

A giant in P-C journalism

Columnist DeLano dies at 72

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
Fred DeLano, the dean of Plymouth-Canton newspaperdom, died Friday in California.

DeLano suffered a heart attack while recuperating from an operation for a collapsed lung in Huntington Beach, CA.

The author of "Through Bifocals," a popular column which appeared in the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers and The Community Crier since 1968, DeLano had set out late last year with his typewriter in the car to tour the country. While on his trip, he visited many former Plymouth-Canton Community residents who've dispersed to the West.

A memorial service is scheduled for St. John's Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road at 7 p.m. Thursday. Visitation continues today from 5 to 9 p.m. at Schrader Funeral Home.

DeLano, 72, was a sports and band booster for the Plymouth-Canton Schools, showing his interest in his children in the schools here. His son, Bob, now of Lake Tahoe, NV, was a popular Centennial Educational Park band member and WSDP alumnus, and his daughter, now Betty Smith, is the girls' volleyball coach for Salem High School.

His wife, Olga — referred to as "Mother Goose" in his column — died just over a year ago.

Canton's 'Top Gun'

Local flier killed in plane crash

BY PAUL GARGARO

Described as a real-life "Top Gun" by family and friends, John F. Young packed a lot of achievements into his 30 years.

A captain in the United States Air Force and a 1982 graduate of the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, CO., Young, of Canton, was killed on Feb. 20 when the plane he was a co-piloting went down in Florida. Six other crew members were killed in the crash, according to newspaper accounts.

Young's father, John, said his son was every father's dream.

"Many a father would want a son like John. I was blessed to have a son like that," he said. "The only positive thing about this thing is that all indications show that he died quickly."

At Canton High School, John enjoyed a standout athletic career as a two-time captain of the varsity football team, and a leader of the baseball team. John's athletic prowess continued in the Air Force Academy where he earned a baseball scholarship. He started there as catcher as a freshman on the varsity team. He was also an All-American boxer at the academy, earning the nickname "Rock" for his success in the ring.

John's accomplishments off the playing field were equally impressive. He graduated with academic honors and was listed among Who's Who of American High School students. He was also president of the student council and went on to receive nominations to each of the service academies.

During his career in the U.S. Air Force, John was stationed in bases in California and West Germany.

Younger brother Alex said John earned the respect of his peers as well as his teachers.

"He was an easy guy to idolize. He put 100 per cent into everything he did," Alex recalled. "I really feel like God blessed me for having a brother like John."

After a lifetime of involvement

DeLano leaves legacy to 'cubs'

DeLano began his newspaper career in 1937 one week after graduating from the University of Michigan. His newspaper homes also included the Detroit Free Press, the Chicago Tribune, and the Long Beach (CA) Press-Telegram.

Besides journalism, DeLano made a mark in sports and in promoting events. He was general manager of the Detroit Pistons and was promotions director for the Tournament of Roses Parade, the University of Detroit, the Miss Universe Pageant, area race tracks, the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club horse shows, and the Detroit Lions.

DeLano was an integral part of the team with R. T. "Tommy" Thompson and W. W. "Eddie" Edgar in shaping the news and editorial policies of the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers.

He also served as the dean of the editorial department at The Community Crier, helping that paper chart its editorial directions.

He assumed the editorship of The Plymouth Mail and Observer in 1968 and is credited with many journalistic advances in aggressive community journalism.

DeLano, who often bragged about covering town in the old days by alternating between the Mayflower Hotel and the Box Bar, saw the community hit its boom times. He particularly enjoyed covering the vote for the City of Plymouth to sell liquor by the glass.

Many of the "cub" reporters and editors who drew from DeLano's expertise are now in place at many newspapers throughout the U.S.

Big increases

Property assessment jump in P-C

BY JOHN BRODERICK AND PAUL GARGARO

Residential property values are up in The Plymouth-Canton Community -- to the tune of about 15 to 19 per cent over last year, said local and county tax officials.

The good news is that taxes will not be increased nearly as much due to the Headlee Amendment, which limits property tax increases to the rate of inflation.

Each year, the assessment and equalization division of the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation sends figures to each municipality, telling them how much they need to raise their assessments in order to keep properties valued at actual market values.

This year Canton needs to raise property assessments 16.1 per cent over last year, to keep itself at the level of the state equalized valuation -- which is about one half the market value of a property.

Plymouth's figure is 15.8 per cent, and Plymouth Township's, approximately 16.5 per cent, according to assessment officials.

"That area (The Plymouth-Canton Community) has risen much higher than most other areas in the county," George McEachran, Wayne County Equalization Director said, adding that only a few areas directly to the north and south of Detroit, had increases as high.

After the county sends this figure to municipalities, they then determine the actual assessment of each property. Residents are notified of the new assessed value, and have the opportunity to contest the decision to the local board of review.

Residents should be notified within the next few weeks of their new assessments, by their respective municipality.

According to John McLenaghan, of Wayne County Appraisals, Plymouth Township neighborhood assessments ranged from increases of approximately seven per cent to as high as 22 per cent.

"This puts it at the high end of the range -- higher than Canton and Livonia and on a par with Northville Township," said McLenaghan. "The increases have been large for the past two years and there will be increases next year, but I don't think they'll be of this magnitude."

According to City of Plymouth Assessor Kenneth Way, the city's assessment's, which are up from last year's 12.3 per cent increase, are indicative of the overall rise in area property values.

"Based on the sales we've seen lately, I don't see any decreases coming," said Way. "It looks to me like valuation will continue to rise. We're in a growing area."

"A man's man"

Canton pilot lived a life of achievement

John's sister Zina said that he never forgot his nieces and nephews and always made a point of keeping in close contact with all of them.

"A man's man," is how former football and baseball coach Mark LaPointe remembered John.

"When he came into my life he made an impact and it will be there forever. It's so tough to handle this. He was the type of kid who only comes along once in awhile," said LaPointe, a teacher at Central Middle School. "He always came back to visit even though it was hard to schedule during his (air force) leaves. When my son grows up I hope he be a little like John, if not a lot like him."

LaPointe said that this year's Canton baseball squad will wear black armbands with John's old number to "commemorate his involvement with the Canton baseball tradition."

John's survivors include: father John, of Canton; brother Alex, of Canton; step-brother Steven Johnson, of Canton; sisters Zina Temperley, of Plymouth, Kathy Young, of Canton, and Margaret Young, of Westland; neices Dawn Nicole Hill, Mary Jean Temperley, Monica R. Young, and Heather, Brianna, and Natalie Johnson; and nephews Jeremy Michael Gallentine and Michael John Bruce Temperley.

Funeral services will be held at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. A date has not yet been set.

JOHN F. YOUNG

Not really

Student sues principal

BY JOHN BRODERICK

A high school student is suing a teacher and principal for searching his gym bag in front of a number of other students, which caused him embarrassment, and allegedly violated his constitutional rights.

And it's all up to Judge James Garber to decide. He will hear arguments for and against, from attorneys, and their witnesses.

It will all seem quite real -- the lawyers, the witnesses, the plaintiff. But the only thing real about this case will be the judge himself. For everyone else -- it's competition.

The participants in the trial -- the mock trial -- will be Canton High School students, gaining valuable experience, by researching and arguing an actual court case, in front of a real judge.

Audrey Etienne, a Canton government teacher organized the event, which will begin tomorrow (March 2), in the viewing and listening room of the Canton High School Library.

"Six teams of four people each will compete, and judge Garber will choose the two best, who will then go to a regional competition in Detroit," Etienne said, adding that winners of the Detroit contest may go to the state mock trial competition in Lansing.

"Judge Garber has been terrific," said Etienne, "he listens to the same case three times in a row, then takes time to talk to each group before choosing the winners."

"He then meets with the winning groups again before they go to the Detroit competition -- which is a big reason why our teams have done so well in the past," she said. Plymouth-Canton students have brought back top honors in four of the past five years.

A number of area attorneys volunteered their time to help each group prepare their case, including: Mike Pollard, Steve Boak, Ron Lowe, John Stewart, and Larry Schendel.

Cases will be heard tomorrow at 7:30 a.m., 9 a.m., and 10:30 a.m., and the public is welcome.

Local teens held in Livonia shooting

BY PAUL GARGARO

Three teens, including a Plymouth Township resident, a former Canton High School student, and Redford Township resident have been arraigned in 16th District Court in Livonia on charges of intent to murder and commission of a felony with a firearm.

Shannon Marie James, 16, was shot in the head with a .22 caliber bullet fired into her home on Grennada Street in Livonia at approximately 11:55 p.m. on Feb. 18, said Livonia police.

Police said James was shot through her bedroom window after approaching to investigate a knock. One of the suspects was known by the victim, said police.

According to Livonia Police Lt. Mike Murray, Clint Allen Smith, 19, of Redford and a student at Lawrence Institute of Technology, and Lawrence

Dennis Kapp, 17, of West Bloomfield and Canton High School graduate, are being held in the Wayne County Jail pending a March 2 1:30 p.m. preliminary court examination.

Christopher Robert Burow, 16, of Plymouth Township, is being held in the Wayne County Juvenile Center.

Murray said Burow will stand charges as an adult under a state law which allows juveniles over the age of 15 to be tried as adults for certain crimes like attempted murder.

According to Plymouth-Canton Schools Administrative Assistant for Community Relations Richard Egli, Burow dropped out of Canton High School this semester.

Police said James is currently recovering in the hospital.

Local governments should help

Solid Waste must be cut

Garbage. You can't live with it -- and you can't live without creating it.

But what you can do is cut down how much of it you produce.

The State of Michigan has issued a mandate that would require many municipalities to cut their solid waste output by 25 per cent by 1991, including The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara recently said that he wants to require municipalities to cut solid waste production by 75 per cent.

City of Plymouth officials are talking about implementing recycling programs. Right now they are asking people to participate, but not requiring it.

Asking is one thing, requiring is another, and making recycling easier is yet another.

The City, Plymouth Township and Canton should quicken their steps toward making separating trash more a part of people's lives.

There should be special dumpsters deployed throughout the area for different kinds of materials -- glass, plastic, metal, and paper (especially newspapers). Canton already has two recycling center locations.

A method should be developed so that curbside trash must be separated, and recycled, and people not participating should be penalized. (New Jersey now has "trash cops" in some areas, who issue tickets to homes where trash has not been separated.)

The year 1991 is not a long way away. It will not be easy for many people to change their long-lived habits quickly. So local governments should take steps now to get folks used to doing what will soon be a part of their everyday lives.

Isn't spending a little extra time separating trash better than having a landfill at every corner?

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Bad news makes us count blessings

Bad news hit Plymouth-Canton like a freight train during this past week.

Coming up for air after the production of The Crier's 10th Annual Guide, none of our crew expected such a downer of a newsweek. Page one looks pretty dark, except for the basketball photo -- and if you're a Canton fan, that looks pretty bad, too.

Just recently, noted local columnist and reporter Fred DeLano died; a standout young air force pilot from Canton was killed when his plane went down over Florida; and two kids with local roots were implicated in the attempted slaying of a Livonia teenager.

Not exactly a rose garden, but as we've seen in the past, The P-C Community isn't immune to tragedies.

For U.S. Air Force Captain John Young, the trail of fond memories left in his wake will long be remembered. The resume he compiled in his short life reads richer than most men would ever dream of and his life, though

The last detail

by Paul Gargaro

tragically short, was certainly not wasted. The phone calls we received last week and the folks we talked to about Young are testimony to the profound impact he had on the community.

DeLano leaves behind a long legacy of written words and time spent in Plymouth-Canton. Although I only met him a few times, his reputation as a community journalist and his colorful history with The Crier made his presence felt in and around our office on a daily basis.

On a stranger note, the two teens involved with last weekend's shooting of a Livonia girl both have a strong community connection -- one was a graduate and the other a recent dropout of Canton High School.

The only bright spot in that grim story is that the victim seems to be recovering nicely from a shot which could easily have killed her. Try as we might, it's impossible to think of an explanation for the suspects' actions.

Actually there couldn't possibly be a worthwhile explanation.

Trying to put all of this bad news into perspective is no easy chore. Still it makes you count your blessings and manages to reveal a measure of compassion in all of us.

For now, let's hope next week brings happier news. From where we stand, things can only get better.

Thanks, from P-C Arts Council

PG. 7 THE COMMUNITY CRIER: March 1, 1989

Fred DeLano shaped newspapering

The last of the "old-school" journalists that shaped community news coverage in Western Wayne and Oakland Counties has signed off his final 30-30-30.

Fred DeLano, 72, well-known figure about The Plymouth-Canton Community, probably signed off with that famed journalistic closing a million times before his death Friday in California.

From his days as editor of the old Plymouth Mail and Observer, Fred kept his journalist-columnist-citizen eye on life in the community.

Among the many traits Fred added to local journalism was that of training young reporters and editors.

The pre-commission meetings at Plymouth City Hall -- Fred got those opened to the public after one city commissioner said, "But we agreed downstairs..."

When his golf chum -- the police chief -- issued a memo barring officers from leaving the City, Fred threatened to sue to get the memo.

In helping to shape the news and editorial strategy of the Observer and Eccentric newspaper chain, Fred stressed the need for local news versus regional or state news, but especially fostered community involvement by newspaperfolks.

He was the kind of newsman who believed, "live in the town you cover." Fred himself was involved in boosting athletics and the high school band in Plymouth-Canton Schools. His son, Bob, was a band member who went on in radio, while his daughter, Betty (now Mrs. John Smith), is now volleyball coach at Centennial Educational Park.

The stories about Fred's adventures in town will remain an important part of every cub reporter's training in this community. He was the last editor to cover The Plymouth-Canton Community before its big boom in 1972 through the '80s. And in those bygone days, Fred could fill the newspaper with items gathered by alternating between bar stools at the tiny four-seat Mayflower Hotel bar and the Box Bar and Grill.

Stealing the cannon in Kellogg Park, screaming as he pulled his birth-deformed left hand from a lobster tank to the horror of bystanding youngsters, or "falling asleep" at the Plymouth Township board table -- the tales are legendary and to be repeated at length following 7 p.m. services at St. John's Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road, tomorrow.

His "Through Bifocals" column appeared in the Observers and in The Community Crier at times as well. In it, Fred often poked fun at his friends -- from the muckeymucks at the round table in the corner of the hotel dining room he called the "Gloom and Doom Society" to the Plymouth Jaycees he named the "Junior Lightning Bugs."

He also lovingly joshed "Mother Goose" -- his wife, Olga, who preceeded Fred in death by just over one year.

Most Plymouth-Canton newspaper readers know Fred's name; many know about his history in journalism and publicity and sports promotion; but few know how crucial a role he played in making suburban journalism what it is today here.

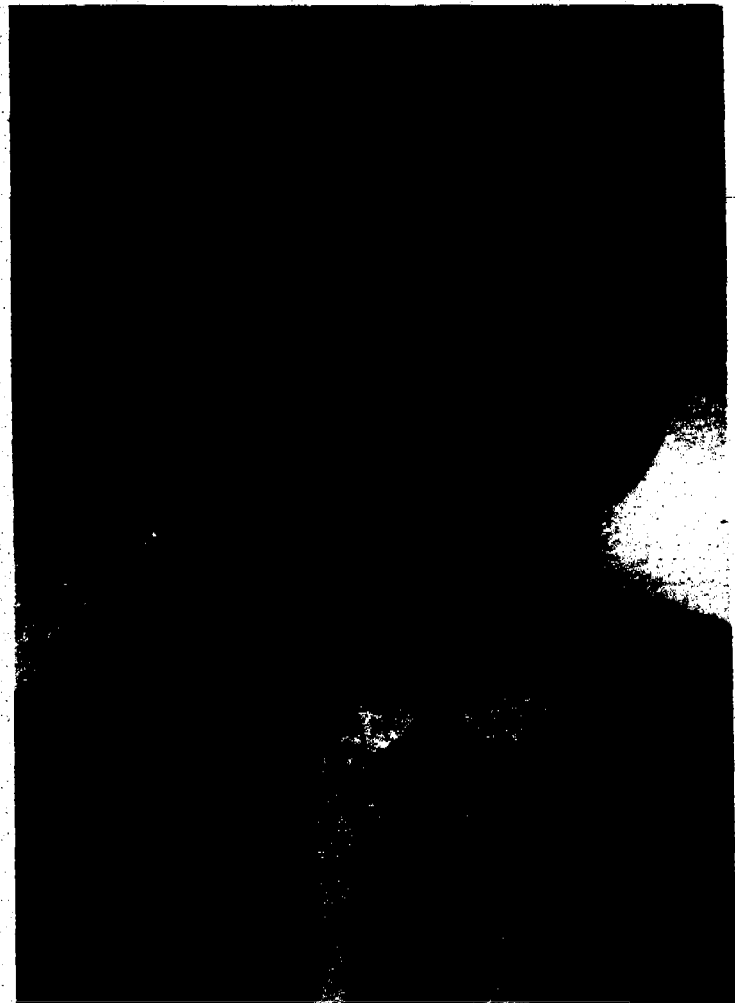

He was a tough old newspaper guy. But he took the time to help the cub reporters, his friends, his neighbors.

Fred labored many years in the business and his friends all envied his loading the typewriter in the car and setting out to write his way across the country. Fred died while on that trip.

Now journalism around here won't be the same.

For just as Fred himself did many times, another journalist now writes the final:

30-30-30

At his 70th birthday, Fred DeLano showed off a special pair of glasses honoring his popular "Bifocals" column.

Voters should get the facts

EDITOR:

Older homeowners beware, you do not care what happens to the school system; so that's why the millages are turned down. This is what was told to me by an individual person who stated that he owns no property in Plymouth Canton School District, but was a "quote" registered voter. That he wanted the renewal of eight mills and another four mill increase. So he wants to increase your taxes just because he is a registered voter.

Also, the school districts are pushing our 18 year olds to register to vote for it not realizing they vote for it and us parents are paying it.

I would like to mention also a quote from the Free Press by L. Carol Ritchie that the state raised $488 million to the school fund and with 325 school districts Plymouth should have gotten a good chunk of this. But the school district never or, shall we say, evades the issue when asked what its share was.

Some people feel that even if the school received a million dollars it would only be a drop in the bucket to the school's open cost. If that's so, I myself sure can use a million.

For the readers of The Crier who do not receive the Detroit News there is a good article in the section B page one of Thursday Feb. 23, 1989 with a graph of a new tax plan.

—It would be of great interest for The Crier to reprint this article and graph to show people the facts.

Now with an increase this year of $200 to my taxes and an article in The Crier's compilation of assessments going up 16 to 17 percent, how much more, let alone the eight mill renewal and four mill increase, does the school want?

PARNELL E. JOHNSON, JR.

Tax shift will help schools

EDITOR:

In an open meeting with Mr. Hoben some ten years ago, I stated that an increase in sales tax would take the burden off the taxpayer. Our state is one of the very best for vacationers, this should profit us.

The sales tax will expand with the economy in the years to come. Since no one has come up with a better plan to date, let us take action at once. When you aim at nothing, chances are you will hit it.

Without a vision the public schools will perish, and the present vision is for survival. If the sales tax is increased and used for the schools, we will not only survive, but succeed as well. Let us increase our vision as a new day is dawning, and direct our steps accordingly.

Agoraphobia expert:

Helping folks deal with fear of panic attacks

BY KEN VOYLES

Everyone at one time or another has experienced some form of anxiety -- it's not uncommon to feel nervous before giving a speech or anxious in a pushy crowd.

Stephen Stocker, executive director of psychotherapy and counseling services at the Center for Agoraphobia and Anxiety Disorders in Northville, has been there himself.

And from what he says many people probably don't realize that anxiety is as common as dew on a frosty morning.

For Stocker, his stock and trade is helping those who suffer from an extreme form of anxiety -- agoraphobia, a condition in which a person learns to avoid certain events or situations because of an underlying fear of losing control, having a "panic attack," going "insane" or publicly embarrassing themselves.

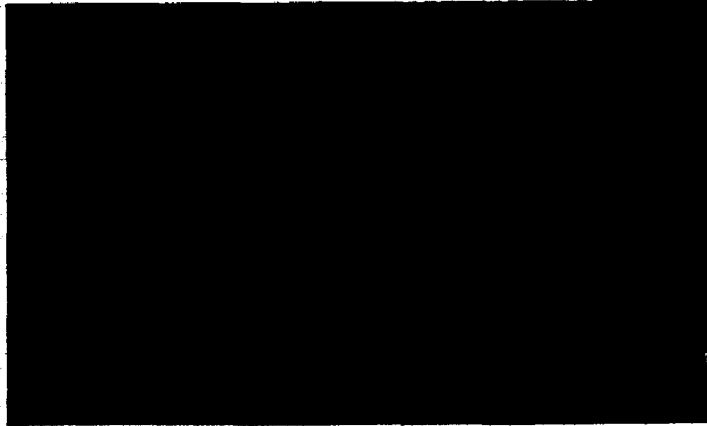

"I've suffered a lot of anxiety," said the 46-year-old Brighton resident who started his clinic back in 1980. Today it remains the only facility of its type in western Wayne County. "I've never had a 'panic' attack but I've been able to use some of my experiences to help others."

Originally a private practice, today the center employs eight therapists and uses a variety of methods to help men and women who suffer from the misunderstood phobia.

"I had one woman who suffered for 20 years and didn't know what she suffered from," Stocker said. "Before the late 1970s most people didn't even have a clue as to what this was all about."

"It's a huge problem," he added. Stocker's patients come from all over western Wayne County, but mostly Northville and Novi.

Those who suffer from the worst

Stephen Stocker, of the Center for Agoraphobia and Anxiety Disorders in Northville, counsels people who suffer from fear of certain events or situations. (Crier photo by Chris Farina) form of agoraphobia often first experience it as a "panic attack" which comes "out of the blue," said Stocker.

Typical symptoms include heart palpitations, dizziness, vertigo, weakness, profuse sweating, nausea, confusion, panic, and difficulty breathing. Typically patterns of "avoidance" include difficulty driving, shopping, staying home alone traveling, going into crowded places like shopping malls or restaurants, and standing in line.

"There's a real sense of things not being real," Stocker said. "It's a strange feeling. Many are afraid of being trapped."

Stocker said a classic example is of someone who fears dentists and learns to develop their life so as to avoid them.

"The extreme case is someone who can't even leave their home," said Stocker. "It puts a tremendous strain on the family."

Stocker treats the phobia on three levels -- the physical, the cognitive and the behavioral. The treatment, he said, is designed to interrupt the "vicious cycle" in which most sufferers find themselves.

"We try to get them to learn that the physical responses aren't dangerous," Stocker said. "Our main goal there is to ultimately trigger relaxation responses in an anxious situation."

On a cognitive level Stocker works with his patients to reassure them that their fears will not produce insanity or a total loss of control.

"It's an active therapy, one in which we can see some progress all the time," he said.

The third phase of the therapy is on a behavioral level. Stocker eventually works his patients into confronting the situation or event they fear. That may mean slowly getting them to go into a shopping mall, one step at a time.

Stocker said the causes of agoraphobia remain a controversial issue among therapists.

"It may be a combination of biological, psychological and social elements," he said. "It may start as a physical reaction but then the sufferer 'learns' to avoid certain situations."

Though the problem was once considered fairly rare Stocker said that's just not true.

"People live with this in silence often," he said. "A lot of people feel the first thing that can be helpful is knowing they are not alone."

"It's hard for other people to understand," he added. "We can all understand a fear of snakes, but how do you understand a fear of going out of the house?"

The Northville center offers the only program in the state affiliated with CHANGE (Center for Help for Agoraphobia/Anxiety through New Growth Experiences), a program began in 1984 by two former sufferers.

Agoraphobia, said Stocker, tends to start between the ages of 18 and 35. Statistically, more women experience the phobia than men, he added, but that may be because men tend to cover it up with substance abuse.

"Women find it easier to ask for treatment," Stocker said. "I recently had one woman come in who said 'enough is enough' after she couldn't go through a car wash."

"It can come on very suddenly," he added. "And be very intense, but we try to tell people it's not the end of the world."

As Stocker puts it, the treatment helps victims learn "skills" to control their fears. But the entire process is a very gradual one, he added.

"I think a lot of people are ashamed of it because it doesn't make sense," he said. "Everyone's panic is different, there are no two alike, and we have to treat them individually."

Student writers recognized

Local young journalists awarded

Some of Centennial Education Park's (CEP) most promising young writers were honored during the Michigan Press Women's (MPW) winter meeting in Plymouth on Feb. 24-26 at the Mayflower Hotel.

MPW honored those students who were winners in the organization's annual high school communications contest, which drew entries from throughout Michigan. A Saturday luncheon was held in honor of the winners at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Among the 25 winners were Brian Williams, a CEP junior, who tied with Beth Cundiff, a senior, for second place in sports. Kyle Karinen and Wade Garard, both seniors, who tied for third place in columns. Josh Anderson and Mark Madrilajo, both juniors, who tied for first place in sports.

Students competed in six categories, including best news story, feature story, sports, feature photo, column, and editorial. First-place winners in the state competition go on to compete in the national competition sponsored by the National Federation of Press Women.

In addition to the student award presentation the MPW hosted a discussion (Feb. 25 10 a.m.) on community and suburban journalism and panel discussion on tourism and promotion of the Plymouth area. MPW also honored the winners of their own communication contest and this year's "Woman of Achievement."

Mandy dreams of America

Local girl wins contest

Mandy Hose, an eighth grade student at East Middle School, has been named a winner in the 20th annual America and Me Essay Contest, sponsored by the Farm Bureau Insurance.

Hose's essay will now advance to the state level of competition, from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected.

This year's topic was "My Dream For America And How I Will Help Make It Come True."

PCUW joins fight against illiteracy

The Plymouth Community United Way (PCUW) recently received teaching materials to help the Community Literacy Council fight illiteracy in the area and help those individuals to whom English is a second language.

Gifts in Kind, Inc., which helps companies contribute resources, such as office equipment, clothing, and medical supplies to non-profit organizations, is making a nationwide effort to aid United Way's literacy programs. The PCUW is one of only 20 United Ways to receive these teaching materials which include reading and writing workbooks and teacher's guides to be used by over 200 individuals of all ages to improve their skills, according to Sharon Streen, Director of the Community Literacy Council.

"This program is a really beneficial program to the Plymouth Community," said Marie Morrow, executive director of the PCUW. "The Plymouth Community United Way is a member of United Way of America. Through its membership we are able to obtain a variety of donated goods and materials for local agencies and local non-profits."

New Plymouth Community United Way officers were elected during the organization's recent annual meeting.

Officers for 1989 are: Judge James N. Garber, president; Dennis Siegner, vice president; H. Kristene Rautio, secretary; and Joan Morrison, treasurer.

Two new directors -- Sharon Pugh and Jon Huneke -- were also elected to the board. The remaining directors are Rev. John Grenfell, Mary Breen, Sy Kernicky, Ronald Lowe, Carol Rundio and Dr. Donald J. Davies.

Mickey Edell-Cotner and Fred Hill were honored for the past six years they have served on the Community United Way board.

Also recognized were three schools in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district. Fiegel, Gallimore and Tanger elementary schools, as well as the district's transportation department, were recognized for 100 per cent participation in the campaign.

The campaign in 1988-89 raised $474,481, said Minnie Johnson, who chaired the campaign.

Getting down to business

Pringles Pastries brings new flavor to O.V.

BY ROBIN LAKE

Nancy Davis, who recently opened Pringles Pastries in Plymouth's Old Village, uses only natural ingredients, and family recipes. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Something new has sprung up in Plymouth's historic Old Village, and according to owner Nancy Davis, residents are "ready for it."

Pringles Pastries, which opened Nov. 19, offers a wide variety of homemade desserts made from all-natural ingredients. The pastries are baked fresh daily by Davis using family recipes and her own expertise.

"With 70 per cent of women working these days, many don't have time to bake, but want something that's homemade," she said. "I never use any mixes, only natural ingredients."

Davis, who is trying to get established, has done business with the Plymouth Hilton and other area restaurants. In addition, she said she is trying to build a regular clientele, and said she hopes to one day open another store.

"After my last son was gone, I decided 'this is it,' took my payoff from GM, and started my first business," she said. "I really enjoy the change after sitting at a desk for 19 years."

Pringles Pastries, on Mill Street, offers a wide variety of pastries, from chocolate torts and cheesecakes to smaller bite size pastries. Orders can be taken two days in advance.

Business people

Peter Pellerito, a City of Plymouth planning commissioner, has been named "Ann Arbor Ambassador" by the Ann Arbor Convention and Visitors Bureau. He was recognized for his efforts to encourage visitor activity in Ann Arbor. On staff at the University of Michigan's office of government relations, Pellerito is a former chairman of the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce.

Plymouth resident Phyllis Crowder, a medical technologist at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, was the recipient of the Distinguished Achievement for the American Medical Technologists at their 50th national convention held in Washington D.C. this summer.

Paul E. Hatcher was named business development manager for the R.A. DeMattia Company, a development and design/build firm located in Plymouth Township.

Hatcher holds a BBA from Western Michigan and a Juris Doctor from Detroit College of Law.

The R.A. DeMattia Company recently announced the appointment of Fred C. Seeley as vice president of retail development. Seeley will account for the development and management of the retail development division. R.A. DeMattia Company is a development, architectural, and construction firm.

Schoolcraft College to hold job fair in May

Local businesses will have the opportunity to interview and possibly hire community college and high school students at a job fair Tuesday, May 16 from 9 am-1 pm.

The fair, which is expected to attract over 2,000 students, will be held in the Schoolcraft College physical education building. Free booths are available for businesses seeking to hire either full- or part-time students. The event is being sponsored by Schoolcraft College and Wayne County Intermediate School District.

For further details, call Dr. Jean Pike in career planning and placement at 462-4421.

Tax time : but don't worry

Trouble with taxes? Don't despair.

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) tax assistants will be on hand to answer taxpayer's questions by way of an information toll-free line or at one of the IRS's 22 offices across the state.

The toll-free lines are open from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Mondays and 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. On Saturday, call between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The IRS is also operating a toll-free, pre-recorded assistance program called TELEFAX at 1-800-554-4477. The number is in service 24 hours a day.

Library bookmark contest

The Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library are once again sponsoring an annual Children's Bookmark Contest.

This year's theme will be "Give Us Books, Give Us Wings." The theme can be used in the bookmark design but it is not mandatory.

Students in Plymouth-Canton in grades one through nine are eligible to participate in the contest.

Entries must measure two and a half inches by eight and one-quarter inches and should be done in black pen. Entry forms are available at local schools or the library. Contestants may submit more than one design, but must include name, phone number, and grade on each entry.

Entries are due to the Plymouth District Library (Dunning-Hough) by March 23. Judging categories are grades one-two, three-four, five-six and seven-nine. There will be three winners in each division.

The winning entries will be printed and distributed with each book checked out of the library.

An awards reception is also being planned for the winners on April 18 at 7 p.m. Judges for the contest will be members of the Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library.

Call the library at 453-0750.

Used book sale at Canton library

The Friends of the Canton Public Library group is soliciting donations of used books (both paperbacks and hardcovers) for sale during its first used book sale to be held in June.

Books can be dropped off at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S.

Canton Center Rd. They should be marked "Friends-Used Book Sale."

It is also suggested owners bag their books for easier handling. If residents have an extra large number of books they should call 397-0999 to arrange for a pick-up.

Prom fashion show set at CEP

The Executive Forum at Centennial Education Park (CEP) will sponsor a Prom Fashion Show on March 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Rehearsal for the show will be held from 2:30-5 p.m. on Feb. 14, 16, 28 and March 2, 7, and 8. There will be a dress rehearsal on March 9.

To be a part of the fashion show call Jill Mouton, vice president of the forum, between 10:40-11:30 a.m. in room 171 at Canton High School (451-6600, ext. 351).

Photojournalist to speak

Tony Spina, a distinguished photojournalist, will speak at the third annual Book and Author Luncheon sponsored by the Friends of Northville, Novi and Plymouth public libraries.

Spina will speak on March 7 at the Novi Civic Center on Ten Mile Road at noon. His talk will feature slides of some of the finest works of Spina, chief photographer at the Detroit Free Press.

Spina has won more than 450 state, national and international awards. He was a part of the staff which won a Pulitzer Prize in 1968 for coverage of the Detroit riot.

Tickets for the luncheon are $10 each and available at all three public libraries. No tickets will be sold after March 3.

Cuts? Additions?

Schools ponder millage effects

PG. 17 THE COMMUNITY CRIBER: March 1, 1989

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Classes could be smaller next year in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, new textbooks could be purchased, and the leaky roofs in three elementary schools could be fixed.

But on the other hand, an hour may have to be cut from the school day, and upwards of 100 teachers laid off — which could jeopardize the schools' accreditation with the North Central Association.

According to schools officials, these scenarios hinge on the passage of a request for four extra operating mills that voters will face in June.

School board members and administrators discussed potential restorations, and possible cuts, at Monday's regular board meeting. They will hold a special Saturday workshop to discuss the schools' short term future in greater detail, on March 18, at 8 a.m.

In the June 12 election, voters will be asked to renew eight operating mills, and approve four new ones, for two years each. There will also be one school board seat up for grabs.

The four additional mills could bring the schools an extra $3 million — $1.8 of which would be used to restore programs that have been cut, school officials said.

And if the request for the four additional mills were to fail, $3.1 million would have to be cut from this year's budget, they said.

"Our greatest concerns in terms of restorations were to bring down class sizes, restore a large part of the budget for textbooks, and to restore block grants," said John M. Hoben, schools superintendent.

"On the other side of the coin, there are not many areas left where we can make substantial cuts. The worst case scenario would be to cut an hour from the school day — which amounts to about 100 teachers," he said.

Other potential areas for restoration were to restore funds that would allow elementary schools to be open after 5 p.m. for use by community and school groups; to partially restore funds for supplies in schools; and the elimination of the pay-to-play extra-curricular fees.

"When we're asking parents to vote for these millages, it doesn't seem fair to zap them twice with the extra-curricular fee," said E.J. McClendon, board trustee. "You know what they say about a spoonful of sugar — well we don't want to give voters a spoonful of antagonism."

Salem turns it on in 2nd half to win

BY JANET ARMSTRONG
AND RITA DERBIN

The Salem basketball team turned the tables on Canton Monday in the first round of the Class A District playoff. Canton, who upset Salem 54-51 earlier in season, was unable to repeat.

The Rocks struggled back after trailing the entire first half to beat the Chiefs 67-60.

"I'm glad we had a chance to get back at our neighbors," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "I was hoping for a rematch."

The Rocks came back after trailing at halftime 29-23, as if they were on a mission. Salem led after the third quarter, 46-41.

"I'm happy with the comeback. The players realize that this is a new season and if they lose, there's no tomorrow," said Bob Brodie. "I'm glad we showed up for the second half ... (Jeff) Elliott hasn't had his head in the last few games and we need him to get going but now we've got players coming off the bench and getting things going."

Salem's Jake Baker stepped in for the Rocks getting 13 of his game high 18 points in the second half, and Ryan Johnson came off the bench and had all 12 of his points in the second half for Salem.

Brett Howell, who ended up with 12 points overall, did his best to revive the Chiefs. Howell stepped to the line four times in the fourth quarter capitalizing on all of the shots.

Canton, trailing 62-55 with 1:32 left in the game, made a comeback attempt, with Troy Waldron hitting two straight field goals, one off a fast break, the other off a steal to bring the Chiefs within three points of Salem.

Salem was able to cut short the comeback after a three-second violation was called against Canton's Brian Paupore with :56 left to play.

At the :32 mark down 64-59, Canton fouled Craig Marshall in desperation. Marshall stepped to the line for a one and one, and made the first, but was unable to capitalize on the second.

It was a see-saw game filled with intensity for both the teams, each having their share of ups and downs.

Canton's Brian Paupore led the Chiefs' scoring with 17 points. Troy Waldron was next for Canton with 16. Elliott contributed 11 points in the the Rocks' winning effort.

Two amazing baskets could have had a lot to do with Canton's momentum in the first half.

With the game tied at 5-5 early in the first quarter, Canton's Jim Young tossed in a behind the back basket. The other shot that got not only the Chiefs into the game, but was also a big crowd pleaser, was the slam dunk off a fast break by Canton's Fernando Johnson.

Johnson also had three blocked shots in the first half (he ended up with six for the game) that added fire to the Chief's flame. He also led the Chiefs in rebounds with 10.

"They put pressure defense on us in the second half," said Canton tri-captain Paupore. "We had the game, and then it fell apart."

Canton coach Tom Niemi said part of the reason for Canton's success in the first half had to do with the Chief's game plan.

"I think we took Salem out of their game plan (stopping Salem's inside game)," said Niemi. "But they recovered by making the outside shots."

Canton, who finished 11-10 overall, has nothing to be ashamed of, said Niemi.

"The players, coaches, parents and fans have nothing to be ashamed of," said Niemi. "They showed some real class this season."

The Rocks, who are 19-2 after the victory, will host the divisional semifinals tonight. Novi and Livonia Stevenson will play at 6 p.m. and Salem will face Northville at 7:30 p.m.

Gymnasts lose two in a row, prepare for league

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Canton girls gymnasts didn't let coach John Cunningham down this week, even though they did lose both of their meets.

Canton started the week by losing to North Farmington on Wednesday 136.9-124.4, and according to Cunningham, the judges were inconsistent with their scoring.

"We weren't going to win," said Cunningham. "But it would have been close."

The Chiefs also lost to Traverse City on Saturday, 132.95-124.9.

On Saturday, it was Johanna Anderson, Dawn Clifford and Heather Murphy who led the Chiefs.

Anderson was the highest scorer for Canton in the vault (8.35) and on the floor exercises (8.55), placing third in both events.

Clifford finished with fourth places in the vault (8.25), on the uneven bars (8.0), and on the beam (7.75).

While Murphy took a second place on the beam (8.15) and a fourth place in the floor exercise (8.25).

In all-around competition it was Clifford in third (32.1), Anderson in fourth (31.75), with Murphy earning a fifth place (31.45).

"The scores don't reflect how well our kids did," said Cunningham. "I questioned the judging. I expected to lose by four or five points, instead it was a spread of eight points. It wasn't that big of a spread."

Murphy was unable to attend Wednesday's meet against the Raiders from North Farmington.

Cunningham said, her absence was felt in the loss.

Anderson and Clifford led the Chiefs in the vault. Anderson was fifth (8.35) and Clifford was sixth (8.2).

Clifford was the top Canton performer in the uneven bars event, garnering a fifth place (7.9).

On the beam Anderson, Lisa Kaufman, and Clifford captured second, third and fourth places respectively with scores of 8.4, 8.2 and 8.1.

Anderson also captured a third-place finish in the floor exercise with a score of 8.4.

In the all-around competition it was Anderson in fourth place (32.7) and Clifford in sixth place (32.2).

Rocks dump Stevenson

BY RITA DERBIN

The Rocks swam their way to a 99-72 victory over Livonia Stevenson on Thursday in their last division dual meet of the swim season.

Salem is now 10-2 overall and 4-1 in division play going into Saturday's conference meet.

Taking first place for the Rocks were: the 200-yard medley relay of Ron Orris, Rick Steshetz, Fred Seidelman and Mike Hill (1:43); Orris in the 200-yard individual medley (2:03.76); Hill in the 50-yard freestyle (23.04) and 100-yard freestyle (49.48); Seidelman

"North Farmington deserved to win the meet," Cunningham said. "But my kids didn't get the scores they deserved."

Canton's next challenge is the conference meet tomorrow at Northville.

in the 100-yard butterfly (55.41); and the 400-yard freestyle relay of Orris, Seidelman, Mike Axford and Eric Bunch (3:26.08).

Also adding points for Salem were second-place finishers diver Pat McManaman (191.25); Axford in the 200-yard freestyle (1:54.12); Chris Butzlaff (1:00.83); and Steshetz in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:08.27).

The Rocks will host the conference meet preliminaries on Wednesday at 2 p.m. and diving preliminaries Thursday at 3:30 p.m. The finals will be Friday at 6 p.m. at the Salem pool.

Salem takes 3rd

BY RITA DERBIN

Third place isn't where they wanted to be, but that is where the Salem volleyball team finished in the Lakes Division. The Rocks are now 19-12 overall.

The Rocks defeated Livonia Stevenson on Wednesday night 15-4, 15-5 to conclude the regular season.

"It was nice to beat them on Wednesday," said coach Betty Smith. "But disappointing to lose to the officials on Saturday at the conference match."

Against Stevenson on Wednesday, Maria Wordhouse had nine kills in 18 attempts to lead the team and Asaka Motoyama added five kills in 10 attempts.

Aimee Rutan and Jo Wicklund both played well defensively according to Smith.

On Saturday, the Rocks-Spartans rematch, at the conference match at Walled Lake Central was marred by controversy.

At Central, the Rocks started the day by playing the Western Division champions, North Farmington, and split 5-15 and 16-14.

"It was an exciting match," said

Smith. "It was probably the best either team played all day."

Following North Farmington, the Rocks defeated Northville 15-6, 15-6 and then lost to Stevenson 12-15, 13-15 in a controversial match.

"All the coaches agreed the officials were bad," said Smith. "They couldn't keep up with the game. They were missing illegal hits and interpreting the rules wrong."

Salem concluded their day by defeating Livonia Stevenson 15-11, 15-8.

"That was a nice match," Smith said. "I brought up five junior varsity players and they did real well ... they were all happy to be playing."

Salem will be off until Saturday when they travel to Romulus for the districts.

The Rocks will play Ypsilanti at noon in their first match.

"This is a good draw for us," Smith said. "If we play well there's no reason why we can't win on Saturday ... I want to win and the kids want to win."

"We're playing better," Smith added. "For a while there was some internal disorder but that's out of the way now."

PCJBL sign up to begin

It's time to dust off those baseball gloves and clean those cleats. It is still too cold to play baseball, but not too cold to register for the Plymouth Canton Junior Baseball League (PCJBL).

The league's registration dates are March 11 and Oarch 18 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Canton High School cafeteria.

The league is open to boys and girls ages seven through 18 that live in the Plymouth-Canton Schools District.

This season boys 15-18 will only play slow-pitch softball. Birth certificates are required for all first time participants.

Registration fees range from $25 to $35, which includes Detroit Tiger baseball tickets for fundraising purposes.

Salem captures title

BY RITA DERBIN

The seniors came through for the Salem basketball team as they won the Western Lakes Activity Association conference title on Saturday with an 80-73 victory over Westland John Glenn.

Top scorers in the game for Salem included senior Jeff Elliott with 19 points and senior Craig Marshall who had a career high 18 points. Jake Baker added 18 points.

Baker and Marshall led the Rocks with 12 rebounds each and Jeff Gold added 10.

Marshall and Gold also had eight assists apiece.

"Our guards (Marshall and Gold) played the whole game," said coach Bob Brodie. "They played well at both ends of the floor."

In the game, Salem came out quickly and maintained a lead throughout the game.

On Tuesday the Rocks defeated Livonia Franklin 77-71 in overtime to advance to the championship game.

Top scorers in the game included seniors Jeff Jagacki (17 points) and Mike Albertson (14 points). Elliott had 15 points and Baker added 12 in the win.

"We led most of the game," said Brodie. "But then stopped making free throws. We missed the front end of three one and ones going down the stretch to let them into the game."

The Rocks got back on track in overtime and did not allow Franklin to score.

Chiefs win division easily

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Canton boys swim team soundly beat Livonia Churchill Thursday to earn a Western Division Championship for the third straight year.

Canton easily defeated the Chargers 114-58.

Scott Swartzwelter, Jeff Homan, Mark Levesque and Mitch Timberlake combined for a first-place finish in the 200-yard medley relay (1:47.0).

Timberlake also had a first place in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of (23.7).

In the diving competition Brad Flowers earned himself a first place with a personal best score of 248.6.

Steve Geddes had two first-place finishes during the meet. The first came in 200-yard freestyle (1:55.1) and the second came in the 500-yard freestyle (5:18.4).

Mike Helmstadter joined up with Jim Hartnett, Timberlake and Bryce Anderson to garner a first place in the 400-yard freestyle relay (3:29.7).

Helmstadter also earned a first place in the 100-yard butterfly (57.7).

In addition to his first place in the 200-yard medley relay, Homan had a first in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:03.4).

Rounding out Canton's first-place finishes was Jeff Schwinn in the 100-yard freestyle (53.0).

Canton's senior swimmers played a crucial role in the Chiefs 10-3 season, said Canton coach Hooker Wellman.

"Our senior class is outstanding," said Wellman. "We had outstanding leadership from the seniors."

The fact the senior class played such an important role in Canton's season. It could present a problem for Wellman next season, considering the fact that 12 seniors will graduate this year.

With the dual meet season out of the way Canton is now concentrating on the post season, said Wellman.

The Chiefs first concern is the league meet, preliminary competition begins this afternoon at 2 p.m. Finals are Friday at the Salem pool beginning at 7 p.m.

According to Wellman, Canton's chances are good.

"Salem has the edge (Salem won the league championship last year)," said Wellman. "North Farmington and us will be in a dogfight. With some help, we'll make a go of it."

Rocks end regular season

BY RITA DERBIN

It was so close and yet so far. The Salem gymnastics team concluded the regular season by losing to Trenton by .45 points, 124 - 123.55. With the loss, the Rocks finished the regular season with a 4-6 record, their worst since 1981.

"We lost it on the beam," said coach Kathi Kinsella. "Every single girl fell ... we won three events but Trenton won by three and a half points on beam."

Kinsella added that the girls need to concentrate more if they are going to make a good showing at the conference meet tomorrow and the regionals next week.

The Rocks did well on vault with Dana Holda taking first-place (8.45). Aimee Wong finished second (8.4).

Autumn Bunch, fourth, 8.05; and Lisa Wietfeld, fifth, 8.0.

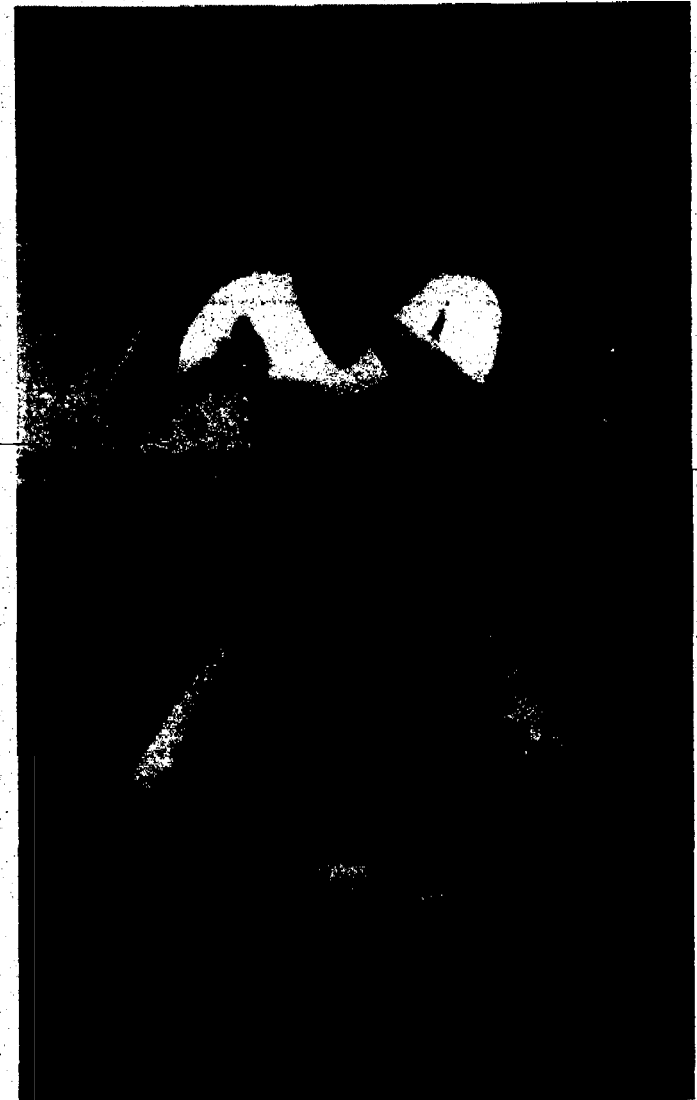

On bars, Bunch was second (8.05), Holda third (7.6) and Wong fifth (7.05).

Bunch was first on the floor, an event in which Kinsella feels she has a chance to make it to state in, with an 8.75. Robin Breed was second (8.4); Holda was fifth (8.1) and Jenny Skylakos was sixth with 8.05.

In all around competition, Bunch was third (31.6) and Holda was fourth (31.05).

On Thursday night, the Rocks defeated Walled Lake Western in their final home meet by the score of 126.95 - 100.05. In the meet Salem swept the first three spots in every event and took first and second in all around.

Tomorrow Salem will travel to Northville at 4 p.m. for the conference meet.

Workshop to prepare students for future

For many high school students graduating means difficult decisions that will effect the rest of their lives. Some high school counselors want to help make those decisions easier.

"Preparing to Live and Work in the 21st Century" a program for high school juniors and their parents will be presented March 7, in Canton High School's Little Theater, at 7 p.m.

The Centennial Educational Park Counseling Department, with support from Eastern Michigan University, Schoolcraft College, and various employers from the community, will present a series of workshops geared toward helping young people plan their futures.

The workshops will include: what employers will look for in the future; the job market between now and 1995; finding the right college; and what kinds of education and training are available at community colleges.

"We want to share information about what the future is holding for our students," said June Swartz, a Salem High School counselor, who with Canton counselors John Seidelman and Gloria Banks, organized the program.

"We began the program last year and the response was so good that we decided to do it again," Swartz said, adding that over 250 people attended last year.

She said that other area high schools are interested in starting similar programs, and are using Plymouth-Canton's version as an example.

While the program will be most helpful for juniors, sophomores and seniors are welcome.

Evidence, but no crime

There's blood, a part of a shotgun, and even some spent .33 caliber pellets, but there's still no victim and no signs of a crime.

Last Friday, Plymouth Township Police responded to a call at the Postiff Apartment complex where a shotgun barrel was found in the bushes outside of an apartment.

Police said the portion of the gun was adjacent to a "pile of liquid" which was later determined to contain human blood by the Michigan State Police forensics lab in Northville.

Police said they also found shotgun pellets inside one of the apartments.

No calls were made reporting the alleged shotgun blast, said police, who have since checked area hospitals for gunshot victims and sent teletypes to neighboring police agencies.

The case remains under investigation and police said they will accept tips "anonymous or otherwise" on the case.

Happy Birthday, Kathie! (There is no such thing as a secret when Jack is around!)

Aunt Hazel - Did you see your curio in last week's Crier? (I wrote it in invisible ink)

Julie - Dad survived the "mini" test. (I don't know if we can really count this one though, because he was very busy all weekend.)

A desk, two end tables, a coffee table and an entertainment unit all within the past month? Gary - you've outdone yourself! (I still can't believe I had to BUY the boot-jack though!)

Ed - Phyllis was right TWICE this year! (She's two up on you!)

Detective Redfern was right again!

Where, oh where have the coffee mugs gone? Where oh, where can they be?

Peg P. - Excellent performance! Rick and Vic were right - When you were dusting, we said to ourselves - Wow! What an actress!

If you know BOBBY LARICHE call him up & say "HI"!

Is Tie-die back in style? Ask Janell!

Who kicked over the trash can???

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, WENDY! The big 20! (on March 10).

Happy Birthday Kathie Allison!

Gallant Paul Gargaro saves ladies in distress!

Bev - Don't forget lunch!

Deni Easton with a driver's license? The world will never be the same! Happy 16th, Dan - G.P. & J
