DNR: No Canton building

BY DAN NESS

The state DNR has issued Canton Township an ultimatum: join Supersewer, or don't grow as a community.

The DNR officially advised Canton Supervisor James Poole Friday that it would impose a sewer ban, thereby refusing to issue new sewer construction permits for any building in the township, as a result of Canton's refusal to join the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley (Supersewer) project, or come up with an alternative sewage disposal plan suitable to DNR's specifications.

In imposing the sewer ban, the DNR also served Canton with a "notice of violation" of pollution control regulations, charging that Canton's sewage collection system "lacks sufficient capacity to assure transportation and treatment before discharge of all sewage collected therein, resulting in discharges of untreated sewage to the waters of the State, in violation of (state law)."

According to the DNR, two sewer pumps in Canton discharge sewage which eventually flows into the Rouge River. The pumps are activated when it rains heavily, and the present sewer system cannot keep up with the additional water flow.

Poole met with state DNR Director Gordon Guyer Monday night to discuss the DNR's action. Poole called a press conference for Thursday to announce a lawsuit to be filed charging the DNR with selective enforcement. The suit will also call for the DNR to end the sewer ban.

The Canton Board of Trustees voted Sept. 9 to stay out of the Supersewer

Twp. woman reports assault on Saturday

A Plymouth Township woman was assaulted and robbed at her doorstep early Saturday morning, Plymouth Township police said.

Police said the woman was returning home from work, and had her key in the door when she was attacked from behind and knocked to the ground.

The 34-year-old woman suffered a small cut to her forehead, but was not seriously injured in the attack, police said.

Deputy Chief Chip Snider said "It was payday, and the assailant might have been after her cashed paycheck, but she had yet to cash her check."

The man is described as a white male, 5'6" with thinning blond hair and a moustache, driving a late-model Chevrolet, possibly a Nova.

Man dies in football game

A Westland man died Oct. 16 in Plymouth while playing touch football in Plymouth's recreation league.

Chuck Skene, director of the Parks and Recreation for Plymouth, said the 28-year-old man died five minutes into the game from an apparent heart attack.

Terry Johnson, of Westland, was pronounced dead later that night at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, he said.

According to Skene, Johnson was not hit prior to the attack, and was just lining up for a play when he fell over.

Study suggests new system for CFD

BY DAN NESS

The Bartell and Bartell study of the Canton Fire Department was handed to township officials Tuesday, with recommendations pointing towards the eventual appointment of a public safety director to head the administrative duties of both the police and fire departments.

The 110-page-plus report examined every facet of the fire department in great detail, and made recommendations for a better management plan for this "young" fire department which was borne out of a "young" community.

Bartell and Bartell noted that the present department set-up would be sufficient for fire protection needs, with better administrative and management programs in place. The study said that in some cases, "the service capacity exceeds the needs," and that some demands for more growth in the department were only there because "the Township is growing and the Township can afford it."

The study also indicated that there was a morale problem within the fire department, which was directed toward township officials in many cases. "The philosophy of 'us' the fire department, against 'them' the Township is fully integrated into the department. When the Township becomes the 'enemy,' the direction of the department is fully lost," the report read.

The fire department study was set in motion last winter and was started in the spring. A similar study was performed on the police department 1½ years ago by the same professional consultant firm.

In its recommendation to move towards a public safety director configuration, Bartell and Bartell indicated that "one clear option" would be to appoint Police Chief John Santomauro to such a position when the time came to move to that system. The report said the overall restructuring of the fire department would probably take six years to complete.

The report recommended that the township go to a "nominal public safety director" system first, which would transform into a stronger public safety director system over a period of time.

Under the "nominal public safety director" system, the fire chief would be in charge of fire suppression and EMS, and the fire captain would be in charge of fire prevention. Both would report directly to the public safety director.

The Board of Trustees was to have received the report at last night's regular board meeting. The board is not expected to take any immediate action regarding the report until next week's meeting, at the earliest.

Another point in the report was that a third fire station in Canton would not be needed, according to Bartell and Bartell. "There is nothing to indicate by number of fires, property loss, loss

Hoben orders 'Breakfast' review

BY KEN VOYLES

In light of concerns raised by both students and teachers, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent John Hoben announced that a review committee will be formed to evaluate "The Breakfast Club."

"I've directed Dr. (Michael) Homes to convene a committee to view 'The Breakfast Club,'" Hoben explained in his report at the start of Monday's regular meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

"There is case law that supports the decision I made," Hoben said after the meeting. "This is a divided issue in the community, no question.

"But I still don't think the movie is an appropriate piece of instructional material," he continued. "There is better material available."

Until the committee makes a decision on the issue the film ban will remain in effect, according to the superintendent.

Hoben also noted that the audience at the Salem auditorium, where the meeting was moved at the last minute Monday, was "stacked" in favor of those who disagree with him.

There were nearly 200 students, parents and interested community residents on hand, including Angie Schlagheck, one of the driving forces behind the students' own petition drive.

Schlagheck presented the board with more than 700 signatures on petitions which were circulated to parents and registered voters in the district.

She also spoke to the board, as did 25 other residents, during the "citizens comments" segment of the meeting. (See accompanying story on page 32.)

The review committee will be formed this week, according to Homes, who added that it must include one teacher, one administrator, one media specialist and two parents.

"We'll get people interested in this issue or who have helped us before," said Homes. "They will meet in-

Little goblins hit the street - safely

BY T.M. SMITH

Hey kids, Boo careful out there!

With ghosts, goblins, vampires and witches running around town, it would seem that parents would want to take extra care of their loved ones.

Too often, however, the excitement of the moment takes over and safety slips by the wayside on Halloween night. So just to be sure, here are a few tips and pointers from area police that might help this Halloween be the safe nocturnal outing it was intended to be many full moons ago.

The City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township have both set hours for Halloween night this Friday between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Canton Community Relations Officer David Boljesic said the Canton police were also advising trick-or-treaters to abide by those hours.

In addition police at all three agencies have cautioned parents to use "common sense" during the evening.

Officer Bob Smith of the Plymouth Township Police Crime Prevention unit said the adage "Better safe than sorry; should be the word," and a little extra caution will go a long way.

Simple hints; such as kids walking in groups, parents escorting the younger kids, reflective tape on costumes and setting times for the kids to be home will always help Halloween run smoother.

Boljesic also noted that the Canton Police Department would be doubling its patrol force Halloween night, with the additional officers concentrating on the residential subdivisions.

Residents should turn on their porch lights for Halloween and the night before, Boljesic said, as a basic crime prevention measure.

Jack-o-lanterns!!

Patrick Newlund, 7, and his sister Emily, 9, of Canton, carve out their best efforts Saturday at The Gathering during The Great Pumpkin Caper. The Caper continues Thursday night, as trick-or-treaters 13 years old and younger are invited to go from store to store in Plymouth, from 5-7 p.m. There will be a costume contest, too. Kids should check in at the bandshell between 5-6:30 p.m. before trick-or-treating, then return for judging at 7:30 p.m. The winners of the carving contest will also be announced at that time, as well as the pumpkin baking contest. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

He also advised trick-or-treaters to stay in familiar neighborhoods. Parents should inspect all treats before their children eat them, Boljesic said. "Just because they've been through a metal detector doesn't mean the treats haven't been tampered with," Boljesic warned.

In the City there are several added activities being planned to help parents organize.

On Thursday, Oct. 30 (Devil's Night in some towns) there will be trick-or-treating in the Plymouth downtown area at local businesses.

Then on Friday, in addition to the traditional trick-or-treating at homes; the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department will be holding its 16th annual Halloween Costume and Pumpkin Carving contest at the Cultural Center. The party kicks off at 4 p.m. and will conclude somewhere around 5 p.m.

The contest is open to all city residents K through 6th grade. Pumpkins should be carved before arriving at the contest.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department will also be offering metal detection of Halloween candy at the McDonalds Restaurant on Ford Road and on Michigan Avenue and I-275 in Canton, while City of Plymouth police will do the same at the McDonalds on Ann Arbor Road.

Smith named to S'craft trustee board

BY KEN VOYLES

Wendell E. Smith became the third resident of The Plymouth-Canton Community to win a seat on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. He was selected by the board last Wednesday to fill one of two vacancies with the departure of Sharon Sarris and Paul Kadish.

"I'm very, very pleased," he said after a single ballot at the beginning of the board's regular meeting. "My view of the board is they are a very positive group of people who are able to change with the times."

WENDELL E. SMITH

Smith, 52, was one of five finalists for the trustee positions. He received three out of a possible five votes in the first, and only, round of balloting.

The Plymouth Township resident joins another township native, Mary Breen, on the board. Mike Burley, from Canton, is the board chairperson.

Jeanne Stempien, of Northville, was the other choice of the board to fill a trustee spot. She garnered the most votes with five.

The other finalists were Nancy Kitzman, of Garden City, Thomas Watkins and Robert McMahon, of Northville.

Smith is currently president of Chatham Supermarkets Inc., a Detroit based food chain with 10 outlets throughout the state. He is also a stockholder in the company.

Smith spent the past 16 years living out of the state after growing up in Plymouth. He has been very active in local, regional and national Jaycees organizations.

"I'm excited about working with the board and administration," he said. "My first brush with them seems to indicate they have a lot of good people."

A Republican, Smith said partisan action wasn't really a consideration in the workings of what is basically a non-partisan board.

"I think they selected me because of my strong business background," he said. "I would say yes I was surprised to be picked. They had so many good choices."

There were originally 29 candidates for the two spots before the board narrowed the field to five just two weeks ago.

S'craft celebrates 25

BY KEN VOYLES

A tree was planted at Schoolcraft College last week.

The newly added blue spruce symbolizes the school's growth over the past 25 years. It was seen as the focal point of a three-day anniversary celebration by friends and staff.

Twenty-five years ago the property Schoolcraft rose from was nothing but farm land. Today a community college flourishes along Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile roads with close to 10,000 students.

Nearly 500 friends of the college, staff, former staff, administrators, trustees, former trustees, local politicians and alumni gathered Friday for a reception and the sealing of another symbol -- a time capsule.

SC President Richard McDowell used the tree as a symbol when he addressed the throng that gathered on the upper floor of the school's Waterman Campus Center.

"That tree symbolizes our growth and development," he said. "And you, the friends and supporters of the college, are the needles on the tree."

"You are so important to us," McDowell added. "We hope to have you all around for another 25 years."

He asked the college's patrons to continue to work for it and help SC fulfill "its mission."

Among The Plymouth--Canton Community residents on hand were Judge Dunbar Davis and Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, who was on the original committee to form the school.

Michael Homes, from the Plymouth--Canton Community Schools, received a plaque of appreciation, along with representatives of the other school districts which feed into Schoolcraft.

And then Kenneth Lindner, vice-president for business services, sealed items from the SC Foundation, the Alumni Association and the Student Activities office into a time capsule which will be opened in 25 years (the year 2011).

"I plan to be here when they open it up again," said the 67-year-old Lindner. "They say the second 25 years are the age of maturity. I hope Schoolcraft ages gracefully and with a purpose."

McDowell called the capsule a "snapshot" of Schoolcraft as it is seen by the community today.

The affair drew to a close as the college's current trustees, Mike Burley, Rosina Raymond, Laura Toy, Harry Greenleaf, Mary Breen and its newest trustees Wendell Smith and Jeanne Stempien, cut up a giant three-layer cake.

McNamara, Murphy vie for exec.

BY KEN VOYLES

If one had to figure the odds in the Wayne County Executive race, Livonia Mayor and Democratic candidate Ed McNamara has to be the heavy favorite.

Despite a strong challenge from Republican Robert Murphy, McNamara is already looking ahead past the day he wins the executive position and takes over the reigns in the county.

Heavily Democratic Wayne County has yet to elect a Republican as chief administrator and McNamara is well aware of the high visibility of the race and the chance he might (despite the odds) lose.

"It was a naive, stupid act on their part," he continued. "There are still possibilities of payless paydays this year."

Another reason McNamara said he supports paying county officials more is the need to attract quality people to do the kind of job he would like see done in the future.

Murphy said one of the first acts he would perform if elected would be to put a freeze on new hiring in the county and allow natural attrition to slowly reduce the number of county employees.

"I don't believe in layoffs," said the pro-life candidate. "That's not pro-family."

He added, "We have a shrinking county in terms of population and tax base. We may have to shrink county government as well. That's one way to get the county back in shape."

Murphy said he would look at all county programs across the board. McNamara agreed that the "whole system" in the county was "screwed up."

"The system is screwed up, but it won't be for long," he said. "We'll have to bring in a consultant and make the system work. We're gonna have to replace people who just aren't doing their job."

"The dollars are there."

"Right now I'm being very presumptuous," he said. "In two weeks there is a final election and if I lose it I go into the history books as the first Democrat in 47 years to lose in Wayne County."

But he doesn't talk like it.

"I have the luxury few of any other candidates have," he said. "I wasn't endorsed by any labor group, I was not endorsed by the Democratic party. Not one of the districts endorsed me."

"So I don't own allegiance to any of them," he continued. "I don't need to consult with them or ask if this person is a good Democrat, or if this person is acceptable to labor. They didn't endorse me and I really don't have any kind of those obligations."

"The search is just for competent people," he said of his first priority when elected. "What I've been trying to do is look for good people."

Over in the Murphy camp they realize they are fighting an uphill battle, but not an unrewarding one.

"I don't think he's a shoe-in by any means," Murphy said. "We did well in the primary and we think the city of Detroit will determine who's the next county executive."

Murphy puts his long time conservative reputation on the line in challenging Democratic dominance in Wayne County government.

"There is a chance for upset," he said. "McNamara represents the factions that got this county into the problems it now faces. He's part of the old Democratic machinery."

McNamara, mayor of Livonia for 16 years, may find the county a tough nut to crack, but he said he is confident he can balance the budget and get the county back on its feet again.

Murphy isn't so sure.

"McNamara has voiced support of the recent pay raises the county commissioners voted themselves," he said. "Here's a county facing disaster and they're voting pay hikes. It's gonna be a big issue of the campaign especially because McNamara supports it even though we're in a financial crunch."

McNamara dismisses the notion he may be harming his own campaign by supporting the move. He calls it appropriate, but suggests the timing was all wrong.

"I think the timing was terrible," he said. "They should probably have balanced the budget and then gone for the increases."

In 2nd Congressional District

Baker shoots for Pursell upset

BY T.M. SMITH

This election's most flamboyant, colorful and adjective-prone race has surfaced in the 2nd U.S. Congressional District between incumbent Carl Pursell and challenger Dean Baker.

With heavy campaigning on both sides, a television debate and miles of political rhetoric, this race has shaped up as a finger-pointing affair that probably won't end until the final vote is cast Nov. 4.

Pursell, a Republican from Plymouth, is seeking his sixth consecutive term, since winning the seat against another Ann Arbor liberal in 1976. Ten years later he has been challenged for his seat by Baker, a 28-year-old from Ann Arbor.

And as might be expected, when a conservative Republican is put in the same room with a very liberal Democrat to debate the issues — the outcome can be volatile.

The terms "socialism" and "McCarthyism" were tossed around, as well as "liar," "lawbreaker" and a host of other less than flattering adjectives.

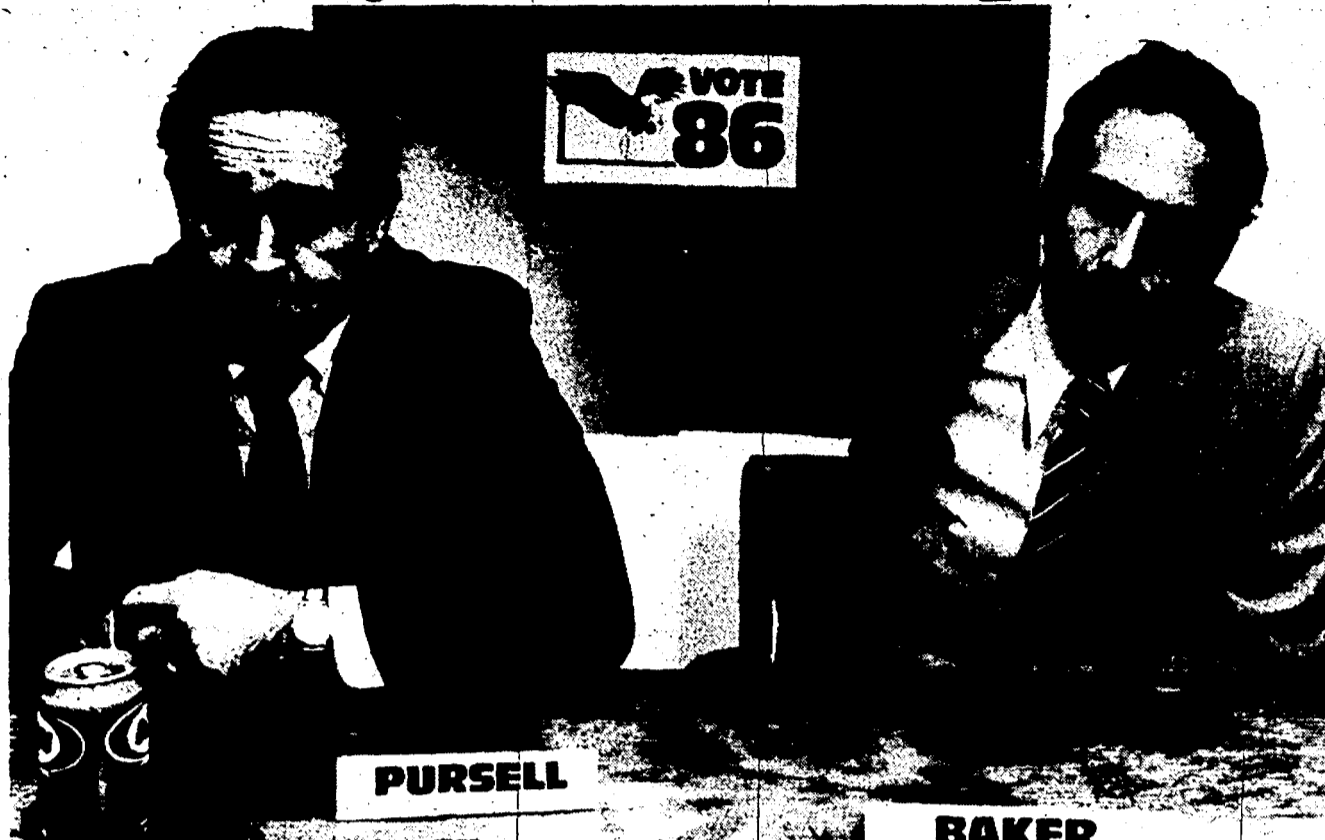

Once the candidates got down to the issues, their philosophical differences became very apparent.

On foreign and military issues Pursell favors aid to Contra rebels in Central America, has voted 'yes' for the Star Wars defense system and has backed funding of the MX missile.

Baker staunchly opposes military aid to Central America, and has been vocal against Star Wars and the MX.

As this division between right and left on the political spectrum goes, so does the division both candidates feel will happen within the boundaries of the 2nd District.

The district includes parts of six counties and stretches from the Livonia-Plymouth west to Jackson, and south as far as Adrian and Hillsdale.

Facing off

Both candidates have strongholds within the district. Pursell holds tight in Plymouth, while Baker claims Ann Arbor as his, which leaves the less populated, outlying areas as key to both campaigns.

The race has boiled down to claims from both sides that they could represent the entire district more evenly.

Pursell said the top three objectives of his term, if elected, would be:

- 1) Domestic fiscal management to achieve a balanced budget.
- 2) Initiate an arms reduction.
- 3) Education as an investment.

Baker's three most important objectives if elected to Congress would be:

- 1) Decrease the federal deficit, especially by limiting military spend-ding.

2) Build the nation's economy, especially the work force in the 2nd District.

- 3) Help rebuild the industry section of the economy.

The single most ignitable issue of the entire campaign, and the issue that prompted Baker to run for Pursell's seat is Central America and Pursell's support of military involvement in Central America.

"We have to be very careful. With the issue of a war in Central America, I am very concerned that we are stumbling into it," Baker said. "This exactly the way Vietnam happened."

While Baker said he does not agree with what Nicaragua does as a county, he finds it hypocritical of the U.S. to support El Salvador and the Contras who Baker calls "clearly terrorists."

BAKER

Pursell counters that "I think every American has a national interest of security of this nation in the free world. Why is the Soviet Union interest in Central America?"

But Pursell says he more strongly supports what he called the "Caribbean Initiative," a program to encourage investment in Central America, which Pursell says will help each Latin American nation "develop middle class stability."

In other issues Baker has linked the deficit to military spending, criticised Pursell for his vote on Gramm-Rudman, which he thinks will hurt social security and Medicaid and Pursell's vote to end funding on the Clean Water Act.

Pursell has pointed to his ability to meet with his district, his dedication to cut federal spending and his seniority in the House.

In 15th Congressional District

Ford defends against Kassel, Stamps

BY DAN NESS

In the 15th Congressional District, which includes Canton, incumbent Democrat Rep. William Ford, of Taylor, will face Republican Glen Kassel, of Westland, and Independent James Stamps, of Sumpter Township.

Ford has held the seat since he was first elected in 1964, and is banking on his experience and seniority in Congress to help him get re-elected this year. Ford is the ranking majority member of the House Committee on Education and Labor, and is chairman of the House Committee on Post-Office and Civil Service.

Ford cites his involvement in education issues throughout the years as a main reason he should be re-elected.

Kassel, a small-business owner, is engaged in his first general election campaign for the seat. Kassel charges that Ford misses too many roll-call votes in Congress, doesn't keep in touch with 15th District constituents, and "supports spending programs that are causing the deficit."

Ford was the principal author of the Middle Income Student Assistance Act and the Education Amendments of 1980. This year, he presided in the House over the re-authorization of the Higher Education Act, which includes nearly $8 billion in federal student aid programs.

Kassel said he supports a line-item veto power for the President in budget matters, which he said would help fight the federal budget deficit. Kassel also supports higher tariffs on Japanese auto imports, and would support a Constitutional amendment to force Congress to pass a balanced budget.

KASSEL

Stamps, an airline pilot and a self-avowed Lyndon LaRouche candidate, says his main priorities if elected would be: restructure the country's fiscal and monetary system; base the nation's monetary system on the gold standard; work for parity prices for farmer's crops; and have "all-out-war" on drugs and AIDS.

Kassel also favors a hard-line stand on drugs, and favors the President's program of drug testing federal employees. "I believe that the only greater menace to our citizens than drugs is communism," Kassel said.

The three candidates differ on the issue of American aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua, with Ford voting against military aid to the Contras, and Kassel and Stamps favoring military aid. "There are factions in the Contras that are legitimate," Stamps said. "We should aid any people who are trying, sincerely, to stop Soviet aggression in Central America."

Ford, Kassel and Stamps have all voted in nearly all election opportunities since being registered in their respective communities.

Pursell best for Congress

Carl Pursell is the best candidate to represent the 2nd U.S. Congressional District, and should be re-elected to the post Nov. 4.

Pursell, who faces a tough challenge from Democrat Dean Baker, is the more rounded and complete candidate and is able to overcome some setbacks through his look at the entire picture of the district.

While Baker has surprised many with his charge, first in the primary election in August and later with his surge coming into the homestretch, he still appears to be too much of a one issue candidate to represent the entire district.

Baker's hardline stance on many foreign policy issues is commendable, but unfortunately there are several domestic problems which deserve equal attention, that Pursell still addresses.

Pursell, on the other hand, seems to have a handle on many of the issues and has improved his overall approach to his constituents and representing the district while in Washington, since first being elected in the 1970s. It is also important to note that Pursell's clout and influence in Washington can go a long way to help this district.

On many of the emotional issues Pursell and Baker find themselves on opposite ends of the spectrum. But it is Pursell's ability to move toward the middle ground on more of the issues that brings him to the top as the most representative candidate.

It should be noted, however, that Baker is a viable candidate at some later date. It is right that he has taken issues and increased public awareness.

It is even better that he went a step further and attempts political office for ideas and issues he strongly believes in. This is a perfect example of how the system was set up to work, and how it can work with the proper energy and willpower.

Baker is a strong candidate, and with some softening of the edges, will make a good candidate in the future.

But for Nov. 4, Pursell should be the choice of the 2nd Congressional District. He can best represent the needs of the entire district, while dealing with all the issues that will face Congress in the coming term.

Voters, candidates disappointing

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is not an endorsement, either for or against, of any candidates mentioned. It is an editorial on one facet of a candidacy, and is speaking to that issue only. See endorsements of individual candidates on these pages.

Once again, the forces against an informed electorate have struck.

The League of Women Voters held a candidate's forum last Wednesday in Canton for the purpose of providing as much information about candidates as possible for voters. The lack of voter participation was disappointing, as always.

The lack of candidate participation was downright insulting.

Three candidates -- Kathy Reilly, Theodore Jacques and Scott Press -- did not even give the voters enough credit to show up for the forum. Their three opponents -- Gerald Law, James Kosteva and Milton Mack -- did show up, to discuss the issues with each other, as it turned out.

Why a candidate for public office would not participate in a League of Women Voters' forum is beyond explanation.

Reilly was at a fundraiser that night. So what. Since when does collecting money for a campaign become more important than informing voters on the issues? Reilly could have rescheduled a fundraiser in the best interests of the voters. She has no excuse.

Neither do Press nor Jacques.

Jacques has not shown for any forums with his opponent, Kosteva, throughout the campaign. He obviously is banking on an uninformed voter turnout to boost his chances. He did not even offer an excuse for not showing up last Wednesday.

Press' absence is disappointing because he, like Reilly, had attended forums where opponents were invited. In a previous forum with his opponent, Press had established that he was sincere in his campaign for county commissioner. By not attending Wednesday's forum, that sincerity becomes less established.

Candidates are simply citizens who want to represent other citizens in public office. Conscientious candidates are not afraid to discuss the issues with other citizens, the press or their opponents. Those who avoid opportunities to do so are neglecting the citizens they claim they want to represent.

In a forum at The Crier last week, Carl Pursell and Dean Baker discussed the issues in their campaigns for 2nd District U.S. House of Representatives. The information exchanged in that forum was enlightening, and both candidates brought more understanding to their respective platforms.

Unfortunately, the LWV forum last week was not as enlightening, due to the absence of three candidates. Those three candidates who didn't respect the voters enough to discuss issues at the League of Women Voters forum have no excuse for their absence.

Clean county drains vote 'YES' on D

The elimination of the Wayne County Office of the Drain Commissioner is the most important issue facing western Wayne County residents Nov. 4.

By voting 'YES' on Proposal D, residents will be saving money and eliminating a shameful abuse of power in a public office.

Once Proposal D passes, the office of the drain commissioner will be incorporated into the county's department of public works, much like the incorporation of the road commission functions were when county reform passed four years ago.

There is not one compelling argument for keeping an elected office that, by its very nature, is no longer in touch with the county-wide electorate.

The "policies" followed by the drain commissioner's office are reason enough to impeach the present office holder. The financial records of the drain office are in shambles. An auditing firm hired to review the drain commissioner's financial records could not even perform a legitimate audit of the office because records were not kept, and standard bookkeeping procedures were not used.

The drain commissioner, as it now stands, can hire who he wants to clean county drains, without a bidding process, and pay the contractor whatever he wants. In one example, a 1.7-mile stretch of drain in Huron Township was cleaned under the direction of the drain commissioner's office at a cost of more than $232,000, and more than $54,000 spent on engineering expenses, and the job is still not completed. In comparison, a 1.2-mile stretch of that same drain was cleaned by using federal block grant money at a cost of less than $46,000, with engineering fees costing less than $2,500.

There are other examples of outrageously high costs for drain work done by the drain commissioner's office.

The drain commissioner's office is a scandal, and unfortunately, it is the only county office that gives its administrator unchecked power.

Even with a conscientious administrator, the drain commissioner's office has too much power to tax residents without any form of balance. Politically, the office serves only a portion of the highly-developed county but is elected county-wide; thus creating an unfair situation for voter representation.

Voting 'YES' on Proposal D would:

- establish controls over taxing and spending;
- lower the cost of drain cleanout to the individual taxpayer;
- create a system of checks and balances;
- avoid duplication of services;
- provide competent professional planning and management in building, maintenance and construction of county drains;
- reduce flooding;
- promote economic development.

The record of the drain commissioner stands as a black mark on the integrity of Wayne County government, and residents should not stand for it any longer. Voting 'YES' on Proposal D would assure that the abuses that are occurring now would not happen again.

This issue is especially important to Plymouth-Canton residents, because party politics and greedy interests would preserve the office of the drain commissioner, since it is an elected post for one of their own. It is nothing short of cronyism favored over the taxpayers' money and it is a slap in the face to county residents.

Vote "YES" on Proposal D.

For Senate, vote Healy for change

TOM HEALY

New blood.

That's what is needed in the State Senate 6th District and one of the reasons why we have to endorse the challenger in the race, Thomas Healy.

Incumbent Robert Geake is a man of many years in state government but his basic attitude of 'what's good for me is good for you' is irresponsible to the voters of the district.

It also seems he has lost touch with his constituency so much so that he neither fights for or against an issue based on the district's needs.

Instead, Geake is out to gain ground only for himself and his party, the party of private interests.

Granted Healy is not the best possible choice -- he lacks experience in state government and the clout of someone who has been around as long as Geake

But therein may lay one of his strengths. He has no one to answer to but the district voters and as a new member of the Senate may be both refreshing and daring enough to experiment on new ways to get things done.

Healy is qualified for the job of replacing the jaded efforts of the incumbent; we disagree with Geake's notion that only an incumbent with seniority can represent the 6th District well.

Healy is a product of the Democratic party -- the people's party -- but he also shows signs of at least understanding the needs and concerns of the big business, private interest lobby on such issues as bottle deposits and insurance liability payments in pain and suffering lawsuits.

Of all the races this one might be the toughest one for voters. Neither man is exactly what we'd call a strong candidate (we'd like to see even better choices) but of the two we feel Healy will do "O.K."

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Re-elect U.S. Rep. Ford

15th Congressional District Rep. William Ford was first elected in 1964 and has been serving in Washington since that time. Voters should re-elect Ford once again.

Ford has been a leader in the cause of education in Congress, ranging from funding for higher education to the development of programs for the re-training of blue-collar workers in his district.

Ford is chairman of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, the ranking member of the Committee on Education and Labor, and chairman of the subcommittee on Post-secondary Education. His seniority benefits 15th District residents.

His two opponents, Republican Glen Kassel and Independent James Stamps, cannot come close to comparing to Ford in this race.

Kassel is hard-pressed to come up with any specifics in dealing with issues. His standard answer to problems is "to look into it" or "we'd have to study it." 15th District residents don't need someone in Washington to "look into" issues, they need someone who is informed and will take action.

Stamps, a Lyndon LaRouche candidate, would return the U.S. monetary system to the gold standard, and would quarantine AIDS victims. According to Stamps, the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta is heavily influenced by the Soviets, and that's why they're "playing down" the concern about AIDS, according to Stamps. 15th District residents are smarter than that. We don't need a sci-fi paranoid in Washington to represent the 15th District.

Vote to re-elect Rep. William Ford for another term Nov. 4.

Let McNamara finish county reform

For too long the suburbs have been ignored or treated like second-class communities when it comes to Wayne County government. What we need is someone who will be both effective and influential in county government.

The best man for the job is Ed McNamara. He has a proven track record of 14 years service as mayor of Livonia and the political clout to make something out of the chaos that is county government.

As Wayne County Executive, McNamara would bring his vast experience to bear on the complex problems that continue to plague the county.

He is committed to change in the way things are done in the county and possesses a strong desire to blend all the ingredients of the vast community of communities -- such as labor, management, business -- into a manageable program of reform.

We strongly endorse McNamara for the county's toughest job.

His opponent Robert Murphy does not seem to be a serious candidate. And he has avoided any campaign efforts in the suburbs, hoping instead to win the contest in Detroit.

Re-elect Milt Mack

11th District Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack deserves to be re-elected.

Mack has proven that a suburban county commissioner can get things done downtown at the county level. Mack worked to eliminate the office of the road commissioner and combine it with the office of public services. He worked to rewrite the rules of the county commission to make it more efficient.

Mack is an active commissioner, whereas, other suburban commissioners have been disappointingly quiet at the county level.

He was instrumental in getting funding for the paving of part of Haggerty Road in Canton. He is working to retrieve funding for the "Supersewer" project so Canton won't have to pay an unfair share of the total cost of the project. Mack has consistently responded to constituents' problems in the district. Mack is one commissioner that residents can call on when they need him.

Even when the powers that be in Wayne County government disagree, Mack goes to bat for the interests of western Wayne County residents. As a result of his push to eliminate the office of the drain commissioner (Proposal D on the Nov. 5 ballot)

Mack was removed from the chairmanship of the committee on public services, but he has continued to champion that cause.

On that issue alone, Mack has shown himself as an independent representative, not controlled by his Democratic party leaders, some of whom would retain the office of the drain commissioner. Mack has risen above the party in fighting to eliminate the wasteful drain commissioner's office, and could be expected to do the same in other issues.

His Republican opponent, Scott Press, is sincere in his desire to shore up county government, but is lacking the experience to represent western Wayne County residents in the commission. He would be well-advised to better develop specific proposals for county government reform rather than resorting to partisan name-calling when running for office. But, we encourage this young man to continue in politics and we hope to see him in future races.

In this race, however, he is running against a conscientious public servant with a record that stands as an example to other out-county commissioners. Vote to re-elect Milt Mack as 11th District County Commissioner.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

As far as we are concerned the race will be won in western Wayne County and the downriver communities. McNamara has proven he can pull the votes in both those areas.

But most important McNamara has the experience and know how to challenge the established order in the county and make things work.

It won't be easy but McNamara is not a man to go easy.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Susan Heintz for county seat

In the 10th District County Commissioner race, Susan Heintz is the most qualified, experienced and knowledgeable candidate and deserves to be elected Nov. 4.

Heintz, running on the Republican ticket, has shown insight with the issues facing the commission in the coming year, knows how the system works and is a familiar face that will add a positive influence to the Wayne County commission.

Her opponent, John Kopka, is a qualified candidate who has intelligent answers to many questions, but seems to fall a tad short on the experience stick to measure up to Heintz.

As supervisor of Northville Township, Heintz has demonstrated the ability to make the decisions, work within a multi-member system and represent an electorate. Her knowledge of this area, and high energy level should serve the district well in getting specific concerns for the 10th District addressed and handled at the county level.

Residents of the 10th District, which include Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township and Livonia, should vote for Heintz as their county commissioner.

Her commitment to committee membership in SEMCOG, SEMTA and other tasks forces only further her distance from Kopka.

Her stands to eliminate the Drain Commissioner office, keep county pay raises in check and desire to reduce the county deficit are right on.

And while Kopka falls a little short, it should be noted that the Democratic candidate is still ranked high. His knowledge of issues, and stance on those issues is commendable.

Candidates, like Kopka, should continue to stay involved and help the system. Although he finished as the No. 2 candidate in this race, Kopka will make a very good candidate for political office in the near future and his efforts and desire are laudable.

However, Heintz is the choice for 10th County Commissioner and should be elected to the position Nov. 4.

Return Kosteva for Rep.

State Representative James Kosteva of Canton has made his name known in Lansing in his first term, and deserves to be re-elected to continue his work for the 37th District.

Kosteva has been an effective legislator for 37th District residents. His work on the Tri-Star Proposal was a step towards alleviating the burden of high property taxes for state residents, and he will continue to work toward that goal. With the property tax reduction, Kosteva favors the restructuring of the funding system for state school districts, which is uneven from district to district.

It's a good cause to fight for, and Kosteva is the legislator to move with it.

His opponent, Theodore Jacques of Romulus, is running a low-profile -- and low-information -- campaign. His reluctance to discuss the issues with Kosteva face-to-face, including his absence at the League of Women Voters forum, only makes his candidacy more suspect. He is not a serious contender.

Kosteva, on the other hand, has made important inroads in state government, and has served his constituents well. He was the hand-picked sponsor of the Governor's guaranteed college tuition proposal, and could be expected to carry other important legislation forward in Lansing.

He has worked to smooth out any old political differences with Canton Township leaders, and has worked effectively with them on several issues.

Re-elect Jim Kosteva to the State House for the 37th District on Nov. 4.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Law gets nod for 36th

In the 36th District State House race, incumbent Gerald Law should be re-elected.

Although Law has not been the model legislator in his four years in office, he stands ahead of challenger Democrat Kathy Reilly.

Reilly seems interested and concerned about the district, as should any candidate, but she is lacking in specific proposals for the district's problems and overall knowledge of the issues. Although it is important for people to become involved in becoming part of the solution, it is also important that potential legislators know the issues involved. Reilly could brush up in this area.

Law, on the other hand, has shown his familiarity with the issues. He has not committed a major blunder which is deserving of being ousted from office. It is never good practice to sit comfortably as the incumbent, but in this case, there is no reason not to vote for Law.

It should be noted, however, that Law has not earned much praise from his home district in his years in office. His house bill on prison moratoriums in this area was "a day late and a dollar short," but it was better than no legislation at all.

Law gets the nod here, but also a word of warning: it is important to be independent in this district. Too often, rumblings of "special interest and partisan politics" have sifted down from Lansing.

Law is not facing a strong challenger this time around. Next election could be different.

Who says students are apathetic and lethargic?

Just look at the banning of "The Breakfast Club" and the students at CEP who are mad as hell about it. They have channeled that anger into energy and counterattacked instead of sitting back and hoping their parents or some newspaper will fight for them.

This is after all their fight first and foremost.

Sure, I also have a great interest in what's going on, as should any citizen who believes the First Amendment is too important in our society to be watered down or thrown out altogether.

But it was they who stood up to be counted (even though they aren't registered voters and probably have little real pull with the district honchos) which is more than I can say for most concerned parents or other lovers of free speech, free access to information, free debate and everything else which makes this country great.

The kids are all right.

Let's stop deceiving ourselves and our children. Let's stop euphemistically looking at the world through rosy blinders and open up the tunnel of our vision so we can crawl forth into the light of reason.

The ability to see things as they are has made man and woman far greater

In the Margin

By Ken Voyles

than any of the other creations of that bearded old fart some call God.

If we want to make tomorrow better we should educate our children about everything, especially the sad state of things on spaceship Earth.

Mutual assured destruction (MAD) or toxic chemicals, drugs and alcohol are enemies to be studied and crushed, not profanity.

We shouldn't lock students up and then complain that they are apathetic and lazy.

Obviously, CEP students haven't been locked up. They have been very open and mature in dealing with the censorship issue.

They've done their homework on the subject and they show every sign of winning.

I've wanted to comment on this issue since it arose three weeks ago. But my own mental debate over what I can contribute in way of support without taking away from the kids fight has kept me silent.

It's also clogged up the wastebasket with rewrites of this column.

Like so many before, I, too have seen "The Breakfast Club." Twice.

Besides the obvious theme of breaking down cliques it's also about prejudices and labeling.

Last week a woman called me and complained about the use of names like squids, jocks, dexters, burnouts in my news story on a student protest gathering.

To a degree she was correct. Labeling groups is an easy way out, a generalization, that only adds to the confusion.

Once someone or something is labeled we all too often find it easier to think along the lines of the label and not see beyond, see the individual nuances of the situation.

"The Club" is about just that.

I say to the woman who called -- the purpose of using the angle that all the different groups were on hand as the students rushed to slow down the school board's stupid decision was to point out exactly what the movie meant to me.

You can't learn alone in a padded cell. You have to know what is out in the real world, the R-rated world that the Diane Daskalakis' of our society choose to ignore.

Knowing there are squids, jocks, nerds, brown noses, whatever you might call them, may be labeling, but it also helps break down those walls of prejudice.

In the movie, the kids realize they've grown close during their detention in the library, but they also realize that come Monday they will have to ignore any bonds of friendship and revert to the old ways of staying away from each other's cliques.

It's sad but true.

It's nice to see Salem and Canton students able to do break down the walls -- even if it's only over one of many issues which confront them every day -- and learn why democracy is so great and so difficult sometimes.

The conscious will to censor is like premeditated murder. It's an act of forethought conceived without any idea of what the action means.

So censor yourself. Not me -- I'd rather be shot.

Be read than led.

Stifling opinions is the real evil

EDITOR:

Congratulations to the 200-plus students who rightly protested the gross injustice dealt them by a Plymouth-Canton school administration decision to ban the film "The Breakfast Club."

As was evidenced by Friday's federal court decision on a similar case in Tennessee (in which the court ruled that books dealing with evolution, feminism, humanism, pacifism and witchcraft could be censored from education), the Plymouth-Canton School District is keeping pace with the state of rapidly deteriorating intelligence and common sense in this country.

While history has consistently provided frightening and despicable examples of what occurs when only one opinion rules and freedom of choice, speech, religion and the press are suppressed, it has yet to provide examples of the good that can come from stifling information and keeping the masses ignorant. Educators betray education and the students they teach when they speak with one voice, see with one set of eyes and hear with one set of ears.

I have seen "The Breakfast Club" and found the social message it strives to send refreshing and vital to teenagers. The film is not about sex, drugs or even stiff school officials who are out of touch with their charges.

Instead, the film concentrates on the social cliques kids group themselves into. It shows, in a very simple, effective way, that all kids deal with the same perplexing problems of youth, no matter what group they belong to. It reinforces the ideals of comradery, individualism, self-worth, and self-respect in a way that high school students can appreciate, relate to and understand. This film could have opened many doors for educators by initiating some candid,

Instead, the film concentrates on the social cliques kids group themselves into. It shows, in a very simple, effective way, that all kids deal with vital conversations about social stigmas, self-image and yes, the problems and dangers with teen drug use and sex. Instead, its censure leaves Plymouth-Canton students that much less able to ask the questions and explore the issues that will help them make intelligent decisions in their lives.

Censuring opinions and morals that don't agree with our own is a foolish, dangerous action. Perhaps John Stuart Mill said it best when he said

"We can never be sure that the opinion we are endeavoring to stifle is a false opinion; and if we were sure, stifling it would be an evil still."

Crier commits condemnation

EDITOR:

Labeling Robert "Bob" Murphy's reason for not appearing at your show and tell interview as 'a lame excuse' was a churlish condemnation on your part.

Murphy, the Republican candidate for Wayne County Executive, has been undergoing a series of eye operations for cataracts and is not able to drive and 'rides' to these parts are not always available. Bob, who borders on genius, is also a 'bleeder' and as such cannot have his front tooth pulled. Together, these problems are embarrassing to him. Rather than try to explain them, he simply said he'd not had an opportunity to debate with the Democratic candidate.

What was MacNamara's excuse? I don't believe he appeared, either. But, of course, he has already elected himself, or hadn't you noticed. I believe Bob's bio, that I submitted earlier was rather complete and any additional information could have been obtained when you called him two weeks ago.

Computer Conference for Youth Nov. 1

Students compute for competition

BY KEN VOYLES

A large group of students from both Canton and Salem will take part in the first ever Computer Conference for Youth at Livonia Churchill this Saturday, Nov. 1.

The contingents will participate in computer programming competitions as well as attend seminars and listen to speakers discussing the future of computer programming in the United States.

The all-day event kicks off with programming competitions at 9 a.m. Following the contests, there will be a series of lectures beginning around noon.

The event is open to all area schools and is sponsored by the Michigan Association of Computer Users in Learning (MACUL). At least 20 schools will be on hand.

Canton's contingent, headed by instructor Ron Carlson, includes teams of three students in the Basic, Pascal and Logo computer language divisions.

The Logo team consists of seniors Dave Blank, Anoop Gupta and Paul VanKirk, while the Pascal team is made up of seniors Mark Bessey, Mark Augustyn and Steve Bennett.

Canton's Basic team includes freshman Tracey Lepford, junior Brad Carey and senior Avavin Bali.

Salem's group, headed by instructor Tom Cotner, also includes nine computer programmers.

The Logo team includes juniors Marck Schang, Blaine Groves and Eric Krueger. The Pascal group is made up of seniors Mark Peterson, Dan Mainz and Aaron Gleason.

Salem's Basic team includes juniors Andy Sharma and Jim Lamb and senior Matt Braun.

Also representing Centennial Education Park (CEP) will be students Karen Sendelbach, Julie Zasadny, Minal Hajratwala and Grant Carmichael. Those students will plan and produce a "desk top" newsletter about the competition using computers made available that day.

"I just don't know what to expect," Carlson said. "This is the first one. We'll see how it goes."

The students will compete for trophies.

Some of those same students mentioned will also take part in Interscholastic Computer Contest of western Wayne County beginning on Friday, Nov. 7.

The schools in the competition, besides Salem and Canton, include Plymouth Christian Academy, Redford Catholic Central, Franklin,

Canton protests sewer ban

project because Canton would be paying an unfair portion of the project, according to the trustees, which is funded through several Wayne County communities. At that time, the DNR had threatened to impose a sewer ban.

Canton's portion of the $103-million project would be between $17 and $27 million, depending on how much federal funding the project gets. With Canton not participating in the sewer project, the total cost for a smaller version of Supersewer would cost $83 million.

Poole had, in the past, said the DNR was asking for a "blank check" from Canton, and that the exact total cost of the project would not be known within a reasonable period of time because of different projects that may be added to the original plan, and projected cost overruns.

If Canton were to join the Supersewer, it would be paying 31.8 per cent of the total cost of the project, while adding 17.1 per cent more sewer capacity, according to Poole. In comparison, Dearborn Heights would pay for 8.2 per cent of the project and increase its sewer capacity by 16.3 per cent; Livonia would pay for 6.3 per cent of the project and increase its sewer capacity by 12.6 per cent; and Westland would pay for 6 per cent of the project's cost while increasing its sewer capacity by 11.9 per cent, Poole said.

Residents of Canton could find their sewer rates tripled, if the federal government funds only the first (of three) phase of the project, Poole has Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Churchill, Wayne Memorial, Westland John Glenn, Redford St. Agatha, Redford Bishop Borgess, Woodhaven, Dearborn and Allen Park Cabrini.

Teams of four students will attempt to solve four computer programming problems in less than two hours. There are five different events from now through April, 1987. The best cumulative score will win it and represent Wayne County at the International COMCON contest in May, 1987.

The first round begins at 3:30 p.m. at Franklin on Nov. 7. The remaining rounds, all at Franklin, are scheduled for Dec. 5, Feb. 6, March 6 and April 3.

According to Cotner the students will be competing for "glory" only.

warned.

The Board of Trustees, in a special phone meeting Saturday, authorized Hemming to ask for the restraining order Monday.

The DNR, in its notice to Canton, ordered the township to come up with a compliance plan by Nov. 30. The plan, according to the DNR, should include:

- an identification of all areas within the township collection system where there is insufficient capacity to transport the current flows;

- an interim program, including a schedule of implementation, to immediately reduce the discharge of human sewage to the waters of the State from the township collection system to the maximum extent possible, and to prevent any increased flow to the system until a permanent correction program has been approved by the DNR;

- a permanent correction program, including a schedule of implementation, to eliminate the discharge of human sewage to the waters of the State from the township collection system and to provide sufficient transport capacity to assure transport and treatment of all current needs.

The DNR notice concluded: "compliance with this notice does not constitute a release or waiver of liability for past or continuing violations."

Sewer hearing Dec. 8

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Ada Kerwin will hear Canton and Plymouth townships' suit against the State of Michigan, the DNR, Wayne County, and the City of Detroit December 8, unless a motion to get a hearing immediately is approved.

Canton and Plymouth townships filed suit against the different agencies charging that the delay in the Supersewer project resulted in the loss of federal funding for the project.

In October of 1984, the federal government reduced funding for Supersewer from 75 to 55 per cent. The additional 20 per cent is to be picked up by the local communities participating in the sewer project.

Canton is seeking $476,000 in the case, while Plymouth Township is looking to retrieve $130,000 in the lawsuit. The communities contend that the money is the amount they lost in federal funding as a result of delays by the litigant agencies.

Swedish roots visit Plymouth

BY T.M. SMITH

When Alex Haley began his research for "Roots" he probably had no idea of the trend he was starting. And it is doubtful he could have ever imagined that one of these trends end up in Sweden.

Still, both of those things happened, and today a Plymouth woman and her Swedish cousin are happier for the input Haley had on their lives.

Rosita Smith, a long-time resident of Plymouth and Berta Andersson, a life-long resident of Sweden, have just finished a three-week visit here in Plymouth that is the result of six years of tracing Smith's family tree.

Smith located her cousin Andersson last year following years of tracing her family history, writing hundreds of letters and inspiration from the book "Roots."

"When I saw that, I thought it might be fun, so I just started working from there," Smith said. "And today I have this," she said while holding up a tremendous maze of names on a two-foot by two-foot piece of paper, which marks her heritage.

But the story of Smith and her Swedish cousin has even more twists.

The two are related through Smith's grandfather Carl Lindberg, who immigrated to Detroit in 1913. Lindberg's sister is Andersson's grandmother.

But Smith did not find Andersson right away. In fact, it took a stray postcard with a faded picture of a church and a bit of luck to find her cousin.

"I wrote to the minister of the Church that was on the postcard, and it turned out that his children played with Berta while they were growing up," Smith said.

Since that time Smith and Andersson had turned into pen pals, before Andersson came to Plymouth for a three week stay.

"I was very surprised," Berta said.

And although she said she was aware she had relatives in the United States, she never thought she would hear from them.

She probably never imagined there was a person with the persistence of Rosita.

Her work has spanned six years of writing, research and hours upon hours of time spent in the Burton Historical Library in Detroit.

She has traced the Lindberg line back to 1777, and that is the shorter one she said. The other side of her family, who are French-Canadians goes back much further.

"Once you get started in this you just can't stop," Smith said. "I heard once that you never really finish something like this, and now I know why."

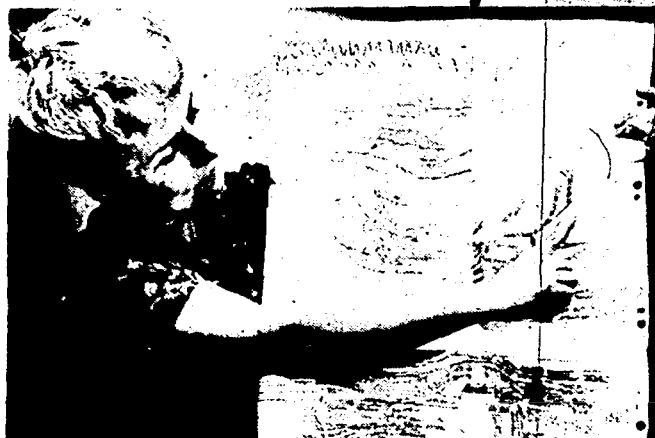

Still, the visit from her cousin and boyfriend Thomas Larsson, is a big bonus for the hard work.

"They have seen more of the country than we have" Rosita said from her living room. And although Berta says she likes the country a lot, with trips to Disney World, Washington D.C. and Sea World, she still prefers Sweden.

"I am too homesick to ever stay," she said.

tell it to Phyllis

Parents have a habit of measuring how well their kids are doing in school simply by their grades. Of course, we know if they like school, what their favorite class is and which class they dislike the most. Sometimes we hear a little bit about what they are doing in class -- when a term paper is due, but for the most part we just assume they are learning whatever it is they have to learn to graduate.

Last week I had the opportunity to attend a two and a half hour workshop at the high school for parents who had students in the power reading classes. It was one of those nights when I had a meeting before the workshop and an interview following it. I was dead tired and considered the idea of not showing. In all fairness, I wouldn't have accepted tiredness as an excuse from the kid, so I had no choice but to go.

Reading has never been my son's favorite pastime. He reads whatever he has to and that's it, so I was surprised when he first signed up for the class. I was even more surprised when he said he thought the reading class would help him in college (that sounded too much like common sense to come from my kid).

The three power reading teachers put together an interesting workshop. Not only did parents have a chance to find out what level their kids are reading at, but after going through some tests and reading exercises, they got an idea of what the kids do in class. There was also a bit of self examination as parents compared their scores to that of the kid's.

I enjoy reading, but it wouldn't hurt me to take a class to improve my reading skills. Although there were thoughts in the back of my mind about going home and climbing into my cozy bed, I have to admit the two and half hours went by quickly. It made me want to find out more about power reading.

As concerned parents we are always the first to complain about something we don't like in the schools. Maybe it is time to realize how lucky we are to have some of the classes offered in our school district. Along with that realization is that we have teachers who are willing to spend time educating parents.

YOUR FLOATING CITY
 How would you like a vacation with a "background" of changing scenery? You would go to sleep in one place and wake up in another. The effect would be like that of a giant kaleidoscope, with constantly changing patterns. It would actually be a sort of double vacation with time spent both on sea and on land. We're talking about a cruise, of course!
 There is something about a cruise that you usually can't find in any other type of vacation. It amounts to a certain peace of mind...the soothing presence of the surrounding water has a very calming effect on a person. It gives one a chance to contemplate and think things over...a good means of getting away from the hectic pace of everyday life.
 And last, but certainly not least, there's the fun of meeting other people. The camaraderie of a cruise brings people close together. The ship is everyone's (temporary) home, making for a feeling of informal ease and charming conviviality.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS

The Financial and Statistical report for the PLYMOUTH-CANTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS is submitted in accordance with Section 216, Act 269, Public Act 1965, as amended, and is compiled from data submitted to the Michigan Department of Education and from the annual audit for the school year ending June 30, 1986.

This report substantiates that the PLYMOUTH-CANTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS is continuing to operate on a sound financial basis. The K-12 Fourth Friday student count decreased only 32 students from the previous year (from 15,752 in 1984-85 to 15,720 in 1985-86). The total mills levied for the 1985-86 school year increased from the previous year by .26 mills due to an increase in the Debt Levy. In 1985-86 the School District received $508.07 per student through the State Membership Aid formula compared to $384.87 per student in 1984-85. This meant a gain of 1.9 million in State Aid.

Providing a sound educational program while living within our financial resources continues to be a major goal of the District. The Board of Education and Administration are very appreciative of the efforts of the citizens and staff for their assistance and attendance at the Board of Education meetings and the various committee meetings the Board of Education has established. Be assured the Board of Education will join the staff and citizens in continuous evaluation to determine the extent to which adopted goals and programs are producing the desired educational results and make necessary changes as warranted. Your continued participation in school activities is welcomed, encouraged, and appreciated.

The Board of Education meets on the second and fourth Monday of each month, and a place on the agenda has been established for comments from citizens. We encourage you to communicate with the Board of Education in this manner.

30 years for 'Mr. Roza, sir'

Tae Kwon Do teacher celebrates three decades in martial arts

Melvin Roza, a master instructor and founder of the American and Korean Tae Kwon Do Schools, and who teaches a class at Plymouth YMCA was recently honored by all of his students. The honor was in commemoration of Roza's 30th year in martial arts. His Plymouth YMCA class, one of five in the metro area, is one of the many organizations which receives support from the Community Fund. Joan Kotcher, a Canton resident who is involved with Roza's class said, "He never asked for anything...he just does it all for the kids." The eagle Roza is holding is the plaque given him by his students as Rick Corp looks on. To the right a student who showed up late for class had a few extra push ups to do for Roza. # An old lamp where people can meet

BY DAN NESS

Visitors to Plymouth's Old Village may have noticed a change for the better in one section of the district.

Check out the corner of Mill and Division streets -- what used to be a corner of old houses is now a corner "where old and new meet," according to the sign planted there.

And "Carmody's Corner" is now the name of that rejuvenated section of Mill and Division, with two revamped houses turned into businesses. An old-fashioned street lamp with a bench now sits at the side of one of the houses, and the corner is decorated with stones and walkways. The developers of the project -- Bob and Sharon Osborn -- hope it will become a gathering place for those who want a rest from browsing in Old Village.

"The lamp is a focal point where the people can meet," Sharon said. The house on the corner, with the lamp next to it, has been restored into a shop on the first floor and is undergoing improvements upstairs to make office suites, Sharon said.

"Our hopes for this part of Old Village is, that this house be a good enterprise for Diane Fisher and others," she said, referring to the business "Something For You" set up in the corner house, managed by Diane Fisher.

"We tried to keep the original flavor of this house and not take anything out," Sharon said, of the Something For You house. "And, the restoration goes on and on . . .," says Bob.

The Osborns, from Livonia, became interested in Old Village one day while shopping there. They saw the old houses in the area, and decided to buy some property and restore the houses to be rented out by businesses. They called the property "Carmody's Corner," after Sharon's maiden name.

The house next door is being restored by Harold Sneath, who is turning the old house into an office for his security guard business. "Our goal is to have this thing completed by Thanksgiving, and I think we'll make it," Sneath said.

Sneath's effort to restore the house is no small accomplishment, according to the Osborns. "If he hadn't done what he did, as far as I was concerned, it could've come down," Sharon says.

Sharon, who serves as treasurer of the Old Village Association, said the neighbors in that part of town have been very interested in the upgrading project. Older neighbors have even stopped by to tell the Osborns what they know of the history of the two houses, according to Bob.

"During 'Dearie Days,' an 80-year-old man came in and said he was born in this house," Bob said, pointing to the corner house. "Once we have a little more time, we want to do a search into the history of the houses," Sharon added.

Marianne Hall did her own search of Plymouth, and ended up renting a studio from the Osborns on the second floor above Something For You. "I discovered one day that Plymouth is only 12 minutes from my home in Novi," Hall said. She liked what she saw in Old Village, and now has a studio to work on her contemporary art projects.

"We're really fortunate that people renting here are really obliging," Sharon said. With the cooperation of people like Sneath, Fisher and Hall, the Osborns hope to make "Carmody's Corner" a lively place for Old Village.

Engineer named

Community Affairs and Program Director of Omnicom Cablevision, Maria Holmes, recently announced the hiring of a new program engineer.

Jeffery Ceja will be replacing former program engineer, James Leinbach. Ceja is a graduate of ITT Technical Institute of Grand Rapids. He is a former employe of J.S. White Distributing Co. of Grand Rapids.

Since joining Omnicom's Programming Department, Ceja has attended Sony School for VTR's.

The Renaissance Chorus, directed by Jim Pollard, of Plymouth, took first place Oct. 18 at the Regional Championship Barbershop Chorus Contest in Flint.

The group will now represent Michigan and Ontario in the International Contest to be held in Hartford, CT the first week in July.

More than 70 men from the Detroit area sang in the Renaissance Chorus, with several singers from The Plymouth-Canton Community, including Mike Foley, Dick Fox, Keith McClary, Wayne Oberstadt, Jim Swisher and Hal Thompson.

The chorus is now preparing for their annual show to be held on March 6-7 at Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

The Renaissance Chorus rehearses every Tuesday night at Newburgh Methodist Church, on Ann Arbor Trail between Newburgh and Wayne roads from 8 to 10:30 p.m. in the social hall. For more information, call Hal Thompson at 420-0855, or Marv Skupski at 525-2968.

PR Director appointed

Sharon Derry, of Plymouth, has been appointed director of marketing and public relations for Bi-County Community Hospital (Osteopathic), in Warren.

Before joining Bi-County, Derry was assistant director of public relations for Saratoga Community Hospital, in Detroit. She has a bachelor of arts degree in English and communications from the University of Michigan.

Crowd voices concerns on movie ban

BY KEN VOYLES

Dudley Barlow, 44, spoke his mind Monday before the Plymouth--Canmton Community Schools Board of Education along with 22 other local residents interested in the banning of "The Breakfast Club."

Not all of those who spoke took the board to task for the administrative decision to ban the film from classrooms at Centennial Education Park (CEP).

Some supported Superintendent John M. Hoben's decision, while the majority lashed out at the board and top administrator for the action. Nearly 200 people attended the meeting at Salem's auditorium.

Barlow, an English instructor at CEP, began Monday's lengthy debate on the side of those who are upset over the film ban.

"I commend Dr. Hoben and thank him for his decision to form a review committee," Barlow said. "But there is another issue that must be kept in mind and that's the constitutional issue."

"The First Amendment can't be abridged. The rights of students and teachers are inherent in the First Amendment," he continued. "That's all I have to say."

Hoben announced that a review committee would be formed in his report to the board prior to the comment portion on the agenda.

Barlow said before the meeting that he received permission from the administrative team at Canton to show the film in a composition class.

Concerned teacher

Dudley Barlow, was one of 22 residents who addressed the school board at Monday's meeting. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

But just before showing it he was given a copy of Michael Home's letter to Diane Daskalakis stating the schools would no longer show "The Breakfast Club."

"I was never contacted not to show the film," said the Ann Arbor resident. "I just didn't want to skirt the policy and show it so I didn't."

A teacher of American literature and composition, Barlow said he had been involved in book challenges before but had never previously spoke directly to the board to vent his feelings.

Cindy Sahlocha, of Plymouth, said, "We have a serious problem with cliques in the schools and I feel the movie is an excellent film which addresses the subject matter well."

Canton resident Paul Farrell said he was afraid the district would end up with "one-sided" students if the ban was allowed to stand.

"I'm amazed such a thing could happen," he said. "This was a decision made behind closed doors. By doing so you're taking away from the parents right to decide what their kids should or should not see."

Angie Schlagheck, one of the driving forces behind the students' efforts to confront the issue, presented the board with more than 700 petition signatures requesting the administration rescind the ban.

She said, "I just hope the board still understands the seriousness of this issue."

Another student organizer, Tim Strauss, added, "If our goal is create the most knowledgeable person the last thing we want to do is take anything away. If anything we should add more."

Mary Ellen Wroblewski, from Canton, spoke out in support of Hoben's decision. "I have three children in the district and all I have to say is the teachers should be able to find better material than this."

"I don't have any problem with students seeing the movie on their own time," she added. "My problem is that it is used as a teaching tool."

Ben McMurray, another CEP student, asked the board why no students were on the review committee. "Where do we fit into the equation? He wondered.

Elizabeth Rickard said the board should ban the Bible. "It talks about demons and other stuff that's not good for our minds," she said.

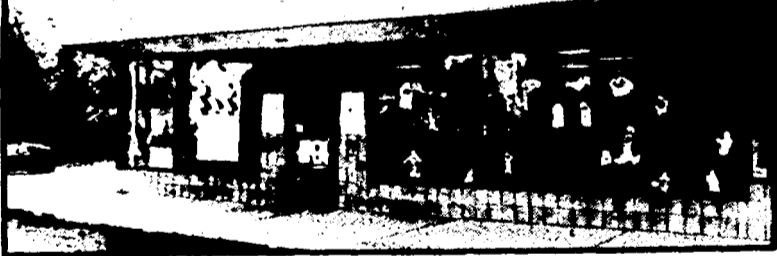

Joan Noricks, from Canton, also supported Hoben's decision. "If this is as good a resource as we have we need to re-evaluate the school curriculum," she said.

David Wineman, from the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) was also on hand to show "solidarity."

"We're concerned with the message people receive when there is a conflict and you settle it by banning one side of the issue," he said. "This is ominous."

Wineman also said it was important for the district to recognize parents with kids in the schools before those non-parents who seek changes to challenge classroom resources.

schools but doesn't like the process the administration uses. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Lee Ann Farrell suggested the administration give the students credit to be able to see beyond the profanity in the movie and understand its message.

Randolph Cox, of Plymouth, said he was "horrified" by the film ban.

"It's an insult to the students and it shows the teachers they don't have any support," he said. "It's also an insult to the community. You are telling us we don't have any right to decide what our kids see or read."

"'The Breakfast Club' is a wonderful, beautiful movie," said Patricia Haggerty of Plymouth. "How dare you censor it. I want my kids to find out about life."

Bob Crain, of Plymouth, said he doesn't believe R-rated films should be shown at the schools.

Robert Brown, of Canton, added, "There is no place for R-rated movies in the schools."

Ray Murley, of Plymouth, said, "I'm concerned that you are bending to other pressures in the community and not necessarily looking at the educational content presented to the students."

Neil Hoffman, also of Plymouth, said he objected to showing R-rated movies at the schools. "The first Amendment doesn't protect obscenity," he said.

Another student, Jackie McGarry, of Canton, said she learned her obscenities in elementary school "passed down" from older kids and not in television or at the movies.

The report concludes that "The Canton Township Fire Department has been very effective in its fire suppression and prevention efforts." It also concluded that the township officials and residents would have to determine what level of fire protection they would be willing to pay for, in order to decide what options to pursue in development of the fire department.

dependently and view the movie."

They will also interview the complainant, Diane Daskalakis and Dudley Barlow, a teacher who also spoke on Monday. Daskalakis did not attend the meeting.

"The committee makes a decision," Homes said, "to support the complainant or not."

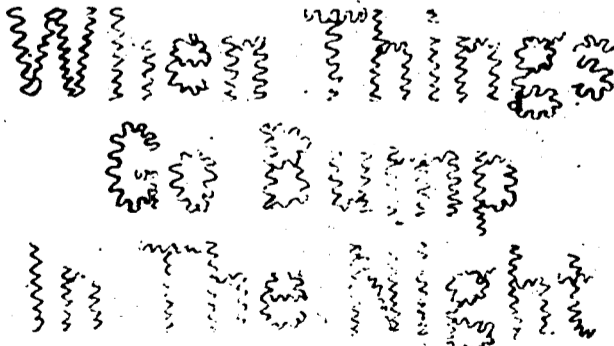

The committee report will then be sent back to Homes who will forward it to Hoben. If the complaint is rejected there is an appeal process, through both the superintendent, and finally the board itself.

"The board is the last place for appeal," Homes said.

The committee will begin its work next week sometime and have approximately 10 days to make a final recommendation.

Program pushes skills for youth development

BY KEN VOYLES

A new program for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students in the Plymouth--Canton Community Schools debuted this fall.

The program -- Quest Skills for Adolescents -- is designed to teach children 11-14 years old coping and decision making skills. More importantly, the program focuses on the issue of substance abuse.

"We started just this year," said Nic Cooper, program specialist in Alternative Education and coordinator of middle school programs. "But I expect quite a demand for it over the period of time."

"The shift of ninth graders to the high school means we need to shift our focus," he added. "And because we've shifted to a preventative program for substance abuse we need to attack it at a lower level."

The original Quest program -- Quest Skills for Living -- catered to ninth graders. It was begun two years ago at the middle school level.

"These programs are offered to a wide cross-section of students as an elective this year," Cooper said. "We offer them information and show them some basic skills they need in which to relate to the world better."

Both programs are taught by teachers with counseling background.

There is also a parent group tied directly to the Quest programs. They meet in the evening and also study "skills teaching."

"The transition for any kid from elementary school to middle school is a real difficult time," Cooper said. "We offer this as a chance for the kids to share information and knowledge."

During the day the CEP Band goes through their paces.

Southfield's band awaits their score.

The Centennial Education Park (CEP) Marching Band once again won the Michigan Competing Band Directors State Championship.

The CEP squad captured its third straight state title at Saturday's competition besting 26 other teams from across Michigan.

The Plymouth-Canton Community band hosted the all-day show at the CEP football stadium. Nearly 10,000 fans attended the show despite on and off rain throughout.

Under the direction of James R. Griffith, the local marchers captured trophies for best color guard, best winds, best marching and maneuvering, best field commanders and best percussion. This was the first time the percussion section had been selected for the honor at a state championship show.

The Michigan Competing Band Directors Association determines the location of the State Competition each year. This year was the fifth in a row that CEP was chosen to host the show.

The band will travel to Western Michigan University this Saturday, Nov. 1 for the WMU Cavalcade of Bands, and will then go on to Indianapolis, Ind. on Nov. 6-7 for the Marching Bands of America Nationals.

Throw out the records....

Canton, Salem football clash a toss-up

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Throw out the records, and all the scores, it's Canton versus Salem, in the biggest football rivalry in the community.

And it appears the "sleeping giant" Rocks have awakened. Last Friday night the Rocks crushed Northville 35-8.

Salem looked like the team they should have looked like all year. The rushing attack of Joe Jouppi, Garrett Bowie, Leonard Bowe, and company gained over 350 yards rushing.

The Rock's defense once again played a strong game, holding the Mustangs to only 183 total yards.

If the Rocks played like they did against Northville all year—who knows where they could have been going after their game with the Chiefs this Friday.

The Chiefs who have also had an up and down year, looked unbeatable at times, but they also could not seem to put it all together.

Canton lost a tough game last Friday, to a good Farmington team, at home. The defense played well against the high-powered offense of Farmington. The Chiefs sacked the Falcon's quarterback eight times, and only allow Farmington 133 total yards offense.

Tony Boucher paced the Chiefs with 66 yards rushing. Joe Goebel scored the lone touchdown for Canton as the Chiefs fell to the Falcons 15-7.

Now the second season begins, for both teams. This one is for the bragging rights of The Plymouth-Canton Community.

The kick-off is at 7:30 p.m., at CEP field, Canton will be in their home red jerseys, and the Salem will be in their traveling white jerseys.

Does it matter who is the home team? No. Both teams call CEP field home.

What the game will come down to is defense. Both teams feature a highly-potent rushing attack. So the game just may be decided on which team makes that fatal error.

The stadium will be packed with fans representing their favorite team. The CEP Marching Band will be playing for both schools.

So after the trick or treating has stopped, and night settles upon the CEP football field, the one-game season begins, as the Chiefs meet the Rocks.

Freshman swimming sensation Cassie Cummins cuts through the water during her 200-yard freestyle race against Livonia Churchill last week.

Cummins has already set three varsity swim records and in the process has qualified for the Class A state finals. (Crier photo by Chris Boyd)

Chief swimmers suffer first loss in 7 outings

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Canton's girls swim team suffered its first dual meet loss of the season to Livonia Churchill last week ending an exciting win streak which lasted through six meets.

Going into Thursday's meet with the Chargers, the Chiefs had an undefeated record of 6-0 overall, and 5-0 in league competition.

Not only had the Chiefs won all six of their meets, but in the process they set four new school records and qualified two swimmers for the class A state competition to be held Dec. 5-6.

What is the key to Canton's success in the pool?

"Our outstanding senior leadership from tri-captains Julie Cox, Kellie Dailey, and Michelle Stackpoole," said Canton coach Hooker Wellman.

Also contributing to the team's success has been freshman Cassie Cummins who has led the way in breaking varsity records by setting new marks in the 200-yard freestyle, the 500-yard freestyle, and the 100-yard backstroke.

Senior Julie Cox shares the 100-backstroke record with Cummins. Also breaking a previous varsity record was Lisa DeJong in the diving competition.

Cox has also played a key role in the Chiefs success. Cox has already qualified for the state competition in four events, the 200-yard individual medley, the 100-yard butterfly, the 100-yard backstroke, and the 100-yard breaststroke event.

Cummins has also earned a bid to the state competition in the 500-yard freestyle and the 100-yard backstroke.

All this may explain why Thursday's swim meet was so exciting. It began with Canton coming out of their meeting room singing the school fight song. Churchill counterattacked by yelling a cheer, as the full house of spectators sat in awe of the spirit shown by both teams.

The excitement seemed to build more and more through out the meet, only to finally break at the end of the 400-yard freestyle relay. Churchill clinched second and third places and ran away with the victory, 88-84.

The Chiefs were never out of reach thanks to some important first and second places.

Cummins clenched a first place in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:02.10. Cox also finished first in the 200-yard individual medley.

Kellie Daily nudged herself into a first place, beating out teammate DeJong by only five points.

The team of Sarah Schmitz, Danielle Dickenson, Kelly Rische, and anchor Cummins took a first place in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The Chiefs also had a fair amount of second place finishers.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Danielle Dickenson finished second with the time of 2:11.93. She also took second place in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 59.70.

Michelle Stackpoole also clinched a second place in the 100-yard butterfly, with a time of 1:08.55. Cummins, in the 500-yard freestyle, took a second after a tiresome 20 lengths of the pool. Jean McLenaghan with the time of 1:08.19 placed second in the 100 backstroke. And finally Cox took a second place in the 100-yard breast stroke.

"We'd like to qualify more individuals for states, and finish our dual meet season with an overall record of 9-1," said Wellman.

Canton would also like to have a good showing in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) meet on Nov. 19-21.

"We'd like to go to league and place in the top three," Wellman added.

Any way one looks at it the Chiefs can consider this swimming season to be a successful one.

Unbeatable Rock cagers crush two more foes

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Can any team stop the Salem girls cagers?

Well Livonia Stevenson couldn't even stay with the Rocks for the first half Thursday, as the cagers took a 49-9 lead into the locker-room at half-time. And the Rocks kept the pressure on as they defeated the Spartans, 85-22.

"We played a great game," Salem head coach Fred Thomann said. "All of the girls played very well."

Senior co-captain Jessica Handley was the top scorer in the contest as she finished up with 21 points, followed by junior sensation Dena Head who put in 20 points and added six rebounds and 11 assists.

Kristen Hostynski, the other senior co-captain, was the third leading scorer for the Salem cagers with 14 points.

As the Rocks wind down their regular season, they are starting to prepare for the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) playoffs as well as the upcoming district competition.

"Were starting to refine our game, and make everything work the way it should," Thomann said. "Our schedule is not that tough towards the end of the regular season, although we do have a tough game coming up against John Glenn (on their court)."

The Rocks will not change too much of their game going into the playoffs "but we will try and disguise some of the things we do," according to Thomann.

The one thing the Rocks will not be able to hide is number 43, Dena Head, who is only a junior, and appears unstoppable.

Head, who is receiving national attention from coaches all around the country, is now going to be featured on ESPN, the national cable sports network.

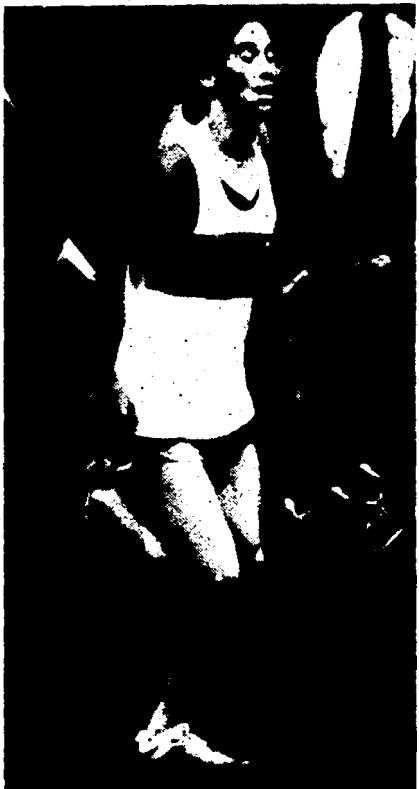

An ESPN film crew was at the Salem-Stevenson game last week to get a few shots of the Rock's potential superstar. The show will be aired sometime in the next two weeks.

"We will continue to work hard on our game," Thomann said, "but we are going to take it one game at a time."

Atwell, Jones qualify for Class A harrier race

BY KEN VOYLES

Senior Lisa Mickey and junior Shannon Donnelly led Salem's girls cross country team to a third place finish at the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) meet last week.

BILL ATWELL

The pair also ran the class A regional at Buhr Park in Ann Arbor on Saturday. Mickey was 40th in 21:02 and Donnelly finished 32nd in 20:44 but did not qualify for the state finals.

"The girls ran well," Salem coach John Gravlin said. "They all ran their personal bests. We ran as well as we could that day."

Salem's boys team finished way back in the field of 18 teams but Bill Atwell and Kevin Jones were 12th and 19th, respectively, qualifying for the class A state finals this Saturday in Flint.

Atwell clocked 16:43 and Jones finished the course in 16:56. Atwell also led the Rocks in the WLAA boys meet last week with a sixth place overall.

Besides Mickey and Donnelly, junior harrier Kim Mishler finished 45th at Saturday's girls regional. The Rocks picked up 230 points for seventh as a team.

At the girls conference race Donnelly was 10th in 21:20 and Mickey was 17th in 21:40. The pair were selected as first team all-division runners at the meet.

Salem scored 110 points to finish third behind Farmington and Walled Lake Central.

The Rock girls compiled a 2-4 dual meet record during the regular season.

"Our dual record wasn't very good but we have a tough division," Gravlin said. "The first five teams at the league meet were from our division (Lakes)."

Gravlin said his team did better than expected. "We started slow but seemed to get better each week. We reached our peak for the finals," he said.

The girls best regular season finish was a second overall at the Schoolcraft College Invitational with 137 points. Farmington won the meet, besting 10 other teams.

At that meet Mickey finished 12th and Donnelly was 18th individually.

"They've been our lead runners this year," Gravlin said.

The rest of the girls team this year included seniors Brenda Boyd (captain) and Sue Nyquist, junior Jenny Sample and sophomore Traci Thomas.

Chief cagers head in the right direction

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Things seem to be heading in the right direction for the Canton girls basketball team.

"Things are going to start coming together really well for us," said Rob Neu, Canton's coach. What brought on the optimism? A tough win against Livonia Churchill last week.

With a final score like 39-36, one might assume it was a close game, and that would be correct.

For instance, at the end of the first quarter the contest was tied 10-10. At the half the score was still tied, 20-20, and again at the end of the third quarter it was tied, 29-29.

Finally the Chiefs came out on top at the end of the fourth quarter, 39-36.

The leading scorer of the game was Churchill's Julie Scruggs with 11 points. While the leading scorer for the Chiefs was Tory Barger with 10 points.

The Chiefs are now in first place in the western division of the Western Lakes Activities Association and should they win their last four games will most likely play for the conference title.

Steelers end season

The Plymouth--Canton junior football league Steelers wrapped up the 1986 season last weekend as they swept the South Lyon Panthers.

The freshmen won 14-0 on touchdowns by Randy Cummings and Andy Coburn. Coburn also teamed with David Bucci to garner a safety late in the third quarter.

The freshmen end their season with an overall record of 3-3-2.

The junior varsity played a tough game against the Panthers but won it 8-7.

Dan Burke scored early in the first quarter and converted a 2-point kick but the Panthers fought back with a touchdown in the second quarter and ran in the extra point to close to 8-7.

It stayed that way for the rest of the game. The JV finish the season with a 7-1 record.

The varsity made it three straight Sunday with a 20-6 lashing of the Panthers.

Liam Rentz scored two touchdowns for the varsity on runs of five and 17 yards. Mike Teller kicked the extra points.

The varsity squad completes its season with a 6-2 overall record.
