Let your patriotic spirit fly!!!!

BY T.M. SMITH

July 4 is a day to let all the patriotic spirit in your soul fly. It is the time to boldly wear anything and everything of the red, white and blue scheme. It is the Fourth of July -- Our day of Independence.

And nobody celebrates this holiday better than The Plymouth-Canton Community, and this Friday will be a celebration of celebrations.

This marks the 25th Anniversary of the Holiday presentation by the Plymouth Jaycees, and the civic group has spread a table of visual treats to entice youngsters from all of the proverbial ages.

The day kicks off in grand style with the July 4th parade on Main Street starting at 1 p.m. The parade will feature all of the usual grandeur associated with tradition, including floats, marching bands, horses and, of course, the second apprearance by the "Briefcase drill team"

Following the parade it might be prudent to head down to the Plymouth Township Park, as an afternoon of events will preceed the fireworks display which are set to begin bursting in "mid air" around 9:45 p.m.

Before that, however, five area car dealers who have contributed heavily to the event will have cars displayed in the park.

These will be some of the newest models on display for people to examine. The dealers who will have cars available will be Don Massey Cadillac, Sunshine Honda, Fox Hills

Project Key: Biz likes Plymouth

BY T.M. SMITH

And the final results are in . . .

Plymouth's political and economic elite turned out in force Monday night for the unveiling of official results from a three-month economic survey named "Project Key."

The results, which Plymouth scored high marks, were made official following a wine and cheese reception that catered to local goverment and business leaders from the area.

The study surveyed area manufacturers and charted responses and recommendations. It was completed more than a months ago, but was not made totally public until Monday night.

Some results were released a month ago.

Michigan Bell financed the study, and worked with Plymouth's Chamber of Commerce, in an effort to measure the satisfaction of area manufacturers in the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

According to the study, the community rated high in many areas by the manufacturers, including: business location, outlook on expansion, and services provided by local governments.

All of these results were obtained through volunteer phone surveys that asked opinions of 86 area business and manufacturers. The business who responded to the questions marked 81 per cent of the 106 business that targeted to complete the survey.

While Plymouth received overall good marks from the study, there was some criticism. The study turned up several weak, areas which need to be addressed, the survey said.

Some of these questions that came to the surface, include problems with vandalism, excessive business taxes, concern over traffic signs, and snow removal.

All of these problems were examined with recommendations for solutions made by the task force.

• Issue Community business have expressed dissatisfaction with vandalism.

The data that was collected has been presented to law enforcement agencies in Plymouth. The information will be analyzed and businesses will be given recommendations to increase security.

• Issue Local businesses are generally unaware of the many assistance programs available, especially the services provided by local governments.

Recommendation: The Chamber of Commerce assume the responsibility of providing better awareness, the first step being arranging an informal gathering.

These were the major problem areas, in what was an otherwise very positive list of results.

Vic Wilkinson, general manager of Howmet in Plymouth, was one of the major forces behind the project. He said Monday he was very pleased with the results.

Some interesting findings include: •Almost 60 per cent of those manufacturers surveyed plan on some kind of modernization, with almost 30 per cent of those planning an expansion.

• More than 80 per cent of the business in the area have less than 100 employes working for them, with only 2.5 per cent of the businesses having 500 employes or more.

•More than 40 per cent believe that the quality of life in Plymouth is a major advantage in recruiting new employes.(Less than two per cent believe quality of living is negative) •Nearly 80 per cent of the businesses in the area are non-union. •Protective services, fire and police, along with municipal services all rated very high with manufacturers.

•Almost 90 per cent of the business thought Plymouth was an "excellent" or "good" place to do business.

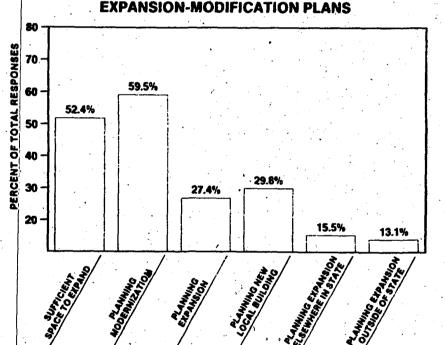

•These same manufacturers, 75 per cent, also said local government was

Library Board seeks one mill Canton library vote Aug. 5

BY DAN NESS

Canton Library Board gets its way.

The board will announce at a Monday press conference its intention to seek an increase in the present one-mill levy by preparing a ballot proposition to be voted on August 5, according to board member Thomas Yack.

The board is seeking the millage increase to fund the construction of a new library building.

The library board is taking advantage of new legislation which permits tax-levying boards to levy up to two mills. Previously, the library board could levy up to one mill.

The library board asked, and was granted in concept on March 11, a five-acre site behind the Canton Historical Museum to build a new library building as soon as the money becomes available.

Library Board Chairman John Schwartz III Canton residents could be assessed an ad- said, in a letter to the Board of Trustees, that a ditional one mill of taxes for their library if the separate library building was needed because of increased library use. "We are utilizing every inch of available space in our present facility and are becoming more and more aware of the need for a separate library building," Schwartz wrote.

> The present library is on the third floor of the Township Administration Building, at 1150 S. Canton Center Rd. Canton's growing population made it necessary to expand the library's facilities, Schwartz said. 45 per cent of all Canton residents have a library card, where most communities have about 25 per cent of their residents with library cards, Schwartz said.

> Last year, more than 26,000 library users were registered and 300,000 items were circulated at the Canton library.

Main Street: Where cops, kids meet

BY T.M. SMITH

It is as if the City of Plymouth Police Department has hitched up its belt, taken a wide stance and with a slight swagger announced to the city's youth hanging out on Main Street:

"You best be off the streets at sunset," in its best John Wayne impression.

A little melodramatic maybe, but the message is the same. The police want it understood that the annual summer problem of youths gathering on Main Street has reached a point of no return.

Police Chief Richard Myers, with the help of the City Managers office, has instituted a program to meet the problem head on - and based on offical figures for the first few weeks of summer -- the police mean business. As of Monday, more than 200 offical police warnings have been recorded, with seven of those 214 youths issued appearance tickets for a date in court.

These numbers are part of what Plymouth has labled "The Main Street Program," a cooperative effort between the police and businesses of Main Street to curb the loitering problem.

Under the multi-pronged attack, the police work with businesses who sign up in the program issuing warnings for youths caught loitering.

Police take the names of youths who are warned and feed them into the police computer. If the same name appears at a later date, that person is issued an 'appearance ticket' which orders that person to appear in court for loitering or trespassing.

More than 200 names are currently in the computer, seven of those names have come up twice - seven kids will appear in court in July.

ints program according to Myers, but it is not something the police are particularly happy about doing. The bad guy image is not what they are looking for.

"We try to understand these kids. They need someplace to go, and to their credit they have been very cooperative when we have asked them to leave. But they just cannot hang Please see page 9

WWCF reports scuffle

BY ED FITZGERALD

Two guards at the Western Wayne Correctional Facility were injured Sunday afternoon when a crowd of prisoners gathered to watch another prisoner being moved to a detention cell.

Curt Jones, head of public relations for the facility, said the entire incident lasted "only about 15 minutes." One of the injured guards was hit by a rock. Jones said officials were unable to determine who had thrown the rock. He said the injured sought medical treatment on their own.

Jones said the prison was put on a "lock-down" status, but for only an hour, ending at about 4:15 p.m.

"That's just a precautionary measure. We do that routinely whenever there's a fight and there's onlookers."

Many nearby residents were alarmed to hear the yard siren sounded. Jones said the siren was used just to tell the prisoners to return to their housing and "prevent it from escalating."

"I think I can compare the whole thing to a drunk coming out of a bar, a crowd gathering around and police coming to arrest him."

– Curt Jones WWCF

Jones said a prisoner had apparently become intoxicated on what is called "spud juice," or fermented potatoes, that the prisoners illegally prepare themselves.

"He was acting unruly, and the guards did have to tussle with him a bit in moving him (to detention cell)," said Jones. "I think I can compare the -whole thing to a drunk coming out of a bar, a crowd gathering around and police coming to arrest him. It was no bigger deal than that."

Earlier published accounts had described the matter as somewhat more serious. Sgt. Marshall Johnson, of the. Northville State Police post, had been quoted in The Detroit News saying "the prisoners apparently had taken control of a prison courtyard." · Jones said that was incorrect.

"If that had been the case we would have immediately called all of the local news agencies -- we have to do that." Sgt. Johnson later said there had not been any state police inside the prison, but the troopers had just "controlled the perimeter."

Johnson said the police had not been able to tell how serious the situation was inside, and they couldn't tell if the situation had been routine.

"As far as I know this is the first time anything like this has happened out there. It was kind of a show and tell. We've had escapees from there but nothing like this."

Deane Baker lives in Ann Arbor, works with the University of Michigan and has been a political aspirant. After that, the similarities between the two end.

Dean Baker, an economics teacher at the U of M working on his PhD., is currently running for U.S. Congress in the 2nd District as a Democrat. He thinks U.S. 2nd District Rep. Carl Pursell has not done the job and he wants to do it instead.

Deane Baker, a U of M regent (and a former owner of the Plymouth Hilton), has run unsuccessfully twice for the U.S. Senate as a Republican. "And I might add, I am a strong supporter of Congressman Pursell," Baker said.

Both Bakers want to make it perfectly clear who they are, and hope to avoid confusion in the political campaigning this summer.

"I do not know him, and I have not met him, but I know who he is," Deane Baker said. "His views are, in many ways, quite different than mine."

"I didn't know there was another Dean(e) Baker when I first moved to Ann Arbor," Dean Baker said. Baker moved to Ann Arbor three years ago.

Dean Baker said he decided to run for Congress in the Democratic primary (August 5) when he didn't see a viable opponent, in his party to Pursell. Don Grimes, of Ann Arbor, is also running in the Democratic primary.

Deane Baker, the regent, feels differently however. And he wants others to know there is a difference. "Many of my associates in the Republican party throughout southeast Michigan have a concern that we don't get misidentified," he said.

So, while Dean Baker runs for Congress, Deane Baker will be watching his near-namesake in the campaign, though not supporting him. And for now, Deane Baker seems satisfied with his post at the U of M.

"My present intention is to serve as a regent at the University of Michigan," he said. As to the future, "I wouldn't want to speculate."

Quid pro quo.

That means, "You scratch my back, I'll scratch your's."

Plymouth-Canton Schools has such a partner in Livonia Schools.

The P-C District just renewed its lease of Lowell Middle School. The arrangement for the past five years has helped ease overcrowding in the district, especially in the western side of the community.

P-C has agreed to lease the building for another three years, with an option for another two years. Cost is $100,000 a year. The old lease was at $96,000 a year, or $1 a square foot for the the 96,000 square foot building.

Jim Carli, superintendent of Livonia Schools (just replacing the retiring George Carver this week) called the rental "mutually beneficial."

"It's an excellent use for the building, because it was built to be a school," he said.

"Plymouth-Canton Schools is a good tenant. The building is well-cared for and that's what we're concerned about."

I WD.

Livonia, more than any other district in the state, has had a problem with fluctuating schooling populations. Back in 1970 there were approximately 40,000 students in the district. Now there are only 16,000. Livonia Schools has closed 23 schools, including Lowell, in that time.

But it's those drastic changes that keep Livonia ready for a resurgence and keeps Lowell off the block.

"We need to continuosly monitor the demographics of the area," Carli said. "Our intent is to keep our options open if the enrollment changes. That way if it increases we could get some of the ones we've closed back on line."

But might Lowell eventually be sold to P-C?

"Anything's possible," said Carli. Ray Hoedel, superintendent of business for P-C Schools, called the arrangement "fantastic."

"It's excellent for the community and it's been well-received by both the students and the parents."

Canton cop thwarts downtown robber

BY DAN NESS

He was 30 miles out of his jurisdiction, but a Canton police officer didn't let that prevent him from assisting a Detroit police officer in need.

Officer Charles Raycraft was transporting a prisoner to the Wayne County Jail Thursday, when he was flagged down by a resident in downtown Detroit. The resident told Raycraft that a woman police officer was fighting with a man wielding a knife nearby.

Raycraft picked up the citizen and drove to where the fighting was allegedly taking place and saw the police officer chasing a man into an alley. The man ran through a parking lot and across the I-94 service drive near Woodward Avenue.

Raycraft saw the man throw something into a stairwell near the service drive, according to Canton police. At that point, Raycraft got out of the car and chased the man on foot for about a half block.

When he caught up to the man, he ordered him to stop at gunpoint. The Detroit officer arrived and arrested the man, Michael Dorsey, 36, of Detroit, for armed robbery. A knife, allegedly used in the robbery of a woman, was found in the stairwell on the I-94 service drive.

A purse containing $70 was recovered for the victim.

Gang allegedly beats woman

A 29-year-old Westland woman was knocked down and beaten by a group of four teenagers in Canton last Tuesday night.

The woman was walking home from a store at about 8:30 p.m., according to police reports, when she was approached by four teenagers near Haggerty and Palmer roads. One youth reportedly said, "Let's beat her," and three of the teens started to hit her about the body with their fists.

The teens fled east on Palmer Road when the woman screamed, according to police. The woman did not require medical attention, according to police reports.

The Canton Police Department is investigating.

P-C rents again

THE COMMUNITY CRIER: July 2,

Hoedel said he had once approached Garver about the possibility of purchasing Lowell.

"He said, 'Why would you want to buy it, when renting (works fine).' We haven't talked about it lately."

Hoedel said the rental price was good, too.

"I think if you looked around, you'd see that the average price of rental space was $11-12 a foot.'

Utilities for the building are billed directly to P-C Schools. Hoedel says, if something like the furnace breaks, Livonia, like any good landlord, would fix it.

Hoedel said the district, which doesn't rent any other space, had recently considered renting the old Dixboro Elementary Building on Dixboro Road, noh of Ann Arbor Road. Hoedel said that plan had been shelved, barring any "urgent" need for space.

P-C Schools is also involved in a warehousing and purchasing pact with Livonia Schools, and six other districts.

P-C pays a 15 per cent service fee on he purchasing pact, but Hoedel says it saves all of the districts money.

"We all get the advantage of lower prices by buying by quantity," Hoedel said.

Hoedel said the warehousing, or storage that Livonia does for the other districts is also a help.

"We would need more space and bodies to do it ourselves," Hoedel said.

out on Main Street - too many people are complaining."

According to the breakdown of where these kids have been hanging out, the 7-11 on Main has been the worst hit.

Since the program has begun, 55 of the warnings have been issued in the 7-11 lot. Farmer Jack has 54 warnings issued, but all others Main Street businesses have had 20 or fewer warnings.

Barb Dalton the store manager of 7-11, admits part of the problem stems from the store being open all night, and the kids naturally stop there.

"This is a typical small town meeting place. They like to park their cars and talk, and find out where the parties are, but there gets to be so many of them," she said.

She agreed with Myers that most of them have been cooperative when they are asked to leave, but the problem is expansive.

"It gets to the point of where you ask two cars to leave the lot, they leave -- but three more drive in," Dalton said.

"This is a typical smalltown meeting place. They like to park their cars and talk, and find out where the parties are, but there gets to be so many of them."

- Barb Dalton 7-11 manager

Part of the arrangement with the Main Street Program is that when a store signs up in the program, they agree to put up "No Loitering" signs near the business and agree to sign complaints when the police are called.

"All my employes, are told what to do and when to call the police. When we do call, we point out who is loitering," she said.

This has worked well according to assistant city manager Paul Sincock.

"If you drove through town this past weekend you would have noticed the difference. The Farmer Jack lot was empty, and it hasn't been empty for a long time. But there is more to do yet," he said.

Part of the problem, according to Myers is brought on the youths themselves.

"They really have to learn to police themselves. Most of the time we wouldn't have to do it if they would, but they throw bottles and yell profanities in front of busy restaurants, and we can't stand for that," he said.

Many of these problems are in places other that Main Street. Several recent problems have been recorded with youths on Penniman Avenue. A place where the "squids" in town congregate.

"One of the officers asked them why they hang out and they said they liked to have people look at them," Myers said.

Downtown's double standard

Life is full of double-standards.

Rules that apply for one group do not apply for another group. Usually these rules are unfair, but sometimes these double-standards are founded on experience.

The growing problems with youths gathering downtown, and on Main Street present a set of these double-standards. And a dilemma to go along with them.

The City has a place called The Gathering, yet youths cannot gather there without a permit. It is called loitering when they do it. Adults, bands and farmers gather there all during the week, they get no problems - they have a permit. Unfair? Maybe.

But consider this. The adults, bands and farmers don't break bottles, and yell profanities.

And most of the youths who gather don't either. But here is the difference, AND the double-standard. If an adult did this down at The Gathering, the rest of the crowd would get rid of the trouble-maker.

Unfortunately, when and if one of the youths causes a scene -- nobody stops him. Not one of the other young adults stands up, and calls the other one a jerk.

What will it take to convince the "kiddies" hanging out in downtown Plymouth that the hassles they get, they bring upon themselves.

Those hanging out should become part of the solution and stop crying.

Parents, can stop crying too.

But he ignores immorality in our schools

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers has dispelled the myth that all of the gathering kids are from out of town.

Of the 214 young adults who have been warned so far this year, almost 150 of those have been from The Plymouth-Canton Community. Nearly 75 per cent. It is our town, our kids.

Parents, can become part of the solution. If not, then they too are part of the problem.

A note to the wise, and a double-standard. Last Sunday night, 16 men gathered on the Central Parking Deck around dusk. A number of groupies watched The men had briefcases in hand -- not skateboards. They had no permit, but the police gave them no hassles.

Unfair? Yep, but these men knew how to play by the unofficial rules -- even if they did overlook the "gathering" ordinance permit requirement -and when one plays by the rules, one gets to bend the rules once in awhile.

A suggestion, and a question. Do any of the young adults hanging out downtown have the nerve to march into City Hall and apply for a permit? Which one of them is willing to take responsibility for their friends actions?

The young adults have the right to use downtown. But with that right come the responsibilities that not all of them live up to. And so, the double standard comes in -- like it does for the rest of the world -- because it only takes a few to spoil things for many.

Ed Fitzgerald to get Pulitzer Prize

EDITOR: My dear Mr. Ed Fitzgerald.

I had to chuckle last week, as I started to read the column in your paper regarding our recent school board election.

Boring you called it. I thought to myself, this guy should be writing for a gossip column instead of an opinion column. I am really glad that the only thing you could find to report on we 'Christians' was the fact that Diane Daskalakis and myself were passing notes back and forth during the League of Women Voters session and that I made a typo error on my flier.

You should be real proud of receiving your paycheck last week. Keep up the good work, next thing you know, you, Ed you'll be receiving the Pulitzer Prize.

During the recent campaign, Diane and I didn't do an effective job of informing the people in our community of the vastness of deterioration withing our public school systems, not only locally, but on a state and nationwide basis. But Diane and I have not been defeated, we have only begun and want parents to know that Filthy movies, cursing and promiscuity are being taught in our schools we can be called if they are concerned about anything that is going on in our school system.

You see, there is a major worldwide movement, called Secular Humanism, that is attempting to remove Jesus from all our school programs such as School Based Clinics (SBC's) that are dispensing birth control pills, steering our teens to abortion clinics, and who knows what else without even being required to inform parents about what they are doing to our children. Before we know it our schools won't even need parents at all if the proposal to fund our schools through general funds ever gets passed.

Witchcraft, demonology, satanism, filthy movies, cursing, and promiscuity are being taught in our schools each day.

Why aren't you reporting on these facts? You have such a powerful tool to use, why not make a real contribution to our society by doing some investigatory reporting on some issues that are making our teens commit suicide in record numbers.

You see, my friend, without all the hope that Jesus Christ gives us all, there is nothing to look forward to. Nothing to truly love and be loved through. Nothing to teach us how to care, respect, love, and help one another. If some of us don't start speaking up and acting out, then our public school systems and morals will undoubtedly crumble away. We must stop running away from this problem by sending our children off to private schools. Let's attack the source of our problem, the administrators and accision makers within our public systems that are promoting Secular Humanism. Let's stop deferring it to another generation to take care of.

And we Christians are being persecuted every day, because we choose to speak up about these issues, and we rejoice in it. So have your 'fun', but why don't you try reporting a bit more professionally in the future.

My publisher had another GREAT idea(?)

How I was 'volunteered' for the July 4th drill team

I remember the moment well. (Actually the moment is quite fuzzy in my mind, but it ruins a writers credibility when moments become sketchy) So anyway, this moment -which is etched in my brain with surprising accuracy -- involves me sitting at my desk with untied tennis shoes propped up on the desktop.

During this moment I was engrossed in deep thought, trying to decide why some fingernails grow faster than others, when the magnate of The Crier stolled into the office with a large grin on his face -- looking directly at me.

I knew then I was in some kind of deep trouble.

Now, if our publisher, editor had stomped in yelling an obsenity, followed by SMITH -- that would have been different. That would have meant I botched a story in some way, and I should fix it.

But today he was grinning. And worse, he was grinning at me. This could mean only one thing -- another GREAT idea. I was about to become the proud recipient of a brainstorm idea and I had nowhere to run.

It really was my own fault, how can a guy with his untied feet propped up on a desk really expect to make any kind of getaway.

This is the story of how I became a member of Plymouth's Briefcase Drill Team.

As I was pulling my feet down, this enlightened man asked if I had ever heard of this drill team that totes around a briefcase in a parade and yells.

Carries what, I asked.

The Briefcase Drill Team he repeated confidently. I hope you have heard of it -- you're in it.

Well, this is how the youngest and least equipped member of the drill team came to be. And as anyone who witnessed the drill team at the Fourth of July Parade last year, this squad of blue-suited lunitics is not for the cheeky, or timid person.

As I was not here last year, the team was described to me, "as 16 men who perform military-type routines, while dressed in dark suits with red silk ties -and of course carry a briefcase."

The routine, which stole the parade last year I'm told, is based on the movie Stripes with Bill Murray. If you have seen the movie, you will know and love the drill team. If you havn't seen the movie, you will probably want to after Friday.

Still, I had my doubts. The fact of

I am the Wall

EDITOR'S NOTE:

The following poem was submitted by a local 14-year-old girl who is fighting juvenile diabetes. She has been on insulin since before she could walk, and just returned from a 12-month stay at a Pittsburgh special care facility.

(I Am) The Wall I am the one who was strong The one who said it would all be fine

But now as I sit and write this song I am the one who's cryin'

I am the wall

The one who never fell

My mortar is crumbling

And I'm tumbling down The wall is coming to an end

I'm not so strong anymore

All my feelings are rushing out the door

I was set for war But look at me now the matter is, that I resemble the Bill Murray who hunts gophers in Caddyshack much more than I resemble a business man.

And, I do NOT own a briefcase. (What would I put in one, new shoelaces for my untied shoes?)

I pled this case to Mr. Publisher. Pled is the key word here.

That is why, when you see me this

Friday in the parade, I will be carrying The Official Briefcase of The Crier.

"Why did the chicken cross the road," along with "Boom, chucka luka."

Luckily, the Bill Murray fan in me leaped out. With my mouth cocked in that familiar Murray way, I decided this could be "Another Cinderella story."

I could handle singing, chanting and dressing up for one afternoon. I could do that.

This was before we got into it. Then, once it started it became fun. Here I was with lawyers, bankers and perfect pillars of the community — and we were all willing to risk reputation for a few yuks.

And these guys really have reputations. Me, I still fail to tie my shoes, and I seldom wear socks. I have no reputation to lose. I'm a mutant anyway, I thought with Murray flair. If they can do this, I can do this. It's like going into Wisconsin – no problem.

It got better. The drill team actually was good. We moved with precision, we marched together and briefcases flew in unison.

We became a "lean, mean fighting machine," and this rookie is looking forward to Friday.

General Hill has informed me, however, that I will have to tie my tennis shoes.

He's like you and me. He works hard and has dreams as well as his own share of problems.

He's happily married, has a nice apartment and for now, his job is secure.

Yes, I'm talking about the Michael Wilson who's a write-in gubernatorial independent candidate.

He holds no office, has never held a political position, but says he's got a good shot at the state's top job if his views reach the people.

Now before you laugh or call him a crackpot, think about the last time you had a complaint about property taxes. How about the cutbacks in social security or the toxic waste that's being dumped in, what seems like, any old place. Mad yet?

With the cooperation of the local businesses and with the hard work of my staff this race proved to be the most successful, again thank you.

Thank you Fitz

Are you tired of reading about fatalities due to drunk drivers? Are you unemployed and wonder where your next meal is going to come from?

You might have one or more of these complaints, maybe you have different ones.

So, what are you going to do?

My guess is nothing and to be honest, I'd probably do the same.

But here's a guy who's getting involved. He's tired of being passive about the state's imperfections. He's tired of hearing empty promises and the "I can't do anything so why bother" excuse. He's fed up with the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer when he's part of the middle helping to hold up both ends.

Wilson's running for governor. He's an unknown, doesn't have the money nor the resources to become known and will most likely lose out.

You laugh, I applaud.

He said it himself. Getting elected isn't important. What's important to him, he said, is being heard.

He has complaints like you and I, he's tired of being told to "call your congressman" but unlike many, he's trying to do something about it, he's trying to make a difference.

His views on tax reform aren't complex, his ideas about law and order are justified and his belief in a better life for senior citizens and veterans of war is admirable.

He is not a bitter man and isn't directly affected by the adversities of the issues he stands for.

He supports school prayer but isn't religious, he drinks and smokes but would like to see more of a tax on tobacco and alcohol items; money he'd like to see directed towards the care or senior citizens.

He supports capital punishment and mandatory sentencing but was never victim to a burglary or an attempt on his life.

Maybe he gives a damn, that's all.

"A lot of things don't bother me directly, but I know people that are a heck of a lot worse off than I am and the government is turning their back," Wilson said.

What have you done to improve bleak situations? Did you even vote in the last election?

Plymouth's candidate speaks out

BY DAVID PIERINI

Meet Michael Scott Wilson, fed up citizen.

He's tired of loop holes in the justice system, annoyed with wasted state funds and fed up with the way Vietnam veterans are treated.

He'd like to see mandatory sentences for criminals, a re-networked tax structure and more benefits for war vets

He wants safe streets, beefed up education standards and free health care for senior citizens.

Wilson isn't going to petition for these things and he's certainly not going to call his congressman.

But the Plymouth resident is taking action -- he's running for governor.

No joke, Wilson said he's serious.

Wilson, of Risman Drive, has filed with the state elections board as a write-in candidate and come November, he said he's confident that he'll be in the race.

"If the people knew that I was available to vote for as governor and I was able to express my points of view in the issues that I feel are important to the state, I think a lot of people will wake up and support me," the 40-yearold Flint native said.

"Last night's paper was Murphy talking about Lucas, Lucas talking about Blanchard, just calling each other names and really avoiding the issues of the state and the people."

Wilson, who's in the car reconditioning business, said that because of low funds, he hasn't been able to ignite a big PR blitz about his candidacy.

He and his wife Pat spend Sundays traveling to different Michigan cities talking with people and passing out a brochure entitled "Where I Stand."

"I think that I have just as much of a chance as anyone else if my points of view were discussed because I know I'm not the only one that's got these things on the mind."

What's on Wilson's mind? Plenty.

When elected governor (Wilson never says if elected), he plans to support legislation that calls for mandatory prison and jail terms for all criminal acts, everything from carrying a concealed weapon to narcotics dealing.

He is pro-capital punishment and would like to see a crack down on minors because he said that the law protects teenage criminals.

"I use to sell insurance in Inkster and go to houses that had bars on their doors and windows," he said. "It shouldn't have to be that way, people shouldn't have to live in fear."

On juvenile criminals: "We've got to get away from this attitude that they're just teenagers, they're just kids. That doesn't make it all right for them to take a gun and pop somebody or bust somebody's car windows or break in a house!"

His tax reform plans would call for the lowering of property taxes but a one per cent raise in sales tax in order to compensate.

He said he'd also add a five cents per gallon gas tax and a 15 cents per item tax on alcohol and tobacco products.

He said as governor, senior citizens would be exempt from paying property taxes and that a tax credit would be offered to families who care for their elderly at home.

"There's so much money in this state," Wilson said. "If only they used it wisely. Blanchard just approved some bill or budget recently in that conference on Mackinac Island and part of that money is going towards advertising golf courses in the Upper Penninsula. If they can find money for that, they certainly can find money to cut back on property taxes for senior citizens."

Wilson also said that if the state lottery advertising budget was cut in half, that would save money as well.

"Every time you turn on the TV, there's another ad. Certainly it costs money to make those ads. The lottery has been around long enough and people are aware of it."

Wilson would like to see the state money go towards care for senior citizens such as free socialized medicine and health care for people aged 67 and over

He said he'd also support legislation putting a price freeze on the increase of rent paid by senior citizens and that senior citizens on fixed incomes would³ be exempt from paying state taxes.

"When they get to be that age, they should have the opportunity to relax and settle back," said Wilson. "Don't give them everything but make it a little more easier for them so they don't have to worry about the social security check being late. There's enough money in this country and they should be helped out a little bit more instead of being neglected by society."

The candidate

Some of Wilson's other plans are: •Develop a state funded G.I. Bill program providing medical, educational, housing, small business loans and counselling services.

•Establish a Vietnam Veterans war memorial in Lansing.

•Adopt a law, similiar to the one recently approved in Wisconsin, holding parents financially responsible when their minor children have babies. •Support legislation requiring teachers to be tested for competency every five years.

•Increase the school year from nine to 10 months.

•Support legislation adopting school prayer.

• Support legislation barring troublemakers from junior and senior high schools.

•Support legislation for state funded homes for runaway children, wife abuse victims and others who are abused at home.

Do some sound extreme?

"Naturally, there's a lot of things people aren't going to agree with, you're not going to please everybody on everything. There's so much B.S. going around. At least I'm not saying I promise this, I promise that. I'm making commitments.

"It's not important that I'm elected. What's important is that somebody picks up this stuff and start talking about it."

That's how all this business about becoming governor started; talking, grumbling and groaning about what's going on.

"That's what we do every morning," said Wilson's wife Pat. "We get up 5:30-6 a.m. drink coffee and talk.

"I'll help him any way I can, I'm with him. That's why we talk so good together because we believe in the same things."

Wilson has had seven jobs in the last five years. He has done everything from driving a cab, to working for a dating service.

"He knows what it's like to be at the bottom and work his way up to the middle, he has experience where the others don't," she said.

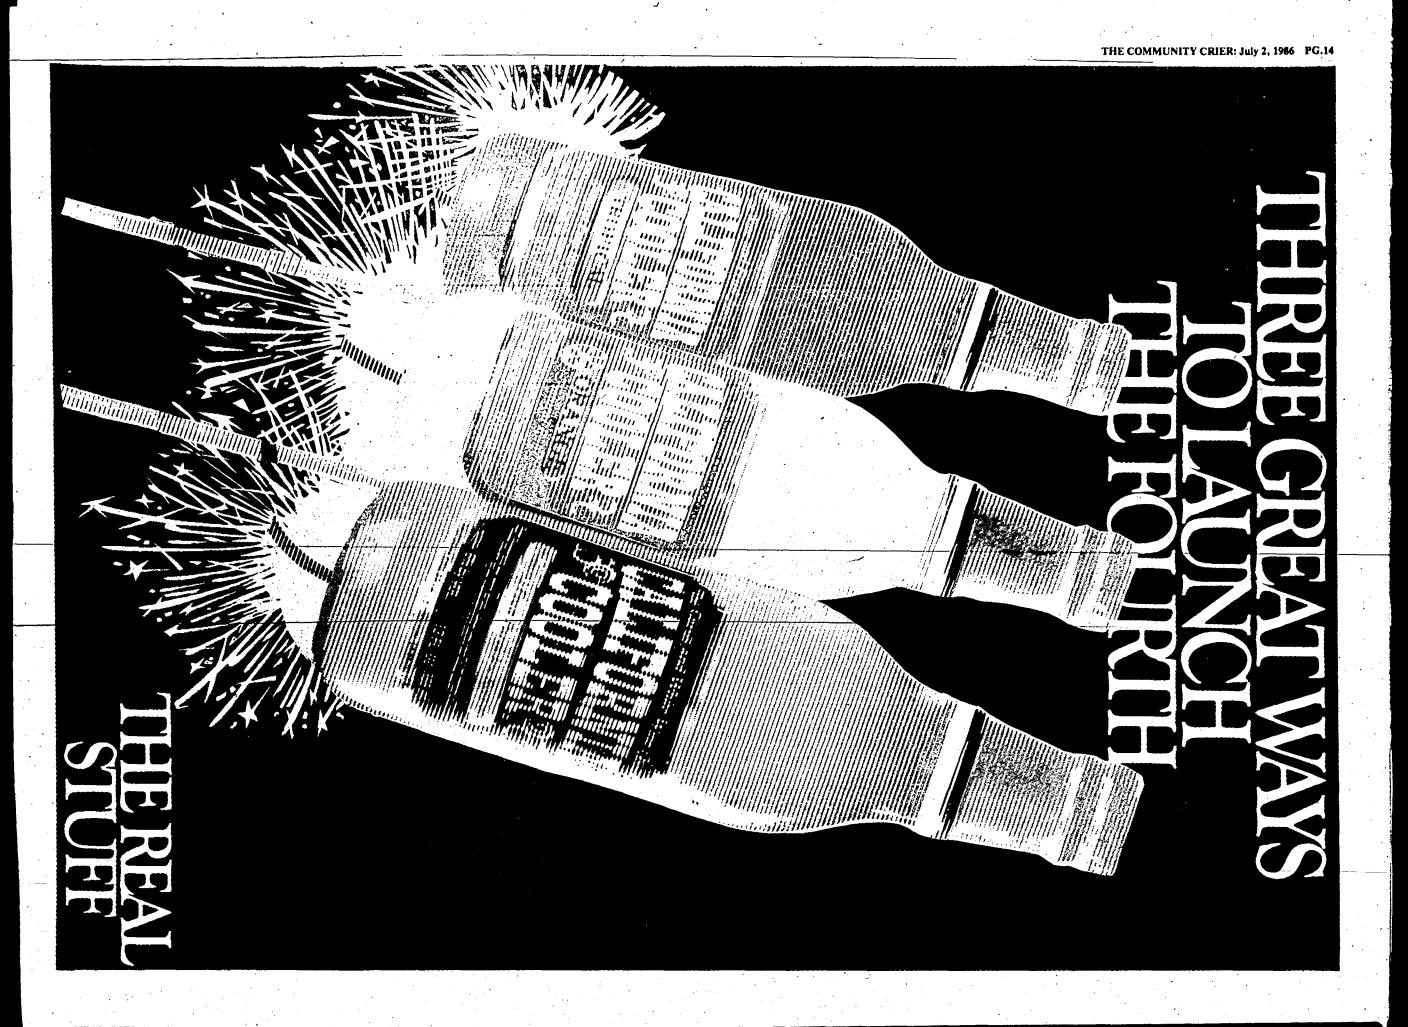

What kind of governor will Wilson be?

"I'll have the compassion of Jimmy Carter, the wisdom of Abe Lincoln and the authority of Buford Pusser."

Balloons, dances, sales and art

Slowly drifting overhead, silently; occasionally there's a blast from a gas burner, just for a little lift. Then the hot air balloon floats on, piloted by man but guided by nature and the wind.

Weather permitting, the skies over The Plymouth-Canton Community will be full of brightly colored hot air balloons this weekend. It's time for the sixth annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The balloon fest has become a tradition for this community, attracting thousands from all over Michigan and Ohio. That means, while everyone has their eyes on the traffic in the skies, the traffic on local roads will also be of concern. Volunteers and policemen will be on hand to help guide motorists.

But the whole community pitches in to make the festival an event which gives all visitors a taste of how Plymouth-Canton throws a party.

The schedule of fun is as such:

Friday, July 11

American Airlines At 6 p.m. the festival begins with a mass ascent from the Centennial Educational Park at Joy and Canton Center Roads in Canton Township.

Balloon Ball At 8 p.m. shake it under the stars out on the deck of the Mayflower II. Music of the 50's and 60's by Benny and the Jets. Dancing, hot dogs and cocktails. Tickets are $6.

Fly-in flapjacks to hit Mettetal

Saturday morning, July 12, members of the local E.A.A. Chapter 113 will host a Fly-in Pancake Breakfast at Mettetal Airport on Lilley Road. Breakfast will be served from 7-11 a.m. (cost is $3 for adults, $2 for children under 12).

What is the E.A.A. you ask? The Experimental Aircraft Association is an international organization dedicated to promoting aviation, and to encourage those who want to design and/or build their own aircraft, E.A.A. Chapter 113 is comprised of a group of local pilots who have built, are now building or who dream of building and flying their own aircraft. They call themselves the "Backyard Eagles."

Okay, next question. What is a fly-in breakfast? Glad you asked. It's a tradition among pilot groups to host and attend weekend early morning breakfasts served at airports, generally inside a large aircraft hangar. It's similar to an "ice cream social," but with people screaming for pancakes instead of ice cream.

The pilots come to jaw about flying and admire each other's wingspans. The breakfast is incidental, but serves as reason enough for the get-together.

For the non-flying general public, this event provides an excellent opportunity to visit the airport, meet the pilots, have breakfast, and admire a tremendous variety of aircraft. It's a chance to see just about everything from a factory-built aircraft right on down to a single-seat "homebuilt" aircraft. And, with the E.A.A. group, the emphasis is definitely on the "homebuilt."

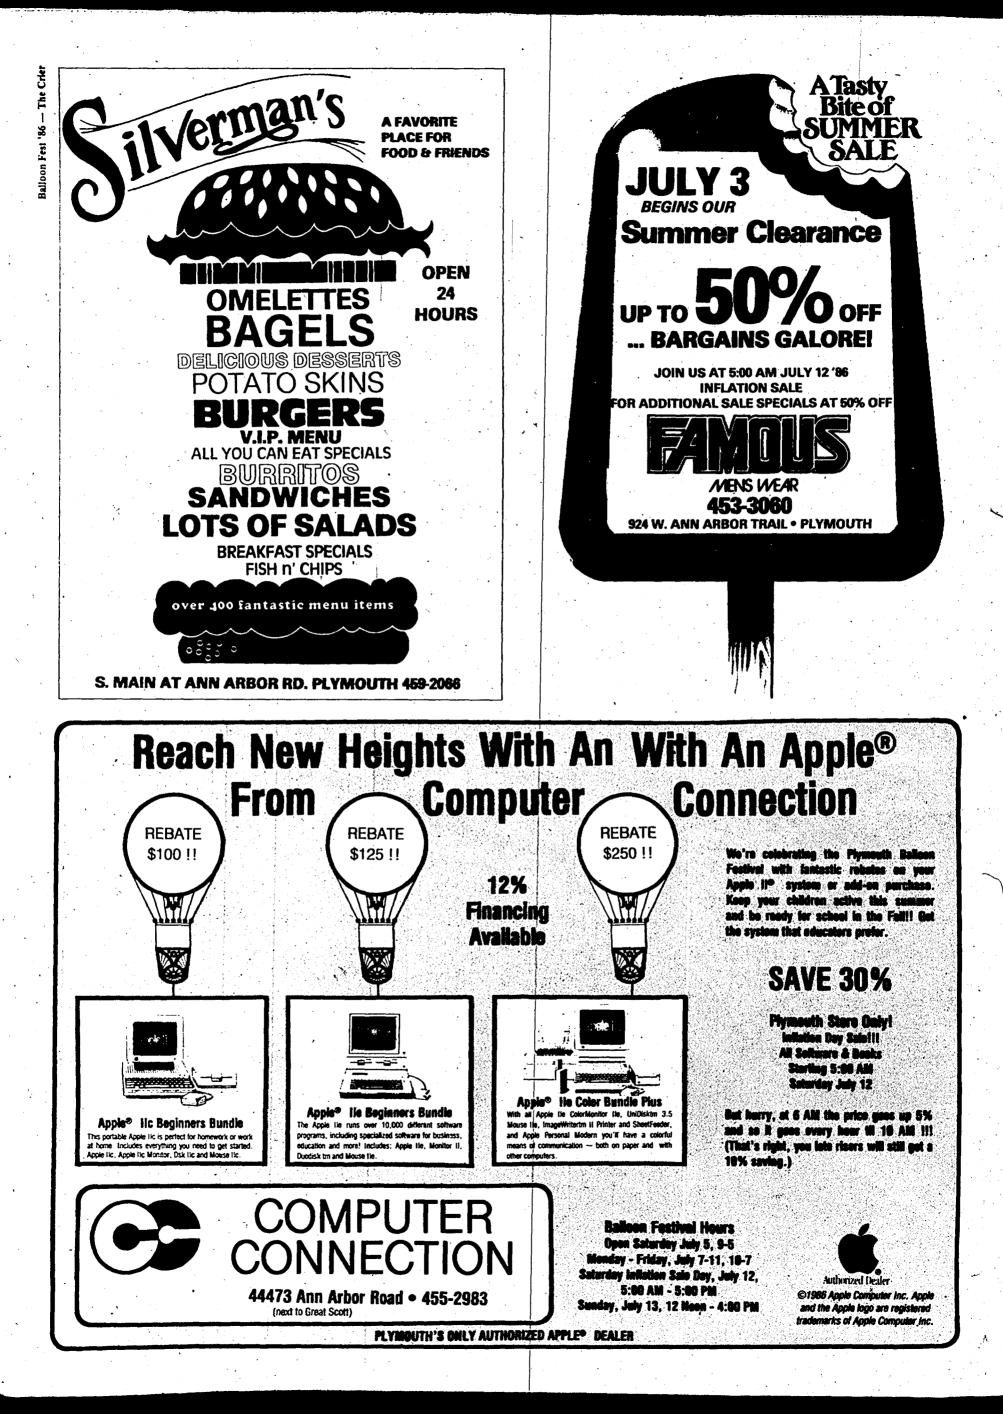

The fly-in pancake breakfast is a family event. A majority of Chapter 113's members are family men whose wives and children share their enthusiasm for flying. The public is invited.

A bigger and better balloon festival

Michigan's largest hot air balloon festival should be even bigger this year. Some 60 balloons will compete in the Sixth Annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival July 11-13, 1986.

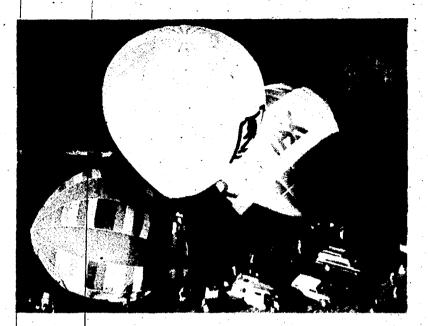

About a quarter million spectators are expected to watch five separate races at the Centennial Educational Park, a 305-acre site at Joy Road and Canton Center Road in Canton Township.

Signed up so far are some balloonists who were in the World's Hot Air Balloon Competition last summer in Battle Creek, says Scott Lorenz, general mangager of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, and co-chairman of the fest along with Gordon Boring of the Wicker Basket Balloon Center.

Top balloon crews are drawn from throughout the country and the world. They're attracted by prizes and the accommodations made for them by the sponsors. The newest prize this year is a trip to Paris, France via American Airlines. Other prizes include a new car and trips offered by Eastern Airlines and British Airways.

Some of the balloons already signed up: First of America, Ford Motorcraft, New York Air, Eastern Airlines, America Yazaki and E.F. Hutton. New additions for this year's fest include: Pilot Air Freight of Romulus, Slush Puppy and Budweiser (which is a staple at many other hot air balloon fests).

A popular feature of last year's festival to be repeated this summer is the Experimental Aircraft Association's Fly-in 7 a.m.+

noon Saturday, July 12. A number of antique airplanes, dating back to the 1930's, will be on display at Mettetal Airport, which is located on Joy Road, about one mile east of the launch site.

Also returning is the The Early Riser Inflation Sale. Literally thousands of customers start lining the streets at 5 a.m. to take advantage of half-off sales from downtown Plymouth merchants. Then, on the hour, prices go up 10 per cent.

Launches are scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday and at 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

For those who are smittened by the sport and want to take up ballooning, a Hot Air Balloon School is scheduled Aug. 9-10 at the Mayflower Hotel, offering all the training needed to become a licensed pilot.

Art for landlubbers

In the middle of the day during the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival, when all everybody's necks are sufficiently kinked from crooning upwards as the balloons drift off, think about alternative activities.

Specifically, looking down would be nice. And Plymouth has just the event — Art in the Park. During the weekend Mayflower Hotel will host a art show in Plymouth's downtown Kellogg Park.

As in all great art shows, exhibitors from all over the state will be on hand to showcase their art. Fifty-seven cities in all will be represented during the weekend fair, along with more than 150 artists and crafts people who will be in attendance during the art fair.

Some of the predominant themes during the fair will be country and folk art. Paintings on traditional canvas, as well as on wood, tin, shirts and other various garage tools, all done in oils, watercolors and acrylics.

In addition to paintings there will every form of needle work, handmade furniture, flower arrangements, stained glass along with hand forge reproductions from Greenfield Village.

Balloon Fest '86

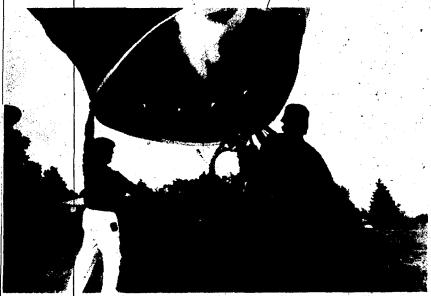

Over 50 merchants in Plymouth will be offering much of their merchandise at 50 per cent off Saturday July 12. It's time again for the Fourth Annual Plymouth Inflation Sale, held in conjunction with the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

To really take advantage of the sale, you must rise before the crack of dawn and be in the Plymouth stores at 5 a.m. when the sale starts. That's because at 6 a.m. the discount goes down to only 40 per cent; at 7 a.m. to 30 per cent; 8 a.m. is 20 per cent off; 9 a.m. prices will be 10 per cent off. By 10 a.m. prices will have inflated back to normal levels. As you can see (if you followed all that), the earlier you get up, the better the discount.

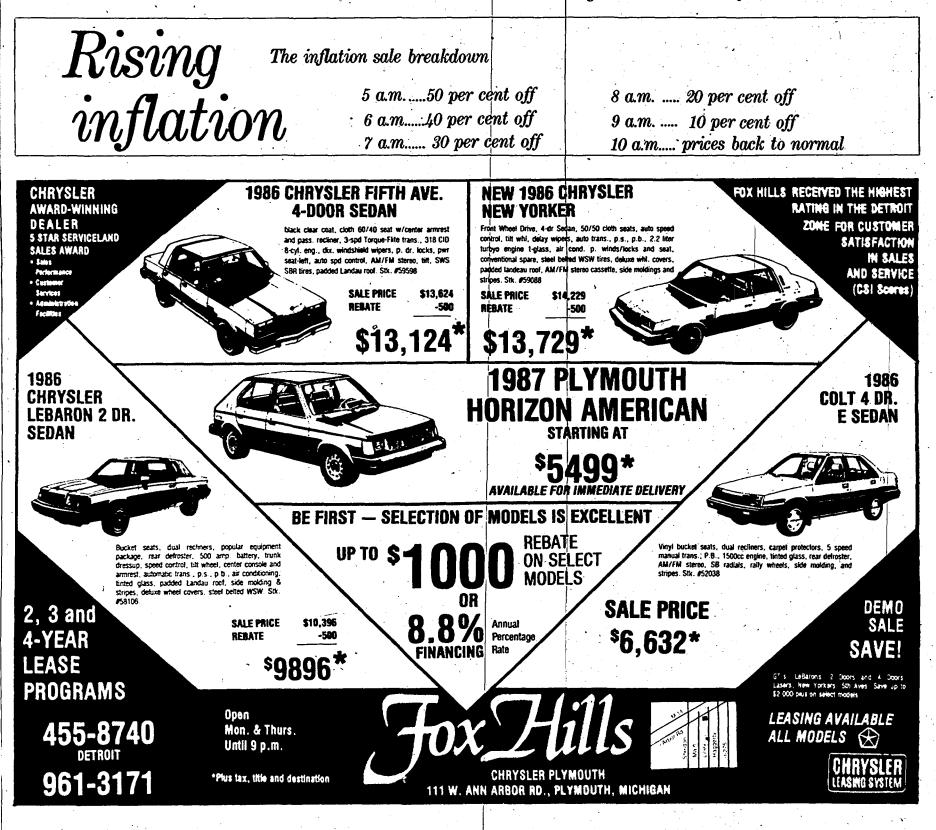

Many of the stores offer over half of their regular merchandise in this sale. This sale is unique to Plymouth, and has been tremendously successful each year.

For those of you who can't make it early, you can expect some bargains all day long in the stores of Plymouth. You really won't find anything to compare with the prices those first magic hours, though.

Many of the stores will also be open Sunday.

Balloons won't be the only thing deflating and inflating. Local merchants will be watching their tills swell. (Crier file photo)

HowASmall Community Came To See The Light At The End Of The Tunnel.

A few years back, the roof practically caved in on the people of this small mining community.

The mine had been shut down.

Putting half the town out of work. And taking away a livelihood that had been a way of life here for decades. Considering that miners all across America were struggling with all the same kind of problems, there did not seem to be even the slightest ray of hope left to the town.

Problem was, just like the miners could not afford to go much longer without work, the company could not afford to reopen the mine. Much less run it profitably enough to keep it up and running, as it had before. But when the state of Michigan got the miners and the mining com-pany together, people saw things in an entirely different light. So when they figured out a way to reopen the mine, we pitched in to help figure out a way to finance it. Today, the mine is open again.

The miners have gone back and reclaimed their jobs.

And even though there's still some hard work ahead for everyone concerned, the entire town is beginning to see a much brighter future for itself. At First of America Bank, we take pecial pride in what this one small community achieved just by digging deep inside themselves for answers. Not just because we're bankers.

But because, more importantly, we're part of the community, too.

G FIRST OF AMERICA. We're Community Banks First.

So, you want to be a balloonist?

A hot air balloon seminar will be held in Plymouth the beginning of August. The seminar will be conducted by Van Stifler, who is associated with the Fort Wayne Ground Schools.

The session will begin at approximately 8 a.m. at the Mayflower Hotel on August 9 and 10.

Individuals completing the two-day course will be eligible to take a written exam to become a licensed hot air balloon pilot by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

The seminar will cover such topics as federal regulation, density, altitude, lifting force, landing, ballooning weather, equipment, vocabulary, aeronautical charts, weather reports, good operating practice, and mountain flying. The seminar covers the information required for both private and commercial hot air balloons, and free balloon pilot licenses. The tuition of $125 (additional family members at $30 each) includes all classroom presentations, handout materials, and loan of an aeronautical chart, circular protractor, and test guides. Stifler also is a designated written text examiner appointed by the FAA and will administer the written test upon course completion. Stifler guarantees that persons attending the seminar will pass the FAA written examination or tuition will be refunded.

The classes begin at 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, August 9 and 10, with a lunch break at 11:45 a.m. Afternoon sessions run from 1-4 p.m. On Sunday, the written exams will be given at 1 p.m. and will last about 90 minutes.

Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the Wicker Basket Balloon Center at (313) 669-4230 or by calling Stifler at (219) 747-5533. Payment is due on the morning of August 3.

The Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival is in its sixth year. For this year's fest, some 60 balloons are expected, competing in four events. One of the favorites is when balloonists try to pick up a set of car keys from atop a pole. Another is the "Hare and Hound" race where one balloon sets sail, lands — others see who can land closest to it. (Crier file photo)

Balloons ride airwaves

As the hot air balloons float throught the air, they will be surrounded by airwaves full of balloon fest information.

Plymouth-Canton's "community" radio station, WSDP-88, will broadcast traffic information, weather conditions, balloon departures, and interviews with festival organizers throughout the weekend.

WSDP will broadcast July 12-13 from 5 a.m. -- 10 p.m. The station, staffed mostly by high school students, will broadcast Monday thru Friday from 7:30 a.m. -- 10 p.m. until Aug. 1 then close until the school year starts up in the fall.

"Our station philosophy is to not only provide a realistic learning environment for our student staff, but to serve our community as well," said Station Manager Andrew Melin. "The Mayflower Balloon Festival is a significant community event and WSDP looks forward to a mutually beneficial relationship."

WSDP is owned and operated by the Plymouth-Canton Community School District with broadcast facilities located a the Centennial Educational Park.

A little of the bubbly

It's not quite like the Olympics, but some products have been named the "official" products of the 1986 Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival.

One of those is Freixenet Champagne.

"Champagne and ballooning go hand-in-hand," says Scott Lorenz, co-chairman of the event and pilot of the Mayflower Hotel balloon.

Gordon Boring, the other co-chairman, said "all pilots and sponsors will receive a bottle of Freixenet champagne on their free sponsor ride Saturday morning, July 12."

Spectators can also view the six-story black and gold Freixenet hot air balloon throughout the weekend.

The cars will be set up from 5 p.m and into the night.

At 8:45, one of the premier attractions of the evening will begin. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra with its "Stars and Stripes" Spectacular" Pops concert in the park, will explode into music. The concert will begin at 8:45 p.m., approximately one hour before the fireworks, with at least six selections ranging from Henry Mancini to Tchaikovsky.

Once dark descends upon the park, the Symphony and fireworks will link hands to create a visual and audio experience. The show has been choreographed with selections such as the "1812 Overture" and "Manhattan Skyline".

Organizers also say the fireworks will be double in duration from the show last year, and they will continue after the symphony is finished playing.

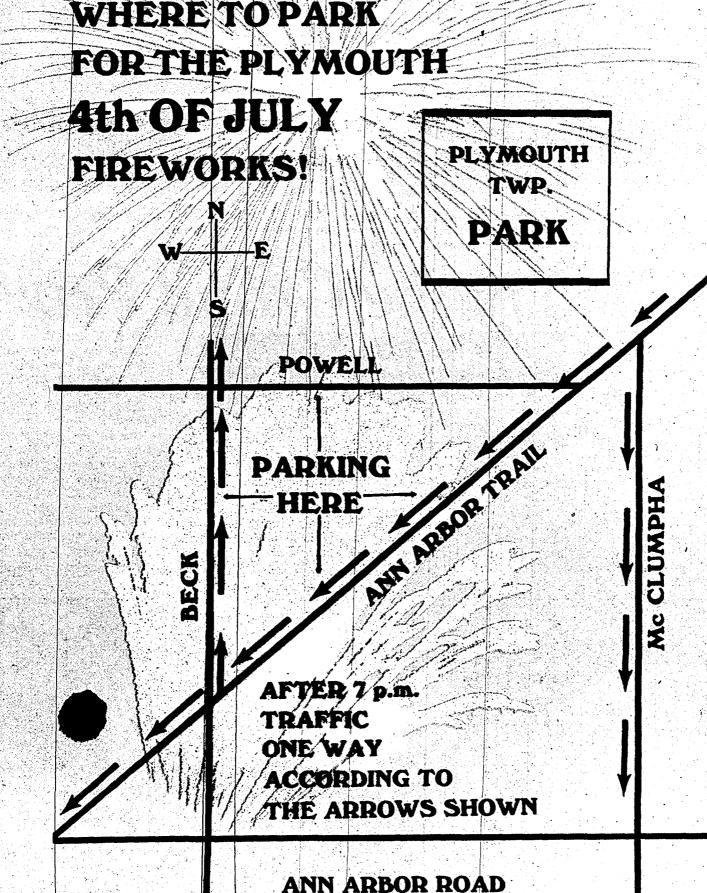

People who attended last year's display should be warned that parking will be different this year. For those rookies, and even veterans of the fireworks, take note: There will be no parking in the park, and roads will be closed by police early (7 p.m.), so make plans ahead of time. (See story and map in special section for parking and special instructions)

And let nobody forget the pains that went, into this years planning. Special lauds should be extended to the Rlymouth Jaycees for continued pressure and dedication in getting the show off the ground. A special thanks should also be extended to to major sponsors: Don Massey Cadillac, Sunshine Honda, Fox Hills Chrysler Plymouth, Dick Scott Buick and Dodge and Hines Park Lincoln Mercury Merkur. Also the Adolph Coors Company. These major sponsors made the show possible with last minute heroics.

Still, no fund raising is complete without the little guy. The people next door that dig into their own pocketbooks for that little extra that makes the difference.

Those people are: Air Tite Insulation, B & F Auto Supply, Norma Cassady, Carne Associates, Mr. and Mrs Michael Carpenter, Eric and Mary

Go speedracer. Grand Prix driver Nelson Piquet rounds a turn at the Detroit Grand firefighter. This was his third year at the races. (Crier photo by Chris Prix in car No. 6. (inset) Plymouth fire-fighter Bob Kroeger stands in Boyd, inset by Greg Campbell) the pits. Kroeger spent the weekend in the pits as a volunteer

When the international Grand Prix made its annual pit stop in Detroit June 20, there was one Plymouth man who had one of the best seats in the house.

Unlike many VIPs, who paid literally hundreds of dollars for their prime viewing locations, Bob Kroeger didn't have to pay one American dollar for the three days of racing he withessed.

The only thing the Detroit Grand Prix cost Kroeger was "about 10 pounds I lost in sweat."

Kroeger dropped this weight in full

Best seat in the house fire gear standing in the pits of the Formula One race course during the race. He was one of several volunteer fire fighters from Michigan who donated time to the course, and in return got great seats for the races.

Kroeger is a volunteer with the City of Plymouth fire department, and once a year for the past three years, he has ventured into the international racing world for the Grand Prix.

"My friend, Ed Huyck, is with the Detroit Fire Department, and he got me in, and I'll stay until it stops coming to Detroit," he said. Although he said the heat, and the full fire gear he wears during the races are uncomfortable, he believes it is more than worth that small problem.

"We could only be closer to the race if we were in the cars themselves. We are right in the pits, and when they come out of the turn they are moving at about 140 mph, and you can feel the engines reverberate in your body," he said.

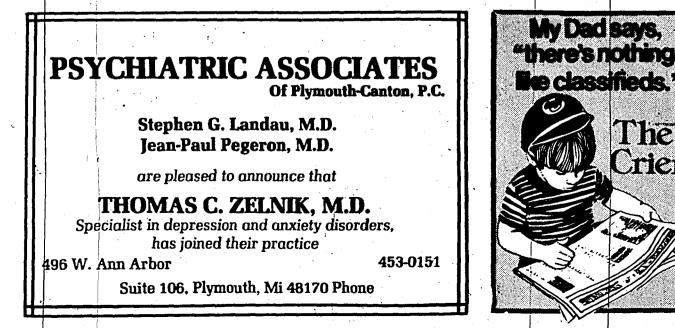

V Dad Bays

One of the things Kroeger is thankful for, is his services have not been needed in any emergency situation at the races. He said there have been no major accidents, and no one has ever gotten seriously hurt in Detroit.

One of the flavors of the race Kroeger savors is the international touch the race brings with it to Detroit.

"Standing in the pits is like being in Europe," he said. "So many languages are spoken, and the drivers speak French, Italian, English, you can't tell where they are from unless you see their names -- it is really a great feeling."

Did you ever hear a whistled language that sounds like spoken Spanish? It's possible, and you can hear it on the island of Gomera in the Canary Islands. The people there communicate that way over long distances. That's just one of many unique features found on these dreamy isles in the Atlantic Ocean.

You'll have the feeling you've discovered something different and unique in vacation areas. That's not unusual, it's an apt description of this group of 13 islands making up two provinces of Spain. Sun worshippers, sightseers and explorers all find something to delight them here. And shoppers will be glad to know Santa Cruz, the capital, is duty-free.

Since the Canary Islands are only about sixty miles off the northwest coast of Africa, a fascinating side trip to Tunisia is just a short hop away. There, in Marrakech, you can mingle in a whole new world of marketplaces, veiled women, storytellers and snake charmers. Visit the Canary Islands with a side trip to Africa. You'll get a vacation treat combining the charm of Europe, the excitement of Spain, and the exotic atmosphere of Africa!

Our 30 years experience assures you of the finest travel service available. And, best of all, THERE IS NO CHARGE TO YOU FOR OUR SERVICES. We are reimbursed in commission fees by the airlines and hotels, ships and resorts that we book.

Kids under the The Friendly Rainbow

Where is the ideal child care and learning center?

The answer lies under the rainbow. Friendly Rainbow, that is.

The Friendly Rainbow Center, located in the basement of Colony Bible Fellowship at the corner of Five Mile and Bradner in Plymouth, is going on its third year as a licensed daytime, child care and preschool facility.

"We feel it's an excellent program," said co-director Janet Mason and with good reason.

Children who don't want to leave at day's end is a pretty good indication of what Friendly Rainbow is all about.

"The parents have to drag their children home," Mason said.

Friendly Rainbow is a pre-school program in the mornings with day care available before, during and after the pre-school session.

Registration is $20. Parents pay $7.50 per preschool session or pay $15 for a full day. Lunch is provided (for an extra $2), along with nutritional snacks.

"Those children who are here for day care in the mornings go through the program," Mason said. "We keep the kids so busy that they don't have time to miss mom and dad."

And after a day of painting, molding and playing, Mason said these kids are usually ready for a nap.

The program is an environment of planned experiences that stimulate the child to explore and expand the world

DeRuiter promoted

Randall DeRuiter of Plymouth, was recently named Vice President of Operations for the R.A. DeMattia Company.

DeRuiter will be responsibile for the construction operations throughout the U.S. as well as the company's steel erection forces.

DeRuiter, who joined the firm in 1983, is a registered engineer and a graduate of U of M.

Peter Pellerito, of Plymouth, was reelected to a three-year term on the Board of Trustees of the American Lung Association of Michigan (ALAM) at the organization's recent annual meeting in Lansing.

Blocks used for problem solving situations, arts and crafts for creativity and a discovery center that involves the students in experiences with plants, animals and the five senses, are just some of the activities that keep the children busy and interested.

"Up with people" tour

Daniel O'Day, of Plymouth, has just completed a 12-month participation in the international, educational and cultural program, Up With People.

O'Day was with Cast C and traveled an estimated 32,000 miles across the U.S. and Europe. Among the highlights of the 1985-86 world tour was Up With People's performance during the halftime of Super Bowl XX in New Orleans on January 26. week's was camping.

"We take the place of mom and dad," Mason said, "except we expose the kids to things they normally wouldn't have at home, like finger or sand painting for example."

Mason along with Markita Gottschalk started the center two years ago. Another day care center at the same site was unable to meet the proper codes, Mason said.

Gottschalk along with Nancy Dragun teach while Karen Dingeldey and Reimute Feller are teacher assistants.

"Some parents bring their children here because they don't want them to sit in front of the boob tube," Mason said.

Girls Scouts on the road

Huron Valley Girl Scouts announced recently that four Plymouth Scouts will participate in "Wider Opportunities," a special travel and participation experience for Girl Scouts age 13 to 17.

The girls explore careers related to computers, horses, the arts, or working with people with disabilities.

Carol Jasmer, a Senior Girl Scout from Troop 501 in Plymouth, will be attending "Studio '86" in Evansville, IN. Performers and artists from the Institute for the Fine and Performing Arts will help Jasmer develop her skills in drama, dance, music, crafts, painting and drawing.

Angela Thomas, from Senior Girl Scout Troop 499 in Plymouth, will head to the Girl Scout National Center West to participate in "Saddle Straddle." As experienced horsewomen, they will sharpen their skills, develop new riding techniques and plan and prepare for an extended pack trip to remote areas of the center.

Beverly Gildhaus, from Senior Girl Scout Troop 501 in Plymouth, will join in the celebration of the unveiling of the restored Statue of Liberty on July 4 as a participant in "Yankee Lifestyles and Lady Liberty." She will explore New York City as well as discover the unique heritage of New England.

Valerie Gildhaus, of Cadette Girl Scout Troop 367 in Plymouth, will travel to New York for canoeing, sailing and hiking in the Adirondacks for "Pine Trees, Ping Pong, and Parliament."

Higher Ed

Larry Masteller, Director of Community Education for Plymouth-Canton Schools, has been given a Partnership for Education Task Force Award, for his department's programs with the Ford Motor Company Sheldon Road Plant and its union representatives. Only 20 such awards have been given throughout the state:

Masteller, speaking at a Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting June 10, complimented the work of teachers Karen Bossieux and Patricia Flaherty, who have personally directed the educational program for employes at the plant for the past few years. It was noted that this program has the highest enrollment of any on-site Ford program; and future prospects are exceptional.

Prayer to the Holy Spirit

Holy Spirit, you who made me see everything and showed me the way to reach my ideal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me I, in the short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I or want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved one. Pray this for three consecutive days without asking for your wish.
