

Teachers' pact: 2 more years at 5 %

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

A tentative two-year contract extension has been agreed upon by Plymouth-Canton Schools administration and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) and is set for a ratification vote tomorrow.

Negotiators agreed to an extension package for the 1986-87 and 1987-88 school years which includes a five per cent wage increase in both years and improvements to the longevity pay, coaching pay, and retirement recognition bonus.

"Obviously we wouldn't be bringing it back to the membership if we didn't think it was a good deal," said Tom Cotner, PCEA negotiator. "It's a pretty good deal for the district too."

The expedited contract was accomplished in two meetings, said Norm Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel. "We met once a month ago and talked about it. Last week we said 'Here's something we can do' and they liked it. We wrapped it up in two meetings. This is an extension of the contract, where all of the provisions except the ones noted continue unchanged."

Cotner said the expedited bargaining -- also used successfully last year to extend the contract one year -- "Shows the district has come a long way, that they can work things out peaceably."

Cotner said the PCEA was pleased that two major issues that have been plaguing the staff for about the last five -- coaching pay and class size -- will be addressed under the

AT&T to close Sheldon Rd. plant

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

American Telephone and Telegraph Company will shut down its Sheldon Road operations by January 1986, company officials announced.

The 227 salaried and hourly workers employed at the plant were told of the company's decision in a meeting Friday. Company officials would not say how many workers would lose their jobs as a result of the shutdown. Transfers will be offered to as many workers as possible, a company spokesman said. ATT officials are currently negotiating with union and salaried employee representatives layoff pay, early retirement programs and compensation, for workers who will lose their jobs, said Bob Musgrave, an ATT spokesman at the company's Parsippany, N.J. headquarters.

Plant manager Joe Shaughnessy made the announcement to employees Friday afternoon in the company cafeteria.

"It's very difficult for just about everyone," said Jim Boyce, of the Sheldon plant's public relations and personnel staff.

Boyce said he didn't know exactly when the company will close its section of the plant except that "everybody will be gone by the end of the year."

About 600 hourly employees worked at the plant five years ago. Layoffs reduced the hourly workforce to its present 177, all of whom have over 15 years seniority with the company. Friday's announcement wasn't surprising to many.

City debates road paving

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

The City Commission is scheduled Monday to approve or reject the assessment rolls for the street paving program.

If the rolls are approved by the commission, the city can begin selling the bonds which will finance the project.

The commission held a public hearing on the rolls May 21. About 20 property owners attended and 10 people addressed the commission, mostly in opposition of the program.

In a speech before the meeting, City Engineer Ken West said the paving program is expected to keep streets in good shape for 10 years. He said the Man suspected in 4 assaults on bike path

BY ED FITZGERALD

Canton Police have arrested a man in connection with four of the seven sexual assaults on the I-275 bicycle path last summer.

Darrell Paul Morey, 35, of Canton, was arrested last Wednesday and is being held in Wayne County Jail in lieu of a $200,000 bond.

Morey has been charged with one count of first degree criminal sexual conduct.

Seven attacks were reported from June through August of 1984. Morey was identified by four of those victims at a police line-up at the Wayne County Jail last Friday.

Sergeant Alex Wilson of the Canton Township Police Department said 3 additional criminal warrants are being sought for Morey, including another

Thursday rollover closes I-275 ramp

A SEMI-TRAILER TRUCK rolled over on the northbound entrance to I-275 at Ann Arbor Road at 9:35 a.m. Thursday, closing the ramp for several hours. Driver John Somes was pinned inside the cab in the rollover, police said and rescue workers had to use the 'jaws of life' to free him. Somes was transported to St. Mary's with leg injuries, police said. Fuel leakage at the side complicated clean-up efforts, police said. Somes had just left the K-Mart warehouse with a load of merchandise. (Crier photo by Rachael Dolson)

Students 'contract' to stay safe this graduation

Local kids involved in Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) are gearing up this week for a big push to keep prom and graduation nights safe for Plymouth-Canton School students.

Senior Lisa Vary said the group will be passing out copies of 'Contract for Life' this week, an agreement parents and students sign. Prom for CEP students is this week and graduation is next weekend.

Under the contract, the student agrees not to drive after drinking and the parent agree to pick the student up.

"It's something we had all been expecting," said one employe who asked not to be named. "There was pessimism creeping into even us optimists. It finally hit."

Ameritech, a competing company which owns Michigan Bell, bought the Sheldon Road plant from ATT last January. ATT's lease with Ameritech runs out at the end of the year, Musgrave said. ATT opened the plant in 1958.

The Plymouth service center handles residential phone repairs and was one of three ATT plants that got shutdown notices Friday. The other two are in Miami, Florida and Kent, Washington.

Musgrave said the plant closings would offer "considerable savings" to the company and were made in an effort to improve the company's standing in the marketplace.

The plant closings represent "the continuation of ATT's long-term program begun in July 1983 to reduce costs and improve space utilization," said a company press release.

The Sheldon plant's repair business will be transferred to Cleveland but Musgrave said the company plans to open a smaller operation in the area.

The company would decide where to locate the new operation within six months, said Musgrave.

Employees were told the new facility would employ 30-60. They were also told company officials would hand out transfer request sheets.

"We're going to do everything possible, if employes are in fact laid off, to make sure they come out of it as well as possible," Musgrave said.

Ray Most, president of the Communications Workers of America local that represents the Sheldon plant ATT workers was not available for comment Friday.

Musgrave said ATT is facing more competition in the telephone equipment market.

League call-in Thursday

The League of Women Voters will have a candidates forum on Thursday, May 30 to acquaint voters in the Plymouth-Canton School District with the certified candidates for the school board.

The forum will be broadcast from Omnicom's cable vision studio, 8465 Ronda Drive in Canton, at 7:30 p.m. The format of the forum will change this year from participation only by the audience to viewer participation, said Jacquelyn B. Westbay of the League. Instead of having to drive to the forum location, she said, residents will for the first time be able to view the forum on television. An audience call-in for questions is planned.

Two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Board are up for election on June 10 -- a two-year and a four-year. There are three candidates for each seat.

Two League volunteers will screen callers to choose questions to pose to one or all of the candidates. All candidates have indicated they will participate in the forum.

Canton seeks chief with leadership

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

The primary issue with the Canton Police?

Leadership -- with a capital "C" as in new chief.

Talks last Wednesday between the Canton Police Committee and the Canton Police Steering Committee revealed the selection of a chief for the department is the primary concern among members of both groups.

Trustees Loren Bennett, Bob Padget and Supervisor James Poole sit on the Canton Police Committee. Padget was absent for the joint session and Bennett chaired the meeting.

The Canton Police Steering Committee is comprised of approximately 15 police officers and police personnel who have volunteered to work with the committee. Several members of the group were absent from the session.

Both committees were started at the recommendation of the Bartell and Bartell, LTD, a consulting firm hired by Canton to study and correct problems in the Canton Police Department.

The Wednesday session began with a discussion on moving and furniture costs for the new police facility. The Canton Police Department will be moved from its Geddes Road location to a new police facility next to Canton Township Hall on Canton Center Road in July.

The conversation moved quickly into other areas, however, and leadership became the primary focus of discussion.

Bennett initiated talk of department leadership by suggesting both committees consider a plan to hire high ranking officers rather than promote them from within the force.

"It has been expressed in several quarters that we always promote from within the police department and have no role models -- officers that have been on the force for a long time.

"I heard one of the major complaints with (Former Police Chief Jerry) Cox was his inexperience," Bennett said. "It is possible to bring someone into the command structure who has experience."

The plan met with opposition by some Steering Committee members who felt the elimination of internal promotions would demoralize officers. They also felt leadership would have to come from the new chief.

Officer Daniel Antieau, a member of the Steering Committee, said department morale is now at its lowest point. Antieau attributed the problem to low self-esteem among the officers and a lack of qualified leadership on the force.

"When you bring in people from the outside you could be bringing in more dead wood from the outside. We tried this six years ago with the sergeants and it's my opinion in half the cases the department got no where with the men hired."

Antieau said the elimination of internal promotions -- even on a temporary basis as Bennett suggested -- would take away officer incentive to improve and upgrade police skills.

Acting Police Chief Larry Stewart disagreed with Antieau about morale in the department, but did say the most vocal people in the department are unhappy and are influencing the moods of other members.

Antieau said officers are seeking consistent treatment and some positive recognition from department leaders. The majority of officers, Antieau said, are looking to the new police chief to provide these things.

Antieau said the selection of the new chief was important for the officers.

Antieau said the officers are ready for a "tough chief -- or at least the guys who are the real workers in the department are ready for that. We're putting a lot of stock in who that new chief is."

Bennett said the Canton Township Board of Trustees and the Canton Police Committee were seeking chief candidates "who will be the most qualified individual available.

"We can't control morale -- we can only try to keep it high," Bennett continued. "If the leaders in the department are demoralized and complaining there will never be good morale.

"We've started with an inferior foundation and we've tried to build on that since," Bennett said. "But time is going to be the healing factor. If everything falls into place with the hiring of a new chief time will be the factor."

Bennett acknowledged it would be up to the Canton Board of Trustees to hire a qualified chief.

He encouraged input into the chief selection process from both members of the Steering Committee and other police officers in the department. A chief selection task force has been formed to help aid the board with the chief's selection.

"This is an important choice," Bennett said. "You people know what is needed in your department the most."

Dearborn cops named 'Raided' couple files suit

BY CHERYLEBERWEIN

A lawsuit has been filed against the Dearborn Police Department by a Canton Township couple whose home was raided by mistake in February.

The Dearborn Police led the raid and allegedly held their guns on the terrified couple before realizing they were in the wrong apartment.

Michael Smith, 29, and Tama Monroe, 26, are charging the Dearborn Police Department with assault and battery, trespassing, violation of their civil rights and unreasonable search and seizure without cause. The couple is also charging the owners of Honeytree Apartment Complex in Canton, where they live, with negligence.

The pair is seeking over $10,000 in damages for each count in the lawsuit.

The incident occurred Feb. 14 at approximately 6:15 p.m. A three department police raid on an apartment behind Smith and Monroe's resulted in the couple's apartment being broken into by mistake.

According to police reports, Dearborn Police and Livonia Police arrived at Honeytree Apartments on Joy Road to execute a drug raid that night. Canton Police were called in to assist both departments but were not directly involved in the raid.

While Livonia officers broke into the apartment directly in back of the couples', Dearborn Police mistakenly broke into Smith and Monroe's. Dearborn Police officers involved said they thought the apartment was the same apartment with a back door entrance.

Smith told reporters Dearborn Police held them at gunpoint without identifying themselves for several minutes before realizing their mistake. They left the apartment without a word of apology, Smith said.

Dearborn Police Chief John Connolly acknowledged the mistake had occurred and said there was no excuse for his officers breaking into the wrong apartment. He said, however, the officers apologized to the couple. He said the Dearborn Police asked Smith his name upon first entering the apartment and when he told them, they left with an apology.

Smith and Monroe are charging that the raid has caused them unnecessary mental anguish and duress. They also claim they live in fear and trepidation as a result of the mistake.

They are charging the Honeytree Apartment owners with supplying police with wrong information about the apartment layout although the apartment management claims it did not discuss the matter with the Dearborn Police.

The case has been filed in circuit court.

John Foren, a reporter for the Dearborn Press and Guide Newspaper, contributed to this report.

tentative agreement.

There will be an improvement to the 'B' schedule, the scale used to pay teachers for coaching and other extra curricular work, under the agreement. Also, the schedule in the future will automatically be tied into the regular teaching pay scale and will increase when it does.

Cotner said the tentative agreement includes a dollar figure that the district will spend to decrease class size. Cotner said that amount will not be disclosed until after the ratification vote tomorrow. "It means more jobs, it will do something for class sizes at all levels, but especially at the middle school level where the problem is the most critical."

Kee said the changes to the longevity provisions means that teachers will get a bonus base salary improvement in their 16th, 21st and 26th years with the district. The recognition of service award given to district retirees has been upped from $50 to $100, Kee said.

The potential effect of the snow day bill has also been addressed by the tentative agreement. The bill sets a minimum number of school days regardless of snow days. "If anything occurs that necessitates a change in the school calendar, we will meet with them to adjust the calendar," Kee said.

If a quorum of the union membership approves the tentative agreement tomorrow, the pact will go on to formal ratification at building level, Cotner said. If approved, the school board could okay the contract extension at their Tuesday, June 11, board meeting.

Grocery bagger returns to run the show

If you've lived here long enough, you should remember the Kroger chain had a store on Forest Avenue in the heart of Plymouth. Possibly a trainee named Wendell Smith, who graduated from Michigan State University 30 years ago this spring, even bagged your groceries.

Well, Wendell is back in our midst at the age of 51 and in the role of president and co-owner of the 41-store Chatham Super Market chain, 33 of them being identified as Chatham outlets and eight as Pak-N-Save food warehouse stores.

His partner is 30-year-old Keith Alessi, formerly of Canton. They have come here from Chicago where Smith was president and Alessi secretary-treasurer of Certified Grocers of Illinois, a $770 million cooperative food wholesaler with more than 400 member retailers.

The entity they formed with financial aid from Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust plus other venture capital investors to swing this multi-million-dollar deal is called Nu-Trax, Inc., a play upon the phrase "new tracks." Alessi is executive vice-president and both men plan to move their families back into this community.

Their backgrounds are heavy on emphasis of their Jaycee involvement. Alessi, a certified public accountant who holds degrees from Wayne State University and the University of Michigan, was president of the Canton Township Jaycees in 1980. Smith was president of the Plymouth Jaycees in 1964, vaulted to the state presidency two years later and then to the position of national Jaycee president in 1968. That's when he left Kroger and also moved from Plymouth.

It was Terry West, well known locally as another outstanding junior lightningbug of Smith's generation who brought the two men together three years ago when Terry heard from Wendell that the latter was seeking a top-notch financial man for the Certified Grocers organization.

West is now a vice-president with the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co.

A few midnights ago, the four of us sat around a table as Smith, in particular, held court translating his single-spaced, 17-page professional resume to an oral dissertation on marketing, pinpointing what lies ahead for Nu-Trax, Chatham et al.

"We're here to stay," he declared. "You have two very unique Michiganers back to run Chatham and say 'Yes to Michigan' and 'Yes to the metropolitan area.' We're going to take these stores and tailor each to its town, its neighborhood and to its idiosyncrasies.

"I don't care if we have 'Mama Smith's Plymouth Fudge,' if it's made here, we'll sell it in Plymouth. We have no limitations. We're coming in with a new enthusiastic attitude called 'let's get on with building the business' and which bills us as the number one community grocers. "Chatham is a community food store with value products, freshness and quality. Keith and I are oriented to Michigan. We have covered every store over 10,000 square feet in Michigan. We worked the state for two and a half years. We had the goal of coming back to Michigan and being in business for ourselves. We are entrepreneurs and will look for continuous acquisitions."

Refurbishing of the Chatham store on Ann Arbor Road can be expected and both Smith and Alessi point to creation of a new excitement through increased variety of products.

A strong friend and supporter of former gubernatorial candidate Richard Headlee, Smith declined to say whether he has any personal political aspirations, remarking, "The short-range program is to pay back the bankers."

However, the fact that at MSU Smith was an officer of 23 of the 32 campus organizations in which he participated hints at more than a passing interest in the elective process. Gentlemen, welcome home.

League will still control video forum

EDITOR:

A recent editorial opinion by Rachael Dolson raises questions regarding the upcoming League of Women Voters' Plymouth-Canton School Board candidates' forum on May 30. As Dolson points out, these forums provide an opportunity for interested voters to become informed about the candidates and their knowledge of the issues.

The cooperative effort with Omnicom in producing a live broadcast will encourage participation by a larger segment of the voting public. As in past League forums, there will be opening and closing statements by the candidates and questions from the audience both in and out of the studio. The studio audience will be able to submit written questions. Call-in questions will also be submitted in written form and subjected to the same screening process as other questions. The League will have no less control than we have had at previous forums.

As in the past, the League relies heavily on local press publicity for candidates' forums. Newspapers enable us to reach a larger number of voters with our information and we appreciate the assistance The Community Crier has given us in providing this public service.

Dolson does raise interesting questions relative to the role of the press in candidates' forums. Leagues across the country, including our own, have experimented with a variety of formats. Representatives of the press have been participants in national and state League forums; however, press representatives will not have an active role in this particular forum. We welcome working with the press as we strive toward an ever-increasing involvement of voters in the informational process.

The League of Women Voters is a national non-partisan organization. The purpose of the League is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government issues. The policy of the League is to study and to take action on governmental issues and policies in the public interest.

Symphony Board plays God; fires van der Merwe

EDITOR:

When the Plymouth Symphony Board members decided to fire Johan van der Merwe after the season was completed and said, "We're doing this for the good of the orchestra," it put me in mind of Adolf Hitler when he said, "We're doing this for the good of Germany."

Do they really know what they're doing?

Do those people know what in the world they've done?!

I'll tell you. They've:

1) Fired an excellent conductor without due process;

2) Trampled on the rights and feelings of the orchestra members;

3) Completely disregarded a voiced vote by a majority of the membership of the orchestra;

4) Surrounded themselves with, listened to and allowed themselves to be influenced by self-seeking persons.

The Symphony Board has to learn one great lesson: The Plymouth Symphony is not in existence to serve the self-directed, self-seeking aims of the board. On the contrary, the board exists to serve the needs, direction and audience — present and future — of the Plymouth symphony.

This cannot be achieved in the present state of affairs. The board must consult the orchestra membership, by way of a representative, in regard to every move they intend to make which would affect the future of the orchestra. This dismissal of the former representative from attendance at board meetings because "there are board actions about which the orchestra membership need not be aware" speaks most strongly of their determination not to communicate their thinking to the membership at large.

What do they think they are — some autonomous anonymity? Some star chamber?

They can't manipulate without consultation. Does the board want change in the PSO? All right; consult, step by step, with the membership. Tell them the board's intentions and wait for feedback. Don't put those thoughts in the hands of so-called "players' committee" that is supposed to communicate with the membership and doesn't.

The board doesn't ask; they make decisions and pass them on; decisions over which they have no right to have any control — soloists, conductors, literature, yes-or-no childrens' concerts.

They hire an Orchestra General Manager, at a salary many people would love to earn, to write what I think are boring, pedestrian program notes and make artistic decisions for which I'll bet you anything he has barely any qualifications.

I'll go you one bet farther — I'll bet you anything that they have, and have had for some time, someone like Charles Greenwell or Russell Reed in the wings, waiting to take over.

Before Gunther Herbig's appointment, the orchestra membership was given an opportunity to vote their approval. Is the PSO board any better than the DSO board? I don't care how fantastic the new conductor may be, they have no right to bring him/her in without a tryout and approval by the orchestra. As awkward an allusion as it may seem, would you buy a new car without test-driving it?

What makes me really angry is the thought that, long before the April 18 meeting of the program committee, the board probably already knew that van der Merwe was not going to be asked back. Still, they let him attend that meeting and plan what he thought was going to be his season. What a contemptible farce!

If they had any collective brains, they'd have kept van der Merwe for at least one more year and not thrown the wet blanket of upheaval over the PSO on its 40th anniversary. Their actions probably won't destroy the PSO, but I know from 35 years' experience as an orchestra musician that the group will be severely demoralized.

I don't care how much money the board brought in this year; that's their job. Stick to it. They should not apply themselves to areas in which they have no expertise.

The next time the board decides to fire a conductor, I hope they will have the courage to do it to his/her face — person to person — not through the anonymity of a letter — and give him/her a chance to say farewell to the orchestra that he/she had sweated blood to mold and train and lead to the greatest heights of achievement in its 40-year history.

The PSO board is a group of mortals; they shouldn't play God.

Down The Road

By Brian Lysaght

In the never-ending speed limit battle between police and motorists, police have the upper hand. Everybody knows that -- or do they?

Even radar detectors don't even the odds.

I spent a couple hours on Memorial Day Monday riding with State Police Trooper Bob Garcia of the Northville Post who was assigned a section of I-275 running through Plymouth Township, Canton and points south.

Memorial Day is traditionally one of the heaviest highway traffic days in Michigan, with thousands of people in the state returning home from holiday travels.

Garcia, the post's community service trooper, normally doesn't draw highway duty. The Northville post doesn't usually have eight cars on the road like they did Monday; they usually have four. Garcia was patrolling as part of Operation CARE, or Combined Accident Reduction Effort, a federally funded program charged with arresting drunk drivers and ticketing speeders.

Garcia said his afternoon shift task was to remain visible and slow traffic on the bustling highway.

But being invisible helps some. Garcia parked his car high along the entrance ramp to I-275 from Ann Arbor Road. There, he waited and watched the highway for speeding cars or trucks. State Police troopers, he explained, are trained to estimate vehicle speeds both in stationary and moving positions. They have to estimate within four miles per hour the speeds of cars in 25 straight tests.

In less than a minute, he picks up a racer and peels off after it. He slips in behind the car, takes a radar reading of 68 miles per hour than throws on the red lights.

The suprised motorist, fuzz buster on the dash, admitted he sped up a bit to pass some cars but had since slowed down. No matter, he got a ticket.

While Garcia's car was radar equipped, he didn't use radar to clock all the cars he stopped. He can do a visual estimate of the car's speed then clock it on his speedometer.

One motorist, who was clocked without radar, quickly pulled his fuzz buster off the dashboard when he saw the red lights flashing in his rear-view mirror.

Garcia says there isn't a shortage of speeders, whether the roadway is I-275 or Main Street in Plymouth.

"There's no need to give out any bad tickets, because if just wait, another guy will come by and you can get him," Garcia said.

And another Garcia policy: It doesn't matter what the wheels look like, a speeder is a speeder.

"Hey if they deserve it, they get it."

He then pulled his car beneath a viaduct along the highway and pointed the radar gun at approaching and unsuspecting vehicles. It didn't take long to spot a station wagon pushing 70 mph.

"You can catch speeders all day at that place," he said.

Garcia issued tickets to six cars in less than two hours without seeming to try too hard.

Along with a ticket, Garcia handed out a pair of pamphlets describing the state's seat belt law which will go into effect July 1.

Pointing to the stack of pamphlets in the car, Garcia says: "Notice I'm an optimist, I've got about 50 of each."

Graduation caution:

Summer approaches quickly and with it the grand tradition of high school graduation. For the seniors at Salem and Canton, it's a time to don cap and gown, reflect on 13 years of school, and dream of what is to come.

It is also a time to celebrate. Celebrating is painting outrageous slogans on rusted out four wheel bombs, driving around town horns blaring and rubbing elbows with classmates at parties.

But a note of caution must be thrown in amidst the fun: Don't drink and drive. If you drink, let someone sober drive.

With graduation approaching, the rules seemingly have been suspended. But the rules of common sense apply as always.

Celebrate this great accomplishment safely. Don't endanger friends or loved ones by getting behind the wheel of a car when you're not sober enough to drive.

You're smart enough to know that.

AAUW presents plaques for Michigan Week

Grange, Eastlake House cited for historical value

Michigan Week observance in the community included the annual presentation of Landmark plaques by the Plymouth branch, American Association of University Women. The Curtis Eastlake House at 168 Union Street and the Plymouth Grange on Union Street received the 1985 Heritage day plaques.

Months of research by members of the AAUW Landmark Committee precede the selection of buildings worthy of bearing a Landmark Plaque. Results of their findings are recorded in a history of each building.

The annual presentation of a Landmark plaque is awarded to homes or buildings that have architectural or historical significance.

The Grange

The Grange, the oldest farm organization in the world, continues to be represented in Plymouth by activities at the Grange Hall on Union Street.

The Grange has worked for 112 years for legislation enabling Land Grant Colleges, good roads, Great Lake Waterways and the rural free delivery of mail and parcel post. The Grange also has promoted pure food laws and has worked for the passage of social security legislation.

A strong advocate for farmers, the Grange worked dilligently to pass laws allowing farmers to keep a fair proportion of profits from their labors. Railroad and middlemen profits from agriculture were controlled.

The Grange, a rural fraternity, was the first to admit women on an equal basis with men.

The Grange backed legislation establishing a Bureau of Labor Statistics. This showcased the prevalence of children under 14 years of age in the work force. It led to compulsory school attendance laws for six months of the year.

The state Grange was organized in 1873. The Plymouth lodge was founded in 1874.

The Plymouth Grange Hall was built by Phil Markham, in 1901. Markham, a Plymouth air rifle industrialist, built the building as a carriage house in conjunction with his stately Queen Anne Victorian home located to the west. The carriage house was home to Markham's "matched grey" horses. Upstairs were living quarters for a caretaker for the estate. The carriage house featured hard wood box stalls for the horses and an indoor "privy." This area was heated by a coal stove.

George and Harriet Wilcox purchased the Markham home and carriage house in 1911. Their son, Jack Wilcox presently lives in this home. The Wilcox family sold the carriage house to the local Grange lodge for a meeting hall in 1912. The purchase price was recorded as $2,500. Early records state that $590 was required to put the building in order for Grange meetings which have continued since 1913.

The local Grange in addition to its lodge activities and social welfare advocacy was early a center for social activities in the trading area of Plymouth. In the 1920s and 1930s dances were enjoyed at the hall. A fire on the second floor in 1931 caused some remodeling into two meeting rooms and a modern kitchen. Further improvements were made in 1960.

The Grange continues community service in the Plymouth area working closely with the Lions Club, the Salvation Army, and the Historical Society.

The building housed the Antique Mart in the early years of Plymouth's Fall Festival. A tradition for festival participants is to go to the Grange Hall for a delicious snack or supper. They know this will be good homemade food complete with the best apple pie in town. This project is spearheaded by Grange members with help from other local volunteers.

"We salute the Grange for their distinguished service to the country, state, and community," AAUW researcher Mary Fritz said.

Eastlake House

The Curtis Eastlake House at 168 Union Street in Plymouth gets its name from the original owner and builder, Charles Curtis, and from a unique architectural style referred to as Eastlake.

When one passes by 168 Union, some of the outstanding features to note would be its elaborate coloration, frilly ironwork, decorative gables with spindles and knobs, tower, stained glass, lattice work, scroll brackets and unusual front porch. Eastlake was a popular decorative style of ornamentation found on houses of various other styles, (Victorian Gothic, Stick Style and Queen Anne) from 1870 to 1890. This decorative style is named for Charles L. Eastlake, an English interior designer and critic of Gothic Revival style. He translated elements of furniture design that he admired (posts, railings, baluster and pendants) into decorations for the exteriors of houses.

When Charles Curtis built the house in 1893, the tower and many of the architectural features were pretty much out of style. However, Curtis was in his 60's by this time, and it is easy to imagine that he had been planning his dream house for years. He did not spend very many years enjoying the show place he built, because he died in 1895 at the age of 65.

Records indicate that Curtis built the house in 1893, but ownership of the land dates back to 1825, when it was part of the original parcel owned by William Starkweather. The land changed hands many times. In 1872 it was owned by Henry Fralick, a member of one of the early merchant families in Plymouth. That was the year this property, along with other land in the area owned by Fralick, became a part of the then Village of Plymouth. The property is still listed officially as the Fralick addition to the City of Plymouth.

After Curtis died, his wife was the first in a series of women who had to care for the place themselves. In 1901, Mrs. Curtis sold the place to Mr. and Mrs. Mott. The Motts had lived on a farm and wanted to move into town. Mott died in 1904 and Mrs. Mott lived in the house until her death in 1928.

After Mrs. Mott's death, her family rented the house. Again women lived in the house by themselves. A Mrs. Strauz lived there with her children for years. This house was seldom empty.

A family named Carroll bought the house in 1946. When widowed, Mrs. Carroll, like Mrs. Mott took in boarders. Mrs. Carroll sold the house to the Livingstons, a couple who lived in this house, well into their 80's.

In February of 1983 (90 years after it was built) the Joseph Garcia family, the present owners, bought the home which was in less than perfect condition. Garcia and his wife Sylvia have done extensive work in restoring the house on the inside and outside, from the basement to the top of the tower.

The exterior of the house has an unusual color combination of antique assessment would cost $599 for a 50-foot-foot lot, payable over 10 years.

Property assessments will fund 75 per cent of the program's estimated $550,000 price tag. The city will fund the remaining 25 per cent.

Assessments are based on the cost of the entire project not on cost per street.

Twenty streets will be repaved in this, the first phase of what is expected to be a three year program eventually covering 60-100 streets, said City Manager Henry Graper.

But some property owners say the assessment process is inequitable.

David Barrett of Harding Street said while he agrees the city's streets need repaving, he said the program's benefits are not related to its costs. He said some streets will simply be resurfaced while others milled, recycled, then resurfaced.

The city, Barrett said, should assess in two groups. Properties on streets getting major repairs should be assessed separately from those on streets being only resurfaced, he said.

"Those of us living on streets having less work done are subsidizing those getting more work done," Barrett said.

Graper told Barrett he would consider the suggestion with the city's lawyers and incorporate it if there was time enough to get the project done this year.

Barrett will be given an answer at Monday's meeting, Graper said.

David Nicholson of Adams Street questioned the legality of the assessment process, saying it resulted in an "unfair distribution of the cost."

"In my opinion, and I am not an attorney, (the city's assessment procedure) is not in accordance with the procedure set by the State of Michigan by statute," Nicholson said.

The statute requires costs be tied directly to the benefit derived by a project, Nicholson said.

When asked if he would consider a lawsuit, Nicholson said he would wait and see if the commission approves the rolls.

Evergreen Street was dropped from the project after property owners complained they were told by the city administration that their street's resurfacing in 1975 would last 15 years.

Property owners on two other streets, Hartsough and Roosevelt, have presented the commission with petitions asking their streets be dropped from the program. The commission will consider the petitions Monday, Graper said.

Graper said while the rolls could have been figured based on costs per street, the city traditionally has based its street paving assessments on total costs.

To assess each street individually would be time consuming and costly, requiring individual public hearings for each street, Graper said.

Another resident at the meeting questioned why Park Place, the street she lives on, was being included in the paving program.

"I'm not an engineer and I'm not a consultant but I'm a bit puzzled as to why Park Place was chosen," said Freda O'Day.

"No one uses it unless they live on it," O'Day said.

Graper and West said the streets were chosen based on their condition. The state requires the city to conduct a highway needs study every two years, West said. The roads chosen for the program were found to be in disrepair, West said.

Dispatch error causes delay in response

A dispatch error caused a response delay last Wednesday when employees at the K-Mart warehouse in Canton dialed 9-1-1, a Plymouth number, seeking an ambulance.

Arvilla Gilbert, 57, of Northville, who requested the ambulance after complaining of chest pains was taken to Oakwood-Canton Center.

Canton Fire officials say the ambulance was requested at K-Mart, 41425 Joy Road, Canton in a phone call to the Plymouth emergency 9-1-1 number at 10:41 a.m. Canton does not have a 9-1-1 emergency number.

The City of Plymouth dispatcher mistakenly sent a township ambulance to the K-Mart store on Ann Arbor Road. The ambulance arrived at the store four minutes later and at the same people from the warehouse called 9-1-1 again to find out where the ambulance was.

At 10:51, a Plymouth Police officer arrived at the K-Mart Joy Road address and notified the Canton Fire Department's ambulance at 10:51 and arrived six minutes later.

The Canton Fire Department transported the woman to the hospital.

Canton Fire officials gave employees of the warehouse stickers and told them to call the Canton Fire Department directly next time they need emergency service.

Vietnamese refugee settles in, past not forgotten

BY ED FITZGERALD

Before setting down Yen Luu has opened a small case with a pin inside. She can't wait to show it off. Inscribed on the pin is the simple word "English." It was awarded to Yen, a senior at Plymouth-Canton High School, at an school honors ceremony last week.

In Yen's 19 years it was probably her proudest moment.

"It's pretty amazing when just 6 years ago I couldn't speak a word of English," she says.

A bit of immodesty is deserved in Yen's case. 6 years ago she left her native Vietnam unhappy with Communist rule and headed for the United States. Thanks to efforts of sponsor Father MacKinnon and Our Lady of Good Counsel, Yen (pronounced Een), her aunt and two younger brothers came to Plymouth.

Yen has worked with the Save the Children teaching program and started an International Club at school.

"She is just a fantastic person," says Nancy Swartzwelter, whose Plymouth Garden Club recently awarded Yen the first $500 Mabel Lorenz Scholarship. "She is remarkable," adds Helen Bilyea, another club member. "She is doing for herself and her people."

Yen had lived in Saigon and the recent 10th anniversary of the fall of Vietnam's capital brought bittersweet memories. Mostly because her parents and younger sister remain. Now she fights an uphill battle to bring her family to the states.

"We are trying to get my family visas but it's not a question of money. It's politics," Yen says. "It's sad what has happened in our country. I remember when the Communists came. They promised so much. But there is no food, no meat. Friends I know have quit school or seen them closed. Now they sell on the Black Market."

Yen communicates with her family through letters.

"We write each other and we both cry when we read them," she says. "They sent me a picture of my sister and I didn't even recognize her. I thought it was an old picture of me."

Flying to the states, Yen had a layover in Indonesia. It was a 15 month stay in a refugee camp. As forgettable as the camp was Yen says it helped her adjust to the states. At the camp, Yen suffered an eight month bout with rheumatism. Water was scarcer, sometimes requiring a 10-20 mile walk. Writing was done on a sardine label. But the time in Indonesia taught her how to get along with foreigners (remember we're foreigners too).

"Even though we had the same color of skin we couldn't communicate," Yen says. "They (Indonesia) kept us isolated because they were afraid we might be bringing disease from another country. But I didn't give up. I tried to look at the positive side."

YEN POINTED to the fountain in Kellogg Park as example of how Americans take what they have for granted. At her Indonesian refugee camp water was sometimes a 20-mile walk away. (Crier photo by Ed Fitzgerald)

The positive side surfaced. Yen saw the Indonesians warm up to her and her people.

"They would come up and make a sign to your stomach to see if you were hungry," she said. "They'd say 'If you're hungry here's food. If you need a roof over your head here's a place to stay.' People think of them as uncivilized but I think of them as pure."

Yen knew when she reached the states she would have to seek acceptance all over again.

In Plymouth, a town something less than a melting pot, Yen has experienced some prejudice. Again, she understands.

"The high school kids, if they'd been taught more about other countries would understand other people more," she says. "A first I felt proud. I thought 'I know your language but you don't know mine.' Then I realized the heck with that. I just felt isolated."

"I had friends who had come over here (U.S.) and experienced trouble, like rocks thrown through their windows. They decided just to leave and most of them ended up in California's Chinatowns. I decided I was not going to hold anything against all of Americans. You have to treat each person individually."

Yen says she is now focusing on her upcoming college career at Michigan State University. She is sure of her field of study but bookwork seems a natural.

"With all that has been done for me I feel I want to contribute something back to society. I hate when students have the opportunity to go to college and don't take advantage of it. They don't know how lucky they are."

In memory of ...

ANGELA FOUNTAIN places a rose near a memorial plaque for fellow student Bobby Bridges who died last fall. Eriksson School has two trees planted — one in memory of Bobby and one for Bill Lutes, former school principal. One of the trees was destroyed by vandals during the winter. Donations founded the purchase of a new tree and for memorial plaques for both trees. Principal Ron South led a small group in a dedication service Friday. Angela and fellow students E.J. Sieracki and Tanya Schwartz read poems on friendship. As these trees grow taller, perhaps we will think of our friend with less pain, perhaps less often," South said during the ceremony. SADD to hold summer picnics

Under the contract, parents can't punish their children for exercising the pick-up clause.

Vary said enough underclassmen are involved in the local SADD group, which just started meeting last month, to keep it going and get official recognition from the national SADD organization. Vary said the group has met five times, after school on Wednesdays in the upper commons.

"There hasn't been a whole lot of interest shown, but we've been getting more and more each week. We started started late and a majority of kids are busy because it's summer and the end of the year," Vary said.

Senior Sean Budlong said they hope to have some activities -- picnics, softball games -- this summer for the group. "So that people realize you can have fun without driving and besides we don't want the group to be constant work and no fun."

He says he has great hopes for an active SADD chapter. "Actually we have more underclassmen involved that seniors. Next year's juniors seem very interested in having an active group next year."

Man arraigned on CSC charge

1st degree sexual conduct, a 2nd degree sexual conduct and an assault with intent to commit sexual conduct.

Morey was arraigned last Thursday in Plymouth's 35th district Court by Judge John MacDonald. He is scheduled for a preliminary hearing June 4 in the same court.

Wilson said Morey was arrested on the basis of a lead developed last week. Morey was arrested on an assault and battery charge in Van Buren Township on May 13, 1985. Wilson said the circumstances of that attack matched the bicycle path attacks.

Canton police arrested Jeffrey Gruber August 21, for one of the seven attacks. Gruber pled guilty to assault and battery. Wilson said he expects to clear Morey in one of the two unsolved bike path attacks. In the other attack, police have not been able to contact the victim for possible identification.

The last two reported attacks occurred a day apart on August 18 and 19, 1984. The first attack was reported in early June.

In Flanders Fields

IN Flanders fields where poppies grow
And where the crosses row by row
Now mark our dead,
Sleeping beneath the silent sod,
A witness both to man and God
That fear had fled:

The gates of death refuse to hide
The valor of our men who died
In Freedom's fight;
Out from their graves in Flanders fields
The crimson soil a harvest yields.
Sweet hope, glad peace and light.

Fisher, Ford engineer

William Arnold Fisher, 50, of Dearborn, formerly of Plymouth, died May 20 in Dearborn. Services were held May 23 at the Schrader Funeral Home with the Rev. John N. Grenfell, Jr. officiating.

Mr. Garrison was born in Durham, NC. in 1935 and moved to Plymouth in 1967 from Virginia. He was a manufacturing engineer at Ford Motor Company since 1961. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth and a former member of the Plymouth Evening Kiwanis. He served with the 82nd Airborne during the Korean conflict and graduated from North Carolina State University in 1961.

Memorial contributions may be given to the Washtenaw Council on Alcoholism.

olive, antique gold and old fashioned white that contrasts and harmonizes nicely. The front porch has a very narrow area caused by the vestibule jutting out. This makes it most difficult to reach the wider area of the porch.

Once you step inside the front door it is like taking a step back in time to a Victorian era. In the front hall is an elaborate newel post at the bottom of the bannister made of walnut. There are large sliding doors that are used to separate the rooms. Heavy woodwork with the bullseye pattern frames all the windows and doors in the house.

The furnishings, light fixtures, pictures, rugs and hardware on the doors and cupboards are very ornate in detail. In addition to this, Sylvia Garcia's lovely hand-made crocheted pieces, tasseled lampshades, fancy pillows, needlepoint, candlewicking and tablecloths are all in keeping with the "fancy" touches of the Victorian era.

The tower is another intriguing feature. There are two attic-type rooms up there. The lower one is reached by steep circular stairs. Then a ladder would go up to the higher room. In the higher room there are four windows jutting out in four directions. The Garcias' think that the very top of the tower can be pushed open like a trap door. Maybe Curtis liked to come up and gaze out the windows; maybe even climb out the top to look at the surrounding countryside. Garcia noted that these windows were opened during warm weather and worked very effectively as a way to cool the house. His family still benefits by this cooling system today.

"Joe and Sylvia Garcia are to be applauded for their restoration efforts in bringing this Eastlake House back to life in such a fine manner, at 168 Union Street," said AAUW researcher Gerry Dugan.

Ford officials plan Sheldon plant administrative office addition

Ford Motor Company's Climate Control Division broke ground May 22 for a two-story expansion of the administrative building of its Sheldon Road plant in Plymouth Township.

Division General manager William H. Fike broke ground with the same shovel that was used in groundbreaking for the Sheldon Road plant nearly 20 years ago.

The addition to the existing north wing will enable the division to bring together for the first time all members of the general office staff. The 110 employees who will occupy the new facilities will include 26 members of the division procurement office who will be transferred from Dearborn.

The project is the culmination of ideas and goals conceived by employee involvement and participative management committees at the plant. Fike noted.

"I am particularly pleased about this building expansion in that it represents a solution to problems raised by our employees," he said. "The addition in its final form will reflect the thinking and ingenuity of the employees who work here."

The structure will add 16,500 square feet, bringing the total plant footage to well over a million square feet of manufacturing and office space.

Construction is scheduled to start in June, with completion by the spring. Diehl and Diehl Architects, Inc. of Detroit, is performing architectural and engineering services.

The groundbreaking comes a year after the completion of the 140,000 square-foot facility for vacuum-brazing aluminum radiators for Ford vehicles. In the automated vacuum-brazing process, aluminum radiator components are fused together in electrically heated furnaces at a temperature of 1,100 degree Fahrenheit in a near-total vacuum -- about equal to the vacuum reached 100 miles in space.

The vacuum-brazing facility is the latest step in Ford's conversion to aluminum radiators, which are lighter, more efficient and more reliable than conventional soldered copper-brass units. Weight savings range from 20 to 40 per cent, depending on radiator size and application.

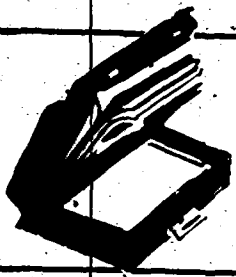

In a typical work day, the Sheldon Road plant produces an average of 18,800 radiators, heaters and air conditioners for Ford cars and trucks built in the United States and Canada. Current employment is approximately 1,330.

Bishop leaves others in diamond dust

BY JEFF BENNETT

Welcome to the center of the universe.

This is where, according to Canton coach Fred Crissey, everything revolves around the Salem and Canton rivalry.

But that has changed somewhat due to the Plymouth Invitational double header as Canton and Salem both played Davison and Bishop Gallagher.

"I think we put too much emphasis on our own community and I feel we should be exposed more to the other schools," said Crissey.

In the first game, Canton seemed to handle the new material by defeating Davison 13-9, but not until Davison came back from a 6-1 deficit.

In the second inning, Canton's John Lenders hit a two run homer putting Canton ahead by two.

Canton then built on to their lead with six runs in the third inning and only allowing one run for Davison.

When Davison came to bat in the fifth inning, they started to close in and tied the game 9-9.

The Chiefs did not let the game go that easy, they had two home runs in the bottom of the fifth from Lenders, and Tony Aiken to put them back on top 11-9.

Canton's Tom Kenyon and Mark Stevens finished the game off with two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning for the victory.

Chiefs advance in state play

Canton pitcher Mark Coburn leaped off the mound to snag a line drive that ended the game and sealed the Chief's 3-2 win over Walled Lake Central Friday.

Coburn tallied eight strikeouts through seven innings. While he looked sharp on the mound, especially in the early innings, the Chiefs looked sluggish.

Canton coach Fred Crissey said the team played flat. "Somedays you win, somedays you lose and somedays you play like that," Crissey explained. "We just played like that."

The Chiefs are now 22-5 after weekend play. Friday's win advances them in the state tournament. They face Walled Lake Western Saturday on the Warriors' home diamond.

Canton jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning against Central. They loaded the bases and Chris Sijler scored from third on a sacrifice fly.

Central tied things up in the fourth with a homerun to left field.

Dwayne Bennett picked up a pair of RBIs when he singled with the bases loaded on two outs in the fifth.

Central scored another in the sixth but the Chiefs held on for the win.

Boys tie for conference honors

Salem tracksters eye league meet

BY JEFF BENNETT

The Salem girls track team had fun on Saturday at the River Rat Relays, while the boys tuned up for the conference meet beating Bentley on Thursday.

Out of 16 teams, the girls placed seventh and scored in 14 out of the 19 events.

Salem girls coach Fred Thomann said the best score for Salem, was in the long jump relay with a second place total distance of 42'11". Nancy Smith, Janet Homestead, and Amy Johnson were the jumpers.

In the middle distance relay, Hedi Dupret, Martha Suddendorf, Cheryl Durrer and Denise Durrer claimed a fourth place with 7:02.1.

For the shot put relay, Rocks Karen Marciniak, Kendra Hostynski, and Laura Clifford took fifth with a 69'5" total throw.

Rocks Cheryl Durrer, Mary Beth West, Kristen Hostynski, and Denise Durrer took fourth in the one mile relay with a 4:10.2 time.

"The key to the relays was that we ran a lot of runners and had real good scoring and had fun," said Thomann. "They also gave out medals for eight places and the relays went fast, so in those regards it was fun."

The girls now focus in on the conference meet held on May 29 at Walled Lake Western beginning at 3:30.

"It's a big meet for the girls to be the best in your league," said Thomann.

The guys must be well tuned after the win over Bentley 94-44.

"This prepares us for the conference meet and it tied us with Farmington and Bentley for division champs," said boys coach Gary Balconi.

Tony Moore started the day off with a 5'8" first place high jump and Frank Moore followed with a first in the discus with 120'6".

In the pole vault, Ron Piweko took second with 11'6". Rock Mike White was first in the long jump with 21'2", followed by Brian Waldron with 20'7" and Doug Batsel with 19'6".

Marc Cygan was first in the shot put with 45'8" and Bill Justice was second with 42'7".

In the 3200 meter relay, Salem won with 8:26 due to Brian Valdu, Phil Adzima, Eric Pederson, and Scott Steiner.

White took first in the 110 high hurdles with :15.3 and Waldron followed with a first in the 100 meter dash with a :11.43 time.

The 800 meter and 400 meter relay, both teams claimed first with times of 1:34.86 and :45.27 respectively.

Rock Bill Ketos took third in the 1600 meter run with 4:42.69 and

League meet finishes season for Rock, Chief golf teams

BY JEFF BENNETT

The season came to a close last Thursday at the girls golf league meet with Canton taking sixth and Salem claiming seventh.

Ann Arbor Pioneer was first with 362 points, followed by Brighton, Saline, Howell, Ann Arbor Huron, Canton with 464, Salem, with 444, and Pickney.

"Beating two of the three teams we wanted to was all we could expect," said Canton coach Dan Riggs. "We came close to beating Huron."

The chiefs' top golfers for the 18 hole course at Ann Arbor Huron, consisted of Kathy Ross with a 99, Kelly Kirk with 118, Dawn Gollinger with 123, and Cathy Herron had 124.

"Ross helped us out all year by being No. 1," said Riggs.

Now that the season is over, Canton will be losing seniors Ross, Michelle Simion, and Herron.

"If we pull up the slack when they leave we will be all right," said Riggs.

Canton ends the season with 3-6-1.

For the Rocks, Julie Washburn and Jennifer Fife both had a 116, Lisa Belski had 124, JoAnne Baldwin had 138, Michelle Smith had 141 and Freshman Laura Nicholas had a 162.

"I was disappointed in the total score," said Salem coach James Stevens. "This course was easier than the Burrough Farms course where we had better scores."

Even though the scores were bad, Stevens still said his team has made a great improvement, in the area of individuals as well as their scores.

Salem will miss senior Julie Washburn next year and her absence could be a problem.

"It will be tough to fill her position," said Stevens. "We will have to rely on the freshman and sophomores as the nucleus of the team."

Salem ends the season with three wins and 13 losses.

The only information available on the regional meet played on May 20 was that Canton was 17th and Salem was 20th.

Chief girl runners finish 7-2 in duel meet action

BY JEFF BENNETT

It was the regionals all over again according to coach Bob Richardson, as the Canton girls participated in the River Rat Relays on Saturday.

Canton took 15 out of 16 teams but that did not disappoint Richardson.

"There was a stronger group of teams and we used the relays to bring out the best in our individuals," said Richardson. "When you run against the best it draws your times up."

In the 880 relay field event, Chiefs Virginia Johnson, Vickey Minar, Janet Armstrong and Holly Ivey took third with 2:00.3.

Chiefs Tory Barger, Patty Janiga, and Ivey took fifth in the discus relay with a total throw of 263'.

In the four mile relay, Karen Boluch, Rachel Mann, Jennifer Griffith, and Jenny Kincer crossed the line at 23:20.1 for a fifth place.

Another fifth place came in the middle distance relay with a 7:06.9

time. Angie Miller, Tricia Carney, Carolyn Nagy and Marie Jarosz were the runners.

Ending the day with two sixth places was the two mile relay team of Miller, Jarosz, Mann, and Boluch with a 10:26.7 and the 440 relay team of Carney, Lori Schauder, Sherry Figorski and Kim Bennett with a :53.0 time.

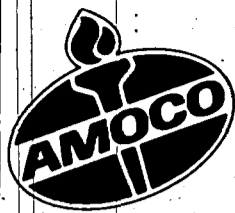

"We are at full strength now and we are looking forward to the conference meet," said Richardson.

The conference meet will be held at Walled Lake Western at 3:30 p.m. on May 29th.

Canton ended their duel meet record with a 7-2 thanks to the 75-53 victory on Wednesday over Churchill.

"It is the first time that Canton was a division champ," said Richardson. "It was nice for the seniors because they had to live through a lot of rough years and it is a tribute to them."

THERE IS A MATERIAL DIFFERENCE

Coburn's looks are deceiving

They said 'Wow' when he stepped onto mound

CANTON coaches and players may be thanking their stars since Mark Coburn transferred. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

BY DAVID PIERINI

Mark Coburn isn't big on change. He'll change the speed of his pitches or make a mechanical change at the advice of a coach, but other than those simple things, he's leary of the extreme change.

Coburn made a big change; he had to. "I didn't feel like spending $50 a week on gas, 20 miles back and forth," he said.

Coburn transferred from Bishop Borgess to Canton after he and his family moved to the area. At Borgess, he rose above a mediocre baseball program to become a two-year Catholic League standout.

He missed the early Canton workouts this year because of his job at Little Caesar's pizzeria. Coburn said the job was an excuse. "It was just a matter of getting my foot in the door," he said.

Coburn went into that first Canton practice a nervous wreck. He showed up in jeans, a sweat jacket and brought his glove because he was to throw a few pitches for coach Fred Crissey.

"I was very nervous," Coburn recalls. "Canton is a big school and I thought they'd expect a lot. I started throwing and they (players) didn't say much, they just said 'wow.' By the second practice, these guys took me in as if I had been there for a while."

He dazzled his teammates then, now he's dazzling opponents with a left-handed array of change-ups, fast balls and curves.

Coburn is leading the 22-5 Chiefs with a 6-2 mark, including three saves. In 52 innings of work, he has struck out 63 and allowed only 35 hits and 11 earned runs for a 1.40 ERA. His latest 'K' session came on Friday where he fanned eight in a 3-2 pre-district win over Walled Lake Central.

Average Coburn. In his sophomore year at Borgess, he was 6-1 with 109 strikeouts to his credit. He was named to the all-Catholic team. His junior year was a decline for him with a 6-4 record, although he pitched a 12 'K' no-hitter against Notre Dame. At season's end, doctors discovered that he had pneumonia.

"We go out and play Farmington-Harrison and Harrison beats John Glenn. John Glenn is supposed to have the two best pitchers in the area. Harrison beats JG pretty bad, they don't beat Coburn," Crissey said.

"Coburn is going to change speeds, he going to get after you, he's going to do something funny to you. That's what pitching is," Crissey added. "unless you've got a guy who throws in the 90s, it's not power pitching, it's intelligence."

For Coburn, the element of surprise works two ways. The change of speeds is one. He'll even throw a breaking pitch behind in the count. His mound presence is another.

He doesn't appear to be a threat at 5'10" and 135 pounds. He wears

In the 300 meter hurdles White was first with 38.41 and Doug Oleander was third with :42.2

The 200 meter dash was won by Brian Larson with :23.86 and in the 3200 meter run, John Keros took first with 10:13.28.

Closing the day was the 1600 meter relay team of Waldron, Brian

Neuhardt, Craig Morton, and White with a first place time of 3:30.2

"It was a very competitive meet and the score does not indicate the power that Bentley has," said Balconi.

Looking to the conference meet at Churchill on May 29, starting at 3:15 p.m., Balconi says he is ready.

"We are physically prepared for the conference," said Balconi. "For our mental preparation, we have to think about our techniques and we have to stay flexible over the holiday by eating right and getting enough sleep."

Balconi says that he thinks that the guys feel that they are right in the pack.

First place went to the 3200 meter relay team with a 10:10.7 time and to the 800 meter relay team of Carney, Schauder, Nagy, and Bennett with 1:52.6.

Chief Sheri Remer took first in the 100 meter hurdles with :17.5 and Kim Bennett was first in the 100 meter dash with a :13.1 finish.

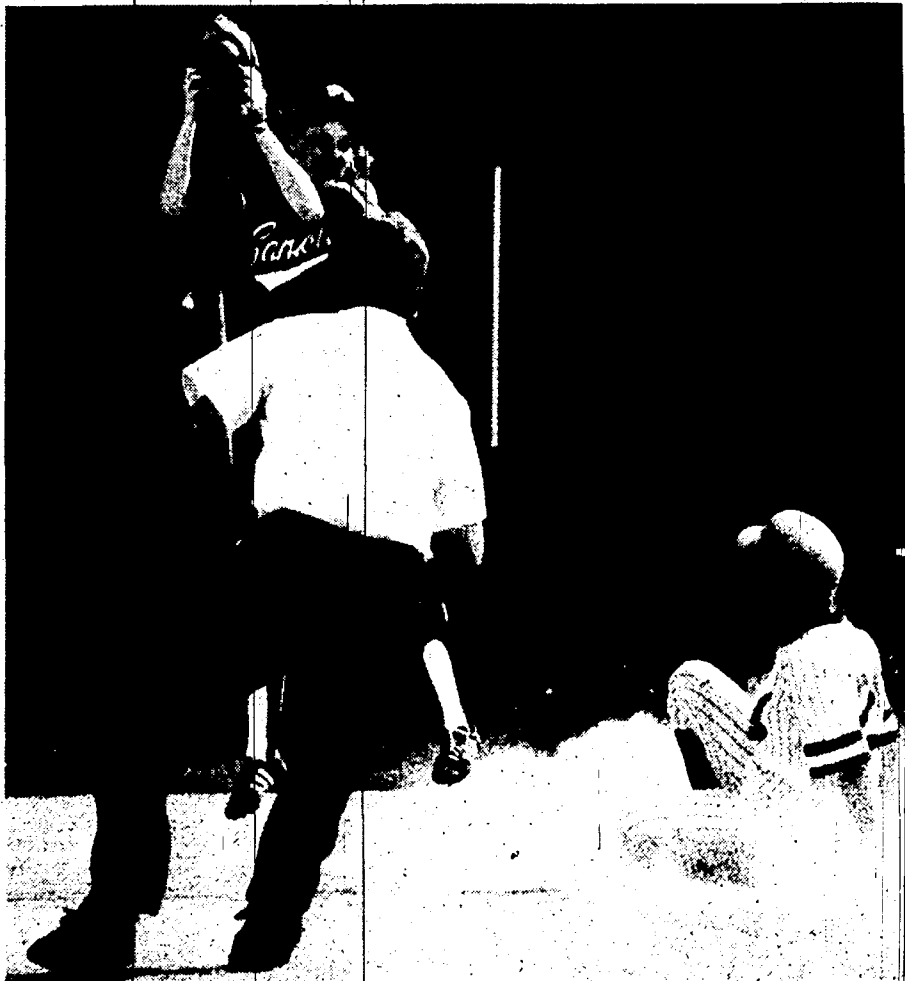

In the 1600 meter run, Jarosz broke the tape with 5:38.0 followed by Boluch with 5:46.1.

Canton's Nagy took first in the 400 meter dash with 1:02.0 and Carney followed very close with a 1:03.1 time.

Miller took first in the 800 meter run with 2:30.8 and Schauder was first in the 300 meter hurdles with :50.3 which is a new Canton school record when switched to :50.5 in yards.

Chiefs axed in softball district play

The Canton softball season ended on Friday with a 6-5 pre-district loss to Ypsilanti

The Chiefs wind their season up with a 8-5 league record, 9-9 overall.

"We made mental type errors, errors I felt we shouldn't have made," said coach Max Sommerville.

Canton threatened with two runs in the fifth and two in the sixth but it wasn't enough.

In the fifth Diana Knickerbocker hit an RBI triple scoring Laura Flaskamp. Knickerbocker then scored on a Monika Benedict double.

In the sixth, Margaret Gulligan and Beth Butzow scored on a pair of Ypsi errors.

"It was mainly our pitching," Sommerville said. "We didn't throw enough strikes, we walked to many which put pressure on our defense."

The was one bright spot. Monika Benedict and Laura Darby were named to the all-conference team. Benedict batted .510 with two homeruns, one off Stevenson standout Lisa Bokovoy. Darby batted .333 with two homers and three triples.

Knickerbocker, Gulligan and Butzow were named to the all-division.

Salem girls win 8-3 in district

The Salem softball team advanced to the district tournament with an 8-3 pre-district win over Howell.

The Rocks will meet third ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer on Saturday at Huron high.

Salem scored two in third, two in the fifth and four in sixth. Triples by Sandy Oberliesen, Jessica Handley and Leslie Plichta led the way.

"We didn't look real sharp, we had four errors," said coach Rob Willette. "Our season would've ended Friday if we would've played a little better team."

TOKYO - WORLD'S LARGEST CITY

Tokyo is the world's largest city and perhaps its fastest-paced. There are blocks of office buildings as far as the eye can see, expressways, traffic jams, crowded subways. But his modern face is only half the picture. Underlying Tokyo's asphalt and concrete are layers of history and unchanging tradition.

Tokyo casts a spell over nearly everyone who knows it for any length of time. In Tokyo, Japan's peculiar characteristics are intensified. You can watch a color TV display in a store window, then turn the corner and enter a tiny shop that still serves raw blowfish in a bamboo decor unchanged since the time of the samurai. Or you can see a geisha girl ride to her destination in a rickshaw and return in a Cadillac.

For Salem, things did not go too well as Gallagher beat them 14-6.

"The key to the loss was that in the first inning we dropped a pop fly for the third out and they went on to score six runs," said coach John Gravin.

Salem's Pat Walsh had three hits for the game and Doug Kirkpatrick had the best showing of the day, with a three run homer as well as being two for four at the plate.

After a five minute break and change of uniform, Canton stepped up to the plate for the battle for the championship.

Chris Sisler struck out, Kenyon and Stevens were thrown out at first base and Canton took the field.

The first hit off pitcher Mike Clark was a home run for Gallagher and they were up by one.

In the second inning, Canton went down 1-2-3 and Gallagher scored another run for a 2-0 lead.

Gallagher scored six runs in the bottom of the fourth inning. A pair of hits and a pair of two run homers increased their lead to 8-0.

"We were down 8-0 but we still kept battling and we didn't pack it in," said Crissey.

Canton's Steve Waite started the seventh inning with a single. He advanced to second after Adam Kocik walked.

Lenders stepped up to the plate and nailed a double advancing Waite and Kocik home for the 8-2 final score.

"We were beaten defensively and the other guys deserved to win," said Crissey. "I was pleased with the competition."

Salem won their second game, beating Davison 5-4.

glasses which make him look like he belongs in the chess club, but they are necessary for his corner-cutting tosses.

"Mark's big problem is his body," Crissey said. "He has never worked on a weight program, he's not a big kid. If he was 20 pounds stronger, he'd be tremendous and I think two years from now, he will be. He'll go to a program where he'll get a good coach, number one, and it will be all year around. When you go to college, you don't play ball for three months."

Coburn says he'll get on a weight program after the season.

Another big change for Coburn has been game atmosphere. He has never been in pressure situations like the ones he's in with a state ranked team. Pressure has not been a problem.

"He comes after you, he's a gamer," Crissey said. "He'll get better because of the type of kid he is."

The big test for Coburn will come Saturday in a district game against Dan Gabriele and Walled Lake Western. Are you ready Mark? "Gotta throw strikes," he said.
