Canton Police wound resident after attack

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A 25-year-old Canton man was shot by police at his home early Monday morning after throwing and charging police with knives, said Canton Police.

Although Canton Police declined to release the name of the wounded man and some other information, pending a complete report by the Michigan State Police and the filing of charges, the following scenario was produced from comments by Canton Police spokesperson Pat Nemecek, neighbors and other sources:

Police were called to a home in the 7000 block of Bircklan at 1:10 a.m.

Monday by family members who had been chased from the home by the distraught man.

When Canton Police arrived, the man, identified by sources as Paul Vachher, 25, was armed with knives, which he threw at police before charging the officers.

They fired and Vachher was shot three times by police. Nemecek said he was shot in the neck, abdomen and grazed in the thigh by police fire. None of the officers involved were injured.

Vachher then ran back into his house and locked himself inside. The Western District-wide recycling

Schools approve waste plan

BY KEN VOYLES

The implementation of a district-wide waste management plan in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will begin this fall.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education unanimously approved the development and implementation of a new waste plan Monday. It calls for the recycling of all polystyrene products used in the district's school lunch program.

Board Trustee David Artley called the plan "a first" in Michigan.

Artley, a member of a district's ad hoc waste management committee looking into the idea, said, "We have a unique opportunity in this district with this plan."

He said the new program, which will depend on the cooperation of district students, is an outgrowth of "several discussions" over the past month.

"There's already just a tremendous awareness out there among the student population," said Artley.

Board Trustee Barbara Graham said she supported the project but wanted to make sure students in the district were properly prepared to do their part.

District officials said the plan

The identity of the driver involved in the hit-and-run death of 14-year-old Canton youth Melissa Chisholm last Monday still remains unknown, according to Canton Police.

Canton Police officer Pat Nemecek said the driver of the vehicle, believed to be a dark metallic gray Ford Escort, had not contacted police as of late Monday. He said police have no new leads as to the identity of the driver.

School Board: build at the Park

BY KEN VOYLES

It appears members of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education agree with the district administration that new facilities should be built at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) to ease future housing problems.

The board discussed the district's three major housing options Monday so that it could clarify its position before a 1991 bond steering committee is in place.

Dean Swartzwelter, board president, made it clear, however, that the board was not ruling out any of the three proposed options just yet. He said the board discussion was only to help give the district administration "some guidance" in preparing for a possible bond issue next year.

The three options looked at by the board include building a new comprehensive high school, using Central Middle School as a third high school, or expanding (and renovating) facilities at CEP. District administrators have already recommended the expansion and renovation at CEP option.

According to John M. Hoben, district superintendent, building a new facility (not necessarily a high school) at CEP offers the "greatest merit" and is the "most economical at this time."

Hoben said a new "comprehensive" high school was cost prohibitive ($35-$40 million) and that turning Central back into a high school (it was once Plymouth High School) raises a variety of issues, including the potential cost, redrawing of school boundaries and adapting scheduling.

Hoben said a new facility at CEP might include classrooms, a media center, or even a new cafeteria area. He said the district could consider expanding Salem High or constructing a separate building on CEP grounds.

Board Trustee Roland Thomas said that his "gut feeling" pointed to a new CEP facility as the most "feasible" option open to the district.

"It makes more financial sense to me," Thomas said.

Board Trustee Jeanette Wines agreed with Thomas, while Dave Artley said he did not "have a problem with the basic premise" of a new classroom facility at CEP. But Artley said he wanted consideration given to including additional library and possibly cafeteria space.

Artley added that altering Central leads to the question of how to replace it as a middle school in the district.

Board Trustee Marilyn Schwinn said she liked the idea of Central as a "performing arts school," but could not place its redesign at the top of her option list.

Compost committee: don't build in Canton

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Recommendations from a citizens committee formed to clarify residents' concerns over a proposed composting site at Geddes and Beck roads in Canton will be presented to the Canton Board of Trustees within the next month.

Committee chairperson John Osborne said the committee was recommending two alternatives to the board. The first recommendation is to not build the composting site in Canton, he said.

The second recommendation is that if the proposed site is built it should be regulated by Canton in the form of a yearly permit, Osborne added.

"The committee doesn't want the composting site, period," said Osborne.

If the board decides to go ahead with the composting site, Osborne said the committee wants the site to be inspected monthly by citizens in addition to the yearly permit. He said the committee asked for the monthly inspection to avoid having other rubbish dumped at the site.

"The committee visited composting sites in Ypsilanti, Milan and the test facility in Canton," said Osborne. "We found garbage on the Ypsilanti site. We don't want that happening in Canton."

The proposed composting program, to cover 80 acres at the southeast corner of Geddes and Beck roads, would be run by Composting Systems, Inc. (CSI) of Ypsilanti said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

Yack said day-to-day operation of the site would be handled by Dave Denski, who owns Canton Waste-Recycling and is the manager of the Canton Composting Test Facility.

CSI was contracted by the members of the Western Township Utilities

Authority (WTUA), made up of Plymouth, Canton, and Northville townships, to run the proposed composting site.

The project began with the help of a $250,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said Yack.

Yack added that a composting operation of one kind or another must be in place in by the first week of July or WTUA faces the possibility of losing the grant money.

The composting center would use a unique technique involving yard waste and wood chips to reduce the smell often associated with compost piles, according to Denski and Peter Rekshan, of CSI. The compost material would later be sold on the open market.

Rekshan said the site could become a regional facility, offering compost space to other communities.

Memorial Day parade, wreath laying

BY SCOTT DANIEL

The annual Memorial Day celebration honoring local armed forces veterans will kickoff at 10 a.m. this Monday (May 28) when planes from the Yankee Air Force fly over downtown City of Plymouth.

The Memorial Day parade, which starts at 10 a.m. with the flyover, begins at Theodore Street, travels south along Main Street to Ann Arbor Trail and ends in front of the Plymouth Rock veterans memorial. The rock is located in front of the Wilcox House at the junction of Union Street, Penniman Avenue and Ann Arbor Trail.

The Yankee Air Force flight will feature three World War II planes, according to parade chairperson Robert Nelson, of Plymouth's Mayflower Lt. Gamble Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) post.

Bartell to get $19,531

BY PHILIP TARDANI

The Pennsylvania consulting firm of Bartell & Bartell will receive $19,531.95 for its services in helping the City of Plymouth find a new city manager.

That amount represents a 36 per cent decrease in Bartell's professional fee, according to City Commissioner John Vos III, who presented the manager selection committee's recommendations to the Plymouth City Commission Monday.

Vos said Bartell's original fee was $25,776, but that was reduced to $19,531 because the selection committee felt legally comfortable with that figure.

"We really didn't have that much legal ground to stand on regarding the bill," he said. "It was a political decision."

The consultants brought three final manager candidates before the city commission. The commission's top choice, Randall Byrne, turned the job down.

Another one of the finalists, Jerome Strutner, said during a public interview that he did not know if he would take the job if it was offered.

Schools change bus policy

BY KEN VOYLES

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education Monday moved to reduce the distance required before a student will be transported on district buses.

By a unanimous vote the board agreed to the first transportation policy change since 1976, according to Dale Goby, district director of transportation.

The policy revision permits transportation of all students in grades K-5 who live more than a mile from their school of attendance.

The district's previous policy called for transporting students in K-2 if they lived more than a mile and students in grades three-five if they lived more than 1.5 miles.

"Essentially the change reduces the distance required to be eligible for transportation in all grades K-5," said Goby. "It makes sense to move in this direction."

The new policy will take effect after a second posting in June.

Dean Swartzwelter, president of the board, said the district's previous policy was "very difficult on families."

Swartzwelter added that the policy change was "triggered" by the completion of the move of all ninth grade students to Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Goby, who agreed that the current system "can present problems for parents" with children in various grades, said about 250 additional students would be affected by the change this fall.

Goby also said the effect of the policy change on next year's budget would be "minimal."

John M. Hoben, district superintendent, said the change would not require additional buses or personnel.

Library needs to be assessed

The Plymouth District Library Board has contracted with a Minnesota consultant to conduct a space needs study for the Plymouth Public Library.

According to board president Carol Davis, over the last five years the number of residents with library cards at the Dunning-Hough Library has increased 50 per cent, from 11,090 to 16,662.

In that same period, Davis said, the number of items checked out has gone up 47 per cent, from 179,592 to 264,662 per year.

"Residents of all ages are using the library more than ever before," Davis said. "The demands for programs and materials continue to increase, and we need to look at what kinds of space we will need to meet those demands over the next 15 to 20 years."

Canton will select recreation expansion firm

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Two proposals were presented at the study session of the Canton Board of Trustees last Tuesday by firms seeking to manage the construction of additions to the township's recreation complex behind the Canton Administration Building.

A decision on the firm, either Grissom Associates of Farmington Hills, or Pollack Design Consultants of Ann Arbor, will be made at the board's regular meeting on June 12, said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

Yack said the purpose of the additions is to attract families to the complex. "We want a place where families can come for three or four hours and have a family outing," he said. "We don't have a park like that yet."

Michael Gouin, superintendent of parks and recreation services for Canton, said the township has more than $800,000 budgeted for the project. He said the money came from grants by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and township funds.

Both firms gave 30 minute presentations to the board last week.

Grissom Associates stressed the importance of not harming the environment during construction of the project.

"We want to work with the land, not destroy it," said John Grissom, of the firm. "We also will take special care not to harm the wildlife."

Grissom presented a slide presentation of past work to the board and then showed designs of possible development for the recreation complex. The firm said a key to the project will be fusing the existing to the new part of the development. Grissom also pointed to three possible entry points to the complex from Chery Hill Road as keys for public access.

"We think everyone -- the public, the board and the architectural firm -- should be involved in the process of developing the project," said Mark Russell of the firm. "Team work will create a good product."

Pollack Design Consultants stressed that they were a full service firm.

Peter Pollack, owner of the firm, said the company has the capability of handling every facet of the project. He said the firm has a staff biologist who would oversee wildlife concerns.

Like Grissom, Pollack presented a slide show of their past work and preliminary drawings of land use for the township's project. Unlike Grissom, Pollack stressed being at the construction site on a regular basis -- several times a week compared to once a week for Grissom -- to manage the project.

"This would be an important project for us," said Pollack. "It would be treated as a commitment by our firm to the community."

Gouin said the Recreation Advisory Committee will make a recommendation to the board on the firm at the June 12 meeting. He said he will make a recommendation to the board also.

After the firm is selected in June, the board and the firm will work together to obtain bidding from contractors for the project over the winter, said Gouin. He said construction, on the 50-acre site, would likely begin in the spring of next year and be completed by the spring or summer of 1992.

"The development will give us a functional and aesthetic facility," said Gouin. "It will be user friendly."

DDA plan reviewed

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A final version of preliminary "concept" plans for Canton's downtown development district will be shown tomorrow night at the township's municipal building, said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

The presentation, starting at 7 p.m., will be made to a joint meeting of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), the Canton Board of Trustees and the Canton Planning Commission, said Yack.

Yack said the plan will be presented by the firm of Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates of Southfield.

Yack added that a focus group comprised of all three groups and the firm worked through about 15 different concepts in deciding on the final preliminary version.

No decision on the plan will be made tomorrow night, Yack said, adding that no timeframe for adoption or implementation of the plan by the DDA yet exists.

No word on Central

BY KEN VOYLES

Despite recent reports that some local developers are interested in the Central Middle School property, officials in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools said last week that they had not been contacted about any

P-C School housing

Board Trustee E.J. McClendon also agreed that the CEP expansion option was the best, but he added that the district should also consider "starting a phase one of a comprehensive high school on that site."

Board Trustee Barbara Graham said she favored the option of adapting Central to a high school because residents she's talked with oppose expanding the population at CEP.

Swartzwelder said he also liked the expansion at CEP concept, but added, "It wouldn't bother me if the blue ribbon steering committee came up with an idea for the park that might lead to a comprehensive site there."

Swartzwelder added that during school boundary discussions earlier this year he did not hear much support for turning Central into a high school.

There are currently about 16,000 students in the school district, with more than 4,000 students at CEP.

"Nobody's ever contacted us," said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business in the district. "I've never been approached in recent times."

"It's amazing," he added. "If I intended such a thing I would certainly want to talk to the schools, but nobody's done that."

Richard Egli, the district's community relations director, said that selling Central Middle School is nothing more than an "option."

"But beyond that there's nothing to it right now," said Egli. "There has been no discussions in the district about it."

Hoedel said such a plan would have to be "long term" anyway. Central, located along Main Street in the City of Plymouth, is the site of the former Plymouth High School.

"We could not run our district without that space right now," said Hoedel. "The space is pretty vital to us."

The Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education is in the process right now of looking at future housing options.

One idea presented during Monday's regular meeting calls for turning Central Middle School into another high school unit for the district.

Plymouth ice show shortened, goes international

BY PHILIP TARDANI

The 1991 Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular will be shortened to five days and will add "International" to its name.

"We're going to have international participation," said Pam Kosteva, executive director of the Ice Spectacular board. "Ideally, we'd like to get a couple different countries involved."

Kosteva said the board is in contact with embassies from several different countries to bring in official participants from abroad.

Several new activities are also being discussed by the board, according to Kenneth Currie, board president.

"We're expanding the event this year with some other activities,"

Currie said.

The first is a $27,000 laser show planned for Kellogg Park. Logistically, this would involve several huge screens -- perhaps hung from neighboring buildings -- as well as many smaller mirrors in the park, Currie said.

The content of the show would cater to the event's winter theme, he said, but it would also be possible for businesses to advertise during the show.

"We're really excited about this laser thing," Currie said. "We think it's going to be a knock-out."

Kosteva said the board would also like to organize a celebrity ice carve-off. "We're hoping to hit the news media," she said. "If they're out there, their cameras are out there."

Another possible new event would be ice skating somewhere downtown, Kosteva said.

Currie said he would also like to have an armed forces musical group perform for the crowd downtown like last year's 82nd Airborne Chorus, which attracted a large crowd.

"If we can't get the Army, we'll try the Air Force," he said.

The 1991 event will include the traditional ice sculpture competition in three categories -- individual student class, individual professional class and a team competition, Kosteva said.

The budget for the 1991 ice spectacular has been set at $189,000, according to Currie.

Last year, the board raised $127,076 in donations and $42,711 in donated services, he said.

The expenses for last year's event include a one-time "transitional" cost of $18,224 paying off expenses for the previous seven years under a different non-profit corporation make-up. The 1990 Ice Spectacular was organized by a citizen's group which replaced former hotelier Scott Lorenz and former City Manager Henry E. Graper.

At the end of the event last year, the board had $25,367 left in the bank after paying that $18,224.

Currie said the money will be saved in case of a "meltdown" of ice during future festival -- perhaps the real meaning of a "slush fund."

Designing the house of the future

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Wyatt Hazlett II learned about a national architecture contest a little late.

When the Plymouth resident and former Schoolcraft College student was informed of the American Institute of Architecture Students' (AIAS) competition, he had a month to enter.

So Hazlett, who graduated from Schoolcraft with an associate's degree in architecture this month, worked double time on the project putting in an estimated 200 hours.

"I spent everyday in the classroom for a month, working eight or nine hours a day," he said. "I wanted to enter and see how well I could do."

Hazlett finished his design on time, and entered the competition along with over 200 other students. He received one of three honorable mentions given for fourth, fifth or sixth place.

"I'm pretty pleased with how I finished," he said. "The other colleges were a lot bigger and more well-known."

Hazlett's did his residential design on the college's CAD (computer aided design) system, he said. He spared no luxuries on the 52 by 40 foot house, including a steam room, sun room, deck, three bedrooms and three bathrooms.

"This is a huge house," he said. "About the size of something you'd see off North Territorial."

Hazlett submitted floor plans and section drawings of the house, as well as three-dimensional slides of what the inside would look like -- something he did with the help of IBM compatible "Viewmaster" and "Walkthrough" programs.

"You can actually walk through the house and see what it looks like," he said.

The theme of the contest was "Opening New Doors," and Hazlett said he thinks the competition was to gauge what today's students are thinking and doing in the field of architecture.

"I assume they wanted the college students to submit their likes and dislikes and show the AIAS what ideas are out there," he said.

Designs were to be submitted under the broad category of modern architecture, Hazlett said, so he was creative.

"They said 'modern/contemporary', so I did something crazy," he said, noting the multi-angled, different leveled roof on his design.

"It's a mixture of styles," he added. "I don't stick to one particular style; I do what I like."

His fictional house is also designed to let in as much light as possible, Hazlett said, with a sky light, sun room and 15 windows on the southeast side of the house alone.

"You've got to let in a lot of light in a house," he said. "That makes it look better."

Now that he has his degree from Schoolcraft, Hazlett, a 1988 graduate of Salem High School, said he will be taking a year off before pursuing a bachelor's degree in architecture.

He said he plans on spending some time in California this summer and may look into the possibility of going to school there. Hazlett has also considered enrolling in the architecture program at Lawrence Technological University, he said.

As far as long term plans are concerned, Hazlett said he is leaning toward commercial architecture, because it is more design-oriented.

"There's a lot of stuff you can do with an office building," he said, noting that commercial architecture does not involve the size restrictions inherent in residential buildings.

He also has his eye on next year's contest.

"I've already started next year's design," he said. "I'd like to win, that would be the icing on the cake."

2nd shooting incident in 9 months

Wayne County Special Operations Team was called in to negotiate with the wounded man. Three hours later when the man tried to leave the house armed with a knife, he was rushed by the hostage team and taken into custody.

Nemecek said the man is listed in critical condition at St. Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti as of Tuesday. The hospital confirmed that Paul Vachher was in intensive care. Police said bullets from the man's neck and abdomen were removed during an operation Monday morning.

Vachher had not been charged as of press time. Michigan State Police Sgt. Dean Sanderson said the investigation should be completed by the end of the week and that the information will then be turned over to the Wayne County prosecutor to determine whether charges will be filed.

Canton police declined to name the officers involved in Monday's shooting, pending a report from the department psychologist.

Vachher's father, Dr. Prehlad S. Vachher, is a prominent psychiatrist with offices in Ann Arbor and Livonia, and former president of the Canton Chamber.

This is the second incident in nine months in which Canton Police wounded a suspect who allegedly charged them wielding knives.

On Sept. 10, 1989 Canton Officers Dave Boljesic and Joe Bippus, shot a Westland man on Joy Road at the railroad tracks after they stopped him on suspicion of armed robbery. The man allegedly refused to drop his knife and charged police, who shot and wounded him. He was later convicted of the robbery.

Schools will recycle

depends on the cooperation of Marriott Food Services Management and a company known as Dart Corporation, which will pick up the used styro products for reprocessing near Lansing.

Verna Lee Hill, food services director in the district, said the plan can "begin right now," but other district officials expected it to start this fall during the upcoming 1990-91 school year.

In a May 9 memo to district principals on a recycling plan, Hill suggested setting up a recycling "center" in the cafeteria of each school where students could return the styro products at the end of each lunch period.

"The students in our district are ready for a polystyrene recycling program," Hill wrote. "With their cooperation this program will be a success."

Products to be recycled will be transported to a site behind Salem High School for storage until pickup by the Dart company, under the approved plan.

Besides moving ahead to develop the plan and implement it district-wide, the school board also moved to "cooperate with the municipalities" in developing "other ways to help the waste" program.

Challenge Fest expands

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Cruising into its second year, the Canton Challenge Festival is expanding to nearly twice its size.

The number of events that make up the festival, which promotes the Canton community and many of its businesses and non-profit groups, has swelled to nearly twice the number from last year, according to William Joyner, co-administrator of the Canton Challenge Fest Committee.

"It's almost double the number of events," Joyner said. "I think the committee is real excited that not only did the events catch on last year, but that there is a desire to expand it this year."

The events added this year will feature zooming planes, diving kites, long drives on the links, ice-cream socials, gospel songs and basketball, among other things.

Dozens and dozens of kites will take to the sky at noon on June 2 when the Windjammers put on an aerial display you're not likely to see too often. The flight will be held at the field behind the Canton Township Hall Complex.

The Windjammers -- a three-man team from Detroit -- will each fly a pack of 10 diamond-shaped kites, each of which in turn has a 100 foot tail, according to Jon Trennepohl, of Kites and Things.

There will also be stunt kite demonstrations, Trennepohl said, as well as a kite workshop where for a $2 fee, children can assemble and decorate their own kite. That will start at 10 a.m.

"We're trying to get parent-child participation, some family oriented fun," he said.

But Trennepohl said the Windjammers, who he describes as a U.S. championship kite team, will be the main draw. Call 454-3760 for information.

"They're a real crowd pleaser, I'll tell you," he said. "If there's wind, it'll be a really nice day."

For those who want to see some community art, the Canton Arts Council will sponsor a show June 2-3 at Canton's Administration Building.

According to William Sharpe, who helped organize the event, 58 pieces of art have been contributed by 33 local artists, residents and business people.

"The purpose is to give the local artists a chance to display their work," he said. "We're hoping it will develop into a permanent part of the Challenge Festival."

Sharpe said the event is geared toward the fine arts such as paintings and sculpture.

Mini-motorists will be out in force on June 2 at 9 a.m. in the Canton Recreation Complex parking lot for a day of remote control car racing.

According to Brent Martin, of Rider's Hobby Shop in Canton, a there will be quite a crowd of hobby enthusiasts.

"We're expecting well over 100 people," he said.

There will be six classes for racing, Martin said, including one for monster model trucks, and a beginners category. The high speed drivers will be in the one-tenth scale on-road category, however, he said, where cars cruise at over 35 mph.

The races will last four minutes, Martin said, and will be scored by computer.

The entry fee is $5, which will automatically register the entrant for a door prize, he said, adding that men, women and children are expected to sign up and compete for a trophy. Racing begins at 11 a.m. and runs until 6 p.m.

"There will be lots of trophies and drawings for door prizes," Martin said. "It should be a lot of fun for everyone."

Festival growing

All proceeds will go to the Canton Radio Control Club, he said. Call 981-8700 for information.

Several of the other new events deal with recreation, according to Joyner.

Alley cats can roll a bowling ball for charity June 3 at the Super Bowl during the Challenge Festival Super Bowl for Charity. For $5 bowlers get three games, with the proceeds going to Canton Community Foundation Human Service Programs.

It will be held from 4-6 p.m. and is open to all ages. Call 455-3645 to reserve a lane.

Also new this year is the long drive competition set for the first and second weekend of the festival at Fellows Creek Golf Course. Open to all ages, the long drive event costs $1 for two balls. It will also be run on days in between each festival weekend. Call 981-4900 for further details.

Another new event is the Class B and C men's and women's softball tournament slated for June 2-3 at various sites in Canton. The double-elimination tourney costs $125 per team. For further information call 397-5110.

For those interested in a little hoops, a one-on-one basketball competition is planned for this year's festival at Hoben Elementary School.

The hoop tournament is open to various age groups and will be held starting at 9 a.m. on June 2. There is no registration fee. However, players need to pre-register.

Call 397-5110 for further information.

Two new events this year will provide refreshments for festival goers.

Elias Brothers Big Boy in Canton has declared May 28 "restaurants for charity day" and will donate five per cent of their profits on that day to charity. Big Boy has challenged all of the other restaurants in the township to do the same on that day.

Relax at the fest

CONTINUED

Also, the Canton Historical Society will host an old-fashioned ice cream social June 2-3 from noon to 5 p.m. both days. The social will be held at the Canton Historical Museum along Canton Center Road.

If you want to relax to a little music at the festival, check out the First Baptist Church of Canton Gospel Song Fest. The singing will take place at the church at 7 p.m. on June 2.

Five Canton churches will take part in the song festival. The event is free to festival goers.

A piano play-a-thon will take place at Canton Administration Building June 2-3. The event, sponsored by the Canton Arts Council, will be held 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. the first day and noon to 5 p.m. the next.

Local piano students will be playing for money pledged from the community. Pledges can be made at the play-a-thon or the art show.

The sky will be the only limit when the Flying Pilgrims Model Airplane Club will take to the air June 3 at the Canton Recreation Complex from noon to 5 p.m. with an aerial display of remote control airplanes.

The free flying demonstration will feature more than 20 different model aircraft of all sizes and shapes.

A new, wet event planned for the fest this year is the fireman's waterball tournament. Competition between several fire departments in western Wayne County will be held on June 2 from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. directly west of township hall.

Pitch a shoe

George Bush might not be there, but local horseshoe pitchers can compete in the Canton Challenge Festival Horseshoe Tourney beginning at 2 p.m., Sunday, June 3.

The open horseshoe event, sponsored by the festival committee, will be held at the Canton Recreation Complex along Proctor Road (behind the Canton Administration Building).

The cost is $2. There will be prizes for first, second and third places.

Register at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, or call 397-5110.

LAWN-BOY

THE RECYCLING MACHINE

NOW THERE'S NO NEED TO BAG OR DISPOSE OF CLIPPINGS.

Model L21ZPN

If you want a great-looking lawn but you don't want to bag or dispose of clippings, the Recycling Machine from Lawn-Boy is the answer.

This remarkable mower chops clippings finely, then feeds them back into the lawn as fertilizer. All you do is mow.

SAVE $70

Catch a trout

One of the most popular Canton Challenge Festival events -- the youth fishing derby -- is slated for June 2-3 at the Canton Recreation Complex pond.

Canton anglers, boys and girls ages four to 15 years, can join the derby action. It will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m., Sunday.

The cost is 50 cents for a fishing license.

The pond will be stocked with nearly 2,000 rainbow trout, but anglers must bring their own fishing equipment and sign up in advance by June 1.

The event, which is in its third year in Canton (the derby started one year before the Challenge Festival), is being sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce and Canton Parks and Recreation Department.

Awards will be given out to both boys and girls for the largest fish caught during the competition. First place is a $100 U.S. Savings Bond, while second and third places will each get a Canton sweatshirt.

Anglers should plan to arrive early. Check-in time ends 10 minutes after each scheduled hour of fishing. The derby will be limited to about 200 anglers for each hour during the two-day event.

For further information call 397-5110.

Junior golf on June 3

Hey, young linksters, this year's Canton Challenge Festival again features a Junior Golf Tournament.

This year's competition, open to boys and girls ages 10-18 years of age, will be held Sunday, June 3 during the second annual fest.

Golfers will compete at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton beginning at 11 a.m. The age groups are 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18.

Cost is $8.50 for the nine-hole tournament (ages 10-12) and $13 for the 18-hole tournament (ages 13-15 and 16-18).

Awards will be presented to the top golfers in all age groupings. Advance registration is required in person or by mail by Friday (May 25). For further registration information call 397-5110.

Last year some 40-50 golfers took to the links during the youth tourney, which is sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department.

Tennis slated for June 1-3

Local tennis players might want to enter the Canton Challenge Festival Singles Tennis Tournament, slated for June 1-3 at the Canton High School tennis courts.

The tournament, open to area tennis players of all ages, will run from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. during those dates.

The cost is $5 per player (each person must provide their own can of USTA approved tennis balls).

The format is single elimination. There will be various age groups for both boys and girls, mens and womens. Awards will be presented to the winners and runners-up of each age division.

Registration deadline is Wednesday, May 30 at 5 p.m. For further information call 397-5110.

Participants should contact the Canton Parks and Recreation Department -- they are sponsoring the singles tourney -- on May 31 to get match times.

Get a kick this weekend

The forerunner of the Canton Challenge Festival, the Canton Memorial Day Soccer Tournament, will be in its seventh year this time around.

The 7th annual event is set for Memorial Day weekend (May 25-28) at various soccer fields throughout Canton.

More than 200 teams, and some 5,000 spectators, from throughout the midwest will compete in and watch the tournament again this year.

For further information call 397-5110.

Book sale promotes library

The Friends of the Canton Public Library will sponsor a used book sale June 1-3 at the library during this year's Canton Challenge Festival.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to support the public facility
For further information call 397-0999.

Free health screenings

Oakwood Hospital Canton Center will offer free health screenings June 2-3 from 1-5 p.m. during this year's Canton Challenge Festival.

The screenings, including blood pressure and cholesterol, will be offered at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department.
For further information call 397-5110.

Fireworks light up the sky

This year's second annual Canton Challenge Festival will kick off with a bang, actually a very loud series of bangs.

A spectacular fireworks display is planned for dusk on Saturday (May 26) at the Canton Recreation Complex, behind the Canton Administration Building along Canton Center Road.

The fireworks display officially kicks off the Challenge Festival. This year it will be brought to residents again by the Burda Brothers, who donated their efforts for the 45-minute to one-hour display of pyrotechnics.

Residents planning to view the fireworks display should arrive early.

Last year some 5,000 people viewed the fireworks. It is expected that at least that many will again be on hand for the official festival kick off this year.

For further information call the Canton Parks and Recreation at 397-5110.

Fitness day

This year's Youth Fitness Field Day, held at the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) stadium is set for 7 p.m., June 2.

The event, a part of this year's Canton Challenge Festival, is being sponsored by Bittinger/Coldwell Banker and is open to youths in elementary school grades four and five.

Some 400-500 youths are expected for the event, which features a variety of athletic events, such as a softball throw, chin ups, triple-jump, and sprint races.

Prizes and awards will be given out to the top competitors. Registration information is available at all local elementary school buildings.

Festival organizers said the fitness day is one of the most popular events among local youths. This year each Plymouth-Canton elementary school will march in to the competition as a team.

For further information call Canton Supervisor Tom Yack at 397-1000.

Hole-in-one competition

Hit the pin to win

A hole-in-one competition, held at the Fellows Creek Golf Course, is planned for May 25-31 during this year's Canton Challenge Festival.

For $1 each golfer gets two shots at a hole-in-one. First place prize is $200, while second is $100 and third $50.

Every shot within 10 feet of the flag will win free use of a golf cart for 18 holes of golf.

Walk to read

The Walk/Run for Literacy '90 is set for Sunday, June 3 from 1-3 p.m. during this year's Canton Challenge Festival.

The fundraiser is sponsored by the Canton Rotary Club and McDonald's. It will begin and end at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Rd.

Pledge forms for walkers are available at the Canton Public Library, Canton High School, the Starkweather Center, Canton Chamber of Commerce and both McDonald's in Canton.

All participants will receive a prize and certificate -- the more donations the bigger the prize.

All proceeds from the event will be donated to the Canton Rotary Literacy Committee, which was formed to promote literacy in the community.

Ronald McDonald will also be present for the walk, which is in its third year. Last year some 75 residents took to the streets on behalf of the literacy effort.

For further information call John Schwartz at 453-0590.

Super Bowl for charity

Eleven government bowling teams will take to the lanes at Canton's Super Bowl during this year's Canton Challenge Festival Government Bowl-Off.

The bowling action is set for Friday, June 1 at 7 p.m. It is free to spectators.

There will be government teams from Canton, Plymouth, Livonia, and Wayne County, among others.

Win a trip to Florida

All participants in an event held during this year's Canton Challenge Festival will be eligible to enter a grand prize drawing.

The drawing, held June 5 at noon during the Canton Economic Club gathering, is for a grand prize of a trip to Florida (five days and four nights). The prize includes air fare and a one-day pass to Disney World as well.

At each event, the chairperson will make available registration forms to use in entering the grand prize drawing.

The prize is being offered as a donation to the festival committee by Waste Management, Inc.

For further information call 397-5110 or stop by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department office.

Fest brought to you by ...

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Friday marks the beginning of the second annual Canton Challenge Festival, which is again being organized this year by an 11-member panel of local residents.

According to Canton Challenge Festival Committee Chairperson Russ Courville, the committee has met once a month since the beginning of the year to put the 30-event fest together. In addition, he said many of the committee members are in charge of specific fest events.

"The process of putting the fest together has been totally enjoyable," said Courville. "I have had the privilege of working with a group of class people."

Courville, who chaired the first fest, decided to serve in the same capacity again because he wanted the challenge of "seeing the fest grow and succeed" as a replacement for the now defunct Canton Country Festival.

Committee member Kathleen Keen-McCarthy said the idea of the fest is to promote "fun, family and fitness" in the community. She said she joined the committee because she believes the fest is "a great idea."

"I have enjoyed the opportunity to be involved in the community with the Fest over the last two years," said Keen-McCarthy.

Keen-McCarthy said she has enjoyed being involved with Fest events, such as the Fishing Derby.

"The excitement of the kids when the catch a fish is incredible to see," she said. "It's one of the things that makes life fun."

Canton resident and committee member Wally Baker said the fest is a way of getting the community involved.

"The main satisfaction I've gotten in working with the committee," said Baker, "is seeing the participation by the community in the events."

Courville said the other eight committee members are: M.J. Essenmacher, John Schwartz, Sue Beaton, Phil LaJoy, Cathy Johnson, Don Voyles, Bruce Patterson and Mike Gouin.

Committee members said they expected 15-20,000 residents to take part in and watch the myriad of festival activities this year. Last year that number was around 10,000 (with 5,000 of those on hand for the forerunner of the festival, the Memorial Day Soccer Tournament).

With this year's 10-day slate of festival activities expanded to twice the size of last year, committee members said they are already looking ahead to 1991 and beyond when it may be possible to organize a "Challenge Festival month."

They said they want to take the festival's growth "one step at a time," keeping the activities that "work" and adding new events based upon suggestions from residents and other potential sponsors.

Canton has met challenge

In the early 1970s, two brand-new Canton families were interviewed for a "Canton Identity" series in the newspaper.

One of their laments: Canton had no identity of its own, they bought their houses after being told they were in "Plymouth."

How things have changed!

Since then, Canton has been linked to the world by expressway, has topped the 50,000 population mark, has been added to the state maps, has built a new civic complex, has added its own modern library, has had its name and influence added to the school district, and has seen a host of other recognitions.

But, more important than those concrete improvements, Canton has literally forged its own identity, its own social-cultural feeling about itself.

It is not Plymouth. It is not Livonia. It is not Westland, nor Wayne, nor Belleville.

It IS Canton.

While the nearly-20-year struggle to forge an identity has not always been kind to Canton's P.R., a certain community strength grows from the events of troubled times in every community's development.

Canton seems to have passed from its more turbulent times over a "hump" into a community focused on the challenge of the future.

It's not the politics that achieved that. Nor was it the economic force of Canton.

It IS the "people" factors — the Fest, the schools, the arts, the recreational participation, the social gatherings. In fact, because of the timing of the "Great Canton Boom" in the '70s and '80s, this community becomes one of the few whose identity was stirred in reaction against the forces that shaped the "Instant Concrete Cities" to the east.

Two recent and one upcoming Canton events exemplify the state of Canton today.

Two weekends ago, the Magic Ride raised $20,000 to fight child abuse — a Canton-organized, regional event that saw 250 cyclists touring the Canton countryside while adding up sponsored (s)miles of pledges for a good cause.

Next, the Canton Chamber of Commerce saw one of its most pleasant and largest dinners ever last Wednesday to fete its colleagues who have contributed significantly to the world at large. The businessfolk honored ranged from farmers and auto cleaners to dentists and lighting bugs. (And dentists have wings, right?)

But, most of all, coming up — the second annual Challenge Fest promises to be the greatest Canton annual blowout. More people gather for this in Canton to celebrate the community, than at any other time each year.

Events during the Challenge Fest include: an ice cream social, an art show, a bowling tournament, a fishing derby, a kite flying workshop, one-on-one basketball, the popular youth fitness day, a musical play-a-thon, a used book sale, a chili cookoff, a gospel songfest, golf, horseshoes, and much more. (The complete official schedule appears in this Community Crier edition.)

As Festies discovered last year — and will rediscover this coming weekend and following week — the Challenge Fest is a fine place to find Canton's true identity.

It is these events which provide Canton's sense of being, the glue that shows it's the Canton people that make things different here. Almost 20 years of rethinking the 160 years before has brought Canton to its identity.

All roads link Canton's future to its past.

Idea called 'preposterous'

Convert Central?

EDITOR:

I had wondered why there had been no letters to the editor in response to the articles in print about the conversion of Central Middle School to shops, offices and condominiums.

I wondered if I was the only person who was angry and upset by this carefully orchestrated campaign to give control of the setting and flavor of our city to developers.

What I was discovered was not apathy out there but an attitude that the idea was so preposterous that the city planners could not possibly be serious in forwarding this plan. Clearly the community had spoken out many times in the past against such use of this property and financially the school district would suffer from such a transaction.

As recently as 1986 the citizens of this city sent a message to the community and the school administration that they wanted to continue as an active part of the school system when they voted to fund $1.6 million for renovations for this building. This made the school good for the next 20 years. (If you haven't been inside lately take a look, it's wonderful!)

If this building is sold to developers for $5 million, deduct the $1.6 million we just poured into it and you get $3.4 million. Central is the most flexible building in the school district. You wouldn't be eliminating just a middle school but also a high school. That's just what we need now to ease the crowding at CEP.

So just when we need more high school space we're going to sell Central for $3.4 million and face having to replace it for a mere $35 to $50 million?

EDITOR:

"Amen" to the article "Save the old high school."

I love that old building, the halls and the classrooms. I see many teachers standing at their classroom doors as I pass by. It is a part of my family history.

A suggestion was made to me, by out-of-town visitors to the museum, that we incorporate the school, church and houses on Main Street into a historical village inside the City of Plymouth. I thought that was a great idea for the future.

Please, let's not progress to the point that Wayne has. I have heard of no one who likes their town as it is now. All progress is not good, except for the builders.

Above all else, please don't let Plymouth be deleted from the names Salem and Canton.

HELEN E. SHEPARD

Save old high school

Somebody's not thinking straight. But maybe there's a reason for thinking crooked. Ask yourself why the names of the developers are being kept secret? Who's friends are they? Why did the city fathers approach Central Baptist Church next to Central months ago to buy their property? Why bring this plan again when the citizens have clearly said NO before? Why is a city commission member being quoted that the plan is already "in cement" and the "little people" can't stop it?

As I sat last Tuesday evening out behind Central, I saw families playing tennis, people jogging on the track and no less than four baseball games going on. What a wonderful picture of a community at play.

So once again, I ask who is in control of our city -- the developers or us? Petitions can be circulated.

Hire officers

EDITOR:

I was pleased to read recently about Michigan's new and stricter poaching law which makes penalties tougher for illegal hunters that get caught.

The only way poachers get caught is if they are turned in by the public or apprehended by the law (conservation officers). Many conservation officers have ranges which they patrol that cover over 100 square miles. How can one conservation officer patrol such a vast area? Not very well.

I feel that we as a state have to raise funds to hire more officers at a decent wage. What good is a stricter law if there is no one to enforce it?

Pool's status embarrassing

The Plymouth-Canton school district continues to grapple with the question of what to do with the Central Middle School pool and how to handle its reopening and possible use for swimming classes.

It's gotten to the point of even being embarrassing, what with the publication of the new Plymouth-Canton Adult Education brochure on summer recreation classes, which highlights classes available at the Central pool for adults and tots.

Well, there may be classes planned, but they'll have to hold them without a pool. No, Central's pool is not open yet, and no-one has been able to decide quite what to do with it.

The board of education in its recent budget discussions raised a litany of ways in which to use the pool, even possibly allowing eighth grade students to complete their high school swimming requirement.

But the pool's reopening has not yet been agreed upon by the board, and so it remains a sticky question to settle before final approval of the 1990-91 school district budget.

Tell that to an embarrassed Larry Mastellar, head of the district's community education division, which recently sent out its 1990 summer schedule of activities. In a section under "swimming program," three swim classes and an open swim time are offered at Central.

Mastellar said he was told to go ahead with the section as is by the "powers that be," but that a preface saying the classes would be offered only if Central was reopened never made it into publication.

Mastellar, who is "keeping his fingers crossed" that the board will soon make up its mind (it has to with final budget approval due soon) and open the pool, said he regrets the brochure mishap. "We're not trying to pre-empt the board," he said.

Residents who sign up for the classes will be informed about the pool's status at registration time, said Mastellar, who added that the classes at Central shouldn't be very large anyway.

Still to be considered by the board are five ways to use the pool once reopened. They include:

The use of Central eighth graders taking a swim class to meet the high school graduation requirement; other district eighth graders using the pool for the same purpose; development of an adaptive physical education program for special education students using the pool; allowing access to the pool for competitive swim teams from other middle schools; and allowing access for a community swim team (middle school age) at the pool.

John M. Hoben, district superintendent, said all five areas "could be handled," but added that the main points of contention centered on staffing the pool for classes. There are also concerns about transporting students to Central for such classes.

The board will have to act on the reopening the pool very quickly if it is to make the new budget, said Mike Homes, district assistant superintendent for instruction.

It is expected that the board will make that decision at the next regular meeting on June 12, following this year's school board election.

The pool remains a somewhat emotional issue. Many favor the idea, but remain skeptical of how it will be used once reopened.

Can the pool be reopened before the board decides on potential uses?

Absolutely. But it also makes sense to consider all of the ramifications of the pool's use in the future. Why not, though, for now just reopen the pool, allow summer classes there, see how they work out and make the necessary plans to implement some of board's ideas this fall, if not next year.

Central doesn't have that many assets to offer the district, other than its history and current status as a middle school. The pool is probably still one of its biggest assets and should be utilized now, not some time down the road.

Besides, some of the district's athletic glory days took place in the pool with former Plymouth High School swim teams.

Great traditions deserve to be recognized, but more importantly the district needs to take advantage of what it already has and use it to further the goals of good education.

Driver's silence is painful

What must go through the mind of someone, as they are driving along, when they see an object -- a dog, a cat or even a person -- and realize that there is no time to stop, no time to avoid an accident?

Panic, fear and desperation, certainly. After the accident, what then? Do you stop and see if what you've hit is badly injured or do you drive off?

In the tragic case of 14-year-old Melissa Chisholm of Canton, the driver, who is still unknown, drove off. Period.

Chisholm was hit crossing Ford Road, apparently against the light, at 9:45 p.m. last Monday. She was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia later that night.

For a moment it is possible to understand why the driver didn't stop right away to help Melissa Chisholm. Panic and the thought that you may have just killed someone could cause anyone to lose a proper sense of reality. Momentarily. Then the realization of what has happened forces the driver to make a choice, to go back, or to keep driving.

Any number of factors could have entered into that person's decision to keep driving. Was the person drinking, on drugs, or too old to know what they had done? Who knows?

Perhaps the desperation of the situation could cause some to say that driving away and not turning yourself in for a few days is understandable. But, after a week with the burden of knowing that you may or may not have been the cause of someone's death, how could you remain silent?

One view*

*can be the difference

By Scott Daniel

According to friends, Chisholm was well liked. About six of them gathered at the corner of Lilley and Ford roads last Wednesday to remember their friend. They had signs that read "Honk, if you care," and "We love her."

Classmate Becky Prince said she knew Chisholm for two or three years. She said Chisholm was popular at school and was "easy to get along with."

Rachel Saputo, another classmate, said Chisholm wasn't judgmental of others and could "hangout with anybody." She added that many other students, at Pioneer Middle School, openly cried last Tuesday, the day after the accident.

By remaining silent, the driver is prolonging the grieving process for Melissa Chisholm's friends and family. The pain will continue until that person comes forward and takes responsibility for their actions.

If it is determined the driver was not guilty of causing the accident, that person is at least guilty of a poor conscience and a lack of concern for their fellow human beings.

Zang inspired students

EDITOR:

A few of my fellow classmates have written letters to your newspaper about recycling in our school and community. They have neglected to mention who inspired some of us on this important issue.

I would like to commend Ronald Zang, our English teacher, for starting us on this awareness and need for recycling. From his teachings I have learned a daily habit of this can be challenging but it is needed to keep our environment clean. Zang also takes paper and corrugated cardboard from our school to a center in Ann Arbor to be recycled.

I believe that other schools should follow Zang's recycling plan for schools to help keep the environment clean.

With Jaeger aboard, city politics simmer down a bit

It looks like things are beginning to quiet down in the City of Plymouth.

It has been a hectic past few months. The episode we are just getting over in the city began Feb. 12, when the city commission picked Randall Byrne to be the new city manager.

There was bad feeling that night both from citizens and a commissioner who felt that the acting city manager -- William Graham -- had been slighted.

Nobody realized those feelings would boil to a head over the next few weeks.

As everybody knows, Byrne decided to stay in Grand Blanc. Why he did so remains uncertain, though he announced through Mayor Dennis Bila that he thought he had it too good in Grand Blanc to leave.

Before he decided not to take the job, however, Byrne set the commission a flutter by raising concerns about the city's projected (at the time) $250,000 deficit.

Anxious to keep a hold of its young,

On the beat

By Philip Tardani

new manager candidate, the commission hired the Southfield accounting firm of Plante & Moran to look into city finances.

Not really a big deal, and it would only cost $6,000; by all accounts a cheap price for the manhours that went into the work.

Things got much more complicated, however, when Byrne told the mayor on Feb. 27 that he wouldn't be coming to "the city of homes."

"It's damn frustrating," the mayor said, getting right to the point.

There was no easy solution, like hiring one of the other finalists. John Strutner, from Virginia, told the commission at a public interview that he was not sure he'd take the job if it was offered.

The other outside finalist who was interested in the job -- Jerome Kiscorn -- had to make commitments to his city council in Tecumseh after it became public knowledge that Byrne had been offered the position.

Graham was still in the picture and "a strong candidate" at the time, but it is evident that the majority of the commission never had any intention of hiring him.

Meanwhile, the spotlight moved to Rod Bartell, the Pennsylvania consultant hired to screen and present final candidates to the commission.

He soon became a sort of villain to city residents and took quite an earful when he came up for a commission meeting.

Bartell survived, however, and the commission moved to keep him aboard and help find another candidate.

On April 12, the commission replaced Graham with former city treasurer Kenneth Way.

Around the same time, Gordon Jaeger, a former city manager anxious to get back into the field, approached city officials.

Steve Walters, city manager of Northville, also expressed interest in the job.

After some commission infighting that almost cost the city its mayor and Jaeger's candidacy, Walters withdrew. The city entered into contract negotiations with Jaeger on April 16.

Battle Creek's former city manager came aboard May 1, moving into the new position smoothly and confidently.

Graham remains the city finance director, continuing to serve the city with his much appreciated expertise.

It was decided that Bartell should receive $19,531, after he voluntarily reduced his professional fee by 36 percent.

The city is moving on with its budget, trying to tackle solid waste costs with a user fee and planning for this year's Fall Festival.

Jaeger should be around for three or four years. Then Plymouth will have to find another manager...

Chamber may release funds

Members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will be asked to vote next week on releasing some of the money held in trust for housing the chamber offices.

According to Harold Berquist, chamber president, some $170,000 will remain in a trust fund once the land contract is paid off on the former chamber of commerce building on Main Street. That money was put in trust to be spent on housing the chamber by a vote of the members in May, 1987.

The chamber board voted Thursday to ask the members to take $12,500 out of the trust fund to pay off a loan the chamber took out to cover moving and renovation expenses for its current office at 386 S. Main St. A 75 per cent affirmative vote is needed to spend the money.

Water rates increase in Twp.

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Water and sewer rates will rise in Plymouth Township for the first time in seven years after the board approved the increase at a May 8 meeting.

The average increase will be from $1.84 per thousand gallons to $2.30 for the same amount, according to Rosemary Harvey, township finance director. This translates into a bill increase of $4.85 per month, or 15 cents a day, she said.

The rate rise offsets years of increases in sewage rates by Wayne County and water rates by the city of Detroit, according to Harvey.

Since 1985, Harvey said, operating expenses have exceeded revenues by as much as $900,000. The township diverted funds from such accounts as improvements and infrastructure to cover the shortfall, she said:

That option is no longer feasible however, if the township is to meet the expectations of residents in terms of services, she said.

"I know this is a difficult situation for all of us to understand," said Supervisor Maurice Breen. "I only hope that everyone will reflect for a moment on the fact that direct charges, over which we have no control, have jumped tremendously since 1983."

The new rate will be equal to or lower than all of the other rates recently surveyed in neighboring communities, Harvey said.

Glinski was selected as this year's winner from a field of more than 20 Canton small business people. Glinski is a former president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

The award was given to Glinski at an annual awards banquet.

3 girls qualify for state meet

Salem track records shattered

BY RITA DERBIN

The records fell Friday night as the Salem High girls track team competed in Class A Regional action at Ypsilanti High.

When the smoke cleared Salem finished fifth and three team members qualified for the state meet June 2 in five different events.

Ann Arbor Pioneer won the regional with 132 points. Rounding out the top five were: Ypsilanti (78 points), Ann Arbor Huron (50 points), Livonia Stevenson (47 points) and Salem (44 points).

Salem senior Jennifer Harris and freshman Yolanda Jackson each qualified for the state meet in two events. Senior Tammy Hickey qualified in the fifth event.

Harris was a regional champion in the 100-meter hurdles with a school record time of 15.2 seconds. She also finished fourth in the high jump with a state qualifying distance of 5-2.

"(Jennifer) has worked hard the last three years," said Salem coach Mark Gregor. "And this will be her first appearance at state.

"I think that if she races the race she's capable, she could be a state champ in the 100-meter hurdles," Gregor added.

Jackson qualified for the state meet with two second-place finishes in the high jump (5-4) and also in the 100-meter dash with a time of 12.5 seconds, which ties the school record.

"Jackson is really coming on strong," said Gregor of his freshman phenom. "For a freshman to make it to state is amazing. To make it in two events - that's sort of unheard of."

The fifth qualifying time came when Hickey broke the Salem school record by 14 seconds as she finished fifth in the 3,200-meter run with a time of 11:39.47.

"It's great to see Tammy reach her goal this year," said Gregor. "We thought she belonged there last year but this year there's no doubts.

"The conditions were right and she took advantage of it," Gregor added. "She's proved she's one of the top distance runners in the state."

Other Rocks who placed at the regionals include:

Tracey Livermore, fourth in the long jump (15-11 $\frac{1}{4}$); sixth place for the 3,200-meter relay of Stacey Wittoff, Corey Gulkewicz, Cyndi Platter and Alison Rybski (10:36.4); fifth place for the 800-meter relay of Kim Ploucha, Tonya Wheeler, Andrea Kinnelly and Jackson (1:49.8).

Fifth place for the 400-meter relay of Ploucha, Wheeler, Livermore and Jackson (51.67); fifth place for Wittoff in the 800-meter run (2:31.03); and Harris, fifth place in the 300-meter hurdles, just missing the state qualifying time of 47.8 when she finish at 47.93.

"It was a great meet - the most points we've ever scored at a regional," Gregor said. "We finished behind three of the top teams in the state in Pioneer, Ypsi, and Huron.

"We should be right there with Stevenson in the conference meet," Gregor added. "And Canton will be right there."

Last Wednesday the Rocks defeated Walled Lake Central, 86-42, to bring their division record to 3-1 (4-1 overall).

Finishing first were Harris in the high jump (5-0), 100-meter hurdles (16.3) and 300-meter hurdles (49.5); Platter, Rybski, Gulkewicz and Kristin Bernhardt in the 3,200-meter relay (11:03.3); Jackson in the 100-meter dash (12.7) and the 200-meter dash (27.3).

Ploucha, Wheeler, Kinnelly and Jackson in the 800-meter relay (1:50.24); Hickey in the 1,600-meter run (5:45.6); Ploucha, Wheeler, Livermore and Jackson in the 400-meter relay (52.9) and Wittoff in the 800-meter run (2:33.0).

The Rocks travel to Farmington today then compete in the Lady Braves Relays at Ypsilanti on Friday. The conference meet will be on Tuesday (May 29) at the Centennial Educational Park fields at 2:30 p.m.

Chief boys in state finals

BY RITA DERBIN

The Chiefs have done the seemingly impossible. They have reached the state tennis finals for the first time by virtue of a second place tie at the regionals last weekend in Ann Arbor. The state tournament will be at Midland, June 2.

Ann Arbor Pioneer won the regional with 28 and Canton and Ann Huron tied for second with 15 points. Salem was fourth with 12 points.

In one singles, Salem's Ryan Bannan lost in the first round (7-5, 3-6, 6-2) and Canton's Brian Schmidt lost in the Face Canton in district semi-finals Salem kickers beat Pioneer

Ken Johnson won his 100th game as Salem's girls soccer coach Monday night when the Rocks advanced to the district semi-finals with a 7-0 win over Ann Arbor Pioneer.

The 11-1-3 Rocks will face Canton tonight at 8 p.m. in the district semi-finals.

Conference bragging rights for the best soccer team at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) went to Salem Thursday when the Rocks finished their conference schedule by defeating Canton, 2-1.

Salem is now 10-1-3 and ranked second in the state behind conference champion Farmington.

Canton's Jenny Russell scored first in the game at the 10-minute mark in the first half. Mandy Drummond tied the game with a goal at the 20-minute mark. At the 28-minute mark, the Rocks took the lead on goal by Sarah Hayes. Michele Minton assisted on both Rock goals.

"We kept them out in the second half," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "After that first goal we contained Russell.

"It was a well-played game by both teams," Johnson added. "We've got two good teams over here."

On Saturday, the Rocks defeated Frazer, 7-1.

Scoring for Salem were Minton, two goals, two assists; Drummond, one goal; Kris Goff, one goal; Erin Harvey, one goal, one assist; Julie Thomas, one goal; Shelby Carey, two assists; Erin Bagozzi, one goal; and Amy Krajewski, one goal.

Krajewski's goal came when she threw the ball in and it deflected off the keeper.

Chief kickers fall

BY RITA DERBIN

It wasn't a great week for Don Smith and his Canton soccer team, but tonight could change their luck.

The Chiefs, ranked third in the state, lost to second-ranked Salem last Thursday, 2-1. They are now 10-2-2.

Jenny Russell scored the lone goal for Canton in the loss to Salem.

On Saturday the pace picked up a little as the Chiefs defeated Trenton, 8-0, in preparation for their district semi-final match against Salem tonight at 8 p.m.

Scoring in the game were Russell, one goal, three assists; Christina Reilly, two goals; Amy Westerhold, two goals; Colleen Connell, one goal; Jenny Huckaba, one goal; Ayana Nash, one goal, one assist; and Kathy Bahr, one assist.

"We've had good practices," said Smith. "The girls seem loose but it's hard to tell what's going on their heads.

"We'll be ready to play (tonight)," Smith added. "I know Salem won't be overlooking us -- both teams will be ready to play."

6 will compete at states Chief girls run to 8th

BY RITA DERBIN

The girls rose to the occasion. The Canton-girls track team placed eighth in their regional at Ypsilanti on Friday with 32.5 points.

Four individuals and one relay team will compete in the state meet on June 2 at Midland High. The meet begins at 10 a.m.

Leading the Chiefs was regional champ Stephanie Gray. She won the high jump with a jump of 5-4, which qualified her for the state meet. Heather Spencer also qualified for the state meet with a jump of five feet, tying her for fifth place.

The 3,200-meter relay team of Kim Gudeth, Adrienne Garrow, Christie Saffron and Amy Smith finished third with a state qualifying time of 9:58.3; Gudeth qualified for state in the 800-meter run (2:25.1) with a second place finish and Amy Smith set a new school record in the 3,200-meter run and finished sixth with a state qualifying time of 11:46.1.

Other high finishes include Jessica Suter, who finished fifth in the long jump (15-7 3/4); the 1,600-meter relay of Kristy Brugar, Monica Pellow, Saffron and Gudeth, sixth, 4:17.1; and Ifeoma Okwumabua, who did not place but set a new school record in the discus with a throw of 108-5.

"It was a great meet for us," said coach George Przygodski. "It was the most points we've ever scored in the regionals and the most qualifiers for state we've ever had."

Last Wednesday Canton defeated Walled Lake Western, 91-37, to improve their division record to 4-0, 4-1 overall.

First places went to Okwumabua in the shotput (31-2.5) and discus (91 feet); Gray in the high jump (5-3); Suter, long jump (13-9.5); Alicia King, 100-meter dash (13.6); Brugar, 200-meter dash (28.8) and 400-meter dash (1:07.1); Gudeth, 800-meter run (2:27.5); Smith, 3,200-meter run (11:59.2); Karina Kilpelainen, 100-meter hurdles (16.3); Angela Fountain, 300-meter hurdles (52.7).

Other firsts went to the 400-meter relay of Suter, Okwumabua, Kilpelainen and King (55.5); 800-meter relay of Brugar, Kilpelainen, Michelle Dean and King (1:58.7); and the 1,600-meter relay of Angie Sarrault, Saffron, Michelle Piwko and Jennifer Hartke (4:44.8).

Today the Chiefs will host Livonia Franklin for the Western division title at 3:30 p.m. Then travel to Ypsilanti for the Lady Braves Relays on Friday. The conference meet will be held at the Centennial Educational Park fields next Wednesday.

DeJarnett wins region title

BY RITA DERBIN

Junior Mike DeJarnett won the regional high jump title on Friday to lead the Canton boys track team to an 11th place finish at the state regionals at Ypsilanti.

DeJarnett qualified for state in the event with a jump of 6-3.

Two other Chiefs also qualified for the state meet. Eric Miller finished second in the long jump with a jump of 21-3; and Brian Beach broke a Canton school record with a fifth-place finish in the 3,200-meter run. His time of 9:45.1 also qualified him for state.

The Chiefs defeated Walled Lake Western Monday, 80-48, to make them 5-2 overall and 4-0 within the Western division. In the meet, DeJarnett broke his school high jump record with a jump of 6-5.

"He's got three more chances before the state meet," said Canton coach Bob Richardson of DeJarnett. "Who knows what he can do?"

Salem finished 12th in the regionals with 10 points. The Rocks did not qualify anyone for state meet, but put in some fine performances.

Rock golfers respectable

BY RITA DERBIN

The past two seasons the Salem girls golf team went winless -- but not this year.

The Rocks are a respectable 5-7 this season and placed fifth out of 14 teams at the regionals last Friday. Thursday they will compete in the league meet at Fellows Creek beginning at 9 a.m.

Ann Arbor Pioneer won the regional and the Salem golfers combined to shoot 449 for fifth place.

The medalist for the team was junior Eilizabeth Koehl (105). She was followed by seniors Jamie Cloar (103) and Natalie Joyce (111); and sophomores Megan Andrews (117) and Melissa Solberge (124).

Others golfers for the Rocks include sophomore Cathy Gartner, the team's sixth golfer, and freshmen Julie Larsen and Allison Partain, who will be caddying at Meadowbrook Golf Course this summer.

"The improvement this year has been incredible," said coach Jim Stevens. "The girls work hard and they're devoted to the game -- they're everything a coach could ask for."

Stevens added that the turning point in the season for the Rocks was a home tri-meet about midseason against Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron in which the Rocks surprisingly defeated both teams.

"We kept adding up the scores thinking someone messed up," Stevens joked. "We couldn't believe it."

Canton wins league title second round (6-4, 2-6, 6-4); in two singles, Salem's K.C. Kirkpatrick lost to Canton's Rod Jesena in the semi-finals (7-6, 5-7, 6-0) and Jesena lost in the finals 6-2, 6-0; at three singles, Salem's Fred Staten lost in the semi-finals, 6-3, 6-0; and Canton's Scott Jones lost his semi-final match, 6-1, 6-0; and four singles, Canton's Paul Croll lost in the semi-finals and Salem's Prakash Chinnaiyan lost his second round match, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

In doubles, Canton's one doubles Kris Kilpelainen and Bryan Williams lost in the semi-finals, 6-4, 5-7, 6-7 to Salem's Mohit Mistry and Jeff Rearick. Mistry and Rearick then lost in the finals. In two doubles both teams lost in the semis. Canton's Brady Owens and Shawn Hart lost 2-6, 6-1, 6-2, and Salem's Jason Grimm and Eric Stanley lost 6-3, 6-3.

In three doubles, Canton's Adam Majewski and Joe Binder lost in the finals 6-4, 6-3; and Salem's Mike Mulder and Joe Perron lost in the semi-finals, 6-4, 6-4.

"We have two more weeks of work," said a pleased Jim Hayes, Canton's tennis coach. "We'll just work hard and get prepared -- there's an awful lot of fine tennis teams in the state.

"Anything from here on is just fun," Hayes added. "It's just fantastic."

Last Tuesday, the Chiefs won their third straight conference title. Salem finished third.

Chief steals ball game

Senior Dave Makara stole a victory at Westland John Glenn Monday afternoon as the Canton-baseball team defeated the Rockets, 4-3. Makara stole home in the seventh inning to give Geoff Allen (8-2) the victory. The Chiefs (19-5) will host Ypsilanti (16-3) Friday at 4 p.m. in the pre-districts.

"It was nice to see Dave have that kind of game," said coach Fred Crissey.

Canton won the Western division with an 11-10 victory over Livonia Franklin Friday.

Pioneer Middle School, was hit at approximately 9:45 p.m. at the intersection of Ford and Lilley roads police said. She was rushed to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where she was pronounced dead at 10:48 p.m., said police.

Nemecek said Chisholm was attempting to cross Ford Road when she was struck by the vehicle.

Apparently she began crossing Ford Road from the northwest corner of the intersection on a red light, said Nemecek.

The light changed to green as Chisholm reached the median of the road, Nemecek said. He said the car in the lane next to the median remained stopped, but that the vehicle in the outside lane wasn't stopped for the red light, and proceeded through the green light, striking Chisholm.

Police reports indicated Chisholm was wearing a blue jacket and blue shorts at the time of the accident. Nemecek said it is likely the driver didn't see Chisholm because of the dark clothing and the time of night.

Nemecek said police believe the vehicle sustained front end damage, including a broken windshield and possibly rear trunk damage.

According to eyewitness reports, Chisholm was knocked in the air by the impact of the vehicle and bounced off the rear of the car, on to Ford Road.

There were no skidmarks at the scene of the accident leading police to believe the driver didn't attempt to stop, said Nemecek. Police reports indicated three plastic pieces were found at the scene, believed to be from the car.

Police are asking that anyone with information about the accident contact the department at 397-3000.

Friends remembered Chisholm last Tuesday and Wednesday by gathering at the scene of the accident. They posted signs that read "Honk, if you care" and "We love her." Flowers were also brought and laid next to the curb.

Pioneer Middle School Principal Carl Taylor said 200 to 300 students participated in group meetings concerning Chisholm's death last Tuesday with school counselors.

Taylor described Chisholm as "a fine young lady" who was a "typical teenager." Taylor added that a tree may be planted at the school in remembrance of Chisholm.

Funeral services were held for Chisholm Friday at St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Canton. Interment was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.
