Gansler decides not to run

7 file for City Commission seats

BY KEN VOYLES

Mayor Karl Gansler will not be among those city commission candidates on the ballot this November when voters go to the polls in a City of Plymouth election.

Seven other Plymouth residents, however, have filed nominating petitions seeking seats on the commission during the Nov. 7 general election. There are four seats open this year — one two-year term and three four-year terms.

Gansler, who has been mayor for two years and on the commission for eight (including a stint in 1979-83), said, "I have an opportunity that would require moving and I didn't want to be on the ballot if I had left town."

Gansler said he won't know about his plans until sometime in early July. He is the only incumbent who did not file for re-election this summer.

The other three incumbents — Robert Jones, James Jabara and R. Jack Kenyon — have all been certified for the election.

Also certified for this year's election are Jean Morrow, Jerry Vorva, John Vos III and Greg Green. This is the second time Morrow, a retired steel foundry superintendent, has sought a seat on the commission.

This will be the first commission race for Vorva, a former city police officer who has also become known for his questions of the commission at recent city meetings.

It is also the first commission race for John Vos III, an attorney with Sommers, Schwartz, Silver and Schwartz, whose law offices are located in the city.

Green, a former member of the Plymouth Planning Commission, has sought a seat on the commission in the past.

Crier publisher W. Edward Wendorfer has decided not to seek a commission seat.

There had been talk of the potential need for a primary runoff among the candidates in August, but that will not be necessary since the number of candidates needed for a primary failed to materialize. Nine candidates would be needed to call a primary.

City voters may also have to decide on a City Charter amendment proposal in November.

Canton officer fired following investigation

BY KEN VOYLES

A Canton police officer previously suspended for the use of a controlled substance was fired by the Canton Police Department on Monday.

Public Safety Director John Santomauro said the officer, Kurt Johnson, was terminated following an internal investigation.

Santomauro said his department conducted its own "extensive" investigation while also requesting that the Michigan State Police (MSP) conduct a separate criminal investigation. The MSP also audited the property room of the Western Wayne County narcotics unit.

Roger Bittell, an inspector with the State Police, said the results of the investigation were turned over to the county prosecutor's office, but he added that the prosecutor found "insufficient evidence to prosecute" the officer on criminal charges.

Bittell said that small portions of evidence turned up missing from the narcotics unit property room.

Johnson, a Canton veteran of 11 years and a member of the narcotics unit, was originally suspended from the township force on May 10 following the results of a drug test which showed use of cocaine.

Lt. John Shewell, commander of the narcotics unit, was originally informed on May 3 that several pills of codeine were missing from the unit's property room.

That information prompted the drug tests, which members of the narcotics unit submitted to voluntarily, according to Santomauro. Johnson, the only member of the unit to fail the test, said the chief, was suspended at the time pending further investigation.

"This is an isolated incident and in no way reflects on the hard work and dedication of the Canton Police Department and the Western Wayne County narcotics unit," said Santomauro. "It is a serious matter any time you have a police officer using a controlled substance."

Santomauro said at issue in the case was whether or not it is reasonable to expect a higher standard of conduct by police officers than the general public.

"I feel it is," he said. "We have to maintain a code of conduct."

Santomauro said that the decision to release Johnson was an "organizational one" based on the best course of action for the Canton

Considered by 5 communities Court authority plan surfaces again

BY KEN VOYLES
 A plan to form a new building authority for the 35th District Court has surfaced once again.

Originally considered last fall by the five communities which make up the court jurisdiction area (Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Northville Township), the building authority idea was discussed again at a recent meeting of the court Advisory Board.

According to Gerald Brown, Canton's treasurer and representative on the advisory group, the June 6 meeting focused on establishing the court building authority for ownership and maintenance purposes.

Brown said that the advisory group also discussed the need to increase the number of judges at the court from two to three judges. He said the group realized a decision will have to be made "in the near future."

If the plan to bring on a third judge becomes a reality, Brown said, the court building will need about $300,000 in renovations.

Maurice Breen, supervisor in Plymouth Township, said the paperwork setting up an authority is ready to be distributed to the five communities for their approval.

"I see no problems with it," Breen said. "I think it's an excellent idea."

Breen added that the authority will not have taxing powers. It is designed to manage the building and carry the responsibility for the debt payments.

He said there seemed to be a general agreement to move forward with the plan.

Brown said "growth" revenues would most probably be used to fund any renovation work and not

Abatement approved

Canton's Board of Trustees last week approved a resolution entering into an abatement order with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The board unanimously approved the move.

The abatement order incorporates the construction schedule of the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) project and will now allow Canton to obtain new sewer permits through the DNR.

Canton and the DNR had been at odds with each other since 1986 when the township decided not to join the "supersewer" project.

Officials in Plymouth and Northville townships were also expected to vote on the abatement order some time this month.

municipal bonds. He noted that some Michigan district courts which are in financial trouble want to be taken over by the state.

"That's not what we want at all," he added. "We're profitable."

The court is currently located on Plymouth Road in the City of Plymouth. It houses two judge's chambers as well as court offices and a probation department.

Revenues from the court so far this year exceed $419,000. During the month of April, the court took in more than $115,000. Those figures represent about a 68 per cent increase in revenues over the last year.

City Commission delays wage increase plan

BY KEN VOYLES

Action on a five per cent across-the-board wage increase for non-union employees and department heads was delayed Monday by the Plymouth City Commission.

A move to approve the package as recommended by City Manager Henry Graper was tabled until the next regular commission meeting. Graper is also among the non-union employees slated for a raise under the recommendations.

Commissioners Dennis Bila and Robert Jones both expressed concern over approving a non-union pay hike before negotiations are complete with the unionized employees.

Bila said he was "uncomfortable" with the idea.

Graper said the approach has been used before during previous contract talks.

Mayor Karl Gansler told the commission that he would like to consider changing the method for making wage recommendations in the city.

Gansler said he wanted the city commission to make any future recommendations on the city manager's salary.

"This has always been a touchy issue," he said.

The mayor said his suggestion does not reflect a concern over the city manager's job performance or that of any city department heads.

Jones said he brought up his concerns because he wanted to look at an entire wage package to make sure all of the employe groups are "treated adequately and squarely."

Commissioner Jim Jabara said the commission should have an "open" but closed meeting to discuss the wage plan.

New phone system in Canton

BY KEN VOYLES

A new phone system for Canton's government offices is now operational, but township officials are still spending some time working out all of the system's bugs.

Supervisor Tom Yack said, "We're getting there," when asked about the new phone system, which will offer residents a chance to dial directly to a township department and avoid going through the main township switchboard.

Yack said the direct lines offer both more "reliability and dependability" than the previous system.

A list of new phone numbers will be released as a part of the township's first newsletter scheduled to be out sometime in July.

Landing sold

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

The venerable Plymouth Landing, the 10-year-old restaurant and watering hole where many mover-and-shaker deals have been cut, is being sold.

Sam Panzica, owner and founder of the restaurant, said he will complete the sale to Fred J. Pascaris, of Dearborn Heights, and Jim A. Plakas, of Garden City, within two months upon approval by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Pascaris, who said he was interested in the Landing "because I like this area," is scheduled to meet with the LCC today.

He owns Six Stars, a "family-style" restaurant at Fort Street and Eureka in Southgate. It does not serve alcohol.

Another player in the restaurant's sale is Angelo Plakas, a noted area attorney, and brother of the one new partner.

"This has been my life; I put my heart and soul into it," said Panzica, wiping back tears. "But I want to spend more time with my family."

The restaurant was noted when it opened in April, 1979 for its decor as well as for its veal recipes. "To design a restaurant in this building was difficult," Panzica said of the historic Markham Building -- a long-vacant air rifle manufacturing plant.

But it was the recipes that brought the crowds back.

"Most of the recipes are mine," Panzica said proudly, adding that he will pass them on to the new owners. They include Veal Angela and Veal Andrew -- named for Panzicas' two grandchildren.

The restaurateur said he plans to stay on for a brief time to assist Pascaris, who will commit himself full-time at The Landing and "try to maintain the level of business."

Crier deadlines

The Community Crier is currently preparing its annual pre-July 4th "Red, White and Blue" edition to hit the streets on June 28.

Deadlines for that special edition of The Crier will be slightly changed.

The deadline for all display advertising is 3 p.m. on Friday (June 23). Editorial materials must be received by 3 p.m. on Thursday (June 22).

Also, carrier collections will be held this Saturday (June 24).

The Crier office will be closed on Tuesday, July 4.

Work testing the extent of an underground oil spill in the City of Plymouth continues. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

DNR, Amoco work to assess spill damage

BY JOHN BRODERICK

The drilling that's been going on in Plymouth around Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail over the past few weeks is not an exploration for untapped oil reserves.

It is an effort by the Amoco Oil Corp. to assess the damage of an underground oil leak which has been causing problems for businesses around Doug's Amoco station for more than 10 years.

The current drilling is a measurement process, to determine the extent of the spill.

When Amoco completes the study, the company will present a proposal to the Department of Natural Resources, and to the owners of adjacent properties for approval.

Amoco officials presented a cleanup proposal recently that was rejected by both Ralph Lorenz, owner of the Mayflower Meeting House (which is next to the station), and the DNR.

"They made one proposal, which we rejected," said Lorenz. "It was not satisfactory, in that it did not go far enough (toward cleaning up the spill)."

"They are trying, though -- they've (Amoco) been cooperative -- it's very difficult to clean up an underground spill," he said.

Amoco spokesperson Walt Brown has said that the company is working with the DNR, and the property owners, to find an acceptable solution.

"We want to satisfy everyone -- the DNR, the property owners -- but this is not easy. We don't have an X-ray machine that can show us exactly where the problem is. And you can't recover the spillage until you know exactly where it is," he said.

"Of all the major oil companies I work with Amoco is by far the worst," said David Rymph, of the DNR's Northville office. "This problem has been going on for over 10 years. Amoco's response has been totally inadequate and uncooperative."

"Amoco has been working with us for 10 years, and we've only begun to make progress since January," Rymph said.

Rymph said that the Plymouth site is one of the oldest groundwater contamination sites in his district, which covers Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw, Monroe, and St. Clair Counties.

Evidence of both fuel oil and gasoline have been found in the basement of the Meeting House, according to Rymph, but he added that there was no danger of explosion.

"I've checked the basement of the Meeting House a number of times -- most recently on June 2 -- and I've found no evidence of explosive vapors," he said.

The fuel oil, used to heat the building, has leaked from an underground tank -- the source of the gasoline has not been precisely determined, Rymph said.

"I have had discussions with our enforcement people in the DNR, and I have spoken with the attorney general's office about the situation," Rymph said.

A soldier's story

The Community Crier's annual "Red, White and Blue," pre-July 4th edition is set to come out next Wednesday (June 28). This year it will feature the life stories of those soldiers from Plymouth-Canton who were killed during the Vietnam and Korean conflicts.

The Crier's coverage will focus on telling the stories of those seven Vietnam veterans and one Korean veteran, all of whom will be honored on July 4th during the dedication of a new monument in the City of Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

Other stories will paint an overall picture of the wars, and focus on the families of those men who were killed.

The Crier will also publish a complete rundown of the events planned to honor the soldiers, as well as the traditional July 4th activities, including this year's Jaycees parade.

Warning: beware of bogus solicitations

BY LAUREN SMITH

'Tis the season for bogus fundraising scams in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

In Canton, for example, residents have been targeted recently by a group posing as Canton firefighters soliciting money.

Dave Hamilton, president of the Canton Firefighters Local 2289, warns that "we are not and do not solicit funds over the phone."

If the firefighters were to ask for donations, Hamilton said, the group "would do it door to door and in uniform."

Hamilton said he has received about four inquiries in the past three weeks from concerned residents.

Dave Boljesic, vice president of the Canton Police Officers Association, said that the association has similar problems with fraud. The Canton Police Officers do not solicit over the phone because the fundraising groups which serve as representatives, get a very high percentage of the money donated to the department.

Boljesic said that he "recommends people be very cautious when contemplating giving to organizations like that." He said that some causes are worthy but you never know how much the group will actually receive of the money donated.

Carl Berry, Plymouth Township

Police Chief, had similar words of warning. There is a continual problem with bogus calls from groups supposedly representing the police department, he said.

Berry has some basic advice for residents who receive solicitous calls.

First ask where and who the money goes to and ask them to send information.

"Basically you want written documentation," said Berry.

He urges recipients to "call your local police department or fire department to verify the facts."

In general, Berry discourages giving money over the phone. "Basically I would say don't give money," said Berry. "Rarely does it come back to your local (police or fire department)."

Tyburnski murder trial gets underway

The trial of Leonard Tyburnski, the Canton man accused of killing his 37-year-old wife Dorothy Tyburnski and hiding her in a family freezer for more than three years, began in Detroit Recorder's Court Monday with a prolonged jury selection.

Tyburnski, 45, faces second-degree murder charges, after he allegedly beat his wife to death when she told him that she was having an affair with their oldest daughter's boyfriend.

The case is being heard in Judge

Richard Hathaway's court chambers. Tyburnski faces a life in prison sentence if convicted.

The Canton man's defense attorney, Carol Stanyar, has argued that her client acted in the heat of passion on that September, 1985 evening. Back in April of this year Stanyar attempted to get the charges against Tyburnski reduced to manslaughter but was unsuccessful.

Dorothy Tyburnski's battered body was discovered on Jan. 2 this year after the couple's daughter Kelly opened a family freezer located in the basement of their home. She had been reported missing in September of 1985 by Leonard Tyburnski.

Medical reports suggested that Dorothy Tyburnski had died from repeated blows to the head.

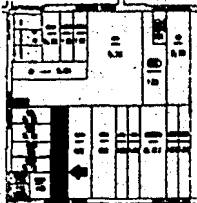

The case has drawn local and national (and even international) media attention. Some of the potential jurors were excused Monday because they had read news accounts of the slaying.

Oh dear?!

Before smashing the back door of National Bank of Detroit, the would-be robber stealthily entered the downtown area along Tonquish Creek.

Police began receiving calls about 8 p.m. that he was lurking in the city.

After he smashed into the bank — he was blocked by the inner doors — the suspect hoofed it down Main Street, turning off into the wooded area around The Meadows condominiums and eluded police.

"We'll get that big buck next time he's in town," said Sgt. Wayne Carroll, of the Plymouth Police.

He described the suspect as 300 pounds, brown complexion, pointy nose, with antlers.

A tobacco ban will cost

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Banning tobacco use at Canton and Salem highs is a worthy policy for the school district, but an expensive one to carry out, for now at least.

That seemed to be the consensus of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education during its Monday workshop.

The board had tabled a motion to ban tobacco at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) at last week's regular meeting. Board members raised a number of questions, to which administrators who proposed the policy responded Monday.

"Enforcement is the real issue here," said Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction. "The present situation illustrates the difficulty in enforcing a ban."

"While we would have to hire some additional personnel, we would also have to make clear to all staff that this (smoking) is 'our' problem, not 'their' problem," Homes said.

Support for the smoking ban came from the faculty senates of both high schools, the Committee Researching Educational Workings (CREW), and student governments, Homes said. But reaction of the general student body was mixed, he said.

"I'm concerned about the health aspect of smoking," said Jerry Ostoin, principal of Salem. "Look at what smoking does to people. We feel it's time — we need to stop this at the park. But we don't want to introduce a policy we can't enforce."

Officials said that to enforce the ban, an additional four security guards would have to be hired.

A recently enacted state law, known as the Youth Tobacco Act (Public Act 314 of 1988) prohibits people under 18 years of age from using tobacco products.

Smoking is currently permitted at CEP, but not indoors.

"If we can afford it, I think we should take steps to implement a ban in the 1990-91 school year — this will allow students time to adjust to the new rule," said Roland Thomas, board secretary.

"I don't see us today, for the fall, having the money to do it," he said.

"Nicotine is an addictive substance — you'll be asking addicts to go cold turkey for seven hours of the day," said Kemmie Schumacher, of Canton.

4th parade features Conn, new route

BY LAUREN SMITH

This year's Fourth of July parade will have a definite touch of star quality — Pamela Conn, Plymouth's very own Academy Award winner will serve as the parade grand marshal.

Chuck Lowe, a Plymouth Jaycees representative, said there will be "more floats than before." He also said that there has been "a lot of support from the community."

Groups are currently being sought to build floats and the Jaycees are asking that others get involved by decorating their bicycles and wearing the appropriate holiday attire.

Residents should also note certain changes for this year's parade:

Probably the biggest news is that the parade route has been reversed. It will begin at East Middle School and end at Central Middle School on a south to north route. The parade will begin at 1 p.m. on that Tuesday.

Strike up the band, or at least bring a radio along to the parade and tune into student radio station WSDP (FM-88.3) for festive parade music.

There is a clown contest scheduled this year and residents are encouraged to dress up and join the parade. Awards will be given for the best clowns.

The bike decorating contest has also been revived and the bikes will lead off the parade. Kids ages seven to 13 are eligible and they can pick up applications at Jerry's bicycles, the Plymouth's Pam Conn holds her Oscar in triumph last year.

Dunning-Hough Library, or at the Plymouth Parks and Recreation office.

One of the highlights again this year will be Fred Hill's Briefcase Drill Team.

Some surprises and "unique entries" are also planned, according to Lowe. A Pee Wee Herman look-alike will cruise the parade route this year.

Residents can expect a touch of the new along with the traditional aspects of the July 4th celebration in town this year.

Visit policy mullied

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Checking in with the building principal during visits, and following the proper channels while gathering information are among the standard operating procedures for members of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

It was those procedures which were discussed during a Monday workshop session of the board.

The issue was first raised by Roland Thomas after Barbara Graham visited a Canton High classroom and allegedly made derogatory comments about the atmosphere of the room.

"This was something we needed to get out on the table, and we did," Thomas said. "I'm not picking on Barbara Graham. I've found myself in situations where I've done foolish things in the past too — it was a learning experience for us all."

Graham said she has no intention of changing the way she handles classroom visits, saying that she always checks in with the principal's office first.

"It (the discussion at the workshop) was an exercise in futility," Graham said. "We've been doing everything exactly the way we said we should."

Wiltse's Pharmacy robbed

BY JOHN BRODERICK

Wiltse's Community Pharmacy on Main Street was robbed Saturday, of about 50 tablets of the drug Xanax, City of Plymouth Police said.

A woman of about 35 years of age, with shoulder length blond hair, entered the front door of the store just before 5 p.m., walked to the counter and said "give me your Percocet and your Xanax," police said.

The woman held both hands in the pockets of her blue jean jacket, and appeared to be concealing a large round object in her right pocket, police said.

According to the police report the woman said, "Don't push the alarm, don't call the police, and no one will get hurt."

Employees gave the woman a bottle of Xanax, which store owner Dale Kneb said contained "an insignificant amount of the drug."

Xanax is a muscle relaxant, police said.

Police said that the Livonia Police Department reported a similar incident the same day, but that there were no suspects yet.

New board president needed

David Artley took the school board seat by an overwhelming margin, and he deserved to -- he's committed, cares a lot about kids, and he puts in the hours that it takes to do the job.

But let's hope he's not chosen board president again.

Artley's ability to provide effective leadership (on a board where leadership is not abundant to begin with), is nearly non-existent.

Last Tuesday's post-election board meeting was a fine example.

A proposal to ban the use of tobacco products at CEP was on the floor. A citizen who had come to the meeting wishing to speak on the matter had just been instructed by Artley that he must fill out a card requesting to speak.

Saying that the motion was incomplete, and needed to be discussed further, Dean Swartzwelter, board vice-president, moved to table the motion.

Now a motion to table should come directly to a vote, under normal parliamentary procedure. Discussion continued apace anyway. Eventually, the motion was tabled, by a vote of 4-3.

A motion that is no longer on the floor cannot be discussed, under parliamentary procedure. Artley explained this to the citizen wishing to speak to the issue.

"I think that's rude," he said, and stomped out of the room.

Then there was an uncomfortable silence.

Members of the audience shook their heads and listened to the man's footsteps down the stairs, headed for the door.

You could almost see the temperature rise in the part of the room where Artley was sitting. Just hours before he was enjoying a big victory. Now he was in the hot seat, for failing to communicate with his board, and with a citizen, who probably voted "yes, yes."

E.J. McClendon to the rescue. "I move to suspend the rules to allow this man to speak!"

Unanimously, the board agreed. The citizen spoke his piece, and the board discussed the issue for about 15 minutes, under the rules suspension.

What could Artley have done to head off this embarrassing situation?

One local school millage activist reminds Plymouth-Canton Schools voters:

Don't throw away those I CARE signs, buttons and stickers. With future school elections already under discussion -- next June will have two school board seats up -- in retrospect from the huge voter turnout last Monday, the campaign never ends, he says. Some things never go away, it seems. The need for strong local schools is one of them. THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Swimming upstream

by John Broderick

He could have told the board, as a point of order, that if they voted to table, there would be no discussion, and the citizen's comments would not be heard. (They should know this anyway! Jeannette Wines said she did not know a movement to table meant there could be no discussion -- which brings up another issue entirely!)

Artley could have voted against the motion to table.

He could have asked Swartzwelter to withdraw his motion, for the purpose of discussion.

He could have asked the board, "Do I hear a motion to suspend the rules?" Quite simply, he could have taken charge.

This little event gives credence to the claim that the board is lacking in direction and leadership.

Will anyone rise up and take charge of this board?

McClendon won't take the presidency -- he's about to take over the top spot of the Plymouth Rotary.

Wines, Schwinn? No way.

Graham? No way!

That leaves Roland Thomas and Swartzwelter.

Thomas was the first to make a move on the Graham classroom visit episode, but it was cautiously late and fizzled out in the end.

Swartzwelter consistently spoke up on anything that seemed the least bit fishy. But if he chaired the meetings, he might not be able to continue the gadfly role he has played of late.

The school board needs leadership. It needs folks who will communicate better with citizens, who will not try to please everybody, who will keep a closer eye on the administration, who know parliamentary procedure, and who will TAKE CHARGE.

I like David Artley -- a lot. He returns my phone calls, and sometimes bends over backwards to make my job as a reporter easier.

But it may be time for the board to put his energy, commitment, and skills to work in another way -- in another office, or as a trustee.

Poet should go to China

EDITOR:

The poem, "A Young Man," printed in The Crier on June 7 and written by Jennifer Marie Banfield, prompted me to think about the author. Where does this hatred she has for her country come from? What would it take to change her mind?

A one way ticket on a slow boat to China might be the answer. She should continue her education on the streets of Beijing. She should walk and talk with the ghosts of the students that gave their lives in the Tiananmen Square for the kind of freedom she has always enjoyed. Yes, I think Miss Banfield should spend some time in China. The blindfolded fool she speaks of in her poem is not "The Young Man" for wanting to defend the Stars and Stripes. The fool is Miss Banfield for not understanding why he would want to do it. I'd wager that Jane Fonda is probably the only hero this poor girl has ever known.

I'm proud to be an American. I'm glad her "Young Man" is an American, too. Only in America could a girl like Miss Banfield write such a poem.

Only in America could a paper like The Crier print such a poem.

And only in America would most people respond, with me, by saying shame.

A half asphalt job

Road like a washboard

EDITOR:

Who do we thank for the mess they've made of North Territorial between Beck and Ridge Roads?

The eastbound lane is bad enough, but the westbound lane is horrendous. I do not appreciate having to rumble my car over that wash board every day.

Who in their right mind authorized such a half-asphalt job? They probably own one of those four-wheel drive vehicles that sits four feet up off the ground and can't feel the jolting.

If this is our "tax dollars at work," better they should be unemployed.

EDITOR:

In response to Alvis Alan's letter to The Crier, the 75 Follies performers are all professionals. We are all vested in our own careers and we all volunteered our time in the name of charity for the Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC).

Although we are all "pros," we know how to have fun and enjoy life. The Follies are a time of teamwork and we do not aspire to the star system.

It's too bad that one individual could not put aside his own ego and become a true part of this year's Follies.

Speech not brainwashing

EDITOR:

In response to Vern Miller's letter of complaint regarding Cholley Kuhaneck's Salem Commencement speech, (published June 14) I can only respond "That's the way the cookie crumbles."

I'm not too thrilled with Mr. Miller's letter.

I think it seemed to be the typical brainwashing by the (oops, you know who).

Who wrote the letter for him? Who taught him not to check for the correct spelling of a name on a program? Does it really matter?

Mr. Miller obviously was not pleased with Cholley's thoughts, but does that mean that it was a badly presented speech? If we were to define a speech that stinks as one that is not in direct accordance with our own personal beliefs, we would doom ourselves to small-mindedness and only appreciate the ones we wrote ourselves. Maybe Vern should compose one himself and invite 5,000 friends over to his house for chips and commencement exercises.

The theme of the speech, in my humble opinion, was not to deliver a practiced rhetoric. It was about acting on what you believe in. It was about taking pride in your school. It was about believing and having confidence in yourself enough to trust in your own values. The speech dealt with apathy and used our millage election as an example of where one can take a stand. It didn't say you were a rotten person if you didn't vote yes, it simply asked that you do vote for what you believe is right.

I was present when the speech was given. I saw Cholley write it herself and I saw her succeed through four years of high school for the right to give that speech.

Cholley is my sister, and believe me, she is not brainwashed. Yes, my family supported the millage proposals, and if Cholley's thoughts on apathy helped inadvertently to pass them then I'm very happy. Regardless, my sister's speech inspired thought and even a letter to the editor. In this light it succeeded. I do believe it was a good speech.

Notes from the blender

Okay, so who called for this? All of the cliches in the world could be used to describe what its been like around here in May and the first part of June.

It's raining...yeah, no kidding on that one.

Plymouth-Canton has seen its share of raindrops fallin' on our heads so far this spring and summer (today being the summer solstice).

Delight to some, and a nice change after last year's prolonged drought, the bane of all television weather forecasters and armchair meteorologists continues daily, as unstoppable as the drought.

At least it hasn't caused severe damage yet, although some farmers fear the worst.

No, I won't launch into a shower of cliches here, or nod a wet hello to all the punsters and jokesters of the world. I'll refrain, from talkin' about rain.

For now.

Administrators in Plymouth are currently working on a policy statement on household and toxic waste as a part of the effort to begin a recycling program.

Graper called it an "important" area in which to have a clear-cut policy position.

Plymouth's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has selected a firm to come up with some new design concepts for the downtown area. The firm will be taking street by street surveys and looking for input from residents, store owners and the DDA.

Plan on a plan in six months. It will then be presented to the city commission and when money becomes available some of the ideas could become reality.

"It's a very, very exciting project," said Mayor Karl Gansler, who added that it may mean a "whole new look" for the downtown.

Speaking of new looks, the Plymouth Rock monument honoring local veterans killed in past wars, is about to be moved.

Work is already underway to move the Rock, which sits at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Union, and position it closer to the Wilcox House for the upcoming vigil and dedication of a new monument to veterans killed in Korea and Vietnam.

A trench surrounds the Rock exposing the large base and hydraulic pumps are in place to help ease the short move.

As for other moves, it is only a matter of time before the historic Travis House in Canton is transported to the township's fledgling architectural park.

There has already been more than a month's delay.

Why the delay? Try too, too much rain (see above) and too, too soft ground.

There have been some problems with the new 9-1-1 system, especially in Canton. Apparently some of the cordless phones tend to automatically dial 9-1-1.

These "ghost" calls are troublesome, but with the new system police departments can investigate such calls and hopefully get to the heart of the matter.

One piece of advice is to keep a phone in its recharger when not in use. The phone should also be in the off mode if it's in a recharger.

I'll keep asking tough questions

Wendover: do newspapering and politics mix?

Life is full of choices -- some of them difficult.

You may have read that I took out petitions for the Plymouth City Commission race.

In the past few weeks I've grappled with the burning choice: file the petitions and run while risking the real and-or imagined conflicts Crier readers might harbor should I win and serve on the commission.

First, a little about motivation.

In the 20 years I've covered Plymouth City Hall and in the last nine as a city resident, I've seen a great deal about how Plymouth serves its residents, taxpayers, business employes and owners, and the thousands of visitors who come here each year.

While the city has grown into its role as a strong hub for the world around its two square miles and as a quality place to live and work, it seems too distant from its "little people" for my liking.

Thus my interest in running.

I wasn't doing it to fire City Manager Henry Graper (as I've heard in the rumor mill) or to eventually be mayor (as Commissioner Jack Kenyon asked me). I'm the type of board member who functions best from the seat on the end, asking questions that some folks would rather not hear asked.

That devil's advocate position has been used successfully by Arch Valier and Bud Martin in Plymouth; Frank Millington and Jim Irvine in Plymouth Township; Jim Poole and Brian Schwall in Canton; Gary Mirto on the Plymouth-Canton School Board.

However, as serious as I am about running, I can't forget a seminar I was teaching on a fellowship in Colorado. One of the publishers attending was also the judge in his community -- I gave him both barrels about separating the newspaper's role from his own politics.

The Crier staff had some major concerns about my running for City Hall. Not about how things work internally -- we give our staff free rein on the news and opinion pages and if I ran, I'd remove myself from City Hall coverage -- but about how things would be perceived.

If Crier readers (whether accurately or inaccurately) felt our news staff was holding back or forging ahead with city coverage based on my being there, the staff of the hardest working newspaper would lose credibility unfairly. (One friend suggested that those folks don't understand much now anyway and should be lumped into the "You can't please everybody..." group.)

Thus, as concerned as I am about the city, my candidacy must wait until I retire from active newspapering here.

Voters Disapprove Election Issues -- Removal of Manager Demanded

Electors Give Overwhelming "No" to All Proposals On Ballot in Special Election

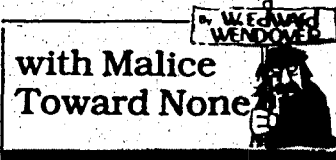

Plymouth electors voted down all proposals on the ballot in the special election held on Tuesday night. The proposals included a referendum on the city's fiscal year, a referendum on the city's debt, a referendum on the city's charter, and a referendum on the city's management. The voters rejected all of the proposals by a large margin.

Exactly 40 years ago this week, 31 City of Plymouth residents filed a petition seeking removal of City Manager Harold Check, as this Plymouth Mail front page relates. The City Commission declined to remove him, and, as a result, four commissioners were recalled.

Besides, I've probably been grumbled about enough at the round table in the Mayflower dining room that nobody'd vote for me -- another hazard of newspapering.

Since I'm not running, I can -- and will continue writing items like the following:

- OK Maurie Breen.
- OK Hank Graper.
- OK Chuck Skene.
- OK Jim Anulewicz.

When will we see a resolution on the additional soccer fields?

Kenyon helped in my decision not to run.

His graduate paper -- it shows he got an 'A' on it -- was written on the famous Plymouth City Commission recall. It was exactly 40 years ago this week that the old Plymouth Mail first broke the news that 31 residents filed petitions seeking the removal of Plymouth City Manager Harold Check.

That campaign grew into the recall of four commissioners and a new city manager was hired.

Even Kenyon pegged the problem of a "reporter-participant" in his paper's introduction: "The author would be the first to admit that his objectivity and strict neutrality leave something to be desired."

To all the many friends and to some surprise supporters of my city candidacy, I say, "Thanks for your encouraging words."

But The Community Crier's crackerjack staff and reputation will come first for now.

Thanks for Artrain help

EDITOR: On behalf of the Plymouth Community Arts Council, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many citizens and businesses which enabled us to bring the Artrain to the community earlier this month.

Local supporters include CSX Railroad, Ford Motor Company (Parts, Service and Sheldon Road Plant), Robert Bake Realty, Station 885, Mayflower Hotel, and Rodger Ygeal Performance Audio. We also appreciate the help and support of the City of Plymouth and the Old Village Merchants Association.

Many local artists and craftspeople gave many hours of their time to demonstrate at the Artrain site. ## Challenge Fest a success

EDITOR: On behalf of the Canton community I wish to extend our appreciation for your support of this year's Canton Challenge Fest.

The Community Crier demonstrated its commitment to the Canton community by extensively publicizing the many Challenge Fest activities and events. Your advertising insert and the placement of a Challenge Fest brochure in your newspaper was responsible, in part, for the Fest being an unqualified success.

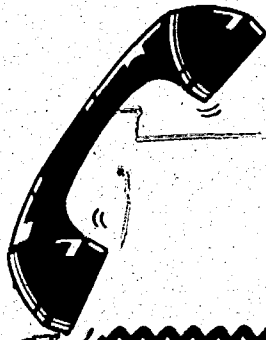

I had the opportunity to visit virtually all of the Challenge Fest events and found residents of all ages participating with great enthusiasm and excitement. The focus of the competitors reflected the very essence of the Challenge Fest.

This year's soccer tournament was heralded as the best ever, the fireworks were spectacular, hundreds of young children experienced the joy of catching a fish, scores of adults participated in health screenings, fourth and fifth grade boys and girls won track medals and hundreds of others participated in numerous other events. All this was due in large part to the role The Crier played in the fest.

Also, thanks for sponsoring the Photo Contest.

Busy summer ahead

P-C road projects planned

BY LAUREN SMITH

A large number of road and park projects are scheduled in The Plymouth-Canton Community this summer and some may create detours and traffic problems for residents.

Canton will be the hardest hit, according to Tom Casari.

Casari, Canton's engineer, said that both the locally funded and the county funded projects will improve the township's road pattern. He also said that there will be "quite a bit of paving that will definitely benefit the township."

Casari was unsure whether all of the scheduled projects will be completed this year. He said that some may be carried over to next year.

Casari listed some areas where there may be detours which include:

- Sheldon Road between Michigan and Palmer.

- Lotz Road between Michigan and Palmer.

- Some portions of Beck Road between Ann Arbor Road and Warren.

- Joy Road between Beck and McClumpha.

The only place where Casari foresees a possible traffic problem is around the Lotz Road detour. The detour will direct traffic to Hannan road where another detour will also be directed.

The Lotz Road and Sheldon Road projects will cost about $843,000 and costs will be shared by Canton and Wayne County.

The Wayne County projects in The Plymouth-Canton Community include:

Roads and structures:

- Beck Road, Five Mile to Six Mile, road reconstruction.

- Ridge Road, M-14 to Five Mile, road grade establishment.

- Joy Road, Beck to McClumpha, road grade establishment.

- Beck Road, Warren to Joy, road grade establishment.

- Warren Road, Beck to Canton Center, road reconstruction.

- Canton Center over the Green

Drain, culvert replacement.

- Canton Center over the Mott Drain, culvert replacement.

- Sheldon Road, Michigan Avenue north of the Rouge River, road grade establishment.

- Lilley at Joy, intersection widening.

- Warren, the township line to Hix, road grade establishment.

Parks:

- Middle Rouge Park bikeway.

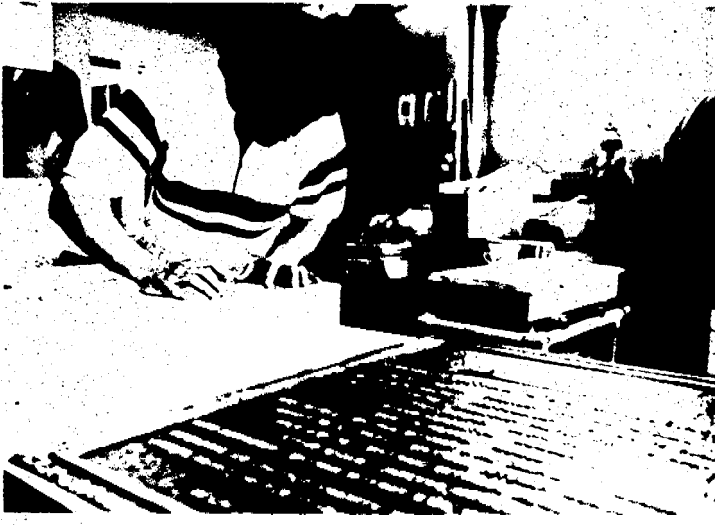

- North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Relief Interceptor sewer (segment II).

- North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Relief Interceptor sewer (segment I)

Casari said he does not expect any more problems for local drivers than usual despite the gamut of road repair projects.

Out of granite, hard work

Memorial is born

BY ROBIN LAKE

Simpson Granite in Detroit is working on a special project — creating the memorial to commemorate those Plymouth-Canton veterans who were killed during the Vietnam and Korean conflicts.

The project involves etching the stone, which is done through the use of a high vibrator tool, to bring out fine details on the memorial's eagle and dove design.

The lettering on the memorial involves carving, which utilizes a rubber stencil with an abrasive to mark the granite.

The project is the first Vietnam memorial the company has ever done. Simpson Granite is mainly responsible for producing about 1,000 grave markers a year.

"That's our bread and butter," said Dave Blake, a Plymouth resident and vice president of the company.

Construction of the memorial began last week and Blake expects the project to take at least 30 hours of intensive labor to complete.

The company is one of the few in the area equipped to perform the etching process in the shop, said Blake. Other companies have to send etching projects out to have it done.

"Having it done here is a lot better because the family can interface with the actual artist," said Blake. "This makes it look a lot better."

The monument, which is 10-feet long and six-feet high, will use all American dug granite, in accordance with the wishes of the veterans involved with the project, he said.

The base and wings will use a grey granite shipped in from Pennsylvania, while the rest will consist of a granite from Georgia which contains fools gold. That granite carries the trade name of Cherry Hill.

Blake said the company donated a portion of the cost to the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association (PVVA), which has been organizing the memorial for a July 4th dedication, and helped in the design of the monument.

"We tried to guide them with what was technically feasible," he said. "We wanted to help out because we live in Plymouth."

Dave Goldworthy, top, uses a rubber stencil on some of the granite being prepared for the July 4th dedication ceremony. Work on the granite memorial continues this

What about the soap?

Does anybody know where I can get a good laundry marker? I'll even go around with "mom" on my clothes if that's what it takes to keep something in my closet.

I made a huge mistake last week when I agreed to wash the kid's clothes with mine. I figured I could save money on the water bill by washing our things together. At the time it didn't seem like any big deal to throw a few extra things in the washer and dryer.

After all these years of being a mom, you would think I would know better. In the first place you never do something once that you don't plan to continue doing (it's amazing how quickly kids can forget how to use a washer and dryer).

It seems to me that three different size people, one being the opposite sex, could tell their clothes apart without a problem. I never thought about us all wearing the same sweat shirts, tee shirts and sport socks. It must have been a ghost who put my blouse and sweater in my daughter's room.

Debating over who gets which shirt is an easy problem -- I'm the mom and it's mine until you prove me wrong. Since I haven't installed a lock on my closet it really doesn't make a great deal of difference.

However, the kid who isn't smart enough to empty his pockets before throwing his clothes in the laundry has a real problem. A mom is not responsible for any notes or phone numbers left in pockets, and a mom has a license to break the neck of any kid dumb enough to leave a pen (any color) in a pocket.

I think the time has come to quit worrying about the water bill. I'll pay the bill and I'll even pay for the extra laundry soap. I will do my laundry and the kids can do their own.

Now that I've solved half of the problem, I wonder what kind of lock will fit on my closet.

Saying 'no' to drugs

"Stay off drugs and everyone wins," is the theme of Beyer Friendly Drugs Say No to drugs contest.

Entry blanks are available at the store, located at 1100 Ann Arbor Rd. between Main Street and Sheldon Road.

Participants can either color a Say No to drugs poster or write and color a slogan urging kids to keep off drugs. All entries will be posted in the store and a drawing will be held July 4 to determine the winner in each of the three different age groups.

Winners in the 4-6 year old division will receive a stuffed puppy; winners in the 7-10 year old division will receive a complete collection of 792 baseball cards; and winners in the 13 years and up division will receive a Timex watch.

All participants will receive a small American flag.

"I honestly believe the line needs to be drawn," he said. "We cannot have officers violating the law."

Santomauro added that he feels strongly about the drug testing of police officers, but only when there is a "suspicion" of controlled substance use.

He added, though, that "random" drug testing for police officers is "unfair."

Santomauro also said that bringing in the Michigan State Police to investigate the matter was standard practice.

"With an incident like this we're not going to just do our own internal investigation," he said.

Bittell said the State Police investigation had reached a "logical conclusion," but added that it would remain open pending new information.

"No matter what kind of strict controls and security you have, this type of thing always has the possibility of happening," Bittell said. "This re-emphasizes the dangers of working in narcotics."

Community Deaths

DiVeto, business owner

Hilliard Roy DiVeto, 69, of Plymouth, died June 10 in Ann Arbor. Services were held June 13 at the Schrader Funeral Home with the Rev. Fr. Robert S. Shank, Jr. officiating.

Mr. DiVeto was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church of Plymouth. He was the owner of a successful radio and appliance business in Brantford, Ontario after he served in the army during World War II.

Mr. DiVeto moved to California in 1951 where he joined Standard Coil Products as an engineer. There he became part of a three man team which invented and developed the UHF television tuner (channel selector) which is still in use today.

Mr. DiVeto joined the Burroughs Corporation in Pasadena and was transferred to Plymouth in 1958. He was with the Burroughs Corporation for 30 years and was the author of many patents. He was also the co-owner of DiVeto Electronics with his son Rick until it was sold in 1983.

Survivors include: sons Rick, of Plymouth, Paul, of Windsor, Canada, Bryan, of Novi; daughter Lecann Banas, of Livonia; sisters Dorothy Ferguson, of Brantford, Ontario, Joyce Myhal, of Brantford, Ontario; brothers Bert, of Stayner, Ontario, Donald, of Brantford, Ontario, Norman, of Brantford, Ontario; and seven grandchildren.

Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

Memorial contributions may be given to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Fillmore, a homemaker

Mary M. Fillmore, 93, of Plymouth, died June 14 in Ann Arbor. Services were held June 17 at the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. John N. Grenfell and the Rev. Frederick C. Vosburg officiating.

Mrs. Fillmore was a homemaker. She was born in Plymouth. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. She was also a member of the Plymouth Historical Society and a long time member of the Plymouth Grange.

Survivors include: daughter in law Nellie Fillmore, of Plymouth; grandchildren Gary Fillmore, of South Bend, IN, and Richard Fillmore, of Plymouth; and three great grandchildren.

Local arrangements by Schrader Funeral Home.

Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth (Carillion or Building Fund) or the Plymouth Historical Society.

Torrie, U of D employe

Angus M. Torrie, 91, of Livonia, died May 30. Services were held June 2 at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church with the Fr. Richard Peretto officiating.

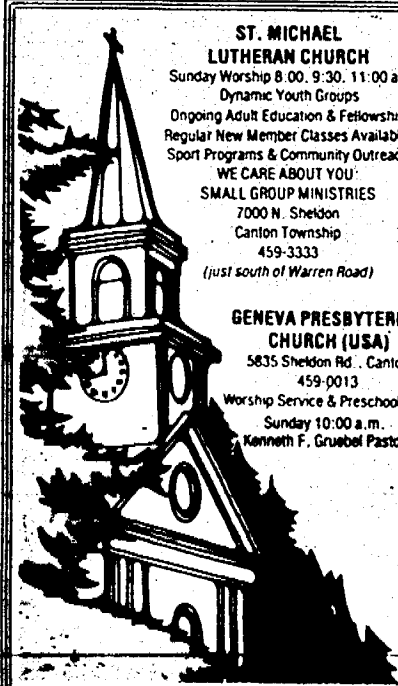

Mr. Torrie, originally from Canada, had retired as a stationary engineer at the University of Detroit after 30 years of service. He served in World War I in the Canadian armed forces in France and Germany.

Survivors include: wife Mary; daughter Sharon Rucinski, of Plymouth; brother Duncan, of New Hamburg, Ontario; sister Isabel Neil, of Georgetown, Ontario; grandson Kevin, and granddaughter Anne.

Memorial contributions may be made to Our Lady of Providence School, 16115 N. Beck Rd., Northville, MI 48167.

Interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by the Schrader Funeral Home.

Back to the 50s

Travel back to the good ole days for a night of 1950s style entertainment.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce presents a "Back to the 50s" dinner dance on Friday (June 23) from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Popular oldies band Steve King and the Dittilies will perform favorite tunes from the 50s, 60s, and 70s. A dance and best costume contest are planned.

The dinner dance is a fundraiser to reduce the debt of construction for the chamber's new office on Main Street.

The cost is $30 per person -- stag or drag -- which includes dinner and entertainment. For those who just want to dance and, tickets are available at the door after 9 p.m. at a cost of $10

N'ville fest

"Summersong," the City of Northville's summer celebration festival, is set for this weekend (Friday and Saturday, June 23-24) and features music, shopping, dancing, as well as arts and crafts.

The event will be held in the Main Street Park. There will be 80 arts and crafts booths and various bands including the big band sound of Joe Vitale.

Free shuttle service will be available from Northville Downs parking lot.

1st annual Old Village Arts Fest

Plymouth's Old Village is getting ready to celebrate the arts -- and to enjoy some of the Detroit area's best entertainment.

The first Old Village Arts Festival hits town this weekend, and will feature more than 100 artists, crafters, and antiquers, displaying and selling their wares.

Entertainment will include musicians, dancers and jugglers -- from noon until 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Entertainment begins at noon Saturday, with Kracut and Stonick, a juggling act, and continues with jazz acts Heather Davis (1, 3, 5 p.m.), and Redford Steve and the Detroit Special (2 and 4 p.m.).

On Sunday, traditional folk music on hammer dulcimer, glockenspiel, and recorder will be performed by the Felicity Strings at noon. At 1 p.m., the Centennial Polish dancers bring a bit of eastern Europe to the Old Village, and at 2 p.m., the unique sounds of Hamtramck's Volebeats should get the crowd's feet into high gear. Robert Davis, of WDET radio will perform folks and blues on guitar at 4 p.m., and Heather Davis will perform once again at 3 and 5 p.m.

The Arts Fest is a switch from past summer events in the Old Village, and organizers are hoping it will be a great success.

Arts and crafts booths will line Division, Spring, and Liberty streets, between Starkweather and Mill. The stage will be set up at Division at Mill, and youngsters get saddle up for pony rides on Mill between Liberty and Spring.

For more information about the festival, call the Old Village Association at 455-7011.

Strike up the band

Summer brings outdoor concerts and just in time for the warm weather is the Plymouth Community Band.

The band will begin its Concerts in the Park series on Thursday (June 22) at 8 p.m. in Kellgg Park. This year marks the 29th year the band has entertained in downtown Plymouth.

The sounds of marches, show tunes, and light classics will recall an earlier generation when bands played all over America every summer.

Lawn chairs and blankets are the only admission requirement, and children will find plenty of room to listen and dance to the music.

Under the direction of Carl Battishill, the Plymouth Community Band will begin its summer season with a concert entitled "Strike Up the Band."

Musicians who would like to join the band for the summer should call Battishill at 453-5334.

Star search

"Star Search," the nationally syndicated television show that looks for talent and is hosted by Ed McMahon, will be auditioning local performers.

Junior, teen, and adult dancer groups may be eligible to audition.

For audition information call Joanne Zavis at 455-4330.

Sports

Runners, above, sprint out at the beginning of the five-kilometer race during Sunday's 10th annual Plymouth YMCA run. Left, Terry Elsey, of Farmington Hills, took first place in the 10-kilometer race, also held Sunday. (Crier photos by Robert Richards)

10th YMCA run a success

Runners finish with flying colors

The Plymouth Family YMCA's 10th Annual Run drew more than 900 runners to the streets of downtown Plymouth on Sunday.

The top three male finishers in the five kilometer race were James Bumbel, of Woodhaven, and John Springer, of Redford, who tied for first place; and Gilles Teste, of Canton, who came in second.

The top three female finishers in the five kilometer race were Donna Swanson, of Northville, in first place; Robin Zdanowski, of South Lyon, with a second place finish; and Marian Shears, of Okemos, who took the third slot.

In the 10-kilometer race, the top three male finishers were Terry Elsey, of Farmington Hills, John J. Murphy, of Waterford, and Joe Lasher, of Marysville.

The top three female finishers in that race were Janet Novalle, of Mt. Clemens, in first; Gabrielle Crandall, of Plymouth, second; and Jane MacDonald, of Detroit, third.

Roller regionals at Skatin' Station

Some 3,000 roller skaters and fans will visit The Plymouth-Canton Community for the five-state Regional Championships on June 26 through July 7.

Skatin' Station, at 8611 Ronda (near Joy Road) in Canton, will host the event for the second time since 1986.

About 700 artistic skaters and their families are expected on June 26 through July 2, while some 600 speed skaters and families will compete in the championships July 4 through 7. The skaters will come from all over Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Ohio.

Most of the group will be headquartered at the Plymouth Hilton. Winners advance to national competition.

Second thoughts

By Janet Armstrong

So often in the world of athletics you hear about illiteracy and illegal recruiting techniques, but the Plymouth-Canton schools district has a great reputation for academics and athletics.

Each year numerous athletes from both Salem and Canton earn scholarships for their sports. This year is no exception.

Canton's baseball coach Fred Crissey said that he likes his athletes to play for college coaches who not only have a strong baseball program, but who know a good education is the most important goal of all.

One of the toughest decisions a senior faces in their last few months of school is where to attend college at,

and whether or not to continue their athletic careers.

Many Salem and Canton athletes are combining education and athletics, and earning scholarships to college.

Brian Paupore, Mike Sulak, Mike Culver, Jill Estey, Terri King, Michelle Fortier, Amanda Bell, Candi Jones, Jeff Kugelman, are just a few of the Plymouth-Canton athletes who are going on to a collegiate athletic career.

And don't forget Catholic Central's standout football and wrestling star, Lee Krueger, who is also from The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Education may be the most important aspect of any high school career, but when athletes use sports as a means to continue that education the rewards can be even greater.

Runners take your mark for Canton run

Local runners get on your marks for the 11th Annual Canton Five Mile Run set for June 24.

Runners will be divided into six age groups for both men and women with plaques and medals awarded to the top three in each age group. Five Mile Run t-shirts will be awarded to the first 150 participants and all runners will be eligible for a grand prize weekend trip for two to Toronto.

The race starts at 9 a.m. at Proctor Road next to the Canton Administration Building. Check in and late registration will be at 8 a.m.

Register in person or by mail at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd., Canton, 48188.

The cost is $6 before June 22 and $7

after June 22.

Special awards will be presented also, including a weekend trip for two to Toronto.

For further information on the race call Bob Dates at the department of parks and recreation (397-5110).

All young kickers

Summer soccer camp

The City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a soccer camp for boys and girls ages five to 14 years old.

The camp will be held July 17-21 at the Hines Park soccer field. Ages five to 10 will meet from 9-10:30; 11-14 will meet from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The cost of $40 includes a t-shirt and a camp patch.

Registration will take place through July 14 at the Plymouth Parks and Recreation office

Scholarship winners

Curiosities

JULIE - does yesterday's trip mean that it's now official? (I never thought of you as a Boiler maker!!)

Judy & Gary Burns love to celebrate their birthdays. Especially at Bennigan's! (In June?)

Janet - about that one scene....

GEMINI: (May 21-June 20) You are not always unlucky. Blame the weather on the full moon. Stand fast with your diet, it is starting to show but you should give up bad habits.

CANCER: (June 21-July 22) Full moon effects your life both healthwise & financially. Look for good things to happen. Remember you can always learn by listening. Do something nice for someone near.

Penniman Dell does not have a chance! Unless they bring in ringers.

The Ad Dept. girls are the best dressers in the state of Michigan! Most of the time.

Who is that ringing the Crystal Ball? I'm even hearing it in my sleep.

Janet & Julie, thanks for the Father's Day gifts. Love you, Dad.

How many days vacation do I have left?

"OH, PIFFLE" - Kris Rautio, 1989.

CONGRATULATIONS JENNIFER on your new digs - pool, art room and all. Nice picnic.

"...BUT DON'T CALL ME late for lunch." That used to be the line, but Michelle Wilson has a new slant: "THE ADVANTAGE of being late for lunch is that you can see what everybody else has and what looks good."

DALE: Happy anniversary of NOT dying! - Ed

I'm Happy - It's like changing from Herb Tarick to Andy Travis. D.M.

But I love you all - I want to be an Airborne Ranger - what am I doing? I'm being all I can be!

ED, Happy Over The Hill plus One!

Berny and Ed celebrate Ed's birthday in Washington, D.C.

CLINT STROEBEL does the 2 step at Lucille's!

MARY B. we missed you at the Foiles reunion. Dave and Hoity.

CONGRATULATIONS JACK AND KRISTEN TRABUE ON THE BIRTH OF YOUR TWINS, KELSEY AND JACKLYN!

Everybody knows that ED will be "41" on Sunday. Right!

Does Ed wear his Red, White & Blue tie on his birthday? I guess we'll find out Sunday!

Curiosities

How is our Chi-town girl doing? I really miss bugging her, even though she didn't know what I was talking about. Is there anything left in the stores or have you bought it all?

Mike is taking over Route No. 190. Welcome aboard and good luck! Verna

Four months of bliss with Tiny Winy. Now that's a great start! G. Master.

Same shirts, different week.

Tiny Winy is a cleaning tomadol! Groove Master.

Welcome back, Margaret!

Kathe, Kathe - where are you?

Welcome back, Shawn!

Lunch conversation sure gets interesting down in COMMA sometimes.

Have you ever noticed how weird some curios are?

Some curios make me think I'm gonna lose my lunch.

Sparty - where have all of your curios been recently?

D.B. let's get together soon, OK?

TAURUS: (April 20-May 20) You will find that most men are not chauvinists. Today be nice to a close friend who is suffering the effects of a full moon. You are entering a very healthy time period.

"TO WRITE THE TRUTH as I see it; to defend the weak against the strong; to fight for justice; and to seek, as best I can, to bring healing perspectives to bear on the terrible hates and fears of mankind, in the hope of some day bringing about one world, in which men will enjoy the differences of the human garden instead of killing each other over them." -L.F. Stone, 1807-1888

"SNAKES IN THE POND? Heck there's snakes in every bar I go into." - Anonymous, 1988
