Jabara to resign MBA post

James Jabara, a City of Plymouth Commissioner and a member of the city's Municipal Building Authority (MBA), will resign his MBA post.

State law and the city MBA articles of incorporation prohibit a city commissioner from serving on the building authority as well. This was done to avoid a potential conflict between the commission and the MBA members when the commission orders something built for the city.

"I only just found out (about the apparent conflict)," said Jabara, who

Is city, MBA bidding properly?

BY PAUL GARGARO AND
W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Copyright 1989 PCCC Inc.

Do the City of Plymouth and its Municipal Building Authority (MBA) follow proper procedures when contracting for goods and services?

The city's auditors recommended in a Sept. 20, 1988 letter "that all projects be planned and managed to allow competitive bidding and quoting, as they represent sound management practices. Future projects should be planned and managed to allow bidding and other appropriate methods of vendor selection covering substantially all of the project costs."

City Finance Director/Clerk William Graham, who also serves as chairperson of the MBA, said the MBA "is obligated to bid out projects either in part or as a whole when dollar limits so dictate. I also believe the MBA has met both the actual requirements and... the spirit of the law."

Yet, Graham admitted, portions of the construction and renovation work on the city's mausoleum may not have followed the City Charter and ordinance requirements for bidding.

Sewer bonds sold; project moves ahead

BY KEN VOYLES

Bonds to fund the design and construction of a sewage disposal system linking Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships to the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority (YCUA) were successfully sold in New York City last week.

The sale of the Western Townships Utility Authority (WTUA) Series 1989 Limited Tax General Obligation bonds to the tune of $87.8 million makes it possible to now proceed with the design and construction phases of the project.

"We're now fully funded," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who added that the bonds will be paid from revenues generated by the system when it comes on line.

"We're happy the bonds have been sold and the project will be done the way it was proposed," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen and one of the original backers of the WTUA project. "There were a lot of predictions that it wouldn't happen."

The bonds were sold through Prescott, Ball and Turben, Inc. of Plymouth.

The consulting engineers, Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, Inc., of Ann Arbor will now begin design of the project and submit the details to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

It is projected that the two phases of construction of the system will begin in 1990 and 1991 with the system coming on line by 1993. The two construction

BY PAUL GARGARO

Next time around, John Michael Sawulski will think twice about shopping at Winkleman's after hours.

Police said Sawulski, 35, was arrested at 6:12 a.m. Saturday by Plymouth Township Police in connection with the theft of $11,884.87 worth of merchandise from Winkleman's headquarters and warehouse on Helm Street in Plymouth Township early Saturday morning.

Winkleman's is a women's clothing. Police said they were contacted by Winkleman's security at approximately 3:30 a.m. Saturday and advised of a suspect on the premises.

According to police, Winkleman's security said that there had been three other larcenies of merchandise since November. A Winkleman's security guard told police she had been threatened verbally and with a gun prior to Saturday's theft. She also told police that the suspect had entered the warehouse three other times before she alerted her boss that the suspect wanted to come back again, police said.

Does city, MBA follow policies?

Graham discussed MBA practices in a memo to City Manager Henry Graper "...in regards to certain questions raised by... The Crier as to how the MBA conducts its business."

Under the ordinance, contracted work at a cost exceeding $5,000 must be sent out for bids.

However, Graham has maintained that the city's Riverside Mausoleum project, which is using the services of architect and construction manager Fritz Homann, of Southfield, has followed proper procedures.

The mausoleum project is being financed by the sale of a $1 million bond -- $800,000 of which has been set aside for the mausoleum, with the balance to be used for the ongoing Fleet Street improvement project.

The Riverside Mausoleum project has been divided into two phases: the renovation of the existing structure (which was erected in the mid-1920s) and the construction of a new garden crypt and niche space.

At the outset, Graham said the MBA petitioned proposals from three architectural firms in June, 1988 specializing in mausoleum work: CRDI, of Ann Arbor; Harley, Ellington, Pierce, Yee, and Associates, of Southfield; and Homann.

Homann's proposal was selected on a fixed rate basis of $49,500, plus another $5,000 for his extended services as construction manager of the renovation project and $25,000 for expanded management services in the new construction.

According to Graham, Homann has estimated that the cost of renovation will be $150,000 while the new construction would cost approximately $640,000.

A new roof was added to the existing mausoleum without bidding the job, Graham said. The estimated cost of placing a coal-tar roof on the structure was $25,000 but the Ann Arbor roofing firm's final price was $1,000 higher. Stone restoration by Grunwell-Cashero was also obtained without a bid. The work was estimated at $78,000 but actually cost $52,500, said Graham.

"I feel that as the MBA relies on general contractors who have bid work, it must also rely on construction managers to the same degree," said Graham. "Once a general contractor is hired it is incumbent upon him to supply labor and material to the job site within the amount of his contract."

"Likewise the construction manager has the same responsibility as regards to a budget designated for a particular job," added Graham. "In both cases the parties involved are acting on

Group hosts prison tourney

BY KEN VOYLES

The sound of the words "check-mate" will echo off prison walls Saturday as members of the Chess and Checkers Foundation of Michigan face a group of prisoners from the Wayne County Correctional Facility in an unusual chess tournament.

The tournament will pit 12 club members from throughout southeastern Michigan against a team of the best chess players in the Plymouth Township prison.

"This is both a generosity thing and it's a learning experience," said Chuck Bolter, current president and one of the founding members of the Chess and Checkers Foundation. "It's something completely off the wall, but why not work with the men and change their attitudes?"

Bolter said the tournament, which will be watched by other Wayne County prisoners, is the first of its kind.

"We taught chess on a weekly basis there about a year ago," Bolter. "We hope this is another start at again reaching these men."

The chess players will come from different clubs throughout the metro-area, said Bolter, and will include Jeff Bond, a Canton resident and vice-president of the foundation. There are currently about 30 members of the foundation from a variety of metro communities.

"We expect to find some good chess players," Bolter said. "I was there on Saturday and played for a while and they seemed to enjoy it."

Bolter said his group is excited about the tournament and its possible impact on the prisoners' lives. He said the group is trying to organize Saturday classes at both Wayne County Correctional and at Scott Correctional Facility across the road.

The Chess and Checker Foundation of Michigan is a non-profit organization which tries to promote the art of chess and checkers. It was founded in 1976 by Newell Banks and Bolter.

When Banks became ill in 1976 and was transferred from his home to the Hillcrest Nursing Center the idea took hold of making board games available to senior citizens and other needy groups.

Today the organization is dedicated to giving chess and checker sets to nursing homes, senior citizen groups, schools and recreational programs in the area.

The group also hosts exhibitions at various shopping malls and members participate in nationally-sanctioned tournaments.

Capital Charges not listed, or for unusual conditions, shall be determined by the Township Board.

B. In addition to the Capital Charge, there shall be a Front Footage Charge of $20.00 per front foot of property serviced by the sewer line, as a debt service charge. However, the Capital Charge shall be the only debt service charge that is payable by premises that have either installed the sewer line in front of their property at their own expense or have paid a special assessment to defray a portion of all of the cost of installing the sewer line that fronts their property to be served.

Where subdividers make their own connection on sewers they install themselves to the individual houses, the Connection Charge will be waived and a $50.00 inspection fee for each home will be collected in lieu thereof.

There shall be a minimum inspection fee of $50.00 on all connections of six (6) inches or less. The minimum connection for commercial building shall be six (6) inch service with clean out every 100'.

SPECIAL STORM SEWER PROJECT

In all storm sewer projects initially financed by the Charter Township of Canton, the cost assessed to and paid back to each property owner shall be determined pursuant to the following equations:

$$\text{Cost} = (26 + (0.5 \times \text{Flow})) \times (\text{Distance}) \quad (1)$$

$$\text{Percentage of Cost (\%)} = \frac{(26 + (0.5 \times \text{Flow}) \times \text{Distance})}{M(26 + (0.5 \times \text{Flow})) \times (\text{Distance})} \quad (2)$$

In the preceding equation, the terms are defined as follows:
 "Flow" is the amount of runoff generated by a specific parcel of property expressed in cubic feet per second.

"Distance" is how far a specific parcel of property is from the location of discharge to a county drain, natural water course expressed in feet.

The symbol "M" notes the summation of equation (1) for all properties in the drainage district. Nothing herein shall be construed to require the Charter Township of Canton to finance any portion of a storm or sanitary sewer unless in its sole discretion such project would be deemed necessary and in the best interest of the Township.

SECTION 2. SAVINGS OF ALL PENDING PROCEEDINGS AND BALANCE OF ORDINANCE

The balance of Ordinance No. 30, except as herein amended, shall remain in full force and effect. All proceedings pending and all rights and liabilities existing, acquired or incurred at the time this amendatory ordinance takes effect are saved and may be consummated according to the law enforced when they are commenced. This amendatory ordinance shall not be construed to affect any right pending before the effective date of this amendatory ordinance.

SECTION 3. VIOLATION AND PENALTY:

Any person, corporation, partnership or any other legal entity who shall violate or fail to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance or any of the regulations adopted in pursuance thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof may be fined not more than $500.00 or in prison not more than ninety (90) days, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

SECTION 4. SEVERABILITY:

If any section, subsection, clause, phrase or portion of this Ordinance is for any reason held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions thereof.

SECTION 5. CONSTRUCTION OF ORDINANCE

This ordinance shall be liberally construed in such manner as to best effectuate its purpose. The provisions of this ordinance shall be construed if possible, in such manner as to make such provisions compatible and consistent with the provisions of all existing ordinances of the Township and all amendments thereto.

SECTION 6. REPEAL OF CONFLICTING SECTION:

Section 6 and 7 of Ordinance No. 30 are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this amendatory ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION 7. EFFECTIVE DATE:

This Ordinance is declared to be an emergency ordinance being necessary to provide for the public health and for the safety to persons and property and is to be given immediate effect upon publication thereof.

Bidding procedures should not be ignored

Local governmental units in The Plymouth-Canton Community have standards of business conduct which are placed there by state and local charter and ordinance provisions.

These standards protect the safety and well-being of city and township residents and taxpayers.

In that regard, these rules are no different than the speeding laws enacted by the same governments to enforce safe driving. Perhaps it would be expedient to ignore a speeding law when late for an appointment, but try that argument on the judge.

Similarly, the rules governing how City of Plymouth and Canton Township spend money protect the residents and taxpayers too. Possibly it is expedient for the respective board, commission or authority to ignore the rules, but tell that to the auditors and taxpayers.

The City, engaged in a number of large projects over the past years, provides most of its construction through the Municipal Building Authority. According to its chairman, William Graham, (who is also the City's finance director and clerk) the MBA must follow the City Charter and ordinances relating to purchasing items or services over $5,000.

He says it has met the spirit of the law, yet admits that in the current MBA $800,000 project to restore and expand the Riverside Mausoleum at least two large items -- estimated at a total of $104,000 -- were not bid out. And two more items -- another $115,000 total -- will also not be bid, says the city.

Graham says the justification is that the type of work could be performed by only a limited number of contractors and that the construction manager hired by the City is supervising the work and price.

(In one case, the actual price turned out to be $25,500 less than expected, another was $1,000 more.)

But how much extra effort would it have taken to actually bid the job, thereby avoiding all appearance of impropriety?

In Canton last month, a split board vote awarded a $4,500 contract to the firm co-owned by Supervisor Tom Yack's campaign manager Bill Joyner. Township rules stipulate that contracts over $3,000 be bid, so that board had to re-vote on waiving the bid requirement for the contract.

At that point, Joyner criticized one opponent for her voting on large non-bid contracts before without complaining. (No further specifics have been tendered.)

Whether these municipal contracts have been awarded because of friendships or promises is a matter of opinion to those involved -- especially to disgruntled potential bidders and cynical taxpayers.

The issue is that good financial and accounting controls are in place for a reason.

Bids are sought to keep prices low, attract all interested contractors and to increase options and input on the jobs at hand. Local governmental units should seek bids except in the most extreme emergency situations -- and those do not include poorly managing work to be done until a deadline is at hand.

Auditors for the respective governmental units in The Plymouth-Canton Community should watch for practices that violate the law and the spirit of these safeguards.

And governmental leaders should follow the rules.

Run for school board!

Should the Plymouth-Canton School Board race this June become a head-to-head test of the "conservative Christian" and "mainstream" candidates?

That's exactly what some school political watchers -- including The Community Crier's young school reporter and columnist -- have suggested.

They argue that incumbent School Board President David Artley has already announced his bid for re-election and that, since the Citizens for Better Education (CBE) would likely challenge the "establishment" again, all other challengers should stay away. Otherwise, as was seen last time, a severely split vote might let a CBE candidate slip onto the board.

That's poppycock.

The schools' voters are entitled to pick from as many varied candidates as is at all possible. Last school election proved that it takes more than a name and imagined laurels to rest on. It takes campaigning on important issues to capture voters' approval.

And the more, the merrier.

If Plymouth-Canton Community School District voters avoid the polls and allow a small with Malice Toward None

band of mobilized zealots to control their schools, they -- and, unfortunately, their children -- will suffer.

Thus, (the community education role for this school district may end up taking its own final exam come election day in June. Will voters care enough to turn out and banish the book-burners of CBE? (Ironically, the school board's poor public relations stance on selling millage matters will guarantee a "disgruntled" vote as the proposed four-mill tax hike heads to almost certain defeat.)

But the more candidates, the more voter interest.

And the greater the chance that school leadership will survive the fray.

Run for the school board! Petitions are available now at the Plymouth-Canton Community School Board offices.

Students have a right to quality education

Support schools -- whether you have kids, or not

EDITOR:

Ten years ago when I was entering high school, the school board was seeking additional millage from the voters. One day, before the election, I was talking to a neighbor about school. She said, "My five children and I have each gone through school. I do not have to vote for the millage since I am not going to benefit directly from it. I will vote yes, because every student should have the opportunity for a quality education ... The student must decide what they will do with the opportunity."

The voters approved the millage. After graduating from high school, I went on to college. I thank all the voters, especially the people who voted yes even though they would not benefit directly. I remember my neighbor's words every time a school millage is requested. I have voted yes on every school millage since 1981, when I became a registered voter.

I am proud to say I am concerned about the community and will vote yes on each millage ballot.

The students of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools deserve a quality education. It is our responsibilities as parents, adults, and American citizens to see that it happens.

Remember you pay for what you get.

Enough is enough

No more McDonald's

Somebody please tell the McDonald's Corporation that Canton residents don't want a third fast food outlet in their community.

Maybe, but don't count on it, the Michigan State Court of Appeals will tell the corporate giant to back off and stop bullying the township.

The township already has two well-run and highly respected outlets owned and operated by community minded Bob Card, but McDonald's has been waging a running legal battle to get a third outlet built on Ford Road at I-275 where they have an option on some land.

On March 21 the court of appeals is expected to rule on the matter. With any luck this "David and Goliath" story will end in a Canton victory.

The whole story goes back a few years when the township's planning commission originally approved the third site. Canton's Board of Trustees then denied the project, which led McDonald's to take the community to court.

McDonald's asked the circuit court to overturn the ruling but lost. The company then went back to the township and was turned down again. They instigated further legal proceedings in circuit court and lost again. Now they're before the state appeals court and ready for blood.

"Our position is just how many McDonald's are enough for one community?" said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. "They're trying to jam this down our throats."

"It's not that we don't have enough fast food places in Canton. We've got them all covered," Yack added.

No one knows for sure why McDonald's wants a company run outlet in Canton when there are already two successful McDonald's in the township.

"Greed. That's what this is all about," said a visibly angered Yack.

Or maybe the company is just trying to undercut Card's operations for reasons beyond normal mortal understanding.

For Yack the real issue here is one of a community's control over its own destiny. The current McDonald's -- located on Ford Road and Michigan Avenue -- would be barely three miles from any new franchise.

McDonald's can continue to drag out the legal battle (it probably has an entire legal department which needs to be kept busy), but the township has neither the money or legal ability to sustain a prolonged fight.

If Canton wins on March 21 observers expect the legal battle to continue in the Michigan Supreme Court. If Canton loses the fight residents can expect construction of the third McDonald's in the near future.

Any way one looks at this legal struggle, the residents of Canton should watch it very carefully.

If McDonald's bullies its way into Canton with a third outlet the entire community will suffer. What will then stop Burger King or Kentucky Fried Chicken from also demanding sites along I-275?

Good schools help property values: say yes to millage

Most residents should have been pleased last week when they were notified of their new property assessment: the average rise in property value in The Plymouth-Canton Community is about 15 per cent -- well above the average for Wayne County.

And even the smallest of increases (assessments are calculated by subdivision in Plymouth Township and Canton) are well above the expected inflation rate. This means that while homes are worth a lot more than they were last year, residents will not be taxed for the entire increase, but only five or six per cent of it, as the Headlee Amendment limits these increases to the inflation rate.

That seems like something to be pleased about.

Let's hope the good mood lasts until June.

That's when voters will be asked to bail the school system out of its financial bind, and dole out an additional four dollars per $1,000 of SEV (State Equalized Valuation of property).

Many people will say no. Five or six per cent is still a lot, they'll say -- the schools are always asking for more money.

It's these people who don't realize one major reason that their home rose so dramatically in value over the past year. These folks, before they cast their ballot in June, ought to call up their friendly neighborhood real estate agent.

I did. And here's what he said:

"There are two very strong influences on values of real estate: a viable central business district, and a high caliber school system.

"Corporate transfers, which make up many of the buyers in this area, are especially concerned with quality schools. The reason that this area has been attractive, to a large degree, has been because the Plymouth-Canton

Swimming upstream

By John Broderick

schools have a good reputation.

"If real estate people in Farmington and other areas begin to mention in passing to potential buyers, 'have you heard about the financial problems the Plymouth-Canton Schools have been experiencing?' -- that's going to have a restraining effect on sales here, and ultimately on values."

In other words, the good mood could begin to wear thin in the coming years, and the increasing property values become a thing of the past.

A local tax official said that property values are likely to level off in the coming years anyway -- regardless of what happens with the schools.

If the schools do not get the four additional mills they are requesting, the first cut is likely to be a reduction in the school day, from six periods to five. This move, according to schools Superintendent John M. Hoben, could endanger the schools' accreditation with the North Central Association.

The owner of a home worth $100,000 will have a tax increase of about $200 if the (additional) millage passes. Isn't it worth the investment if the risk is losing thousands of dollars in property value?

"If the millage (increase) doesn't pass, we will be in a very real danger of losing buyers to other communities. This is a severe problem, that could really effect sales for us," the real estate person said.

A vote for the millage increase may be a vote not only for the future of the district's kids, but also for continuing increases in property values.

New twist in Tyburski trial -- drugs

BY KEN VOYLES

Six days before her death Dorothy Tyburski was rushed to Oakwood Canton Center following an overdose of prescription drugs, it was revealed last week following a hearing during which Leonard Tyburski was bound over on charges of murdering his wife.

According to information from the Canton Fire Department, a rescue run was made to the Tyburski home on Avon Street on Sept. 22, 1985, following a call from Leonard Tyburski, who said his wife had taken pills and was on the loose in the neighborhood.

The information adds yet another twist to a case already brimming with the sordid details of a suburban domestic life gone haywire.

Leonard Tyburski was bound over Thursday by 35th District Court Judge James Garber on second degree murder charges in his wife's Sept. 28, 1985 slaying. He failed to post a $250,000 bond and remains in Wayne County Jail.

Garber, who said he found sufficient evidence to "sustain" a second degree murder charge, allowed a bond in this case because of the potential for reduced charges or manslaughter.

"What we have here is second degree at best," said Garber. Tyburski will next be arraigned in Detroit Recorder's Court on March 16.

During testimony last week Tyburski's daughter Kelly Marie Tyburski, 20, said she discovered her mother's body on Jan. 2, 1989 while doing laundry in the basement of the family's ranch. She told the court that she pried open the locked freezer and, "I saw the body of my mom."

Weeping openly, Tyburski identified her father in the packed court room and told how she went with her sister to the Canton Police after the discovery.

Back when her mother disappeared the oldest Tyburski daughter said her father told her he had had a fight with his wife and that she had left home.

The daughter also revealed that her relationship with her mother had become "complicated" when her boyfriend Craig Albright moved into the family home and began spending time with her mother.

In a statement to police read in the court Thursday, Leonard Tyburski, 45, said his wife no longer loved him and wanted him to leave the house for two weeks.

It was during the ensuing argument over his wife's alleged love affair with Albright that Tyburski said he struck his wife's head on a basement beam and she "fell" into the freezer. He told police in a three page statement that his wife said, "You don't satisfy me" and called him a "wimp."

Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. L.J. Dragovic told the court that Tyburski died from at least 11 blunt blows to the head. He also said the 37-year-old woman may have been alive for a short time after suffering the blows but that she was unconscious and unable to move or communicate.

"It is possible the deceased was alive for a short time period after sustaining the injuries," he said.

Dragovic added that Tyburski, whose body had to be thawed for 24 hours before an autopsy could be performed, may have been placed in the freezer based on the position of the body.

Rick Pomorski, the Canton detective in charge of the case, told the court that Tyburski's body was found in what looked like a "fetal" position inside the freezer. He also said there was a large amount of blood in the freezer, with a smear on one side running down to the woman's head.

Tyburski also said he was "plagued" by the memory of what he had done, in his statement read by Pomorski for the court.

"I think we have proven a crime was committed and the defendant committed it," Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Frank Bernacki told the court.

Defense attorney Carol Stanyar said the facts showed that the crime was committed in the "heat of passion."

"This man lost control. He was provoked," said Stanyar, who added that Tyburski was pushed to the "brink" when his wife confessed to the affair with the daughter's boyfriend.

Growth Works moves ahead with new program

BY JOHN BRODERICK

There is something unique and special about the old Plymouth Mail building on Main Street.

And it's no wonder -- there's something unique and special about what goes on inside.

The historic building is the home of Growth Works, Inc., an agency which helps troubled youths straighten out their lives.

The agency opened in 1971, as Plymouth Youth, Inc., and provided supervised recreation for area kids. As the organization grew, and changed its name in 1975, it began to provide more comprehensive services for adolescents and adults -- such as a community employment service, and a youth assistance program for juvenile offenders.

As the needs of the community changed, Growth Works eventually turned in a new direction -- substance abuse counseling -- and is now one of the few organizations in southeastern Michigan that provides "aftercare" for adolescents who have finished treatment in rehabilitation centers, and their parents.

Now Growth Works is once again moving into a new area, by unveiling plans for a comprehensive day treatment program.

Growth Works Executive Director Dale Yagiela has been with the organization since the beginning. "At a few different points along the way, we've done research into what kinds of programs were needed, and decided what areas we should move into.

"In 1982 we realized that kids coming out of in-patient treatment programs often had little support after they returned home -- this made their recovery more difficult. So we initiated the aftercare program to help these kids maintain their sobriety after their initial treatment, and to help their parents with their co-dependency," Yagiela said.

"For a number of years we have been in close collaboration with St. Luke's -- a treatment center in Toledo -- and provided aftercare for kids coming out of there," Yagiela said. "Now we've decided to move into actually doing the treatment ourselves."

The day treatment program will run in six week cycles -- five days a week, eight times a year. Parents will be expected to participate in the program, for three evenings a week, and for one complete "parent's week."

One important aspect of the program, according to Yagiela, is a very thorough "intake" process.

"A lot of programs treat people before really assessing the needs of each individual. Some of these kids are dealing with a number of issues -- gender disorders, sexual abuse, eating disorders, loss in their families -- that the particular treatment may not be equipped to deal with. We think it's important to appropriately match the treatment with what is going on with the kid."

Yagiela expects to start each cycle with 15-20 kids, and end up with 10-15. "Normally we find a few who need more than we can provide, or cannot stick with the program for some reason.

"Because the program is new, we will run it very conservatively, and really stress the intake function," Yagiela said.

Linda Dwyer-Kozminski is Growth Works' director of substance abuse services. "When a program accepts someone, they have a responsibility to provide a good opportunity for success. In our aftercare program, 86 per cent of those who began last year finished the program and made considerable progress on most of their recovery issues -- as well as remaining abstinent."

The new program, which is made possible by a grant from the Plymouth Community United Way, is slated to begin in July. "The United Way has been very supportive over the years, and this most recent grant (of $21,000) is enabling us to start the new program," Yagiela said.

Linda Dwyer-Kozminski and Dale Yagiela of Growth Works discuss details of the organization's day-treatment program, which will begin in July. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Knowing what to write about isn't the problem, trying to find the right words to describe the person who opened the door for me to get into journalism is harder than I thought.

Oh, no, the lead is already too long.

Fred Delano, one of the fathers of community journalism in our area, died last week. What can I say about this man that hasn't already been said in the past week? Well, I guess I have my stories, just like everyone who knew him.

It was almost 13 years ago that I convinced Fred to let me write a column for the Observer. Actually I'm not sure why he agreed to the column. Perhaps it was because our families had been friends for years, or more likely he just wanted to get me off his back.

Once I had been given the chance to write, I suddenly wasn't quite so confident in my ability. As I thought about that first column I asked Fred how I should write it. I will never forget his words as he looked up at me and said, "Phyllis my dear, just sit down and write the damn thing." (Before I started at the 'other paper,' I was kidnapped by The Crier.)

Fred and his wife Olga were part of the old gang that used to get together for occasions or Friday night dinners. Tonquish Creek Yacht Club parties were always special as well as New Years Eve parties at the DeLano's. Since Olga and I both managed to marry men with April 1st birthdays, we usually celebrated together either at their house or ours.

Tree trimming parties at the DeLano's were always highlights of the holiday season. Fred would lead the singing of Christmas Carols (whether he knew the words or had to fake them). Christmas Eve they joined with friends at our house.

There's no doubt that he was a good teacher and friend, yet there were times I wanted to wring his neck. I knew it wouldn't do any good for me to get mad at him, besides Olga was the only one he answered to.

His son and daughter, Bob and Betty, were his prides and joys. I can remember them in their band uniforms, or joining in the get togethers. Betty even babysat for my little darlings one summer.

Last week when family and friends gathered together and compared stories about Fred, my son enjoyed hearing his kids talk about having to meet everyone in the community and knowing when they weren't introduced to someone it was because dad didn't remember their name. Well Fred, I hope I picked up some of your good traits, too.

I was accused (by his family and mine) of copping out of writing a column last week. Okay so I did, but darn it Fred, where were you when I needed help? Somehow I have the feeling you're looking over my shoulder reminding me to just sit down and write it.

Millage campaign heats up

BY JOHN BRODERICK

It's early, but the campaign to pass the school millage is picking up steam.

A strategic planning committee of staff members and administrators has been making preparations to aid and support a citizen led campaign to support the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools request for renewal of eight mills, and an additional four mills, in June.

The committee will meet this week with about a dozen citizens who have expressed interest in taking leadership roles in the campaign.

More than 300 citizens have offered to help with the campaign, according to Sharon Streen, a staff member, and co-chair of the planning committee.

"Our initial step will be to educate people about the way schools are financed. It's a very complicated system -- we want to put it in a form that people can understand," Streen said.

"A volunteer survey has been circulated through building principals, and we've received an encouraging amount of support -- upwards of several inches of paper," she said.

The June 12 election will include the two millage requests, and the filling of one seat on the Board of Education, which is currently held by board President David Arley. Arley has declared candidacy, and two other citizens have taken out petitions.

School official said they are optimistic about the chances of both ballot issues passing.

Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations for the schools said, "I'm much more optimistic than I have been in the past -- I think this time around we can pass it."

PIP-Fest helps kids, parents with pressures

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Do you ever find it difficult to communicate with your adolescent son or daughter?

Or do you ever feel like being in the eighth grade really stinks?

Pressures on adolescents, and on their parents, are often as heavy as pressures can be. Learning about friendship, communication, peer pressure, and chemical abuse, and dealing with these issues in a healthy environment, can make this difficult time in life a bit easier.

Partners in Prevention Festival, or PIP-Fest, is a program designed to do just that. The overnight event, includes a series of lectures and workshops for seventh, eighth and ninth graders, and parents, designed to improve communication and confidence of young people.

"PIP Fest is a sort of leadership conference, where kids can learn to get help for themselves and for their friends," said Nan Horwood, an organizer of the event in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"It gives kids a chance to talk among themselves, and to adult role models, about issues that are important, but that they may not discuss every day," she said.

"A lot of people in society are affected by an alcoholic family in some way -- even if they do not use chemicals themselves. PIP Fest is geared toward teaching kids about these things," she said.

About one hundred kids will attend, twenty from each middle school in the district, and about 50 or so parents, Horwood said.

David Artley, president of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education, attended the fest last year, and will participate again this year.

"PIP Fest is an excellent chance for interaction between adults and adolescents. I may be 40 and you may be 14, but when we're there, I'm Dave and you're John -- all formalities are put aside," he said.

The fest, to be held this weekend at Central Middle School is made possible by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Alternative Education Program, the Community Task Force on Substance Abuse, and the Canton Rotary club.

Places to be

Dutch singer to perform

A bit of Europe will be coming to Canton High School this week as Albert van Amstel, a Dutch guitarist and singer, brings his unique blend of French folk music to town.

The Dutch born van Amstel studied French language and literature in Amsterdam, and for the past 10 years has travelled extensively throughout the United States and Europe, performing in four different languages.

Doryl Hodgins, a French teacher at Salem High School, and a friend of van Amstel's, organized the concert, as a sort of educational tool for her students.

"It's an academic program -- we use the songs to teach the language," she said.

Van Amstel works for the American Council on International Studies, and met Hodgins a few years ago when she took a group of students to France.

"He has a repertoire of hundreds of songs in French, Dutch, German, and English. But since I teach French, he will only perform in French and English," Hodgins said.

Albert van Amstel, a Dutch folk singer, will perform Friday at Canton High School.

The performance will begin a 7 p.m. Friday (March 10), in the Canton cafeteria. The public is welcome, and admission is $2.

Trains on parade

Plymouth's original train show -- this time it's the 11th bi-annual show -- is set for Sunday (March 12) at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The show, with more than 100 tables of new, used and antique trains, will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is $2 per person (kids under 12 get in free with parents). Tables are $8 in advance or $10 at the door.

Besides the display tables, show goers will also get a chance to climb aboard a Chessie System (CSX) locomotive and caboose located track side near the now closed Roundhouse off Starkweather in Old Village.

For further information call 455-4455.

The next train show is already slated for Oct. 8 this year.

Pianist performs at church

Dr. Rudy Atwood, a nationally-renowned pianist, will bring his artistry to the Plymouth Baptist Church on Sunday (March 12).

Atwood, who is best known as the "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" pianist for his 31 years on national radio, will present a Sunday School concert at 9:45 a.m., a musical package at 11 a.m. and another concert at 3 p.m.

Pastor Bill Barber Jr. said guests are welcome. For further details call the church office at 453-5534. The church is located on Ann Arbor Trail just west of Haggerty Road.

'Haggerty Triangle' no longer for sale

BY KEN VOYLES

A piece of property in Canton dubbed the "Haggerty Triangle" is no longer for sale, according to Supervisor Tom Yack.

Yack, who said a recent appraisal of the land along Haggerty Road was "flawed," recommended to other township officials that the site be withdrawn from sale while other options are considered.

The most recent appraisal of the land found it worth approximately $28,000 per acre. It was the third appraisal of the land and the lowest. The other appraisals suggested the land was worth $55,000 per acre or $85,000 per acre.

"My initial reaction was that it (the latest appraisal) was unacceptable," said Yack. "We're going to investigate other options, other ways of using the property."

Yack said one option would be to lease the land somewhat along the lines of a leasing project put together by Schoolcraft College with the Duke Corporation.

"We're going to look at all 90 acres," he said. Twenty-eight acres of the site have been sought by two investment groups.

Yack said he has written to the companies interested in the land informing them of the decision to withdraw the land and investigate other options. "We'll keep them posted," he said.

Yack said he would like to see more control over any development on the site and he thinks some kind of lease arrangement may produce "steady cash flow."

The most recent appraisal came after one made in November of last year was considered too high by many of the township officials.

Two offers have already been made for 28 acres of the land and one offer remains undisclosed. A third offer has been withdrawn, said Yack.

The Selective Group of Bloomfield Township offered $50,000 per acre for the 28-acre parcel of the site.

Police said charges have not been filed, pending further investigation of the accident.

BY PAUL GARGARO

Rosemary Harvey started her official duties as Plymouth Township's new finance director on Monday.

As finance director, Harvey said her responsibilities will include the coordination of internal and external audits and the organization of the township's financial resources.

The new position was created late last year by the township's board of trustees.

Harvey, 36, is the mother of six-year-old twins John and David. A native of Massachusetts, she holds a bachelor's degree from Merrimack College in North Andover, MA and an MBA from Northeastern University in Boston.

Salem crowned WLAA champ

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

It put a capital "R" in cross-campus rivalry, when Canton and Salem met at the Western Lakes Activities Association's (WLAA) league meet.

Salem edged out Canton to win the meet for the second straight year. The final standings were Salem 462 points, Canton 454 points.

The Chiefs led the meet by two points going into the last event the 400-yard freestyle relay, but the Rocks rallied for come-from-behind win to take the WLAA crown.

Ron Orris and Mike Hill led the Rocks in their league meet victory. Orris garnered three first-place victories and Hill captured two.

Orris, Eric Bunch, Chris Caloia and Rick Stesek combined for the winning effort in the 400-yard freestyle relay (3:20.71).

In the 200-yard individual medley Orris took a first place with the time 1:59.45 and in the 500-yard freestyle, he also captured a first place (4:53.97).

Hill combined with Mark Ericson, Chris Butzloff and Fred Sidelman for a second place in the 200-yard medley relay (1:42.90).

In the 100-yard freestyle Hill earned his second first-place finish with a time of 48.91.

Splash!

"They were expected to win," said Hill who serves as one of Salem's team captains. "So we gave it that extra push."

"We should have won it," said Canton coach Hooker Wellman.

Although the Chiefs had to settle for second place in league, they did accomplish a lot, said Wellman.

Not only did the 200-yard medley relay team earn a first place, they also broke a school record and they qualified for the state meet.

Scott Swartzwelter, Jeff Homan, Bryce Anderson and Mitch Timberlake were the members of the first place, record breaking relay, combining for a blistering time of 1:42.63.

Mike Helmstadter captured a fourth place for the Chiefs in the 200-yard freestyle (1:50.51) and also took a third place in the 100-yard freestyle (49.83).

Another Canton school record was broken in Friday's league competition when Homan earned a second place and a time of 2:02.14 in the 200-yard individual medley.

Timberlake swam to a fourth place in the 50-yard freestyle (23.46). Anderson was second in the 100-yard butterfly (55.76).

Homan broke a league record with his first-place finish in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:01.67). Kevin Beech also broke a freshman record in the same event, finishing seventh with a time of 1:04.40.

Jim Hartnett finished off Canton's second-place finishes with a second place in the 100-yard backstroke (58.36).

"It was the closest conference meet in the conference history," said Wellman. "A lot of the kids were emotionally upset after the loss. I learned a considerable amount."

Wellman added that his team finished a lot further ahead than people expected them to at the beginning of the season.

Swimmers from both Salem and Canton will compete in the state meet on Friday.

All-league honors

Coaches in the Western Lakes Activities Association recently announced their selections for all-conference and all-division basketball teams for the 1988-89 season.

Receiving all-conference honors were Brian PauPore, of Canton, and Jeff Elliot, of Salem. All Division honors went to Troy Waldron, of Canton, in the Western Division, and Jake Baker, of Salem, in the Lakes Division. Honorable mentions went to Fernando Johnson of Canton, and Craig Marshall and Jeff Jagacki of Salem.

Rocks lose in fourth quarter

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

It looked like the Salem Rocks had it all wrapped up in the district championship game on Friday against Livonia Stevenson.

But the fourth quarter turned it all around when Stevenson made a comeback and the Rocks were unable to stop them.

Stevenson went on to beat the Rocks by one point, 71-70.

Salem had a 20-point lead in the third quarter, but was unable to hold on when Stevenson came at them in the fourth.

"Somebody put a lid on our basket," said Salem coach Bob Brodie.

Salem was one for 12 from the field in the fourth quarter, while Stevenson capitalized on eight shots of 12 attempted.

Jake Baker threw in 22 points for the Rocks on Friday and pulled down 16 rebounds. Jeff Elliott and Jeff Gold each contributed 12 points for Salem.

At the end of the first quarter the Rocks were down by two, but that changed in the second and third quarters when Salem gave all it had to give.

"We started getting our running game going," said Brodie. "And we stopped them from scoring, except their big kid in the middle."

"Everybody started celebrating too early," Brodie said. "We had our opportunities, we just didn't capitalize on them."

Brodie said he was pleased with his team for the season they had, but was still hurt by the loss, which ended the 20-3 Rocks season.

Gymnasts compete at league meet

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Canton girls gymnasts were edged out for third place in the Western Lakes Activities Association's (WLAA) league meet on Thursday by just one point.

North Farmington won the meet with 137.45, John Glenn was second (134.55). Northville edged out Canton to take third (132.95). Canton was fourth (131.7) and Salem ended in fifth place (126.85).

Both Canton coach John Cunningham and Salem coach Kathie Kinsella said their teams did well.

"We almost had an exceptional meet," said Cunningham.

"We did better than we thought we could," said Kinsella. "And we also beat Farmington, who beat us in the regular season."

Dana Holda, of Salem, was the highest finisher of the two teams in the vaulting competition, taking seventh place (8.65). Canton's Johanna Anderson garnered a eighth place (8.6) and Autumn Bunch from Salem followed in ninth place (8.5).

Canton, who was ranked number one as a team on the beam, didn't let that ranking go to waste.

Heather Murphy was the highest ranking Chief earning a third-place finish on beam (8.7). Dawn Clifford was next for Canton taking fourth place (8.6), Anderson placed sixth for the Chiefs (8.55), and Salem's Holda was eighth (8.15).

Holda again led the Rocks in the uneven parallel bars taking a 12th place (8.35), while Clifford was Canton's leader with a 13th-place finish (8.15).

Canton's Anderson and Salem's Bunch tied for a fifth place in the floor exercise (8.75), with Danielle Mirro from Canton earning an eighth place (8.55).

In the all-around competition Anderson led the way for the Chiefs, garnering seventh place (33.65). Holda was Salem's highest finisher with a career high 33.45 points which earned her a 10th-place finish. She was followed closely by teammate Clifford in 11th place (33.15).

"I was immensely pleased with our performance," said Cunningham. "You can't ask for anything more then their best."

Salem's coach Kinsella was also happy with her team's performance, and said she was especially pleased with Holda's performance.

"It was Dana Holda's meet," said Kinsella. "She's a senior and really came through for us."

Kinsella added that Holda was competing with a nagging wrist injury.

Both teams will compete in the Class A Regional meet on Saturday. The meet is being held at Canton's Phase III and starts at 9:30 a.m.

Volleyball season ends

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

After what seemed like a warm-up match against Ypsilanti, the Salem girls volleyball team lost in the semifinals of district play, said Salem coach Betty Smith.

The Rocks won their first match 15-4, 15-11.

"Ypsi wasn't real tough," said Smith. "We were pretty much in charge."

Maria Wordhouse led the Rocks in that outing with seven kills.

However, Salem didn't have it so easy with Adrian, losing 3-15 and 7-15.

According to Smith, fan enthusiasm played a role in the Rock's loss.

"The girls had a hard time with noise level in the gym," said Smith. "Adrian's parents were having a good time in the stands. So the momentum definitely was on Adrian's side of the net."

Wordhouse had five kills on 13 attempts.

"We weren't real aggressive at the net," said Smith. "We just couldn't get our feet moving."

Salem finished out the season with a 20-13 overall record.

"That's the best varsity record at Salem in five years," said Smith.

Canton fared worse than Salem, losing in the first round to Wayne Memorial, 8-15 and 10-15.

Regardless of the scores, the Chiefs turned in a number of good performances, said Canton coach Allie Suffetty.

Susan Ferko led the Chiefs with seven kills and Candi Jones had four kills, said Suffetty.

The coach also added that Michelle Fortier's strong setting and Alyssa Huth's fine work in the back row were other bright spots in the loss.

"We could have beat them if we played the best we have ever played," said Suffetty.

Canton finished the season 7-6, which earned the team a fourth place in the division and a fifth place in the league.

"I'm pleased with the record," said Suffetty. "But I'm disappointed in the fact that we lacked some confidence."

Suffetty is especially pleased with his team's possibilities in the future.

"We have some good kids coming up," said Suffetty. "Kelly Bemiss and Sheri Ruldolph, my junior varsity and freshman coaches, are doing a good job."

And to top Canton's season off, Ferko was named to the all-division team, while Kristen Haladay and Candi Jones were named Honorable Mentions.

Losing in districts ends both Salem and Canton's seasons.

PCJBL sign up

It's time to dust off those baseball gloves and clean those cleats.

It is still too cold to play baseball, but not too cold too register for the Plymouth Canton Junior Baseball League (PCJBL).

The league's registration dates are March 11 and March 18 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Canton High School cafeteria.

The league is open to boys and girls ages seven through 18 that live in the Plymouth-Canton Schools District.

This season boys 15-18 will only play slow-pitch softball. Birth certificates are required for all first time participants.

Registration fees range from $25 to $35, which includes Detroit Tiger baseball tickets for fundraising purposes.

Salem coach roasted

Tom Moshimer has been head coach for 30 years. To celebrate, a gathering of former players, coaches, and friends will take place March, 18 at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

Tickets are $25 per person and include a buffet meal, gift and expenses with the remainder being donated to the Plymouth Salem Football program, in addition to an opportunity to "roast the coach."

For further information, call Centennial Education Park Athletic Director Paul Cummings at 451-6600, ext. 231.

Auditor questions city, MBA bidding

behalf of the MBA as regards a given project. The construction manager has the responsibility of bringing the project in within the budget and the general contractor within his contract."

On MBA jobs where a contractor has been used, like the utility-burying project on Fleet Street, Graham said the MBA has exercised its right to refuse a $600,000 bid from Allen Park Electric for work covered by a bond sale of $435,000.

The city then negotiated a price of $435,000 to $450,000 with H and M

Contracting of Detroit to do the work as a general contractor.

"We have a right to either rebid or negotiate," said Graper. "I understand the bidding process and why it's there."

Graham agreed, "We're not sitting up here like a bunch of blind ducks waiting to be shot."

With the project in gear, Graham said that all portions of the mausoleum expansion will go out for bids with the exception of a crypt-front hanging device and precast crypts made by an Ohio company.

Graham said those items would not be bid because of their unusual nature.

Of the 10 major projects handled by the MBA, eight have been handled by awarding bids to a general contractor. Graper said that in certain cases, the merits of a construction manager outweigh those of a general contractor.

The MBA audit letter from the city's auditors, Post, Smythe, Lutz and Ziel for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1988 suggested tighter controls by the city.

The audit cited a $44,590 deficit in the city's DPW Building and that "highlights problems in managing the financial aspects of various MBA projects."

"No specific statutory requirement" exists for MBA vendor selection, said the auditor's letter.

Auditor Dave Williamson declined to comment citing client privacy privileges with the city.

Jabara

was serving as a citizen appointee to the MBA when he was elected to the city commission in November, 1987 -- 16 months ago.

"I feel badly I can't stay on there (the MBA), but I hope we can find a replacement," he added.

Jabara has been a vocal critic of certain aspects of the city's contracting for work and prides himself in having saved the city money by not accepting some bids or offers.

City Manager Henry Graper and City Finance Director/Clerk William Graham also serve on the MBA and are therefore specifically covered by its articles of incorporation. If they leave or are removed from their city posts they must also vacate their MBA positions as well, even though Graham was a citizen appointee before he went to work for the city in February, 1987, the articles state.

agents were stationed in the warehouse during Saturday's incident, said police.

Police said they observed the suspect loading merchandise, into his van. When he attempted to leave the premises in the van, police said they made the arrest.

He was unarmed, said police. Sawulski, of Farmington, was arraigned on Saturday before Judge Carolyn Arehibald at an out-county court. He was later released on a $1,000 cash bond on the condition that he not speak with the security guard, police said.

A March 10 pre-trial is scheduled at 9 a.m. in 35th District Court.

phases are expected to cost approximately $72 million and the entire project is estimated to cost about $78 million.

Also during the early phase of the project the three townships are expected to make improvements to their current systems. In Canton, for example, those improvements will run about $7 million, according to Yack.

When the system is completed YCUA will make available to WTUA 8.7 million gallons per day of wastewater treatment capacity and WTUA will have the right to participate in any expansion of the YCUA plant in Ypsilanti.

A potential savings of $9 million in construction may also be realized if negotiations with Wayne County to utilize portions of the existing county interceptor system are successful.
