Canton hikes police millage to 4.74 mills

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

The Canton Township board voted to raise the 1984 township police millage 1.17 mills at its Aug. 9 meeting in a move which established the maximum ceiling for the millage. Final millages for the township have not been reviewed by the board yet.

Mike Gorman, finance director for the township, said board members are scheduled to adopt exact township millages at their Sept. 13 meeting.

Gorman said the 1984 general fund and fire millages will not change. The general fund millage is set at 2.24 mills and the fire fund millage is set at 3.06.

The police millage, currently set at 3.40 will increase to 4.57 mills in 1984. Gorman said the millage increase reflects a six per cent pay increase to the police officers, half the cost of nine police and fire dispatchers, a half mill for the new police building and the $29,000 salary of a staff services supervisor.

In explaining the increase to the board, Gorman said the average Canton homeowner may see either an increase or decrease in his tax bill as a result of the increased police millage. The difference depends on whether the homeowner's

Teacher union talks stalled

BY PATTI EDDINGTON

Progress in Plymouth-Canton contract talks looks improbable before next week's scheduled session between teacher and school negotiators.

The board of education met for two hours in a special executive session Monday night to discuss the progress of negotiations, said Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations.

"The board discussed the current status of negotiations and the options available to them," Egli said.

He declined to elaborate further on the meeting.

Egli said the board will probably discuss negotiations again in an executive session at a regular meeting scheduled for next Monday night.

Man sought in rape, arson case

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

A Plymouth woman told police she was held at her apartment against her will for two hours Sunday and raped by her former boyfriend. She escaped and fled to the neighbors to call the police, and returned to find her apartment in flames, police said.

Plymouth Police said they would seek a warrant Wednesday at the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office charging a 26-year-old Belleville man with first degree criminal sexual conduct.

The apartment fire on Amelia Street has been termed "highly suspicious" by fire officials and is being investigated as a possible arson.

The 23-year-old Plymouth woman gave police the following account of what happened Sunday morning:

The man appeared at the back door to her apartment at 8:30 a.m. Sunday. He was a former boyfriend who had been harrasing her by phone during the last several weeks, she said.

She let him in because she was afraid of what he would do if upset. After about a half-an hour, he forced her into the bedroom and sexually assaulted her three times, she said.

At about 10:50 a.m., while he was in the living room closing the front drapes, she escaped out the back door in a robe. She ran to the neighbors, she said, and he followed her out the door, but stopped at the end of the driveway and turned back.

She called the police from the neighbors' house. They arrived on the scene within one minute, according to police records.

About one minute later, while one officer talked to the woman and two others searched the area, smoke was spotted coming out of her apartment. Officers notified the fire department and then alerted the occupants of the other three apartments in the building.

The Plymouth Fire department received the call at 10:53 a.m. and arrived to find the bedroom of the apartment engulfed in flames, Fire Chief Roy Hall said.

The 18 firemen who responded to the call had the blaze under control in 15 minutes, and then spent another hour and a half extinguishing spot fires, throwing debris out, and checking the scene, Hall said.

Samples have been taken and sent to the Michigan State Police crime lab to determine if the fire was deliberately set.

An inspector checked the site Monday to determine if the cause was an electrical fire.

"We are investigating this. It is a very suspicious fire with cause undetermined and no explanation as yet on how it could have started," Hall said.

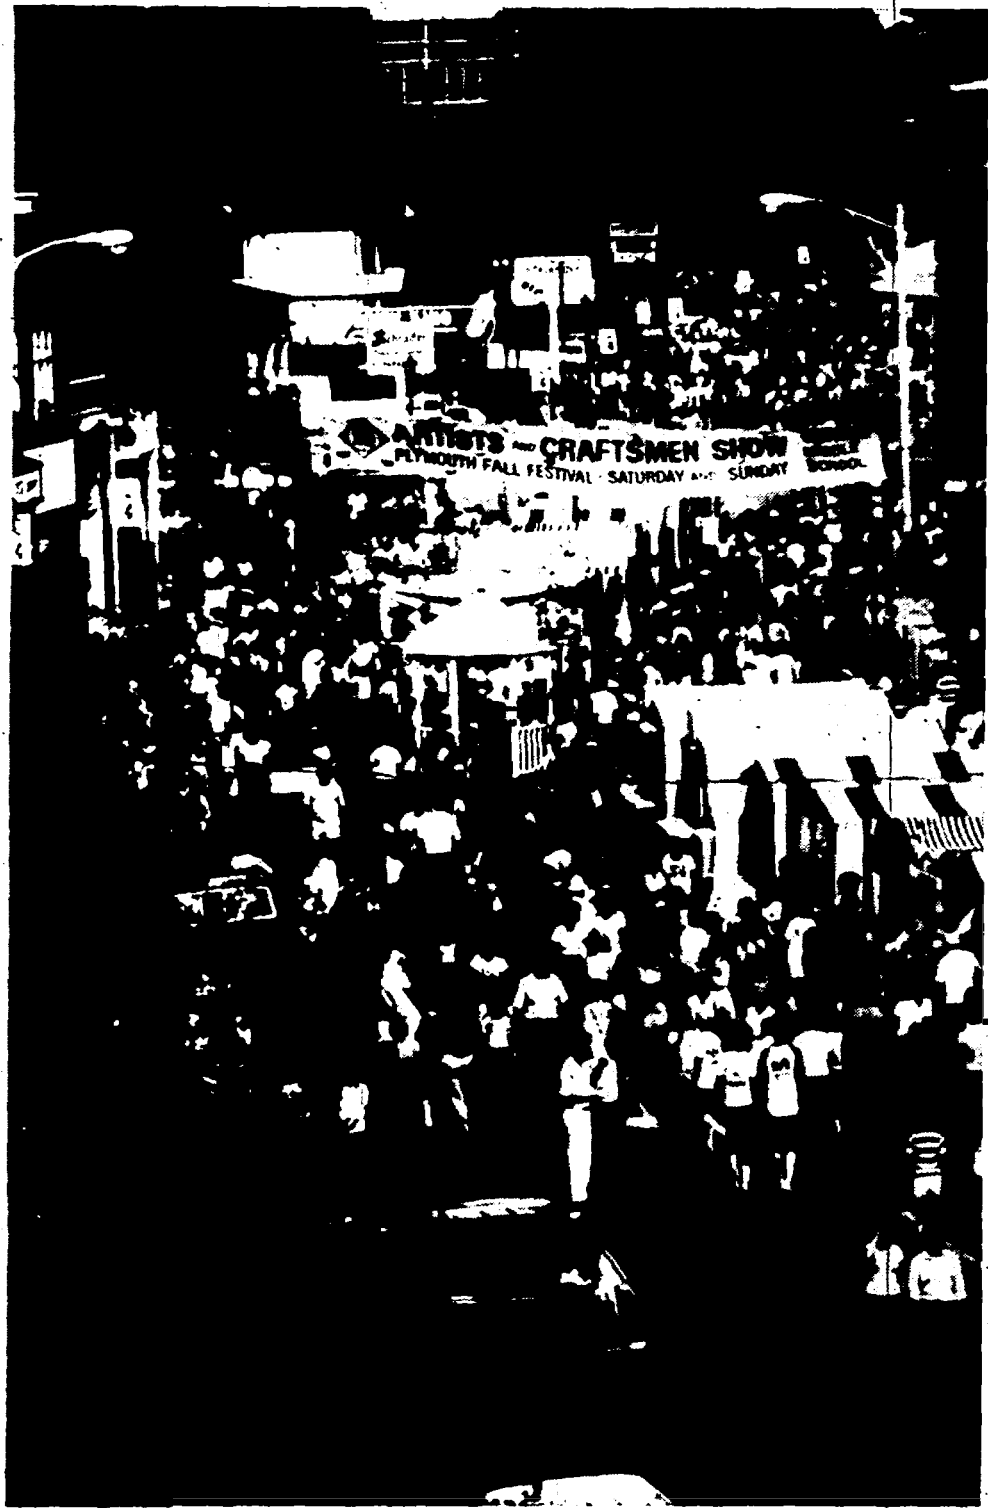

Hall said the bedroom of the apartment was fire-damaged, the rest of the apartment was heat and smoke damaged. Other apartments in the building were damaged by smoke as well, he said. A damage figure has not yet been set, he said.

Plymouth Police Commander Ralph White said the woman had no commonly-used accelerants at the apartment and police had no clues as yet as to the cause of the blaze. "The timing of the fire is highly coincidental though, coming mere minutes after this young woman escaped her alleged assailant," he said.

A bulletin was issued Sunday to pick the suspect up for questioning, White said, but he has not been found yet. "We will arrest him as soon as we can find him," White said.

Van Buren Township Police impounded the man's car in front of one of his two listed addresses, White said.

System split— Plymouth and Canton townships out Supersewer given final nix by townships

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

One week it's a go, the next it isn't. But the latest in a series of oscillating decisions about the Huron Valley Wastewater Treatment Facility (Supersewer) seems final. Both Plymouth and Canton Townships are out of the project— permanently.

In a 10 to four vote of community representatives Aug. 4, the Supersewer Rate Review Committee voted to split the Supersewer project. The split system will downsize the Supersewer in the south service area (roughly, those communities which are south of the Rouge River) and completely eliminate the Supersewer in the north service area.

The north service area includes Plymouth and Canton Townships as well as Wixom, and Commerce Township.

Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township Supervisor and a representative on the Rate Review Committee, said the 10 south tier communities voted to institute a lawsuit against "the appropriate parties" to enforce the current Supersewer project. In the same vote, they also gave final approval to the split system which leaves the northern communities out of the project.

Both Breen and John Sobleskie, deputy finance director for Canton Township and a Rate Review Committee representative said the northern tier communities will continue to use the Rouge River Waste Water Treatment Facilities.

Sobleskie said the northern communities originally joined the Supersewer project because they were told there was no extra sewer capacity in the Rouge River System. This lack of capacity would have limited future growth in the townships.

"But now the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Detroit Water and Sewer Board are telling us that there is extra capacity in the Rouge," Sobleskie said.

The DNR has recently raised objections to the Supersewer project for legal and financial reasons. A contract dispute between the Detroit Water Board and communities currently using the Rouge River System has also created potential problems for the new system. Alternative Supersewer proposals have been discussed since then.

As a result of the Supersewer split decision, a DNR spokesman told the northern tier communities a federal grant would be made available to them in order to develop alternative waste disposal plans.

Sobleskie said the grant represents 75 percent of the design money necessary for the northern communities to upgrade and continue using the Rouge River System.

"We have two alternatives," Sobleskie said. "We can either design a cooperative plan with the other two communities for waste disposal, or we can build a separate, parallel sewer pipe to the Rouge River plant.

"We were told we had no other choice but to go with the Rouge System by the DNR, Sobleskie added. "Now all we can do is negotiate the best deal possible in that system."

Breen expressed concerns about the problems which may face the northern tier communities as a result of the decision.

"We don't want to be left out in the cold," he said. "As long as our community is covered for future sewage disposal, we don't care if we're in the Supersewer or going into Detroit. But we are worried because this now leaves four communities to share in the cost of the parallel interceptor system."

Plymouth Township has already invested approximately $275,000 in the Supersewer project. Canton has invested nearly $600,000 in the system. Sobleskie said investigations are currently being undertaken to determine if this money will be returned to the communities.

Schools bungle schedule

Confusion and reshuffling of the schedule has proceeded the first day of school for Plymouth-Canton kindergartners.

A mistake by Plymouth-Canton school officials in calculating the school calendar would have left some kindergarten students short of the requisite 180 days of schooling.

Richard Egli, district administrative assistant for community relations, said the plan was to have both morning and afternoon kindergarten students attend school on opening day (a scheduled half-day of school) for an open house-orientation.

However, the state does not recognize orientation days as school days.

The school calendar allows some leeway, with 181 scheduled class days.

Morning kindergarten students would have had the required number of days, since they would normally attend class the last day of school, June 14. But afternoon students would have fallen a day short, having missed both the first day for orientation and the last day of school.

To rectify the problem, the district is having morning kindergarten students attend the first scheduled school day on Aug. 30. Afternoon students will not begin until Aug. 31. They will make-up the time on the final day of the school year on June 14.

Egli said the solution is "the most workable."

Accused man died in fire

Canton killer identified

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

The Detroit Police Department confirmed that one of two men who died in a fire set in Detroit last week was the murderer of a Canton Township doctor.

Lieutenant Dennis Joker of the Canton Police Department said William A. Cain, 27, of Akron, OH, had been identified as the man who killed Dr. Muzaffar Ahmad, 36, of Courtland Street in Canton on Aug. 8.

Cain and another man, Calvin Stanley Jones, 30, of Detroit, died in a fire they allegedly set in an Islamic sect center in Detroit the same evening Ahmad was gunned down in his home.

Joker said Cain was seen at the Ahmad residence by a witness minutes before Ahmad was shot to death. A gun found in the Islamic Center was also identified as the murder weapon by the Detroit Police Crime Lab.

Joker said the Canton Police Department has turned investigation of the case over to the FBI. Joker added that Canton's involvement in the case was closed when Cain was positively identified as the killer.

Detective Robert Mott of the FBI would not comment on a possible motive for the slaying. Earlier, Canton Police had reported that a religious power dispute may have been the cause.

"We cannot comment on anything further with this case," Mott said yesterday. "We feel there has been adequate coverage of the case already. It remains an open investigation with the FBI."

The FBI said last week international implications in the case necessitated their involvement.

Canton Police said Ahmad was shot in Canton at approximately 9:40 p.m. Ahmad was an anesthesiologist at Wayne County General Hospital and secretary of the Islamic sect in Detroit.

An attempted firebombing of a Clinton Township home belonging to the treasurer of the same Islamic sect was also linked to the murder.

Ahmad's body was flown back to Pakistan Saturday for religious burial. He is survived by a wife and four-year-old son.

"We have also asked for a warrant to search the car. What we are looking for is a purse belonging to the woman which is missing from her apartment," White said, "or other evidence related to the alleged crime."

The suspect is described as a white male, 5'8" to 5'9" in height, weighing 150 pounds, with dark brown hair, brown eyes.

street entertainment

Summer may be sending The Plymouth-Canton Community some of its worst scorchers right now, but plans for this year's Fall Festival haven't wilted.

The Fall Festival Board, now meeting on a weekly basis to keep up with demands and busy scheduling the Festival requires, has made several changes in this year's celebration. The changes are bound to add crowd appeal and fun to the traditional home-grown festivities.

"All the world's a stage..." so the saying goes, and Main Street will be no exception at the Fall Festival this year. Street minstrels, clowns, magicians and musicians will roam Main Street bringing their antics and talent to festival goers.

Aerobics and a karate demonstration have been scheduled for Friday night and Saturday afternoon. A unicycle club will free-wheel their way through the crowds on Saturday and Amazing Jack the Magician will also share a Saturday afternoon of fun with the community.

The Canton Country Kitchen Band, the big band sound of the Ambassadors and square dancing will have The Plymouth-Canton Community up and swinging whatever their musical tastes may be. The threesome will share Main Street slots at the four-day September event.

School phones silenced

There have probably been days when the employees of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have wished the phones would stop ringing.

Last Wednesday they did—all of them.

The snafu resulted from the Communication Workers of America strike, which has put telephone company workers on the picket lines and their supervisors on the phone lines.

Richard Egli, school administrative assistant, said the phones stopped ringing when telephone company supervisors prematurely tried to switch the school's phone lines from the Dimension system used currently to the CENTREX III system. Incoming and outgoing calls were impossible.

"It was interestingly quiet," Egli said. "You certainly begin to appreciate the telephone when you don't have it."

Plymouth-Canton schools will be switching phone systems later this month, Egli said. CENTREX III will replace the current switchboard system and allow direct dialing to individual offices.

He added that the school plans to save $50,000 this year with the new system, since there will be better accountability on long distance phone calls and the school will not have a rate increase for three years with the new system.

City of Plymouth into booze and sex

City grants own alcohol

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Taxes may be dandy, but liquor is quicker -- at least when it comes to raising revenue for the City of Plymouth.

The Plymouth City Commission voted Monday night to approve an application for a liquor license for themselves.

A recent change in the state law allows cities with populations of 9,500 or more to have a liquor license at their city-owned cultural center or hall, City Manager Henry Graper explained.

The city plans to use its liquor license to sell beer, wine and or mixed drinks to groups who rent the Cultural Center and would like to sip something stronger than a kiddie cocktail.

Graper said the city will make a 16 to 18 per cent return on their liquor investment by selling it by the glass. He estimated that 70 to 80 per cent of the groups renting the Cultural Center will opt to have liquor served.

Recreation department director Chuck Skene -- also in charge of the Cultural Center itself -- will oversee the liquor operation, and a separate fund will be established for the liquor expenses and proceeds so the city can gauge how much money it is making off the venture.

Graper has tentative plans to outlay $2,500 for a portable bar, $3,000 for glassware, and $1,500 for the initial purchase of liquor stock.

Possibly the dark room at the Cultural Center will be stripped and used for a liquor room, he said. Bartenders will be hired at $5 to $6 an hour as part-time city employees, he said in a memo to the commission.

The commission has yet to approve the expenditures to equip and stock the bar, but may consider the total proposal at its next regular meeting.

The price for the alcohol, Skene assured the commissioners, "would be set to make a profit for the city."

Obtaining the liquor license is part of Graper's plan to upgrade the Cultural Center's facilities and market it as a good place to rent for dinners and receptions.

Related to this goal, Graper opened "proposals" Monday from companies who wish to be caterers at the Cultural Center. He hopes to narrow the list of accepted caterers for the center to three or four, he said. The preferred caterers list will be considered by the commission at its next meeting as well.

Monkey business in city surprises some workers

The City of Plymouth was in the Monkey Business.

Officials have confirmed that the City General Fund was used to purchase seven dozen obscene monkey tie pins in January.

The pins were then resold -- at a profit -- to the Dayton, Ohio Hockey Association.

Chuck Skene, parks and recreation director, confirmed that his department personnel ordered the monkeys at $1.35 each and sold them for $2 each. They were sent to the Dayton Hockey group and "obviously we're not selling them in the (Cultural Center) arena," he said.

"It was a one-time shot," Skene said, adding that in the future if such requests were made, his department would refer the customers directly to the company with which the city deals.

The tie pins, which feature monkeys with moving arms committing a sexual act, are apparently popular gift ideas. When the city's order was shipped, it was inadvertently sent to City Hall rather than to the Cultural Center, causing some surprise amongst City Hall workers who opened the box, officials said.

Head-on auto accident injures four on I-275

BY CHERYLEBERWEIN

A Belleville woman is in critical condition after the car she was driving struck another vehicle head-on on I-275 last Thursday, Canton Police said. Three other people were also injured in the accident.

Joan Logan, 38, of Barkley Street, sustained severe back head and neck injuries according to police and fire reports.

Corporal James Hanna of the Canton Police Department said Logan was traveling southbound on I-275 at approximately 9:45 p.m. when the accident occurred.

Hanna said Logan's car left the freeway and cut across the median about 450 feet on an angle. Logan's car then drove onto northbound I-275 while still heading south and struck the car driven by Gary Ruso, 33, of Sherman Street in Southfield.

Hanna said Ruso was traveling with his wife, Michelle, 28, and his two children Kiel, 1, and Jennifer, 2 at the time.

Canton rescue workers responding to the scene requested the assistance of the Wayne Fire Department. They transported Logan to Wayne County General Hospital. They also transported Gary Ruso, Kiel and Jennifer to St. Mary's Hospital.

Gary Ruso was treated for injuries to his right knee and chest and for lacerations. Kiel received an abrasion to his forehead and Jennifer was unhurt in the incident.

Michelle Logan suffered a multiple fractures to her left leg, and head and hand injuries. She is in serious condition at St. Mary's Hospital.

Police are unsure why Logan's car left the freeway and drove into Ruso's vehicle. They suspect that Logan, who is epileptic, may have suffered a seizure and lost control of her car.

Hanna said a witness, R. William

Couchman, a director at the Ford Aerospace Corporation, administered first-aid to Logan until rescue personnel arrived on the scene. Hanna said Couchman was instrumental in saving Logan's life due to his actions.

Colony Swim club hot...

F.D. suggests cold showers

It was just a little too steamy at the Colony Swim Club this past weekend, so the Canton Fire Department took care of the problem -- by ordering cold showers for everyone.

Canton fire reports said an 11 a.m. Saturday phone call from the club manager reported possible electrical problems at the facility.

Firemen responding to the scene found the subfloor and wooden joists in the basement of the bathhouse smouldering. Reports said the cause of the burning was heat build-up under the floor of the club's hot water heater.

The fire department told the manager to shut down the shower heater until the damaged flooring was replaced.

Police millage rate raised 1.7 mills in Canton

State Equalized Value (SEV) went up or down in 1983.

"A homeowner who saw an increase in his SEV may see an increase in his tax bill, while a homeowner who received a lower SEV will see a decrease in his tax bill even with the increased police millage," Gorman said.

He added, however, that this would also depend on whether other taxes, like school taxes, remain the same in 1984.

"We're not establishing the actual police millage with this move," Robert Padget, a Canton trustee said. "We're setting an absolute maximum, and in reviewing the budget we can pick and choose figures and trim it (the millage) down."

Supervisor James Poole told the board that the township will lose $500,000 in income revenue in 1983.

"We're losing between $75,000 and $100,000 in 35th District Court, and we'll receive $32,000 less in taxes because of the reassessment of property values," Poole said. "We'd be much better off to go with 4.57 and reduce this amount down later if we can.

Trustee Steven Larson, in supporting the ceiling figure, said he felt the township would suffer financial hardship if the police department stayed in its present location. Gorman told the board that the township would lose $130,000 to 1982 retroactive police wages.

Board negotiators and negotiators from the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) are next scheduled to meet Aug. 24 and 25. The first day of school is scheduled for Aug. 30.

Tom Cotner, chief negotiator for the PCEA, said the group plans to put a two-year proposal before the board. He said teachers want their salaries to be brought into line with teachers in surrounding districts, but realize it might take two years.

Neither school officials nor PCEA negotiators are willing to discuss negotiations in detail at this point, saying they don't want to jeopardize talks.

POP meets Thurs.

A information and training session for Parents on Patrol, Central Middle School's parent volunteer program to patrol the hall will be held on Thursday, Aug. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

During the last few months of 1982-83 school year, a parent volunteer program was formed for the purpose of providing additional supervision and assistance at school.

Mary Lou Johnson, coordinator for POP said the parent teacher student organization was encouraged by the number of parents who were involved last year, but addition parents are still needed.

Batting cage proposal strikes out

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

A request to build automatic baseball and softball batting cages at 14720 Northville Road, between M-14 and Hamill, was denied in a 4-2 vote by the Plymouth Township planning commission.

William R. McAllister approached the commission about the building the batting practice cages in mid-July, the commission decided to use some of its grant money for visual aids to film existing batting cages in other communities. McAllister's request for seven cages each 20 feet high was postponed to a July 27 special meeting.

The commission viewed films of three batting practice businesses in other communities at the July 27 meeting.

Planning commission Richard Gornick said he felt the development would have a negative impact on the residents of the area and on the nearby Plymouth Hilton. Gornick said the cages are an outdoor use and some homes in the area are as close as 120 feet away. People waiting in the proposed picnic area before using the cages would create noise, he said.

Gornick also said the cage would be an entrance to the community and create a negative image impact. He also sited problems he felt could develop with the attractiveness of the area, extra police service which could be required and possible drinking on the property.

Planning commissioners Abe Mufakh, Donald Gregory and Clinton Stroebel agreed with Gornick. Stroebel added that similar developments in other communities had had a negative impact on the surrounding property.

Commissioner Donald Skinner disagreed and said the batting cages would be far enough off Northville Road to probably not be seen by passer-byers. Skinner said a car wash, gas station and a party store already existed there on Northville Road.

Since McAllister also owns the party store, Skinner said he doubted that he would be selling liquor for consumption at the batting cages since he could lose his license.

Planning commission Barbara Lynch, liaison to the Township Board, said she was not crazy about the batting cages, but would not find the development highly objectionable either.

McAllister presented the planning commission with a petition signed by local resident in support of the construction of batting cages. He said the residents were glad the property was being developed, instead of continuing to be a vacant lot and kids' hangout.

McAllister told the board the general manager of the Hilton had liked the idea of batting cages nearby and planned to include it in the hotel's advertising.

He said the cages would be surrounded by 50-foot-high netting to catch balls. The cages would only be open six months out of the year and exterior lighting would only be used for two hours each night.

Planning consultant James Anulewicz recommended the commission deny the proposed use. He said he had no problem with the batting cages, except that they were located in a residential area. He said he felt it would generate a great deal of activity and associate noises for that area.

A motion to approve the development failed 4-2, with Lynch and Skinner in favor of construction of the batting cages.

McAllister said he will ask the planning commission to reconsider its decision within the next 30 days. "I plan to get an attorney and go back before them. There is no reason why they should not approve it."

All the residents in the neighborhood want it, the Plymouth Hilton thinks its a good idea ... they (the planning commissioners) say it will not be a good thing to have an the 'entrance to the township' but it will be off the road a ways," he said.

Nice guys may get paint

Plymouth, Canton or Northville residents who know someone they believe is worthy of being named "Citizen of the Year" could win that person a free house painting, courtesy of Pease Paint Wallpaper and Art Supplies and Phoenix Home Builders, of Plymouth.

Terry Bixler, who owns Pease Paint with his wife Molly, said the contest is open to anyone who wishes to nominate someone on the basis of doing a good deed, performing a community service or just being a nice person.

The winner will receive a free exterior housepainting or can choose to have any three interior rooms painted, Bixler said.

The purpose of the contest is to thank area residents for 33 years of support for Pease Paint and also for supporting Phoenix Home Builders, a new community business, he said.

A nominating ballot is available in The Plymouth-Canton Community Crier next week. Ballots are also available at Pease Paint and Phoenix Home Builders, 570 S. Main, Plymouth.

Ballots are due in 30 days. Selection is expected to take three days, Bixler said.

SCHOLARSHIPS for single head-of-household women are available from the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW). The scholarships are available at all times to women re-entering the career market. Above, Joanne Delaney (right), president of the club presents BPW scholarship recipient Laura Ashlee (seated) with a set of pearls before she leaves for East Illinois University to work on a master's degree in historical administration. Watching are Kristene Ravtio (left) and Toni Trudell (far left). Kristene is second vice-president of the BPW, and Toni is another BPW scholarship recipient. Women interested in more information on BPW scholarships should contact Barbara Martin at Comerica Bank on Ann Arbor and Haggerty roads. They may also contact Delaney at 453-5950 or write at 41720 Wilcox Rd., Plymouth.

From radio isotopes to radial tire thieves Police commander has traveled an interesting road

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Ralph White, formerly the administrative lieutenant for the Plymouth Police department, became commander of the Plymouth force Monday.

White replaces Chief Carl Berry who retired from the city to take a job as police chief-administrative assistant to the Plymouth Township supervisor.

White's duties will be substantially the same as Berry's were, with the exception that he will not have to draft the police department budget.

The 40-year-old White traveled an interesting road from a childhood in Port Huron to the top spot in the Plymouth Police department.

In 1961 he left Port Huron to join the United States Navy and served as a medic until his release in 1966. White said he served "before Vietnam got going. The Dominican Republic and Cuba were in a lot of uproar and they were just starting to send people to Vietnam - I was extended twice, both times for six more months, and they were only send guys who had at least a year to go."

After the Navy, White took what he had learned in the Navy about nuclear medicine and join Wayne State University's staff and then took successive jobs at Botsford and Beaumont hospital - helping to set up their labs in the then-new field of nuclear medicine.

"I consulted at some other, smaller offices, too. With the exception of the Navy and Plymouth, I never stayed at the same job for more than a year!"

White said he had always wanted to be a police officer and in 1968 he decided he was ready for a change and began applying for patrolman jobs all over southeastern Michigan. "I was going to Ypsilanti to apply and a stopped by Plymouth. They were the first to call me.

"I took the written test, then had by oral boards. They hired me, gave me a gun and a badge and put me on the street, with some of the more experienced officers of course. Carl Berry was one of the ones who broke me in," White said.

"About a year and a half later they sent me to the police academy, the Southeast Michigan Chiefs of Police Conference police academy, which no longer exists," he said.

White remained a patrolman until 1976 when he was assigned to the detective bureau. "In 1978 I took the test for sergeant and passed and remained in the detective bureau. In April of 1981 I made lieutenant and was put on the road as a shift supervisor."

Later he was made administrative lieutenant, meaning he still had to continue as a shift supervisor, but he also was acting as executive officer.

"Nobody was more tied into the administrative operations that I was," White said. "Plus I had to run the department in Carl's absence. Well, now his absence is permanent so I will continue doing what I have been doing, but I will be in charge all the time."

The only major area that Berry had to deal with that White will not, is the budget. "I will have some input on the budget ... and obviously will have to live within in. But I won't be doing the studies to justify this or that. Budgeting is very time consuming," he said.

White said there are two reasons why he is not "police chief" of the department. "The City (a citizen's committee appointed by the city commission) is doing a PSO (public safety organization) study whil may well change the whole structure of the department."

"Also, by taking the appointment on a trial basis the city has a chance to try me out and I have the chance to see if it is really what I want to do," White said.

He said if he is appointed police chief in the future, "I have every intention of moving into the city." White is currently residing in Plymouth Township. City charter requires that the chief of police live in the city.

Oakwood offers program in stopping rape

No women likes to think about it - but what would you do if faced with a rapist?

Oakwood Hospital Canton Center and the Canton Police Department would like to help women in The Plymouth-Canton Community come up with sensible, realistic answers to this question. On Aug. 29, Oakwood Canton Center will host a rape awareness workshop.

The workshop, scheduled to run from 7 to 9 p.m. will feature Robert Storaska's movie, "How to say no to a rapist and survive." Crime Prevention Officer Corporal Robert van Lith of the Canton Police Department will discuss rape prevention strategies at the workshop and will answer questions.

The workshop offers a viable alternative to those women who have neither the time, inclination or ability to enroll in self-defense courses. There is no registration charge and pre-registration is unnecessary.

Thanks for finding Tonquish pollution

DNR, reporter Eberwein praised

EDITOR

I'd like to express the appreciation of our family and the others who live along Tonquish Creek in Plymouth for the help your newspaper, the Department of Natural Resources and especially your reporter, Cheryl Eberwein have given in helping us locate the source of pollution in the creek.

We hope the situation will now be corrected before long.

Crier cares, but DPW doesn't

EDITOR:

I would like to thank The Crier for uncovering the dumping of toxic waste into Tonquish Creek. The people of Plymouth are lucky to have a paper that cares.

Certainly, it seems, our DPW superintendent Ken Vorgas does not care when he openly admits that probably 75 per cent of city sewer lines are hooked into the wrong lines.

Dolson fails to make a point

EDITOR:

Tsk, tsk, tsk. Sloppy, sloppy, sloppy.

Rachael dear, when reading Amy Vanderbilt's tips on social etiquette, you forgot one thing--to open the book. You see, Rachael, when one accuses others of tactlessness, one must not in turn present the arguments against the accused in a tacky manner; very unprofessional and hardly short of comedic.

Whether or not Mayor Pro-tem David Pugh did act incorrectly in presenting a memo to city commissioners concerning the actions of City Manager Hank Graper, while Graper was out of town, is no longer the the issue. Or, whether or not board member Andy Pruner's "antics" are childish and offensive is, again, no longer an issue--thanks to you.

Instead of presenting what could be some legitimate criticisms, you address these two subjects in a "buffoonish", if you will, manner and so relinquish any chance you had of making any point whatsoever.

Also, to name another reporter, (you are a reporter, aren't you), in your "column" in an attempt to make that reporter appear as "childish" and "lowbrow" as you claim Pruner to be was unnecessary and tasteless.

Lastly, by attempting to combine, unsuccessfully, these comments with a discussion about a cooler of beer and yet another cutesie rendition of "Crazy Times at The Community Crier," you've only further perpetuated in this reader's mind, and I'm sure many others, that in your presentation of issues there is a need for you to gain not only some social etiquette, but a little journalistic ability wouldn't hurt either.

KALLIE BILA

Three cheers for your Community Opinion Page of Aug. 10.

Rachael Dolson is to be highly commended for her chutzpah! Keep telling it like it is, Rachael, especially when it comes to "the boss"! You write so beautifully! It's a real joy reading such exposes.

And your colleague, Cheryl Eberwein most certainly deserves the thanks of everyone for her persistence and perseverance. It takes a real pro to "dig" down in Tonquish Creek. Keep it up, Cheryl. God knows we need workers like you everywhere.

White shoots ball career to become top city cop

This is the story about how Ralph White gave up professional baseball.

The Plymouth Police Department's new commander has assumed all the responsibilities of being chief even though he doesn't carry that title.

Following in the steps of Carl Berry, who (as he describes it) is now Maurie Breen's "Gofer," Ralph becomes the second local product in a row to head up the Plymouth force.

And well it should be.

Why?

Should he be in charge by virtue of having passed FBI school? Or because he once demonstrated alertness and cool-headedness while a chasing a stolen van full of teenagers through the city's residential streets, ending near Smith School near recess time with arrests but without further incident?

No.

Ralph should be in charge of the cops because of the athletic prowess he once displayed while playing on The Crier softball team against an alleged newspaper of regional fame. Yes, it's true.

Ralph White, the newest city top cop, is a right field star.

His performance in the field -- no errors (because nobody ever hit any balls INSIDE the fence against the stellar Crier pitching) -- was paralleled only by his perfect batting -- no hits.

So it's good that since no professional baseball contract was in the offing for Ralph, that they've found something for him to do.

Congratulations, buddy.

Chamber misses the boat on local promotion

Chambers of Commerce.

The voice of the community, the service club to beat all service clubs, the cheerleaders for business and the leader of the community band.

Well, maybe in some cities, but I'm not convinced this is true in Plymouth.

Last week, Chamber representative Mary Childs urged the Fall Festival Board to pull all local advertising on the Plymouth Fall Festival from both newspapers in the community, — relying on the good will of the papers to cover Fall Festival events.

With Fall Festival flyers, she reasoned, and with a Free Press newspaper insert, The Plymouth-Canton Community would receive plenty of notice about the festival.

Last year, however, Childs complained that local businesses had not been properly informed about the Fall Festival

From the Inside Looking Out

By Cheryl Eberwein

and had needed more information on the celebration.

What Childs fails to see, and what seems a common lack of understanding on the part of many Chamber members, is that community promotion involves more than just a rubber stamp Chamber endorsement.

Plymouth Chamber representatives have been good about some things — like bringing Canadian visitors to Plymouth to spend foreign dollars in the city. But they fail to see the importance of promoting Plymouth to its most important audience — its own residents.

With the glut of outside community events, shopping areas, eateries and entertainment spots, it makes sense that residents, like other individuals, must be constantly informed of Plymouth's activities and merits. While the Chamber promotes Plymouth to outside individuals, it rarely concentrates its efforts at home.

Residents are a community's biggest promotional tool. If Plymouthites are not encouraged to explore opportunities and interests in the city, and if they are not informed of these opportunities, they can't possibly express an interest in Plymouth to outside individuals.

The Chamber is right in assuming that outsiders must be enticed into Plymouth to see and support the community. But this effort must be balanced with a solid effort to support local businesses, inform local residents of Plymouth's merits, and build a strong community pride from the residents themselves.

There is no better promotional tool in a community than the individuals who live there. And there is no better way to take advantage of this fact, than to inform residents of what is going on — continuously and the same enthusiasm shown to outside individuals.

On the Mark

with Mark Constantine

All good things must come to an end.

I can't begin to tell you how many times I've heard that cliché and never really believed it. But now that I'm leaving The Crier to work for the Ypsilanti Press, it's beginning to ring true.

I've only been employed by The Crier for a little over a year, but in that time I've worked with and met so many wonderful people that I don't know where to begin saying good-bye.

I guess I should start at the top and, contrary to what many people around town may think, the top at The Crier means GM Phyllis Redfern.

She went out on a limb last July and hired a down-on-his-luck sports writer who had to come back to Michigan from Montana for a variety of reasons. She put him on the payroll without the knowledge of you-know-who and I hope she isn't sorry.

Phyllis is more than a boss or a co-worker, she is a trusted friend. She might now be able to throw a softball, but she sure knows how to be there when you need her.

Of all the people I met in the last year, several stand out heads and shoulders above the rest. I don't think I've ever met a coach like Fred Thomann before, and I don't think I ever will again.

He's a combination teacher, friend and boss who always gets the most out of the athletes he coaches. I just hope the youngsters at Salem High School realize how fortunate they are to have him around.

Thomann's sidekick, Bob Blohm, also has a way with kids. I hope he re-considers his decision to give up coaching because the man not only knows what he's doing, he truly cares about the youngsters playing for him.

Thomann and Blohm, however, are far from the only coaches I was impressed with. People like Tom Moshimer, Rich Barr, Dan Chrenko, Fred Crissey, Ken Johnson, Chuck Olson and Brian Gilles help give The Plymouth-Canton schools as good a group of coaches as you'll find anywhere.

I also have to tip my hat to Superintendent John M. Hoben and his lieutenants, Norm Kee, Ray Hoedel and Mike Homes. Norm and Ray, particularly, always were able to get me to crack a smile, no matter what, and I thank them for that.

I never really got to know any members of the Board of Education, but I respect each and every one of them for the thankless, unselfish job they do of seeing to it the youth of our schools get the best possible education.

Barbael Dolson has been on the staff for a relatively short period of time, but in that time she has proven to be a more-than-capable journalist and a good friend. Good luck in the future with Colin, you're going to need it. (Only kidding.)

Finally, I can't move on to my new job without saying a special good-bye to "Ebe." Cheryl is more than a friend, she is one lady who'll always have a special place in my heart.

She came along at a time when I needed someone to help me get through some rough times, both professionally and personally. Well, I survived, none the worse for wear, thanks.

I know I've given you a rough time of it lately, but I hope you know I couldn't have made it through some long winter days last January without your help.

I'm going to miss not only working with you but sitting down and talking to you when I needed an ear to bend. Like James Taylor sings, Cheryl: "Ain't it good to know, you've got a friend, you've got a friend."

Mid-Summer Golf Classic enjoyed by many women

EDITOR:

Now that the 2nd Mid Summer Ladies Classic is over and we had so many new women that were first timers in a tournament, we would like to thank some of the people that made it possible.

First, to Brooklane and the staff — without them there would not be a scramble. And then our artist Lydia Johnson and Walter Wilhelm. Dick Green did a great job on the skin game which all the women participated in.

Next were the merchants who, through their generosity, made sure each woman went home with a gift: McNish Sporting Goods of Novi, His and Her Shop of Newburgh plaza, Art's Really Good Chicken of Northville, Plymouth Hilton, Dunkin' Donuts, The Clock Restaurant, McAllister Grocery, Vic Tanny, Sideways Shop, Plaza Lanes, Penn Theatre, Skatin' Station, Hardees and The Mayflower Hotel, and all of Plymouth.

A special thanks to The Crier for putting us in print.

Kids deserve credit for Rouge River clean up

What would you do for $3.35 per hour? Stand hip deep in the yucky Rouge River, fish'ng out trash and debris? Haul branches and old tires along slippery banks to trash pick-up sites? Battle mosquitoes, hornets and rive snakes for eight hours a day?

Well, 270 young adults, aged 18 to 21, have been doing just that in eight-week Rouge River Watershed clean-up project.

The Wayne County Executive's Office and the Rouge River Watershed Council applied for a grant under the state Youth Corps to clean up 13 miles of the Rouge River as it winds through Hines Park.

In the first week of the project, when the kids had been issued trash bags only, they collected nine tons of trash. In later weeks, with the help of gloves, rakes, shovels, grappling hooks and in some cases saws and axes - the hard working young adults have removed from the river tree limbs, railroad ties, three Volkswagens, TV sets, a burned-out taxi, washing machines, a swing set, shopping carts and countless picnic tables.

Hurrah for band concert!

EDITOR:

On behalf of the Canton Parks and Recreation Department and the entire Canton community, we would like to express our sincere thanks to the Canton Chamber of Commerce for their outstanding efforts in bringing the "Executives" band to Canton for our Open Air Concert held Friday Aug. 5.

The big band music was enjoyed by all ages, along with the beautiful weather.

We hope to expand this outdoor concert series next summer with various types of music to help celebrate Canton's "Sesquicentennial."

The enthusiastic support of this concert by the Chamber helped make it a successful and enjoyable evening for everyone involved.

God bless you and thank you Danny Hunter (of Growth Works), the jogger (name unknown), Plymouth Police officers Joseph Kahanec and Wayne Carroll, Wayne County Sheriff Deputy Sheldon, and the Plymouth Township Rescue Squad.

We want to that all of you people who helped my son and two other people who were injured in a bicycle accident last July 11 in the evening at Ed Hines Drive and Wilcox. Because of your speed at handling this accident my son is on the way to recovery from what would have been a fatal accident. Thank you again for becoming involved.

THE RONALD MILLS FAMILY

Unsolicited Remarks

By Rachael Dolson

County Executive William Lucas was commented, "It is absolutely amazing, what can be accomplished with youthful teamwork, muscle and dedication. These young people are rescuing a choking river. It is gratifying to watch the river return to its normal flow, once these major obstructions have been removed."

I took photos of some of the young adults working on the river last week in the Plymouth-Plymouth Township area of Hines Park and I was very, very impressed with what these kids are doing.

They showed a willingness to work which amazed me. They really got in there and did the job, clearing out a big log jam at a bridge near the Gonsolly Mill area.

One kid in the group that works in the Plymouth area rides his bike from Romulus every day to work on the river project. In another group downriver, a kid gets up at 3:30 a.m. to walk miles to work everyday.

The hardwork of the kids, however, is being overshadowed by "politics."

Lee Fidge, executive director of the Rouge River Watershed Council and "technical supervisor" for the project resigned two weeks ago in what looks to be Rouge River political mudslinging.

Kathy Kanable, program coordinator for the county executive office, didn't even return phone calls when I called to ask about the project in the beginning.

Race sponsors and city praised

EDITOR:

On August 14, 1983, we held the first annual Plymouth Distance Classic. Over 500 people raced in either the one mile fun run or the four mile race.

Without the help of the following individuals, merchants and groups, the race would not have been as successful as it was. With deep appreciation, I would like to thank these people:

Sponsors Henry Ford Hospital-Plymouth Center, Growth Works, Inc. and Converse.

We received also got assistance from Absopure Water, the Trading Post, Dr. Sidney Disbrow (Plymouth), Beyer Rexall, Kroger, Meijer Thrifty Acres, Great Scott, The Community Crier, The Observer, the Penn Theatre and Sunshine Honda.

We would like to give special thanks to the City of Plymouth Police, City Department of Public Works, City Parks and Recreation, Plymouth Area Citizens Team (P.A.C.T.) and the Plymouth-Canton Schools.

MICHAEL SPITZ
RACE DIRECTOR

So I talked to Fidge - who thought of the project in the first place - and the kids working on the river. I have kept in touch with them all along, and followed the progress of the project.

Kanable, however, told me last week that Fidge - having resigned - was no longer a spokesperson for the project and that I couldn't quote any of the kids unless I cleared it with the county executive's office first.

What a bunch of political clap-trap.

What are the kids going to tell me that I can't see for myself, such as:

Their equipment is in a sorry state - such as the gardening gloves which are in shreds on everyone's hands.

The teams of kids were never issued any first aid kits, as proposed in the original projects.

That the kids are "exceeding" the guidelines of the project which say they are only suppose to go into the river up to their calves.

The equipment used on the site is far more than the rakes, ropes, and hooks issued by the county - saws, axes and other equipment has appeared on the site from whatever sources the kids can find.

Sure Lucas deserves some of the credit-without his support and the work of his office the grant would not have been approved in the first place.

But the kids deserve most of the credit-everybody can see who is knee deep in the river and who is sitting in an office writing press releases naming himself, Governor Blanchard, Youth Corps director Doug Ross, and the county staff.

Canton woman acquitted of murder

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

A Canton woman charged with first degree murder was found guilty of assault with intent to rob while armed in Wayne County Circuit Court last week.

Delores Jean Federico, 26, of Canton, was found guilty of the charge in connection with the shooting death of an Ann Arbor man last Oct. 18.

Federico was also found guilty of a felony firearm charge. She will be sentenced Aug. 23 before Judge Thomas Foley and could serve two years to life imprisonment for the charges.

Lieutenant Dennis Joker of the Canton Police Department said Federico's trial lasted seven days. The jury deliberated the case for two days before making a final decision.

Two other suspects in the shooting incident, George McCue, 25, and Ricki Sparks, 31, both of Canton, pled guilty to the same charges. Sparks and McCue were allowed to pled guilty to assault charges in exchange for testifying against Federico.

McCue was sentenced to serve four and a half to 15 years for his involvement in the death by Judge Charles Kaufman of Wayne County Circuit Court. Sparks was scheduled to receive his sentence before Kaufman Monday.

All three suspects were involved in the shooting death of Jess Brown, Jr., 27, of Ann Arbor. Canton Police said the shooting incident was drug-related and involved money.

According to police, Sparks and McCue allegedly owed money to Federico and made arrangements to rob Brown, an acquaintance of theirs, in order to pay her off.

Police said a set-up was arranged so Brown, in stopping to help a supposedly disabled car on Lotz Road with Federico inside, was instead robbed and then shot in the head. All three suspects fled the scene but Sparks and McCue were arrested early the following morning in connection with the death.

Feline fanciers catwalk to their way to fame

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

It'll be the cat's meow of pet shows.

And at least four local residents hope to catwalk their way to fame by showing their prized feline pets at the affair.

Mid-Michigan Cat Fanciers, Inc. is hosting its 51st cat show at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn this Saturday and Sunday. Among the 450 cats on display at the show will be four prized beauties from The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Rick and Lisa Floyd of Canton Township and Tom and Charlene Bowling of Plymouth raise Persian and Himalayan cats. Persians and Himalayan cats are known for their showmanship qualities. Their long coats, flat "pushed-in" faces and huge round eyes make them perfect candidates for competitions involving looks and personality.

But while the Persians and Himalayans being raised in these area households are top quality champions, they're more like family pets and a hobby to their owners than top quality show material.

"We had two cat and I wanted a third," Lisa Floyd said in explaining how she became involved with Persian and Himalayan cats four years ago.

"We decided we wanted a pedigree cat but because Persians and Himalayans were expensive in the pet stores, we started searching for a cat through breeders," Floyd said. "Now we're breeding our own cats and have had several litters of kittens."

Charlene Bowling, the original cat fancier in the Bowling residence, grew up surrounded by cats and dogs.

"It was sort of a natural to have cats and dogs around," she said. "Cats are great. You can tell them your problems and they won't talk back."

Bowling bought a Persian kitten from a breeder and said she and Tom soon became hooked on the idea of showing and breeding Persians. They now have 13 cats and hopes of a new litter of kittens.

Both Lisa and Charlene said they spend innumerable hours grooming and caring for their animals. The cats must be washed, dried and combed before every show. Because the cats' fur is so long, the job takes several hours and usually the cats are less than delighted at the prospect of being doused under a faucet.

But while cats may not like water, they don't seem to mind the beauty treatment they receive afterwards.

"They're just like a lot of dogs," Bowling said. "They don't like to get a bath and they'll fuss. But some of my cats will actually primp before the mirror while I'm drying them."

Primping and personality can make a favorable impression on cat show judges. But good bloodlines and breeding are often the bottom factors in deciding which cats will prance off with the prizes.

Floyd has raised seven grand champion cats. Three of Floyd's grand champions were cats she breed herself and she hopes to breed more grand champions for show.

"You can never tell what you're going to come up with when you breed cats," she said. "We're hoping to breed a better cat. You really have to consider blood lines and the pedigree when you breed cats. They have a lot of inbreeding in them which isn't always obvious."

Once kittens are born, all breeders have their own techniques for raising the animals. Special diets, vitamins, and a lot of spoiled affection seem key ingredients in most breeders' routines, however.

"The cats each have their own personality and are a lot of fun," Bowling said. "They're almost like little kids at times. I have rules to follow with them, and they have rules to follow with me. They're all different, and yet they're all alike."

The cat show will run from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for senior citizens and children. All proceeds from the show will go to support humane feline research, the Michigan Humane Society, neuter-spay programs in southeast Michigan and public libraries.

tell it to Phyllis

Shopping is not one of my most favorite pastimes. It is just one of those chores that has to be taken care of eventually.

In July, before we left on vacation, I tried to find bathing suits and shorts for the kids. Of course, I put it off until the last minute. We spent two evenings and half a Saturday dashing from one store to another.

I was totally amazed to discover that almost everyone was sold out of summer merchandise. All I could find were racks and racks of winter coats and wool sweaters.

Who in their right mind would want to try on a winter coat when it is 95 degrees out? I realize store owners have to be prepared for upcoming seasons and have to turn their stock over for economic reasons. But come on, give me a break, I have a hard enough time keeping up with the current season.

Shopping for my son is always hard because there aren't that many stores that carry boys clothes (especially now that he is in between boys and mens sizes). Added to the fact that he is at an age where he is particular about what he wears, and you have a kid who is lucky to be alive.

I felt better meeting other people who were faced with the same problem of finding summer clothes in July. It's always nice to know you're not the only crazy person in the world.

I suppose I should start my Christmas shopping now so that I'll be ready to shop for bathing suits and shorts in January when there is six feet of snow on the ground.

I know I can't be the only person who waits for the last minute to shop. It would be different if I waited until September or October to shop for summer clothes.

To top it off, I noticed there were bathings suits on racks at the sidewalk sales, last weekend. Where were they a month ago? Oh well, they probably weren't the right size anyway.

David Glasel, son of Jack and Carole Glasel of Elmhurst in Canton, has entered the U. S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program. He will enter the regular Air Force on Feb. 15, 1984. Following graduation from the six week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the mechanical aptitude area.

Lawrence Institute of Technology recently announced the names of students who received degrees. Students from Canton who received degrees are: Dennis Heling, Mechanical Engineering; Mitchell Johnson, Construction Engineering Technology; and Linda Manley, Business Administration.

Plymouth students who received degrees are: Susan Dement, Architecture; and Anne Ording, Construction Engineering.

Paul Vachher, son of Dr. and Mrs. P.S. Vachher of Canton was on the Dean's List at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. A 1982 Salem High School graduate, he is majoring in engineering.

Holbrook Rd. lots rezoned for condos

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

The Plymouth City Commission approved Monday the rezoning of seven lots on Holbrook Street over the objections of 14 property owners in the neighborhood, 14 rental residents in the area and three of the actual owners of the lots.

The commission okayed the rezoning of the lots in the Old Village area from residential duplex (RT-1) to townhouse-rowhouse (RM-1).

Pat Hann, owner of three of the lots, had petitioned the planning commission for rezoning to allow an 11-unit condominium structure on the site. For conformity, the planning commission followed the recommendation of its professional planner and added four other lots along the streets in the rezoning move.

Three of the four property owners of the added lots signed a petition opposing the rezoning. Eleven other residents in the area and 14 renters signed a petition opposing the rezonings also.

Hann said the sloping nature of her lots - which back up to Wayne County property - virtually prohibits economically feasible conventional development.

All seven of the city commissioners agreed with Hann and the recommendations of the planning commission and planning consultant, and voted yes on the rezoning.

"This is the only way this property can be developed," Mayor Eldon Martin said. "When we approved the rowhouse ordinance it was so the few parcels left in the city could be built on feasibly.

Dorothy Frid, a property owner across the street from Hann's proposed development, said the condominiums will 'over build' the area.

She said no one will buy Hann's proposed condos - with slated prices tags ranging from $85,000 to $100,000 - in that neighborhood and the development will stall in a half-constructed state.

Hann defended her planned development as having a saleable price and structure. "I too like Plymouth. My reputation in town should say enough."

Prizes galore available Skatin' MD benefit

Want to get some exercise and help a worthy cause at the same time?

The Skatin' Station is hosting a Muscular Dystrophy Skate-A-Thon Saturday and Sunday Aug. 27 and 28. The Skate-A-Thon will start at 7:30 p.m. and run until 7 a.m.

Skaters who roll their way around the rink for Muscular Dystrophy will receive buttons and food, slurpees and breakfast. The skater who collects the most donations for the Muscular Dystrophy Association will receive a portable AM-FM cassette radio. Second prize will be a Pac Man watch.

Wayne County poster child Ronnie Auten and his sister, Kimberly will be at the event. In addition, a magic show and illusion act and Chuck E. Cheese will help entertain skaters who need a break from the rigors of the ring.

For more information on the Skate-A-Thon, call the Skatin' Station at 459-6401 or the Muscular Dystrophy Association at 381-3838.

Vintage autos at Madonna

The flivvers are coming to Livonia on Labor Day weekend for a joint car show and family fun day sponsored by the Old Car Club of Detroit and Madonna College.

Far more than flivvers will be on display, however, for these Antique Car Family Days, Saturday and Sunday, September 3 and 4.

Among the vintage autos expected for display are Cords, Dusenbergs, and an Excalibur, as well as the more recent collector's items such as classic T-birds and the gull-wing Bricklin.

The cars will be displayed on the 49-acre campus of Madonna College

Sunshine Honda yacht is fastest on dry land!

After numerous "heats" in the heat on Saturday, the pedaling team for Sunshine Honda proved to be the fastest on four wheels and was named grand prize winners in the Tonquish Creek Yacht Race by Rear Admiral Barnacle Ball.

Finishing second in the jib-to-jib race was the team from Skatin' Station.

Ball said the team with the slowest time for the day was the Plymouth City Commission's, represented by Jack Kenyon and Bill Robinson, who Ball said could not "catch the wind" without first holding a pre-commission meeting, consulting with the city attorney, receiving a recommendation from the city manager and a department head, and holding a thorough public hearing.

Crawling in right behind the commission for the best "turtle time" was The Plymouth-Canton Community Crier team of Ed "Lead Bottom" Wendover and Phyllis "Lower the Boom" Redfern.

Landlubbers who observed the race safely from the shores of Peniman Avenue voted the following awards in other categories:

- MOST PREPPY: Land and Seas Gifts
- BEST CHEERLEADERS: Hands on Leather
- BEST COSTUME: John Smith Clothing Company
- BEST RIGGING: Lion's Club of Plymouth.

Rotary donates to Texas center

When the Plymouth Rotary club heard that a former member of their group needed funding for a favorite project they sent a check for $2,000 to Texas.

Norman Druce, a former president of the club, left Plymouth last year to retire in Conroe, Texas, a town about 20 miles north of Houston.

But he didn't retire.

Instead, he became involved in helping out around the grounds at the Montgomery County Center for the Retarded. When he decided to build a greenhouse at the center he found there was no funding available. So, he wrote to his Plymouth friends requesting a donation.

Rotary member Jerry Loiselle said the club decided to make the donation because it was for such a good cause.

"We just felt he was doing a very worthwhile thing."

Plymouth resident Gary Druce, Druce's son, said the people at the Texas center were thrilled with the donation.

"I believe some people down there were a little chagrined that it took economically depressed Michigan to help out in economically flourishing Texas."

community deaths

Charter

Glen Charter, 83, of Sheridan Avenue in Plymouth, died on Aug. 10. Funeral services were held from the Schrader Funeral Home on Saturday, Aug. 13 at 11 a.m. with Capt. William Harfoot officiating.

Mr. Charter was a long time resident of Northville who came to Plymouth in 1971. He was last employed as a maintenance man at the old Plymouth High School. Prior to that, he was in insurance sales for Prudential Insurance Company.

He graduated from Northville High School.

He is survived by his cousins, Mrs. Frances Kennedy of Livonia and Mrs. Shirley Beam of Farmington.

Interment was at White Chapel Cemetery in Troy.

Barnes

Mabel Barnes, 68, of Phoenix, AZ., died on Aug. 8. Funeral services were held at Hansen Mortuary in Phoenix on Aug. 10.

Mrs. Barnes was a former Plymouth resident. She was a homemaker.

She is survived by her husband, Leonard; her son, Dezzie of Phoenix; her son, Joel of Plymouth; her son, Edward of Plymouth; her daughter, Modean Talkington of Phoenix; her daughter, Cyndi Cox of Phoenix; 16 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren; her sister, Madie Wentz of Downey, CA.; and her sister, Ida Clark of Norcross, GA.

Gogolin

Charles A. Gogolin, 63, of Lyon Township, died on Aug. 12. Funeral services were held Monday, Aug. 15 at 10:30 a.m. with Father Kenneth MacKinnon officiating, from the Schrader Funeral Home.

Mr. Gogolin worked at Burroughs for the past 35 years. He was a resident of Plymouth and Northville since 1949. He was a member of the Plymouth Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, Betty; his son, Michael of Whitmore Lake; his son, Patrick of Plymouth; his son, Troy of South Lyon; his grandson, Jeffrey; his sister, Mildred Gogolin of Royal Oak; his sister, Mrs. Esther Spurlock of East

Detroit; and his sister, Virginia Sweet of East Detroit.

Interment will be at United Memorial Gardens in Salem Township. Memorials can be given in the form of Mass Offerings.

Van Hull, Kinnel win two tourney trophies

BY JOE SLEZAK

After all was said and done, Kreg Kinnel and Brad Van Hull had two first place trophies at the Crier Tennis Tournament.

The tourney was held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Van Hull and Kinnel teamed to win the under-35 doubles by winning a 6-0, 3-6, 7-5 decision over Ron Austen and Bob Adams. The match took just under 90 minutes to complete.

Adams and Austen didn't have an easy time getting to the finals. It took three sets to beat Kevin Johnston and Ralph Rabillas, 6-2, 5-7, 7-6. Kinnel and Van Hull's semi-final opponents defaulted the match. Nine teams were entered in the category.

Kinnel's other trophy came on Sunday morning when he beat Johnston in the 16-and-over finals, 6-2, 6-0, to best the 16 man field. On the way, the Canton, High grad and Eastern Michigan team member eliminated Dan Janusis, Joe Cromas and Mike Minton.

Johnston advanced to the finals when Austen suffered severe leg cramps during the second set of the match. Austen won the first set, 7-6. The second set was deadlocked at 2-2 when Austen's cramps set in.

Van Hull was tops in the boys 13-15 bracket. In the finals, he easily disposed of Chuck Bullock, 6-1, 6-0. Van Hull won four matches, over Tim Kehoe, Jim Gillespie, Paul Hathaway and Bullock. 11 were entered in the bracket.

Missy Smith got by Alissa Huth, 6-3, 6-1, in the girls' 13-15 finals. Smith beat Kathleen Kennedy in the semi-finals 6-3, 6-2. Huth advanced to the final match by besting Amanda Bell, 6-2, 6-1.

Jim Gallagher beat Wade Garard in the boy's 10-12 finals, 6-3, 7-5. Gallagher beat Scott Hobbs and Garard topped Brian Schmidt in the semi-finals of the eight person bracket.

In the women's 35 and over group, Penny Wasiak defeated Bonnie Miyazaki, 6-3, 7-5 to capture top honors. Only three women entered the group.

Larry Masteller ruled men's 35 and over, beating Gib Rothschild in the finals, 6-3, 6-2. 10 were signed up.

In the men's 35 and over doubles, Dick Rhinehart and Bud DePlanche beat Gil and Terry Wasalaski, 6-0, 6-2. Four teams entered.

The brother-sister combination of Paul and Carol Hathaway bested the three-team field in the mixed doubles. In the finals, the Hathaways beat Jeanne and Jim Gillespie (mother-son), 6-4, 6-0.

Waters hangs up clubs after decade at Salem

BY JOE SLEZAK

It's the end of an era for one sport at Salem.

Bob Waters, who spent ten years as the Rock's golf coach for the boys, resigned to pursue other interests.

The counselor at Pioneer Middle School in Plymouth compiled a record of 142-36 (.796 winning percentage) and two state titles in his decade as coach.

Rick Wilson, a teacher at West Middle School for nine years, will succeed Waters.

"I'm going to play a lot of golf," said Waters. He also plans to pursue interests in computers and photography.

"I think I'd be interested in a college position. I would certainly consider it," said Waters. He added that he might be interested in teaching at that college.

"I loved every kid that came across the parking lot. Of all the years and all the kids, I didn't have but two or three I didn't like," the self-proclaimed historian of Plymouth golf said.

Waters took over for John Crossan in 1973, and guided his squad to a state title that year. The Rocks were proclaimed State Champions by the Michigan High School Golf Coaches Association (MHSGCA) in 1978, even though they didn't place first at the State Meet.

Salem captured five league titles, six Brighton Invitationals, two Plymouth Best Ball tourneys, a Dearborn Invitational and three regional crowns under Waters.

Wilson meanwhile, doesn't have any coaching experience at the high school level, but has coached football, swimming, baseball and basketball at West. His 1982-83 basketball squad was unbeaten.

"When I saw I had the opportunity to work with high school kids, I jumped at it," said Wilson.

"I love golf. I'm in love with the game," the member at Salem Hills said.

Wilson said he was looking for a chance to work with high school kids for a number of reasons, including the maturity of the athletes. But, West

Dearborn racer wins Distance Classic

BY TIM McKERCHER
Over 500 runners invaded downtown Plymouth Sunday morning for the first annual Growth Works Fun Run.

Some were there for some early morning exercise but others were there to really strut their stuff. Approximately 150 runners participated in the one mile race and the rest got ready for some serious running in the four mile.

The runners got off to a fast start as race coordinator Mike Spitz shot the starting gun on the corner of Penniman Avenue and Harvey Street. The leaders passed the two mile mark at a blazing 8 minutes 34 seconds.

Gerrard Donakowski from Dearborn Heights, crossed the finish first with a time of 19:14. Pete Hallop glided across the line at 19:25, and Greg Hudock was the third racer to finish, his time was 19:42.

Rene Rienas-Hochradle was the first woman finisher when she ran across the line at 25:24. B. Brereton, the second woman finisher had a time of 25:43 and J. Gilliard ran her four miles in 26:10 to place third.

The race consisted of some very fast times, some close finishes and lots of excitement. Spitz sounded pleased with the results. "We had a few small problems coming out of the chutes but everything else went real well. We had some high class runners and it was good for the folks around town to be able to see them go at it."

A lot of work goes into organizing a race this size and the runner's times seem to show the race was a success. Spitz commented, "The organization was good, as far as the course being well marked, we got a lot of good comments about that."

The Plymouth Area Citizens Team (P.A.C.T.) provided help at the race along with Henry Ford Hospital. An entry fee was required and the money went to the 350 shirts passed out, the awards given, and other expenses. The rest of the money will go to Growth Works who sponsored the race.

Massey team goes undefeated

BY TIM McKERCHER

For the Don Massey Cadillac team it was a perfect season.

The softballers finished in first place in the Plymouth men's class A division with an 18-0 record.

How do you put together a team that is able to win 18 straight games? "The last two years we have spent a lot of time trying to develop a team of more than just power. We have tried to develop speed and defense," explained Massey manager Jim Hauncher.

"There's going to be times when the winds blowing in and you can't crank out 15 homeruns. You need a team that plays defense and is stretching singles to doubles and a team that scores from second base on each single," said Hauncher.

Recruiting was a big part of this year's league championship. "The last two years we have spent time recruiting young kids with strength, just simply good athletes. And it's worked, we were 18-0 this year and the second place team was 13-5. We won the league by five games," he said.

The work of a softball manager is almost never ending, as Hauncher starts his season in January. There are uniforms to be ordered, tournaments to be planned and recruiting to be done. The actual softball doesn't start until April, the season starts in May.

With all the time put into this sport is it worth it or is it play? Hauncher has his answer. "It is, recreation. But when a sponsor like Mr. Massey puts $10,000 into this team, it's more than getting together for a beer at the Box Bar after the game. Not when there's that kind of money involved.

"I hate to say it's business because when you say it's business it's not fun, it is fun. But we do take winning serious. Every year Mr. Massey treats the team to a tournament in Traverse City. We take winning seriously there. I don't go 250 miles to get beat up. You don't send a nickel and dime ball team up there."

The Massey team played in five tournaments this year, winning two and finishing second in two. This week they are playing in the Plymouth softball tournament. The top four teams from each of the three classes compete in a two game elimination tournament.

During the last week in August, Massey will host a tournament of his own. 16 teams from eight local cities will compete. After that there will be possibly one more tournament and then the Fall league will get started.

Hauncher has been coaching Massey's squad for seven years. "We're fortunate to have Mr. Massey as our sponsor, he treats us well and we treat him well."

"And, of course, when there's that kind of money involved it is easy to get people to play for me. There's money for equipment, uniforms, jackets and all expenses are paid for. That brings out good ballplayers," said Hauncher.

"There are a lot of good softball teams in the Detroit Metropolitan area and on any given day we can compete with any of them. It's a lot of fun," stated Hauncher.

supporters need not worry. Wilson plans to remain the basketball coach for the Bulldogs.

"I really don't know what we have in talent," said Wilson. "I would like to be above .500." That, according to Wilson, is the goal of all coaches.

15 players have contacted Wilson about playing this year, one-half returning from last year.

Blazers capture F-League title

The F-League "World Series" was supposed to go three games, but the Blazers saw to it that it didn't.

The American Division champs swept the best-of-three series from the Chargers, who ruled the National Division.

Lee Moss pitched 6 2-3 no-hit innings for the Blazers in the first game. His teammates provided enough offense to gain a 4-3 win in 10 innings. The final score of the second game was 7-4.

The games were played August 2 and 3 at the Ford Sheldon Road Field.

Williams tourney Sat

Golfers, it's time to polish your spikes, shine your clubs and get ready for the Randy Williams Golf tournament.

This Saturday 200 golfers will gather at Fellows Creek Golf Club in Canton Township with the purpose of raising money for two benefit proceeds.

A sum of the money raised will go into a Salem-Canton athletic fund. The money will be used to help send Centennial Educational Park athletes and teams to state competitions. The fund will cover food, housing and other costs of state competitions.

Fall football, softball sponsored by City Rec

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will be conducting adult softball and football programs beginning in September.

Registration for all new teams will be Aug. 22 to Aug. 31.

Trio tops ladies classic

The second annual Mid-Summer Ladies Classic was a close battle right to the end.

"After nine holes, there were 14 teams that could have won it," said tourney director John "Jody" Johnson. 15 trios were entered in the 18-hole affair, held last Wednesday at the Brooklane Golf Course.

Marge Damour, Margie Laney and Vivian Finch took top honors in the best ball affair with a ten over par 70.

Second was the threesome of Audrey Brower, Andrea Leach and Carol Schimmill with a total of 74 strokes.

The third place trio also had a 74, but lost the tiebreaker, which was a hole-by-hole comparison. They included Maggie Boss, Mary Knapp and Sharon Serling.

The second place team had a better score on hole one, which gave them second place.

Boss won the "closest to the pin" award. She was 14 feet away from the pin, after teeing off 130 yards away on a par three hole.

Delores Bassett won the "longest drive" title by driving a ball 190 yards on the 17th hole.

"This tournament was not for your very best golfer," said Johnson. "We try to encourage someone to get into a real fun tournament."

Overall, 45 women entered.

7-11 holds Jazzathon for MDA

Strains of jazz music will issue from the 7-11 parking lot Friday, Aug. 26, as the Plymouth store holds its first "Jazzathon" to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Cashier Tim Smith said a number of jazz and pop music bands will perform from noon until dark in the parking lot of the store, located at 1307 S. Main.

Donations which are put into a fishbowl located in the parking lot will be used to purchase wheelchairs, crutches, and other equipment for people who suffer from muscular dystrophy, a chronic disease which causes irreversible muscular deterioration.

Among the bands expected to perform are: "Nightengale", a jazz quartet; "Just the Four of Us," a singing quartet, and "Conspiracy."

Smith said the store will also sell hot dogs, pop, nachos and popcorn in the parking lot during the Jazzathon, with proceeds going to muscular dystrophy.

Chuck E. Cheese will make an appearance at the store at 2 p.m. and Yogi Bear and Boo-Boo will also be there during the afternoon.

In addition to the Jazzathon, 7-11 is conducting a contest for the most money collected for muscular dystrophy. Collection canisters may be picked up at the store and should be turned in Aug. 26. Winners will be announced that evening. First prize is a Murray 12-speed bicycle donated by John and Anne Schulte, owners of the Plymouth 7-11 franchise.

The store will also donate proceeds from one video game played from Aug. 26 to Aug. 29 to muscular dystrophy.

Jeanine Street, the new owner of All By Hand in Forest Place, invites all knitters with questions or problems to stop in.

"We can sit at the table, have a cup of coffee and maybe even solve the problem," says Street.

She can also show you the changes at the shop as she switches to a more European influence.

Basically the store will carry supplies for knitting, crocheting, needlepoint and counted cross stitch - but with many European wools and patterns.

"European styles are much more challenging and exciting," says Street enthusiastically, "There's more variety in patterns and the yarn has different textures. This really motivates you to learn to knit," she said.

"People are knitting there for more of a fashion thing, while here it is for the warmth of a sweater or that it's cheaper than buying," she said, explaining the difference between attitudes in Europe and here.

Street knows European yarn work first hand from the two years she just spent in Hamburg, Germany as a dental hygienist.

Street grew up in West Bloomfield and went to college at Ferris State. Afterwards, she had a successful career, with a part-time practice as a dental hygienist combined with part-time teaching in Oakland Community College's program.

Ready for a change, Street met a couple of German dentists who told her about the shortage of preventive dentistry in Germany. This lack of dental hygienists convinced her to give Germany a try. It was there that she started knitting, although she'd been a needlepoint enthusiast for many years.

After two years in Germany, the 28-year-old Street decided she was ready for another change. She decided to switch careers and follow up on a long time wish to have a yarn shop.

All By Hand will also offer classes beginning in September.

MEENA-PAREKH features one hundred per cent cotton clothing in her new shop, Her Closet N' Gifts, located in Forest Place. (Crier photo by Rachael Dolson)

Imports her specialty

One hundred per cent cotton women's clothing is the specialty of Her Closet N' Gifts, a new shop in Forest Place.

"The clothes are imported from India and other Asian countries," said owner Meena Parekh, who has been a Canton resident for six years.

Parekh grew up in Bombay, India, where she earned a B.A. in psychology - but says she was always interested in clothes. She came to this country in 1970 and previously shared a partnership in an Ann Arbor clothing store.

The shop carries handwoven rugs, bedspreads, silk kimonos and imported gift items.

"I like the town and the people - I used to shop her often," Parekh said of Plymouth.

"I want everyone to leave pleased and give them the best service possible," she said, commenting on her store policy.

WSDP Recognition Day named by Canton McDonald's

In recognition of community service, Wednesday, Aug. 24 has been named "WSDP Recognition Day" by McDonald's restaurant.

On that day the Plymouth-Canton community radio station will broadcast from the McDonald's restaurant on Ford Road in Canton.

WSDP station manager Andy Melin said he was pleased with the recognition.

"I appreciate McDonald's recognizing the efforts of our radio station and its contributions to the Plymouth-Canton Community," he said.

WSDP recently ended its broadcasting year. It will resume normal programming on Aug. 30.

Wayne Bank begins 24-hour automatic teller demonstrations

Wayne Bank, Canton's first bank, begins demonstration of its "Continuous Banker" automatic 24-hour teller machines starting Monday.

The bank's three locations each feature the machines which will begin full operation on Aug. 29 in time for the Labor Day weekend. Deposits, withdrawals and payments can be handled through the Wayne Bank "Continuous Banker."

Wayne Bank's locations are on Ford Road near Haggerty - which will have a drive-up 24-hour machine - on Michigan Avenue near Sheldon and at 35215 W. Michigan Ave. The Michigan Avenue office is the new headquarters of the bank and opened Monday. A grand opening is planned for October - Wayne Bank's 30th anniversary.

Further information on the 24-hour banking is available from the bank.
