed up for its final three games of the season (two of those are league match ups) with a convincing 56-41 win over Suburban Eight League foe Allen Park at Allen Park, Friday.

The Rocks upped their overall record to 11-5 and their league mark to 7-3 with the victory.

"We really used this game as preparation for the next (three) games," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "When you play against a team that doesn't have too many wins you have to keep two things in mind, first, that it will be a roughhouse game and second, that pretty well dictates the tempo of the game."

The Rocks didn't let the Jaguars style of play affect them. They took control from the first minutes and the game was never in doubt.

Mike McBride opened Salem's scoring with four points. Dave Houle then added a bucket and Norm Haygood picked up three point play to give the Rocks a 9-5 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Haygood started the Rocks' second quarter with two points. Houle added a bucket and Salem led 13-5. Houle scored three more points in the period, while John Cohen added four, Scott-Bublin and Leigh Langtabel added one bucket each. Salem was in front 29-12 at the end of the half.

"Our defensive intensity was pretty good. As soon as we recognized what they were doing on defense, we were able to get our offense going," said Thomann.

Allen Park was in a man-to-man defense early in the game so the Rocks changed to a man-to-man style on offense.

In the third quarter, however, Salem was only able to score eight points. Allen Park tallied 12 points and closed to 37-24 at the end of the third period. Bublin picked up six points and Haygood scored two to account for the Rocks third quarter points.

Haygood scored six points and Paul Horton had four points to pace the Rocks through the first five minutes of the final quarter. The Rocks cleared their bench in the final two and a half minutes and Bill Newland and John Kelliher completed Salem's scoring.

The Rocks were paced by Haygood with 17 points. Houle added nine and Bublin had eight.

Salem will face Lincoln Park tomorrow in a home game that will start at 8 p.m. The Rocks will then take on Livonia Franklin and Trenton in their final games of the season.

Canton playground program needs association input

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department has scheduled a public forum for residents to discuss plans for the 1981 Summer Park and Playground program developed by the township's Recreation Department.

The 7 p.m. meeting at the township's administration office on 1150 S. Canton Center is to get some feedback from the residents as to the needs of the program.

The program provides supervisors and equipment (from the township) to local parks and playgrounds in the subdivisions of the township.

Michael Gouin, director of the parks and recreation for Canton, said that the program is the biggest one for reaching local children. "It's also our biggest cost program," he said.

In the program, college students and other workers provide leadership and supervision for all the local playgrounds and also provide equipment for baseball games and other activities.

"We want to find out where all the parks are and how they are being used by the homeowners associations and we want to get feedback," said Gouin. "We want to talk about all the ingredients of this program and get some response from people."

There are two leaders for each site, said Gouin and the program works two shifts in the afternoon. The first is from 1 to 4 p.m. and the second from 5 to 8 p.m.

"We've gone with the afternoon shifts instead of the usual morning shift because of the 45-15 system and because we've had better turnouts on the good days than if we were in the morning," said Gouin.

Last year the township had 18 leaders for its various sites. Those leaders move from playground to playground and take equipment with them.

"If there is a tremendous demand we'll probably have to add some people," Gouin said, adding that last year, 13 sites were served by the program.

Gouin also said that the township is limited in what it can do because of the number of parks and because some homeowners associations don't want leaders in their parks.

"So that's why we need to find out what they want," said Gouin. "We want representatives from all the homeowners groups and associations where there is supervised programs and where there are not."

In the future, said Gouin, the township will conduct a community wide attitude survey that will cover a whole gamut of questions.

"Hopefully from that we can get a better picture of the situation and can use it in the recreation department's programs," Gouin said.

Soccer Clinic

Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with the Livonia Family Y is sponsoring a four-week soccer clinic for boys and girls in grades two through five.

The four-week program will begin March 3. The fee is $8 per youth.

Miller, Field and Isbister Elementary Schools will be the scene of the program. Days are Tuesday, at Miller, Wednesday, at Field and Thursday at Isbister.

Miller classes will run from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. in two sessions, Field classes will be from 3:45 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. in two sessions and Isbister classes will be from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in two one-hour sessions.

Register in person at or by mail to Canton Parks and Recreation Department 1150 South Canton Center Rd., Canton, 48188.

For further details call 397-1000.

Doyle finishes

Jayne Doyle of Plymouth recently returned from Barrie, Ontario, Canada, after participating in the Barrie Sno-Do 100 snowmobile race.

Doyle, the Junior Civitan governor of the Michigan District, completed the eight-hour marathon over some of Ontario's most scenic country, according to Robert Buchler, Civitan's director of youth activities.

LAURIE BEALE was out sick for the Canton gymnastics squad last week as the Chiefs competed in the Ann Arbor Huron Invitational over the weekend. Teammate Laura Michalik finished 10th overall for Canton. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Chief gymnasts 9th at invite

The Canton gymnastics team had to do without its top performer Saturday, and finished ninth overall in the Ann Arbor Huron Invitational.

Laurie Beale was missing from the Chiefs' line-up, out with strep throat.

Laura Michalik was Canton's highest finisher in the tournament action. She placed 10th on the vault with a 8.3; 8th on the beam with a score of 7.6; 10th in the floor exercise with a 8.05 mark, and 10th in the All-Around with a score of 31.8.

Linda Beale placed 11th on the bars for Canton with a 7.95 score.

The Chiefs final team score was 126.3.

Ann Arbor Huron won the invitational with a total score of 159.25, followed by Troy in second place with a point tally of 156.1.

"We didn't have as good a day as we normally do," Canton coach John Cunningham said. Then, referring to post-season action, he said: "We did get to see what we'll be up against."

Tonight, in a league match, Canton will face Northville in the last home meet of the season.

Tomorrow the Chiefs will close out the season at Walled Lake Central.

Mott rally beats Canton

Matt Thomas and Sean Houle connected for Canton at the start of the third period and opened up a 26-20 lead.

Houle hit for six more points by the 1:53 mark, and despite three turnovers at the end of the quarter, Canton hung onto the lead 34-29 going into the fourth period.

Trailing by seven, Mott's Tom Amell hit two freethrows and canned an additional shot off of a traveling call against the Chiefs, to cut the lead to three, 38-35 at the 6:20 mark.

Steve Tuttle and Houle each scored for Canton, but Mott made three unanswered baskets, and moved ahead of the Chiefs for the first time with four minutes to play, 43-42.

Canton and Mott each recorded two turnovers before The Corsair's John Hingst pushed in two freethrows after being fouled by Tommie Harris on a questionable call, to send Waterford in front 45-42.

Mott's Eric Struble broke the dry spell with 58 seconds left to play, hitting two free shots, opening up a 47-42 margin.

Matt Thomas made Canton's last basket of the game with 48 seconds on the clock, leaving the Chiefs behind 47-44.

Following the conversion of the front end of a two-shot freethrow try by Mott's Pete Vartabedian, Thomas had a chance to put Canton down 48-44, back within two at the charity stripe with 12 seconds remaining, but failed to follow through on the first shot, and left Canton down as the clock reeled off the final seconds.

Sean Houle was high scorer for Canton with 22 points and Dave Malek added 10.

Canton will play Harrison away on Friday at 7 p.m.

Curiosities

The town locksmith was standing by during last week's blizzard to keep your Crier dry -- thanks Carl; and also Mimi Marks, Jean Braun, Janet Holt, Janie Graham, Bernadette Pado and Margaret Glomski for driving through it all and the 185 carriers who got it delivered (almost all on time too).

THERE ONCE was a lady named Grace, who in extravagance rated first place. It won her my heart 'cause the others she'd outpace!

Gloria, Thanks for the Great Valentine Munchies.

Joanna

When will the two EMT'S order their brains?

Bruce S., Wayne State is keeping its fingers crossed in hopes of your coming. (Even if you have to walk.)

Phil, how are you & your new roomie working out? Visit over break, pal.

Here, Big Rapidsians, is your promised curio. Individual ones follow. Have a nice break folks.

Congratulations Howard T.! You win a fun-filled week for one in exciting tropical Plymouth. This includes hotel & meals. See you!

Dear Conrad, Hope you find a good job in B.C. Sorry you'll miss the party.

EYE CATCHERS

Misties, candlelights, environmentals, and so much more to add that special touch to your wedding photography. Rawlinson Photography, 453-8872.

What do you get when your car dies once more on Ridge near Ford? A nice person like Mel (from Mel's Auto who just happens to be driving by) to give you a ride home. Thanks, Joanna (the lady with the VW)

Dad -- don't you think the handcuffs are taking your "policeman" role just a bit too far. Love the tie you pig.

Curiosities

Joanna - two down and eight to go.

Ralph B. -- next time let me take the pictures. True to your ability you succeed (good thing).

Is there anybody out there?

SAV -- now those are what I call campy socks. Hearts on hearts. Keep in touch, Man can define what abnormal is, but he can't explain what it is to be normal (look at history's greats and worsts). Since we can't be what we can't explain is there any other road than the abnormal. Syd.

Jessica & Ed -- thanks for our X-mas present. We love it!

Kristen, Kathy, Beth

Julie,

Had a great lunch. Keep in touch please!

Thanks for the coloring book Aunt Helen and Uncle Clarence. It's fun to ask what each one is.

Dad, now I know why I wasn't suppose to touch the mercury in the car. Sorry.

Scot

Sorry the case was too brief!

-- Grace

Rob & Deb, get your taste buds ready!
