Fest party animal

The dog days of summer yielded to the Fall Festival as nearly 200,000 people came to Plymouth for the annual four-day fete. This fest watcher takes a break from the activities that kept him working like a dog. Life is, after all, in the eye of the beholder. Turn to pages 18, 19, 20, 21 for more photos of the Festival. ## Fest was 'wonderful'

BY PAUL GARGARO
AND KEN VOYLES

Blue skies and mild temperatures prevailed over the weekend and helped to make this year's 33rd Annual Fall Festival a big success.

"It was wonderful," said Assistant City Manager and Fall Festival board member Paul Sincock. "It was one of the biggest, most consistent crowds we've ever had."

Sincock estimated that more than 150,000 people visited Plymouth during the Fall Festival.

Festival manager, Joe Bida estimated that the festival crowds reached 200,000.

According to festival organizers, the big crowds contributed to strong sales by the many service groups and booth participants.

"Some of the booths along Main Street said that sales were unbelievable -- 100 per cent above last year," said Sincock.

Fall Festival Board President Kenneth Holmes agreed with Sincock's assessment.

"I was really pleased with the way things worked out at the booth level. And the major dinners at The Gathering did very well," said Holmes.

While Holmes said he was pleased with the outcome of the festival, he said he and Bida felt that there was an "unnecessary duplication of effort" in some areas.

"The Gathering area could be better organized with a smoother transition from group to group," said Holmes.

Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers also said the festival ran smoothly.

"The whole thing went really well. The crowds were large, but orderly," said Myers. "I'd have to say that the problems were minimal. The Fall Festival Manager (Bida) did a masterful job."

P-C Schools enrollment hits 15,434

BY DAN JARVIS

Preliminary figures are in for the student headcount at the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and it looks like the district will reach the same head count as last year.

John Hoben, schools superintendent, said the preliminary K-12 student total for the 1988-89 school year as of Monday was 15,434. He added that he expected it to top out near 15,500 students, roughly the same number as last year.

"It's fair to assume that because we expect to have about the same number of students but less teachers, that the class sizes will be a bit higher than last year," he said.

Last year the district's K-12 count hit 15,542.

Hoben estimated that class size will be raised this year from an average of 28 students per teacher to 29 per teacher for the 1988-89 school year.

Michael Homes, associate superintendent for instruction said the district is less about 36 teachers as compared with last year.

"The actual numbers won't be in until the fourth Friday in September," said Homes, "but we are looking at slightly larger class sizes. We won't really know until we get more specific information."

Norman Kee, who heads the personnel department in the schools, said the teacher shortage can be blamed on the $5 million deficit experienced by the schools as a result of millage denials by area voters and slashes in state aid.

Hoben added that the student population in the district is expected to increase over the next few years because of increased residential construction.

"As class sizes increase," said Hoben, "we will need to have more teachers. Right now we don't have any money to do anything different."

For health reasons

Robinson resigns from Commish

BY PAUL GARGARO

City of Plymouth residents will no longer benefit from the services of former Mayor and City Commissioner William Robinson.

Robinson announced his retirement after nine years as a commissioner at last Tuesday's city commission meeting. He will be replaced by former city commissioner Jack Kenyon.

"This is one of the toughest things I've ever done," said Robinson. "Serving on the commission has been a high point in my career and I thank the people of the city for this privilege."

Robinson attributed the decision to his health. The former mayor said that he had a heart attack approximately 12 years ago and the doctor told him that he should begin to "slow down."

"My heart is fine, but I'm a 72-year-old living like a 40-year-old," said Robinson. "I've got hobbies that I haven't touched for 12 years."

Robinson retired from Davco Manufacturing in 1985. Shortly after that, he returned to serve the firm as a consultant.

Robinson said that he and his wife plan to spend their time between their cottage in Frankfurt and a recently purchased apartment in Florida.

Mayor Karl Gansler accepted Robinson's retirement "with regret."

"I'll miss Bill very much," said Gansler. "He always looked at the broad picture. He is a guy I could always run things through with."

"He's my father's age -- he's someone that I could always go and talk to," added Gansler. "You were always welcome at his home. He's very sincere."

Canton man loses battle over tickets

BY PAUL GARGARO

Keith Smith, the Canton resident who was issued two tickets on Dec. 23 for operating a motor vehicle with an expired license and improper plates, was found guilty on both counts by a jury on Monday.

Since the December incident, Smith has maintained that the tickets are a violation of his right of free travel. He has also questioned whether he is required to have an operator's license.

In addition, Smith has questioned the authority of the district court.

Last Thursday (Sept. 4), Smith failed to show for the original jury trial date. 35th District Court Judge James Garber found Smith to be in contempt of court. Garber set a $500 bond on Smith and issued a bench warrant for his arrest.

Smith was apprehended the following morning and jailed until his bond price was paid, said City of Plymouth Prosecutor Ron Lowe.

Although Smith defended himself, Garber appointed a public defender to the case to be used by Smith if necessary.

Smith said he subpoenaed the President of the United States, Governor James Blanchard, attorney Gerald Frank Kelly, and Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano. None of them appeared.

Before dismissing Monday's jury to make its decision, Garber asked that they consider the facts: Was Smith operating a motor vehicle on a public highway at the stated place and time? Did he have a valid license and the proper plates? Did he qualify for any of the exemptions (license and license plate) outlined by the state?

Monday's six-person jury took approximately 10 minutes to reach its verdict.

Smith was released on a $500 bond. A Sept. 31 sentencing date has been scheduled.

Canton moves to sell off property

BY KEN VOYLES

A piece of property along Haggerty Road in Canton has been appraised at approximately $83,000 an acre as a part of efforts by the township board of trustees to sell the land.

Hunters win chili cookoff

Walt and Claire Hunter, of Plymouth, won the 10th annual Michigan Chili Cookoff with their "Fire on the Mountain" recipe over the weekend.

The Hunters won $850 for their efforts and will represent the state in the World Chili Cookoff on Oct. 30 in Rosemont, CA.

Nearly 40 cooks vied for top honors during the weekend competition held in West Bloomfield. The Hunters have also previously won the annual Kidney Foundation Chili Cookoff held every year in Saline.

The Hunters used a can of beer and cabbage as secret ingredients to help win over the judges.

The parcel, located off Haggerty south of Warren Road, includes three separate parcels totalling 87 acres and is being sought by two different developers.

The appraisal was made for a 28-acre portion of the total parcel. Last week the board passed a resolution agreeing to sell the land.

At the same time the board asked for the remaining appraisals for the 14 and 45-acre parcels. Supervisor Jim Poole said "for sale" signs would be placed on those two sections of the land.

Ernest Essad, Jr., a township attorney, told the board that the two developers already interested in sections of the land would be resubmitting their bids to a committee looking into the land's sale potential.

"We need a policy decision from you," Essad told the board. "Is the land for sale? And what are the conditions for the sale?"

"I haven't heard anyone object to the sale of the property," said Poole. "I'd like to see the offers resubmitted to us."

Trustee Bob Padgett said he agreed with Poole that the board does want to sell the land, but stressed the fact that he needed to know when the new offers would come back to the board.

One of the developers is interested in 42 acres of the land, while the other developer had already made an offer in 1987 for 28 acres at about $50,000 an acre, said Essad.

Both groups have proposed multi-million dollar projects. One developer would put up a 300,000 square foot data processing center, while the other is interested in putting up "spec" buildings, buildings designed on the spot for individual clients.

"Obviously there is a great deal of interest in the property," Essad said.

Poole added that putting up "for sale" signs might attract other potential buyers who would "have to be heard and listened to."

Essad also noted that the property may contain some "wet" areas, or wetlands, and that there may be a desire to preserve some of the wooded portions of the land. Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown has already gone on record saying he'd like to save some of the land as a "buffer."

He said, "We have control over what happens there in the future."

N'ville well runs dry

BY KEN VOYLES

A city landmark in Northville has run dry.

The well on S. Main Street, used since the early 1900s by residents and travelers, has become a victim of this year's drought. Sunk 47-feet into the ground years ago, the well has gone dry.

"It's just not deep enough," said Dave Rekuc president of the Northville Rotary, the local club which has taken care of the well as a community service project since it paid to sink a well back in 1968. "It has run dry twice before."

Originally an artesian spring, the well site has been used by residents as long as most people in Northville can remember. City DPW officials and Rotary members point to the lowering watertable as the cause for the drying up of the well this year.

"We'll have to sink another,"

Rekuc said. The group met recently to discuss raising money for the project, currently estimated at $5,000, depending on how deep the new well would have to be sunk. Members agreed, said Rekuc, to seek bids for the project immediately even before the funds become available.

The Rotary has already begun fundraising plans. Those interested in helping should contact the Rotary through the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

"We're looking for donations to help restore the well," Rekuc said. A fundraising night at the Marquis Theatre is already in the works, he said, and the Northville Chamber of Commerce has enlisted to help.

Rekuc said residents first noticed something might be wrong this summer when sediments began appearing in water from the well.

Development paves the way

BY PAUL GARGARO

As Plymouth Township continues its slow, but steady growth, signs of urbanization are sure to overtake many once-rural areas.

Analysis

Perhaps the biggest sign of this is the paving of many of our dirt roads.

As Crier Managing Editor Ken Voyles examined in last week's Industry and Commerce Section, Canton is currently engaged in an asphalt and concrete evolution. And while there are those that oppose it, continued growth demands that densely developed areas have paved streets.

Canton has a total of 14 road paving projects. Some have already been completed, while others are still on the drawing board. Provided that all of the projects are completed, the bill would come close to $4 million.

Plymouth Township, although not currently as involved with paving projects as its neighbor to the south, has come face-to-face with the paving issue during the past year.

For Jo Hulce, developer of the Arboretum project on McClumpha just south of Ann Arbor Road, the arguments for paving are well-founded.

"I don't think people mind gravel if there are no potholes," said Hulce. "But on a road like McClumpha there is so much traffic from the schools."

Indeed, McClumpha needs a facelift and it looks like it will get one.

But at whose expense?

Designated as a collector road (86 ft. right-of-way), McClumpha serves the major thoroughfares, Joy and Ann Arbor roads. As a collector road, developers can be asked to fund a paving effort in front of their development -- a fair, but often inefficient policy.

Paving time and a breakdown of the costs tend to hamper this policy.

"There should be more than just a developer having to pay for the paving of a road, but it's kind of a sticky situation," said Hulce. "There should be a formula based on who uses it."

"It's going to be paved, but I'm just not sure on how far it will go," said Hulce. "I think it would be fair if it was just the residents, but not when you have 70 buses coming down this road every day."

Plymouth Township Planning Director James Anulewicz said that funding such paving projects can be difficult.

"There'll have to be a re-evaluation of how to attack this and we'll probably have to look into our future policy," said Anulewicz. "I anticipate that the issue (McClumpha) will come up again this fall."

"Currently, there's just no money in the budget to cover the paving of county roads," added Anulewicz. "Our current position with the county will have to change."

While funding the paving of McClumpha remains unresolved, other roads within the township, like Powell Road, may also face similar problems - especially with the county's scheduled paving of Beck Road between Joy and N. Territorial roads.

What was once a rural road, surrounded by open pastures and scattered homes, Powell is fast becoming the site of a residential expansion.

How long will the future residents along Powell Road tolerate its shake, rattle, and roll?

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said he thinks the appeal of the dirt road won't wear thin.

"I think residents will want it. It keeps it to local traffic," said Breen. "We don't want so much traffic coming down here that it becomes a major thoroughfare."

While privacy-minded residents might agree with Breen, it seems possible that the further development along Powell Road would increase its chances of being paved.

Powell Road developers Ron Cook and Jim Courtney said they are open to the idea of paving, but said they also understand the potential problem of funding such projects.

Regardless, it's clear that paving often goes hand and hand with residential and commercial expansion. Plymouth Township is on the cutting edge of that expansion and they have done well to manage it properly, yet the time has come to develop a workable and consistent paving policy, whether it be with individual developers or with the county.

Hoedel elected to head MSBO

Raymond, K. Hoedel, associate superintendent for business in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools was recently elected president-elect of the board of directors of the Michigan School Business Officials (MSBO).

The organization is a professional association founded in 1937 for persons involved in school business management. The Michigan School Business Officials group is actively affiliated with the Association of School Business Officials International.

Hoedel has been a MSBO member for the last 21 years and has provided leadership for several MSBO committees as well as the Wayne and Macomb County School Business Officials.

Work continues along Powell Road as development projects lead to the paving of Plymouth Township roads. (Crier photo)

Robinson retires

Recommended by Robinson, Kenyon was accepted unanimously by the commission.

"The acceptance was based primarily on his experience and his knowledge -- he's coming into a year that's already started," said Gansler. "Kenyon has dealt with the government and has a background in dealing with the environment."

Retired from Ford Motor Company, Kenyon worked in plant engineering and plant environmental control.

He was appointed to the commission in 1976 to replace Tom Turner. He was re-elected in 1979 after staging a successful write-in campaign. He then served on the commission for two more years.

Kenyon has also served as the chairman of the economic development committee and the library board. He is currently on the library board and the zoning board of appeals.

"Bill was a jewel," said Kenyon of his predecessor. "The people of Plymouth are fortunate that people like him run and devote their energies."

Kenyon said he plans to stress the issue of waste management during his tenure.

"Solid waste management is a serious municipal problem and it can't be neglected. Something must be done," said Kenyon.

Kenyon took his place on the commission immediately following Robinson's announcement.

3 men arraigned on armed robbery charges

BY DAN JARVIS

Three men arrested in Plymouth on Sept. 1 for armed robbery of two gas stations in Novi and Canton will now go to trial, said Dave Boljesic, of the Canton Police Department.

Willie Colvin, 20, and Ray Moultrie, 25, both of Detroit, were arraigned Sept. 3 in the 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald and have been charged with armed robbery.

Another man, Joseph Jeffrey, 20, of Ecorse, was charged with armed robbery and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony. Boljesic said Jeffrey was the lone gunman in the robberies.

A fourth man was arrested but later released for lack of evidence in the crimes, said Boljesic.

Bond for the three was set at $100,000, said Boljesic, and the three have been held in Wayne County Jail since the incident.

A pre-trial examination was set for Monday, where the three had the chance to present evidence in hopes of being let out of jail until the trial. All three waived the right to the examination, said Boljesic, and will go to trial sometime after January 1, 1989.

What do you think?

Congrats on Fall Festival

By most accounts, it was one of the best Fall Festivals ever.

Record sales are being reported by most participating service organizations; few police incidents were reported; and the crowds, although not record-setting, were larger than last year.

Wonderful weather blessed the Fest. Even the early Monday morning rains helped with the after-Fest cleanup.

As always, there are a few suggestions learned from the event:

--Blocking streets means disruption for merchants. The trade-off is to use the closed streets for events and displays that attract crowds.

--The auto show needs more promotion and pizzazz.

--Meeting the Wayne County Health Department requirements (even though the department doesn't enforce its rules equally throughout the county) needs more attention and communication between the food-serving groups.

--More street happenings (musicians, gymnasts, jugglers, etc.) should be scheduled.

--Advance ticket sales for major meals should be encouraged.

--The Festival needs better housekeeping. Could the 35th District Court assign more probationers to help sweep up trash while the Festival is going on? A similar idea, inspired by the Chamber of Commerce, helped spruce up downtown before the Festival.

--Commercialism must be kept out of the Festival.

--Better enforcement of the "no dogs, no bikes" rules during the Festival is required. Signs should be posted to that effect. (Dogs are welcome for the pet show on Saturday morning though.) Fest goers should realize that a large crowd with lots of food booths is no place for dogs.

--All participating groups should submit a statement to the Festival Board about their organization and purpose. It might be helpful, as one out-of-town visitor suggested, if each group posted such information near their booth.

--A Thursday night meal is needed. This would help attract a crowd while providing an opportunity for a service organization to raise funds.

--The unused athletic fields behind Central Middle School could be a good site for an athletic event open to Plymouth High, Salem High and Canton High alumni. Would the CEP Band Boosters take on such an addition to the Festival?

--Although it's important that the Festival take-down begin promptly on Sunday, the last few chicken dinner buyers were literally hustled out. If a guest to town is sold a dinner at 5:45 p.m., he or she is entitled to eat it in peace. Also, many groups ran out of food, pop, or items by mid-Sunday afternoon -- a product of the successful weekend.

None of those suggestions should be taken to mean that this Festival wasn't wonderful. It was. But it's important that the Fest board and the community constantly look at ways to improve the event.

(To that end, the accompanying survey solicits suggestions on the Fest. Comments will be passed on to the Festival board.)

Congratulations to the Fall Festival board and management, to the many organizations that participated and to the thousands of volunteers who made the Fest a success in 1988.

Stumped, frustrated

Who is this kid? It was a question we never did answer despite all of the efforts to find out.

As a part of the cover for last week's Fall Festival edition we used a photo of a young Rotary volunteer taking a break from working in the pit cooking chicken.

The smiling youth (even though he's covered in the grime and grease associated with cooking masses of chicken) became our nemesis as we tried to identify him for more than two weeks.

First we turned to the Rotary Club itself.

The photograph of the youth (taken during last year's Fall Festival) was passed from club member to club member but no one had any idea who he was. More than a dozen Rotary members studied the photo for us but we still didn't get any clues as to who he might be. Talk about frustrating.

In the photo the youth is wearing a name tag, but it is virtually unreadable. The face, though, is pretty distinguishable, even with the goggles and grimy gloves.

Finally, we took the negative of the photograph and enlarged the portion around the youth's name tag. Under close scrutiny it became apparent the youth's first name was Lynn. This was all too clear when someone noticed the faint line of the 'y' as it looped below the first line of the tag.

But then we ran smack into trouble. The last name looked like it could have been anything from Stephenson to Tebbens! Opinions differed widely when the photo was passed around for closer study. Somehow none of the last names we thought of worked quite right so we gave up.

In the margin

Before ending our efforts, though, we made a couple more quick phone calls to what we thought might be the youth's home -- Tebben, etc. No luck.

It was only then that we admitted to being stumped by the identity of this kid.

Sometimes the seemingly easy aspects to this job can be very frustrating. Here it is we put out a 216-page Fall Festival edition. A ton of work goes into any Fall Festival project, and yet this year we probably spent more time tracking down the youth's identity than covering any of the weekly festival board meetings.

Needless to say we identified the youth as "an unidentified Rotary volunteer." Not a very specific identification but we figured maybe someone would recognize him and come forth with his name.

It would be worth finding out who he is even if it is after the fact.

It seems our festival work is never complete.

This young volunteer graced the Fall Festival edition cover but he remains unidentified. (Crier photo).

Fest vandals get away

This year's Fall Festival was marred by one act of wanton vandalism.

The Rotary Club's barbecue pits, normally painted maize and blue (it's close to the official Rotary colors as well as being identified with a nearby educational institution), were attacked in the middle of the night. A similar incident occurred several years ago when the pits became scarlet and gray.

By chance, a Crier photographer was on duty at 2 a.m. with the festival security crew when the vandals arrived.

Despite the fact that the security crew summoned police and a vigorous chase was conducted, the late-night painters escaped. Possibly this was because it was such a spartan (or was that, Spartan?) effort.

Thus, the normally-colored pits sported a new coat of white paint adorned with large green block "S" decorations. A number of Rotarians grumbled that they were forced to labor over the repainted pits all day Sunday.

The perpetrators should be apprehended and fined to the fullest extent of the Rotary Club.

Some analysts believed this vandalism was the culmination of a football scrimmage held in Pasadena, CA last New Year's Day. Other felt it was a peep-restoring effort by Rutgers-shocked football fans.

Whichever the case, this type of vandalism has no place in the quiet, sleepy Plymouth-Canton Community... until next year.

The last detail

by Paul Gargaro

Brace yourselves. "Happenings" are back and it looks like they might be here to stay.

Mind you, there were no hippies at this particular happening -- no guitar strumming balladeers singing about justice or injustice and no loud voices spouting off about the issues.

In fact, there wasn't really any reason for it. They didn't need one.

Those involved just came out to the Township Park two weeks ago, ate some lunch, talked with friends and enjoyed the day.

It was a real honest-to-goodness happening.

Heavy.

Thanks to the efforts of a few area senior citizens like Howdy Schryer and John "Packy" McCallister, senior happenings like this are no sweat. For about the last 10 years, the group, which has grown to include about 90 older folks, has taken the initiative to meet periodically.

They don't collect dues, they don't pass the gavel, and they don't elect officers. Instead, they just come together, usually for breakfast on the last Thursday of every month, to see each other and share some time together.

"This is just an old-timers group. Practically everyone here went to Plymouth High School," said McCallister. "The only requirement is that you have to be retired and you don't need to have any money."

Friday's lunch of catered cold-cuts was the third such picnic for the group and although Carl Pursell showed up for a sandwich, Schryer and McCallister said that this was not a fundraiser for the congressman.

"This is no political deal -- we're not partisan," said McCallister.

Far from it. Just a ham sandwich, a little potato salad, a glass of iced tea and a whole lot of lively conversation on just about anything under the sun.

Between the lines

by Dan Jarvis

Being that this was my first visit to the Plymouth Fall Festival, I could not help noticing that the event, at first glance, lacked any sort of cohesive theme.

It was not based on flowers, horses, antiques or even war veterans. There were no apples, peaches or pumpkin pie. Missing were the drummed up themes that provide so many cities with an excuse to make money for local merchants.

As I walked the streets of Plymouth it became clear that a hidden theme, at least to me, a newcomer, kept the Fall Festival moving along.

From what I understand, the entire event was born of the desire on the part of the Plymouth Rotary to raise funding to build a playground near Hamilton Street. Like any worthwhile project, more and more service organizations seized the opportunity to provide help for those in need.

Today, the Fall Festival has grown from an effort to an event.

For me, it is much more than a weekend of hot dogs and potato chips. It is a way of helping local non-profit organizations with funding which will be used for a variety of causes.

A hidden theme? Not really.

The folks that are responsible for keeping politics and profit out of the Fall Festival should be commended. They have given the Festival a theme which will never be outgrown or outdated.

As one who likes to know where my hard earned dollars are going, I can only say that this will not be my last Fall Festival in Plymouth.

Illiteracy targeted

EDITOR:

Thank you for your outstanding opinion column and informative story on literacy in last week's Crier. Because you are sensitive to the problems of adults who do not read well enough to meet their needs, your articles were particularly moving and effective.

All of us who gain so much pleasure and practical purpose from reading should be particularly sensitive, as you are, to the great impact that non-reading or deficient reading has on the quality and opportunities of life.

Good journalism should inform, interest, and occasionally move people to action when the cause is worthy. Your articles accomplished all three. I know that you and The Crier will continue to help us keep alive the message: "Adults Can Read Better - Call 451-6555". Thanks again for your personal and professional support.

Plymouth Canton school board

Time for a recall?

EDITOR:

I would like to thank The Plymouth-Canton School Board of Education for approving such generous pay increase for the school staff and administrators. This effort enables Gallimore Elementary School's budget to be cut by 33 per cent and now my child gets to have 34 children in his fifth grade class.

I would also like to thank John Hoben for setting such a fine example by accepting his generous pay increase during this critical financial crises facing Plymouth-Canton Schools.

It seems to me that the administration can increase class sizes, lay off teachers, cut budgets, books, supplies, materials, extra curricular activities, and have plenty left over for salary increases. I find this very creative budgeting!! Were all these increases planned in anticipation of the recent millage issue passing?? Believe me, this is no way to get further millages passed.

My sympathies to the students of Plymouth-Canton Schools who are being short changed by budget cuts and over crowded classrooms.

My plea to Plymouth-Canton taxpayers -- it's time for recall.

Read Better Week praised

EDITOR:

The Canton Rotary is giving the gift of literacy! They declared a "Read Better Week" in August. With the assistance of many local businesses and individuals, the Canton Rotary Literacy Committee developed a "Fun Walk for Literacy," printed and distributed posters and flyers, printed tray liners and more. They worked tirelessly.

The Community Literacy Council serves adult non-readers with free one-to-one tutoring. The Canton Rotary Literacy Committee took a giant step in making people aware of this help. Donations of time, money and prizes by businesses and individuals too numerous to mention, made "Read Better Week" possible.

The articles in The Community Crier once again gave literacy work in our community a spotlight.

The cooperation in our community is outstanding. The Community Literacy Council is grateful for the support of educators, business owners, organizations and individuals. We thank the Canton Rotary for taking on this work and especially the Literacy Committee chaired by John Schwartz.

Thank you to each one who contributed to this project in any way.

Don't fight "Cruising"

EDITOR:

Last June while at city hall on business I overheard a conversation concerning the problems with the cruisers on Main Street and how the city was putting restrictions on where and when people can park and where and when they can make a left or right turn.

I asked Paul Sincock why, as a city resident, I was being restricted as to what parking lot I could enter, how long I could park there, especially on weekends or after a certain hour, or why after a certain hour I could be ticketed for trespassing on the same lot I just walked across a few minutes earlier.

I proceeded to ask him why, on weekends, at overtime cost to the city, barricades were being put up along Main Street and why they stopped before they got to the parking lots of the Mayflower Hotel. And why didn't the city use this type of traffic control during the Balloon or Ice Festivals? I've seen worse traffic problems during these festivals than I've ever seen caused by cruisers. Not to mention the amount of police I've seen cruising Main street themselves.

Boy, to commit a crime on Main Street on a weekend would be impossible, but any other place in the city I'm not sure about. To Mr. Sincock and other city officials who feel strength in numbers in the way to combat "cruisin'", I say why not take your college educations, get together and resolve the "cruisin'" issue, not combat it.

Weren't any of you people 16 years old? Or were you all born adults? Maybe you should ask your parents what kind of teenager you were.

Approval expected for Canton millage

BY KEN VOYLES

A public hearing on Canton's 1989 budget was slated for last night and millage rates were expected to be approved by the Canton Board of Trustees.

If approved last night the millage rates will be adopted on Sept. 27, according to John Spencer, finance director for the township.

The board went ahead with preliminary approval of the budget during the Sept. 6 meeting, said Spencer, but to do so had to trim approximately $131,000 from the budget to keep the millage rates constant.

"Basically they wanted to set the millage at the same level this year as last," said Spencer, "so they made some adjustments."

One area of adjustment, said Spencer, was in the consolidation of two separate budgets for supervisor and superintendent. With the defeat of the ballot proposal on the superintendent issue, it was decided to eliminate any funds for that slot. Spencer said the consolidation saved $50,000.

The board also reduced capital outlays for the buildings and grounds department and slashed drain improvement by nearly $60,000. Another $78,000 was slashed from the police and fire funds, said Spencer, with the decision not to hire three new dispatchers. The public safety department hopes to use cadets from the fire department, but may not be able to do so if approval is withheld by the union local.

At the same time there were budget increases noted for two areas -- in the cost of rubbish pickup ($67,000) and insurance ($21,500), said Spencer.

With those moves last week the budget was trimmed $133,825, said Spencer, which puts the planned millage rate at 9.79 mills, slightly down from last year's 9.8 mills.

The individual millage rates are as follows: 1.11 mills for general fund; 3.48 mills for fire; and 5.20 mills for police.

Spencer said he anticipated that the board would approve those rates during last night's meeting.

During last week's meeting Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown said he appreciated the budgets put together by the township's various department heads, calling them all "realistic."

Canton artist leaves gold mark

BY DAN JARVIS

Though gold leaves may bring to mind images of pastures bathed in beautiful fall colors, the gold in this tale is pure.

"It will be my mark left behind," said Canton artist Larry Brooks. "It will be here forever." And his word is as good as gold.

The medium for Brooks is not oil paints of red and yellow, but gold, pure and simple. He is among only a handful of artisans left who apply gold leaf lettering to the best of doors and marble walls throughout the tri-county area.

"It's a rare art form," he said. "There are less and less guys doing it because people aren't willing to pay for it."

One reason for the apprehension may be the high cost -- the gold is in its most pure form, pounded paper thin by Italian craftsmen.

"When paying for gold leaf," said Brooks, "you're paying for the skill of the craftsman, not just for the material."

Formerly referred to as "gold men," the craftsmen have been decreasing in numbers and the trend is expected to continue, said Brooks.

"It's a craft that is handed down through the family. You don't learn it from a shop because there is not much need," he said. "I learned it from my dad. My grandfather was a painter and I hope to pass it on to my kids some day."

Among the gold leaf projects completed by Brooks are the donation plaques for Founder's Society members of the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA), the cross that tops the Greek Orthodox Church on Dix Road in Southgate and several doctor's and lawyer's offices throughout downtown Detroit.

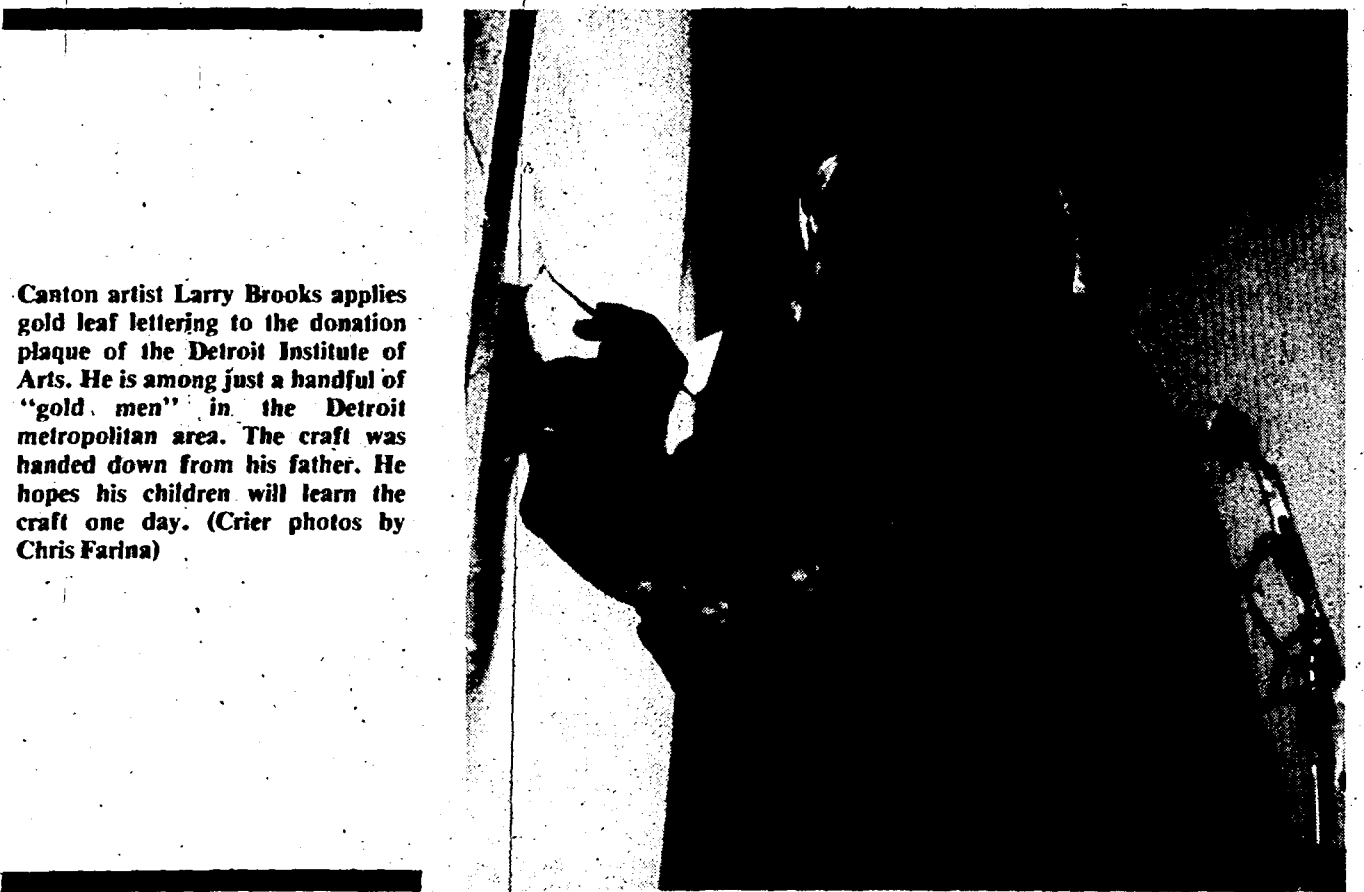

Of his work at the art institute, Brooks said, "It's special, definitely not an everyday art form. I feel it's a great honor to be doing this. It will never go away. My kids and grandkids will be able to come in here and say I did this."

Brooks not only works in gold leaf, but also is a sign painter. Formerly in Romulus, the Brooks Sign Company has logos on several custom commercial signs as well as custom painted cars and trucks.

The 34-year-old hopes to open a shop soon in Canton and in the meantime works out of his home. And though sign painting is a large part of his work, he prefers to work exclusively in gold leaf.

"I love it," he said. "I get more satisfaction out of working with gold leaf than any other kind of art."

"I wish I could do this and nothing else."

Canton artist Larry Brooks applies gold leaf lettering to the donation plaque of the Detroit Institute of Arts. He is among just a handful of "gold men" in the Detroit metropolitan area. The craft was handed down from his father. He hopes his children will learn the craft one day. (Crier photos by Chris Farina)

As costumes go, so goes Lemen's

BY KEN VOYLES

When it comes to Halloween costumes Carol Lee likes to add her own touches, designing whatever may be in style at any given moment.

Lee, the owner of the new Lemen's Costume Gallery on Penniman Avenue in Plymouth, carries an assortment of her own designs (as well as those commercially produced) in the store for those looking to find just the right Halloween costume.

They range from poodle shirts and CanCan dresses to Roman togas, a Robin Hood outfit, Snow White and many more. They are available as rentals for Halloween parties.

Her store also houses some unusual outfits like the pullover Stroh's cans and the ever popular California Raisins costume.

"I like to make the outfits because the quality from the factory is tacky," said the 49-year-old Westland resident who opened her store in June. "I like the creating and seeing it done. Most of the stuff I do is one of a kind. No two are alike."

There are other Halloween accessories as well, including rubber masks of favorite villains from horror movies. Lee's inventory goes beyond the holiday fashions, though, and includes dance wear, skating wear, aerobic outfits, shoes, and the materials to create other designs. Lee will also "tap" shoes for dancing.

"And I do custom recital costumes," said Lee, who added that she especially enjoys working on custom creations for buyers.

The former interior decorator works on her creations at the store and at home. She may spend two or three weeks on a single outfit, while juggling three or four different designs.

Lee originally worked for another company designing outfits, but decided she wanted to get into it for herself so she opened the shop on Penniman. "I decided it was time to start creating on my own, instead of someone else's," she said.

Lee plans to extend the store hours now that school is back in session, and later will add a full line of Spandex-Lycra materials so that customers will have all the ingredients to work on a design for themselves.

Season's first loss

Marion overcomes Chiefs 43-40

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Canton High School girls hoop squad recorded their first loss of the season Thursday, dropping a game to Marion 43-40.

The Chiefs started the game off with a bang and led the entire first quarter. They gave up only three points to Marion on free throws to end the quarter with an 11-3 lead.

The Chiefs record now stands at 2-1 with victories over Salem and Dearborn Fordson.

Leading the Chiefs scoring drive were Susan Ferko with 15 points and Candi Jones with nine points. Ferko and Jones also led the Chiefs in rebounding, with 12 and 10 respectively.

"Jones had a sensational game," said Neu. "She played with a lot of confidence out there."

Patti Boyle led Marion in scoring with 15 points.

Neu said the team had its good and bad points during the game.

It's mine

"Overall defensively we did pretty good," said Neu. "But I think we were too tentative on offense."

Neu said he's looking to have a good season and added that the team has already improved.

"My feelings are real positive. This team has some good basketball ahead of it," said Neu. "But we have to learn to maintain concentration and improve court recognition."

Neu said the turning point of the game was when Marion turned up their defensive pressure.

"We were good, we just didn't finish the game," he said.

Neu said his outlook so far on the season is positive.

"Overall I've seen a lot of improvement skill-wise, and athletically," Neu said.

The Chiefs play tomorrow at Mercy at 8 p.m.

P-C Steelers sweep past rival Lion gridgers

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers opened their 1988 campaign with a triple sweep of their gridiron rivals, the Canton Lions.

The freshman Steelers outmatched their opponents by a score of 15-6. Highlights in the game included a 23-yard touchdown scamper by Randy Mack. Mack found paydirt later in the game on a 15-yard touchdown run.

Scott Valimont led the junior varsity Steelers with a 60-yard touchdown scramble in the fourth quarter. The Steelers escaped narrowly with a 6-0 victory.

In the varsity contest, the Steelers' Jason Krueger broke off a 60-yard punt return for six points in the first quarter. Eathen Rentz then followed with a nine-yard, touchdown run, which was capped with a conversion kick by Joe Herman. Matt Horn added two more touchdown trots to give the Steelers the game 26-6.

Chiefs drop 2nd to a tough John Glenn squad

BY GREG MILLER

The Canton Chiefs football squad lost to a powerful Westland John Glenn team 27-0 Friday night in Westland and had a hard time stopping senior running back Bryant Satterlee, who rushed 30 times for 160 yards and two touchdowns.

John Glenn quarterback Greg Stover connected on eight of 13 passes for 115 yards, including a six yard touchdown pass.

One bright spot for the Chiefs was the solid play of new quarterback Karl Wukie.

According to Canton coach Bob Khoenle, "Wukie had a good game." Despite Wukie's efforts, Khoenle said the Chiefs were hurt when they jumped offside on a punt to give John Glenn the ball back and a fresh four downs.

But Khoenle said he is not ready to give up just yet.

The coach said he has a good group of kids and that they will undoubtedly improve throughout the season.

In last week's outing the Chiefs lost to Monroe 6 to 3.

"We had every chance to beat Monroe," said Khoenle.

During that contest, Canton had a touchdown called back because of an illegal procedure violation. They also lost fumbles on Monroe's seven and four yard lines.

Khoenle said the Chiefs hope to get their first win of the season next Friday night at 7:30 at Livonia Churchill.

Rocks storm past W. L. Western

BY GREG MILLER

The Salem High School griders trounced Walled Lake Western 29-0 on Friday, inspiring Salem coach Tom Moshimer to call the effort "the finest game we've played as a team."

Highlighting the performance were four Rocks each rushing for 50 yards or more and four different players rushing for touchdowns.

On the other side of the ball, the Rocks tallied eight quarterback sacks and held Walled Lake to under 30 yards in the first half.

Despite his team's success, Moshimer said that he still wants to work to eliminate mistakes.

In Friday's game, Salem was only penalized once and that came on the contest's final extra point effort.

In last week's game, Salem downed Trenton 20-12.

Although Salem was victorious, Moshimer said that he wasn't satisfied with his team's performance. During the game, Trenton blocked a punt and returned it for a touchdown. The Rocks were eventually able to turn things around to take their first victory of the season.

Salem takes on Livonia Stevenson at home next week. Kick-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Salem dumps Mercy

Lady Rock hoopsters improve to 2-1

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

"I think one of our obvious weaknesses is our varsity inexperience," said veteran Plymouth Salem high school girls basketball coach Fred Thomann just prior to the 1988 season.

The Rocks, who are now 2-1 on the season after beating long time rival Mercy 38-26 last Thursday, have already improved since the beginning of the season, said Thomann.

The inexperience Thomann talked about prior to the season hasn't really surfaced, Thomann said.

"They (the underclassman) haven't backed off the game. They've accepted the challenge," said Thomann. "They have a great work ethic."

The Rocks were the first to score in their game against the Mercy Marlins. But Mercy returned the favor to make it a 2-2 game, each team then scored once before the Rocks took control of the game, said Thomann.

"It was pretty much our game in terms of the score," the coach said.

Senior co-captains Terri King and Jill Estey, along with Wendy Bailey, led the Rocks assault with eight points each.

Lydia White and Sarah Rudy weren't far behind scoring with six points apiece.

Thomann said he was pleased with the team's effort on Thursday.

"Anytime you take a Mercy team and hold them to 26 points you're doing pretty good," Thomann said.

The Rocks only loss this season came from cross-campus rival Plymouth Canton. Their first victory came at expense of Trenton high school on Tuesday. The Rocks won the game by a score of 41-39.

The Rocks take the floor again on Sept. 20.

Gilles honored by U of W with Big 10 Medal of Honor

The University of Wisconsin recently announced that Christine Gilles, of Plymouth, has been awarded the school's Big 10 Medal of Honor for women during the 1987-88 academic year.

Established in 1914, the award recognizes both male and female athletes who have demonstrated a proficiency in both academics and athletics.

Gilles was a four-year member of the Wisconsin womens tennis team and holds the school record for career singles victories with 97. In 1988 she was named to the All-Big 10 first team in singles for her efforts.

She and her doubles partner, Elaine Demetroulis, compiled a 27-4 doubles record. They received All-Big 10 honors and competed in the NCAA Championship last spring.

Gilles also received All-Big 10 academic honors in her junior and senior years. She is currently enrolled in the School of Business at The University of Wisconsin.

Canton seniors study Medicare changes

The Canton Senior Citizens Program would like to clarify a misinformation that has been circulating in the community.

Some of the older residents in Canton have received phone calls from insurance agents offering home visits to discuss recent changes in Medicare coverage.

Some of the seniors mistakenly thought that this effort was being sponsored by the Canton office. This is untrue, according to Dianne Neihengen, Canton's seniors coordinator, and it is uncertain whether this was an impression created by the insurance vendors or simply a mistake.

The Senior Citizens Program does not authorize or endorse any individual insurance agent or policy, and is not encouraging home visitations for this purpose, said Neihengen.

The Canton Senior Citizens Program will be sponsoring a presentation on recent Medicare changes by a representative from the Social Security Administration at two of their social clubs.

One presentation will be offered for the Pioneer Senior Club on Friday, Oct. 21 at 1 p.m. The other will be presented for the Zester Senior Club on Thursday, Oct. 27 at 1 p.m.

Both clubs meet at the Canton Recreation Center, 44237 Michigan Avenue at Sheldon.

Any resident 55 or older is welcome to come to the presentation.

Here's a hard fact to chew on: Over any given period, a company that advertises below the industry average has sales that are below the industry average. This is partially attributable to advertising's ability to pre-sell your customers before they decide where to shop. Advertising is often the first step to a sale.

Steppingstone moves to new facility

BY DAN JARVIS

Steppingstone, a school for the gifted students, has left The Plymouth-Canton Community for new facilities in Farmington Hills, said the school's director Kiyo Morse.

Located in Plymouth for the last eight years, the school's administrators sought to expand into larger facilities, but were unable to locate such facilities in the community, said Morse.

With former locations in the New Horizons facility on Ann Arbor Road and at Sheldon and Five Mile, the school for gifted children is now located at 28600 Eleven Mile Road. The move was made during the last week in August.

Morse said the school teaches students in grades 1-8 to use classroom knowledge in a practical setting.

"Our approach to teaching is different because gifted children learn faster," said Morse. "The emphasis is on problem solving."

Morse said the move away from Plymouth was unfortunate and that she would have liked to stay.

"We needed more floor space and the new location gives us a few other options such as a swimming pool for expansion of the physical education programs," she said.

The school has drawn students from The Plymouth-Canton Community, but has also served students hailing from Novi, Brighton, Northville, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Redford and Westland. The school operates on a traditional school year from September to mid-June.

Morse said the school welcomes students from all the communities and hopes to continue expansion efforts into the future.

show begins at 3:45 p.m. and features approximately 15 bands from Michigan and Ohio.

During the show the Plymouth Five and Drum Corps will play an exhibition also. The show concludes at 9 p.m. with a full band retreat on the field.

The invitational will be judged by adjudicators supplied by the Michigan Competing Band Directors Association and awards will be determined by a possible 100 points divided among a variety of categories.

Tickets for the invitational are $3 for adults and $2 for students. They are available at Sideways on Forest Avenue in Plymouth, the Trading Post on Ann Arbor Road, the Book Break on Ford Road in Canton and at the K-mart shopping center in Canton. They can also be purchased at the gate on the day of show.

Further competitions will be held in October. The Michigan Invitational state show is set for Oct. 2 at Flint's Atwood Stadium. The final competition of the 1988 season will be the Grand Nationals in the Pontiac Silverdome on Nov. 11-12.
