Nine will vie for 2 school board seats on June 8

BY KEN VOYLES

Voters in The Plymouth-Canton Community will fill two seats on the Plymouth-Canton School Board from a field of nine candidates during the upcoming June 8 election.

There are two four-year seats open.

The filing deadline closed at 4 p.m. on Monday. Nine residents out of a total of 16 local residents who requested petitions last month were certified on that day.

Five of the school board candidates reside in Plymouth Township, four are from Canton.

Incumbents trying to retain their seats on the board are Roland Thomas, 11985 Leighwood, Plymouth Township, and Dean Swartzwelter, 12560 Lighthouse Ct., Plymouth Township.

A former board member, Nancy Quinn, 9259 Oakcliff, Plymouth Township, is also running again. Quinn was elected to the board but then resigned for personal reasons.

The other two Plymouth Township candidates are Barbara Graham, 8830 Northern, and William Brown, 8865 N. Hampton.

Graham has never run for a seat in Plymouth-Canton, but has been elected as a school board member in Detroit's School District region three.

Brown took out petitions to run for the board once before, nearly 10 years ago, he said, but did not run after finding out he had been accepted in Michigan State University's masters program.

All four candidates from Canton are seeking seats for the first time.

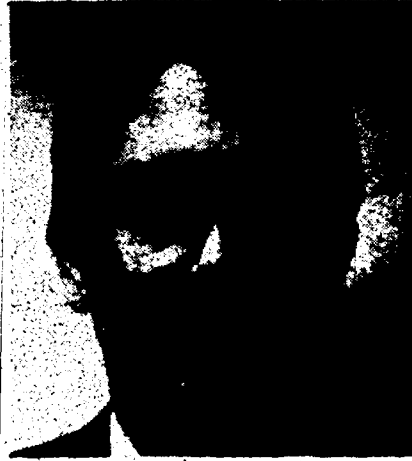

They are Mary Dahn, 7507 Capri, Chris Robison, 697 Merrimac, Robert Anderson, Jr., 1410 Marlowe, and Brenda Anderson, 41431 Stafford.

Besides voting on the two board seats, local residents will be asked again to waive the Headlee Amendment.

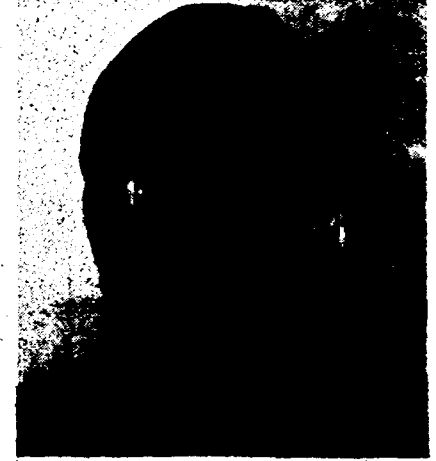

The last day to register for the June 8 vote is Monday, May 11 at 5 p.m. Residents should register with their respective city or township clerks.

'Sidewalk surfers' banned in city

BY T.M. SMITH

"Hanging ten" in downtown Plymouth has just been put in the hangman's noose.

The City Commission, Monday night, passed an emergency ordinance which bans riding skateboards or roller skates in the city's business district.

Mayor Pro-tem Karl Gansler was the lone commissioner voting against the ordinance.

The new city law could cost a violating "sidewalk surfer" between $10 and $100 for riding his or her board in city streets, sidewalks, parking decks or anywhere else within the central business district.

Gansler questioned at the pre-commission meeting: "Are the children of Plymouth allowed to do anything in this town?"

City Manager Henry Graper said that Plymouth is not doing anything new, they just do it slower.

"We are not doing anything different than any other city, it just takes a long time for us to get there. We have not had a problem until now. It looks like we are picking on the kids, but I don't think that is the case," Graper said.

Special meeting called for firefighters'

Plymouth Township has called for a special meeting tonight to discuss the current contract negotiations with the firefighters of the township.

Currently the township is embroiled in negotiations with the firefighters over new contracts.

It is not known to what extent the meeting will go into background of the firefighter's situation. The single-page agenda issued states that the board will go into closed session.

Several members of a 1985 millage campaign committee said that additional firefighters were to have been hired after a November 1985 millage increase, but haven't been.

Confusion with eligibility lists, proper procedure and apparent broken campaign promises have clouded the firefighter's contract talks.

It has also been revealed that the addition of the three firefighters has been tied to the current negotiations. According to Township Supervisor Maurice Breen and other sources the firefighters union must agree to lowering the starting wage of firefighters if they are to have the additional manpower.

The special meeting of the board is scheduled to take place tonight at Plymouth Township Hall on Ann Arbor Road near Lilley at 7:30 p.m.

Chief gets Purple Heart

Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro received the Purple Heart medal last Tuesday for injuries he suffered in Vietnam. Santomauro never received the medal originally because of a military administrative snafu. Above, Lt. Col. Richard Wenzell pins the award on Santomauro during the surprise ceremony. Task force to study waste 'crisis'

BY DAN NESS

Wayne County has a problem with garbage.

Last Friday, municipal leaders throughout western Wayne County met in Canton to discuss that problem, which will reach "crisis" proportions within five years, when landfills will be filled to capacity, according to all in attendance.

As a result of the symposium, called by Canton Supervisor James Poole and sponsored by the Conference of Western Wayne, a task force was created to examine possible solutions to the county's rapidly disappearing solid waste landfill space.

"Wayne County should not continue to rely on landfills as a major method of disposal," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. "It is critical to have a plan for long-term waste disposal."

McNamara also announced a stronger effort to stop polluters of roadsides in the county. One of the steps in that plan is a hotline to turn in polluters (22-GET-EM). McNamara said he would like to see penalties increase for those who are caught. "We'd like to see a few $500 fines."

An attorney who works frequently with environmental matters said the option of going to an incinerator to dispose of solid waste is now under scrutiny by federal officials. They are concerned that the emissions from incinerator smokestacks may be hazardous, Robert van Ravenswaay said.

"If it (an incinerator) turns 100 tons of solid waste into 30 tons of hazardous waste, few people will support that alternative."

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen explained the recent formation of the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA), which includes the townships of Plymouth, Canton and Northville. The WTUA communities will be sending wastewater to a treatment plant in Ypsilanti, rather than joining the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley project (Super Sewer).

Breen also said he was concerned about the shortage of landfill space in the county. "When you're down to five years (before existing county landfills are filled), you have a crisis."

Breen also blasted the Department of Natural Resources for not sending a representative to the symposium. "It's

City's legal fees constant; Twps.' unknown

This is the second of a two-part series looking at the legal expenses of local governmental units. This week, the legal expenses of the City of Plymouth will be examined.

BY T.M. SMITH

The amount of money the City of Plymouth has spent on legal fees during the past five years has remained fairly constant, except for two years where lawsuits were filed against the city.

Plymouth's financial year runs from June to June of each year, and from June through February of the 1986 - 87 financial year the city has spent $27,694 on legal fees.

According to City Clerk and Finance Director Gordon Limburg, these legal fees are a combination of the retainer the city keeps with its city attorney along with legal publications, labor attorney fees and on occasion -- law suits.

During the past five years the majority of legal expenses paid out by the city have been for the retainer for the city attorney.

Ron Lowe is the current city attorney, and according to Limburg his retainer provides the city with his services at all city council meetings, answers questions of a legal nature, provides guidance in legal matters and prepares warrants for city matters at 35th District Court.

In some years, however, legal expenses rose as a result of law suits settled by the city. In both 1984 and 1985 the city was involved in labor disputes and an out-of-court settlement which cost the city a total of $105,668 in 1984 and $93,035 in 1985.

DDA meets Mon.

The City of Plymouth has scheduled a special meeting of the City Commission and the Downtown Development Authority to discuss a priority list of projects and the proposed expansion of the DDA.

The meeting is scheduled to take place Monday, April 13 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

The proposed expansion of the DDA has found heated controversy with residents at the past meetings. At the last meeting, the item was tabled with a request to have the DDA and the city commission meet jointly.

When the item was tabled the city had already passed the first of two readings on the resolution. It takes two readings at a public meeting for the resolution to become law.

The 1984 jump was a result of two law suits filed by former employes, that the city chose to settle out-of-court.

"99 percent of the work I do is covered by the retainer" Lowe said, "Attendance at meetings, appearance at 35th District Court, preparing contracts -- just about everything is covered."

He said the few things not covered would be when he has to go to Circuit Court.

During 1985 the legal fees skyrocketed because of a labor suit settled with the city. The city paid $55,530 in settlements and another $9,124 in labor attorney costs in addition to its normal costs.

Going back to 1982 the city paid $30,747 in legal fees; $34,673 during 1983 and after the two six-digit years, returned to normal in 1986 with $45,110 in fees.

It also appears that the city will come in with less than that figure for the 1986 - 87 financial year, spending just $27,694 up to February.

Plymouth Township does not keep year-to-year figures on legal fees.

Garbage crisis is near

The problem of rapidly-disappearing solid waste landfill space will be hitting home within the next five years.

That is when, by all estimates, existing landfills in Wayne County will be filled to capacity. While every community in the county is involved in the issue, Canton has been more in the public eye, for two reasons.

One, Canton already has two solid waste landfills within its borders. A company wants to expand an existing landfill, and other Wayne County officials have looked to Canton as a possible site for another landfill.

Two, Canton is the home of Supervisor James Poole.

While other municipal leaders have steered away from addressing the problem head on, Poole has taken it upon himself to harp about the county's garbage problem time and time again to anyone who would listen. Canton does have more at stake than most Wayne County communities on this issue.

That's why it's important that Canton take the lead in raising the awareness of county residents to the impending crisis in disposing of solid waste. Poole has already taken an important step by calling the solid waste symposium held in Canton last week.

Virtually every community leader from western Wayne County, plus legislative and Congressional representatives, were at the symposium, sponsored by the Conference of Western Wayne. A task force to study solutions to the garbage problem was proposed at the symposium, and it looks like other Wayne County leaders are recognizing that the problem of solid waste will not go away by ignoring it.

The task force will help, but options must be offered, and soon.

Incineration of solid waste is one option. Recycling will help. Resource recovery is another important option. The task force will examine those options for Wayne County.

Meanwhile, residents need to be aware of the seriousness of this issue. Measuring by the turnout of last week's symposium in Canton, other community leaders are convinced of the dire need for alternatives in waste disposal.

Wayne County's problem in waste disposal is going to be everybody's problem. The task force formed last week is one way to find solutions before the county's garbage deadline arrives.

Quality of life alive

Quality of life.

It's an elusive concept, hard to describe its component parts, yet everybody talks about it.

Better yet, in The Plymouth-Canton Community, everybody feels it (or has the opportunity to).

Last week's Artrain exhibit was one of those "warm feelies" that demonstrate quality of life is alive and well here.

An unsurpassed opportunity to experience major Michigan and local art, the Artrain should not have been missed.

Featured in the art museum on wheels was a special exhibition from Cranbrook. While this may not have been a broad Michigan art perspective -- as the Sesquicentennial billing might have justified -- it was still a superb addition to the art of Plymouth-Canton.

Especially useful -- and delightful to youngsters -- were the local and Artrain artisans demonstrating their specialties. To watch Roy Pedersen, Kris Darby, Steve Wroble, Jeanette Powell, Johnnie Crosby, Caroline Dunphy, Heidi Reichenbach, and the many others at work in the studio car was a rare opportunity for art lovers.

The many volunteers and donors who gave time and money to the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) should be commended for the Artrain visit. Peggy Blaisdell and Pam Dietrich co-chaired the effort and were aided by scores of others.

This type of community service is nothing new to the PCAC. When Artrain visited here 16 years ago, the PCAC rallied community support then too.

While this exhibit may focus the spotlight on the arts council once again, it's even more heart-warming to see the many year-round services this group provides. Congratulations to all concerned with the Artrain, and thanks for all the other PCAC programs.

Everyone who visited the railroad art museum understands a bit more about the quality of life in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Parents: get involved with your kids today

EDITOR'S NOTE: Debroah Hulbert's 13-year-old daughter was slain in January. Two 16-year-old boys are being charged in connection with her death.

EDITOR: How appropriate your editorial "Parents: control your kids," was for me to read. This is exactly what all parents should listen to.

My daughter was killed on Jan. 7. Where are your children? Who are your children with right now? Are your children supervised? Either side of the circumstances I find myself in now, are not nice ones.

I have spoken to many people over the past 12 weeks. I hear people speak the same words that I have over the years. When I would hear stories similar to mine, I would say, "That will never happen to me Because...etc." It troubles me most when I hear teens speak these words. There are no because, It can happen to you and your families.

Moms and Dads: it only took six months to happen to our family. Get involved with your kids.

Kids: get involved with your parents and families. Remember, nobody is perfect. Your parents need help too. They are trying to protect you in any way they can. When a curfew is given, it isn't to be mean. It is because they love you and worry about your safety. Streets are not safe to roam after dark, anywhere. Don't tempt bad people, stay off them. You and your friends can find safer and probably more fun things to do. Ask your friends, give it a shot, what can we do? Go to your parents, teachers and counselors at school to help you achieve safer activities and have a good safe time.

I can no longer put my arms around little Mary and tell her how much I love her. I only have memories to remind me of her presence in my life, such as a bookmark she used. The marker has a teddy bear with the words, "don't forget that I love you," printed below. Mary bought her grandfather one like it after her grandmother bought one for her.

Thank you for taking the time to read this.

Diane should learn to spell

I'm writing to you to complain about Diane Daskalakis' censorship ideas. I do not think that what she wants is fair.

Several weeks ago, Mrs. Daskalakis published a flyer that she distributed in homes. If she wants Plymouth to believe her, she could spell the flyer right - four or five times she used fowl for the word foul language.

JASON SHELLHAUS

7th GRADE EAST MIDDLE SCHOOL

Did I mention the witch or R-movies

Maybe I'm missing something.

There has to be a key somewhere to the understanding and knowledge which will enlighten me to the ways of the readers.

My confusion began several weeks ago, with the writing of what I thought was a very important story. A story that exposed a problem in Plymouth Township.

In the simplest of terms, this story told of 1.6 million dollars of tax money which had been collected by the township -- and one of the key promises made to secure that money from the voters had not been kept.

Even simpler, it meant that township voters were misled, and that their health and safety was sacrificed by a refusal to hire three additional firefighters.

I thought voters (and readers) would be outraged. I secretly planned to help open all the letters that would pour into the editor's desk. I knew people would not stand for this kind of treatment.

At Facevalue
By T.M. Smith

After two weeks of waiting, however, I realize the err of my ways. I admit it, I goofed in writing the story.

Yea, that's the ticket...And, oh yea I also forgot to include the fact that Plymouth Township fire chief Larry Groth invited Glenda the Witch to speak to the fireman. She spoke on easy curses to cast on township supervisors.

And if that isn't enough to get your gander up, there were bird problems

Imagine, thinking tax money and lies would anger people enough to express their outrage, and force something to happen.

But I did leave some things out of the story I think people should know about considering the circumstances. In retrospect, I am now sure these were important points.

First off, I forgot to include that the township was showing 'R' rated movies to the fireman in training. (If there were any in training) "The Towering Inferno" was shown, which had plenty of swear words in it, and is now believed to be a cult movie promoting big fires in very tall buildings.

that had nothing to do with ganders.

It was also learned that Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen is making the fireman walk around the fire stations, and poison the two pigeons that sometimes hang around.

O.K. BOYS, LETS GO THROUGH IT AGAIN. FIRST WE TRY TO SELL OURSELVES ON OUR LEGAL CREDENTIALS... .. AND IF THAT DOESN'T WORK, WE OFFER ONE OF MAURICE'S BUDDYS A FULL PARTNERSHIP IN OUR FIRM

WEDNESDAY THE COMMUNITY CRIER

It is also my understanding that the firemen have taken to calling Breen "An Old Fart."

So how about those apples John Q. Public.

I apologize for leaving those crucial, but fabricated, facts out of the first story. Had I realized the importance and significance of those facts, in order to elicit a reaction -- they would have been included.

I take full blame, and swear (I mean promise) not to make that mistake again.

Oh by the way, Breen and the township board are having a special meeting at township hall tonight to discuss showing The Breakfast Club continuously at both fire stations.

In case anyone is interested, there really is a meeting tonight at 7:30. The firefighters question has been placed on the agenda, and it might even do some good if some people showed up to express their feelings.

Looking at plates on a blue-sky day

The art of life is the avoiding of pain, Thomas Jefferson once offered.

If that's the case, then ol' TJ would have witnessed the moral equivalent of finger painting on my part recently as I endured an afternoon looking at china patterns. It is a ritual, I am told, that anyone getting married must go through, lest they be thought of as unrefined.

Let them call me what they will. It can't be worse than spending a precious weekend afternoon indoors comparing the merits of floral and geometric-patterned chinaware.

Maybe I was bitter on this sunny weekend afternoon, but I couldn't help the feeling that this was turning into a competition, this choosing of formal chinaware. To me, just the idea of having to peruse plate after plate on a beautiful day off was a mark in the loss column for me. She had the upper hand in the china department.

To the point

By Dan Ness

Therefore, I developed a perverse interest in seeing that MY choice of casual dinnerware be selected.

Actually, agreeing upon a style of china only took a couple of hours (Only? Who am I kidding?), but by the time we made our decision, I was beaten and susceptible to any pattern. My senses dulled, I was flashing on childhood scenes in the dentist's chair, the drill getting louder and louder as it approached . . . We settled on Mikasa Lansdale, representing subtle elegance in dining, the store lady said.

We'll use these plates eight times in our lifetimes, I said.

Feeling that my bride-to-pretty-soon-be was already one up on me, was emphatic in my choice of a casual dinner plate -- a ceramic-type plate with rough edges and stalks of wheat depicted on a brown background. This was very casual dinnerware. Almost too casual. Borderline-lazy dinnerware, in fact. Rustic dinnerware, that's what I wanted, I told her.

My intended was visibly taken aback by my bold, unexpected level of interest in casual dinnerware. Now I had her right where I wanted her. If she wanted to look at plates all blue-sky day long . . .

We didn't want to be eating off of dirt-brown plates, she informed me. Earth tones, I insisted, they were lovely earth tones. Earth tones are my favorite colors, I reminded her.

This is where the store lady became involved again, seeing the impasse and not wanting it to end in someone else's store. She immediately sided with my affianced, suggesting compromises between her china-like casual plates and my earth-toned-wheat plates.

I held my ground. I held my plates, which did look like somewhat like ground, on second glance. I knew that any compromise would be weighted in my favor if I played hardball at this point. My future accused me of being bull-headed in a china shop. The store lady walked away. This battle would continue another day.

Next week, we must choose formal stemware, I am told. I had been calling them "glasses" for most of my life. I'm hoping they have tulip champagne glasses tinted in earth tones. Even the unrefined like to toast their victories.

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

Headlee on my mind.

This is a complex subject to understand, let alone explain to other people. It's also one the Plymouth-Canton School Board is wrestling with in preparation for the June 8 election.

Yes, Headlee will again be on the ballot. Like last time (in February if you forgot) the district's administration will ask voters to waive Headlee so that it can collect the millage voters have already approved.

If the second vote to waive Headlee fails, Superintendent John M. Hoben said the district could be out nearly $1 million. Hoben spoke during a workshop session Monday night.

"That would be a severe blow," is how Board President E. J. McClendon reacted.

The Headlee Amendment to the state constitution calls for a rollback of SEV (State Equalized Valuation) if inflation exceeds property tax increases. Since Headlee only applies to millage amounts over 15 mills, the state's schools are most effected.

"We won't be asking for additional millage. That must be clear," said Hoben. "We just want to be able to levy millage already voted."

Headlee is a monster to explain to the average person, who usually wants everything neat and simple, but as far as McClendon is concerned the schools are being "punished" for the rise in inflation.

Punishment in the form of a Headlee rollback.

Even though the SEV may have gone up (and consequently the schools fixed millage rate produces more money), Headlee slashes it back to supposedly balance any increase.

But a cut back will reduce local revenues by nearly $800,000 and, since the district is "in-formula," state aid could fall by nearly $100,000.

Most board members admitted they didn't have much choice except to ask for another vote. Said Board member Les Walker, "It's a reasonable request to make under the circumstances."

Another attitude the board will have to overcome is a strong feeling by voters that they have already passed Headlee once, why waive it now.

But Headlee called for local government units to go back to the voters in just such a case.

If Headlee isn't waived the administration will have to re-write the budget to the tune of $1 million. The effect on the students of this district could be catastrophic in the long run.

So it really could be a case of survival for the district as Hoben has said.

And since this year will set the tone for coming years it is important to understand exactly what the beast called Headlee is.

Be prepared for more Headlee in the future.

Schools offer positive, exciting environment

EDITOR:

So often you print letters from people that are unhappy or have some gripe to air. I am proud and pleased to say this is not one of these letters.

Yes, there are parents and people that are actively involved in making their schools a positive and exciting place. If there was an "extra miler" award for people outside the district, I have some wonderful candidates.

Robert Shelley truly cares about what kinds of experiences his child experiences in school. He took two days off from work to become actively involved. Mr. Shelley took it one step further. He got his employers involved. They sent with him speakers, microphones, spot lights, recorders, projectors, all the equipment that would be needed for a quality show. All this for no charge. Because of this involvement, he was unable to even witness the finished product since he was behind the curtain, working on all the sound levels of the different microphones.

When my classroom performed for their families at the 7 p.m. performance, school board members Dean Swartzelter and Dr. E.J. McClendon were in attendance. Marilyn Schwinn had sent a lovely note explaining her inability to attend because of prior engagements. The children put on another performance for the students at Fiegel the next morning.

Jeanette Wines, school board member and Shirley Spaniel, director of elementary education for the Plymouth-Canton School District, both attended. Because of the acknowledgements of these people, my second graders felt all of their time and efforts had been well spent.

Phill Radant, a third grade teacher here at Fiegel, stayed and assisted with the evening performance. It was through his skills we had both performances video-taped. His own classroom was not involved in this project, yet he put many hours into this just for the betterment of children.

Jodi Ring, another teacher from the Plymouth School District, volunteered her time to do all the lighting for the program. She is not presently working at Fiegel, yet she spent two days and an evening setting up and using the spotlights and flood lights for both performances.

All of these people, Robert Shelley, Allied Audio-Visual, Phil Radant, Jodi Ring, Jeanette Wines, Dean Swartzelter, E.J. McClendon and Shirley Spaniel should be applauded for taking the extra step. They indeed are involved and committed to excellence in the public school. It is these people our community should recognize as model citizens.

Community opinions

Land of confusion

By Marty Tungate

Many people in this world and this community are negligent, or just plain lazy.

There are thousands of people in our world who have to deal with a disability, and these people must struggle at certain times in life, but when some people try to help these handicapped individuals, others take away the help and privileges of those who are handicapped.

I mainly speak of those inconsiderate individuals who park their cars in special parking spaces which are marked for those who need them.

There are thousands of people who have problems with walking great distances, thus the need for handicapped parking zones.

Handicapped parking places are a great idea to help the handicapped, but in too many instances there are people who are capable of walking who are just too darn lazy, which causes a person who has trouble walking to walk a greater distance than they need.

Why do people keep trying to put up more and more barriers for those who already have more than they care to have?

Recently I witnessed several people parking in a handicapped zone parking space. They ranged from young to old, both male and female, all of whom had no problem walking. Nor did they have a handicapped parking permit.

I'm sorry, but those of you who park in handicapped parking spaces are selfish, mindless cretins. No, I'm not sorry you are a selfish, mindless cretin and if I could talk to you personally, I'm sure I could find some harsher words for you.

Perhaps you are handicapped yourself, only in your brain.

Some of these individuals will say, "I didn't see any sign."

Oh sorry, the sign right in front of your face in your windshield isn't enough? What do you suggest we do, have alarms and sirens go off if some of you negligent brain dead individuals who can't see out the front of your car?

If that's the case, maybe you shouldn't be driving at all.

Others will say, "I was only in there for a minute."

Yeah, right. Maybe while you were in there for your minute, five people drove by who were handicapped. Gee, do you think the handicapped signs should read "Handicapped parking only, unless you're only going to take a minute?" Yeah that's it, that's the ticket, you idiot.

Listen folks, stop being so selfish. This is supposed to be one of the most civilized countries in the world. Maybe we need more civilized residents.

For those of you who respect the rights of others who need that spot, good for you. But if you see some of these sub-humans parking in handicapped zones, notify the authorities.

Helping others is the greatest gift in the world, and a little thing like a parking spot is a giant benefit to those who need it.

Special flag stolen

EDITOR:

I have read a lot of articles on flag flying, the pros and cons on all. In a recent article about the flag flying over Jerry's Bicycle, the owner mentioned "that more people should fly the American flag and fly it as high as you can, in appreciation for those who fought and died to allow our ag to fly freely today." Well my stomach will not let me rest until I write and get this off my chest.

My husband and I were raised in Plymouth, we moved away and always talked about returning to the peace of the city. Well, we have moved back to find it changed in some ways. We have had a little bad luck since being here, but the little incident that really took the cake was, last month one evening our dog was barking and by the time I got up to see what the problem was, I saw a thoughtless teen stealing our flag. By the time I got to the door, he had already leaped our fence, and was gone by car.

Our flag had real special meaning behind it. A year ago we sent in a request to have a flag flown over the Capitol in honor of my husband's grandmother's birthday. The flag was flown on her day, and mailed to us with a certificate. She was very upset that the flag we so freely had flown is now gone. We will probably buy a new flag, and fly it again but it won't be the same.

I hope who ever took the flag has read this article and thought twice about it - why? We have been raised so proudly by our parents to be American and they always said "Don't touch or take what doesn't belong to you!!"

Coverage, commitment is very commendable

EDITOR:

Thank you for the opportunity to work with your paper on the special section on Michigan's Sesquicentennial and Art Train.

I really enjoyed doing the research. I got to meet and talk to so many interesting people. Being a journalist, that must be one of the best aspects - having a key that opens stranger's doors (and their mouths!) I'm ordinarily a bit stand offish and this was a good exercise in pushing myself forward a bit. I'm just sorry that the "flu bug" kept me from seeing the production aspects of journalism. Perhaps I'll get another opportunity sometime.

I'd like to say that I really enjoy your paper. I think it is truly a "home town" paper. Your coverage and commitment to both townships and Plymouth proper, I think, is very commendable. Quite a difference from "the other paper." Keep up the good work!

Again -- thanks for letting me help out -- what a thrill to see my very own "by-line."

Voters are not asleep

EDITOR:

I was pleased to see by The Crier, that the voters turned down the school board's request that we allow them to disregard the law and levy higher millage, even though such few voters turned out. You might say it was a poll. This shows that the voters are not asleep and keep an eye on things.

As the Crier reported, the schools had a 1986 surplus of over $5 million and add to this additional projection of several million more. Add to this what they will receive from the massive new construction of not only new homes, but the great increase in industrial and commercial growth.

All of this is added to the big bond issue plus the interest from these millions in the bank. On top of this they say they will try again in June 1987 hoping to wear us out. Haven't they got the message?

On top of the above our SEV in Plymouth Township is being increased across the board 3.34 per cent.

Statement was made that they will not know until Mid-May what the total tax base will be. In past years, I have been able to give anyone a close figure in January. It will go up considerably.

The school's budget is drawn up by the administration. Surpluses are built in to insure extra funds over and above their actual needs. One cannot expect each board member to check into each detail, granting they have the expertise.

However, they can evaluate what information given herein as a common citizen would and vote accordingly.

It boils down to a matter of ethics.

amazing that you can have a state agency that's so uniformly hated across the state," Breen said.

Westland Mayor, and Conference of Western Wayne Chairperson Charles Griffin stressed the importance of finding solutions soon to the problem of mounting garbage production in the county. "We better start now, because if we don't, we're going to have garbage piling up in our streets.

"They're (citizens) going to demand that something be done about it," Griffin said. "The time for discussion is past."

The task force formed at the symposium will hold its first meeting April 16. The task force will have representatives from the Conference of Western Wayne, the Wayne County Executive's office, the Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee, the DNR, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Central Sanitation Authority incinerator facility, the WTUA, local communities' representatives, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), the Michigan Municipal League, the Downriver Community Conference and Riverview landfill.

CMS students held in stabbing incident

Two Central Middle School students will go before Wayne County Juvenile Court following the stabbing of another student at the school March 23, said Plymouth police.

The two juveniles, ages 14 and 13, were both suspended following the stabbing incident. One received the maximum five-day suspension and the other was suspended for one day, said Central Principal Patricia Moore.

The court will determine the form (if any) of legal prosecution, said Plymouth Commander Michael Gardner.

The victim, who was 12, was stabbed in the leg with an unidentified weapon after classes were let out Monday, Moore said.

One of the students (all three of whom remain unidentified) is a special education student at Central, said Moore.

"This was capricious rather than malicious," Moore said. "It wasn't the result of a conflict between the students."

One school district source said the incident occurred as a result of "somebody daring somebody else."

The victim received three stitches in the leg, following the incident, which occurred in a hallway, and returned to class the next morning.

Complaint forthcoming on 'Satan worship' film

BY KEN VOYLES

Diane Daskalakis and the Citizens for Better Education group plan to file a complaint later this week requesting the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools stop using a movie call "What Friends Are For."

Daskalakis will complain about the use of material in the movie, which she says "teaches Satan worshipping."

It has been shown to sixth, seventh and eighth grade students at East Middle School as a part of a "special week" developing school spirit, said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

"She hasn't filed any formal complaint yet, but she sent us a letter advising us of her concern," said Homes.

Recently she did file formal complaints against the use of the movies "The Thing" and "The Lottery" as teaching materials.

Committees are being formed to review the complaints said Homes.

John M. Hoben, district superintendent, wrote Daskalakis on March 4 denying her appeal of a review committee decision upholding use of "Tales of Winnie the Witch."

He explained that it was not his intention to withhold any of the materials upheld by review committees. He also indicated to Daskalakis that she could appeal directly to the Board of Education whenever she was ready.

Garbage rates up?

BY DAN NESS

The Canton Board of Trustees was to have voted last night on a resolution to hike collection rates 50 cents, from the current $3.59 per stop made, to $4.09 per stop made, paid to the garbage hauler.

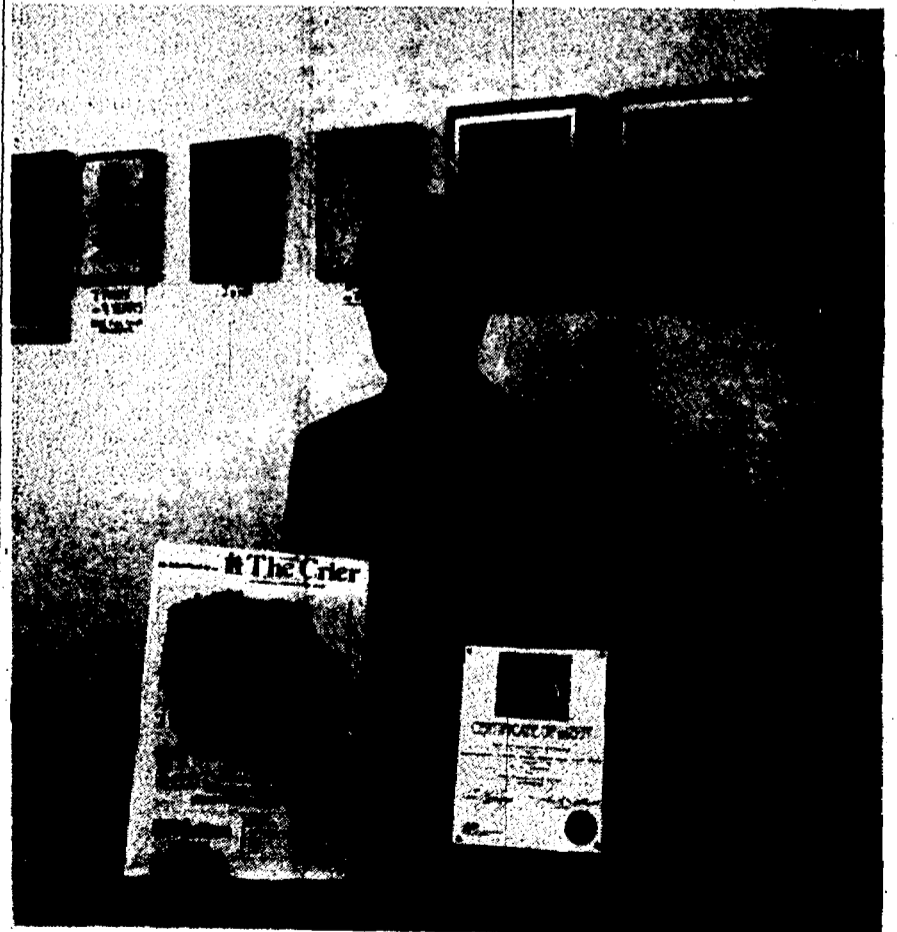

According to Jake Dingeldey, Canton Department of Public Works director, the garbage collector had to raise rates because the Wayne Disposal landfill the garbage was being carried to reached capacity.

"They had to secure a different site for disposal," Dingeldey said.

Canton Recycling, which has a contract to collect household garbage in Canton and Plymouth Township, now hauls its garbage to the Arbor Hills Sanitary Landfill, in Salem Township. Canton Recycling was notified of the impending capacity fill at Wayne Disposal on March 11.

Canton now pays a total of $509,291.76 per year to Canton Recycling, figuring in $3.49 for each of 11,822 stops made once a month. That total figure will raise to $561,767.82; if the board okays the increase at last night's meeting.

America's Simple Gifts

Music written by the Shakers contributed to both their religious beliefs and our American music as shown in Aaron Copeland's, "Appalachian Spring." Copeland presents a glimpse at the musical inspiration given to us from the "Simple People."

Appalachia was a home to the Shakers and their spiritually-moving hymns. Looking at the majority of writings, you can see that all were lively, spirited songs, that were used to "shake the evil out" of oneself.

Coming from England, the Shakers brought the gift of simplicity. This simplicity dominated every aspect of their creative life. Because of their ideals, the Shakers were able to devise technical advancements and quality products. They were hard workers, cared little for the pleasures of the world, and constantly strived to improve humanity.

The Shakers worshipped at no set specific time but rather at those points in their day when it was either desired or needed. Bowing, reeling, and shaking made up their communications with their Lord, which is where the name Shaker was derived from.

Much of the public considered the Shakers to be strange troublemakers and persecutions followed them wherever they went. In the United States however, Shakers found freedom to worship as they wished. Now they had what they had asked for in life, freedom and simplicity, conditions in which a wholesome Christian could be molded from. The lines, "'Tis the gift to be simple, 'tis the gift to be free, 'tis the gift to come down where we ought to be," shows just what their ideals were. They strived to meet these ideals, for by doing so they were able to "come round right."

Aaron Copeland was moved by these people and selected "Simple Gifts" to be part of his Appalachian Spring, a work represented of a large area of the United States. Other well known artisans like Charles Sheeler, the painter, Martha Graham, the dance choreographer, and writer, Charles Dickens, were likewise inspired by the Shakers. There is in our country's history the spirit the Shakers exemplified, a need to benefit humanity and not the self.

This desire and the need for religious freedom are some of the strongest premises our country was founded on. I would always hope that these ideals would be held precious to each one of us, for with that knowledge may we find ourselves in the "valley of love and delight."

Through their simple dedication to harmony in life we have been left with a lasting inspiration.

A 'square table' birthday

BY T.M. SMITH

At exactly 10:03 a.m. on Monday, Clyde Fisher strolled into Cloverdale's diner on Forest Ave. As he made his way to the back of the restaurant, people stopped to shake his hand.

It was the perfect opportunity for his friends of The Square Table Club, to give Clyde a little bit of razzing. He was three minutes late for the club's daily morning get together.

And his seven friends, with coffee cups in hand, were not about to accept any lame excuse about turning 92 years old.

"I was just window shopping," Clyde offered.

But he knew his friends were just kidding. And after the other members of the Square Table Club wished Clyde a happy birthday, it was back to business as usual.

Clyde pulled up a stool at the back table with his buddies, gripped his coffee cup and started talking about the Tigers and their chances on opening day.

Fisher might be 92 years old, but the spring in his step was alive Monday, as I'm back at work after being off for a week enjoying the crazy Michigan weather. The first day back is always hard, but it is especially hard when someone managed to completely destroy the chaotic disorder you left your desk in. Someday I hope I can return the favor. In the meantime it is going to take me a week to find anything.

'World's largest concert'

Students and staff at Eriksson Elementary School in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools participated in the World's Largest Concert, an event sponsored by the Music Educators National Conference.

The sing-a-long was the focal point of this year's "Music In Our School's Month" (MIOSM) celebration.

This year's concert, "America the Musical," was dedicated to the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution.

Claudia Tull, the state's chairperson for MIOSM, led the singing, which included the "Star Spangled Banner," "America the Beautiful" as well as other American folk songs.

"The unique quality about this event," said Tull, "is that the concert happens simultaneously in schools all across the country."

Schools were linked together via a broadcast from Constitution Hall in Washington D.C.

Council helps 'Lifeline'

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging is concerned about local seniors who live independently in their own homes, says council President William F. McNamara.

The council has conducted a series of meetings to determine how to stay in daily contact with the seniors.

In collaboration with Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, the council has chosen to provide area seniors LIFELINE, a personal in-home emergency response system.

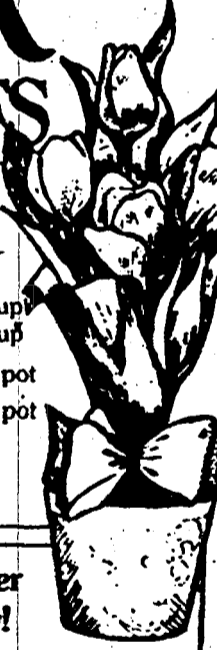

LIFELINE makes possible emergency help within minutes and 24-hour surveillance of the user, said McNamara.

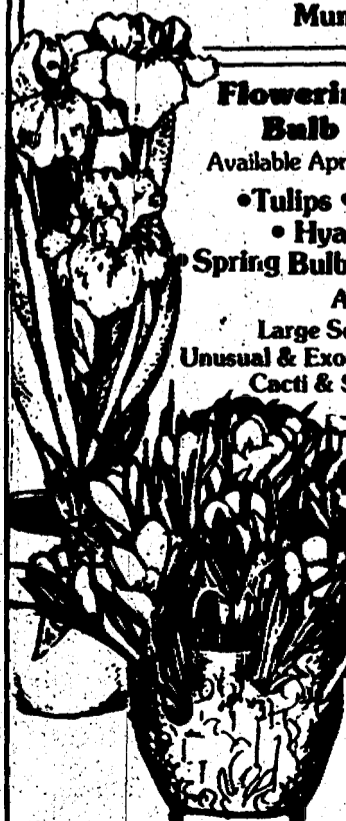

A telephone link helps keep seniors in touch with emergency response centers at Oakwood and St. Joseph. Trained staff are prepared to answer any calls.

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging endorses the LIFELINE concept, said McNamara. "We will assist senior citizens to qualify for the LIFELINE units," he said.

 FROM Emily's World
 TRAVEL, LTD.

NEW ORLEANS

Visitors to New Orleans who remember the old fashioned street cars will really enjoy a unique trolley "tour" of the "Crescent City". The cars are part of the St. Charles Avenue line, the oldest continuously operating trolley line in the world.

It's not what might be called a real tour in the formal sense of the word, but it gives the visitor a chance to see the Garden District, an area distinctly separate from the Vieux Carre (The French Quarter). The Garden District is the Old South of song, poetry, and story. Fine ante-bellum, Greek revival, and Victorian homes can be found here amid magnolias, oaks and other flowers and trees.

The District was once called "Lafayette", and was one of the first suburbs in the New Orleans area. Americans who came to New Orleans in 1803 after the Louisiana Purchase settled in this section. The trolley also goes to Audubon Park. This popular fun and play spot covering 250 acres has a zoo, golf course, waterfall, gazebos, bandstand and riding stables.

Over 30 years experience assures you of the finest travel service available. And, best of all, THERE IS NO CHARGE TO YOU FOR OUR SERVICES. We are reimbursed in commission fees by the airlines and hotels, ships and resorts that we book.

Students explore space

"... the way we look to a distant constellation that is dying in a corner of the sky ... these are the days of miracle and wonder, so don't cry baby, don't cry."

Paul Simon
The Boy in the Bubble

BY KEN VOYLES

Students at Fiegel Elementary School will get a chance to experience space first hand this week (April 9-10) thanks to the Living Science Foundation in Novi and a unique bubble-like space lab.

The Starlab inflatable planetarium system will be on display in the school and students from all of the grades will climb aboard for a space adventure called "Exploring Sapce."

The Starlab is the culmination of a school-wide unit on space, said Fiegel Principal Barbara Young.

Members of the Living Science Foundation, an organization dedicated to improving the study of science through a hands-on approach, will make presentations to the classes at Fiegel.

And then the students will crawl inside the "bubble," which houses a projector for a multi-media show.

"It's really an interesting hands-on lab," said Young. "We'll have it set up in the school's commons area and each class will take turns climbing inside and learning about space."

Students at Fiegel are currently studying the stars, solar system and planets as part of a project begun last year. The students' own projects focusing on "the final frontier" will be on display in the school's commons area as well, said Young.

"Each class has an individual presentation," she added. "We've spent a lot of time developing activities to go along with the space lab."

Seniors, fresh talent fill 'holes'

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's 1986 varsity baseball team had the offense and had the defense, and some thought the Rocks would go unbeaten.

But it wasn't to be, as the Rocks finished with a 14-8 season, and never reached the plateau that some thought they had. They met an early end in post-season play.

Preview 1987

SALEM

Now it's 1987 and the Rocks will only return four seniors from last year's varsity squad.

There are a lot of wholes to fill, according to head coach John Gravlin.

"We lost a lot of kids to graduation, but we still have quite a bit of talent up here," Gravlin said.

Although the Rocks lost many athletes from last year's varsity team, there is a plenty of fresh new talent which Gravlin hopes to use.

"The kids on the junior varsity played some great baseball," Gravlin said. "But can they play varsity baseball?"

These youngsters will have to fill some big shoes this season, and one of the biggest shoes to be filled is the loss of catcher Steve Dawson.

"Steve is one of the best catchers in the state," Gravlin said.

Does this sound like the Detroit Tigers problems with the loss of Lance Parrish?

"We're working a few kids in at the catcher spot now, and they don't look too bad," Gravlin added.

Returning to the this year's varsity team are seniors Tim Dowd, Jerry Sumner, Brian Dawson, co-captain Todd Robinson, and third year starting pitcher, co-captain Shane Smith.

The strong point of any team is pitching, and, according to the veteran coach, the Rocks possess a pretty good staff.

"I feel we have a pretty decent pitching staff. They've yet to be tested this year, but I think they look pretty good in practice," Gravlin said.

According to Gravlin, the Rocks are feeling good about themselves. He thinks his team can produce good offensive power, and hurt another team with good defence.

The entire team has a real positive outlook, and the potential is there for some great things to happen to the 1987 Rocks, said Gravlin.

Forget the past -- tracksters set their own pace

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) title, a Western division title, the all-area title, not to mention the first ever win against Salem in a dual meet.

Those are the successes of last year's Canton boy's track team.

According to coach Rob Neu, those successes, as sweet as they maybe, are in the past, and he doesn't want his team to feel the pressure of having to win those titles again this year, just to live up to last year's success.

leadership in the field events; senior Larry Allman, a leader in the hurdles; senior Brian Carney, a leader in the sprint events; and senior Pat Frederick, a leader in the distance races.

Other standouts this year may include distance runners Bob Beebe (junior), Al Byrnes (junior), and Jay Swiecki (junior).

Geoff Esteves (senior) and Roger Trice (junior) are potential standouts in the sprint events.

Steve Genyk, senior, and Dave Mac, senior, are expected to fare well in the high jump event this season. Another senior, Ralph Reeves, is also expected to do well in his respected events -- the shotput and discus.

"Besides those guys we have some good young athletes that will help provide depth and a foundation for the future," said Neu.

Things are looking good for the Chiefs, who, instead of trying to live up to last year's success, would like to create success on their own.

Let's play ball

More than 60 mens softball teams, and possibly as many as 100, will turn out for the Canton Round-Robin Softball Tournament on May 2-3.

The annual tournament features men's Class B and Class A softball teams. It is sponsored by Stroh's and the United States Softball Association (USSA).

Games begin at 9 a.m. on both days, with the finals slated for Sunday evening. There is no admission charge to view the competition.

The tournament is slated to be played at the Canton Softball Center.

Last year nearly 100 teams competed for trophies and awards.

Because, according to Neu, "last year's success depended on the senior leadership."

Ten athletes whose leadership led to victory are now gone thanks to graduation, but they didn't leave the team in shambles.

"Last year was an exceptional year, and the nucleus of this year's team is made up of last year's success," Neu said.

The capatins for this year's team are senior Tyrons Reeves, who has Experience could be a plus this spring for golfers

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's 1987 girls golf squad is hoping that last year's experience will payoff for them this year.

"We have the experience this year which we did not have last year," Salem head coach Jim Stevens said. "The experience that the girls gained from last year should help us improve on our record from the year before."

Last year the Rock golfers finished with a sad 2-9 record, but a record that Stevens feels this year's team can better.

The Plymouth-Canton Lions Junior Football League team is kicking off its 1987 season with a pair of registration sign-ups.

Registration will be conducted on Saturday, April 25 and again on Saturday, May 2 at the McDonald's on Ford Road. Sign-ups will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day.

The registration is open to boys and girls ages nine through 14 years interested in playing football or cheerleading.

For further details contact Ernie Parrish at 981-1981 or Kathy Milligan at 981-6406.

"We have a lot of girls returning from last year's squad, and they should really help us carry the team," Stevens said.

Returning golfers who experienced last year's season include Brooke Cashwell, Laura Nichols, Kerri Phillips, Michelle Atkins, Jo Kachall, Jill Bojatar, and Ann Stacey.

"These girls will play a large roll in the teams success this season," Stevens added.

The Rocks also have the core of last year's JV team to work with on the links this spring, including Kerrie McBride, Amy Coker, and Shalini Nirooma.

The Rocks will open their season today, April 8 at Brae Burn golf course against Ann Arbor Huron and Ann Arbor Pioneer.

"It's going to be an interesting season, and one that should hold a lot of excitement for this year's team," Stevens said.

The Rocks can contend for the division title, he said, but it will take some work.

Small, young links team

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The coaches nightmare -- a team made up of mostly freshmen, sophomore and junior athletes.

This season Canton golf coach Dan Riggs has both a young team and a small team. Of 12 athletes on the team this spring, only three are senior veterans from last year.

Instead of being a nightmare it could work out in Riggs' and the team's favor for an improved team from last year.

Returning from last year's team are seniors Jennifer Scattergood, Michelle Stackpoole, and Tammy Robinson.

Final PCJBA sign-up

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball league will hold late registration on Wed. April 8, between 7-9 p.m. at the Canton cafeteria for boys and girls between 7-18 years of age. The fee is $20-$30, plus a $10 late fee.

Birth certificates are required if you did not play in the league last year. Coaches, managers, league directors and umpires are still needed.

Anyone interested can sign up or call Chris at 455-5253 or 459-6085.

Fresh talent may include junior Kendall Forsterling, sophomores Jeanette Measle and Kelly Theisen, and freshman Megan O'Leskey.

Sister Stacey and Sarah Barschau may also help in taking the sting out of only having three veterans on the team.

"They've (Stacey, a junior; and Sarah, a freshman) been hitting the ball well," said coach Riggs. He added, "I'm impressed with them."

In addition to having to overcome lack of team size and experience, the Chiefs will also have to face, and overcome Ann Arbor Pioneer, the Class A state champions from last year.

There's also another very strong team Brighton.

Even with the young talent Canton has the ability to improve on its 4-5 dual meet record of last year, said Riggs.

"I would like to see us finish 500 or better," coach Riggs said.
