Rocks on top!

Coach Ken Johnson hugs Jill Estey after the Rocks won the state title. (Crier photo by Dennis Bakker)

BY MARTY TUNGATE
AND KEN VOYLES

The heat was on Saturday as Salem's classy girls soccer team outran defending Class A state champion Livonia Churchill, 2-1, to win the state crown.

But the 90-plus temperatures didn't stop the Rocks, and their loyal fans, from enjoying the school's first state title in 12 years.

Heat definitely played a factor on the field -- mass substitutions were the order of the day -- and in the stands, where several hundred Salem followers sizzled as their team held off the Chargers throughout a scoreless second half.

"This is great," said one Salem fan sitting in a lawn chair at the top of the Northville football bleachers. He held an umbrella in one hand and a cold soda in the other.

Other fans soaked up the heat -- on the other side of the field several spectators spread blankets on the grassy slope to catch the sun's blistering rays.

Still others watched the game from underneath the bleachers, where the only shade of the day was to be found.

"It's a little better," Gene Kramer, a psychology teacher at Salem said, about sitting under the stands. "They're looking good. They got the winning spirit."

Kramer stayed put under the bleachers for most of the game until the victory was certain then he too emerged, along with others hiding under umbrellas or tarps, to congratulate the victorious Rocks.

While the teams on the field battled for glory, fans from Salem and Churchill fought it out for the loudest cheering section title.

Among those packed into the jammed stands were Bill and Marcia Bohl, friends of one Salem player's

Judge rules today on juveniles' status

BY DAN NESS

Two juveniles held in connection with the slaying of 13-year-old Mary Anne Hulbert, of Canton, will find out today whether they will be tried in juvenile court or in circuit court on charges of open murder.

Washtenaw County Juvenile Court Judge Judith James Wood is expected to make that decision today at 4 p.m., following the conclusion of testimony taken since May 18. The waiver of juvenile status for the trial is being sought by the Washtenaw County Prosecutor's office.

The two Ypsilanti Township boys, who were 16 at the time of Hulbert's slaying on January 8, were ordered to stand trial on April 20 on the open murder charges. Wood also ruled that there was not enough evidence to try the boys on charges of conspiracy to murder.

Hulbert's body was found on Jan. 8 in a Superior Township field. She had been reported missing to the Canton Police Department on Dec. 30 by her mother.

A Washtenaw County medical examiner said that Hulbert was killed by shooting, with eight bullet wounds in her body.

The two boys were arrested the night that Hulbert's body was found.

One year after Salem senior was killed

'Alcohol is like a thief in the night'

BY KEN VOYLES

June 4 is the one-year anniversary of the death of Salem High student Georgenna Nix.

It was on that day that Nix, and her boyfriend Charlie Triplett, left a party at Silver Lake State Park in Washtenaw County. Both had been drinking (Triplett's blood alcohol level was .11, which is considered drunk in Michigan), celebrating Georgenna's graduation.

Minutes after leaving the party, Triplett, who was driving the Nix's family car, lost control of the vehicle. It slammed into a young cherry tree and was launched 17 feet into the air.

The car hit an oak tree, rolled over on its side and crashed on its top. To this day Triplett does not remember the tragedy that took his girlfriend's life.

But Georgenna's mother, Chris Nix, remembers.

"It will never go away," she said last week. "Alcohol is like a thief in the night. It stole Georgenna away from us."

And with the prom and high school graduation season in full swing, it's well that we all remember the event, said Nic Cooper, a coordinator of alternative education programs at Salem and Canton high schools.

Georgenna Nix and Charlie Triplett posed last year for Georgenna's senior prom. Georgenna was killed in a car accident on June 4, 1986 when a car driven by Triplett overturned near Silver Lake State Park in Washtenaw County.

"I really get scared this time of year," said Cooper. "When someone dies as a result of drinking we have to use that as a reminder. We shouldn't forget it."

Triplett has since been found guilty of involuntary manslaughter, and last week was sentenced to one and a half to 15 years in prison by Washtenaw County Circuit Judge Ross Campbell. Campbell allowed him a 56-day delay for possible appeal.

If there is no appeal, Triplett will serve his sentence at Riverside Correctional Facility near Ionia.

"We're not condemning him, but we're not pleased either," said Chris Nix. "Charlie is the type of person with a lot of emotional problems. He just couldn't handle all this emotional strain.

"He's as drained as we are," she continued.

Chris Nix said she and her husband John Nix had an opportunity to talk with the judge about sentencing, but declined.

"We've never really been against Charlie. He was a part of our family," Chris Nix said. "If it had been a total stranger we could go out for blood, but with Charlie it's like attacking part of the family."

Two of Georgenna's best friends, Debbie Sweeney and Melina Was, remain angry and frustrated by the death of their friend.

"Nothing positive has come of it," said Sweeney, who was recently in a car during a drinking-related accident along Edward Hines Parkway. "Those four seconds destroyed her whole family."

"People talk about it all the time and it's still fresh in people's minds," said Was. "But people still go on drinking and drinking."

"It's enough that people are just

Campaigns wind down for June 8 school vote

BY KEN VOYLES

Nine candidates remain on the ballot for Monday's election race for two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

Voting polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Besides electing two of the nine candidates (including two incumbents), voters will also be asked to authorize the district to collect its full voter-approved operating millage of 37 mills and waive the tax limitation amendment.

The district administration is seeking a yes vote on the ballot.

"You can flip a coin on that," said

Superintendent John M. Hoben. "We've worked hard to make people aware of it. How they vote is still a guess."

Of the nine candidates, only seven have run active races including incumbents Dean Swartzwelter and Roland Thomas. Also seeking four-year seats are Brenda Anderson, Robert Earl Anderson, Jr. (no relation), Barbara Graham, William Brown and Mary Dahn.

Nancy Quinn and Chris Robison have not actively campaigned. Quinn added that she would have dropped out of the race if she could have.

In related news, Hoben also said last week that he did not want "to get into a urinating match" with Diane Daskalakis, the leader of the Citizens for Better Education (CBE) group, which is backing board candidate Robert Anderson.

"Their information is certainly out of context and far from true," he said.

The district has sought legal counsel to possibly stop literature released by the CBE. Hoben referred to the group's monthly newsletters as well as a "campaign leaflet."

The superintendent recently responded to a private letter from one CBE member by writing that he thought a great deal of what was written in the literature had been "taken out of context, and bordering on libelous" statements.

"There's a vast difference between teaching something and using teaching materials," Hoben said. "The only time I mention libel is in a private letter. And then all I told them was to be careful and accurate."

Hoben said he is more concerned with the group's regular newsletter than the campaign literature.

Residents can help on Saturday

Rouge Rescue

Residents of The Plymouth-Canton Community can join in the Rouge Rescue '87 on June 6.

Residents from all over the Detroit metro area will be helping to clean the Rouge River on June 6 by dragging out log jams and picking out garbage from the river that branches through both Plymouth and Canton.

Canton residents will meet at 8:30 a.m. Saturday on Morton-Taylor Road one block north of Michigan Avenue. For more information, Canton residents can call Dave Schneider at the Canton Township Administration Building at 397-1000.

Plymouth and Plymouth Township residents will meet Saturday also at 8:30 a.m. at Riverside and Hines Drive near the comfort station. For more information, call Esther Hulsing at Plymouth Township Hall at 453-3840.

Belding takes court post

The 35th District Court has named a new court administrator to replace George Wiland. Chief Judge John MacDonald announced last week that Marion Belding will fill the vacancy starting June 8.

Belding is expected to begin moving into the position on a part-time basis this week, she said.

Belding was chosen from a list of more than 30 applicants who applied for the position after Wiland was fired in April. MacDonald said that a search committee narrowed down the field of 30 to four who were recommended by the committee.

MacDonald and Judge James Garber made the selection of Belding from that list.

Belding said she was anxious to begin her work.

"This seems to me to be a very unique court," she said. "It is organized, very progressive and is located in a growing location."

She comes to the 35th District Court from Southfield where she was the Court Administrator at the 46th District Court since 1982. Before that she had worked at the 61st District Court in Grand Rapids.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON BOARD PROCEEDINGS PROPOSED MINUTES MAY 20, 1987

A special meeting for the Board of Trustees, Zoning Board of Appeals, and Planning Commission of the Charter Township of Canton was called by the Township Clerk by order of the Township Supervisor for the purpose of discussing the following:

For the Supervisor to brief all three boards on some of his concerns about ordinances, zoning, and landscaping.

The meeting was called to order by Supervisor Poole at 7:00 p.m., followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Members present: Bennett, Brown, Larson, Poole, Preniczky.

Members absent: Chuhuran, Padgett.

Planning Commission members present: Portschell, Prince, Shefferly, Kirchgatter, LaForte, Suddendorf. Absent: None.

Zoning Board of Appeals members present: Mulcahy, Preblich, Burdziak, Sands. Absent: None.

The Supervisor showed pictures which had been blown up in size to demonstrate what he considered areas needing change in current ordinances, zoning and landscaping regulations.

Staff members present were: David Nicholson, Michael Gouin, Jake Dingeldey, John Spencer, J. Santomauro.

The Supervisor discussed Super Sewer and YCCUA, and said that even if we joined Super Sewer we would still need to pump; also stated lack of EPA certification.

Oakwood Hospital expansion will result in asphalt replacing trees in the parking lot. Sprinkling systems for commercial landscaping were intended to be included in the zoning ordinance, but apparently was overlooked.

Discussed fences and the possibility of eliminating them. Houses should not be allowed to back up on streets. Can the fence ordinance control maintenance? Should a 3' space between sidewalk and fence be retained for the purpose of grass and plantings? Who will replace damaged trees that have been planted within the right-of-way?

More pictures were viewed displaying layouts, elevation design, parking lots, garages, large flags and banners where Mr. Poole felt change may be merited.

Mr. Larson felt the subject of density on the west side should be addressed. Minimum floor space homes being clustered together rather than spaced out was discussed.

Kirchgatter inquired whether or not all were satisfied with the Master Plan. Mr. Poole said he would offer his critique in writing.

The final area of concern expressed by Mr. Poole was the creek area, and the need for flood plain behind the properties on the south side of Ford west of Haggerty.

The motion was made by Larson, supported by Preniczky to adjourn at 8:45 p.m. The motion carried unanimously.

Adm. bldg. is question mark

BY KEN VOYLES

Ever since the idea of constructing a new administration building for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools was first discussed at a workshop meeting of the board back in March a lively debate has ensued over the idea's merits.

The question of whether or not the district can indeed go ahead and build a new facility for its administration without going back to the voters has also been raised.

The original bond proposal called for "remodelling and re-equipping" school buildings only, including the administration building, and made no mention of a new administration building.

"We'd have to go back to the bonding authority of the state," said District Superintendent John M. Hoben, "and get a change in the original structure of the money."

Richard Egli, community relations director for the district, added, "There is some question in my mind whether we can build a new building without getting the people to permit the change."

Hoben said discussion of what to do with the administration building are a "little premature."

"We have so many other priorities right now," he said. "We want to fix up Central (Middle School) and finish the new elementary school first. The administration building is the last

Accident results in lawsuit

BY T.M. SMITH

Bruce Aumann, whose wife was killed in a head-on collision last December, has filed a lawsuit in Wayne County Circuit Court seeking damages from the driver of the second car, the owners of a local bar, and the manager on duty at the bar.

Dorcas Aumann, 67, of Canton died in the two-car accident Dec. 13 when the car she was in collided with a car driven by Yvonne Marie Hillier, 19 of Westland who allegedly had just left The Plymouthrock Saloon.

Police say Hillier was driving on the wrong side of the road with her lights off when she hit the Aumann's car head-on at Joy Road near Haggerty.

Aumann's attorney, John Nora, said he has filed suit and named Hillier, bar owners Donald Vargo and Peter Elefeterio, along with the bar's manager on duty and corporate lawyer for an unspecified amount of $10,000 or more.

Hillier also faces criminal charges in the death, which are scheduled to be heard in September in Wayne County Circuit Court on charges of manslaughter.

The suit and criminal charges both allege that Hillier and a friend had been drinking at the Plymouthrock Saloon after work, and had become loud and intoxicated at the bar.

Both women were under the legal drinking age at the time.

Nora said that the Liquor Control Commission has also scheduled hearings on the matter for July to determine if the bar is guilty of serving minors.

Nora said that the suit papers were filed in court in April, and the only movement so far has been an attempt by Vargo to remove himself from the suit.

Nora said that Vargo claimed he attempted to transfer ownership of the bar out of his name before the accident. Nora said he did not receive approval from the LCC, and the motion was denied.

Nora was also able to have an injunction granted that would prevent the owners of the bar to sell any assets before the suit has been completed.

"Because it appears that the bar and the driver of the car were not insured, what we will attempt to do is 'pierce the corporate veil' and show the owners of the bar undercapitalized on purpose for their own gain," Nora said.

He said that if this is successful it would leave the owners and those named in the suit personally liable for damages.

Deck work approved

The Plymouth City Commission passed the second step Monday night in a series of moves to place the utilities around the central parking deck underground.

At Monday's commission meeting a resolution to commission the selling of bonds to finance the project was approved. The sale of the bonds will take place June 11 for two projects which will be undertaken in the city.

The two projects approved were the burying of the utilities and the final phase of the DPW yard project. The utilities will cost approximately $550,000 while the DPW project is expected to cost $250,000, City Manager Henry Graper said.

The city is scheduled to meet with a team of engineers today who have been drafting preliminary plans to bury the utilities.

The engineering firm of Wolf and Wineman Associates was named at the last city commission meeting to draft plans and specifications for the utility project.

Graper said he would know better what sort of time frame the city can expect after meeting with the engineers from Wolf Wineman Associates today.

"If we get all the engineering work done in the next month, we could get some of the pipe in the ground and some work completed by September," Graper said.

He said the tricky part of the operation will be the timing with the 25-30 businesses which are around the parking deck.

"We will have to try and schedule the work so we aren't leaving people out of business (without power) for too long," he said.

Graper also said that the underground work should not have much of an adverse affect on the cars parking in the deck.

Graper said that he expects the DPW project to be finished by the end of summer.

The motion carried 5-2.

Item 13 -- Consider Expanding Parking Lot at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

Preliczky moved approval of expenditure of up to $3,000.00 for expansion of the Fellows Creek Golf Course parking lot with gravel. Larson supported.

Ayes: Bennett, Larson, Padgett, Poole, Preliczky.

Nays: Brown, Chuhran.

The motion carried 5-2.

Item 14 -- Discussion of Superintendent.

Trustee Padgett reported on his meeting with attorney Hemming.

At the next Board meeting it is expected that consideration will be given to: 1) Input from the Merit Commission and Implementation Committee in regard to changes to the Merit Commission Ordinance; 2) Resolved ballot language; and 3) Establish a date for the special election.

Item 15 -- Legal Publications Discussion.

The Clerk will provide a summary report on cost and circulation for existing services provided by current newspaper with bid contract.

Item 16 -- Special Meeting Regarding Litigation.

A special meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 16, 1987 at 7:00 p.m. for the purpose of the Board meeting with the attorneys regarding the litigation between the Board and the Clerk.

A motion was made by Larson, supported by Chuhran and unanimously carried to go into closed session at 8:55 p.m. for the purpose of discussing employee contract negotiations.

Brown moved to return to open session. Preliczky supported. The motion carried unanimously.

Bennett moved and Larson supported to adjourn at 9:15 p.m.

Seniors graduate

Salem and Canton High seniors will graduate this Sunday, June 7 during ceremonies to be held at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

The commencement ceremonies will begin at 1:30 p.m. for Salem students and 5 p.m. for Canton students. Doors will open at 12:45 p.m. for the Salem ceremony and at 4:15 p.m. for the Canton ceremony.

Hill Auditorium is located on North University at Thayer in the main campus area of the University of Michigan. It includes three separate levels of seating, all uninterrupted viewing.

Parents and guests must present a ticket to gain entry to the auditorium. Tickets for the ceremonies will be passed out on Thursday, June 4.

Non-reserved seating will be available on a first-come, first-served basis.

A formal recessional is planned this year in which students will exit from the auditorium as one body. Omnicom Cablevision will tape the ceremony.

The Senior Party will be held later that Sunday night from 9 p.m. to 4 a.m. in the upper commons at Salem High.

It is only open to seniors from both Salem and Canton.

PCA ceremonies June 4

Commencement for graduating seniors at Plymouth Christian Academy is scheduled for Thursday, June 4 at 7 p.m. in the main auditorium of the Calvary Baptist Church on Joy Road in Canton.

The speaker will be Executive Director of Youth For Christ Terry Prisk.

Recognized for academic excellence that night will be Valedictorian Debra Parent, of Plymouth, along with Salutatorians Stephanie Odom, of Northville, and Alanna Ratliff, of Canton.

Also graduating summa cum laude will be Steven Windle and Amy Millen; magna cum laude, John Stephenson, Jr.; and cum laude, Patrick McCarthy.

No Hall of Fame here . . .

A 38-year-old woman and her daughter ended up at the Canton Police Department Sunday morning with a bizarre problem involving the mistaken identity of two Cantons.

The woman had "somehow got lost from Canton, Ohio," a police report read. The woman appeared at the police station at 8:15 Sunday morning asking for assistance.

Police said they have no idea how the woman, who spoke very little English, and her daughter ended up in Michigan. A Canton police officer brought the two to the Detroit Bus Station to get them back to the correct Canton.

The car Triplett and Nix were in after the accident June 4, 1986.

Borics' employe robbed

Canton police have no suspects in the strong-arm robbery of a woman making a deposit at National Bank of Detroit on Ford Road May 27.

According to police, a 23-year-old employe of Borics hair salon on Sheldon Road was depositing a money bag at approximately 10:05 p.m. when she was pushed into a wall of National Bank of Detroit and told to drop the money bag she was carrying.

The man told her to keep her face to the wall during the robbery, according to police. The employe did not get a description of the man.

aware of it," added Sweeney.

The two current Schoolcraft College students said Georgenna was a tough, young woman who "never let anyone walk over her."

"People just think something like that can't happen to them, but it can," Was said. "It ruined the whole graduation for everyone."

"This is so sad," said Cooper. "In spite of everything we try to do here, those tragedies still happen."

"It's not just the graduating kids we have to worry about, but kids of all ages. Still it's the graduating kids who think they have an excuse this time of year," said Police Information Officer Dave Boljesic, schools liaison for the Canton Police Department.

Boljesic said this is the time of year a lot of parties "get out of hand." The Canton Police increase their patrols around the two high schools.

Boljesic said "scare tactics" only work so far when trying to educate students and their parents to be extra careful during this time of the year.

Boljesic added that there haven't been any student-related drunk driving incidents so far this graduation season.

Candidates favor new administration building

BY KEN VOYLES

Candidates seeking the two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education were generally in favor of building a new administration center if it were indeed necessary.

An informal poll of six of the seven active candidates revealed that all six would favor the idea of a new administration building once other options were studied.

Incumbents Roland Thomas and Dean Swartzwelter both said they would have to look closely at the options and costs involved before committing themselves.

Thomas said he believes there are only two options really -- renovating the existing site or building "somewhere else."

Candidate Brenda Anderson said she would agree to the idea of constructing a new facility if it was "needed."

"I was in the building last week," she said, "and it felt like they are all on top of each other."

Candidate William Brown said, "If they have to expand I'm in favor of building a new office. Of course, that would be contingent upon the sale of the existing building."

Brown added that there were still "a lot of ifs" when it comes to discussing how to best handle the future of an administrative facility.

Candidate Barbara Graham said, "It seems like that building is cracking at the seams. They probably do need the space."

"As long as the district goes back to the voters I would support it," she added.

Candidate Robert Anderson (no relation to Brenda Anderson) said, "Continued growth through the 1990s might justify expansion or adding on to the building, but I don't know how cramped they are in there."

Candidate Mary Dahn was unavailable for comment.

As for the idea of building a new administrative center at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) district Superintendent John M. Hoben said, "It wouldn't bother me a bit (to build in Canton)."

"That plot of land is the geographic center of our district," he added.

City hires 8 officers

The City of Plymouth is nearing the end of its selection process for the eight new police officers scheduled to be hired to help with cruise-related problems.

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers said that the officers would be selected by the end of this week and could begin training sometime next week.

"I think we set some kind of record finding good people," Myers said. "We have a good mix of people with experience and younger people."

The eight new officers were hired in response to problems created on Main Street with cruising during this spring and last summer. It is hoped that with more officers, the police will have a better chance at controlling the large number of people who gather during the night-time hours.

During the last couple of weekends, however, the city has noticed a marked decrease in numbers on Main Street.

Commerce park gains new tenant

BY DAN NESS

The Canton International Commerce Park has its second tenant, and a major retailer is planning to build a warehouse on Haggerty Road.

Eric Yale Lutz and Associates announced last week that it would build a 22½-acre high-tech research and manufacturing complex at the International Commerce Park, located west of Haggerty Road, south of Michigan Avenue and just north of the Conrail railroad tracks.

The $14-million development joins the $17-million steel processing plant from National Steel and Marubeni corporations that was the first tenant of the industrial park.

The 98-acre industrial park, with 40 parcels still available for tenants, is owned by Dearborn Real Estate Company.

Also, Toys "R" Us Inc. is in the process of buying property at the northeast corner of Haggerty and Koppernick roads to build a 475,000-square-foot warehouse and distribution center, according to Canton planning officials.

The project will cost about $11 million.

Other candidates don't stack up

Incumbents are best choice

Before the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education election vote on Monday, June 8, residents will have to sift through the large field of nine candidates, seven of whom have remained active throughout the race.

Filtering out the best candidates for the two four-year seats has been one the most fascinating aspects of the 1987 race, and at times one of the most difficult.

The two incumbents this year -- Dean Swartzwelter and Roland Thomas -- remain the best candidates for the two seats and can be considered the best choices this summer.

They bring experience to the board, gained while questioning, probing and seeking open avenues to governing the district.

Theirs is a "just the facts" kind of approach. At the same time, though, both are compassionate men, men who believe in the district and its quality programs.

In fact, Swartzwelter and Thomas, are the most dynamic and aggressive members on the current board, always seeking further information, or clarification, or coming up with new ideas.

And they've been willing to take unpopular stands on the hot issues -- controversial teaching materials and the Headlee Amendment to name a few -- but still remain open to the public's input.

Brenda Anderson is another candidate that comes off well, but one that lacks the experience necessary to deal with the politically volatile school district.

Anderson presented an articulate and thoughtful case as a candidate and should be encouraged to seek public office in the future.

The gap between contenders widens after Brenda Anderson.

Robert Anderson (no relation), Barbara Graham and William Brown all ran strong, sincere races, but a lack of experience as well as a shallow grasp of the issues confronting the district makes them unacceptable this year.

Robert Anderson did much to give the Citizen for Better Education (CBE) a young, fresh look, as well as a less dogmatic philosophy, but hurt his case by missing an important candidates forum.

Graham may bring experience as well -- she was a Detroit School Board member -- but it has to be balanced by the fact that Graham comes across as a little too traditional in her ideas on how to run a district.

Brown's limited schools background also makes it impossible to endorse him. The Plymouth Township resident might be a better candidate for the Plymouth Township Board than the a seat on the board.

We cannot endorse Mary Dahn as well. Her abrasive manner of confronting those who have an honest disagreement with her on issues is not a quality becoming a school board member. Her fanatical dogma is a turnoff to all but the most reactionary voters.

Both Chris Robison and Nancy Quinn have not run active campaigns. Quinn has even admitted to wanting to drop out of the race.

Make a note to mentally scratch off their names when stepping into the polling booth.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Get out and vote Monday

If you care enough about the June 8 election to read this editorial, then chances are good you are planning to vote in that election. Chances are you probably have made your decision and know who you choose to fill the two vacant seats on the school board for the next four years.

For that reason, we won't insist you vote -- because we know you will. Instead, you should convince at least one other person to vote with you. This year bring someone else who does not usually participate in an election.

Walk over to the neighbors and insist they go to the polls with you on Monday. Drive them in your car, and explain how the voting booth works. Talk about the candidates, and then insist they vote.

If everyone who normally votes convinces just one other person to go with them to the polls June 8, this school board election will be a success.

Let district levy full millage

Voters should back waiver

To say that the tax limitation amendment, also known as the "Headlee curse" to some, is the most misunderstood piece of legislation voters will have to come to grips with this year is probably also the understatement of the year.

The confusion stems from the belief that the state constitutional amendment forbids school districts like the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools from seeking relief from its effects.

It does not.

The amendment specifically states that governmental units can override the rollback effects of the amendment with the help of its constituencies.

But voters sometimes have a short memory -- even though it's not unlikely they will remember already turning down the district's appeal to waive the amendment back in February -- and often forget the complexities of such a highly political piece of legislation.

Now the question voters face again is whether or not the district needs its full voter authorized operating millage of 37 mills to maintain the quality of programs in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

It does.

Our in-formula district is already facing a $1.5 million loss in state membership aid this year (thanks to growth in both student population and State Equalized Valuation), and with the rollback called for in Headlee (.98 of one mill) that figure could reach as high as $2.6 million.

Losing that kind of money, even for one year, can be a terrible burden on the district. Being frugal helps defray the effects, but slashing deep into programs or services is the more likely answer to a combined state aid loss and rollback.

Cuts will have to be made if the district cannot get its full authorized millage. And here again, voters sometimes forget what they have already approved -- the 37 mills for operating was okayed by voters long ago.

It's just that this year -- if the limitation is put in place -- 37 mills will not mean 37 mills to the district. It will mean 36.02 mills.

That's simple on the surface -- rollback the already authorized millage and the district loses money.

Still for many the issue remains a deep, dark mystery. And something we don't understand we often rebel against, or worse yet, we fear.

Waiving the rollback amendment -- it's just for one year -- or voting yes on the June 8 ballot proposal does not mean higher local levies. And then again, a rollback would not mean taxpayers get much of a break on their taxes.

In reality, the only action the district is taking is to save itself from the sharp edged blade of the Headlee saber.

A yes vote on Monday, June 8 would sheath the saber for one more year, giving the district a chance to prove yet again to the voters that quality education means monetary commitment.

A final note:

The district did not do a good job this year clearing up the fog surrounding the tax limitation amendment. And it has not prepared well in case the rollback must be applied.

If a rollback vote is necessary again next year (dependent on the inflation rate, of course), the district had better be more prepared to explain its position and its needs.

Like a wild grizzly bear, voters don't always know when someone is dead, or when they're just playing dead.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

APPROVAL TO LEVY AUTHORIZED MILLAGE

Shall the authorized millage for operating purposes of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Wayne and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, be approved for levy in 1987 without regard to the millage reduction required by section 31 of article 9 of the state constitution of 1962?

YES

NO

Threats never materialize

EDITOR:

At the election June 8th you will again be asked twice to allow the educational system to levy added millage prohibited by the Headlee Amendment. They are not going to give up. You voted no before.

The Crier gave us a very clear explanation on April 13th. Quoting Superintendent Hobens, "If we do not approve this added millage, programs will be cut."

They have used this threat over the years but, they never cut a program. I should know. Why am I so interested? Well, your property taxes increased approx four per cent this year; massive industrial, commercial and residential construction should provide millions of added income. This data was available May 1987. Why wasn't this good news published? We only receive the dark side.

What are our elected officials doing? Isn't there at least one or two who completed the eighth grade in arithmetic? As I see it, why elect boards if all they do is to approve what administrations propose? They are elected as trustees to guard the interests of the public, not just to attend meetings. They are the boss, not the employees.

Give it some thought and then vote as you see it, but be sure to vote on Monday, June 8.

How we decide

The Community Crier offers readers its endorsements of candidates and one ballot proposal on these pages.

Hopefully, readers will use these opinions as one part of the overall process of choosing what they see as the best candidate in each race.

The Crier's editorial staff gets information about candidates through campaign information about candidates, through individual interviews with the candidates, and through forums with both candidates in each race discussing the issues.

The staff also gains information through watching what different government units are up to throughout the year.

Way to go Rocks!

What a win.

Back in April of this year Salem's bold girls soccer coach Ken Johnson predicted his squad would win the state title this year.

Johnson's prediction came true Saturday, as the Rocks dumped Livonia Churchill to win the school's first Class A State Championship in 12 years.

This is the season the girls and the coaches from Salem have been talking about all year.

And they did more than just talk about it -- they won it all. It took a lot of hard work, some overtime wins, some shootout wins, but when the chips were down the girls from Salem came through.

The Plymouth-Canton Community can be proud of the scrappy kickers, as they fought hard for every goal in every half of every game this season.

From the school board right down to the first graders in elementary school, the community can celebrate with this outstanding team.

Its a victory for us all.

Great job Salem soccer players. And great job coach Ken Johnson.

You deserve everything you have coming to you and more.

It's been one of the finest seasons this community has seen in years.

So congratulations on accomplishing the goal you talked about all year.

You really are number one.

Prompt attention noted

EDITOR:

On May 15, an emergency situation arose regarding a guest in our home that necessitated immediate attention. We placed a call to "911" and a rescue squad arrived at our house on Penniman within five minutes. Our guest was given oxygen and rushed to the hospital. We are happy to report that he is now doing very well.

We are so very grateful to have received such prompt attention and are proud to live in a town such as Plymouth, knowing its citizens are secure in the care of such a fine police and fire department.

Thank you again so much for being the fine and dedicated people that you are.

Writer spends too much time at 19th

EDITOR:

Marty Tungate must be spending too much time at the 19th hole!

His article on golf course ratings was ridiculous. Brooklane, although I will agree, is a fun course, started as a 9 hole par 3. When they built the back nine some longer holes were added but, come on, as a regulation course, wake up!!

Mission Hills a 7 our of 10? I played the back nine last week and the greens were in poor condition, and the tee boxes (what tee boxes?) were all chewed up, lots of crab grass. I have seen cow pastures in better shape.

Hill Top a 2.5???????? Well maintained, watered fairways, greens in fabulous condition and a challenging course. Sure the greens are faster than many public courses, and yes the greens are difficult. If you want flat, change your game to billiards. If all you are looking for is a low score try the Putt-Putt on Middlebelt. I am sure you would rate it a 10.

CHARLES JARRAIT

Fox Hills rates as a good golf course

EDITOR:

To Marty Tungate:

I disagree with your rating of golf courses in the district.

Having played all of the courses you rated, I can't believe you gave Fox Hills a five.

I, along with seven other seniors, play Godwin Mondays, Fox on Wednesday and Salem on Friday, each week in the season.

I have seen very few balls on wrong fairways at Fox Hills or have ever been close to being hit by one. Fox Hills is one of the best-kept golf courses in the district and their staff is the most courteous of all of the courses.

I have played all of the courses you rated and I rate Fox Hills right behind Salem.

Rating Brae Burn and Mission Hills ahead of Fox Hills I can't believe!

I have played golf for 50 years and worked at Salem for 13 years after I retired. I think you owe Fox Hills an apology.

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

It's sad what has happened to the S.A.D.D. (Students Against Driving Drunk) chapter at Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

It's also frustrating, strange, indecipherable and upsetting to the few Salem and Canton students who have tried to keep the organization active since its inception three years ago.

But a definite lack of student interest and support from the administration and school district in general has kept the organization from spreading its wings and producing genuine empathy from the community.

Canton Principal Thomas Tattan said he "perceives a lack of interest" among students as well as peer pressure and a "fear of being ridiculed."

"It will probably take a couple more years to really get going with continued support from the school," Tattan said.

Students involved in the group, however, complain bitterly of a lack of support from CEP officials. "It just fell apart," said Jenny Saul, a junior at Canton. "We didn't get the support we needed from the adults. I can't see the program working without school backing."

Sara Erickson, president of the group this year, said they started with about 30 students, but by the end of the year fewer than five were attending meetings.

"We weren't able to do anything so the students got frustrated and stopped coming to the meetings," said Erickson.

The group tried to organize several fundraisers and a "lock-in" at Phase III as well as hang posters and make announcements on the school radio station. But all of their attempts were thwarted.

"We'd get the run around," said Saul. "They kept saying we needed to know the proper procedures."

"The school took on the name and that's about it," said Erickson, a senior at Salem. "Every time we attempted to do something we got jerked around by the administration."

In the fall, Saul said she would continue to try and revive the group, by seeking advice from teachers and counselors at CEP.

"We've got to start all over again," she said.

The students did admit that a lot of the blame for a lack of support for S.A.D.D. rests with the student body at CEP.

But it's a history of little support from the school administrators which is most to blame, said Erickson.

"I don't know how they expect students to get anything accomplished when they won't stand behind us," Erickson added.

Canton cycle Cop

BY DAN NESS

Karl Heinzman has come a long way since his Honda 305 in 1965.

That was the Canton police officer's first motorcycle, and he's been riding them ever since. Only now, he's riding one for a job, as Canton's first and only motorcycle police officer.

Heinzman, a seven-year veteran of the Canton Police Department, says it was a combination of Public Safety Director John Santomauro's interest in starting a motorcycle patrol program here and the prompting of Heinzman to go ahead with the plan.

"I started bugging him about a motorcycle ever since he became chief," Heinzman smiles.

Now, Heinzman patrols the subdivisions, parks and "hard-to-get-to" areas of Canton on a Kawasaki 1000 police special. He started his patrol on the motorcycle at the end of last summer.

The novelty of having a motorcycle cop hasn't sunk in to most Canton residents, Heinzman says. "Nobody expects to see a motorcycle sitting there. They can't see you," he says. So when a resident is pulled over by Heinzman "they're very surprised."

"A lot of them didn't know Canton had a motorcycle cop."

School officials study office options

project on our list."

The original bond project committee which studied the project said the central office building was "completely inadequate for the needs of the district."

The committee made two suggestions at the time (December, 1985). The first alternative was to sell the building and use the funds to acquire a new office facility. The second alternative was to add two more floors to the existing building and rearrange the existing office space.

Steve Harper, a member of the sub-committee looking into the project, said, "Renovating the existing building was not a cost effective use of the funds, and it did not address the real problem -- they're just too crowded in that office."

He added, "I'm not sure the average voter out there understands what money is in the bond for the board office."

Nearly $900,000 was allocated in the bond issue for work on the administration center, but building a new structure would cost nearly $1.3 million.

The extra funds might come from the sale of the existing building, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

Another member of the bond committee, Dr. Harold Hammerink, said, "As I remember it we didn't feel comfortable spending that kind of money on the building at Harvey."

"We thought a site should be proposed to accommodate all the departments and functions in one location," he continued.

Currently the district's maintenance and transportation departments are housed in separate facilities.

Harper added that it would be deceitful to use leftover bond money to build a new administrative center, but added that use of the bond money and money from the potential sale of the existing building would not be deceitful.

"It's only deceptive if they use the bond money for other projects than originally planned," Harper said. "The whole issue is really touchy."

All of the candidates in the current school board race said they agree in principle to building a new structure, but only if the need was indeed there.

At the March workshop, board members looked at five options, including purchasing an already existing office building, constructing a new facility, or renovating the current building.

Since that meeting there has been no further discussion of what to do about the future of the administration center.

1987's citizen

The Passage-Gayde Post 391, The American Legion, honored several Plymouth citizens at its 18th Annual "Recognition Night" May 23.

This year's "Citizen of the Year" honor was given to Helen Range. Range is the driver of the Tonquish Manor senior citizen van.

Plymouth Mayor William Robinson read a proclamation for Range which explained why she was chosen Citizen of the Year. Part of the proclamation reads:

"Whereas, Helen Range has been the Senior Van Driver for eight years, four months and 10 days; and

Whereas, during that period she has driven 130,000 miles, used 16,424 gallons of gas and transported 43,964 seniors; and

Whereas, only a small proportion of the seniors have been lost, mislaid or taken to incorrect destinations; and

Whereas, her daily runs range from the beauty shop during a twelve-inch snowfall to the Cloverdale/Box Bar lunch bunch; and

Whereas, her emergencies have included lending money to seniors who have left their wallets behind to transporting sick puppies to the vet . . .

Helen Range was named the Citizen of the Year by The Passage-Gayde Post 391 - American Legion May 23. Also honored during the presentation were several local service people, business people and industrial people. (Crier photo by Kelly Sauter)

Also honored were: Lt. Robert Commire, Plymouth City Policeman of the Year; Jamie Pioch, Plymouth Township Policewoman of the Year; Robert Degen, Plymouth City Fireman

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Graduation is an exciting time. It's a time for proms, parties and all kinds of celebrations as you go through honors convocation, baccalaureate and commencement.

As my son prepares for graduation, a lot of thoughts have been running through my mind. First is the shock of realizing that my baby is grown up and will soon be leaving home. Where have all the years gone? It couldn't have been that long ago that he climbed the school bus steps and was off to his first day of school. I remember that mischievous smile looking out the bus window, as I stood at the curb with tears streaming down my face.

He was such a cute kid with blond hair and big blue eyes, and always moving. Being one of the youngest and shortest kids in his class, he was far from the star on the basketball team, but that didn't stop him from trying.

I remember when he used to leave for school earlier than his big sister so he and Katie could walk to school together without being teased. He must have been in second or third grade at the time.

Following in his sisters foot steps was not always easy for the kid — unless he was chasing after her with a baseball bat. His bossy sister always had friends over or was planning to go somewhere, while he had to sit home and try to interfere with her plans as much as possible.

He was a quiet and shy kid in school and around people he didn't know. I remember being surprised when he told me about a teacher questioning him about something written in the newspaper. He said, "don't worry mom, I simply stood up and told him my mom worked for the paper not me."

Something has happened over the last few years. The shortest kid in class grew up. His hair has turned a little darker, but he still has the same dimples that show up everytime he laughs. The most amazing change is the sister who was once his worst enemy has now become one of his best friends.

Well Kid, I guess I can't think of you as my baby anymore. Yesterday when you walked into the room with your cap and gown on I had trouble controlling the tears, and I'm sure the tears will flow when you walk across the stage to receive your diploma.

Always remember Ron, I love you and I'm very proud of you.

Congratulations to the Class of '87! You are a great group of students and I hope to write about all of you and your special achievements over the next couple of years.

A reminder to students and parents, the senior party will be held Sunday, June 7 at Salem High School from 9 p.m. to 4 a.m. It is a closed party, open to 1987 C.E.P. graduates ONLY.

I hope everyone in the Plymouth-Canton School District realizes how lucky we are to have special events like this for our students. A big thank you to all the parents who worked hard to make this a fun senior party.

Students from Canton receiving advanced degrees from EMU are: Evdokia Chrisoulakis of Chadwick, MA; Lorna Durand of Kingsbridge, SpA; Terrance Hallett of Pittsford, MBA; Timothy Knopf of Brooke Park Drive, MA; Nicholas Kussy Jr. of Princess, MS; Gerald Neigh of Georgetown Road, MBA; Paul Pelchat of Kaiser, MS; and Eric Timson of Rand, MBA.

Plymouth students included on the list are: Linda Belvins of Ford Street, MA; Joyce Eaton of Ann Arbor Trail Court, MS; Leon Hanson of Nantucket, MA; Monda Kolackj of Farmbrook, MA; Francis Snyder of Lindsay, MA; Suzanne Steele of Portsmouth Crossing, MA; Kyle Stinar of Bellwood, MA; and John Stokes of Shadywood Drive, MA.

Travel TALK
FROM Emily's
World

TRAVEL, LTD.

Emily Guettler

KENYA, AFRICA

Kenya is the land of safari and wildlife, of the proud Masai tribe, and of the dramatic stories of Hemingway. It is a land of vast game reserves where you hunt animals with a camera. You'll be able to stand on the equator with one foot in each hemisphere.

Visitors to Nairobi are always surprised at how large it is and how modern. At Treetops, one can watch the wild animals as they come to drink at the waterhole. You will marvel at the Masai Mara Reserve, one of the world's best sanctuaries. Some 450 species of birds live in its 1,800 square miles and about 95 species of mammals. Elephants and rhinos are predominant in Amboseli Park with the spectacular snow-capped Mt. Kilimanjaro in the background. In Samburu, Kenya's most exotic game reserve, there is an abundance of wildlife and you will also meet the handsome Samburu tribespeople.

Seeing and experiencing life in another part of the world is an adventure you'll treasure the rest of your life.

Over 30 years experience assures you of the finest travel service available. And, best of all, THERE IS NO CHARGE TO YOU FOR OUR SERVICES. We are reimbursed in commission fees by the airlines and hotels, ships and resorts that we book.

More Within

We hold on to the moments
Though they all just slip away
To what else can we grasp
When we've been led astray?

Wishing that just once
All would crystalize
As darkness veils the night
Before your eyes

The stirring of the dust
Reveals the ghost of wind
And invisible, still
I see so much more within

Love provides the shelter

By ELAINE BELZ

You have been abandoned by the people you trusted and loved — those you'd thought loved you. You run along in the cold rain in search of food and shelter. Suddenly you see a flash of light, hear a loud screech, then see nothing but blackness . . .

Phyllis Schlames, founder of an animal rescue organization near Brighton, Michigan, began taking in animals when she hit a dog one day on her way to work. She wanted to help the dog, but found that there was no help. She knew the Humane Society would put the dog to sleep, and she realized that the only way to help this dog was to care for it herself. And she's been caring for homeless animals for seventeen years.

Presently, Schlames cares for between ninety and one-hundred dogs, and over one-hundred cats. Most of the animals she receives have been injured — hit by a car, shot, or caught in a trap. Some are given to her by former owners who for some reason can no longer keep their pet. Some are also brought to her by the police.

But what does she do with these animals? First, she takes them to a veterinarian to be sure all injuries are taken care of and all necessary shots are given. Then she tries to find homes for the pets. If all else fails, she keeps them. "As long as they're alive and so am I," she laughs.

Schlames is fairly picky about the homes to which she releases animals. She has a legally binding form, requiring the owner to properly care for the pet, making sure it is spayed or neutered. The prospective owner must also have a good history with pets.

Of course, an organization such as this cannot be run without money. Schlames reports that she provides most of her own finances — approximately two-thirds. The rest of the money comes in from donations. She states that while money donations really are the best way to help out, a person wishing to offer their assistance could also volunteer services, donate items such as blankets or towels, or even help out by collecting stars from Gaines dog food, for which the company will refund money.

It seems that the best way to solve the problem of homeless animals is to prevent it. Schlames holds that this could be achieved if pet owners would have their pets spayed or neutered. This would avoid unwanted litters which are often dumped in the Humane Society or on a country road. Schlames estimates that of the ten thousand animals received by the Ann Arbor Humane Society, only one to two thousand ever find homes. The rest are put to sleep. The problem of homeless animals wouldn't be such a problem if pet owners would be a little more responsible and show a little more love.

Flowers of Light

Flowers of light,
Live in the sky.
A stem of smoke,
Petals of colored fire.

They rise from the ground,
And soar above the rooftops.

Bud, bloom, and die,
Until the next one rises.

Many flowers of light,
Lighting the sky.
Coloring the night,
On the Fourth of July.

The Crier's 1987 Student Collage

Enclosed in these few pages is a mere glimpse of the creative and artistic young minds of The Plymouth-Canton Community. Students from Salem, Canton and Plymouth Christian Academy all contributed to this special section which pays tribute to the student achievement of the past year.

Although there are samples of photography, poetry commercial art, water color, ink scratching, and painting there are also many other fine works that could not appear.

Many excellent short stories, creative writings and satarical essays had to be left out because of space limitations. To those who didn't get something published, we apologize.

We want to emphasize that this section is but a small reminder of what our students can do. It is not a contest, or award. And although there are many fine works within, there are also many, many fine works that could not appear.

About our cover

The cover of this year's Community Crier Student Collage special section was designed by COMMA, graphic designer Renee Grigorian. The cover was completed with several pieces of student art created this year by students from PCA and CEP.

Using a brick wall as a backdrop Renee framed; a photo by Cathy Grant, a poem by John Sutter, a watercolor by Heather Schlater and a pen drawing by Patty Williamson. The cover serves as the opening of The Plymouth-Canton Community's gallery of student art contained in this section.

The Crier staff would also like to take this opportunity to thank the teachers, students and parents who helped contribute to this section.

Miscellaneous

Piled high in my closet
were shoe boxes
filled with memories

Old toys,
a skate key,
a favorite doll,
kept for the memory.

Things from long forgotten times,
an old birthday card I kept because of the cute bear on it, things not many would save.

The faded box of roses
given by my first love.
Now I know why I kept these things.

You can't go back in time to remember the fun and love you had,
so I'll keep them in my boxes marked
miscellaneous.

Ripple mirror,
(Zen's perfect mind)
under the grace of movement.

Like weightless marble come to life,
the swan effortlessly glides upon the water.

With a gentle turn of her neck,
she slowly comes to rest.

The ripples
begin to fade . . .
Silent.
Still.
She waits.

She bows her head . . .
The water only
reflects her beauty
for a moment
before she moves again.

Ripples begin to send the pieces of the image off into the water ahead of her.
She remains.,

Bang . . .
 Rushing steps,
 Pushing girls,
 Pressing for the lead spot.
 Panting, gasping,
 to receive oxygen debt.
 A group of teammates urging me to beat the girl
 a step in front of me.
 Rustling leaves under my feet,
 my racing spikes
 scrape the frozen ground.
 Sweat runs from my hairline down my neck.
 A Coach shouts
 "We need this one."
 The girl and I share
 an unspoken threat.

I hear her gasp.
 Time for my move,
 sharp intake of breath,
 surge forward
 I hear her gasp, and
 I know I have her beat.
 Feelings of superiority take over surge more, press on.
 She wheezes and moans,
 I feel regret,
 but not enough,
 press forward.
 The crowd screams
 my finish is strong.
 I listen and hear the sound of pride.

Shapeless Illusions

Shapeless illusions dancing before me
I perceive them as they ascend
As each others image
The same to bear deaths burdens

Portraying corrupted life
To die is to release our souls
And be taken far away
Where fate has eluded itself

Though drifting beneath my eyes
Still always too far away
From colours beneath the skys
Awaiting us as we await

To turn and to walk away
Brings us closer still
Because we can not continue
What is not done by will

It's a strange world we live in.
 Where the Earth is round,
 But the world is flat.
 Where a sin
 Is everything.
 Where everything is something
 And anything is nothing.
 Where a man's best friend is a dog,
 But is man dog's best friend?
 Where death is a part of life,
 Is life a part of death?
 And I ask, is everyone a character,
 In an always ending story?
 No one will know.

The photograph of the nun dancing in an urban setting was taken by Kelly Riley. The commercial art of a perfume bottle was done by Tom Sherman.

THE STAGE

End of the song
one more note,
he cocks back his arms
and looks into the crowd
slight hesitation
while his mind and body are one.
A downward motion,

blood rushes to his wrist.
Smask,
Crash,
Splash,
vibrations jolt through his body.
Tingling sensations of relief
filter proudly from the musician's fingertips as he walks off the stage.

IF THE SHOE DOESN'T FIT . . .

There was an old lady who lived in a shoe,
And wouldn't you be blue if you did too?
The place was quite cramped and always a mess,
And ten little children caused the old lady distress.

The old lady was tired and searched for some peace;
A retreat, a vacation she could take for some weeks.
She went to her travel agent, charge card in hand,
Ready to take a fantastic voyage across the land.

And so she departed, so very upstated,
A bag and her walkman was all that she carted.
Her hotel was splendid, now fulfilled was one wish,
And she thought, "Oh, if only everyday could be like this."

The very next morning she went to the beach,
"A peach of a beach indeed!" thought she.
Along she walked when up on a hill,
Her attention was caught by a vacant landfill.

The spot was so beautiful, it really pleased her;
So she ran back to her room and called a realtor.
The realtor said, "Oh, you like that spot?"
Why, it's one of our best and believe it or not,

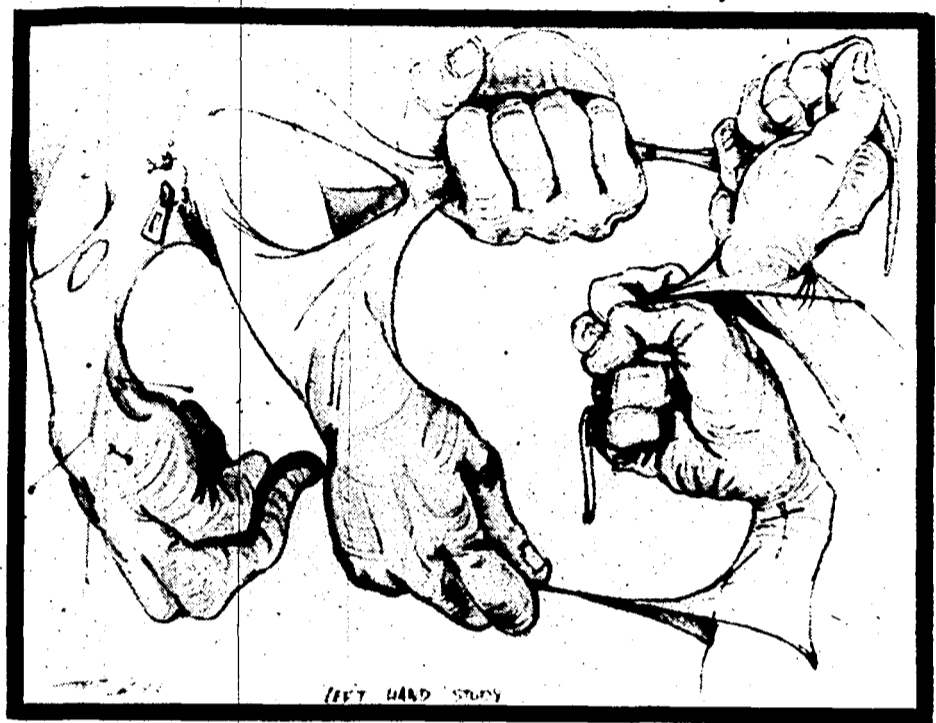

I'll sell it to you for a reasonable amount,
So whip out your cash and get ready to count!"
The lady made her purchase for two-hundred grand,
And she was now very eager to build on her land.

So she called the construction firm of Rajneesh and Gondo
Who came out and built her a lovely condo.
All work was now finished, her pad was all through,
And she sent a telegram back to the shoe.

The telegram stated how she'd contemplated,
And in her head had firmly debated
Whether she should not return to the shoe;
And so she decided this is what she would do.

She filed for divorce, took her husband to court,
Soaked him for half his assets plus child support.
And so she found peace, 'twas what she'd been after,
The old lady in the shoe lived happily ever after.

Getting down to business

Cookies by the jarfull

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Cookies. You loved them as kid, and you still love them today.

Now there is a new place in Plymouth where you can get fresh baked cookies without driving out to one of the malls.

It's Aunt Clara's Cookies, one of the new businesses popping up in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Cindy Burgess and Peter Gade opened this new cookie place on Ann Arbor Trail next to the Arbor Health Building, recently celebrating their grand-opening on May 15.

Burgess and Gade have been working on their shop since February and they plan to open even more cookie shops.

Aunt Clara's Cookies is not confined to just cookies, as it carries a number of gourmet coffee beans, pop and ice cream.

Cindy Burgess recently opened Aunt Clara's Cookie Shop in downtown Plymouth with Peter Gade. She left work in a dentist's office for a sweeter line of work. (Crier photo by Marty Tungate)

Burgess, a one-time dental hygienist, said "I just got tired of that and I love to bake."

"We wanted to have more than just chocolate chip cookies," Burgess added.

Aunt Clara's also offers a number of differently flavored cookies, and a special cookie of the month.

People in business

Robert Van Poppelen, of Canton, has been awarded McDonald's Corporation 1987 President's Award for outstanding service to the company and its customers. Award ceremonies were held at McDonald's Home Office in Oak Brook, IL on May 15.

Van Poppelen, 32, started 14 years ago as a crew person at a McDonald's in Saginaw. Since 1973, he has been promoted more than seven times, with his last promotion to Field Service Manager in February.

Daniel Hershberger, of Plymouth, was recently honored by the Creative Advertising Club of Detroit at its 13th Annual Caddy Awards Presentation, held May 1 at Ford Auditorium in Detroit.

Hershberger received a Silver Caddy award for his work on the Jules R. Schubot Jewelry Catalogue.

Silver Caddy awards are presented to individuals for entries determined to be outstanding in their category, which in this case was specialty, product group or individual product line catalogs.

In addition to his work as an independent graphic designer and art director, Hershberger is also an assistant professor of graphic design at the Center for Creative Studies -- College of Art and Design in Detroit.

Richard Moyer, of Plymouth and Kumar Kachhal, of Canton, were recently promoted to the rank of full professor with tenure at the University of Michigan -- Dearborn.

Moyer is a professor of science education at UM-D, while Kachhal is a professor of industrial and systems engineering.

Samir Mashni, of Canton, has been appointed to a one-year term on the Detroit -- Wayne County Community Mental Health Board.

The board consists of 12 members who have the responsibility of providing mental health services throughout Wayne County.

Plymouth 'Y' run slated for June 21

Runners take your mark, the 8th annual Plymouth 'Y' Run is slated for Sunday, June 21 in downtown Plymouth.

The event includes three races, a one-mile run/walk, a five-kilometer event and a 10-kilometer race. The first two races start at 8 a.m. on that Sunday, with the 10-kilometer event set for 8:45 a.m.

All three races begin at Kellogg Park. The course covers most of the residential and business areas of downtown Plymouth and along Main Street.

The cost is $5 for the one-mile run/walk and $8 for each of the five and 10-kilometer events before the day of the race. The cost includes a t-shirt.

Runners can also sign-up on race day. The cost is $6 for the one-mile event and $10 for each of the five and 10-kilometer events.

Ribbons will be awarded to all one-mile runners, while trophies will be given to first, second and third places overall (both male and female) in all three races.

Singles net tourney

The 2nd annual Singles Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, is slated for July 10-12 at Canton High's tennis courts.

The event is open to residents ages 14 and under, 15-18, and 19 and over. Trophies will be awarded to the winner and the runner-up in each of those age brackets.

The fee is $4 per person. Registration deadline is 5 p.m., Wednesday, July 8.

Each participant must furnish a new can of USTA approved tennis balls for each match. (New balls go to the winner). USTA rules apply at all times, and each match will be best of three sets.

Participants who play on Friday, July 10 at 6 p.m. will be notified on Thursday, July 9. Saturday check-in time is 8:30 a.m.

To register make a check payable to: Canton Township, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd., Canton, 48188.

Call 397-5110 for further registration and tournament information.

Medals will also be presented to the first, second and third places in all ages divisions of the five and 10-kilometer races.

Refreshments will be available, and there will be other prizes as well.

To enter send a check or money order payable to: Plymouth YMCA, Plymouth YMCA Annual Run, 248 Union St., Box. 134, Plymouth, 48170.

Call 453-2904 for further details.

Coaches meeting set

Michigan Special Olympics, the state's sports program for the mentally impaired, will host a training school for volunteer softball coaches on Saturday, June 20 at the Canton Softball Center in Canton.

The training school will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is open to any resident interested in coaching Special Olympians in softball.

Ross at home in the skies

BY MICHAEL BLEDSOE

The life of an United States Air Force pilot, as 1st Lt. Mark Ross tells it, is not all silk scarves and ticker-tape parades.

After four years in the U.S. Air Force Academy, countless hours of flight planning, and hundreds of wonderful hours in the air Ross says, he's learned that the public's perception of the dashing lone rebel of the skies is a myth.

"We don't just go up there pulling G's and shooting down Russians. . . There is lots of work to do and it's very competitive," Ross said. "We don't work nine to five hours, we work any and all hours."

Ross, a 1980 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, and 1st Lt. Larry Echanis flew a T-37 into the area last weekend to participate in the local Yankee Air Force's Memorial Day Observance at Willow Run Air Force.

Ross, 25, who bears more than a passing resemblance to "Top Gun" star Tom Cruise, seemed at home on this seemingly infinite concrete horizon. Standing among the bubbled cockpits, and galvanized grey fuselages, Ross exudes a subtle self assurance that seems as certain and protective as any guardian angel.

This interest in flight, Ross said, developed when he first flew at age 16.

"Ever since I started to fly I knew that's what I wanted to do," he said.

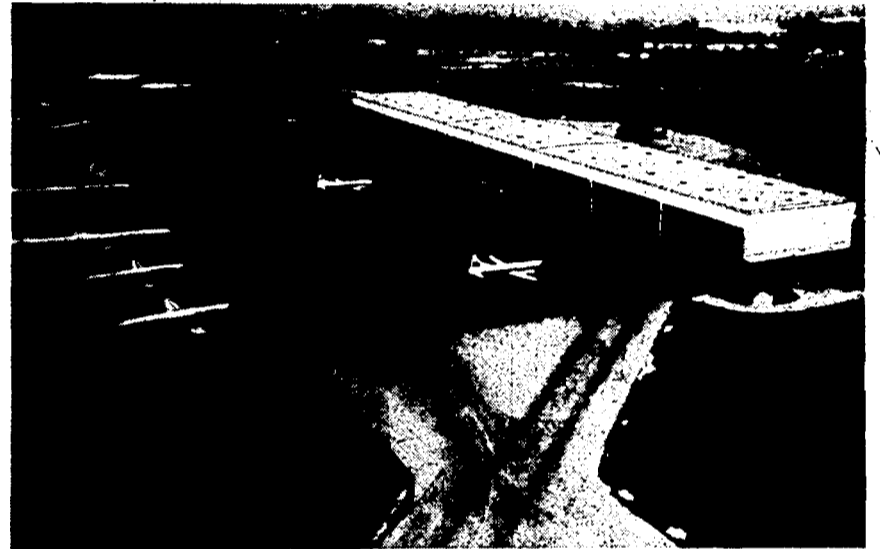

Stationed at Loring Air Force Base near Bangor, Maine, Ross is currently flying KC-135's, which are used for mid-air refueling. When asked if he would like to fly fighters in the future, Ross said if the opportunity arose he would take it "in a heartbeat."

Ross said he had one of the most interesting aviation experiences when he flew his first solo.

"This happened when I was in pilot training," he said. "I heard this loud pop right as I was about to land and my radio stopped working."

Because of the radio failure, Ross said he was unable to give the regulation gear-down call to the runway supervisory unit. Two red warning flares roared over the young pilot's head.

"You kinda hope everything goes normal-normal during your first solo flight," Ross said, smiling in retrospect.

Luckily a working back-up radio made the next pass a successful one, and Ross landed safely.

Kickers win state crown in the heat

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's girls soccer team has accomplished what it set out to do all season — win the Class A state soccer championship.

The Rocks dumped defending state champions Livonia Churchill, 2-1, at Northville High Saturday to earn the right to call themselves number one in the state.

Salem advanced to the state finals by beating Midland Chemie, 3-0, earlier last week.

The fans came pouring into Northville's football stadium to watch Churchill and Salem slug it out for the state title.

Churchill got things going early, as it pushed the ball up fast against the Rocks defense.

Ellen Schnackel, Salem's goaltender stopped two shots before Charger Kris Schultz knocked the ball by the Rock goalie.

"I didn't think they would score so quickly on us," Salem head coach Ken Johnson said.

"We wanted to score early. We had not scored that much all year, and we needed to get on the board early," Churchill coach Nick O'Shea said.

The Churchill goal came only two minutes and 11 seconds into the contest.

But the Rocks would not roll over and die.

They came roaring back and applied all kinds of pressure to the Chargers, before tying the game only 43 seconds after Churchill had scored.

The Salem goal came on a throw-in by senior Jennifer Belhart. Belhart tossed the ball from the sidelines to near the center of the field where sophomore Jill Estey stood.

Estey took the throw-in and headed it into the Charger net. It was Estey's 32nd goal on the year.

"We were a little surprised that Salem came back so quickly," O'Shea said.

Salem again started to apply a great deal of pressure on the Chargers, and again the ball was knocked out of bounds.

P-C Community goes bonkers over soccer squad

BY KEN VOYLES

The Plymouth-Canton Community was bubbling with excitement Monday and Tuesday over the Class A soccer crown Salem's girls team won on Saturday.

The excitement level registered well into the seven or eights on the Richter scale and many school officials, students, parents and fans reacted as a proud father might when seeing his newborn daughter delivered.

It was a stunning win over the defending champion Chargers from Livonia Churchill Saturday.

The community was excited.

And why not? It's been 12 long years since a team from Salem or Canton has captured a Class A state championship.

"They aren't easy to come by," said Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent John M. Hoben, referring to Class A titles. "I think it's an excellent testimony to the quality of the program. The players and coach are to be commended."

Hoben added that the win "puts us on the map, doesn't it?" when it comes to top soccer teams in the state.

The halls at Salem "bubbled over" with pride on Monday, said Paul Cummings, athletic director for the two Centennial Educational Park (CEP) teams.

"Their win was the ultimate," he continued. "It's such a fantastic victory."

Cummings, Salem principal Gerald

Ostoin and Salem athletic manager Gary Balconi, said they were investigating the possibility of honoring the girls sometime before the end of the school year.

On Monday, the public address system at Salem blared the news to students who may not have heard it over the weekend.

"I just think it's great," Ostoin said. "They deserved to win. They worked family. Bill wore a Plymouth High Class of 1952 hat to screen the sun.

The Bohl's both graduated from old Plymouth High, Bill in 1950 and his wife in 1952. They remain Plymouth residents to this day.

"We're friends of the Minton family," said Bill Bohl, "but we're also fans, that's for sure."

With time running out near the end of the game, Salem's fans took over the cheering, before counting down the final seconds of the game.

They then tried to reach the field and their new found heroes, but were prevented by the organizers of the event until after the trophy ceremony.

But Kim Johnson, wife of Salem's coach Ken Johnson, did make it onto the field.

"That was a well deserved win," she said after carrying the state trophy around the bench area over her head. "I did that at the regionals and the districts. This is just great for the team and the school."

Linda Estey, mother of one of Salem's hottest stars, Jill Estey, waited along the field's fence with the other fans during the trophy ceremony.

"I'm really happy for Jill," she said, "and for the whole team. This is exciting for the school and the community."

Larry King, Johnson's assistant coach this year and father of Teri King, said, "This is the ultimate. We have one hard working group of girls."

When the ceremony ended Salem's team made its way en masse to the coolers near their bench. Some poured ice over their heads, others soaked their necks with water, and still others downed cans of Mountain Dew or Gatorade.

One Salem player was heard to say, "I just wanna go to sleep for a couple of hours."

That's how exhausting the 80-minute battle with the Chargers had been.

The two teams, who appeared equal in many ways, fought for every little advantage that might make the difference in the heat.

Salem may have found that advantage by erecting a "Rocks blue" tarp over their bench to help block the glaring sun.

"The tarp was great. It gave the girls a little shade when they were taking a break from the game," Ken Johnson said. His assistant coach, King, came up with the idea.

"I thought the tarp really helped us out," one Salem player said.

So while Churchill's players rested under the hot sun, the Rocks had at least a small piece of shade to call their own.

hard for it. I couldn't be happier.

"This is good for the school," he added.

"It is a wonderful victory," Balconi said. "It's great for a whole series of people, for the soccer program, for the coach, for the students.

"This is a great honor for the school," he added.

At the Monday night Board of Education workshop, Board President E.J. McClendon interrupted the meeting to announce the victory and suggest the administration prepare a resolution to be read at a regular meeting.

Hoben responded that a resolution had been drafted and would be read at the Monday, June 8 meeting when formal congratulations will be conducted.

"It's a fabulous accomplishment, and it doesn't surprise me a bit," said McClendon. "They played like a team and were very well coached."

Board Vice-President David Artley said, "The kids sure learned well how to play the game as a team. I think that, and their conditioning on that hot day, says a lot about the coaching as well."

Ken Johnson, Salem's veteran coach, said the win was great for the players and the program as well.

"This is the ultimate," said his assistant coach Larry King and father of player Teri King.

Johnson's wife, Kim Johnson, added, "It does a lot for a school. You just can't do anything more for your school than win everything."

Class A state titles hard to come by

BY KEN VOYLES

It's been 12 years since a varsity athletic team from Salem or Canton High won a Class A state championship, but the drought ended Saturday when the Salem's girls soccer team beat Livonia Churchill, 2-1, for the state crown.

And a new chapter of community sports history was written.

The last time one of the two high schools produced an outright state championship team was back in 1975 when the Salem baseball squad took home a Class A crown.

Since then other teams have come close -- especially Salem's girls and boys basketball teams and Canton's baseball team -- without reaching the very pinnacle of high school athletics.

Individual athletes (at both schools) have won numerous state titles over the years.

On the very same day the Rocks won their championship, Angie Miller, a Canton high jumper, leaped to an individual Class A title during the state track and field competition.

And there have been other titles, including a 1976 computer "paper playoff" which gave Salem top golf honors. But that title wasn't claimed on the field.

Before that the Rocks did win a golf title the hard way back in 1973. The school's football team also won a computer playoff which ranked the Rocks number one in the state.

Canton has yet to produce a Class A state championship team. Nonetheless, the school still has its Millers.

Salem's drive to the state title began seven years ago when a girls soccer squad was first added to the list of sports available to high school athletes.

"We've worked for this for seven years," Salem's head coach Ken Johnson said after the game. The veteran coach has been with the program since its inception.

By the start of the 1987 campaign Johnson was confident enough to predict his team would be a state contender. The young squad (only two starting seniors) came through like true champions, winning conference, district, regional and state titles.

"I was right," Johnson said during the celebration of his team's triumph. "I predicted it."

But few would have predicted it would take 12 long years for one of the high schools to win another Class A state title.

Estey named to all-state kick team

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Both the Salem's (and Canton's) girls soccer teams have plenty to be proud of this year.

For Salem, a state championship. And for Canton, a fine season, when its club earned everyone's respect.

And for both schools a number of players who earned honors - all-division, all-conference, and all-state honors.

Salem sophomore Jill Estey was named to the Class A All-State team on a unanimous vote. Estey was the only player this year to win unanimous honors. That automatically makes her a member of the All-Midwest soccer team.

Estey was also an all Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) conference player this spring.

Salem senior Lisa Hysko was named to the All-WLAA conference team, while teammate senior Nicole Stojeba was also named to the all-conference team.

Canton had one member of it's team named to the Western all-division WLAA team. Cheryl Nippa was the lone member named to the division team.

Salem also had one member of its team named to the Lakes all-division WLAA team. That was freshman Michelle Minton.

Honorable mentions to the all-division teams were Shannon Meath, Renee Rice, Jenny Saul, and Jenny Russell from Canton.

Honorable mentions to the all-division team from Salem were, Teri King, Rachel Thiet, Jennifer Belhart, and Tracy Krajewski.

Rocks take it all!

Second thoughts

By Janet Armstrong

The ultimate event in a high school athlete's career is competing in the state championships.

Athletes strive for this all the way through junior high and high school, when you compete in the state championship it means you're one of the best.

My competing in the Class A state track meet is something that will live on in my memory for the rest of my life, even though my performance was far from exceptional.

Last Saturday morning I was snug asleep in my bed. Having been up very late Friday night, I was bushed.

That's when I heard the phone ring. Who could be calling at 8:46 a.m.?

My sister ran into my room and told me I qualified for the state meet.

To qualify for the state meet you had to have high-jumped 5 feet 2 inches or come in first or second in the regional meet held at Eastern Michigan's track.

Since I missed tying second place due to misses, and since I came in third place I was more than a little surprised.

Anyway my sister came in and told me I was qualified, and that my coach was on the phone. So I jumped out of bed to the phone where I was told to get up to Alma college as soon as possible.

I ended up getting to Alma just as they were moving the high-jump bar from 5 feet 1 inch to 5 feet 4 inches, and although I missed all three attempts at 5 feet 1 inch it was a experience that will live on forever.

Not to mention that my high-jumping teammate was crowned state champion after beating out defending champion Cherri Johnson from Redford Bishop Borgess.

I had almost as much fun cheering for her as I would have if it was me that was receiving that medal.

I'll probably feel just as happy for Angie Miller when she goes off to Budapest, Hungary with a state championship under her belt, to compete against such teams as Russia, and Czechoslovakia.

Which is something Angie will never forget.

So to all who have reached their goals on and off the field. Congratulations!

Miller leaps to 1st in state HJ

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Angie Miller, a junior high jumper from Canton, captured a Class A individual state title Saturday at the Class A State Finals held at Alma College.

ANGIE MILLER

Miller, who took first at the Class A regional held at Eastern Michigan University, beat out defending state champion Cherri Johnson of Redford Bishop Borgess to become the new state champion.

Twelve athletes cleared the opening height of five-feet one-inch, only three participants cleared the next height of five-feet, four-inches.

Miller cleared five-four on her first attempt, while her two opponnets failed to clear the height, making Miller the state champion.

Miller finished the day jumping five-feet, five-inches.

"It didn't hit me at first (being state champ)," said Miller, who has dreamed of winning such a title since eighth grade.

She added, "It feels great, when I first started track and field I never thought I'd go anywhere."

Not only was Miller excited but also was her teammates who came to see her jump.

"We're all proud of Angie, and glad she's on our team," said junior teammate Kara Haarala.

Miller's success won't end with a state title if she can help it. Miller will be competing in an international sports festival July 7, the event is being held in Budapest, Hungary.

"I'm confident and excited about going to Budapest," said Miller.

Bench strength wins it

Belhart made another throw-in again, this time towards junior Rachel Thiet. Thiet, like Estey, headed the ball by the Churchill goalie to give the Rocks a one goal lead.

Thiet's goal came only two minutes and 33 seconds after their last goal.

And that's all Salem would need, as the contest ended 2-1, with Salem on top.

The game was still filled with excitement, however, as the Rocks and the Chargers each attempted to score again, but both team's defenses were superb.

"Our defense played a super game. Ellen (Schnackel) did a great job in the net," Johnson said.

Churchill's goaltender Liz Monroe also played a solid game, keeping the Rocks out of net throughout the rest of the contest.

The game continued to go back and forth, but each time one of the teams made a move toward the net, the defense knocked back out to midfield.

"Jennifer Marshall, Nicole Stojeba, Maria Wordhouse, and everyone played great defense," Johnson added.

The temperature reached the 90's, and both teams had to make plenty of substitutions to keep fresh legs on the field.

"Salem had a better bench then we did. They can go five players into their bench before they start to lose anything," O'Shea said.

"I told the girls before the game, that they would only be seeing 15-20 minutes at time," Johnson said.

The Rocks also had one more advantage over the Chargers, they brought a tarp to shade the girls when they were not in the game, while the Chargers sat in the hot and humid sun.

"I thought it would be a good idea to try and keep the girls cool," Salem assistant Larry King said.

The Rocks held off a late surge by the Chargers and won for the first time in the history of the Salem soccer program.

"I told you we'd do it. I told you I told you," an elated Johnson said after the game. Before the season began, Johnson predicted that his team would win a state title.

"Awesome," was the comment coming from most of the Salem players.

"This was the best moment of my life," Salem senior Lisa Hysko said.

"Salem played a great game, they were always one step ahead of us," O'Shea said.

As they were with the rest of the teams they faced this year. The Rocks end the season with a 17-2-2 record along with conference, district, regional and state crowns.

Rock baseball squad wins district title

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Salem's boys baseball team had what you might call a great offensive day on Saturday.

The Rocks beat the Walled Lake Central Vikings, 17-5, and then knocked off rival Canton, 8-1, to win a Class A district title.

The game was called in the fifth due to the mercy rule.

Salem dominated the game from start to finish, scoring 12 runs in the first inning even before Central had a turn at bat.

Tim Dowd hit a grand slam home run in the first. Adding to that were a two-run homer from Andy Gee, and solo shots from Todd Marion and Bob Files. Marion's blast was his eighth of the season.

Fidel Cashero was the starting pitcher, he went the distance for the Rocks.

Salem coach John Gravlin capitalized on the score by resting his starting players out of the heat.

"Our bench played well," said Gravlin.

the win against the Vikings advanced the Rocks into the district final against cross-campus rival Canton.

Marion was the starting pitcher for the Rocks giving up four runs, walking two (they came in the first), and striking out eight.

Salem won the game, 8-1.

In the first, Canton had two walks and a hit but failed to capitalize on them.

Salem on the other hand started off the game right. Tim Dowd had a two run home run in the first. Then Jerry Sumner homered in both the second and the third innings for Salem.

Steve Waite scored the lone Canton run off a homer in the sixth inning.

According to Gravlin, Sumner had his best game of the season against the Chiefs.

The Rocks will now face the Livonia Franklin Patriots Saturday, June 6, in Wyandotte, in the first round of the Class A regionals.

Game time is 12:30 p.m. If Salem wins they will face either Taylor Kennedy or Redford Catholic Central later in the afternoon for the regional title.

The Rocks are 1-1 against the Patriots this season.

"We didn't play well against them in the regular season," Gravlin admitted.
