Candidates, mill proposals face City, Twp. Nov. 3

BY PAUL GARGARO

Plymouth and Plymouth Township voters will decide on millage increase proposals on the Nov. 3 special election ballot.

Plymouth Township residents will be voting on three millage proposals. The proposed millage hikes would involve the construction of a township park at the southeast corner of Schoolcraft and Haggerty roads; a provision for additional funds to be used for operating purposes and volume additions for the Plymouth District Library (Dunning-Hough Library); and funds for the construction and maintenance of a township pool in the existing township park.

Currently, Lakepointe residents are campaigning for the construction of a township park, rather than allowing the parcel to be developed as a Meijer department store. The proposal calls for 3.5 mills to be used for acquisition and development of the land for a park. The millage would be in effect for no more than two years.

Lakepoint residents waged a successful petition drive to get the issue on the Nov. 3 ballot.

There will be an open forum to discuss the proposal on Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in Farrand School.

"I'm generally a skeptic, but I'm generally pleased with the response thus far," said Loraine Potochick, a proponent of the proposed park. "I've only had three negative responses while I've been out campaigning. I think that there is a lot of interest in the community."

ORBS: They're orange, they're round, and they're growing in Plymouth Township. In less than two weeks, thousands of residents will plunge knives into them. See page 3.

TEAMS: The Canton Board of Trustees may be one short by year's end. The Plymouth-Canton school board, however, is back at full strength after 3½ months. See pages 8 and 9.

TITLE: The CEP Marching Band will defend its state marching band title this Saturday at Central Middle School and CEP. See page 20.

A voter's preview of the City Commission candidates appears on pages 10-11.

The proposal calling for increased funds to the Plymouth District Library calls for an additional 0.4 mills.

"According to a survey, people want longer hours and more volumes," said library spokesperson Carol Davis. "If people are really serious, the millage would allow us to buy an additional 1,000 books a year and keep the library open on Saturday and Sunday.

"It has been set up to enhance our services," explained Davis. "We'd also like to build up the reference services and improve our sound collection."

The library proposal will appear on both the city and township ballots.

The proposal for the construction of a township pool asks for two mills (approximately $880,000) over a period of one year.

"About nine out of every 10 people that I have spoken to are for it," said Jane McCourt, organizer of the pool proposal. "The township board is not completely sold, but they haven't seen the figures yet.

"I'm planning on showing them maintenance and operating costs from Paddock Pools in Southfield," said McCourt. "We project a $50,000 operating and maintenance cost which is comprehensive. This is what it costs to run a pool three times the size of the pool that we're proposing."

Paddock pools has provided a $630,000 estimate for the construction of the proposed pool. With an $880,000 millage allotment and an approximate $700,000 construction fee, McCourt and her supporters are

Garbage crisis nears

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second week of a three-week series of articles about the garbage disposal problem in Plymouth-Canton.

BY DAN NESS

Milton Mack doesn't paint a pretty picture when describing the garbage disposal situation in Wayne County.

"We are generating 17,500 tons of trash per day and we are burying 95 per cent of it in landfills," the 11th District county commissioner said.

Mack refers to the situation in New Jersey: a state that will be exporting half of its garbage out of state for disposal by the end of the year; a state with some communities ordering mandatory recycling of garbage, backed by stiff penalties for violators; a state that faces 200 per cent increases in fees for dumping at landfills; a state that has witnessed a severe illegal dumping problem as a result of the high dumping fees.

"Some communities (in New Jersey) have stopped picking up garbage," Mack said. Residents in those communities must find their own hauler to take care of their garbage.

Teacher aides file unfair labor complaint

BY KEN VOYLES

Members of the Plymouth-Canton Paraprofessional Association, representing instructional aides throughout the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district, are frustrated and angry over what has happened during recent bargaining with the administration.

That's why the bargaining unit filed an unfair labor practice charge with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) on Oct. 7, said Maryann Ligato, executive director of the association.

"The board, through its agent, is refusing to bargain," Ligato said. "There's been only surface bargaining."

Joyce Harrington, president of the approximately 130-member union, said her people are just looking for a "fair and equitable contract."

"The feedback I'm getting from the members is that they are all united behind our team and they are angry at the treatment they've been getting," said Harrington, who is in her first year as president.

A Dec. 10 hearing has been set at the Bureau of Employment Relations in Detroit before Judge Joseph Bixler to hear the complaint.

The group first met with the administration's bargaining team in June when it was agreed that proposals would be exchanged by August. Initial proposals were first exchanged on Aug. 10; said Ligato.

The group met with the administration on six different occasions after that, but soon decided further meetings would not be very fruitful, Ligato said. The union's contract expired on June 30 but the members continue to work on a day-to-day extension.

"I don't understand the reason for the stalling and that's why we filed," Ligato said. "The mediator approved a fact finder who will look at the district's ability to pay and compare benefits with other districts."

The aides are seeking a fringe benefit package comparable to other school districts in southeast Michigan, said Ligato.

Ligato said the fact finder -- usually a neutral party -- can sustain the charge or dismiss it.

The group first formed in 1983. It negotiated a full contract through 1985, but had since been working with an extension through June, 1987.

"I'm hopeful we'll bargain again," said Ligato. "We want to secure a fair contract."

The current salary for aides ranges from $4.61 to $6.17 an hour, Ligato said.

Patch work

Local farmers satisfy demand

BY PAUL GARGARO

There's something very nostalgic about autumn in the country. Fall means southbound geese holding a tight pattern in an empty sky, and the brilliance of a maple tree standing alone in a dying forest. It's brown, naked corn stalks and acorns that crack under foot.

And pumpkins.

Pumpkins are funny things. What's the point of ornamental fruit? Or are they vegetables? Aside from pumpkin pies, the only other thing you can do with a pumpkin is stick a knife into one and try to create a likeness of some unfortunate.

Regardless, pumpkins are as much a part of fall as backyard football games and Homecoming queens.

Just west of Plymouth, you'll find all the pumpkins you could ever hope for. Although this was a poor year for pumpkins, local farmers have managed to yield an abundant crop.

Guy Bunyea, a Plymouth Township resident, has been raising pumpkins since 1968. He is currently harvesting 100 acres of pumpkins which would make him one of the largest pumpkin producers in the state.

"We sell to anybody, but we're pretty close to being sold out," Bunyea said. "Mostly we sell to chain stores like A & P, Farmer Jack, Kroger and Foodland.

"We send trucks back and forth to Detroit every day," said Bunyea. "Our first load went off to Georgia on Oct. 4. We used to send trucks all over the country but now we can get rid of most of them around here.

"Last year we sold about 500 tons of pumpkins," said Bunyea. "We hope to do about as many this year, but it's really too early to tell."

Seeing orange

In addition to super market sales, Bunyea will once again supply all of the pumpkins for Plymouth's Great Pumpkin Caper.

The main Bunyea field is about 80 acres and is located on North Territorial Road, just west of Gotfredson Road.

Just east of the of the Bunyea field, at the corner of North Territorial Road and Ridge Road, is another pumpkin patch owned by Okie and Mary Hamblin and operated by their daughter Luanne.

"Basically, this is my baby," said Luanne. "This is our third year of U-Pick pumpkins. We opened the stand on Oct. 10 and will run until the 31st.

Luanne works at the stand from 10 a.m. to dusk and visibly enjoys her work.

"This is great. I love it," said Luanne. "I put on my cowboy boots and a flannel shirt and I could sit out here every day.

"I cater mostly to the expressway traffic," said Luanne. "This weekend should be busy because of the home football game in Ann Arbor."

Hamblin's U-Pick also handles bulk orders. They've supplied a few churches with pumpkins this fall and during the week bus loads of schools kids have added to their business.

"Channel Two was out last week," said Luanne. "But I'll have to miss the 6 o'clock edition. I hope that my mom tapes it for me."

Twp. frowns on school site

BY KEN VOYLES

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen is calling a battle being waged over a piece of township property owned by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, just a disagreement of viewpoints between government units.

"It's our viewpoint that it is not a good school site," Breen said. "There is only one access through the Glenview subdivision. And it's a busing situation."

The supervisor said "statistics" seem to bear out the assertion that the property would not make a good school site.

Breen also explained that the township did indeed put the property on the rolls because "government units should not hold land for purposes other than intended.

"They've already sold some property for private purposes," Breen said. "We've requested the land to make it a part of the township park and keep it from development.

"That property has apparently been sitting there for a long time," he continued. "Our position is that it doesn't make much sense -- from the community view -- to hold it for a future school site when everything indicates it's not appropriate."

The supervisor also said there were some indications that a government unit can indeed put unused land back on the tax rolls.

"We're testing it out," he said.

The township is also interested in a piece of land owned by the City of Detroit near the former DeHoCo facility and no longer in use.

Breen said the township will "ride it" to the tax tribunal if necessary.

Canton chief nabs thief

BY DAN NESS

Call it an example of practicing what you preach. Saturday night, Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro was pulling into the parking lot of Arbor Drug, at 5880 Sheldon Rd. in Canton, when he saw two store employees chasing a man running out of the store.

Santomauro got out of his car and went to the back of the retail establishment after the employees had given up the chase. Shortly thereafter, the man appeared from out of a wooded area and Santomauro approached him.

"He stopped when I identified myself," Santomauro said. "There's not really a lot to it."

The employees explained that they saw the man put store items into his jacket and leave the store without paying, according to police records. Santomauro kept the suspected shoplifter at the store until some of his own police officers arrived to officially arrest the man.

The 26-year-old Canton man was also wanted on six warrants -- five misdemeanors and one felony larceny charge, according to police records.

Nay: Larson.

Abstain: Poole.

Motion to approve carried.

CORRESPONDENCE:

Bennett reported that he had written a letter to Poole. He expected consideration of that letter to be on the next agenda. The subject matter was discussed. Certain tree plantings are not presently a requirement in the zoning ordinance, and site plan approvals cannot be retained for that reason.

Clerk Chuhran informed the public that various articles in the newspapers were indicating election dates this year, and this is incorrect. Canton has no scheduled election this year. The next scheduled election is August 1988.

Mr. Poole announced a special meeting of the Beautification Committee to be held on October 7th at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Poole will be going to Lansing on the 15th to receive one of the nine "Keep Michigan Beautiful" awards. He stated his goals for beautification and was elated that Canton will be receiving this award.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS:

Clerk Chuhran reported that 12 Class C liquor licenses are available to Canton, 9 SDM licenses, no limit on SDD licenses, based on the census count of 53,588 as of September 23, 1987 provided by the director of the Office of Revenue and Tax Analysis.

Chuhran further reported that in reviewing old records she had discovered in the year 1908 that two roads had been deeded to Canton. She will forward these to the attorney to interpret the meaning of the documents.

Hunting popularity poses a threat to the safety of a more heavily populated Canton and the clerk has recommended that the hunting ordinance be revised. This item will be on the next agenda with a recommendation from Public Safety Director Santomauro.

CITIZEN FORUM:

Mr. Leo Medley reiterated his complaints about the Balloon Festival. He cited conflict with an ordinance against noise; the traffic being a danger to life and property; there being no benefit to local business, and the burden of cost of approximately $5,000 for police and fire protection for the event.

Mr. Sam Natoli voiced his complaint in viewing board meetings on cable. He said that he cannot hear what is being said.

Twp. grants fund for senior transport

BY PAUL GARGARO

A senior citizen's transportation program has been granted a $12,000 subsidy from Plymouth Township to cover the "attached" needs of the proposed service.

Empa-Care IV, developer of the "Transportation Initiative Plan" (TIP) which will offer its users transportation for medical appointments and shopping excursions, was granted the proposed Township funding at the Oct. 13 board of trustees meeting.

"We're looking at this as an experimental trip to flush out the needs of the community," said Maurice Breen, supervisor. "This is a genuine attempt to issue a program that will give us some answers."

TIP stresses that users must be at least 55 years old with either a disability or a "demonstrated economic need."

Empa-Care's proposed budget for TIP allocates $8,000 for transportation. Low-income riders (annual income for married households no more than $8,000) will get $4,000 of the program. Middle-income users (annual income of married households no more than $10,000) received $2,000 of the subsidy. High-income users (annual income for married households no more than $15,000) will also get $2,000 of the funds.

In addition, $4,000 will also be used to cover Empa-Care's operations fees, supplies and related expenses, and the initial consulting fees.

"Empa-Care serves as an information coordinating service, not as a transportation system per se," said John Fusik, Empa-Care coordinator.

"Part of the problem in the past has been that the public has not been aware of the available resources. We hope to change that."

Body found in pond

BY DAN NESS

The body of an 88-year-old Canton man was found in a pond at Fellows Creek Golf Course early Friday morning after an all-night search by police.

Canton police were called Thursday night by the man's relatives reporting him missing, according to Canton Police Information Officer David Boljesic. "He left his house in the late evening and was found at about 7 a.m." by Canton police personnel, Boljesic said. "We had been conducting a search all night long."

Police do not suspect foul play.

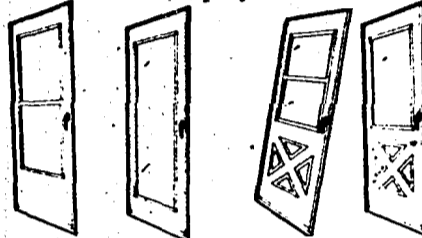

Police are waiting for the results of a Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office report. Drowning is the suspected cause of death, Boljesic said.

Who cares?

Elections go unnoticed

If residents of Plymouth and Plymouth Township have trouble sleeping nights, one look at the current non-campaigns for the Tuesday, Nov. 3 election should do the trick.

Seven candidates are running for the Plymouth City Commission, but you'd be hard pressed to put a finger on any one burning issue. For that matter, the candidates haven't seen fit to highlight differences between themselves at this point.

Proponents for a township swimming pool and supporters of a township park have been the most active, if not the only, campaigners this fall. The Lakepointe residents pushing for the township park have the most at stake here -- if a millage for a park is approved, it would negate a proposed large commercial development.

The Plymouth-Plymouth Township library millage increase proposal seems to have no active voice. The library staff wants more money to increase services, yet there has been no concerted effort to explain the issue to voters, through either a question-and-answer session or written information.

Voter apathy is always a problem, and the city and township of Plymouth are not immune from this affliction.

Now, add to this list of non-doers a surprise member -- the League of Women Voters.

The local League has traditionally coordinated a candidates' night for voters to listen to the candidates discuss issues and explain why they are different from the others running. This year, there will be no candidate's night for the seven would-be City Commissioners, says the League.

Taking an all-volunteer group to task for failing to perform a public service may be an unpopular position to take. But the League's non-action this fall is especially disappointing in Plymouth, a community that boasts two state LWV presidents among its residents.

What are the issues in this campaign?

Who wants to win this election?

Wake us up when someone finds out.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Swing vote is question mark

The most important swing vote on the Canton Board of Trustees is a person who isn't on the board at this time.

That person will be named to fill a vacancy left by Trustee Stephen Larson, who most likely will be moving out of Canton by the end of the year.

The board will then have to name a replacement trustee to fulfill the term of office, which lasts through November 1988. The nominees will be recommended from two factions within the board: those who favor and have pushed the superintendent form of township administration, and those who oppose that system.

Right now, the two divisions each boast a membership of three. Even-numbered municipal bodies have a history of not getting much done, especially when teams form within that board. The occurrence of 4-3 votes in Canton has increased lately, and the two teams within the current board seem to be solidifying.

The first issue that will showcase the split will be the naming of Larson's replacement. There will be one issue that will take precedent over all other factors in the choosing of this replacement -- his or her position on the superintendent form of administration.

We may be seeing a major stalemate in the works over the naming of a successor to Larson, who was instrumental in getting the superintendent form of township administration in place.

To the point

By Dan Ness

Larson's cohorts in implementing the superintendent system -- Robert Padgett, John Prenizcky and Loren Bennett -- will not budge when it comes down to a replacement choice. Either the new trustee is on the bus with them, or he/she is off the bus.

Where was the press?

EDITOR:

I didn't see the press there on Thursday night, Oct. 15, but an enthusiastic group of people met with neighbor-to-neighbor workers to get action on the part of those people who don't approve of Contra aid but haven't yet contacted U.S. Representative Carl Pursell or who ever their representative might be.

From people who know the conditions well, we are told that the best hope for Central America is to let the five countries go ahead with their peace plan. Any aid hidden in escrow or otherwise will only increase the bloodshed and terrorism.

Say no to Contra aid. Give peace a chance.

HELEN VAN DYKE

The other faction, on the other hand, is not so solid, although the record so far would not indicate that.

Supervisor James Poole, Clerk Linda Chuhran and Treasurer Gerald Brown all voted against the implementation of a superintendent system. All three voted against the naming of a three-person township committee to search for qualified candidates. On Padgett's resolution to bring a consulting firm in to assist in the search, Chuhran voted against it. Poole abstained because the resolution had been handed him and the board at the beginning of the meeting of the vote, and Brown was absent.

The absent vote at that Oct. 6th board meeting could be the one to switch on a vote for recommendation of a replacement trustee. Brown has been consistently independent in his board voting so far, even to the point of surprising some of his fellow board members who thought they had him pegged on certain votes.

It will be Brown that determines the duration of the debate regarding the seventh board member. If Brown stands firm with his previous votes on the superintendent issue, the stalemate will begin.

Twp. bid for property not wise

If Plymouth Township officials really want to get their hands on a piece of school district property next to Township Park, they are going about it all wrong.

For some it seems pretty clear why the township wants the property -- one can hardly blame them if the land is pure "gold" as it's been called -- but to put the property back on the tax rolls is not the way to go about getting it.

Even if the district wanted to relinquish the land, the township would be wiser to lay back and see just what other interest there is for it in the business community.

The township could find a better use for the land besides using it as just a healthy addition to a park.

But that's getting away from the point. The township has rudely abused its taxing powers to take a snip at the school district.

Not a wise thing to do.

A lot of people in this community get mad when they hear of childish infighting between two of the governing bodies. They can't understand why supportive governments play such silly games.

The district needs that property for future growth in the very township which is fighting to regain control of it. Maybe the township officials should work with the district for the future instead of working against the schools' future.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

E.J. is back from Southeast Asia

E.J. McClendon is back.

The former president of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district Board of Education has returned from a three and a half month absence.

The Crier did not report that E. J. was gone all this time out of common courtesy to the man, who many feel has been the strongest board president for some time.

Back in June E.J. asked reporters at this newspaper and the other one in town to play down the fact that he'd be overseas until October. He said he wanted his wife's privacy protected.

Reluctantly we said okay at the time, despite some doubts and a concern that the citizens of the district have a right to know when one of the leaders on their school board isn't going to be around for a while.

During the time he was gone, E.J. missed nearly a dozen meetings, albeit most of them were of little importance since they came during the district's summer holiday.

Where was E.J.?

Try all over in Southeast Asia -- Malaysia, Thailand, the Philippines. He went to those (and other) countries as a consultant to the World Health Organization.

What's wrong in Canton?

EDITOR:

I consider voting to be a great privilege in our Constitution of the United States. What's going on in Canton Township just makes me sick, to know I spend the time to wait in line to vote, then someone comes up with the idea; hey we can kick him out if we want to. I know this may come a little late for as long as this has been going on, but after reading last week Crier, 'Poole wants vote' I also agree.

I voted for most of the board that's now in and I would feel the same way if any one of them was going to reject my official vote. I may have voted for the last time for Canton officials seeing I can get cancelled at anytime. Most of us have kept quiet just a little too long. Come on Cantonites, we live here, why vote if it doesn't count?

Knowing four people have the right

In The Margin

By Ken Voyles

Originally McClendon was scheduled to visit the island of Fiji but the political situation in that country was so tense that the health specialist felt he would not be able accomplish much while there.

"It's been an exciting experience," McClendon told the board upon his return last week. "I'm glad to be back."

McClendon said he wasn't yet looking forward to board meetings again, but added that the board room was a lot better than some places he's seen since leaving early this summer.

"People around the world would give anything, just anything, to give their children the kind of education we can give our children," he said.

E.J. also said we take for granted what we have and fail to realize how much better off this country is than most of the world.

Now that he's returned E.J. said he wants to get a handle on what's been happening in the district. He seemed sharp last Monday, raising questions about several items on the action agenda.

Even though it has been relatively easy to refrain from mentioning that he was gone, it was still a difficult editorial decision to make.

One has to wonder how committed to the board E.J. still is if he is willing to miss three months worth of meetings. Once he handed over the presidency, it came across as all too easy for him to pack up and leave on extended business.

Maybe his business should have been with the board. Unfortunately many people will read this and think less highly of E.J. for betraying the public trust by not being at his duty station each week when the needs of the district called.

Enough said.

It's good to see E.J. return to the work of powering the school district through what could be a long, tough winter.

Positions on the Future of Garbage Disposal

"There's no way for Plymouth to handle this situation alone. We'll have to be in cooperation with some major metropolitan centers like Livonia or Ann Arbor. So far, we've had a lack of leadership from the county and the state representatives. I'm hopeful that McNamara will take a leadership role. If we allow a local figure to take the lead, everyone will try to upstage each other. That could be a huge problem. But, it's not as if we have to invent the wheel. It's a multiple solution with incineration and then recycling coming later. We also have to keep searching for landfills. We know how to tackle it, we just need a state or county leader to step forth get the job done."

"This is not a new thing. It's down to the nitty gritty and it's going to take a few communities to come together to investigate and manage the costs. The problem is who is going to take charge. We will also need a definite agenda. The city is fortunate because Hank Graper is very familiar with the situation. Incineration is the way to go, but it's expensive. Unfortunately, we may have to go higher than five mills to cover the cost. We have to consider construction and consulting fees when we think about solutions. When we put our garbage out at night, it's gone in the morning. The public has to be made more aware of what's going on."

"Considering the city of Plymouth's small size (2.5 square miles) and stable population of 10,000, plus the fact that the city is nearly completely developed, the annual volume of solid waste generated by the city should remain at a constant level. This contrasts with the surrounding areas who are expecting considerable increases in residential and industrial development. It is important for the city to open the channels of cooperation with these surrounding communities, rather than go it alone on this issue. Already there are some indications that some would like for the city to operate its own disposal unit. This would be a mistake. This issue is precisely the type of problem that is best dealt with through a close cooperation of neighboring communities to develop a solution that is both economically and socially beneficial to all."

Positions on the Downtown Development Authority

"I supported it, but I did it reluctantly. I don't think that we should expand the downtown into residential areas. With the tremendous growth going on around us there is going to be pressure to expand the central business district. We can't allow the DDA to get into that. On the other hand, as a city community, we fund a lot programs like solutions to cruising and the Fall Festival, so I don't think it's wrong to ask for tax dollars to fund problems. I'll support DDA decisions as long as they don't cut into residential areas."

"I love Plymouth the way it is. But, we have to continue to attract new business. We are fortunate because a lot of our business owners live in the community so we are forced to keep up the fine image that exists in downtown Plymouth. At the same time we have to remain competitive with the surrounding communities."

"I'd like to see the boundaries established and so we can stick with the plan. Changing it discourages residents. By operating in private and adding parcels without the views of the residents, the whole process of government is discouraged."

Priorities; Other Issues

"We need to upgrade the master plan of the city so that more citizens can have input into the proceedings. We also need a cooperation plan between the surrounding communities to help oversee things like the Fall Festival and the cruising problem."

"I think that I have something to give and I listen. We have a fantastic city hall and department heads who listen to what people are saying. We always try and find a solution when it's asked of us."

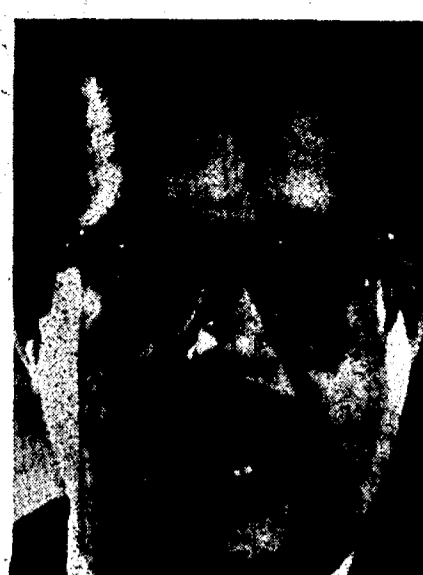

"The single most important issue facing the city is to open up the government to all residents. The frustration of residents who feel shut out of the process is evident and justified. Discussion of important issues is almost non-existent at regular commission meetings, leaving concerned citizens shaking their heads in disgust. Now is the time to take real steps to include residents in the process of government."

"Finding alternative disposal methods is a major problem. It's time to move on this issue despite the costs. We've got to move towards the development of an incinerator. Landfills are an extremely precious commodity and we've got to do everything within our power to preserve the existing sites and plan for the future. Plymouth, along with the surrounding communities, has a pretty good idea of what has to be accomplished. Now we have to get to work on it."

"At present, incineration appears to be the most viable alternative, but it's not a project the community of Plymouth should enter alone. Even under incineration, there are alternatives, i.e. should any recycling be included, location, private ownership with community contracts vs multiple community ownership, use of the incinerator as a cogeneration facility for industrial or community uses, etc. Because there are so many questions we must begin now. We must utilize the best resources our community can offer in exploring this topic."

"Something has to be done in a short time. With community cooperation, I think that recycling is the ultimate answer. Interesting concepts can be done with recycling rather than just incinerating our waste. Incineration is a waste of energy. Ideas like recycling paper waste products into burnable nuggets like coal for heating, deserve to be explored."

"I'm surprised at how many people were still unaware and not concerned about the landfill problem. I feel that we won't have a solution until another three years. I believe in incineration as a solution, but I'm not sure about where we should dump out ashes."

"Ten years ago, before the Forest Place Mall was built, there were people living on the site. But Plymouth is growing so fast that we have to move forward with it. Naturally, I'm very happy with where we are at, but we can't allow ourselves to fall behind. We have to remain competitive."

"I do not believe that the DDA is an issue with the community. It is more of a situation which requires careful explanation and discussion regarding impacts."

"I'm not in favor of any more expansion. The downtown should remain the same size. Right now, our tax base is sufficient and I'd like the downtown to remain fairly contained. In the past, I think that there were problems because people were afraid that expansion was meant to create a bigger tax base."

"I would like to see the downtown expanded because the work and business is in the best interest of Plymouth. However, I disagree with any development of Ann Arbor Trail from Harvey towards Sheldon."

"I've been here for 20 years and I've been involved with this commission for number of years so I think that I've got something to offer. I love Plymouth and I give a lot of my time to this community. In general, I think that the city is doing pretty well. The streets are clean and the people are friendly."

"I believe that cruising will be back in 1988. If an impoundment is not made early it will be the same problem that we had in the spring and summer of '87. While I do not believe the hiring of additional police will again be needed. The hiring of a line of plain clothes and their restrictions on Ann Arbor Road may be. However, the state will maintain our strong stance on this activity."

"We must try to make citizens feel their views and opinions are being listened to. Even when they may not be followed. We must take care that citizens feel that they are being treated fairly, reasonably, equitably, and with respect when they appear before our commission."

"I think that the current city commission and the current administration have to listen to the citizens. They don't have to agree with them, but they've got to make the citizens heard."

"The primary thing in my mind is the landfill issue. Also, the merchants during the cruise had to spend so much money. In the best interest of Plymouth, these people should be compensated. If we lose our merchants Plymouth will die. As a commissioner, I would endeavor to create an atmosphere where people could be compensated for their losses during the cruise."

Cardiac rehab director teaches esteem

BY PAUL GARGARO

"In college my lottery number for the draft was three," said Plymouth resident, Davis Sabo, program director of the Cardiac Rehabilitation Program at St. John's Hospital in Detroit.

"I was granted conscientious objector status, though," he added, "and was sent to work at the old St. Joe's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"Those two years exposed me to medicine and patient rehabilitation," explained Sabo. "I guess that's why I'm doing this today. It was a twist of fate. It was because of Vietnam."

The circumstances surrounding Sabo's involvement with therapy and rehabilitation are out of the ordinary and he's the first to admit it.

Regardless, Sabo has chosen it as his vocation and works at it with a great dedication.

"Our patients range anywhere from about 26 to 76. Typically, though, they're usually around 55," explained Sabo. "Sometimes their problems are hereditary, but for many, their problems stem from a basic lack of attention to the risk factors."

Sabo describes his St. John's Cardiac Rehabilitation Program as having three parts.

"In Phase One, we work with the in-patient while he's still on the floor," said Sabo. "We also stress the guidelines for a home program after the patient is released.

"In Phase Two, we run an out-patient clinic which consists of various Helping . . .

Davis Sabo, of Plymouth, monitors heart patients exercising their way back to health.

kinds of exercise which we monitor closely," Sabo explained. "This segment to the course runs for about six to seven weeks and gives us a real chance to chart their progress.

"Phase Three is more independent," said Sabo. "Members work out three times a week at the Lakeshore YMCA. The type of exercise varies and blood pressure is charted regularly."

While Sabo admits that the rewards from the program can be tremendous, he is quick to point out that the ultimate success of the program rests in the hands of the participants.

"I've seen patients go through the first two phases and then really go at it," said Sabo. "That's great, but it's most important that they stick with the routine or habit of exercising."

There's more to exercising than firm bellies and strong hearts. A routine that involves vigorous physical activity can benefit the mind as well the body.

"The psychological merits include new feelings of confidence and a better sense of one's endurance and pace," stressed Sabo. "There's also an overall increase in self-esteem. People begin to feel good about themselves and what they're doing. That's half the battle."

Although Sabo doesn't find much time for research, he has a tremendous amount of input into the program at St. John's Hospital.

This winter, Sabo and St. John's are planning a health and fitness cruise in the Caribbean.

"We're sponsoring a seven day cruise in February," said Sabo. "We're trying to gear it for the heart patients. It'll be their vacation, but our on-board program will be a real bonus."

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Sabo holds graduate degrees from Wayne State University as well as U-M. His wife Donna is a social worker at Oakwood Hospital. The Sabos have two children.

Ad Advice #529

USE A DOMINANT ELEMENT

— a large picture or headline - to insure quick visibility. Photographs and realistic drawings have about equal attention-getting value, but photographs of real people win more readership. So do action pictures. Photographs of local people or places also have high attention value. Use good art work. It will pay off in extra readership.

Getting down to business

Razzle Dazzle

Balloons and more

BY DAVID DEGRAZIA

If you're trying to find something new to brighten up that party or special event you're planning, look no more. The Razzle Dazzle Connection might be just what you need.

"We try to sell everything for a party in one shot," said Dennis Jones, co-owner of the store.

Dennis, along with his wife Dorene, of Northville, recently opened the store in Linwood Square on Mill Street in Plymouth. The store, which specializes in balloons and other party items, opened Sept. 12. According to Dorene, the store is doing very well.

"We were surprised the store started out so successfully," said Dorene, the female half of the business venture.

The couple, both 26 and originally from the Pittsburgh area, recently moved to the P-C-N area with the intention of opening a store of this sort. "We left a depressed area," said Dennis, "and this seemed like an area that was picking up".

The idea of opening a store specializing in party supplies came to them when they dressed as clowns for a birthday party for a relative's child. "To make a long story short," the party was a success, and the couple received many calls afterward to entertain and decorate other parties.

Dorene, originally a kindergarten teacher, says "I miss the kids, but I still get to see the good side of them" through the parties they decorate.

In opening the store, Dennis' carpentry skills came in very handy. With his experience he was able to build most of the store's interior himself, which saved the couple much expense.

Being members of the National Association of Balloon Artists, the store's mainstay is the balloon business. They have 150 styles in every shape, size, and color imaginable. The balloons can be used for almost any event, and often are used to replace flowers as decorations and gifts.

With the expertise the couple has in decorating with balloons, they hope to eventually decorate events like weddings and other large gatherings, "but right now we've been getting lots of calls for Christmas and kids' birthday parties."

Along with the balloons, the store offers a wide variety of other party supplies. Among these are paper plates, napkins and banners with special sayings on them.

Many of the goods change throughout the year. "We try to aim for all seasons," Dorene said.

CEP Band ready to defend title

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band will defend its Michigan Championship Marching Band title this Saturday.

The CEP group has previously won the title in 1984, 1985 and 1986.

This is the seventh year in a row that the Michigan Competing Band Directors State Championship Marching Band Show has been held at the CEP Football Stadium.

This year 33 bands from across Michigan and Canada will compete for top honors.

Preliminary competition for Flight I and Flight II will be held at the stadium beginning around noon, while preliminaries for Flight III will be staged at Central Middle School.

Following the daytime preliminaries the top four bands from each flight will compete for the state title that evening.

Captain award trophies for each flight will also be given for best percussion, best brass and winds, best marching and maneuvering, best color guard and best drum major. There are seven judges.

The Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters are the host organization for the show this Saturday.

Tickets for the show are $4 pre-sale and $6 at the gate. One ticket is good for all day at either or both show sites. They are available in Plymouth at the Trading Post on Ann Arbor Road and at Sideways on Forest Avenue and, in Canton, at the Book Break on Ford Road.

The 166-member CEP Marching Band is led by director James R. Griffith. The group sports new uniforms this year, also. The competition coat is yellow and white and is worn with high waisted trousers.

Following the Saturday show, the band will prepare for the Marching Bands of America Grand National Championships at the Pontiac Silverdome on Nov. 13-14. More than 50 bands will be on hand.

The top 12 bands will compete for the title of Grand National Champion.

Salem students commended for academic work

Five Salem High School students have been designated "commended students" in the 1988 National Merit Scholarship Program and will receive a letter or commendation in recognition of their outstanding academic work.

The students are Missy K. Brenner, Douglas M. Donaldson, Soo M.

Kwon, Arpan R. Patel, Nancy I. Rekuc and Julie A. Valsa.

The seniors placed in the top 50,000 of more than one million student participants in the 33rd annual Merit program.

Students entered the current Merit program by taking the PSAT/NMSQT in October last year when most of them were juniors.

Those students named "commended students" scored slightly below the level required for semifinalist standing in their respective states.

Another 15,000 semi-finalists will continue in the competition for some 6,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring.

Fiegel "Extra Miler"

Barbara Overholt, a second grade teacher at Fiegel Elementary School, is the newest "Extra Miler" in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Overholt has taught in the school district for more than 12 years, including a stint at Field Elementary School.

Her principal Barbara Young said Overholt, "epitomized all that is fine in our profession."

Other nomination letters came from parents, one of whom wrote about her son who wanted his classmates to each write a nominating letter -- "so she gets a lot of them."

Overholt is the first "Extra Miler" award winner of the 1987-88 school year. The award goes to outstanding individuals in the district.

She was honored at a regular meeting of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

Ford gives to PCAC

Home Tour features 28 historic stops

The Plymouth Landmarks Home Tour of Plymouth landmarks will be held this Sunday, Oct. 25 from 1-5 p.m. Besides a variety of local homes, the tour group will also visit Geer School.

There will be 28 stops planned this year.

The bus tour is being co-sponsored by the Plymouth Chapter of AAUW (Association of American University Women) and the Geer School Preservation Committee. Proceeds from the tour will go to the Geer School fund.

Busses will leave West Middle School beginning at 1 p.m. and every half hour after that. The tour lasts about 45 minutes.

Two stops will be made during the tour -- the Charles Bennett House on Main Street and the Pumpkin Hill House on Adams Street.

Other landmark homes and sites in Plymouth will also be visited, with Geer School set as the last stop on the tour this year.

Some of the more noteworthy sites include the Cass and Margaret Hough House, the Kellogg-Anderson House, Jack Wilcox House, the Plymouth Grange, Adistra Corporation, Baker House, Miller-Cassady House, Kellogg-Crawford House, Burdan-Roe House, the old Markham Building, and the Lyon-Moss House.

Tickets are $5 presale and $7.50 on the day of the tour. Tickets are available at all elementary schools in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district, and at the Little Professor on the Park.

Call Elaine Kirchgatter at 453-8054 for further details.

Childrens' bookmark contest open to youngsters

The Friends of the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library are sponsoring the annual children's bookmark contest again this year.

The theme this year will be "Take Time to Read." It may be used in the bookmark design but it is not mandatory.

All children of The Plymouth-Canton Community in grades one through nine can participate in the contest this year.

There will be four separate divisions this year: grades one-two, grades three-four, grades five-six and grades seven-nine, with three winners in each division.

Entries must be turned in at the library by Wednesday, Oct. 28. They must measure two and a half by eight and a quarter inches and should be done in black pen.

Entry forms are available at local stores and at the Dunning-Hough Library.

The 12 winning entries will be printed and distributed with each book checked out at the library. There will also be a reception for the winners and their guests on Monday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m.

Judges for the contest will include local artists, educators and library personnel.

For further information call 453-0750.

School pushes on

BY KEN VOYLES

They are moving right along with the new Hoben Elementary School in Canton.

"We feel very comfortable with the total project right now," Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools told the Board of Education last week.

Work continues this week and next to finish the main exterior (brick) walls and put a roof in place, said Charlie Opferman from Barton-Malow, the district's construction consultants.

The structure is also coming in well under budget, said Hoedel. The school is expected to open in the fall of 1988.

Last week the board also approved landscaping and grading bids for the project.

The next step will be to order furniture and instructional equipment, said Hoedel, who added that there is still a $500,000 budget for those materials.

Opferman said that a fence has been erected at the new school to keep vandals away from the site. He said a "lot of kids" have also wandered onto the site and some even hot wired a crane one night.

Plans are to continue work on the site through the winter, said Opferman.

confident that the maintenance of the pool can be drawn from the balance and the accrued interest.

"We feel that it's a viable project and we won't have to go back to the taxpayers after we get the two mills," said McCourt. "This is not based on housewife logic."

Collecting for pets

For the third consecutive year, the Michigan Humane Society will be collecting charitable contributions on Halloween night.

The collection will be carried out by volunteers who will give of their time to go door to door with marked canisters to solicit contributions.

"Most of the kids are in junior high, but there is no age limit," said Ron Blauet, of the Michigan Humane Society. "Instead of doing bad things to their teeth, kids can go out and do a good deed."

This year's collection will take place in communities throughout western Wayne and Oakland counties.

Proceeds from the Halloween collection will go to support the Humane Society's cruelty to animals investigation which operates throughout Michigan

Trash mountain looms above Salem

BY PAUL GARGARO

In general, the terrain of southeastern Michigan is devoid of any sizeable altitude fluctuations. To get a good view around here one has either to climb a tall tree or take the stairs to the top floor.

This is our area's lot in nature. Nature, though, does not account for man-made mountains.

Driving along at 1,060 feet above sea-level on the man-made benches of BFI's Arbor Hills sanitary landfill in Salem Township, it's impossible to fathom that this "mountain" is comprised of trash and not granite.

In June 1986, BFI, a $1.6-billion waste management company, purchased the Salem-based landfill from Dan Holloway.

"BFI purchased this landfill because it still has a lot of capacity," said Dan Nelson, site manager and district manager for BFI. "This is long-term investment for us."

Including the landfill, BFI owns nearly 1,000 acres of surrounding land. The present 165-acre landfill, which Nelson refers to as Arbor Hills East, is about two years away from being filled to capacity. Arbor Hills West, which is situated adjacent to Arbor Hills East, covers 175 acres and is nearly ready to begin fill operations.

"BFI purchased this landfill because it still has a lot of capacity. This is a long-term investment for us."

— Dan Nelson

"Two more years on the east half would give it a life of 14 years," said Nelson. "That's not a bad estimation of what the west's lifespan will be."

Presently, Arbor Hills takes the majority of its trash from residential customers. Ten thousand cubic yards of trash, which comes from all over the metropolitan area, is disposed of each day in the landfill.

Concern for the regulation of what materials are brought into the dump is a high priority concern with Dan Nelson and his 25-member staff. Nelson, though, is confident that his operation is successful in maintaining the sanitary requirements of the landfill.

"We employ a professional sales staff which can explain what's acceptable and what's not to our clients," said Nelson. "We also train our drivers to always check for changes in the loads that they bring in. If something looks different from what they're used to hauling, then they report it."

"Our gate men also inspect the load and ask what's in it," Nelson said. "Really, though, we don't have as much of a problem here as they do at other places because we handle so much residential garbage."

"In addition, we have monitoring wells to test the ground water," explained Nelson. "First we test the (surface) zone and then we check below the clay level, which can run 40 feet down."

As each layer of trash is compacted, it is covered with a layer of clay. The sides of the ever-growing mound are packed with one foot of clay to satisfy density specifications and a layer of topsoil is added and seeded. Shelf-like benches are also added to the perimeter to prevent erosion, explained Nelson.

Already, the south and east faces of Arbor Hills East are beginning to sprout grass.

A series of gas wells will be placed along the reclaimed slopes to release the gas which is created by the decomposing garbage and constantly accumulated below the surface.

Wells are built three feet in diameter with an eight-inch pipe which is packed in stone and built in a vault to remain in grade with the slope.

"Salem Township will get the gas rights and will receive a royalty from

Woodland Meadows nears capacity

BY DAN NESS

Woodland Meadows landfill, occupying more than 200 acres of land on the northwest corner of Van Born and Hannan roads in Canton, has passed middle age for a sanitary landfill.

In about five years, the 105-acre south lot of the facility will run out of space, according to Ray Kellas, Midwest district landfill manager for Waste Management of North America, Inc., owner of Woodland Meadows.

The north portion of the landfill is already completed. Gas wells now dot the grassy slopes where garbage from more than five communities once was dumped. The wells recover methane gas produced in the covered landfill.

Garbage at a glance

Woodland Meadows is a "fairly large landfill" compared to others in the country, Kellas said. The landfill accepts between 5,000 and 6,000 cubic yards of garbage per day, including all of the residential garbage produced by the communities of Garden City, Westland, Wayne, Inkster and Dearborn Heights.

Kellas gives one an idea of how large Woodland Meadows is: if all of Wayne County's trash were dumped here, it would take three years to fill the facility.

Woodland Meadows was opened about 14 years ago. The south lot, the remaining operating part of the landfill, was opened in 1984 when the north lot was filled, according to Kellas. Five years from now, the south lot will have a mound of garbage about 50 feet above grade, at which time the company will begin to close the fill.

"Once we get it up to elevation, we cap it off with a three-foot thickness of compacted clay," Kellas said. After the clay is applied, topsoil is dumped onto it, and grass is planted on the new hill.

But until that time, Woodland Meadows is busy receiving tons and tons of waste.

A landfill is more complicated than it looks, according to Kellas. "Landfills today are very highly-engineered facilities," he said. They begin as a 25-foot-deep hole in the ground, with an extensive drainage system constructed at the bottom to keep the moisture out of the garbage pile, Kellas said. A drain, much like a storm sewer drain in residential streets, is kept elevated just above the level of garbage throughout the lifespan of a landfill. Woodland Meadows is situated in an area of fine clay, Kellas said, which is ideal for drainage, and therefore, landfills.

Because Woodland Meadows is a busy landfill, its managers must be careful to prevent illegal dumping by haulers. "I have a crew that patrols the area several times a day," said Jim King, manager of Woodland Meadows. The crew also watches for any irregularities in the perimeter of the landfill, he said.

Television cameras help guard the Van Born Road entrance to Woodland Meadows. The cameras are positioned so that employees can see down into the loads of trucks to watch for illegal garbage being hauled, Kellas said. According to King, it has been about a year since anyone has been caught trying to dump illegally in the landfill.

Woodland Meadows does not

A day with a garbage collector

BY KEN VOYLES

Not many people are cut from the same cloth as a garbage hauler. Not many people would want to be, but it's a job that must be done -- glamorous it isn't.

And yet where would the consumer be without the men and women who ride through subdivision streets daily in a huge garbage truck (essentially big trash compactors) taking away the refuse of the world?

Here's the dilemma of the garbage man in a nutshell: he feels unappreciated by the very people who need him most.

"It's a very, very hectic life," said Dave Denski, a former garbage hauler himself and owner of Canton Recycling Company. "We start the day at 6 a.m. and work until five."

The men are likely to do five days of work in just four, working 10-hour shifts.

"That's why they give it all they got," Denski said. "They put in hefty days. Some crews will load five loads of garbage in a day."

Each of those loads is equivalent to 31 cubic yards of compressed trash. It takes the two-and-three-man crews nearly two hours to fill one truckload. And Denski serves approximately 17,500 homes and businesses in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Most of the men who work for Denski -- there are 25, including those in the office and the repair yard -- are young, lean and tough characters who look you in the eye and aren't afraid to stare through the cigarette smoke filtering through the morning air.

Although, many are young, like 21-year-old Ken Bobee, there are also some oldtimers such as Junior Rogers, a 56-year-old Kentucky native who "never misses a day."

"Not everybody can do this," said Bobee, a Canton resident. "It's hard, really hard and demanding. And you have to have patience."

Bobee has been with the Canton outfit for two years. He takes turns driving, along with the other members of his crew.

"It's all right except when it rains or snows," Bobee said.

Besides rain and snow, and the other unfriendly traps of Mother Nature, garbage haulers are continuously

"People should learn how to package their garbage to make it easier to handle."

— Ken Bobee

fighting the stereotypes of their profession.

"People should learn how to package their garbage to make it easier to handle," said Bobee. "They make things too heavy or just throw it out in a mess. They don't think about us."

Often the unthinking consumer is the cause of a cut on a hand or leg.

"We've also had guys get paint or oil in their eyes from cans hidden in the trash," Denski said. "The majority of people are excellent and our complaint record isn't bad."

"It's a dirty job," he continued.

"And summer's the worst time on these guys. It's hot and the days are long."

Denski said he keeps a careful watch on the men's performance -- the company does not tolerate drinking on the job -- to keep efficiency high and complaints low.

"What are these guys like? They're boastful among each other and like to out hustle each other," said Denski. "If anyone can last two days, they're in."

But what a two days.

Last week Denski crews were working Canton. It was a surprisingly hot day and the men were all shirtless as they raced up the streets in a poetic dance, grabbing a handful of refuse here and another one there.

Many of the men had also abandoned the work gloves provided each morning by Denski.

"We furnish them with gloves but they don't last long," he said. "It gets hot and they can't grab the plastic bags with them."

Board begins action plan on Nov. 4 we take action now," Mack said. "It's a national problem, it just hit New Jersey first. It's only going to get worse unless we plan for the future."

There are other horror stories, such as the city of Philadelphia shipping some of its garbage to Panama, but the horror stories could start here soon, Mack warns.

Mack also serves as chairman of the Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee. In the four years he has been on the board, no new landfills have been sited in Wayne County. Knowing that the county has less than five years before running out of landfill space, the committee will vote on a new landfill proposal which would be located in Canton on Nov. 4.

That proposal, submitted by Wayne Disposal, Inc., calls for a 106-acre landfill to be sited on Lilley Road south of Michigan Avenue. The "Sauk Trail Hills" landfill would incorporate Wayne Disposal's previous landfill site and two other completed landfills also on the east side of Lilley Road, according to Michael Miller, manager of planning and corporate development for Wayne Disposal.

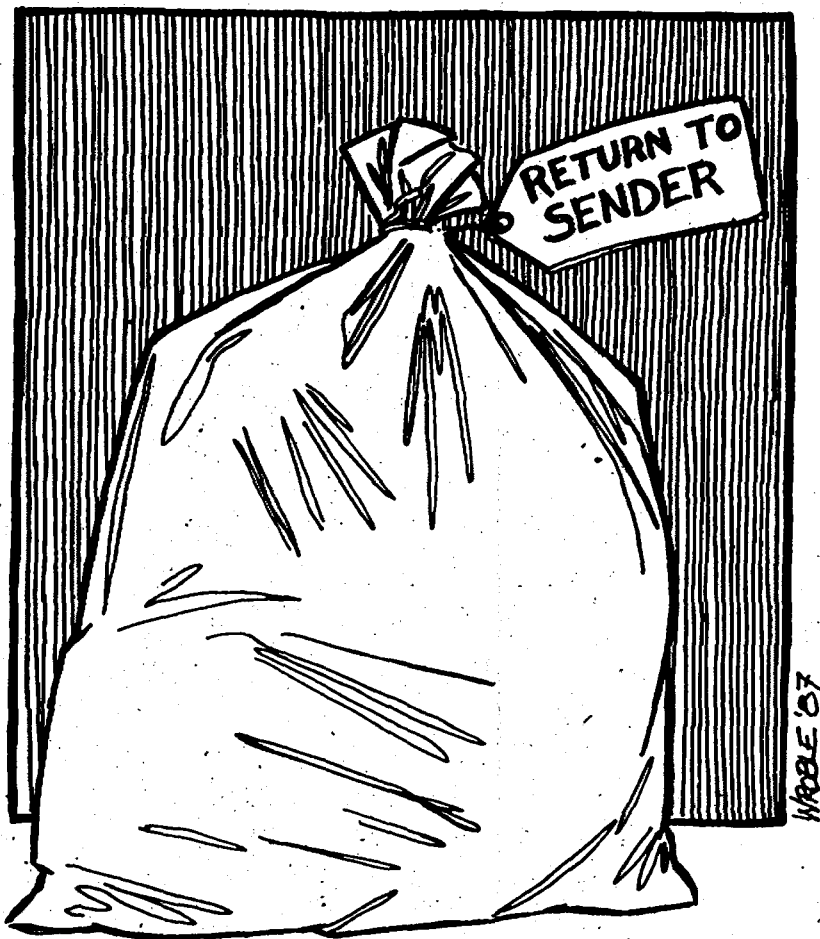

The Sauk Trail Hills proposal is an example of the dilemma that faces communities in Wayne County, according to Mack. Although the county is running out of landfill space quickly, resulting in dumping fee hikes on a regular basis, no community is willing to accept a proposal for a new landfill within their own borders.

That attitude was reflected in Canton last year, when the board of trustees unanimously voted against the Sauk Trail Hills proposal. But because the county's landfills have less than five years to go before filling, the county has authority to site landfills without the consent of individual communities where the landfills would be located, Mack said.

In the case of Sauk Trail Hills, the Solid Waste Implementation Committee will vote Nov. 4 on the proposal, and if it is approved, it will go to the Wayne County Commission for a vote. If the commission approves the proposal, the matter goes before 43 Wayne County communities (excluding Detroit) for votes by their respective township or city representatives. Twenty-nine of the 43 boards must approve the proposal for it to proceed to the Department of Natural Resources for consideration. If the DNR approves it, Canton will have a new landfill.

"My feeling is that it's going to be a close issue," Mack said.

In next week's issue: the Solid Waste Implementation Committee looks at a proposal for garbage disposal alternatives.

Neighbors share garbage woes

BY DAN NESS

The situation regarding increasing garbage disposal costs and decreasing landfill space is not unique to Plymouth-Canton.

The City of Northville contracts garbage pickup to Midwest Sanitation, the same company that hauls garbage in the City of Plymouth. "We just got a rate increase starting in October," said Stephen Walters, Northville city manager. "And it was strictly because of landfill charges increasing."

The shortage of landfill space is quickly making disposal alternatives more feasible, Walters said. "It's a market that's closely approaching incineration. It's been talked about a lot," and even more so as landfill costs rise, Walters said. "A year ago, (an incinerator) didn't look feasible."

The garbage hauling costs for Northville, as divided per living unit, is at $4.21 each month, Walters said.

In Northville Township, residents contract their own garbage pickup. "The township doesn't get involved in garbage pickup one iota," said Township Business Manager Steve Brock.

Westland, on the other hand, also contracts garbage pickup with Midwest Sanitation, but that garbage doesn't go to a landfill. It goes to an incinerator.

The Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority was formed in the mid-1950s, according to Arthur Wiitala, superintendent of the water and sewer division of Westland's department of public services. The authority is comprised of four other communities besides Westland -- Wayne, Inkster, Garden City and Dearborn Heights -- which all use an incinerator to burn their trash.

The incinerator was closed three years ago, but will reopen in January. "We're putting pollution control equipment in now, so we're just using it as a transfer station," Wiitala said.

The cost of garbage pickup per living unit in Westland is $3.11 per month, Wiitala said.

Frustration:

Canton grid team falls in overtime

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Another big one that got away. Canton's football squad let another game slip through its fingers Friday, as the Chiefs lost a close homecoming game to Livonia Churchill, 14-7, in overtime.

"We just can't come up with that knock-out punch," Canton head coach Bob Khoenle said.

Both teams started out strong offensively, as Churchill scored a touchdown on their first possession. Canton did the same.

"We marched 70 yards for the touchdown," Khoenle added. "It was our best scoring drive of the season."

After Canton's quarterback Neil Hubert scored for the Chiefs early in the second quarter the defense from Canton and Churchill came to life and took over the game.

"Our defense is getting better and better all of the time. It's the offense that bothers me," Khoenle said. "They (the offense) are just not consistent. They don't sustain their blocks, they don't execute all the time, the kids don't always play together."

While the defense from Canton and Churchill were stopping one another regulation time ran out with the team's tied 7-7.

In a high school football overtime each team starts at their own 10-yard line and they get to try and drive the ball in for a touch down. Each team gets one series of downs to score.

Churchill got the ball first in the overtime and scored on a quarterback rollout pass to put the Chargers up 14-7.

Canton then tried to muster a drive, but stalled on fourth down and four yards to go. Hubert gave the ball to senior Roger Trice on the fourth down try. After breaking one tackle, Trice fumbled the ball, killing the Chief's chances for a homecoming victory.

The loss drops Canton to 2-5 overall with the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) playoff games starting this weekend.

The Chiefs will meet the hapless

Farmington Falcons this Saturday Oct. 24th at Farmington. Kick off is set for 1 p.m.

The loss being Canton's second straight, Khoenle feels his team will overcome the losses and get up for their remaining two games, with Farmington and cross campus rival Salem.

"I think the kids will put the loss behind them and get up for these last two games," Khoenle said.

It's Chiefs, Rocks in district kick semis

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Canton's boys soccer team will advance to the semi-final of district action as the Chiefs slipped past a tough Ann Arbor Pioneer team 4-2 in overtime Monday.

The Chiefs got on the board first when Todd Nichols scored twice in the first half to give the Chiefs a 2-0 lead at the intermission.

Then Pioneer came roaring back in the second half and tied the game at two all.

"They just blew right through us. They're a good team," Canton coach Mike Morgan said.

In the first overtime, Rick Menary put the Chiefs on top with a penalty kick goal.

Then in the second overtime it was Nichols hooking up with Steve Marshall, who scored the final goal, as the Chief's defense shutout the Pioneers in the over time to hang on to win.

"Our defense played great. They've been playing great all season," Morgan added. "Dan Nash, Tom Collins, Doug Sobolak and Andy Shiner are very dependable seniors, who do the job for us."

With the win the Chiefs will advance to the semi-finals of the Class A district action where they will meet neighbor rival Salem at CEP field.

In the first meeting of these two teams the Rocks were the victors by a score of 2-1, but Morgan sees this game different.

"We're not going to change our game, we'll play a controlled passing game, and this time the score will be different," Morgan said. "We'll win."

The Rocks and the Chiefs game can be seen at CEP field tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m.

The winner of the Salem-Canton clash will advance to the finals, where they will play the winner of the Brighton Ann Arbor Huron contest at Brighton.

The finals are Saturday afternoon, Oct. 24.

Chiefs keep pace

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Canton's basketball squad is keeping pace with cross campus rival Salem. The Chiefs remain unbeaten in the Western division of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA)

On Thursday, Canton mowed down the Northville Mustangs 53-31, to up its record in the conference to 7-0 and a 9-4 overall mark.

Senior Karen Boluch lead all scorers for Canton while tossing in 14 points. Susan Ferko put in 13 points for the Chiefs and Amanda Bell pumped in 12 points.

"This is crunch time for us," Chief's head coach Rob Neu said. "We have to focus in on the playoffs and post season play."

With three games left for Canton, the team prepares for the WLAA playoffs, and perhaps a third meeting of a possible four meetings, with state powerhouse and neighbor rival Salem.

"This is it," Neu added. "It's time for us to put our cards on the table and see what the team is made of."

"We're still doing the things we have to do to win, but we have to make those final adjustments, and focus on our defense," he continued, "so we can prevent the easy baskets and have the right coverage."

Youths make gymnastics

Kimberley Lewke, from Canton, qualified to compete in the 11 and under Class III Compulsory State Gymnastics meet.

Also qualifying were Kimberley Rennolds, from Plymouth, and Autumn Bunch, from Canton, in the 12-14 year old age group.

All three local girls compete for the Palastra Gymnastics team out of Westland. The squad took first place overall at the Class III State Sectional on Sunday.

Rennolds won the all-around title with the high score of 33.60 in the junior division:

In the senior division, Jill Mikaelian, a ninth grade student from Canton, took a first place on bars, a second place on vault and a third in the all-around.

Rocks hoop squad finishing on a roll

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's girls hoop team just keeps on ripping up everyone in it's path as the Rocks take it one game at a time toward the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Lakes division title.

On Thursday, the Rocks downed North Farmington 86-34.

Salem senior sensation guard Dena Head lead all scorers with 33 points, while junior point guard Jill Estey pumped in 24 points and Kerri McBride added 13 points in the win.

The Rocks are now 12-1 overall and 7-0 in the conference play and highly ranked in Class A standings.

"We're still scoring a lot of points, and the girls are continuing to work hard," Salem head coach Fred Thomann said. "If we continue to keep on working and playing the way we can the team will get to where they should be. They aren't there yet."

With three games remaining on the regular season schedule the Rocks can lock up a first place finish in the Lakes division of the WLAA with victory over Westland John Glenn tomorrow night.

"We can lock up the division title against John Glenn, but we're going to go at the rest of season one game at a time," Thomann said, "and if the girls keep coming out and playing the way they can then we should do okay."

Locals start for Saginaw Valley

Newcomers Brian Tiller and Delton Ramsuer are among the standouts in this year's bumper recruiting crop for Saginaw Valley State College.

The gridders are among the Michigan natives on coach George Ihler's Cardinal football squad this fall.

Tiller, a five foot, seven inch, 165-pound tailback, graduated from Salem High, while Ramsuer, a five foot, 10 inch, 175-pound wide receiver, is also a Salem grad.

Tiller, from Plymouth, is fighting for playing time with the veteran Cardinal backfield and Ramsuer, a Canton native, will have to push his way to the top of a fine group of receivers, according to Ihler.

All but three players on the squad are Michigan natives, representing 23 counties around the state, including 21 from Wayne County.

Chiefs dunk Rock's tankers

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem and Canton girls swim teams got together Thursday for the annual clash in the pool. It was the Chiefs turn to come out on top as they dunked the Rocks, 100-72.

"The score really doesn't show just how much of an exciting meet this was," Canton coach Hooker Wellman said. "Salem swam well. They really pushed us. It was a great meet."

The Chiefs had a strong meet, capturing a first place finish in every event except for the 100 breaststroke.

The 100 yard breaststroke turned out to be the Rocks only first place finish of the night, as Erin Olson raced to first in 1:15.9.

The rest of the night belonged to Canton.

In the 200 medley relay Jean McLenaghan, Val Gildhaus, Kelly Rische and Kristy Brugar took first in 2:03.4.

Nicole Drake continued to dominate the 200 freestyle, as she took first in 2:03.7, while Cassie Cummins finished first in the individual medley in 2:19.1.

Danielle Dickinson captured top honors in the 50 freestyle in 27.2 seconds, as Amy VanBuhler finished first in diving with 158 points.

It was Drake in the 100 freestyle, as she swam to first place with an effort of 58.1 seconds.

The 500 freestyle probably provided the most excitement of the meet, as Rische of Canton just beat out Katie Vesnaugh of Salem by less than a second. Rische took first in 5:51.1.

It was McLenaghan in the 100 backstroke in 1:09.1, while Brugar picked up second just behind McLenaghan in 1:10.2.

In the finale of the meet the team of Drake, Dickinson, Rische and Cummins won the 400 freestyle relay in 4:00.3.

"It was a real good meet for our girls. Everyone on the team competed and 20 of the girls scored personal best times in the meet," Wellman said.

"I wasn't disappointed in the loss. We showed some signs of improvement," Salem's coach Chuck Olson said. "We're making drops in our times, but we still have a ways to go before we get to where we should be."

Despite the loss, Olson was pleased with many of his team's performances.

"Vesnaugh swam real well, as did Sarah Andrews, and Dawn Shiek swam her personal best in the 200 yard freestyle in 2:12," Olson added.

Another personal best score from Salem came from Trisha Hill who swam a 1:12.8 in the 100 backstroke, according to Olson.

The win lifts the Chiefs to 4-0 in the Western division of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) and 4-2 overall. The loss drops Salem to 2-2 in the Lakes division of the WLAA and puts the Rocks at 3-4 overall.

During Homecoming

Steelers win 2

It was homecoming for the Plymouth-Canton Steelers Junior Football team. The squad hosted the Westland Comets and came away with two wins and a tie.

The freshmen players drove the ball early in the game and set up three-yard and seven-yard touchdowns by Ahmande Grimes to led 14-0.

Ted Barker made it 21-0 when he scampered in on a 45-yard touchdown run in the second quarter. The Comets scored their only touchdown late in the fourth quarter and the freshmen had a 21-7 victory.

The junior varsity Steelers also won, 19-6, over the Comets.

Joey Herman scored early in the first quarter on a six-yard run followed by Jason Krueger's eight-yard touchdown run.

Pat Vesnaugh then scored a TD in the fourth quarter to give the squad a 19-0 lead before the Comets put one up with a few minutes left to play in the game.

In the varsity Steelers outing there was no score until late in the second quarter when the Comets went up 8-0.

The Steelers came back, though, and drove the ball up field before quarterback Pete Zantop snuck in the endzone from two yards out. Jeff Nafe kicked for a two-point conversion to tie it.

The Steelers hit the road this week to play the Ann Arbor West Wildcats on Sunday, Oct. 25.

Canton students make all-star pompon team

Canton High students Linda Potvin and Tricia Miller have been selected to the 1987-88 Mid American Pompon All Star team.

The team is composed of 80 pompon girls representing 33 high schools from the midwest. They were selected from more than 1,000 girls as the most outstanding pompon performers.

Auditions were held at the Mid American Pompon summer camp.

The 1987-88 team is planning to perform in the 1987 Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade on Nov. 26 and at a Detroit Lions or Detroit Pistons game.

Morton leads the Big Green

Dartmouth College junior Craig Morton, last year's Ivy League Rookie-of-the-Year and an All-Ivy selection, was the leading receiver in the football team's most recent win, 38-7, over Davidson College.

Morton, a 1985 graduate of Salem High, had 156 yards in seven carriers and one touchdown for the day. The six foot, 170-pound wide receiver is third on the Dartmouth receiving leaders career yardage list with 1,284 yards in 57 catches.

Morton scored the Big Green's first touchdown of the season on a 45-yard pass from junior Chris Roeker midway through the first quarter of the Davidson game.

In 1986, Morton caught 44 passes for 1,063 yards and 10 touchdowns. His 44 receptions place him fifth on the all-time single season reception list at Dartmouth, while his 10 touchdown receptions set a new school record.

Morton is a religion major.

Landfill's future: methane recovery

On a clear day you can see Detroit what is collected," said Nelson. "The decomposition of refuse creates methane and carbon dioxide."

Ultimately, when the landfill is completed, Salem Township plans to develop the area as a recreational facility, with a ski slope on the north face of the Arbor Hills East hill.

While Arbor Hills West will have an estimated lifespan of approximately 14 years, the need for innovative waste disposal is still very real.

"Incineration is certainly an advantage," said Nelson. "Less than one-third would be coming into the landfills if we were only dealing with non-combustibles. Under normal situations, landfills could be one-third the size."

Incineration, though, is not without its costs.

The need to control the acid gasses created in the process is a big expense, Nelson said. In addition, the residue from this process would add to the volume of disposable goods, explained Nelson.

"From BFI's standpoint, we plan on staying busy," stressed Nelson. "We plan on serving the need for as long as there is one."

Woodland Meadows faces change

currently accept hazardous waste, Kellas said. The facility did take hazardous waste when the north lot was open, which accounted for about five per cent of all waste dumped there, Kellas said.

The managers of landfills are realistic about the future of their business: as landfill space becomes more scarce, prices charged to garbage haulers will increase, and other forms of disposal will be researched, Kellas said. "Certainly, there's going to be some recycling taking place, but there's going to be a continuing need for landfills," Kellas said. "As long as there's such a reluctance to site new facilities, the costs are going to continue to rise."

And when landfill space is gone, landfill companies lose their customers. That's where resource recovery come in.

There are 28 gas wells recovering methane on the north lot currently, Kellas said, which then transports the gas to a blower station where the methane is burned off. The Waste Management people hope to sell the gas to industrial users, but have not found a buyer as of yet.

When the south lot is also completed, gas wells will also dot the newly-created hillside, and Woodland Meadows will recover more methane from the site. The gas can be used to fuel electricity generators, Kellas said. "We would expect to be generating for 20, 25, 30 years" after closing the landfill, Kellas said.

Another landfill closes

BY DAN NESS

Although there is currently only one landfill in operation in Canton, there are three other landfill sites that are now closed.

The three completed landfills are next to each other on the east side of Lilley Road south of Michigan Avenue: the Denski landfill, the K and J landfill; and the most recently closed landfill owned by Wayne Disposal.

Wayne Disposal's landfill closed in April of this year. Until that time, Canton's garbage hauler, Canton Recycling, had dumped at that facility. When it closed, Canton Recycling started dumping Canton's garbage at the Arbor Hills landfill in Salem Township, and garbage hauling rates increased.

The Wayne Disposal landfill had been in operation since 1983, according to Michael Miller, manager of planning and corporate development for Wayne Disposal. The 50-acre landfill received about 800 tons of garbage each day while it was in operation.

When it closed, the landfill had taken in one million cubic yards of trash, filling it to capacity, Miller said. "We took in waste from all over western Wayne County."

The landfill did not accept hazardous wastes, Miller said.

Currently, Wayne Disposal wants to construct a 106-acre landfill next to the three former landfills, and incorporate the entire site into a waste disposal/energy recovery facility, Miller said. That proposal, rejected by the Canton Board of Trustees in November 1986, is awaiting a vote by the Wayne County Solid Waste Implementation Committee on Nov. 4.

purely a matter of individual taste. Still refuse must be at the landfill by 5 p.m. or forget it for that night.

"You find muscles hurt where they have never hurt before," said Denski, recalling his own experiences on the backside of a garbage truck. "These are pretty much good men, but a lot of people hate them."

It's what one might call a hazard of the trade.
