Uproar continues in Canton Hall

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

The uproar in the Canton Township treasurer's office appears far from over. Maria Sterlini, Canton treasurer, claiming "harassment" and "intimidation" from other administrators and board members, says she is considering filing a defamation of character suit against them.

Supervisor Jim Poole and Trustee Steve Larson are saying Sterlini is using "illegal" employes in the treasurer's office.

Some sources say that employes of the treasurer's office, either individually or through their union, may file suit against Sterlini and the township. Several grievances have already been filed.

"The whole township is embarrassed. I'm embarrassed," sighed Poole Tuesday.

Sterlini says Larson told her, "We're going to drive you out one way or another." She also said Clerk John Flodin has threatened that the board might take the responsibility for managing Canton's investments from her.

"That isn't necessarily one of her functions," Flodin explained.

Larson agreed. "She's done a fair job I think, but I'm really having reservations about keeping the investments there when she's not listening to the board."

The trustee also questioned Sterlini's use of volunteer help in her office.

"You cannot have non-township employes handling township money and, God help us, having access to the computer," Larson said. "You must have responsibility and accountability together. Since they're not employes, they're not accountable."

Poole said Sterlini's helpers were not bonded and violating the union contract.

Sterlini says the assistants were the only way she could conduct her office's businesses since most of her regular employes were moved to the second floor of township hall a week and a half ago without her knowledge.

"All the blame is coming to me, but I can't make everybody do their job," the treasurer said.

She said the other board members and the employes are trying to use the investment issue as one weapon and that she's done nothing wrong on managing the investments.

"You have to ask yourself if you're really this monstrous, terrible, terrible person they say you are," Sterlini said.

"Where is the limit? I was told I would be destroyed.

"We're going to do something," she insisted, adding that she would likely ask the board members to make public retractions of their comments about her. "Then if they choose not to, it's in their hands."

Sterlini said a suit would be unfortunate, but "I guess that's the only alternative I have. It will disrupt the community and go back to what we were before."

Poole termed the threatened suit and the uproar in the treasurer's office as "all absolutely unnecessary.

"Too many people have spent too much time on the treasurer's problems because the treasurer won't acknowledge them (the problems).

B&Es plague Canton

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

An area on either side of Lilley north of Cherry Hill was buzzing with activity between midnight and 5 a.m. last Friday, but the homeowners in the area didn't find out about the action until they woke up in the morning.

That's when 12 residents on Redfern, Metaline, Selkirk, Saltz and Glenullin discovered a person or persons unknown had broken into their homes in the dead of night and robbed them while they slept, according to Canton police.

Canton Lt. Dennis Joker and Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry both admitted the "hit and run" type of thefts are not something new to The Plymouth-Canton Community.

"What is unusual is the number of homes that were hit all in one area in one night," Joker said. "Usually they hit one or two in a subdivision and take off because they are afraid someone will spot them."

Also, the criminals involved in this type of crime don't hesitate to break into an occupied home, according to Joker.

"A lot of the homes in this area are colonials or duplexes or tri-levels," he said. "Most people are asleep upstairs and the people carrying out these crimes know that."

If a homeowner should happen to hear someone downstairs, Joker offered several alternatives: "Try to call us on a phone upstairs if you can. If there is no phone upstairs, turn on a light or make some noise, like flush a toilet.

"I'll guarantee you whoever is down there will get out in a hurry."

These "hit and run" thieves break in looking for cash, not anything bulky such as televisions or stereos, Joker said.

One resident who lives on Redfern who just happened to contact Canton's Crime Prevention Bureau several weeks ago was one of the few homeowners on Redfern who wasn't bothered, according to Joker.

"There were several homes where there was evidence the thieves tried to break in but were unsuccessful for whatever reason," he said.

"This one fellow had just installed all the things the Crime Prevention Bureau had suggested and he credits them with his not being bothered."

The Canton police sent out a newsletter to everyone in the area of the thefts informing them how the Crime Prevention Bureau can help them prevent a recurrence of a visit by the thieves, according to Joker.

Wanted

DELORES JEAN FREDERICO, 25, is still at large and wanted on a charge of first degree murder in the shooting death of Jess Brown, Jr. of Ann Arbor. According to Canton police, Frederico and two other suspects, Ricki Sparks and George McCue, attempted to rob Brown on the evening of October 21 by getting him to offer help to a stranded motorist. Police say Brown knew all three suspects and that the robbery was drug-related. One of the suspects was in the vehicle with Brown, the other two suspects waited in the disabled vehicle. When Brown refused to part with his money, police say, Frederico shot him. Sparks and McCue have been arraigned on charges of assault with intent to rob.

Shop owner pulls gun on thief

Robbery thwarted

A Livonia youth was arrested Nov. 2 by Plymouth Police after he attempted to rob the Plymouth Party Store on Ann Arbor Road with two knives. Store owner Jaoudat S. Haidar of Garden City was not injured.

The youth, Hugh Rondell Finney, III, 19, of 33081 Norfolk Court, entered the store shortly after 9 p.m. that Tuesday night and attempted to purchase a quart of beer. According to police, Finney became agitated when Haidar asked him for proof of age to buy the liquor, said his identification was in the car and left the store. Moments later, Finney re-entered the store, walked up to the counter, stuck two folding knives into the counter and demanded money. Police say Finney then removed the larger of the two knives, a three and three-eighths inch blade and brandished it in a threatening manner.

According to police, at that point Haidar reached in the direction of the cash register and quickly pulled a .32-caliber automatic pistol, telling Finney to drop the knife and lie on the floor. Finney was on his back on the floor of the store with his hands over his head when police arrived.

Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry expressed distress over the store owner's possession of a gun. "Why don't people put in alarms, our response time is phenomenal." City Manager Henry Graper expressed his feelings when he commented "If you have a gun, you're just going to bring trouble on yourself."

Finney was arraigned in 35th District Court on charges of armed robbery and released on $500 cash bond. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Nov. 15.

Dean tickets still available

Tickets are still available for an evening with John Dean at the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce Annual Dinner to be held at the Plymouth Hilton on Friday, Nov. 12.

Dean, attorney for former president Richard M. Nixon, will speak of "Blind Ambition." Tickets are $17.50 and must be purchased in advance. For information, call the Chamber at 453-1540.

AAA branch gives its share

THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY FUND has received a check from AAA representing employee and corporate donations. The check, for $1,839.50 represents a 50 per cent increase over last year's donation and brings the Fund's donation total to $182,390.20 as of yesterday. Doug Jaskierny, Co-chairman of the business division of the Fund, accepts the check from Heinz Topol, Plymouth Auto Club manager. At extreme left, Grace Bohnacher, Touring Group leader and Mike Coxford, Sales Representative, extreme right, represent all Plymouth AAA employees.

Teacher's dismissal imminent

BY MARK CONSTANTINE
The Board of Education Monday night took the first step towards firing Central Middle School teacher Scott Kurtz who was arraigned last week on the assault and battery of a student.

A resolution informing Kurtz the board is suspending him and seeking his dismissal based on the recommendation of Superintendent John Hoben was made by Trustee Roland Thomas and seconded by Treasurer Glenn Schroeder.

The motion passed 6-0 on a roll call vote. Secretary Flossie Tonda is on vacation.

Kurtz now has the option of asking for either a closed or open meeting to answer the charges. The session can be held during a 15-day period between Dec. 8 and 23.

He is to answer charges that he allegedly used excessive force in disciplining a student. Kurtz turned himself into Plymouth police late last week after the youth signed a complaint against him. He was later released on $100 personal bond.

According to the police report filed by John James, 15, he was grabbed by the hair, knocked to the floor, his head pounded on the floor and his back scraped by Kurtz when the teacher became upset because James was talking to another student.

A full moon the only answer

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

There have been a number of theories put forth about last Tuesday's "big race" in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

For example, the "Machine Theory" alleges that Republican Gerry Law buried Democrat Bill Joyner in the race for the newly-created 36th State House district because his campaign had a better machine.

Under that umbrella falls the hours of time spent by Law supporters like Andy Pruner and Barb Lynch sorting through computerized voter lists, the hundreds (possibly thousands) of hours spent by volunteers like Carol Sellman on the Republican's telephone banks, and the thousands of dollars -- could it hit $40,000 including in-kind contributions? -- spent on mailings and "lit drops."

Joyner, on the other hand, relied more on his personal appearances, much less money, less literature and no organized district-wide phone bank.

The "Machine Theorists" hand the Law victory to Law, his wife and campaign manager Chris, and to Pat Touhey, who also played a major role in the upset primary victory of Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen over incumbent Tom Notbaert two years ago.

Other assistance by Northville Township Supervisor John MacDonald, by Breen and, by Gerry's brother, Bob, a former state representative turned aide to Gov. William Milliken, helped the machine roll.

Joyner, under the theory, should have seen the handwriting on the wall when the Law Machine trounced Gary Wolfram in a primary that most political-watchers thought would be closer.

There was probably a residual effect from Law's primary campaign as well while Joyner coasted through the August elections unchallenged and didn't crank up his machine until later.

Then there are the "Republican Theory" and the "Democratic Theory" proponents.

Depending on how one massages the results, Law's three-to-two victory was the result of either a strong Republican push or it was as close as it was because the Democrats fared well.

Starting with Canton where, as Touhey put it, "We've laid the Democratic myth of Canton to rest," the township that voted Democratic in August went narrowly for Law but voted more heavily Republican for some state races and two-to-one Democratic in the U.S. Congressional race. Last Tuesday, Law took nine of 15 precincts for a total of 4,468 to Joyner's 4,074.

Both Touhey and Joyner predicted, before the election, that their camps would be victorious in Canton. Law's aide guessed at a 55-45 win (it actually turned out closer) while Joyner foresaw a 60-40 victory his way.

In the analysis of either of the two party theories, the lower than expected (especially by the election workers at the Salem High School precinct) voter turnout in Canton cost Joyner the election.

Touhey underestimated Joyner's strength in the Plymouth Township vote (which went five-to-three for Law) while Joyner overestimated his strength there. Law carried every precinct.

It was the City of Plymouth that was a shocker.

Law's campaigners conceded that to Joyner and he gratefully considered it in the bag. But when the votes were counted, the six precincts were split three-to-three and Law edged out Joyner by 200 votes.

That surprise gives rise to the "Full Moon Theory" which proposes that with a full moon falling on election eve and so close to All Hallow's Eve anything could happen.

Credibility for that theory comes from the anticipation that the Law-Joyner battle would have been so close that the margin of victory might have been held by the Libertarian candidate, Keith Bilby. Actually, his 333 supporters could have voted 30 times each and still not hit Joyner's total.

The smart money's on the "Full Moon Theory."

ON ELECTION NIGHT Gerry Law gave his analysis of his victorious run for the 36th District State House race. Trails scene of serious accident

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

A pair of Livonia youths discovered the hard way late Sunday afternoon that nobody wins when a pair of motorcycles collide head-on.

The accident involving William James Turner, son of Livonia Police Chief Robert Turner, and Thomas Joseph Horgan took place on private land north of M-14 between Ridge and Beck Roads, according to Plymouth police.

Turner is in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital, while it's believed Horgan suffered a broken leg in the incident, police said.

Because of the extremely rough terrain where the mishap occurred, it took emergency personnel over an hour to get back to the injured youths and transport them to St. Mary's, police added.

Officer Robert Scoggins arrived before the Township fire department, and he said other bikers on the scene were very helpful in moving the injured youths and keeping them warm until the paramedics got there.

"The Township fire department are to commended for getting to the scene as fast as they did," Scoggins insisted. "Those other bikers really helped, too."

While no one admitted actually seeing the accident, Scoggins said, it was obvious from the position of Turner and Horgan and their bikes that's probably what happened.

Plymouth Police Chief Carl Berry was incensed Monday morning when questioned about the incident. He complained his department has had their hands full trying to patrol the area where Turner and Horgan collided as well as two others motorcyclists and four-wheel drive enthusiasts congregate.

"How can we get back here and do anything when you have to put up with this," he said Monday as the department's four-wheel drive vehicle rocked back and forth on an inspection of the area where the accident took place.

"By the time we get back here, they are all long gone. There's really nothing we can do to chase them out, although Lord knows we've tried."

Besides the area between Ridge and Beck, another favorite spot for the four-wheelers and motocross riders is an area north of North Territorial Road just east of Beck, Berry said.

A third area the police have to watch is east of Sheldon and south of M-14 behind the Packaging Corp. of America and What errors?

You've probably noticed a number of typographical errors and misspellings in The Community Crier for these past three weeks.

We apologize for that frustration. With the move of The Crier's graphics and printing division - COMMA, - to its new home at 345 Fleet Street, the typesetting terminals and equipment at The Crier offices, 1226 S. Main St., lost touch with the main computer at COMMA. This meant that at the last minute, extra late-night typesetting was required from Crier and COMMA, folks who had already put in long days.

We are happy to report that the situation has been corrected - for now at least - since the editing terminals on Main Street are once again talking to the typesetting computers on Fleet Street.

But please keep your eye on the typos and let us know when you see them.

Besides our vast experience with retirement accounts (we've offered them for years), we also offer one of

The photo in last week's edition of The Crier showing the arrival at 35th District Court of a suspect in a recent Canton slaying may have left the impression the man in the center of the photograph was the suspect, Ricki Sparks.

However, the man with the bushy hair cut is not Sparks but Allen Leroy Van Horn who was being arraigned on a larceny charge that had no relation to the slaying.

Immediately to the right of Van Horn in the picture is Sparks. The man with his back to the camera is Canton detective Rob Cripe.

Infant drowns in bathtub

A Plymouth infant drowned last Wednesday in the bathtub. She would have been one year old on Christmas Day.

Kathryn Willman, of Pacific St., was pronounced dead at Oakwood Hospital Canton Center moments later.

According to police, the child's mother, Rosemary Willman called police emergency at 9:46 a.m. for an ambulance in reference to a possible drowning. Police and City firefighter-EMT's arrived to find the child on the couch. She was rushed to Oakwood Canton Center as Fire Captain Robert Degan applied cardio-pulmonary and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

When interviewed by police following the child's death, Mrs. Willman explained that she had left both Kathryn and another child "only for a couple of minutes." When she returned, she found the baby "down in the water." She pulled the kids from the tub and called emergency.

But average class size figures can be deceiving

P-C student population slowly rising

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

Student to teacher ratios in the Plymouth-Canton schools have increased in recent years, but not substantially, according to figures provided by the schools, the average student/teacher ratio back in 1977-78 was right at 22 students per certified staff member.

However, initial tallies taken by the schools this year show instructors work with an average of 25 youngsters in each class.

Comparing the average class size between Centennial Education Park (CEP) and the district's elementary schools can be deceiving on the surface, according to Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel.

"The way we do it is compare staff, such as teachers, counselors, library assistants, vocational teachers and so on to students," he explained. "We don't include administrators in that ratio."

"At the high school, there may be 10 counselors and vocational and special classes like Latin where there will be only 10 students. That throws the average off."

"In elementary schools there may not be but one or two counselors and so on. But, in actuality, the classes at the high school are larger".

Since the 1977-78 school year student/teacher ratios have increased slowly. In fact, between 1978-79 and 1980-81, the ratios stayed the same.

A jump of more than one student per teacher took place in 1981-82, but this year the increase has been almost negligible.

Kee said the average class size at the Park is right around 34. At the elementary level, however, he said the average class size is 30.

Agency helps families cope with holiday stress

A time when the American family has been proclaimed an entity of the past? Not in Plymouth, where the Plymouth Family Service continues to make the family the center of its concerns.

In observance of National Family Week, Nov. 21 through 27, Plymouth Family Service has chosen the theme "Give Families a Hand." The focus of the theme will center on dealing with family stress over the holidays.

According to Diane Farber, the organization's executive director, many families will experience stress as a result of Christmas expectations which cannot be filled in a recession year.

A free program, "Christmas on a Shoestring", is planned for the community in order to help families cope with this stress.

The program, which will take place Nov. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the West Middle School cafeteria, will include a short talk by Farber on dealing with emotional problems during the holidays.

It will also include suggestions from Girl Scout Troop 390 on budget priced gift-giving. Refreshments will be served at the meeting.

Plymouth Family Service is a Plymouth Community Fund agency offering counseling and other services to help families and individuals with problems in a variety of areas. Accredited by the Council on Accreditation of Service to Families and Children, it is one of a network of 265 family agencies.

The agency is an approved Blue Cross facility and is also covered by other insurances. Because of its Community Fund support, its regular hourly fee may be adjusted for those in the community with more moderate incomes.

During Family Week, free 15 minute consultations are being offered to the community by the agency. They may be scheduled between 3 and 5 p.m. Nov. 22, 23 and 24.

Both individual and group counseling is available at the Service. At various times, marital groups, adolescent groups, separation and divorce groups and alcoholism groups have been scheduled to serve community needs.

To contact the agency for a counseling appointment, call 453-0890.

Forum at Indian Ed. Center

Anyone interested in American Indian education will have an opportunity to learn more about the topic at a meeting tonight (Wednesday).

A forum sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Indian Education Parent Committee will take place at 7 o'clock at the American Indian Heritage Center, located behind Central Middle School in Portable Unit 401.

The meeting will focus upon the continued funding of the American Heritage Center in 1983 and beyond.

Got a piano, pool table?

EDITOR:

As you are no doubt aware, the Charter Township of Plymouth recently dedicated the township's senior citizen center -- known as Friendship Station -- located on Schoolcraft Road just east of Northville Road.

The township has provided the center with all of the necessary equipment, etc., towards making the center a pleasant gathering spot for seniors. However, there are two items which are still needed: a piano and a pool table.

If anyone in the community has one or both of these items which they no longer need, the center could very well use one. Call 453-5041 if you have an interest in a good cause.

Linebackers boosted school spirit

EDITOR:

Since the Salem football season has come to an end, we would like to take this time to thank the parents and faithful fans for all the support they gave us throughout the season. We would especially like to thank the Linebacker's Club for all their enthusiasm in making the past season perfect.

There was not a game that went by where the parents were not in the stands cheering for the team. Bonfires, tailgate parties, old cheers and chants -- these parents have succeeded in bringing back the traditional "school spirit" that seemed to be lost forever at our school.

We would like to thank each parent for their effort and support. We love you all!

CEP band says 'thanks'

EDITOR:

This short note is to thank you and your staff for the outstanding coverage of the recent state high school marching band championship contest.

I was delighted that (Crier staffers) were personally able to visit the activities Saturday afternoon (and evening).

On behalf of all the participating band members and their equally-dedicated booster parents, I again thank you very much for your continuing support of our Plymouth band program.

Just a thought...

by Rebecca Beach

For some reason, stick-up men seem to feel party stores are easy pickin's in the grab and run game. Strictly cash transactions, some cash in the till when the crowd thins, but not enough to prompt a storekeeper to do anything stupid.

Like protect his property.

Thousands of years ago, the Chinese discovered that gunpowder made an awful noise, blew things up and scared the dickens out of you. They outlawed it. Gunpowder still blows things up and scares the dickens out of you, particularly when you've seen something or someone else get blown up. You don't want it to happen to you.

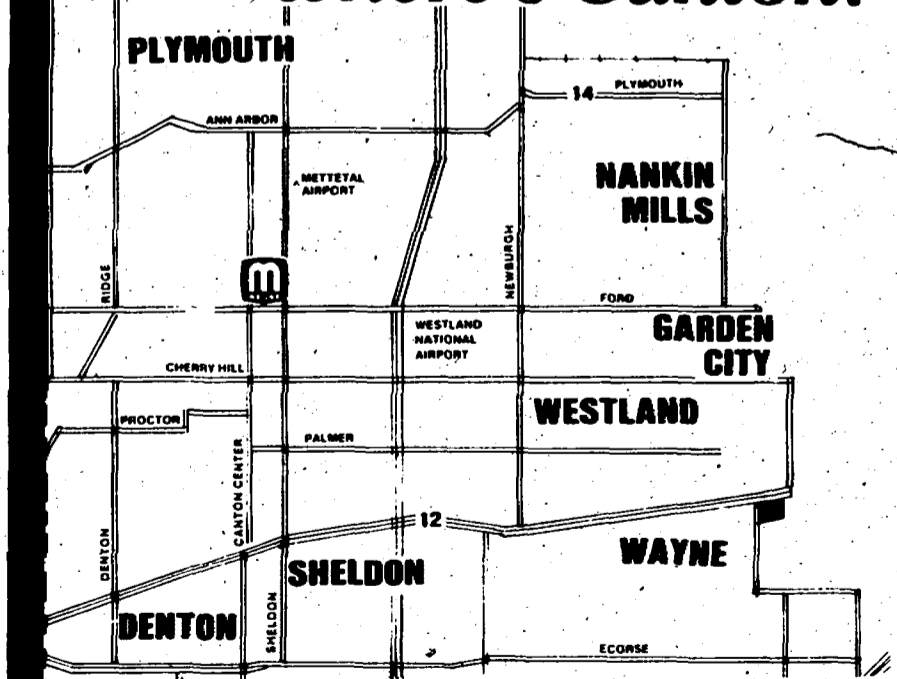

Back to party stores. Small shopkeepers usually have a great deal of money tied up in their stock. It's sort of like having everything you own in glass bottles or cellophane packages. When a knife-wielding young man walked into a party store in Plymouth last Tuesday and demanded money from the proprietor, the proprietor was prepared. He drew a pistol. The knife-wielding man was now out of his element. He must have thought to himself, he's not supposed to have a GUN.

Suprise.

Life is rarely peaches and cream, the young man found this out the hard way as the Plymouth Police carted him off to jail for the night. However, life must have been very rough to the shopkeeper to prompt him to keep a loaded gun close by. Chances are excellent that the next thief that walks through the door will be armed with a larger gun and not think twice about blowing the shopkeeper to smithereens. It happens often, in other communities that feel less responsibility than The Plymouth-Canton Community. Times are hard, but money is not yet worth a human life. Keep the guns on the cops and out of the public's hands.

Maybe, if we're lucky, guns will be outlawed.

Hey, MTA: where's Canton?

THE CANTON IDENTIFY issue has surfaced yet again. One of the township's largest businesses, Meijer Thrifty Acres, published a map in its I-Stop Shopping Guide and The Detroit News which shows the location of the Canton and Taylor MTAs, but doesn't bear Canton's name. Ironically, it does list both Denton and Sheldon -- two unincorporated "village" centers in Canton -- and Nankin Mills, now known as Westland. According to The News, MTA printed the map. Last month, an account of a gas main break in Canton was labled as "Plymouth" by the Detroit Free Press and the national wire services. That prompted Canton Supervisor Jim Poole to fire off a letter to the morning paper, which apologized for having missed Canton. But how could Meijer miss the community which houses its largest store?

Discipline necessary -- if fairly administered

Discipline is a fact of life, whether it's a mother scolding her two-year-old son for touching a hot oven door or a coach yelling at a player for dropping a pass.

But the line between discipline and excessive discipline can often be a fine line indeed. And who's to say what is excessive and what isn't.

Clearly we've all seen graphic examples of the result of too much force, scenes flashed on our television screens designed to shock us.

We've turned away in disgust at the

On the Mark

with Mark Constantine

sight of a child who has been beaten by his parents.

Discipline in the schools is as old as education itself. Throughout the 19th century and on into the early to mid-

1900's the philosophy was "spare the rod and spoil the child."

That attitude pertained to parental discipline as well as punishment handed out in school. I can remember my father regaling me with tales of "boards" of education his rear end ran into.

Today, it seems, the pendulum has swung back the other way with many teachers afraid to lift a hand to discipline a child for fear of being hit with a lawsuit and/or arrest.

It's a real Catch-22 situation, as evidenced by a pair of recent incidents in the Plymouth-Canton schools. You're damned if you do and damned if you don't.

However, in one of the situations, that fine line I alluded to earlier plays a prominent role in what happened.

Central Middle School industrial arts teacher Scott Kurtz was arrested Thursday for allegedly assaulting one of his students.

According to the police report filed by the student, John James, 15, it's alleged Kurtz, among other things, knocked James to the floor and pounded his head on the floor.

If that is indeed proven to be the case in court, I'd say Kurtz stepped well over that fine line separating discipline from excessive discipline.

But informed sources tell me James has had his problems with several teachers. That's still no reason for anyone to try to break his face.

However, if someone might have been able to hand out some kind of meaningful punishment, then perhaps the situation might not have degenerated into the sorry mess it's in now.

On the other hand, a student allegedly takes a swing at a teacher at Canton High School in the heat of the moment and gets only a three-day suspension.

The stink raised because of the lack of a severe punishment has caused the schools to reconsider its position and it now appears he may be suspended for the rest of the semester.

Granted, a three-day in-school suspension was too lenient, but the rest of the semester off for a spur of the moment action is too harsh.

He should have been given a two-week suspension in the first place with the proviso that he not be allowed to make up any of the work he missed.

If he really wanted to stay in school with passing grades, he'd have to work his tail off to prove it. Also, he should have been told that if he so much as said hoo he'd be gone for the rest of the semester without hesitation.

Discipline is a fact of life, but public hanging is cruel.

Clean up Constantine

Editor:

I am sure that many people in our community --including the writer-- are dismayed at the inability of the school board and the teachers to resolve their differences, as your Mark Constantine so ably points out in your issue of Nov. 3.

I am appalled, however, that Mr. Constantine and the Crier find it necessary to resort to the crude language used in the editorial.

While I am certainly no prude, I'm sure a great many of your readers will agree that the printed words coming into our homes should be the epitome of good taste and example.

WILLIAM A. LEONARD

With Malice Toward None

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Officials appropriately ask

How does media work?

Much of the information you glean from the media depends a great deal upon the relationship between the media-types and government's representatives.

Whether the news is judged "good" or "bad" by you as readers or by public officials and civil servants, that news finds its way into print or onto the airwaves because of the free flow of information from City Hall, Township Hall, the School Board offices, the County Building, or the Capitols.

Thus, it's fair game for public officials to investigate that process.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools did just that a week ago in a workshop session to which they invited representatives from all local media. Attending were staffers from: Centennial Educational Park's student newspaper "Perspective"; WSDP, the high school's radio station; the Associated Newspapers' "Canton Eagle"; Omnicom Cablevision; and The Community Crier. (The Plymouth and Canton Observers chose not to participate -- you'll have to ask them why.)

School Board members and administrators took the opportunity to find how the process of getting school news out via the media works. Among the board members' concerns were:

-Who determines what stories appear on page one or elsewhere and on what basis?

-What are the rules for going "off the record"?

-Why do some schools or activities get more coverage than others?

-What are the criteria for hiring reporters-editors?

-Would the newspapers consider letting the superintendent write a column?

-What did the media think were the major stories of the past year?

And perhaps most importantly, how did the media view the school district for accessibility to information and for straight-forward dealing?

Fortunately, that concern was easy to answer. (The Plymouth-Canton Schools are generally easy to deal with.)

The important point, though, was that the board and administrators were as interested in evaluating the process from their end as they were from the media's.

Another point made during the meeting was that of the high caliber of the student press. During the recent years, the Plymouth-Canton Schools' efforts with the student newspaper and radio station have paid off -- and it was evident at that board meeting. (It was also quite evident during The Crier's election coverage when a number of high school journalists volunteered to work long hours to help gather news.)

All in all, the exchange was a good one. It should help school reporting in this district to be even better. Hats off to the board for suggesting the sit-down.

Long-time legislators long gone

THESE THREE LONG-TIME State legislators haven't been seen much around The Plymouth-Canton Community lately even though their terms representing us don't expire until January. State Rep Tom Brown is retiring after having served in the House many years and losing in the Westland mayor's race last year. His district includes Canton. State Rep Roy Smith had announced he would retire from the Legislature, but changed his mind and ran for a Washtenaw County State Senate seat. He lost in that bid in last Tuesday's elections. State Senate Majority Leader William Faust, whose district includes Canton, has had his constituency redistricted and Canton was thrown into Bob Geake's district.

CEP students taste TV production

BY RICK SMITH

"Give me camera, one on the snare drum. I know you're new at this, just stay calm: Quiet please! Stand by to que talent - tape is rolling - que talent - in on camera one."

"And now folks, Welcome to the Ricki & Wicki Show!"

Seated in the Omnicom mobile van with head set and microphone in hand, CEP Yearbook Advisor and Media Productions Director at the CEP, Mark Even directs the production of the Plymouth-Canton Community School's newest student produced T.V. program.

Dubbed the Ricki and Wicki Show, after the show's two regular hosts, Rick O'Toole, Security Officer at Canton High School, and Carmelo Crespo, Spanish teacher at Salem High School, the half hour production features some of the zaniest and madcap behavior to be found at the educational park.

The variety show includes a number of regulars like "Doctor Don and Captain Kirk," portrayed by Don Sellers, and Kirk Campbell, both CEP grads, who specialize in Benny Hill-type one liners. "Sixty seconds with E.K." is also a regular segment in the production of the show, which features Salem Junior, Erick Kleinsmith and his unique social commentaries on such subjects as "dead pigeons" and "CEP Security". Cirrus, an old Salem High rock and roll band composed of three CEP alumni 1981 grads, serve as the house band, contributing original compositions to introduce each segment. Vintage film clips from the past, as well as special guest stars like the Rockettes and the Chieffettes add the needed depth to showcase student talent and highlight important events happening at CEP.

Aired over Channel 11 four days a week, (Wednesday & Monday at 7:00p.m. and Tuesday & Thursday at 4:00 p.m.) Director Even describes the joint production of the show by Omnicom Cablevision and the yearbook staff as "a natural tie in".

According to Even, the yearbook staff has been interested in T.V. production for the past couple years, and with the coming of cable T.V. to the area, it made the student produced program a real possibility.

Student involvement in the production is everywhere, from make-up, to audio production, to operating the cameras, and editing the final footage.

Offering hands-on experience in the production of a bonafide T. V. program.

Stanley steams her

All men are unpredictable and Stanley is no exception. He has a mind of his own and does exactly what he wants whenever he feels like it. Many people in the community have been stranded because Stanley let them down.

Being undependable is Stanley's biggest problem. I wonder if he is getting stubborn and ornery because so many people say unkind things to him.

He loves quarters and eats them like they're going out of style. In fact, if you don't feed him a quarter or stuff a card in his mouth, he completely rebels.

He guards the Central Parking Lot as if he were afraid someone might steal it. Some days (when he is in a good mood) he greets people and waves hello to them as they enter the parking lot. On those good days he will even wave good-bye when you leave, as long as you remember to give him a quarter.

However, Stanley's mood changes when you least expect it. One day I stood in the rain pleading with him to lift his arm so I could enter the parking lot. Being the stubborn individual that he is, he refused. I drove away knowing he was having another one of his off days.

Not getting in the parking lot isn't nearly as bad as being able to get in and not being able to get out. I've learned from experience, there is no way around him if you don't have a quarter or a parking pass. Believe me, he is very strict about the rules.

It was after midnight on a Monday night when Stanley and I had our first big fight. After putting in a long, hard day at work, I was in no mood to play games with him. I fed him a quarter and he spit it back out at me. Finally after the fifth time of repeating this routine I yelled, "If you don't lift your arm and let me out of here, I'll break it off." I think he got the hint as he accepted my quarter and reluctantly let me drive out of the parking lot.

I've heard a rumor that Stanley might be taking a little vacation next month. Hopefully he will rest up and come back in a better mood.

April Polzin of Canton was one of the teen 4-H members who planned and conducted the annual Wayne County 4-H Adult Leader Recognition Night. The program is held to give special thanks to leaders for their time they have dedicated to helping Wayne County 4-H Youth.

The 4-H leaders from Plymouth and Canton who were recognized are: Sandra Dear, Jill Usitalo, George Usitalo, Pamela Polzin and Alan D. Stuart.

Susan Gerish, an Alma College senior from Plymouth, makes time in a busy schedule to work as a disc jockey at WABM, the campus radio station. A 1979 graduate of Salem High School, she is the daughter of Arthur and Janet Gerish of Portsmouth Crossing in Plymouth. She is majoring in business administration at Alma.

Jeannette Jimmerson, daughter of James Jimmerson of Woodbridge Court in Canton and Judith Jimmerson of Adams in Plymouth has entered the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program. She will begin four years active duty on Jan. 24, undergoing six weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. Following that, she will receive Medical Administrative Specialist training before being assigned to an Air Force duty station. She is a 1980 graduate of Salem High School.

Jesse Tritten, of Plymouth, a long-time Grange activist was elected treasurer of the Michigan State Grange. The election of officers was held last week at the annual convention in Traverse City.

Imagine that! How would Plymouth Township's Gloria Hopfner know when she threw a bottled note overboard from the Queen Elizabeth II a year ago that it would start a lasting friendship?

Bob and Sylvia Wass, of Sussex, England found the message and have been corresponding since with Gloria.

The University of Michigan Center for Continuing Education of Women has awarded a scholarship made possible by the Plymouth Branch, American Association of University Women (AAUW).

Ann Lindamood of Plymouth, the 1982 Plymouth Scholar, is earning a Master's degree in Nursing with a specialization in psychiatric-mental health nursing.

Chiefs turn corner?

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

It was only one victory in a season filled with many ups and downs, but Canton's 21-18 come-from-behind triumph over Belleville Friday night might just put the Chiefs over the top next year.

At least that's the hope of Canton Coach Dick Barr after watching his troops "give 100 per cent" in edging the Tigers on the Centennial Education Park (CEP) field.

"This win might be the turning point for our program," admitted the Chief mentor who completed his third season in charge of the Canton football program with a 4-5 record. "The kids know now they can win the close ones.

"I hope it'll carry over until next year. When I first got here we won one ballgame, the next year we doubled it to two and now this year we doubled it again to four.

"I guess that means next year we'll double it again and win eight," he added with a laugh.

THIS IS A "dropout" the result of fancy photo processing. There was nothing fancy about Salem's drop out from the Class A playoffs even though the Rocks crushed Redford Union Friday night, 44-0. (Crier photo by Mark Constantine)

Salem triumphs, then loses

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

Pride, self-respect and an outside shot at the state Class A playoffs were on the line Friday night when Salem hit the road to take on Redford Union.

The Rocks had no way of knowing in another part of the metropolitan-Detroit area Monroe was whipping Trenton, eliminating any hopes Salem had of advancing to the post-season championship round.

All Coach Tom Moshimer's troops knew was they had to beat Redford Union and that's exactly what they did, handing the Panthers a 44-0 shellacking.

"All week we talked about how difficult it is to get up the week after you've lost the league championship and a shot at the playoffs," Moshimer explained. "And then on top of that we had to play a 2-6 team.

"We just told them to go out there and play for a little pride and self-respect. They did just that, finishing the season on a high note, showing the kind of character good teams have."

Only the final score in doubt in Rock cagers playoff win

BY JOE SLEZAK

"It was a matter of what the final score was going to be."

That was the reaction of Bob Blohm after his Salem girls basketball team traveled to Livonia Churchill Thursday and came home with a 59-18.

Dawn Johnson, Ann Glomski and Pam McBride all received praise from Blohm for their work on the offensive and defensive boards.

The Rocks ran up a 26-9 halftime lead, but that wasn't all the fireworks. In the third quarter, Salem outscored Churchill 27-3, to expand the rather comfortable lead to 43-12.

Once again, the Rocks had an excellent defensive game. "Defense is the toughest part to play-it's mental," said Blohm.

Johnson led Salem with 15 points. Jacque Merrifield poured in 12. "Jacque Merrifield played another consistent game," said Blohm.

"Overall we played really well as a team," he added.

The lead was never in question, as Salem rolled up a 12-4 first quarter margin and never looked back.

The Rocks took on Walled Lake Central last night, and, if they won, Blohm's cagers will play in the Western Lakes championship game on Friday. The game will be at Salem.

Canton girls find the going little rough in league action

BY JOE SLEZAK

The Canton girls basketball team found the going just a little rough last week.

On Tuesday, the Chiefs lost to perennial power Livonia Bentley, 60-42.

According to Coach Phyllis Cunningham, Canton's main lapse was in the third quarter. The Chiefs were outscored, 14-10, and, in the process, fell behind, 40-27.

Canton let Bentley use the fast break. "When Bentley gets to run, they're tough," said Cunningham.

On the bright side, Cunningham said

"Missy Aiken did a super job on the boards."

Sue Gerke led the Canton attack with 17 points. Beth Barns and Laura Dav each scored 14 to pace Bentley.

The Bulldog's star, Kim Archer, was held to 10 points, but she came through with many assists.

It didn't get any better for the Chiefs Thursday at Walled Lake Central. The Chiefs lost to the Vikings, 60-43.

What hurt the Canton attack was the fact that the Cunningham's troops didn't

Assistants call shots on D

Jarvey, Thomann take the heat during games

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

There's no doubt Tom Moshimer at Salem and Canton's Dick Barr are in command of the football programs at their respective schools.

But coaching at any level, whether it be professional, college, high school or little league, for that matter, is more than a one-man operation.

At both Salem and Canton, Moshimer and Barr stick to calling the offensive plays and turn over the task of running the defense to assistants.

Jim Jarvey is responsible for handling the Rock defenders during the heat of the game, while at Canton big Dave Thomann stands along the sidelines covering all three state finals for one of the Detroit dailies, the young man who impressed me the Activities Association (WLAA) teams, Livonia Stevenson and Livonia Churchill, gave it their best shot and wound up making it.

What they earned was a shot at the first-ever Michigan High School Association (MHSAA) boy's Class A soccer title.

The WLAA units battled it out at Flint's Atwood Stadium Saturday and, when was all said and done, the Spartans from Stevenson walked off with the coveted championship, crushing Churchill, 4-1.

It's ironic that the squads that topped their respective divisions, Stevenson the Lakes and Churchill the Western, should have to travel 60 miles north to Flint to settle "The Battle of Livonia."

It's also ironic to note Salem finished right behind Stevenson in the final Lakes Division standings, while Canton occupied the runner-up spot in the Western Division.

Of course, the two teams who battled it out for the Class A crown dominated the all-league picks, but that doesn't mean several of the players from The Plymouth-Canton Community weren't recognized for their soccer ability.

A trio of Rocks, Todd Chatman, Randy

Johnson and Tom Skrobecki, were named to the All-Lakes first team at a recent coach's meeting.

Three other Salem stalwarts, Bob Bowling, Steve Moran and Jeff Nesistch, received honorable mention for their play this season.

At Canton, Tom Wright and Jim McFarland, earned spots on the Western Division honorable mention team.

Both Ken Johnson at Salem and Canton's Tony Lonigro are to be praised for their efforts this year. They fielded competitive, hustling teams who, while they may have been short talent in some areas, they weren't short in enthusiasm.

A lack of talent certainly wasn't Stevenson's problem. In fact, the Spartans don't have any glaring weaknesses, and they proved that to Churchill Saturday on a day more suited for hockey.

Gary Mexicotte, Stevenson's goal scoring machine, pounded in a pair of goals, giving him 48 for the 1982 campaign and 107 in his brilliant three-year career.

The Spartan acc, however, has some stiff competition for the Player of the Year award.

Of all the athletes I saw Saturday while most was Hamtramck's Kanto Lulaj.

CEP tankers swamped

BY JOE SLEZAK

Both girls swimming teams went against stiff competition Thursday and came up short.

Salem lost to Livonia Stevenson, 78-48, while Canton dropped a 72-54 decision at Northville.

In losing to the Spartans, the Rocks only came up with four firsts.

Cindy McSurely led the way with 209.8 points in diving, while Corinne Cabadas, who is a co-captain along with McSurely, won the 100-yard breaststroke in a time of 1:13.4.

Also claiming firsts for Salem was Krystal Taylor in the 50 yard-freestyle (27.4) and Sallie Weimer in the 500-yard freestyle. Her time was 5:55.

Finishing in second was the 200-yard medley relay quartet of Carol Lindsay, Cabadas, B.J. Bing and Krystal Taylor. They teamed for a time of 2:05.6.

Also second was Bing in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:06.5.

Ginnie Johnson paced the losing Canton attack with two first place finishes. She won the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:02.3. She also took the 200-yard individual medley (2:21.1).

Margaret Gilligan won the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:04.5.

Diving was the highlight of the evening for the Chiefs. Shawn Neville was first with 188.35 points and Cindy Sherwood was second with 178.3 points, both personal bests.

Lynn Massey set the freshman record while finishing in second place in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 27.0. She also placed second in the 500-yard freestyle. Also second was Gilligan in the 100-yard freestyle.

Gilligan, Juli Silber, Noelle Murphy and Kathy Stern were second in the freestyle relay, while Kris Burns, Johnson, Stern and Massey were second in the medley relay.

Kelly Kirk put in a "really good showing," according to Wellman. She finished third in the 100-yard backstroke.

Last Saturday, members of both squads competed in the Grand Rapids Invitational. No team scores, however, were kept. McSurely was 12th in diving with an 11-dive total of 310 points.

"It has been an up and down year," Cunningham admitted. "We're ready to peak."

Steeler varsity goes undefeated in '82

So the young men who don the black and gold of the Plymouth-Canton Steeler varsity aren't as big or as fast or as hard hitting as their more illustrious counterparts from Pittsburgh.

That doesn't mean they don't win as often or try as hard.

For the first time in the six-year history of the Steeler varsity, the squad went unbeaten, finishing the season at 8-0 with a 20-6 win over Belleville.

The Steelers opened the scoring on an unusual play. Steve Genyk passed to Joe Jouppi, who lateraled to Kirk Rentz. The play covered 47 yards. Jouppi's extra point was good.

Tony Boucher ran eight yards for the Steelers second TD. Jouppi's extra point was good. Their final score came on a nine yard pass from Steve Genyk to Ted Welling. The score was set up by a blocked punt by David Frigerio.

Chiefs end season on high note

And it only seems fitting that the two players most responsible for the success or failure of the Canton offense this season—quarterback Pat Murphy and tight end Bob Wasczenski—should play a major role in the Chiefs' victory over Belleville.

Murphy completed nine of 19 passes for 159 yards and two touchdowns, both to Wasczenski. The big tight end hauled in five passes for 117 yards, including an important two-point conversion from Murphy.

For awhile, however, it didn't appear Wasczenski would get the chance to wear the hero's robe because the Tigers jumped out into an 11-0 lead by the 8:00 mark of the second quarter.

Murphy and company, however, put it in gear midway through the second stanza and marched to the Tiger three-yard-line but were unable to score.

Moments later Wain Yeung helped take some of the sting out of the Chiefs' failure to push in a touchdown when he recovered a Belleville fumble at the Tiger 15.

This time Canton did not waste the opportunity, thanks in large part to a scramble by Murphy on a third and 11 from the 16 that ended with the big quarterback being stopped at the one-yard-line.

Armed with a first and goal from that spot, Murphy powered his way into the Tiger end zone for six points.

On the conversion try Murphy took the snap and instead of setting it down for Matt Santilli to boot, he stood up and passed to an open Wasczenski for two points, cutting the Belleville lead to three, 11-8.

Just when it seemed the Chiefs would go into the locker room at the intermission down by only three, Ron Rienas fumbled a punt at his own 12 with :30 left in the half, which the Tigers converted into seven quick points.

It took the Chiefs until the 3:02 mark of the third period to get back on the scoreboard again, but when they did it was on a pretty play.

Scott Jurek and Marc Tindall led the Rock attack with a pair of touchdowns each. Jurek carried the ball 14 times for 117 yard while Tindall, who replaced Pete Steyaert at quarterback in the third quarter, totaled 75 yards on just two tries.

Steyaert and Tindall directed the Rock offense to 397 yards of total offense, 272 on the ground and 125 passing.

Co-captain Dave Slavin and his defensive mates, meanwhile, allowed 51 yards rushing and 20 through the air for a total of 71 yards.

The Rocks piled up 44 points despite not scoring in the first quarter. A pair of touchdowns, one by Jurek on a two-yard run and the other by Jeff Arnold from six yards out, plus a 32-yard Mark Dixon field gave Salem a 16-0 lead at halftime.

Dixon's three-pointer came on his first field goal attempt of the season.

On the Rocks' second play from scrimmage in the third period, Jurek rambled 58 yards to up the lead to 23-0 and the rout was on.

Tindall got credit for two of the other three Rock scores in the game, one late in the third quarter, the other midway through the final frame, and Jim Sinclair was responsible for the other.

The Rocks closed out the 1982 campaign with a 8-1 record.

Canton had marched down the field on the strength of Murphy's passing, but it was the running of Wasczenski that got them in the end zone.

He grabbed a Murphy aerial behind the line of scrimmage and faked tossing a pass downfield to Rienas. When the cornerback came up quickly to try to make the tackle, Wasczenski tucked the ball under his arm and, aided by a nice block by Santilli, raced 29 yards up the sideline for the score.

Early in the fourth quarter the Chiefs were driving for the go-ahead touchdown when Murphy hurried a throw and had it picked off.

Less than a minute later a jarring tackle by Mike Perrot and John Cruse separated the ball from the Tiger runner and Dan Schacht was johnny-on-the-spot in recovering the loose ball for Canton.

And just like before, the Chiefs converted the Tiger miscue into six points.

The winning play started innocently enough. Murphy, from the Tiger 35-yard-line, fired a strike to Wasczenski who'd run a 10-yard down and out near the far end of the Chief bench.

But instead of letting the would-be Belleville tackler knock him out of bounds, Wasczenski side-stepped the defender and charged unmolested the rest of the way into the Tiger end zone.

There were a few tense moments after the ensuing kick off when a Belleville ballcarrier broke out of the pack and looked headed for a touchdown when Schacht and Santilli collared him at the Chief 15.

But the Canton defense with less than 2:00 left in the game rose to the occasion to snuff out the Belleville threat and preserve the victory.

"The defense the entire second half was great," Barr beamed. "The second half we were very proud of the way they all played."

"I'd like to mention the entire defense if I could. They all deserve the credit."

barking out the defensive signals.

However, both are quick to point out they get lots of help from the rest of the coaches on the staff.

"It's a combination of me and George Przygodski," Thomann insisted. "We also rely on the scouts, people like Bob Richardson, Dan Riggs and Craig Gearn to help us set up a defensive game plan.

"We all sit down and go over the upcoming opponent's tendencies and plays. We start the Saturday and Sunday before the game getting ready."

"It's not totally one person's job," Jarvey noted. "We do it as a staff. We all have different responsibilities, I work with the linebackers, Tom the defensive ends, Bob Brodie the secondary and Allie Siffetu the line.

"We'll meet Saturday morning and go over scouting reports. It was different this year because we'd never played many of Long hours and hard work are synonymous with both programs, but how they approach defending their opponents is as different as night and day.

"We stay in a 5-2 defense and over-shift and slant out of it," Jarvey explained. "We never jump into six or seven man fronts unless, of course, we go into a goal line defense.

"We don't stunt a lot, either. We had some good, hard-nosed aggressive athletes this year, and we didn't mind having them sit in there and slug it out with the other team."

Pair run the defenses

While the Rocks were content to let their defenders go toe-to-toe with an opponent's offensive line, the Chiefs didn't have the personnel to line up with the squad's they played, according to Thomann.

"Our philosophy really started three years ago," he recalled. "We saw the kids we had plus the ones we had coming and decided we weren't big enough to sit in there and fight it out.

"We decided to use our strong points, our speed and quickness, and throw a lot of four, five, six and even seven man fronts at the other teams."

However, the different defensive philosophies may be coming closer together thanks to a weight program Barr and company instituted several years ago.

"Our weight program has really helped us," Thomann admitted. "Dick also teaches a football class, which many of the players took, and that showed an improvement in our offense this year.

"We're getting close to being able to sit in there and slug it out."

Jarvey played football at Northern Michigan University for one year before deciding his future was in coaching, not playing, he said.

Once he received his teaching degree from Northern, he headed south and began his coaching career at Livonia Clarenceville, spending five years as an assistant coach.

At that point, a teaching position opened up in the Plymouth-Canton schools and he jumped at it, he said.

He spent his first three years in the district as an assistant coach at Canton before moving over to Salem where he's been the last seven.

"I really enjoy it a great deal," Jarvey said. "But I find each year there is more and more I don't know about it.

"But it is becoming increasingly more difficult to coach at the high school level with added responsibilities such as fund raising and so on."

Football has been a major part of Thomann's life, too. He spent one year in an Adrian College uniform before moving on to the Continental Football League where he played for two years.

Eventually, he admitted with a laugh, he got his degree from Eastern Michigan University, and came to Plymouth to teach and coach.

"I've always enjoyed working with kids," said the 6-foot-7, 300-pound-plus Pioneer Middle School math-science teacher who has coached at Canton for six years.

"In the back of everybody's mind is the aspiration to become a head coach, but I'd never consider leaving the Plymouth-Canton district, and the head coach right now is doing a great job."

Both men insisted they have the worst seat in the house when it comes to seeing all the action on the field and then having to call a defense. The spotters in the both are invaluable, they admitted.

"To our advantage, too, I divorce myself from the offensive play selection during the game because there's just too much to do.

"It's like a chess game, you're trying to stay one step ahead of the opposition."

Jarvey and Moshimer don't get a divorce during the heat of the game, just an amicable separation.

"He believes in giving the people who work with him responsibility," Jarvey said.

over Hudsonville-Unity Christian. He has over 150 in his first three years and, with one more year to play in the prep ranks, he looks certain to break 200 goals. Amazing.

To some of you American sports purists out there who say, "So what!" to this column and soccer in general, you better take the time to take a long, hard look at the direction of the prep sports scene.

Soccer will not replace football, at least not in the near future, but a statement by Stevenson Coach Pete Scerri pretty much says it all:

"Usually the rejects from the football team come out for soccer," he said Saturday after his team dispatched Churchill. "This year we had three rejects from the soccer team catch on with the football team, and they were glad to get them."

Nixed busses mixed blessing

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

Dale Goby had expected to receive $161,000 for the purchase of some new busses for the Plymouth-Canton school district.

The director of transportation won't get the money because the line item in the 1982-83 budget which would have allowed Goby to buy five or six of the large, 66 passenger vehicles has been cut out of the budget, according to Assistant Superintendent for Business Ray Hoedel.

But the "hold" put on the purchase of new busses is a mixed blessing for the district, Goby said.

"Replacement of the older busses is an on-going thing," he explained. "If you don't replace a few at a time, one year you'll be staring at a whopping bill all at once."

A good maintenance program helps prolong the life of the old busses, but eventually they have to be replaced, Goby admitted.

"The oldest one we have in regular service in the fleet right now is a 1975," he noted. "We generally try to replace them when they get in the upper 80,000's to 90,000's."

"Basically it works out to every seven years, although we have no real seven-year plan."

Because of the nature of the roads the busses travel across everyday, problems with front ends crop up most frequently, according to Goby.

"The bumpy, gravel country roads do a number on the front ends," he admitted.

Fixing small problems before they become big ones can save the district money in the long run. The average price of a new bus currently runs around $35,000, Goby said.

"We have a crew of nine mechanics plus some co-op students," he said. "I'm very proud of our crew because they do a fine job all the time."

A testament to the effectiveness of the men working for Goby is the district's perfect record in the last nine Michigan State Police inspections.

"Sometime during the year the state police come to inspect all the busses," Goby remarked. "and for the past nine years 100 per cent of our busses have passed inspection."

The drivers also play an important role in the continued well-being of the 72 large busses and 29 special education vans in the district's fleet, Goby insisted.

"Each day they write up a report on their bus," he explained. "They let us know about little problems before they become big ones."

"Every 1,000 to 2,000 miles we also put each bus up on the lift to check for things like broken leaf springs."

Every day the district's fleet of busses transports in the neighborhood of 13,000 students to and from school. And although there was some problem with overcrowding early in the fall, those snafus have been resolved, according to Goby.

"A few of the problems stemmed from our computer routing being a little off," he said. "Adjustments have been made though, and it's all under control now."

Propane to fuel bus fleet

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

With the annual budget for gasoline for the Plymouth-Canton School District hovering around $265,000, several years ago school officials began searching for a way to reduce that figure.

The plan eventually enacted called for the conversion of the district's gasoline-powered busses to propane. And, although the program is still in its infancy, already 20 of the fleet's 72 large, 66-passenger busses have been converted.

And the reasoning behind the move is simple: Propane is more economical than gas, according to Dale Goby, the school's director of transportation.

"The gasoline we buy from our supplier runs us $1.02 a gallon," he explained. "Propane, on the other hand, only costs 73 cents a gallon."

"And even though the price of gas has been dropping lately, we feel in the long run propane will continue to be much more economical."

New busses the district purchases are not immediately converted to propane. Generally, the vehicles are run for a year to break them in, and then the switch takes place, according to Goby.

"It takes two years to pay off the cost of the installation," he noted. "It takes two people, two days to do the job, and it entails mostly add-on items."

"Before the conversion is started, though, it's very important to make sure the busses are tuned up properly. If they are not, we've found you run into problems."

Goby is attacking the conversion of the district's entire fleet slowly, or at least that was the plan when the district first jumped into the field of propane.

"One of the reasons we didn't go gung-ho into this several years ago is because we wanted to get information on the reliability of the propane-powered busses," he admitted.

"Livonia, for example, went heavily into the propane, and now after a couple of years there's data on their reliability, and it's all positive."

The only negative aspect of the propane busses Goby and his men have discovered popped up last winter. The problem concerned cold-weather starting.

"We had a lot of trouble," he said. "But we've found if we use a combination gas-propane fuel system, they start fine."

"The driver starts the bus with a switch on gasoline, and when it gets going that person flips it back to propane."

Although there was some grumbling, especially from the drivers, when the conversion first began, those misgivings have disappeared, according to Goby.

"About the only thing anyone complains about now is the time it takes to fuel the busses," he insisted. "A nozzle has to be threaded on a valve, and it does take longer, there's no question of that."

"But we're working on ways to shorten that, and we've made some good progress in that area recently."

Board has busy session

BY MARK CONSTANTINE

Short, sweet and to the point is how the Board of Education's regular meeting Monday night could be categorized.

Jim Burt received a vote of confidence from the board when it unanimously approved his appointment as the assistant principal at Pioneer Middle School. He has been in the position in a temporary capacity since the beginning of the school year.

Also, a new computer system which will provide teachers, principals and central administration with an ongoing profile of information regarding elementary school achievement and performance in reading and mathematics was approved by the board, 6-0.

Help for dual career families

The problems of a two career family can be many and complex. Jeanne and Fred DeRoche, Plymouth residents, will address some of these problems when they present a program on dual career families entitled, "Coping with Dual Careers: A Survivor's Manual for Working Couples."

The program is directed to married couples who are both employed, and to those couples contemplating such a rearrangement. It will focus on the adaption problems encountered when both members of the marriage have careers outside of the home.

Topics such as coping with role reversals, dealing with guilt feelings and inadequacies over role changes, and how to stop the dual career couple from becoming a dueling career couple will be discussed.

Jeanne DeRoche is a substance abuse counseling supervisor at Fairlane Center and her husband, Fred DeRoche is vice president of Odiome International, a

Plymouth management consulting organization, where he specializes in career guidance and counseling

The program is open to all members of the Plymouth-Canton Community. It will take place at Our Lady of Good Counsel School Thursday, Nov. 18 at 7:30 p.m. There is no charge for the program and reservations are not required.
