Residents of The Plymouth-Canton Community wishing to seek a seat on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education have until 4 p.m. on April 6 to file a nominating petition.

Two seats each for four years, will be filled during the regular school election to be held on Monday, June 8.

The two four-year seats are currently held by Dean Swartzwelder, board secretary and Roland Thomas, former board president.

Petition forms are available from the Board of Education office at 454 S. Havery St. in Plymouth. They should also be returned to that office. (Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.)

Each petition must contain a minimum of 26 valid signatures, a figure based on the number of voters in the last election, said Dick Egli, from the community relations office.

PHS grad 'turns the page' with Seger

Campbell makes the UMC

Chris Campbell, at left, with Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band at their opening concert Feb. 24 in Detroit. (Crier photo by Dan Ness)

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
Chris Campbell has come a long way from "tuna fish day in and day out."

As the Plymouth High School Class of '66 grad winds up the sold-out concerts playing bass guitar for Bob Seger at Joe Louis Arena this Sunday, the change that 20 years brings is obvious.

As Campbell -- Seger's oldest ally after 17 years -- appears to effortlessly flit about the stage between the Silver Bullet backup during the Seger concerts, it's a far cry from his days as guitarist with the Stringbenders playing sock hops in 1965-66 or as the Silvertones' drummer before that.

Even as recently as 1974 (see Crier photo), when the then-unheralded Seger band played to a few empty seats in the Plymouth Cultural Center, things were different. Now, scalpers hawk tickets outside Joe Louis, the hotel waitstaffers recognize Campbell as a band member and old Plymouth friends -- and "friends of friends of cousins" -- pester the band for tickets.

Fame, such as it is, comes reluctantly for Campbell.

"I just work for Bob," he modestly insists.

Yet, all the trappings that go with the band's popularity are there.

Life on the road for 105 days shows that "16 miles from Omaha... but 1,000,000 miles away" pumps weariness through the veins. It took some 50 rings for Campbell to get through to room service at a supposed first-class hotel -- only to find out they weren't delivering at 1 a.m.

While he awaited an answer, he sorted through laundry for valet service. "You're never safe," he bemoaned. "They lose a shirt or two here and there."

The concerts don't show the road weariness, except, perhaps during the emotional "Turn the Page" number.

"It's not the playing, it's the lifestyle," Campbell said.

Wouldn't coming back to the hometown stand be different?

"Each time it's worse; it's home

Lawton to retire from Comm. Fed. Credit Union

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

"Mr. Credit Union" is retiring after 29 years at the helm of Community Federal Credit Union.

The moccasin-clad, 60-year-old George Lawton started with the credit union in June, 1958 when there were 250 members and assets totaled $100,000 -- including some $60,000 in "not so good loans." Today, the credit union tops 25,000 members and $71 million in assets.

"I'll be moving into areas that provide the opportunity for more entrepreneurship and less time constraints," said Lawton, whose retirement begins April 21. "Isn't it a

Fire alarm linked to well-done sausages

After a recent fire drill at Tonquish Creek in Plymouth, one might be reminded of the fable about "The boy who cried wolf."

Last Thursday the City of Plymouth held a planned, but unscheduled fire drill at the senior citizen complex. These are the drills that the fire department knows about, but none of the residents are aware of until the last minute.

Everything went very smoothly in the drill, as everyone got out of the building quickly and easily with no problems. But one resident was too efficient.

According to Plymouth Fire Chief Al Matthews, "one lady was so eager to leave, that she forgot to turn off some sausage links she had on the stove."

While she was waiting outside, because of the fire drill, her sausages got a little too crisp, and set off a second alarm.

Matthews said there were monitors at the scene, and they quickly found the sausages and corrected the problem without any damage to the apartment.

Candidates

The last day a potential candidate can withdraw from the ballot is April 9.

The board is composed of seven local residents, each elected to a four-year term of office. Any registered voter in the district may run for election.

Members are elected from the total community and receive a stipend of $30 per meeting, or up to a maximum of $1,500 per year.

The June 8 election is a regular school election. Voters can fill out a ballot at one of 14 polling places in the district.

For further information about nominating petitions call 451-3135.

Addenda & errata

In a recent story published in The Crier, it should have been written that the new higher assessments in the City of Plymouth this year will include a six per cent increase in residential assessments and a 2.3 per cent increase in commercial assessments.

Expanded DDA gets first OK

BY T.M. SMITH

Monday, Plymouth's city commissioners passed the first reading of a limited expansion of the Downtown Development Authority district, despite more than two hours of heated-citizen's comments, asking the commission to vote down the measure.

Commissioner Bob Jones was the single commissioner voting against the proposed ordinance.

Before the vote was taken, more than a dozen residents stood and addressed the commission, trying to convince the board that the ordinance should not be passed. For two hours they reasoned, threatened and pleaded the proposal be voted down.

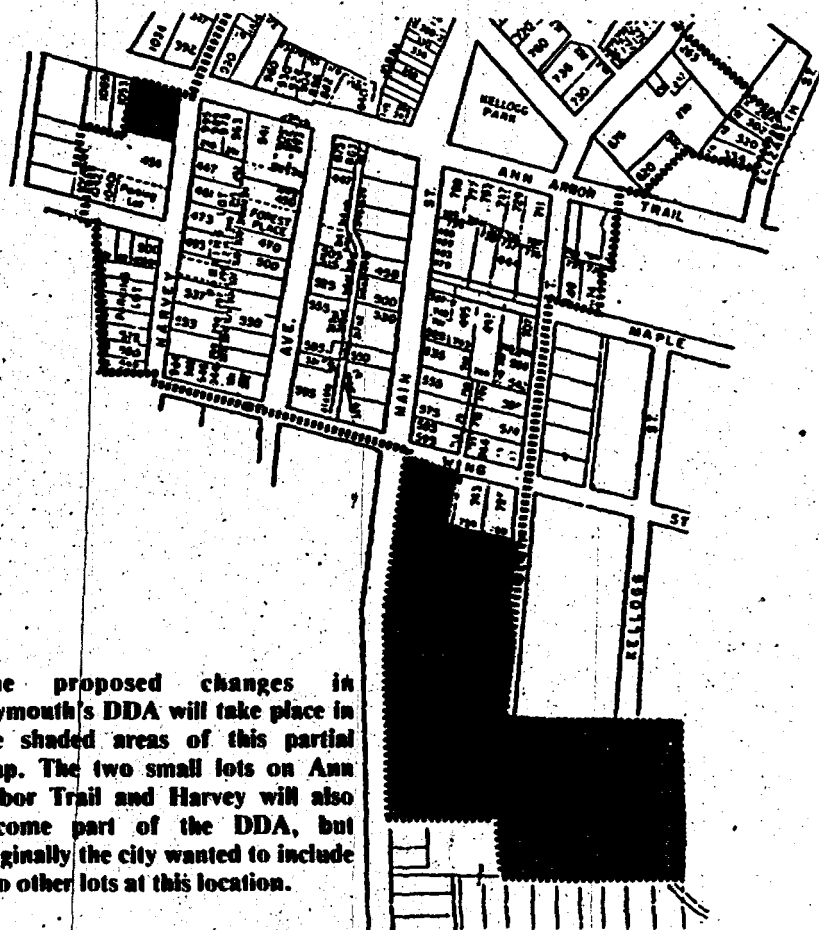

At Monday's meeting, the item was brought back up for discussion, after the commission had decided to wait to vote on the matter a month ago.

At that time, many of the same people at Monday's meeting had protested to several lots on Ann Arbor Trail being put into the proposed expansion.

Since that time the Downtown Development Authority had met and decided to not include those lots, and limit the expansion of the district to those lots down Main Street towards Farmer Jack, and including the Moore Farm property, which will hold the new condominium project. There will also be two lots included at Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail.

Originally there was a plan to include four lots at Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail, but the two furthest westward lots down Ann Arbor Trail were deleted.

Those deletions, however, did not appease those in attendance Monday.

The proposed changes in Plymouth's DDA will take place in the shaded areas of this partial map. The two small lots on Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey will also become part of the DDA, but originally the city wanted to include two other lots at this location.

In fact, it made at least one of those more angry.

John Mochle, of 1279 W. Ann Arbor Trail, told the commission "We are concerned about Ann Arbor Trail, but our interest is much broader. I believe the commission just pulled the two lots off Ann Arbor Trail to placate us," Mochle said.

What most of the substantive concerns seemed to question was the extra money the city would receive on the expansion.

According to the city, the DDA would receive any additional taxes which would be captured above and beyond what is being currently captured on the property not in the DDA now.

One example would be the Moore Farm. Once the condominiums are erected and placed on the tax roles the DDA would capture the taxes for that project which exceed the taxes now collected on the piece of property.

City Manager Henry Graper told the commission and the audience that he expects between $80,000 and $100,000 to be realized for each of the first two years, the new DDA is in place.

But many at the meeting still questioned where the money would go, and what would be lost because of that money going elsewhere.

There were several questions on if the money would take money away from The Plymouth-Canton School District. Graper told the audience that because the school is "in formula" that P-C schools would get the exact same amount of money, and would lose none.

Still, many were not satisfied. One member of the audience pointed out "that if you have 'x' number of dollars and you take away 'y' number from one area, somewhere down the line the city will need to get that number back - and to me that means more taxes."

Once the vote was taken, however, the arguments of the audience proved fruitless. The proposed expansion passed with only one no vote.

The vote of Commissioner Bob Jones.

"There is still some confusion," Jones said. "There needs to be more input to be able to decide. We need more complete, accurate information that we have at this point."

The vote taken Monday was in favor of the ordinance at the first reading stage. The ordinance must go through a second reading at a public meeting before it is accepted.

'Winnie the Witch' stays in schools

Panel upholds use of filmstrips

BY KEN VOYLES

A review panel looking into the use of the filmstrips "Tales of Winnie the Witch" recently upheld their use as educational resources in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"Winnie" was shown to an elementary class at Eriksson, according to a complaint filed by Diane Daskalakis and the Citizens for Better Education group.

The review committee report, released last week, said that the resources were "deemed appropriate for use in the Plymouth-Canton Schools."

The committee included Linda Williams, Mary Robb, Joan Ngricks, Dave Farquharson and Cheryl Clason.

The panel made its decision despite some "differing opinions regarding the appropriateness" of using the series as a "vehicle for the teaching of basic values."

The panel met on two occasions and reviewed transcripts of "Winnie" as well as other material provided by Daskalakis.

Daskalakis has since appealed the decision to John M. Hoben's office, said Michael Homes. She objects to the filmstrips on the grounds that they teach the use of witchcraft as a way of solving problems.

Homes also said last week that he had "initiated" review committees to look at the movies "Teen Wolf" and "Ghostbusters," also objected to by Daskalakis and her group.

"That brings us up to date on her complaints," said Homes.

Twelve complaints filed by another community resident, W. Edward Wendover, remain on file in Homes' office. "He said he was content to leave them on file as long as we are aware of his concerns," said Homes. "And as long as no immediate changes are planned in the procedure for handling complaints."

A decision on Daskalakis' appeals of five review committee recommendations will be forthcoming from the Board of Education sometime this month.

but the pressures on too." Yet at his Plymouth High School Class of '66 reunion in the Cultural Center last July or after a Joe Louis concert, Campbell chats easily amongst old friends from the community. He still has family and business interests here, too, and so gets back to The Plymouth-Canton Community often.

Town has changed for him. "They already tore down the A*W. That was a landmark," Campbell lamented. "Boy, that hurt when they took that." (The former A&W on Ann Arbor Road was bulldozed for an addition to a car dealer lot.)

"And they're talking about tearing down Central?" (Campbell referred to a study made by Plymouth-Canton Schools last year which investigated options for the old Plymouth High School now used as a middle school. The school board has announced no long-term plans for Central.)

Although it may seem that all should be wonderful for the former-Plymouthite, life has not always been kind to Campbell. He's reluctant to talk about his recent divorce or especially about the loss of his daughter, Ashley, who died at three months of age.

"I'd like a normal family life. I've outgrown hating it (Ashley's death and the subsequent divorce).

"There are two ways of looking at things. You can either dust yourself off and get going or..." Campbell said.

After the Detroit dates are finished, the future is uncertain.

Rumors say that Seeger and the Silver Bullet Band are finished.

The old days

Campbell doesn't think that's certain, although a rest would be welcomed, he said. "Bob's got such a backlog of songs that (another) album's possible."

Whatever the future, the past has been quite a trip.

From his days of first playing a Detroit Light Guard Armory concert at 13 -- "I was scared ---less" -- to taking up the guitar -- "When I was 18, Torb Guenther and I went to Greenwich Village. He went for the art and I went for the music. That got me going on guitar." -- to now where the hotel doormen jump to open the doors, Campbell's much the same as a person, it seems.

But it's a long way from "tuna fish" days.

Holbrook may get new trial for murder charge

BY KEN VOYLES

Darol Wayne Holbrook is returning to the community.

Convicted of murdering Janet Reynolds during the early hours of Dec. 3, 1981, Holbrook will get a new hearing before 35th District Court Judge James Garber following a ruling by the Michigan State Supreme Court.

"I would expect Holbrook to be there," Garber said last week. The hearing has been set for this Friday (March 6) at 1:30 p.m.

Garber said he plans to rule Friday on whether or not Holbrook deserves a new trial.

"At the time of conviction one of the important aspects of the case against him was the blood found on his shoe and blood typing test, serological electrophoresis," said Garber.

Reynolds' blood was found on Holbrook's left shoe. It played a key role in the prosecution, along with the fact that he had been seen with Reynolds on the night of the murder.

"In August 1986 the supreme court said that the specific test in this case (electrophoresis) was not yet admissible," said Garber.

The high court made the ruling (3-2) in the case of People vs. Young.

"Holbrook's case then went back to the court of appeals which remanded it to the circuit court," said Garber. "Judge Cahalen then sent it to me."

Garber was told to review the original preliminary examination transcript to see if there was probable cause to give Holbrook a new trial.

Garber said on Friday that he had already gone over the material.

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Robert Agacinski will re-submit his case before Garber. Agacinski originally prosecuted Holbrook in 1981.

"I don't know what he'll (Agacinski) do, frankly," Garber said. "But I expect to make a ruling on that day."

Agacinski can argue that there is still enough evidence without the blood test

MTA offers opinion on Canton Bd. minutes

BY DAN NESS

The disagreement surrounding the official minutes of the Canton Board of Trustees' meetings may finally be resolved.

Canton Supervisor James Poole received a legal opinion Feb. 25 from an attorney for the Michigan Township Association (MTA) regarding a difference in opinion Clerk Linda Chuhraan is having with other board members for the last several months.

Chuhraan had stated at previous board meetings that any corrections made for the official minutes of a board meeting did not have to be included with the original form of the minutes. She had also maintained that the minutes of a meeting became automatically approved after two subsequent meetings if no action was taken.

An attorney for the MTA refuted her arguments last week, however, in a reply to Poole's request for an opinion on the matter. Lynda Thomsen wrote, "Corrections in the minutes shall be made not later than the next meeting after the meeting to which the minutes refer. Corrected minutes shall be available no later than the next subsequent meeting after correction. The corrected minutes shall show both the original entry and the correction."

Thomsen continued, "If the minutes are not approved by the board (through oversight or otherwise), they do not automatically become 'approved' by inaction. However, a strict application of the Open Meetings Act would prohibit correction of the minutes at a later meeting."

"If for any reason no action is taken to approve or correct minutes at a meeting following the meeting to which they refer, it is our opinion that notwithstanding the provisions of the Open Meetings Act concerning corrections, the minutes are not considered 'formally' approved until the township board has formally acted to approve them."

"It is better that they be corrected and formally approved late than inaccurate minutes be kept."

Thomsen also made several suggestions regarding the keeping of official township minutes:

- "The township board should absolutely require that proposed minutes be available at the meeting following the meeting to which they refer. If for some reason the clerk is unable or unwilling to prepare minutes, the deputy clerk should be directed to prepare minutes." Chuhraan has asked for money in the past to hire a deputy clerk, which the board has voted down.

- "If the minutes are not properly corrected by the next meeting, the clerk (or if she refuses, the deputy clerk) should be directed by action of the township board, to correct the minutes as required by the Open Meetings Act."

- "The clerk should not be publishing minutes which have not been approved. This is misleading to the public."

coincidence that May 1 is the beginning of the good sailing and golfing season? What a great breeze with which to life anchor and set sail."

Although Lawton will spend more time on his Cape Cod Cat sailboat and at his Leelanau Peninsula tree farm, he's not going entirely out to pasture. "It's time for a change. I'm ready to move on to new growth areas and new challenges."

He said he will focus on real estate sales, appraisals and financial consulting.

Lawton was named Michigan Credit Union person-of-the-year in 1985 -- one of many recognitions he's received.

But he also served in civic capacities during several maelstroms of note in The Plymouth-Canton Community. He was on the Plymouth School Board during the firing of School Superintendent Jim Rossman and chaired the Canton Planning Commission through the controversial Mocerri Project regional shopping center rezoning attempts.

Lawton also served on the Plymouth City Commission and as Plymouth Chamber of Commerce president for two years.

Prior to joining Community Federal Credit Union, Lawton worked six years at other credit unions. Then, following the earth-shattering news that Daisy Manufacturing Co. was moving its air rifle business to Arkansas, Community Federal was formed to pick up the pieces of the old Daisy employes credit union. Lawton was named as the first -- and thus far only -- treasurer-manager.

Under Lawton's helmsmanship, Community grew to add Northville and, in 1983, Otsego and Montmorency counties near Gaylord. From a single office in a cubbyhole of a downtown Plymouth hotel, the credit union now has seven offices, including the headquarters facility on Harvey Street.

"I've enjoyed helping establish a cooperative financial institution. What we've actually done is a drop in the bucket," Lawton said. "What we have done is cause every single financial institution in our community to meet standards.

"That standard-setting is the whole essence of cooperative efforts," he added.

"Time has a way of catching us by surprise. I have personal goals yet to realize and other interests that need tending," Lawton concluded.

Re: Senior Transportation Programs

-Review of Current Program Involvement

Cathy Broadbent reviewed the current program involvement for senior transportation in Plymouth Township.

Mrs. Martha Suchanski of Tennyson Drive, Plymouth Township, spoke of her concerns regarding the current fees being charged to those seniors needing assistance when being driven to and from the hospital while visiting family members.

Mr. Bill McNamara, Director of Council on Aging spoke to the Board regarding his findings of Dial-A-Ride services for Plymouth Township seniors. He requested funds from the Township for the Council on Aging to provide the $25.00 membership fee for those seniors participating in the ACT Program.

Mr. John Fusik, President of ACT (Alternative Community Transportation), explained that his company is a private non-profit organization, operating within its own rules. ACT is for seniors 55 years old and over. It is for medical transportation only but does not include ambulance service.

The Township's participation funding to ACT would be through the Council on Aging.

Carol Donnelly, Vice-President of Council on Aging, also requested a financial commitment from the Township. She said they are currently receiving their funding from United Way. Whatever the Township feels they could financially contribute would be greatly appreciated.

Many questions were raised regarding the funding of senior transportation programs.

Supervisor Breen requested that this item be brought back to the Board meeting of March 10 with more information on municipal credits and a "needs base" program.

1. Carl Berry, Chief of Police

Re: Year-end Report for 1986 and Goals for 1987

Chief Berry presented his year-end report for 1986. His three main goals for 1987 are to continue with neighborhood patrols, traffic enforcement and response time within 3 to 7 minutes. He attributed a reduction in home larcenies to the Crime Prevention Program. They have reduced the larceny complaints from 341 in 1986 to 293 in 1987.

Chief Berry said he does utilize surrounding police agencies to help handle accidents. The Wayne County Sheriff is the first agency to be called, especially for Ann Arbor Road.

Chief Berry stated there are currently 15 full-time officers, 5 part-time officers and 19 community service officers.

Chief Berry reported that in 1986 four officers had resigned and gave various reasons for their resignations - larger police agency, pay increase, promotional possibilities, etc. Exit-interviews are available for perusal.

Mrs. Hulsing congratulated Chief Berry on his report.

Canton police cars get tires slashed

Ten Canton Police Department patrol vehicles were targets of a tire slasher Feb. 26, as they were parked in the back lot of the department building.

One tire on each of the 10 cars was slashed with a sharp instrument sometime between 8:15 and 8:30 p.m., according to police reports. A surveillance camera for the lot was not working at the time, according to reports.

Other township vehicles also in the lot at the time of the slashings were not hit. Police estimate damage to be more than $1,000.

There are no suspects in the vandalism.

Power out at CEP... again

BY KEN VOYLES

Electric power went out at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) last Monday (Feb. 23) setting some sort of record for power failures during a school year according to cynical staffers at the Park.

But last week was mid-semester break for the students at Salem and Canton so the skeleton staff at CEP did not have to contend with rescuing students from darkened pools or labs.

It also meant less confusion.

The power failure was the third since Jan. 5.

As happened in the two other incidents the failure was related to a construction crew mishap at McClumpha Road and Ann Arbor Trail, said Thomas Tattan principal at Canton.

"We lost the power again for about two hours," Tattan said. "All of the secretaries followed our new emergency procedures."

"Everything went smoothly," he added. "Of course we didn't have 2,200 students in the building."

The new series of steps to be taken by staff and teachers at CEP in the event of another power failure were written by an administrative team following the blackout on Jan. 7.

"We wanted to formalize what we've already been doing through common sense," said Tattan. "Now we've got the information in the procedures out to our teachers and staff."

Tattan said he feels comfortable that

Cantonite arraigned

A Canton man was arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder Feb. 27 in 35th District Court in front of Judge James Garber, according to Canton Police Officer David Boljesic.

Jon Alan Skavdahl stood mute during the arraignment.

The charge stems from an incident on Jan. 13 in which Skavdahl's wife was allegedly stabbed in the thigh with a knife at Stonybrook Apartments, Boljesic said.

Skavdahl faces preliminary examination in 35th District Court March 9. Bond was set at $100,000.

Encore visit to Plymouth

All aboard for Artrain

On April 1, Plymouth will become the four-day host of a national art treasure. The Artrain, which was in town during its first year of existence 16 years ago, is making a scheduled return to town in less than a month.

The people of The Plymouth-Canton Community are deserving of such a experience, and the community arts councils are taking every opportunity to get as many people out to the Artrain as possible. When it first came to the city 16 years ago, Plymouth treated the exhibit with all the prestige it deserved. On its encore visit it should get equal treatment.

During its four-day stay down by the tracks in Old Village the Artrain has the potential and responsibility of being a very useful learning tool of the great arts. Its usefulness as a learning vehicle and resource to increase community arts development and interest has been well recorded.

This year, Plymouth is also fortunate to receive the Artrain as part of Michigan's Sesquicentennial celebration. The Artrain has plans to be in the state to help celebrate for the month of March, and will feature many highlights of the art and architecture from Michigan's own internationally acclaimed Cranbrook Academy of Art.

Plymouth should be proud to receive one of the nations most unique mobile art exhibits, and extend its usual hospitality and support when it arrives April 1 until it pulls away from the station on April 5.

Agenda confusion delays decision

There was some confusion Monday over the agenda prepared for the special meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

The last item listed was to "consider approval of response to appeals."

Those appeals were made two weeks ago by a local woman fighting review recommendations made by panels studying the use of certain controversial materials in the district.

The agenda was published Friday, but by Monday afternoon it had become clear the last item would not be discussed this week.

But once an agenda is published any changes have to be made at a meeting.

Before the meeting began E.J. McClendon tried to explain the confusion. He said the item would be pulled officially during the meeting by tabling it.

In The Margin

By Ken Voyles

Once tabled it would have to await a motion to remove it from the table for discussion and action.

McClendon wanted it off the agenda Monday for two reasons: its listing on the agenda made it look like the board would deal with all five appeals as one issue, and board member Dean Swartzwelter was away in Jamaica.

McClendon wants each appeal handled separately, which makes sense. He also wants to make a decision on each of them soon. He -- like a lot of us -- is tired of that so-called crusader.

And he wants to make sure all seven board members are present.

"My hope is this will be on the next action agenda which is Monday," said the board president. "And I'd ask the administration to list them separately."

McClendon mentioned that the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) is pressuring the district to make a decision and remove the materials, like "The Breakfast Club," from the non-usable list.

McClendon also pooh-poohed any notion that the board would discuss the appeals further at a workshop. He is gung-ho to come to a decision at the regular meeting this Monday (March 9).

"Workshops are informational meetings," he said. "We don't need any further information on this."

So true E.J.

What we need is a decision.

More voices on book banning

EDITOR:

I listened closely on Monday, Feb. 16 as Diane Daskalakis explained to the Board of Education why she thinks a variety of things done in Plymouth-Canton classrooms pose a threat to our students.

I thought her most revealing comment came at the end of her presentation. She said, in reference to the Bible, "It is our truth." Most Christians would agree with that statement, but I doubt very much whether most would agree with her perceptions of how the Bible should shape the curriculum of Plymouth-Canton schools.

When she quotes Biblical passages to prove that teachers in this school system are luring students (either intentionally or inadvertently) into witchcraft and satanism, she does not represent "the" Christian point of view. As if there were "a" Christian point of view. On most matters of substance: divorce, capital punishment, homosexuality, abortion, earnest Christians disagree with each other. "But," she would say, "the scripture is clear. The Bible says what it says: period." (The quotation marks are mine.)

Most Christians I know do not see things nearly so simply. For example, the Bible is quite consistent in its view of women as chattel. That may be an acceptable view in Iran today, but I do not believe the majority of Christians would find it consistent with their faith.

Some people cite scriptural evidence to prove that God wants us to abstain from strong drink, and for them that means liquor. Others believe the same thing, but for them "strong drink" means coffee and tea. Still others believe Christians will not suffer any ill effects if they drink arsenic and strychnine, and they have the scripture to prove it.

The Puritans of Salem, Massachusetts were also certain that they understood God's will as it is revealed in the Bible. They used this absolute certainty to hang 19 of their citizens before it became clear to the community that what they had taken for knowledge was a lethal mixture of fear, superstition, hatred and greed.

Do not think that I am belittling Christianity or the Bible. I am simply trying to point out what Antoine de Saint-Exupery meant when he said:

"All beliefs are demonstrably true. All men are demonstrably in the right...I say that man is right who blames all the ills on the world upon hunchbacks. Let us declare war on hunchbacks—and in the twinkling of an eye all of us will hate them fanatically."

The Muslim, the Jew, the Buddhist, the Hindu, the Christian and the atheist can all demonstrate the rightness of their beliefs. That is why the framers of our Constitution were wise enough to insist that government (and that includes schools) remain religiously neutral. That means the schools may not abandon their neutrality by including select materials to satisfy a religious point of view. It also means schools may not abandon this neutrality by excluding select materials to satisfy a religious point of view.

Teachers in this country are beginning to feel an uncomfortable familiarity with Saint-Exupery's hunchbacks.

Schools in a free society must be the market place for ideas.

When any particular group becomes strong enough to expunge from that market place the ideas it finds distasteful, society itself becomes less free. We cannot assume that the current situation in Plymouth-Canton is simply a temporary anomaly and that things will soon right themselves. The lessons of history and the signs across the nation are too ominous to ignore.

It is time for the people in this community who want our schools to remain open, secular institutions to make their views known.

It is not in my power to say whether or not this poem really happened.*

It's the story of little Sarah that I'm telling you this day Sarah's older sister had been killed by a car so Sarah's parents never let her go very far and as Sarah grew and got older, there were more dangers to be aware of it wasn't just speeding cars and strangers but sex, obscenities and drugs Sarah's parents did their best like all good parents would they let her have and see and read only what they felt she should by the time she had reached high school she was every parent's dream for all this she had her parents to thank they had shaped her and molded her, she was good and healthy and never even they had done what they had felt best, shielding her from all they thought was

It was a few months before graduation when one of Sarah's friends made a point it really wouldn't hurt her if Sarah smoked a joint Sarah had never learned about drugs, so she really wasn't sure she didn't know what addictive meant or what drugs might do to her it didn't take long before Sarah was soon persuaded to try crack the old Sarah disappeared and her parents wondered if she would ever come abortion

It was now a week before graduation and Sarah's drugged mind told her she was sad so she took some extra drugs so she wouldn't feel so bad when her parents finally found her, hallucinating and shaking with a chill not knowing what else to do they rushed her to the hospital though her father drove the best he could under the burden he did bear her mother cried in anguish, for Sarah had died before they got there Sarah's death was not the only reason she had cried out though the loss severely hurt it was what happened before that, it was Sarah's dying words

*For it was with these last words
Sarah's mother realized the injustice she herself had done in trying to protect her daughter from evil, it was the evil that had won for as Sarah took in her last breath and closed her eyes to hide the pain she did not wish to show, she simply said
"How was I to tell if it was wrong if I didn't know?"
So go ahead and protect your children from any harms or evils that may show but how will they protect their own children or themselves from evils they do not know?*

EDITOR:

I do not know what prompts me to write this, as all I know is what I read. I do know, however, that so far Diane Daskalakis has batted zero before the Board of Education. Like me, she will not give up. It is regrettable that she cannot apply her talents to something more constructive.

Are there witches, etc? Well, yes. History tells us that in Salem in the early days of our country they hanged them and also burned them at the stake. I learned this when I was 11.

Who were the people who committed these acts? Why, religious groups from England and other Europeans who left there to find relief from what they felt was oppression in their mother country. As I recall, the Puritans were one group. If you did not accept their type of religion, they reportedly drove you out into the cold. In so doing they became the oppressor.

Even today, we have my number of such misguided groups forming cults, usually headed by one person, committing all conceivable acts for their own glory. The papers report them regularly. The leader always lusts for power and will do anything for publicity.

How about appointing her chairman of a group to sell the residents on questionable school issues, such as they try to get us to approve voiding the Headlee Amendment so that they could collect more taxes when they do not need more as we read in The Crier.

What we do need is another Margaret Thatcher, such as a woman President.

The clerk, not the butler

A big 'fish' story from Canton

There are those times when I become disillusioned with Canton Township.

Covering the happenings in Canton on a weekly basis gives me the opportunity to see the good and the bad, the old and the new, the important and the ludicrous.

But that's to be expected.

The disillusionment creeps in when I see Canton in the process of losing its small-town, rural, pumpkin-patch charm, succumbing to all of the trappings of modern urban life. The population explodes, the subdivisions pop up, the tanning salons appear and the next thing you know, you have another Livonia on your hands. Sophisticated politics is the last step on this road to urbanity.

Which is why I was delighted last week to hear that Canton's supervisor and clerk were fighting over a fish tank and a patch of ice.

I don't know about you, but it does my heart good to know that while other municipal leaders in nearby communities are involved in tangled discussions over business developments and revised budget requirements, Canton's representatives find the time to fire off memos regarding fish water turned ice.

Here's the story: Jim Poole comes to work a couple of weeks ago during a cold streak, and finds a patch of ice outside the main entrance doors to the Canton Administration Building. After playing detective, Poole gathers the suspects around and announces that the clerk did it.

He claims Linda Chuhran's office fish tank was the source of the ice on the sidewalk, and he says he has witnesses to prove it. A memo to the clerk soon followed. Poole begins, "You little fish lover you, you are at it again, and you have exceeded even some things I would have expected."

Poole continues to describe what he says happened, that cold, cold day in February, when the clerk allegedly allowed her fish tank water to be thrown out "pitcher by pitcher" onto the sidewalk where it froze. Poole's main point of the memo is: "If anyone should slip and fall on that ice and break a leg, an arm, crack their skull, kill themselves, they or their relatives are going to spend a great deal of time in Florida, Hawaii, or traveling the world after they get out of the hospital because they will sue us."

He signs the note, "Sincerely, Jimmy, Your Pen Pal From Across the Hall."

God I love it when those two fight about great matters at hand.

Poole and Chuhran are the perfect example that a community can keep its small-town folksiness while growing into a large urban center. And I, for one, appreciate their efforts. After all, years from now people may not remember which property got rezoned in February 1987, but they just might remember the Great Frozen Fish Water Caper of February 1987.

When Canton politics becomes diplomatic, orderly and therefore, boring, you'll know that the small-town charm is on its way out. It looks like we're safe for now.

What's JOA mean? Look it up under 'bamboozle'

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

With Malice Toward None

Wake up Tom Bohlander, Lou LaRiche, Don Massey, Dick Scott, Jack Demmer, T. J. McDonald, Dick Scott, John Blackwell, Red Holman, and Bob Jeannotte.

They're just the first of you who will feel the sting of the proposed Joint Operating Agreement (JOA) between the Detroit News and The Detroit Free Press.

Our local auto dealers generally spend their advertising dollars in regional papers like the News and Free Press in order to attract customers from a wider area. But if the JOA goes through, the new combine will almost certainly jack up ad rates faster than Diane Daskalakis can check out books from the high school libraries.

Hence, the auto dealers ad budgets won't go as far.

And, as a result, consumers will suffer less price competition between the dealers -- a point Bohlander makes convincingly.

These editorial pages are generally reserved for purely local topics, but the JOA will have great impact on The Plymouth-Canton Community, its residents and its businesses.

As it stands, the two Detroit dailies (each of which boast about 10,000 subscribers in Plymouth-Canton) have asked the U.S. government for permission to join in everything from setting rates to printing. Under the Newspaper Preservation Act of 1970, two papers may seek federal approval when one is a "failing newspaper."

The logic is that under a JOA, two papers merge operations except for news and editorial efforts and thus preserve at least separate editorial voices.

In the Detroit proposal, the News (owned by Gannett) and The Free Press (owned by Knight-Ridder) have requested a 100-year-long agreement. They both cite mounting losses.

But there's a magician's act afoot.

After several years of telling Knight-Ridder stockholders that there was light at the end of the tunnel in the Detroit newspaper "war," Alvah Chapman, the company's chairman, got them to invest $75 million in a new printing facility for The Free Press.

In July, 1985, Chapman said the investment "reaffirms our confidence in our prospects in the Detroit market." But nine months later, he called The Free Press a failing newspaper and sought a JOA.

Thus far, despite massive documentation by Gannett and Knight-Ridder, the U.S. Justice Department is not convinced that the "failing" of the Detroit papers was the result of anything but poor corporate management.

You may suspect that The Crier would favor a JOA. After all, higher ad rates at the Free Press and the News would mean your community paper could raise rates too. Additionally, since the JOA was first proposed last spring, a high number of daily newspaper employees have asked for jobs at The Crier. If 1,000 newspaperfolks lose their jobs under a JOA, it would make it that much easier for The Crier to hire recruits.

There's no question that the JOA would help The Crier's bottom line.

But it's a bad idea, conceived to bamboozle the readers, the advertisers and the stockholders (especially those

What would A. J. say about the proposed Detroit JOA if he were alive?

Certainly he would recognize that the proposed JOA will lessen two independent voices. Despite promises to maintain aggressive journalism, the Detroit papers will become homogenized under a JOA.

And while those auto dealers named up top may feel the effects first, all daily newspaper readers in Michigan will feel and see the impact of a JOA.

If the JOA doesn't appeal to you, write to Ms. Janis Sposato, of the U.S. Justice Department, to register your complaints.

Attorney General Ed Meese has ordered public hearings on the proposed JOA; it's an opportunity for those of you who are opposed to the monopoly it creates. Speak out now and help save two daily papers in Detroit.

If you're too shy to talk, at least bug others who aren't.

Start with the auto dealers -- but readers will be next to feel the pinch. So if you know an auto dealer, find out how he feels.

of Knight-Ridder).

Following the buyout of the Detroit Times by the Detroit News, noted journalism critic A. J. Liebling wrote the following about the lessening competition amongst newspapers:

"To cite an example of the new strategy of noncombat: the Hearst people, who have a paper in Albany, buy the second paper and thus make a monopoly. They sell the Detroit Times and skedaddle from that city, leaving the purchaser, the Detroit News, with an evening monopoly there. This substitutes two monopolies for two competitive situations. All the respective owners need by way of a staff is a cash register."

MS changes your life, outlook

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Multiple Sclerosis (MS), is a disease that can affect anyone, at anytime and anywhere.

MS affects people who are physically fit, it affects the athletes, businessmen, kids, mothers, fathers -- and could even affect you.

Almost 11 years ago, Dave Cwikla of Canton was diagnosed as having MS -- an incurable disease for which doctors are still searching for a cure.

Before he learned of his disease, Dave worked in a local bank in the management training field. The crippling disease has made it impossible for him to work at the bank.

Today, the only work Dave does is volunteer work with the Canton Public Library in the circulation department.

"I can no longer walk without aid from a motorized cycle or aid from a walker," Dave said.

"When I first discovered I had MS, I acted in disbelief, MS changes your whole life, and also changes your whole outlook on life."

The disease has also affected Dave's speech and vision.

Dave, who is 37 years old and

Station hosts skate-a-thon

For the sixth consecutive year Canton's Skatin' Station is sponsoring the "Wheels for Easter Seals" skate-a-thon. This Saturday night, beginning at 11:30 p.m. more than 400 skaters will bring pillows, sleeping bags and pledge sheets to the rink to skate in support of Easter Seals.

Last year organizers report that they raised $42,000 for the event, and that more than $125,000 has been raised since the skate-a-thon began six years ago.

This year, as in the past, WDIV television crews will be on hand throughout the event for hourly coverage.

During the 16 hour, 30 minute event skaters will be asked to skate 100 miles. People are also asked to collect at least $25 in pledges to participate. But there will be prizes awarded throughout the night, including a trip to Arizona, camera, compact disc player and free roller skating for a year.

divorced, lives alone in his Canton apartment. He is still able to do most everyday tasks on his own.

"I can still survive on my own, but I do get some help from my brother and mother, who live nearby," Dave added.

Dave, who use to be involved in the Easter Seals program said, "They help you understand that life can be the same, with a few inconveniences."

Those who may not be very informed on MS should know why Dave, or others with MS, don't get treated and cured of this disease.

The simple fact is, there is not yet a cure for MS. The disease can be treated, but doctors have yet to discover a cure.

According to the Easter Seals Society, 250,000 Americans currently have the neurological disease -- which attacks the message-carrying nerve fibers in the brain and spinal cord -- and an additional 10,000 cases are reported each year.

Dave's advice for those who may have MS is straightforward. "Persevere. It will be hard, but you must try."

Dave also would like people who come in contact with an MS victim to know, "that they should be patient, and treat them like you would anyone else."

Dave also said if he could have anything in the world, the thing he wants the most is his health.

"I don't want money, if I could have anything, all I want is my health."

The 1987 Easter Seals Telethon supports service for Dave and nearly 90,000 others in the tri-county area. The telethon, hosted by WDIV-TV news anchor Mort Crim and ex-Lion quarterback Gary Danielson, will air from 11:30 p.m. Saturday through Sunday March 8 on channel 4.

"Mathletes" Michael Qin and David Donaldson won individual honors Saturday at the first Mathcounts competition in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Qin, an eighth grader from East Middle School (host of the all day event), finished second overall, while Donaldson, a seventh grader from Pioneer Middle School, finished sixth.

Ten teams of seventh and eighth grade students from schools in Livonia, Westland, Northville and Plymouth-Canton took part in the competition which tested students on such topics as probability, statistics, linear algebra and polynomials.

It also included written and oral tests before a panel of three judges.

Frost Middle School in Livonia won the team title, while Pioneer finished second and East ended up third. Plymouth Christian Academy also entered the event but did not score in the top three.

Qin's teammates with the East team included Chad Zevalkink, Kirk Oakley and Arnie Chakrabarti. Donaldson's teammates included Marc Hui, Michael Christie and James Dickie.

"I don't like it (math) that much," said Donaldson. "It's a lot of hard work, but I know it pretty well."

students. It's sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE), the CNA Insurance Companies, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics (NCTM), the Department of Education and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

One or two local teams will be sent on the state finals on April 4, said Ken West, organizer of the event.

"We've been involved in Mathcounts since 1982 but this is the first year we've been able to host it," said West, head engineer for the City of Plymouth. "In the past we've combined with Ann Arbor."

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

March came in like a moody lion. Although it was a little windy, the winds didn't really roar like they have been known to do in the past. Thank heavens we didn't have a blizzard or something ridiculous like that.

Last weekend's weather was simply cold, wet and dreary. Since it was the first day some of our staff had off in the past month it was depressing. Where was all that sunshine we had been hearing about?

Sometimes life just doesn't seem fair. However, if you think about it long enough you can find the bright side of things. We were lucky the weather was as warm as it was. I can remember the temperature coming close to that big zero in March, and I can also remember getting two feet of that beautiful white stuff. See, it could have been much worse.

This is always the most depressing time of year. We're all tired of cold weather, dirty snow and having to wear heavy coats. Everyone is anxious for spring with green grass and bright sunshine. It's time to get rid of the dreadful flu bug and settle for bumblebees.

If March comes in like a lion, its supposed to go out like a lamb. Since the lion didn't roar very loud last Sunday, does that mean that spring is coming sooner than we think, or does it mean that mother nature is getting ready to play one of her nasty tricks on us?

Oh well, if it means anything, I saw my first crocus last Sunday. According to the calendar spring is only 17 days away so don't give up hope -- it can't be far off.

Since this column was written early Sunday, mother nature was doing her best to get back at me. Okay, so the wind came to life Sunday night and we even had a few snow flurries. I'm still willing to bet spring is just around the corner.

to maintain the original conviction. He could introduce new evidence, or he could argue that there is now a "significant body of scientific evidence" to accept the electrophoresis, said Garber.

"He might also suggest that what was true for the Young case is not necessarily true in this one," the judge added.

Electrophoresis has proved reliable with whole blood samples but there remain questions of the test's reliability with dried blood. Two major questions are whether or not the blood test is distorted by the actual removal of the dried blood or by aging.

Holbrook, who was 31 at the time of the murder, is currently serving his sentence at Kinross Correctional Facility in the Upper Peninsula.

Reynolds was murdered in the early hours of Dec. 3 after having been seen leaving the Plaza Lanes bowling alley on Ann Arbor Road with Holbrook.

She was found the next day following a helicopter search by Plymouth and Canton police. According to the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office, Reynolds died from multiple blows from a blunt weapon as well as stab wounds and strangulation.

During the original preliminary examination, John Smiliac from the medical examiner's office said all three contributed to the death.

Reynolds had been working at Burroughs Corporation at the time as a security guard. Holbrook was working at Northville Psychiatric Hospital as a plumber after having already served a sentence for raping a Wyandotte girl.

At that time Garber said; "The blood in and of itself is not enough to raise probable cause. However, that coupled with the defendant being the last person seen with the victim at least raises the prosecution's case to the level of probable cause."

The blood samples were taken from Holbrook's left shoe after his arrest in Wyandotte on Dec. 5, 1981. They were tested by Michigan State Police Lab Scientist Charles Barna.

Barna testified before Garber at the original preliminary examination.

"I think there's a reasonable chance he'll have his case resolved," said Holbrook's attorney Craig Daly.

Also, five or six sparklers were thrown through one of the broken windows, into the teachers' lounge, which caused burns on the rug.

CEP dropouts: 'Never been a big problem'

BY KEN VOYLES

It's no surprise to Michael Homes that the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has one of the lowest dropout rates in Wayne County, as reported in a recent statewide report.

"It's never been a big problem," said Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction. "Our rate hasn't changed significantly. It's been pretty constant for at least as long as I can remember and that's more than 10 years."

The district dropout rate of 2.5 per cent (based on information from the 1983-84 school year and reported in a study by the Michigan Department of Education) bettered all other suburbs in the county except Livonia, which had a rate of 2.3 per cent.

"We're very fortunate," said Homes. "I don't see our rate changing significantly in the future." He added that there was some data from more recent school years to confirm that.

During 1983-84, according to information, in the report, Plymouth-Canton reported 72 male dropouts and another 39 female dropouts. The figures represent grades nine through 12.

Homes said there are a number of reasons for the district's low rate, including its reputation as a good district.

"You have to look at the nature of our community and the expectation for education here," he said. "Parents here expect their kids to go to school. Education is highly valued."

Homes also said numerous support services for students was important to keeping the rate down.

"Also we've taken steps attendance wise which has helped a great deal," he continued. "And the overall attitude of the staff, parents and community plays a role."

Canton Principal Thomas Tattan agreed with Homes.

"You have to look at the socio-economic environment," he said. "And the extensive network of support services we provide. We offer a lot of support to individuals and I think that helps keep people in school."

Tattan also said students had changed their attitudes.

"It's become obvious to them that there is nothing out there if they don't have at least a high school diploma," he said.

Tattan said the district has done a fine job keeping its students in school despite the extra burden of what he called "social work" performed by teachers and staff.

"I've also found that we have almost 50 per cent single parent families in this district," he said. "That puts additional pressure on the custodial parent and the school district."

Although the Skatin' Station in Canton operates year-round, there is one special time that Plymouth-Canton's only roller skating rink gears up for.

For the past five years, that time has been the Easter Seals telethon weekend. Skatin' Station has been one of the largest supporters from the area for the telethon, contributing more than $125,000 since they became involved in 1982. This weekend will be the sixth time for the telethon, and Detroit television station WDIV will be on hand to help record the event.

Throughout the rest of the year the Skatin' Station is open to skaters of all ages and levels. The family-run business specializes in small and large parties; whether it be a birthday or private party

New procedures bank against further power loses

steps have been taken to insure less confusion at CEP during an emergency. "We feel we've got everything covered in the event it happens again," he said. "I hope it doesn't."

Tattan, who has been principal at Canton for two years, said the procedure would have to be adapted for use at Salem which has a lot less external window lighting than Canton.

"We can do things here at Canton that can't be done at Salem because of the interior hallways there," he said.

The new procedure includes a checklist in case of emergency power outage. The checklist will be implemented by the principal or a designee.

The checklist includes contacting the Board of Education, Canton Fire Department (if necessary) as well as checking elevators, pool areas, cafeterias.

Along with a checklist of things to be done during a power failure the new procedure includes a list of responsibilities for teachers, counselors, security personnel, secretaries, custodial staff and area coordinators.

"We're in much better shape now," Tattan said.

Along with new procedures, approximately 20 emergency lights will be installed at the high schools in the near future, said Tattan.

The lights were purchased in case of future failures. Ten of them will be installed at Canton and another 12 at Salem.

"The lights are not intended to replace the natural lighting," Tattan said. "They are just intended to help people get out in an emergency."

Rock swimmers 2nd at WLAA meet

BY KEN VOYLES

Ten Salem swimmers will represent the school at the Class A State Finals on Friday and Saturday, March 13-14 at Michigan State University.

"That's a good size group for us," said Rocks coach Chuck Olson. "We hope to represent the school well."

On Friday, the Rocks finished second at the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) league swim meet behind conference and state powerhouse Livonia Stevenson.

The Rocks tallied 219 points, while the Spartans recorded 225. The rest of the 12-team conference trailed by a considerable margin -- North Farmington was third with 130 points.

Canton finished fifth overall.

"Stevenson swam awfully well," Olson said. "There were a lot of points out there, but they got a few more than we could gather up. Still I felt good about the way we swam."

"It was close, closer than that," he added referring to the final point totals. "I'm not disappointed. We did very well." Salem won the WLAA league swim clash last year.

Salem produced just one league champion -- its 400 freestyle relay team of John Irvine, Don Harwood, Mike Hill and Ron Orris. The quartet clocked 3:22.2 for first.

Dave Miller, Jeff Taylor, Phil Bocketti and John Kim combined for second in the 200 medley relay with an effort of 1:42.

Orris was second individually in the 500 freestyle in 4:54.3, while Jeff Musson was eighth in that race in 5:06.9. The top 12 places scored.

Harwood picked up a second in the 100 backstroke in 57.4 seconds, while Miller was fourth in 57.7 seconds.

Taylor garnered the other Salem second as he clocked 1:05.6 in the 100 breaststroke. John Hopgood was seventh in that race in 1:05.9.

Orris also gained a third in the 200 individual medley in 2:03.6, while Taylor was fifth in that event in 2:09.3.

Irvine grabbed a third in the 100 freestyle in 49.5 seconds.

Kevin Kolacki finished fourth in diving with 363.8 points, while teammate Kevin Tunich was sixth with 346.4 points.

Bocketti was fifth in both the 200 freestyle and the 100 butterfly. He clocked 1:51.2 in the former and 56.2 seconds in the later.

Irvine finished just ahead of Bocketti in the 200 free race in 1:51.1.

Salem's state finalists include Irvine, Harwood, Hill, Orris, Miller, Taylor, Bocketti, Kim and divers Kolacki and Tunich.

Swimming begins at 2 p.m. on both days of the Class A final at MSU.

Chief swimmers surprise 4th at conference races

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Salem pool was full of surprises Friday during the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) league meet thanks to the heroics of Canton boy's swim team.

One of the surprises: the Chiefs, who finished fifth out of 12 teams at the meet, were just one point shy of a fourth place tie with Westland John Glenn.

Glenn recorded 113 points, while the Chiefs collected 112. The Rockets are what Canton coach Hooker Wellman called "a better championship team" meaning a team that does better in post-season competition.

The second surprise came from junior Justin Labond, who was ranked 35th in the WLAA in the 50-yard freestyle finished 12th individually with a time of 23.8.

Dean Roberts, the team's senior co-captain had an "outstanding" meet for the Chiefs, capturing a second place in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:49.3. He missed qualifying for states by two tenths of a second.

Roberts also took a second, along with teammates Tom Hone, Frank Wisniewski, and Mike Helmstadter, in the 400-yard freestyle with a time of 3:25.3.

The senior's not so surprising effort also garnered him a third place in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 58.1.

The 200-yard medley quartet of Scott Swartzwelter, Jeff Homan, Bryce Anderson, and Jim Walker combined for a seventh place.

Bill Richter and Brad Flowers two of the Chiefs divers also had a nice meet. The sophomores captured seventh and eighth place in the meet.

Anderson, the "freshman fish", garnered a sixth place finish in the 100-yard butterfly with the time of 57.67 seconds.

"For a freshman that's outstanding," said Wellman.

Swartzwelter finished 11th in the individual 100-yard butterfly timing 1:01.2.

Wisniewski captured two ninth place finishes for the Chiefs, one in the 50-yard freestyle where he clocked 23.5 seconds, and one in the 100-yard freestyle, 51.9 seconds.

Hone was right behind Wisniewski in the 50-yard freestyle, finishing 10th with a time of 23.7.

Steve Schwinn, the Chiefs other co-captain, finished 12th in the 200-yard freestyle with the time of 1:55.4.

"Steve (Schwinn) did outstanding job considering he had surgery in December and has been sick a lot recently," Wellman said.

"Overall I'm real pleased with the way the meet turned out," he added.

The Chiefs ended the season with a record of 8-5. The squad will lose only six seniors next season.

2 Rocks grapplers reach state finals

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Two of Salem's six Class A regional wrestling finalists qualified for the state meet Saturday.

Dennis Dameron finished first in the 126-pound weight division at Saturday's regionals, as he knocked off Matt Helm of Redford Catholic Central (CC).

Dameron lost to Helm in the district meet held at Salem, but was able to come back and beat Helm 3-0 in the regional finals.

The other Rock grappler who will be at the state meet is Sean May. May finished in fourth place for the Rocks, but May beat the other Helm brother Jay, who he had lost to also at districts.

The most promising chance for the Rocks to bring home a state title is Dennis Dameron.

"If Dameron wrestled like he did on Saturday I don't think there is anyone who can beat him," Krueger said.

The state meet will be held this Friday and Saturday, March 6-7 at Lansing Eastern High School beginning at 6 p.m.

The remainder of the squad which qualified for regionals — Steve Burlison, Chuck Graczyk, Jeff Delebeke, and Richard Johnson — all lost their first two matches, which knocked them out of the regional meet.

"We did well in some respects," head coach Ron Krueger said, "but not so good in other."

Softball sign-up in Canton

Registration for teams planning to participate in the 1987 Canton Parks and Recreation men's and women's softball leagues begins this week.

Returning men's teams from last year will be registered now through Friday, March 13, while new men's teams will be registered March 16-25.

All women's teams will be registered now through March 27.

The fees are $360 for men's first division, $340 for men's second division, $350 for women's class A and $260 for women's class B.

The fee must be paid in full at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd., Canton.

Call 397-5110 for further information.

Chiefs wrestling dreams crushed at regionals

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Three Canton wrestler's dreams of a Class A state meet were crushed on Saturday at the regional meet at Redford Catholic Central, when they failed to qualify.

It was a first time regional bid for Canton juniors Tom Flores, at 98 pounds, Jim Crews, at 198 pounds, and senior Dan Dewyer, at 155 pounds.

Flores lost his first two matches of the day to be eliminated, while Crews also lost his first two matches.

Dewyer was unable to finish his matches because of an injury he sustained to his ribs.

"I felt they had a chance to make it to states," said Canton coach Rick Menoch. "I knew they had a real tough 98 pound regional, but I thought Jim (Crews) had a real good chance to win his matches."

Crews was unable to practice most of last week due to an ankle injury.

Dyer returns to lead NCC

North Central College freshman Jennifer Dyer missed three consecutive games in February for the women's basketball squad due to a sprained ankle.

The native of Plymouth returned late in the season to crack the starting line-up. She recorded a personal high of 10 points in the Lady Cardinals 84-71 win over North Park just before the season's end.

For the year Dyer scored 40 points and dished out 18 assists in 20 games.

The Lady Cardinals finished 12-13 overall and 7-9 in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin (CCIW).

North Central is a private liberal arts school of 2,100 students located in Naperville, IL.

Rec night starts

Canton's Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring another session of Men's Recreation Night basketball at Eriksson Elementary School.

The Wednesday night program (for 10 weeks) begins on Wednesday, March 25 from 6:45-9:45 p.m.

Players must be from Canton to participate in the program. Cost is $10 per player.

For further sign-up information call 397-1000.

Reaching for the ball

Rocks roll over Chiefs to win WLAA cage title

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's boys basketball team dumped rival Canton for the second time this season in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) playoffs Thursday, 59-45.

The Rocks outlasted the Chiefs for the second time this year in what was another exciting match-up.

The game started slowly as neither team could do anything with the ball. Salem kept Canton outside and the Chiefs wouldn't let Salem inside, as the first quarter ended 7-6 with Salem on top.

The second quarter was much of the same as each of the highly explosive offenses traded blows as they tried to stretch out a lead.

But it did not happen. As the teams went into the lockerroom only three points separating them, 26-23, with Salem holding the edge.

"I told the guys at halftime that this is what we have been waiting for all year, don't blow it now," Salem head coach Bob Brodie said.

What he said must have worked, because Rick Taylor, and Mike Hale of Salem came out smoking in the second half.

Salem dominated much of the second half as it stretched out a 17-point advantage over the Chiefs.

But the Chiefs didn't roll-over and play dead. The scrappy Chiefs kept on fighting, as Roger Trice and Tyrone Reeves cut the lead to ten with some outstanding offense and defensive performances.

"I was a little nervous, but our maturity paid off," Brodie added.

"The guys are use to this kind of situation by now, they're playing like college freshmen."

The Rocks held off the Chiefs comeback attack, and held on to win the game with a 15 point margin.

"We weren't hitting from the outside like we have in the past," Canton head coach Tom Niemi said.

Salem was led by senior center Taylor, who tossed in 21 points, while senior co-captain Hale put up 15 points.

The Chiefs were led by junior co-captain Trice, who had 12 points, followed by senior co-captain Reeves, who pumped in 10 points.

Brodie, who is in his third year as Salem's head coach achieved his most successful season ever with an 18-2 record and the WLAA conference championship.

While some feel Salem sneaked in the backdoor to get to the championship game, to Brodie that's all talk.

"I don't care which door you have to go in to get to the championship, front-door or back-door. I'd climb through a window to get to this game," Brodie said.

Now Salem and Canton will head to the districts, where both coaches feel a new season begins.

But it just so happens that the Rocks will square off with the Chiefs for a third and final time in the first round of district action.

"It's tough to play a team like Canton three times in a row," Bryan Kearis senior co-captain said. "When they're sending 10 guys at you all the time it's tough."

"We know Salem. They know us. There will be no surprises in this game," Niemi added.

WLAA cage honors

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) basketball coaches met Monday to vote on the annual awards given to the outstanding players in the WLAA.

Both Canton's Chiefs and Salem's Rocks were represented quite well on the All-Conference and all-division teams.

The Rocks' senior co-captains Mike Hale and Bryan Kearis were named to the All-Conference team.

Hale was unanimous choice by the coaches of the WLAA to represent the All-Conference team.

Rick Taylor, also from Salem, was named to the All-Lakes division team of the WLAA. Taylor was also voted in by a unanimous decision.

Roger Trice and Tyrone Reeves of Canton were named to the All-Western division of the WLAA.

Toney Moore and Jeff Justice, of Salem, were named as honorable mentions, as were Brad Carey and Brain Paupore, of Canton.
