Memorial agreement unlikely

BY KEN VOYLES

An agreement to build just one memorial honoring Plymouth-Canton soldiers may not be possible, said Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper, who met with local veterans last week.

Graper huddled with members of the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association (PVVA), the group designing a separate memorial for Vietnam and Korean veterans, as well as members of the local VFW and American Legion posts, who want one memorial for all veterans.

Schools candidate list grows

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Seven community residents have taken out petitions to seek the vacant seat on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

David Artley, current board president, has returned his completed petition, and has been certified as a candidate, according to school election official Bernice Nichols.

The other potential candidates, none of whom have returned their petition (as of Monday) include Mary J. Buti, of Canton; Joan L. Kotcher, of Canton; Brian C. Kidston, of Plymouth; Ronald R. Turner, of Plymouth; Christopher J. Courtney, of Plymouth Township; and Carl Battishill, of Plymouth.

Petitions for potential candidates may be picked up at the school board offices on Harvey Street near Ann Arbor Trail. Any resident who is a registered voter is eligible to run in the election, to be held June 12.

Petitions must contain at least 20 valid signatures and be returned by April 10. The last day to withdraw from the race is April 13.

Workers die after manhole mishap

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Two employes of a plumbing company died over the weekend, after being found unconscious on Friday while working on underground water pipes in a Northville Township subdivision.

Christopher Rosetto, 27, of Taylor, and Gary D'Ascenzo, 32, of Dearborn Heights, were working in a manhole when they were overcome by freon gas, which they were using to freeze the pipes, said officials and witnesses. Both were employes of Guardian Plumbing and Heating of Redford Township.

Jeff Harrison, who coordinates maintenance for the homeowners association for which the two were working, found the two unconscious.

"I came over to see how they were doing. I looked down and the hole was filled with gas. I went down and tried to shut it off and almost passed out myself," he said.

The two were rushed to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, where Rosetto was pronounced dead shortly after arrival. D'Ascenzo died early Saturday morning, police said.

"It was listed as an accidental death by asphyxiation, due to inhalation of fumes," said a Wayne County Medical Northville Township requires Water and Sewer Department personnel to be present when a private contractor goes into a manhole on township property, said Randy Tillman, township water foreman.

But there were no township employes at the scene, said Tillman, because the work was being done on private property owned by the homeowners association in a neighborhood south of Six Mile Road between Haggerty and Bradner roads.

"When we send someone into a pit we have ventilation, and an alarm system hooked to their belt, to insure they have enough oxygen," Tillman said.

A number of plumbers said Monday that the use of freon gas is not common.

"I've been in this business for 25 years, and have never used freon for anything," said Mike Collings, of Pete Wood Plumbing Co. in Canton. "If it was me, I would have used dry ice (to freeze water in the pipes)."

Police step up ticket writing in P-C

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
Drivers in The Plymouth-Canton Community beware!
 The three local police departments have stepped up ticket writing.

According to records from the 35th District Courts, the number of local cases for Plymouth, Plymouth and Canton townships, is running 28 per cent ahead of two years ago. And 90 per cent of that caseload represents tickets, said District Court Judge James Garber.

Even though tickets are up in the three communities compared to 1986, net revenues to the communities are larger than Plymouth city and townships combined. The resulting number of calls and miles of patrol affect Canton's department differently, the chief said.

For example, Canton wrote 62 per cent more tickets in 1988 than in 1987, but net revenues to the township after court administrative fees was only up 25 per cent.

"I believe very strongly that that law enforcement agencies should not be considered revenue sources," Santomauro said.

The increase in the number of tickets written was largely due to more police personnel on patrol, he said.

Garber hypothesized that revenues differing from the ticket output was because Canton Police are "probably writing different kinds of tickets," and the chief agreed.

"The number of tickets isn't important, it's the kind of tickets that make a difference in revenue," the judge said.

In fact, Canton's caseload in the district court went up slightly between 1986 and 1987 -- from 8,729 to 8,952 -- yet its net revenue dipped 50 per cent during that same time period -- from $308,034 to $205,961.

9-1-1 coming on line

BY KEN VOYLES

The new enhanced 9-1-1 police emergency system is projected to be on-line by June 9, according to local police officials.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said getting the system on-line will "bring to a conclusion four years of hard labor."

"This has been a long time in the making," Berry said. "It took some work."

"We're extremely excited," said David Boljesic, spokesperson for the Canton Police Department. "There are definite advantages to this."

Enhanced 9-1-1 is an improved version of the basic telephone emergency system which uses computers to automatically route calls to the nearest police and fire departments or other proper public safety agencies.

The computer displays a caller's address and telephone number, which allows a fast, accurate routing of emergency vehicles and also eliminates false reporting of emergencies, said police officials.

"The system will increase efficiency by obviously reducing response times," said Berry. "It will also assist in screening out false calls."

The current system does not allow for the re-routing of calls, said police. When a call comes in currently over 9-1-1 the police or fire agency has to make contact with the agency in the correct community. That won't be necessary any longer with enhanced 9-1-1, said police.

"It doesn't matter where in Canton," said Boljesic. "When a call comes in it will go directly to the police department."

Drug bust at Pioneer

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Plymouth Township Police detained a Pioneer Middle School student last Wednesday, for allegedly selling illegal drugs to two students, police said.

A 15 year-old male student was charged with "possession of dangerous drugs with intent to deliver," after he was observed by a teacher selling "two hits of blotter acid, for $2 each" to one of the two students, police said.

The student also had three more hits on him, and $17 in cash, police said.

The two other students were released to their parents custody, according to the police report.

"This is an isolated incident," said Carl Taylor, Pioneer principal. "This is the first incident of this sort in seven years."

"This sort of thing will not be tolerated, under any circumstance," he said.

The alleged seller was suspended for five days. The others were suspended for three days each, Taylor said.

Canton will look at cable

BY KEN VOYLES

The Canton Board of Trustees last night was expected to form a cable advisory committee to be used as a monitoring vehicle to evaluate service under the cable franchise agreement with Omnicom Cablevision.

Supervisor Tom Yack said the committee needed to be formed because the television industry has been re-regulated and the courts have dissolved most community controls over cable television.

Yack said the township receives "many concerns and complaints" relative to Omnicom's service.

The committee will be established for one year, said Yack, at the end of which the board will evaluate the need for a committee.

Omnicom was granted a cable franchise in 1980. In 1982 a three-person committee was formed by the board to assess the company's performance. It was disbanded after submitting a report and a series of recommendations.

Students killed in Canton

BY KEN VOYLES

Two college students died in the early hours of Friday and a third remained in fair condition after their car struck a tree along Michigan Avenue in Canton, according to Canton police.

Victoria Collins, 24, of Tecumseh, and John Gallager, 20, of Kalazamoo were pronounced dead at the scene Friday, according to police, after the car they were passengers in struck a tree at about 4 a.m.

Police said the driver, Jamie Baker, 20, of Livingston, NJ, was in fair condition at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

According to police, the vehicle Baker was driving left Michigan Avenue just west of Beck Road and hit a tree on the northside of the road.

Police said they are awaiting the results of a blood sample to determine if alcohol was involved in the accident.

Police added that the car left the roadway for "no apparent reason," and that it was also possible the driver may have fallen asleep.

"That's certainly a possibility considering the time," said Lt. Alex Wilson, of the Canton Police Department. Wilson said the victims may have been heading home after watching the U-M basketball team in action during the NCAA finals.

Elm spraying

Beginning the week of April 10, the City of Plymouth Public Works Department will start spring spraying of all city elm trees.

City homeowners are asked to keep their vehicles off the streets for at least a two-week period. The city will be spraying from 4-9 a.m. each weekday morning until all spraying has been completed.

Needed at Canton Library More parking?

BY KEN VOYLES

Canton officials are currently studying the need for expanded parking at the new Canton Public Library, and may add spaces as a part of a package tied to the expansion of the Canton Recreation Complex along Canton Center Road.

Officials said last week that additional parking will be needed at the library -- one of the busiest in metro Detroit -- sometime in the near future.

"We're looking at that right now," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. "We're anticipating that if the use and circulation continues to grow parking sometime in the future might be a problem."

Yack said there doesn't yet seem to be a congestion problem at the five-month old facility, located just south of the Canton Administration Building.

"They're using a lot of spaces in the lot, but I've never really seen it filled," Yack said.

Library Director Jess Tabor said, "I think expansion would be great -- just

Proceed with memorial

It's time to call a truce. The "war" being waged by local veterans over the construction of a memorial honoring soldiers from the Korean and Vietnam conflicts needs to be settled.

The fighting can only be resolved, though, in favor of the group which has already gone to so much trouble to make the new monument a reality.

Last fall, the Plymouth City Commission agreed to allow the construction of the new memorial. That commitment needs to be honored.

The idea of a new joint memorial for all of Plymouth and Canton's war heroes is a sound one, but it should have been proposed last year when the Plymouth-Vietnam Veterans Association (PVVA) originally sought help with their memorial for Korean and Vietnam soldiers.

The fact that the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) and the American Legion are standing up now shouldn't cause the City Commission to back down on its commitment to the memorial for Korean and Vietnam soldiers. (The VFW and Legion leaders said they only just became aware of the new memorial plans despite much publicity during the past few months.)

How could the Commission make a decision approving such a project and then turn around and change its mind because one group of residents demands the project be stopped?

It's too late for that now. The PVVA memorial is into its final design stages, the granite is on its way, and plans are being made for a July 4 dedication.

Some of the opposition to the memorial plan is centered on a valid point -- all Plymouth-Canton veterans should be honored and not just those of earlier wars -- but that again raises the question as to why the VFW and Legion waited so long to march forth.

The PVVA said it tried to get help from both groups, but they were ignored and not taken seriously by other veterans.

Now that the PVVA has done what many didn't think possible, the other veterans groups finally have come forward.

One has to wonder if there isn't a bit of jealousy involved here by veterans of other wars who are honored by plaques on the original Rock memorial in Kellogg Park.

The Rock may seem like an unimpressive, outdated monument today, but it stands for history and tradition and that means a lot to Plymouth-Canton citizens. It is a fitting cornerstone for a veterans area.

(And not to raise a sore point at City Hall, but the Peace Pole should be back with the Korean-Vietnam Memorial and The Rock as well.)

Through rain, sleet...
but not controversy

Perhaps it's just a coincidence... perhaps not. Last Wednesday's Crier carried a front page story on a controversy brewing between the Plymouth Postmaster and clerks and letter carriers at that post office. The same day, this envelope -- properly addressed to the newspaper which can be viewed across the street from the post office from steps -- was marked for return. (Additionally, The Community Crier's mail isn't delivered, the paper pays extra for the "privilege" of picking it up at the post office each day.) Nobody said newspapering was easy!

Chamber continues RR underpass study

EDITOR:

I am writing in response to a column which appeared in your newspaper March 22 regarding the Chamber's involvement in the railroad underpass issue.

The report which your referred to were informal comments made at a meeting of the Chamber's Governmental Affairs Committee. They were made in an attempt to prioritize projects in which the Chamber can be most effective. It was the consensus of our committee that the railroad underpass issue not be abandoned.

We would have appreciated the opportunity to let you know that a subcommittee has been formed to address the railroad underpass issue and a meeting is scheduled April 10 with local business people, railroad officials, and local, county, and state government representatives. This meeting has been scheduled for over two weeks.

Other issues of immediate concern to our business community that this committee is meeting on include, in part, zoning reform, mandated benefits, minimum wage, and the school finance/millage issue. Our leadership in these complex issues is evident. We would be delighted to count you as a committee member since you recognize the importance of these community matters.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce would be pleased to share any materials or reports with The Community Crier when requested and welcomes their participation in any meeting we hold.

Perhaps you would like some information on "Positively Plymouth." An enthusiastic Small Business Committee decided to dedicate the month of May to highlighting a community that supports its businesses throughout the year. Saying "Thank You" is never unimportant.

EDITOR:

I read your (With Malice Toward None) column today with much interest.

Since only you and God have clout in town, I've come to this conclusion: There is one seat left on the (Plymouth Chamber of Commerce) Governmental Affairs Committee that must be waiting for one of you. Since He has many more important things to deal with worldwide and has less time, I think the seat is yours.

Visit Plymouth's Historical Museum

EDITOR:

Our three year long fund raising project is drawing to a close and members and friends of the Plymouth Historical Society want to thank all the individuals and businesses that contributed. We fell considerably short of our goal of $300,000 and therefore will be unable to expand our programs as we had hoped, but the project was a success in that we made many new friends in the community. One contact we made has resulted in the construction of a new major exhibit which will open soon.

The museum receives no tax money and must therefore depend on the generosity of the people and businesses in the community to fund its many educational programs and maintain its facility.

If you haven't visited the museum in a while please plan to do so soon. When you do we hope you'll agree that the Plymouth Historical Museum is one of the many organizations in Plymouth that help make Plymouth the culturally rich community it is.

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

Never has a topic elicited so much hand-ringing or caused such consternation among those who would represent this sometimes unconcerned community.

We're talking about solid waste -- garbage in the vernacular -- and the threat to our very survival as a society and a nation due to an overwhelming mountain of trash building up in our landfills.

There's been a lot happening on that front in Canton. Loren Bennett, who knows as much about the subject as anyone in Canton, can attest to that fact.

The environment is one of his pet subjects, something that he understands and earnestly believes must be our country's top priority. While economics was the issue of the 1980s, Bennett said the environment will be the issue of the 1990s.

Last week was a fairly typical example of what is happening on that front, in Canton at least.

Besides reluctantly agreeing to yet another increase in rubbish disposal (from $4.94 per household each month to $5.37), the board also heard a presentation on a new synthetic coal energy transfer involving the use of solid waste, and Bennett sat in on Michigan's Leadership Forum on solid waste management.

The rubbish increase question is a sensitive one. The township already suffered an increase less than six months ago.

Bennett said Canton pays about $900,000 a year to dispose of household generated waste, when only seven years ago it was less than $200,000.

"I don't think people realize the cost factors involved," said Bennett, who expects costs to dramatically rise from 10-20 per cent each year. "We're facing a crisis."

Bennett said more landfills will have to be "sited" until other alternatives, such as recycling, composting, even incinerators, become viable.

"We're running out of holes and nobody wants them in their community," said Bennett, who added that a speaker at the conference he attended said the lack of political will hampered attempts to change the current waste disposal system.

Under a county plan Canton might be forced to develop another landfill. There is much opposition to the plan but there aren't a lot of alternatives yet.

The synthetic coal project discussed by the Canton board last week is fantastic sounding but it really can't solve the problem. The burning of trash can be toxic and it generates plenty of possibly toxic ash.

On paper the synthetic plan seems to minimize that end of the problem, but the company which presented the project is nowhere near ready to put a program into operation.

In the meantime communities have to turn to the people and develop a recycling attitude, said Bennett.

"I'm not sure I favor any technology that destroys the product," said Bennett. "Waste isn't waste until it's wasted."

Bennett realizes you can't separate industry and business from the environment. They are inter-tangled like never before.

And you can't separate the people from the trash they create. Education has got to be a cornerstone on which to build a defense against the encroachment of heaps and heaps of garbage.

Canton has developed a "train the trainer" program to educate residents about waste management problems and the potential for recycling.

It is in the home, said Bennett, who practices his own home brand of recycling, where we have to start tackling the issue of the day.

Getting the information out is one thing, but taking a headlong plunge into action calls for desperate times.

These are desperate times.

Good job honoring a great man

EDITOR:

Please accept my compliments on your article on Fred DeLano's passing.

"What a great man." I planned on sending in my words of admiration for Fred but after reading your great article you left me nothing I could add, except possibly, in my mind he was my idea of a perfect gentleman.

Always a smile and a tight handshake. Even less one hand he always beat me at golf.

While engaged in my many endeavors over the years to improve the image of our area and particularly Plymouth Township, Fred gave me a great deal of encouragement in his "Bifocals."

I owe him a great deal. I have a copy of all of his articles, including a full length page from the Observer showing Fred pictured in the late seventies.

Again, thanks for saying it for all of us and for taking your own time and effort including your signature.

Says 'team' member

CEP staff was innovative, dedicated, energetic

EDITOR:

Recently, I participated in an intensive evaluation of the social studies departments at Salem and Canton high schools. I was a member of a team chosen by the Michigan NCA (North Central Association) with three major tasks to perform: (1) to examine the materials and self-evaluation prepared by the local staff; (2) to observe the school and its full operation to determine the accuracy of the reporting of this local staff; and (3) to prepare a written evaluation of the area studied.

Now that this assignment has been completed, I felt compelled to share the results of the findings with The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Few ever have the opportunity to observe, first-hand, what is actually being accomplished in our children's classrooms and consequently opinions as to what is being taught at both high schools:

What I found was an innovative, dedicated, and energetic staff delivering a quality curriculum under some very difficult circumstances. I found some classrooms without enough texts. Some government classes, out of necessity, were using three different editions to the text. The American history books were published over 15 years ago. Furthermore, all money has been discontinued for all buses and substitutes regarding field trips.

Yet, I observed teachers desperately trying to work around these problems. Trips to Washington through the Close-Up program, model United Nations, and the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice were still being conducted due to very ambitious fundraising efforts on the part of the staff. In addition, mock elections, mock trials, anthropology digs, stock market games, quiz bowls and many other enriching experiences are continuing with supervision by the staff without district funding.

As our team concluded its third and final day of visitation the consensus was that the level of instruction at both high schools was nothing short of amazing, especially given the fiscal obstacles being endured. My hope is that the efforts of this staff will be rewarded by support from the community it so dutifully serves.

Crossing guards work hard

EDITOR:

This letter is in response to the article and column appearing in last week's edition of The Community Crier concerning adult school crossing guards.

Your article and opinion tend to oversimplify the problem and could create additional difficulties for those dedicated adults who risk their lives daily to ensure children get to and from school safely.

The difficulty the school district finds itself in is a legal one. As a result of an opinion rendered by our attorney, we have pursued, with local officials, the possibility of the local units of government assuming those responsibilities. These discussions were initiated by district officials as a result of the attorney's opinion and had little to do with any cost considerations.

The purpose of the discussions were 1.) to inform local units of our concern and 2.) to allow them time to review the matter. This was done recognizing that opinions differ and that even attorneys' opinions can differ. The overall objective was to reach resolution of the matter by agreement.

Thanks

EDITOR:

A great big thanks to -- Mrs. and Mrs. J.C. Lee, Mrs. Inez Cramb and Mrs. Eleanor Oliver who threw a surprise retirement dinner for me at the Pioneer Middle School Cafeteria on Thursday, Feb. 9.

I would also like to thank Mrs. Patricia Moore and her staff at Central Middle School, Mrs. Eleanore Balash, Cafeteria Manager at East Middle School, Tom Workman and staff at East Middle School, and friends at West Middle School for their gifts and good wishes.

You will always be remembered.

not by some lengthy court battles.

A compromise solution (as you also suggest) would not change the situation significantly.

Crossing guards, under provisions of the law, currently have the authority to direct traffic. They receive the required training course by the police department and have full authority to direct traffic. They receive the required training course by the police department and have full authority to direct traffic at their crossing. To suggest that deputizing them would give them more authority to control traffic ignores the fact that they already have that authority.

Also, to correct some misleading information, the District-wide Safety Committee does not govern the crossing guards. That committee makes recommendations to administration and the Board of Education concerning safety matters. Their involvement with the crossing guard issue is merely one of reviewing and recommending locations where adult guards are necessary - certainly not governing the crossing guard program.

Your lack of recognition of the fact that crossing guards currently have traffic control authority, may have increased the danger level for these dedicated adults. By mis-informing the public you have increased the possibility that motorists will ignore the adult guard's stop sign placing the guard and school children in danger.

I trust you can correct that situation by informing the public that 1.) crossing guards can direct traffic with full legal authority, 2.) that guard will report any violation quickly and promptly to the local police department for law enforcement action and, 3.) these dedicated adults provide a valuable community service under extremely difficult traffic and weather conditions each and every school day.

Kirchgatter served Planning Commission well

EDITOR:

Canton residents owe Dr. Richard Kirchgatter gratitude and a sincere 'Thank You' for presiding as chairperson of the Planning Commission for the past several years. The formative years in the life of any community are not easy to deal with and certainly Canton's early life has not been without controversy. Dr. Kirchgatter's job was not easy. He was a strong chairperson who served the whole community well. He put his knowledge of Canton to work for all members of the Planning Department.

Any citizen that has ever attended a public hearing chaired by him can testify as to his fairness. Everyone that wanted to present their opinion was heard at least once regardless of the hour. He always tried to make certain that everyone in the audience understood what was happening and what had happened. The meetings were controlled and orderly.

Dr. Kirchgatter will continue to serve as a member of the Planning Commission. John Burdziak will preside as our new chairperson. We all look forward to Dr. Kirchgatter's continued sharing of his know-how, expertise and wisdom of Canton Township.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

The fact that both kids went to Florida for spring break and I stayed home is one thing, the fact that I spent all day Easter Sunday trying to get them home is another.

Late planes are a fact of life. When the call came (as I was in the shower) announcing they were going to be an hour late, it was no big deal. An hour later I called the airline only to discover they still hadn't left Tampa and no one knew why.

Finally, the recording at the airlines informed me of the time of arrival. Allowing myself half an hour to get there and find a parking space, I dashed out the door. Getting there was no problem and although I think I got the last parking space in the lot, it didn't take long to find it.

The international terminal is usually easier to deal with than the others. I checked the time of arrival (still due in five minutes) and gate, and then managed to set off the alarm when I went through security check. My purse went through with no problem and there I stood, with nothing in my hands, setting off that stupid alarm. Oh God, why me? It's a terrible feeling to set off one of those alarms and the only metal you can think of on your body is the gold crown in your teeth. Then I remembered I had put the keys in my pocket — thank heavens.

The waiting area was jammed, and as we continued waiting for a plane that was three hours late, I learned that many of the people were waiting to get on the plane. Suddenly a voice from no where directed all of us waiting for the arrival of the flight to go downstairs to another gate. Actually, they were just trying to get us out of the way because of overcrowding, so they sent us to the baggage area.

Finally, a stream of tan, sun-burned, and freckle-faced people started coming downstairs. At last I recognized some familiar faces.

After the hugs and kisses, I took their carry-on bags and left the crowd while waiting for them to get their luggage. The next two hours was incredible.

Since, by some miracle, the kids made it to the airport in Tampa on time (without my help), it figured their luggage would be the first on to the plane, making it the last to come off. At least that's what I kept telling myself as I watched everyone else leave with their bags.

With about half the luggage unloaded, the belt broke, jamming all the bags and shutting down the system. They were able to get a few bags out, but most of us had to wait for Wayne County to come fix the equipment.

Everyone was tired, but tried not to be impatient. When the thing was finally operating again, the first bag to come off belonged to my daughter. There was no doubt that it was the bag causing the jam. It looked like it had been smashed and beat from every direction.

As she filled out a claim form, we waited for the other kid's luggage. Wouldn't you know it — his had a hole on the side of it. Out of hundreds of pieces of luggage only two were damaged. It makes you wonder when the odds are stacked that high against you.

At least the kids are home safe and sound. Now I can go back to my normal motherly worries.

to have it at peak times. I'm excited about the possibility."

Tabor said there are some nights when residents do wait for parking places, especially on those nights when the meeting room in the library is being used.

She added that Canton is the third busiest library among communities in the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation (WOLF) which have only one library facility. That information is based on circulation figures, she said.

"We're very busy," said Tabor. "Sunday is incredible. It may be our single busiest day, but you'd also be hard pressed to find a seat in here on some week nights."

Tabor said the library is circulating more than 40,000 books and other materials a month, which, she added, is 25 per cent higher than figures from a year ago.

Any parking expansion would be to the west of the new facility, said Yack.

He added that while looking at future recreation plans for the Canton Recreation Complex officials realized the plan could be "flip flopped" to accommodate the additional parking which may be needed by the library.

Tabor said the library might share an "auxiliary lot" under the planned recreation development.

Determined educator stresses business acumen

BY ROBIN LAKE

"Determination and perservance" is what Canton resident Pam Phillips attributes to her success as a business educator. That and "an understanding husband and patient kids."

Phillips, a December graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a master's degree in Business Education, was the recipient of the Circle of Excellence Award, given to Eastern students who graduate with a four point average. She was also on the National Dean's list and received an Honor Student Award from EMU's School of Technology.

Phillips began her career as an English and French teacher but decided after one year that she "hated it." Having worked through college in various business oriented jobs, with the encouragement of her students she decided to try business.

"I was told in high school to try business," Phillips said, "but I didn't listen."

"There's a real problem in business education right now," she added. "High school students aren't taking business courses and as a result they're going into business with horrible skills."

Being a business educator in Dearborn, she hopes to correct that perception and encourage students to take business courses in high school.

Phillips is also a member of Delta Pi

Epsilon, a national honor society for business, a member of Michigan Business Educators Association (MBEA) and National Business Educators Association (NBEA).

In addition, she owns Discount Video store in Belleville with her husband, Bruce, where she works on the computer and helps with advertising during her free time.

She is also the mother of two girls, Callie, age six, and Kara, age three.

Fischer tapped

Harold Fischer, of Canton, was one of six new members appointed to Michigan Cancer Foundation's (MCF) Southwest Regional Board recently.

He will serve in promoting MCF's programs in research, education, and patient services within the Southwest Wayne County area.

Promotions

The following Plymouth residents were recently approved for promotion in rank by Madonna College's Board of Trustees in Livonia: Professor -- William Herman, Ph.D., Education/Psychology; Associate Professor -- Linette Popoff-Parks, M.M., Music.

Quick and easy projects

Little things make a big difference

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Home improvements don't have to be big. Small projects that are inexpensive, and that don't take longer than an afternoon, or a weekend at most, can do wonders to a home, and even increase the value more than one might suspect.

"Home buyers really notice the way a home is decorated," said Adrienne Kneen, of ERA Mark Real Estate. "People can't overlook wallpaper -- if it is nice, they'll love it. But if it's big and flowery, they'll walk out."

Kneen suggests wallpaper borders. "They're quick, easy and inexpensive, and they make a room look so much nicer. Little things like that can do so much to improve the value of a home."

Wallpaper borders, which run between five and eight dollars for a five yard roll, are available in most paint and wallcovering stores.

A lot of people are sprucing up bathrooms and kitchens, says Jordan Loch, manager of S & W Hardware in Plymouth.

"It's fairly simple to replace faucets, light fixtures, and accessories like towel bars. They can make a room look fancy, for not a lot of money," he said.

New faucet sets run between $50 and $150, and can be replaced

A new light fixture over a kitchen table can give a room a whole new look. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Doing it yourself

without a lot of special tools, in just an afternoon. "People are doing basements over these days too," Loch said, "Putting up paneling, or putting down carpeting is easy as well."

Lighting is another quick and easy way to give a home a new look. "Lighting is a lot like jewelry -- it can be the finishing touch for a room," said Bob Bartkowiak, of Master Lighting, in Canton.

"A new fixture in the bathroom, or over the kitchen table can do wonders for a room -- it can give a room a whole new look," he said.

Small fixtures can be as inexpensive as $10, while a new hanging centerpiece fixture can be had for under $100, Bartkowiak said.

On the outside, a home's appearance can be transformed by just a few little projects.

Small walkways or sidewalks are easier to build than they might seem, said Steve Cook, of Fingerle Holister Wood Lumber in Ypsilanti.

"We sell a lot of ready-mix concrete that is really easy to lay," he said. Laying pre-made slabs of decorative block is even easier. But he suggests lifting with the legs, not the back.

Playground equipment -- swing sets and things for kids -- are popular as well, but involve a little more work, Loch said.

"Our supplier companies that make Wolmanized wood and things put out books to give people an idea of how detailed a project is, and how much it will cost," said Loch. "And we help people with technical things if they come in with sketches of what they want to do."

"Lighting is like jewelry -- it can be the finishing touch for a room," said Bob Bartkowiak, of Master Lighting, in Canton.

Spring cleaning woes?

Let somebody do it for you

BY ROBIN LAKE

Although the time of year has come to begin spring cleaning, most people don't have the time or energy needed to do the job.

One solution may be to hire a maid service and have someone else do the dirty work.

"Maid services such as ours allow dual income families to spend their time doing more important things," said Joe Ciupa, general manager of Merry Maids in Livonia.

Merry Maids is part of a national franchise, Total Home Services Inc., which has branches all over the United States and in some foreign countries, such as Britain, Australia, and Japan.

The local franchise began three years ago and today does a large portion of its work in Plymouth-Canton, as well as Northville and Novi.

The company specializes in home cleaning.

Prices for maid service from the company range from $30-$90, depending on the needs of the customer, and other considerations such as pets and children.

"We usually come out and talk to the homeowner about the home and what needs to be done before we give out a price," said Ciupa.

Merry Maids' Cheryl DeGrosso (left), of Redford, and Essie Smith, of Detroit, get ready for a day of merry cleaning. Joe Ciupa is general manager of the Livonia-based company.

Maids make cleaning merry

Merry Maids began in 1980, by Dallen Peterson in Omaha when he recognized that people would rather do more creative and productive things with their time than cleaning, said Ciupa.

Merry Maids has devised a systematic way to clean homes quickly and thoroughly, according to Ciupa.

"One way we've found makes cleaning easier is to work in pairs, attack the tough jobs first, like the bathroom and kitchen, and work from the top down on a room," Ciupa said.

The maids also bring the company's own cleaning products, which are biodegradable and non-caustic to clean their clients homes.

Those who work as Merry Maids are bonded, insured, and screened for dependability, and their services are guaranteed, said Ciupa, who recommends residents turn to the bigger cleaning companies "because you know we'll be here next year."

He added "Smaller businesses come and go."

In the cleaning world that's important.

Some cleaning tips

Most people loathe cleaning, but there are ways to make even the most dreadful tasks easier.

The following tips were provided by Merry Maids, a professional cleaning service, which specializes in home cleaning.

- A way to make cleaning easier is to do it regularly, deep cleaning periodically, plan ahead, and assign everyday duties to different family members.

- For dusting, use absorbent cotton fabrics, color coding cloths for separate cleaning chores.

An effective way to tackle dusting a room, is to start at one point and work around to the same point. Use a yardstick with an old sock over the end to dust in ceiling corners and under the refrigerator. A four inch paintbrush can be used to clean the dust off pleated lampshades and window sills. Use a hair dryer to blow dust off silk or dried flower arrangements.

- Wash one side of a window vertically and the other side horizontally to see which side of the window is streaked.

- To restore the shine of a stainless steel sink, apply a light coat of lemon oil after the sink has been cleaned.

- To make cleaning a shower easier, clean shortly after the shower has been used since steam loosens dirt.

- After becoming particularly dirty from a heavy cleaning job, wash hands with soap and a teaspoon of sugar to clean the pores.

Sounds simple enough!

High tech landscaping

The latest in video technology has come to the landscape industry. Homeowners will be able to see a video image -- instead of just a drawing or rendering -- of proposed landscape improvements before ground is ever broken.

The new technology eliminates the miscommunication that sometimes occurs between landscape architect and client. The system, in use by New Image, Inc., of Warren, uses state-of-the-art computer graphic elements and a landscape design software package.

Using a blueprint and video pictures of the bare property, landscape artists can translate landscape needs into clear images for the future homeowner.

The technology was developed by adapting a highly successful program already being used in the beauty salon industry.

Just as the one program can depict what a person will look like with a new hairstyle, the landscape program can depict what a yard may look like when trees, bushes and other elements are added.

Local business makes cement work easy

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Working in cement isn't something most homeowners enjoy, but turning to the professionals for advise may cut down on the number of frustrations and provide a few clues as to mysteries of cement pouring.

Canton Tree and Cement Inc., which has been laying cement in the community for more than six years, is one of those professional outfits.

Gary Slocum, the owner of the company, said his outfit has done a wide range of jobs -- basically every aspect of home related work.

"I lay a lot of basketball courts and tennis courts," said Slocum. "And I do a lot of work for builders and private owners."

The family business -- Slocum's son, Mark Watts, also works for the company -- performs about 50 jobs a year, said Slocum.

Minus those few days during the winter when the company is closed, cement laying is a booming business, said Slocum, who offers some helpful hints to laying cement.

Most do-it-yourselfers tackle only the little jobs, replacing a slab of cement in your sidewalk or driveway, but to do it wrong can cause extra expenses and more work.

Mark Watts, of Canton Tree and Cement Inc., demonstrates the tools of his trade. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Start with the right tools

According to Slocum, homeowners should start out with the right tools to make your job successful.

Essential tools needed include a shovel, rake, pick, come along (a grater), a hand float (for the evening of cement), a straight edge, edger, joiner, a broom, and a wheelbarrow.

When laying cement one must be sure to have the proper pitch for water drainage. The pitch should be one-quarter inch for every foot.

One other tool needed before getting started is a u-kart (to pour the cement).

The first step in cementing is grating the area. That's followed by making sure there is four inches of sand in the area.

The next step is very important for a successful job - that's making sure the cement is lined up correctly.

Check the pitch, and then pack the area. The form must set so that cement will have flat edges.

Once the cement is laid use a straight edge to make sure the cement went down flat; use a boat float to make sure it's level and then wait for one hour.

Now it's time to edge it, and hand float it again to make sure it's level.

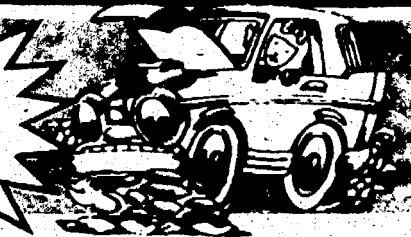

The most important step of all is to cut all your joints (to prevent it from cracking anywhere but in the joints). The joints should be cut every seven to eight feet.

Once the cement has set, broom it off and check the leveling.

Slocum said following the above tips could help make the tricky job of pouring cement all that much easier.

Early care will help gardens later

BY JOHN BRODERICK

In the wake of the Easter holiday, it's time to start thinking about the garden, the lawn, and the outside of your home in general.

"Now is a good time to rake lawns, to clear off all the debris from the fall and winter," said Val Saxton, of Saxton's Garden Center.

"Because of last year's drought, it's very important that people spray pre-emergence crabgrass killer -- they're not going to find out that their lawn is solid crabgrass until it's too late," she said.

Pre-emergence crabgrass killer can be sprayed easily, and it can be mixed with early fertilizer, to avoid having to spray twice.

It's also important to apply "dormant spray" to foliage before buds begin to pop, according to Saxton.

"This will take care of insects and diseases, in one spraying, before the foliage begins to open up," she said.

It's also a good idea to start thinking about the vegetable garden, said Saxton.

"Now is the time to plant potatoes, onions, and peas in the ground, and inside, begonia bulbs, and tomatoes," she said.

Petitions available

SC trustees race on tap

Nominating petitions for the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees seats up for election in June are available in the president's office.

There are four seats up for grabs this year -- one four-year term and three six-year terms. The trustee election is slated for June 12.

Rosina Raymond, of Livonia and on the board since 1971, will not be seeking re-election to her six-year seat this year. Other seats up this year are currently held by Mary Breen, of Plymouth Township, and Harry Greenleaf and Jack Kirksey, both of Livonia. Breen is the current board president.

Candidates must be residents of the college's district and registered voters. The district includes Plymouth-Canton, Livonia, Northville, Garden City and Clarenceville.

Petitions must have at least 50 signatures and be returned by 4 p.m. on April 25 to the secretary of the Schoolcraft College District, 18600 Haggerty Rd., Room A-190.

Tyburnski out on bond

Leonard Tyburnski, the Canton resident charged with second degree murder in the beating death of his wife Dorothy, is scheduled for a pre-trial hearing before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Michael Sapala on April 7.

Radio 'HEAR' at Oakwood

A new radio system went on line recently at the Oakwood Canton Center which allows direct communication between the center and incoming ambulances.

Oakwood, which offers the only emergency room service in The Plymouth-Canton Community, will be the first to operate the "HEAR Radio" system in the area, said Mary Jean Essenmacher.

"It will help give us a better perception of what's wrong with incoming patients," Essenmacher said. "We'll have radio contact, but we don't plan to give treatment direction using the system."

In the past, Essenmacher said the only ones with direct contact to the rescue personnel in the EMS units were police or fire dispatchers. That will change with the new system, she added.

Tyburnski, 46, an administrator at Detroit Mackenzie High School, was released last Tuesday from Wayne County Jail on a $25,000 bond.

Tyburnski is accused of killing his wife in a fit of anger after she told him she was having an affair with their daughter's boyfriend. He then allegedly put his wife's body in a basement freezer where it was discovered three years later by a daughter in January.

new monuments built," said Graper, who added that the groups were unable to "compromise" on the idea of building a joint memorial for soldiers who fought in all of this country's wars.

Graper said the city has talked with a local architect about designing a layout for the proposed location which would include two new memorials.

The Plymouth City Commission has already approved the building of a Korean-Vietnam memorial and its placement in a section of Kellogg Park at the corner of Union Street and Ann Arbor Trail. That corner is the site of the Rock Memorial honoring soldiers from World War I and II, the Spanish-American War and the Civil War.

Graper said he had the impression that the VFW and Legion were going to go ahead with a new memorial of their own to honor those veterans who fought in wars before Korea and Vietnam.

"They're not going to be out done," said Graper of the VFW and Legion. He said the PVVA was against a joint memorial since the VFW and Legion did not take the group "seriously" when the idea was originally proposed.

VFW and Legion members have said they want only one new memorial placed at the site honoring all of the Plymouth-Canton veterans killed in action, but that they will consider a project of their own. The PVVA has said it wants to maintain its own project.

John Pappas, who heads the PVVA, said, "I would consider it fair if we had our memorial and the VFW (and Legion) had their memorial. If the city made a mistake it should be ready to swallow that mistake."

Pappas said he would look at legal alternatives if the city commission "renege" on its agreement to allow the construction of the already approved monument to Korean-Vietnam veterans.

"I'll have to hold a 'wait and see' attitude for now," he said. "It sounded to me like the city wants only one memorial."

"I want people to know I'll defend this memorial vigorously to the very end if I have to," said Pappas, who added that he has the highest respect for VFW and Legion veterans even though they oppose the PVVA project.

VFW officials said they will not discuss the possibility of constructing their own memorial until after some kind of decision by city officials.

Fred Brunk, another member of the PVVA said the meeting resulted in a "fair resolution" of the concerns of the VFW and American Legion.

He added that the city seemed to be more than willing to allow the VFW and Legion to design and construct their own memorial for veterans.

Brunk called it the "next best solution."

Dedication plans

BY KEN VOYLES

Despite some controversy surrounding its plans, the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association (PVVA) is working to finalize the design of a new memorial dedicated to Plymouth-Canton soldiers who died during the Korean and Vietnam conflicts.

"It's going to be a very interesting piece when it's done," said John Pappas, president of the PVVA, the group spearheading the drive to get the memorial constructed in the City of Plymouth's Kellogg Park. "We don't want it to be too militaristic. It's to honor the heroes from this community, and we want it to have a peace message."

Pappas called the design a "one of a kind." It will include etchings on both sides, with an eagle and a dove symbolically looking at each other on one side. The design also calls engravings of a poem and the names of the Plymouth-Canton men killed (or missing) in action during the two conflicts.

The memorial is being designed and cut by Simpson Granite of Detroit, which is owned by Plymouth resident David Blake. Blake has donated the design, lettering and other work, while the PVVA has raised more than $5,500 to pay for the granite from Pennsylvania and Georgia.

Work will begin on the monument within the next month, said Pappas.

"People will come from all over the country to see this memorial," Pappas said. "It's going to be something all Plymouth can be proud of."

The PVVA has already identified seven Vietnam veterans and one Korean veteran from Plymouth-Canton. Their names will be engraved on the memorial.

Morris Beasley, a private in the U.S. Eighth Army, who was reported missing in action (MIA), is the only local Korean veteran located so far, said Pappas.

The PVVA recently received a letter from Beasley's mother who said her son was "presumed dead, because he had to have been blown up" in an attack on his convoy.

The Plymouth-Canton Vietnam veterans — all heroes to Pappas — include: Harry E. Baker, Jr., James Patrick Eckles, James Thomas Fields, Richard Allen Larrick, Richard Loren Nowry, Hugh Henry Sarah and Harry Franklin Zalesny. Zalesny was the most highly decorated among those soldiers, said Pappas, receiving, among others, the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Plans are for a Fourth of July dedication and a 24-hour vigil on July 3, said Pappas, who added that the

Getting down to business

Patrons enjoy the atmosphere at the Little Professor on the Park. Expansion plans will increase the store's size. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Little Professor plans Main Street expansion

ROBIN LAKE

The Little Professor on the Park will soon be getting bigger.

The bookstore, located on South Main Street in the City of Plymouth, will expand within the next 30 days and take over the shop space next door, which used to be Mason's.

The expansion will enlarge the bookstore by about 35 per cent over its current 4,000 square feet, and allow for the increase of the inventory in all areas, including books, magazines, music cassettes, and special services.

"The reason we're expanding is because a lot of this community are accepting the store, which is evident in their increasing patronage," said Robert V... an investor in the store, along with Jackie Powers, the general manager.

Powers opened the store in the fall of 1984 after making a demographic study of Plymouth. She found that people in the community had above average intelligence -- which is reflected in the types of books sold there -- and has since tried to tailor Little Professor to the needs of the community.

"In order to better serve the community properly we've found it necessary to expand," said Valk. "There has been a continuing increase in patronage and broad appeal for a bookstore of this caliber."

According to Valk, some of Little Professor's best selling subjects include travel, business, and computers, in addition to a successful children's section.

The store plans to expand its services in the area of special book orders.

Also, the store plays host to a children's hour each Saturday morning, when books are read aloud to children and special discounts offered. Occasionally, authors have come to sign books at the bookseller, including Mitch Albom, a Detroit Free Press sports columnist.

The bookstore also offers a bonus book club, mailing services, gift certificates, discounts on national best sellers, cards, stationery and other gift items.

The store is a part of the Little Professor Book Center Inc. franchise, which consists of 130 stores all over the country and which is headquartered in Ann Arbor.

Ad Advice #587

Don't overcrowd your ad. White space is an important layout element in newspaper advertising. White space focuses the reader's attention on your ad and will make your headline and illustration stand out. When a "crowded" ad is necessary, such as for a sale, departmentalize your items so that the reader can find his way through them easily.

Chances are... Canton kickers can repeat

BY JANET ARMSTRONG
On June 11 last year Canton's girls soccer team clinched the school's first ever Class A state championship in a sudden death overtime win over Livonia Churchill.

The Chiefs had all off-season to bask in their 1988 Class A state championship, but now it's time for them to prepare for the 1988-1989 season and defending their state crown.

"I'd like to think our chances are good," said Canton soccer coach Don Smith. "But there are quite a few good teams this year."

Canton, which ended last season with a 17-2-1 season, has 13 veterans returning from last year's squad.

Candi Jones, Molly Menard, Shannon Meath, Tracy Greenhalge, Staci Steinhebe, Chris Zowacki, Michelle Fortier and Jaqi Warkowicz make up the seniors of this year's squad.

Smith said that all the seniors are expected to contribute to the team effort this spring.

Smith added that junior Jenny Russell, and sophomores Lynn Nichols and Ayana Nash are also expected to be standouts this year.

Missing from Canton's lineup this season are goaltender Jen Saul, who graduated, and Julie Stabnick, who injured herself during the off-season.

Stabnick was one of Canton's standout forwards last season.

Smith said he is trying to stay away from making predictions about this season's team. According to Smith, the team has taken on his philosophy of "let's forget about last year and concentrate on this year."

Although the team is trying to stay away from speculating on their chances, that hasn't stopped other people from giving their opinion.

But don't forget Salem's soccer squad

BY RITA DERBIN

The final cuts have been made and the team is set for a good season.

The Salem High girls soccer team is filled with talent, according to coach Ken Johnson, and it's up to them how far they go this season.

"We'll be a good passing team," said Johnson. "And we have good strength at goal."

Johnson is very impressed with his goalie, a freshman transfer, Jennifer Emmet, from Washington state.

"She's very good," said Johnson. "She's quick and very talented."

Adding depth at goal will be backup goalie Junior Terese Rosiniski.

On defense will be juniors Jennifer Degenhardt, Tracey Shough and Jennifer Marshall and seniors Mellissa Uhl, Kim Larner and Maria Wordhouse.

Midfielders will be led by senior co-captains Teri King and Jill Estey.

Estey will be playing midfield for the first time, said Johnson, after starting at forward for the past three years.

Estey, who was named to the National Soccer Association of America's first team All-American last season, will be going into the season with 79 career goals, a school record.

"We put her in more of a leadership role this year," said Johnson. "She's always played forward and this will be a challenge for her."

It will, however, be more difficult for her to reach 100 career goals, according to Johnson, because she will not get as many scoring opportunities.

Other midfielders include junior Sara Hayes and sophomores Amy Krajewski and Jennifer Oleksiak.

Forwards will be senior Missy Smith, juniors Kim Goff and Michele Minton, sophomore Erin Harvey and freshman Mandy Drummond.

Johnson is looking for Minton to be the big scoring forward in Estey's absence.

"Michele scored 20 goals last year and 25 as a freshman," said Johnson. "She's been just behind Estey and looks real good this year as the leading forward."

With Emmet, Wordhouse, Estey and Minton up the middle for Salem, Johnson thinks his team will be good but would not predict where it would finish. He did, however, predict that five or six teams from the Western Lakes Activities Association -- Stevenson, Churchill, Northville, Farmington, Canton and Salem -- could win the state title.

"In a long season anything can happen," Johnson said. "If we get some breaks we can do real well."

"This is definitely the strongest division in the state so you can't sit

Seniors dominate Canton softball

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

With a senior dominated team first year Canton girls softball coach Dave Racer is hoping to put together a successful season.

Canton, which went 11-3 last year under veteran coach Max Sommerville, is led this spring by eight seniors.

The team's assets also include junior Staci Thompson, who was all-conference as a sophomore. Racer said he is also expecting Mary George to be a key outfielder and Allison Flashkamp to help lead the infield.

"We're really really working on the fundamentals," said Racer. "I really like the attitude of the girls."

Jenny Clark and Dawn Butske will be sharing the catching duty, said Racer, while Jennifer Vanootighen will contribute to the Chiefs' pitching rotation, and Rhonda Kibilko will be in the outfield for Canton.

Canton, which has not been known for outstanding softball teams, is looking to change all that around this year under Racer.

"Our team goal is to win 20 games this season," said Racer. "I think we're going to surprise a lot of people."

According to Racer, one of the Chiefs strengths is their infielding, with the exception of the catching.

"We're fairly strong in the infield," Racer said. "But we're not as strong as I would like us to be at the catching position."

Racer, who was the boys varsity assistant under Fred Crissey for many years, said the adjustment from coaching boys to coaching girls is taking a little getting used to.

"It's a little different," Racer said. "But I think it's really going to work out well."

Racer said in order for the Chiefs to be successful this season, the players will have to make sacrifices.

"The girls will have to make a lot of contributions," said Racer. "A lot of the girls are staying and working out after practice."

Canton will travel to Livonia Stevenson to begin its season on April 14. Game time is 4 p.m.

"People tell me that we definitely have the potential to repeat," said Smith.

With the exception of losing their goaltender, Smith said that the Chiefs are strong at every other position.

He added that he will look to Russell and Meath for strong action at the forward position.

Warkowicz is expected to see action in the goal for the Chiefs, according to Smith. He added that Fortier may also see limited duty in the net.

"We're real strong defensively, and at the halfback position," said Smith. "We're pretty solid overall."

Smith added "right now were just working on quality."

Among the teams gunning for Canton in the league are Churchill, Salem, Northville and Livonia Stevenson.

"We'll have to sneak in," joked Smith, who added that with teams looking to prove something by beating Canton, the season will be a tough one.

The 'Chiefs' season starts next

Wednesday, when they play host to Brighton. Game time is 7 p.m.

And until their season starts Smith says the team will continue to lay low.

"I'm not going to say we'll do this or do that," said Smith. "For now everybody's low key."

back at all," Johnson added. "Canton won the state championship last year and we won the year before. And both years Churchill was the runner-up."

The Rocks, who were 10-3-4 last season and Lakes Division champs, will be very competitive, according to Johnson.

"It's going to be a dog fight getting out of our league but if the attitude is right we've got the talent," Johnson said. "Last year everyone was gunning for us and we took it easy after winning the state title but this year I think the girls want it again and are going to work towards another state title."

The Rocks will start their quest on April 11 against Troy Athens.

Softball squad experienced Pitching key for Salem

BY RITA DERBIN

They won't be the favorites, but with experience at key positions, they could surprise some teams.

Salem's girls softball team is trying to answer some questions at this point in their pre-season practices.

"If pitching comes through this year," said coach Rob Willette. "we should be in every game. We have a solid defense and our hitting should be alright."

The defensive strength will come from experienced players, said Willette.

The Rocks infield is in place with co-captain Tracie Robinson, who batted .315 last season, back at third base for her senior year, along with junior Jenny Justice at first base and senior Jo Wiklund at second base.

Four-year starter and two-time all-league shortstop Ann Mfundinger will also be returning.

Mundinger, who has a scholarship to play at Western Michigan University when she graduates, will also be the key to the offense. She is coming off a season in which she batted .446 and gained all-league honors.

"Any time you're offered a scholarship and you're not a pitcher," said Willette of his top player, "you're a pretty good ball player."

The Salem outfield will consist of co-captain Katie Vesnaugh in centerfield and three girls competing for the other two spots - sophomore Missy Holmes, junior Wendy Bailey and senior Kim Bere.

Of the three girls, Holmes has the most experience. She was called up from junior varsity midway through last season and played well after a shaky start.

"The outfield should be good defensively," Willette said. "Katie is very good and Missy is also real good."

Three girls will also be given a chance at catching duties. Chris Bradley, a senior who transferred from Jackson, will be competing against juniors Jenny Jencks and Candy Woitas.

With the graduation of all-league pitcher Kim Berric, pitching duties for the Rocks will be handed to two relatively inexperienced pitchers.

Holly Hinzmann, a junior who pitched a no hitter in her only varsity game last year will be back, along with Christine August.

"The pitching is always a question mark," said Willette. "How the pitching goes is how the team will go."

Willette said that the captains and seniors have been good leaders during practices and very helpful getting everyone ready for their first game against Northville next month.

"Everyone's been practicing well," Willette said. "By the beginning of the season we'll have the best nine players out there and they'll play well."

Willette is not making predictions but coming off last season's third place division finish and a 15-6 overall record, he thinks Salem should be able to compete with the strong teams like Northville, Livonia Stevenson and Westland John Glenn.

"We will definitely win more than we lose," Willette said. "The veteran starters will definitely help the team."

"Consistency is all you can hope for," he added. "The infielders have been together for a while and should hold the team together."

Would localize state laws

Twp. board considers firearms amendment

BY JOHN BRODERICK
The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees last night was to consider an amendment to the criminal code of the Plymouth Charter Township Code which would prohibit possession and use of dangerous weapons. The measure, according to Police Chief Carl Berry, would localize state laws regarding dangerous weapons, and allow the police to more efficiently enforce controls on weapons. "This is not a gun control measure,"

Berry said. "All it does is make the state laws into local ordinances, so that we can charge offenders locally. Everything here is already illegal." The measure, if passed, would make it "unlawful for any person to carry a firearm or dangerous weapon on his person or within any vehicle, concealed or otherwise, in any public place in the township."

"If they have a permit, they can still do it," Berry said. "They can't conceal it, though, unless they have a special permit, which is issued by the state for rare cases." The measure deals only with misdemeanors, not felonies, Berry said. Canton is also in the process of passing a similar amendment.

Harrison said that the two were using freon to freeze water in the pipes, so they could avoid shutting off the water main.

Tillman described this method as a shortcut.

Dyer is 'Extra Miler'

William Dyer was recently named "Extra Miler" for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district. Dyer began work in the district in 1975 as a playground supervisor. A year later he was a full-time custodian at Central Middle School. Over the next seven years, Dyer was promoted from semi-skilled maintenance, to assistant head-maintenance custodian, to his current position as plant engineer at Tanger Elementary School.

His nomination was attributed to his enthusiasm, positive attitude, and ability to motivate his staff.

Ticket writing increases

Plymouth Township's caseload has remained the most constant of the three local units -- and the same is true of its revenues.

This reflects a general settling of the area's newest police department, said Police Chief Carl Berry.

"They went bananas writing tickets" the first six months the department was formed (July through December, 1985), he said.

Now the department's enforcement level has stabilized, Berry said, although certain months will show selective enforcement highs and lows.

"There'll be more activity this month," he cautioned, because a few Plymouth Township neighborhoods are seeing higher traffic patrols in response to resident complaints.

In the City of Plymouth, Commander Mike Gardner placed the 60 per cent increase in caseloads within three years on "cruise" enforcement.

Those tickets -- expensive by comparison to most -- have yielded more than a 100 per cent increase in net revenues to the City of Plymouth during the same period.

Gardner compared ticket totals between 1986, 1987 and 1988 in a "cruise" month -- July -- and a non-"cruise" month -- February -- to show that the yearly totals appear related to the hiring of additional officers during the peak months of "cruising."

Late last year, the city was charged with having recommended ticket quotas to its officers. Following those charges made by its police union president, the city denied the charges and fired the officer.

"There are no quotas, and there never will be," Gardner said.

Appeal expected

Dennis convicted of murder

BY JOHN BRODERICK
Plymouth Township resident Patrick Bobby Dennis, 22, was convicted of first degree murder last Wednesday, for the Oct. 4, 1988 slaying of 23 year-old Kenneth Kinney.

The jury handed down a guilty verdict, after being instructed by Judge Thomas Jackson that it could choose the lighter verdicts of second degree murder or manslaughter.

First degree murder requires mandatory life imprisonment with no chance of parole. Second degree murder can bring any number of years up to life, and manslaughter, up to 15 years.

Defense attorney Jeffrey Collins said that an appeal of the conviction is likely.

"We tried to argue that this was a case of manslaughter, not first degree murder," he said. "We had evidence to that effect, but the jury decided otherwise."

Kinney's body was found behind the Forest Laundry on Ann Arbor Road, which is adjacent to Dennis' Corrine Street home.

Police arrested Dennis Oct. 5, after receiving a tip from a witness who saw the two together the night before.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said that his department did an excellent job handling the case.

"Detective (Eric) Mayernick coordinated the investigation and did an excellent job. All of the officers involved responded very well to a bad situation," he said.

vigil will include an around-the-clock honor guard manned by various Vietnam and Korean veterans.

On July 4, there will be an official dedication and wreath laying ceremony. The Plymouth Five and Drum Corp will perform and a helicopter fly-over is expected.

Other veterans groups, notably from Westland, Dearborn and Washtenaw County, will be on hand, as will the most highly decorated Michigan veteran of the Vietnam war.

Pappas said he is also working with the Penn Theater to show "Letters to America," a movie based on letters from soldiers fighting in Vietnam, sometime before the official dedication.

The memorial will be located on the corner piece of land in front of the Wilcox House, off of Union Street and Ann Arbor Trail. The Plymouth Rock memorial, a monument to other American soldiers who died in previous wars (World War I and II, Spanish-American War, and Civil War), is also located near that spot.

Last fall the Plymouth City Commission agreed to allow the construction of a memorial on that portion of Kellogg Park, and will prepare the site for the monument.

To send donations (or information about local soldiers from either conflict) write to the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association, P.O. Box 292, Plymouth, MI 48170.
