

Canton voters make the difference

Voters say 'Yes' to bond issue

BY ED FITZGERALD

Voters in the Plymouth-Canton School District approved a $13 million bond issue by a 2666-2211 margin Monday.

The package will raise just under one mill of taxes ($35 a month for a $70,000 home). Its focal point is a new elementary school for Canton Township. Construction may be complete for the 1988-89 school year.

Just under 11 per cent of an estimated 46,000 registered voters in the district cast their ballots. The schools have not done a head-count in three years and could not provide exact figures.

Voters in Canton gave the bond the nudge it needed. As some of the later precincts to be counted, Nos. 10 and 13 from Canton combined for a 556-257 edge.

54.7 percent of the voters approved of the bond, and 45.3 percent said 'no.'

The bond only passed in seven of 13 precincts and tied in another (Isbister's No. three). Roland Thomas, president of the Plymouth-Canton School Board, said he was "tickled pink" by the bond passage.

"The community has recognized the kids' need. The new school will alleviate the crowding at four other elementary schools in Canton."

Thomas said he thought the sale of the bond was a factor.

"It was built from the grassroots. The board acted as a melting pot and reached a lot of groups. The approach was appropriate."

Ray Hoedel, superintendent in charge of business for the district, said the outcome and margin of victory did not surprise him. After the first precinct tabulated went for approval, he correctly judged the bond a success.

John M. Hoben, superintendent of P-C Schools, said "the Plymouth-Canton Community has expressed a willingness to support, and a mandate to continue, quality education in our schools."

In a prepared statement, Hoben listed the benefits of the bond: new school in Canton ($4.5 million), renovation of Central Middle School ($1,650,000), renovation of the Central Administration Building ($925,000), a new heating system at Pioneer Middle School ($1,050,000), a new track at CEP ($100,000), computers ($600,000), less crowding at elementary schools (including a $700,000 six-room addition to Gallimore Elementary).

The last bond issue passed in the district was in 1974, to build Eriksson, Field and Hulsing Elementary Schools and the Phase III athletic building at CEP.

JEANETTE WINES

MARILYN SCHWINN

E.J. McCLENDON

Wines, Schwinn, McClendon win

BY ED FITZGERALD

There will be one new face on the Plymouth-Canton School Board beginning July 1 of this year.

Jeanette Wines, who topped all vote-getters in the race for two four-year seats, will replace the retiring Elaine Kirchgatter.

Other winners included incumbents E.J. McClendon (two-year) and Marilyn Schwinn (four-year).

McClendon the treasurer of the board, easily outdistanced three rivals, taking 66 percent of the votes cast. 724 people who voted on the bond issue, did not cast ballots for the two-year race. Diane Daskalakis, a first-time candidate running on a Christian ticket, finished second.

Afterwards, McClendon, who said he may accept an out-of-state college position in the future, said he chose to run for a two-year seat only because it was "unjust, when not reasonably sure I'd be here for more than two years. I know I'll be here for at least two years."

McClendon also said he thought his margin of victory was a statement against the "witch issue" (CEP lecture by Gundella the Witch last Halloween) of which Daskalakis had criticized the board.

"That was a non-issue and shouldn't have been brought up in a campaign."

McClendon, who won all precincts, carried his home precinct, No. seven, by 170 votes over the nearest candidate.

"If I hadn't won there I would have retired," he joked.

Wines, who failed in a bid for the board in the late 70's, has served on the district's safety committee. She said she was pleased with the election.

"I'm grateful. I was concerned. Now I'll start getting my feet wet -- on the other side of the (board) table."

Wines received more votes than any of the six candidates for the four-year seats in 12 of 14 precincts. Richard Sumpter, who was endorsed (along with Wines and McClendon) by the Plymouth-Canton Education Assn., finished third.

Schwinn, who won the other two districts, was running for the first time after being appointed a year ago to fill a year of retiring Nancy Quinn's term.

Republicans make show of force; Dumas quits, incumbents challenged

BY DAN NESS AND T.M. SMITH
If the 15th District precinct delegate filing process was a baseball game and it was played in Canton, the Democrats would lose by forfeit.

After last week's nomination deadline, 12 Canton Democratic candidates for precinct delegate had filed in the 15th District (which includes Canton) for 31 open positions, which means most candidates will run unchallenged for the district party convention. Republicans had 69 candidates file for their party's 49 open positions. There are 23 precincts in Canton for this position, but several precincts allow for more than one candidate go on to the district party conventions.

The candidates will face an August 5 primary vote -- if they have anyone to run against in their precinct. "In most cases, with the exception of just a few, all apportionments of precincts are either filled to capacity or challenged," said Terri Bennett, 15th District Republican chairperson.

There were 21 vacant positions left for the Democratic delegate candidates after the filing deadline. Canton Democrats filing for delegate spots are: David Nidzgorski, Bonnie Bowerman.

Will City seat be filled Monday?

BY T.M. SMITH

The vacancy on the Plymouth City Commission, created when commissioner Mark Wehmeyer resigned at the June 2 meeting, could be filled as early as Monday, Mayor William Robinson said.

Robinson said he has several ideas on the replacement for the single seat open, but that he would need to speak to the commissioners before an announcement would be made.

"Until I speak to the commissioners I really can't comment on the situation," he said. "But I do believe that a decision will be made and announced at next Monday's (June 16) meeting."

Wehmeyer resigned his seat, citing a move out of Plymouth as the reason, after only three months on the city commission. He was, himself a replacement, for Eldon "Bud" Martin, who resigned in December. Wehmeyer was not appointed until February.

The filling of Martin's seat was a drawn out affair that took two months to complete, but that long process has made this decision easier, Robinson said.

"When commissioner Wehmeyer resigned I did a lot of the ground work, which cleared the way to make this decision easier," Robinson said.

As Mayor, Robinson has the power to appoint commissioners to sit on the council until the next regular election. All commission seats are chosen through election.

Music for the 4th

BY T.M. SMITH

After several weeks of uncertainty, it appears the Fourth of July fireworks and parade will go off as planned. Several changes, including a savings of $4,100, in the past week have painted a much brighter picture for the organizers of the event.

The biggest change for the better was the announcement by the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra that it will donate time for the fireworks display, and will not charge the $4,100 it originally planned.

"That is really big news for us," organizer Chuck Lowe said. "It should be a terrific show with them there."

He admitted the Jaycees were close to dumping the orchestra and going with taped music instead, during recent weeks.

"When it became more and more apparent that we would not get the money we needed, I started looking seriously into a pre-taped show," Lowe said.

But June 3, The Symphony announced that it had changed plans and would not charge for the Fourth of July concert. Reasons for the change were announced that the Symphony was unable to find a location for its April concert, and will use this concert as a more personal touch kind of concert, to help public relations.

Lowe said the other change is the Jaycees are "95 per cent sure we have a major sponsor for the parade and fireworks" who would bring at least $5,000 to the events coffers, and maybe as much as $9,000.

Lowe declined to say who that sponsor is until a final confirmation from them is received.

Lowe did say that local sponsors, such as K-Mart, McDonalds and Plymouth Contruction have contributed heavily to the cause. At this time, Lowe says the funds for the event stand around $3,400.

The Symphony announced that the Plymouth Arts Council has donated $300 along with a $250 donation from The Women's Club of Plymouth -- both being used to offset the cost of the concert.

Salem senior killed before graduation

'She was a good kid' - principal

BY DAN NESS

Georgenna Christine Nix, 18, of 42769 Shadowlawn in Canton, was killed last Wednesday night when the car her boyfriend was driving left the road and rolled several times near Silver Lake State Park in Dexter Township.

Nix would have graduated with the senior class of Salem High School last Sunday.

"We're really taken aback by it," said Salem Principal Bill Brown. "She was certainly an above-average student.

"She was a good kid," Brown said.

Students at both Canton and Salem High Schools reacted in shock and sorrow at the news. More than 100 students attended Nix' funeral Friday.

"I saw a lot of people standing out in the hallway talking about it," said Canton sophomore Jennie Saul. "A lot of people were crying."

Nix' boyfriend, Charles Triplett, 18, of Tecumseh, was listed in fair condition at the University of Michigan Hospitals.

According to Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies, Triplett was driving more than 70 miles per hour when he passed a line of cars on Silver Hill Road at about 6:30 p.m. last Wednesday. Triplett started to lose control of the car, went into a "panic brake," and veered onto the opposite lane's shoulder, according to police.

He then got back onto the road, side-skidded, and left the right-hand side of the road, striking a tree and rolling several times, according to police. The accident occurred two-tenths of a mile north of the Dexter Township Hall.

Nix and Triplett were taken to U of M Hospitals by Huron Valley Ambulance personnel, where Nix was pronounced dead at 8:03 p.m. due to "multiple trauma," according to police.

Neither Nix nor Triplett were wearing seatbelts, and drinking is suspected, according to police. Several beer cans were found in the car by Washtenaw County Sheriff deputies. Blood samples were taken from Triplett to test for alcohol at U of M Hospitals, and test results should be available in two weeks, police said.

The case is still under investigation by the Washtenaw Sheriff's office.

Nix had been honored recently for taking second place in a photo contest. "She had exceptionally good talent," Brown said. Nix had also been accepted at the General Motors Institute, according to Brown.

Nix is survived by her parents, John and Christine Nix and sister, Michelle.

Nix' parents wanted to have the car Georgenna died in displayed at Salem High School yesterday to serve as a reminder and warning to other high school graduates, according to Dick Egli, administrative assistant for community relations for Plymouth-Canton Schools.

Georgenna Nix, 18, of Canton, was killed last Wednesday night when the car she was a passenger in hit a tree and rolled in Dexter Township, according to police.

'I'm not happy. I'm scared'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jennie Saul and Beth Pollard are Canton High School sophomores who wanted to express their frustration with graduation-time accidents.

BY JENNIE SAUL

Well, I hope everybody's happy!! School's almost over, summer's here, we're more mature, and soon we'll all be free. But how free are we when we want to be just like everybody else? How mature are we when we want to get wasted and party high?

The seniors "partied" last week. They, like us were happy. How happy are some of them now, who cry for their hospitalized friends. How happy are they, who find their friends DEAD! How happy will they be at the funerals, and how well they deal with their new, harsh lesson?

Why does cruising around in a car give us such a thrill? We've ridden in them all of our life! And driving irresponsibly or while intoxicated, what does that prove? How mature are we when we have to be reminded not to drink and drive? Be sensible! The fact that it even has to be said, "Don't Drink and Drive" is disgusting, but people are saying it LOUD so we'll hear. A lot of us heard, but not a lot of us listened.

So that's happiness. And freedom. That's what mature people enjoy. Why can't we find other uppers in life-like the need to achieve, and caring for others? Happiness is described in Webster's Dictionary as "a stable state of well-being and contentment". How can you be in a state of well-being when you're so buzzed you can't feel your feet touch the floor?!

We are NOT free, we're not even free from our own personal fears, when we have to kill ourselves to feel good!

True freedom is when you can find your own happiness. It is when you can do things voluntarily, when you can be INDEPENDENT. You're free when you no longer have to "show your friends and parents" what a cool, mature person you are.

I'm NOT HAPPY. I'm scared. I don't want to have to worry about my friends, or anyone I know getting hurt, or dying. And I don't want anyone to ever feel the pain, anger, guilt, and total helplessness that results from the sudden death of a friend.

Don't waste what you've been given. Graduation should be one of your best days, NOT a day for mourning. You have many more years to look forward to.

Don't be selfish. What right have you to do foolish things that hurt you, and others! And, people-let us support each other, not compare each other. Let us live, and let us all grow. For those special people that we have lost, this year and in the past, let us learn from their mistakes, so that their deaths might not be in vain.

Reminder

'Accident HAS affected us'

BY BETH POLLARD

Dear so-called-human teenagers, Are you human? I've been wondering! Webster's third definition of human is: Pertaining to or being a man as distinguished from a lower animal; intellectually and morally superior. Homo sapiens is defined as: Man as a thinking creature as distinguished from other organisms.

The points I'm trying to make are that so many people seem so ignorant to the problems of drinking and driving.

When many students and adults heard about the tragic accidents that took one life and nearly four more they thought about it happening to them and said "No way!"

Luckily, no one died in the accident at Griffin Park the day of June 4th, but it was so close.

But so sadly, someone did die that day-Georgenna Nix. Charles Triplett, her boyfriend, lies in the hospital right now, fighting for his life.

It amazes me how so many students let these tragedies go by, as if they didn't affect them. Well, IT HAS!!

No matter what grade you're in, or how old you are or even what school you go to, it's affected you in more ways than one. Even if you didn't know any of these students and had to look them up in your yearbooks, it's affected you.

You may not have known them, but maybe your teachers did, or a friend of a friend knew them. Everyone's changed from these accidents, hopefully for the better.

Georgenna died. Hopefully that's enough for all of us to do something to make up for what's happened.

Let's not let it happen again! Everyone should know not to drink and drive. EVERYONE! Whether you are or are not drinking while driving please be more careful on the road. You can't read other people's minds and people who are drinking can't even read their own.

So please be careful; every time you start your car there's a chance of danger. I just hope that no one else has to die to help all of you so-called humans out there to realize that NO ONE is in control when they drink and drive.

Glad to be a grad!

Local gov'ts. avoid revenue sharing crunch

BY DAN NESS

While a Congressional conference committee hammers out a budget resolution this month, several Detroit-area communities are anxiously awaiting the fate of federal revenue sharing funds, which they rely on to stay within their budgets.

Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township are not among those communities.

All three local municipalities have used their share of federal revenues with a cautious financial philosophy and a skeptical eye to Washington's purse strings. As it works out, those governments don't use the money in their operating budgets, instead using it for one-time equipment purchases and special projects.

That financial philosophy will prepare the municipalities for the cutbacks in federal revenue sharing funds, which is a certainty in Washington. As it stands in conference, the Senate has targeted $2.8 billion for revenue sharing in fiscal year 1987, and the House has earmarked $2.6 billion.

In fiscal year 1986, the federal government set aside $5.9 billion in revenue sharing funds for local communities in the nation.

Redford Township uses federal revenue sharing funds to support about one-third of its operating budget. When the revenues are cut, it will have to ask Redford voters for more millage, or cut back in existing programs.

Canton, on the other hand, will receive about $300,000 in federal revenues this year, down from $400,000 last year. The federal funds will be designated for equipment purchases, according to John Spencer, Canton's finance director.

"We use it more the way it was supposed to be used," Spencer said.

Municipalities are given a lot of freedom to spend the money as they see fit, according to Spencer. "There's very few strings attached," Spencer said.

This year, Canton's federal revenue sharing funds will be designated for election equipment, new police radios, expansion of the recreational complex behind the Township Administration Building, personal computers for township business, fire truck refurbishing, a study of the fire department, and the final payment for a new phone

Election winners speak

She said she would do "a little better and a little more" in her first full term.

Schwinn, as all candidates in the race, stressed approval of the bond issue. All of the candidates avoided controversial areas and differed almost imperceptibly.

"It's positive," said Schwinn. "I have felt it was a good thing all along -- and can do only good things for the community."

Wines, who in talking to voters before the election, had found them uninformed of the bond issue, said she found a different story talking to some who had voted.

"They wanted it for the new school in Canton. They were really very interested in the whole (bond issue)."

McClendon said the most important part of the election was the bond issue.

"Whether I was re-elected or not was inconsequential. The community needed the bond issue tremendously."

Grads put first-aid training to use

BY T.M. SMITH

On a bright sunny afternoon, on the last day of school for seniors, Renee Vannatter and Tammy Cross thought the last thing on their minds would be a course they completed just days earlier at Canton high school.

But they probably did not expect to witness a car jump a curb and slam headfirst into an Edison tower, leaving three girls inside the car injured and hysterical.

Vannatter and Cross did flash back to the first aid course they finished days before, and they used their new skills at the scene of this accident to keep the victims calm, and prevent any further injuries.

"We just got certified in first aid the other day. I didn't think I would ever have to use it. But once I saw what happened it all came back to me and I knew what to do," Vannatter said.

Cross agreed, "I knew enough to keep other people from trying to pull the one girl out of the car. She was complaining of neck pain and I just kept her covered so she wouldn't go into shock," she said.

The three girls injured in the accident were not hurt seriously, but police on the scene said Vannatter and Cross both helped a great deal before and after medical and police units arrived.

Officer Leonard Schemanske, of the Canton Police said "They did a very good job. I am glad they were here to help, they had to stay with the injured girls for a long time and they really deserve some credit."

Myra Saley, the teacher at Canton who teaches the first aid course was also proud of her pupils.

"They were very excited that they were there and they knew what to do," Saley said. "I am really proud of them."

Isbister's picnic great

EDITOR:

The Isbister Elementary School's OLD FASHIONED COUNTRY PICNIC was just great! We were most impressed with the tremendous support, and generosity of so many Plymouth and Canton merchants and individuals. It's wonderful to live in a community where people are willing to do what they can to help our children and support our schools.

Special appreciation goes to our hard working committee chairmen:

Chairpersons: Jane Jager and Linda Lindbergh; ticket sales: Beverly Maltese; ice cream: Mary Archbold; raffle and mini raffle: Christie Newland; food: Debbie Hosch; games and prizes: Pat Holman; bake sale: Roselva Yost; painted faces: Janie Hunt; cake walk: Charlotte Casoglos; pony rides: Phyllis Pratt; talent show: Duncan Jones and Pam Hoadley; slushes: Mr. and Mrs. Del Hoover; publicity: Kathy Harenda.

We would like to express our thanks to the parents teachers, friends, and workers at Isbister School for their time and effort. A school bolstered by local community, business and parental support can only thrive and pay off in dividends in our children.

How can our court system be improved?

EDITOR:

The Michigan Supreme Court has appointed a blue-ribbon citizen's commission to recommend ways to improve Michigan's court system.

As part of this study, a public opinion survey is being conducted to determine how Michigan citizens feel about their courts. About 750 Michigan adults are being interviewed by telephone by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research to measure what they know and think about their courts.

Readers of The Community Crier who would like to express their opinion on Michigan courts but are not interviewed as part of the poll are invited to put their views in writing and send them to the commission. The address is Court, P.O. Box 30052-N, Lansing, MI 48909.

The Commission is particularly interested in hearing from persons who have had personal experiences in court-crime victims, jurors, witnesses and persons who have been involved in a lawsuit.

To The Point

By Dan Ness

Plymouth already has a reputation in the state for being a unique shopping community.

With innovative, aggressive business campaigns, such as the "dollar for dollar" project devised to win Canadian shoppers, Plymouth merchants have not shied away from new ideas.

Whether or not those same merchants are ready for Arthur Calhoun's idea is anybody's guess, but it will be very interesting to see what comes of it.

Calhoun, owner of The Doll House on Penniman Avenue, thinks Plymouth businesses should gang together and issue their own credit card.

Calhoun read about a system in place in several California shopping centers, and "it's been a roaring success." From what Calhoun has read, the "in-house" credit card idea will sweep the nation, from West to East, by 1988.

"I think it'd be a great idea," Calhoun said. He has already done some informal polling around town and the people he's talked to seem excited about the idea.

"I think every business in town would sign up," Calhoun said optimistically. "If we put our heads together, we could get ahead of the malls."

Calhoun has one major hurdle to clear before Plymouth residents will be charging the shoppes -- the idea is in need of a local financial institution to back the plan. Calhoun said he would be looking into that very soon, but he also wants to hear from other business owners to see what they think of the Plymouth credit card scheme.

To Calhoun's way of thinking, the idea will fly, and the logic is irresistible. "You give a guy a VISA card, and VISA's got his business," Calhoun reasoned. "I just think it would be a great marketing idea for Plymouth."

Calhoun admits that "details will have to be worked out." Unfortunately, too many well-intentioned ideas never fly because they are bogged down by intimidating "details."

Hopefully, Calhoun's interesting proposal will clear the details and find support in the local business community. A business community as innovative as this one should be able to work through any details necessary to implement a marketing idea whose time has come.

And, while I'm on the subject of ideas, Bruce Ehrle has one that will probably not hold interest to at least 89 per cent of The Plymouth-Canton Community, but one that is commendable.

Ehrle, a Plymouth Township resident, wants to know why Omnicom Cablevision doesn't broadcast live U.S. Senate proceedings.

Ehrle says that Omnicom has picked up the U.S. House of Representatives doings for at least five years on the C-SPAN channel, and has the opportunity to pick up C-SPAN II, which started 24-hour coverage of the U.S. Senate after that body approved television in their chamber recently.

But, Omnicom has opted not to use C-SPAN II, thereby depriving Plymouth-Canton cableheads of unforgettable oratory from the likes of Frank Murkowski and Dale Bumpers.

Ehrle was incredulous.

"I mean this is historic, and they're not going to broadcast it," he said.

There's something subtly reassuring in listening to a citizen complaining about lack of 24-hour government proceedings coverage on television when he could be watching "The A-Team" or "The Illuminator" on that same tube.

I'm pulling for Ehrle here, although I'm probably not qualified to comment on television programming. I own two television sets, both broken, both black and white. I keep the sets for the perverse non-viewer satisfaction I get knowing that even if they worked, I would only have to watch "The A-Team" or "The Illuminator" in black and white.

But back to Ehrle, who provides a good role model, in light of Monday's 11 per cent voter turnout for the Plymouth-Canton Schools' vote. Most likely, Omnicom's receptionists are well-versed in fending off irate MTV addicts whose signals are scrambled while never having to respond to a conscientious government watcher like Ehrle.

And that's too bad. One can fantasize of cable companies running pell mell to broadcast Senate proceedings, but that won't happen.

And obviously, with 89 per cent of the voters in our community choosing not to vote Monday, people like Ehrle will have to watch more of the "The A-Team" and less Frank Murkowski.

On high school graduation, fast cars and the lakes

With Malice Toward None

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Georgenna Nix's death Wednesday, on the eve of her graduation from Salem High School, was a tragedy to be sure.

But can it drive home the obvious lesson to the young adults of The Plymouth-Canton Community once and for all?

The startling news of Georgenna's death and the injuries of former-Plymouthite Charlie Triplett, who was driving the vehicle according to police, brought disbelief and tears to many of the Class of 1986 at Salem and Canton High Schools.

It also brought back tears and sympathy from the six families of the Class of 1977 students who died in a car crash under similar circumstances.

And it reminded me of the evening following the Plymouth High School Class of 1966 graduation practice when an overloaded car of seniors could have become a similar tragedy on the way back from Silver Lake. By the grace of God, the double-yellow line passing stunt narrowly missed a needless head-on crash along North Territorial.

Probably for as long as Plymouth-Canton high school students have driven cars, the easily-accessible lakes to the west have been an attractive get-away. A place where there was sun and fun and the kids could be themselves.

But it's high time we stop this summer ritual.

It was certainly called to light nine years ago when drinking was blamed for the crash that killed six young adults. And now drinking is highly suggested as the major factor in last Wednesday's crash.

Let's all learn from the past.

There's nothing we can do now to bring Georgenna back. Although the accident will be investigated further and possibly some blame attached, that won't change anything.

But there ARE things we can do to let any more Plymouth-Canton young adults from sharing her fate.

Was CEP '86 yearbook fair to our hairstyles?

EDITOR:

"The things people do for attention. Basically, this is the first year at CEP that we have had an unusual group of students consisting of an unusual group of hairstyles. Are these people for real or what?"

The above quote was taken from the 1985-86 CEP Yearbook, also with several pictures. What my friends and I had been told would be a "real neat section on hairstyles" turned into a somewhat slanderous two-page layout as to why my friends and I have such unusual "hairstyles."

I, for one, was never approached or asked one question as to why I dress or look the way I do. If it is necessary to tell the whole school why we look this way -- why not ask the people themselves. It seems to me that I would know better than anyone why I prefer the styles that I do.

To most people this section of the yearbook will be quite funny. To me, it is an unfair judgement from which I cannot defend myself. I have gone through this entire school year hearing people's comments, but I think bringing them home in the form of a yearbook is too much.

So, in protest, my friends and I made several posters which made the offense of the yearbook quite clear. People read our posters and said things like: "If they don't want attention, why are they doing this?"

This is not a matter of getting attention. This is a matter of our rights.

Anyway, all people want and need attention from others. But people seem to think we love the attention we get. Oh yeah -- we love it when people we don't know yell obscene things at us, hit us, throw things at us and hate us for no reason.

The "squid-punk" (or whatever you want to call us) people at CEP have created quite a stir this year. But I thought yearbooks were to present the good things about the school year, not the students' prejudices of each other.

I like attending CEP in general, but do we have no escape? Maybe the girls who did the yearbook layout did not mean for it to be this big of deal, but it's a big deal to us.

We are not asking for anyone's pity, nor do we need their sympathy. We choose to look the way we do and realize that a lot of people will not like it. All progressive and new ideas (if that is a good term) are ridiculed and put down, but eventually they aren't as strange anymore. Our fashion ideas will someday fade, just as did those of the flappers, beatniks and, of course, the hippies.

My parents seem to understand me better because they have seen movements like this before. And, when our children are in high school, there will be a new movement, and then another, etc....

I hope we will learn from things like this and teach our children to give each other the understanding and support that teenagers need from their peers. I would like to be remembered as someone who was unique and different -- not as an attention-starved freak.

People get attitudes from the way they are treated. I have tried not to get an attitude toward certain "groups" of people, which is hard to do. I will also try to look past the way people have treated me; and still find humanity in the world. Hopefully people will do the same for me -- and look past my hair to see that I am a human being with feelings, just like they are.

Will sobriety check lanes help if you're drunk as skunk?

Drunk as a skunk. That's the two-part theme of this column. Hope it's twice as good as anything else you've read today

The new sobriety driving lanes are currently on hold. Policymakers play muzak music, as I wait to see the first martyred motorist sue the state over invasion of something.

Way too many drivers are drunk at any time of the day. Many reading this, may drive drunk every now and then. I might, too. We try to be careful and stay within our allowance.

That, of course, only stands up as long as nobody gets hurt. Not counting what we do to ourselves.

It's always of interest when the laws are questioned. Captivators are: the Golden Rule (it's capitalized in the dictionary) and the Bill of Rights.

So here they come, pulling us over arbitrarily. Check-lanes for our Constitution. Anyday now, a guy will be pulled over, who happens to be argumentative, maybe someone who likes to vote -- and there will be a lawsuit.

Maybe the guy is on his way home from work, a bit shopworn. Maybe he even gives the cops a reason to play the cat and mouse game. The driver weaves (this happened to me once in Lapeer County) fumbling for a tape cassette.

I will surely object if a state patrol officer pulls me over on my way home from Lawson's and all I've done is slide in the latest overpriced top 40 hit.

These sobriety lanes have to hit the highway. Though, amazingly, we will be flagged over to see if we've been starring in bars forever. The next person plucked anonymously for a surprise inspection could be your next-door neighbor. It could be you.

This story is already in black and white. It's easy to pretend it's the 1950's and McCarthy is making a dummy talk.

Making me feel much better is T. Schultz, an 82-year-old woman in Plymouth. She has written us a letter and begins by saying, "Hi and help, help, help."

Her problem is that she has a skunk, who is invading her privacy, by living under her porch. She has traced it at night with a flashlight. She first noticed it digging up her yard.

Miller Woods deserves help

EDITOR:

The Miller Woods Committee is most appreciative of your newspaper's help with the task of preserving Miller Woods through articles about our activities.

Over the years, articles in your paper have alerted the community to the littering problem in the woods and as a result such destruction has diminished.

We hope for your continued support of our efforts to educate this community about this valuable resource.

THE MILLER WOODS COMMITTEE

Times Like These

By Ed Fitzgerald

"The next few nights -- about 12 or 13 in all to date -- have been spent in a sort of tug o'war between me and 'it'".

The skunk is a powderkeg waiting to explode, but worse. Skunks are cute, with their almost always odorless big fuzzy tails. But as John Stuht, a biologist for the Department of Natural Resources, in Lansing, says: "They could be a perpetual problem."

It is possible to nip the problem in the bud. Stuht says the skunks are digging for grubs and larvae in the lawn. If Mrs. Schultz would like to spray her lawn with chemicals she could ruin the skunk's bill of fare and he'd take his business elsewhere. Stuht says skunks can also be outwitted.

"The rascals will eventually go somewhere else when there's no more insects," he said.

The problem worsens when the skunk takes up residency, as this one has under the Schultz porch. Stuht says it does no good to cover the hole, because the vermin will just dig around it.

He suggested moth balls to out-smell the skunks. Ms. Schultz had already tried that. He said ammonia down the hole was a possibility. She tried that, calling it "an expensive bath."

Stuht says his own mother had the same problem at her house. She had skunks. More than one.

"I just caught them and moved them to the country. They're quite easy to catch in live-traps."

But, Stuht doesn't advise trapping for the inexperienced. Maybe if anyone knows of anyone who knows how to live-trap, there is help for Mrs. Schultz.

All it takes is for someone to go over to Mrs. Schultz's house and drop off a skunk-sized mousetrap. Of course, you have to go pick it up.

If you happen to get pulled over on the way back and someone wants to smell your breath-stuff the skunk into the cop's breathalyzer.

Energetic senior lends others a helping hand

BY ED FITZGERALD

It's not really an election, but there's a heckuva candidate.

Her name is Isabell Maurer, and the Plymouth Council on Aging is nominating her for the state's Senior Citizen of the Year.

"She's really a sweet lady," says Carol Donnelly, associate editor of the Council on Aging newspaper. "She's been active in senior activities for so many years. We really want to work hard to get this for her."

Bill McNamara, the group's president and editor of the newspaper, had nothing but praise for Maurer.

"She's very thorough," he said. "She does anything you give her."

Walter Fletcher, who was instrumental in starting the Council on Aging in Plymouth, concurs with the others.

"She was always enthusiastic. You ask her to do something and she'd do it. That's more than you can say for most people."

With expected modesty, Maurer, who turned 74 last month does not say a lot about herself. But a quick visit to her apartment in Plymouth shows she's got her fingers in many pies. A typewriter is set up on the table. She's typing up minutes for the Plymouth Township Senior Citizens Club, of which she is secretary.

"I feel very honored that they want to nominate me, but I don't deserve it. I'm just doing something I enjoy doing."

What she does and has done includes: treasurer of the Council on Aging, president of the Senior Citizens Club, Girl Scout leader, aerobics instructor, church work and so on.

"I tell my daughter that she does too much, and she says, 'Look who's talking.'"

It's obvious Maurer's enthusiasm is a family affair. Her father was a stage manager for the Schubert Theatre and traveled with such stars as Lionel Barrymore. And, her children are both active. Her daughter is Carol Strom, president of the Livonia School Board. Her son, George Maurer Jr. is a lawyer downtown Detroit.

Spry

Isabell Maurer cannot sit still. When she told her daughter not to do so much, Isabell was told, "Look who's talking." (Crier photo by Ed Fitzgerald)

"I was kidding my doctor that he should start exercising. He can't get over the heartbeat I have at my age."

Her son also owns a home in Puerto Rico, where his mother used to visit until she found it kept her from local duties.

"I got so bored there, I'd start walking down the hill from his house and then I'd go back and start to clean the windows. You just can't sit there and do nothing."

That is Maurer's clearest message to other seniors. Do something.

"You find that more seniors are getting involved nowadays. They have to get out and not watch that silly television. You lose so much energy doing that."

Maurer's energy is contagious. She says she has gotten an elderly neighbor to join a daily walking club at the Cultural Center.

"I was kidding my doctor that he should start exercising. He can't get over the heartbeat I have at my age."

Maurer says she tells young people ("50 years old") that they have to start exercising now.

"It'll make such a difference later on," she says.

Maurer's actions have not gone unnoticed either. Back in 1984 she was a senior intern in Lansing for a week with Senator Robert Geake. On her wall she has a state legislature resolution honoring her.

"I have a very busy calendar. I follow all the political issues and I always vote in every kind of election. Many seniors vote -- they can have a big say in things."

Maurer's husband George died 14 years ago. She has lived in Plymouth Township for 13 years.

"I had a wonderful marriage and I've had a wonderful life," she says. "The Good Lord has blessed me. He gave me the ability to lead. Some others are just too shy."

The state's Senior Citizen of the Year awards will be presented at the Michigan State Fair August 25. There will be two awards, one for leadership and one for service. The contest is sponsored by the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging.

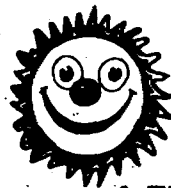

WINNER OF THE WEEK

First Aid Works

Renee Vannatter and Tammy Cross deserve this award and more for their cool-headed-prompt action at the scene of an emergency last week. The two Canton high school students, who just received their First Aid certification, treated and helped three accident victims at Griffin Park until rescue squads arrived on the scene. Police and firemen on the scene said the girls performed remarkably well, and it was a benefit to the victims and rescue workers alike, that they knew and used their first aid skills.

A standing ovation is in order for these two, both from The Crier and The Community.

(Winner of the Week is selected by The Crier Editorial Staff without knowledge of the sponsor. Nominations for this honor may be submitted to The Crier Editorial Staff.)

Strike up the band

All the signs of summer keep popping up -- and the latest sign to signify better days ahead is the start of the Plymouth Community Band Concert Series.

The city has announced that on June 26 the community band will dust off the instruments and kick off a summer of fun at 8 p.m. in Kellogg Park. The concerts will be every Thursday evening through July 31. They are scheduled to begin around 8 p.m. and end approximately 9:30 p.m.

Historic church named

Canton will kick off its Michigan Sesquicentennial celebration by dedicating the Cherry Hill United Methodist Church as a state historic site. A state marker will be erected at the church following the 10 a.m. service on Sun., June 15.

The historic church, located in Cherry Hill Village at the intersection of Cherry Hill and Ridge roads, has had an active membership for over 150 years, and many of the current members are direct descendants of the original founders.

Through the efforts of the Canton Historical Society, the church was listed on the State Register of Historic Sites in 1977.

Spring art fair

The Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, in conjunction with the City of Plymouth, announces the 4th annual Spring Arts Festival in Kellogg Park during Father's Day weekend this Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The two-day arts festival will feature the exhibition and sale of the work by over 100 artists and craftspersons from Michigan and throughout the Midwest. The wide variety of media represented in this festival includes painting, jewelry, wood and wood toys, fibers, glass and ceramics.

A special feature of this year's fair will be several live demonstrations by artists of their work. John Hyde, a.k.a. "The Clarkston Carver", will demonstrate his 35 years of expertise in transforming logs into beautiful decorative decoys of ducks, geese, swans and shorebirds.

Steve Olszewski, of Ann Arbor, will demonstrate techniques involved in making raku pottery. This dramatic process of firing a pot, then submerging it into a pile of straw of sawdust results in elegant ceramic pieces with a "cracked" appearance.

Other demonstrators at the fair will include Ron Bishop, a blacksmith from Ypsilanti who will demonstrate a variety of smithing skills; Susan Wright, a weaver from Ann Arbor; Tom LeGault, a painter from Plymouth; Simon and Joy Tarasiewicz, toymakers from Grand Rapids, and Irving Tasco, a caricaturist from Southfield.

Another highlight of the fair will be the "Art Dollars" raffle. There will be a total of $300 given away to the winners of the six raffle drawings, to be used towards purchase of the art work of their choice at the fair.

Karate Kids

Ann Kotcher, 15, of Canton, recently took first place in the women's novice kata, or forms competition in the Michigan Open Karate Championships.

Kotcher, a green belt, has studied karate for 1½ years with the Amercian and Korean Tae Kwon Do Association class offered through the Plymouth Family YMCA.

Ten-year-old David Kotcher II, a brown belt in the same association, took fifth place in the 10 to 12-year olds advanced form competition. He has studied Tae Kwon Do for almost two years. He attends Bird Elementary Forms competition emphasizes exhibition of multiple offensive and defensive martial arts techniques against several imaginary attackers.

More than 400 people from the midwestern U.S. and Canada competed in the tournament.

The sister and brother are the children of Dr. David and Joan Kotcher.

The Plymouth Family Y Tae Kwon Do Club meets from 7 to 9 p.m., Monday and Wednesday at Isbister gymnasium. The class instructor is Richard Curp, second degree black belt. The class is open to anyone age eight and older.

The fine bouguet

Plymouth-Salem Food Service students took their final exam Monday. The exam consisted of taste-testing six different types of pizza and evaluating them. Shown

Steve Fortney of Plymouth, is the man backstage who has the responsibility of supplying rockstar Prince with his concert sounds. (Crier photo by T.M. Smith)

The soundman behind Prince

BY T.M. SMITH

When rock superstar Prince ended his guitar solo in front of thousands of screaming fans during his two-night concert stand in Detroit over the weekend, his throngs of worshipers poured a standing ovation over him.

And while they applauded his musical talents, very few if any, knew of the work that went on behind the scenes.

Behind those scenes, one Plymouth man is a key force of the Prince live sound, especially when his Royal Badness takes guitar in hand.

Steve Fortney of Plymouth is Prince's personal guitar technician and is the man who makes sure the desired sound is sent into the audience.

Fortney has been working with Prince for more than two years, helping in concerts, his music videos and even some in his latest movie, "Under The Cherry Moon" due out in July.

The Plymouth resident was backstage at The Masonic Temple and Cobo Hall last weekend, making sure all was going well -- and judging by the reaction following a five-minute guitar solo of Purple Rain -- Fortney had the guitar in perfect sync.

"I am his personal technician, he tells me the sounds that he wants, and then I do everything that I can to make sure he gets those sounds," Fortney said.

And while, he won't go so far as to say he deserves some of the applause from the crowd, he does take some credit.

"I guess I am like a mechanic to a racecar driver. I set him up with the perfect car and he drives it. Here, I just try and set him up with the sound and he plays it."

Fortney has been working with Prince since 1984 and the start of the Purple Rain tour, and since that time has traveled on tour and movie location with him. Before that, however, the technician had plenty of practice working with talented and famous guitar players.

He began his "I'm with the band" days in 1973 with Brownsville Station (Smokin' in the Boysroom fame), and from there worked with Ted Nugent for five years until he started up with Bob Seger for several years until 1983.

With musicians like Nugent and Seger on his credits, it isn't surprising Fortney was offered a job with Prince

The Country Fest is coming to Canton

It's only four years old, but the Canton Country Festival has developed into one of the area's most popular attractions.

This year, it will roar into action from June 19 - 22, at the Canton Recreational Complex, behind the Township Administration Building.

This year's Festival will feature 45 arts and crafts booths, square dancers, puppet shows, amateur talent contest, a kids contest, a watermelon eating contest and a variety of foods.

For events, there will be the Millionaire's Party, a rodeo (June 20 - 22), the Cow Chip Fling, a tug-of-war, a scramble golf tournament, a five-mile run, a softball tournament, bingo and fireworks.

Revenue sharing

Plymouth Township will receive about $85,000 in federal revenue sharing funds this year, according to Supervisor Maurice Breen. "We don't rely on it for day-to-day operations," he said.

Instead, the revenues are allocated "mostly for capital outlays," Breen said. If federal revenue sharing funds were cut completely, Plymouth Township would experience only a two per cent reduction in income, Breen said.

The City of Plymouth will receive about $80,000 in federal revenues this year. Its budget would also not be affected drastically if the revenue sharing funds were cut completely.

"We use it all for capital improvements," said City Manager Henry Graper.

Travel TALK
FROM Emily's World
TRAVEL, LTD.

Emily Guettler

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND

Auckland, New Zealand's largest city, is on the country's north island. Surrounded by forests, flanked by two seas, built on a series of hills, it is the ancient home of the Maoris.

The waterfront drive is interesting, as is the scenic drive above the city to Mt. Eden, with its beautiful view of Auckland, its harbor, and the Tasman Sea. The War Memorial Museum, situated among 200 acres of magnificent gardens, has one of the best Maori collections in the world. Go to the Zoo and see the Kiwis. On your way to the Waitomo Caves you will pass riverside towns and farmlands. When you descend into underground caverns, you will take a subterranean boat trip on an underground river, to a grotto. Here you will see millions of glow-worms shining like tiny candles. If you have time for a side trip to Rotorua, you can see its thermal areas with geysers and mudpools and perhaps catch a performance of Maori songs and dances.

Auckland — a "down under" vacation.

Repairs at Cultural Ctr.

The City commission approved the request for $100,000 in bonds to repair the roof of the cultural center ice arena some time this summer, at the June 2 commission meeting.

In a request from city manager Henry Graper, the commission was told that the steel beams under the roof must be sandblasted and painted. He also stated that the wood would need to be cleaned and treated to protect it from the damp air of the ice arena.

when others couldn't cut the mustard.

"I got a call about a week before the Purple Rain tour was scheduled to start, and they said Prince was looking for a technician. But the word was he fired four guys in a row. But I got a shot and I have been with him ever since," he said.

It is obvious Fortney and Prince must gel for the Plymouth man to have remained with the superstar while others were fired, but it might be surprising to learn of the respect Fortney has for Prince as a musician. Especially after working with rockers like Seger and Nugent.

"All of them, Seger, Nugent and Prince, are demanding, but Prince is far more talented beyond any musician I have ever worked with. He is on the verge of being gifted," Fortney said.

Fortney also stresses that Prince, while in a different vein, is equal the heavy rocker of his previous employers.

"He rocks just as heavy. On sheer volume, he is just as loud and he has just as much, if not more rock in him as Nugent and Seger," he said.

This makes it easier when Fortney has to sit backstage during a concert and make sure the musician gets what he wants.

"I have to sort of play his role. I just ask myself -- what would I ask for if I were up there, and then I try and give it to him."

This is the life that Fortney lives, and for a man who attended Northern Michigan University for a while and worked at General Motors -- he is more than happy at how things have evolved.

P-C citizens face host of candidates

Plymouth Democrats who filed for precinct delegates in the Second District are: Albert Tavarozzi, Thomas Healy and Edmund Syder.

Democrats in Plymouth Township who filed in the same district are: Francis and Kathy Ann Reilly, Martin and Orville Tungate and Lisa Stempien.

On the Republican slate in the 2nd District, potential delegates in Plymouth are: William Baumgartner, Leola Flodquist, Harvey Hose, Patricia Krolkowski, Chris Russell, Gary Stout, Robert Eberhart, David Knight, Charles Morse, Anthony Licata, Donald Morgan, Ronald Wayne and Tanya Pedersen.

Republicans who filed in Plymouth Township for the second district are: Carl Berry, Janet Sprogell, John Stewart, Barbara Strand, Kenneth Harj, Andrew Pruner, Ronald Meyers, Timothy O'Neal, O. Ray Smith, Diane Daskalakis, Thomas and Nancy Lulek, Kerry Piercy, Patricia Guthrie, James McCarthy, Harry Stearnes, Thomas and Phyllis Cape, Samuel Durante, Mary Brooks, Geraldine Vollmer, Steve Ray, Lawrence Schendel, Phyllis Sullivan, Kenneth Hulsing, Robert and Kathleen Mount, Janey Campbell, Jerry Raymor, Christine Law and Abe Munfakh.

In the primary race for 2nd District House of Representatives, Democrats Dean Baker and Don Grimes, both of Ann Arbor, will pair off to see who will run against incumbent Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. Baker ran unsuccessfully for U.S. Senate and is the former owner of the Plymouth Hilton.

For the U.S. House 15th District seat, Republicans Peter Bundarin, of Canton, and Glen Kassel, of Westland, will run off to see who will oppose one of four Democratic hopefuls for the seat currently held by Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, who is running for re-election.

The other Democratic candidates are: Burl Atkins, of Southgate; William Gardiner, of Ypsilanti; and Daniel Eller, of Ypsilanti.

Sixth District State Senator Robert Geake, R-Northville, will be defending his seat against either Scott Bassett, D-Livonia or Thomas Healy, D-Plymouth.

In the 36th District State House of Representatives, incumbent Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, will run against Democrat Kathy Reilly of Plymouth in November.

In the 37th District State House race, incumbent Democrat James Kosteva will face Theodore Jacques, R-Romulus, in November.

For the county commissioner 11th District race, incumbent Milton Mack, D-Wayne, will run against Democrat Robert Smith, of Belleville, while Scott Press, of Wayne, will represent the Republicans in the race. The 11th District includes Canton.

MARY DUMAS

In the 10th District county commissioner race, Northville Township Supervisor Susan Heintz will run against fellow Republicans Elaine Tuttle, Livonia City Clerk, and Lawrence Schweiger, also of Livonia. The winner of the Republican primary will face Democrat John Kopka of Livonia in the November general election. Thirteen-year commission veteran Mary Dumas will not seek another term in the 10th District. The Republican commissioner will step down after serving out her term. The 10th District includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

There are nine Democrats squaring off to face one Republican in the county executive election. Democrats seeking the nomination for their party are: Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara; County Commission Chairman John Hertel, of Harper Woods; Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, of Livonia; Gerald Berg, of Detroit; Thomas Gondek, of Belleville; Charles Nemeth, of Dearborn; Michael Tifera, of Dearborn; County Commissioner Samuel Turner, of Detroit; and Frank Wilkerson, of Detroit. The lone Republican in the race is Bob Murphy, of Detroit.

Running for Wayne County Circuit Court Judge positions (three incumbent positions) are Stephen Foley, of Canton; Sean Kavanajh, of Livonia; Patrick McDonald, of Livonia; Joseph Baltimore, of Detroit; Paul Bricker, of Grosse Pointe Farms; Timothy Scallen, of Grosse Pointe; Robert Costello, of Grosse Pointe Farms; Ada Kerwin, of Detroit; Kathleen Macdonald, of Grosse Pointe Park; William Monaghan, of Grosse Pointe Farms; John Murphy, of Detroit; Michael Murphy, of Taylor; James Rashid, of Dearborn; Gregory Stempien, of Northville; David Szymanski, of Harper Woods; Harry Tatigian, of Livonia and James Ryan, of Canton.

Minor parties withdrawal deadline was June 6.

"Pitcher perfect"

Canton loses pitcher duel, tourney

BY T.M. SMITH

The Canton Chiefs stormed into the regional semi-finals of the state baseball tournament with a winning attitude and tradition backing them. But those blessings can only take a team so far.

The Chiefs discovered that Saturday morning, as they fell in the first game of the regional tournament 2-1 to the eventual regional champion Westland John Glenn, in a "pitcher perfect" battle.

Hurlers ruled the day on both sides of the mound, as Canton's Adam Kocik faced off with the Rockets Steve Irwin.

In the end, it wasn't which pitcher folded, but rather who had the breaks fall his way. Both pitchers threw themselves out of trouble all day, but the Rockets saw more daylight in the end scoring once in the fourth inning and once in the sixth.

Canton pushed across its lone run in the bottom of the seventh, on a double by Tony Aiken and a single by Tom Kenyon. But Kenyon was stranded on second to end the inning and game -- a situation that happened all too often for the Chiefs, as they stranded eight runners during the game.

Going into the contest, Irwin was regarded as the premier pitcher in the area, with people bragging of his fastball being clocked at major league speed, and a curve ball that was very effective.

But the Chiefs proved early he was fallible.

Canton threatened in the first three innings, putting at least one, sometimes two runners in scoring position with less than two outs. In the first it had runners on first and second, in the second inning runners reached first and third and in the third stanza the Chiefs placed men on second and third. In the end no runs scored.

Dumping on ump times but always managing to work his way out of trouble. That is until the fourth inning.

It was then that a balk, which Canton coach Fred Crissey argued furiously about, sent Mike Ham-montree to second base, a ground out to third and then a passed ball scored him.

"I seldom question calls, but I felt that call wasn't legitimate, and I also felt that umpire was looking for the balk," Crissey said.

Kocik was saved from severe damage in that same inning by a diving catch from Mark Stevens in right field with the bases loaded.

Westland scored once more in the sixth, again unearned, with a double and a throwing error. But it was not lack of defense that lost the game for the Chiefs -- it was lack of a break.

"If a couple have breaks had gone our way it could have been a different game and we could be there. But we lost, and I wish Glenn the best of luck," Crissey said.

The season-ending loss put a sour note in what was a great ending to a mediocre season for Canton. The Chiefs finished 18-15, but won 10 of their last 11 ballgames.

Westland goes into the state semi-final game this weekend with a 26-2 slate. They rolled Monroe in the regional final Saturday 17-1, after Monroe tripped up Redford Union 3-2.

Rappin' J. B.

By Jeff Bennett

It has been a great year for me at The Crier this year and overall, it has been a very educational time, but now it's time to leave the Rappin' name behind and start over as a freshman in college.

This will be the last time Rappin' J.B. will appear among The Crier's sports pages.

Before I take off for Marquette University in Milwaukee, WI and begin a new page in my life studying journalism, I think you should know the quality of coaching that I have seen and I would also like to take this time to talk to them.

Starting off with Rob Neu who took over basketball and track to have two successful seasons. He has energy and makes people work. Mr. Neu please start telling people what's on your mind and don't be afraid who you might offend.

Gary Balconi has also added zest to the coaching staffs at both Canton and Salem. He is a "father" type of a man that many coaches respect.

Hooker Wellman, congrats again on your baby and good luck next year without Andy Flower.

Rich Barr, I understand completely after that one football game and you were the first coach ever to show your real feelings after an upsetting loss.

Ron Krueger, the man behind Salem wrestling, its been great following Dave Dameron to the championships with you. Remember to make sure that your team and all teams know that there is more to life than just sports.

Fred Thomann keep up the good work of molding and making good athletes.

Well, that's it for the coaches, they have an important role in some of your lives. They have helped me and been patient while I took notes, called them on the phone or asked them how to spell a name.

The kids that are the sports is what really made covering these events worth it. They have demonstrated talent, courage, and they want to try. The Plymouth-Canton Community should be very proud of them.

Finally, to The Crier family I say thanks for giving me a job that I love and helping me to learn.

To Ed Fitzgerald and Dan Ness, thanks for everything, to T.M. Smith even though we only crossed paths a couple of times it has been worth it.

Mr. Wendover I know you hate personal columns but, I had to write one more. Thank-you for your all knowing logic.

Chris Boyd, the man behind the camera has a personality and thoughts of his own.

To the Canton and Salem sports world I give you Chris Farina, a man who can shoot pictures and write solid sports stories, keep pushing on to do better.

And as they say in England, T.T.F.N (Ta-Ta for now).

Teacher

Fred Crissey has coached Canton baseball for 13 years. In that time, the Chiefs have won nine league titles. (Crier photos by Chris Boyd)

BY CHRIS FARINA

Coaching is teaching, according to Canton baseball coach Fred Crissey.

Crissey has been "teaching" baseball players at the high school level for over 20 years. He has been coaching at Canton for the past 13. His first seven years were spent as the mentor for another high school.

The first two years he coached the Chiefs, he had a young team. There were no seniors on the team, yet they held their own playing a varsity schedule both years.

It didn't take him long to get settled into coaching the Chiefs. In 1975 they were voted the No. 1 team in the state, in a coaches poll. The ironic thing was that Salem had taken the state title that year.

"It was difficult going in," said Crissey. "The situation of being in the shadow of the school that had been established, but it didn't take us long.

The Chiefs have an impressive record with nine league titles, four districts and three regionals. They have also been to the semi-finals twice and in the state championship final once when they lost to Midland 5-4 in 1982.

Crissey has had a few players go on to the pros, but he says he didn't have a lot to do with that.

"The talent had to be there," said Crissey. "All you can do is polish the apple; you don't create apples," he said.

Out of everything, Crissey says he's most happy with the consistency of the team. He has had 20 victory seasons almost every year, and he "can count on one hand the times we've been shut out."

Crissey says he concentrates on the pitching and defense of the Chiefs. The offense takes care of itself in high school baseball he said.

On the collegiate level Brian Stemberger did well and also played for Toronto for five years. Also successful was Scott Dawson, Scott Collins and Bill Hanason. All played for Canton at one time.

Many others have done well in college; but these are the ones that come to mind.

Crissey doesn't have any plans in the immediate future to hang up coaching.

"It's something I enjoy doing; I suppose when I don't enjoy it anymore I'll put it down," he said.

Fred Crissey's record allows him to take his hat off to no one.

We Need Your Help For The BEST Run Ever

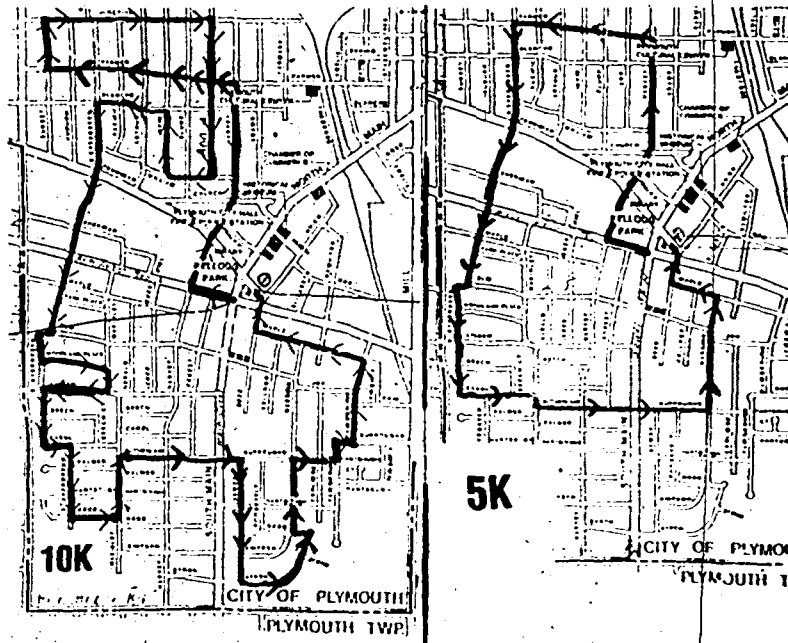

On Sunday, June 22 at 8:00 a.m. & 8:45 a.m., we're having our 7th Annual Run, and we're asking your assistance.

We Need Volunteers To:

1. Hold a run sign to direct runners at your nearest corner or in front of your house.
2. To stand and cheer on the runners.
3. Beware of the run and watch for the runners enroute.

Prayer to the Holy Spirit
Holy Spirit, you who made me see everything and showed me the way to reach my ideal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me I, in the short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved one. Pray this for three consecutive days without asking for your wish. It will be granted, and you must promise to publish this prayer.

Marilyn Anderson — thanks for the calming conversation. Mom's doing just fine. Love to Heather, Brian, Derek.
Janet Brass is the best "cooker" — needs a little work on rice pudding. Thanks for the very relaxed day with Queenie & Fred. I really enjoyed the time away.
PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and You who are in all the instances of my life with me, I in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones. Person must pray this 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After the third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be, then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. C.K.
