

Canton confusion

Board vs. board?

BY KEN VOYLES

Recent approval by the Canton Board of Trustees of a temporary sales trailer at the new Lilley Pointe condominiums project is causing some friction among Canton Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) members.

It may also spark legal action.

Catherine Prince, chairperson of the township's ZBA, said Monday that the group had sought an outside attorney's advice on who has the ultimate responsibility for approving the temporary structure.

"I can't say anything more right now," she said.

Trustee appointment on horizon

Six vie for Canton Board seat

BY KEN VOYLES

Six Canton residents threw their hats into the ring Monday for the open trustee position on the Canton Board of Trustees.

All six of the residents submitted a letter of interest to the Canton Clerk's office by the 5 p.m. deadline Monday.

The six are: Gregory Demopoulos, Philip LaJoy, Maryanne Nasiatka, Edwin Rasmussen, Jr., Ralph Shufeldt, and Edward Zelmanski, Jr.

The current Canton Board of Trustees will conduct a special meeting on Thursday (Oct. 26) at 7 p.m. when it is expected that they will appoint a replacement trustee to fill the seat left vacant after the death of Henry Whalen.

There are more than three years left in the term.

Demopoulos, a current member of the Canton Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), received a degree from Wayne State University a Juris Doctor from the University of Detroit School of Law.

He has worked as an environmental attorney at a Detroit law firm and is currently associated with the law firm of Franklin, Bigler, Berry and Johnston in Troy.

In his letter of interest, Demopoulos wrote, "Service to the community is an area of great pride for me. It would even be more rewarding to me if I were appointed to the Canton Township

Board of Trustees.

"I am certain that I will fulfill any such appointment with great pride, diligence and service to the community."

LaJoy, a longtime booster of the Canton Soccer Club and organizer of the annual Memorial Day Soccer Tournament, is currently a member of the Canton Merit Commission.

"I would like to include my name as a candidate for the current vacancy on the township board," he wrote in his letter to the board.

Nasiatka, a current member of the Canton Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), is a senior analyst with Ameritech Applied Technologies in Southfield. She has a BA from the University of Notre Dame.

Her other community involvement includes the presidency of the Canton Republican Club.

In her letter to the board Nasiatka wrote, "I believe my job experience, my background on the Zoning Board of Appeals, as well as the other community and professional activities I have been involved in, make me well suited for this position."

She adds: "Some of you may be curious why I did not run for this position in the last election. Please be assured that my interest is not an afterthought."

Rasmussen, a Democratic candidate for a trustee spot last year, currently sits on the Canton Challenge Festival.

He is a member of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and has served on the Canton Recreation Advisory Committee. He is also a member of the Canton Jaycees.

In his letter Rasmussen wrote, "After I lost in the 1988 election, I did not disappear from my commitment to Canton, as so many who run for office do."

School board avoids support for proposals

BY PATRICIA BROWN
Members of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education voted 4-0 to "not recommend" either Proposal A or Proposal B to the residents of the district.

Three members of the board abstained during the vote.

The two proposals, which will be on the Nov. 7 election ballot, call for further funding for state schools through an increase in sales tax.

Board member Roland Thomas read the only resolution that initially opposed support for both proposals, but was later changed to read "not recommend either proposal."

Thomas said, "There are some features of proposal B that I like very much." He went on to explain that neither proposal included enough to benefit the school district.

The three members that abstained from voting, Marilyn Schwinn, David Artley and Dean Swartzwelder, each had their own reasons for doing so.

Schwinn attributed her reason for abstaining to the lack of legislation to support either proposal.

She said, "I'm not in favor of supporting something that isn't in black and white." She went on to explain that she isn't comfortable with not supporting either proposal because of what the proposals offer to children in other school districts.

Artley abstained from voting because he felt that both proposals weren't clear enough and were "dodging the bullet."

Although Swartzwelder abstained from voting, he made it clear to the other board members that the board should take a position on the two proposals for the sake of the community.

After the votes were counted Swartzwelder announced, "We'll all wait for the results on Nov. 7."

Other business included in Monday night's meeting was a recommendation from Plymouth-Canton citizen Mary Williams that the board consider hiring a full-time librarian at Farrand Elementary School.

Williams based her recommendation on the district's enrollment guidelines that state 500 students are necessary for a school to receive a full-time librarian. Farrand presently has 505 students.

The board decided to re-evaluate the situation at Farrand.

"ENERGETIC AND DETERMINED LEADERSHIP WITH HIS ♥ IN THE COMMUNITY"

Agreement reached on sign dispute

BY TODD LANGTON

It looks as though the dispute between the City of Plymouth and two of the candidates running for City Commission seats on Nov. 7 has been resolved.

Under an agreement reached earlier this week, Jerry Vorva and John Vos III will drop the lawsuit the two initiated to prevent the removal of political signs from disputed areas in the city. The city will then review the disputed sign ordinance after the upcoming election, said Ron Lowe, attorney for the city.

"I think changes (in the ordinance) would definitely be made," said Lowe.

The dispute centered on allegedly unclear language in the city's sign ordinance.

The situation came to a head last week when Vorva and Vos III filed suit against the city and obtained a restraining order to prevent city employees from removing political signs from the area between sidewalks and streets.

Lowe and the attorneys of the two candidates worked out an agreement earlier this week.

"It looks as though we've reached a compromise. The end result of which will be the dismissing of the law suit," Vos III said.

"There was acknowledgment that the ordinance was rough around the edges on some points," said Lowe.

The city's sign ordinance states that it is unlawful to place signs on a public right-of-way.

Vorva and Vos III contended that the area between a sidewalk and a street is a dedicated public easement and therefore is not covered under the ordinance.

Lowe argued that, because the area between the sidewalk and the street is usually dedicated to the city, the area becomes a public right-of-way.

"Basically I think the parties are in agreement that the right-of-way does include the sidewalk and the piece of ground between the sidewalk and the curb," Lowe said.

Lowe said that after the election he will ask the commission to consider revising the ordinance.

"One of the changes that we are going to be seriously looking at is defining some of the words in the sign ordinance," he said.

Until the election takes place, Lowe said, the status quo will be maintained.

"We are not going to, basically, enforce the political sign ordinance for the period up to the election."

Acting City Manager William Graham said that this is an issue that should be taken care of at the administrative level and not in the courts.

"Unfortunately there were some hasty decisions made on the part of some of the department personnel which caused all the furor," he said.

In other election news, the city clerk's office has received an unusually high number of absentee ballot requests for the Nov. 7 vote, said Linda Langmesser, deputy clerk for Plymouth.

As of Tuesday she had received 700 applications for absentee ballots, which is "more than normal for a city election," she said.

Usually the city receives about 300 requests for the ballots, she added.

The number of requests received to this point is more representative of a presidential election than a city election, Langmesser said.

Although she can't be sure, some of the reasons for the high turnout may be

Youth charged in accident

BY TODD LANGTON

Mark Allen Vernier, 17, of Milford was arraigned last Wednesday in 35th District Court in connection with the traffic death of Canton resident Robert Nick Valicento on Friday, Oct. 13.

Vernier plead not guilty to a charge of negligent homicide and was released on $5,000 personal bond, according to police.

Vernier could serve up to two years in prison if convicted of the charges.

A preliminary exam before Judge John MacDonald is scheduled for Nov. 19 at 9 a.m.

Vernier's attorney requested a waiver of a rule which states that a preliminary exam must be held within 12 days of an arraignment on the grounds that it would take longer than 12 days to prepare a proper defense, police said.

The complaint filed by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office said that one vehicle failed to yield to another, said Erik Mayernik, of the Plymouth Township Police Department.

The accident occurred at the intersection of North Territorial and Ridge roads in Plymouth Township at 4:10 p.m., according to police reports.

Valicento died at the scene after his vehicle was struck and then flipped over, landing upside down in a ditch, said the police report.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Township police, who two weeks ago said there had not been any accidents at that intersection, told The Crier Thursday that there have indeed been 12 at the site.

Canton officers hurt

Two Canton police officers, including one involved in a recent shooting incident, were injured early Monday morning following a routine traffic stop.

Officers Dave Boljesic and Bruce Sutzer were both treated for minor abrasions and cuts at Oakwood Canton Center after a 28-year Westland resident "went berserk" while resisting arrest.

Police reports said that Boljesic was making a routine traffic stop — following a short chase Monday — when the assault began. The suspect apparently attempted to kick and headbutt the officers, said police, while being handcuffed.

Enroute to the police station the suspect continued to put up a struggle, said police, kicking the back door of the patrol vehicle and butting his head against a plexiglass window.

Boljesic suffered cuts and bruises during the incident.

Canton woman killed on Ford

A 19-year-old Canton woman was killed last Tuesday (Oct. 17) after she lost control of her vehicle and it collided with two other vehicles, said Westland Police.

Sabrina Brock, 19, was pronounced dead on arrival at Westland Medical Center, said police, following the early morning accident (at 7:30 a.m.) on Ford Road near Crown.

Police said Brock lost control of her vehicle while traveling eastbound on Ford, crossed the center line of the road and was struck first head-on by a van and then by a truck.

Westland police, who are still investigating the accident, called it an "unfortunate" tragedy. Police said they did not know yet whether alcohol was involved.

Fire station soil may be contaminated

BY KEN VOYLES

Public safety officials hope to find out whether the soil underneath Canton Fire Station No. 1 is contaminated when work begins to remove gasoline fuel storage tanks.

Art Winkel, of the Canton Fire Department, said it wasn't clear whether there had been any contamination of the soil by the 18-year-old tanks.

"We'll have to wait until we get in the soil," Winkel said. "But we aren't missing much product." He said "product" checks are routine at the station to make sure the tanks are functioning properly.

"We just don't know the extent of it," he added. "There is potential for contamination, but I don't think there's that much."

Bids are currently being taken for the work to remove the tanks.

"I don't think we can know the extent of the contamination until we dig in," said Supervisor Tom Yack.

The problem apparently surfaced after a leak appeared in one of the station's gas pumps, said John Santomauro, director of Canton's Public Safety Department.

"By the way, I changed your reservations."

Fundraiser will benefit Ticker Club in Detroit

BY ANDREA WATTS

One dollar is all it takes to help save the life of a child.

Jack and Kristin Trabue, owners of The Porterhouse Meats in the City of Plymouth, are sponsoring a fund raising event for the Ticker Club at Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

The Ticker Club is a "non-profit fund raising organization where funds go toward anything the Cardiac Unit needs," explained Kristin. She also said that the Ticker Club is a parent support group which helps parents who are new to the experience of dealing with a child's heart problems.

The local couple became involved with the organization when their daughter Lindsay, who is now two years old, had open-heart surgery at five months of age.

Jack said that his daughter's operation "was very successful." He also added that the Ticker Club is "a great thing" and Children's Hospital is "fantastic."

The couple are planning a raffle drawing to be held on Dec. 1 at The Porterhouse with the winning prize to be a hind quarter of beef with an average weight of 165 pounds.

Last year the Trabues raised $700 for the club after having a chili cook-off.

"I think this year will be a lot better," the Trabues said.

Tickets are $1 and available at The Porterhouse Meats - 1058 S. Main St. in Plymouth.

Plymouth Chamber dinner

The Plymouth Chamber's 36th annual dinner on Nov. 13 at the Mayflower Meeting House has a full agenda planned.

The entertainment portion of the evening features comedian Jeff Hobson, a regular performer at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia. Hobson has also appeared in Los Angeles and Las Vegas.

Also to be introduced at the dinner, are the chamber's new slate of officers and directors for 1990 and a thanks ceremony for retiring directors.

The evening begins for sponsors of the program at 6 p.m. with a special reception.

The regular program begins at 7 p.m. with check-in and cocktails at the Mayflower Meeting House. The cost is $25 per person.

For reservations and information, call the Plymouth Chamber at 453-1540.

the two ballot proposals on educational funding, the hard campaigning that some of the candidates have done, or the fact that many people may be on vacation at this time of the year, Langmesser said.

Langmesser said she is hoping for a total voter turnout of 25 per cent for the November election.

Historic work continues

Canton officials are moving ahead with historic work in the township at both the recently moved Travis House and the Sheldon School.

This follows the recently completed renovation of Cherry Hill School, which will now be used as a community center.

Last week the township began the search for help in restoring the historic sites.

The Travis building is located on Ridge Road north of Cherry Hill Road near the Cherry Hill Historic District.

Sheldon School is located at 44649 Michigan Ave.

The township is seeking bids for "architectural services" in the full rehabilitation of the buildings and the sites where they are located.

Final bid specifications are being taken through the township's Community Development Department and are due by 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 15.

The township is also requesting separate bids for the re-roofing of the Travis House.

State extends deadline in Plymouth Hills case

BY KEN VOYLES

The Michigan Mobile Home Commission has granted Joe Ruggirello a 22-day extension to put together new rules at Plymouth Hills Mobile Home Court.

Ruggirello, owner of the Plymouth Township "manufactured home community," was to have proposed new rules by Friday (Oct. 20) or face possible enforcement action by the commission.

Steve Zamara, director of the Mobile Home and Land Resources Division of the Michigan Department of Commerce, said his office received a letter last week from Ruggirello's law firm requesting an extension of the deadline.

"They asked to review the rules before they were sent to us," Zamara said. "But it's a small law firm and Mr. Ruggirello's attorney is out of town and won't be back until the end of this month."

"So we've granted that extension," he added.

Ruggirello will now have until Nov. 15 to present the commission with new rules.

Residents at the court have filed more than 20 complaints with the commission over the rules since early this summer. They have said that the current rules requiring that a manufactured home have a peaked, shingled roof and lapped siding before it can be sold, are unfair.

Residents said to make such changes it would cost them as much as $7,000. They said the rules are keeping them from selling their homes for full value.

Ruggirello said Tuesday that he had not yet "formulated" the criteria for the new rules, but added that he wanted to get the dispute "resolved" and that he is prepared to compromise to make that happen.

"I think that they're going to be

City ZBA to meet

The City of Plymouth's Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a meeting a Thursday, Nov. 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the commission chambers of City Hall to discuss a variance request for a parcel of property at the Northwest corner of Harvey and Ann Arbor Trail.

The board will consider a request by Selective Development Group, out of Farmington Hills, to grant a height variance for a proposed office building at the site.

good to work with," he said of the commission.

Ruggirello, who added that he is willing to adapt the rules, maintains that he is only trying to keep the court aesthetically pleasing for residents and the rest of the community.

Trustee

Earlier in the letter he wrote, "I personally feel that since the board is dominated by Republicans and that I am a Democrat, my single vote on any issue will not affect the outcome should the board be voting on a partisan issue."

Shufeldt, who ran for a trustee spot last year on the Republican slate, is a Canton businessman dealing in insurance and securities sales. A former veteran of the U.S. Air Force, he has lived in Canton since 1976. He is also on the Nankin Transit Authority, the Canton DDA and the board for the new Canton Place seniors resident.

In his letter to the board Shufeldt wrote, "...I wish to reaffirm my desires to be a trustee by saying that I am now ready, willing and able to serve and wish to be given every consideration for that position."

Earlier in the letter he wrote, "...lastly I feel that a high priority should be given in considering those individuals who have clearly demonstrated a desire for the trustee position by participating in the electoral process."

Zelmanski has been a Canton resident for nine years. He is currently a managing attorney of the Livonia office of the UAW-GM Legal Services. He has a Juris Doctor from the University of Detroit School of Law and a BA from the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

In his letter to the board, Zelmanski wrote, "My experience with real estate law and other areas of the law will help me make a valuable contribution to the effort to maintain and enhance the quality of life in our community."

He added, "I would be grateful if I were able to be considered for appointment to other positions as the need arises."

Canton Clerk Loren Bennett said the board will discuss the trustee selection Thursday. He said he expects the board to make a decision during the meeting.

Trustee selection:

Make it a rational process

The search for a new trustee to sit on the Canton Board of Trustees is most likely going to be concluded this week at the board's special meeting on Thursday.

It is a search fraught with potential difficulties, but one that could also be rewarding, not only for the board but for the entire community.

That's why the search process should be clearly defined and the qualifications of a new trustee laid out under some simple guidelines.

When the trustees meet tomorrow (Oct. 26) they will have a full slate of potential candidates to consider. It may be a time consuming effort to give them all a fair look, but it is going to be necessary so that community residents don't turn around later and accuse the board of rushing into a selection.

With more than three years left in the term, the selection this week will have a major impact on the future of local Canton politics. Some residents, no doubt, would like to have a chance to vote on a new trustee during a special election. Others will have no problem in letting the board make the choice.

And that's a key - if the community doesn't mind allowing the current elected officials to select a new trustee the board should recognize the community's trust and not betray it with a decision based more on personal like than one based on qualifications.

There are many good candidates in Canton, surely enough to find someone who can sit on the board and contribute to its efforts at maintaining stability in the government and improving the board's image.

It seems clear that the final choice should have nothing to do with personal preference or party politics. It should be a completely rational and scientific effort to find a person with the best qualifications.

It should also be a totally open and honest effort, with no "deals" cut behind the scenes.

Canton Treasurer Gerald Brown made a valid point at a recent board meeting.

He said selecting someone (for the community) to sit on the board could be a major "ego trip" for the other board members. Brown told other board members to be careful and not let personal feelings interfere with the board's better judgment.

That may be true but it will be very difficult to separate the needs of the board from the needs of the community. After all the current board has to find someone they can not only work with, but someone who will satisfy the residents of Canton.

One way to make the selection less difficult will be for the current board members to define their own needs and define the needs of the community.

Then it may be possible to find some common ground where the needs of the board and the needs of Canton come together.

Ultimately, the new trustee will have to be someone the board can work with and the community can live with.

Studios assault discount theaters

The idea of discount theaters is under attack by one of Hollywood's major studio players, and if things don't improve the other studios will join the bandwagon.

Then you are talking about the end of second-run movie houses, those places like Plymouth's own Penn Theatre where you can see a recent movie at an affordable price.

How is this assault being waged?

Paramount Pictures has started charging discount theaters $1.05 for each adult admission until one month before a film's video release. That pricing plan (is it price fixing?) began with "Indian Jones and the Last Crusade."

At a discount house in Livonia they were passing out pamphlets last week which said, "Help... This Theater's Discount Prices Are Under Attack!"

I asked Lloyd Oliver at the Penn if the same was being done at the Penn, which recently had to raise its movie rates from $1.50 to $2 a ticket.

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

Lloyd said no that wasn't being done, but he added, "We are under the same kind of pressure," as the theater in Livonia.

We're talking the very future of the Penn Theater folks. The now historic building, with its wonderful design and elegant motifs, is one of the things that makes Plymouth unique.

The Penn first opened on Dec. 4, 1941 and it has been showing movies ever since.

Lloyd, who has been manager at the Penn for four years (and projectionist since 1957), said the theater had indeed raised its prices recently because of the Paramount move. He predicted that the other movie companies will follow.

The price increase at the Penn was the first in eight years, but moviegoers may have to face further increases in the next few years.

Lloyd also made it clear that the Penn was not about to go out of business.

At the Livonia theater they said the Paramount plan will force them to raise prices, or even delay showing the movies for up to six months.

And that means the chance to see good movies at a cheap price, and while still playing at a local moviehouse, could eventually disappear.

The information on the pamphlet was supplied by the National Association of Discount Theatres in Washington, D.C.

Any Penn fans might want to write Martin S. Davis the chairperson and CEO of Paramount. You can send him your thoughts at Paramount Communications, Inc., 15 Columbus Circle, New York, NY 10023.

Local student 'lucky' at Stanford U.

BY MINAL HAJRATWALA
STANFORD, CA: Tuesday, Oct. 17, 5:04 p.m.

It was a moment that northern California will not soon forget.

Asleep in my dorm room, taking a nap before dinner, my brain still fuzzy with sleep. Trying to understand why the bed is shaking. Vague pieces of advice from earthquake safety pamphlets, running through my mind: stay away from windows and mirrors, stand in a door frame, do not panic.

The main danger in an earthquake is not building collapse, because there isn't much you can do if that happens; the danger is things falling on you.

Standing in the doorway after descending from my loft, I could hear things falling and breaking, fire alarm going off, people shouting.

As soon as the ground stopped shaking, I ventured from the hall to a friend's room. We sat in the doorway for about 15 minutes, through three or four more rumbles.

In the immediate aftermath of the quake, I don't think any of us realized its magnitude. In my room, a few things fell from shelves, so I assumed that was the level of damage everywhere. We went to dinner as usual and some people went to evening classes.

Later in the dorm lounge we gathered around the television. The fire alarms were still blaring. Each piece of breaking news was more and more horrifying -- the Bay Bridge breaking; the collapse of Highway 8-80 in Oakland where today the last bodies were pulled out; the fires in the marina district; footage from Santa Cruz.

Still later we had an emergency dorm meeting. We were told classes were cancelled for the next day. The main from our primary water supply had broken, so we were told to use water sparingly: take no showers, drink soda or milk rather than water, flush toilets less frequently. This lasted only a day at Stanford, although some areas still do not have a clean, safe water supply.

We were then told to pack supplies for the night, as our dorm was evacuated to check for structural damage. At 11:30 p.m. we were allowed back inside. Inspectors had found the building structurally sound.

For days now, the big question has been where were you? No further explanation is needed. We laughed at the guys who said he was on the toilet, and listened with empathy to the woman who watched books pile up to her knees in the library.

Classes resumed Thursday in safe buildings. Many remained closed. The church and museum suffered major damage, as did chemistry labs and older buildings, which had survived the great quake of 1906.

Hundreds of students remain "homeless;" their doors will not reopen until January at the earliest. Meanwhile, they are living in lounges or with friends. Their close communities have been wretched apart, and concentrating on studying is very difficult for them. Professors have been urged to be lenient with the deadlines and dates for the remainder of the quarter.

The week after the earthquake, aftershocks continue, although with less frequency and intensity. Each day the danger of a devastating tremor decreases. But every hint of a rumble, every unfamiliar sound, every slight vibration is noted.

In our classrooms we think, if there is a quake where will we go. It is becoming as instinctive as looking for fire exits in an auditorium.

Student volunteers are busy reshelving library books, cleaning up rumble, answering hotline phones. Supplies, blankets, clothing and money are being collected for those in the Bay area who are worse off than we are.

Stanford University, although located between Santa Cruz and San Francisco, suffered relatively minor damage.

One thought remains in my mind as I watch people all around trying to get their lives back in order, trying to regain a sense of stability:

We were very lucky.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Minal Hajratwala is a sophomore communications student at Stanford University. The Canton resident and CEP graduate worked at The Crier this past summer. It was her first major earthquake. She was unhurt.

Workshop plan makes sense

The Canton Board of Trustees last Tuesday (Oct. 17) decided to change its approach in handling workshop meetings after Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter complained about the sometimes misleading nature of the meetings.

Kirchgatter said she wasn't happy Tuesday about the last minute addition of two action items to a workshop agenda that normally is used for discussion purposes only.

Kirchgatter, echoing some of The Crier's sentiments expressed several months ago about the misleading nature of any workshop where action is taken, said she no longer wants to call the meetings (held on weeks when there isn't a regular session) workshops.

Kirchgatter's argument is that action items added to a workshop at the last minute doesn't give trustees an opportunity to digest the material before making a decision.

Not only that but residents of the community can be misled by the nature of a meeting when it is called for discussion purposes only and then action is taken on a different item.

It is true that the need to alter a workshop agenda at the last minute doesn't occur very often, but there have been at least four occasions over the past year when just that was done.

Still, adding action items to a workshop agenda isn't fair to the public, who don't get much advance warning of what is happening during a meeting (just like the trustees). The township correctly posts all of its meetings, but when a workshop agenda is changed residents usually don't find out unless they are sitting in the audience.

Kirchgatter, and Trustee John Preniczky, suggested returning to the previous method of labelling every meeting a regular session while still making time at the end of each session for a workshop.

Not only is that a good idea, but it makes practical sense -- elected officials need time to assimilate the reams of information associated with making a decision which may affect the entire township.

And residents deserve to be informed in advance about what is going to happen each Tuesday with their elected board.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Forest through the trees

By Todd Langton

I am always amazed by the paradoxical animal called the human being.

Humans seem to have equally incredible capacities for kindness and cruelty.

During the worst of times we seem, for the most part, to exhibit our greatest qualities, those of kindness and selflessness.

Take the recent catastrophe in California for example.

Many people, all victims of the same tragedy, reached out to help those in dire need.

A common tragedy bonded those people together. Rescue efforts, gifts of clothing and gifts of food all combined to show what the human animal can do at his or her best.

But it seems to take a tragedy of cataclysmic proportions before those characteristics can be brought to the surface.

It seems we often see the worst that humans have to offer during the daily routine that we call life.

In one out of every three homes in this nation, that includes the City of Plymouth, and the townships of Plymouth and Canton, "human beings" beat their mates for no other reason than that they are the most selfish of creatures.

Very few people witness domestic violence because it occurs in the confines of the "home", behind closed doors.

Very few people report domestic violence for a 1000 different reasons -- shame, fear, a complete and total lack of self-worth brought on by a person who is so insecure that he or she must totally dominate another person.

A man is not a man because he is strong enough to beat up a woman. A man, or a woman, is someone who can face his or her problem and deal with it by rational means.

Babies and little children throw temper tantrums.

Adults swallow their pride when they have to and they do not beat someone into submission to make themselves feel important or powerful.

Let's leave that to fifth and sixth graders on playgrounds and let's hope they grow out of it or they will never reach adulthood no matter how old they get.

Since last Wednesday four people in the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township have physically assaulted someone whom they once supposedly promised to love and cherish.

That does not include Canton and that does not include the number of incidents not reported to the police.

One person from The Plymouth-Canton Community calls First Step, a Westland based non-profit organization which assists victims of domestic violence, every two and a half days.

The human race is capable of exhibiting great kindness.

Let's face up to the fact that we have a quiet catastrophe that faces us every day.

Let's face the fact that we have the responsibility of treating each other like human beings.

Trailer causes ZBA, Board dispute

now," Prince said. "I'm sure the word has been used (lawsuit), but there has been no decision yet to take a step like that.

"We're at the clarification stage right now," she added.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said he is working "cooperatively" with the ZBA to look for a solution and avoid a possible lawsuit.

"The last thing I want to do is have a battle royale over something like this," said Yack, who added that he agreed to identify the ZBA's concerns and have a third party study the question.

Prince said she hoped to hear from the attorney by today (Oct. 25).

The ZBA first decided it wanted to seek an attorney's advice two weeks ago after the Canton Board of Trustees overruled their decision on the Lilley Pointe trailer.

The owners of the condo project went to the ZBA for variance to allow the trailer (which is not currently allowed under township ordinances), but the ZBA denied the request.

It was then that the developers approached the Canton board.

Following an opinion by township attorney Dave Berry that the request would fall under a "special land use," the board agreed on Sept. 26 to allow the trailer at the site for one year.

Trustees Elaine Kirchgatter and Robert Shefferly dissented on a 4-2 vote.

ZBA members said it was the second time that the township's board had overruled them on a variance question.

The previous incident occurred last summer when Lucas Nursery sought a variance so that it would not have to pave a parking lot. The ZBA said the lot had to be paved, but the board disagreed and gave Lucas permission not to pave the lot.

"They had no right to do it. They usurped the ZBA's authority," said ZBA member and former Canton trustee Eugene Daley.

"That incident led to bad feelings," said Yack, who was not on the board at the time of the Lucas vote.

At the Sept. 26 meeting, ZBA member Gregory Demopoulos told the trustees that the ZBA was "upset" by the board's seeking an opinion from Berry.

Demopoulos said only the ZBA had a right to decide the variance issue in this case. "We really don't want to spur litigation," he told the board.

Demopoulos said the ZBA should have jurisdiction in the matter because a PUD (Planned Unit Development) for the property is based on a 1967 ordinance which gives the ZBA final approval.

Under the new ordinance, though, the board has the right to grant a special approval. But ZBA members feel the appeal by developers is being made under the old ordinance.

ZBA members also said that a public hearing was not held on the special land use as called for by township regulations. Berry had told the board a public hearing was not necessary.

Yack and other board members who supported approval of the special land use said they opposed a permanent structure on the site, but felt the board had the power to allow the trailer.

Regarding the Lucas paving issue, Yack said he raised the question as to whether what the previous board had done was legal. Since then Lucas has agreed to pave the lot within the next two years, he said.

Library granted

The Canton Public Library has received two grants of federal funds, recently awarded by the Library of Michigan under the Library Services and Construction Act.

The township will receive $15,000 for Canton's literacy program and another $2,500 for services to older residents of the community.

Services to senior citizens in the township will center on a "mini-library" to be established at the new seniors high rise complex on Ford Road -- Canton Place. A librarian will visit weekly and every three months the collection of 200 books will be updated.

The literacy project is in four parts:

- Sponsoring four cultural experiences for students being served by reading and English language tutors.

- Purchase materials to be added to the collection at the library.

- Recruiting and training new tutors.

- Hiring a tutor-student coordinator for the Community Literacy Council.

Claire McLaughlin, grants coordinator at the library, said the township faced "stiff competition" from other projects around the state for the awards.

She added that the awards are "evidence of the Canton Public Library's commitment to the community."

Plymouth man tackles trash Creek cleaner

BY ANDREA WATTS

Tonquish Creek in the City of Plymouth is a cleaner place thanks to Larry Wilhelm.

Wilhelmi, a Plymouth resident for eight years, started picking up litter in the creek four years ago "for something to do on Saturdays and Sundays." He said it gave him a chance to pass the time while waiting for his morning papers to arrive.

Wilhelmi, who lives near the creek, transplanted some of his own flowers to the side of the creek for decorative purposes.

"The amazing thing was the volume of trash," said Wilhelmi.

Wilhelmi said he has found all types of garbage including several car parts such as a car seat, tires, and spark plugs in the creek. He assumed that the car parts were left over from a car dealership which used to be located near the creek.

Wilhelmi also put in steps leading down to the creek "in order to carry up some of the heavier bags of trash."

"The result of (cleaning the creek) has been it's given the water a better flow," said Wilhelmi, who added that the water level has drastically gone down.

"It definitely has possibilities if the city wanted to do something with it," said Wilhelmi, regarding planting flowers to make the creek a little more colorful.

Wilhelmi, 52, likes to visit the creek on nice afternoons to catch a little time alone.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Just for the record, I'd like to point out that it is still October and I've actually started my Christmas shopping.

Well, maybe that's a bit of an exaggeration since I've only gotten a couple of small gifts, but at least that's a start.

I envy people who are out there now doing all their shopping, especially those who will be finished by Thanksgiving. I haven't figured out who's on my list yet, let alone given any thought on what to get them. How do people have money for Christmas shopping this time of the year? My budget (if you want to call it that) says Christmas is in December only.

I guess the snow last week started sending holiday thoughts through my brain. The idea of baking some cookies now and freezing them even drifted through my brain. However, according to my calendar, a time slot for baking doesn't show up for at least another month.

I knew I really had a problem when I thought of running over to the Arts Council office to buy my Christmas cards. I must be sick. This is the person who doesn't send Christmas cards out until January and February, and this is still October.

It's one thing to start thinking about Christmas at work, because of some early deadlines we are well into the holidays, but it's too early to think about holiday plans at home. While part of me is trying to say it would be easier to plan some things ahead, the other part of me says tradition means you deal with Christmas after Thanksgiving.

As the weather warms up, thoughts of the holidays are being put on the shelf in the back of the brain. I need more time to think about Halloween and raking leaves. We will have to deal with Santa and Frosty the Snowman soon enough.

Just in case you haven't checked your calendar recently -- Thanksgiving is four weeks from tomorrow.

EDITOR'S NOTE: It's not too early to sign up for Phyllis' Christmas list.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON ELECTION NOTICE

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF the Charter Township of Canton, notice is hereby given that a special election will be held on Tuesday, November 7, 1989, in the Charter Township of Canton for the purpose of voting on two proposals to amend the Constitution of the State of Michigan. Poll hours will be 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

The following proposals will be decided upon:

PROPOSAL A

A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/USE TAX FROM 4¢ TO 4½¢ PER DOLLAR AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:
 - a. 1/2¢ increase in sales/use tax;
 - b. Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes;
 - c. Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 66%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.
- 2) Distribute dedicated funds to school districts as provided by law.
- 3) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny 100% of state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

*Should this proposal be adopted?

Yes _____
No _____

PROPOSAL B

A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/USE TAX FROM 4¢ TO 6¢ PER DOLLAR, REDUCE SCHOOL PROPERTY TAXES, SET PERMANENT SCHOOL OPERATING MILLAGES NOT SUBJECT TO VOTER RENEWAL AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:
 - a. 2¢ increase in sales/use tax;
 - b. Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes;
 - c. Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 75%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.
- 2) Reduce property taxes in most school districts. Replace school taxes with permanent statewide millage (9-mills on residential/farm; 14-mills on businesses) plus non-voted local millage not subject to voter rollback. Limit voter-approved increases to 4 mills.
- 3) Set per-pupil funding guarantees subject to change by law requiring 2/1 vote.
- 4) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny all non-guaranteed state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

understands that such behavior will not be tolerated," Pollack said. "Because there has been no cooling off period, the violence frequently resumes just as soon as the abuser returns home.

"By the time an arraignment is held weeks later, the abused spouse often drops the charges, fearing retaliatory violence," Pollack added. Police officers see this problem quite often.

Problems for police

"I would have to say that a very low percentage of individuals who are assaulted press charges," said Erik Mayernik, of the Plymouth Township Police Department. "Of the individuals that do initiate the pressing of charges there is a very high percentage of those, that once the process has begun, then discontinue and drop the charges — even in cases of serious injury."

Police officers generally run into very difficult situations when responding to domestic violence calls, said Carl Berry, chief of the Plymouth Township Police Department.

"The policeman usually ends up being the bad guy," he said.

Often when an officer attempts to arrest a husband for beating his wife, Berry said, the wife will side with the husband against the officer.

"I've been in situations where I've been physically assaulted by both parties after having been called by one," he said.

A majority of domestic abuse cases are repeat offenses and, quite often, anything can spark the violence, the chief said.

"I pulled a 12-inch butcher knife out of a guy's leg that this woman had stuck him with because she didn't like the way he tied his shoes," Berry added.

The argument had deeper origins than just the fact that she didn't like the way he tied his shoes, Berry said, but that is what set up the violent situation.

"That was a run we had been going on for years," Berry said.

"I had one where the guy blew up because the wife put the shirts in the closet with the hanger hooks facing (what he felt was the wrong direction), Mayernik said.

One thing seems certain, domestic violence knows no economic or social boundaries.

Plymouth-Canton

In 1989, during the months of July, August and September, Canton Public Safety officers filed 355 civic matter reports, according to Pat Nemecek, of the Canton Public Safety Department.

Civil matters are listed as disturbances in a home and a large portion of the cases are either domestic violence or neglect cases, Nemecek said.

Judy Ellis, executive director of First Step, with the help of private donations and funding from groups such as the Plymouth Community United Way, helps victims of domestic violence start a new life. (Crier photo by Chris Farina)

The numbers may be even higher, he said, because this does not include calls for service, which do not always require reports.

During the same time period, officers of the City of Plymouth's Police Department made 30 domestic runs, said Richard Myers, chief of the city's police department.

Plymouth Township police report 12 cases of domestic violence, during seven of which no actual physical assault occurred.

It should be noted that Canton has a population five or six times greater than that of the city and two and a half to three times that of Plymouth Township.

There may be reasons other than differences in population for the wide gap in reports of such incidents in the three communities.

"In some communities where women have no resources at all, they would be more apt to call the police," Ellis said.

"If a woman is more affluent she is less apt to jeopardize her partner's position in the community or in his workplace by contacting the police.

"So those women will most likely seek other resources. They may call us very quietly or they may go to their local doctor or they may even try harder to keep it a secret," she said.

"We believe that every community has their representation of batterers and victims.

"But again it is more visible in some of the less affluent communities because of the reporting," Ellis added. "We've had assailants who were clergymen, who were politicians, who were doctors, who were blue collar workers.

"And we've had women who were battered who were in prominent positions, who were in corporations and women who were homemakers," she said.

Effects on children

"We also know that in at least 60 per cent of (abusive) families there is physical or sexual abuse of the children.

"The number of kids sitting in school who are going home to violent homes is hard for anyone to imagine," said Ellis, who added that a violent home life can also have permanent effects on a child's development.

"We know that 93 per cent of all children growing up in violent homes will either become a victim or an abuser," she said. "It is a learned behavior that when children see it, they tend to role model."

The victim

Linda said that her father, who was an alcoholic, abused her mother. People tend to look for something that they are familiar with when they get into a relationship, she said.

As a result, Linda said, she kept getting into abusive relationships. She said that she stayed with her husband because she thought she could change him.

"Do not stay thinking that you are going to change them or make them better because you are not," she said.

"It will always happen again," Linda said. "Unless he gets help it will never get better."

After the first time her husband physically assaulted her he came back and gave her what she calls the "ooh babies".

"It's like, 'Ooh baby, I'm so sorry, I didn't mean to do all this,'" she said.

"You know," she said, "Can't live without you. It will never happen again. I'll be faithful. I won't put down the kids. I won't yell and scream at you."

"So I took him back," Linda said. "And it started again."

The next time her husband hit her he did it in front of his friends at a party, she said.

"He thought that I had hidden his car keys from him. You have to realize that there isn't any particular reason for it. It's a pattern of behavior," Linda said. "Each time it got worse and worse.

"I realized for him to start doing this in front of other people, it was getting bad."

"But I still stayed," she said.

"They are very controlling people," Linda said. "They make the woman dependent on them."

Her husband isolated her from the outside world, constantly put her down and blamed her for his behavior, she said.

One excuse often used was, "if you hadn't made me mad I wouldn't have done it," she said.

Women have to realize that they have nothing to do with the behavior of their husbands and that they are not responsible for the abuse leveled on them, Linda said.

One thing that women must do is file a police report every time an instance of abuse occurs, she said.

"It establishes a pattern of behavior so that when (abuse victims) do leave they have something to back up the kind of life they have been living."

When Linda drove herself to the hospital after the first instance of abuse, hospital employees gave her the number for First Step.

She called from a pay phone at the hospital.

"I think I would still be living with him, or dead, or badly injured if I hadn't gotten involved with First Step," Linda said.

That is what turned her life around, she said.

"There are people that care about me. There is help available.

"There is help for me. There is help for my children.

"But it is taking that first step," Linda said.

"It is important to realize that nobody is going to do it for you. Nobody can help you get out of it. You have to take that first step. It's your responsibility," she said.

Linda took that first step.

She has left her abusive relationship and she is studying to earn a degree in psychology which she hopes to use to help other victims of domestic violence.

She is also, by the way, holding down a 4.0 grade point average.

"Women really need to take the first step and call us because we can help with so many options," Ellis said. "There are options to living in violence."

The crisis line at First Step is (313) 459-5900.

By 3 townships WTUA grants approved

BY TODD LANGTON

All three member townships of the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA), Plymouth, Canton and Northville, have opened the way for a regional recycling effort by agreeing to financially participate in the State of Michigan's Quality of Life Bond program.

WTUA is applying for $800,000 in grant monies which will be used to create a recycling program, a resource recovery education program and a market development research program.

The member townships recently agreed to financially participate in the program, will be required to provide a 25 per cent match of funds which will amount to approximately $150,000, or $50,000 per township, said Ann Bollin, executive director of WTUA.

The townships will have the opportunity to turn down the grant monies and withdraw from the program in the future if they wish, Bollin said.

Maurice Breen, authority chairperson and supervisor of Plymouth Township, said that WTUA might have a better chance of receiving the grant because WTUA has already used one grant, in the amount of $242,081, to create a regional composting program.

The proposed recycling facility, which will also operate on a regional basis, is what the state is looking for, Breen said.

"We should have a good opportunity," he said.

Should WTUA receive the grant and the composting and recycling programs be successful, the organization may eventually apply for a $5 million grant which would be used to develop and sell a product made from material diverted from landfills, Bollin said.

Loren Bennett, clerk in Canton, said the "risk is very minimal and the potential return is terrific."

Bus snags bank

A Plymouth-Canton Community Schools bus knocked down the canopy of a 24-hour automatic teller machine at the NDB on Ford Road in Canton Friday, according to Canton Police.

Police said the bus driver attempted to drive under a canopy at about 7:45 a.m. Friday, but struck the overhang and sent it crashing on to the hood of the bus.

Dale Goby, director of transportation for the schools, said no children were on the bus at the time and no one was injured.

Goby said the bus had been "laying over" in the Meijer parking lot waiting for another load of students. He added that the bus sustained minor damage.

"The driver just misjudged the overhang," Goby said, after making a "wrong turn" in the Meijer lot.

Canton grid squad beats North

BY RITA DERBIN

On a cold, wet Saturday, the Canton football team defeated North Farmington, 20-13.

Chris James ran 112 yards in the game including touchdown runs of 22 and 60 yards. Jason Riggs contributed 54 yards and a five-yard touchdown run.

Quarterback Karl Wukie also ran for 50 yards in a game that was played on the ground because of the weather conditions.

"It was a good game," said coach Bob Khoenle. "We were down 10-7 in the third quarter and came back with two scores in the fourth quarter."

The Chief defense played extremely well, according to Khoenle, especially Brian Bartlett and Corey Johnson. Offensive tackle Jeff Roach also put in some good plays.

Next up for the Chiefs will be cross-campus rival Salem on Friday (Oct. 27) at 7:30 p.m.

"It's all on the table," Khoenle said. "We're both even at 7-1 and we both want to win. It should be a very interesting game."

Khoenle said his defense has to adjust to the Salem wishbone offense because they have not played against it all year.

"I have a lot of confidence in our defense but they haven't seen the wishbone this year," Khoenle said. "We've got to counteract their offense so that's what we'll be working on in practice this week."

Khoenle added that the Rocks have a couple big trucks that have to be stopped. "They have a couple of good running backs," he said. "We have to stop (Ryan) Johnson and (Pat) Bowie. They are quality backs."

Districts tonight

Salem kickers down rival Chiefs

BY RITA DERBIN

The Rocks rolled over Canton for the final time this season.

The Salem boys soccer team defeated Canton, 2-0, on Monday night to win their first district match-up. The Rocks, who are 13-3-1, will travel to Brighton tonight for a 7 p.m. game.

In Monday's game, Salem scored with four minutes left in the first half when Greg Christensen, who has 11 goals and seven assists on the season, passed the ball to Ryan Fitzpatrick who scored the goal.

The Rocks scored again with 11 minutes left in the game on a Chris Olson goal with Jeff Gold picking up an assist, his team-leading 14th assist of the season.

The shutout was senior goalie Matt Tudor's 18th career shutout and 12th of the year.

"It was a tough game," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "Canton played real tough. We were expecting a battle and got one. Both defenses were good and the teams played with a lot of emotion."

Canton coach Don Smith was pleased with the way his team played, but wished they could have gotten to Tudor.

"We played well," he said. "We just couldn't get the ball in the goal. To win you have to score and we couldn't do it."

Canton had a difficult time with Salem all year, losing all four of their matchups.

On Wednesday, the Rocks defeated them 4-1 in the conference playoff game.

In the game, Jeff Gold scored two goals to bring his season total to 22, a school record. Also chipping in were Andy Cosenza with one goal and two assists, and Matt Gold with one goal and an assist. Chris Lajoy added an assist in the game.

Scoring for Canton was Kristian Kilpelainen, who finished the season with five goals and four assists.

Other team scoring leaders for Canton were Daryl Magreta with six goals; Dan Martin, eight goals; Rick McFeely, three goals and five assists; Steve Shiner, three goals and four assists; and Eric Miller with three assists.

"We had a good season," said Smith. "It was a learning experience for me. The whole team has learned from this season and will improve."

On tap in Plymouth Hoop league

A men's basketball league will again be offered by the City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department this winter.

Returning teams can register beginning Oct. 30, while new teams can register starting Nov. 13. Registration will end Nov. 27, however, if the team limit of 16 is reached, registration will end at that time.

There is an entry fee of $350 for a 14 game schedule. League play will begin the week of Dec. 4.

For further information call Tom Willette at 455-6620.

Complete rules and regulations are available at the Recreation Department.

Rocks back on track

BY RITA DERBIN

The Rocks are back on the winning track.

After suffering a tough loss on the road to Westland John Glenn, the Salem football team defeated Northville 35-8 Friday at home to improve its record to 7-1.

In the first half senior running backs Ryan Johnson and Pat Bowie provided the offense. Johnson scored twice on touchdown runs of 12 and two yards. Bosse added a four-yard run to make the score 21-0 at the half.

Bowie broke loose for a 53-yard run in the third quarter and Johnson recovered a fumble and returned it 40 yards for the Rocks' final points.

The Raiders scored in the fourth quarter to make the final 35-8.

Wolves win

The 1977 Wolves soccer team, including players from Plymouth-Canton, locked up another fall championship Saturday.

Local players included Scott Buczek, Graham Wilk, Brian Bobo, Paul Dood, and Jeremy Stillings.

Next up for the Rocks will be the big game of the year against cross-campus rival, Canton. Both teams are 7-1 and both teams feature excellent defenses that have carried them through the year.

"I expect a low scoring game," said Moshimer. "Both defenses are very good - it could come down to a turnover. Whoever makes the fewest mistakes will win."

"Our game plan is to slow (Karl) Wukie down, he's a good quarterback that can hurt us," Moshimer added. "And Chris James has been gaining a lot of yards lately -- their offense is coming along and we have to be careful and play better than (against Northville) if we want to win."

At stake is a possible playoff berth for the winner.

"There are four spots in our region and only two undefeated teams," Moshimer said. "At least two teams will have one loss and the winner of this game will have to be considered."

The football game will be Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Centennial Educational Park field.

Chiefs win division swimming crown

BY RITA DERBIN

The Chiefs are division champs!

The Canton girls swim team won their first championship in five years on Thursday despite a 50-33 loss to Northville.

The Chiefs are in a three-way tie with Northville and Churchill for the Western Division crown.

Placing first for the Chiefs were Nicole Drake in the 200-yard freestyle (2:01.62) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:18.50) and Cassie Cummins in the 100-yard backstroke (1:05.69).

All three time were season bests for Drake and Cummins.

Coming in second for the Chiefs were the 200-yard medley relay of Cummins, Val Gildhaus, Chris Lang and Jennifer Cooper. (2:02.71); Pam Pritchard in the 50-yard freestyle (26.89); Becky Hoisington in diving (195.05 points); Kelly Rische in the 100-yard freestyle (58:48); and the 400-yard freestyle relay of Rische, Janet Roberts, Lang and Drake (3:56.56).

"Northville is stronger up front and definitely had an advantage swimming at home," said Canton coach Hooker Wellman. "They only have a five lane pool so we couldn't use an extra swimmer. That took away our depth advantage over them."

On Tuesday, Canton beat Livonia Stevenson 99-73. The victory was the first time the Chiefs had ever beaten Stevenson in a dual meet.

Coming in first were: Drake in the 200-yard freestyle (2:02.87) and the 500-yard freestyle (5:24.43); Pritchard in the 50 yard freestyle (26.74) and the 100-yard freestyle (58.24); Cummins in the 100 backstroke (1:05.89); Gilhause in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:18.38) and the 400-yard freestyle relay of Rische, Roberts, Drake, and Tammy Santomauro (3:58.24).

"I'm please with where we're at this season," said coach Hooker Wellman. "It was real nice beating Stevenson -- we have beaten them in the conference meet before but never in a dual meet."

Saturday the Chiefs will swim in the Belleville Invitational and resume conference competition on Thursday when the travel to Livonia Franklin at 4 p.m.

Salem swimmers ready for league

BY RITA DERBIN

They may not have won, but the Salem girls swim team is preparing for the conference meet in a couple weeks by swimming well and lowering their times.

On Thursday, the Rocks (1-2 in the Lakes Division) lost to North Farmington, 102-70, but had a few bright spots.

Finishing first were Jennifer Ezzo in diving with 199.6 points; and Cheri Vincent in the 100-yard backstroke (1:05.2).

The Rocks qualified for state and set a new varsity record in the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 1:57.90 but Cheri Vincent, Kristen Stackpoole, Andrea Alex and Nicole Bosse could only finish second to North Farmington in that event.

"Any other team and we would have won the race," said coach Chuck Olson. "But I'm pleased with the time and the fact we're qualified for state in both relays before the conference meet."

On Saturday, the Rocks participated in the MISCA Invitational at Eastern Michigan and qualified for the state meet in the 400-yard freestyle relay when Vincent, Candi Bosse, Hickey, and Nicole Bosse swam in 3:53.04.

Tomorrow the Rocks will host Farmington at 7 p.m.

New magnet store offers the unusual

BY ANDREA WATTS

Musical magnets, statues of animals of all kinds, and animal t-shirts, are just a few of the many items to see at Magnets an Me in Plymouth's Westchester Square.

"We've tried to have items from the smallest to the biggest," said Helen Conwell. She and her husband Tom, who have been Canton residents for 11 years, are owners of the shop which has been open since August.

Conwell added that their items have wide price ranges, which is good for customers who aren't looking to spend a lot of money for a gift.

The idea for the shop originated in California where Conwell's sister has three shops of the same sort.

Tom Conwell explained that most of the items in the shop come from the West Coast with some items from as far away as Uruguay and Australia.

The store's line of "Frozen Moments" originated in Australia. These are actions frozen in time such as the breaking of an egg and the pouring of a can of pop into a glass.

Magnets from United Design have "a complete line of domestic and wild figurines," according to the Conwells.

The Conwells also have a unique line of magnets from California which portray things such as exotic drinks and various sweet treats.

Besides working in the shop, both owners have full time positions also been elected as chairperson of Consumer Products Division of the same organization. J. Malcolm Flora has also been awarded the Marantz audio line for the Michigan market. Flora has specialized in audio in Michigan for over 30 years.

Matthew Miller, of Plymouth, has been added as a new account representative at Miles Fox Office Products in Warren. All Miles Fox representatives sell office furniture and supplies.

Pamela Schwalm has been promoted to vice president of Gregg, Inc., the management affiliate of Land Company of Michigan in Plymouth. She is also a real estate sales associate with Land Company of Michigan-Plymouth.

Business People

The following business professionals of the Plymouth area communities have acquired new positions at their place of work.

Christopher Mammoser, of Canton, has been appointed manager in computer systems design and installation at Andersen Consulting in Detroit. He is a University of Michigan graduate, holding a BA and MBA from the college. He is also a member of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers.

Jamie Flora, of Canton, President of J. Malcolm Flora, Inc., has been elected to the position of national vice president of the Electronic Representatives Association. He has elsewhere during the day and raise champion Arabian horses in their spare time.

The Conwells also work out of the Gibraltar Trade Center on weekends where they have another shop in the showroom.

"No matter what happens, you're going to find something here," said son Tom, who helps out at the shop. Daughters Kathleen and Colleen also help their parents in working at the shop.

Magnets an Me is open for business Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m.

Move it! Recycling receptacle

Some city residents may be relieved to find that the scenery near the small recycling drop-off point behind Plymouth's City Hall has been significantly altered.

The large orange container which stood higher than the fence which surrounded it has been moved to the city's Department of Public Works (DPW) yard by the order of Acting City Manager William Graham.

Paper will still be dropped off at the recycling center but workers will transport the material collected throughout the day to the container stored at the DPW yard, Graham said.

Graham said he ordered the removal of the container because it was too large for the site and was simply "unsightly".

CCF meeting Community volunteers

The Canton Community Foundation is organizing a meeting of Canton volunteer groups in order to look at ways at which the volunteer sector can work together to strengthen the community.

The meeting will be held on Nov. 1 at 7:30 p.m. and will be hosted by Mitch Howard of Elias Brothers Big Boy in Canton.

The foundation is setting up this meeting in order to assist clubs in organizing calendars, recruiting members, providing leadership training to officers, and suggesting programs and projects to be worked on for the future.

Welcome to our newest Crier carrier, Brian, on Route 56A. Good luck from Verna Todd, What do you have against broccoli? It's not easy being green...

Julie - Now that we are "Parachutists" the next frontier to conquer is - Hang Gliding! (We'll keep you posted.) Love, Mom & Dad

John - Exactly what did they find when they broke into your Jeep?

It's great to know that John has surfaced - but what a place to break down in!

The Spartans will choke on the Boiler-makers smoke.

1973-1989: MICHELLE TRITE - Happy Sweet 16th. Love, Mom, Dad and Melissa

GIN AND KEN: I'm so glad you two are safe and sound following the shakeup!

RUTHIE: I'm glad to hear little sister made it through the downpour of pots and pans! You and Torry take care and wear safety hats to work!

ASTRID and TONY: Have you seen Walter Payton - or was it Willie Perkins - cruising around Chicago lately?

MICHELLE: Peace and Love. (p.s. Why don't you like Santa Claus, does it go back to an incident in your childhood?)

ASTRID: I went to see the Wings again last week and they won. I think you're bad luck!

BIG JOHN: Do you feel older?

JOHNNY AND BETH BETTER BE GOOD THIS WEEKEND!

Merc and John: have a great weekend getaway and don't worry about the kids. If they start turning blue I'll call 9-1-1!

BIG BOB IS GOING TO BE 41 ON DEVILS NIGHT! Have a great birthday, big brother. Love, RHs

CHRIS AND BOB ARE GOING TO TRY IT AGAIN. Have fun at the World Series on Saturday. Don't forget me when you're looking at all those souvenirs - And say hi to the Thrif for me. -RHs

CHRIS AND BOB will be wearing their Detroit jackets at Candlestick on Saturday!

Curiosities

CHRIS D: Sorry you couldn't see the Series on your birthday, but at least everyone is safe and sound in San Jose and San Francisco. There'll be other Series but for me there's only one set of brothers and sisters and you're the greatest!!-Rita

Jim and Bill made it through the baking and shaking in Oakland. No damage, just a few anxious moments.

CHRIS P: Thanks for keeping everyone who called updated on the situation. Are you sure you're not a member of the family?

BIG BOB: It was a close one but you made it through the fire next door and the traffic jams! I'm so glad you didn't sneak out of work early on Earthquake Tuesday and get caught on the Bay Bridge! A totalled apartment is nothing compared to what could have happened!

Gene Deley asks, "What the heck are those curiosities all about?"

Paul Gargaro is coming to town!

Sue - Thank you, thank you, thank you for putting up with my problems this week. It's nice to have someone willing to listen! Ken

Red - Hope your eye feels better! Blue

Russ Webster is back from England. And he's got a tan!?

Rebecca and Brady - Was this the best Sweetest Day ever?

HANK G.: The Antlers is hardly the Plymouth Landing.

BOB RIFFLE FINALLY finished his mom's kitchen ceiling.

SUZANNE (aka Gathering Basket): let's get baked again.

CRAIG BRASS doesn't let any fish get in the way of fishing.

THIS CITY OF PLYMOUTH ELECTION: vote for Pete Mucci for mayor.

Tish, let's plan the next shopping trip soon.

Think JOA on Monday and Trick or Treat on Tuesday.

Deb - Drive Carefully!

Hi, Mary Baxter.

Remember to vote next Tuesday.

Aunt Hazel - I'm glad you didn't have to send flowers!

Why would anyone want to jump out of an airplane on purpose? Because it's fun?

Congratulations to Salem J.V. soccer team and coach Lajoy for a great season - 11-2-0! Salem Rocks rule!

Fantasy headlines: "MSU Chokes Again - Purdue Wins Big!" Boy - I must be dreaming!
