

Jaeger now sole manager finalist

BY PHILIP TARDANI
Gordon Jaeger, of Battle Creek, is now the only candidate for the city manager's job in the City of Plymouth, Mayor Dennis Bila said Tuesday afternoon.
And it looks likely that he will be selected for the job by the end of this month.
Bila said the commission's other candidate -- Steven Walters from the City of Northville -- was out of the city's price range.

"We have every indication that his price range is above what we're willing to pay," Bila said, adding that Walters received a "substantial raise" in Northville recently.
Jaeger will be in Plymouth Monday

Two seats open June 11

9 will vie for P-C School Board

BY KEN VOYLES

Nine local residents -- three women and six men -- will seek the two seats open on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education during the upcoming election.

All nine were certified Monday and yesterday for the June 11 election runoff. Another resident also certified for the race, Thomas Hartnell, said Monday that he planned to withdraw as a candidate.

There are two four-year seats open on the board this year.

On the ballot will be: Diane Stamp, Carl Battishill, Jack Farrow, K.C. Mueller, Toni Hartke, Richard Sumpter, Robert Anderson, Lester Walker and John Engdahl.

The two board seats are currently held by Marilyn Schwinn and Jeanette Wines, but the incumbents are not running for re-election this year. Also, there are no millage questions slated for this year's election.

Of the certified candidates, three have sought election to the board in the past -- Battishill, Sumpter and Anderson.

Battishill, a City of Plymouth resident, ran last year as did Anderson, who also sought a seat in 1988. Anderson lives in Canton. Sumpter, also of Canton, has run for school board four times in the past.

Walker, a city resident, is a former member of the board, having served from 1984-88.

Stamp, Farrow, Mueller, Hartke and Engdahl are all new faces to school board elections. Stamp, Farrow and Mueller are city residents, while Hartke and Engdahl reside in Plymouth Township.

The current candidates have until Thursday (April 12) to withdraw from the race.

Voting will be held from 7 am. to 8 p.m., June 11, at regular school election polling locations.

These are the 1990 candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Communities Schools school board race June 11. From top left, they are: Robert Anderson, Carl Battishill, John Engdahl, Jack Farrow, Toni Hartke, K.C. Mueller, Diane Stamp, Richard Sumpter, and Lester Walker. A 'gift' to P-C Schools

Field PTO raising $10,000 for amphitheatre

BY KEN VOYLES

Some 1,400 members of the Field Elementary School Parent Teachers Organization (PTO) are raising about $10,000 to build an outdoor amphitheatre on the school grounds.

On Monday, the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education gave its support to the construction project, which is expected to be completed by this fall.

Liz Hoffman, president of the PTO, asked the board to "accept this amphitheatre as a gift."

Larry Miller, principal at Field, told the board that he never envisioned such a "beautiful gift."

"It's more than a gift to the students," he added. "It's also a presentation of their pride in their school. When I thought upon the amphitheatre I saw it really as a point of pride and I realized this was a very important aspect to bringing our community together."

Movie, Nalepa link?

Schools internal study due today

BY KEN VOYLES

School officials in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools said Monday that they plan to wrap up their own internal investigation into the death of Stephen Nalepa and use of the movie "Nobody's Useless."

The officials would not give any further details about the investigation, such as who is conducting it, what its goals are and when it would be completed. They did say, however, that there would be a public announcement today (April 11) at 3 p.m.

The Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education went into closed session Monday to discuss a "communication" with district attorneys regarding the district's position.

"Nobody's Useless," has become a point of contention in the death of the eight-year-old Gallimore Elementary School student who was found hanged in his bedroom March 24.

Nalepa had seen the movie, which includes two suicide scenes, the day before his death while in a Gallimore classroom. His parents, Larry and Debby Nalepa, have said the movie may be linked to their sons death.

Last week the Canton Police Department concluded their investigation into the youth's death. Police said they could not "substantiate cause of death by accident or suicide."

Canton Chief John Santomauro said, "We have no indication, as a result of our investigation, to believe that the Nalepa death was the result of suicide." Police ruled out foul play in the death.

Police also declined to speculate on the movie's possible role in the youth's death.

"In a non-criminal investigation we avoid such speculation," said Santomauro. "I know this film is a point of controversy but we are not going to speculate."

Police said they consulted with Ann Arbor psychiatrist Dr. Norman Alessi last week before concluding the investigation. Police said they asked Alessi whether an eight-year-old can "conceptualize" suicide.

"He indicated that it is possible for a eight-year-old to conceptualize death, and know the concept of suicide," said Canton Captain Alex Wilson, who led

Linked to bizarre training Briggs' death ruled accident

BY KEN VOYLES

The death of 16-year-old Salem High School student Douglas Briggs was apparently an accident, said Canton Police last week.

Briggs, who was found hanged in the basement of his Canton home March 25, died of asphyxiation from hanging, according to the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office.

Police said last Wednesday that the sophomore's death was apparently accidental. Briggs, a member of Salem's varsity football team, was found hanged with a scarf tied around his neck. Attempts to revive him failed.

During their investigation police were given an article found among Briggs' things which had information in it about a training regimen of professional football player, Mark Bavaro, that included self-inflicted punishment described as "getting strangled and punched in the stomach to overcome fear."

Patricia Briggs, mother of the student, said she found the article in an area in the basement where her son worked out with a punching bag.

"It's just a freak, freak accident," the investigation.

Police said they found no evidence related to suicide, such as suicide threats or a note, during their investigation. The Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office said the youth died of asphyxiation as a result of hanging.

The second grader was found by his older brother Jason on March 24 hanging from a rustic loft by a belt in the family's Canton home. Attempts to revive the youth failed.

The Nalepas told police they could offer no reason for their son to hang himself.

School officials interviewed by the police said Nalepa was not a "major discipline problem" at Gallimore. A school psychologist told police Nalepa was "mildly depressed" but no more than any other child his age.

Dr. Alessi also told police, based said Patricia Briggs, who told police that she had not noticed any changes in her son's behavior before his death. "I never thought for a moment that my son committed suicide.

"I love my son very, very much and we're going to miss him," she added.

She said her son "apparently saw" the article and "thought he'd try it." She added that knowing her son's death was an accident helps in the grieving process but does not ease her pain at the loss of Doug.

Police said they did not find a suicide note or any other "indicator Doug was going to commit suicide."

Briggs' parents found the article, apparently from a New York Giants media guide, on the desk in the same basement room where the youth was discovered. They told police that they felt their son "may have tried his own version of self strangulation in order to better himself as a football player."

Bavaro, a tight end with the Giants, has denied that he used any form of self-inflicted punishment as a training technique. He also has said he does not "condone" such training methods.

The article, though, said, "Off-upon the report of the school psychologist, that "Stephen was probably mildly depressed for an unknown reason."

During Monday's board meeting Wendy and Mike Sielaff, neighbors of the Nalepas, spoke out angrily about the movie and district.

Wendy Sielaff said her daughter had also seen the movie and she asked school officials why, as a parent, she was not informed of the movie's showing. She also asked why the district had not contacted parents of any other children who had seen the movie.

Sielaff said the district had "committed an atrocity," and added that it was being run by "irresponsible and negligent" people.

She said the district has an obligation to let anyone who wants to view the movie.

CEP coaches react to death

BY RITA DERBIN

The tragic death of 16-year-old Doug Briggs, a sophomore center on the Salem High School varsity football team, was ruled an accident by the Canton Police last week.

A player profile from the New York Giants 1987 Media Guide on Mark Bavaro, a tight end for the Giants, was found among Briggs' things. After an investigation, the police concluded the youth's death was not a result of suicide or foul play but an accident which may have been brought on by an excerpt from the media guide.

Briggs, who was found hanged in the basement of his Canton home March 25, was apparently copying Bavaro's training practices described in the article.

Coaches and officials at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) remain perplexed over the accident.

Historic district discussion on tap

BY PHILIP TARDANI

There will be plenty of talk tonight (April 11) about the possibility of creating a historical district in the City of Plymouth.

The Plymouth Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the subject as well as hear from planning consultant Robert Donohue, a registered historical planner, according to David Oppe, commission chairperson.

"We'll be finding out what it is and asking if it's good for the community," he said. "We'll be exploring the advantages and disadvantages."

Oppe said there has been some preliminary interest in the idea from Old Village residents and others in the city.

"We're just looking at the notion to see if its relevant to us," he said.

Creation of a historical district would entail setting aside a portion of the city to preserve its historical character. Two areas might be considered -- in Old Village or near the downtown core of the city.

A possible disadvantage to residents living within such a district is that they would have to get all renovations and repairs approved by the city, according to City Engineer Ken West.

The planning commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Bag-tag idea mulled in City budget

BY PHILIP TARDANI

With the cost of refuse disposal at area landfills expected to rise 60 percent in the coming fiscal year, the City of Plymouth is acting with a user-fee. The city administration recommended implementation of a residential and commercial bag-tag program in the 1990-91 budget unveiled Monday night. "We definitely think bag-tag is the way to go," said city finance director William Graham. "It will help us keep pace with the costs of solid waste disposal." Implementation of the program would be accompanied by a reduction in mills levied for refuse disposal from 2.3 to 1.5 mills. Residents and businesses would then be required to place their garbage in special bags or mark it with similar tags, both of which must be purchased from the city for $1 each. The expectation is that residents will take appropriate materials to the city recycling center where they would be disposed of free, with a resulting decrease in the flow of material to the landfill. The program would become effective July 1 and full implementation would begin Aug. 1, according to administration recommendations.

The city would also discontinue dumpster pickup effective July 1, with implementation to take place in the autumn. Graham said the issue of commercial waste pickup is complicated and will continue to be worked on. Total costs to the city for the bag-tag program, refuse disposal, and recycling is estimated at $653,737.

Hold back on manager search fee

As the City of Plymouth gets closer to selecting a new city manager -- will it happen Monday night? -- it's appropriate to review the recent 10-month process.

When former City Manager Henry E. Graper resigned under pressure last July 3, the city commissioners quickly picked City Clerk-Finance Director William Graham to step up as acting manager.

Then the commissioners sought outside help in recruiting a new manager. The Pennsylvania firm of Bartell and Bartell, which has advised Plymouth and Canton on police and management matters, was hired for about $20,000.

This alarmed city residents who backed Graham's appointment as the permanent city manager, but Mayor Dennis Bila and the "search committee" made the political decision that Graham would be a finalist.

Advice from the Bartell firm was designed to narrow a field of 70-some candidates down to a first-interview, then second-interview level. Graham was added to Bartell's three choices as the fourth candidate to face final interviews.

Following that Saturday morning session, the commission decided to offer the job to one of the candidates -- who danced around with the offer a bit and then declined three weeks later.

The second candidate had told his council he was happy and wasn't leaving, the third candidate announced during the interview that he might not take the job if offered, and Graham could never muster more than two votes of seven.

Round II.

Back out went the commission -- this time raising two good candidates as finalists: Steve Walters, of Northville, (who then received a hefty raise to stay put), and Gordon Jaeger, of Battle Creek, who appears very interested and headed to Plymouth.

Neither of the newest two finalists came from Bartell.

That firm's original front-runner was a fellow from another state who sounded as though he enjoys providing his family with weekend-vacations in Bartell-consulting-towns at taxpayers' expense.

Bartell offered to handle the city's Round II without charging any additional professional service fees.

The firm thus far offered to forego the professional fee for the second search. Since the three-member slate brought to the table by the consulting firm was comprised of folks not ready to take the post, it would seem the firm would be humbled enough to suggest charging only half the original fee of $20,000.

And the firm ought to be lucky to get that.

As the commissioners finalize hiring the new manager, they should also weigh the appropriate fee for Bartell's services in the entire matter. While the consultants certainly helped with screening and interviews as well as the necessary paperwork, they didn't really bring in any contenders.

It's time the commission hire a manager, repair hard-feelings in City Hall, and send Bartell and Bartell packing.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Community opinions

In the margin

By Ken Voyles

Parents should NOT depend on schools

Tragedy brings out the best and the worst in people.

This community has felt tragedy to the core in the recent deaths of Stephen Nalepa and Doug Briggs. So much has come of this, in fact, that maybe it's time to put my two cents in the kettle.

I could write about the district's never ending story - under assault for the use of some teaching material. And this time, like in the past, it centers on a movie, a movie that escaped everyone, apparently, even the Citizens for Better Education (CBE).

More than a movie, though, is a child.

We all know that little Stephen watched "Nobody's Useless" while in his second grade class at Gallimore, but few of us really know what HE saw.

That could be said about a lot of other students in Plymouth-Canton, and across the country; the movie's been around for a while.

But at the tender age of eight Stephen may have been affected by this movie in such a way as to lead to his death. Even the possibility of that.

Student: give teachers right

EDITOR:

As a student in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and a resident of the City of Plymouth, I feel compelled to write concerning the issue of censorship in our schools.

I believe that teachers should have the right to exercise their judgment, and choose materials to supplement their curriculum. After all, they don't make the guidelines, yet they are expected to follow them and make learning an enjoyable experience for their students.

At the same time, they have to please the administration, parents, such groups as the Citizens for Better Education (CBE), and their conscience. It just isn't possible.

In my American History class, we have just finished studying the Constitution. In the First Amendment, the five freedoms are named: freedom of press, speech, religion, petition, and the right to gather peacefully.

Perhaps, the founding fathers forgot one: freedom of education.

KATE SULLIVAN
STUDENT, EAST

means it has to be probed and discussed, but few people want to talk about it except those with more than their own peace of mind at stake.

"Nobody's Useless," is nothing like "The Breakfast Club," or "Excalibur." It's just another tool used by teachers during class instruction, and like "Breakfast," it should be respected as a legitimate way to reach students.

We hear horror stories about children and adults somehow affected by the violence they see on television or in the movies. But no-where has it been proved that such mediums affect people in such a way as to make them commit unspeakable acts. Still, we're all liable to believe it.

It really comes down to being a matter of liability, liability for the school district and the parents who need to take time to find out what their child is learning. In this fast paced society, making time to find out what your child is being taught is near impossible except for the most dedicated parents.

Parents have an obligation NOT to depend on the schools to get it right. They should be aware of what their sons and daughters bring home as homework, what they watch, read or do in class, and how well they progress.

Trust remains inherent to this issue as well. School district are obligated to review and examine everything that might end up in a child's hands, but at the same time they must be allowed to do so with a large degree of freedom.

The only way that can happen is through trust, trust of the teachers who spend more "working" (translate: learning) time with a child on average than most parents.

Trust must also be awarded to the district's managers - no they aren't elected like those Lansing and Washington folk we so happily trust - who generally have a thankless job trying to please all of the people all of the time and succeeding hardly any of the time.

Then when tragedy strikes we all too often turn our heads and point, seeking to blame instead of answer, seeking to hurt instead of heal.

It's time to look beyond a movie, look even beyond a child, and instead focus on an institution we cherish but also deride, an institution we need because we don't have the time or ability to give the greatest gift of all -- wisdom.

We trample on the bed we make -- for ourselves and for others.

Composting coming

With all the woes about the price of getting rid of garbage in The Plymouth-Canton Community, there might be a bright spot on the horizon.

It has to do with disposing of leaves, grass, and other yard waste, estimated to make up 20 per cent of a municipality's waste stream.

Compost Systems Inc. (CSI), proposes to take all of that and turn it into compost, which is another name for fertilizer. And CSI will do it cheap.

The new Canton business is opening on an 80-acre sight at the corner of Beck and Geddes Roads and waiting on the state Senate to appropriate grant money for composting equipment, according to owner Peter Rekshan.

He hopes to be in full operation by mid-May, taking yard waste from Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) members - Plymouth, Canton, and Northville Townships -- and quite possibly, the City of Plymouth.

"We're anxious to get going," Rekshan said. "We've been working on this for a long time."

When the operation is in full swing, WTUA members will pay about $2 a yard to dispose of its compost material, while the city of Plymouth would be charged $4 a yard.

Those figures are compared to the $9.90 a yard the landfills charge, a figure expected to rise to over $12 a yard in July and $16 a yard by October.

"The beauty of it is that this outfit operates at $4 a yard," said Plymouth Finance Director William Graham, who will recommend contracting with CSI to the city commission. "Four dollars a yard is a lot less than $9.90 a yard."

Rekshan also said CSI will guarantee a five year price commitment based on the consumer price index.

"It can represent a savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars (for a municipality) in a one-year period," he said.

The whole idea was made possible by the "quality of life" bond proposals passed in November of 1988.

Of that bond money, WTUA received a $322,000 grant from the Department of Natural Resources. With the grant, the townships will buy composting equipment--grinders, front-end loaders, scales--and lease it to CSI.

From there, Rekshan said, CSI will take the yard waste, mix in wood chips and lay the mixture in rows, where its temperature will rise to about 150 degrees Fahrenheit. It will frequently be ground up, and after one year, you've got "a high quality" fertilizer, he said.

Rekshan said the fertilizer will be sold for a "very nominal" cost and can be used on gardens, lawns, flower beds, or even potted plants.

With malice toward none

It was a bold political move that the Plymouth-Canton School Board took Monday night!

Adding a 50-mill tax increase to the June ballot certainly will capture voter attention and guarantee a record election day crowd at the polling places.

Without getting into the argument of whether it's a justified increase -- the schools ALWAYS need more money -- the ballot question will most assuredly generate questions like: how much is the superintendent making? what kind of car does he drive? how much of an increase did the teachers get for the next three years? is that why they settled so fast?

It was perfectly safe for the school board to vote Monday to add a proposal that would almost triple local school taxes. The two board incumbents whose seats are up, aren't running for reelection.

And such a referendum will swamp the single-purpose candidates in a flood of angry voters just like last year. (That's probably why the board voted unanimously to put it on the ballot.)

WAIT!

You don't really believe the school board actually put such a millage issue on the ballot?

It didn't. But think of the voter turnout it would incite and the impact that would have on the nine-candidate school board race.

It was just an idea.

OK. OK. How about 40 mills?

After Club Ferrari troubles

Canton club ordinance considered

BY KEN VOYLES

Last night the Canton Board of Trustees was expected to consider a new township ordinance to license and regulate teen clubs in the community.

The proposed ordinance, suggested by the Canton Police Department, comes after recent troubles at Club Ferrari, a teen club located in the old Center Stage building on Ford Road at I-275.

According to Canton Police Chief John Santomauro, a "substantial increase" in the amount of criminal activity at the club (including such things as minors in possession of alcohol, fights, and youths driving under the influence of alcohol) "instigated" an investigation into the need for such an ordinance.

Santomauro added that troubles at the local club appear to be "subsiding" as of late, but he still thinks there is a "definite need" for an ordinance regulating teen clubs.

The chief said the township's attorney also supports the need for an ordinance, adding that the attorney said the ordinance is "both constitutional and existing clubs would not be grandfathered in."

The ordinance would govern such areas as: hours of operation; prohibited activities; licensing of a club; revocation of a license; license fee; criteria for license approval; and possible penalties.

The creation of a teen club ordinance began after troubles peaked at Club Ferrari at the beginning of March. At one point, police and fire officials shut the club for a night after a "near riot" situation developed March 2.

More than 50 incidents have been recorded at the club since the first of the year, said police.

The owner of the club said there are few places in the community where teens can socialize, and that most of the troubles at the club have been caused by teenagers from Detroit and Inkster.

Deli-style musical set to hit stage

BY KEN VOYLES

The inspiration for the first song -- "Pastrami, Salami and You" -- from a new musical comedy came out of "nowhere" for two local writers.

Like much of the two-act musical, "Dooley's Deli," written by Mike Davis, of Plymouth Township, and Marc Holland, of the City of Plymouth, the opening number offers a light-hearted look at life in a small town delicatessen.

"We had no idea where we were going with this," said Davis, 26. "We wrote it without an outline. We had written comedy together and song parodies and one really terrible screenplay, but we kept maturing as we got use to each other."

The pair, who first met at Canton High School in 1979, will face opening night tremors tonight when "Dooley's Deli," is performed, at the Roosevelt Auditorium in Ypsilanti. The musical will later be performed by the Plymouth Theatre Guild in late May and early June.

"It's going to be a vomit in the bushes type of night," said Holland, 25, who has a part in the musical, about tonight.

Davis and Holland had their first taste of the theater at Canton in a drama class. They also ended up in a creative writing class together at Canton where they began composing song parodies.

But "serious comedy" took over shortly after graduation (Davis in 1981 and Holland in 1982). Today the partners work at the Fairfield Inn in Canton where they also occasionally work over new ideas.

"Mike and I are sort of ying and yang," said Holland. "When we each wrote out our idea of the sets for Dooley's they were the same. That's how together we are."

Holland even quit his job running a print shop to spend more time on the musical. After Canton, Davis went on the Schoolcraft College where he wrote for the student newspaper and then graduated from Eastern Michigan last year with a telecommunications degree.

While Davis was at Schoolcraft, the pair completed a screenplay, "The President's Not In," a political thriller based on a dream Davis had one night.

"Marc started writing character sketches out on these small print notes," Davis said, "and we went from there."

"That's a lot of the way Dooley's was written," he added.

Dooley's was first started two years ago following another fundraising show Davis had written for a fraternity at Eastern.

"We were having one of those, 'Yeah, didn't we have fun back then,' reunions," said Davis, "when another friend (Mark O'Brien) suggested a musical about a deli."

"We cut him off with a, 'That's a stupid idea,' but a couple weeks later we were talking about it and Marc got up and started doing character sketches."

The first draft, including songs, was completed in the fall of 1988 and another friend was enlisted to compose the music for the show.

The musical takes place in Wiley Falls, a Plymouth-like community. The only deli in town, is being threatened by a huge corporation which wants to buy the land to build a skyscraper.

There are three main characters:

Charlie, the butcher, Billy, an aspiring actor, and Lucy, another employe at the deli who is being pursued as a love interest by a smalltown hood.

The show includes some 19 characters and 11 original songs; the partners wrote all but one of the numbers. The story takes place over a one week period. The first act ends with the threatened takeover, while the second act takes place on the last day of business.

"There's no message in this really," said Holland. "We did it only for yucks. We're only interested in people having a good time with it."

"It's sweet but occasionally mean spirited," added Davis. "There's no clear cut resolution. It's a comedy but it's also realistic. Big business wins out but the little guy has some say."

Many of the characters are based on people Davis and Holland both know. And the music is a touch of everything -- there's a show tune, a bluesy number, ballads, a "patter" song, and a march.

The pair made the connection with the Plymouth Theatre Guild last fall when they wrote a radio show, "The Jimmy Sherrill Show," for the group's Fall Festival performance.

Eventually Davis and Holland were able -- after a "hard sell" -- to convince the guild of putting on Dooley's. (Holland will direct the show with Davis assisting. It will be performed by the guild six times at the end of May and beginning of June.)

"We want the community to see the show," said Holland. "We want the community to support the show."

"We'd like to make some money, but I'd rather have this be a modest success than win the lottery," he added.

As for the future, the pair have some new (and old) ideas which they plan to complete.

"We have a lot of fun working together and we have a lot of fun not working together," said Davis.

If anything, the duo's philosophy of life should help keep them humble.

"Know when you're stupid," said Davis. "That's something to live by. We've had to accept that rule for our own lines in the musical."

During rehearsals for Dooley's the pair have had a "running battle" over who wrote the lines which draw laughter. "We wrote it almost two years ago," said Holland. "And at this point who wrote what is beginning to blur."

"But that doesn't stop us from saying, 'I wrote that,' when someone laughs at something," adds Davis.

Dooley's is a long way from the days when the duo performed stand up comedy routines -- three of six such performances bombed, they said, giving them a .500 batting average.

During one routine, for a bowling group from Toledo, the pair performed a parody of a John Denver song setting it in Toledo. Needless to say, it didn't go over very well. Another time they performed for a group of Boy Scouts, but their off-color humor didn't sit well with a pastor who also happened to be in the audience.

"Never again," will they perform stand up comedy, said the writing partners.

But there are other ways to create laughter, especially when you've got a song like "Pastrami, Salami and You."

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

This week is special for Christians around the world as they celebrate holy week leading up to Easter, and for Jews as they observe Passover.

Along with the religious celebrations many of us also prepare for the Easter bunny by coloring eggs and getting Easter baskets together. Decorating eggs is fun at any age -- college age kids can have as much fun as little kids trying to mix different colors together.

It is also the season to get out the spring clothes and Easter bonnet. As a kid I can remember getting new clothes for Easter being a big deal. One year I picked out a pink dress and thought it was the most beautiful dress in the world. It was the only pink dress I remember having because redheads weren't supposed to wear pink or red.

One year, when my kids were little, we had a neighborhood egg hunt in the backyard after church. It was one of those years when Easter was on a beautiful, warm sunny day. They wanted to do it again the following year, but the snowflakes got in the way.

It is the season for new life and new beginnings. Beautiful spring flowers are a great example of new life. It is amazing how excited we get at the sight of a robin or a daffodil.

Everyone is tired of snow, cold weather and dreary days. After a couple of weeks of gloomy days and grouchy moods, everyone is more than ready for sunshine. Spring fever is long overdue!

No matter how you celebrate the holidays, spring weather has a way of adding to them. I hope all of you have a nice holiday.

The couple will reside in West Germany following a honeymoon in Europe.

Lewis, Shunk

Thomas and Judy Lewis announce the engagement of their daughter, Cara Elizabeth, to Edward Karl Shunk, of Seattle, WA, and son of Mrs. Fritz Pearson and the late Jack Shunk.

Cara Lewis attended Salem High School and is a graduate of the University of Michigan with a degree in psychology. Shunk graduated from the University of Washington and is self employed as a developer.

A mid-May wedding is being planned at the First Presbyterian Church in the City of Plymouth. The couple will reside in Seattle following their honeymoon.

Field amphitheatre

Miller, who called the PTO true "partners" with the school, added, "We're ready to go to work."

The amphitheatre will be used as a place for students to receive outdoor instruction, said Miller, and also as a "quiet place" for students during recess periods.

Miller said the PTO approached school officials at Field about a year and a half ago and asked what "we could best use."

The amphitheater will be built on the west side of the school (located in Canton) and include two concrete tiers as well as landscaping around the sides. The plan, said PTO members, was to utilize the natural setting at the school.

Miller told the board that he did not expect supervision of students would be made any more difficult by the construction of the amphitheatre.

Schools Superintendent John M. Hoben said, "We commend the Field parents for the interest they have shown, for their willingness to raise the funds to support the project, and for the foresight to see what this outdoor amphitheatre can do to enhance the education of children," at Field school.

The board received another gift, of a different kind, Monday when Edmund Adams, a cartographer formerly employed by Hearne Bros. Engineers and Cartographers of Detroit donated a special historical map to the district.

Upon his retirement Adams received three copies of an historical map of the United States which he had developed during his employment. Adams has already donated one copy to his home town of Amsterdam, NY.

The two-sided giant wall map was originally published in 1981 and sold for $200. Hearne Bros. has since gone out of business and Adams said, "I imagine it's out of print now."

The map will be used by eighth grade social studies and geography classes and will be moved from school to school.

"I'm happy to do this," said Adams, who is a resident of the City of Plymouth.

Framed artists ...

"Floral moldings are selling really well right now," said Al Larson, owner of Frame Works in Plymouth. The moldings look great around mirrors, and old antique portraits.

"Little mini pewter frames, are also really popular right now," said Larson.

Artists whose prints are hot sellers currently include: Don Hatfield and Christian Title in serigraphs, Carol and John Collette in etchings, and Harold Altman in lithographs.

"I see a lot of enthusiasm for Pat Buckley Moss," said Larson.

Moss, an artist who has lived in the Shenendoah Valley of Virginia most of her life, and was greatly influenced by Amish, and Mennonite life, will be in Plymouth, at The Frame Works, June 3, from noon to 6 p.m.

Healthy ice cream

When it comes to health food, there is a new non-dairy, lowfat ice cream available at Dairy Junction in Canton. DoleWhip is made with fruit juice, is low in sodium, less than 20 calories an ounce, and come in a variety of flavors, according to the owners Sandra Puroll and Laurel Beyer.

Try a mountain bike

For those who like to pedal their way to work or just as simply enjoy cycling as a recreation, mountain bikes are still a popular item. A hot selling bicycle is the Woodlands all terrain bike for city commuting, according to Brad Swain, of Jerry's Schwinn in Plymouth Township.

For the birds, um bats

We've all heard of birdhouses — many homeowners enjoy the link they provide to local birds and other wildlife — but there is something else on the market worth note.

Bathouses.

That's right — bat...houses.

The houses, much like a birdhouse but with an entrance at the bottom and a place for the bats to hang, are becoming popular among those who aren't afraid of the much maligned creature.

"Bats make for great insect control," said Kevin Clark, owner of Critter Country in Plymouth.

Bathouses range in price from $14-30, he said. Placement of houses is very important since they are designed to attract bats who prefer to perch upside down.

The houses look like any ordinary birdhouse but there are no visible entrances. Until you turn it upside down, that is. Inside are slots in which bats can find a hanging and nesting place.

Synthesized sound

If you're into playing you're own music, there are a variety of synthesizers out there for home use, according to Russ Tkac, manager of Evola Music in Plymouth Township.

The new instruments are tailored for creativity, with recordings ranging from a roaring race car and a raging thunder storm to a deafening helicopter, he said.

Tkac added that he also carries a voice sampler that converts voice pitch into instrument tones such as flute, violin, chello or trombone.

The basic piano should also be a stable seller this spring, Tkac said.

WE HAVE THE RIGHT PERM FOR YOU.

Spring planting

There are a variety of spring flowers that are selling quickly at Heidi's Flowers, according to employe Robert Hall.

Iris, freesia, roses, tulips, liatris, and gerber daisies, lilacs, hyacinth, hibiscus, and Easter lillies are really popular at this time. Bulb gardens are big sellers at Easter.

"Perennials are really popular this year," said Sylvia Graye of Grayes Greenhouse in Canton, especially Sunrise Coreopsis, which is an all-American award winner.

Tomatos are one of the best sellers for local garden plots, she said, along with broccoli, which is selling very well because of its low cholesterol level.

Something new on the market are the Jolly Joker Pansies, Grayes said.

Light colors for spring

"Lighter clothes, and suits are acceptable at corporate level" said Joan Newhardt, from Fred Hill's men's clothing store.

The spring colors this year are tans and light olives and black and white in big checks and plaids, she said. "The sky is the limit when it comes to ties," said Newhardt.

Ties are a little wider and there are a variety of prints and colors available this year, she said.

Lots of silk in sport coats, and black and white is big in sports coats also right now, she said, although the basic blue and gray is always there.

A wedding present!

Susan Prunner sunny about Honda folks

BY MICHELLE IRANI

Susan Prunner, who works at United Paint in Canton, was really excited about her wedding date in June especially after she left Sunshine Honda on March 29.

Prunner left the local auto dealer with $1,000 in certificates for groceries. She was the winner in a promotion sponsored by Sunshine Honda and Great Scott. The object was to guess the exact price of all the groceries piled in the car.

There was $1,159.23 in the car and Prunner's guess was $1,162.48. Had she guessed the exact dollar amount, Prunner would have won the use of a Honda for one year.

"This will be great for my reception," Prunner said. "I wonder if they do catering."

Sunshine Honda on Ann Arbor Road employs 51 people and is owned by Tom Bohlender, a Plymouth resident. The dealership, which opened in 1981, has since expanded to eight other Sunshine dealerships in Michigan, Ohio and New Hampshire.

"The dealership is made up of five different departments," said general manager John Warner. "There is new car sales, used car sales, financing, parts, and service."

The Honda dealership offers approximately seven different cars, which range in price from under $7,000, to more than $20,000.

"Business is great," said Warner. "We have the greatest product there is."

"Honda cars were ranked as the best cars in the world by 'Car and Driver,' 'Road and Track,' 'Motor Trend,' and by J.D. Powers / Associates," Warner added.

The used car department may have up to 50 different makes of cars, vans, and trucks at once for sale.

The parts department carries $350,000 worth of parts, so the customer doesn't have to wait.

The service department offers a special guarantee on any work performed, stating that you have a 30 day money back guarantee, if the problem isn't solved to your satisfaction.

"Our philosophy," said Warner "is the customer is number one. The customer is the boss. I tell my staff, I'm not the boss, you're not here to make me happy."

"If we can't make you happy, we don't want your money," he continued.

Prunner, who will be married June 23, is also hoping for a new car from Sunshine Honda by then.

The sales staff of Sunshine Honda congratulate Susan Prunner.

A little light reading

There are a variety of fiction and non-fiction titles on the best seller list this spring, according to Eleanore Adams at the Little Professor On the Park bookstore in downtown City of Plymouth.

If you're looking for fiction, try Tom Clancy's "Clear and Present Danger," a tale of super-power struggles against terrorist drug kingpins in South America. You may also find "All I Really Needed to Know I Learned in Kindergarten," by Robert Fulgham entertaining. It's a collection of light anecdotes, Adams said.

"A brief History of Time," by physicist Stephen Hawking is expected to remain a best-seller in the coming months. Adams said two other popular titles -- both business oriented -- are "Liars Poker," by former Wall Street broker Michael Lewis, and "Megatrends 2000," which explores new directions in business for the future.

There is also a Dr. Seuss title on the best-seller list -- "Oh the Places You'll Go," a story about growing up.

Go fly a stunt kite

Spring means a lot of things to a lot of people, but to kids it often means a chance to go fly a kite.

Jon Trennepohl, owner of kites and fun things in Plymouth's Old Village, has just the thing for the child in us all.

Trennepohl markets a wide range of "stunt" kits, specially designed kites which are controlled with two or more lines. The big, maneuverable kites, are not always best suited for beginners, but once you get the hang of it you'll never want to fly anything else.

Trennepohl, who demonstrates the stunt kit concept each Wednesday at Salem High School from 5-7 p.m. (on the west side of the school), said most stunt kites are made in the United States, where stunt kite flying has slowly begun to pick up steam among sports enthusiasts.

The local shop offers one of the largest arrays of stunt kites to be found in lower Michigan, said Trennepohl, who noted that stunt kites can be flown year round and don't have to be limited to spring or those lazy days of summer.

Stunt kites come in all shapes, sizes and colors. They range in price from $30 to more than $225. A high tech kite from Cornwall, England, runs $200 and is considered "the ultimate for light wind."

There are box kites, Eurokites, grand master kites, flexfoils, hyper-kites, and even team kites (for three-four member groups).

April means glass

"April is glass month," said Nancy Tilly, who works at Chameleon Galleries. "We have five different artists that do glass work," said Tilly.

Besides the glass, other popular spring items should include handmade bunnies for Easter, and some spring clothing, such as jumpsuits.

Classic style returns

Bright colors are in this season said Ginny Braidwood, and Debbie Eisenlord, co-managers of Me and Mr. Jones, especially pinks, blues, purples, tans, and an array of primary hues.

Classic styles with an emphasis on comfort, and lots of easy to wear knits will also be popular, they said.

There are a variety of colorful and interesting accessories to enhance even casual styles, including hats which are selling quite well, said Braidwood and Eisenlord.

Wild flower seeds

Something new on the market is wild flower seed, now available for residents who want to spice up their property with wildflowers and attract wildlife. The seed, which ranges in price from $9-10 a canister, is available in various types.

The wildflower seed is tailored to attracting different types of birds (such as hummingbirds), beneficial insects and butterflies. The seed kits are for native flowers and are currently available at Critter Country in Old Village.

Also at Critter Country, homeowners can find a wide range of feeders for hummingbirds. "April is hummingbird month," said owner Kevin Clark. "They are making their return to this area right now."

Clark said color and shape of feeders is very important to finding one to suit your specific needs. He said the type of food is also important. Hummingbird supplies range in price of $4-10.

Creating a habitat

Residents interested in turning their backyard into an officially recognized wildlife habitat area may want to consider an official habitat kit put out by the National Wildlife Federation.

The "Gardening With Wildlife" kit, which is available at Critter Country in Plymouth's Old Village, provides all of the information a homeowner might need to get his or her yard registered with the wildlife federation.

The kits, which run about $20, include sample backyard plans, lists of animal feed, tools and types of habitat, as well as drafting paper and charts to show residents how to revamp their yard to best suit the wildlife of this area.

Community Deaths

35 years with P-C schools

Gibson, local educator

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Noted Plymouth-Canton educator, Earl T. Gibson, died Thursday at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township. He was 65.

Gibson spent 35 years with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district as a teacher, principal and school administrator.

"He was a outstanding educator and administrator who served The Plymouth Canton Community for a number of years," said John Hoben, schools superintendent.

A memorial service for Gibson will be held tomorrow (April 12) at 3:30 p.m. at the Lambert-Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home in Plymouth Township.

Gibson was born in 1924 in Pennsylvania and raised in Toledo, OH. He received a bachelor's in elementary education from the University of Toledo and in 1950 moved to Michigan and began his teaching career in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools District.

After teaching at Smith and Allen elementary schools, Gibson served as principal of Gallimore, Tanger, Bird and Farrand schools.

He later became director of administrative services for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, a position he held until he returned to Tanger and then Farrand as principal.

"He chose to go back and be with the kids," Hoben said.

Gibson retired in 1985.

Thomas Workman, principal of East Middle School and a close friend of Gibson, said the late educator's influence will be missed.

"He was just an up-beat, positive person—his positive influence not only affected kids, but it affected staff members and parents alike," Workman said. "The amount of space he occupied with a positive attitude will probably never be filled."

Gibson was also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, the Order of the Elks in Plymouth, the Community Fund, Masonic Temple, American Legion and the American Red Cross.

He is survived by daughters Kerry Moore, of Durand, and Mary Jane Ganepy, of Plymouth; sons Thomas Gibson, of Montrose, and William Gibson, of Grayslake, IL; fiancée Helen Wetnight, of Bullhead City, AZ; sisters Dorothy Goon, of Toledo, and Elsie Frank, of Harrisburg; brothers Robert Gibson, of Palos Verdes, CA, and Mahlon Gibson, of Chicago, and Edgar Gibson, of Toledo; and 12 grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association or the Earl T. Gibson Memorial Fund, Education Excellence Foundation, P.O. Box 61, Plymouth Mi., 48170.

Lawrence, church member

Gregg Alan Lawrence, 30, of Plymouth, died March 31 in Detroit. Prayers for him were said April 3 at Lambert Vermeulen Trust 100 Funeral Home and a mass was held at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Plymouth with the Rev. Joseph Plawecki officiating.

Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

Mr. Lawrence was a programmer analyst for the federal government and a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church and the Plymouth Elks No. 1780.

Survivors include: parents Carl A. and Anna C., of Citrus Springs, FL; grandmother Marie E. Denas, of Malvern, AR; brother Andy C., of Pleasant Ridge; sisters Jan M. Gunthner and Carol A. Cottrell, of Plymouth; and nephews Todd, Adam and Damon.

Dersey, retired from U-M

Bryan W. Dersey, 77, of Plymouth, died March 24 in Detroit. Funeral services were held March 27 at the Schrader Funeral Home. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

For 1990 track season Salem girls ready

BY RITA DERBIN

With the leadership of tri-captains Jenny Harris, Tammy Hickey and Tracy Livermore, the Salem girls track team is ready to compete.

In the field events, Harris, a senior with three years varsity experience, will lead the high jumpers. Her personal record is 5-2 and Coach Mark Gregor thinks she can jump higher.

'90 Previews

"I think she'll top that this year," said Gregor. "She's going to have a great senior year."

Other top high jumpers include freshman Yolanda Jackson and sophomore Martha Bol, both are capable of jumping five feet, according to Gregor. Just behind the top three are sophomore Darcie Miller and freshman Cyndi Platter, who are jumping around 4-6, Gregor said.

The long jumpers will be led by two former league champions. Livermore, a junior and defending conference champion, has a personal best of 15-11 and Kim Ploucha, another junior and the 1988 conference champion, can jump 15-7. Behind them is freshman Dana Driscoll.

On shotput are senior Christina Simpson, junior Krista Freece and sophomore Toni Lupo.

Discus throwers are Simpson, Freece and junior Kristin Bernhardt.

800-meter runners include senior Jennie Marshke, Platter, and freshmen Cory Golkiewicz and Stacey Witthoff.

Harris will lead the hurdlers. She can run the 100-meter hurdles in 15.7 and Gregor feels she will get stronger.

Sophomore Theresa Giacherio is just behind Harris and sophomore Cherylann Paravantes should also be strong.

In the 300-meter hurdles, Harris holds the school record of 47.6. Gregor thinks she can get under 45 seconds by the end of the season. Giacherio is running the 300-meter hurdles at about 49 seconds and will improve, Gregor said. Platter is also slated for the event.

In the open sprints, Livermore was second last year at the conference meet in the 100-meter dash with 12.9.

Also running the sprints will be junior Andrea Kinnelly, and three freshmen — Jackson, Vanessa Benning and Driscoll. Other sprinters include sophomore Allison Fyke and junior Sarah Ruete.

Sophomores Carla Kehrier, Martha Bol; freshman Tonya Wheeler and Ruete will run the 400-meter dash.

Tammy Hickey, junior Payal Parekh, sophomore Jill Czaplicki and junior Holly Fody will run the 1600-meter races. The main 3200-meter runners will be Hickey, Allison Rybski, Fody and Czaplicki.

800-meter runner are Marshke, Bernhardt, Beth Turomsha and Witthoff.

As of now, the relays will consist of Ploucha, Wheeler, Fyke and Livermore in the 800-meter relays; Ploucha, Benning, Livermore and Jackson, 400-meter relay; and Kehrier, Wheeler, Bol, and Livermore, the 1600-meter relay.

"We're probably just as talented as anyone," said Gregor. "How we do will depend on how hard we work and how we progress during the season."

Last year the Rocks were 3-2 in the Lakes division and 6-2 overall, their only losses came from Livonia Stevenson and Farmington, two teams the Rocks will have to beat to be in a position to win the conference championship this year.

"We have the kids to do it this year," said Gregor. "We're ready."

CEP soccer squads remain undefeated

BY RITA DERBIN

Both Canton and Salem are undefeated early in the season in Centennial Education Park soccer action.

Canton is 2-0 after a 2-1 victory over Livonia Franklin Monday night. Christina Reilly and Jenny Russell scored in the game. Assists went to Leah Hutko and Amy Tortora.

"It was a very good overall team effort," said Canton coach Don Smith of the victory over Franklin. "In our first test of the season, the girls played well."

On Saturday, the Chiefs defeated Adrian, 9-0. Russell had two goals and one assist in the game. Other scorers include Colleen Connell, two goals; Hutko, one goal; Ayana Nash, one goal, one assist; Erin Morgan, one goal; Lynn Nichols, one goal, two assists; Jenny Davis, one goal; Laurie

McNamara, two assists, Denise Koontz, one assist and Reilly, one assist.

Salem remains undefeated with a 1-0-1 record after tying the defending state champion Troy Athens team, 0-0 on Saturday and defeating Farmington Harrison, 12-0, on Friday.

In Friday's game, Kris Goff had three goals and one assist. Other scorers include backup goalie Sara Eglor, two goals, one assist; Erin Harvey, two goals, one assist; Erin Bagoczi, two goals, one assist; Kim Goff, one goal, one assist; Jenny Marshall, one goal; Amy Krajieski, one goal; Sara Hayes, two assists; and Jenny Oleksiak, two assists.

All state goalie Jenny Emmett recorded two shutouts for the Rocks.

Canton will host Livonia Churchill tonight at 7 p.m. Both teams will then resume action after Easter break.

In opening relays

Harris leads Salem girls

BY RITA DERBIN

Senior Jenny Harris had a big day at the Spartan Relays on Saturday.

The Salem girls track team had 15 points to finish ninth out of 36 Class A teams competing at Michigan State. Harris placed first in the high jump (15-4), and fifth in the 55-meter hurdles (9.1).

Harris was also a member of the shuttle relay which placed sixth (39.96). Other members include Theresa Giacherio, Cyndi Platter and Sue Viji. Tammy Hickey was fifth in the 3200-meter run.

Canton was 16th at the relays with eight points.

On April 21, the Rocks and Chiefs will both participate in the Lady Chief Relays.

Canton baseball experienced

BY RITA DERBIN

With a new-look Western Lakes Activities Association baseball format, the Canton baseball team is hoping to improve on last year's 23-8 season.

'90 Previews

This season the Chiefs, who won their division and the districts before losing to Catholic Central in the regionals last season, will only play one Lake division team during the regular season, which leaves six open dates.

Canton has added quality teams to their schedule to prepare them for postseason including Harper Woods Notre Dame, the defending state champions.

"It should be interesting," said coach Fred Crissey. "Hopefully the competition will motivate us to play hard every time out and earn every win."

Leading the way for the Chiefs will be three-year starter, senior Jason Dembny. Dembny, an all division player last season, will catch and bat clean up for the Chiefs.

Several experienced outfielders return this season.

Senior Ron Groh will start in left-field and back up Dembny behind the plate. Mike Wougman will start in leftfield when Groh catches.

Centerfield will be occupied by Dave Makara, a two-year player. Makara plays his position well and runs good on the basepath, according to Crissey.

Chris James, a junior power hitter, will play rightfield and junior Jason Riggs should see playing time in the outfield.

The infield will consist of seniors Ron Barlow at first and Jim Frige at second base, and junior Jeff Maxwell at third base. Senior Chris Robinson will see time as a utility infielder.

The starting three pitchers for the Chiefs should be Geoff Allen, John Anthony and Scott Kennedy.

Allen, another three-year starter, will pitch and play shortstop. Allen had three victories last season, and as the regular third basemen, he batted .325.

John Anthony will be a lefthanded pitcher and play some first base. According to Crissey he will primarily be a pitcher but will add some offensive punch, too.

Scott Kennedy, who won three games last season, will be the righthanded power pitcher on the staff. Crissey said he throws hard and throws strikes.

"Those three kids will battle and compete every time out," Crissey said of his pitching staff. "And they've got experience and six varsity wins behind them."

Crissey is pleased with the team's work ethic and is looking forward to the season.

"We've been waiting over three weeks," he said. "Now it's time to play. This is a veteran group -- we'll have five to seven seniors starting and they know what it takes to win."

The Chiefs will open their season at home against Westland John Glenn

Plymouth athlete leads Country Day

BY RITA DERBIN

All high school athletes want to be on winning teams, but for most, winning a state title is just a dream.

One Plymouth resident has been fortunate enough to be a part of two state basketball championships.

Kurt Bloomhuff, a 6-1 senior guard, and his team, the Detroit Country Day Yellowjackets, recently won the Class B state title over Saginaw Buena Vista, 59-53. Last year Country Day won the Class C title.

"It was better this year because we did it at a higher level," he said. "It was real exciting playing in front of 20,000 people at The Palace."

According to Country Day Coach Kurt Keener, Bloomhuff never needed any motivation to work hard.

"He's been our long range shooter off the bench the past couple years," Keener said of Bloomhuff who averaged 14 points a game during the playoffs. "He's accepted his role and did a tremendous job for us providing leadership off the bench."

"Kurt's been not only a quality basketball player but a quality young man," Keener added. "He came to Country Day to get involved in many activities and to challenge himself. I think he has accomplished all his goals as an athlete and student."

Bloomhuff, who also runs cross country and plays right field for the Country Day baseball team, has gotten a lot of help and support along the way from his parents, Jim and Dorothy.

No matter where they played, Dorothy followed Kurt and cheered the Yellowjackets on. And, Jim, who taught Kurt and his four older brothers, Matt, Greg, Mark and Brad, how to play basketball, has always been there for an encouraging word.

"(My father) was my first coach," Bloomhuff said. "He never pressured me, just helped me along in grade school, even though he was my coach."

"He's never criticized any of my high school games," Bloomhuff added. "He's really helped me play, if not better, smarter."

And when he graduates in May, Kurt will take many memories with him, especially those of his best game, which was in the state finals against Ishpeming last year when he scored 13 points, including three three-point baskets.

"It was at Crisler Arena and it was our first title," Bloomhuff recalls. "It was so exciting to score that many points and then win it all."

Bloomhuff may enjoy playing for championship sports teams at Country Day, but first and foremost, he went to the school for the academics.

A Summa Cum Laude the past four years and member of the Cum Laude Society at school, Bloomhuff has maintained a 3.9 grade point average and will attend Duke University in North Carolina this fall as a pre-med student.

"I could have chosen a small school and played basketball or the best school possible," said Bloomhuff, who is interested in biological science and pathology. "I chose Duke because it's the best school academically."

In eighth grade Bloomhuff was accepted at Country Day and has been playing for the Yellowjackets' basketball team the past three years.

"I've lived in Plymouth my whole life and at first it was tough going away to school," said Bloomhuff. "But I don't regret my decision, I've gotten a great education and I've had the chance to play for a champion -- two champions. I can't believe it."

"How many people can say they were on two state championship basketball teams?"

Coaches, athletes react to bizarre training

"I've never heard of that (method of training)," said Canton football coach Bob Khoenic. "I can't imagine people doing something like that. I've never seen it before and I've never heard of it before. It isn't something we encourage at all."

CEP Athletic Director Paul Cummings had never heard of the training method either.

"In regards to the program, I've never seen or heard of anything like that. (Briggs' death) is a real shock."

Cummings, who did not know Briggs personally, said that he had heard Briggs was a promising athlete and added that he has been in contact with all CEP coaches and has discussed issues of the training programs. He said CEP coaches have talked to the athletes about the programs.

Salem Athletic Manager Gary Balconi also said that he had never heard of the method which killed Briggs but feels there is a need for weight training in high school athletics.

"I feel real good about our athletic

Briggs' father said his son was "hard to reach and communicate with," but added that he had not noticed any changes in his behavior recently.

Briggs' football coach at Salem, Tom Moshimer, has said that none of his players on the grid squad practiced such a training technique.

Moshimer told police that Briggs, "fit in well with the older players and seemed to be liked by the other players," after Briggs was brought up to the varsity team.

An English teacher at Salem, MaryAnn Turovaara, told police that Briggs was in a class, called "Identity in Literature," where students had read "A Separate Peace," in which one of the characters commits suicide.

One of Briggs' friends, Brain Connell, told police that Doug was "doing better in school and was going to be the starting center on the varsity football team in fall."

programs. Kids are in the weight room from 2:15 to 7 p.m. every day — all year long the weight room is open for all sports.

"It a preventative measure for the athletes," Balconi added, saying that proper weight training prevents injuries by strengthening muscles. "We're not out to make muscle men, but to build muscles."

Senior Salem running back Ryan Johnson agrees that weight training is important.

"It has most definitely helped me," Johnson, who also played the forward position in basketball. "Lifting weights really helped during the third and fourth quarter — it helps you go strong the whole game."

Johnson said that while on the football team, the players worked three times a week during preseason training and once a week during the season. The basketball team also worked out once a week during the season, according to Johnson, who added that the teams were always supervised.

"There was always a coach there during practices willing to show us how to do the right techniques," Johnson said.

Tom Moshimer, varsity football coach at Salem, has said Briggs possessed a lot of potential as a player for the Rocks. He was unavailable for further comment, however.

According to Beth Schmucker, a certified athletic trainer at Sportopaedics — Total Fitness Concepts in Royal Oak, if Briggs was attempting to strengthen his neck muscles, he was misguided by the information he had.

"The technique used for strengthening the neck has nothing to do with the throat region," she said, adding that a harness is used to support the base of a person's skull and under the chin to cause distraction of the neck vertebrae, which stretches the night for a public interview at 7 p.m. before the regular commission meeting.

It is expected that the commission will make a decision about the post sometime after Monday's session, probably by April 23.

neck.

"The concept is to pull your head way up and stretch the neck and therefore stretch your muscles," she added.

Barry Ruppenthal, another certified athletic trainer added, "Kids have to be taught properly — they have to be taught what they read in (media guides and weight training magazines) isn't the way to improve yourself.

"Being fooled by that hype is where you get in trouble," Ruppenthal added. "It takes hard, tedious work to get to the top — there's not a secret training regimen. Whether you're a football player or a world class wrestler it takes hard work."

City budget work begins

Revenues generated from property taxes and bag sales are estimated at $741,540, leaving a "cushion" of $87,803.

That figure, however, is based on current landfill disposal costs, which are expected to rise Graham.

"We appear to have a very substantial cushion if refuse disposal costs stay the way they are," he said. "However, we have every reason to believe we will see landfill cost increases."

Graham said the administration also recommended bidding out the refuse pickup contract for 1990-91 to look for more competitive pricing and the level of services provided.

Finally, to keep track of the solid waste refuse cost problem in the future, the administration recommended taking refuse disposal costs out of the budget's general fund and into a "solid waste resource recovery fund," where they can be monitored more closely.

"The fund is a much better device to measure revenues and expenditures," Graham said. "We want to do a considerable better job of monitoring expenditures."

Board expected to appoint Mettetal group

The Canton Board of Trustees was expected to appoint members to a new airport study committee during last night's regular meeting.

Expected to be named to the committee, which will look at the possible municipal purchase of Mettetal Airport by the township, are: Peter Bundarin, Robert Olson, Ken Bennane, Vic Gustafson, Richard Cebulak, Sam Marshall, Mildred Murphy, Michael Clark, James Darling, Jerry Jarvis and Dan Barton.

The committee will spend the next four to five months studying the issue of municipal airport ownership and formulate a recommendation for the Canton board, said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

Bila said Jaeger "compares very favorably" with Walters and is a strong candidate with a good record as city manager of Battle Creek, a position he held for 14 years.

"He (Jaeger) had a very favorable reaction from everyone on the commission," Bila said. "He did a great job in Battle Creek and I'm sure he'll do a great job in Plymouth."

The commission is willing to pay "slightly less than $60,000," he said. He added that budget constraints prevent paying more than $60,000 for the position.

"It would be hard for a lot of people to swallow (a raise like that) considering we're not giving our own employees raises," he said.

Jaeger has 23 years of experience in the city managerial field and now works for Cereal City Development, a non-profit organization promoting Battle Creek.

He said that he misses being a city manager and is confident that he can handle the city's budget deficit problems.

Christmas card competition

Budding artists can submit a five by seven inch original sketch, photograph, watercolor or other medium, of a familiar Plymouth winter scene for the annual Plymouth Community Arts Council (PCAC) Christmas Card competition.

The winner of the 1990 competition will receive $100 and be acknowledged on the back of the card, which is distributed during the holidays each year. Rights for reproduction will become the property of the PCAC.

The deadline for submitting art work is April 16. Efforts should be delivered or mailed to the PCAC office at 332 S. Main in the City of Plymouth.

For further information on the card competition call 455-3260.

All proceeds from the sale will go to benefit the PCAC's various programs.

Doug to leave last downtown gas station

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
Downtown Plymouth's last gas station has an uncertain future.

Doug's Plymouth Amoco, a full-service auto fuel and repair shop since the early 1930's, notified its employees over the weekend that the lease-operator's business will be moving to a new location effective June 1.

Owner Doug Swatosh, who operated the station leased from Amoco for the past 11 years after a succession of operators at that location, blamed uncertainty about the location's future and growth potential for his decision to move to another station.

A spokesman for Amoco Oil said he was not aware of Swatosh's letter and could not comment on the station's future once the lease runs out.

The Amoco site, blamed for fuel contamination under buildings in the area, is currently the focus of a federal lawsuit filed against Amoco by the Mayflower Hotel's Ralph G. Lorenz and family. Lorenz said that fuel contamination was first discovered in 1965 after the Mayflower Meeting House was opened; the lawsuit was filed last year "when we reached the point where we knew they (Amoco) couldn't fix it."

Michael Sutherland, Lorenz's attorney, said the lawsuit is scheduled for trial in June-July on two issues: recovering expenses estimated to be $300,000, and restoring the site and nearby properties. "We want a complete cleanup," he said.

Lorenz said Monday he wished Swatosh wasn't in the middle of the feud with Amoco. "I'm sorry to see that (he's moving out). Doug is a helluva good guy -- he's a good citizen," Lorenz said.

"He always ran a good station," Lorenz said of Swatosh. "He took good care of our customers at the hotel."

If it is closed, only one traditional full-service gas station will remain in the entire City of Plymouth -- Evenson's Shell at Sheldon and Ann Arbor roads, on the extreme southwest corner of the city.

The three other gas stations closest to downtown: Clark on S. Main Street, Speedway on N. Main, and Union 76 on Ann Arbor Trail are gasoline only, with no service facilities. (The city

Getting down to business condemned the Boron station at Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey for the McAuley Health Center.)

"Our lease is up in June, and with all the uncertainties under the lawsuit, the opportunity arose to grow -- but at a different location," Swatosh said. "I don't know what the future of this station will be."

He said he is negotiating to operate a full-service Amoco station and car wash at Eight Mile and Farmington roads in Livonia. "It was a tough decision and with regret I'm leaving the Plymouth community; but we'll still live here."

The Amoco spokesman said the oil company has submitted new plans "for additional investigation" of the site to both the city and the state Department of Natural Resources.

Isuzu, Mitsubishi coming

Isuzu Motors, America, and Mitsubishi Electric Sales are planning to build in Plymouth Township's North Plymouth Commerce Center.

Isuzu's plans call for a 41,000-square-foot, three-building Isuzu Technical Center. The complex would employ 70 people involved in the engineering and testing of automobiles to meet Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) requirements.

The township approved the construction subject to use being reviewed in one year to determine if security problems develop.

Mitsubishi wants to build a sales and marketing office and research and development center to employ 70-80 people.

The company's application was tabled by the Plymouth Township Planning Commission on March 21 to permit review of use and parking requirements.

It is expected to be further discussed at the April 18 meeting of the commission.
