Voter turnout expected to be low

BY KEN VOYLES

Despite the heated nature of this year's election campaign, officials in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools said last week that they are expecting a fairly low voter turnout for Monday's (June 11) school board election ballot.

Voters will be selecting two new school board candidates from a field of seven (an eighth candidate, John Engdahl, will be on the ballot, but has asked voters not to cast a vote for him). The two board seats are for four year terms. There are no incumbents seeking re-election this year.

Also, there are no millage questions on the ballot this time around.

School officials said last week that the voter turnout will probably be in the range of 10 to 16 per cent next week. A typical turnout is around 12 per cent.

"Any time there is no millage question it's usually a lighter turnout," said Richard Egli, community relations director for the district. "We're usually talking under 20 per cent even with a millage."

"It could be as low as 10 per cent this year and as high as 14-16 per cent," Egli continued. "We do want to urge people to get out there and vote."

$1.7 million surplus expected

Hoedel reveals '91 budget

BY MIKE GUINN

The good news for the 1990-91 CEP School Board of Education budget is that revenues have gone up nine percent from last year. Unfortunately, expenses have risen 11 per cent in the same period.

In the bimonthly school board meeting held Monday evening, Ray Hoedel, the superintendent for public business, revealed the operating budget for the coming school year to be $68,168,354.

Other figures released at the meeting included: Excess revenues for the upcoming year will exceed $1.7 million.

The projected fund balance for the upcoming year is expected to top $6.3 million, an increase over the current $4.6 million expected as of June 30.

Local revenue will grow by 32 percent, largely due to funds received from tax abated properties.

Proceeds from the federal project fund will decrease by 17 per cent.

Overall, school finances for the 1990-91 year appear to be in good shape, according to Hoedel. The annual exercise of cutting down costs for the board of Education does not appear to be a concern next year, he added.

"This is the first time in 17 years we have not had to prepare for the board of education all kinds of cutbacks (to maintain the operating budget)," Hoedel said.

The district's healthy outlook can be attributed in large part to the Headlee rollback fraction, a formula which figures in the previous and current year's State Equalized Valuation (SEV) and the 1989 inflation rate. The 1990 millage reduction fraction is thus computed.

Using this formula, the 1990 millage will be reduced by 5.61 per cent in the next school year.

Substantial increases in the new budget were targeted for equipment and supply upgrades. These included areas such as bus replacement and new textbooks. In addition, $680,000 has been budgeted to re-roof Miller Elementary School and part of Canton High School.

School meal costs for students will not increase during the next school year, Hoedel said. He announced that bids for food services will be requested in July, with a recommendation expected to be made in August.

The budget will be up for final discussion before the board on July 12. Approval for the budget is expected to come the final week in June.

As election day nears

School Board hopefuls seek vote

BY KEN VOYLES

With the school election vote just five days away, candidates for seats on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education are still trying to get the word out to voters about themselves.

Voters will select two board members during the June 11 election to fill the four-year terms. There are no millage questions on the ballot this year.

The candidates this year are:

Robert Anderson, Carl Battishill, Toni Hartke, K.C. Mueller, Diane Stamp, Richard Sumpter and Lester Walker. An eighth candidate, John Engdahl, who will remain on the ballot, has asked voters not to cast a ballot for him and instead support Mueller during the election.

Man charged in death

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A Van Buren Township man is being held on a charge of first degree murder after allegedly shooting a Westland man to death in Canton on Sunday, according to Canton Police.

William Roy Corbin, 27, is being held on $500,000 cash bond after being arraigned Monday at 35th District Court in Plymouth, according to Canton Police Officer Pat Nemecek. He said Corbin will face a pre-trial hearing Friday 9 a.m. at 35th District Court.

Terrance Lee Serman, 36, was killed early Sunday morning at the apartment of a Canton woman in the 1200 block of Stacy, said Nemecek. Serman was taken to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne where he died a short time after arrival, he said.

The following description of the incident was obtained through comments from Nemecek and police reports:

Serman and the Canton woman returned from a date on Saturday night and were on the second floor of the apartment at the time of the incident early Sunday morning.

Corbin, the ex-boyfriend of the Canton woman, kicked in the door of the apartment and went up the stairs to the second floor.

Nemecek said Corbin was armed with a .357-caliber revolver. He said Corbin fired two shots, one hitting the floor and the other striking Serman in the left side of his abdomen.

Corbin then fled the scene and returned to his home on the 4000 block of Alden in Van Buren Township, Nemecek said.

The Van Buren Township and Canton police departments apprehended Corbin, without incident, at his home at 6:55 a.m., Nemecek said.

Nemecek added that police recovered the revolver, believed to be the murder weapon, at Corbin's home.

Police said the Canton woman had broken off a relationship with Corbin about four-and-a-half weeks ago. The relationship had lasted about five years, police said.

Last week the seven candidates still in the race faced questions from residents during the Plymouth-Canton-Novi-Northville League of Women Voters forum at Canton High School. More than 100 residents were on hand to quiz the board candidates.

During the forum candidates got a chance to talk about themselves, offer their views on the school district and look at its challenges in the 1990s.

Walker, who was on the board from 1984-88, said the basic issue this year is "providing quality education for our children."

"It's clear that the next four years are going to bring forth a number of crucial issues for this district," he added.

Walker said the top issues include: the replacement of superintendent John M. Hoben once he retires; the proposed bond issue for next year; and district-wide housing needs.

Stamp, who is being supported by the Citizens for Better Education (CBE) group, said she decided to run for the board this year because she is "concerned about the quality of education and the declining reputation of the district."

"We need a fresh perspective," said Stamp, who added that some of the major issues confronting the district include property taxes, board accountability, and the use of R-rated movies in the classroom.

"I definitely think it's time for a change in our schools," she said.

Sumpter, a candidate in three previous school board races, said "unfortunately lines are drawn" between the various candidates this year.

Sumpter said the candidates can be divided into "them, they, and us." He said Battishill and Walker, who are both endorsed by the teachers union, are in one camp -- the "thems." Anderson and Stamp, backed by the CBE, are in another camp -- the "theys," he said, while himself, Mueller and Hartke are in the "us" category, or not supported by either the CBE or district staff unions.

Battishill, who was defeated in a bid for the board last year, said, "I did my homework since then and I hope to earn your respect."

Battishill said he has remained involved in the district since last year, by attending board meetings. He said he has "learned a few lessons" about the district and its upcoming challenges.

"This district faces a crisis in confidence and in communication," he said.

Hartke, who is a newcomer to board elections, said she wanted to "bring understanding" back into the district.

"No longer can we stand by and let the sensational issues dominate the parental agenda," she said. "My goal is to be the voice of the parents."

Conclusions forthcoming?

City will talk solid waste

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Some conclusions regarding the City of Plymouth's solid waste future may come out of a "workshop" on the issue Monday night.

City Manager Gordon Jaeger requested the meeting with city commissioners at a June 4 pre-commission meeting to discuss two possible alternatives.

"We've got the alternatives," he said, naming them as a bag-tag program or a straight fee. "We want to discuss them with the commission."

William Graham, city finance director, said the deadline for implementing a new solid waste program for the next fiscal year -- which begins July 1 -- is fast approaching.

"Quite frankly, we are running out of time to get this thing working effectively," he said.

Graham said he and Assistant City Manager Paul Sincok, the city's experts on the solid waste problem, are recommending implementation of a bag-tag program.

Tentatively, this means city residents would have to place their garbage in special bags purchased from the city for $1 each.

The motivation of the program is to get residents to dispose of appropriate materials free of charge at the city's recycling center, thus reducing the number of bags they would need to purchase.

This would also reduce the amount of waste going into area landfills.

The program would be accompanied by a reduction in mills levied for solid waste disposal.

Graham said the bag-tag idea puts the cost where it belongs -- on the user.

"The most equitable system we could use would be the bag-tag," he said.

Mayor Dennis Bifa said the workshop will give the commission an opportunity to fully discuss a matter of great importance to the city.

"It's probably one of the most important changes we'll make in the city's direction," he said. "We've got to make sure everybody's on board and everybody wants to go in the same direction."

Driver in hit and run still unknown

BY SCOTT DANIEL

The identity of the driver involved in the May 14 hit-and-run death of 14-year-old Canton youth Melissa Chisholm remains unknown, according to Canton Police.

Canton Police officer Pat Nemecek said the driver of the vehicle had not contacted police in the three weeks since the incident. The vehicle is believed to be a Ford or Lincoln-Mercury, 1988 or newer model, he said.

The Chisholm family is offering $5,000 for information leading to the discovery of the driver's identity, a family spokesperson said.

Nemecek said Canton Police have no new leads as to the identity of the driver.

Chisholm was hit at approximately 9:45 p.m. at the intersection of Ford and Lilley roads, police said. She was rushed to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where she was pronounced dead at 10:48 p.m., said police.

Nemecek said Chisholm was attempting to cross Ford Road when she was struck by the vehicle.

Storms knock out power in P-C

Parts of The Plymouth-Canton Community were left in the dark over the weekend as mother nature raged up in a June storm.

High winds and thunder storms on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon combined to knock power out of many homes and businesses in the area, according to Marty Bufalini, spokesman for Detroit Edison.

Bufalini said a total of about 18,600 households lost power at some time during the weekend in the company's Wayne/Monroe division, which includes The Plymouth-Canton Community.

By Monday morning, 18,600 homes in the division were still without power, he said, though all were expected to be restored by Monday night.

Bufalini said high winds accounted for the most of the outages. Tree limbs were blown into power lines, knocking them down, he said.

In all of Southeast Michigan, he said, a total of 101,000 Detroit Edison homes lost power at one time or another during the weekend.

A full contingent of repair crews were out in the daytime, he said, with a skeleton crew working nights to give repair workers a chance to rest.

Battishill, Walker receive The Crier endorsement

They. Them. Us.

That's how one school board candidate categorized this year's slate of seven active candidates running for the two seats on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education.

"They" include: Carl Battishill and Lester Walker. "Them" includes: Robert Anderson, Diane Stamp. "Us" includes: Richard Sumpter, Toni Hartke and K.C. Mueller.

The division by pronoun, according to the one candidate, should help voters select the two best candidates for the four-year positions.

And indeed it does, but, for different reasons.

With all of the talk about the current board's poor image in the community, it seems clear that some new blood would be a welcome addition to that body -- some new blood and yet experienced blood.

By far and away the best candidate for the board this year is Carl Battishill. He is an articulate, enthusiastic candidate, and a forthright communicator of what he would do as a board member. His continued involvement in the district before and after being defeated in last year's election says a lot about his desire to sit on the board.

Battishill is level-headed in his positions on various issues confronting the district, and most concerned about the future of education in the community. The question of his endorsement by special interest groups (the teachers' union) is worthy of some concern, but not enough to withhold support. At the same time, he has been most vocal in opposition of the CBE (Citizens for Better Education), which is seeking to dominate the board elections this year.

Experience will also help the next school board - the "old blood" of Lester Walker, a former board member makes him the top candidate for the second seat.

Walker is by far the most-experienced candidate, having served on the board already. His experience and knowledge of the board's workings enhances what he has to offer voters this year.

A note of caution, though. Walker, if re-elected, needs to avoid reverting to the malaise that seemed to dominate his previous time on the board. He has shown that he is a "new" candidate, having found the "guts" to take on the challenge once again.

Walker, who is also supported by the staff unions, will help lead the district through the 1990s.

It should be noted at this point that school staff unions need to do more than just offer candidates money. They need to get involved seriously in these elections once they have endorsed a candidate or a position.

Voters, then, should support Carl Battishill and Lester Walker for the two board seats this year.

A lot has to be said for Toni Hartke. She is the pleasant surprise of this year's election and with a little more experience and involvement in the district, will be a solid candidate in the future. She is down to earth and knows education issues. But Hartke, without prior involvement, cannot be supported this time around.

Of the CBE-supported candidates, Robert Anderson is by far the most experienced, but the broad focus of his campaign goes way beyond local schools. Maybe Anderson should consider a run for a state representative post.

The next group of candidates -- Diane Stamp, Richard Sumpter and K.C. Mueller -- just do not stack up to Battishill and Walker.

Stamp, also supported by the CBE, is too extreme in her views to make a good board member. Also, her combative nature calls into question whether she would be able to work with the rest of the board and look out for the best interests of the community as a whole. Stamp also needs to get her facts straight and avoid outlandish statements which just paint her into a corner -- such as terming Plymouth-Canton teachers the highest paid in Michigan.

Sumpter has a good working knowledge of the district and is a concerned candidate, but his inexperience and inability to see the entire picture shows when he says the "good old boy" nature of the school board isn't all bad.

Mueller has been strident in her efforts to take on the CBE, but other than that position, has not campaign. Her past voting record and schools involvement also raise questions.

Actually, those seven active candidates are qualified to serve The Plymouth-Canton Community and the choice facing voters next Monday is a difficult one.

The CBE candidates, while well meaning, must realize that the community as a whole requires a much broader education for its school students than they seem willing to provide. This is the 1990s, not the 1890s.

Also on the ballot, but no longer actively seeking a school board seat, is John Engdahl. Since he was questioned about his interest and intent before the deadline to officially withdraw, it's a shame he didn't have the backbone even to withdraw properly.

It's a shame that a non-serious candidate's name clutters a ballot in a very serious race.

Next Monday, Plymouth-Canton Community School District voters should support the fresh perspective of Carl Battishill and the experience of Lester Walker.

Community opinions

One last argument before June 11

EDITOR'S NOTE: The McClennen letter of last week was not run until Diane Stamp was given a chance for a rebuttal. Thus, the two letters appear here together.

EDITOR:

Following our endorsement of Carl Battishill and Les Walker in the race for the school board, CAFE (the Committee for Academic Freedom and Excellence) has received telephone calls that reflect misunderstandings concerning our organization and its positions regarding Citizens for Better Education (CBE).

Apparently, some individuals are circulating a rumor that CAFE was created by Dr. John Hoben to serve the purpose of the school administration. CAFE was formed spontaneously in response to public statements made by CBE six months prior to last year's school board election.

Our only contacts with the administration have been requests for information regarding specific CBE complaints. We have made presentations to the board concerning our positions (as CBE has) and we have spoken to teacher and student groups at their request (as CBE has).

Regarding the question of academic freedom, CAFE wants our teachers to be as creative and innovative as possible. We want a curriculum in place that helps develop critical thinking skills by exposing the students to differing points of view.

We want our 17 and 18-year old graduates to be as ready as possible to function in the challenging adult world they are about to enter. This requires more than just a core curriculum. It requires the study and discussion of contemporary issues related to the community, the nation and the world. The curriculum must introduce these aspects of education in appropriate ways throughout the 12 years of schooling.

As parents and citizens of the community, CAFE members are aware that along with many exciting, effective programs, there have been occasional instances of questionable judgment on the part of a few teachers. In our experience, these have been infrequent and they have been handled professionally and appropriately. We feel strongly that the school system's procedure for responding to parental complaints is thorough and fair.

Our complaints against CBE are that they apparently refuse to accept it when a judgment goes against them, that they persist in voicing the same complaint over and over (even though the event happened years ago), and that they claim to speak for a majority of the citizens in this district.

We oppose the candidates (Robert Anderson and Diane Stamp) supported by CBE's well organized minority because they and CBE continue to create the false impression that the schools are arrogant and indifferent to parental concerns.

This is a sad commentary on how far some individuals and organizations will go to win an election.

DOUGLAS MCCLENNEN
CAFE SPOKESPERSON

EDITOR:

I would like to take this opportunity to take issue with several points in Douglas McClennen's last (one can only hope) letter to the editor.

Having heard the way last year's interview of Robert Anderson was conducted, I would have to say that I do not consider rudeness and a hostile atmosphere during an interview as "providing a relaxed, give-and-take forum." I had serious doubts then about entering into a frustrating and non-productive encounter by accepting the Committee for Academic Freedom and Excellence (CAFE) invitation, but decided to go along with Anderson to the "relaxed" forum.

Following this decision, I read not one extremely biased and lengthy letter to the editor, but two authored by McClennen. I do not consider CAFE a legitimate, neutral or important endorsing body, and could not remember reading or hearing anything of the group over the past year and so decided that with all the other activities competing for time and attention during this election, it was not in anyone's best interest that I accept this invitation.

Now we are faced with yet another length, bigoted and narrow-minded letter to the editor by McClennen and, not understanding why striving for a balance between academic freedom and academic responsibility would be a "chilling" thought to anyone, I decided to take the time to contact CAFE's "spokesperson" to discuss his views of me personally. I asked if he could provide me with more information on the CAFE group such as a list of their contributions and accomplishments on behalf of our schools in order that I understand this group better. McClennen refused. He stated that he saw no reason to give me any information, but then went on to inform me that there were approximately 80 members of CAFE, the majority of whom were a "mailing list." The other meet in his home. He said that the group was made up of many members of the extremely liberal group, "People for the American Way" and, of course, the ACLU. After much irrational conversation which included many personal attacks on Citizens for Better Education (CBE) (McClennen referring to the people in CBE as "those kooks and crazies"), he did offer the information that CAFE's main -- and apparently only -- activity is volunteering for review committees to look at complaints filed by CBE. As far as I know, CBE has not filed a formal complaint for over two years. What does CAFE do while waiting for another complaint to be filed (other than writing letters to the editor at election time)? McClennen also referred to everything CBE has done as "sheer, unadulterated nonsense." Knowing, after extensive research into CBE's past activities and accomplishments, that I do not share his characterization of these people or their contributions to the school system, I was only more convinced than ever that I made the correct decision in not subjecting myself to McClennen and his radically leftist, small and dwindling group of reactionaries.

If there are members of CAFE who do not consider themselves in the above category, please accept my apology, but I would remind you that we are only known by the company we keep, and I am thoroughly convinced that this group is not company that I would enjoy keeping.

How the Crier endorses

Endorsements of issues and candidates in The Plymouth-Canton Community are made by a vote of the Community Crier's editorial staff.

Many factors are taken into consideration. Public debates, the opinions of others, printed literature, groups' endorsements and past observations of candidates and school affairs are all used by the Crier staff members in their individual evaluations.

One significant factor in this year's school candidates' endorsement was the face-to-face meeting between the seven remaining candidates and The Crier staff. The Thursday evening session was a polite but firmly debated, issue-oriented exchange.

The newspaper's endorsement, based upon the staff's knowledge and research, is intended to serve as one more criteria for voters going to the polls on June 11.

Vote on Monday

Next Monday is the annual Plymouth-Canton Community Schools election.

Two school board seats are wide open -- the incumbents having chosen not to run again. The names of seven active candidates (and one drop-out) are on the ballot for the two seats in a campaign that will be termed, the "Year of the Yard Signs War."

With no ballot issue, such as a millage request, on the ballot, most sources expect a far lighter voter turnout than last year.

And that very fact could influence the election.

One veteran political advisor said last week, "Oh, I'm not too worried. So-and-so doesn't have a chance of getting in."

But then he thought about it. With a low voter turnout and two wide-open seats, a small-but-inspired cadre of supporters could elect a candidate from among the seven.

Don't assume your candidate(s) will win.

(Just ask the supporters of former City Commissioner Bob Jones who, after being told he had the election all locked up, didn't campaign last November and lost by only seven votes.)

Be sure to vote Monday.

Help musician

A talented musician at Centennial Educational Park (CEP) is deserving of your help.

Matt Walters, 16, is a junior at Salem High School. He recently won a first place scholarship to the National Music Camp program at Interlochen this summer, but the scholarship money will only cover about half of the tuition necessary to attend the camp.

Last week the Canton youth sent out letters asking for help from the Canton Rotary club and other local civic organizations. He needs to raise nearly $1,000 still to attend the camp.

The Plymouth Kiwanis have already said they are willing to help as has the parent of one of Matt's band friends. But other residents of this community can help also.

"He seems to have some God-given musical talent," said his mother, Johanne Walters. "It would be a shame if he can't attend camp because of money."

The family of six has financial difficulties that make it impossible for the Walters to assist their son any more than they already have, said Johanne, who suffers from a form of chronic fatigue syndrome.

Last year, with the help of the Canton Rotary, Matt attended the all-state program at Interlochen. He has played with the University of Michigan Youth Symphony and the Youth Band during the 1989-90 season. He is also a member of the CEP Marching Band, Symphony Band, Symphony Orchestra and the Plymouth Community Band.

Along with four other classmates, the young Walters has been a member of the Centennial Brass Quintet, which often plays at local church services and other public functions.

Matt also has a special private tutor - Corbin Wagner, a French horn player with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Besides his musical commitments, Matt is involved in the National Honor Society and his church youth group. He tutors other students on a weekly basis and has maintained a grade point average of better than 4.0.

Eventually Matt said he would like to attend either the University of Michigan School of Music, the Juilliard School or the New England Conservatory of Music, when he graduates from Salem in 1991.

Anyone wishing to help should call the Walters family at 453-9171.

Township is wasting its land

EDITOR:

So Plymouth Township has agreed to the destruction of some of its last undeveloped land to accommodate a big, new post office, far from the commercial heart of downtown.

Whatever happened to Supervisor Maurice Breen's statements that he didn't want the post office in the township? I guess that was the other side of his mouth talking.

Why couldn't an adequate sized facility be placed at the site of the old Farmer Jack? If ever there was a legitimate use of eminent domain, this is it. Perhaps it's more important for our government to conform to the Detroit D-B-A norm of land development (destroy, build, abandon).

GARY GRACE

Questionable behavior

EDITOR:

During the night of May 25, two signs supporting Carl Battishill for school board were taken from our lawns. Signs for two other candidates were on adjoining lawns but were not removed, leading us to the assumption that the signs were removed by their supporters.

We contacted Battishill to ask for replacement signs but were told that he had no more. He commented that he had purchased and given out 300 signs but that half of them had subsequently been stolen from the lawns where they were displayed.

It concerns us greatly that candidates who believe that values should be taught in the home rather than at school have supporters who believe that stealing signs is appropriate election campaign behavior.

Step forward with info

EDITOR:

In the May 23 issue I recently read the article "Driver's Silence is Painful." I was deeply touched to know that so many people care about what happened to 14 year old Melissa Chisholm.

This letter is directed to the people of our community, because someone out there has to know what happened and who the driver was. If that person is reading this letter, I hope you realize what you are doing to the friends and family of Melissa.

No one deserves this kind of emotional pain. Losing a loved one is enough, but knowing the person is "getting off" makes everyone very disappointed.

Although I didn't know Melissa personally, many of my friends were very close to her. Again, someone must have seen something, and I deeply encourage them to step forward and report what they saw or know. Having less than 10 tips from an accident of this magnitude leaves me confused.

Once again, I hope just one person has the courage to step forward with the answer.

Debris removed

Rouge Rescue a voluntary success

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Plymouth-Canton friends of the Rouge River came out on Saturday to make the fifth annual Rouge Rescue Day a success, area site coordinators agree.

In all, about 180 volunteers turned up at cleanup sites supervised by municipal officials from The City of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth Township.

The volunteers removed over 100 cubic yards of debris from the Rouge and two of its tributaries - Tonquish Creek and Johnson Creek.

Jim Penn, site coordinator from the city, said that while he had fewer volunteers than expected, a good stretch of the Tonquish was cleared of debris.

"I was disappointed with the turnout, but with the group that was there, we did a dood job," he said.

Penn said 37 volunteers signed up during the 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. work period. The group filled one 40-cubic yard dumpster with debris and three-fourths of another, Penn said.

Most of the debris consisted of logs and tree limbs, he said, but a couple shopping carts and the hood of a car were also removed from the creek.

Over 100 volunteers from Canton came out to the township's cleanup site on the Rouge River in Wayne, according to Kim Scherschligt, site coordinator from Canton.

"We were very happy with the turnout," Scherschligt said. "Enthusiasm was higher this year."

The volunteers concentrated on two log jams on the Rouge, she said, with successful results.

"Both logjams were removed and the water is flowing freely," she said, noting that the Canton Department of Public Works had a backhoe on hand to aid the volunteers.

Besides clearing the logjams, the crew filled a 40-cubic yard dumpster with debris from the Rouge that included a bowling ball and double sink, Scherschligt said.

"It's amazing what you can find in the river," she said.

Charles VanVleck, who supervised the Plymouth Township site on the Johnson Creek, said 40 people signed up to help out.

"We were very pleased with that," he said. "There were plenty of people to help."

VanVleck said the crew cleared about 2,000 feet of the creek.

About half of the volunteers were from the Western Wayne County Conservation Club and half from Plymouth Township, he said.

None of the area site coordinators reported any injuries or other problems from volunteers.

Carol Scrimger, assistant director of the Friends of the Rouge, said the group was expecting to at least equal last year's volunteer turnout of 2,700 people from 27 different sites. She added that over 100 logjams were removed or opened up.

"Everyone I spoke with said it went very well with a lot of hard workers," Scrimger.

Award dedicated

PHS grad helps make 'Magic'

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

A small piece of Earvin "Magic" Johnson's recent Most Valuable Player Award from the National Basketball Association (NBA) comes from center court of old Plymouth High School.

Greta (Jensen) Dart and Jim Dart, PHS class of 1962, were surprised to learn that Magic has dedicated his 1989-90 MVP award to them for their help when he was growing up in Lansing.

The Darts first met Magic in 1969 when he was a fifth grader at Main Street Elementary School where Greta was a first-year teacher. "The sixth graders had organized a basketball team," Jim explained, "and the fifth graders came to Greta to ask if she'd coach; she volunteered me. Earvin was in that group."

Margreta Jensen in 1962.

Jim Dart had played both football and basketball at Plymouth High School. Margreta (Greta) Jensen was active in girls' athletics and student council.

Greta's first teaching job in the Lansing school that year was "a kind of cultural shock," since the school was 90 per cent black students.

Jim Dart in 1962.

"Earvin was one of the kids who kind of looked after her," Jim said.

"I'm a big sports fan. Earvin was one of a couple kids always tagging along," Jim Dart said. "We put some icing on the cake. He had a dad who was working two jobs, a mom working and six brothers and sisters.

"We saw a lot of each other. Not so much because he was a basketball player, but because he was the kind of kid he was," Dart said.

"We stayed in touch. He personally flew us to the Rose Bowl (when Michigan State beat USC)."

The Darts have kept up their friendship with Magic, yet were surprised when he announced the dedication of the coveted NBA award to them.

"I'm basking in his glory," Dart said. "And (Plymouth-Canton Schools Superintendent John) Mike Hoben should have his name on my own diploma too." Hoben was Dart's football coach.

All credit modestly brushed aside by the Darts, Magic acknowledged that a piece of center court at old Plymouth High School helped his career.

Former PHS football coach and current school superintendent John Hoben looks on as Jim Dart rests.

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

Everyone misplaces something from time to time. I have been known to put an important paper or object in a special place so I won't lose it. Two days later I can remember putting it in a special place but I can't remember where that special place is.

Although I've been accused of age being the problem, I stand on the belief that it is simply a brain overload that makes me forget stupid things.

Last week I lost a certain folder. It was one of those things I was sure I had left on the dresser in my room. When I couldn't find it on the dresser, or the night stand or the desk in my room, I thought I had left it at the office. After searching everything in my office (including the top of my desk) and asking the person who sometimes moves things around in my office, I still didn't have a clue to where the darn thing was.

On the home front I had both kids going through their rooms looking for my folder (just in case it got mixed up with one of theirs). We went through every drawer in every desk and every closet with no luck. I even called someone to see if I had left it at a meeting.

The folder and contents were really no big deal, but the idea that I couldn't find something like that drove me crazy. My goal was to find it before I left town for the weekend. However, as I drove out of town, I had pretty well convinced myself that I was making too big a deal out of something so stupid.

Yes, I searched the car and no, it wasn't there. So I couldn't find the folder, there was nothing else I could do about it, and life was going to go on without it.

When I returned home and lugged my suitcase into my room, there on the floor in front of my closet was the darn folder. I know it couldn't have been there when I left, but both of the kids have denied knowing anything about it.

There's a very slim possibility that this is one those situations where you look right at something and don't see it, but I don't think this is the case. I think my son in his infinite ability to tease is trying to convince me of just how much I won't miss him when he goes back to school in the fall.

Something tells me it's going to be a long summer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The entire Crier and COMMA, staff is pleased to learn we hadn't stolen the missing folder after all.

Melanie Russell has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of airman first class. She is the daughter of Jo Ward of Harsdale Court in Canton.

Rocks hot; advance

BY RITA DERBIN

When you're hot, you're hot -- and one Rock was almost too hot to handle Saturday afternoon. Not wind nor rain could cool off Scott Rodgers and the Salem baseball team.

The Rocks (17-10) advanced to the state regionals that will be played in Wyandotte on Saturday by defeating Ypsilanti, 8-6, in the district semi-finals. The Rocks then defeated Adrian, 3-2, in the district finals, in the second game of a district doubleheader Saturday.

The semi-final game featured an incredible hitting performance by Scott Rodgers. The junior had four straight hits in the game, including two home runs and a two run double in the pivotal seventh-inning of the game. Rodgers, playing rightfield, also threw out a runner at the plate in the first inning to complete a double play and ended what could have been a big inning for Ypsilanti, which had jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the game.

Senior Rob Kowalski started the game and was relieved in the sixth inning after giving up a two run home run to give Ypsilanti a 6-4 lead. Jeff Paluk came in to relieve and gained the victory when Salem scored four runs in the top of the seventh inning.

In the seventh inning, Dave Makowiec doubled, Scott Niemiec reached first on an error, Tom Noonan then put the Rocks within one run of Ypsilanti when he singled Makowiec in to make the score 6-5. Rodgers then doubled in Niemiec and Noonan to give Salem a 7-6 lead. Tracey Ewald then singled in Rodgers to give the Rocks an insurance run and an 8-6 lead.

Rodgers was then called on to pitch the second game, which would determine the district champion. The righthander responded by pitching two-hit ball against Adrian and allowing only one run in five innings before rain delayed the game.

Tracksters win titles

BY RITA DERBIN

Neither team may be the conference champion but both Centennial Educational Park schools have conference track and field champions.

The Salem boys finished third and Canton took fourth in the conference meet last Wednesday.

The Rocks finished with 106 points, and two conference champions: Leon Hister in the long jump (21-8 $\frac{1}{2}$) and the 3200-meter relay of John Thomas, Brendon Masterson, Todd Ci no and Mike Patterson (8:13.2).

Canton, which finished fourth with 89 points, had one conference champ. Dean Benedict was first in the discus with a throw of 148-3.

The Rocks had a second place finish from the 400-meter relay of Scott Austin, Justin Fisher, P. Bowie and

A strong wind and rain plagued the finals, and finally, with Salem batting and two outs in the top of the sixth inning the umpires stopped the game. When the game resumed an hour later, Rodgers' arm had tightened up and Paluk finished the game for a save giving up one run in two innings.

"Those two were real big wins," said Salem coach John Gravlín. "We played two big and strong teams and faced a couple guys who could really throw on the mound.

"I think we played our best game offensively against Ypsi," Gravlín added. "Rodgers was outstanding but Makowiec went four for four in the game and Noonan had a key RBI when we needed it."

This is the third time the Rocks have won their district since Gravlín started coaching and he thinks this in the best year he's had.

"This one is the most satisfying because it was truly a team effort," Gravlín said. "The other times we had a dominating pitcher that overpowered the district. This year it's truly been a team effort."

The Rocks will need another total team effort when they face Farmington, a team that has beaten them twice already this season, on Saturday at 12:30 in Wyandotte at Memorial Field.

Most likely Chris Schmid, who has beaten Salem twice, will pitch for Farmington. Gravlín is unsure who will pitch for the Rocks. "We've got a scrimmage planned," Gravlín added. "We've got three pitchers who we can use. We're going to decide as the week goes on."

To get to Memorial Field, take 275 South to Eureka. Take Eureka to Fort Street and go south to Pennsylvania Street. Turn left on Pennsylvania to the ball park.

Matt Perron (45.0). For Canton, Eric Miller was second in the long jump (20-10).

Jim Ramsay was third for Salem in the 110-meter hurdles (15.3); and for the Chiefs, third places went to Mike DeJarnett in the high jump (6-2); the 3200-meter relay of Craig Miller, Dave Washenko, Ron Staples and Mike Ream; the 800-meter relay of Craig Piwko, Karl Wukie, Miller and Jeff Prysak (1:34.7); Staples in the 400-meter dash (52.0); and Prysak with a school record of 40.6 in the 300-meter hurdles.

Canton also had three boys compete in the state meet Saturday: Miller in the long jump, DeJarnett in the high jump, and Brian Beach in the 3200-meter run.

Chiefs beat, season ends

BY RITA DERBIN

The Chiefs' season came to a halt Saturday afternoon. The Canton soccer team was defeated 1-0 by Kalamazoo Central in the regional finals at Okemos High School.

Kalamazoo scored five minutes into the game and held on for the shutout. The Chiefs, who finished at 13-3-2, had opportunities but could not capitalize.

"We weren't fired up," said coach Don Smith. "They scored early on a bad goal and we couldn't recover.

"We didn't have the zip," Smith added. "We worked hard and had 26 shots on goal, but they were the better team that day, I guess."

Last Wednesday, Canton advanced to the regional finals by defeated East Lansing, 2-1. The Chiefs jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first half when Christina Reilly scored on a pass from Ayana Nash, and Lynn Nichols scored unassisted. East Lansing scored later in the half to make the score 2-1. There was no scoring in the second half.

Jenny Russell finished the season with 19 goals and 10 assists to lead the Chiefs. The senior finished her career at Canton with 54 goals and 32 assists.

"Russell had another great year," said Smith. "She's been a real team player -- she just goes about doing her job -- she's not trying to do it for Jenny, that's the kind of player she is.

"She did a lot for us this year," Smith added. "She scored a lot of big goals for us. We'll really miss her."

Smith praised the senior leadership provided by Russell, Erin Morgan and Becky Shankie.

"The seniors were definitely leaders for us this year," Smith said. "All three showed good senior leadership and helped the younger girls along."

Other top scorers for the Chiefs include juniors Lynn Nichols (nine goals and three assists), Christine Reilly (six goals, five assists), and Ayana Nash (three goals, six assists); and freshmen Colleen Connell (five goals, four assists) and Leah Hutko (five goals, two assists).

Freshman goalkeeper, Jori Welchans, was also a key to success for the Chiefs. Welchans had 10 shutouts and allowed only 12 goals in 18 games while playing through various injuries.

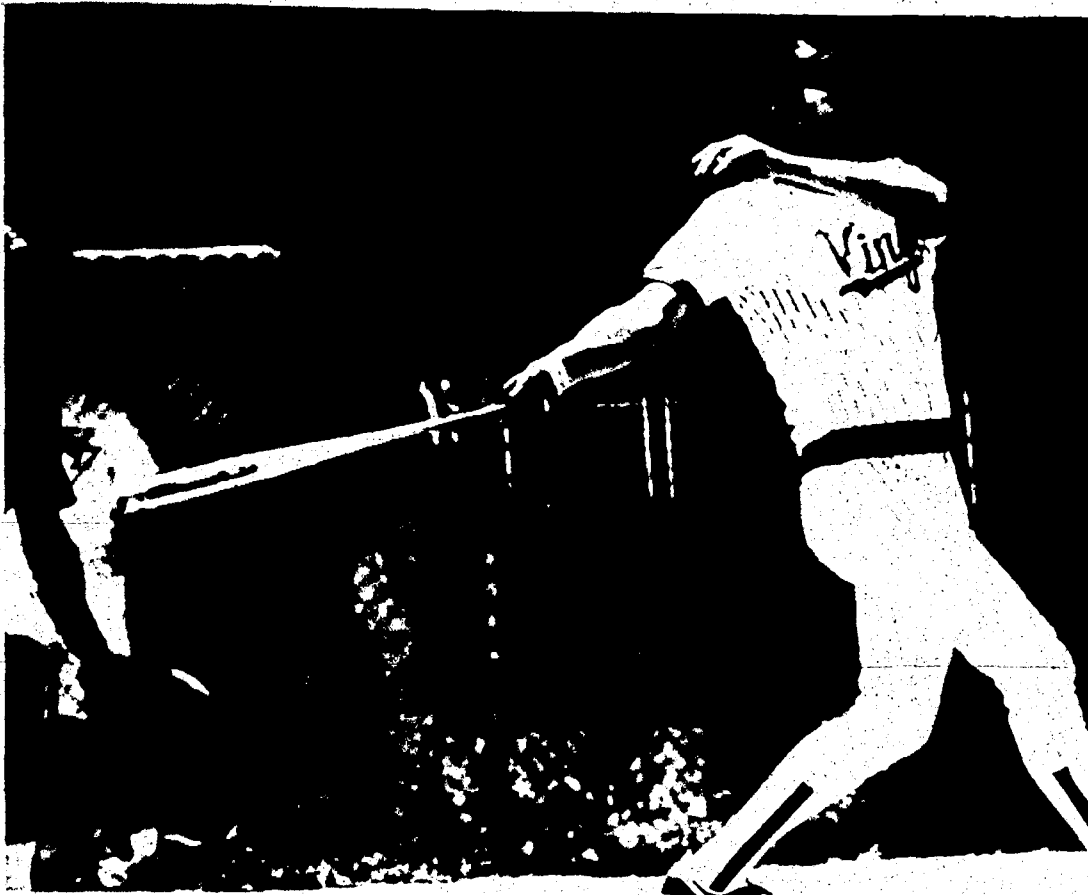

Smith also wanted to praise his assistant coach Murray Greenhalge, who coached the junior varsity squad to a 10-2-2 record, which will assure Canton many more good young players coming up.

"I'm proud of the whole team and for what they did this year," said Smith. "And I'm already looking forward to next year."

Nash, Nichols, Reilly and fellow juniors Laurie McNamara, Denise Koontz and Jenny Huckaba are expected to pick up the slack next year.

Soccer meeting

There will be an organizational meeting for the Canton High boys soccer team on Friday, June 8 at 4:30 p.m. All interested boys in grades nine through 12 are welcome to the meeting, which will be held at Phase III.

Heartbreak: Chiefs lose in 21 innings

BY RITA DERBIN

The agony of defeat was felt by the Canton softball team on Saturday. The Chiefs' season came to an end after coming out on the short end of a five-hour marathon with Belleville. Canton lost 8-2 in 21 innings — no that is not a typo — 21 innings — which is equivalent to three complete games.

Freshman Kelly Holmes was the hard luck pitcher. She pitched a complete game for Canton, striking out 22 batters and giving up 12 hits and eight runs, all of them unearned, in 21 innings.

The Chiefs scored in the first inning and Belleville tied it up in the second on a walk, sacrifice and single to right which was bobbled and allowed the run to score.

The score remained tied until the 20th inning, when a Belleville player reached base on an error and eventually scored. Canton battled back to tie the game in the bottom of the inning when senior Stacey Thompson singled in the tying run to make the score 2-2.

The bottom fell out for the Chiefs with two outs in the 21st inning. An error allowed a run to score which opened the floodgates. Belleville went on to score five more runs in the inning to make the score 8-2. Canton could not come back in the bottom half of the inning.

"That was probably the best game Belleville played all year," said coach Dave Racer. "I know it's the best effort I've ever seen from a Canton girls softball team."

"The girls really had a good season," said Racer, who coached his last game for the Chiefs. "Any time you can go 24-4 you've played really well."

Racer, who has coached Canton softball for the past two seasons to a record of 44-12, will be coaching the Madonna College softball team next year.

"I had a real good group of seniors," Racer said. "And there will be a good nucleus coming back next year."

Leading the Chiefs this season were three all-conference selections, Seniors Stacey Thompson at catcher and Jennifer Vanootighem, outfield and junior Jenny Sekovich in the infield.

All-Western division for the Chiefs were Julie Nicastri at first base; Kris Ford, infield; Renee Dory, catcher; and Holmes at pitcher.

Last event decides it Salem girls track edged at home

BY RITA DERBIN

The home field advantage wasn't quite enough for the Salem girls track team.

In a dual that came down to the last event, the Rocks finished second behind Livonia Stevenson (154.5) at the Western Lakes Activities Association conference meet last Tuesday, which was held at the Centennial Educational Park fields. Salem had 146.2 points, and Canton was third with 111.5 points.

Conference champions for the Rocks were Jennifer Harris in the high jump (5-3) and the 100-meter hurdles (15.1); Tracey Livermore in the long jump (16-7); Yolanda Jackson in the 100-meter dash (12.31); the 800-meter relay of Kim Ploucha, Tonya Wheeler, Livermore and Jackson (1:50.7); and the 400-meter relay of Andrea Kinnelly, Wheeler, Livermore and Jackson (53.0).

Conference champs for the Chiefs were Kim Gudeth in the 400-meter dash (1:02.5); and the 3200-meter relay of Gudeth, Adrienne Garrow, Christie Saffron and Amy Smith (10:03.1).

Second place finishes for the Chiefs were Ifeoma Okwumubua in the shot put (31-10); Stephanie Gray in the high jump (5-3); and Smith in the 1600-meter run (5:29.4).

Both schools were represented at the state meet on Saturday.

Canton's 3200-meter relay of Gudeth, Garrow, Saffron and Smith finished ninth (9:55.3) and Gudeth was ninth in the 800-meter run with a school record time of 2:22.2. In the high jump, Stephanie Gray jumped 5-2. Heather Spencer also qualified in the high jump. Smith ran 12:33.8 in the 3200-meter run.

"I thought they did very well," said Canton coach George Przygodski. "It was a great opportunity for them to compete with the best athletes in the state. I'm proud of their achievements."

Salem scored one point at the state meet when Harris qualified for the finals in the 100-meter hurdles. She finished eighth with a time of 15.4. Other state qualifiers were Tammy Hickey, who finished 12th in the 3200-meter run (11:54.4); and Harris and Jackson both jumped 5-2 in the high jump to finish in a 12-way fourth place tie. Jackson competed in the 100-meter dash but did not qualify for the finals. Her best time was 12.7.

Turnout

One indication of the number of voters to be expected is the absentee ballot total.

Bernice Nichols, the district's election organizer, said that less than 200 absentee ballots had been counted by last week.

That's compared to nearly 1,000 absentee ballots last year when the district saw a record turnout and voters re-elected Dave Arlley to the board and passed a millage increase.

Last year nearly 16,000 voters went to the polls that election vote, said Nichols. That represents about 24 per cent of the district's voters. There are approximately 65,000 voters in the school district.

Running for the two board seats this year are: Robert Anderson Jr., Carl Battishill, Toni Hartke, K.C. Mueller, Diane Stamp, Richard Sumpter and Lester Walker.

Voters in some parts of Canton will vote in races in either the Van Buren Public Schools or the Wayne-Westland School district.

There are 15 voting precincts in Plymouth-Canton. Polls will be open throughout the district from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Voters unsure of where to vote should call Nichols at 451-3135.

For results on election night call The Crier at 453-6900.

Candidates ...

Mueller, also a newcomer to board races, said, "The future of our community is directly related to the success of our schools."

"Defending our schools should be easy -- having to defend them should not be necessary," Mueller added.

Anderson, who has sought a seat on the board two previous times, said he has a "perspective" that is not currently represented on the board. He said that perspective is one of a large number of residents in the community.

"I want to concentrate on increasing parental participation in our schools," he said. Anderson added that he also would like to eliminate controversial educational materials (R-rated movies) and bring "responsibility to the academic freedom we've enjoyed for years."

Vachher update

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A Michigan State Police investigation of the incident in which Canton resident Paul Vachher was shot by Canton Police on May 21 is near completion, according to State Police Sgt. Dean Sanderson.

"We are projecting that the investigation will be complete by next week," Sanderson said. He said the information from the investigation will then be turned over to the Wayne County prosecutor to determine whether charges will be filed.

Vachher remains in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ypsilanti as of Tuesday, said hospital officials.
