Fund drained to maintain school budget

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

In order to maintain existing program in light of the June 11 millage defeat, the Plymouth Canton School Board Monday approved a 1984-85 school budget which all but drains the fund equity.

Associate Superintendent for Business Ray Hoedel said the budget has "excess expenditures" in the amount of $1.3 million, meaning the reserve fund balance will be depleted from $1.68 million to $380,000.

The failure of the millage request "dealt a real setback in the overall planning for maintaining, and in some cases improving, programs and services in the schools," Hoedel said.

"This means that at the end of the 1984-85 school year the district will have just about eliminated its operating fund balance and will make it necessary to make large cutbacks to current programs and services to balance the 1985-86 budget."

Hoedel said it was extremely important that the schools hold another special election and establish an all out campaign to win voter support.

The board plans to hold another millage election in the fall of this year.

New districts, same old faces

BY CHERYLEBERWEIN

So... you think you're confused about the latest redistricting upheaval in Lansing and the subsequent legislative maneuvers which have followed.

Take heart - you're probably one of thousands of Michigan residents who is still trying to figure out who's first in state House and Senate and how the legislature ever made it to second with the April redistricting plan from the start.

The brief history of the 1983 reapportionment plan actually goes back further - to a 1980 Michigan Supreme Court ruling - which later complicated things even as it simplified them.

In 1980, the state Supreme Court abolished as unconstitutional the Michigan Reapportionment Commission. This commission had formerly been charged with drawing up all of the state's political districts.

State Representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township) said in 1982 Michigan undertook the task of redrawing its state and federal political boundaries. All states are required to do this every 10 years.

July 4th to explode!!!

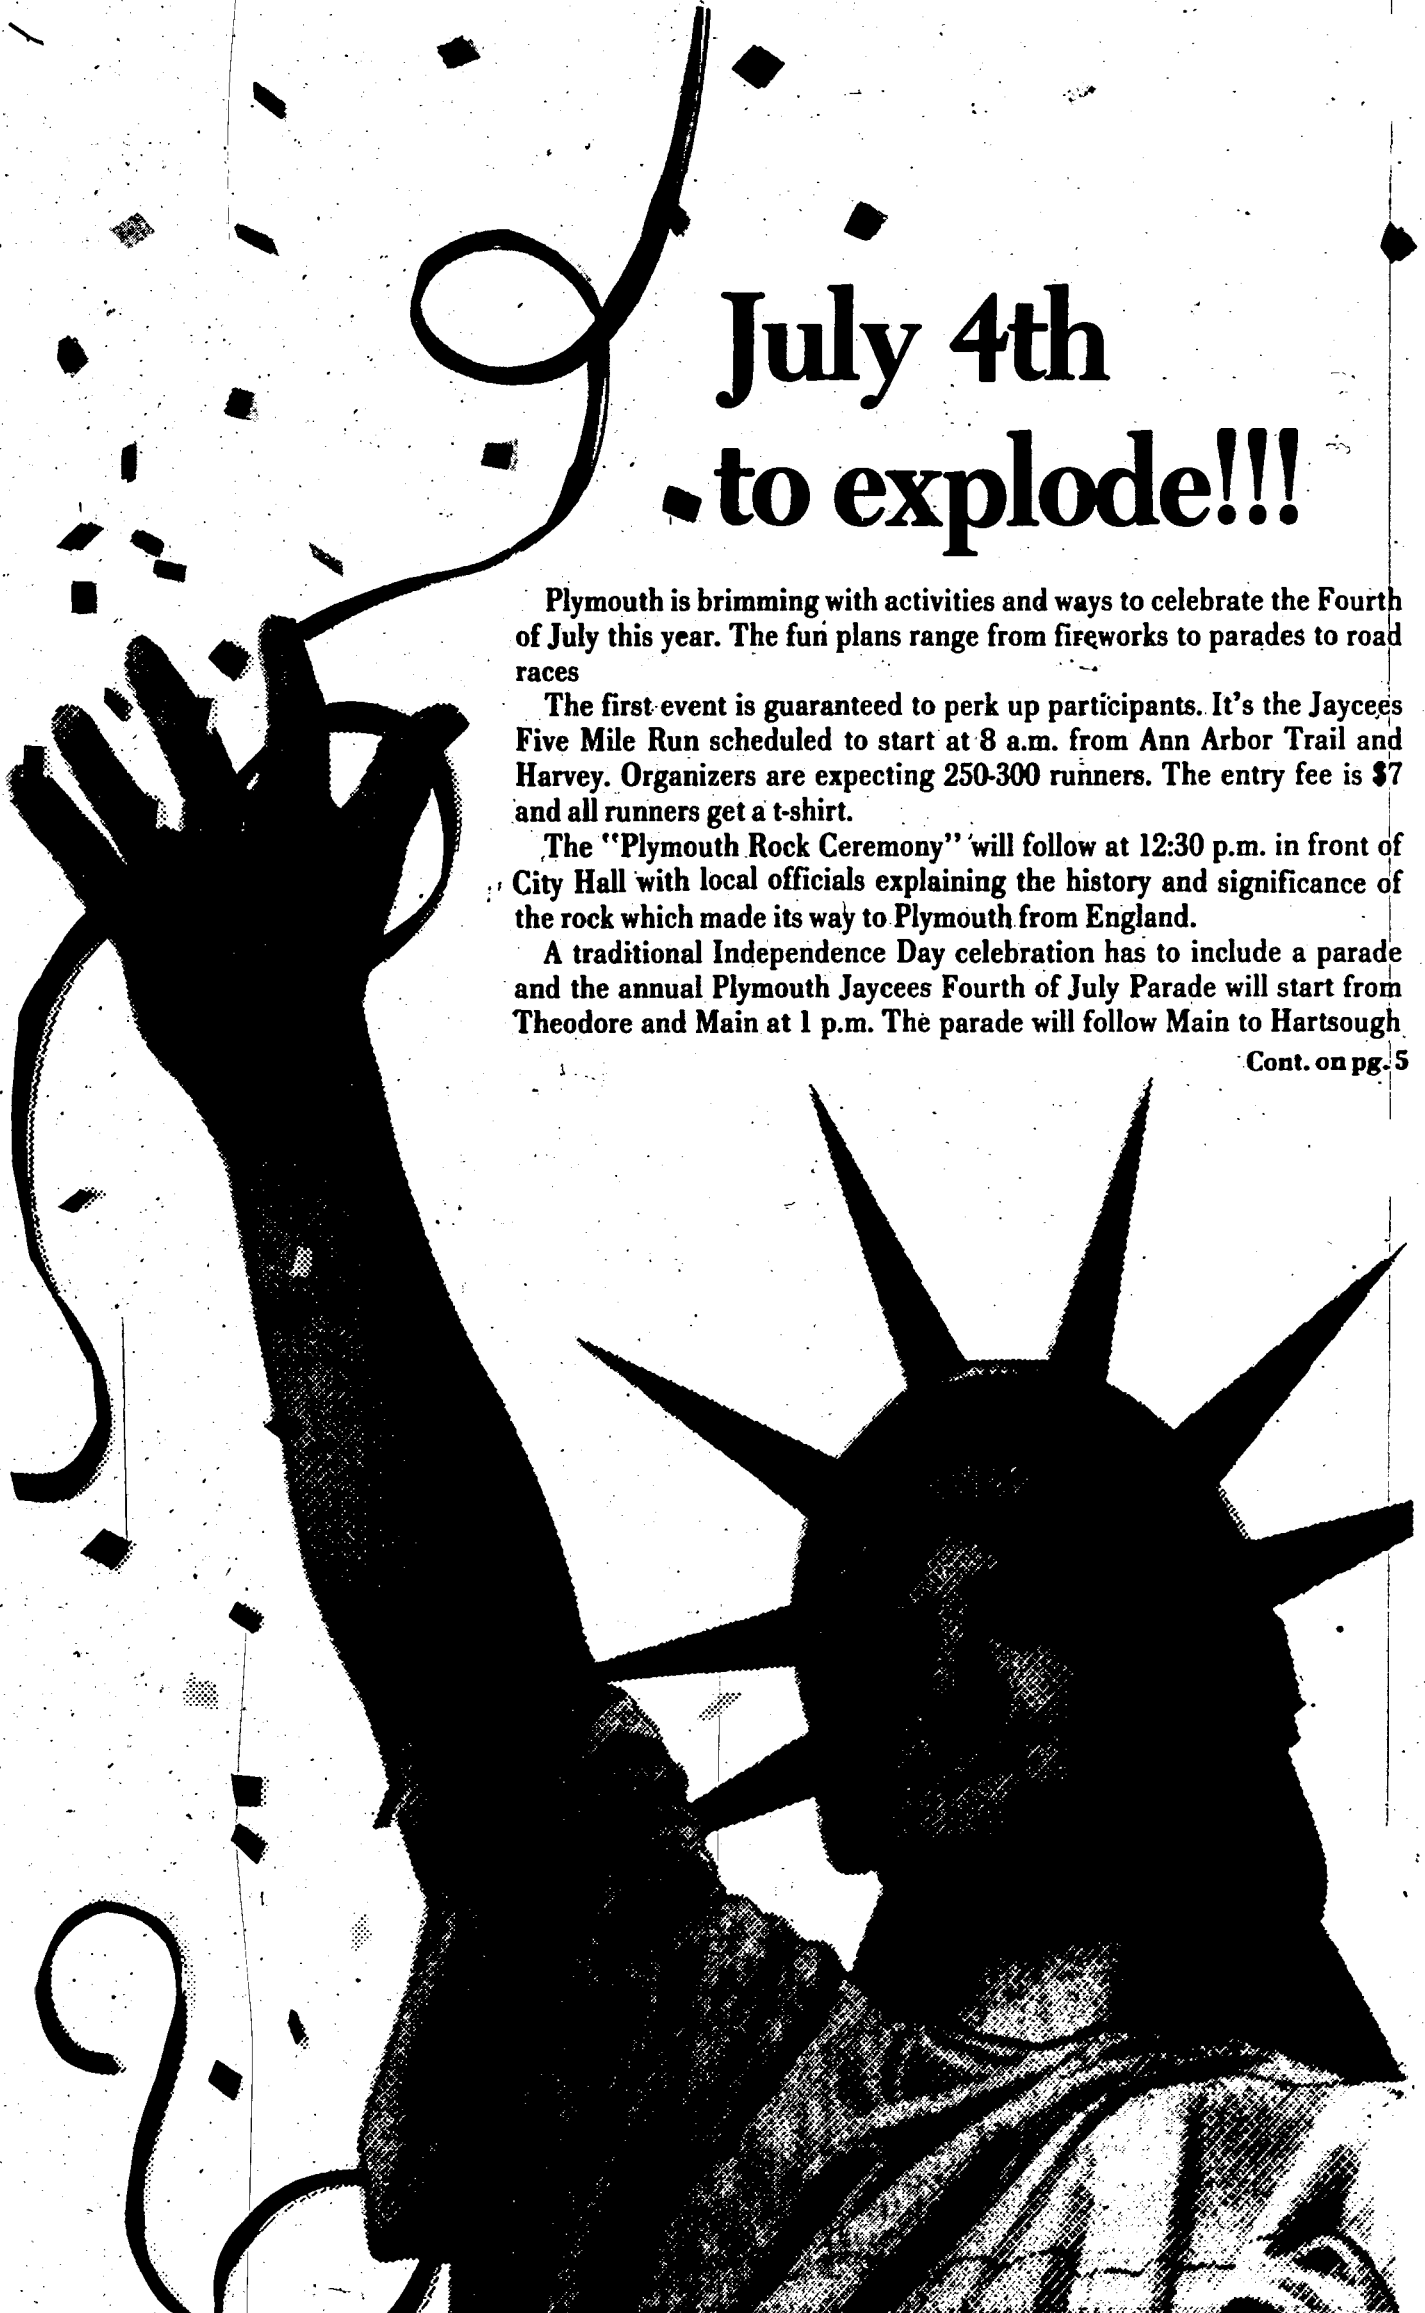

Plymouth is brimming with activities and ways to celebrate the Fourth of July this year. The fun plans range from fireworks to parades to road races

The first event is guaranteed to perk up participants. It's the Jaycees Five Mile Run scheduled to start at 8 a.m. from Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey. Organizers are expecting 250-300 runners. The entry fee is $7 and all runners get a t-shirt.

The "Plymouth Rock Ceremony" will follow at 12:30 p.m. in front of City Hall with local officials explaining the history and significance of the rock which made its way to Plymouth from England.

A traditional Independence Day celebration has to include a parade and the annual Plymouth Jaycees Fourth of July Parade will start from Theodore and Main at 1 p.m. The parade will follow Main to Hartsough

Four escape serious injury in crash near DeHoCo

A THREE-VEHICLE ACCIDENT Friday morning in front of the Detroit House of Corrections injured four people and left garbage strewn across Five Mile Road. Police say a van driven by Timothy Thornton of Belleville collided with a garbage truck driven by Carlton Stewart of Roseville, then hit a car head on driven by Linda Manson-Dempsey of Fowlerville.

Thornton and Stewart were treated and released from St. Mary's Hospital. Manson-Dempsey was listed in fair condition Monday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. A passenger in Manson-Dempsey's car, Linda Starkey of Howell, was treated and released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. (Crier photo by Cheryl Eberwein)

Families involved in emotional trial

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

It's safe to say that when Floyd Emery Daugherty is arraigned in circuit court July 13, the emotions of the families involved will be running high.

Defendant Daugherty's family was present in the court during his arraignment and June 7 pre-trial hearing in district court. Daugherty is charged with two counts of manslaughter after an auto accident May 27 at Ann Arbor Trail and Sheldon roads, which killed Gary and Cynthia Cameron of Canton. Each count carries a maximum prison sentence of 15 years.

Relatives of the Camerons also attended Daugherty's pre-trial hearing. David Nadal, Cynthia Cameron's brother, said his family will monitor the case, scheduled for trial September 19 in front of Wayne County Circuit Judge James A. Hathaway.

"Our anxiety level is quite high but we have to work within the system, and we will," Nadal said.

A Daugherty relative and a Cameron relative were both overcome with emotion and had to be helped from District Judge James Garber's courtroom during testimony in the pre-trial hearing.

Nadal said his family has been deeply affected by the death of Cynthia and Gary Cameron.

"The whole family has been devastated. We are still reeling from it," Nadal said.

He said his family was trying to straighten out the Cameron's estate.

"It's very difficult to go through their personal belongings," Nadal said.

Daugherty's attorney Marvin Blake said the feelings involved may make it difficult for Daugherty to get a fair trial.

"I understand the nature of emotions in this kind of case and that it can't be helped, but it creates a difficult situation in the courtroom," Blake said.

The prosecution claims Daugherty was drunk and ran through a red light into the Cameron's car.

Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) members, sporting yellow MADD lapel buttons were present during the pretrial hearing in Garber's courtroom. They say they will also monitor the case to its completion.

Blake said MADD and the media have affected the public's perception of those accused of drunk driving offenses.

"All those factors have a strong influence," he said.

Board will try once more for P-C millage increase

If at first...

The school millage increase didn't succeed the first time, so now the school board is making provisions to try, try again.

Monday the board voted to seek approval from the Wayne County Election Scheduling Committee to reserve an election date of Oct. 2 for the school district.

The request for scheduling of the date does not obligate the district to hold a millage election, however, it is the first step in the process and a timely move in light of the heavy election schedule of 1984.

Superintendent Dr. John Hoben told the board that a special election cannot be scheduled within 30 days of the primary and general elections. This leaves the district a very narrow 'window' in which to schedule a millage election before Dec. 14, the deadline for a millage to be applied to the 1984 tax rolls.

Hoben said if the primary election is rescheduled due to the state reapportionment problems the district would only be left with Dec. 6 through Dec. 14 as potential election dates.

The school board plans to hold several study sessions in early July to determine if another try at a millage increase is needed and how much. The board is also slated to consider a possible debt millage to replace equipment and make building repairs.

Associate Superintendent for Business Ray Hoedel said it was extremely important for the schools to hold another special election and establish an all out campaign to win voter support.

"At the end of the 1984-85 school year the district will have just about eliminated its operating fund balance and will make it necessary to make large cutbacks to current programs and services to balance the 1985-86," Hoedel said. He estimates $3 million in cuts would have to be made in 1985-86 if there were no millage increase.

Library finds video rental allies, foes

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

A plan to introduce a video cassettes rental service in the Dunning-Hough Library has drawn criticism from merchants and one library board member.

Library Director Patricia Thomas said a video rental program would pay for itself and may be tried out when the library opens its addition this fall.

"The (video cassette rental) program is iffy. It's not off the ground yet," Thomas said.

Thomas received authorization to apply for seed money for the program from the Friends of the Library but that group delayed its vote to donate the money until a later date.

"As I understand it, the (video cassette rental) would require about $2,000 of seed money," said Friends' member and city commissioner Mary Childs. "I think Pat has the support of the Friends of the Library on it."

Thomas' plan has less support from area video cassette retailers.

"They're going to be using tax dollars to compete with a private store," said Jim Mair, owner of Video Place in Plymouth Township. "We won't be able to match their low rates."

Thomas said the plan had met with "initial resistance" from video merchants but added that libraries in East Lansing and Jackson which started similar programs found the coolness subsided.

"After the initial resistance, the libraries got letters of thanks from merchants for referrals," she said.

Libraries with video cassette rentals stock small quantities of general interest videos and often refer borrowers to retailers with better selections, Thomas said.

"It would be a lot like the relationship between libraries and bookstores," Thomas said.

But Mair of Video Place disagrees. "Video cassette users make up such a narrow share of the market - maybe 10 to 15 per cent compared to 100 per cent of the population in bookstores," Mair said.

He said the library has no experience in the field and "doesn't know what it's getting into."

Nor does the library have the high overhead retailers have, Mair said.

"Any competition that cheap is bound to hurt our business," said an employe at a Canton video store who asked not to be identified.

Thomas said the library would try to make peace with the merchants if the program was started.

"The library needs to feel a good rapport with local merchants," Thomas said.

Library board member Mary Ann Prchlik said hers was the lone vote against the authorization to request seed money for the program from the Friends of the Library.

"I don't believe government subsidies should be used to compete in the free market," Prchlik said. "It just isn't fair."

Prchlik said the board didn't have time

P-C enrollment policy bans two foreign students

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

The enrollment policy at Plymouth Canton Schools has been sent to the school's attorney for review to determine if two students - one from India and one from England - can be attend school here without their parents in the community.

Superintendent Dr. John Hoben said in the past the board and the administration have stuck by the policy that students must be living with someone in the district who has full guardianship of them, or be part of a recognized exchange student program.

"The problem is we have students from a district 12 miles to the south, which had lost its accreditation, attempting to enroll here and claiming limited guardianship or power of attorney by a resident of the district," Hoben said. "Also every year we have some from the South Lyon district trying to enroll and take advantage of the educational programs here, and we have to feret them out every fall."

Hoben said the board members would leave themselves exposed to a possible lawsuit if they admitted students who weren't within the guidelines of the policy.

The first case before the board Monday was a request from Canton resident Nagji Sutariya, who wants to enroll his nephew Bharatbhai B. Sutariya in the Plymouth Canton Schools this fall.

"My brother came to the United States from India on a permanent residence visa and was living with me with his children," Sutariya said. "Because of family problems he had to leave this country for at least six months ... Bharatbhai, 16, still lives with me and he has finished his 11th grade in India, but would like to repeat the 11th grade here.

"I am requesting special permission for my nephew to be admitted into high school (without his parents' living in this country). If documentation is needed from my brother granting authority to admit his son, I will be glad to present same to you," Sutariya said.

During the board's discussion on the Sutariya case, several other present and past cases brought up where children living with persons other than their parents were admitted as students. One case involved Special Education Director Edwin Page who had two students from Iran living with him and attending school.

Hoben, however, maintained that the board should not grant any enrollments that deviate from the policy. He said he would rather see the policy changed, than have the board grant exceptions.

The second case the board heard Monday involved Melanie Taylor, 15, a student from Nottingham, England. Judith Batzloff told the board that her family would like to host Melanie for a year and have her attend 10th grade in Plymouth Canton Schools.

"We understand the concern for liability and the acceptance of non-residents into the district," Batzloff said, "but we feel that these are extenuating circumstances that hopefully merit examination by the board and a favorable ruling."

The board voted to refer the current policy and the two requests to the school attorney for review to see what their liability would be if the two requests were granted.

In a memo to the board, Ginnie Murdoch, of pupil accounting department, summarized the policy as: "A student under 18 years of age must be residing with a parent or legal guardian.

and that individual must be a resident of our district. To be a land owner or a taxpayer of a community is not sufficient."

The only exceptions, Hoben said, are an emancipated minor, a ward of the court, or a child under full guardianship.

Free parking on City deck?

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

City officials and a dozen owners of property near Plymouth's Central Lot Parking Deck met Monday night to discuss proposals to pay the decks's operational costs.

Most agreed that customers should park free in the deck but the consensus then widened on how to raise the $40,000 annual cost of maintaining and operating the structure.

"Free parking isn't free. Somebody's got to pay for it," said parking commissioner Jim Jabara.

The parking commission and City Manager Henry Graper presented a plan to levy a special assessment on nearby property based on square footage and proximity to the deck.

The property surrounding the deck was divided into six zones with each zone levied a percentage of the operation costs. Zone 1 which, surrounds the deck would pay 30 per cent, the largest share, while Zone 6, would pay four per cent, the smallest.

Graper, in presenting the assessment plan, said free parking was important if city merchants were to compete with shopping malls.

He recommended the special assessment as the most enforceable way to raise the money.

"We have to look at what's legally binding," Graper said. The assessment would be collected along with city taxes.

The city plans for employes to park in eight hour zones in the upper deck while customers would park in the lower deck's two hour zones.

Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower Hotel favored charging a $20 monthly fee for employe parking in the upper deck.

"You've got hundreds of employes out there, and they're all poaching on something," Lorenz said. "We've got to make them responsible for where they park."

Jim McKeon, owner of buildings on Main Street's 300 block, said he favored the assessment to pay the total cost.

"I divided it out and the cost per month is not substantial," McKeon said.

The deck will open before the final decision is made and in the meantime, Graper said machines would be installed to charge drivers 25 cents to enter the lot.

City officials says the deck will open July 5.

Ply. Twp. residents seek November board seats

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

Plymouth Township residents Roger Kehrier and Patrick O'Hara recently announced their candidacies for the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees.

The two filed their petitions June 5 and could not be reached for comment earlier.

Kehrier says he is running to improve the quality of life in the township and says if elected he will represent the "silent majority" of citizens.

"I'll represent the citizenry," Kehrier said. "The majority of people - especially in this area - are not vocal or, if you hear from them, their voice isn't loud enough."

He listed his primary concerns as taxes, township development and service programs, such as police and fire protection.

He said the township needs to keep taxes low and build up its tax base by attracting non-offensive businesses and industry.

On the question of the township's contract for police protection with the city, Kehrier said: "Let's face reality, as a Plymouth Township resident I have to ask the city what they (city police) can offer me. We need the best police and fire protection for the buck."

Kehrier has worked for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration since 1971. He was in the United States Army for three years and was decorated after two tours in Vietnam.

He earned a B.S. in business from Central Michigan University and has done graduate work in the criminal justice program at the University of Detroit.

Kehrier is involved with the Big Brothers, and the Plymouth-Canton Junior Soccer and Baseball leagues. He is second vice-president of the Westbriar Homeowners Committee and a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel and St. John Neumann churches.

He is also a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Mayflower-Gamble Post and White Eagle Post no. 166.

Kehrier called himself the "dark horse" candidate in the field of nine Republicans seeking four trustee positions.

"I'm the guy nobody knows. I'm on the outside of the window looking in. I want to be on the inside but that's up to the voters."

He has lived in Plymouth Township since 1979 and is married with two children.

O'Hara, a real estate broker, said he is running as an extension of his current community involvement.

The township, he said, needs a proper check and balance system to insure the needs of citizens are served.

"I just don't see anything of controversy happening in the township and while you don't necessarily want controversy, you don't want rubber stamping either," O'Hara said. "I don't intend to just sit back on the board, I plan to be vocal."

O'Hara said he wants to be part of the township decision on whether or not to provide their own police force.

"It's got to be studied and I'd like to have input," he said.

Along with his real estate business, O'Hara is a property manager and developer. He had been an operating partner in O'Hara Catering, a business his father started in 1948.

O'Hara holds an associates degree in business administration from Cleary College and is a graduate of Sacred Heart Seminary High School.

He has been a member of the Plymouth Colonial Kiwanis for six years and a board member of Plymouth Area React. He is a former member of Plymouth Jaycees.

O'Hara is a member of St. Kenneth Parish. He sings in the choir and has been on the Parish Council for the past five years.

He says the fact nine candidates are seeking four seats on the board indicates there is some discontent among Plymouth Township citizens.

The township should seek a balance between large industrial and smaller industrial or commercial firms for economic and tax purposes, he said.

"You can't put all your eggs in one basket. If a township depends on one type of industry and they go out of business, the township is sunk," he said.

2nd District issues debated?

Don Grimes, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Congress, Second District, has challenged his primary opponent, Mike McCauley, to a series of public debates. Speaking before the Western Wayne County Democratic Party meeting on June 11, Grimes said, "We must do everything possible to provide the voters with the information necessary to make an informed choice."

Grimes suggested that the candidates meet in a series of debates, in each of the major counties in the district (Jackson, Hillsdale, Lenawee, Washtenaw, and Wayne) during July. Grimes expressed his willingness to meet at his opponent's convenience. "I will arrange my schedule as necessary to meet you in these debates," he said in a letter to McCauley.

Grimes asked that his opponent respond by June 18, to give the county Democratic parties and local community service organizations time to make arrangements for the debates.

Responding to Grimes' challenge, McCauley said Monday, "What's the guy believe in? I don't know anything about him or his positions. I asked him to send me some more information about his campaign, but he has not responded yet."

McCauley said if he gets some more information on Grimes, he may consider holding some debates in the end of July.

McCauley said he would like to see incumbent Carl Pursell involved in the debates also. "Since we would probably be criticizing him and some of his positions, it's only fair that he should be there."

McCauley said he has reservations about debates between primary opponents because of "party unity." He said, "It's hard enough to beat a four-term incumbent without beating up on the member of your own party too."

P-C school board grapples with '84-'85 budget plan

Total revenues in the budget are predicted at $44.2 million, a 6.6 per cent increase over last year. Total expenditures are projected at $45.5 million, a 10 per cent increase compared to last year.

Board member Thomas Yack asked: "How will the public perceive this? I think they are expecting program cuts following the millage defeat. Do they understand that we are depleting the fund balance, the next year we will need more than $3 million to maintain programs?"

"Do they understand that we are depleting the fund balance, the next year we will need more than $3 million to maintain programs?"

-Thomas Yack
School Board Trustee

"We made it clear the impact would come in the second year," Board President Glenn Schroeder said.

"We will have very little fund balance going into an 'obligated' 85-86," Superintendent Dr. John Hoben said.

Highlight of the approved budget are:

•Local revenues are expected to increase slightly due to: $500,000 more in local tax income; $200,000 in earned interest on the energy note; and $153,000 from bus sales and an increase in participation in adult education classes due to the opening of Starkweather Adult Education Center. Revenues from the states are expected to increase 41 per cent due to a better state aid package. Areas of federal revenues and state categorical aid are predicted to decrease slightly.

•State equalized valuation (SEV) of the district increased one per cent.

•The number of students enrolled next year is expected to decrease by only 100 students. K-12 enrollment is predicted to decrease 200 students, but increased participation in adult education - high school completion will make up the difference.

•Salary and wages increase approximately 8 per cent, due to negotiated raises and increments.

•Teacher-to-pupil ratios remained the same except at the high school where it was improved to 23 teachers per student. The elementary ratio is 24.25 and middle school is 23.75.

•Utility costs are projected to decrease $89,000 due to the energy conservation measures which will be made under the act 431 project.

•Bus replacement is included in the budget in the amount of $340,000. This is the first year's payment toward the purchase of 26 large capacity buses and eight special education vehicles. The remaining cost will be financed over the next two budget years.

•Roof repair funds were reduced from $400,000 to $20,000 because the large roofing projects of Salem High School and Isbister Elementary will now be taken care of under the act 431 project.

•New computers will cost $57,500 - adding nine microcomputers and one printer to each middle school for the now-required computer course.

•Textbook purchases of $164,000 are projected.

•The district has budgeted $727,000 for payment on the energy conservation note.

•Starkweather Adult Education Center has been placed in the budget at a cost of $364,000. To offset this amount, the school estimate they will receive $250,000 more in state aid because of increased enrollment; $88,000 more in increased fees; and $49,000 reduction in the regular continuing education budget.

•Portable classrooms (two) for Eriksson Elementary School are budgeted at $35,000.

School head receives 6% pay increase

Plymouth Canton School Superintendent Dr. John Hoben received a six per cent salary increase and an extension of his contract, following a favorable review by the school board.

Hoben's raise was approved Monday, June 12 by the board. The board also voted to accept the favorable review prepared by the evaluation committee, a subcommittee composed of three board members.

Hoben received a six per cent salary increase for the 1984-85 school year and an increase in the contribution to his tax-shelter annuity in lieu of additional life insurance benefits and a one per cent increase in base.

Hoben's contract was extended one year through June 30, 1987.

Think before you steal Shoplifter's change of heart warms merchants' feelings

EDITOR:

We own Hands On Leather in Plymouth. Like most retailers, we have a problem with shoplifting which, while probably less troublesome than in malls, is significant to us.

Last week we received a package that had been sent to our old address and had been some time in transit. It contained a gold ring that had been taken from our store, the price tag still attached, and a note of apology. The note expressed remorse and guilt, but what was especially touching was the tone of concern for our shop and the effect shoplifting might have on it. I would like to take a moment to reply to this person:

Dear Friend:

Please know that your thoughtfulness in undoing the act for which you felt such guilt did far more than ease your conscience. You made our day. You also showed yourself to be a person of extraordinary sensitivity and courage.

Like most stores our display system is designed to help make it easier to detect and prevent shoplifting. We know quickly when something has been taken, but sometimes it is already too late. The sick and helpless feeling of a discovery like that is difficult to describe. The normal procedure is to take the loss, then try to forget the anger and frustration. You never quite do. Never, that is, unless someone like you comes along.

Our store represents most of what we have, and many years of work have brought it to what you see today. I sometimes think that most people fail to understand this. They often act as though shops were just dollars and cents, and that if someone steals from the stores they are just stealing from a "thing." But you understood. You saw the humanity behind the dollars and cents. Congratulations on your insight and your maturity.

And thank you,
NANCY AND MICHAEL BALL

Township tired of re-re-redistricting

Thank you, Justices G. Mennen Williams, James Brickley, Michael Cavanagh, Patricia Boyle, Thomas Cavanagh, Charles Levin and James Ryan. You have put us in our rightful place.

This is purely a selfish attitude on my part, and what the seven persons named above have ruled hasn't gained favor everywhere. You recognize them, of course, as members of Michigan's Supreme Court. On the issue in which my neighbors and I are involved, the court's opinion was unanimous.

We are the folks who used to live in the 36th geographic district of the Michigan House of Representatives, were pushed over into the mostly Livoniaistic 35th district in a 1983 reapportionment plan without ever voting in it, and who are now back in the 36th.

In brief, we are the Plymouth Township people who basically live each of I-275 — not just in Lakepointe Village, but also anywhere south of that as far as Joy Road.

Candidates in the 35th hastened to assure us, largely through campaign statements to newspapers, that our little piece of the world would get the same loving legislative care as the parental segment. I never was comfortable with that, though naturally I should be chastised for doubting any politician's word.

Anyway, the Supreme Court ruled the 1983 reapportionment plan unconstitutional because it changed the intent of the bill to which the legislators attached it. The justices made no ruling on the merits of the plan but ordered that House of Representatives elections be held in old districts used in the 1982 elections.

I don't mean to infer that this was only 35th vs. 36th. Of course not. Redistricting was statewide. Canton, for instance,

Through Bifocals

By Fred DeLano

previously was a geographically divided township with portions both in the 36th and 37th, and returns to that status. Under redistricting, Canton would have been united in the 37th. Many persons preferred the new to the old.

Their attitude makes as much sense as mine if one takes a totally objective view, but my open-mindedness starts with my own precinct, not someone else's.

You must be aware that the court threw election officials all over Michigan into a tizzy by ordering candidates to refile by a deadline that would screw up plans for the Aug. 7 primary. Their tears led the court to set a new filing deadline of 4 p.m.

today and clerks in the state's 110 districts breathed more easily.

However, political issues have more lives than a cat. Late last week, Senate Minority Leader William Faust, D-Westland, announced that he and House Speaker Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, would ask the seven justices to reconsider the whole bloody matter.

On the "one-person, one-vote" principle, I can only express my own hope that Soapy and his colleagues hold the line and let the candidates get on with it. It already has been too noisy a year politically, but what we have heard has been only a murmur compared with what is sure to come.

Our teachers were great!

EDITOR:

As another school year ends, we would like to take this opportunity to thank two of the many outstanding teachers in the Plymouth Canton Schools. Our appreciation extends to Mrs. Sharon Belobraidich and Mrs. Dolores Smith.

These teachers exemplify what teaching is all about; time given unselfishly to each student, knowledge and values imparted from books as well as from the heart, and interest in their students both in and out of the classroom. Their enthusiasm for teaching, as well as their concern for the well being of children, has been most noteworthy.

We are fortunate to have had our children taught by these teachers and thank them wholeheartedly. Best wishes to Mrs. Smith in her retirement. The families at Bird School will miss you. Mrs. Belo, keep up the good work!

APPRECIATIVE PARENTS

Court was right on to correct districts

Well Gerry, you were wrong -- sort of.

Way back in December of last year, when rumblings of new legislative districts echoed through the mighty halls of Lansing, as State Representative to the 36th District, you said you didn't think the Supreme Court would challenge a reapportionment plan if passed.

The plan, of course, found its way quickly through the legislature and passed in April with remarkably little objection or discussion. The Plymouth-Canton Community was only one of hundreds of communities thrown into a political flux as a result of the action. Confusion over who representatives now where and just where political boundaries were drawn ran rampant.

Much to the surprise of many legislative types, however, the April reapportionment plan was ruled unconstitutional by the Michigan Supreme Court on June 19 in a move nearly as swift as its initial adoption.

Lawmakers who had sheepishly admitted the new districts were drawn primarily to ward off the impending legislative doom of recall movements in December, were somewhat surprised and miffed that the state Supreme Court would unceremoniously burst their bubble. Threats of fighting the decision -- and re-establishing districts yet a third time came heavy on the heels of the announcement.

They were, of course mute -- and now the legislature has reluctantly agreed to stick with the '82 districts for the mere sake of getting on with the Augsut primary.

But back to your prediction Gerry. To your credit -- and for that

What if it were YOUR child's molester who was acquitted?

EDITOR:

I am writing in response to the response written by Nancy J. Goley (The Community Crier, May 23, "Harassment"). It's obvious to me that you've done little or no research into the psychological make up of child molesters.

Had you taken the time to do so you would have found that they often do possess the fine qualities you so loyally describe. These qualities however do not change the fact that they are sexually perverted individuals.

You would have also found that their victims are statistically children of close friends, relatives and neighbors who trusted them. It's because of naive attitudes like yours that this heinous crime is growing in epidemic proportions in this country. Bigotry comes in many forms and your type is most damaging to our society.

I don't know if you have children, but if you do, I only hope you will never have to sit in a court room and listen to the acquittal of the degenerate who has molested your child.

matter, likewise to the credit of 37th district Representative Edward Mahalak, you never agreed with the new reapportionment plan in the first place. But nonetheless, when it became clear that a new plan was being adopted, even you did not foresee that the Supreme Court in one fell seven-to-zip-swoop would squelch all boundry lines the plan established a mere two months later.

You weren't completely wrong though. The Supreme Court, in making its decision, made it clear that it was not the reapportionment plan itself that it disagreed with. Rather, it was the method by which the reapportionment plan was passed.

The reapportionment proposal was tacked onto the end of another bill already circulating through the Houses. This host bill had nothing to do with reapportionment and when both Houses voted on it, its title gave no clue to the fact that redistricting was its major objective. This piggyback method for doing business in Lansing is unconstitutional -- but done with a fair amount of frequency anyway.

Anyone trying to follow the bills which rumble through the hands of Michigan's representatives would have been hard pressed to track down just when the reapportionment bill slipped past. Indeed, it wouldn't surprise me if some of the legislators themselves were scratching their head in puzzlement over the monster they had somehow created.

Legislation of such far-reaching serious intent should be carefully worded, presented and considered by our lawmakers. That a reapportionment plan was pushed through both Houses by such a seamy method leaves me questioning the real concerns and accountability of our representatives.

If they can not take their actions and the repercussions of those actions seriously, who will? We did not elect legislators to sit in session and play word association games with eachother all day. We don't want representatives who feel comfortable in depriving their voters of knowledge. I commend the Supreme Court for reminding the legislature of this -- and only hope it does not become necessary to depend upon the court for such rulings more often.

Domestic violence -- a problem swept under rug?

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

"We'd just be sitting there watching TV and he'd look over at me and say 'I should just cut your throat.' I was so scared, but I had to pretend I wasn't and try to laugh and joke about what he was saying.

"I never knew -- I kept on wondering if he was going to kill me that day. Once he picked up a knife and put it to my neck. My little boy screamed and he turned around and grabbed him and said 'Now you're going to sleep in the basement for that.' I ran and had to hop over fences to get away from him and call the police.

"I finally couldn't take it any more. I had left him and gone back four times -- but the last time was the worst. If you leave a man don't ever go back to him -- just keep on going -- it's the best thing you can do. Everyone has the right to be happy, to smile. I felt like I was in prison all the time I was there. I felt like there was this big tree over a little tree and the little tree couldn't grow because someone was standing over it. I'm not going to stay and take that anymore -- life is too short. I -- I'm sorry I'm crying but talking about it brings it all back again."

- A client at the FirstStep Abuse Shelter

The national statistics are staggering:

- 2,000 to 5,000 children die yearly from child abuse -- and it is suspected the number is higher but many deaths are attributed to accidents rather than abuse.

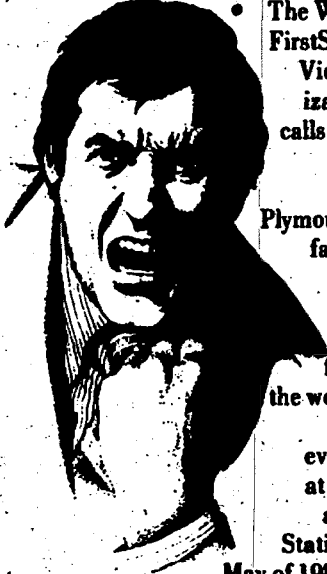

- Three out of every 100 children are in risk of serious injury due to child abuse.

- One out of every six couples is engaged in some form of domestic violence.

- One incident of wife abuse is reported to authorities somewhere in the United States every minute.

Local abuse statistics in The Plymouth-Canton Community, while difficult to pinpoint, are equally distressing:

- Although exact numbers were not available, the school attendance officer for the Plymouth-Canton school district said she has handled well over 20 cases of child abuse in the community this year. Many of these cases came from homes which might be considered "pillars in the community" she added.

- The Wayne County FirstStep Domestic Violence Organization received calls for help from 16 Plymouth families, four Plymouth Township families and 46 Canton families in 1983. In four cases the women in these families took eventual refuge at the FirstStep abuse shelter. Statistics through May of 1984 report that 10 families from Plymouth, and 28 from Canton have already sought help from the agency with spouse abuse this year.

- Oakwood Hospital Canton Center has handled both child and spouse abuse since it opened its doors in 1981. Joan Petroske, head nurse at Canton Center said spouse abuse is especially prevalent -- and can be extremely difficult to detect.

They have been labeled as the most under-reported crimes in the United States but child and spouse abuse exists in every segment of society. While domestic assault, the broad label which has been attached to child and spouse abuse, is not a crime any community wants to acknowledge, no community is immune to its violence -- and The Plymouth-Canton Community is no exception.

"It happens here too, although no one wants to admit it," said Shirley Waters, the attendance officer for The Plymouth-Canton school district. "It's just that here it's swept under the rug and never discussed. People in this community just keep it to themselves better, that's all."

The abuse Waters said she feels people are keeping to themselves is widely defined by a number of community sources who deal with the tragedy of child and spouse abuse. "It can be very subtle in appearance," Petroske said. "Neglect, emotional abuse, even verbal abuse are all forms of child and spouse abuse we have documented."

Jane Dewey, director of FirstStep, said extreme physical violence and even death threats have been common forms of abuse Plymouth-Canton clients seeking the help of FirstStep have suffered.

As in other communities, the causes of child and spouse abuse in The Plymouth-Canton Community are as varied as the individuals it involves. Claudia Arnett, a graduate student in social work at Oakwood Canton Center said initial research on abuse only looked into the personality of the abuser. "Now they realize there are social and economic factors involved as well as psychological.

"Those people who are abusers were often abused as children themselves," she said. "And although there seems to be more abuse in lower social economic groups, it is also reported more in these groups so the statistics might be skewed."

Arnett said women who are pregnant often receive more abuse than non-pregnant women because abusive husbands can be jealous of a child, and large families can lead to child abuse as well. Unemployment stress and financial problems are other conditions which can lead to domestic violence.

"Alcohol and overall social isolation -- feeling trapped in a community without friends or family can also lead to child and spouse abuse," Arnett said. "Often times spouses have no other outlet for their frustration so they take it out on each other."

Arnett said spouse and child abuse create feelings of low self-esteem and helplessness. Such feelings often prevent the victims from seeking help, she added.

Dewey said many women who call FirstStep seeking help are also extremely traumatized by their situations. "Many of these women are afraid their husbands will find out they have even called for help," she said. "They live in constant fear of assault. Many women call us on the hotline and say their husbands have hit them, criticized them, and demeaned

THE 36th AND 37th STATE HOUSE DISTRICTS as established in 1982 and re-established by the state Supreme Court June 19. (Red illustrates 36th district; blue illustrates 37th)

1982 plan reinstated House districts set again

When state legislators were unable to devise a plan for satisfactory reapportionment districts, Law said the Michigan Supreme Court commissioned Bernie Apol, head of the elections division for the state, to draft the new boundaries. Apol's plan, the one adopted in 1982, received approval from the court. But Law said the court also reserved the right of the legislature to redraft the reapportionment plan at any time.

"When the House, Senate and executive branches of the state government came under Democratic control later in 1982, the legislature decided Apol's plan was not in its best interest. So, the legislators devised a new redistricting plan in December of last year and passed it in April of this year."

The plan, which some representatives hinted was passed to stave off the threat of voter recall, created three legislative districts out of The Plymouth-Canton Community's former two. Plymouth still found itself represented by the 36th district. But Plymouth Township was split - with most of the community receiving representation in the 36th district and a small portion being bounced to the 35th District. Canton, once split between the 36th and 37th districts, was united under the boundaries of a new 37th district.

Candidates filing nominating petitions for the August 7 primary did so under the new districts. But on June 19, the Michigan Supreme Court ruled the April plan was unconstitutional - by virtue of the way in which it was passed. The court has re-established the 1982 Apol plan as official - and has left the legislature the option of again drafting its own reapportionment plan, if it does so by July 10.

"What the court ruled as unconstitutional was the method used to get the reapportionment bill through the legislature," Law said. "The reapportionment plan was tacked onto the end of another bill already circulating through the Houses to pass it quickly. The other bill had nothing to do with reapportionment. The title of the bill which passed didn't mention a thing about reapportionment. I don't know how the public has the slightest idea what is going on in the legislature."

Law said he is glad the districts are going back to the 1982 boundaries. State Representative Edward Mahalak (D-Romulus) of the 37th District also said he was pleased that the old boundaries had been reinstated by the state Supreme Court.

"I think this is great. I didn't like the new plan - I didn't support it," Mahalak said. "Under both plans the district (the old 37th and the new 37th) is predominantly Democrat. But under the April plan I lost a considerable number of constituents in Wayne."

Mahalak has announced he will not seek re-election for the 37th district in the 1984 House race. Law will seek re-election as representative to the 36th district in November.

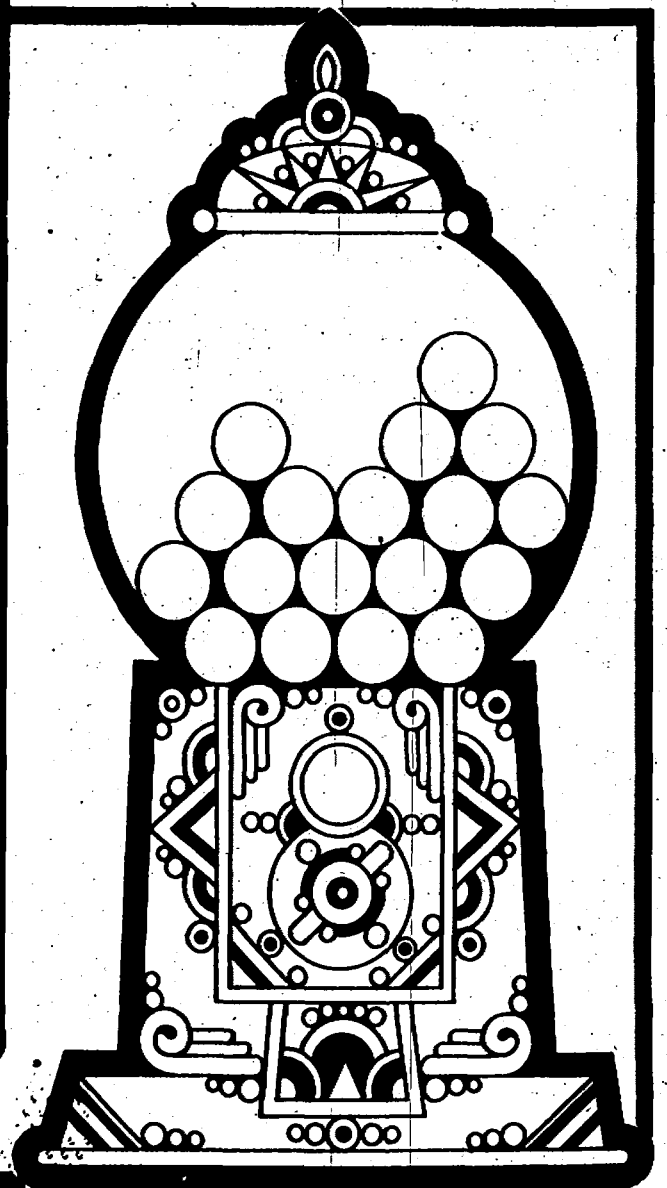

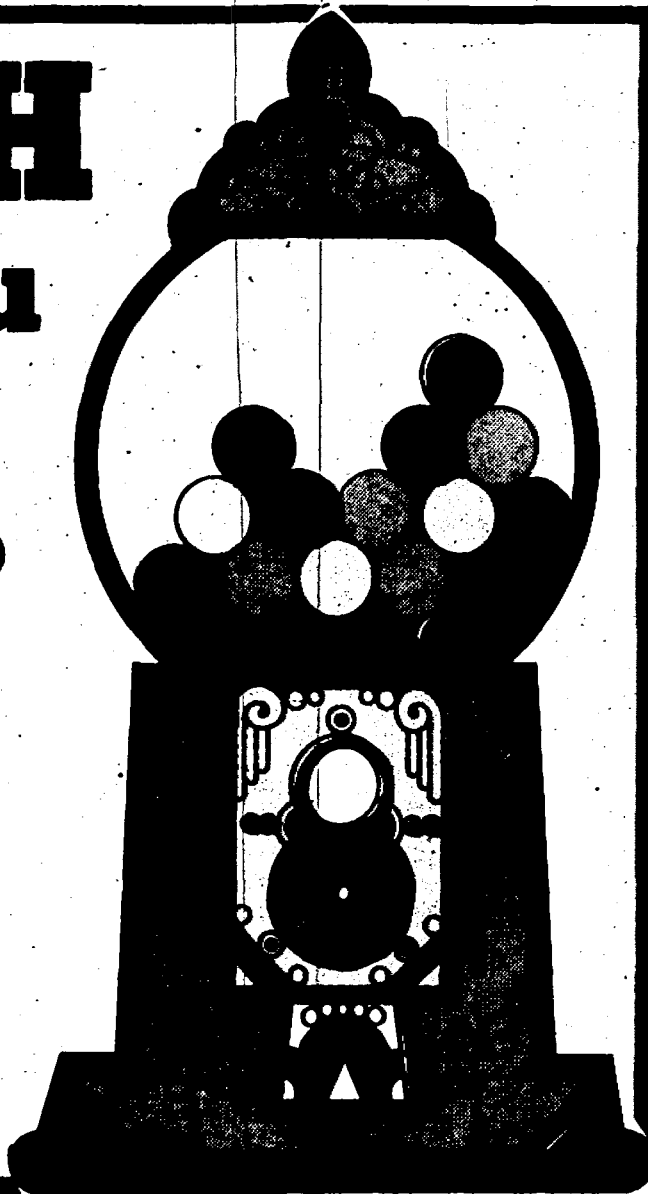

Mahalak said although Apol's plan had as much as an 18 per cent variance from

IS YOUR MIND TURNED OFF TO PRE-PLANNING?
Plan now and purchase for real peace of mind.

At some time in the future, and we don't know when, someone must purchase a grave or more for burial. COSTS AT DEATH ARE OUR THIRD largest expense after home and automobile. People are at their lowest, physically and emotionally. Their resistance is down and they pay dearly.

The Last Supper Garden Crypt Building has provisions for 60 ABOVE-GROUND ENTOMBMENTS; HIGH, DRY AND FOREVER BEAUTIFUL, with name and date inscription in bronze. Never a sunken or neglected grave to complain about.

DO YOU HAVE THIS MONEY SET ASIDE, YOU'LL NEED IT.
Insurance money never pays off soon enough.

The better way is pre-planning and purchase now.

The average cost of a grave in most available cemeteries is	$500.00 or more
The opening and closing is	$400.00 or more
The grave marker is	$600.00 or more
YOU CAN EXPECT TO SPEND AROUND	$1,500.00 or more

Loved ones are placed in a high, dry and ventilated Crypt Chamber. The Crypt is then sealed and the Crypt Front and name and date inscription attached. Never a marker overgrown with brush and weeds.

Starkweather set for use change

The former Starkweather Elementary school in Old Village will be used as a community education center beginning in September of this year.

The Plymouth-Canton School Board approved the use of the facility for adult and community education at its June 12 meeting.

The school was eliminated as an elementary school due to declining student population. Most of the students in the Starkweather attendance area will go to Tanger Elementary in the fall, with a handful going to Smith.

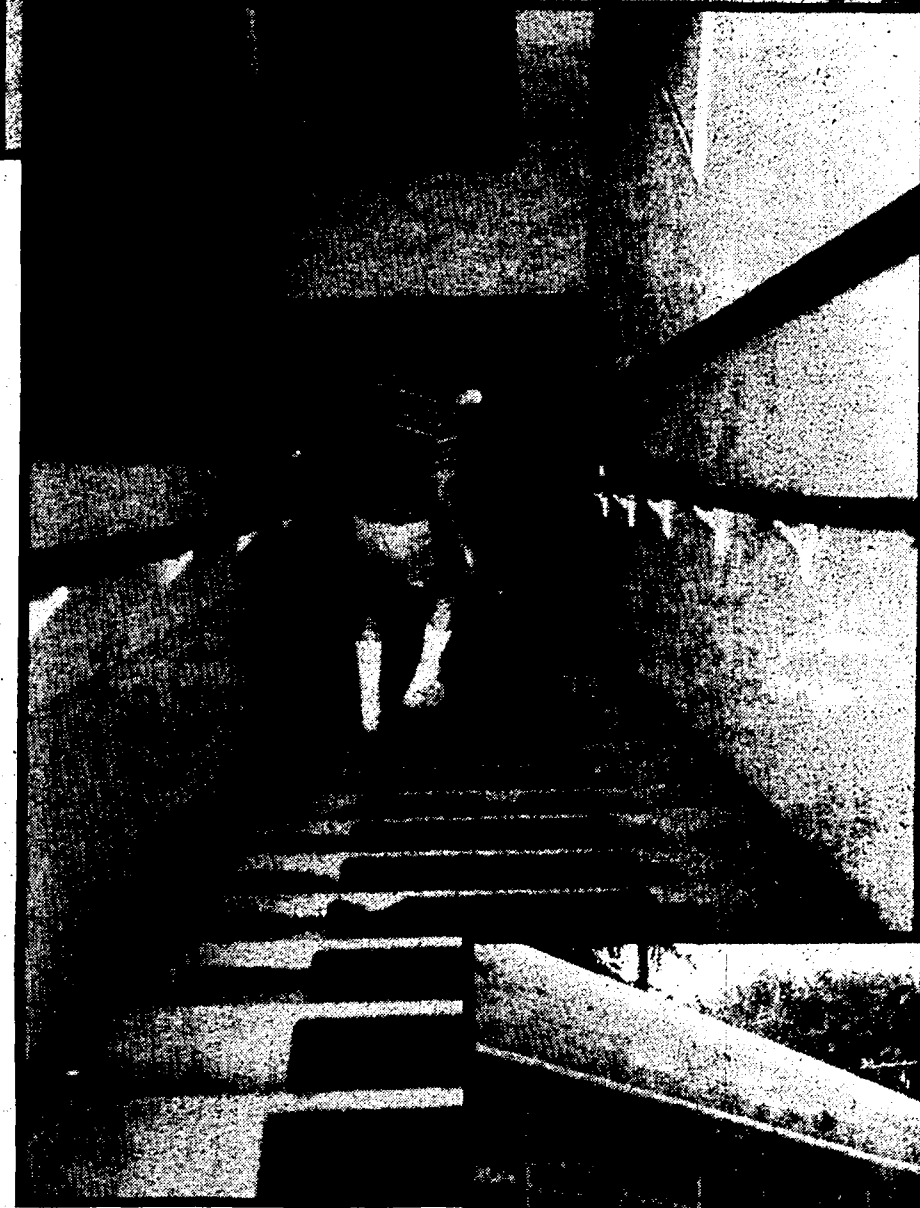

The plan to convert the elementary school to an adult education center will cost money the first year, Community Education Director Larry Mastellar said. In later years the program should be a money-making one for the district, he said.

Mastellar and school administration agreed to go with a less expensive parking renovation plan than the one originally proposed to cut down on the start-up costs of the adult education center.

Mastellar said classes will be scheduled throughout the day and evening hours to lessen the parking load. Associate Superintendent Ray Hoedel said he will follow up on the suggestion that adjacent businesses be approached to try to gain access or use of their parking space.

As soon as the current Starkweather staff is moved, Mastellar said he will be in the school making the changes needed for the Sept. 1 opening.

THE LAST DAY of school at Starkweather Elementary had added meaning this year as school staff and administration prepared to change the school into an adult education center by September. Above, Lee D'Angelo leaves the school on his bike. TAG gifted plan to include 7th graders this fall

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Sixth grade talented and gifted (TAG) students will have the opportunity for a challenging seventh grade program, under a plan discussed by the Plymouth Canton School Board last week.

The school district currently has a magnet program for TAG students grades 4 to 6, TAG Coordinator Cheryl Johnson said. If the program is approved, students in the sixth grade TAG program this past year would have the opportunity of continuing their specialized education with a seventh grade program at Central Middle School.

Johnson said one teacher will be chosen to head the program, although some of the subject areas may be taught by other staff members.

"Finding the right person to head this up is the key," Johnson said. "It will make the difference in the program."

She said the administration is currently searching the district for the key person to head the seventh grade TAG component. Johnson said the right personality, expertise in working with gifted students, expertise in the advance subject areas, counseling and advising skills and much more is needed for the job.

Although there are many exceptional teachers at Central now, Johnson said none are exactly right for the job and a teacher may have to be transferred in from another building.

Of the 45 students eligible for the seventh grade TAG magnet, Johnson said she expects 30 to 35 will actually participate in 1984-85. Nonparticipants either do not want to be in a special program, or do not wish to transfer from their regular middle school to Central.

Students in the program, but not in the Central attendance area, will ride the parochial buses to Central. The transportation department said they anticipate no additional costs for busing the TAG students.

Staffing the seventh grade TAG program will be handled as part of the "ratios," meaning the number of teachers will not increase, but some may be transferred.

Johnson plans to expand the program as the sixth graders move through, going to a two-year program (seventh and eighth grade magnet concept) in fall of 1985-86. The early-admittance program to CEP will allow flexibility in scheduling the students when they become gifted ninth graders is 1986-87.

The district is still interested in developing a TAG program for grades first through third, Johnson said, but identification of gifted students at that age is difficult. New tests seem to better at helping to identify gifted students, but many are still in a developmental stage she said.

IPSEP big on helping little people

The program has a big name, but it's devoted to helping the little people - the special little people of The Plymouth Canton Community.

The Infant and Preschool Special Education Program (IPSEP), part of the Plymouth Canton Schools, works with children from infant to age six with special education needs.

IPSEP celebrated its 1000th referral in May of this year. Children are referred to IPSEP for evaluation, diagnostic work-up, and possible placement within the program. The staff works with children who may be developmentally impaired, mentally or emotionally impaired, speech and language delayed, physically or otherwise health impaired, or with learning disabilities.

The professional staff at IPSEP includes two classroom teachers, a speech pathologist, a teacher consultant, a physical and occupational therapist, and consultant services of a nurse, psychologist and social worker.

There are four parts to the program, Supervisor Mary Fritz said - classroom, home program, individual therapy, and infant-toddler intervention group.

The program was started by Dr. Edwin Page, current director of special education, in 1975. In 1976-77, the school district collaborated with six other districts to provide these same services to the infants and preschool handicapped children. The collaborative program was paid for entirely by federal, state and county funding.

The success of that effort led the district to apply for federal funding for a program just in the district.

In 1977, a three-year grant from the Bureau of education for the Handicapped enabled the district to develop the program as a model special education program. Today, however, funding is mainly through the local district, with some limited state and federal support.

The IPSEP evaluation services are available for any child in the district. Results can help parents to know whether the child has developmental problems or may need further special education. Once the children reaches elementary school age, the IPSEP staff advises parents as to the appropriate schooling so the transition from preschool to elementary level is a smooth one.

The goal of IPSEP is to develop the child's ability to enter kindergarten, either in a regular classroom or in a special class placement.

If you are concerned about your child, or if you know of a child who may need this special help, call IPSEP at 451-6610.

IPSEP staff members are: Mary Fritz, supervisor; Mary Kay Herr and Marybeth Newman, teachers; Lori Franzen, occupational therapist; Phoebe Vance, physical therapist; Diana Jones, speech and language pathologist; Marti Cain, teacher consultant; Marilyn Thams, nurse; Ronald S. Jones, psychologist; Mary Hudson, social worker; Lynn Jablonski, classroom aide; and Joan Curreri, secretary.

'Perspective' honored

If you're looking for a really good high school newspaper to read - look no farther than the CEP Perspective.

CEP Perspective students who monthly slaved to bring their fellow students and high school staff members the latest in community and Plymouth-Canton school district news last year were recently honored at the 10th annual High School Journalism Awards Presentation Night sponsored by Schoolcraft College.

The Perspective, under the guidance of editor Tim McKercher and adviser Sue Welker received 12 awards at the presentation.

Awards were received by the newspaper in the following categories:

A special award and third place award for sports coverage.

A third place honorable mention, and second place award for editorial writing.

A first place honorable mention for photography.

First place and third place awards in the general features category.

First place and third place awards in the cartoon and illustration category.

the one man one vote concept established under the Constitution, he too did not agree with the method used to pass the April redistricting plan.

"They used a technicality to put the bill through," Mahalak said. "The legislature can't refile a plan before July 10."

The court had said its reapportionment decision could be nullified if the legislature adopted a new plan before July 10.

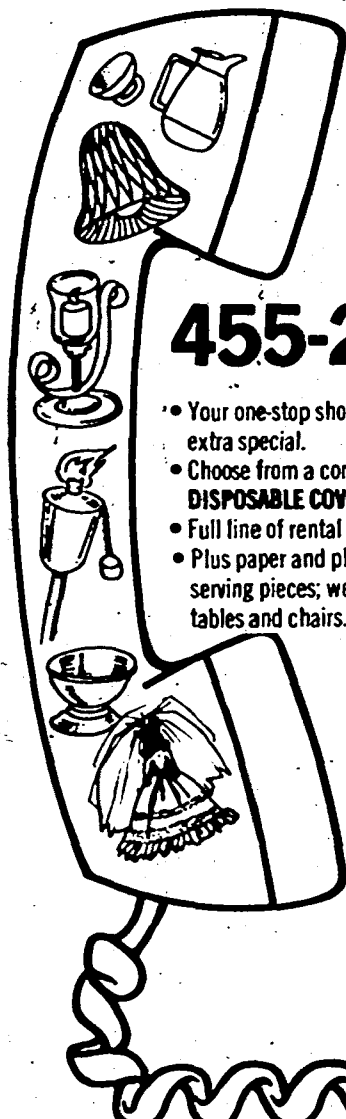

The new filing deadline for those seeking a state House of Representative chair in November is today at 4 p.m. Law said the legislature assured the state Supreme Court that no reapportionment plan could be filed before July 10 in order to move the filing deadline back up. Candidates and politicians throughout the state had been concerned that a deadline set for after July 10 would have necessarily pushed back the August 7 primary election to September. This setback would have affected the candidates in the November election as well, although the date of that election would have remained unaltered.

"The only people affected by this change were people filing for the House," Law said. "The secretary of state got information on refiling out to everyone quickly because all filing petitions for the districts became invalid (with the court decision)."

Law said he felt the 1982 districts would remain in effect until 1992 - particularly because the state House and Senate will once again be controlled by different parties. "As long as the two Houses are of different parties it will preclude them from agreeing on changes except for the 10 year change," Law said.

3 P-C students to represent state at conference

Three local students - Kim Henshaw, Michelle Franks, and Lynne Saley - are now representing the state of Michigan in the National Health Occupations Students of America Career Development Conference in Florida.

The conference is being held in Orlando from June 24 through July 1.

The trio were active in competition at the regional level in March and were finalists in state level competition in Kalamazoo in May.

The students will be learning about the electoral process as they cast ballots for both national officers and proposed constitutional changes.

The students have worked throughout the school year to raise funds for events in which they have participated. They have had candy sales, bake sales, hypertension clinics, car washes and the painting of street numbers on curbs as fund-raising activities.

Chapter sponsor Myra Saley founded the chapter at CEP this past year. She has received an appointment to serve on the national rules and arbitration committee. This honor is granted to only 10 chapter advisors throughout the United States.

"This is a real honor for our students and they are certainly excited about it," Saley said. "It looks like we will be raising money right up to the beginning of our trip in order to be able to go."

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) chapter of the Michigan Association of Health Occupation Students had 16 students who competed at the regional level.

The chapter ended the regional competition with three first places, two second places, and two third places.

State competition had two fifth and one sixth place finalists. Students to attend the national conference were selected by the state coordinator.

Schools send their kudos to those who gave time, $

As the school year draws to a close for Plymouth-Canton Schools a number of individuals and businesses were thanked by the school for their donations or help during the year.

Mentioned in the board of education's information packets were thanks and kudos to:

•John B. McWhirter of Canton who donated two string basses to Salem High School. "Instruments of this quality are expensive and the ones presently in the program have been used extensively," Fred P. Meier, area coordinator for music, told McWhirter. "Your donations will give us a continued presence of string basses in our orchestra program."

•John Allmand, president of Allmand Associates, who donated approximately 4,600 pounds of heavy plate to the Canton High School welding program. "Your thoughtfulness in providing this material will help to provide class laboratory experiences that are important in preparing young people to enter the job market," Harold Gaertner, director of vocational education, told Allmand.

•Ed Walton of Detroit Edison, which provided equipment necessary for repairing the main flag pole at the high school. "It is gratifying to know that a large business concern such as the Detroit Edison Company would provide the needed assistance to the community school system," Salem Principal Bill Brown told Walton.

•Ted Balaj, math instructor, was thanked by counselor Don Chumbley for his work tutoring math students after school. "I wish to express my personal gratitude to you ... I want to compliment you on your professionalism and willingness to serve students," Chumbley said.

•Patricia Moore, assistant principal at Central Middle School, was commended for her work throughout the year by a signed letter from members of the teaching staff at the school.

New principal at West

Patrick O'Donnell has been named principal at West Middle School by the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

O'Donnell has worked in the district since 1972 and was an administrative intern in 1977-78 and is currently the supervisor of special education programs and services.

O'Donnell has degrees from St. Joseph's College in Indiana, Indiana University, and Eastern Michigan University.

His teaching experience includes the teaching of language arts and mathematics in grades three through eight, high school social studies and teaching of educable mentally impaired and emotionally impaired students.

He has also coached boys' and girls' junior varsity basketball.

"We reviewed a wide variety of applications for this position because we recognized it was an extremely difficult one to fill," Dr. John Hoben, superintendent for the Plymouth-Canton school district said. "While many of the candidates who we interviewed could have filled the position, we felt O'Donnell was the outstanding candidate."

"We look forward to his filling this position, even though it means a loss of his help in special education. We are pleased to have him accept this new challenge within the Plymouth-Canton Schools," Hoben said.

O'Donnell, 38, is married.

Charity 'poker run' held by cyclers

Motorcycles are coming to town. The Michigan Gold Wing Association (MGWA), a group of motorcycle riders, is sponsoring a poker rally July 1 beginning in Plymouth with proceeds to benefit the March of Dimes.

The MGWA is made up of owners of Honda Gold Wing 1200cc motorcycles. But the group is expecting riders of bikes other than Gold Wings. They invited 1,000 motorcyclists and they're expecting between 800 and 1,000 riders.

"They do come, believe it or not, from states like Illinois and Ohio," said Joan Hughes, MGWA co-chair. "Last year, one guy came from California."

Participants in the poker rally will ride a 75-mile course, stopping at five checkpoints to collect a playing card. The motorcyclist with the best poker hand at the end of the course wins.

There is a $6 tax deductible entry fee and all proceeds go to the March of Dimes. Last year the rally raised $5,500 for the charity which helps fight birth defects.

The event will include a pancake breakfast, refreshments, door prizes and a drawing.

Arrivals and departures will be from the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. Registration for the July 1-poker ride will begin 10 a.m. at the Cultural Center and riders must return at 5 p.m.

Spectators and curious people are invited to watch the event.

Bring your bear there, win a prize!

Paddington Bear, beware!! All of your cousins are going to be in town this Saturday and will be contending for as much recognition as you have received in the past with your exploits! The teddy bear contest, sponsored by the Country Charm store at 884 Pennington Avenue, will take place at the store on June 30. All bears entered in the competition must be at the store and registered by 2 p.m. Categories for the bear judging will include the largest, smallest, oldest, most original and most loved. A prize will be awarded to the winner of each category. Refreshments will be served and all residents are invited to come down and see this clan of loveable characters for themselves.

Superstars test skills

Who are the best young athletes in Canton?

The fifth annual Youth Superstars Contest will be held Saturday, July 14, at 10 a.m. at Griffin Park.

The Youth Superstars Contest was started five years ago by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department to find out who the best and to have fun at the same time.

Superstars involves a series of seven events to test a variety of athletic skills, including basketball, golf, soccer, running and more.

Divisions for boys and girls are: nine and under, 10 to 12, and 13 to 15.

Awards will be given out in each age group. Call the recreation department at 397-1000 for more details. Registration the day of the event will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the Sheldon Road entrance to Griffin Park.

Fast food facts

on Omnicom

"The Nourishing Facts about Fast Food" a segment of the series "The Food Chain" will be aired on Omnicom tomorrow, June 28, at 8:30 p.m.

Host Debi Silverman, registered dietician, will discuss how eating out has become an integral part of today's lifestyle, emphasizing that fast food is not necessarily junk food. It can be a nutritious diet.

In part two of the show Debi will visit local fast food restaurants: Arby's, McDonald's, Pizza Hut, Famous Recipe, and Taco Bell.

Along with taste testing some of their most nutritious foods, she'll put together a meal from each restaurant and discuss its qualities.

Part two will air on Tuesday, July 3, and Thursday, July 5, at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 8.

Child and spouse abuse -- no community is immune them. Then they ask us if this is really reason to leave."

Pat Strauss, program director for FirstStep said abused women are often lead to believe they deserve the abuse. "Their husbands tell them if they were better wives they wouldn't have to hit them," she said. "This is that part of their self-esteem which is chipped away little by little. They begin to figure they really do deserve the abuse. That's partly why so many women stay -- and because it's not always an abusive situation and they're afraid they won't make it on their own."

Like women, abused children can also be made to feel they deserve the treatment they receive. Waters said many of the students she deals with feel they are "bad" children because they are abused.

"So many times a child will come to me and say 'I'm so bad I deserve to be hit' and all I can say is no you aren't, and I hug them. We see alot of stress-related abuse here," she said. "The schools are in one of the best positions to identify child abuse because we see the kids every day. It was a rude awakening when I came out to this community and started to work on these cases. Some heavy-duty things happen around here."

How abuse cases are handled in The Plymouth-Canton Community depends on the agency responding and the people involved. By law, all children suspected of being abused must be reported to the Department of Social Services (DSS). Waters files a report with the DSS on every child she sees as do the doctors and nurses who suspect child abuse in cases they see at Canton Center. All police departments and other social organizations are also required by law to file reports of suspected and proven abuse. The DSS sends an investigator to the home within 72 hours after the report has been filed and can take action as severe as outright removal of the child if warranted.

In the case of spouse abuse, however, public intervention becomes a more difficult, personal problem. Lieutenant Daniel Carpenter, afternoon shift supervisor and youth officer for the Plymouth Police Department said physical spouse abuse, criminally labelled as assault and battery, is a misdemeanor.

"But the problem is if a woman charges a man with assault and battery and carries through with the charge, nothing happens to him. He's given a probation sentence in court -- then where does that leave her," he said.

"A lot of this has to do with the fact that we're in Wayne County," Carpenter said. "People get away with things because the system has gone awry."

Carpenter said police departments can only check on the welfare of children suspected of being abused in a round-about manner. "If we see a child who is obviously battered, we can remove him until we see what is going on. But if nothing is visibly wrong, it's out of our hands."

Carpenter said many women who report domestic violence "are only looking for a place to turn to for help. This is a tough road to handle and they usually want information on a shelter from us."

"But so many of them are caught in this syndrome of 'If I leave him I'll have nowhere to go' and so they stay with the bum. No one should have to live a life not knowing when they are going to be kicked around or beaten up."

Carpenter said he felt residents in The Plymouth-Canton Community do not resort to abuse as much as residents in other communities. "From my experience it hasn't been as bad here. I think that's because the people here are professional and have more class."

When the department does come across abuse cases, however, he said the family is often encouraged to seek counseling. "Not that we can make anyone seek counseling -- we can't. The court can make counseling a part of probation, though."

The responsibility of the court system in dealing with the problem of domestic violence is, however, one which is neither clearcut nor easily defined. Dewey said women who call FirstStep seeking help are advised of their legal rights and avenues. "But even if they decide to seek an injunction or press charges for the abuse they're not taken seriously in the courts and it's very frustrating. Many times the case is thrown out on a probation sentence," she said.

Judge James Garber of 35th District Court said the court system considers domestic violence and abuse very serious crimes. "But the problem that police officers, prosecutors and judges have is that in 95 per cent of the cases the woman chooses not to prosecute after a series of complaints."

"What am I going to do?" Garber said. "I tell them I can force them to testify with a subpoena, or that the police department will be more reluctant to respond to a another call knowing that charges weren't pressed, but what good does that do? You're hard pressed to get a conviction when you have such a reluctant testimony. This isn't the kind of case that's conducive to criminal justice. The courts are impotent in dealing with these cases."

Garber said his choices in handling an abuse case, if it is pressed, are limited. "If I fine him what good does that do? In many cases money is a problem. If I lock him up for 90 days, does that do any good? In many cases it will exacerbate the problem. If I put him on probation, he'll just violate his probation and then I'm back to a jail sentence or a fine."

"Abuse just can't be solved through the criminal justice system. I agree, we're not sending abusers to jail unless they cause serious injury and then it goes beyond abuse. But we deal with reluctant complainants and the chances of conviction are minimal."

Garber said domestic abuse has not been mislabelled as a criminal act. "There is a crime involved. We treat it because there are so few other avenues available to handle it," he said. "But what the woman wants 99 times out of 100 is a promise that the abuse will never happen again."

Many professionals in The Plymouth-Canton Community who deal with abuse say there are solutions to domestic violence -- but they are solutions which take time and cost money.

"We need to work with the abuser as well as with the abused," Dewey said. "Until we can reach out and help those men who abuse their wives and children, abuse will continue to occur. Few men will change their behavior without intervention."

Groups like Parents Anonymous of Michigan and FirstStep offer help to both victims and assailants in domestic violence cases. Counseling, group therapy and providing emergency shelter for those who need it are a few of the services groups such as these provide.

Petroske said Oakwood Canton Center refers many of its abuse cases to organizations like FirstStep and Parents Anonymous and also sees clients through its own social services department. "All we can do is reinforce options for a victim -- make her realize that she isn't trapped and she doesn't have to live in an abusive situation."

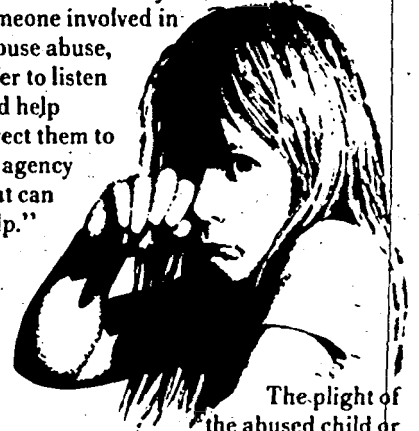

And although Petroske said many women are making it on their own today, many still don't feel they have the emotional or financial ability to step out of an abusive situation. "We need to put these women with social workers and get them in touch with support groups," she said.

Waters said the intention of the school system in abuse cases is to help the family -- not break it up. "We want to help the child and the family in abuse cases. Many times the family is so isolated that stress really builds. Families are sometimes so happy when someone steps in with help because most people really love their kids and don't want to abuse them. They just don't know anything else sometimes."

Arnett added that other factors such as getting families financial relief could also help with the problem of child and spouse abuse. "Getting a family food stamps, transportation, day care or heating assistance can help relieve stress. At a developmental stage we can also educate parents about their children and what to expect of the kids."

"If you suspect a child is being abused, report it for the sake of the child," Arnett said. "And if you think you know someone involved in spouse abuse, offer to listen and help direct them to an agency that can help."

The plight of the abused child or spouse is one all people should be more aware of, professionals handling abuse agree. "I know of a woman whose husband abuses her. He keeps track of her money down to the last dime. Over the past five years she has been able to save some of her nickles and pennies and she has $32," Strauss said. "She said when she saves more she's going to leave him and start a life of her own. That's how very desperate some people are to get out of an abusive situation."

Do you suspect abuse?

Help for assailants and victims

Abuse is never an easy situation to face -- and especially when you feel as helpless to respond to its violence as the family involved.

There are ways in which you can help, however, if you know of or suspect someone is being physically or emotionally abused. Professional sources throughout The Plymouth-Canton Community urge you to be aware of potential domestic violence and act on it when you see or suspect it -- for the sake of the children and spouses involved.

Jane Dewey, director of the FirstStep Domestic Violence Organization said groups such as FirstStep are a starting point for anyone involved in a crisis situation. A 24-hour hotline, counseling, group therapy sessions and emergency shelter for battered spouses is available to residents of western Wayne County through this group. Call FirstStep at 525-2230 for further help and information.

Parents who find themselves unable to control their anger and frustration toward their children are also victims in need of help, Dewey said. Groups such as Parents Anonymous of Michigan can often make the difference between a battered child and workable, concerned household. Those who are seeking help with their anger can contact Parents Anonymous at 234-3671. The group offers a hotline, group sessions and peer support group counseling for crisis situations.

Shirley Waters, attendance officer for the Plymouth-Canton school district, strongly recommends those who suspect a child is being abused report the case to her, other school authorities or law enforcement authorities. Waters stressed that the Department of Social Services (DSS) will check out all cases reported -- even if they are false -- for the sake of the child. "A report or suspected case may be totally wrong, but its to check into the situation than wait until serious abuse becomes apparent," Waters said. Waters added that those families investigated by the DSS "are not tried and convicted by the department during the investigation."

Claudia Arnett, a graduate social work student at Oakwood Hospital Canton Center also urged residents to be aware that known cases of child abuse will usually also involve spouse abuse, and vice-versa. Arnett said Canton Center offers counseling and through other community groups and its own social services department for abuse victims.

Many other church and civic organizations also offer counseling and support group services to those in need of help. Check with your local civic leaders for groups which offer abuse assistance in The Plymouth-Canton Community and western Wayne County.

Plymouth-Canton house sales jump to new high

Moving toward the summer season, May sales of 1,492 existing homes by members of Metro Multiple Listing Service reflected a 14.3 per cent jump from the previous month and a 13.4 per cent increase from a year ago.

Plymouth and Plymouth Township are showing a 34 per cent increase in sales over 1983 levels.

"We were pleased to see that buyers were not unduly deterred by the edging up of mortgage interest rates," said David N. Jensen, president of the multiple listing service. "Average prices continue to remain just 1.5 per cent above those of a year ago and well below the level of inflation."

"Homes in this market still represent bargain-priced housing compared to other areas of the nation even with the interest rate rise. Sellers who have waited through the deep recession period to make their move are holding the asking price line and in a high number of cases are reducing the price to aid the sale."

Jensen said he was particularly encouraged about the current real estate market by continued growth in the percentage of listings sold each month. At 31.6 per cent, the rate is the highest since August 1980.

"New listings have dropped behind sales on a percentage basis, so we are continuing to make inroads into the inventory that built up during the recession," he said. "But, unless change in federal fiscal policy doesn't soon cause a reversal in interest rates, we may find potential buyers pulling out of the market to wait for a drop that may not occur for some time to come."

He said the increased rates may be responsible for revived interest in use of land contracts for home financing. Land contracts were used in 21.7 per cent of May sales after dipping as low as 13.4 per cent in March. Use of conventional mortgages, which had returned to a 1984 peak of 58.3 per cent in March, dropped to 49.4 per cent last month.

"Much of this change may be a result of significant increases for adjustable rate mortgages during the month," Jensen said. "The initial rate for many of these was being quoted several percentage points below those for fixed rate mortgages and had a lot of appeal particularly among first-time buyers."

The 10 acres in the Metro MLS territory, which covers northwest Detroit and major portions of Wayne and Oakland Counties, showing the highest percentage of increased sales this year over 1983 are: Novi, 44 per cent; West Bloomfield/Orchard Lake, 41.2 per cent; Farmington/Farmington Hills, 35.8 per cent; Plymouth/Plymouth Township, 34 per cent; Southfield, 32.6 per cent; Royal Oak, 29 per cent; Livonia, 26.4 per cent; Canton Township, 25.8 per cent; Westland, 25 per cent; and Redford Township, 22.6 per cent.

"The motion was passed in record time," she said. "There was no time to study if it was a viable idea. There were no studies done on who owns video cassette equipment in the community."

Prchlik said she requested a special meeting of the Library Board to reconsider their earlier vote but didn't have the support of other board members.

P-C math wizards score high

Plymouth-Canton scored four first places in the 1984 Michigan Mathematics League Competition sponsored by the Department of Talented and Gifted.

First place in Michigan and Wayne County for sixth grade was Mark Madrilejo of Allen Elementary School. Seventh grade first place was captured by Dylan Spratling, Central Middle School. Central Middle School eighth grade teams composed of Ray Kelm, Tim Englehuber, Kevin Kolacki, Jennifer Campeau, and Sarah Schumacher scored first in Wayne County, and Ray Kelm was the number one eighth grader in Wayne County and number two in the state.

Students from 915 schools throughout the state competed in the competition which follows a story problem format that integrates computational skills, logic, and reasoning abilities.

Other awards were as follows:

Allen Elementary School: Number three in Wayne County, Number 12 in the state, Team Members: Mark Madrilejo, Paul Croll, Meghan Lynch, Joseph Anderson, Courtney Lemon, Michael Hartmeyer, Kristina Gustin. Paul Croll was 15th in the state.

Bird Elementary School: Number 28 in the state, Team Members: Kevin Holmes, Kelvin Chou, Wilson Lee, Jennifer McGrath, John Minuth.

Central Middle School: Seventh grade number 10 in the state, Number four in the county, Team Members: Dylan Spratling, Teresa Coletta, Scott Hauncher, Phil Kos, Lee Krueger. Tim Englehuber was second in the county.

Central Middle School: Eighth grade was number 13 in the state.

Lowell Middle School: Seventh grade was number 25 in the state. Team Members: Suzanne Long, Pete Stelmazek, Lynne Matthews, David Pieczkiewicz, Norman Raden. Eighth grade was number 19 in the state. Number two in the county. Team Members: Amy Solak, David Colasenski, Andy Gee, Jim Lamb, Chris Burk.

West Middle School: Seventh grade number 10 in the state. Number four in the county. Team Members: Sarah Andrews, Soo Kwon, Laura Bodell, Chris Harper, Andy Lesko, Bill Teller.

East Middle School: Bradd Szonye was number 15 in the state.

Cheryl Johnson, Coordinator of Plymouth-Canton Talented and Gifted said, "Our awards were outstanding. It was the first year in the competition for our middle schools and the second year for our elementaries. Our scores prove we are among the best in the state, including private and parochial schools."

"Mark Madrilejo has been invited to attend Northwestern University over the summer to participate in their program for mathematically precocious youth by scoring in the top half of one percent in the country on the Scholastic Aptitude Test as a sixth grader. I'm extremely proud of the accomplishment of all the students, and of the fine performance of the District."

An article in the Wednesday June 6 edition of The Crier incorrectly identified Frank McMurray as a real estate agent. McMurray is an insurance agent employed with State Farm Insurance in Canton.

An article in the Wednesday, June 6, edition of The Crier incorrectly identified the political affiliation of John Sheridan, a candidate for 37th district state representative. Sheridan is a Democrat.

An article in the Wednesday, June 6, edition of The Crier contained an error regarding the children of Paul Denski, a candidate for Canton Township Trustee. Denski has two sons and one daughter.

Not a good place for sales

'Car lots' are tow zones

Parking your "for sale" car in a shopping mall may be good advertising, but you could get more than you bargained for.

Canton Township police say shopping center owners have complained about their property being turned into used car lots. At New Towne Center, 20 cars with for sale signs were parked the weekend of the Canton Country Festival, Sgt. Alex Wilson said.

A Township ordinance forbids parking a vehicle on private property without the consent of the property owner, Wilson said. "We'll start issuing citations in the near future," Wilson warned, "and if that doesn't work, we'll start towing them in."

Christ Scientist Church names church leaders for year

Frank A. Riley and Dawn Evans began three-year terms Sunday, June 6, as first and second readers in the First Church of Christ Scientist in Plymouth.

They succeed Gerald W. Herman and Maxine Reisdorf.

Riley is an associate broker with Century 21 in Plymouth. Evans works in the accounting department of Hawthorne Center in Northville.

Since Christian Science has no ordained clergy, local members are elected democratically to conduct services. The second reader reads references from the Bible and the first reader reads correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

Christian Scientists consider these two books to be the pastor of the church.

The 8 p.m. Wednesday meetings begin with a hymn followed by readings from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook. After silent prayer and audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer, members of the congregation are invited to relate healing experiences they had had through their study of Christian Science.

Sunday services and Sunday School are held at 10:30 a.m. in the Plymouth Church, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Trail.

Burbank family rides in old-fashioned style

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

The Burbank family of Plymouth Township took a Sunday drive this week. The family packed up the 1930 Ford Model "A" Town Sedan they restored and headed off on a 300 mile trek to Cincinnati for the 1984 Model "A" Restorers Club National Meet.

The trip will be a culmination of some three years of restoration efforts on the Burbank car which, excusing a citizen's band radio (installed for the trip) and a temperature gauge on the dash, is about as original as when it rolled off the Detroit assembly line over 50 years ago.

And Woody Burbank says restoring such a car is no easy task.

"It was in pretty rough shape when we got it," Burbank said. "We did a lot of sanding and scraping, trying to clean 50 years worth of grease and rust," Burbank said.

The four-cylinder engine is rebuilt, as is the chassis and the body has been sanded and repainted black.

"That was Henry's favorite color, of course," Burbank said.

Burbank, his wife Jean and children Tim, 14, Amy, 12, and Scott, 9 all pitched in on the project, which was done during spare hours, Burbank said.

"We'd usually spend a couple hours a night, sometimes staying out in the garage until midnight."

The 1930 sedan is the second Model "A" the Burbanks have restored. The other is a 1931 coupe. That car is smaller and Burbank said it wasn't suitable for hauling the family and the luggage to Cincinnati.

The sedan is a more luxurious auto than the coupe, Burbank said. The seats are thick and comfortable-looking, made of cloth. The back door windows sport fashionable, frilly shades to block out the sun or anything else.

Burbank said he had wanted an old car ever since he began driving and bought the Model "A" sedan in 1979. He spent two years on that car.

Restorers often pay high prices to get the parts they need to restore the car to authenticity, he said.

"Everyone is aware of the value of the cars and of course prices get inflated," he said.

"They keep you broke."

Burbank said the the three speed, manual transmission coupe will travel between 45 and 50 miles per hour. The c.b. radio is on hand just in case, he added.

The national convention is being held June 24-29 and Burbank said he started thinking about going in January.

"It's national so restorers will be driving their cars in from all over the country," he said.

Conventioners will be sightseeing and picnicing throughout the Ohio Valley, including a scheduled stop at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The "Model A's" will have the opportunity to take a spin around the speedway, more commonly traveled by faster, more modern machines.

While Burbank said he didn't know of other local restorers making the Cincinnati trip, he added there were other restored Model "A's" in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Hartmanns celebrate 60th!

Former Plymouth mayor William C. Hartmann and his wife celebrated 60 years of marriage this month. On Sunday, June 3, the Hartmanns' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Laible, held an open house for the Hartmanns in their home on Penniman Avenue.

Attending were a few close friends and relatives from all over the state and California. Their granddaughter, Mary Graham Mauro of Portage, surprised her grandmother by wearing the 60-year-old wedding gown and veil made of crepe de chine.

Hartmann was mayor of Plymouth during 1948-49 and served eight years on the city commission. He also has held several other municipal posts, and at present is on the municipal building authority. He is a native of New York City.

The former Lillian T. Heft of Wyandotte married Hartmann in a Wyandotte ceremony on June 5, 1924. They are the parents of a son, William C. Hartmann III of Northville and a daughter, Beatrice Laible of Plymouth. Another son, Henry John, died in infancy. There are five living grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Hartmann came to this area as a local manager of the Condensite Corp. of America, manufacturer of motor insulation. He served in World War I as a dispatch rider in the Army Motor Corp.

WILLIAM AND LILLIAN HARTMAN

Later he joined the Sinclair Refining Co. as a commission representative and retired as general sales manager after thirty-five years with Sinclair. He is a life member of the Masonic Order and a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Lillian Hartman was a secretary to the auditor of the Wyandotte Chemical firm before her marriage. She was active in musical circles and for a time was pianist for the Wyandotte Concert Orchestra.

The Hartmanns are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. Since 1939 they have lived on Blunk Avenue.

Salem humanities teacher goes on a 'mystical journey'

Salem High School humanities teacher Ruth Tonner will travel to Fordham University in New York this summer to participate in a six-week seminar titled "Augustine, Bonaventure, Eckhart: The Mystical Journey."

Tonner's seminar award carries a stipend of $2,500 from the National Endowment for the Humanities, a national competition funded by the federal government.

The seminar will concentrate on works of three major medieval mystical writers. The three are major thinkers in theology, philosophy and areas of medieval culture. The authors span the entire Middle Ages and reflect major sources of change and development which came about during that time. The seminar is designed to provide a greater understanding for the Middle Ages for participants.

The seminar will be directed by Ewert H. Cousins, who has devoted more than 20 years to the study of mystical writings. Participants, teachers of literature, history and religion, will be doing written work in connection with the seminar.

"Tonner certainly deserves the honor," said Salem Principal Bill Brown. "She will be advancing her own education, and in this way advancing the education of the students who have an opportunity to be in her classes here at Salem."

"We are pleased she will be able to participate in this worthwhile experience."

Gamma Gamma elects officers

Gamma Gamma, the Plymouth Canton chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an international society for outstanding women educators inducted new members and installed the 1984-85 officers at a May dinner meeting.

New members are: Miller School teachers Carol Bochy, Patti Klope and Kathleen Reddy-Butkovich; Pioneer Resource room teacher Ann Krankel; speech pathologist Zana Taurianen; Bird School sixth grade teacher Penny Nuechterlein; Gallimore School teacher Carolyn Kleinsmith; and coordinator of TAC and staff development Cheryl Johnson.

Shirley Spaniel, director of elementary education for the Plymouth-Canton Schools, turned her presidential gavel over to Kate Otto, principal of Hulsing School.

Other officers installed were Karen Tripp-Opplé, first vice president; Nancy Meyers, second vice president; Lois Santer, recording secretary; Shelly Rybarsyk, secretary; and Marion West, treasurer.

League meets pledge, adds $15,000 bonus check

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

The Plymouth Symphony League reflected upon the past year and its successful fundraisers and social high-points at the League's annual luncheon held May 24.

Outgoing president Carole Brandt announced that the League met its yearly pledge of $6,000 and in addition presented a bonus check of $15,000 to the Plymouth Symphony. She thanked all the League members and "their incredible work ethic."

Brandt said: "I would like to offer my personal gratitude to this year's board members who have contributed unselfishly to insure that this year would be a huge success."

The 1983-84 board was composed of Lura Hanschu, Virginia Cox, Cindy Merrifield, Mary Kehoe, Eileen Dunn, Marcia Barker, Lynn Lyon, Jean Neuhardt, Cathy Kirkpatrick, Judy Lore and Eleanor Shevlin.

The annual League luncheon was held this year at Plymouth Township Park and a picnic lunch of chicken and fixin's was served. The day was sunny, but a little windy and cool for a picnic, said Dunn, publicity chairman.

During the president's report, Brandt reflected on the major projects and fundraisers held by the Symphony League this year.

Starting out the year was the 21st Annual Antique Mart held during Fall Festival organized by Elaine Kirchgatter and Carol Davis. A champagne preview reception was hosted by Judy Dahlberg, Mary Elizabeth Smith, Helen Merrill, and Sharron Davy.

The Mart and the reception netted a combined profit of $6,323 for the League.

The Nightingales developed a new format for the League cookbook "Culinary Notes" by requesting local personalities write their recipes out by hand and add their own art work. Cathy Kirkpatrick and K.C. Mueller were chairman of the cookbook sales which netted $2,655 in the first round and $1,013 in the second round.

The week of Oct. 9 to 16 was declared Plymouth Symphony Week, Brandt said, and to celebrate the season opening concert Judy Lore coordinated a very special social evening of cocktail parties following the concert. Gracious hostesses were Sherri Lewis, Carol Patterson and Donna Renehan.

The Vivace group transformed the Plymouth Hilton into A Christmas Carole Symphony Ball for the holiday season, she said. "Delicious food, dancing til dawn and the conviviality of dear friends added to the evening's excitement," Brandt said. Ball co-chairman were Eleanor Shevlin and Stephanie Miller, the event netted $1,650 for the League.

"The warm glow of candlelight served in a spectacular manner to light-up The Plymouth-Canton Community on Christmas Eve. The League realized twice the interest in our luminary sales as the previous year much to our delight," Brandt said. Profits earned by the Crescendo group with the luminaries sale were $2,149. Chairman were Teresa Johnson and Patricia Rhinehart.

The Whale of a Sale, an all group project, netted $933 for the League. "Even though we weren't stocked to the ceiling as other years, we did have 'quality' merchandise and thus realized an outstanding profit," she said. Patsy

Rollins and Eleanor Shevlin were coordinators.

This year's Young Peoples Concert was a musical and financial success, the president said. Coordinated by Shirley Wold and the Allegro group, "Meet the Top Brass" brought Louis Stout and Cathy Miller and their many horns together with a wide-eyed audience of youngsters.

The Sonata group presented a unique Kitchen Cabaret this spring which featured a potpourri of kitchen-oriented gadgets with cooking demonstration designed to inspire. Chairmen were Pat Stokes and Kay Renour, assisted by Mary Grossett and Janet Repp. The Cabaret netted $2,557.

A "jolly musical romp" was presented at the Plymouth Hilton with "Fun and Frolic with the Plymouth Symphony" an entertaining evening of harmony and hilarity, Brandt said.

"Johan van der Merwe and his orchestra, all impeccably attired, with assistance from an off-coloratura soprano, Percy Danforth, the bones man, and an odd assortment of others presented sights and sound not soon to be forgotten," she said. The Pops event earned $1,025.

A round robin bridge event organized by Joyce Kelly and sponsored by the Encore group netted $1,266 for the League.

The final project of the 1983-84 year was the Spring Flower Sale by the Prelude group. Chairwoman Dorothy Hennis and other members of the group sold impatiens, geraniums, begonias, and marigolds. The flowers and hanging baskets brought in a $860 profit for the League.

"This past year has been a challenging as well as rewarding experience for me," Brandt summarized. "I have had the opportunity of associating with so many beautiful and considerate ladies and ultimately sharing their dedication to the League."

Named as the 1984-85 board were: Lura Hanschu, president; Shirley Wold, vice president; Judy Morgan, secretary, Cindy Merrifield, treasurer; and Carole Brandt, past president.

Named to the board also were: Martha Morrison, publicity; Marcia Barker, newsletter; Ann Waite, refreshments; Linda Anderson MOVA representative; Joyce Dorwaldt, membership assistant; Eleanor Shevlin, Fall Festival representative; and Patricia Centrofanti, home tour chairman.

Group leaders for the 1984-85 year are: Judy Lore, Crescendo; Carolyn Jacobs, Encore; Joan Kisabeth and Chris Krivick, Nightingale; Cathy Kirkpatrick, Prelude; Pam Anderson and Carol Sutherland, Sonata; Carolyn Burns, Staccato; and Marsha Woods, Vivace.

Co-chairwomen for the 22nd Antique Mart will be Elaine Kirchgatter and Carol Davis; other antique officers will be Cindy Merrifield and Maret Garard, dealer co-chairmen; and Janice Paulsen and Lura Hanschu, treasurers.

Mayflower VFW officers chosen

Joint installation ceremonies were held recently at the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble VFW hall on Mill Street for the newly elected post and auxiliary officers.

Post officers elected for the 1984-85 term were: Commander Donald Vanlandingham, Senior Vice Commander Tivis (Tim) Hicks, Junior Vice Commander Roger Horn, Quartermaster and Treasurer Henry R. Smith, Adjutant and Secretary Archie C. Bunch, Advocate Henry D. Block, Chaplain Lehigh Edward Stewart, and Trustees Charles E. Seisser, Albert Stanwood and Kenneth Fisher. Auxiliary officers elected and installed were: President Veneta Hornbeck, Senior Vice President Myrtle Hurson, Junior Vice President Caroline Van Gorder, Treasurer Eileen Williams, Secretary Ruth Salisbury, Chaplain Grace Burley, Conductress Juliette Gosch, Guard Marie Foster, and Trustees Lenora Glidden, Joan Pankow, and Geraldine Townsend.

Following the ceremonies, a light supper was served to 150 members and guests, with dancing to the music of the Al Sims Trio.

Local man is hemophilia pres.

David J. Meuleman was re-elected president of the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan Board of Trustees at the foundation's annual meeting in May.

A Plymouth resident, Meuleman is a metallurgical engineer for the National Steel Product Application Center in Livonia. He has been directly involved with the foundation's summer camp program for hemophilic children.

Hemophilia is a hereditary blood clotting disorder which affects males almost exclusively. In an individual with hemophilia, one of the 13 plasma proteins needed for clot formation is defective.

Contrary to popular belief, a person with hemophilia will not bleed to death from minor external wounds. The major danger is in uncontrolled internal bleeding.

Although there are effective controls, there is no cure for hemophilia. A child born with the disease will have it all his life.

The Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan is a non-profit agency which works with health professionals and institutions to seek solutions to various aspects of hemophilia, von Willebrand's disease and other hereditary blood disorders. Its work is supported by donations, grants and the United Way of Michigan.

Programs include research, public and patient education, patient services, and summer camp.

Architect's rendition of Sunshine Honda expansion.

Sunshine will double size of dealership

Sunshine Honda has announced that it will renovate and double the size of its facilities this summer.

The auto dealership at 1205 Ann Arbor Road about 7,500 square feet and will expand to 15,000, said owner Tom Bohlander.

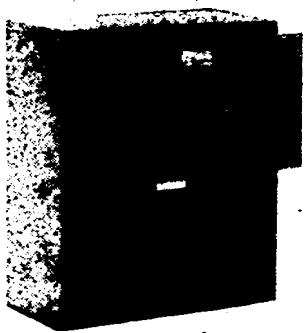

Bohlander said he expects to break ground the first of July and plans a completion date for the end of September.

"It's going to double our service capacity and enable us to service our customers in a better, more efficient manner," Bohlander said.

"Business will continue as usual during the construction," he said. The total cost of the project is expected to $300,000 and Bohlander said he expects to hire 10 more "associates."

Church Audio demonstration

K-2 Associates, a professional audio company, has moved to Plymouth - 595 Forest Avenue.

To celebrate the move, audio designer Kees Bakker announced that a free seminar on church sound will be held on Monday, July 9.

The seminar will be held in the grand ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Guest speakers will provide information and "hands on" demonstrations of the latest audio products and techniques for church applications.

Bakker is the designer of Cinemagic, an advanced theatre audio system.

For more information, call 453-8323.

Family physician studies more!

Dr. Frederick Bentley of Plymouth has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

The Academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for the members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years.

The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibility for the family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new specialty of family practice.

Smith appointed

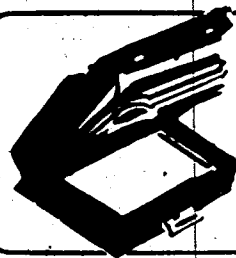

Comerica Inc. has announced that Douglas L. Smith, a resident of Canton, has been appointed branch officer, Six Mile-Farmington, Comerica Bank Livonia.

Smith joined the bank in 1975 and was promoted to assistant manager in 1977. He has held positions of increasing responsibility since then.

Smith received his AA degree in 1975 from Schoolcraft College and his BA degree in 1976 from the University of Michigan.

Michigan Nat. banking center open for business

A new Michigan National Bank walk-in banking center opened a 199 N. Main, bank officials announced.

Charles Smith of Michigan National said they had hoped to open the walk-in automatic teller office sooner, but the company ran into a number of delays.

The center is open now, Smith said, to take deposits, make withdrawals, and transfer funds for Michigan National customers. The computer terminal will also be part of the "Magic Money" system, Smith said, and people with Michigan Money cards, Magic Line Visa or Magic Lines from Comerica, Manufacturer's and other banks, will be able to withdraw money at the center.

There are 14,000 to 15,000 Magic Money centers across the county, Smith said.

"We are pleased to service the good people in the City of Plymouth and surrounding area. We are happy to be a part of the business community here," Smit said. Michigan National has joined the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, he said.

Smith said the walk-in center will be able to take commercial deposits, but no commercial withdrawals will be handled at the center. "Many companies have their employes making daily receipt deposits, and would not want these employes to have access to all the funds in the business' account," Smith explained.

Schools' adult ed director elected to state association

Larry Masteller, director of community education for the Plymouth Canton Schools, has been elected to serve on the state association that represents community and adult educators across Michigan.

Masteller will be representing region 3 which includes all of Wayne and Macomb counties except the City of Detroit.

The Michigan Association of Community and Adult Education is a newly formed organization, Masteller said, which is a merger of two former organizations which represented the interests of adult and community education.

"It was determined that one strong voice in Lansing would be better than two separate ones," Masteller said.

"I feel a sense of pride to have been chosen on the very first board. I also feel a sense of responsibility to serve our region and our school district proudly," he said.

The board officially meets once a month in Lansing, he said, and occasionally special meetings are called to deal with specific legislation.

Canton man named to County spot

Ronald Gary Berglund of Canton has been appointed the director of the Wayne County Patient Care Management System, for the Wayne County Office of Health and Community Services.

The Patient Care Management System is a cost efficient delivery system of medical service for the indigent. Where appropriate, the PCMS will divert patients from expensive hospitals based care to alternative modes of care, such as ambulatory care facilities, substance abuse facilities and hospitals with less expensive patient care costs.

Berglund has earned a master of public health degree in medical care administration from the University of Michigan. More recently, he served as manager of the West Medical Office for the Wayne County Department of Social Services.

City man gets EMU appointment

Plymouth resident Michael F. Carl, rehabilitation counselor for the Michigan Department of Education, was named financial aid adviser in the Office of Financial Aid at Eastern Michigan University by the EMU Board of Regents at its regular monthly meeting in May.

Carl received a bachelor of science degree from EMU in 1968 and a master of arts degree in guidance and counseling in 1972.

Carl has also served as a corrections counselor for the Michigan Department of Corrections for two years.

He is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, the National Rehabilitation Association and the Michigan Rehabilitation Association.

As financial aid adviser at EMU, Carl will meet with students to evaluate their financial aid applications and administer specific financial aid programs.

Heid advances in banking career

Plymouth resident Ralph C. Heid Jr. has been promoted to vice president in the international banking department of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

Heid graduated from U of M and received an MBA from Eastern Michigan University. He has also attended the University of Aix-en-Provence in France.

Heid began his career in Manufacturers' international banking department in 1973 and was named an international banking officer in 1980. In 1981 he was promoted to second vice president and international banking officer.

Hot Canton continues torrid pace

BY MIKE MCKENNEY

The Canton Elks baseball squad put three more notches in their wins column last week, as they remained undefeated and increased their season record to 8-0.

The Elks began the week with a bang, slamming a previously unbeaten Redford Union team 17-0 before the game was stopped in the fifth inning when the ten run mercy rule went into effect. The Elks cranked out 16 hits, including a two run homer by Tim Michalik and a grand slam off the bat of Jeff Wittner.

Catholic Central recruit John Nissen took care of the pitching chores for Canton, allowing the opposition only one hit. Dan Michaels (also from CC) and John Longridge combined to pace the Elk offense, both going 3-3.

Thursday, the Elks downed another Connie Mack league contender, Bishop Borgess, 3-2.

Both teams posted goose eggs until the top of the third when Borgess started things off with a walk, followed by a single, followed by another single that gave the visitors a one run lead.

The Elks battled back in the bottom half of the frame and went ahead 2-1 on a two run single by Michalik.

The next inning, Borgess ripped three singles off Canton hurler Mark Bennett, scoring one run in the process to tie the game at two apiece.

Not to be outdone, the Elks crossed the plate one last time in the bottom of the fourth on a single from another former CC player, Chris Parsons, that scored Wittner and gave the Elks their seventh straight win.

Bennett threw five innings and gave up only four hits before being relieved by Nissen.

12 inning marathon Salem outlasts Redford

BY JAY KEENAN

It seemed as though neither team wanted the game to end Saturday afternoon.

Salem, however, managed to hold off Redford Thurston R.T.J.A.A. in the bottom of the 12th inning for a 13-12 Connie Mack League win.

With both teams tied at 6-all at the end of regulation, the Elks tallied four runs in the top of the eighth only to have Thurston come back with four runs in the bottom of that frame.

The two teams traded runs in the 10th and 11th innings before Salem picked up the game winning run in the top of the 12th. Scott Anderson led off the inning with a single and moved to second on a base hit by Doug Kirkpatrick. Anderson eventually scored on an error.

Elk pitcher Darryl Brees entered the game in the bottom of the final inning and held Thurston off.

Ken Harmon started on the mound for Salem and pitched the first seven innings. Dom DeBello hurled the next three frames and got the win.

IT'S A CASE OF THE MISPLACED BASEBALL: for this young catcher during Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball 'B' League action Saturday at CEP. The unidentified Met baserunner slid safely home past the Cub catcher and the Mets won the game. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd.)

"The boys really came through", said Dave Racer, Canton head coach. "It was a very tight game, and they showed me they could win under pressure".

Saturday, Canton met little resistance from Ypsilanti, winning 7-3.

Michalik threw five innings before Nissen came in and tossed the last two.

The Elks met Southfield at home yesterday, however the results of that game were not available at press time.

Tomorrow, the Elks will face Redford Thurston at Canton.

Mixed bag for Mantle teams Canton Smiles Salem Struggles

BY MIKE MCKENNEY

Ask Canton Craiger head coach Gerald Ebmeyer how his summer is going so far and he'll be all smiles.

Ebmeyer's 15-16 year old boys baseball team is 7-1 right now, and sitting happily perched at the top of the Mickey Mantle league standings.

Last week, Craiger took apart Garden City, 11-0. Canton ace Mike Clark tossed a three hitter and went the distance to grab the win.

"Mike pitched an exceptional game", said Ebmeyer. "Actually, the whole team did well, everyone contributed something."

Craigier's next game, played Sunday night, turned out to be a two team

As of late, the Salem Mickey Mantle team (15-16 year olds) has been struggling at the plate.

Salem, which scored 31 runs in its first three games of the season, has had its share of hitting problems in recent games.

After winning the first three contests of the season, Salem has lost three of its last four games as its record dropped to 4-3 on the season.

On Saturday, Salem was no-hit by Allen Park, 10-0.

"We haven't been hitting the ball well lately," said coach Scott Dawson. "Our hitting started our fantastic and then all of a sudden it went into a dry spell.

Summer tourney slated for weekend

BY MIKE MCKENNEY

Summer has always been baseball tournament time in Plymouth and Canton, and this summer will be no exception.

The first tournament in the area, an eight team, double elimination scorcher, is slated to begin this Friday at 3:00 on the Canton and Salem high school diamonds, according to Jim Logsdon, head of the Plymouth Elks Lodge on Ann Arbor Road.

Logsdon said the Elks are sponsoring the tournament, and anyone who wants to see some quality baseball should definitely show up. Logsdon also said there will be no admission charge, but donations are appreciated.

Games on Friday are scheduled as follows:

The Canton Elks take on Novi at 3:00, followed by Canton Craiger versus Bishop Borgess at 6:00. Both games will be played at Canton.

The Salem Elks face Flint Carpet at 3:00, followed by Flint Grossi versus Waterford at 6:00. Both games will be played at Salem.

Game times Saturday are 10:00, 1:00, and 3:00. There will also be one game at Canton at 6:00.

Sunday, there will be two games at 11:00, one on each field, followed by the championship game at 1:30.

The championship game will be played at Canton.

Canton Sluggers take loss and game in stride

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

The Canton Sluggers seniors softball team took it on the chin in their season opener last Wednesday, losing to Livonia 13-7. But over ice tea after the game, the disappointed Sluggers looked to an upcoming practice to work on the weaknesses that cost them the game.

Most Sluggers agreed that Livonia's big six-run first inning wrapped up the game.

Slugger catcher Alex Dill was disappointed with his team's lack of hitting after an impressive workout earlier in the week.

"We hit so well during practice and now we can't hit worth a darn," Dill said.

The 23-member team is starting its third season in the six-team league which includes entries from Allen Park, Garden City and Livonia. Teams play a 10-game round-robin schedule and Canton has one game and one practices per week.

Slugger coach Louise Spigarelli says the softball team is part of the popular sports offering in the Canton Township seniors program.

"I started sports in the seniors program and it's expanding like crazy," Spigarelli said. "We had 16 here today and that's not the entire team."

The Sluggers team increased from five players two year ago to 23 this year, Spigarelli said.

She said she hopes to add an additional seniors team from Plymouth next year. A few Sluggers are actually Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents, Spigarelli explained.

The team's age limit is 55 and above. John Frazee, 77, is the oldest Slugger, Spigarelli said.

The atmosphere during last week's game was relaxed and players from both teams chatted and kidded each other.

The Sluggers were were unhappy with the loss but part of the fun was simply playing the game.

"It's a matter of coming out and getting some fresh air and sunshine," said Slugger and softball veteran Bob Bloomhuff. Bloomhuff says he isn't tearing up the basepaths anymore because sometimes his "head says go but my feet say 'no'."

Canton's Marjorie Remer, who plays a strong third base, said she has a few more years left in her lengthy softball career.

"I've been playing softball for a long time and I'm not going to quit until I can't run the bases," Remer said.

Canton didn't have the winning formula against Livonia. The Sluggers trailed the entire game but narrowed the gap a bit when Adam Brozek hit a three-run homer down the third base line.

Canton scored two more in the seventh but couldn't match Livonia's 13 runs.

Spigarelli said the team has enough men but is short a few women. Canton women 55-years-old and over who'd like to play can call her at 397-1000 ext. 278.

Canton Craigers are all smiles

slugfest. Canton overcame a barrage of hits, including a grand slam, to conquer Allen Park, 14-10.

John Lenders collected two hits, one an in the park home run, to lead the Canton attack. Dan Young and Duane Bennett also came through for Craiger, both adding key hits.

Clark went three innings on the mound, and cracked two hits to support his own cause. Adam Kocik replaced Clark in the fourth and threw the next four innings for Craiger.

The Craigers' next game is tomorrow night against Windsor at Windsor.

Salem struggles early in season

"Right now we definitely need a lot of hitting practice and hopefully the kids will come around. Lately we haven't been ready to play. We've got a talented group, but it all depends on their attitudes."

Earlier in the week, Salem's pitching staff had trouble getting the ball over the plate as it fell to Melvindale on Thursday, 8-6. Salem knocked off Walled Lake last Tuesday, 10-4, but was stymied by Southgate last Saturday, 1-0.

At the start of the season, Salem rattled off three straight wins against Southfield (20-4), Canton (6-5) and West Seven (11-1).

Despite the squads recent struggle, Dawson said that he'd been pleased with the efforts of Bryan Drewry and Rob Adams.
