At Ford plant

City, Twp. dispute soccer fields

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Four score and seven years ago (at least), the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township started a war.

They are met on a great battlefield of that war.

The battlefield is a would-be soccer field at the Sheldon Road Plant of Ford Motor Co. in Plymouth Township.

After a photo of City Manager Henry Graper, Ford Plant Manager Paul Pietila and City Parks and Recreation Director Chuck Skene breaking ground for three new soccer fields appeared in The Crier on Nov. 9, Plymouth Township told Ford that site plan approval was necessary before proceeding.

Now progress on the fields has been halted.

According to Pietila, "We'll do everything in our power to help them. Both sides have convincing arguments."

But, the industrialist added, "We can only wait a couple of weeks."

Skene says the entire flap is unnecessary.

"Yes, I should have called (Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice) Breen out of courtesy," the recreation director lamented. "We were assuming that because we hadn't done this (obtain permits for recreation field development and use in the township) before, we didn't have to get permission."

According to Skene, the city's junior soccer league - with some 63 per cent of its 955 players being township residents - desperately needs additional soccer fields. "We have the worst fields in the league. We have so many teams, we really need to start resting our fields and rotating play," Skene said.

The program currently uses soccer fields at the Ford plant, Unisys, Hines Park and several schools.

City code does not require site plan approval for recreation uses on industrially-zoned property, said City Engineer Kenneth West.

But township ordinances do, said Breen.

"This isn't because it's the city doing it," the township supervisor said. "But they're not immune from following the law outside the city. When operating outside its own jurisdiction, its not operating as a public entity, the same as a private enterprise.

"Common courtesy says the first thing is to come and talk to us," Breen said.

Township Planner Jim Anulewicz said that Ford could file for approval as the property owner and indicate that the new soccer fields are a temporary use and then "let the chips fall." He said a public hearing on such a proposal would likely draw no opposition. The application costs about $800.

"They don't have to freeze out future use and expansion," said Anulewicz (who has two sons playing in the soccer league).

Both Skene and Breen admit the Ford plant is caught in the middle through no fault of its own. "I'm not blaming Ford Motor Co.," said Breen.

"I resent the fact they're (the city) making it into this," the supervisor continued. "I resent that they're passing it around that we're bad guys in this thing."

Skene said he hoped the matter could be resolved. "But he (Breen) said, 'absolutely not - there's no compromise,'" Skene said.

Meanwhile, while Ford officials let the matter lie for two weeks, they watch three partially-finished soccer fields tied up in red tape.

The soccer program continues to use the one soccer field and ball diamonds at the Ford plant.

According to Graper, the city is investigating whether unused City of Detroit property - the old DeHoCo farms - might be used for soccer fields.

Breen said, tongue in cheek, he's "thinking of a good facility we (the township) could locate in the City of Plymouth."

South Lyon man crushed in rollover

BY JOHN BRODERICK

A South Lyon man died Saturday after the car in which he was a passenger hit a freeway overpass support pillar in Plymouth Township.

Ronald David Carter, 34, was traveling westbound on M-14 in a car driven by George Henry, 30, of Redford Township, when the car left the road, hit the pillar, and rolled over, according to Michigan State Police.

A police spokesperson said that Henry had been drinking alcohol. "There was a strong odor of alcohol coming from the driver, and several bottles of Miller beer were found in the car," he said.

Police said that Henry was thrown to the back seat of the car, and that Carter was found partially pinned under the car after it rolled over. Neither were wearing seatbelts, police said.

Carter was pronounced dead at the scene, and Henry was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. A hospital spokesperson said Monday that Henry was in guarded condition in the intensive care unit.

Police said that tests were conducted to determine Henry's blood alcohol level, but the results were not available. It was not determined whether Henry would be charged with any offense, police said.

Schoolcraft trustee race features P-C candidates

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Voters can expect a crowded field of candidates during the June 12 election when 12 area residents run for the four seats open on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Seven of those candidates, including one each from the City of Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton, are seeking the one four-year term.

The five other candidates are running for the three six-year terms. They are: Mary Breen, of Plymouth Township, and current board chairperson; incumbents Harry Greenleaf and Jack Kirksey, both of Livonia; David Tatum, of Plymouth; and Lawrence Whitmarsh, of Livonia.

The other seven will contest for the seat vacated by Laura Toy when she was elected to the Livonia City Council. Jack Kirksey was appointed to fill the seat until the election.

The seven include: Jeffrey

Voters in Plymouth-Canton will also select one member of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education, and will be asked to support a renewal of eight operating mills plus four additional mills during the election.

Memorial dedication set for Fourth of July

BY KEN VOYLES

The dedication ceremony is on.

The City of Plymouth City Commission Monday unanimously approved the July 4th dedication plans of the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association (PVVA), the group erecting a memorial to Plymouth-Canton soldiers who died fighting in Korea and Vietnam.

The PVVA's project was approved last fall by the commission, which waited until Monday, however, to approve the actual ceremony application.

According to City Manager Henry Graper, the local Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Mayflower-Lt. Gamble Post will not be ready on the fourth to dedicate their own new monument.

The local VFW post had been considering designing its own new monument to veterans (the Plymouth Rock memorial to soldiers of all previous wars already sits in Kellogg Park) after failing to convince the commission that the city only needed one joint memorial.

Graper said the city still plans to move the original Rock memorial in conjunction with designing a

Plymouth PO set for asbestos removal

While the U.S. Post Office proceeds with plans to build a $4.2 million facility in Plymouth Township, work will begin to remove asbestos insulation from the existing Penniman Avenue Post Office.

Post officials confirmed reports that a new 25,000 sq. ft. sorting and distribution center would be built in Metro West Park beginning next spring. They said the new facility was needed because the Plymouth Post Office was too small, not because of a recent report that asbestos concentration in the Penniman Avenue facility were higher than OSHA standards.

A Romulus company, Specialty Systems of Michigan, reported in October that the workroom area of the post office contained 0.118 fibers of asbestos per cubic centimeter. OSHA's "action level" of 0.1 requires annual monitoring, worker training and communicating asbestos information to employes.

That company has been hired to remove asbestos insulation, according to its president, Bill Smith.

Plymouth Postmaster John A. Mulligan declined to comment on the asbestos study, however, he acknowledged the Romulus company had worked on the post office.

Dave Lenard, president of American Postal Workers Union, said the asbestos issue was discussed in a recent meeting with Mulligan and "we were told that's all being replaced.

"memorial area" for all of the present and future monuments. He said the city will prepare a memorial space even though the VFW will not be ready this July.

The Korean-Vietnam memorial dedication is planned for 11 a.m. on Tuesday, July 4 in Kellogg Park. Before that, though, an honor guard will keep an around the clock vigil starting on July 3.

The dedication will be concluded by noon, according to the PVVA, before the start of the annual Plymouth Jaycees July 4th Parade.

McDonald's decision delayed

BY KEN VOYLES

A decision on whether or not to approve special land use and the site plan for a third McDonald's in Canton will be delayed a little longer.

Last week Canton's Board of Trustees tabled any decision on the McDonald's request until after further information was made available to the township concerning a traffic study conducted by an outside firm for the fast food company.

"I do intend to do what is right for the township and the developer," said Canton Clerk Loren Bennett. "But I want answers to this in writing so I can have time to review them."

McDonald's traffic study was evaluated recently by the township consultants, Barton-Aschman Associates, who addressed seven areas of what they called deficiencies in the study.

The consultants made several points in their study of the McDonald's study including the need to evaluate morning and noon peak traffic periods and the need for a capacity analysis of the driveway to the site.

The consultants wrote: "We are fairly certain that the 'new' traffic that will be generated by this development will not have a significant traffic impact on the adjacent roadways. However, ingress and egress to the site could be quite difficult."

The consultants added that left turns out of the site "were not adequately addressed in the report."

"We accept their report," said Joe Galvin, a McDonald's representative. Galvin added that the report was accepted "on its face value" and he asked the board to approve special land use and the site plan contingent upon a meeting between the consultants, McDonald's and township officials.

The board tabled any action, however, until after further meetings, during which the township's concerns about traffic will be addressed.

Township Engineer Tom Caseri said he will be meeting with McDonald's officials sometime in the next two to three weeks.

Fellows Creek vandalized

BY KEN VOYLES

Emergency repairs to the computer control panels and irrigation start-up motors at the Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton were approved last week by the Canton Board of Trustees.

"We had a break-in at the pumphouse," Michael Gouin, superintendent of parks and recreation in the township, told the board last week. "It looks like it was done by someone in the business who knows what they're doing."

Gouin said no damage was done to the golf course pumphouse building when vandals struck two weeks ago. He said it was the second time in two years that the pumphouse had been vandalized.

The board approved $15,000 for the replacement of irrigation systems equipment, including the control panels.

Gouin told the board immediate repairs were critical since the course could not be irrigated until the repairs are complete. "We need the pumps on or we'll start losing greens out there when it gets dry," he said.

Besides the repairs the pumphouse building will be better secured following recommendations by the police department, said Gouin. He added that someone would now "have to literally tear the building down to get through the door."

Mills placed on historic roster

BY JOHN BRODERICK

The mills along the Middle Branch of the Rouge River may be getting a facelift in the near future.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees last week showed support for placing of the Phoenix, Wilcox, and Newburg mills on the historic preservation roster, which makes the landmarks eligible for renovation funds.

"Nankin Mills was put on the roster years ago, and has since been restored," said Township Clerk Esther Hulsing.

The feeling is that the other mills in the Ford Village have that opportunity as well, she said.

Henry Ford deeded over the four mills to Wayne County, to be incorporated into the Middle Rouge Parkway. Now the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is trying to preserve and restore the mills.

Homes: publication not part of curriculum

BY JOHN BRODERICK

The chief curriculum administrator for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools said Monday that no formal complaints have been received regarding The Metro Times, a Detroit publication which has come under attack by the conservative Christian group Citizens for Better Education (CBE).

"I received a letter from Diane Daskalakis (CBE's president) asking about the use of The Metro Times in classrooms," said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

"We responded by saying that the publication is not part of the curriculum -- and not part of any class being taught by Barb Masters," he said.

Homes said that the district has no intention of limiting or restricting outside materials that teachers bring into classrooms.

"We have always trusted the judgment of our classroom teachers to provide materials that they think are worthy of use, and that add to the learning experience," he said.

Daskalakis said Tuesday that a complaint was prepared, and she planned to file it this week. The complaint would focus on romance advertisements in the newspaper's classified section, which she said she finds objectionable.

"If she (Masters) wants to use an article from that paper, she should cut it out, copy it, and hand it out. The publication as a whole is not appropriate to be in our classrooms," she said.

"We're providing a drop box for things that are not curriculum related -- that's not what we're providing our schools for," she said.

Ron Williams, editor and publisher of The Metro Times has said that if the school district takes any action to limit the publication's use, legal action will be considered.

Cheer for Wilcox project

People can only hope for so long. Then they tend to give up.

When it comes to Plymouth's number one eyesore — the rundown Wilcox House — many residents have hoped it could be saved and that any new development would incorporate the house as some kind of centerpiece.

Maybe now residents have something to cheer about and not jeer over.

Two previous projects involving the Wilcox House (or at least the property it sits on) have fallen through for one reason or another despite high expectations.

Who is to say that can't happen again? But at least this time the home is being considered as an integral part of the development plan.

A cautious nod of approval should be given to this new project, though, and for a number of reasons.

First, and most important, the historic house is slated to be saved. Second, Jack Wilcox seems determined to put his image as a grumpy, bitter man behind him and work for the betterment of Plymouth's cultural heritage. Third, the development proposed is not the run-of-the-mill "Kentucky fried development."

Supporting this project, of course, remains dependent on it actually coming to fruition and the Wilcox House being saved for our children's children.

Until then, any nod of approval has to remain tentative.

Pay attention to the issue

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was written in response to a letter from James R. McDowell in last week's Crier.

EDITOR:

Thank you for taking the time to read the Newsletter.

It is unfortunate that you misread the statement about higher assessments not causing higher taxes; the word "often" is used and advisedly so. I invite you to examine the record of our own township vis-a-vis taxes and assessments. You will find that this community did not raise taxes but lowered its taxes in the last couple of years.

You will further find that the homeowner is not bearing any cost due to industrial tax abatements; the opposite is true.

I enjoy living in Plymouth Township and expect to continue to do so for many years in the future. None of your statements seem attributable to objectivity, so I assume you may have another reason. Notwithstanding any other personal bias of yours, Plymouth Township enjoys a reputation for sound fiscal and service delivery management. It is not an accident that we enjoy that reputation as a great place to live and especially to own property.

I certainly hope you take the time to apply some logic and economic analysis to your erroneous premises. As for higher taxes and school millage, the answer lies within the power of those who vote.

The property tax assessments can be reduced by any of three events:

1. Change in the law
2. Deteriorating property values
3. Reduction in the millage

The township board does not control any millage except Plymouth Township. In 1988 Plymouth Township reduced its millage to offset the assessment gain. Voice your complaint to the school board and the state legislature about high school taxes.

All of those problems have been discussed in the papers lately. If you would give careful attention to the issue, I am sure you would understand that no one individual such as myself, has the power to solve your tax problem.

Graham's remarks are outrageous

EDITOR:

It is upsetting to see that Barbara Graham, a member of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, would stoop to witch-hunting in an effort to oust innovative teachers in Plymouth. I am a proud graduate of Canton High School. Innovative teachers like Mike McCauley and Barbara Masters helped point me in the right direction professionally. The classes I had with Masters (introductory and advanced composition, English and British literature and Approaching the Arts) helped me tremendously in college (I graduated in the top five in my class in the School of Journalism at Michigan State University). I've also relied on those same skills in my position as Marketing Coordinator at Catherine McAuley Health Center.

The statements Graham made in a recent article regarding Masters' classroom were outrageous. I spent four years in that classroom and found it stimulating, not "psychedelic." And contrary to what Graham says, happy faces on the wall would not have improved my ability to learn. Anesthetizing students with a "Don't worry, be happy" philosophy would be both detrimental and insulting. Our schools should be teaching kids how to learn. Masters used to say that good writing means making connections — bringing together two or three different ideas to form another new idea.

How can students be expected to make connections if they haven't read different books, been exposed to differing opinions, or seen a variety of films and plays? F. Scott Fitzgerald said that "the test of a first-rate intelligence is to hold two opposing ideas in the mind at the same time and still function."

Masters is one of a handful of innovative, intellectually stimulating teachers at CEP. We can't let demagogues like Graham take away from the students one of the things they need to help them make intelligent choices later in life.

Graham asks:

Why censor me?

EDITOR:

(1) Why is the press "censoring" me, instead of questioning why there were no teachers present in the halls and in the classroom I visited?

(2) If no unidentified person is supposed to be inside the school buildings, why were there no security people (or other staff personnel) who ever asked for my name or the purpose of my visit?

(3) Why is "necking" (public display of emotion) permitted in hallways? What is the point of a program dealing with teenage pregnancy, when these student activities are "acceptable behavior?"

(4) Your editorials make unwarranted accusations against my intentions (where is the proof?), and spotlight my behavior as "inappropriate." If your concern is truly for the benefit of students, why are you attacking my job performance instead of the non-performance of the high school staff?

(5) I am particularly curious as to how many visits your staff has made to the high school to verify your reports? From whom have you gathered your printed "facts?" I wonder how it is possible for you to take the position of support for the upcoming millage election, since you have chosen to escalate this circumstance so completely out of proportion?

(6) The illustration included in your editorial depicted a "censorship" stamp. Can your artist draw up an illustration of "intolerance of opinion" to include with this letter to you?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Community Crier staff has not yet voted on a stand — for or against — the upcoming Plymouth-Canton school election's two millage questions.

'I Care' so much, hope others do also

EDITOR:

Recently I attended a very alarming school board meeting. As you well know, many citizens of our community were in attendance, and 21 of them spoke during the citizen comment portion of the meeting. I was not involved until later on in the agenda, so I tried to listen to each and every one of the comments.

Because I am a teacher in the community, a mother of a high school student, and a resident of the community, I feel obligated to write this letter. I am VERY concerned about the plight of our community. There is a small group of narrow-minded people who feel that they should be making decisions for our entire school population, and all who live in the community. They feel that their ways are the best and the only way to look at things. Have they forgotten that this is America, and the only place in the world they could possibly enjoy all the freedoms they are trying to exercise?

I listened to them while they expressed their opinions because we all have the freedom of speech. However, they then utilized the break to discuss and make plans on how to make the millage in our community fail. The education of my students and my son is of primary importance to me, and I feel we should all be working together to help our community survive these unusual financial times.

Our children and future leaders of our society deserve the best! Obviously, their property values (which of course will also suffer) have as little importance to them as a child's learned ability to be a critical thinker and a good decision maker.

I feel it is time for all of us to re-examine our thinking and actions. Our community is dividing and the education of our children is at stake! We all have equal rights in America, and need to start exercising them.

I CARE so much and hope that others who care will think about what is important to them, to our future citizens, and to our community. We need to become active supporters of our freedoms, our rights, our schools, and our community!

KATHY HAREDA

What about harmony?

EDITOR:

Hopefully, five years from now the Citizens for Better Education (CBE) will be, as the McCarthy era 40 years before, an historical reminder of the effects of extremist right-wing action. What originally started out, in 1985, as a criticism of various teaching materials has grown into a larger, more dangerous, objective: to subvert the Plymouth-Canton school system and put it at the mercy of their committee.

Under the guise of trying to re-integrate "proper" morality into the community they have committed acts of political sabotage (this campaign to convince people to vote "No" on the millage unless their demands are met); expressed the desire to have a mandate on the school board; and recently held a "witch hunt" in the classroom of CEP teacher Barbara Masters by their school board representative, Barbara Graham. Graham mentioned that the paintings in Masters' room were "depressing" and the distribution of the Metro Times, which contained romance ads, also aroused her concern.

On her first complaint, I would advise Graham not to mention her prefixed notions about modern art for the purpose of discrediting Masters' class. Her belief that "kids learn better when there's something cheerful around" is a false assumption. People learn by either having an interest in a subject, or having their beliefs disturbed so that they have to investigate and resolve the intellectual problems for themselves.

The Approaching the Arts class is an attempt to challenge kids' "beliefs" in art, politics, and modern "society" so that they will investigate these things on their own; this teaches them how to read critically, connect data from various sources, and arrive at conclusions based on those sources. It is not a course to depress kids; but to help kids make sense out of the depressing world around them, I was a successful indoctrinee of the course last year (and I haven't had the urge to bow to Satan). A room full of pretty pictures (I imagine fuzzy bunnies, children with ice cream smeared on their faces, or the Madonna and Christ Child surrounded by cherubs) does not "turn kids on" to learning.

Her second complaint, concerning the use of The Metro Times generates greater concern. She skipped over the political essays, the huge article on the destruction of the rain forest, and all the useful film, theater, and museum information, and focused her attention on the hetero- and homosexual romance ads which occupy the back two pages of the publication. This dwelling on sexual content (even in such limited form as the classified ads) in the Times raises the question of who's more sex obsessed: the adolescents or the CBE.

After obtaining a copy of the Times, she began to ask the names of kids who read the publication as if they had done something wrong (I am a frequent reader myself, by the way). Her actions were an insult to Masters (by assuming that Masters can't determine what's proper and improper in the classroom), and to the students (by assuming that they can't deal with a few homosexual ads or separate them from the other contents).

It is also interesting that on her free time Graham decides to go to this one specific classroom in the English Department. The "defensive" "indoctrinated" students who retorted against her can clearly be sympathized with. They do not, as well as I, want to see that class controlled and administered by people who have little or no knowledge on the subject of art.

Barbara Graham's intentions were not to observe the class objectively, but to discredit it because the course does not follow a right-wing conservative ideology. It is clear that the CBE has gone from petitioning the school board for a redress of grievances to investigating classes which teach counterpoint views.

If the Citizens for Better Education were really concerned with the moral health of their children, they would see there are many more important factors which have caused a moral "breakdown" in children. The education system, which is not without flaws, has been blamed for too much of the children's social behavior.

Some other important factors are: 1.) the widening separation between social classes in the Plymouth-Canton area; 2.) the rapid building and development of the area which has left kids with no place "of their own;" 3.) cuts in federal and state education programs which have frustrated and defeated many college-bound students; 4.) severe cuts in local education which has overcrowded the schools and limited their capacity to function properly; and 5.) this era of three "low-intensity conflicts" (Nicaragua, Iran, and El Salvador), rapid arms buildup, student, highway, and random killings, crack houses, and increasing homelessness and poverty — have induced a nihilistic attitude on kids that their popular culture reflects.

Instead of trying to suppress materials which help them make sense and adjust to this society (which is the goal of education) Citizens for Better Education would find greater success by letting kids get the education they deserve instead of having it cut off because of a political move. By seriously looking into the emotional and intellectual needs of children, the CBE could work more harmoniously with the school system instead of turning it into a battlefield between conservative and liberal factions.

Graham's attack amusing, outrageous

EDITOR:

As products of Plymouth-Canton schools and Barbara Masters' English class (1970-71), we were first amused and then outraged to read of Barbara Graham's "witch hunt" of Masters.

Amused first because she is still such a controversial personality and then outraged at the neo-conservatism plaguing the community.

Out of all the teachers we had throughout our schooling, Masters is one of the very few who has made a lasting impression. She dared to expose us to a variety of non-traditional material, taught us how to think and write analytically and most importantly, tried to steer us clear of becoming narrow-minded, bigotted, conforming adults.

Show you care, vote yes!

EDITOR:

The school board meeting on Monday, April 24, turned out to be very illuminating, though one would hardly have guessed it from the items on the formal agenda.

Board Member Barb Graham's visit to the high school classroom of Barbara Masters produced some 17 or so impassioned speeches. Graham had some ardent supporters, especially a group of Citizens For Better Education members who sported "I Care More" buttons.

Masters had some equally ardent supporters, including colleagues and students.

What was illuminating was that the debate really didn't have much to do with Graham's visit at all. Almost every speaker used the event for a springboard to one of two positions.

One position, a position supported by the Committee for Academic Freedom and Excellence (CAFE), holds that education must challenge the thinking of students by presenting controversial ideas in an atmosphere of academic inquiry.

The other position, espoused by

Teachers need to be accountable

EDITOR:

As a former educator, I watch with interest the happenings in our school system in Plymouth.

Back in the days when I was teaching, we had no union. Therefore, teachers were responsible for doing lesson plans on their own time, making out grade cards and keeping student records, monitoring hallways and etc.

There was a schedule posted just inside the classroom door, indicating to any visitor, just what subject was being taught during specified hours of the day. Many parents came to my classroom, seated themselves quietly in the back row, and my students were some of the members of CBE, suggests that certain ideas, words and images are inherently immoral and dangerous, no matter what the context, and have no place in the school curriculum.

The supporters of teaching for critical thinking are also, for the most part, supporters of the critically needed millage renewal and modest millage increase. We want our schools to continue to provide a high level of academic challenge and excellence.

CBE's leader, in particular, repeated the threat that has been made before. They will not support the increase, or even the renewal, until the school system purges the classroom of the materials (and the teachers?) of which they so intensely disapprove.

Many of us had a teacher or teachers who inspired us and challenged us to think critically. Many of us received a first-class education that started us on the road to the success we experience today. The membership of CAFE urges you to join us in support of excellence in education. Vote YES for the renewal -- vote YES for the modest increase. Show that you really CARE!

frequently surprised to find another person there when class was over.

So my question now is WHY must parents/taxpayers get special permission to monitor a class, when it is these same people who provide the money to build the school and pay the salary of the classroom teacher?

To whom are the Plymouth teachers accountable, if not the principal and school board? "WHO'S MINDING THE STORE?"

IF this school system is so disorganized that teachers have free reign in their classrooms, it is nothing short of audacity to ask residents to vote for additional millage!

With more toward more

First they tore up the entire Fleet Street area to build a parking deck. The next year they repaved the street. The following year they dug up the street to bury the utilities. Then they took down the utilities.

Now they're tearing up the street up again to put down quaint, charming, and unique pretty red bricks.

At the same time, the Downtown Development Authority is acquiescing to a City Hall promise to spend $120,000 for half an elevator at the new Arbor Health addition.

What's the elevator for?

The yet another parking deck that City Hall wants on Fleet Street to house cars and more pigeons. And so, it starts again.

Remember the campaign slogan, "Four more years"?

The Fleet Street businesses, customers, property owners, employees and residents are adopting that slogan for the upcoming City Commission elections.

It's been four years of upheaval and now another new deck? "Four more years"

CBE wants more than elimination of materials

EDITOR:

Like it or not, morals, values, and education are inseparable.

Education is merely the process of transferring to our children the skills, knowledge, and concepts we value as important to life and living. These values, of necessity, are based on our morals.

So, the difference in viewpoints we are witnessing in our community derive from a fundamental difference in morals. Some believe that illicit sex, Satanism, and occult influences are completely normal and should be accepted as a regular part of the human experience. Others feel these influences are counter-productive and have no place in the educational process.

The average parent takes certain things for granted regarding the education of their child in public schools. For instance, most parents would expect their child to learn the basics -- math, science, English, etc. Beyond that, the parents also expect specific points of knowledge, important to our culture, to be included in the curriculum. Information about U.S. history and government, world geography, political systems, and religions contribute to the student having an "open mind" (we've been hearing so much of lately). Parents are increasingly finding that their children are not learning "the basics."

Many of the critics of the Citizens For Better Education (CBE) are trying to imply that the organization's only concern is to eliminate the controversial material. However, our problems are much larger than that. In addition to eliminating destructive course material, we need to raise our academic standards and performance goals. After all, students will seldom achieve beyond what is expected of them by their parents and teachers.

To this end, more money is not nearly as important as more commitment. Perhaps, once the citizens see this higher level of commitment from the school board, administrators and teachers, they will stop defeating every millage request that comes along.

Singing the Rouge River Blues -- the doubt nags

...the Rouge River on my mind...
There is this doubt. And it nags.

The new proposed landfill down in Canton -- Sauk Trail Hills -- seems precariously close to the winding path of the Lower Rouge River as it cuts across the southern end of the township.

The lower river has a lot of potential. That much is clear. Canton (or the county) might be able to use their portion of the river as a foundation for yet another park system. It is in many ways an ecologic gem (compared with its sister the middle branch).

There are even plans, plans and more plans.

One idea is to flush clean water from the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority (YCUA) plant through the river as part of the water project with the Western Townships Utility Authority (WTUA). That idea will be much closer to a reality as the YCUA system comes on line in the next few years.

There has also been talk of starting a canoe livery along the river and using parts of it as a "passive" parkway where families could go to picnic or relax and watch the river flow.

Also on the books is this plan to construct a road along the river and call it the Lower Rouge Parkway. It would be similar to Edward Hines Drive to the north and wind along the river from Canton's eastern border to at least Canton Center Road (just north of Michigan Avenue).

And now we have this landfill. There are already several old landfills in the area and another is proposed in Van Buren Township, not far from Sauk Trail Hills.

This doubt continues to nag -- could the river be threatened by the landfill?

Canton will have every chance to monitor the sight under its host community agreement with Wayne Disposal, Inc. but what I'd like to know is whether or not anyone has studied the environmental impact this additional landfill will pose on the Lower Rouge.

Yes, there's the usual talk about a "leachate collection system" and a final cover system "incorporating clay and high density polyethylene plastic." But the doubt nags still.

Landfills were once the Edsels of waste collection, often out-of-date before their own time, useless when it came to addressing the environmental concerns of residents and a highly insecure way of dumping our garbage.

Today landfills have developed to where they could be considered state-of-art. Unfortunately, at the same time our garbage has gone from the ordinary to high-tech, with ever increasing amounts of synthetics, plastics, man-made chemical products and dozens and dozens of toxic or potentially toxic substances.

So this doubt remains.

It may sound foolish but in many ways I have more concern about the landfill damaging the river system than its potential affects on the residents who may live nearby.

Much of the area around the landfill is already zoned industrial. And there really aren't too many homes in that segment of Canton.

It will be tough for those living close to the landfill. That is clear. It may also be too much to expect a continued building boom along Michigan Avenue (of single family homes anyway). But man's place in the environment is short term. That river will remain long after Canton and Michigan have disappeared. And so will the landfill.

So the doubt remains.

One can hardly believe Canton officials would act recklessly when it comes to a river winding through their own backyard. Let's hope they have studied the options and the impact of the project.

Now I'm not saying anyone has been reckless here, but this doubt remains about the landfill's future impact on the Rouge...

...and it nags.

Toxic list disturbing to student

EDITOR:

For a science project, a partner and I took a survey on household toxic awareness. For this survey, we chose 10 household items, all of which were toxic. They were: pesticides, flea collars, laundry detergents, paint, fertilizer, roach spray, rat poison, furniture polish, drain openers, and oven cleaners. On the survey, the people were to tell if they had the item, and whether or not they thought it was toxic.

With the exception of the rat poison and roach spray, most people had all the items. The more obviously toxic ones, such as the roach spray, rat poison, pesticides, paint, fertilizer, and drain openers, most people knew were toxic. But others, such as the flea collar, which only 45 per cent of the people surveyed knew was toxic, and laundry detergents, also with only 45 per cent, were not so obvious.

I find it disturbing that there are so many toxic items common to most households, and that there is an unawareness for some of these items. A possible solution to this problem might be starting a household toxic awareness program.

In conclusion, I believe that we as a community should make people more aware of the toxics in their house.

Noise no joke -- Twp. needs ordinance

Does Plymouth Township need a noise ordinance?

Trustee John Stewart thinks so. And in light of what has been happening between the Howmet Corp., and the residents of Arbor Village subdivision, he may be right.

But other trustees -- the ones who actually ridiculed him for bringing up the radical idea of looking into a possible ordinance to control noise -- do not agree.

Arbor Village folks have been upset for a long time, about banging, clanging, loud trucks, loud employes, and a horrible odor, coming from the Howmet facility, into their backyards, while they are busy trying to enjoy a peaceful existence.

An agreement was just reached between the two parties -- a "gentleman's agreement," as a Howmet spokesperson calls it -- which sets up ways in which to deal with future problems, and sets up a time line for dealing with some of the complaints.

But the residents want something enforceable -- they are fed up. They are tired of being awoken to the sound of metal slamming against a concrete floor at 3 a.m.

A local ordinance would allow township police to go write a ticket when Howmet is not keeping down the racket.

So why did Stewart meet with such adamant resistance when he proposed the idea of a noise ordinance?

The "we don't want the police on our backs" attitude, and the "we don't want an ordinance for the sake of an ordinance" attitude, prevailed.

And also, perhaps because Stewart brought in copies of noise ordinances from other Michigan cities, all of which have colleges,

Swimming upstream

by John Broderick

and thus have significantly different reasons for having noise ordinances.

The problem of drunken students with four-foot-tall JBL speakers on their porch at 4 a.m. on a Wednesday, is not the same as a community where quiet residential neighborhoods back up against industrial areas.

Noise ordinances in college towns are designed to give police plenty of good reasons to write tickets to students, who are transient -- they don't pay taxes and they are not often registered to vote in in that community -- a wonderful revenue source.

But Plymouth Township does not have that sort of problem. What needs to be looked into are not noise ordinances of college towns, but those of communities where residential neighborhoods are close to industrial areas.

Stewart's idea, theatrics aside, is a good one. An appropriate noise ordinance -- one that deals directly with the township's unique situation, could help put the Arbor Village question to rest, and put in place an effective means by which to deal with other, future problems between residents and businesses.

Rather than be so concerned about police being on people's (voter's) backs, township trustees should join Stewart in helping residents to enjoy a peaceful night's sleep.

Years of letter writing leads to trip

BY ROBIN LAKE

Helen Fortney's 40 years of correspondence with Kurt Maybaum of Hamburg, Germany may pay off in a really big way.

The Plymouth Township woman will be a guest of honor at the upcoming celebration of the Port of Hamburg's 800th Anniversary.

Maybaum was one of 80 winners in a drawing sponsored by the Hamburg Abendblatt newspaper and the German airline, Lufthansa, in which the winners could invite a person of their choice from anywhere in the world for an expense paid trip to Hamburg to join the five-day celebration.

Maybaum asked Fortney to come, along with her husband, Matt.

Fortney and Maybaum have been pen pals since Fortney received his address through the International Student Society, a program which promoted world peace at Plymouth High School more than 40 years ago.

They had the opportunity to meet in 1970 in Amsterdam and they met again when Maybaum traveled to Michigan in 1976 with his wife Rosie.

"We wrote quite a bit for the first two or three years, then it began to dwindle," Fortney said. "Now we write about twice a year -- at Christmas and on my birthday."

Fortney, who has traveled to Germany before to take a boat trip up the Rhine River, said she is looking forward to going back.

"It was an honor to be asked to come," she said. "He (Maybaum) has a lot of other people he corresponds with that he could have asked."

Fortney will participate in a welcome dinner with the mayor of Hamburg and boat trip on the River Elbe. She also plans to look up family history if she has time.

Fortney's still not certain of all the details, however, but doesn't mind the suspense.

"It's like a mystery trip," she said.

Friends & Neighbors

In the halls of CEP At home

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Students may have seen a new face in the halls of Canton and Salem highs this year.

Long time Michigan State Police Sergeant, Jim Collins, has taken over as supervisor of security for the entire Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district.

Collins, who brings decades of police experience to the job, works mainly at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) complex.

His job entails the supervision of all district security personnel, most of which are stationed at CEP.

"In two and a half months here I've found the most pressing problems to be the parking situation, truancy, and larceny," Collins said. "It's tough when you have about 600 parking spaces, and a lot more that 600 kids who want to drive to school."

"We have a unique situation here -- two schools, in three buildings, on 300 acres. The kids have reason to be moving between buildings. In a conventional high school, once they're in, you've got them for the whole day," he said.

Collins said that there have been about 50 larcenies at CEP since January -- mostly things like wallets, coats, and expensive shoes -- and while this figure is not abnormal, "it's too many for me," he said.

Collins is no stranger to CEP. His three children attended Canton and were involved in athletics there. Also, as a state police investigator, he worked closely with school district officials on security matters.

"I know a lot of the administrators out here and a lot of the teachers, and although the building principals have changed recently, I work very well with them," he said.

Collins brings a ream of police experience to his new position. He began his career at the Detroit post of the State Police, and in 1972, moved to western Wayne County, working for a while in Plymouth, and most recently at the Northville post.

For most of this time Collins was a plain clothes detective, investigating vice and gambling crimes. His work included surveillance and undercover operations.

"This is not really police work," he said. "I hope that some of my experience in police work will come in handy. But this is security work -- we like to stop the action before it becomes a crime."

Hoedel gets MSBO presidency

Ray Hoedel is a busy man.

In addition to his responsibilities as associate superintendent for business with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, Hoedel was recently named president of the association of Michigan School Business Officials (MSBO).

"Running a school district is becoming more complicated these days," he said. "So this organization is becoming increasingly important."

A Plymouth Township resident, Hoedel came to the district in 1973. He was formerly with the Clintondale Community Schools in Macomb County.

MSBO was founded in 1937 for persons involved in school district management.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Now that nice weather is here, it must mean summer is on its way. I can't wait to get out and enjoy the summer sun.

When you think of summer many thoughts run through your mind - picnics, swimming, building sand castles on vacation, cooking on the grill, planting a garden and having college kids move back home.

I love my kids more than anything in the world, but I have to admit I have mixed reservations about them moving back. They're concerned about having to give up some of their independence and freedom. Big deal, what about my independence and freedom? I don't have to check in with anyone when they're not here anymore than they tell me every place they go when they're at college. However, common courtesy while we are living under the same roof means we can communicate with each other.

I like being able to clean the house and have it stay that way. It may sound petty, but there is something to be said for knowing things are where you left them. If I leave my car keys on my desk, I don't expect them to run away. Speaking of car keys, I hope the other kid gets her own car soon (that includes paying for her own gas and insurance). An extra car will probably only add to the confusion of who gets to park where.

Then there is the telephone - that thing that rings every once in awhile (if the kids stay off it long enough). I don't understand how their friends always have a way of getting through before mine.

One nice thing about having them home for the summer is no tuition payment. However, the amount of savings decreases rapidly every time you go to the grocery store. How can two kids eat that much and stay slim? My two have a reputation for being able to eat more than any of their friends. I guess everyone has to be tops in something. This year my concerns are a little different than in the past because one kid is graduating and moving back home for longer than just the summer. The idea of the household being in constant turmoil for an indefinite period of time (years) is scary.

I've always said I never wanted to become set in my ways. I guess having kids around is the best insurance to guarantee that never happens.

Howmet agreement reduces tension

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Things in Arbor Village subdivision are not exactly peaceful yet, but tensions seem to be running a little less deep these days.

Residents of the Plymouth Township subdivision have been complaining for months about what they call excessive noise coming from the adjacent Howmet Manufacturing company's Ann Arbor Road facility.

Last week company representatives and residents reached an agreement -- a "gentleman's" agreement -- to form a permanent committee to work out any future differences.

But residents were concerned that the agreement was not enough, and that there would still be no way to enforce the conditions of the agreement, and no legal means to penalize Howmet for excessive noise.

"This is the third time we've been here, and hopefully it will be the last."

said Bob Ziada, an Arbor Village resident. "I hope this agreement is enforceable.

"If we have a problem in the future," he continued, "are we going to have any recourse, or are we going to have to start all over again?"

While the agreement outlines changes that the company plans to make in their operations, company officials, and township trustees say that the solution is not legally enforceable.

"We have a gentleman's agreement to continue to work on problems that we are causing for each other," said Ron Hitzel, Howmet's plant manager.

"But it is a gentleman's agreement -- if this were a legal solution, we would not be here, it would be worked out between two lawyers," he said. "We want to be good neighbors, and this agreement takes us a step in that direction."

Some of the areas that the company has vowed improve in the coming weeks and months include: keeping trucks from running during late hours, keeping employes from making noise late at night, and not operating certain machines past 7 p.m., or before 8 a.m.

"This solution is 80 per cent non-legal," said township Trustee John Stewart. "I want to thank Howmet -- they have shown more good faith than ever before.

"And I want to thank the residents of Arbor Village who came tonight, and have stuck this out through the months," he said.

Citizen committee approved

BY KEN VOYLES

As a part of a community host agreement allowing the construction of the Sauk Trail Hills sanitary landfill, a citizens committee will be formed in Canton to consider various improvements projects near the proposed Michigan Avenue facility.

Last week Canton's Board of Trustees approved the plan to establish a citizens committee and authorize the establishment of a fund to make infrastructure improvements, construct recreational facilities and plan beautification projects near the proposed landfill.

"The community around the landfill is eager to take on this project," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack after meeting with homeowners near the proposed site last week.

The committee will be formed six months before waste is received at the facility, said Yack, who added that once the Wayne Disposal-Canton, Inc., site is in full operation the citizens committee will begin making spending recommendations to the board.

Yack said the committee's budget will be $75,000 for each of four years, though it will not exceed a total of $300,000. The money will be used for community improvement projects near the landfill, but those projects will be limited to infrastructure improvements, recreational improvements and beautification projects.

Money to fund the committee will be made available to Canton as is spelled out in the new agreement between the township and Wayne Disposal.

Twp. joins composting program

BY JOHN BRODERICK

With area landfills nearing capacity, and the county sending warnings for municipalities to reduce their solid waste output, Plymouth Township has taken the lead by starting two new programs to put garbage to better use.

The township is instituting an office paper recycling program -- newspapers and regular office paper from the township will no longer take up space in landfills.

In addition, the township board of trustees also resolved to join a composting program with Canton Recycling, and Canton, whereby grass and leaves would not be dumped in landfills, but mixed together and reused.

"Canton Recycling has a site for composting," said Jan Hoffman, the township's solid waste coordinator.

"Canton produces a lot of grass, which cannot be composted alone -- leaves are a major ingredient, which are abundant in Plymouth Township, so a joint composting program benefits both communities," she said.

"Recycling the paper in an office is very simple," Hoffman said. "Employees deposit used paper in a special container throughout the day, and when it is full, it is sorted -- white, colored, and newspaper -- and placed into larger containers to be sold to recycling facilities," she said.

Hoffman said that the township is encouraging local businesses to follow suit, and that information will be sent to them, to help them start their own similar programs.

Canton roads to be paved

Bids has been received for the paving of Lotz Road and Sheldon Road (between Michigan Avenue and Palmer Road), according to Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

Wayne County is currently in the process of awarding the work, said Yack, who expects work on the projects to begin in the next two or three weeks.

Canton's share of the Lotz Road project is $227,000, while the township will contribute another $191,000 for the Sheldon Road project.

Livonia companies granted Canton abatements

BY KEN VOYLES

Two Livonia based companies which are planning to move into Canton were granted tax abatements by the Canton Board of Trustees during last week's regular meeting.

Greenfield Die and Machine Corporation and Astro Automation, Inc. were both granted 12-year tax abatements under the provisions of Public Act 198. They will relocate in the township's Northeast Industrial Development District.

Greenfield had been based in Livonia for more than 30 years. The company manufactures tools, dies, stamping and production plastic parts.

The exemption covers the construction of a new industrial building of 37,000 square feet, including office space of 7,200 square feet. More than $2 million in new machinery and equipment will also be acquired within the next two years, according to information on the company's application.

Astro Automation, which manufactures structural steel components and automated building systems, will receive an exemption to cover construction costs for a new facility with 22,100-square feet as well as the purchase of machinery.

Both abatements were opposed by Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter, who said she was not against industrial development in Canton, but that she wanted to grant abatements for a shorter period or a lesser amount than requested by the two firms.

"I have a problem voting for the total abatement and the total time," she said. "But I'm willing to compromise."

Kirchgatter said she was also concerned about the "automatic" nature of abatements for businesses trying to locate in the township's Northeast

Industrial District.

Other board members said it might be worth looking at the township's abatement policy, but until then they said abatements should continue to be granted, especially in the industrial district.

Tyburski trial scheduled

Leonard Tyburski, the Canton man accused of killing his wife, Dorothy, and hiding her body in a family freezer for three years, is scheduled to go on trial at 9 a.m. on June 19.

Tyburski will be tried in Wayne County Circuit Court before Judge Richard Hathaway. Last week Hathaway denied a motion by Tyburski's attorney to reduce or dismiss a second degree murder charge.

Tyburski has admitted to hitting his wife's head against a basement pole -- in a confession to police -- after he said he argued with her over fears that she was having an affair with their daughter's boyfriend.

Defense attorneys have argued that the killing may have been in the heat of passion.

McDonald expands truck, body center

BY ROBIN LAKE

The McDonald Ford dealership in Northville has expanded.

The dealership recently opened up a second service location to help serve what continues to be a booming community.

The new addition is a "state-of-the-art" Body Shop and Truck Center, located on Northville Road south of the main dealership at Seven Mile Road. The center opened in January.

The facility will allow the company to expand services -- services which are badly needed in the area, according to McDonald Ford owner Thomas "Joe" McDonald.

The Body and Truck Center specializes in frame, body and engine repair as well as painting. One of its features is an environmentally safe spray booth which the company had custom built for the shop. The booth can paint and bake a 60-foot long truck or two cars at once.

According to General Manager Dave Rekuć, the booth will allow for quicker service.

Looking toward the future, McDonald and Rekuć hope the addition will allow the dealership to expand their services even further to include trailer repair and a quick oil change center.

The new facility will also house the mechanics for McDonald Ford's car rental service, which has eight locations throughout the metro area and Ann Arbor. "Our car rental service is very diverse," said Rekuć. "You can get anything from an Escort, to a limo, to a dump truck."

Adding the Body and Truck Center created 25 new jobs, said McDonald, who is proud of the fact that most of his employees are from the Plymouth and Northville area and are involved with community services.

"It's not unusual to see one of our employes collecting for Knights of Columbus or working at Fall Festival," added Rekuć.

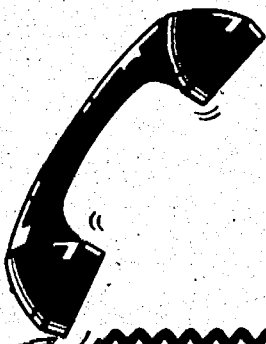

McDonald, whose company came to Northville in 1982, is also proud of the quality and speed of service which he believes his company offers.

"We take a little extra time for that extra touch," he said. "I've been in the business a long time and I'm aware of how to fix things."

"We like to look the customer in the eye and know we did the best job possible," said Rekuć.

McDonald also likes to be active in the dealership, and makes a point to hit every part of the business during the day.

"It's not unusual for Mr. McDonald to inspect the work himself to see if he's satisfied with it," said Rekuć.

City police foil car theft

BY JOHN BRODERICK

City of Plymouth Police foiled an attempted theft of a car last Wednesday, apprehending one of the two suspects in the parking lot of the Highland facility on Sheldon Road.

Harold Rickey Boles, 20, of Detroit, is being held in the Wayne County Jail, after being arraigned and charged with the unlawful driving away of an automobile.

Police received a call early Wednesday morning from a resident on Karmada Street, who said she looked out her window and saw her car being driven away.

Police then spotted a black Ford EXP driving westbound on Junction toward Sheldon, without lights. The officers pursued, as the car accelerated across Sheldon; into the lot of Highland, police said.

The car crashed through a closed gate, and sped toward the back of the lot, as police followed. The suspects then fled on foot. The driver escaped by climbing a barbed wire fence, and fleeing into the wooded area west of the Highland property.

The passenger, Boles, was apprehended by police near the fence.

"We continued the search for the other suspect, with assistance from the Plymouth Township Police, and from a tracking dog from the Ypsilanti State Police post," said Plymouth Police Chief Richard Myers. "The suspect was spotted two or three times, but the area is heavily wooded, and it was very dark."

A Highland security guard on the scene found a red baseball cap which read, "Detroit -- where the weak are killed and eaten."

Ripped up

The Fleet Street improvement project in the City of Plymouth has begun in earnest, according to Paul Sincoc, assistant city manager. During the construction period there won't be any charge for parking in the Central Parking Deck. The improvement phase will include the paving of Fleet Street as well as an extensive amount of brick work to the building sides facing the street. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

Canton bike program on tap

BY KEN VOYLES

In an effort to distribute bicycles recovered each year by police, the Canton Police Department and the Canton Chamber of Commerce will join forces and distribute bicycles to needy Canton residents during a distribution day on May 21.

The essence of the program, according to Public Safety Director John Santomauro, is the turning over of the recovered bicycles to the chamber, which will in turn distribute them to residents in need under guidelines established by the Salvation Army.

"I feel this program would be a tremendous asset to our community and assist the Public Safety Department in the disposal of bicycles in the future," Santomauro wrote in a report to the Canton Board of Trustees recently.

Santomauro said that in the past the bicycles were auctioned off at public auctions, but with changes in state law, the bicycles can now be disposed of in "ways other than an auction."

"This was an opportunity presented by our chief two or three months ago," said John Schwartz III, a chamber representative. "We think we've got a real good program."

The program was approved by the township board on April 11.

Schwartz said the chamber is also seeking the support of other civic organizations in Canton to come up with a list of needy residents.

Names of needy residents should be submitted to the chamber, said Schwartz. The bicycles will be made available to both youths and adults.

"I think this is a real plus for the community," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. "It's better than the kids getting them illegally."

Up, down week for Rock hitters

BY RITA DERBIN

It was a wild week of ups and downs for the Salem High baseball squad.

The Rocks dropped the first game of a doubleheader with cross-campus rival Canton High, 11-7, on Monday. The second game was suspended after four innings.

Before that the Rocks defeated Livonia Stevenson, 6-0, on Friday, with Howie Blanchard (3-1) and Rob Kowalski combining for a five-hitter.

Kevin Beals hit his third home run of the season in that contest.

Last Wednesday, the Rocks lost to Westland John Glenn, 9-7.

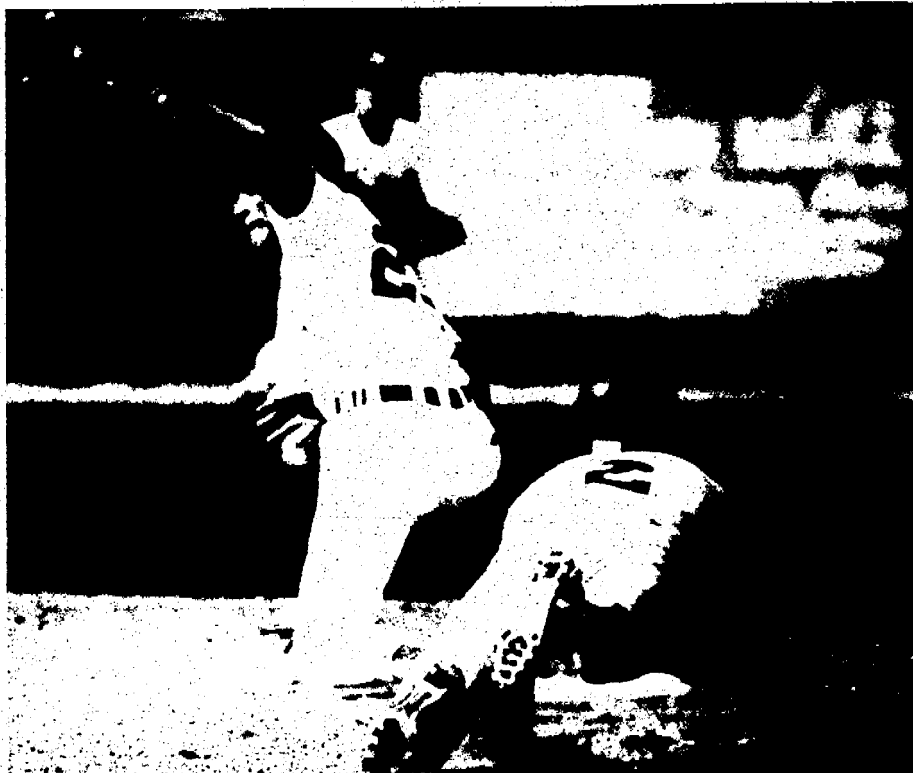

Prior to that (on April 25) the Rocks fell to Livonia Franklin, 6-5, in a wild game, during which Franklin scored six runs in the second inning with two outs and two strikes on the number nine hitter.

On April 24, Salem knocked off Farmington in another wild game. Trailing 11-8 the Rocks scored three times in the bottom of the seventh inning to tie the score and force extra innings.

Salem then pushed across the winning run when Eric Sheehan double, moved to third on a bunt and scored on a throwing error by the Farmington pitcher. The final was 12-11.

Tom Noonan went 4-4 at the plate for Salem and Beals hit two home runs including a grand slam in the fifth and a solo home run to start the Rocks' rally in the seventh inning.

"It was a crazy week," Salem coach John Gravin said. "We had our chances in every game but we've been sloppy in the field and on the mound."

Canton softball squad keeps busy

Canton's Carol Keenan strokes the ball Monday during the Chiefs split with rival Salem. Canton won the first game, 9-6, but dropped the second outing, 12-5. Pitcher Staci Thompson led the Chiefs in the first game, tossing a five-hitter and smacking a home run. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

The Canton High girls softball team had a busy schedule this week.

On Friday, the Chiefs beat Livonia Churchill 3-0, and then on Saturday, the Chiefs competed in the Lakeland Invitational.

Staci Thompson pitched a one-hitter on Friday to boost Canton to the win. Thompson gave up only one walk on the night.

Outfielder Kim Shulte scored all three runs to help Canton to the victory.

On Saturday, Canton started off the invitational on the right foot by beating Allen Park 2-1. Thompson was the winning pitcher for the Chiefs.

In their second game, however, the Chiefs lost to the eventual invitational champions Belleville 12-4. Thompson was the losing pitcher.

Canton finished the day by beating Franklin 3-1. Thompson allowed only one run in that game.

The Chiefs next game is today (May 3) at Walled Lake Western. Game time is 4 p.m.

Rock kickers stay on top

BY RITA DERBIN

They've got it all: speed, defense, scoring and goaltending. Maybe that's why the Salem girls soccer team is the number one team in the state.

On Monday night, the Rocks tied Farmington 1-1. Sara Hayes (assisted by Teri King) scored Salem's goal.

With the tie, the Rocks are 7-0-1 overall and tied for first place in the Lakes Division with Farmington.

The Rocks defeated Brighton on Saturday 3-0 with Sara Hayes getting two goals and an assist, Michelle Minton getting one goal and one assist, Mandy Drummond getting a goal and Missy Smith getting a goal.

In the game, Amy Krajewski drew an assist on a little-used play -- she threw a long pass that hit the goal mouth and was headbutted from Minton on the rebound to Hayes for a goal.

"We don't use that play very often," said coach Ken Johnson. "but it's very effective -- especially since Krajewski has such a strong throw."

Last Wednesday, Erin Harvey came off the bench to score both goals for Salem in their 2-1 victory over Northville. Hayes and Jill Estey assisted on the goals.

Salem tracksters fall, but win relays

BY RITA DERBIN

They ran well, but not enough to win.

On Thursday, the Salem High's boys track team traveled to Westland John Glenn to take on the Rockets in what coach Gary Balconi described as the "toughest meet of the season" and lost the meet 82-55.

The loss put the Rocks 2-1 in dual meets for the season.

There were several outstanding performances for the Rocks.

Roger Parry finished first in three events: the long jump (20-6.25); the high jump (6-2); and the 110-meter high hurdles (15.57 seconds).

Distance runner Scott Stryker also brought in two top performances in the mile (4:35.43) and two mile runs (10:18.83).

Discus thrower Don Parrish (119 feet) and shot putter Rick Von Domlen (44-1.5) also came in first in their events.

Second-place finishers for the Rocks were: Parrish in the shot (41-7.5); Rob Casler in the discus (118-1); Matt Perron in the 100-meter dash; Joe Pawluska in the 400-meter run; and Steve Burlison in the 200-meter run.

"Most of the kids ran their fastest times of the season," said coach Gary Balconi. "We had some excellent performances in the field and on the track but Glenn was stronger.

"I'm very pleased with our performances," Balconi added. "We keep improving."

The Rocks came in first place at the Tiger Relays in Belleville on April 22 with 84 points.

Taking first places were: the high jump relay of Parry, who tied a school record with a 6-6 jump, and Devang Desai and Jim Ramsey who each jumped 5-8; the long jump relay of Parry (18-9), Leon Hister (18-4) and Bryan Neal (17-9); the four mile relay team of Stryker, Dave Hamway, John Thomas and Brendon Masterson (19:22.05); the distance medley team of Brian Burlison, Carl Mills, Sean Speakman and Stryker; and the two mile relay team of Bob Anzimo, Thomas, Masterson and Hamway.

The open mile was won by Stryker with a time of 4:41, teammate Speakman came in fifth in the event with a time of 4:57.

Parry finished second in the 110-meter high hurdles (15.7). Also finishing second was the high hurdle shuttle relay of Mills, Troy Giachero, Ramsey and Parry (1:07.8).

Third-place finishes went to the shot put relay team of Van Domlen (43-3), Parrish (41-3) and Jack Lupo (36-0).

The Rocks will host Livonia Stevenson Thursday at 3:30 p.m. and travel to Livonia Churchill for an all-area meet on Saturday. Finals for the meet will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Rock netters keep on rolling

BY RITA DERBIN

Five down and only the rest of the season to go.

The Salem High boys tennis team continues to roll over conference rivals. With the Rocks 6-1 win over Livonia Churchill on Monday, the squad remains undefeated in conference play.

Number two singles Ryan Bannan defeated Churchill's Aaron Variant 7-5, 6-1; number three singles Wade Garard defeated Kevin Whelan 6-0, 6-1; and number four singles Chris Marschak defeated Eric Todd 7-6, 6-2. Number one singles Rich Cundiff was defeated by Punet Ailowadi 6-7, 4-6.

Number one doubles Matt Lore and Scott Hobbs defeated Ron Rogewicz and Jesse Nagy 6-4, 6-2; number two doubles Jeff Rearick and Mike Sell defeated Randy Calcaterra and David Winebrenner 6-3, 6-2; and number three doubles Jeff Elliott and K.C. Kirkpatrick defeated Bill Sayed and Jeff Cassar 5-7, 6-0, 7-5 to sweep the doubles matches.

The Rocks downed Farmington on Friday 6-1.

Last Wednesday, Salem dusted off Westland John Glenn 7-0 to bring their record to 3-0 in conference play.

Salem defeated Northville last Monday 6-1.

The Rocks won all of the singles matches.

The Rocks will host Walled Lake Western today (May 3) at 4 p.m. and then travel to Livonia Stevenson on Friday before participating in the Woodhaven Invitational on Saturday.

Canton offers junior golf league

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department is offering a Junior Golf League for boys and girls between the ages of 11-18 this summer.

Coxford hits 1st hole-in-one

After 50 years of golf (it must have seemed like 100 years the way he shoots), Jack Coxford got a hole in one!

After complaining about his sore hand, Plymouth resident Coxford stumbled up in the tee of the 165-yard 14th hole at the new Eastern Michigan University course (par 3) and took out his 6 iron.

Since he's a known kiddier, his partners always watch Jack's drives - he sank it, the partners attest, shaking their heads in disbelief.

"Congrats Jack," they said.

Chiefs tracksters dominate N'ville

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Canton High's girls track team scored 12 first place finishes in a dominating win over Northville on Thursday, 90-38.

Canton's Heather Spencer started the Chiefs off with a first place in the high jump (5-2), while Marissa Dersey took a third.

In the discus, Marnie Smith earned a first place with a personal best throw of 97-2, while Ifoema Okwumabua took second and Dawn Kersten finished off the sweep with third place.

It was Smith and Okwumabua in the shot put, only in changed roles. Okwumbua took first (30-2) and Smith captured a second for the Chiefs (25-9).

The Chiefs clinched only one place in the long jump, but it was first as Kristina Kozuch leaper 14-11.

Lori Penland, Adrienne Garrow, Missy Jasnowski and Kris Marquard raced a 11:09.3 and first place in the two mile relay.

In the 100-yard dash Sandy Sherwin took a first place for the Chiefs with Okwumabua finishing third.

Cindy Spessard captured a first place in the mile run with a time of 5:53.3, while Cathy McCabe finished third.

It was the relay team of Kristy Brugar, Okwumabua, Charlene McFaul and Sherwin that clinched first for the Chiefs in the 400-yard relay.

Brugar also finished first in the 400-open (1:05.2), Heather Meyer took a second place (1:05.5), and Spencer finished third (1:06.0).

The Chiefs captured first and third in the 200-yard dash. Alecia King clocked 29.8 seconds and Sherwin finished up in 30.8 seconds.

"We were pleased with our overall performance," said Canton coach George Pryzgodski. "It was a good way to open our division meets."

Canton is 2-0 overall and 1-0 in their division.

The Chiefs host Livonia Churchill on Thursday. The meet starts at 5:30 p.m.

In the game, freshman goalkeeper, Jeny Emmett gave up her first goal of the season with 12 minutes left to play.

Johnson credits a lot of his team's success to its balance and depth. The defense of Maria Wordhouse, Melissa Uhl, the midfield of Estey, Teri King and Hayes and Harvey coming off the bench with lots of scoring is helping them in their quest for a second state title in three years.

The Rocks will play at Livonia Churchill tonight (May 3), and travel to Dearborn Edsel Ford on Saturday before coming home to play Walled Lake Western.

Residents must register by 5 p.m., on Monday, May 15 at a Secretary of State office, city and township offices, or at the district administration offices on Harvey Street.

Absentee ballots may be obtained by calling Bernice Nichols, schools election official, at 451-3135.

Canton man dies after Rouge explosion

A 28-year-old Canton man was killed April 24 following an explosion which ripped through an underground tunnel at the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant in Dearborn.

Bill Steiner, a U.S. Navy veteran, died when he drowned in a sewer tunnel at the plant, according to information from the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office last week.

Steiner was one of two men killed during the blast. The other, John Hatch, was from Detroit.

Steiner is survived by his wife, Torey, and his son Dustin Lee Steiner. He is also survived by his parents Fred and Dorothy Steiner; his sister, Kimberly Ann Steiner; and his brother James Steiner, all of Farmington.

Services were held Thursday for Steiner (who grew up in the Farmington area) at Thayer-Rock Funeral Home in Farmington. His interment was a Glen Eden Cemetery in Livonia.
