To play Trenton tonight

Rock cagers seek quarter-final win

Tonight's the night.

Salem High's womens basketball team will compete against rival Trenton at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Class A State Quarterfinals and a chance to play in the final rounds of state competition this weekend.

The contest, a rematch of last year's quarterfinal, which was won by Salem, will be held at Lincoln Park High School.

Trenton is 20-5, while the Rocks are 21-3 overall.

Lincoln Park is located on Champagne Road off of the Dix-Toledo Road in Lincoln Park.

According to Salem coach Bob Blohm and Trenton coach John Biedenbach tonight's clash of Suburban Eight League teams could be the fiercest yet.

The two squad's played earlier this year. Salem won the first game at Trenton, 61-47, while the Trojans came back to upset the Rocks at the Salem gym, 28-27, in a double overtime game.

The winner of tonight's game will play either Harper Woods Regina or Utica Eisenhower in semifinal action Friday night at the University of Detroit's Callahan Fieldhouse.

Plymouth Twp. woman slain

BY KEN VOYLES

Plymouth Police are continuing their investigation into the Thursday night slaying of a 27-year-old Plymouth Township resident, Janet Reynolds, of 9102 Lilley.

There are several suspects at this time, but most of the lab tests are still not in, police said.

According to Chief Carl Berry, his department is waiting on a lengthy series of Michigan State Police Crime Lab reports as well as the Wayne County Medical Examiner's report before considering a possible move for a warrant against one of the suspects.

Reynolds' nude body was found Friday afternoon in Plymouth Township. She had stab wounds to the upper torso and head, as well as evidence of a beating with a piece of wood, police said, adding that

A security guard for three and a half years at Burroughs Corporation on Plymouth Road in the township, Reynolds was last seen at 10 p.m. Thursday evening by a group of her friends. They had just finished bowling in a mixed league at Plaza Lanes on Ann Arbor Road and planned to meet at the Denny's Restaurant. Reynolds left the building, accompanied by a male subject carrying her bowling bag, said police.

She was not seen again before Friday when police, working from a helicopter spotted the body in a small field on the north side of the Joy Road near Mettetal Airport.

Police started their search for Reynolds Thursday night after 1 a.m. when her friends called the department and reported that she had not shown up at the scene was checked by police, as was Reynolds' car parked in the Plaza Lane lot.

When the day shift of the department came on duty the search continued. A second report of her missing was called in by Burroughs Friday morning.

Officer Mike Gardner of the Plymouth Police rechecked the scene Friday

Community Fund nears goal

Just two more days remain before the Plymouth Community Fund final reporting time arrives.

Latest figure officially shows $300,000 of the $340,000 goal in the hopper.

Community Fund officials will come up with the final tally at the Victory Luncheon scheduled for Friday, Dec. 11 at noon at the Hillside Inn.

Fund officials were confident that the goal would be reached with the last-minute reports of the various fund chairmen.

Those Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents and businesses and industries not yet making reports are urged to get them in before the final report deadline.

To hear township attorney discuss amusement code

Canton trustees call closed session

BY DICK BROWN

On the advice of Canton Township Attorney Judd Hemming, Canton trustees took discussion of proposed changes to mechanical amusement devices ordinance to a closed session at the Dec. 8 board meeting.

Hemming, who suggested the closed session, said the ordinance changes were being discussed in a closed session because of the possibility of litigation. He said the ordinance changes were being discussed in a closed session because of the possibility of litigation.

Some trustees, including Supervisor Jim Poole, Treasurer Maria Galkowicz, Clerk John Flodin and Trustee Carol Bodenmiller voted for the closed session. Trustees Bob Padget, Steve Larson and Loren Bennett voted against the closed session.

When questioned by Padget as to the necessity of a closed session, Hemming said, "The private board session will help in terms of protecting Canton Township from possible future litigation."

Hemming cited the problems of court cases in other communities, particularly in Royal Oak, over an ordinance to regulate electronic games arcades. Main point of contention in these cases is the discriminatory setting of age limits for playing the games and frequenting amusement arcades.

As in other communities, Canton trustees have been wrestling with changes in the current games ordinance as the electronics games explosion hits.

Currently the township board is facing a request from Wilcox-Kallen for an amusement games license for an Italian Restaurant and arcade in the Kings Row Shopping Center on Libby Road and Water Road.

The township board is also facing a special land use permit from Alhtar and Davidson for the shopping center southeast of Ford Road and Libby Road.

At the Dec. 8 Canton board meeting both these requests, along with the changes in the mechanical amusement device ordinance were placed on the Dec. 8 board agenda.

Games plugs pulled

On Monday Milt Wilcox, partner in the Wilcox-Kallen application seeking licensing of the former Vinnie's for electronic games, ran into problems with the Canton Township Fire Department inspector.

When the inspector arrived he informed Wilcox that the seven machines already in operation were three too many under the township code and that the machines could not be operated off extension cords and ordered the machines unplugged.

In a Thursday discussion with The Crier, Hemming defended his action in pushing for the closed session to consider ordinance changes.

He cited a Michigan Court of Appeals decision in a suit brought against the University of Michigan Regents.

According to Hemming, the State Appeals Court found in favor of the U of M Regents, declaring that written opinions from legal counsel representing a government body to that body were exempt from Michigan's open meetings statutes inasmuch as they were of an attorney-client nature.

School district gets special education cash

School aid payments from the state and federal government, and handicapped education funding from the county will soon enter the Plymouth-Canton Schools' coffers.

State Senator William Faust (D-Westland) announced that the payments to the Plymouth-Canton district will be $324,882.53 for December state aid, $32,406.40 for Title I and $10,000 for vocational education.

The state payments are made to local districts in August, October, December, February, April and June.

Title I is a federal program designed to aid financially deprived children, although funding is distributed by the state.

Vocational education funding can come from a variety of sources, says Plymouth-Canton Schools executive director of finance Daniel White, although it is distributed under the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

Wayne County Intermediate School District has also allocated fiscal year 1982 funds for handicapped education. Plymouth-Canton's Schools' share of the allocation will be $313,118.

The Intermediate District, acting as a fiscal agent for the Michigan Department of Education, distributes and monitors the funds used to expand or supplement existing programs. Proportionate shares of the total of nearly $8 million are based on the number of eligible handicapped individuals served through special education programs and services.

Should the Mayflower II get tax abatement?

Yes

Several reasons were presented at Monday's public hearing for the tax abatement request for the Mayflower II addition to the Mayflower Hotel.

Among the leading advocates for the abatement was Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper Jr. He was supported by members of the City Commission who voted for the abatement as well as other residents.

Graper cited the pros for the abatement. They included the creation of new jobs in the city, bringing more money into the city's economy, and eventually more taxes, as well as helping the hotel compete with other local hotel establishments.

Graper said, "Our downtown cannot be a viable downtown if, in fact, the hotel is not successful.

"Tax abatement should be a way to help people compete in their community," Graper said, "as well as a way of bringing in new business. We feel an abatement will help the Mayflower compete, somewhat, that's obvious, but it's still not quite enough."

Graper also cited the pumping of $1.6 million into the community and the creation of at least 15 jobs as plus factors for granting the abatement on $1.2 million of the projected $1.6 million.

His feelings were echoed by Mayor Eldon Martin who said, "The Mayflower is the Plymouth Rock of the city. We can all claim a piece of the rock. We must grant this abatement so that the hotel maintains its location within the city."

Mayor Pro-Tem Dave Pugh said "I don't look at this as how it helps Ralph Lorenz, but how it helps the city of Plymouth. It is designed to help strengthen the community. It will also strengthen the commercial tax base and that benefits all taxpaying residents."

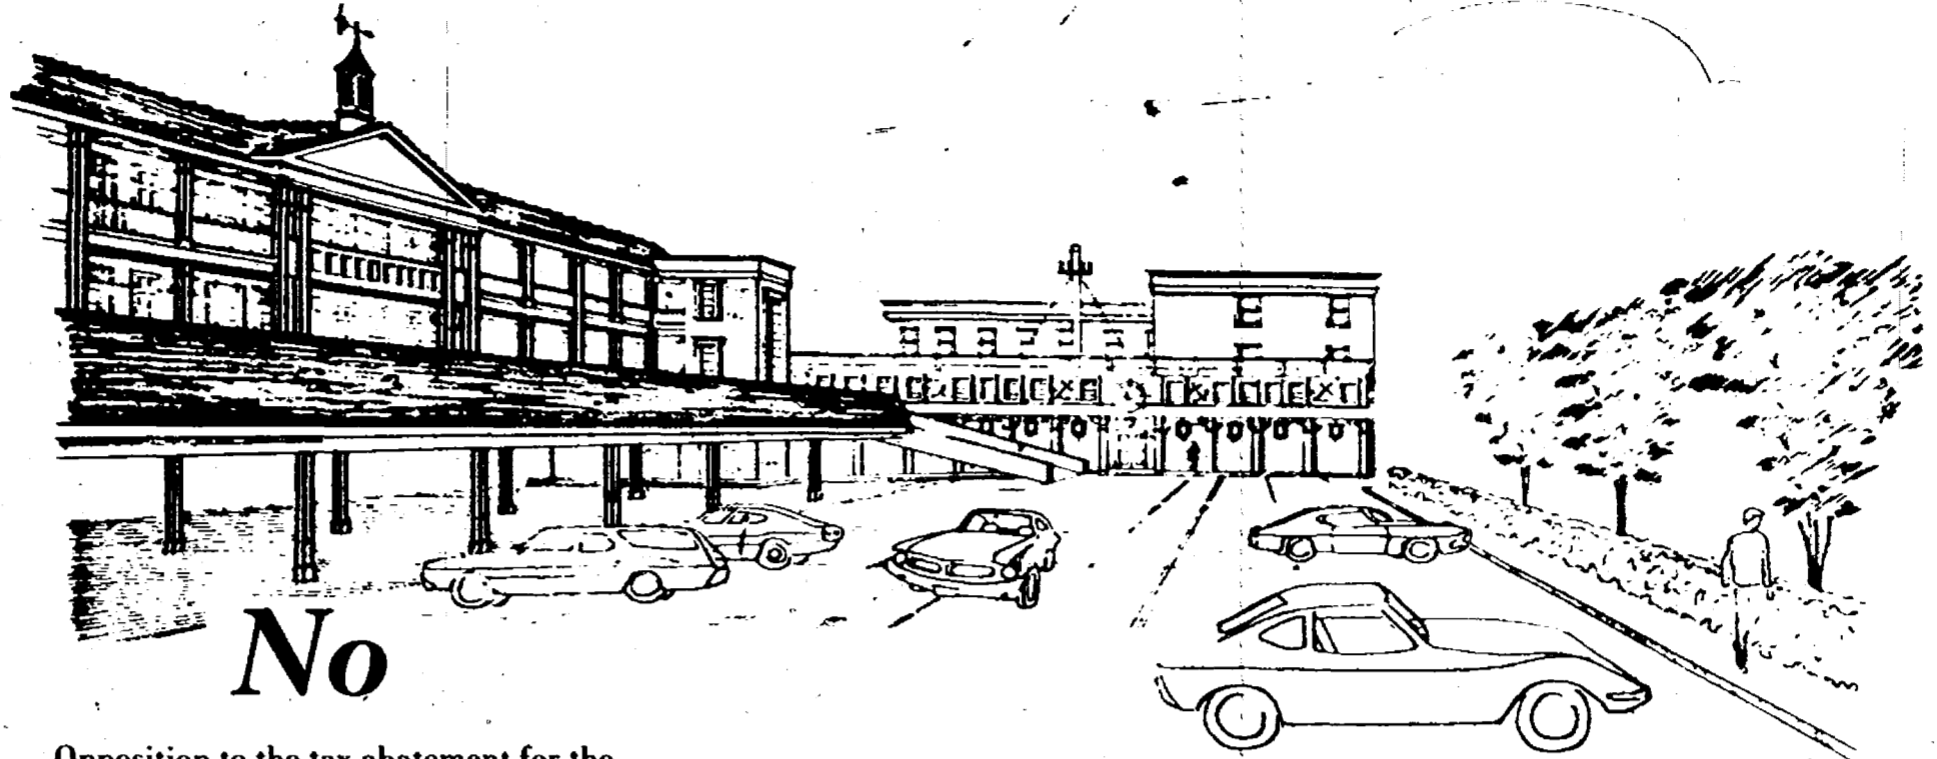

Commissioner Mark Wehmeyer said, "Tax abatement is one way to lure business into our community, yes, but it is also a way to maintain a solid, competitive business. If the Mayflower doesn't get an abatement who in this city should?"

Commissioner Jack Kenyon said the project would benefit the entire community, while Commissioner Ronald Loiselle pointed out that the abatement would last 12 years and then the property would be fully taxed.

Commissioner Karl Gansler said, "Since Mr. Graper has been in town we've got positive feelings back. I think we should look at the positive aspects of this project." He added that the city needs to keep the Mayflower within its bounds. "If we lose the hotel it would be an extreme loss to our tax base. That's what worries me."

Lorenz said on his own behalf, "Before, you had a pigeon run through the Weideman lot. It's your choice -- you can have pigeon droppings or $16,000 a year from the taxes."

Penn Theatre owner Margaret Wilson and Jack Wilcox also expressed support for the project as did one resident from Plymouth Township.

No

Opposition to the tax abatement for the Mayflower II addition to the Mayflower Hotel centered on four items at Monday's public hearing.

Those in opposition to the abatement said the relief was too much and that it was badly timed to make it look like the decision to grant abatement had been made long ago.

Also, it was felt that the Mayflower Hotel is not a failing business and if there is money for such expansion by Lorenz Enterprise surely such a large abatement is not needed.

It was also expressed that the timing on the abatement grant was bad and that the city administration's comparison of the hotel with other local hotel operations did not give a true perspective on the picture.

City Manager Henry Graper Jr. admitted that the timing might be bad, but that the comparison with the only other similar operations was justified.

Donald Samhat, an attorney representing Cloverdale Dairy Farms questioned the Mayflower's need for such a sizeable abatement, and added that the comparison with the Plymouth Hilton Hotel, the Red Roof Inn and the Knight's Inn in Canton was not a valid comparison.

Jim Tomlinson, of the family that owns Cloverdale stated his case clearly when he said, "We realize the Mayflower needs some assistance, but we feel the city is giving a tremendous amount of assistance already."

"Enough is enough. We feel the tremendous amount of assistance is unfair," Tomlinson continued. He added the Mayflower Hotel already literally owns the Weideman lot property worth close to a half million dollars, despite the fact that it is city property. Lorenz has also been granted the air rights across Main Street to build a pedestrian bridge.

Another resident of Plymouth added that he felt the abatement will be used to help bail out the Mayflower.

Still others saw the abatement request by Lorenz as a way to coerce the city into either granting the abatement for the addition or the Mayflower would threaten to leave the city. However, the prospect of the Mayflower leaving the community was a possibility long before the abatement issue.

Despite the overtones of negative feeling toward the tax abatement, all those in opposition said they did not want to be negative about the project, just the amount of assistance.

Commission votes 7-0 for addition's abatement

BY KEN VOYLES

Either way one looks at tax abatement -- as a way of enticing new business to a community, or as method of helping existing, expanding businesses compete with more modern facilities -- the final result should be who benefits from the abatement, the applicant or the community at large.

At Monday night's regular Plymouth City Commission meeting a tax abatement public hearing was held for the Mayflower II addition to the Mayflower Hotel, 827 W. Ann Arbor Trail, and the commission made a decision on the issue by approving the abatement unanimously.

The final decision for or against abatement was moved up from the Dec. 21 meeting because of possible changes in the sale of Economic Development Corporation bonds. There is a current fight going on at higher government levels to only allow EDC bonds for industrial projects and not commercial ventures such as the Mayflower.

Much of the public discussion over the 50 per cent abatement for 12 years, centered on the practical application of tax abatement and whether or not the city would benefit from the project and the abatement.

In this case it is the opinion of the commission that the city, above Mayflower Hotel owner Ralph Lorenz, would benefit most from the project.

Due to open in early January, the addition includes 51 rooms and a parking deck covering the Weideman Parking Lot.

Projected taxes on the new rooms with the 50 per cent abatement comes to $15,750 yearly. Taxes on the present hotel, the 16-room annex, and the Mayflower Meeting House total approximately $40,500. Total taxes would reach $56,000 and tax per room would be $537.

Total development cost considered taxable is $1.2 million and the entire project is worth over $1.6 million according to figure presented by City Manager Henry Graper Jr. for the public and the commission.

For tax comparison the city used figures on the other local hotels, the Plymouth Hilton, the Red Roof Inn, and the Knight's Inn in Canton.

The 195-room Hilton pays $115,892 in local taxes or $594 per room, while the Red Roof pays $27,567 or $252 per room and the Knight's Inn pays $29,728 or $277 per room, according to Graper's statistics.

According to Graper all three of those operations have a mortgage at or near 10 per cent, while the Lorenz property will be on a floating mortgage between 12 and 15 per cent.

The addition itself will increase the size of the hotel to 109 rooms and at the same time make it possible for future connection with the meeting house across the street by way of a pedestrian bridge.

That idea is still on the drawing board, but Lorenz has been granted the air rights for 99 years.

Graper added that with the ever increasing rise in property values the taxes paid by Lorenz, currently the sixth largest taxpayer in the city, will continue to increase each year, anyway.

Also the abatement will be complete in 12 years and the addition will become fully taxable at that time.

Originally the project had come up in 1976, but had not been undertaken due to negative reaction over leasing the air rights over the Weideman lot.

For the past two years the city and the Lorenz family have been in discussion over the proposed addition.

"When we first starting talking about the project we said we would consider tax abatement," said Graper. "That is one of the reasons they went ahead with the addition."

morning, especially the victim's car. His suspicions grew as evidence in the vehicle was sorted through - Reynolds coat had been found in the car turned inside out, her bowling shoes and bag were also in the car, as well as various items from her purse scattered on the front floor.

Gardner went to Berry and it was decided a search would be made. "He felt there was more to the scene (at the car) than met the eye. He requested a full search," Berry said.

Police then called Renaissance Air and through them contacted Canton Police Officer John Sherwin, a certified helicopter pilot. A helicopter was obtained at Willow Run and flown into Mettetal.

Gardner and Sherwin then started their search just north and west of the main runway over the property of Graye's Greenhouse, and the body was almost immediately discovered from approximately 300 feet in the air.

Police speculate the time of death was after 10 p.m. and before midnight. At approximately 11 p.m. a dog owned by the Graye's was heard barking very wildly.

Police also revealed that she apparently had been dumped from her own car. Her car had been moved from its original place in the Plaza Lanes lot, say police.

Most of Reynolds' clothes were found around her ankles or near the scene, police say, as well as her checkbook and other physical evidence. But there was little blood found in her car or at the scene.

Reynolds will be buried today at the St. Hedwig Cemetery in Dearborn Heights after a Mass at the St. Dunstan Catholic Church in Garden City. She is originally from Garden City and is a 1972 graduate of Garden City East High. She came to Plymouth when she was hired at Burroughs. Her parents still reside in Garden City.

According to Bud Russell of the personnel department at Burroughs, Reynolds worked the night security shift and had a good record with the company.

Police are seeking further information concerning the crime and seek the help of anyone who might have seen or heard something between 9:30 p.m. and 10 a.m. Thursday night.

Decision on golf course contract change

Plymouth Township trustees delay

Plymouth Township Board of Trustees delayed a decision on the amendment to the Hilltop Golf Course contract due to lack of time to study the deal as prepared by township attorney Charles Bokos and Hilltop manager John Jawor.

Trustees had not received their copies of the contract in time for the Tuesday meeting, but attorney Bokos said, "I'm sure the agreement will be acceptable to both parties."

It was the third time in as many months that a decision on the contract was postponed. The board is expected to finalize the agreement at the Dec. 15 regular meeting, according to Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Jawor originally leased the then nine-hole course from the township in 1979. At that time he guaranteed 50 per cent of all the greens fees or a $35,000 minimum yearly payment.

This past summer the course's expansion from nine to 18 holes was completed and Jawor won an out-of-court settlement extending his options to 1993. The proposed amendment takes into account the changeover from nine to 18 holes.

Trustee Lee Fidge said the township is now "boxed" in by the extended lease and asked that the minimum payment be doubled in the new contract. She also suggested a monthly accounting of the gross receipts, while Breen said that would involve changing the original agreement.

When asked if he could agree to doubling the minimum Jawor said "If it would satisfy Mrs. Fidge's ego."

Fidge replied that it wasn't a matter of ego, but that she still had problems with the original agreement from 1979.

Breen said "There is no need beating a dead horse."

The township has budgeted $100,000 in revenues from the course for 1982.

The trustees also discussed the purchase of electric golf carts. Two months ago the board agreed that the course needed carts.

The problem is who will buy the carts. If the township purchases the carts it will pay for storage and maintenance and give Jawor a percentage. If Jawor buys the carts he will pay for storage and maintenance and collect all the revenues. A third option was mentioned, but had not been discussed with Jawor.

A decision on the carts will be made at the Dec. 15 meeting.

Canton hearing to take up changes in sign ordinance

BY DICK BROWN

Canton Township Planning Commissioners have called a public hearing at the Canton Township Administration Building for Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. to get public reaction to proposed changes in Canton's sign ordinance.

The Planning Commission has been studying the proposed changes for several months.

Among the changes being considered are relaxing of regulations for the use of portable signs, changing the ordinance to allow for larger and higher signs, liberalized billboard regulations and provision for allowing tower signing along I-275.

After considering the public reaction to the proposed changes the planning commission will send its recommendations along to the Canton Township Board for its consideration and final disposition.

Closed meeting law has too many holes

When does a government body, particularly one which has its members elected by the people, have the right to go behind closed doors?

That's a constantly-asked question these days as more and more business is being conducted at every level of government away from the eyes and the ears of those being governed.

In spite of—and in some cases because of—Michigan's open meetings statute more and more behind closed doors sessions are being held.

Under Michigan law, the only topics which can warrant a closed session by a government body are those which deal with personnel issues in which the employe in question has a right to ask for a closed session or an open session, matters dealing with property acquisition and matters involving court litigation.

It is interpretations of the latter that bring on most closed session problems. That is the interpretation that prompted Canton Township Board members to call for a closed session last week to discuss possible changes in a township ordinance. The closed session was suggested by Township Attorney Jud Hemming and when it came to a vote Supervisor Jim Poole, Clerk John Flodin, Treasurer Maria Falkiewicz and Trustee Carol Bodenmiller voted yes and Trustees Bob Padgett, Steve Larson and Loren Bennett voted no and it was off to the closed session.

There was no court litigation involved, only the threat of litigation which might arise from discussion of proposed changes in an existing ordinance. That's stretching the intent of the open meeting act. Using that interpretation, every ordinance on the township books carries a threat of court challenge at one time or another. Does that mean that all discussions concerning new ordinances or ordinance changes should be held in secret?

Elected officials should be wary of closed door sessions.

They should remember that decisions reached in open discussion before the public which turn out to be wrong decisions can be written off as just mistakes. Decisions reached in closed sessions and closed discussions are suspect, whether they are good or bad decisions.

One-way streets drive this shopper out of Plymouth

EDITOR:

"Stop - Do Not Enter!" I could not believe it. I felt as though a friend had slammed a door in my face. I had been ill and had not been in to Plymouth in several weeks so the one way block of Penniman Avenue came as quite a shock to me.

I live five miles west of Plymouth off North Territorial Road and was headed for First Federal Savings and Loan drive-in window and couldn't get there. If I turned right I would have a hazardous left turn on to Ann Arbor Trail from Harvey Street. If I could finally make a left turn on to Harvey I would eventually have to make a left turn from Main Street on to Penniman to get to the drive-in window at First Federal.

I was disabled at that time and had to utilize the drive-in window. I gave up and came home without doing my banking or filling a prescription at Wiltse's.

Since that time I have braved (and believe me it takes bravery) the hazards of the parking on Penniman just once.

Plymouth has always strived to be a friendly town. Why this sudden unfriendly greeting to everyone coming from Territorial road west, and incidently all the visitors and strangers coming off the M-14 expressway at Sheldon or Beck Roads to visit Plymouth for the first time? When they get to Harvey Street there is no indication of where to go to get to Main Street. They will do as I now do, take M-14 and I-275 to the Ann Arbor Road exit and forget the downtown area.

As for the chalk marks on the tires to time the parking, a wet sponge in a plastic bag takes care of that very nicely.

Plymouth - you are ruining your image. You are no longer a "friendly" town.

When I travel I always make it a practice to pick up local weekly newspapers and give them close scrutiny. I am happy to report that your paper, from an editorial and advertising standpoint is far superior to most.

Your editorial pages reflect community concern and your letters to the editor prove that the editorial pages are being read.

Your news is to the point, lively and unencumbered with excess verbiage.

Your ad layouts are clear, crisp and full of eye appeal.

I would be proud to have such a paper with my name in the edit box.

Boundaries for present 27th District make sense

Keep commissioner district as it is

As the new Wayne County Commission districts are being formed, there are two important points which should be considered:

First, our current county district (the 27th) has a population of approximately what the average new district should have. All of the cities of Plymouth, Wayne and Belleville are in the district as well as all of Canton,

We're proud of you, Rocks

The entire Plymouth-Canton Community can be proud of the effort of the Salem High women's basketball team this year. Tonight the Rocks play a quarterfinal game against rival Trenton at Lincoln Park.

We at The Crier wish to express our support for the team and encourage those in the community to add their support for a team that has won 21 games in 24 outings so far this year.

We are proud of the hard work and concentration they have displayed all year long. We think the example they have set, both on and off the field of competition, is one that can be emulated by all students in all classes of the district.

The Rocks are a credit to themselves, Centennial Education Park, the school district and the entire Plymouth-Canton Community.

Congratulations women. Go Blue.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Plymouth, Van Buren and Sumpter townships. Parts of Westland and Northville Township are also in the 27th. These communities have a 10-year history of working together on common county issues.

Secondly, the new county redistricting should attempt to balance constituencies such as minorities as much as possible to get maximum fighting power by the respective commissioners on any given issue.

Thus, there is great rationale for keeping our existing district pretty much intact.

A five-member panel is currently at work studying the redrawing of Wayne County districts, and it's clearly best for our collective communities that the panel maintain our district.

There is some justification to removing the three precincts of Westland and the one Northville Township precinct from the 27th and adding them to the remainder of their neighbors. But otherwise, our county district should come out as the closest to its past form in the new redistricting compared to other county districts.

Granted, many of the county problems in lower-income Sumpter Township run towards bad drains and good nutrition for senior citizens while in Plymouth Township they're more like snow removal and police protection. But that means our county commissioner has, in the past, been in on fights for both the haves and the have nots.

Our Wayne County district has been a cross section of regional governmental needs and that's the purpose of county government.

From pure numbers to social service, there's too much justification for maintaining our 27th district as the new 15th to even consider anything else.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

In addition

by Dan Bodene

This week the Plymouth administration voiced its support for a 12-year tax abatement on the Mayflower Hotel addition to allow, they said, for more equal competition with other area hotels and motels.

I'm not so sure that is a completely fair assessment.

No one can deny that the Mayflower provides a lot to the area - as well as its stature of a business central to the downtown vitality, the Mayflower has long been one of the prime boosters of the community and has done far more than its share of donating time, money, energy and manpower to various worthwhile projects.

The city administration apparently feels, and rightly so I believe, that the Mayflower provides a solid financial anchor to the central business district (third largest employer, sixth largest taxpayer) and deserves consideration in that respect.

But the part about being able to more fairly compete with other hotels raises some questions in my mind. I think a lot of that is comparing apples and oranges.

The Mayflower's strong suit, to my way of thinking, is its atmosphere as a traditional, downtown-oriented hotel. It's beautiful, it's formal, it's historical. It has all the usual amenities of an establishment of its kind, plus a few more, like a private club.

Now take businesses like the Knight's Inn or the Red Roof Inn, to which the Mayflower is being compared in the city documents supporting the tax abatement.

They are more of a type of establishment that doesn't seek to provide a lot of the frills, but offers a reasonably-priced, clean, comfortable place to stay for a night or two. No night club or three star restaurant.

For another example, take the Plymouth Hilton, which is a thoroughly modern establishment that offers many facilities not available anywhere else, like the huge ballroom and pool. It is simply another kind of hotel.

Which is my point. All these hotels are tailored to cater to a specific clientele, and really, the similarity ends with the fact that they all have rooms for rent.

Times are tough, there's no denying. Business in Plymouth, as anywhere in this state, needs all the help it can get. I want to see that help administered fairly and equally.

To news reporters

'Closed meeting' provides red flag

Every business and profession has at least one "red flag" situation or chore which brings groans of agony and despair.

Shoe clerks who are forced to pull down box after box and fit shoe after shoe to some window shopping customer who ends up leaving without making a purchase must be wrought up. A waitress who waits for minutes while some hair-brained customer tries to make up his or her mind as to whether the order should be liver and onions or liver and bacon surely must get exasperated.

An appliance repairman who drives 20 miles on a service call only to find the refrigerator cord isn't plugged in to the outlet must really feel like blowing his top. The doctor who tells a patient that he is eating himself to death and then walks into the corner drug store and sees the patient slurping away a double malt must feel a little bit of anger.

It's no different in the news business. We all have those "red flag" situations.

After 36 or so years in the newspaper business my brink of tolerance is always reached when a government body, elected by the people, makes the decision to go into closed, or executive, session.

That happened last Tuesday night at the Canton Township board meeting.

On the advice of the board's attorney, the room was cleared of a dozen spectators to discuss changes in an electronic games ordinance, a questionable reason for resorting to secrecy. There must have been questions in the minds of at least three of the seven board members because Trustees Bob Padget, Loren Bennett and Steve Larson voted against the star chamber session.

But back to my "red flag." When I hear an elected body vote for a closed meeting, two years of my newspaper reporter past always makes me look for the men's john.

That reaction comes, not from a desire to throw up, but as an involuntary action remembered out of the past. Back in the days of covering the Mason city council every Monday night there was a stretch of two years when the city administration called for two or three closed sessions every meeting.

The city council would then remove themselves to the office of Police

We would like to commend your newspaper coverage of the work on Sheldon Road in the Nov. 4 edition.

Chief Tim Stolz, which had been carved out of a portion of the men's john in the old Mason city hall. Thanks to a rare penny-pinching move of the city fathers, the partition which was erected to separate the plumbing from the police chief was a single sheet of quarter-inch plywood which acted as a perfect sounding board. It picked up every word uttered at the closed sessions.

The Lansing State Journal reporter who covered the Mason council sessions spent two years yelling foul and charging various councilmen with leaking the secret meeting discussion to me before I finally told him how I would head for the john when the closed sessions were announced, perch on the stool next to the plywood wall, pull out my notebook and pencil and record the secret sessions for posterity.

That's why, when the Canton star chamber session was announced Tuesday night, my first reaction was to check out the Canton Administration Building plumbing. No luck! The building architects took care of everything. There were no leaks in the men's john except in the one sink faucet.

Canton sign ordinance changes are important

EDITOR:

Canton's Finance Director Mike Gorman stated in the Sept. 28 issue that "Inflation and changes in the state tax are boosting taxes for Canton residents an average of 16.6 per cent."

The homeowners pay 78 per cent of Canton's taxes, whereas commercial pays only 15 per cent.

Our current sign ordinance, I feel, has contributed greatly to the lack of business in our township because it is so restrictive. This sign ordinance is one important reason why we, the homeowners, bear 78 per cent of the tax burden.

On Dec. 14, at 7:30 p.m. there will be an open hearing at Township Hall on Canton Center Road to discuss a new sign ordinance. This new proposal has many restrictions built in. In fact, all signs will be restricted to a size less than half of those found in downtown Plymouth, with the exception of signs related to the interstate.

This new ordinance will create a more attractive climate for business and will draw the business and industry we need to spread the tax burden more equally. In these hard economic times we must be able to compete with surrounding communities for new business.

As a homeowner, I urge all concerned taxpayers to attend the Monday night meeting on Dec. 14 to support this new proposal.

KATHY TAETSCH

Let Canton planners know

EDITOR:

On December 14, 1981, the Canton Township Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing on numerous proposed changes to the present sign regulations.

Some of the proposed changes include:

- Increases in size and height.
- Increased use of portable signs.
- Elimination of the incentive for the businesses to use signs made of wood, brick or other natural products.
- Liberalized billboard regulations.
- Provisions for the use of tower signs along I-275.

Since the information presented at the Dec. 14 public hearing will determine what will be sent to the township board for its approval, we urge the citizens of Canton to take advantage of this opportunity to express their views.

Anyone interested but unable to attend the hearing may express an opinion by writing or calling the members of the Planning Commission or by leaving a message at the Canton Township Planning Department at 397-1000.

Leukemia battle was a tough one

It's special Christmas for Dingeldeys

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

The Dingeldej family in Canton has a lot to be thankful for this Christmas. "We could celebrate Christmas without tinsel this year," said Mary Dingeldej who was diagnosed as a leukemia patient a year ago. "This time last year I didn't think there would be another Christmas," she said.

Two years ago they took the holidays for granted, and last year she was lying in a hospital bed, trying to be happy for her husband and kids.

The day after Thanksgiving last year Dingeldej found out the black and blue eye originally thought to be caused by a spider bite was actually the first visible symptom of leukemia. "I can remember when the doctor told me, 'you have leukemic cells,'" she said. Her first reaction was, "Oh, no, I'm going to lose my hair and die."

The hardest thing was going home and telling her children, Teresa 20, Doug 17, and Carol 15. "I worried about my family. I didn't want to tell anyone and didn't know how to tell them. It's really hard to tell someone you have a terminal illness," she said.

Her husband Jake was very supportive throughout the ordeal. "We were close before this, but we're even closer now," she said.

Entering the hospital on Dec. 1, Dingeldej stayed there until Jan. 28 when she was considered to be in a good remission. She read everything she could find about the disease and pestered the doctors to tell her exactly what was happening to her. Taking 72 pills a day, she knew what every pill was for and what the side effects were. She received chemotherapy treatments daily during that time. Once released from the hospital, she went back every 30 days on a maintenance program.

When the idea of a bone marrow transplant was brought up, Dingeldej started checking into it immediately. That kind of transplant is still very experimental, but she wrote to many doctors and they all answered. Choosing between about three years to live, knowing part of that time would be spent in the hospital and a 50-50 chance with the transplant, she decided she wanted more out of life. "My family was behind me, and I have more to do than I could do in three years," she said.

The next step was finding a donor. Out of one brother and three sisters, only one sister was a good match. After checking out many hospitals, she decided on the University of Minnesota Hospital because they could get her in the quickest. She went there in April for four days of testing and was told she was a good candidate for the transplant because of her attitude. The doctors told her it would be three weeks to three months before they could do the transplant.

"I went home and worried every day," said Dingeldej. "What if I went out of remission or something happened to my sister and they couldn't do the transplant?" Finally the call came on July 9, two days after Jake's mother died. She had to be in Minnesota on July 13 for the transplant on July 23. "When problems come up, you'd better have friends," she said.

Leukemia victim's 1st reaction:

"Oh, no, I'm going to lose my hair and die."

— Mary Dingeldej

underwent two days of lethal chemotherapy treatments and radiation. During the transplant, her sister was put under anesthetic and they took two and a half liters of bone marrow to transplant. "The marrow automatically finds its way to the right places," she said.

After spending 44 days in the hospital, Dingeldej was released, cured of leukemia. There is a seven per cent chance of reoccurrence, but she isn't worried about that.

"I was just lucky," said the 39 year old homemaker who works at Federal Pipe and Steel. "I was the oldest patient at the hospital, they won't do the surgery on people over 40," she said.

One thing Dingeldej remembers is the chaplain at the hospital saying, "God made you well for a reason. Don't mess up the reason." With that in mind the Dingeldej family founded the Western Wayne Chapter of the Children's Leukemia Foundation. "We're available if someone needs help, whether it's counseling, financial aid, information or for moral support," she said.

Batik art displayed at Dunning-Hough Library

After many years as an art teacher and painter, Katie Wall Fox has found a happy medium.

The results can be seen at the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) Gallery on the second floor of the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth.

Fox creates batiks, beginning by applying wax made up of beeswax and paraffin on cotton or silk cloth. Cold water dye is then brushed on, and the wax ironed out. The choice of batik as an artistic medium was a natural one, she says.

"Batik, in particular, was a gradual gravitation," she explains. "I loved the colors, smell of beeswax, the easy way the ideas flowed from my head through the wax to the material.

"Most design ideas and inspiration are nature-oriented and include fields, flowers, weeds, reflections on water or sunsets."

Along with Fox's batiks, some of the artworks at the PCAC Gallery include those by her sister, Krysten Wall Hasley, and a former teacher, Jesse Hudson. It was Hudson, in fact, that helped lead Fox to her life's work.

"Mrs. Hudson was the greatest influence in my desire to teach art and pursue art as a career," Fox says. "Home life and artistic surroundings since childhood gave me a lifelong love and appreciation of art which shows through in my work."

A graduate of Plymouth High School, she also received a degree in art education from Eastern Michigan University. She then taught art in South Lyon Community Schools for nine years.

Now she lives in an old restored farmhouse in Brighton where she lives with her husband Jim and two year old daughter. In a converted bedroom, she creates her batiks.

"The approach is similar to watercolor, I assume, with lots of colors, lines and freedom. Batik always leaves a little mystery. You are never quite sure how it looks until you iron all the wax out of it."

The PCAC Gallery is open Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

'Sandy' to trade firehose for fishin' pole

BY KEN VOYLES

Captain Paul "Sandy" Sanders, 57, is retiring from the Plymouth Fire Department after 27 years of service.

Sanders, a long time resident and well liked member of the community, will retire in January of 1982 with his wife Loraine to a small ranch along the Illinois River.

"As a boy I'd always wanted to have property along that river. It was very appealing to me and when the the property became available we bought it," Sanders said Saturday while taking time out from selling Plymouth Goodfellows newspapers.

Born in Cromwell, Okla, where his father moved oil rigs with a team of horses, Sanders came to Plymouth in 1953 after having fought in the Aleutian Islands during World War II. He worked for a construction crew at the time he moved to the city and joined the Plymouth Fire Department as a volunteer.

In 1955 he became a fulltime firefighter. He was promoted to sergeant in 1958, lieutenant in 1960 and to Captain in 1980. The last promotion, he says, was a structural change and not a higher position. The fire department created the captain position from its lieutenants so they would be in a better position to deal with different community departments and their chiefs.

In 1953 Sanders bought a home in Plymouth. He and his family have lived there ever since. He also owns a building in Plymouth's Old Village which is rented out with the rent used to supplement his income and pave the way for a comfortable retirement.

In 1953, Sanders also joined the Goodfellows organization and has been a member ever since. He was Goodfellows president in 1964.

"I do want to come back once I retire. I want to stay active in every way I can," Sanders said. "I'm going to miss Plymouth very much."

The only regret Sanders has of his 27 years on the force is that his family may have suffered at times from his overzealousness toward his work. "I never refused to come in when called," he said.

When Sanders first started with the department many things were different from what they are today. He recalled how the department used to make constant rescue runs all over western Wayne County, from Michigan Avenue in the south to Seven Mile Road in the north. That was before either Plymouth or Canton Townships had rescue units. Also the county was "thin" back then, said Sanders.

He has also seen a tremendous amount of change in fire investigation. "We used to pride ourselves in fighting a fire and leaving the scene clean, but that's wrong, you throw away your evidence when you do that," Sanders said.

"The equipment is better, the communications are better, the quarters are better and the training is much better," he continued. "We have not been a sleepy department. We've always been improving ourselves and the department.

Music is more than a tune in Karnatak concert pieces

BY DAN BODENE

Dr. T.K. Murthy gestures with his hands as he repeats, in staccato bursts, the rhythm of percussion syllables in each beat of a classical piece of Indian Karnatak music.

He is diagramming with his voice what he will accomplish with his hands in a recital to be given that night in Sterling Heights along with vocalist T.V. Sankaranarayanan and violinist Dr. Chalakudy N.S. Narayanaswamy.

The trio compose the essential elements for performing Karnatak music, which is based on a system of raga (melody) and tala (rhythm).

They know each other well, but do not usually perform in the Western context of a musical group.

"This is something many people don't know about music in India," says N. Bali, who has helped sponsor the trio on a U.S. tour and has hosted them at his home in Canton. "Unlike U.S. musicians, these artists do not necessarily meet each other before a performance. They meet when a concert organizer picks them to perform. And they do not rehearse. If one has something special, the group may choose a few minutes to give each other a hint."

Karnatak is performed by a vocalist, who chooses the selections and sets the tone of each performance, and at least one percussionist and a violinist. Dr. Murthy and Dr. Narayanaswamy have nearly a hundred years of musical experience between them, but they will tailor the music to the pitch of Sankaranarayanan's voice.

As Plymouth traffic enforcement officer

Police veteran takes on new duties

Fourteen year veteran, and senior patrolman, of the Plymouth Police Department, Robert Henry, has volunteered to take on an additional duty assignment as the department's traffic enforcement officer.

His duties will include maintaining, reviewing and updating all information regarding traffic flows, traffic accidents and traffic enforcement. Henry, being a traffic enforcement officer, will be responsible for the enforcement of traffic laws and regulations. He will also be responsible for the enforcement of traffic laws and regulations.

According to Police Chief Art Berry, there has been a traffic enforcement effort in the past but not to the degree of Henry's new position. Henry will spend over 50 per cent of his working time on traffic enforcement. In terms of days he will work three days on regular patrol, two days on traffic enforcement and one day for reviewing and processing traffic reports and studies.

"This is just about a full-time position right now," said Berry. "Traffic has always been a difficult area for police to deal with. We think Officer Henry can take on the added responsibility and do an outstanding job." The position could become full-time in the near future, he added.

Currently the department is processing an average of 70 to 90 accident reports monthly. Henry said that number is evenly balanced between the city and the township in relationship to the differences in volume of traffic and miles of streets.

Henry will continue to use the department's lone mounted radar gun and will teach fellow officers in the workings of traffic enforcement. He said, "I've always been traffic oriented throughout my police career."

Besides the mounted radar gun the department will soon be using a new hand-held model. The Plymouth City Commission passed a resolution Monday night approving the purchase of such a radar gun for a price of $2,400.

One of Henry's first projects will be a complete review of Ann Arbor Road from I-275 to Sheldon Road. He said the state highway department has that section of Ann Arbor Road as one of the top 10 most hazardous roadways in in the state.

Canton board moves to relieve flooding

BY DEK BROWN

Canton Township trustee Dek Brown has proposed that the township purchase a sewer flooding alert system which would warn DPW workers in advance of the actual flooding and give them time to bring in the portable pumps recently purchased by the township.

The township board authorized the purchase of a sewer flooding alert system which would warn Canton DPW workers in advance of the actual flooding and give them time to bring in the portable pumps recently purchased by the township.

The alarm system will use a float to warn of existing flood conditions. The float will be wired to a telephone device which would call a central telephone number. DPW personnel would be notified of the flooding and would be able to bring in the pumps to prevent damage to pumps and equipment at the station.

A sewer flooding system was recommended for the sewer lift station at Lotz and Warren Roads to prevent damage to pumps and equipment at the station.

The cost of the system which will be purchased from H. V. Burton Company, the low bidder, will be $2,490 per unit.

tell it to Phyllis

Here it is only two and a half weeks before Christmas and I'm starting my annual holiday panic.

I finally started shopping last week, but so far I've yet to make a dent in the list of people to buy for. Every year I vow to start shopping early, but somehow time slips away and I'm faced with the same problem. I have a great dislike or maybe I'm just jealous of people who do all their Christmas shopping at summer and fall sales. How can they possibly think of Christmas gifts that time of year?

I used to think I had to be in the mood to get ready for the holidays, but I'm learning quickly - I had better get moving whether the mood strikes or not. If we only had a little snow on the ground, it would at least seem more like Christmas.

Christmas cookies have always been a tradition at our house, but how am I ever going to find the time to make all those little goodies? Maybe it's time to turn the recipes over to the kids. They always do a great job of decorating cookies, and if they follow mom's baking routine they know they have to burn at least two batches.

Then there's the annual Christmas card dilemma. Most of my friends know by now not to expect holiday greetings from me before January or February. I had great intentions when I picked my cards up a month ago of surprising everyone and getting them out on time this year. However, I'm back in the same boat with only two addressed so far. It's a good thing my friends and family know and understand me.

As a kid I can remember thinking of Christmas as the most exciting time of the year. Even as a nonworking mother with small children I can remember doing all those little extras for the holidays. I still enjoy Christmas, but from a different point of view. Now I have to learn to schedule extra time at work as well as extra time at home with the kids.

It's a good thing I really believe in Santa. I have great hopes that he and his little elves will arrive in time to decorate the house, bake cookies, and bring all my gifts for everyone already wrapped.

City lists top business taxpayers

In a report prepared by the City of Plymouth's Treasurer-Assessor's office for Monday night's tax abatement hearing, the 10 largest taxpayers in the city are cited.

Number one on the list is Western Electric, contributing $6,039,995 in taxes, while Packaging Corp. of America is second at $2,319,197.

The next six taxpayers range from $1,933,421 to $1,019,736. They are Hendry Properties, $1,933,421; Townsend Div. of Textron (Dunn Steel), $1,757,761; Bathey Manufacturing, $1,628,646; Ralph and Mabel Lorenz (Lorenz Enterprises), $1,252,814; Detroit Edison, $1,134,758; and Stahl Manufacturing, $1,019,736.

Rounding out the top 10 are Consumers Powers, $844,526, and Adistra and Scott Trust, $771,555.

Total taxes from those 10 industrial properties comes to $18,702,409.

The city's total tax valuations are $128,585,730. Sixty-seven per cent of that figure comes from residential taxpayers, 21 per cent from commercial and 11 per cent from industrial taxpayers.

The report was prepared for the tax abatement hearing on the Mayflower II addition to the Mayflower Hotel.

The body in the trunk was alive

Plymouth Police quickly responded to a report early Saturday morning that someone had been seen stuffing a body into the trunk of a car near the C & O crossing at Haggerty Road near the Burroughs Corporation plant.

A few minutes later police stopped a car answering the description and did find a body in the trunk—the live body of the driver's eight-year-old son. The father hastily explained that he had asked his son to get in the trunk to check out where the rattle in the family car was coming from.

Police let the man go on his way after lecturing him about the dangers of asphyxiation from such a stupid move.

Special Crier holiday deadlines

Because of the Christmas holiday, The Community Crier's weekly edition prior to the Yule will be published on Monday, Dec. 21.

This necessitates even earlier deadlines than were announced last week for news and advertising. The new deadlines for that edition are:

NEWS ITEMS must be submitted by noon, Friday, Dec. 18.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING deadline is noon, Friday, Dec. 18 but proof ad deadline is 5 p.m. Thursday Dec. 17.

CLASSIFIED ADS deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 18.

Crier carriers are reminded that papers will be delivered to them early in the morning on Monday, Dec. 21. Carrier collections are due in the office on Saturday, Dec. 19 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Because of the holidays, Crier readers should note that earlier than usual carrier collections will allow carriers to complete their work by Christmas.

The Crier's offices will be closed on Dec. 24 and 25, on Dec. 31 and on Jan. 1.

Deadlines for the Dec. 30 edition of The Crier (containing the annual "Growth" section) will remain standard as do those for the Jan. 6 issue.

These revised deadlines will allow Crier staff members and carriers to observe the holidays.

Hartwig murder trial now set for Jan. 13

Ronald Hartwig, 32, accused killer of Stacey Hurrelbrink, 21, will go to trial before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Henry J. Szymanski on Jan. 13. The trial had been adjourned from the original date of Dec. 15.

According to Asst. Wayne County Prosecutor John Thompson his office has received the results of the forensic examination Hartwig took in Ann Arbor recently. He said the tests were to see if Hartwig is criminally responsible for his actions the night of Aug. 24 and not to see if he is competent to stand trial.

Thompson said Hartwig's defense attorney has filed a notice claiming insanity at the time of the act.

"This is basically a defense and may or may not be used by the defense attorney at the trial," said Thompson.

Saginaw jail escapee's hostage ends up in Canton

When Robert T. Cousins made his escape from the Saginaw jail last Friday afternoon, allegedly shooting a deputy and a mail man in his escape attempt and grabbing off an elderly woman and her car, there was ultimately a Canton ending to the story.

The hostage, Anna Gosen, Saginaw, was forced by Cousins to drive toward Ann Arbor from Saginaw. Near Detroit he left the car and ordered her to drive on. She headed for the home of her daughter, Nancy Riemenschneider, of 45020 Pinetree in Plymouth, but became lost and ended up on Michigan Ave. and Ridge Road in southwestern Canton Township. She called from a restaurant to report her location.

Cousins was picked up Monday in a home on the east side of Detroit by Detroit Police and will be returned to Saginaw where he will await sentencing on an armed robbery conviction and will face charges of attempted murder and kidnapping.

Senior Citizens map plans for activities

There's plenty for Plymouth and Plymouth Township seniors to do and see in the coming weeks.

According to members of the Plymouth Council on Aging, Inc., upcoming activities include two trips - one to the State Capitol in Lansing on Jan. 18 and one to Chicago, Ill. from Feb. 1 to 3.

The trip to Lansing will include bus transportation with coffee and donuts enroute, lunch at a Lansing restaurant and admission to one other attraction, as well as the opportunity to meet with state senators and legislators.

Details on the Chicago trip will be available by Christmas.

Health screening is available at a free one-day clinic at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, on Wednesday, Jan. 20. Sponsored by the People's Community Hospital Authority, the screening will be by appointment only. Volunteers are needed to assist in the registration, and interested persons are urged to contact the Cultural Center at 455-6620.

Free blood pressure clinics will also be held, on the first Tuesday of the month at the Cultural Center. Sponsored by the Madonna College Department of Nursing and the Michigan High Blood Pressure Council, the tests are given between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and are available to any member of the community regardless of age.

Township seniors have organized a club at their new Senior Citizen Center at 42375 Schoolcraft Rd. near Bradner. General meetings are held the first Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m., and card players are welcomed every Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. and every Thursday from noon to 3 p.m. For more information, call Hugo Niemi at 459-2165.

The next meeting of the Plymouth-Northville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will be held Dec. 16 at the Cultural Center, which is a change in date due to the Christmas holidays. A board meeting will be followed by a brown bag lunch at noon. Members are also asked to bring cookies which will be taken to nursing and convalescent homes, and non-perishable and canned goods which will be donated to the Salvation Army. Entertainment at the meeting will be provided by the Canton High Madrigal Singers.

Seventh Day Adventists to start fund drive

Seventh Day Adventists opened their 73rd annual Community Service Appeal this week, and volunteers will be out in the area until Dec. 31.

The appeal is an annual fundraising drive conducted by identified, unpaid Seventh Day Adventist volunteers. It is the only public request for funds made by the church, which sponsors stop-smoking and health screening clinics, vegetarian cooking and nutrition seminars, health camps, Focus on the Family and other community programs as well as disaster relief work statewide.

Overseas the church supports mission schools, leper colonies, clinics, medical launches, emergency air service, dispensaries, hospitals and relief units.

According to John Swanson, communications secretary of the local service appeal effort, last year more than 11 million people were assisted by the 3.5 million-member church, and $10,815,345 in cash and food was given away to needy individuals.

Swanson adds the influence of the Loma Linda University Medical Center, educational heart of the church's worldwide health care service, reaches into 89 countries, employs 40,000 people and serves 5 million individuals annually.

The local goal of the Community Service Appeal is $2,400. Swanson says, "When the unpaid solicitors invite you to help, they'll be echoing the hopes of 100 million people who go to bed hungry every night, and the 19 children who die of malnutrition every 60 seconds."

Newspaper sales off slightly

Goodfellows report slow business

CLINCHING a paper sale at Ford and Canton Center Roads is Canton Police Sgt. Alex Wilson.

Plymouth Goodfellows and Canton Goodfellows reported that business was off slightly Saturday for Goodfellows newspaper sales in Plymouth and Canton.

The Plymouth Goodfellows reported street sales of $2,978.37, down from last year's $3,569.54.

Treasurer Hank Berghoff, in assessing this year's sales, said, "There just weren't the numbers of people out on the street this year that we have had in the past.

Out in Canton the Goodfellows news hawks took in $2,100, down about $500 from last year's contributions. The Canton Goodfellows may be out on the streets Dec. 12 seeking more donations to help the group make Christmas merrier for those families less fortunate.

The Canton Goodfellows did have one pleasant surprise. One driver pulled up to a Canton Goodfellow peddling his papers and dropped in a check for $200.

"GET YOUR PAPERS!" at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey, Lottie Cunningham seems to say.

MIKE WAGNER braves heavy traffic to bring the message of the Plymouth Goodfellows to motorists traveling on Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey. Goodfellows in Plymouth and Canton donated much of their time and effort to aid the needy in the community, and make sure no one is without a Christmas.

DURING THE HOLIDAYS, Canton is hosting Santa and Mrs. Claus in person and by telephone. Youngsters may see the jolly old gent in his home next to Meijer Thrifty Acres on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m.; and on Sundays from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 7 p.m. (His appearance is sponsored by the Canton Jaycees.) ## Send your Yule cards

The Canton Public Library is looking for some Christmas cheer to decorate the library walls. Library officials are asking Canton families to keep the library in mind when sending out Christmas greetings by sending one to the library.

The Christmas cards received by the library will be used as holiday decorations and be displayed in the Children's Book Nook Room.

After the holidays the cards will be used in craft programs sponsored by the library for children.

Those who want to put the Canton Library on their Christmas card mailing list should address the cards to Canton Public Library, 1150 South Canton Center Road, Canton, Mich. 48187.

PERFORMING for the Plymouth Branch, American Association of University Women benefit for First Step on Dec. 17 is the Intrada quintet, a well-known chamber music group based in Ann Arbor. (Photo courtesy Intrada)

AAUW plans benefit for First Step program

Members of the Plymouth Branch of American Association of University Women (AAUW) and their guests will have the opportunity to participate in a unique holiday program on Dec. 17.

The monthly meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Plymouth Historical Museum and then move on to a wine and cheese benefit for First Step, featuring a performance of chamber music by Intrada.

At the museum, AAUW members will hear a presentation by Museum Director Barbara Saunders on local history. The group will then adjourn to Plymouth Furniture on Main Street for the party to benefit First Step, a private non-profit organization which assists victims of domestic violence.

First Step, which offers counseling, referrals, temporary emergency shelter, transportation and a 24-hour crisis line, has had much of its funding severely curtailed from state and federal sources. A suggested donation of $2.50 per person will be asked at the wine and cheese party, which will also feature a performance by Intrada.

The Intrada Woodwind Quintet, based in Ann Arbor, is composed of five members, each with a degree in performance from the University of Michigan School of Music as well as extensive backgrounds in chamber and orchestral music performance.

Members of AAUW interested in attending the program are asked to contact Nancy Vernon at 455-7153 during the day, or Suzanne Witucki at 455-7493 in the evening, for reservations.

Special Ed advisory group seeks members

The Special Education Parent Advisory Committee is seeking membership in the organization. The committee is composed of parents of handicapped children and was formed to advise the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and parents of Plymouth-Canton Schools of issues pertaining to special education students.

Either Santa or Mrs. Claus will be on the other end of the line to listen to children express their Christmas wishes.

handicapped by holding parent meetings, serving as a support group for parents, securing services for all special education children and encouraging communications between the Plymouth-Canton School District and the state legislature

Created in 1979, the group has sponsored the Kids on the Block Troupe of Puppets with various handicaps, a summer recreation program for handicapped children and for siblings of disabled children.

SE PAC also has published a handbook for parents, puts out a newsletter and has an advocacy committee to aid parents in understanding and receiving the services handicapped children need.

The organization meets monthly throughout the school year on the fourth Thursday of the month. Meetings are conducted in the pupil personnel office at 1024 S. Mill Street and are open to all parents and other interested people.

Meetings start at 7 p.m.

Plymouth Symphony plans concert

A Christmas musical performance of Hector Berlioz' "The Childhood of Christ" will comprise the Plymouth Symphony's third regular concert of this season.

Beginning at 4 p.m. in the Salem High auditorium, the holiday extravaganza will feature the talents of four guest vocalists and the Rackham Symphony Choir of Detroit as well as the Plymouth Symphony under the direction of conductor Johan Van Der Merwe.

Described as a classic oratorio, "The Childhood of Christ" was first conducted by Berlioz in 1854. This performance will be the second accomplished by the Plymouth Symphony, however - the first was done some years ago.

"The work is not done often enough," says Van Der Merwe. "There is not too much Christmas music of oratorio length that one can do. As always, at Christmas time, especially with a body like the Plymouth Symphony, one looks for things that will make full use of this fine orchestra."

The work, a trilogy, was the first composition that Berlioz wrote with the entire text. It has a narrator, traditionally the tenor, and orchestra, vocalists and choir are heard throughout the three parts.

The oratorio begins with Herod's dream about the birth of the infant who would eventually be king, and of the angels' warning to Joseph and Mary to flee. The second part describes their flight into Egypt with the infant Jesus, and the final part of the trilogy follows Jesus through his childhood.

"The whole work ends very softly, a capella," explains Van Der Merwe. "It is a very, very beautiful ending, not a big dramatic climax. If it is done very well it can leave an audience really suspended, really feeling the atmosphere and the solemnity of the continuation of Christ on earth and of prophesy being fulfilled."

Performing with the Plymouth Symphony will be vocalists John McCollum, a tenor; Warren Jaworski, baritone; Rosemary Russell, mezzo-soprano; and Harlan Jannings.

McCollum is a member of the University of Michigan School of Music voice faculty and is director of the university division of the National Music Camp at Interlochen. He began his career as a newspaperman but did not begin his full-time singing career until he was in his twenties. He has sung leading roles on American and Canadian television in addition to his stature as a leading tenor with the New York City Opera.

Jaworski, artist-in-residence at Huntington College in Huntington, Ind., is also producer and general manager of the Northwest Indiana Opera Association and manager of Midwest Artist Management. His career has included engagements in opera and oratorio, radio and television work, recitals and appearances with various symphony orchestras.

Russell is presently an Associate Professor of Voice at the University of Michigan. She has appeared with the Detroit Symphony, Aspen Festival Orchestra, Prague Chamber Orchestra, Mozarteum of Salzburg and several community orchestras. Her operatic credits include performances in "Amahl and the Night Visitors," "Faust," "Madame Butterfly" and "The Magic Flute." She also performed the leading role in the American premiere of William Walton's "The Bear."

Jennings, a member of the Michigan State University voice faculty since 1973, has been featured soloist with the Opera Company of Greater Lansing, Opera Grand Rapids, St. Louis Municipal Opera and Cincinnati Opera. He has performed in operas such as "Three Penny Opera," "Don Giovanni" and "Madame Butterfly."

Also appearing with the Plymouth Symphony will be the Rackham Symphony Choir, which has performed regularly with the Detroit Symphony. Organized in 1949 by Maynard Klein as a class in the Extension Service of U-M, the choir currently includes approximately 100 members directed by John Smith, director of the Detroit Community Music School.

The concert will be presented with one intermission, and coffee and tea will be served by members of the Plymouth Symphony League. Free babysitting provided by Girl Scouts will be available for pre-schoolers. Senior citizens at Tonquish Creek Manor can take advantage of transportation leaving the Manor at 3:15 p.m. and returning after the concert.

Tickets cost $5 for adults and $2.50 for senior citizens and full-time college students. Students in 12th grade and under are admitted free.

Symphony memberships are also available at Beitner Jewelry, Plymouth Book World and Heide's Flowers in Plymouth; Arnholdt Williams Music in Canton; and Four Seasons Flowers in Northville.

"The Childhood of Christ" is made possible by a grant from the State of Michigan through the Michigan Council for the Arts, Ford Motor Company Sheldon Road Plant and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Review

Schoolcraft College Yule concert was inspiring

BY REEF MORSE

If you don't celebrate Christmas for any other reason, celebrate it for the music it has inspired.

Last week's inspiration came at the hands and vocal cords of the Schoolcraft College Community Choir. Directed by Marilyn Jones, the Choir performed a wide range of music from 'A Ceremony of Carols' by Benjamin Britten, of which 'This Little Babe' is perhaps best known, to 'Magnificat' by Dietrich Buxtehude. The performance was polished and powerful over this wide repertoire.

Particia Terry, a harpist from Cass Tech and Wayne State University, accompanied the Choir for the Britten piece. She nearly stole the show. She has a powerful and aggressive style coupled to excellent technical skill. She also played a piece by Ravel accompanied by Marilyn Jones on flute and Marge Paulian, the Choir accompanist, on piano.

The 'Magnificat' was accompanied by a sextet well represented by members of the Plymouth Symphony. Judy Culler and Gwyneth Jones played violin, Jean Braun played viola, Janet Holt played cello, Chris Jones played bass, and Robert Jones played harpsichord.

The performance concluded with an audience sing-along of Christmas carols and the audience kept up at least in volume with the Choir.

The admission was free, the United Methodist Church was packed, the Choir was terrific, the program excellent, and the audience had a ball. What better way to bring Christmas spirit to Plymouth!

Theatre Guild extends party invitation

BEST FOOT FORWARD

POOR CIRCULATION
IN THE FEET

Anyone who suffers from a vascular condition of the lower limbs should lead a life that is only mildly active and free from exertion. Regular, moderate exercise, such as walking or bicycle riding is often encouraged, but a doctor must make the judgment for you.

An obese person with poor circulation in the feet must lose weight. Lower weight will mean, of course, less area through which the poor circulation must flow, with less strain on those narrowed arteries. Diet, or at least careful attention to the kinds of food one eats, should be of some help.

If you have poor circulation in the lower extremities, learn to live calmly. Tension, anger, suppressed emotional conflict, or excitement may raise blood pressure and aggravate circulatory troubles. An even disposition and temperament and regulated routine of work and play should be the goal.

GRAND OPENING PARTY for Skatin' Station is scheduled for this Sunday. The rink boasts the largest maple wood skating floor in the state, and is equipped with many other facilities such as pro shop, lockers, offices and skate rental. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Skatin' Station prepares for opener

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Skatin' Station Roller Rink, has tickets available for the Grand Opening of the Skatin' Station.

The big affair is set for Sunday, Dec. 13, from 7 p.m. until midnight.

Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Recreation Departments have been busy selling tickets, as a percentage of the total sales will be donated to them by the Skatin' Station. So far, Plymouth Township leads the way with more than 200 tickets sold, according to Skatin' Station partner Woody Lynch, with Canton second in sales and the city third.

The $10 tickets include hors d'oeuvres provided by the Hillside, snack bar and skate rental. Lynch adds that there will also be door prizes and special guests on hand for the gala evening.

"This will be a sellout," says Lynch, "So tell everyone to get their tickets early at community recreation departments."

Tickets are now on sale through the Plymouth Recreation Department, 455-6620; Plymouth Township Hall, 453-3840; or Canton Recreation Department, 397-1000.

Station 885 to open next week in Old Village

Station 885, the newest addition to Plymouth's Old Village and the district's only lounge, is finishing detail work and is almost set to open next week.

Lorraine Waun, who with husband Bill and their family have labored for months to get the facility ready for business, says the finishing touches are going in this week.

"Plymouth Glass came by Monday with mirrors and etched glass, and the Liquor Control Commission did their final inspection. We still need the final papers from the L.C.C., though, and I think we'll get them Monday. The plumbers should be out by Friday, and the Health Department in, so I guess it would be safe to say we'll open at the end of next week."

Although Waun says it has been a long hard job getting Station 885 established, "We're glad we did it. It was a family thing - we all did a lot of the work, like staining. I have every color stain there is under my fingernails. The rest of the work was done with all local contractors and we worked very well with them. In fact, we made a lot of friends. When we had troubles, you could tell they felt it, too."

Billed as the only establishment of its kind in Old Village, Station 885 will feature a complete soup-and-sandwich menu, chili and entrees such as fried vegetables as well as beer and liquor. A meeting room has been outfitted upstairs (reached via a winding staircase), and Waun says several area clubs and organizations have already booked it.

Station 885 is located at, appropriately enough, 885 Starkweather - right next to the railroad tracks.

Watch for it.

Workman's Compensation law reforms urged by Small Business lobby; meeting set

Workman's Compensation reform was the focus of two meetings held last week of the Michigan Alliance of Small Business, and one more meeting is scheduled tomorrow which will be attended by State Sen. Bob Geake.

Hosted by Reynold Hendrickson of Star Pak Solar Systems in Novi, the meetings are designed to build a successful workman's compensation reform effort.

According to Hendrickson, Michigan is rated dead last as a state in which to do business. "Meanwhile many of our legislators and judges in Lansing have been playing political football with our hard earned assets for decades by allowing enormous abuses in Workman's Compensation and unfair taxation to small businesses," he adds.

The Michigan Alliance of Small Business is a grass roots lobby representing small business exclusively, he says, and its leaders come from all over the state and are elected and unpaid. Several hundred members gathered for the Michigan Conference on Small Business last spring, and Hendrickson says now is the time to expand and share what the Alliance can do for other businessmen.

Tomorrow's meeting will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the offices of Star Pak Solar Systems at 44480 Grand River in Novi (between Novi and Beck Roads - take I-96 to the Novi exit, head south on Novi Road, west one mile on Grand River).

For more information, call Hendrickson at 348-0990.

Headlee to address Chamber

Richard Headlee, well-known tax revisionist and Republican candidate for governor, will speak at the Dec. 15

RICHARD HEADLEE

Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Caucus Luncheon.

Headlee will speak on "Why the President Must Succeed" at the luncheon, which will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the Hillside Inn.

In 1963 he was national president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, and three years later became an advisor for then-Governor George Romney. In 1972 he became chief executive officer of Alexander Hamilton Insurance Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Household International, Inc.

In 1978 Headlee served as chairman of Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, an organization which successfully amended the state constitution. He authored the "Headlee Amendment" which limits all forms of taxation and government spending in the state.

He has also served as chairman of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and is now on the Board of Trustees of Oakland University.

Indian concerts yield challenges

A typical song involves three elements - developing the notes, the song itself, and adding the rhythm to the notes.

There are seven ascending and seven descending notes which form the raga, and various combinations offer thousands of musical variations. The raga is artistically interpreted by the vocalist, and the presentation is up to his ability and imagination. The vocalist can elaborate on the notes, but not on the song.

Aiding in this interpretation are two instruments, the tambura and violin. The tambura is a long-necked drone instrument which may be played by the vocalist, while the violin is used to both follow and embellish the vocalist's choice of raga.

The tala, on the other hand, is accentuated by the mridangam, a drum with both ends covered by animal skins. The left head plays bass while the right is tuned to the "tonic" of the music.

Karnatak is characterized by lilting, oscillating notes, virtuoso performances by the artists and a spirit of challenge that each musician poses to the others.

Because the performers do not rehearse beforehand, they must be familiar with an incredible body of music. On top of that difficulty, however, the best can exhibit a startling range of creativity within a seemingly structured system of notes.

"It is a new experience each time," says Sankaranarayanan. "I usually do not select a raga until the show."

The trio are on the last leg of a three-month tour which had more than 35 concerts scheduled. They have been sponsored throughout the U.S. by families like Bali's and have seen a great many cities. But which was their favorite?

"That is a very hard question to answer diplomatically," says Sankaranarayanan with a broad smile.

Cpt. Sanders to wrap up 27 years city service; plans call for a little of the easy life

I'm really proud of the guys in this department."

He added the department doesn't even have one deck of playing cards. "People have gotten the idea firefighters sit on their duffs playing cards. It doesn't happen here," Sanders said.

"Good quarters are important to help relax the firefighters. It's not good for firefighters to be jumpy," said Sanders.

One of the more humorous incidents in Sanders' 27 years occurred when he pulled a woman from a burning building. He thought she was an invalid because he had to drag her from the house and carry her to an ambulance. He later found out she was just drunk at the time. "I received a citation for that one," Sanders said with a laugh.

The hottest fire he experienced came at the Continental Can fire in the early '50s. The roughest was the Packaging Corporation fire in 1972 because of the abrasive smoke and the bitter cold. He also remembers that as the longest fire, lasting almost three days.

By far the single most frightening incident came when he helped rescue a heart attack victim from atop a 50-foot ham radio antenna. "With two men up there I didn't know if the pole would hold us. It was just attached to the grounds by very thin looking strings," Sanders said.

The man was strapped to the pole and it took some effort to free him. "He was probably gone before I got on top the pole," Sanders said, "but we had to get him down. When the wind blew I was afraid that tower would collapse."

Sanders said one of the biggest things a firefighter has to deal with is a strange dichotomy to the job. "You can't show any feeling, but you can feel it," he said. "You have to do whatever you can to reach people during a fire. Some you swear at, others you pray with. You have to be a minister, a tough guy, a psychologist and a firefighter."

As captain, and lieutenant before, Sanders was in command of fighting many fires. He remembers the first fire he commanded. "We lost that one, but I don't feel bad about it. I've been fortunate, I haven't lost too many big fires."

On his ranch near Silom Springs, Ark., Sanders will enjoy a little fishing - one of his favorite pastimes - a little gardening and possibly raise some animals.

Sanders met his wife at a dance in Salem Township. They were married in 1948. "She's a native of Plymouth and a graduate of Plymouth High," said Sanders. "She is the real reason I stayed. When we were younger we could go anywhere we wanted but she wanted to stay in Plymouth." The pair have a son Tim, 31, a daughter Sharon, 29, and two grandchildren.

Besides fighting fires, Sanders will be remembered for his cooking.

"Plymouth is a town with an identity. It's been a good place to live and work," Sanders said.

Salem-Trenton battle for 3rd time tonight

Salem High's basketball opponent tonight in the women's quarterfinal competition, Trenton, is no stranger to Rock fans.

The two Suburban Eight League team's have already faced each other twice this year with Salem winning the game at Trenton and Trenton taking the game at Salem in double overtime.

John Biedenbach's Trojans are 20-5, while the Rocks are 21-3 overall.

Starting for the Trojans in tonight's game will be guards Tammy Cunningham and Sue Mattice, forwards Karen Soultz and Amy Welch, and center Sandy Clark. Players used from the bench include Emily Miller and Ann Preston.

Cunningham is a strong ball handler, said Biedenbach, while Mattice and Soultz are the team's top scorers. Welch is a solid outside shooter and six foot one inch center Clark has been coming on strong for the Trojans in the later part of the season, added the coach.

"Defense had been our strength this year. That plus our balance," said Biedenbach. "If one of our girls gets shutdown another one seems to pick it up."

Biedenbach says he looks for a tight game with the Rocks and expects it to be as close as the quarterfinal game last year between the two team's when Trenton fell by two points, 32-30.

"Either it will be really tight or one team will blow away the other. We can't take Salem lightly and they can't take us lightly," Biedenbach said. "Salem is also a well balanced team." He added he was very impressed with Salem's Ann Glomski after watching her during the Salem-Livonia Bentley regional final last week. He termed Glomski a possible deciding factor.

"We will probably make some minor adjustments, but I don't expect any drastic changes in the way we play this game," Biedenbach said.

The Trojans have averaged 48 points a game on offense this year and held opponents to an average of 36 points.

Sports

Rocks win regional over Bentley

BY KEN VOYLES

It was a classic deciding game Thursday when Salem High's womens basketball team edged Livonia Bentley, 40-38, to win the Region 4 title and a chance to play in quarterfinal action tonight.

If you recall, the Rocks had defeated Bulldogs, 45-38, in their first confrontation at Bentley's home court. Bentley came back two weeks later to defeat Salem by the exact same score, 45-38, at the Salem gym and win the Suburban Eight League title.

There was much more on the line Thursday, however, as the two teams slugged it out for a full 32 minutes with the decision coming only in the final seconds.

Salem's Ann Glomski gave the hard working Rocks the victory as she scored nine points in the final quarter.

The Bulldogs tallied 10 in the fourth quarter after being down 31-28 at the end of the third quarter. Glomski sank two free throws with 49 seconds left to make the score 40-36. The Bulldogs score at 36 seconds, but Glomski and Eileen Moore each went to the free throw line in the final 30 seconds, and although they did not score again, the Rocks fine ball handling paid off.

Salem coach Bob Blohm called it one of his team's greatest defensive efforts. "Our defense was super - it couldn't of been better. We made them get the ball to their people who normally don't shoot," he said. "Defense was our only real strength going into the game. That, and we have been shooting very well in our last four games."

As for Glomski he said, "She made it awfully hard for Bentley to start its offense in the final quarter." He added, "but she's done that for us all year."

Besides Glomski, Blohm cited the defensive work of Pam McBride, Carol Ross, and the shooting of Moore, who paced the squad with 14 points.

The Rocks opened the first quarter slowly falling behind 8-2. Salem closed to 10-8 at the end of the period as Moore and Glomski scored two baskets apiece.

Salem stayed closed throughout the second period but could not overcome the margin and take the lead. Bentley went into the lockerroom at the intermission ahead by one, 20-19.

Moore and Jacque Merrifield had four points each for Salem in the second period, while Ross accounted for the other three points.

Bentley continued to stay on top throughout the first five minutes of the third quarter, before Moore hit a basket at 2:28 to put the Rocks in front for the first time, 29-28. Salem led at the end of the quarter, 31-28. Moore had six points in the quarter and Merrifield tossed in four.

In the final quarter of play, Glomski hit field goals at 7:14 and 6:30. She then

A repeat season for Salem women

BY KEN VOYLES

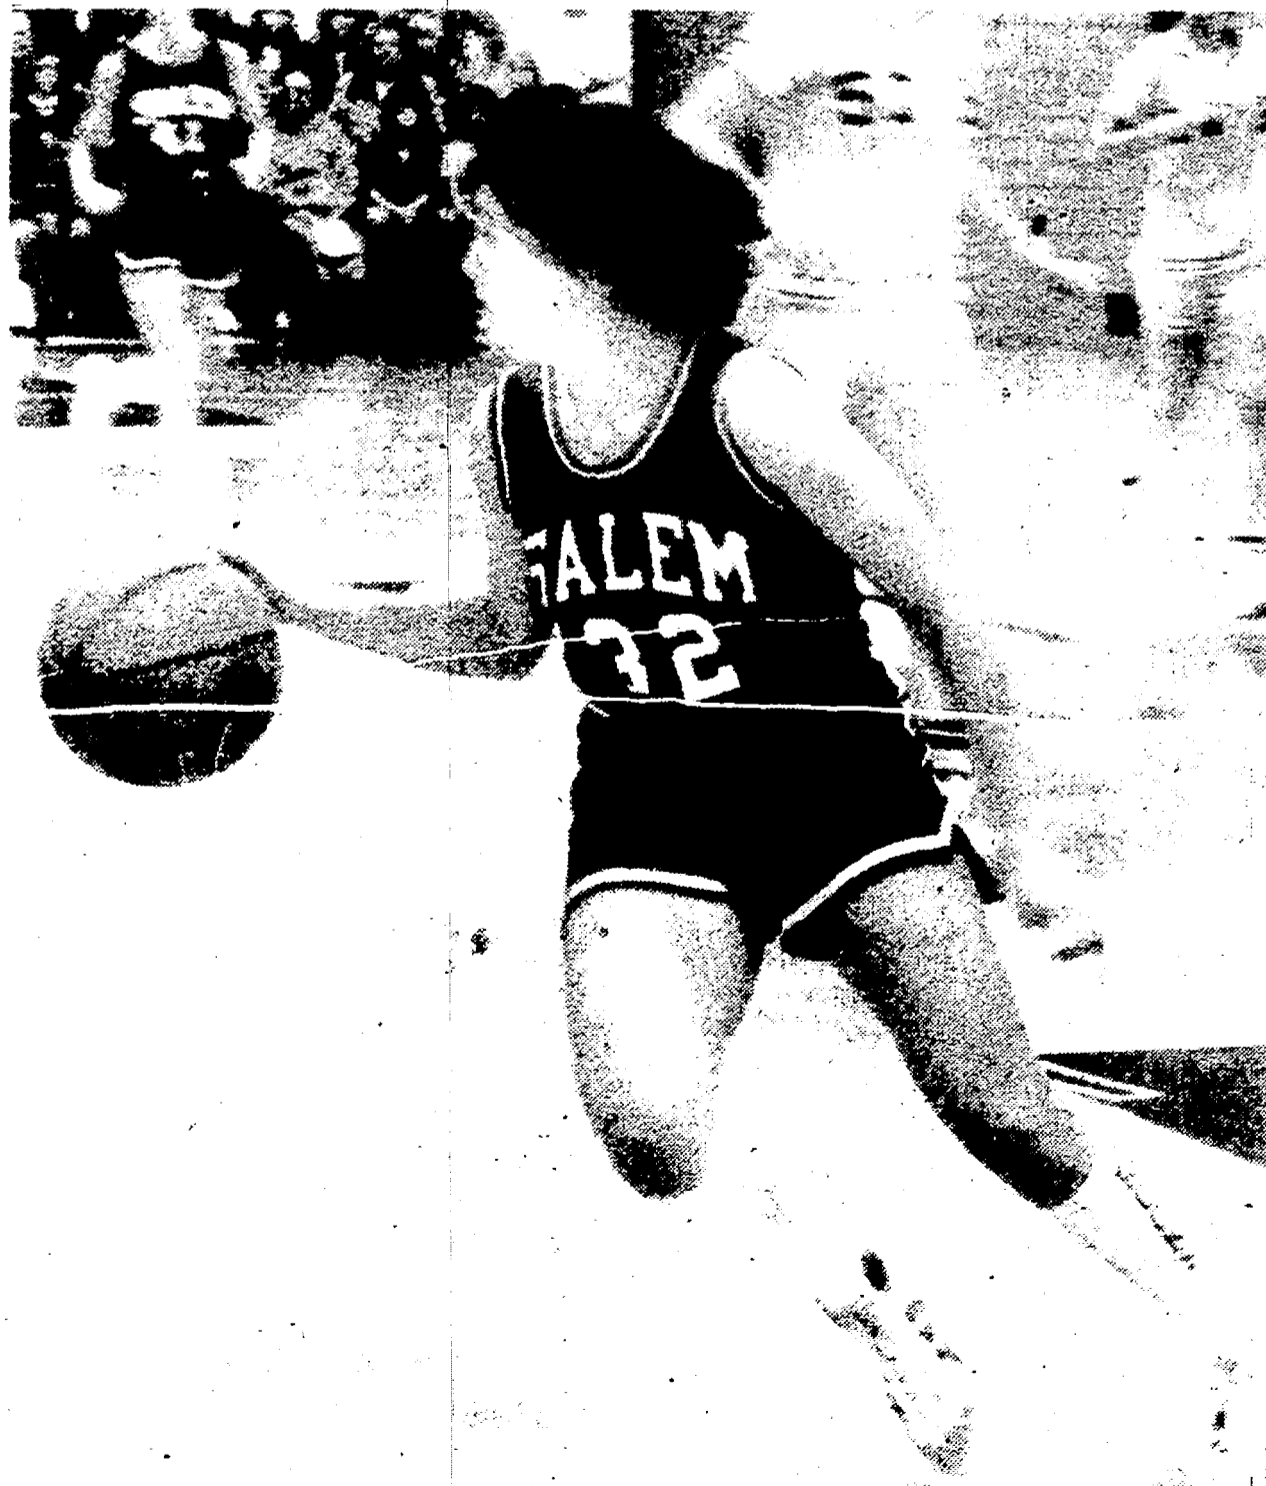

It must be Deja-vu.

Except for a few minor changes the plot of the 1981 season has been a repeat of last year for Salem High's womens basketball team.

Last year the Rocks made it all the way to the semifinals (final four) only to lose to a Jackson team. On their way to that confrontation the Rocks accomplished many things, including defeating Suburban Eight League foes Livonia Bentley and Trenton.

The Rocks had lost to Bentley twice during the 1980 season, but came back to edge the Bulldogs 43-41 in an overtime game that decided the Southfield Regional.

Another chance for the Rocks

The Rocks then went on to defeat pesky Trenton in the quarterfinals at Lincoln Park and go on to Lansing for the state semis. The Rocks had defeated the Trojans in their first regular season contest of 1980, but fell to Trenton in double overtime in the second confrontation.

This year the 21-3 Rocks again knocked off the Bulldogs in a regional final winning 40-38 to take Region 4 and the chance to play tonight at Lincoln Park against those same Trenton Trojans.

Unlike last year the Rocks had split their regular season games with Bentley, winning the first at Bentley and losing the second at home. The score in both games was 45-38.

Like last year the Rocks split their efforts with Trenton. They won the first game 61-47, and like last year, those same Trojans upset the Rocks in double overtime at Salem's gym, 28-27, in the second regular season effort.

"I think we're handling this success a little different from last year," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "Our determination is the same, but we are a lot calmer about it. Last year it was far more exciting in that we had never done as well before. I don't think being there last year has jaded us this year.

"I think you'll see a metro team win it this year," Blohm continued. The reason, he said, is the finals are to be held at University of Detroit's Callahan Fieldhouse.

The Rocks must first defeat Trenton tonight to play this Friday at Callahan in the second game of the semis against either Harper Woods Regina or Utica Eisenhower.

Trenton advanced to the quarterfinals with a 32-26 win over Detroit Cass.

As for the almost surprising success of this year's team Blohm said, "When the season started we had three things we wanted to accomplish. We wanted to improve our conditioning to the maximum, we wanted to become a better ball handling team to offset our lack of size, and we wanted to compensate for that fact by learning to rebound with other teams."

Blohm added that those goals have been achieved. "As a coach you try to set realistic goals and if something such as a district and a regional win comes your way all the better.

"A really nice thing this year is that every team that beat us we've had the chance to play in tournament action," he continued. It's always great to be able to play the team that beat you last time out."

The Rocks' three losses this year came from Ann Arbor Huron, Trenton, and Bentley, in that order. The Rocks defeated Huron to win the district title and defeated the Bullogs to win the regional title, and Trenton is tonight.

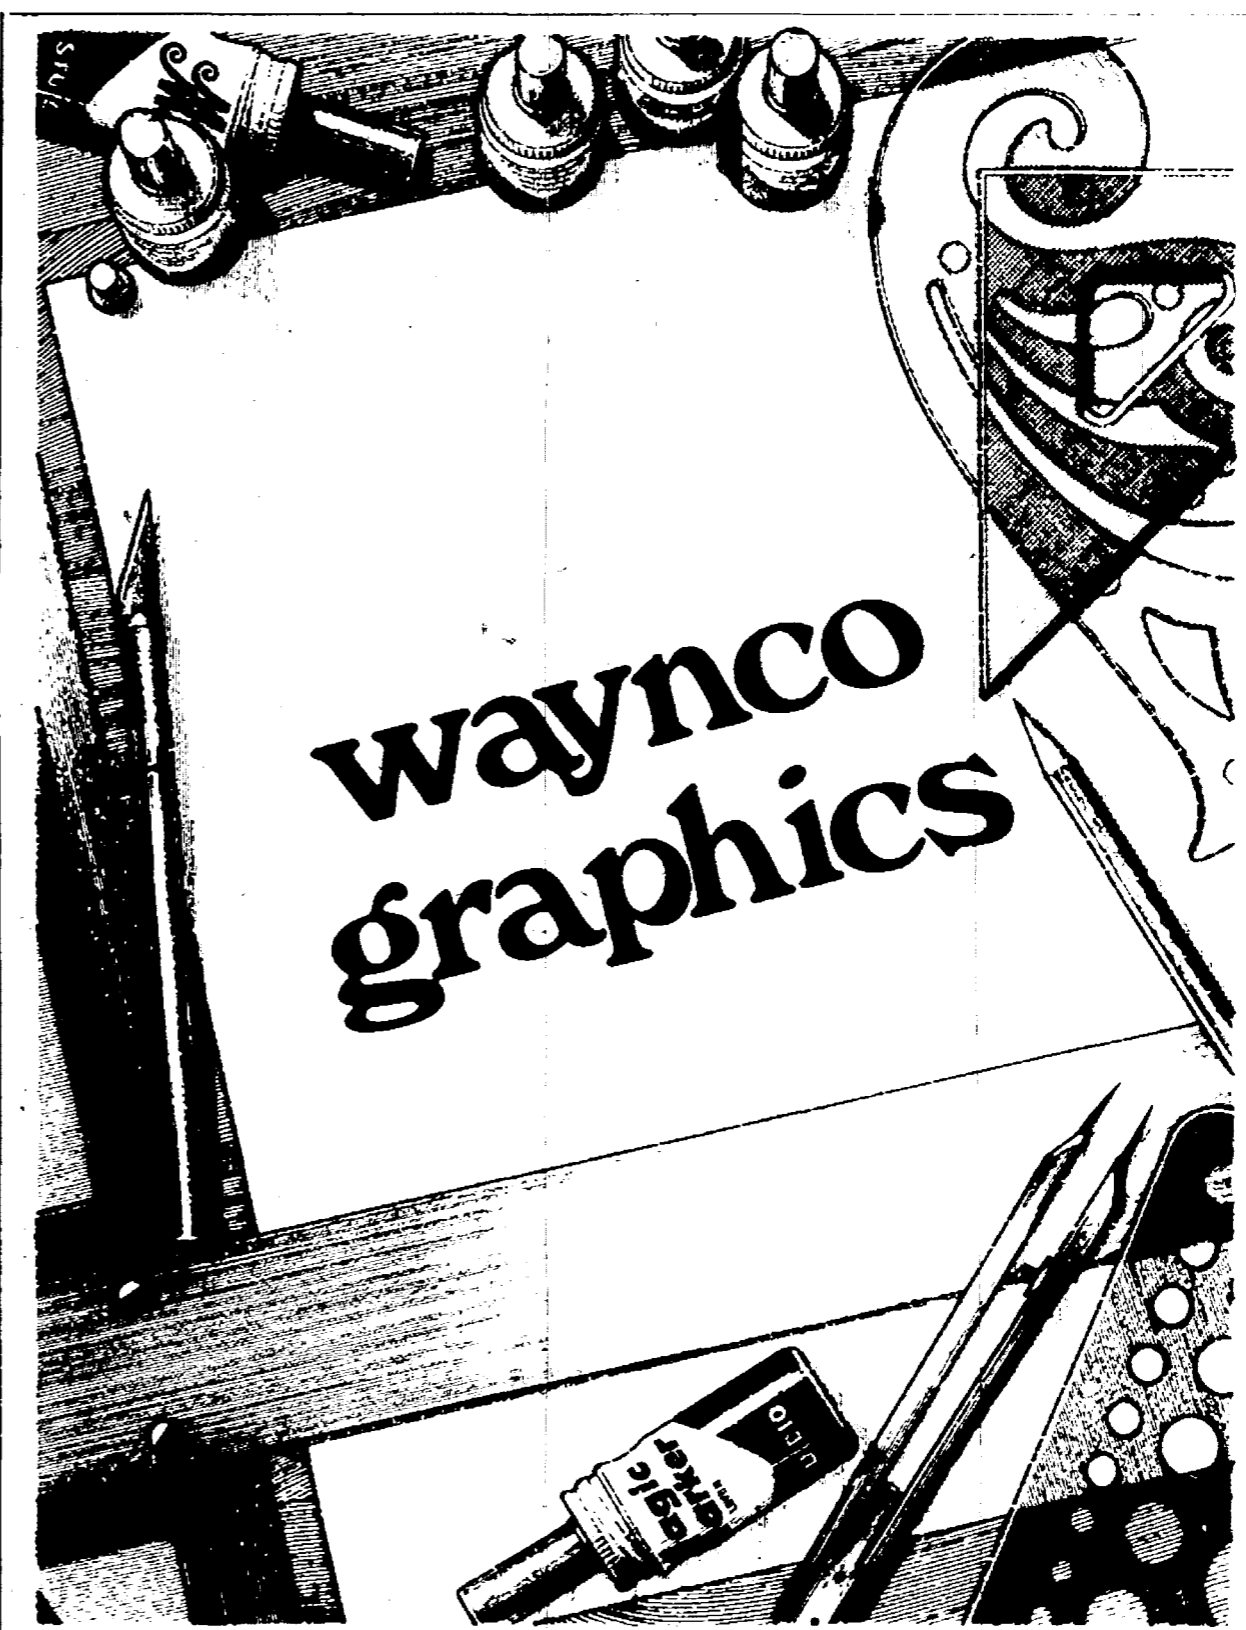

"Our kids are really on top of their game both offensively and defensively," Blohm said.

added a layup at 5:24 and made it a three-point play by sinking a free throw to make the score, 38-32. Bentley fought back to 38-36 as the Rocks tried to stall, before Glomski went to the line at the 49-second mark.

Salem's hot shooter Jan MacKenzie did not score, but she was able to keep the Bulldog defense off balance as they repeatedly keyed on her, leaving Moore, Merrifield and Glomski open to score.

"This game is a great tribute to our kids. They did a super job against Bentley," said Blohm, who added that his team played a fairly good pressure defense throughout the 32 minutes and that that also contributed to the victory.

"I was really impressed with our conditioning," Blohm concluded.

Moore paced Salem with 14 points, while Glomski collected 13 and Merrifield eight.

Flip Rowdies

The Flip Rowdies, of the Bonanza-Express Indoor Soccer League defeated the Northville Sting, 2-0, Saturday.

Joanne Mishler scored from Lisa Russell and Doreen Dudek scored from Mishler for the Rowdies.

The Rowdies fought to a 2-2 tie against Warren United on Nov. 28. Shelly Staszal scored from Marie Wangbichler and Mishler scored from Dudek.

Salem basketball game changed to Saturday

The Salem High mens basketball game slated for Friday night at home against Suburban Eight League foe Trenton has been pushed back to Saturday night due to the chance that the Salem High womens basketball team will be in semifinal action that night.

If the women Rocks win tonight over Trenton they will play Friday. The men Rocks will still play the junior varsity game at 6:15 p.m. and varsity at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Rock cagers open season with win over Central

BY KEN VOYLES

Salem High's men's basketball team overcame opening game jitters Friday night to edge non-league opponent Walled Lake Central, 50-44.

Salem women swimmers

Salem High women's swimmers competed in the state swim meet at Michigan State University over the weekend, but were unable to place in the competition.

Salem diver Cindy McSurely competed in the diving regionals at Brighton on Tuesday and finished 16th.

On Friday Salem swimmer Terri Eudy and the Rocks 200-yard medley relay team took to the pool.

In the preliminary races, Eudy clocked 2:18.2 in the individual medley and 56.1 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle. Neither time was good enough to get her into the finals.

The foursome of Eudy, Debbie Darlington, Amy Dunn and Corinne Cabadas was also unable to get out of the preliminary races into the finals.

Ross swims

Sharon Ross, a 1980 graduate of Salem High School, will return to Oberlin College's women's swim team this winter, after an tremendous freshman year, in which she set five new school records.

Oberlin's new coach, Michelle Ennis, lists Ross as one of the teams strengths this year, and adds "I'm very optimistic for her."

Ross, who is majoring in mathematics and physics at Oberlin, had a banner freshman season for the Yeowomen, as she qualified for the AIAW Division III nationals in the 1650-yard freestyle and the 400-yard individual medley. She took 23rd and 25th in the two events, respectively.

This season, Ross will swim in the 500, 1000, and 1650-yard freestyles. She will also swim in the 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard individual medley.

Bowling tourney

The 4th Annual Holiday Doubles Parent-Child Bowling Tournament will be held Dec. 26 at Superbowl Lanes, 45100 Ford Rd.

Sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department and the Superbowl, the tourney is open to any Canton parent and child under 18 years of age.

There will be a two-game tournament for Pee Wee children costing $5.25 and a three-game tourney for all other children through age 17 costing $6.50.

Competition will start at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Check-in is at 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

A handicap system will be used to equalize the competition and trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams.

Register either at the Superbowl or at the Canton Parks and Recreation office. For further information call the Superbowl, 459-6070, or the recreation office, 397-1000.

After the game Salem coach Fred Thomann commented on what he liked in his squad's first effort of the 1981-82 season. "I liked that fact that we opened with a team that was prepared to play. We got a challenge. Central is a good ball team and they were ready," Thomann said.

He continued, "I also liked the fact that we saw a lot of players tonight. We had a good offensive effort in the second half and our defense, with breakdowns, was pretty good." Thomann added that his squad's conditioning paid off at the end of the game.

The Rocks were definitely cold at the start of the game. The Vikings scored the first seven points in the first quarter to lead 7-0 with 4:45 left, but the Rocks were not to be shutdown completely and they came back to score the next 10 points to lead 10-7 at the end of the quarter. David Miller hit four of those 10 Salem points.

The second quarter was a see-saw battle. The Rocks scored first to lead 12-9, but Central fought to a 13-13 tie and then a 15-15 tie at 2:56, before the Rocks scored five of the final six points to lead 20-16 at the intermission. Norm Haygood tallied four of the Salem points in the period.

In the third quarter, Salem continued to hold onto its margin, taking a seven point lead, 28-21, at the 2:34 mark.

Central closed to 30-25, before Scott Bublin hit a basket for Salem at 1:34 to make the score 32-25.

Central scored at three seconds to close to 32-27. John Cohen and Mike McBride scored four points each in the period for Salem.

The Rocks held their lead through the final eight minutes as Central got no closer than 34-29, with 7:04 left. Salem went up by 10 points with 2:38 left in the quarter and stayed in front by 10 points until the final eight seconds when Central hit a pair of baskets. Cohen scored six points, while Miller, McBride and Bublin added four points each to lead the Rocks

Salem wrestlers a strong 2nd at Bedford Invite

It was one of the finest days he has had since coaching the Salem High wrestling team, coach Ron Krueger said after his squad finished second in the Temperance Bedford Invitational on Saturday.

"That was a most gratifying day. I watched our boys wrestle opponents I consider the best in the state," said Krueger. "I was really happy with our effort. I haven't been this happy with a team effort in a long time. It was a very good invitational."

The Rocks bested two defending state champion teams in their drive to win the invitational, but were unable to stay with top rated Bedford which won the tournament with 209 points. Salem had 174.

Defending Class C champion Montrose was third with 133 points and Hazel Park in the quarter.

As for what he did not like about his team's first effort Thomann said, "Early in the game we weren't moving the ball enough on offense. We weren't making the simple pass or the open play. We started with jitters but that's natural in a first game."

Cohen paced the Rocks on offense with 14 points, while Miller, McBird and Bublin added eight points apiece.

The Rocks open their home season this Friday when they face Suburban Eight League foe Trenton. Varsity game time is 7:30 p.m.

was fourth with 102.5 points. Jackson Parkside was fifth, while Davison, defending Class A champs, was sixth.

The Rocks took 11 of 13 wrestlers to the meet, giving up points at the 105 and 126-pound weights.

Salem had three invitational first places.

John Beaudoin won the 138-pound class by pinning Bedford's Rick Salisbury at 5:50 of their championship match. He also defeated two other opponents at the meet.

Bruce Bachman took a first place a 145 pounds when he defeated Gray Tolly of Bedford with a pin at the 4:52 mark of their match. He also won three matches in three tries.

Salem heavyweight Marty Piper defeated Fraser's Mark Wyffils, 8-4, to win that class. Piper pinned his first two opponents that Saturday.

At 98 pounds, John Wojcek finished second as he lost to Chris Rea of Jackson Parkside, 11-1, in the finals.

Mike Doumanian finished third at 112 pounds as he lost his first match of the day and went on to win his next three.

At 119 pounds, George Condash lost his first round match to Bunde of Bedford. He won his second match over Weber, 7-0, but lost his third to Neil of Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Rob McDonald finished third for the Rocks at 132 pounds. He won his first match, then lost to Murdoch of Montrose and came back to win his next two matches for a 3-1 record on the day.

Randy Beaudoin finished second at 155 pounds when he lost to Ted Patterson of Jackson on a 2-2 criteria decision. Beaudoin won his first two matches of the meet.

John Wochuk was third 167 pounds. He won his first match by a pin, then won his second match on points before losing his third match. In his final match of the day Wochuk defeated Bedford's Jim Shuger, 6-2 for third.

At 185 pounds, Scott Wickens also finished third. He won his first match by pin, then beat Bedford's Voegl in his second match, before losing his final match on a penalty points, 8-7.

Tom Walkley pinned his first opponent, then lost to Calvin of Bedford and to O'Mara of Montrose.

"I'm very pleased with what I saw I just hope we can keep getting better," Krueger said.

On Thursday the Rocks opened their 1981-82 season with a double-dual against Garden City West and Northville.

Salem won both matches by the score of 66-5.

Against West, Salem winners included Rick Vershave, Wojcek, Doumanian, Condash, McDonald, Randy and John Beaudoin, Bachman, Jay Roberts, Walkley, Wickens and Piper. John Jeannotte suffered the lone Salem lose.

Against Northville, Salem's winners included Vershave, Wojcek, Doumanian, Condash, McDonald, Randy and John Beaudoin, Bachman, Wochuk, Walkley, Wickens and Piper.

Salem will face Suburban Eight League foe Livonia Bentley tomorrow night at home. Meet time is 6:30 p.m. On Saturday the Rocks will compete in the Westland John Glenn Invitational.

Canton wrestlers take 2nd at Belleville Invite

BY DAVID CALLAHAN

Despite an up-down start Canton High's wrestling team looked impressive this week.

After opening their season with a win over Lincoln Park, the Chiefs dropped both ends of a triple dual meet against Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial.

Canton came back strong, however, as it finished third in the Belleville Invitational on Saturday.

"I think that we are off to a really good start," said coach Dan Chrenko. "As we expected, we have some really strong wrestlers from 119-155 pounds."

At Belleville, the Chiefs finished behind Wayne and host Belleville, picking up a total of 121.5 points. Canton was followed by Adrian, New Boston Huron, Northville, Romulus, and Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Canton had three meet champions at Belleville. Brian Lee led the way at 132 pounds, beating Richie Umin of New Boston 2-0 for the title. Steve Hamblin captured the 145 pound title, beating Jack Wallace of Northville 11-1. Marty Heaton was victorious in the 155 pound class, beating Kevin Krug of Belleville 9-6.

Todd Bartlett picked up a second place at 105 pounds, as he fell to Junior Rodreguiz, 5-2, in the finals. Brett Haarala was second at 138 pounds, to Joe Samples, who pinned Haarala at 5:23 of the match. Canton's other second place finisher was Tim Collins, who lost to Dan Matauch of Wayne, 8-0 at 119 pounds.

Kevin Decker finished third in the 126-pound class, beating Brian Hubbard of Wayne 2-0.

One bright spot among the heavier weights for the Chiefs was Don Page as he pinned Spencer Cellas of Northville for fifth place at 198 pounds.

"After wrestling on Thursday, I was happy that we wrestled so well," said Chrenko. "It was a good tournament," he added, "and we were tough from 119 to 155. We need to get some points from the upper weights, and Don (Page) helped us out there."

Last Tuesday, the Chiefs opened up their season by trouncing Lincoln Park, 51-15.

Picking up the Canton victories were Todd Gattoni, at 105 pounds, Bartlett, at 112 pounds, Collins, at 119 pounds, Decker, at 126 pounds, and Lee, who pinned his opponent 35 seconds into his match.

Other winners included Haarala, at 138 pounds, Hamblin, at 145 pounds, and Heaton, at 155 pounds.

Chrenko was especially pleased with the performance of two of his wrestlers in the upper weight classes. Page picked up a forfeit at 198 pounds, and Alex Young won by a pin at heavyweight.

"I thought that we looked real good against Lincoln Park," said Chrenko. "We really capitalized on their mistakes."

The triple dual meet on Thursday was, however, a different story.

Canton lost the first dual to Wayne Memorial, 47-9. Decker, Hamblin, and Heaton picked up the team's only victories in that match.

Canton didn't do much better, against Westland John Glenn, as the Chiefs lost 41-15. Collins, Decker, Lee, and Hamblin were winners.

"The meets were not as bad as the scores indicated," added Chrenko. "We lost a couple of one point matches. I think that we were a little flat."

The Chiefs' next meet is tomorrow, when they take to the mats against Redford Thurston. Canton will take a 1-2 dual meet record into the contest, which is at home, and will begin at 6:30 p.m.

"Thurston always has good wrestlers," said Chrenko, "so we'll have to be ready."

Canton divers compete at state diving regional

Three divers from Canton High School were among the competitors at the women's swimming regional meet, held last Tuesday at Brighton High.

Shawn Neville, Cindy Sherwood, and Carrie Lewis represented the Chiefs at the meet. Neville placed 27th, Sherwood took 30th, and Lewis finished 32nd.

"They did pretty good," said coach Hooker Wellman. "They made it through the first three preliminary dives." Wellman expects his divers to be back, though, saying "That meet will be one of their goals next year."

Goalie clinic at Plymouth CC

Hockey goalies of all ages and all local communities are invited to attend a Goalie Clinic at the Plymouth Community Cultural Center this Sunday.

Taught by Frank Renko in conjunction with the Plymouth Hockey Association, the clinic will last five hours and include two and a half hours of video tapes and slides of former University of Michigan AH-American goalie Paul Fricker.

Cost is $5 per student to cover the ice time. According to Renko if there are enough students to pay for the ice time the cost could drop to $3. There is no age limit for students.

Tapes of Fricker in action are donated by Paul Vic's Hockey School in Canada. Fricker currently plays for one of the franchise teams of the Hartford Whalers.

The clinic will start at 2 p.m. with the films. Ice time will be utilized for drills and basic fundamentals of goalieship.

Current U-M goalie John Elliott and teammate Bill Reed will also be on hand if they return in time from their Saturday game at Miami of Ohio, said Renko.

For further information call Renko at 538-6600.
