

Two with P-C ties perish in Northwest DC-9 crash

BY DAVID PIERINI

A Canton man and a former Canton resident were among 158 people killed when a Northwest Airlines DC-9 enroute to Phoenix crashed shortly after takeoff from Detroit Metro Airport in Romulus Sunday night.

Harold Brown, 51, of Canton, and 25-year-old Carolyn D'Angelo, formerly of Canton, were among the dead on the ill-fated Flight 255, which originated from Saginaw.

Brown, a roofing consultant for Construction Consultants, Inc. of Detroit, was going to Phoenix on business. D'Angelo, of Phoenix, was visiting her family in Plymouth. She was the girlfriend of Phoenix Suns basketball center Nick Vanos, who also died in the crash.

A Suns' spokesman said Vanos and his girlfriend came to the area after he completed a basketball summer session.

Brown, an Air Force veteran with over 20 years of service, was remembered by friends as a man with an infectious smile and a fondness for children.

Vote on Tuesday

Canton board to vote on superintendent

BY DAN NESS

Thwarted by state and county elections officials who deemed an advisory vote "improper," the Canton Board of Trustees will vote on the implementation of a superintendent form of township administration at its Tuesday, Aug. 25 meeting.

The vote comes almost exactly two years after the date the four trustees — Robert Padget, Stephen Larson, Loren Bennett and John Preniczky — proposed the change.

Since then, an implementation study has been completed and a proposed citizen advisory vote scrapped. The board is not required to put the issue to a public vote.

The board will also vote Aug. 25 on a measure to reduce the treasurer's and clerk's positions to part-time status.

Under the superintendent system, the supervisor's position would become part-time, while the full-time superintendent would be responsible for the day-to-day operations of the township. The supervisor would still have a vote at board meetings, while

Holy cow! 5,000 teacher applications

BY KEN VOYLES

Look at all the teachers that want to work in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

There's at least 5,000 of them on file in the personnel office at the Board of Education Office on Harvey Street. Five thousand teacher applications, filling more than 15 giant horizontal files. Enough to nearly swamp the department and keep a fulltime secretary business 20 hours a week.

"I love it, love it. So many teachers want to work here. It's great," Norman Kee, assistant superintendent for personnel, said. "We have a great number of applications. We're not a typical district in that sense."

But even with bulging files, Kee is constantly on the look out for "stars" — outstanding teachers that might help make a good academic program a great one.

"I don't want to give the impression there is no use applying in Plymouth," he said. "We might miss the stars that way."

In fact, Kee would rather be overwhelmed with applications than not have enough to choose from.

"It's a tremendous function to keep the files up to date and very important," he said. "It's one of those hidden jobs that no-one gives much thought too."

One of Kee's secretaries, Karen Stemberger, spends at least 15-20 hours week updating the files, checking to see if applicants want to remain active, sorting out the inactive files, and tracking down the "sort of" files.

At the present time the district has "roughly" 3,000 teacher applications in the active file, another 300-1,000 in the "sort of" file and another 2,000 or Meijer issue up in Twp.

BY DAVID PIERINI

Turning down a proposed Meijer store that would be located at Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads would make Plymouth Township vulnerable for a lawsuit, the planning commission said Monday night.

But they also told the 100 or so residents crammed into township hall that if they petition the township board for a special election, the property could be used for recreational purposes.

A petition drive would force the commission to take another look at the viability of a 195,000 square-foot shopping complex. The planning commission is expected to table the issue another 30 or 60 days at tonight's meeting.

An application that would change the area from industrial zoning to

Probationers work off the record

BY DAVID PIERINI

There were better things 18-year-old Scott Mazey could find to do with his day. But the two-day work detail assigned to him by 35th District Court was better than a criminal record, he said.

Mazey is one of 200 probationers Plymouth Township has utilized for general maintenance of township grounds.

The average work assignment for a probationer is two to five days, and takes the place of a maximum misdemeanor penalty.

"Most of them committed misdemeanors," said Plymouth Township Police Deputy Chief Chip Snider. "Drunk driving, larceny under $100, things like that.

"It's a nice option and a productive way to serve a sentence. Plus, the township benefits from a labor force giving to us that provides a service we don't have the manpower for."

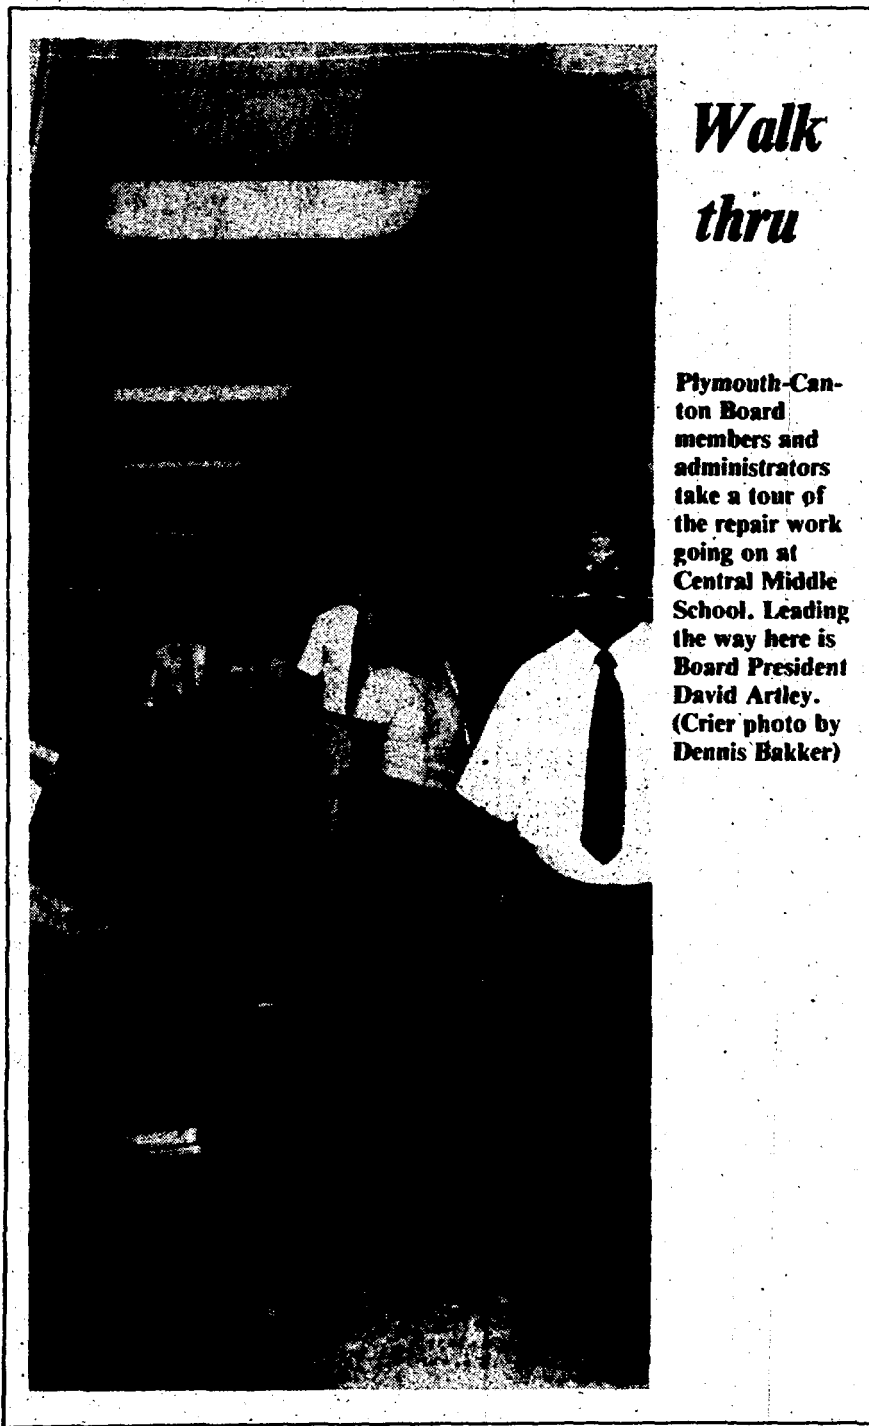

Plymouth Township has received over 4,000 hours of "free work" since the beginning of the year. Probationers are assigned duties such as washing police vehicles, fire equipment cleaning and interior cleanup of the township facility.

They also assist the parks and recreation department with such tasks as weeding, painting, and general cleaning of park debris.

"We have a paid cleaning crew that comes in twice a week, but the place needs cleaning every day," Snider said. "They're not taking away anybody's job, but (the program) is a money saver."

Mazey is working off a trespassing ticket, which will wipe his record clean and save him a little money.

"Three of my friends got tickets," said Mazey, mopping a fire station floor. "They paid the full price of the ticket ($240), and now they've got a record."

Contract talks speed up

Contract talks between bargaining units representing the educational aides and the transportation workers, and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are continuing as the first day of classes in the district draws ever closer.

The previous contract for both union groups expired on June 30.

The unions, which represent 142 educational aides and 70 bus drivers, have been working since that date with an open ended contract extension.

That extension takes a three-day notice to cancel, said Walter Bartnick, the district's administrative assistant for employee relations.

Bartnick said the two parties will continue to seek a new contract even as school starts. He said he did not expect the two unions to disrupt classes.

So far the school district and the educational aides union have met four times. "They have an abundance of proposals," said Bartnick. "At the present time we're evaluating each one."

There has been only one meeting so far between the transportation workers bargaining unit the school district, said Bartnick. At that time the union presented its proposal to the district.

"It's just too early to really discuss where we stand," Bartnick said.

Swartzwelter suggests employe drug testing

BY KEN VOYLES

Dean Swartzwelter surprised some board watchers at the last regular meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education when he announced he'd like the district to look into employe drug testing.

"I'm talking about pre-employment drug testing," the board treasurer said. "I just want to put that on my list of things to consider."

Swartzwelter made it clear to those at the meeting that he wanted to study drug testing for new employes and not for those already working in the district.

Swartzwelter also made it clear he would want the program tied with the district's Employee Assistance Program.

That program has been around for two years. It is designed to help district employes who may have a variety of personal problems such as alcohol or drug abuse.

It is set up for short term help, with referrals available for those who may have a major problem and need special treatment, at a rehab center for example.

The district does not currently have a mandatory drug testing policy, he added. Most new employes do have to take some kind of physical, however.

District 'good' place to work survey reveals

BY KEN VOYLES

A majority of employes who work in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district find it a "good place to work."

That was one of the major findings of a survey conducted by Project Outreach of the Michigan Board of Education earlier this summer, said Kathy Feaster, coordinator of opinion research.

Eighty-seven per cent of the 647 fulltime employes that responded to the survey said they were "proud" to work in the district. Another 86 per cent said the district was a "good place to work."

The majority of those who responded were from the district's instructional staff. Others who took part in the survey included support staff (everything from administrators to maintenance personnel).

Among the "biggest problems" identified by those who were surveyed included lack of communication, class sizes, inadequate facilities and supervisory quality.

In other findings, 50 per cent of those who responded said they thought their wages were equal to or better than those in other districts.

Another 71 per cent felt work conditions in the district were equal to or better than other school districts.

Fifty-eight per cent of those surveyed thought morale was good throughout the district.

Of those surveyed 56 per cent have worked in the district for 10 years or more. Eighty-three per cent of the support staff who responded are residents of the district, while another 49 per cent of the instructional staff live in the community.

Canton man faces marijuana smuggling charges

BY DAN NESS

A Canton man charged with flying marijuana into the country from Columbia between 1976 and 1983 was arraigned Friday in U.S. District Court.

Jeffrey Hubbard, 30, of Twining Court in Canton, faces charges of conspiring to possess with intent to distribute marijuana and conspiring to import marijuana, according to Richard Hoglund, special agent in charge for the U.S. Customs Service in Detroit.

Hubbard was arrested Aug. 5 at his home by U.S. Customs agents, Hoglund said. Hubbard was one of 10 men arrested in connection with a marijuana smuggling ring, and one of two men from Michigan arrested, Hoglund said.

"I don't think that there's any doubt, while it was active, that this was one of the largest marijuana smuggling organizations in the state," Hoglund said.

Hubbard stood mute for the arraignment and a "not guilty" plea was entered for him, according to Robert Kalec, assistant U.S. Attorney who is leading the prosecution in the case. Hubbard was released after posting 10 per cent of the $75,000 bond, Kalec said. "If all 10 defendants go to trial, I'd expect a two or three week trial," Kalec said.

"This is an extremely old case," said Gail Benson, attorney for Hubbard. "The conduct alleged is years and years and years old."

Benson called actions by the U.S. Customs Service "unfair," in charging her client for alleged actions between 1976 and 1983. "I think it's incredible that they were allowed to continue after such a long time," she said. "It's an extraordinary disservice to the defendant."

Benson called her client "a regular guy," who now has "gainful employment" and a family.

Hoglund said the Customs Service would still go after others suspected in the smuggling ring, regardless of the length of time that has passed. "Given the opportunity and information and evidence, they're going to be subject to prosecution until the statute of limitations runs out," he said. "I think some of these people (arrested) considered themselves home free."

Hoglund said seven men were arrested last year in connection with the same marijuana smuggling ring. "Essentially, this is the second indictment in this case," he said. "We would anticipate seeing additional indictments in this case in the future."

Attorneys for the prosecution and defense will meet Aug. 20 to discuss motions to be entered. U.S. District Court Judge Richard Suhrheinrich will preside in the case. A court date has not yet been set.

'Common sense' resource revisions approved

BY KEN VOYLES

"Common sense" revisions have been made to the educational resources procedure which deals with complaints against controversial teaching materials in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District.

The revisions were approved last Monday night and became effective immediately.

"They certainly shouldn't create any controversy within the controversial materials procedure," said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction. "The changes are now official. I think they will be helpful.

"And I still believe the procedure is a sound one," he added. "It serves us and the complainant well."

Homes' office handled all of the teaching materials complaints last year. He said administrators throughout the district have been notified that the policy is now in effect.

The revised procedure includes two major changes:

- It affords the district's staff members the same opportunity to appeal a review committee's decision. The previous procedure allowed only the complainant to appeal if the review committee's decision went the other way.

- It allows the district two working weeks to convene a review committee. In the past, the timeframe was only sketchily outlined.

"The changes strength the whole idea of equity and fairness," said Homes.

The only other change made, said Homes, was to standardize a parental consent letter to be used by teachers who may have use controversial resources in their teaching syllabus.

The letter allows parents to keep their children from seeing or viewing a controversial resource, like the film "The Breakfast Club." Students exempted from that portion of the course must complete an alternative assignment provided as a part of the instruction package.

The letters must be sent to every parent in a class if the teaching resource has the potential to be controversial in nature. That includes any movies rated PG, PG-13 or R.

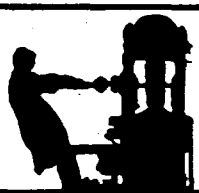

"If we don't get a letter back from a parent that student will automatically be given the alternative assignment," Homes said.

He added that review committee decisions would continue to be made available to the public once the committee had made its recommendations.

All previous complaints filed by Diane Daskalakis and the Citizens for Better Education (CBE) group have been dealt with and "brought to closure."

In spite of differences the group "allowed the procedure to work," said Homes. "We realized, though, that we needed to make some changes after what we went through last year. Despite it all there were some constructive parts (to the eight-month battle with Daskalakis)."

Superintendent form

A better system

The time for study, debate and scrutiny has come to an end in Canton.

The time to implement a township superintendent form of administration is here.

The system had been proposed two years ago. Since that time, studies have been performed, meetings have been held, and township business has gone on as usual.

With a township superintendent, township business should go on in a more efficient manner.

The Board of Trustees will be paying a full-time superintendent somewhere in the range of twice the salary of Supervisor James Poole, but the cost will be warranted with a more smooth running of township business. Also, if the board approves the reduction of the clerk and treasurer's salaries as it should, money will be saved there.

The question of implementing a township superintendent comes down to this: Is there a better way of administering the township? The four trustees have decided -- correctly -- that there is.

A full-time superintendent system will be able to concentrate more on the details of running the township. Opponents of the system charge that under the present supervisor system, the supervisor is accountable to no one other than Canton residents. They say that a superintendent will only be accountable to the voting majority of the board, removing that "key person one more step away from the public.

The flip side of that argument can be examined by looking at the workings of an elected top official versus an appointed top administrator. The supervisor in the present set-up can, technically, choose which board directives to execute. If the board votes to implement a policy the supervisor disagrees with, the supervisor may not act on that

P-C quality school district

Teacher applications say it all

A heck of a lot of K-12 teachers want to work in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District.

In fact, there are so many teaching applications on file -- nearly 5,000 of them -- that the personnel department has to store them in more than 15 giant file cabinets.

Not only that but a fulltime secretary spends more than half her time each week maintaining and updating the files.

Incredible. And, at first glance, discouraging for those men and women might want a career in teaching, especially a career teaching in Plymouth-Canton.

But Norm Kee, the assistant superintendent for personnel, likes having so many applications to choose from. That way he can find "stars" to teach here.

policy. The board is left powerless to force the action.

Under a superintendent system, the superintendent must follow through on the board majority's directives, or the board can fire the superintendent.

In either scenario, the board majority's directives are to be carried out. In only one scenario is there an absolute guarantee of that happening.

The trustees who proposed the superintendent system have constantly stressed that the change is not coming now because of any specific persons in office. The change is simply a better method of operating a community of 60,000, regardless of who happens to be in office now.

Canton residents voted for the board members to form public policy. Any system whereby the policy set by those citizens' representatives is short-circuited -- either by non-action or more subtle subterfuge -- is cheating those citizens of their representation.

Those who would fall back on the common platitude "If it's not broken, don't fix it," for their defense of the current system would be remiss in improving the accountability in government. Although Canton's wheel called township government may not be broken, there are certainly cases where it has squeaked.

Although a vote of the public would be the ideal situation in this case, that option has been ruled out by state and county elections officials. The next best option is to implement the system now.

The trustees will be voting 'yes' to implement the change on Tuesday in order to oil this squeaky wheel and make Canton's government work more smoothly.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

And he does his best not to discourage teachers from applying -- except elementary school teachers, of which there seems to be an overabundance.

So what does it all mean?

The desire by so many teachers to work here reflects the positive image of Plymouth-Canton Schools as a quality district, a district where standards are set high and kept there, where a good education is the top priority.

The district is so well thought of, in fact, that it's not surprising a large number of teachers want to be a part of it.

And that's just great. Teachers are at the heart of a good education. Finding quality has got to be easier with so many choices.

Paying for items already purchased with tax $$$$

EDITOR:

On June 17th, I read an article in The Crier about the P-C Schools establishing a "Garage Sale Center" for obsolete books, equipment, furniture and supplies of the school district.

It stated that proceeds from the sales would be used to fund projects or district programs such as Miller Woods or Geer School, or be transferred to the Education Excellence Foundation.

Now the past week, July 29th, another article on the Garage Sale grand opening stated that a week or so before the grand opening, school administrators will have a chance to check out and "purchase items for their school" using their school account number.

Now I have some questions:

1. The June 17th article said "distribution of the money from the sales would be left up to the school board. The funds will be deposited in a new district improvement activity account." My question is -- why -- if these items are purchased with tax money, as I understand it is, is a new account needed? We just had a school tax vote to disregard the Headlee Amendment and were told (because of the "no" results) there would be cuts in books and other aspects of school life. Shouldn't money acquired from sales of books and equipment purchased with tax money, be used to replace equipment and purchase books for this district? A P-C high school science teacher, this school year, used outdated science magazines for class books and didn't even have enough for each student!

I read the school board will decide what the money should go for -- save a woods, save an old school house or maybe given to the Education Excellence Foundation! What is the E.E.F.?

Why not get books for our school district -- that is an identical book system for each grade at school? I have a nephew who moved within the P-C school district and was told at the new school he was behind the other classmates, and teachers suggested putting him back a whole grade, and yet he was doing fine in the first school!

There should be no decisions -- old book money for new books; old equipment money for new equipment, etc.

2. Why do principals have to "pay" for items already purchased with tax money? Are these "administrators" from different districts?

Still, the monies should go for all of our kids, not community projects using school tax money!

Trustees' plan -- finally -- comes to fruition

It was about midway through Canton Supervisor Jim Poole's spiel on planning and economic development last Tuesday night that I swear I could actually see it: Poole's position as an ex-full-time supervisor was being cemented in the minds of trustees Robert Padget, Stephen Larson and Loren Bennett.

Clearly, the trustees, who have come up with a different system for administering the township's operations, had had enough.

Poole was outlining several disagreements he has had with the Community and Economic Development Department going back several years at that most recent board meeting. The trustees that night pointed out that most of his pet peeves should be directed at the entire Board of Trustees, which creates the policy

To the point

By Dan Ness

the CED department was following.

It didn't matter. The trustees would later that night introduce, then table, a resolution to implement the superintendent form of township administration. It will be voted upon Tuesday, Aug. 25.

Watching Poole spout off on a staff member that is given little administrative power to address those complaints, the trustees must have been kicking themselves for not implementing the system sooner.

Not that they haven't tried. The trustees -- who proposed the change back in August 1985, had it studied until September 1986, and planned on implementing it as soon thereafter as possible -- reluctantly reversed themselves to propose a citizen advisory vote on the matter, even though it was not required.

The trustees said that the number of citizens asking them to not change the system without a public say caused them to change their minds. They didn't plan on their own clerk -- who had stated on the record that an advisory vote should be taken -- thwarting the vote by discovering after the fact that the state and county would deem the vote improper.

At this point, I offer a theory: If the trustees aren't kicking themselves for accommodating their critics on this issue, it is most likely the result of the body casts they must be wearing from bending over backwards so many times to facilitate the public in their proposal.

No one who's kept up with the proceedings -- whether they agree or disagree with the superintendent system -- will ever be able to say that the trustees have ramrodded their proposal through.

Their proposal, as a reminder, would reduce the supervisor's position to part-time. The superintendent would take care of the day-to-day operations of the township, but would not have a vote on the board. The superintendent would be completely accountable to the Board of Trustees.

Poole is not completely accountable to the Board of Trustees. That's because he's a member of the Board of Trustees. That situation has become less comfortable with the four trustees recently.

The trustees will vote Aug. 25 to approve the superintendent system, and they will also vote to reduce the clerk and treasurer's positions to part-time. They will gain approval with one or two dissenting votes, but that won't matter.

I'm guessing that all of their back pains will seem worth it after November 1988, when Canton Township Board of Trustees' meetings become boring affairs.

Then, they can throw the body casts away.

Robocop nightmare material

EDITOR:

I had an experience last Sunday at the Canton Cinema that left such an impression on my mature, jaded mind that I feel I have to bring it to someone's attention.

After viewing the first half hour of the movie "Robocop" I had no choice but to leave the theatre and ask for a refund.

I'm an avid over-18 movie fan, and can handle the fact that an R-rated movie will show some blood. But I had no clue -- the newspaper ads said "You'll roar with laughter" -- that I would be paying to see the most callous display of violence, calling itself "entertainment," that I have been exposed to in a long time.

Granted, I saw the subtle, tongue-in-cheek satire that was probably intended by the writers. Cute. Doubtless not understood by impressionable, and maybe young minds, of which, I'm sure, a few will see this movie. Nothing I would have seen in the film could ever have been redeeming enough to make up for that first half hour.

The punch line here is that several retarded and/or handicapped children or young teenagers in wheelchairs had been brought in to see the show. I can only hope that their parents or guardians had been misled by the ads as I was, and do not regularly burden these kids' minds with nightmare material.

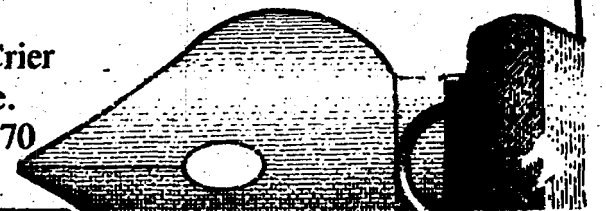

There is enough of that for all of us to see, without going to a theater to be "entertained" by it.

Say no to rezoning, Meijer Thrifty Acres

EDITOR:

It seems that the Plymouth Township Board will once again put quantity above quality of life in our fair township.

Meijer Thrifty Acres is seeking to build a store on the southeast corner of Schoolcraft Road. They at the Township Board want to build a tax base here but fail to see any other alternatives other than a huge retail concern. The Township Board is against a township park, a high tech commerce park or any other alternative here. The Township Board has failed to look at the big picture and the future far-reaching complications of this proposed venture into our area by Thrifty Acres.

Noise, pollution, congestion, overcrowding, traffic jams are just a few of the logical consequences of a store of that size to be put in the Township. But once again the Board wishes to take an immediate quick-fix approach to a piece of property that could make our township a showplace.

I say shame on the Township Board for trying to put one over on the residents of the township and the people of Lake Pointe. If you would be more selective in your solicitation of tax base revenues, Plymouth Township would be an even nicer place to reside.

Say no to this rezoning at the Aug. 19th meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Township Hall.

PCAC deserves accolades

EDITOR:

The Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) deserves tumultuous accolades for the "Music in the Park, 1987."

It is truly a shame that this program could not have been brought into sharper focus so that our local (Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton Township) people could appreciate the extraordinary effort that the PCAC folks went to to arrange this summer program.

Jerry Jacoby on July 22 typifies the spirit of PCAC when he spent additional time and effort to sing to and with the folks from West Trail who were able to attend. Great Show!!

For the community — my thanks and appreciation.

A proud moment for the community

Town fared well during the recent anti-nuclear arms march through here.

An applauding crowd -- of young and older well-wishers -- welcomed the marchers into Kellogg Park on their way from Sault Ste. Marie to Detroit.

At the ceremony in the park for the unveiling of The Peace Pole, the good-sized gathering saw the political spectrum of Bob Bake, prominent local Realtor; to Val Johnson, one of The Plymouth Cruise organizers.

Those two may be a bit shy about having their names picked out of the crowd (especially Bob who was there out of curiosity) but it also says something about The Plymouth-Canton Community's karma to see folks like that at such an event.

Even the city and township police cooperated in providing an escort down Ann Arbor Trail to the park. And a number of otherwise quiet church-going folks supplied dinner for the crew.

After the long, hot day's march through Canton, up Sheldon to Plymouth Township's St. John's Episcopal Church for dinner, and then the ceremony in Kellogg, the marchers cheered their welcome here as among the best they received state-wide.

But it's Mayor Bill Robinson they're still talking about now in New York, Arizona and Maryland (and other points of origination for the marchers).

One of the more vocal marchers is planning yet another 'thank you' letter to the mayor from his New York home.

Bill saved the day.

After a last-minute letter from the city manager advising the peace folks that The Peace Pole couldn't stay in Kellogg Park, a number of local citizens joined the marchers in plan-

That's what Chris Nix wants to know.

Her daughter Georgenna Nix was killed a year ago in June. Georgenna's boyfriend, and the driver of the car, Charlie Triplett, has been convicted of involuntary manslaughter.

He was due to be sentenced for one and a half to 15 years. At the time of his conviction the Nixs were given a chance to talk with the Judge Ross Campbell about a possible sentence.

They declined, but later recommended to the Washtenaw County Probation Department that Triplett get a minimum of six years in jail.

They also suggested "some type of mental help and encouragement to get an education as to not be a burden to society when he got out."

Triplett instead was sentenced to one year in a rehabilitation center in Detroit.

"It's not fair to us or him," Chris Nix said. She said her family was led to believe Judge Campbell would hand out a stiffer sentence.

So now the Nix family burns with resentment toward the justice system. They're daughter was killed in a drunk driving incident, and the driver is getting what the Nixs call a kind of "slap his hands and hope he has learned a lesson."

But how does one learn a lesson when the punishment does not fit the crime? Chris Nix has to ask. And what does the sentence tell young kids, young drinkers?

It tells the youth of today that they should be careful out there but if something does go wrong when they're drinking and driving, it's no big deal.

But it is a big deal. Sorrow and pain rock the Nix family every day. A sense of "why us?" prevails and the family struggles along without the beloved Georgenna.

Add now to that a sense of injustice.

The Nixs don't want to see Triplett crucified but they do want some kind of justice served. The kind of justice one can stomach.

Mayor saved the day

With malice toward none

By W. EDWARD WENDOVER

ning for a round-the-clock vigil to ward off the DPW shovels. (Dot Balogh brought pastries and the lawn chairs.)

But a quick phone promise from the mayor commuted the pole's sentence on a temporary basis. With the city manager out of town, the mayor's nearly-full-time service (for his $500 a year extra) came in handy. Bill gracefully received, and commandingly made, several late-night phone calls that evening.

Then he went further.

He stood up for the pole's permanent existence in the Kellogg Park corner near the Veterans' Rock. Other city commissioners joined in.

As a result, The Plymouth-Canton Community became one of the smallest towns in the state to embrace the peace marchers' message on a continuing basis.

It was a proud moment for town.

Tricks of the trade

Kathy Mount coaxes her toy poodle Brandy into doing part of her routine. Brandy is a regular at Mott Children's Hospital, where he spreads joy to the ill (Crier photo by David Pierini)

A dog's life

Brandy brings a smile

BY DAVID PIERINI

The boy began to move his hand across the dog's back, the first sign of life a two-month coma had allowed.

Brandy, a toy poodle, made a return visit two weeks later. A more vigorous stroke from the boy this time led his mother to believe she'd get her son back.

Brandy's owner, Kathy Mount, doesn't know if that mother got her wish. "I don't always get to know the results," the Plymouth resident said. "We do our part. A sign is all we get, but that's special enough."

The part Mount and her dog play in the lives of the sick, the friendless and the homeless is truly a special one. Mount just sees it as God's calling.

Not only does Brandy do his tricks for jerky treats, he also performs for hospitals, churches, nursing homes and orphanages.

Little did Mount know that when she approached a volunteer worker for Mott Children's Hospital almost seven years ago, that so many people would request the good-cheer services of Brandy.

Brandy is a monthly visitor at Mott and also performs at West Trails Nursing Home. Mount and Brandy have also brought smiles to children at orphanages, church groups all over Michigan -- and he's even played in Peoria.

"That's my hometown," said Mount, an Illinois native. Mount said the work is tough, but when she and Brandy are able to divert pain to peace and smiles, it keeps them going.

"Those children have helped me to put my own illness and troubles in the proper perspective," said Mount, who has had past heart trouble.

And Brandy, the 14-year-old performer -- who jumps through hoops, sings, flips and boxes -- shows no signs of retiring.

"He's a busy guy," she said.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

I now have proof that I haven't changed at all in the past 25 years (at least that's what some people said at the class reunion). I admit that I've gained a few pounds since graduation, but wow, what a relief to know the old classmates still recognize me.

I may be a bit prejudice, but I'd say the "Class of '62" from Lansing Eastern looked pretty good. Considering most of us hadn't seen each other since graduation (except for possibly a reunion) it was amazing how quickly we knew each other.

Of course there were a few exceptions. A few people looked familiar but I had to wait until they put their name tag on before I could think of their name. I'm not sure if it was my memory slipping or the fact that they had actually changed.

There's no doubt that the men changed more than the women. While some looked the same, a few of the men didn't have quite as much hair as they once had. Then there was one who had more hair now than in high school, but it lost all its color. "John, how did you lose all the red in your hair while I managed to keep all of mine?"

Not only did everyone look the same, they still act the same. The goof offs are still as crazy, and the quiet, serious people have remained the same. I wonder if that means some of us are never to grow up so therefore we don't have to worry about growing old.

It's funny how you can't remember something from two days ago, yet certain memories from 25 years ago are as clear as a bell. "Remember when we ...?"

There are certain teachers everyone remembers. I think Mr. Sage, the French teacher is probably one of the favorites. I'm not sure how much history or government we learned, but Karpinski's class did provide a time for fun and jokes (when we didn't get caught).

While I was excited about going to the reunion, I was also hesitant. What if I don't recognize anyone? What if all the other women look fantastic and all wear a size eight? What if everyone else is with a spouse and I'm the only single person there?

I just have one thing to say to anyone who is ever hesitant about going to a class reunion -- Go. Those kids you did all those crazy things with in high school are still basically the same. It may take a few minutes to get to know each other again and catch up on things that have happened over the years, but the friendship is still there.

I realize not everyone has as great a class as ours (especially the cross town rivals) but those friends you made in high school are still there. Don't worry if you say or do something stupid at your reunion, it will probably be at least five years before you see most of those friends again anyway. Besides the only people who will remember are the ones who are still keeping track from high school, so what do you have to loose?

Students from Plymouth named to the honor roll at Lawrence Institute of Technology are: Daming He, Cynthia Schwall. Canton students included on the list are: Scott Sumner, Scott Clauser, Paul Shepp and David Stirling.

Area students receiving degrees from Oakland University are: Ellen Doenitz of Church in Plymouth, B.S.; and David Qin of Honeytree in Canton, M.S.

Michael Burrell entered the U.S. Air Force in June. A 1984 graduate of John Glenn High School, he is the son of James and Shirley Burrell of Brookfield in Canton.

Janet Pinkham, daughter of Donald Mielke of Newport in Plymouth, received an award for Teaching Excellence in the Basic Course from the University of Kansas.

FASCINATING NEPAL
Part of Nepal's fascination is its centuries-old inaccessibility. Not until 1950, when the ruling Rana dynasty was overthrown, could a foreigner enter the kingdom without special, Pana-approved permission which was rarely given. No tourist could, certainly, so that even today you feel you are one of the first.
Kathmandu, the capital, is in a fertile valley ringed by Himalayan foothills (the flight in through the pass, with the peaks ABOVE the wingtips is quite an experience). It is a rather interesting city, with a few worthwhile sights, but it is the view of the mountains which dominates your attention.
Take a short flight to Pokhra and you are actually IN the Himalayas. Even driving less than a hundred miles from Kathmandu, you have a chance of a lifetime to view Mount Everest. The weather is best for viewing from October through March, but even then there's no guarantee.

Over 30 years experience assures you of the finest travel service available. And, best of all, THERE IS NO CHARGE TO YOU FOR OUR SERVICES. We are reimbursed in commission fees by the airlines and hotels, ships and resorts that we book.

New uniforms for CEP Band to debut Sept. 4

BY KEN VOYLES

New uniforms for the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band were "definitely" needed Judy Lore said last week.

Lore who worked on the fitting of the new uniforms said they would be ready for the band's opening show this year during halftime of the first football game on Sept. 4 between Salem and Trenton.

The new outfits -- designed by Michael Cesario and manufactured by the DeMoulin Uniform Company -- will also be seen at the Fall Festival, when the band plays in Kellogg Park on Sunday, Sept. 13 at 1:45 p.m..

The uniforms feature a red, white and blue coat for football game performances and parades, while the competition coat is yellow and white. Both coats will be worn with black high waisted trousers.

The red, white and blue colors were selected to represent both Canton High and Salem High, Lore said, while the yellow is for higher visibility during competition performances.

Fitting for the 170 members of the marching band will be complete this week, said Lore, who added that the band members have reacted with excitement and "pleasure" to the uniforms.

Following the fitting the musicians will leave for band camp at Camp Kohana near Northport, MI.

The designer of the uniforms is known for his work on television, in Broadway musicals and regional repertory stages across the country. He has also served as both a design clinician and a design consultant.

The band's color guard is also getting new uniforms. The jackets are red with white accents and the skirts are black.

The CEP Marching Band is the defending Michigan Championship Band, having won titles in 1984, 1985 and 1986. It captured 40 trophies during 1986.

This year the company plans to "Go Four It In 87."

Vogras said the 1965 Bristol Double Decker Bus will be used to shuttle wedding guests from the wedding site to the reception.

The wedding and reception will be in St. Clair Shores.

Getting down to business

'Hairy' business is doggone idea

BY DAVID PIERINI

You remember Junior's first haircut. He cried, he kicked, he squirmed as the barber tried to even-off his bangs. Only when the barber gave him a lolly-pop, did Junior settle down.

Joan Lamborn says only the best-behaved customers come to her shop.

"Occasionally," she said, "one will run out so excited and leak on its owner."

In order to care for that first poodle she received for her 16th birthday, Lamborn had to learn how to groom her dog. Today, she runs and owns The Peppermint Poodle Parlor, located on Liberty Street in Plymouth's Old Village.

Pet owners can bring their dog or cat -- of any breed -- and have it bathed and groomed. Not only does Lamborn and two other workers cut and style hair, they'll cut nails and flea dip -- and they've been doing so at their Liberty Street location for 17 years.

"It's like having that first kid go off to kindergarten," Lamborn said. "Dogs and cats are family members, and it's important to the families where they're taking them."

"It's important that my customers are comfortable with me."

No problem there. Along the far wall, a Springer Spaniel and two Bouvier DeFlanders sit under hair dryers. A Bichon Frise -- a poodle-related pooch -- gets her paw hair trimmed and her powder-puff coat fluffed up.

A wash

Lamborn sits with a German Shephard puppy, Dutch, waiting for the owner to arrive.

"It's a pretty good time here," said Lamborn. Sturp! Dutch agrees with a big wet kiss. "It's a lot of fun."

Grooming prices run between $8 and $10, depending on the job and size of the pet. Forced grooming is not practiced, and if a dog or cat puts up to much of a fuss, Lamborn sends them home.

Trustees want a more 'professional' system

the superintendent would not have a vote.

The trustees have cited as reasons for the change: a more "professional" system of governing the township; a reduction in the risk of political meddling in the operations of the township; a more clear division between the policy-making function of the board and the execution of that policy by the superintendent; and having a person directly accountable to the board for actions taken.

The trustees have maintained throughout the two years that the proposed change is not coming as a result of any individuals currently in office, but that it was "time" to make the move.

The trustees have stated in the past that a person schooled in public administration, with experience, would be sought for the Canton post.

A committee of two board members; Theodore Grabbe, chairman of the superintendent implementation committee; Dan Durack, Canton's personnel director; and a merit commission member will perform the hiring of the superintendent. The superintendent will most likely be hired shortly before the end of the present administration's terms end in November 1988. The salaries of the supervisor, clerk and treasurer cannot be reduced before their terms end.

Superintendent's duties:

A wide range of challenges

The superintendent of Canton will have the following duties, as outlined by the Board of Trustees:

- To see that all laws and township ordinances are enforced;
- To manage and supervise all public improvements, works and undertakings of the township;
- To have charge of the construction, repair, maintenance, lighting and cleaning of streets, sidewalks, bridges, pavements, sewers, and of all the public buildings or other property belonging to the township;
- To manage and supervise the operation of all township utilities;
- To be responsible for the preservation of property, tools and appliances of the township;
- To see that all terms and conditions imposed in favor of the township or its inhabitants in any public utility franchise, or in any contract, are faithfully kept and performed;
- To attend all meetings of the township board, with the right to take part in discussions, but without the right to vote;
- To be an ex officio member of all committees of the township board;
- To prepare and administer the annual budget under policies formulated by the township board and keep the board fully advised at all times as to the financial condition and needs of the township;

- To recommend to the township board for adoption such measures as he/she may deem necessary or expedient;
- To be responsible to the township board for the efficient administration of all departments of the township government;
- To act as the purchasing agent for the township or, delegate such duties to some other officer or employe, under the superintendent's responsibility;
- To conduct all sales of personal property which the township board may authorize to be sold;
- To assume all the duties and responsibilities as personnel director of all township employes or delegate such duties to some other officer or employe;
- To perform such other duties as may be prescribed by this act or required of him/her by ordinance or by direction of the township board, or which are not assigned to some other official in conformity with the provisions of this act.

The superintendent will also be assigned all other duties listed in Section 10 of the Charter Township Act.

"Videotunes Live," an Omnicom Cable community affairs program recently won a top national award in the Hometown Video USA Awards.

The show — produced by David Daniele and Jim Leinbach — won for the Best LIVE Volunteer Series, in a contest sponsored by the National Federation of Local Cable Programmers. There were more than 1,400 entries in various categories for this year's 10th annual awards.

The show uses local talent to give it "special community appeal," said Community Affairs and Program Director Maria Holmes.

It includes a combination of music videos with all local talent, candid interviews and zany antics with Daniele (Dr. Z) and Leinbach (Jimmy Ray).

Also on the crew are Lori Schumont, an assistant producer, Peter Smith, director, and John Polson, cameraman. John Martin, Omnicom's executive producer, is the latest addition to the show's cast.

"We could not have won this award without their help," Daniele said.

"Videotunes Live" may go into syndication, said Holmes, who also mentioned a possible sponsorship by Warner Brothers Records.

The show can be seen Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at 9:30 p.m. and again on Saturday at 7 p.m. on Channel 8.

Teacher files: Active, "sort of," and inactive

so in the inactive files. "Sort of" files are those that need further information, such as a transcript, before they can be placed in an active file.

"Even with all the work it takes to maintain these files we're not discouraging people to apply. We're still looking for good people," Kee said. "You can never have enough applications."

The district currently employs just over 800 teachers. It also uses 50-100 substitute teachers in a given year, and, although the district has only hired four or five new teachers so far this year, Kee must always be prepared to find more quality people.

"This is the time of year we look for people. It's also the time we send out a card to every applicant asking them if they still want to be in the active file," he said.

The current file has grown over the past 10 years said Kee. "There's no bottom," he said. "So nobody can say they are stuck on the bottom of our file. It's a totally fair system. We assure everyone that it's totally competitive."

"We want the best person based on ability and potential," he added, "and not because they know someone."

The application files include the names of teachers from Michigan and over all the country, said Kee, ranging from recent college graduates to teachers with five or 10 years experience. In fact, many of the applicants are teachers who are currently working some other job, waiting for that big teaching break.

When there's an opening at a building, Kee's people will search for possible candidates from among the files and pass those on to the head administrator at the school.

If one of those doesn't fit the need, the search begins again through the files.

So what's the lure of the Plymouth-Canton Schools?

"We've always been a highly regarded district," Kee said. "We have good facilities, adequate supplies, and a good teaching concept. We've involved our teachers in in-service training and the school improvement plans. We're forward looking."

Kee says its not the pay that draws teachers -- the district starts all its new teachers at a base rate whether they have experience or not -- but it is a competitive salary, one that's in the upper quarter in the state.

"And there's something about this community that draws teachers," he said.

Make that a lot of teachers.

Meijer fight brewing

commercial zoning was submitted back in April.

The owner of the 32-acre parcel, Raymond Iafate, had applied for a cement crushing and asphalt plant and was turned down by the planning commission.

"If you deny him both proposals, you are denying him his rights to use that property the way he wants to," said planning commissioner Dennis Campbell, addressing the crowd made up of mainly Lake Point residents and homeowners nearest the property.

"How much money do you want us to spend? Now either we have a great project or we have a guy walk into a great lawsuit," Campbell said.

A recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling was in favor of a Swartz Creek developer who was denied use of his property by that city under similar circumstances.

The Planning Commission, under heavy opposition, has contended all along that a Meijer store would upgrade the area. But Lake Pointe residents are saying that a Meijer store would only invite "unwanted" traffic and crime.

"In my opinion a Meijer store would be like a herpes: once it's there, it's there forever," said Lake Pointe resident Mike Stankov. "That property will be valuable for the right reason, in time."

"Hold out for high tech. Stretch out every law and ordinance you can. Don't put a Meijer store there."

Those in attendance expressed interest in forming a committee to get a bond issue on the November ballot.

"Let's work together and pull it off," said long-time resident Loraine Potochick. "Talking about it is not enough."

Potochick set the focus asking about possible construction of a park or YMCA facility.

Supervisor Maurice Breen, in attendance at the homeowners meeting, said public monies could not go towards a YMCA, a private non-profit organization.

He also said if the residents are successful, but the rezoning goes through before November, recreational development of the parcel could be sought through a referendum provision in the rezoning law.

Use the following information as a guide to services, facilities and programs available to seniors in The Plymouth-Canton Community. For general information regarding senior programs in the community, call these main offices: Canton --

Diane Neihengen, 397-1000 ext. 278; City of Plymouth -- Carol Donnelly, 455-6627; Plymouth Township -- Cathy Broadbent, 453-2671.

Canton's senior citizen activities are coordinated through an office at the Canton Recreation Center, at Sheldon Road and Michigan Avenue. The City of Plymouth's senior programs are centered at the Plymouth Cultural Center, at 525 Farmer. Several of Plymouth Township's senior activities overlap with the City of Plymouth's programs. The Plymouth Township Friendship Station, at 42357 Schoolcraft Rd., is a center for township seniors. The phone number is 420-3321.

Recreation

The opportunities for Plymouth seniors regarding recreation are many and varied.

Several of the activities are held at the Plymouth Cultural Center. The "Happy Hour Club" meets every Wednesday at the center to play cards, from noon to 4 p.m.

Thursdays, from 1-5 p.m., "Party Bridge" is played at the Cultural Center.

"Duplicate Bridge" is played every Tuesday and Wednesday at the center. On Tuesdays, play is held from 11:30 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. - 11 p.m. On Wednesdays, play is held from 11:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. This activity is not restricted to seniors only.

A "Current Issues" gathering is held every Friday at the Cultural Center from 1 - 4 p.m. As the title indicates, topics for the discussions are timely news items facing citizens.

If you enjoy an early morning walk, Plymouth area seniors are invited to join the walking club that starts out from the Cultural Center on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 8:30 a.m. Walks generally last about 45 minutes to an hour, and cover about three miles.

In what may be the best kept secret in town, the Cultural Center is also home to new shuffleboard and horseshoe facilities. Seniors are invited to use the new facilities at the center.

The "Silver Duffers" tee off at Brooklane Golf Course, at Six Mile and Sheldon roads, on Mondays during the summers at 9 a.m. The golfing club for seniors invites other area seniors to join by just showing up shortly before 9 a.m. on Mondays. This season, however, is soon winding down. There is a small cost for greens fees.

Softball: Men and women age 55 and older are welcome to participate in the Canton Merchant Seniors Softball Program. Both groups and individuals are invited to join.

The seniors will board the Plymouth double-decker bus from the Cultural Center starting at 11:30 a.m. on Thursday. For information regarding tours through the Plymouth seniors office, call 455-6620.

Canton seniors can get information about possible tours through the Canton Seniors office, by calling 397-1000 ext. 278.

Housing

In Plymouth, Tonquish Creek Manor provides subsidized housing for seniors and handicapped persons. St. David's Gate, on Ann Arbor Road, also provides subsidized housing for seniors. The Plymouth Housing Commission also coordinates the Section Eight Housing Subsidy Program, which is a tenant-based program that assists persons in paying for housing throughout the community. Seniors are included in the groups eligible for this program.

For information regarding the Section Eight program, call 455-8460. For information regarding Tonquish Creek Manor, call 453-3670.

In addition to the public programs, there are privately-run housing facilities in the community, including Plymouth Court, at 105 Haggerty Rd.

Currently, there is no seniors-only housing in Canton. The Canton Seniors office can, however, provide a list of available senior and subsidized housing in Western Wayne County. Also, two senior housing projects are now in the works. An East Lansing developer is planning to build two seniors-only apartment units in Canton with a total of 180 units. National Church Residences is also building a seniors-only apartment complex.

The Plymouth Community Council on Aging helps coordinate programs for Plymouth area seniors. Its office is located on the second floor of Plymouth City Hall, and is open from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. weekdays. The phone number for the Council on Aging is 453-1234 ext. 71. The office is staffed by Geneva Guenther.

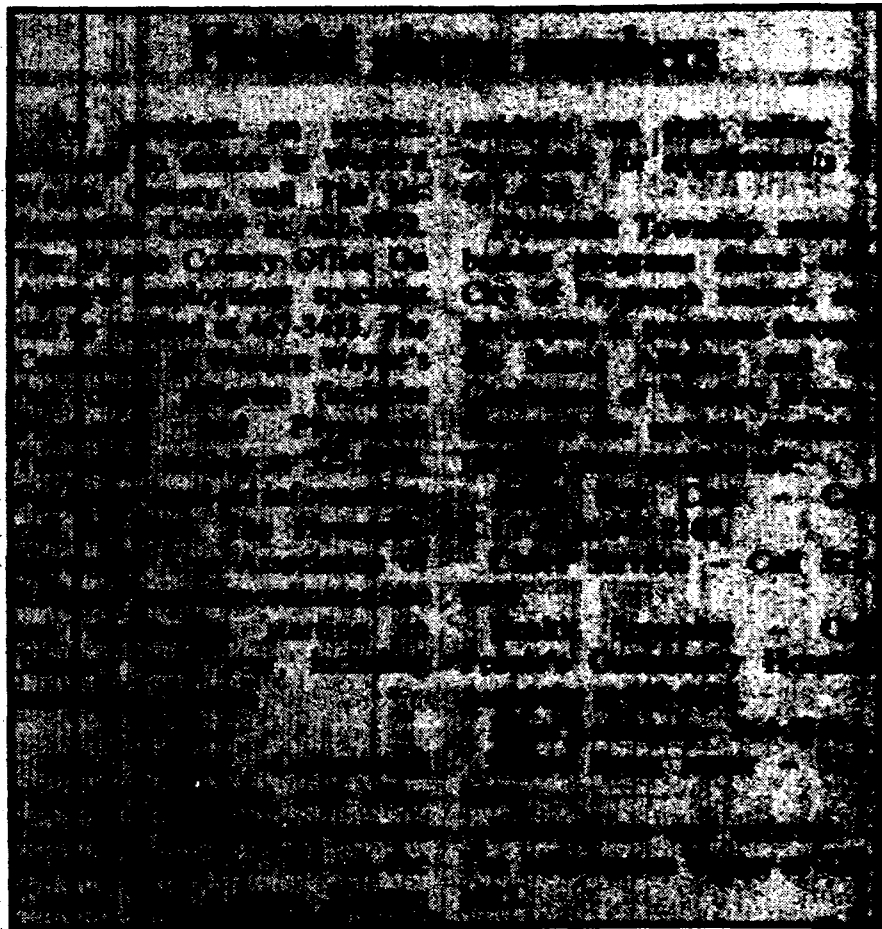

The president of the Council, Bill McNamara, said the council is working on a program to get the "Lifeline" system installed for seniors in the community. Lifeline is a telephone system whereby seniors can push a button in times of medical emergency, and a call is automatically put through to area medical facilities. "We want to engage every possible organization to get behind this," McNamara said.

Lifeline in The Plymouth-Canton Community is linked to Oakwood-Canton Center and Catherine McAuley Health Center.

The Council on Aging meets every second Tuesday of the month at the Cultural Center at 2 p.m. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Sept. 8.

The Council on Aging also publishes a newsletter for seniors, The Senior Sentinel, which is distributed to 2,600 local seniors 10 times a year.

Adams swims to Senior Olympic gold

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The 8th Annual Senior Olympics took place over the weekend at Oakland Community College at the Orchard Ridge campus, and Plymouth Township resident Edmund Adams captured a bronze and silver medal in the Senior Olympics

Adams, 74, took a bronze in the 50-meter freestyle and he captured the silver medal in the 100-meter freestyle.

Adams, who has been a resident in the township for 36 years now, began swimming during his high school days at Hamtramck High School.

Adams said.

"I've been swimming at the YMCA in Livonia, and I timed myself and I thought I would be competitive," said Adams. "My family really supported me all the way through the meet,"

"I don't think I would have done as well in the Senior Olympics if it wasn't for all of the support I received. I don't think I would have done as well," Adams concluded.

Sports

Vaulter, judo athletes experience Lakes games

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Bringing home the medal.

More than 3,600 athletes took part in Michigan's inaugural Great Lakes State Games (GLSG) July 31 through August 2 at Northern Michigan University (NMU) in Marquette.

Several residents from The Plymouth-Canton Community represented their communities well, as they brought home two gold and one silver medal from the three day event.

Vincent St Louis, of Canton, brought home a gold medal from the games in the Judo competition. St Louis, who already has two state championships under his belt in judo is only eight years old.

"It was a pretty easy win for me," St Louis said. "I usually compete in the heavyweight division, but they wouldn't let me do that here (GLSG)," St Louis said.

St Louis will go on to compete in the International Games in Toronto this weekend, and hopes to bring home even more medals for his shelf.

St Louis has been involved in judo for three years now, and according to his father Vicent, his son has been told by his instructors that his "a natural," and that Olympic fame could be his, if he continues to stay in the sport.

Another Canton athlete did well at the games: Matti Kilpelainen of Canton captured a gold medal in the pole vault competition.

Kilpelainen won the event with a leap of 12 feet, six inches.

"This was a great event for the state of Michigan," Kilpelainen said. "Michigan really needed something like the GLSG."

The 41-year-old pole vaulter is a former University of Michigan track star. He competed for the Wolverines, and placed in the big ten track meet back in 1967.

Kilpelainen said his best pole vault ever was a 15 feet, six inch jump in 1968.

Kilpelainen, who recently just got back into pole vaulting a year and half ago, will take part in a private backyard Masters Pole Vaulting competition in Cleveland, OH.

And Plymouth resident took as David Knauss garnered a second place in the Great Lakes Games golf event. He played in the third flight of 13-17 handicap golf event.

Knauss shot a 94 on the first day, and 95 on the second, and with a 26 handicap it left him with a score of 163.

Land of confusion

By Marty Tungate

The Plymouth Kiwanis Club held their fifth annual charity golf outing recently, and for the fifth straight year, it was a huge success.

Organizer Thomas Caviston headed the event and predicted that they would bring in about $10,000 for local charities.

As a guest of the Kiwanians and Mission Hills Golf Course, I saw firsthand that everyone seemed to be having a good time, all the while helping to raise money for others in the community.

According to Caviston, there were 168 golfers that took part in the four-man team scramble golf outing, while each team paid $450 to get in on the action.

"It was another sold out year, and I think it was sold out before the tickets actually went on sale," Caviston said.

According to Caviston, this golf outing is the primary fund raiser of the year for the Kiwanians.

Along with the 168 golfers, there were 80 sponsors of the event, and each sponsor chipped in $100 for a sign featuring their business name. The signs were placed all over the golf course.

Following the tourney, the golfers and myself were treated to a ride in a fire engine out to the center of the golf course, where a gourmet dinner was prepared by the state-renowned caterers, European Culinary Company.

And let me tell you these guys can cook.

The chefs prepared ribs, Italian sausage, pork sirloin, and a number of other fine foods.

According to Caviston, 70 to 80 per cent of the golfers were from Plymouth, while many notables made their mark on the course as well.

Plymouth Mayor William Robinson, Ken West, Plymouth's City Engineer and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen showed up for this great cause.

Tom Morse, Don Dean, Don Figurski and Don Paige were the winners in the outing after a one hole playoff, as they shot a 59 on the day.

But the real winners are the charities that will benefit from the golf tourney, like the Salvation Army, Plymouth Growth Works, parks and people who just need a helping hand.

"We just try to fill in the gap whenever possible," Robinson said.

Cheerleaders contend theirs is also a sport

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Don't tell the cheerleaders at Canton High School that cheerleading isn't a sport.

The Chief cheerleaders recently took third overall out of 25 teams at a cheerleading camp at Concordia College in Ann Arbor. The group was also voted the most spirited by all of the teams at the camp.

"This is the best this squad has ever done," first-year coach Julie O'Keefe said.

Last year's squad was left without a coach at the the midway point of the football season, leaving the girls to coach themselves.

But O'Keefe has now stepped in to lead the girls, and according to the rookie coach, they're going to have a great year.

The Canton Cheerleaders received $500 for being the most spirited team at the camp, and they hope to purchase some new uniforms with the money. The squad has also earned the opportunity to take part in the National Cheerleading Competition in Tennessee.

"The team really deserved to win their awards. Cheerleading is harder than some people might think," O'Keefe said.

According to the team members, they take a lot of heat from other students and athletes along the lines that cheerleading isn't really a sport. These girls will tell you different.

"It's not quite as easy as you might think, you try jumping up and down and screaming for an hour and a half during football and basketball games, we really work hard," Wendy West said. During the annual powder-puff football game, which features Canton cheerleaders against Salem cheerleaders, the football players become the cheerleaders, and they get to find out what it's really like.

"They know what it's like now that some of them have tried it," West added. "They were dripping with sweat after the game."

Plymouth man sues television station over report

BY DAVID PIERINI

A Plymouth man is suing WDIV-TV because he said he was "inaccurately portrayed" in a 1986 news report about crack cocaine.

John Aiden, who filed suit Friday in Wayne County Circuit Court, said a taped image of him on a Channel 4 program called "Crack Attack" was used out of context. Aiden said that in July of 1986, while in Detroit Receiving Hospital for a punctured lung, a man identifying himself as a WDIV-TV reporter approached him about a hospital survey.

"After I got out of the hospital, relatives and friends started calling me, saying they showed my picture on this crack show," said Aiden, an inmate at the Phoenix Correctional Facility. "The gentleman that approached me didn't talk about cocaine and I didn't sign a consent form of any kind.

"My people were left with the impression that I had a crack problem. I lost my job because of it and my parole officer was suspicious of me."

Aiden, who said friends and family still don't believe him, is seeking $500,000 in punitive damages.

He said he never saw the tape, but friends and family told Aiden that an image of him was aired as the reporter was talking about the symptoms of a crack cocaine abuser.

Aiden tried to obtain a copy of the tape under the Freedom of Information Act, but because WDIV-TV is not a government agent, his request could only be referred to WDIV-TV lawyers.

Robert Warfield, WDIV-TV vice president of news, did not return The Crier's phone calls.

"I've never led the cleanest of lives. Let's just say I've always had a mind of my own," said Aiden, currently serving time for a parole violation. "I was carrying myself as an adult, and when my family saw that show, they threw their hands up in the air and said 'this is it.'

"Crack has them scared. It has everybody scared, even me."

Moped accident kills Canton man

The owner of a Canton tanning salon died as a result of injuries sustained in a moped accident in Canton on Aug. 11, Canton police said.

John Stuckart, 50, of Livonia, died at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township the day after the accident, which occurred at Joy Road near Pinetree Plaza, according to Canton Police Information Officer David Boljesic.

Boljesic, who came upon the accident on patrol, said Stuckart was driving his moped east on Joy Road at about 2:10 p.m., when he lost control of the cycle and fell onto the pavement. Stuckart died as a result of head injuries, Boljesic said.

Stuckart owned the Endless Summer tanning salon in Canton, Boljesic said.

into business, he used the same conscious as a loving father would with his children," said Fred Potasnik, vice president of Construction Consultants, Inc.

Brown was a parishioner and board member of Plymouth Church of the Nazarene. Pastor Mark Barnes said Brown assisted in the construction of four churches, two in Peru, one in Haiti and the other in Africa.

"He was loved dearly by children," Barnes said. "We'd be on a plane and a child would approach him, not knowing him, and he'd take on a grandfather image."

Preliminary reports said the plane lost power in one of its engines seconds after it took off. Some witnesses said it plummeted, with flames visible, slammed into an Avis car rental office, and went under an I-94 underpass, spreading debris for almost a mile along Middlebelt Road.

Cheri Hamer, 20, of Canton, was working in a back room at Avis at the time of the crash.

"All of a sudden there were two explosions," Hamer said. "One was when the plane hit the building, the whole place shook. The other was when the plane blew up."

Several Canton police officers were at the scene of the crash Sunday night to assist other departments, Canton Police Information Officer David Boljesic said. The department, as well as several other area police agencies, sent other officers to the scene on Monday and Tuesday to help with crowd control, Boljesic said.

"It was a gruesome sight," Boljesic said. "I've never seen the likes of this before, and hopefully, never will again."

Boljesic said some gawkers were coming through a wooded area near the crash scene to catch a glimpse of the tragedy.

"There was a steady stream of people coming to see the crash."
