

At 1981-1982 budget priorities

School board will take another look

BY DAN BODENE

A subcommittee of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education has recommended restoring more than $1 million to the schools' budget for next year.

The move, which may amount to a finalization of budget cuts, still leaves the district with a deficit of more than $2 million.

The restoration money will come, however, from the projected fund equity -- an amount estimated to be carried over from this year's budget which is held as a reserve.

Superintendent John Hoben warns that reducing the fund equity too much may be disastrous in the event of a large drop in the student population, which would drastically decrease state aid, or if costly repairs to schools' equipment are needed.

The subcommittee, composed of board treasurer Glenn Schroeder, vice president Stephen Harper and secretary Elaine Kirchgatter, met over the last several weeks to prioritize "add backs" to the 1981-82 budget, which had been cut back

Seven file for city commission

Seven Plymouth residents have filed prior to yesterday's 4 p.m. deadline for the 1981 City Commission race. There are four seats available this year.

Current commissioners David Pugh, 964 Roosevelt; Ralph Kenyon, 1400 Hartsough; and Mark Wehmeyer, 1470 Maple have filed along with William Robinson, 1395 Elm; Gregory Green, 1063 York; Dorothy Frid, 521 Adams; and Marda Benson, 1073 Penniman. All have turned in petitions with the needed 25 valid signatures.

There will not be a primary for the Nov. 3 election.

Under the Plymouth city charter, commissioners can serve no more than two consecutive terms. That means Mayor Mary Childs may not enter the race since she is finishing her second term.

After the election, at the first regular meeting of the new commission, a mayor and mayor pro-tem will be selected by the commission.

Plymouth Township voters face fire department millage

Plymouth Township will conduct a special election Aug. 25 to renew its half-mill levy for the operation of the township fire department.

Members of the township board of trustees will debate whether or not to ask for an additional mill at the June 30 regular meeting (changed from June 23).

Currently the township's levy generates $291,000, which was far below the $525,759 needed to operate the department in 1980. It is estimated that the department will need $516,145 for 1981. The bulk of the difference has and will continue to come from the township's general fund and from state and federal revenue sharing.

Costs for the department have doubled since 1972 when it cost $269,936 to keep the department running. The township has subsidized the operation since 1976, including capital improvements and improvement costs.

So far this year the department has been called on 106 fire reports and 211 rescue runs as compared with 71 and 217, respectively for last year. The department has also been called on 38 false alarms already this season as compared with 39 for the whole of last year.

Total fire loss thus far this year is estimated at $274,794 as compared with $99,841 for all of 1980.

Among the contests on the schedule will be the attempt by the balloonists to pick up a set of keys from atop a pole with the winner getting the use of a 1981 car for one year in a contest sponsored by Dick Scott Buick.

Balloons will be launched from the Central Middle School soccer field.

Each balloon will be sponsored by a Plymouth business. Sponsors are Sideways, Plymouth Travel Consultants, First National Bank of Plymouth, Dick Scott Buick, Forest Place, British Airways, The Big Red Q Quick Print, Mardon Construction, John C. Graham, C. J. Finlan and Sons, Inc.

Harrison Refrigeration, Manley, Bennett, McDonald and Company, Engraving Connection, Palmer Paving, Westchester Square, and Mayflower Optical.

Many of the sponsors will be raffling off a balloon ride for two. Entry blanks can be picked up at the sponsoring businesses.

The festival begins at 6 p.m. on Friday, July 10, with a mass balloon ascent. The Saturday program will begin with a sunrise flight, with sponsors aboard. Then the festivities focus on downtown

Plymouth with special balloon sales by local retailers and an early bird brunch at the Mayflower beginning at 9 a.m. By midday, local car dealers will have their cars on display around Kellogg Park and the Penn Theatre will feature balloon oriented movies.

Canton board explores Haggerty paving funding

BY DICK BROWN

Canton Township board members are still exploring ways to fund the paving of Haggerty Road from Joy Road south to Warren Road, a distance of 1.3 miles. The township has called paving Haggerty a major key to industrial development west of I-275 freeway.

There is no help on the way from the Wayne County Road Commission, according to the report submitted last Tuesday night by Jim Kosteva, Canton Township planner. With road commission funding assistance out of the question, Canton officials are exploring a plan to set up a special assessment district. A check is being made on the legality of expanding the special assessment district to include properties which do not front on Haggerty but would receive benefits from the road improvement.

In his letter, Kosteva suggested that the first step would be to explore "in-house financing of the project by the township and the next step would be to finalize the total project costs, including engineering and construction costs for the road as well as engineering and construction costs for the drain improvements required.

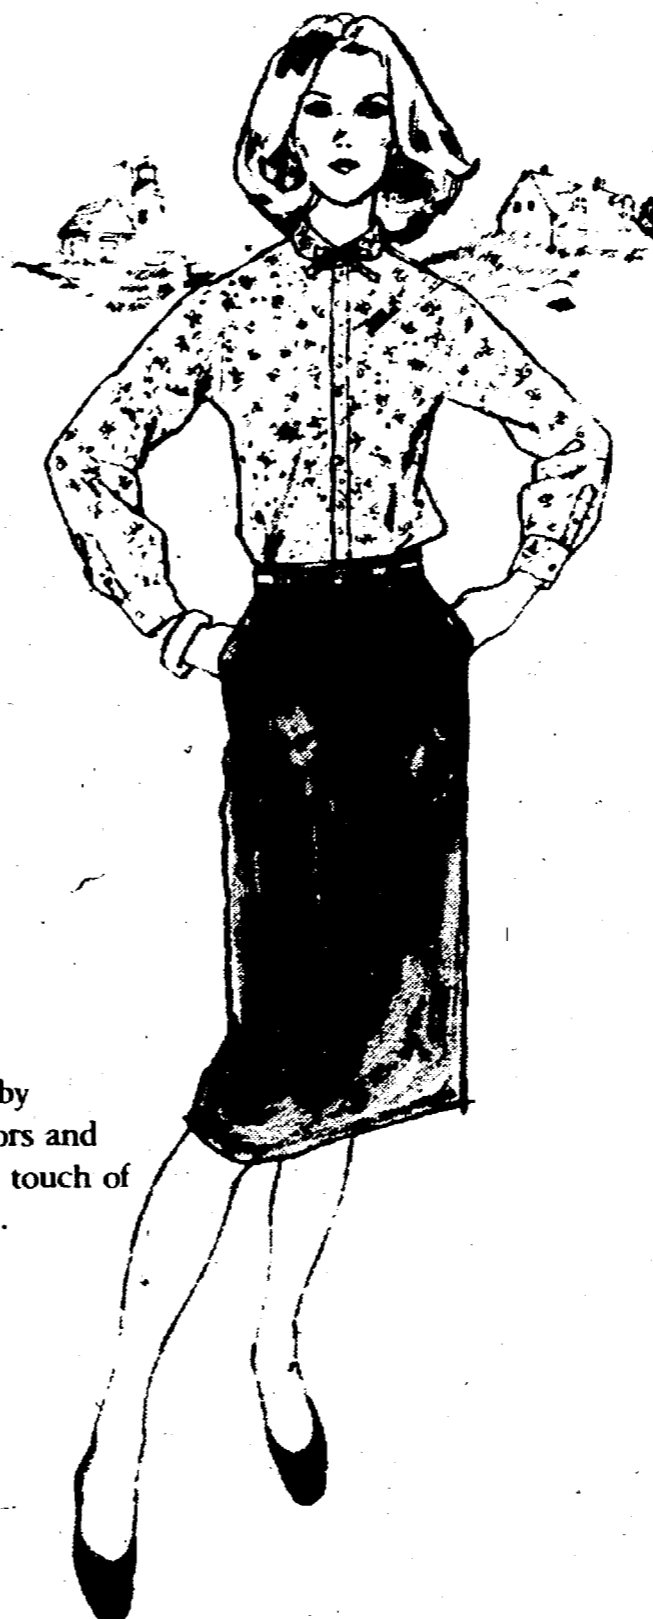

Kosteva's report was followed Tuesday night by a report from former Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, who was involved with previous plans to pave Haggerty.

Canton Township tried to get the Haggerty improvement off the ground in 1979 but the attempt failed.

Ball park figures tossed out Tuesday night place the cost at $2.6 million.

The paving of Haggerty would open up 90 to 100 acres of land zoned industrial, according to the reports given Canton trustees.

Canton man charged in hit-run fatality case

A Canton Township resident is expected to be charged Thursday with leaving the scene of a fatal accident, according to Plymouth Police, in the hit-and-run death of Bascom Belton two weeks ago.

Michael Warren Smith, 24, of 1700 Morrison will be arraigned in the 35th District Court. The felony charge could carry a two-year sentence.

Belton, 13, was struck down May 28 while riding his bicycle across Joy Road east of Tavistock in Plymouth Township. At the time only a car make and color were identified by witnesses, including a friend of Belton's who had already crossed the street.

Belton died of massive head injuries later that night.

With witness testimony and the remains of a turn signal reflector for physical evidence the Plymouth Police discovered the vehicle to be a Ford LTD.

The owner of the car called police after a friend mentioned the death of Belton. According to police, the car's owner noticed the damage to his automobile and asked Smith about it. He asked Smith to clear himself with the police after he found out the car could have been in the accident.

Smith never came to police. The owner of the car turned it in for inspection to the Michigan Crime Lab, where it was identified as the vehicle involved.

Smith, who was scheduled to take a polygraph test late last week, never appeared. He also failed to appear for arraignment on Monday so police issued a warrant for his arrest.

The owner said he had loaned the car to Smith to take to strike duty but he did not return until early the next morning. The damage was noticed by his wife.

Locked door proves troublesome

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP firefighters cut their way through the rear door of Plymouth Party Store, 1333 Ann Arbor Road, late Monday night to get to a blaze that had started in the small office of the store. Although the blaze was contained to the back part of the building, most or all of the merchandise inside was ruined, according to Plymouth Police. Township units returned to the scene twice yesterday after the fire had rekindled. There is no indication of arson at this time said police. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

School board seeking study committee volunteers

Tired of hearing what the school board has done without ever asking your opinion?

Take heart - a new series of "12x12x12" committees is forming to advise the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and volunteers are needed.

A series of 12 committees composed of up to 12 persons will study topics for 12 weeks this fall, and make their reports to the school board in December.

The board will appoint members to the 12 committees on July 13, and any interested person in the Plymouth-Canton school district is welcome to serve.

According to Dick Egli, assistant superintendent for community relations, 12x12x12 committees usually meet for one or two hours per week during the 12 week period.

Topics selected by the board for this fall's committees include housing; budget; curriculum development at elementary, middle and high school levels; extra-curricular activities; volunteerism in schools; review of support services; discipline and attendance; legislation; review of maintenance programs; and review of in-house data processing.

Any person in the Plymouth-Canton district interested in working on a 12x12x12 committee is asked to contact the community relations office at 453-0200, extension 420.

Surprise, Surprise

When Canton fire fighters arrived at the scene of the May 31 Cherry Hill Condominiums fire, they discovered that their 500-gallon pumper truck had no water in it.

"It was a screw up and we're finding out why," said Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun. "We had extra trucks there," to handle the fire without major problem, Paulun said, but the empty pumper did hamper efforts.

Canton officials are still investigating the incident, the chief said.

The pumper was responding from Station 2 to the blaze which was followed the next day by a spectacular $125,000 to $150,000 fire, which is under investigation by the Force Five Arson Squad.

Cherry Hill Condominiums are located at Cherry Hill and Lotz roads.

Joint library pact close for city and township

A collaboration between Plymouth and Plymouth Township in another area of services has reached the contract signing stage.

Monday night City Commissioners passed a resolution allowing City Manager Henry Graper Jr. to sign a contract with the township for the operational cost split of the Dunning-Hough Library on Main Street.

The Township Board of Trustees approved the contract at a special meeting Friday.

The commissioners also appointed a five-person library board Monday as required by state law. Its only power will be to recommend, said Township Supervisor Maurice Breen.

On that board will be Head Librarian Nancy Sharp, City Treasurer Kenneth Wax, City Clerk Gordon Limburg, City Commissioner Ron Loiselle and Graper. Their terms will expire a year apart on a staggered schedule.

The other ruling body, the library commission, of which Sharp is also a member, is currently one short of its five commissioners due to Canton township's representative's withdrawal leaving two each from the city and the township. A fifth member will be appointed to that board by the remaining members.

The Library Commission will retain day-to-day operational power, while the library board will prepare and submit the library's future budgets. Both the city and township, however, have to approve such a budget. That budget will work on a calendar year schedule.

Also called for in the contract is a cost split of 50-50. All penal fines will be directly credited to the library budget and after those deductions the cost split will be computed.

Although the city built the building, the materials inside will also be split equally.

Rush hour traffic held up by ducks

Morning rush hour traffic on Ann Arbor Road doesn't slow or stop for anything much.

But Friday's drivers came to a halt in both directions as a mother wood duck escorted her six ducklings across the road heading north between Southworth and Haggerty.

The crossing was made without incident except for the last duckling who couldn't jump the curb and needed a hurried retrieval from its mom. Once it cleared the curb, the rush hour frenzy returned and traffic roared off.

Canton to tackle reorganization issue at special meeting

The next round in Canton Township's department reorganization efforts will come at a special meeting set for Wednesday, June 17.

At the first session last month played to a full house of township employees and department heads, the reorganization recommendations of the special committee made up of Supervisor Jim Poole, Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz and Clerk John Flodin initiated a sometimes heated debate. The special committee had recommended that the ordinance enforcement department duties be turned over to the building department.

The committee was charged with the responsibility of studying a complete reorganization and staffing changes for all township departments. Among the changes being considered is reorganization of the police cadet program which is currently being investigated by CETA officials for possible CETA regulation violations, combining the police and fire department dispatching operations and making staffing changes in the public works department.

Crossing guard agreement nears

An agreement on funding school crossing guards may soon be ratified between the City and Township of Plymouth and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The issue stems from a lawsuit filed by resident James E. McCarthy, Sr. several years ago which sought to force the schools to fund crossing guards. Originally filed against the school district, the suit later included the township as a co-defendant.

The state legislature, meanwhile, passed a statute which requires municipal governments to fund crossing guards. A recent consent judgement upheld the statute.

The school district, which nonetheless offered to share the cost of crossing guards with the city and township, included in a proposed agreement a "perpetuity" clause which would have kept the agreement in force regardless of changes in state statute regarding crossing guard funding.

Both the city and township objected to the perpetuity clause, citing a reluctance to "lock in" future administrations to the funding agreement.

A new agreement, however, states the cost of crossing guards will be shared and "shall continue until further Order of this Court based upon a change of or amendment to said statute upon motion by any party or change by agreement of the parties hereto."

The school district will be responsible for hiring, training and supervising crossing guards, according to the new agreement, and can change their location only after completing a study and consulting with the city and township.

July 4th donations now coming in

Plans for the annual Plymouth Jaycee sponsored July 4th parade are proceeding on schedule said Jaycee Parade Chairman Doug Polkington at the Plymouth City Commission meeting Monday.

The Jaycees were in attendance at the meeting seeking a $750 donation from the city to help in parade expenses.

The commission approved the request. Polkington added that there were 55 entries thus far for the parade with a number of band entries still to be heard from.

Although Fourth of July activities organizers were a little nervous at lacking a sponsor for the Fourth of July fireworks display, one has been found.

Plans for the Fourth of July festivities hosted by the Plymouth Jaycees are well underway, and the list of donors to the event keeps on growing.

Perhaps the single greatest will be the Budweiser Brewing Co. through Central Distributors of Taylor, who will make the fireworks possible. According to Mike Stankov of the Plymouth Jaycees, Bill Ventola of Central Distributors was most responsible for convincing Budweiser to sponsor the display, which will cost approximately $3,000.

Other donors to the event should not be forgotten, however. Currently, the list includes Joe West, treasurer of Plymouth Township, Plymouth Rug Cleaners, Judge Dunbar Davis, Lowe and Lewandowski, Walker and Buzenberg, Evans and Hovey, D.D.S., Sun Plastics Coating, Penn Theatre, Schrader Funeral Home and Alexander Harper Co.

Hilton may host NFL party

According to sales manager Mike Haggerty, the Plymouth Hilton may be the site of the winner's party after the conclusion of the 1981 Superbowl held in the Pontiac Superdome.

Haggerty says the Hilton is being seriously considered by the National Football League (NFL) for the winning team party, due to its status as a "Four Diamond" hotel and the fact it has the second largest ballroom in the state.

The sheer scope of the Superbowl event, which Haggerty says will bring three and one-half more visitors and $15 million more into the area than the Republican convention last summer, will mean a lot of business to the community.

Haggerty says NFL organizers under the direction of Jim Steeg will make the final decision by Jan. 10.

by the full board in March by $3.2 million.

After the defeat of recent millage proposals, according to Schroeder, the subcommittee agreed to recommend partial restoration of cuts made at a March workshop by using $1,369,500 of the projected fund equity.

Add backs recommended by the subcommittee include restoring $60,900 to administration; $200,000 to certified ratios (the number of teachers to students); $84,000 to clerical staff; $110,000 to custodians; and $10,000 for equipment replacement, which may be supplemented by another $15,000 previously budgeted for grade realignment.

The subcommittee also recommended restoring $31,000 to the athletic budget and suggested adding soccer as a varsity sport at both high schools and expanding the ninth grade athletic program.

In addition, under the proposed restorations $25,000 would be returned for after-school stipends, $125,000 would be restored for aides, $21,000 would be returned for the driver education program and $3,500 would be returned to the CEP music program.

Edwin Page, executive director of special programs and student services, also said with a proposed restoration of $163,000 to special education, "it appears we can restore the pink-slipped social workers." An occupational therapist and a physical therapist could also return in the fall, he said, due to federal funding for their positions.

Trustee Flossie Tonda stressed the restorations are proposed at the expense of the fund equity, and district taxpayers should not feel the recent millage proposals were not needed.

A public hearing to discuss the proposed 1981-82 budget will be held Monday, June 22 at 7 p.m. in the school board office, 454 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

Family burns out for second time

A BIG HOLE IN THE ROOF and a pile of burned clothes and other possessions greeted The Alan Prince family Thursday morning when they looked at the aftermath of the Wednesday night fire which did extensive damage to their home in Carriage Hills, Canton Township. Two years ago the Prince family were victims of a home fire which claimed the life of a son. The Wednesday night blaze did considerable damage to the roof, attic and a bedroom and destroyed much of the family's winter clothing. 2 more drivers hit trains after driving through crossing gates

Two more railroad connected accidents occurred in Plymouth over the weekend.

At 3:08 a.m. Sunday morning Victoria C. Truax, 21, of 7321 Windsor Woods Apartments in Canton apparently couldn't wait long enough for a C&O train to cross through the W. Ann Arbor Trail crossing, and struck the rear of the caboose after driving through the crossing gates, according to a Plymouth police report.

She was not injured but was issued a citation for driving under the influence of liquor.

At 7:05 a.m. Saturday Joan E. Keiser, 18, of 15004 Maplewood in Plymouth attempted to cross the Mill Street railroad crossing south of Ann Arbor Trail before the oncoming C&O Engine No. 3739 and was struck in the right rear by the train, according to Plymouth police. She was not injured.

Keiser left the scene at the time of the accident said the police report, and was later issued a citation for attempting to run the crossing gates.

'Secrecy Syndrome' is a destructive disease

At every level of government there is usually, at one time or another, an outbreak of a governmental disease called "Secrecy Syndrome."

First noticeable symptom is a proliferation of executive sessions. A more serious symptom usually follows which calls for officials to express concern that subjects discussed at closed sessions are leaked in one way or another to the press and to the public.

The disease cropped up last week with Canton Township Trustee Steve Larson expressing concern that word leaked out that Canton's police cadet program was in trouble with CETA officialdom because of a couple of regulation violations. Larson questioned whether there was a board policy and policy enforcement provisions prohibiting township officials and employees from discussing subjects discussed in closed sessions.

The Michigan sunshine statutes are clear. There is a place for closed meetings—provided those meetings are limited to matters involving court litigation, matters involving personnel problems and matters involving land acquisition by the unit of government in question.

There is no place, though, for attempts to muzzle township employees or officials involved in the operations of government business in behalf of the taxpayer.

Apathy on the part of the electorate breeds on lack of information as to the problems, solutions to those problems and the general operation of government. When the business of the people's government is conducted out in the open with free exchange of information and ideas, many of the problems become much smaller.

Democratic government needs two-way communication. That two-way communication doesn't exist when government wants to curtail the information, releasing only the good news and suppressing the bad.

In this particular Canton case the concern of Larson is even more ludicrous because for months the CETA question has been bandied about throughout the township.

Canton township board members, as well as all other government boards and commissions, should actively pursue openness in government.

There is one basic fact in life—including the life of any government body. Mistakes made in public are just mistakes. Mistakes made in private are always suspect.

Residents along Maple Street in Plymouth may soon be able to say they have changed the 'masterplan.'

They may cause, through various rezoning petitions, a change in the city's masterplan for zoning as written over 15 years ago and close to being obsolete or at least in need of revision.

A representative of the city's planning consultant, Vilican-Lemann, did a fairly extensive study of land use along Maple between Deer and Hamilton Streets at the request of the Planning Commission and presented it to the commission last Wednesday.

A number of rezoning petitions gathered by residents spurred the commission into looking at possible rezoning. Currently (the street is dominated by single family homes, commercial property and several office zones, but is mainly zoned commercial and multiple family residents.

The residents along the street are looking for a better cushion for themselves from encroaching commercial zones and they found support in the commission's decision to hold a pair of public hearings at the August meeting to effect an amendment to the masterplan as written and bring about a change along Maple.

The July meeting will provide the consultants a chance to present a more detailed look at exactly what is needed. They will also present a recommendation.

The second of the two public hearings will be for the actual rezoning, if it is decided to change the masterplan. The hearings will be held in August to give the consultants time to present their study.

Currently the land use along the street fits very closely with the original masterplan, but with the barrage of rezoning petitions the commission deemed it wise to look at an entire re-evaluation of the street.

The potential rezoning, as outlined by the consultants, would include a small buffer zone of office zoning at three lots, two on the south side of Maple and one on the north. The rest of the street would be rezoned from RM (multiple) to RT, or two family.

The commission also rejected rezoning requests from two residents along the street, claiming it would be easier to look at the street as a whole and also to avoid possible spot zoning that could result.

One resident wanted to rezone his lot from B-3 commercial to multiple, while the other wanted a change from multiple to two-family. Both lots would come under two-family rezoning in the possible amendment.

Planning Commission Chairman William Leonard wondered whether now might be the time to consider looking at other areas in the city that might need revision of the masterplan.

The size and expense of such a task makes it clear, however, that the city commission would play a major role in deciding the worth of such a study.

Berg gets praise for charter work

Tilting at windmills can be a thankless job, in fact it usually is.

Just ask Bart Berg.

He's the Wayne County Charter Commissioner elected from Plymouth-Canton's district (the largest county district) largely on the basis of being a man known for using common sense.

Perhaps therein lies the rub.

There's very little about Wayne County government or its would-be "reformers" that has anything whatsoever to do with common sense.

So how does a guy who sells picnic tables for a living fare in the Wayne County cesspool? Pretty well all told.

Bart made his mark by going after those few issues he felt were especially important and tried to lick his wounds on the matters our district was destined to lose on.

To Bart, it was a contribution to change the proposed charter to allow

With Malice Toward None

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

qualified electors as road commissioners rather than county residents. All that does, of course, is eliminate bringing in an out-of-county resident as a road commissioner.

Never mind that the larger issue was how to control the road commissioners (even if they hailed from Cleveland, Ohio they would probably be more responsive than Road Czar Mike Berry who only answers to the county's major road contractors). Bart did what he could to get at least one small change through.

The charter commission post was a thankless task.

Just the proposed proposals before the charter committees would form a stack of paper a mile high. To wade through it all would be a job in itself.

Bart was one of the few Republicans elected to the charter body, but his partisanship rarely made any difference if ever. He's just that kind of a guy.

Now he faces the last hurdle of serving as our district's resource on the proposed charter, because, like it or not, it's on the November ballot.

Bart must now face the decision of backing a charter with fewer reforms than he wanted or take nothing at all. (There will be two versions of the charter one with an elected county executive and one with an appointed county administrator on the ballot.)

That position remains to be seen on his part; stay tuned.

But now that the major task is over, we all owe Bart a hearty thanks for slugging it out without even looking for a thank you.

Coloring It Brown

By Dick Brown

There are a lot of good reasons—good plausible reasons—why we are in the midst of a quagmire of problems in world, nation, state, county and community. Many of the reasons aren't going to be changed by us little guys up and down the street.

But as we face inflation, unemployment, high energy costs, cutbacks in governmental services and a host of other problems there is one way we can help.

We can quit griping.

For the past couple of months, most of the week ends have been spent hunting for a home to purchase in the Plymouth or Canton areas. You get to meet a lot of people that way.

Invariably, in making small talk prior to saying the price is too high, the kitchen is too small or the fuel bill too high, the conversation gets around to taxes and the cost of local government.

In most cases, there were lots of complaints. Complaints ran from the poor business climate, the lack of employment, schools not doing the right job, streets in need of repair and elected local officials not doing a good job.

One Plymouth homeowner was quite emphatic when he said, "The trouble with this town is that the same old crowd at city hall is trying to run everything."

He got a little hostile when I countered by asking him how many city commission meetings he had attended and how many times he had sought out a commissioner or other city official to ask a question, offer advice or register a grievance. His answer was, that it would be a waste of time.

That's when I came to the conclusion that most people don't recognize the difference between badmouthing and criticism.

The trouble is that too many people bellyache instead of offering constructive criticism.

After covering city commission meetings, township meetings, county board of commissioner meetings, school board meetings and other local government activities for 36 years in several parts of the state, I would have to rate Plymouth-Canton School Board meetings, Plymouth Commission meetings, Canton Township meetings and Plymouth Township meetings at the head of the list for giving constituents a chance to express their opinions.

Yet in spite of willingness to listen, there are too few who take advantage of the opportunity.

Township, city and school officials in this area impress me with the obvious—that they are genuinely interested in making better communities. They would have to be dedicated to that purpose because they don't take these tough jobs for the big money.

Sure, they make mistakes—but they are apt to make a lot more of them when they operate in a vacuum meeting after meeting with the chairs for the constituents gathering dust.

Being a good citizen takes more than occasionally voting and paying your taxes.

There is room for improvement in every phase of the community, but that improvement will not be the product of negative complaining. It will come from constructive criticism and from exchanging ideas. Bellyaching over the bridge table, at the corner bar or to the guy trying to buy a house won't solve anything.

Don't cut school library staff

EDITOR:

The Plymouth-Canton School District has in the past maintained a reputation of educational excellence known statewide. We, the undersigned, feel that the elimination of a District Director of Libraries will only serve to diminish that reputation of excellence.

A district director can provide many valuable services in the areas of cost reduction, coordination and consultation for our schools. Over 53 percent of the school districts in the state have the services of a media person responsible for the district-wide program.

The American Library Association defines the role of a district media director as "a person (who) occupies the key position in bringing to the educational program the full application of media and technology." The position entails coordinating effective planning of the media program in conjunction with goals and objectives of the district's instructional program.

The scope of the role of director is broad enough to entail our involvement in national, state and area programs that strengthen the position of Plymouth-Canton within the educational community. (i.e., E.B. A. citation as the excellent media program for the state of Michigan, A.L.A. recognition of one of our local staff and participation in many county programs.)

Generation of funds either through IV-B, Nichols Trust Fund and others, as well as the cost saving factor of district involvement in Wayne County Schools Purchasing Council, block periodical and film ordering only reinforce the need for a central coordinating person.

Because of the many variables within the individual schools of our district, the coordination by a director lends a support and direction to the total program through communication and consultation.

We trust that the members of the Plymouth-Canton School Board and Administrative Cabinet will consider maintaining Plymouth-Canton's leadership role within the Library-Media Centers of our state by restoring the position of Director of Libraries.

Local residents enjoy fun at Canton Jaycee Fair

A weekend of rain didn't dampen the Seventh Annual Canton Jaycee Fair. Turnout was good according to Tim Orbacki, Canton Jaycee Fair Chairman.

Canton Jaycees have sponsored the fair for the past seven years. Last year as well as this year, fair goers suffered through rainy weather. Turnout for the fair was best on Friday according to Orbacki.

All the usual carnival activities could be found at the fair which was held June 10-14. A selection of rides, games, a big top tent and food were available.

The fair is a big fund raiser for the Canton Jaycees. All profits from the fair go back into the community. It has grown a great deal since it first opened seven years ago on the corner of Joy and Sheldon Rds.

Plymouth Hall of Fame adds more names

★ Norma Cassady

★ Michael Conner

★ Lewis Cass Hough

★ Floyd A. Kehrl

Four new names have been added to the Plymouth Hall of Fame, sponsored by the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, and will be put on permanent exhibit at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Inducted this year into the Plymouth Hall of Fame are Lewis Cass Hough, Michael Conner, Floyd A. Kehrl and Norma Cassady.

Placques bearing the likeness of all four will join the 16 members inducted last year, when the Hall of Fame first opened.

To qualify for the Plymouth Hall of Fame, nominees can be past or present members of the community, must be a resident of 10 years, be at least 30 years old, and have made recognizable contributions to the community in terms of time, money or effort in the building or rebuilding of the physical or political well being of the community.

A public dinner honoring these new Hall of Famers will be held at the Cultural Center June 23 at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $12.50 each, and are available from any Kiwanis Club member or may be ordered from P.O. Box 594 Plymouth.

Lewis Cass Hough founded the Plymouth Elevator grain business here in 1875. He helped form Plymouth Iron Windmill Company, which became Daisy Manufacturing Company in 1895. Hough was village treasurer, 1886-87; village trustee 1890-91; township supervisor, 1890; village president, 1892; and Michigan state senator, 1893. His son, Edward C. Hough was elected to the Hall of Fame last year.

Michael Conner founded Conner Hardware Store in Plymouth in 1857. He was township clerk in 1862 and was village president 10 times between 1868 and 1891. During his tenure, the village hall was built and the water supply system approved. He helped convince the Flint and Pere Marquette railroad to extend the line from Plymouth to Monroe, connecting Plymouth to Detroit. Conner was president of the Plymouth Iron Windmill Company and director of the Plymouth school board.

Floyd A. Kehrl was known as "the farmer's friend" during his 47 years as a local banker. He encouraged the establishment of many local business firms. He helped establish the industrial Development Corporation in Plymouth after Daisy Rifle left town. He was a trustee of Schoolcraft Community College, and contributed the bell tower to the college. Kehrl was a generous contributor to several local churches and other organizations.

Norma Cassady lives on North Territorial Road and was a key figure in the cataloging and preserving of memorabilia for the Plymouth Historical Museum during its formative years. She was a member of the first board of directors of the Plymouth Symphony Society which was formed to raise funds to help support the symphony. A business woman in Plymouth for 33 years (1933-66), Cassady is a charter member of the Business and Professional Women's Association.

Voting is one of those things Americans have to endure every so often. It's not really a painful thing, but sometimes comes close to being unbearable listening to long winded politicians before an election.

Living in a free country means every citizen of voting age has the right, privilege, and duty to cast a ballot for his or her choice. It doesn't matter whether it's a candidate or an issue facing the voters, not everyone agrees on who or what is the best choice.

In our household we never agree on any candidates or issues. In fact, I refuse to even discuss anything relating to politics or an election with my husband. It always leads to an argument. There was a time when I used to try to educate him on who or what to vote for, but I soon discovered he was beyond help -- and stubborn too. I just don't understand why he can't see things my way.

There's nothing like standing in line waiting to vote (three and a half hours in the presidential election) knowing your husband is going to come along and cast his ballot, canceling out everyone and everything you're going to vote for. We once thought of calling somekind of truce and neither of us voting. However not voting goes against something I believe in, and besides he would probably sneak off and vote anyway.

Election night is always interesting at our house. We try not to gloat when election results come in in our favor, but sometimes it's hard. I hate the smirky little grin that comes over his face when his candidate is declared the winner. Oh well, there's always next time.

Craig Brass, son of Alan and Janet Brass of Crabtree in Plymouth received a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Bowling Green State University.

Graduating high school seniors from Canton who will attend the University of Michigan-Dearborn this fall on Regents-Alumni Merit Scholarships are: Angela Peterson, Canton High School, majoring in management; and Jean Winans, Canton High School, majoring in computer and information science.

Plymouth students who recently received degrees from Oakland University in Rochester are: Kenneth H. Bloom of Turkey Run, master of business administration; Tara L. Booker of Beacon Hill, Bachelor of Science in management; and Michael P. Kenney of Dogwood Court, Bachelor of general studies.

Ducks Unlimited dinner draws area enthusiasts

Ducks Unlimited Western Wayne Chapter held its Inaugural Banquet fund raising dinner last Wednesday at the Plymouth Hilton.

Door prizes, a silent and live auction and raffle drawing were the attractions at the fund raiser. Prizes and auction items were donated by local people and businesses.

Items for auction included framed and signed Duck Stamps, a pewter & walnut Sportsman's Clock, assorted decoys, a stained glass Mallard, a Weatherby commemorative shotgun and many other items.

Ducks Unlimited is a non-profit, non-political, international wildlife organization which develops, preserves, restores and maintains waterfowl environments in North America. Ducks Unlimited is working with Canada to preserve our waterfowl because 70 percent of U.S. waterfowl originates in Canada.

Federal dollars cannot be spent above the border, so Ducks Unlimited works with the Canadian government and has taken the responsibility of caring for the waterfowl nesting areas in Canada.

Ducks Unlimited Western Wayne Chapter Committee members include John Nagy, Kal Jabara, Mike Rector, Scott Evett, Jim Jabara, Doug Freshwater, Mike Cicchella, Don DiComo, Bill Frazee, Ben Crabill, Harvey Miller and Jeff Teeter.

According to Kal Jabara, the dinner raised approximately $16,000.

Plymouth resident is named to account executive post

G. Temple Associates, Ltd., Southfield, has named Ron Bondie of Plymouth as account executive. Although Temple is primarily a metal working specialty firm, Bondie will handle machine tool and other clients.

Formerly production manager for G & D Communications Corp., Bondie also served as account executive for Helm, Inc. In addition he was owner and chief executive officer for an advertising agency, process printing plant and graphic arts studio in Houston for seven years.

A native of Plymouth, Bondie is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University in business administration and holds an MBA degree in marketing and sales promotion from the University of Michigan.

George Lawton of the Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union was recently written up in Contact Magazine, published by the Michigan Credit Union League, in an article honoring credit union volunteers.

"In both the community and the credit union, unless there is a contribution of time, thought and effort, not much headway will be made," Lawton was quoted. "All of us need to plow something back into civilization."

Wendy's International, in its 11th year, now has 2,080 restaurants in operation.

Ever have trouble seeing whether that little flag on the mailbox is up or not?

Sparling Plastic Industries, Inc. of Plymouth is now testing an invention to help.

Called the "Mailboy," the invention is an extension of the mailbox flag and includes a bright orange indicator. Invented by Owen Diaz of the Jord Co. in Milan, the Mailboy is now being developed and tested in the community by Sparling's Product Development Department.

Many Mailboys are now being tested in senior citizens' homes, thanks to Boy Scouts led by Bob Schaw who assembled and delivered them. In turn, comments on the invention are being received by William McVittie, sales manager at Sparling, and Sue Sparling, an intern from Albion College who is also involved in the product development.

Mailboys are also available at S & W Pro Hardware, 875 Ann Arbor Rd. and at Pease Paint and Wallpaper, 570 S. Main, both in Plymouth.

Omnicom on schedule in laying cable for Canton subscribers

Omnicom President Peter Newell gave Canton Township trustees another progress report last Tuesday night on the cable TV firm's township cable project, including the word that Omnicom is going to put a studio in Canton township on Joy Road. It will be located at 4171 Joy Rd.

When Newell made a report a couple of months ago, some members of the board expressed some concern that studio facilities would not be made available in Canton.

According to Newell, the cable installation is right on schedule with over 10 miles of aerial cable already in place out of 24 miles required and the underground cable laying running on schedule. He indicated that Omnicom would begin signing up cable TV subscribers on July 1.

Rain can't keep 'em away

NEARLY RAINED OUT on Saturday, the first annual Art in the Park nonetheless attracted a few of the more hardy mavens of culture. Organizers have set a new date for the event -- Saturday, June 27. Perhaps Mother Nature will be more willing to cooperate by then. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Twp. board rejects request for a peddlers ordinance

Plymouth Township Board of Trustees failed, at last week's regular meeting, to pass an ordinance prohibiting the licensing of new peddlers and canvassers during the Fall Festival.

The request for the ordinance came from the Fall Festival Board, who believed an antique mart scheduled at the Plymouth Hilton would be in direct competition with the Symphony League's Fall Festival Antique Mart.

The City of Plymouth already has such an ordinance.

In an attempt to cut down on peddlers and canvassers in Plymouth during the Fall Festival, a section of the city's Peddlers and Canvassers Ordinance addresses the problem.

The city ordinance says during the Fall Festival "no new license shall be issued by the City Clerk...Nor shall any licensee, previously licensed under this Chapter, engage or conduct any business during the period in which the Fall Festival is held in the City of Plymouth in that area bounded by Harvey, Wing, Harding, Maple, Hamilton, Roe, Union and Church Streets."

The township board turned down the motion moved by Treasurer Joe West and supported by Clerk Esther Hulsing, by a five to two margin, that would have had the same type of effect as the city's ordinance in the township.

"I like the idea of working closely with the Fall Festival Board," said West after the board had turned down his motion.

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said he believed the intent of the motion was to prohibit the Hilton from having an antique show, and he questioned whether or not the township could legally do that.

Hulsing said an ordinance such as requested is to get the commercialism out of the Fall Festival, but that it was too late to do anything about the Hilton's antique show.

Hulsing and Trustee Lee Fidge agreed that the Fall Festival has become too commercial. "I don't enjoy the Fall Festival as much as I used to," said Fidge. However, she did not believe the Hilton should be "penalized during that time." She said that people going to the Hilton would not effect the Fall Festival adversely.

Breen added that he wanted to find out exactly what the Fall Festival committee has in mind before adopting such a policy.

Twp seniors form club

Senior Citizen's of Plymouth Township have formed a new club.

Township seniors will meet June 18, at Township Hall, located at Ann Arbor and Lilley Rds. for their second organizational meeting. Seniors have been provided with a building where they can hold their meetings and activities.

The new location is a converted church located on the corner of Schoolcraft and Bradner Rds. which was acquired by the Township from the State of Michigan.

Refreshments will be served at the organizational meeting, and everyone is invited to attend.

School program supporters honored

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education held its second annual Plymouth-Canton Appreciation Night last Wednesday.

Appreciation Night recognizes the time and energy volunteers give to the Plymouth-Canton schools. Approximately 350 volunteers were present at Salem Auditorium for the night dedicated to volunteers.

The program included punch and cookies, several speeches, special performances by the Madrigal Singers from the Canton Music Department and the Kids on the Block Puppet Show, a final speech by Mike Corbin, program specialist for the Volunteer Action Center of Metropolitan Detroit.

The Canton Madrigal Singers are nine seniors including Mary Cleveland, Cheryl Dilts, Linda Dombey, Melissa DuBoir, Sue Kutcha, Michelle Stoyanoff, Tricia Thomas, Mary Ellen Wessels and Jill Zoladz.

Kids on the Block program was a special attraction at the Appreciation Night presented by puppeteers Rhonda Estes, Chris Lerchen and Barbara Gusfa, and their handicapped puppets. The travelling puppet show features four handicapped puppets and two normal puppets, and points out that handicappers are people too. The puppets are made under the direction of Barbara Aiello, a special education teacher in Washington D.C., put on by volunteer puppeteers and are in great demand not only in Plymouth-Canton, but also the Wayne-Westland area.

Lights, camera, action--in Old Village

A SECTION OF PLYMOUTH'S OLD VILLAGE became a movie set last week as film crews set up for a morning's shooting of five 30-second commercials for Auto Owners Insurance Company. Seeking to portray scenes in the everyday life of an insurance agent at home, the scenes were shot at Plymouth Fire Station No. 2, the side yard of an Old Village home, Hillside Inn, a baseball diamond and a bowling alley. In the picture above an actor playing the part of an insurance agent is caught in the action of working on his antique car. The car is owned by Chuck Hoppe of Farmington. The scene was shot in the yard of Plymouth resident, Robert Beyer. (Crier photo by Dick Brown)

Canton trustees OK playground equipment at municipal center

Canton Township trustees went along with a suggestion from Mike Goun, superintendent of Canton's Parks and Recreation Department, last Tuesday night and authorized the purchase of up to $1,500 worth of playground equipment at the Canton Municipal Center. Goun cited the need for the swings and other playground equipment for use by children attending the pre-school program at the township hall and pointed out that it would also be used by children while their parents were utilizing the township library. Children in the pre-school program are currently being bused to Griffin Park for their outside activities. Funds for the purchase will be taken from the township golf course funds set aside for park development.

CAN YOU SEE "SIDEWAYS"?

In a recent accident where a man drove his car off a mountain road, a clinical study revealed that the driver was able to see only directly ahead. He had what is called "tunnel vision." He could not see other vehicles approaching from the side.

When you drive, seeing straight ahead is not enough. Eye experts say you must be able to see at least 70 degrees to either side to drive safely.

The extent to which a vision specialist can improve your peripheral vision depends on the cause of the condition. But he can, at least, make you aware of the problem so that you can compensate.

Equestrian riding, an unknown sport at CEP

BY JAY KEENAN

Equestrian, a virtually unnoticed sport in the Plymouth Canton School District has second year coach Ann Thomas in search of new members for its upcoming season.

The non-varsity club open to all students in the school district from grades nine through 12, competed against high school teams throughout the state in the Michigan Interscholastic Horsemanship Association this past spring.

Because last year's team was only four riders strong, the club competed in the B Division of the MIHA, a conference with teams involving seven riders or less. The other conference, A Division, has teams with eight or more riders. The entire MIHA currently involves approximately 60 teams and 600 competitors, according to Thomas.

This past season the team managed to place 11th out of 27 teams in its division. "We were real pleased with the way we ended up," said Thomas. "With only four riders, and considering the fact that all the other teams had five to seven riders, we were happy with the outcome."

Thomas, who was in charge of the paperwork and organization of the club, gives a lot of credit for the team's success to Jean "Squeak" Van Dyke. Van Dyke performed most of the coaching duties.

Riders compete for glory

"Squeak has really done most of the real coaching work that's had to be done," Thomas said. "She's made most of the important suggestions to the riders."

This year's four riders included Canton senior Ric Van Dyke, Salem juniors Ann Cooper and Amy Donohue, and Canton sophomore Amy Thomas. With two riders returning and the recruiting of three new ninth graders, Thomas hopes the program is on the upswing.

Leaving the team this season is Van Dyke, who will graduate, along with Cooper who sold her horse.

The idea of having an equestrian team in the Plymouth-Canton school system got started after Thomas, and her daughter Amy talked with equestrian team members from other schools. "I talked to a few kids at several shows we were at along with a couple of parents," said Thomas. "It just seemed like it would be a good thing to have at our school."

When Thomas decided to form a team at the high schools, one of her intentions was to have it recognized as a varsity sport.

Although the team is eligible to compete in the MIHA, despite not being a varsity sport, Thomas would still like to have it recognized. "We want it recognized as a varsity sport so the kids could get letters and our team could receive some publicity," she said.

The most disturbing thing to Thomas about the sport not being recognized on the varsity level, is the fact that the school board doesn't seem to understand that the program is completely self-supported.

Pittaway waits for competition

Discus event at Meet of Champions postponed because of tornados

Bob Pittaway will have to wait a few days in his quest to capture a discus title in the Midwest Meet of Champions.

The Salem senior was originally scheduled to compete in the meet on Saturday in Fort Wayne Indiana, but his event was postponed because of rain and the threat of tornados. Several events were completed that day.

All of the discus throwers will complete the meet in their own states. As of press time, a new location, date and time for the event has not been named.

"If you watch people throw the discus in the rain you'll see it's just about impossible for that thing to go anywhere," said Pittaway's coach at Salem, Gary Balconi, who attended the meet also. "The discus will do all kinds of spins. We were also up to our ankles in water."

Most of the participants managed to get off two throws, but all the scores were erased from that day after it was announced over the public address system that three tornados had been seen and that competition would have to stop.

"I tried to throw twice but I kept slipping in the discus circle," said Pittaway, who spotted two tornados himself.

Pittaway earned the right to compete in the meet with his winning throw of 173 feet nine inches in the state Class A finals two weeks ago. He feels optimistic about his chances to win greater glory.

Each year the team members pay a fee of $12 to join the MIHA, which covers the charges of the shows and classes that the students participate in.

When the team's first season got underway last September, Thomas was not sure how the team members would like the idea of having their individual performances receive team points rather than ribbons, as they would at most other horse shows. "I didn't know how they would like it because in this, if you win first place, (for example) six points go to your team, and you have no personal award to show for it," said Thomas. "But after our first show all the kids said they really liked competing on those terms."

"It's a whole different thing participating on a team than it is on an individual basis. It's a feeling hard to explain," she continued.

According to Thomas, next season is slated to begin Sept. 20. Three shows will be conducted every two weeks during the regular season followed by the state championships on Nov. 1.

Some of the events that riders compete in are Fitting and Showing, which judges the horse's cleanliness and conformation, along with how well the rider is walking the horse.

Other events include the Equitation Classes, which judges how well the rider handles the horse and a series of competitions known as the Western Games, involving different obstacles the rider has to maneuver the horse through, along with many other events.

"A lot of people who were throwing the discus in Indiana were really choking," he said. "I feel that I have a good chance to beat anyone of them."

The farthest throw that afternoon, according to Pittaway, came from Michigan's Joe Risk, who unloaded a toss of 169 feet. Pittaway previously beat Rick at the Michigan state finals.

Pittaway also noted that one thrower from Ohio that has the potential to throw over 200 feet did not show.

Pittaway, who is striving for a scholarship, stated that the outcome of the meet will be a decisive factor as to which college he'll attend in the fall.

"Right now I've talked to track coaches from Michigan State University, Northwood and Eastern Michigan University," said Pittaway. "It all depends on what I do in this meet as far as to where I go."

OLD VILLAGE

"A DECADE OF TRADITION" 10th Annual Dearie Day Festival

When a milestone is reached in any walk of life there is reason to celebrate ... such an occasion is occurring on July 18th, 1981, when the Old Village Association proudly presents its 10th Annual Dearie Day Festival. In its 10 year history, the Village has come into its own and now boasts a membership of over 50 businesses. All funds netted from functions such as this go into the beautification of the Old Village area.

Join us for this 10th Annual Festival ... a fun time for young and old alike. This one day festivity is a "throw-back" to prices that once were ... each retailer in the day's events will feature one item that will be offered to the public at old fashioned prices!!!

There will be entertainment in the square for the entire day, rides for the kids and lots of good food ... arts and crafts, flea market and antiques will be throughout the Village for the day!

Dearie Day is a very special day ... there will be a mustache contest ... prizes will be awarded for the biggest mustache, the best mustache, and the funniest mustache! Also there will be an old-fashioned dress contest and an old-fashioned bathing suit contest!

Come and join us. Let us show you an old but charming area of Plymouth ... plan to come early and spend the day with us.

Finlan Insurance Combines Old-Fashioned Service With Innovative Insurance Programs

Finlan Insurance is the oldest "Citizen's Insurance" agent in the state. "C.L." Senior was one of Citizen's founding fathers 65 years ago.

Russ and Bev Hoisington are carrying on that service and pioneering tradition in their brand new facility at 633 S. Main St.

They offer their clients Life, Health, Commercial, Bonds, Homeowners and Auto coverage by eight insurance companies including Travelers, I.N.A. St. Paul and Michigan Mutual.

They are now offering a series of discounts for a number of groups such as non-smokers (10%) and good drivers (15%).

And Bev has come up with a fascinating 20 year life insurance policy for new babies that will guarantee a $1,000,000 return at 65 retirement age.

Unique Automobile Maintenance Club Offers Memberships

Toward the end of a hard winter, many people want a full regimen of "spring cleaning" and maintenance for their vehicles, but find it takes two or three different companies to accomplish the job.

A Plymouth businessman, however, has developed an innovative approach for one-step maintenance.

"I've been in the business for 10 years," says Bob Bashawaty of Cabaron at 744 Wing St., "and this is a new concept - I think it will be the concept of the '80s."

The concept he and brother, Chuck, developed is Professional Auto Maintenance (PAM), a service Bashawaty says "is designed to put the maintenance of your car into the hands of professionals."

For a membership fee of $60 per year, customers are entitled to coverage on every vehicle they own; phone contact every 90 days to determine if an auto needs maintenance; competitive prices on reconditioning, oil changes and car washes; discounts from 10 to 30 per cent on automotive services; pick up and delivery for the year; documented records of work performed; and service by professionals with years of experience.
