Schools implicated in another spill

BY KEN VOYLES
AND PHILIP TARDANI
PCCC Inc. 1990

For the second time in four months, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools appear to be implicated in an illegal dumping incident.

The newest dumping to come to light allegedly occurred in late April when "black oily sludge" was discovered by City of Plymouth Department of Public Works (DPW) personnel in a sanitary sewer catch basin.

Environmental reports said the spill was not toxic.

According to the city, DPW crews removed the liquid from the sewer, which runs parallel to Mill Street along the school district's bus yard and school bus garage. The sludge was then moved by the DPW to a pit dug and lined with plastic at an unused part of the city's Riverside Cemetery where the city often disposes of brush and concrete.

City officials contend that district employees purposefully dumped the oil into the sewer, but school officials said they are not "convinced" the source of the oil came entirely from their facility.

In a highly-publicized incident last month, two district employees were disciplined -- one suspended and one "warned" -- for dumping caustic liquids into a drain leading to Willow Creek behind Salem High School.

When a city worker discovered the oil in April, "I went right in there and took him (a bus yard foreman) out to the site," said Ken Vogras, head of the city's DPW.

"It looked to me like they were purposefully dumping right into a catch basin."

DPW crews removed approximately 2,500 gallons of the sludge on April 20 and put it into the pit, said one report.

The Wayne County Health Department was notified of the incident by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and directed city officials to pump the liquid into a holding container, back fill the pit with clean fill, and remediate the contaminated area, the report said.

The "black liquid sludge," was originally removed from the pit by a DPW "Vac" truck and stored in the vehicle until removal by an Inland Waters Tanker on May 7. Another 85 cubic yards of contaminated soil was

Center proposed

Recycling at CEP?

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Canton may soon be getting a second recycling station -- this time at Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

According to Canton Clerk Loren Bennett, the township is currently working with officials in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district to establish a recycling station at Canton High School.

"The plans aren't confirmed yet," Bennett said.

Canton currently has one recycling center located adjacent to the township administrative complex.

"I can't think of any reason why it wouldn't happen," said Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Trustee Dave Artley. "It's one of those things where we can show common concern for the environment."

Administrators from the school district and Canton will be meeting to further discuss the issue, Artley said.

He added that there is no timeframe for establishing the recycling center at Canton High.

"It's a logical site," Artley said, "because of the security and access to the high school."

Bennett said the township will eventually establish four recycling centers in the community. The first center opened on June 6.

"It has been overwhelmingly successful," Bennett said. The collection bin of the center is emptied twice a week to keep up with residents disposing of recyclables, he said.

The recycling center collects such items as newspaper, glass, tin and cardboard, Bennett said. He added that 55 tons of materials have been collected so far.

Establishing the recycling center at Canton High will be an administrative decision, Artley said. He said the school board has no "conceptual problems" with having the center at the high school.

"We are all partners in the environment," Artley said. "The recycling center is the right thing to do."

Weather cooperates

Fest called a success

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Despite an opening night of bad weather, officials are calling the 1990 Plymouth Fall Festival a success.

According to Paul Sincock, publicity chairperson for the festival, nearly 100,000 people showed up during the four-day event over the weekend.

"Even with the bad weather Thursday, it was an absolute success," Sincock said. "It was just a nice community festival."

Larry McElroy, Fall Festival Board of Directors president, said board members were kept busy at their Plymouth Chamber of Commerce headquarters, giving directions and answering questions.

The festival culminated with the Rotary chicken dinner on Sunday, Sincock said, when the Rotarians served up more than 12,000 dinners.

And stick to policy Board to back off on procedure

BY KEN VOYLES

The separation of policy and procedure came up almost as an afterthought at Monday's Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education meeting.

But it may have been one of the more productive 10-minute discussions spent by the board in recent weeks, and it was spearheaded by Trustee Roland Thomas.

At Thomas' suggestion, but without any formal action, the board decided it would back off on its look at procedures for previewing audiovisual teaching materials before their use in district classrooms.

Thomas suggested the board come up with a simple one sentence policy designed to allow the administration to implement its procedure. The sentence, he said, should explain that the district's policy for the use of such materials is that they must be "previewed."

To that Carl Battishill responded with a "Bravo."

"I want to get out of the administrative procedure business," said Thomas, who added that the board still needs to review district procedures. "We should be setting policy only."

The board functions as a policy setting body, but has often looked at specific administrative procedures.

Trustee Dave Artley said he felt the board has been spending too much time on procedural questions over the last seven years. He said it was a "good example of what we ought not be doing."

"Ninty per cent of what we call policy has been procedure," said Trustee E.J. McClendon.

Board President Dean Swartzwelder, who first raised doubts about the board setting up what seemed to clearly be a procedure, said the comments were "in the spirit of what I've been saying."

The district's three massive policies and procedures manuals (they can be found in the local libraries) are almost completely made up of administrative procedures, said Superintendent John M. Hoben.

Hoben said there were only about "15" policies in the manuals, as compared with hundreds of administrative procedures.

Hoben also said that a consulting firm was going to be looking at the district's entire policy/procedure program. A meeting between the consultant and board is planned for Oct. 1.

Hoben expects it will take about eight/nine months to finish a review of the manuals.

"It's long overdue," he told the board Monday.

The board and administration have been grappling with the audiovisual procedure since May, said Swartzwelder. Last month the board approved a first posting of the procedure, but then tabled a second posting after teachers demanded the right to bargain over the changes.

The audiovisual procedure as originally discussed called for creating a record of all teacher requests to use movies, tapes, videos and filmstrips in a class.

Under the procedure, all requests would have to be previewed and approved by building principals in advance of their use. It also allowed, however, that some materials already in use would not have to be reviewed.

Area youth in guarded condition

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A 17-year-old Garden City youth is listed in guarded condition after inhaling harmful chemicals early Sunday morning at Canton's Meijer's Thrifty Acres, according to Canton police reports.

The youth remains in guarded condition at the intensive care unit of Mott's Children Hospital in Ann Arbor, according to hospital officials.

Police reports said the youth inhaled automobile air conditioner refrigerant, believed to be freon, at about 1 a.m. in the store.

According to the reports, the youth and four friends has stopped at Meijer's to pick up auto supplies.

School bond 'leaders' tapped

BY KEN VOYLES

The cast is nearly set.

Local residents are lining up to take charge of a new blue ribbon study group which will look at the possibility of a school bond proposal sometime in the next two years.

During Monday's Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education meeting President Dean Swartzwelter said the board plans to "get in place" the names of local residents interested in co-chairing the committee and its three sub-committees.

The board will meet with the 12 residents who have "accepted co-chair challenge" on Monday (Sept. 17) at 7:30 p.m., he said. That meeting will be held in the Canton High Library.

The "leaders" include: Dave Campbell, Gary Davis, Harold Fischer, Jim Gillig, Steve Harper, Dick Hoerner, Kathleen Keen-McCarthy, Russell Murphy, Carey Peters, Glenn Schroeder and Jean Tabor.

Co-chairs of the overall group will be Hoerner, Keen-McCarthy and Davis.

Also on the list is Ray Buckman, but the board is likely to appoint Buckman as "leader for (a) state legislative lobby group," said Swartzwelter.

Some 23 residents were invited to help the district look at its needs to the year 2010 and consider the idea of seeking a future bond request from taxpayers.

Dick Egli, district community relations administrator, told the board that another 40 residents have "signed up to be on committees."

Swartzwelter also said that Norman Stockmeyer, a past chairperson of the Wayne State University board and past president of the Michigan Board of Education, will serve as a consultant to the co-chairs.

The committee is expected to assess the current status of facilities and equipment in the district and identify immediate and long term needs.

Vets plan MIA vigil

BY PHILIP TARDANI

The Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans of America (PCVVA) will remember Michigan soldiers listed as missing in action with a vigil on Sept. 21, at 7 p.m.

The group plans to release 73 black balloons in honor of the 73 Michigan men listed as POW/MIA in Vietnam, according to a group member, Timothy LaGrow, who is helping to organize the event.

After the launch -- which will be at the veterans memorials in the City of Plymouth's Kellogg Park -- the names of the 73 men will be read aloud, he said.

The balloons will also have an orange ribbon, symbolizing the defoliant agent orange, which many believe caused health problems for soldiers in Vietnam.

Causes flooding, school closings Storm batters Plymouth-Canton

BY SCOTT DANIEL

The severe storms which slashed through The Plymouth-Canton Community Thursday night caused flooding, power outages and school closings.

In Canton, hardest hit of the three communities, at least 150 complaints of flooding were received, according to Municipal Services Director Aaron Machnik.

Machnik said Windsor Park, Carriage Hills, Brookside and Mayfair subdivisions, were most effected by flooding. Willow Creek runs through each of the subdivisions, Machnik said.

"I've lived in Canton for 20 years," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yaek. "But, I've never seen the creeks that high."

Yaek said he had "four or five" inches of water in his basement after the storm.

"That's minor compared to some others," he said. Yaek added that four inches of rain fell in Canton in about 90 minutes causing the flooding.

Machnik said some residents reported as much as 18 inches of water in their basements. He said the average was four to five inches.

Lilley Road, near Greenwood, was one of several roads and streets that were temporarily under water from the storm, Machnik said. No permanent damage was done to the township's roads, bridges, or streets, he said.

Most of the flooding in Canton's subdivisions is caused by the homes footing drains being connected to the sanitary sewer system, Machnik said. The footing drains should be hooked up to the storm sewer system, he added.

"Water fills the sanitary sewer system and backs it up," Machnik said. "That system is designed to handle that much water."

To alleviate the problem, Canton department of public works (DPW) employes pump water out of the sanitary and into the storm sewer system, according to Canton Engineer Tom Casari. He said DPW crews worked allnight Thursday to pump the water out of the system.

Casari said power outages weren't a major problem in Canton during the storm. He said there were "isolated" outages.

Power outages did force the cancellation of classes Friday for five schools in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district.

According to Dick Egli, community relations director for the schools, power was out at both Salem and Canton highs. He said power failures cancelled school at Pioneer and East middle schools and at Smith Elementary.

"Power was back on by 10 a.m. Friday," Egli said. But, he added, it was to late to hold classes.

District Superintendent John M. Hoben told the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday that the district suffered only "partial closings," but there was some difficulty in communicating the school closings to bus drivers, students and parents.

Hoben also told the board that Detroit Edison officials said power relays in the area were built in a "series" so that if one goes down others will follow.

About 2,000 residents in the southwest section of the City of Plymouth lost power for several hours Thursday night, said Plymouth City Director of Public Works Ken Vogras. Power was restored early Friday, he added.

Flooding in the city did cause problems, Vogras said. About five homes reported flooding problems, he said.

"About 50 per cent of our streets were flooded," Vogras said.

He said it took about half an hour

Fall Fest needs new ideas

Another -- the 35th -- Fall Festival is over.

It's time, then, to reflect on ideas for next year.

This is not to suggest that this year's Festival wasn't wonderful. (In fact, most participants rate this year's as one of the tops.)

The suggestions, some recycled, include:

--Have more to see and do. This was the number ONE suggestion of Fest-goers this and in past years. In that category could be: antique cars up empty Main Street on Sunday, the antique fire engines, a waterball competition of fire departments, a Plymouth High-Salem High-Canton High "alumni" touch football game at Central Middle School's athletic field, a laser light show one night, the first concert of the Plymouth Symphony season in the Central athletic field on Friday evening, a breakfast on Sunday morning by an ecumenical grouping of local churches to tie in with the church service in the park, more booths (from baked potatoes with toppings to face painting--"tatooing" or juices, fruit cups and veggie plates), a horse-drawn "hay wagon" shuttle between downtown-the Cultural Center-Old Village, and more "street" entertainment (jugglers, the high school "pcp" band, clowns, etc.).

--Improve a few existing activities: start the kiddie rides earlier Saturday to play off the pet show and pancakes, pump up the "exhibit tent" in its produce-oriented format, and separate the media coverage from the media hype (don't use the prime locations to pass out knick-knacks for profit-making companies).

--Add recycling boxes as well as trash boxes. Capture those returnables!

--Close schools in the Plymouth-Canton School District on Thursday and Friday -- or, at least, Friday.

--Open for lunch on Friday: few food booths were serving to the peak time for businessfolks to visit without kids. Add entertainment in the park for the noon hour, at least.

All these ideas are just that: ideas.

Don't take them as complete. Use the accompanying survey to state your own suggestions to making the next Fall Festival better yet.

See you there.

Twp. should follow Canton on Mettetal

EDITOR:

The recent action of the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees to sponsor an airport authority was not, in my opinion, the right move. The mentioned $4.1 million purchase price for the Mettetal property and the use of Federal and State grants for the acquisition is questionable.

The respected Canton Board of Trustees rejected the purchase of Mettetal and saw no economic or significant benefits to their community by purchasing this land within their township. Why then should Plymouth Township proceed any further in any venture alone or jointly to operate this facility?

A much better option in my opinion would be to cooperate with Canton and help develop the Mettetal land into additional light manufacturing sites. The taxes derived from this new industry would benefit the Plymouth-Canton Schools District with a much needed source of tax revenues. We cannot ignore that schools and jobs are important to Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton. This is far more important than retaining a recreational airport that very few residents use.

Community opinions

Schools: practice what you preach!

Are Plymouth-Canton School Board members and administrators hypocrites?

If, on the one hand, they teach environmental concern in the classrooms, but, on the other hand, they don't practice it, where's the intellectual honesty?

It now appears that the schools' personnel may have been involved in a second questionable -- if not illegal -- dumping incident just prior to the recent, highly-televised dumping of hazardous materials at Centennial Educational Park last month.

While it's less certain about that earlier dumping's origin in April, the schools admit to some possibility of blame (they agreed to pay half of the cleanup).

Sure, there's a school district policy on disposing of unwanted materials.

But how well has the school administration driven the point home to its employees?

Not nearly as forcefully as it drives the ecology point home in the classrooms!

On top of that, the school board chose not to discuss the high school spill publicly. How many of them were aware of the earlier spill even though the school district agreed to part of the cleanup? Don't such significant policy violations warrant public scrutiny by the elected school officials?

All the Plymouth-Canton school students who have learned so well about ecological responsibility from their teachers should show up at the next school board meeting and demand that those seven elected folks address the accountability as they ordain it be taught.

A question that many of us face at one point in our lives is: How hard are we willing to work for our dreams?

Dedication, determination and sacrifice, are words that seem largely forgotten today. Yet, they are all qualities that we need if we are to make our dreams come true.

Canton resident Michael Pigeon knows the meaning of these words. Hopefully his dream will come true.

Pigeon, 18, became a Marine in August. His purpose in joining the Marines is to save enough money to attend college after the service.

If that doesn't sound out of the ordinary, you're right. But then consider the fact that Pigeon trekked 2,300 miles to San Diego to become a Marine -- on foot and by hitchhiking.

According to father James Pigeon, Michael had signed up to be a Marine before his graduation from Canton High last June. But, his father added, his son flunked a physical stamina test required to get into the Marines.

"He couldn't do enough pull-ups for them," James Pigeon said.

On Aug. 5, Michael Pigeon decided to show the Marines he was tough enough to be one of their "good men."

"We woke up that Sunday morning to go to church and Michael wasn't here," said his father. "We found a note on his pillow telling us he had gone to San Diego to join the Marines."

Pigeon walked from Canton to the Illinois-Iowa border, about 500 miles, said James. The rest of the trek was made mostly by hitchhiking.

The trek took Pigeon through such states as Utah, Wyoming and Nevada.

James Pigeon said his son traveled along the main highway during the trip, I-94 and I-80.

"We were very worried about him," James said, "but after awhile he began to call us."

Freeway viaducts often provided shelter for Pigeon to sleep under, his father said. He added that his son took fishing equipment, a sling shot and hunting knife with him.

The fishing equipment came in handy on the trip, said James Pigeon. He said his son left home with only $23, so he relied on catching fish to for several of his meals.

Pigeon said his son, who is six feet three inches tall weighed about 245 before, lost 15 pounds on the trip. When he arrived at San Diego, the Marines signed him up.

"He was going to join one way or the other," said James Pigeon. "He made a decision and stuck to it. I think that's rare nowadays."

"To be honest, I'm really proud of him," his father continued. "I'm delighted with what he's done."

Joining the Marines seemed like the "logical" choice to his son to earn the money he needed to go to college, James said. When the Marines refused to take him after graduation, he said his son felt like he was spinning his wheels.

By almost forcing the Marines to take him on, James Pigeon said his son has taken on a direction in his life.

"This is quite a change for him," James said. "A year ago he wanted to be the next Van Halen."

"It took him a while to get to his decision," he continued. "But, this is the right move."

Take bow for bows

EDITOR:

It was impressive to drive through Plymouth and see all of the bows on the trees.

The Plymouth merchants deserve a big thanks for all of their efforts. It is meaningful to those of us who have family serving in the Middle East and also to those of us who pray for peace for both sides.

Crying out loud

By Mike Guinn

Describe my summer, the editor said. Well, there are a lot of ways to do it. Long hours. Intense. Pressure filled. Constant learning.

Some of the best times of my life.

It wasn't what I expected. I figured I'd spend most of my time at The Crier in the background, helping "real" reporters bring Plymouth and Canton the news. If I did well, maybe I'd be allowed to cover a small story and actually see my name in print.

It didn't turn out that way. For that, I'll always be grateful.

Three months later, many events come to mind. Accidents, elections, museums and restaurants are all well remembered, but the overriding memories involve more than events.

The people.

They all varied. Some were 13 and told of the adventures of space (or, at least, space camp) others were 85 and spoke of the feeling of beginning a new marriage.

One man talked about his job. As he spoke, the joy he received from performing his profession shone through his face. Long after what was discussed is forgotten, I'll remember that glint in his eyes.

Some tried to downplay their accomplishments that had attracted attention, either out of embarrassment or modesty. A few couldn't understand why people were interested in their actions.

All of them were ordinary people -- is there really such a thing? -- who had an experience to share or a talent to display. It made each one of them stand out from the rest of the people in society.

After this summer, I can't look at a crowd of individuals in the same way. Where I used to see a faceless group, I now see many parts. All similar, yet no two exactly alike.

Maybe that's the most valuable lesson of all.

Why we didn't print your letter

EDITOR'S NOTE: This past week, The Crier received a well-written "letter to the editor." It forcefully attacked a column written by a "left wing" Crier reporter. But it omitted something very important -- the author's name. (At least our columnists are courageous enough to sign their names!)

It's time to reiterate The Crier rule on letters. Almost all letters to this newspaper are published if they are signed (names can be withheld for good reason, but the newspaper needs to know who the author is), if they are short, and if they deal with topics in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

If the recent letter-writer steps forward, we'll gladly print the opinion piece.

Omnicom needs another cable competitor

EDITOR:

Recently, I read an article in The Community Crier about a city appointed cable committee. The article was of great interest to me because I am one of those residents (one percent) that lives in Plymouth-Canton that has for the past two years received poor service. I have gone into the Omnicom Office on Rhonda Drive only to be put in my place by that young man who works the front counter and thinks he is the owner of the company and to be rudely and publicly accused of being an Omnicom thief by the manager, Lisa Boland.

The young man at the front counter confronted me about my equipment that Omnicom installed in my home two years ago when I first became a subscriber of Omnicom cable vision, because I wanted to subscribe to the Disney channel. According to him, I had the wrong equipment and the only way that could happen is if I stole it.

According to him, I owed Omnicom an extra $17 a month and still had to return the installed receiver at my convenience or I would be billed for the equipment and would be disconnected from service and would still have to return the equipment or be charged with theft. I could not believe this was going on at their Canton office in front of other subscribers. It was embarrassing and upsetting. All I wanted to do was pay my bill and subscribe to Disney and I was being made a fool of by this kid who was not even working at that office when my equipment was installed.

The equipment he was talking about was a Cable box that was installed by their crew by accident. Of course, according to him, they don't make mistakes as important or expensive as that. I was evidently supposed to have a different receiver that apparently did not have a remote control. I then asked to speak to the manager and after a wait of more than a half hour, I was told by her I was lying and that equipment will be returned immediately.

I tried to explain that I had the equipment from the start of my subscription, but no way would she spare me any embarrassment. My heart was ready to jump through my chest. I was upset. I thought, never again would I go into that office. From that day on, I pay by mail and always a month late since they bill a month in advance anyway. To show how stupid they are, a friend gave me an old remote from a television they had and I gave it to the man that came to my house from Omnicom (to avoid the extra $17 charge) and they never called me to tell me I gave them the wrong remote, nor do I pay more monthly.

I won't call them for service because I am afraid they will do the same thing again and because of their own stupidity in the beginning, I'll somehow pay the price.

Recently, I got a questionnaire from them asking me as a customer if I would like to continue cable guide at my expense for an extra amount added to my monthly billing. I made sure they received my answer (which was no) stapled to my payment with my account number on it (highlighted in yellow). But guess what? I still get cable guide at my expense. I guess that is a way of telling us customers to kiss their bazookas! We will get cable guide and we will pay for it (whether we like it or not).

Well, maybe with a committee to research this unbearable situation we will not have to except this inexcusable behavior from Omnicom or their irresponsible employees and so called managers again. Omnicom will find out in the future how many dissatisfied customers they really have and how fast they will be unemployed when we make our switch to another cable vision. I'm sure it will be more than one percent of their subscribers.

Contact me if you need support, or if I as a resident can be involved with being on the committee.

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about October 1, 1990, the above-named County will request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing & Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93.383) for the following project(s) accordingly:

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such a statement are as follows:

No significant impact was found as a result of the environmental assessment.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the above project has been made by the County of Wayne which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at the office of the Charter Township of Canton, Resource Development, 1150 S. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following basis:

a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer of the applicant; or

b) That the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to HUD at: McNamara Building - 17th Floor, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Civil rights investigation could take a year for the water to recede off the streets after the rains.

BY SCOTT DANIEL

A complaint against the owner of Canton's Royal Holiday Mobile Home Park was filed with the Michigan Civil Rights Commission Friday.

Assistant City Manager Paul Sincok said the police department and DPW closed down parts of Adams, Harvey and Main streets because of flooding. He added that the storm also damaged some booths at the 35th annual Fall Festival.

Flooding in Plymouth Township was confined to the Five Mile and Bradner roads area, according to Public Services Director James Anulewicz. He said some yards were flooded, but that no flooding of homes were reported.

"We survived the storm fairly well," Anulewicz said.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said Edward Hines Drive was flooded during the storm. He added that the underpass of I-275 at Ann Arbor Road also was under water for about an hour.

John Korpus, president of the homeowners association at the senior citizens mobile home park, said an age discrimination complaint was filed against park owner Sheldon Futernick.

"We believe he is systematically trying to remove the seniors," he said.

James Horn, director of office information for the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, said the first step in answering the seniors complaint would be to assign a commission investigator to the case.

Once the investigator has been assigned, he said Futernick will be notified of the complaint. Horn said that the investigator would then determine if unlawful discrimination has taken place.

A fact finding conference, between the seniors and Futernick, would then be held if the investigator determines discrimination has taken place, he said. "A majority of cases are resolved at investigation," Horn said. "The process encourages the parties to come together and settle."

If the dispute can't be resolved, Horn said it could take up to a year for the commission to make a final ruling on the complaint. He added that only about five complaints, out of several thousand filed, went through the entire process last year.

Horn said that a "final order" of the commission can be appealed. He said the circuit court of Michigan handles such appeals.

Power was out in the Township in the Westbriar subdivision, Anulewicz said. He said power was restored at about noon Friday.

Parts of Northville Township also lost power as a result of the stormy weather.

Care that's there.

Addenda & errata

E.J. McClendon, a member of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education, was misquoted in a story in the Aug. 29 edition of The Crier dealing with the creation of "drug free zones" at district schools.

McClendon's quote should have read: "The whole point of this is to try and create a specific environment to keep out traffickers who prey on school children."

In stories in both the Fall Festival edition and the Aug. 22 edition of The Crier it was suggested that the Canton Challenge Festival's existence is in doubt.

On the contrary, the festival is will return next year, said organizers. The only doubt, they said, is the amount of funding the group will receive from the Canton government.

Twp. marcher earns a spot in corps

BY LESLEY CARMICHAEL

Brad Flowers, of Plymouth Township, had no idea what he was marching into when he filled a baritone vacancy with the Rosemont, IL, Cavaliers Drum Corps at the beginning of August.

Seventeen days later, Flowers and the Cavaliers marched their way to a second-place victory in Drum Corps International, the world championship drum corps competition.

The Cavaliers earned 96.9 points with a show including "Selections from Gloria," "Oh Clap Your Hands" and "All Things Bold and Beautiful."

Since attending a DCI regional competition at Eastern Michigan University in 1987, Flowers has been attracted by the "big sound" produced by drum corps, which consists of only brass and percussion instruments.

"The precision really inspired me," he said. "I decided I wanted to do that."

When Flowers heard about the opening from a friend, he jumped at the opportunity. Although only a short time commitment was involved, he felt it was long enough to get a good taste of drum corps life.

The Cavaliers and the Madison Scouts of Madison, WIS. are the only two all-male drum corps out of the 70 that participated in DCI this year. Flowers said this factor encouraged a relaxed atmosphere and a "sense of brotherhood with the guys."

One of the most significant features about the Cavaliers is their deep sense of pride.

Flowers said he was approached at a retreat by the horn sergeant who told him, "whether we're first, second, third or fourth, we're still the Cavaliers and that's all that matters." He added the Cavaliers' instructors demand only one thing, "to do your best always."

The Cavaliers' relaxed attitude is reflected in their work ethic; Flowers said they "are probably the least practiced corps out of all the finalists (the top twelve drum corps in DCI)."

He said the average touring day consisted of only six hours of practice. The instructors accommodated free time into the rehearsal schedule. Flowers felt it was so essential because "it takes so much time that you have to get away...we're doing this to have fun, not to be in the military."

The Cavaliers, along with most drum corps, begin their season with a Thanksgiving weekend camp. In February, the music is chosen, the drill patterns are written and a selection process is set in motion to find 128 good members.

"By then, you know if you're in or out," Flowers said, "if you're not good enough, they'll cut you." This search for excellence resulted in the baritone vacancy Flowers filled - the Cavaliers would rather have a smaller corps of outstanding members than a full corps of 128 containing mediocre members.

Brad Flowers, of Plymouth Township, helped the Rosemont, IL, Cavaliers Drum Corps place second at a recent competition.

Flowers pointed out that the rehearsal schedule would not interfere with his studies at the University of Michigan, where he is a sophomore aiming for a degree in aerospace engineering. Each camp lasts only a weekend, allowing members to return home on Sunday, he said.

Flowers spent two years as a trumpet player and two as a drum major with the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band. Now that he has settled in at U-M, he plans on entering his sophomore year as a member of the university's famous marching band.

When asked if he will join the Cavaliers next year, Flowers smiled and said, "I wouldn't want to go anywhere else."

To celebrate vision

School in need of gift

BY KEN VOYLES

Students, parents, and staff members at Field Elementary School in Canton are getting ready to celebrate a "vision."

A new amphitheater located on school grounds was recently finished, according to Liz Hoffman, president of the Field PTO.

But to complete the "vision," Hoffman said the PTO plans to landscape the area around the theater at an estimated cost of $1,500.

She said the landscaping will be completed by Sept. 22.

Residents interested in helping with the final stage of the project are being asked to give "a gift that grows," Hoffman said. She said the gifts can take the form of plants or shrubbery.

Also planned is the planting of a Bradford Pear tree, said Hoffman, in memory of Charlie Eberhardt, a Field student who died during the 1989-90 school year.

A formal dedication of the amphitheater is planned for Oct. 2.

Residents wishing to help should call 451-6525.

Santomauro boat looted

Criminals don't discriminate in Canton.

A boat owned by the son of Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro was broken into sometime between Aug. 26 and Sunday, according to police reports.

A pair of water skis, valued at $250, and a life jacket, valued at $50, were reported missing from the boat Sunday, said police. The boat was parked at Santomauro's home in Canton at the time of the incident.

Santomauro said that he was on vacation at the time of the larceny.

"I didn't have the foggiest idea that it had happened until Todd reported it," he said.

Featuring costume ball, parade

Victorian fest brings back 1800s

BY MIKE GUINN

The 19th Century will come alive again in the streets of the City of Northville this weekend (Sept. 14-16) during the second annual Northville Victorian Festival.

Sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the three-day event will combine a 19th Century English atmosphere, a parade, costume ball, highwire daredevils, arts and crafts, food, entertainment, street entertainers and children's games.

Appearing at the festival through the sponsorship of Dick Scott Buick-Dodge is the famous highwire family "The Great Wallendas." The Wallendas will perform over the streets of Northville four times during the event.

Activities begin Friday from noon to 8 p.m. with an art market (an antique market opens at 6 p.m.). An ice cream social is planned for 6 p.m. also before the Victorian Festival Parade at 6:30 p.m. (Anyone who lives or works in Northville is eligible participate in the parade, as long as they are dressed in Victorian garb.)

The Great Wallendas, Enrico and Debbie Wallenda, will perform for the first time at 7:15 p.m. Friday on Main Street near the gazebo.

Entertainment that night includes a barbershop quartet sing-off from 8-9 p.m. and the Novi Concert Band at 9 p.m.

Children's events will begin Saturday, starting with old-fashioned games throughout the downtown area. Other attractions designed for the kids include a bubblegum blowing contest, pie eating contest, chalk art contest and a marble shooting tournament.

Other attractions to watch for Saturday include the many street mimes, storytellers and a medicine man show.

A pancake breakfast is planned from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church of Northville.

There will also be continuous entertainment in the bandshell from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. (including a magic show, puppet show, Dixieland band, historic readings, and barbershop quartet singing).

The Wallendas will perform at 12:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday.

The art and antique markets continue both Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday evening will be highlighted by a Victorian Festival Costume Ball at 7:30 p.m. Mill Race Village will be converted to a natural setting, and candlelight will provide the illumination.

Guests will travel to the ball via horse and carriage, decked out in costumes of the times. Ladies outfits should range from formal evening gowns complete with extensive hair and bonnets, to high collared blouses and skirts.

Mens wear will include Civil War uniforms, 19th century tuxedos and black coats with old fashioned shirt fronts.

An orchestra will be on hand to provide the music, while a caller will teach interested participants contra dance steps in New School Church. Dinner and an open bar will also be provided.

Tickets for the ball are $50 per person.

A Victorian town picnic (beginning at 12:30 p.m.) will highlight Sunday. Auctioneers will sell box lunches beginning at noon, with all proceeds going to the Parent Teachers Association (PTA) Coordinating Council.

Tug-of-war games, wheelbarrow and sack races will be available for the children in attendance.

A Victorian brunch is planned for 10-11 a.m. and historic walking tours will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Entertainment also continues throughout Sunday at the bandshell.

World-renowned daredevils Great Wallendas to walk the rope

BY LESLEY CARMICHAEL

"The Great Wallendas were better than great," said the director of the Lincolnfest in Springfield, IL. "They were spectacular, courteous, personable, daring, electrifying, entertaining, stunning..."

...And they are coming to the City of Northville.

The world-renowned highwire daredevils, thanks to the sponsorship of Dick Scott Buick/Dick Scott Dodge, will be performing during the second annual Northville Victorian Festival this weekend (Sept. 14-16).

Parking, carriage rides

The Wallendas will perform for the final time on Sunday at 4 p.m.

The Northville Arts Commission Art Market will have pieces for sale throughout the festival. A juried show, all artist's work available has been selected for sale by the council.

Like last year, all booths selling food and Victorian related items will be run by non-profit organizations only. Some of the organizations running booths include the Northville Youth Assistance, Our Lady of Providence Church and the Northville High School Sophomore class.

There is no charge to attend the festival. Parking, horsedrawn carriage and trolley rides are also free throughout the event.

For more information on the Northville Victorian Festival, contact the Northville Chamber of Commerce at 349-7640.

It will be the first appearance in the community by the daredevils. Enrico Wallenda and his wife Debbie will captivate the public with a highwire act, a "swaypole" stunt and a "slide for life." Their show is part of a Glo Gem "Showmakers" production.

The highwire act entails a dangerous walk by Enrico Wallenda across a 30-foot highwire stretched down the middle of Main Street with Debbie standing on his shoulders, Debbie is the first woman in history to leap from her partner's shoulders and successfully land on the wire.

For the swaypole, Debbie Wallenda will stand -- on her head as well as her feet -- atop a swaying 40-foot high steel mast.

The slide for life stunt involves a dazzling slide down a wire and a precarious climb back to the top.

According to Jim Cox, the Great Wallendas' logistics manager, Enrico and Debbie had also planned to perform what is called the Pegasus act. But one of their trucks burned to the ground in early August and all of the costumes and riggings, including the rigging for the Pegasus act, were destroyed.

Cox said the Wallendas and their crew have been working on new costumes and will be prepared to perform by Friday.

The Wallendas' death-defying stunts can be witnessed four times over the weekend. The first performance will be Friday night at 7:15 p.m. immediately following the opening festivities of the Victorian Festival Parade.

On Saturday, the Wallendas have two performances, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. The fourth performance will be at 4:15 p.m. Sunday, following the old fashioned picnic at Mill Race Village.

Wallendas bring flair to festival

CONTINUED

Cox said the Wallendas may also include two more performances during the festival if time permits.

Incredibly, the Great Wallendas have always performed without using safety equipment. Cox said when they rehearse with precautionary equipment, they encourage friends and neighbors to throw oranges and rocks at them and shake the highwire poles and "swaypoles" to help them maintain stability and prepare them for potential emergencies.

Karl and Helen Wallenda brought their troupe of daredevils to America in 1928. The Wallendas' debut at Madison Square Garden earned a clamorous ovation which interrupted the Greatest Show on Earth for 11 minutes. Since then they have had many short and long-term engagements ranging from a show at Rhode Island's Rocky Point Park to a 16-year tour with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The Wallendas are known the world over for their personal flair as well as their daring feats. One of the Wallendas was actually married on the highwire at the Ponchartrain Beach in Louisiana.

Another characteristic of the Wallenda family that shines through is their evident determination. Despite injury and even death to family members as a result of their daring stunts, the Great Wallendas continue to persevere.

After Karl's sister-in-law Yetty Wallenda fell to her death from a 135-foot swaypole in 1963, his daughter Carla continued the family's swaypole legacy.

Karl Wallenda died in 1978 during a skywalk attempt in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Karl's grandson Enrico Wallenda not only continued performing, he returned to the site of the accident in 1980 to successfully complete the same skywalk.

In September of 1987, Enrico fell 30 feet from a highwire at the Shrine Circus in Jacksonville, FL, suffering multiple injuries. Several weeks later, he began walking the wire again, still without safety apparatus.

Enrico, who is 35, met Debbie, 29, in 1982 when she was a reporter covering the act. He began teaching her the trade of the Wallenda family -- they then married in 1983. The newest member of the family, Debbie has become a master at the swaypole, working up to 85 feet in the air. She is also the first woman in history to leap from the shoulders of her partner to the highwire.

Besides the daring-do involved in their act, the Wallendas have become masters at pleasing audiences. Victorian Festival spectators will get a glimpse of that charisma this weekend.

They might even want to watch for Enrico, who always begins his act by making the sign of the cross and a motion of his hand that Cox said is "his wave to God" before stepping onto the highwire.

The Wallendas perform at 7:15 p.m. on Friday following the parade at Main and Center streets (near the gazebo). They will then perform at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. along Main Street on Saturday as a part of the street festival that day. Their final performance is set for 4 p.m. Sunday near the gazebo on Main Street.

Enrico and Debbie Wallenda will perform at this year's Victorian Festival. Here the Wallendas are shown in action.

also removed to a landfill in Sumpter Township.

ENKON Environmental Services Inc., a firm hired by the DPW, oversaw the entire clean up, which cost the city $7,950. It's report did not mention the original source of the dumping-spill.

Plymouth City Manager Gordon Jaeger, School District Associate Superintendent Ray Hoedel, and Vogras first met on July 18 to discuss the clean up costs.

At that meeting, the school district agreed to pay half of the costs, or about $3,475, according to schools Superintendent John M. Hoben and the city.

Hoben, who said he is not sure the district did anything wrong, remains "convinced" that the schools are not the only source of the oily sludge. "I have some real problems with it," Hoben said.

"We have had oil restraints in our bus yard for years." He added that city officials "claim" the restraints do not function properly. The superintendent said the oil could also have originated from other businesses located along Mill Street or Ann Arbor Road.

It is a case of, "you say, I say" as to where the oil came from, Hoben said.

"I think we've been responsive, if it's our responsibility, to pay our fair share," said Hoben. "Instead of getting into a legal hassle we decided to assume half of the costs."

On Monday, The Crier filed under the Freedom of Information Act to obtain school district and city documents related to the incident and any possible action taken involving the dumping.

According to Jaeger, who was "surprised" to learn about the dumping after he arrived in the city manager's post in early May, the city has yet to bill the district for its share of the clean up costs. He said the agreement worked out on July 18 calls for the city to pay the costs and then submit a bill to the district.

"By the time I learned about this it was all over," said Jaeger. "I've been involved only after the fact."

Jaeger said the sludge "shouldn't have been dumped" at the cemetery by city workers. He added that "if handled properly" by city personnel the clean up would not have cost nearly as much money.

"How the stuff got in the sewer in the first place, that's the question," said Jaeger, who added that no city workers had been disciplined for their involvement in removing the sludge to Riverside. "But I let Ken (Vogras) know that it should not occur again."

The city manager said that the DPW puts a wide variety of materials at the Riverside Cemetery site on a temporary basis until they can be hauled away.

In an Aug. 13 letter to Dan Menghini, head of the school district's maintenance department, City Engineer Ken West said that a "sump sewer" installed when the maintenance garage was constructed met codes at that time.

Since then, however, West wrote, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sued the City of Detroit for discharging pollutants into "waters of the nation."

Detroit, and consequently the City of Plymouth (as a user of the Detroit sewer-water system) are under a consent judgment (USEPA vs. City of Detroit) to eliminate discharge of pollutants into the waters, said West.

The engineer said that the sumps in the maintenance facility "do not prohibit the introduction" of oil into the sewer system because the volume of water passing through causes pollutants to be suspended and carried with the water into the sewer.

Once they enter the sanitary sewer, West said, they become separated from the waste water and reform in "their original condition."

West said "oil interceptors" are required by the 1987 BOCA National Plumbing Code. The interceptors "provide for retention" where suspended materials come to the surface so they can be drawn off into a storage tank.

Both Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education President Dean Swartzwelder and Board Secretary Roland Thomas said Monday that they were unaware of the alleged dumping at the district's maintenance facility.

State law calls for the "originator" of any pollutants to pay all of the costs, said Thomas, who added that the district may have gotten off "easy."

Airport talk

The Canton Economic Club will host a special breakfast on Sept. 20 at which the proposed expansion of Metro Detroit Airport will be discussed.

Deputy Wayne County Executive Mike Duggan will be the guest speaker, along with a team of county experts, who will address the ballot issue (in November) and the economic impact expansion will have on the area.

The Canton Economic Club Headliner Speaker Series, Focus: Airport Expansion 1990, will be held at Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton. The meeting starts at 8 a.m. Breakfast is $5, payable at the door.

School employes disciplined

DNR continues investigation

BY SCOTT DANIEL AND KEN VOYLES

An investigation into the dumping of potentially dangerous chemicals into Canton's Willow Creek last month will likely be concluded in October, according to state officials.

At the same time an internal investigation by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has already led to the disciplining of two employes.

Maggie Fields, an environmental quality analyst for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), said analyses of water and soil from the creek are being conducted.

Complete investigations of such incidents typically take six to eight weeks, she said. Any criminal charges, citations or fines will not be determined until the end of the investigation, Fields added.

"It's still very premature to speculate about any charges," she said.

More than 150 gallons of chemicals were released into the creek from a storm drain behind Salem High on Aug. 23. The DNR determined that the chemicals were floor cleaner, two boiler treatment compounds and floor wax.

The chemicals were also found to be caustic, not toxic, as was first suspected. No injuries were reported from the spill, but Canton residents did report seeing dead fish in the creek.

A voluntary evacuation of Canton residents along the creek was ordered shortly after the spill. Gallimore Elementary School was opened to house evacuees, but none showed up.

A day after the spill, 7,500 gallons of water were added to the creek by the township to dilute the spill. Canton residents were warned by officials to avoid contact with the creek for a week after the spill.

Officials from the district said two employes were disciplined following an internal investigation of the incident. That investigation was completed on Aug. 31.

A Salem High plant engineer, Dan McGuire, who directed that the barrels be emptied into the drain leading to the creek received a full month's suspension without pay, said district officials. Another employe was given a warning.

"This is indeed an unfortunate incident which has caused us serious concern," said Superintendent John M. Hoben. "It appears that this was a one-time instance. It was clearly an error in judgment. Thankfully, the materials involved were non-toxic and did not create a serious threat."

Hoben said the district is reviewing "compliance standards" and "reemphasizing" training procedures so that "this does not happen again."

Hoben told the Plymouth-Canton School Board of Education Monday that staff had been educated on the Michigan Right To Know Law and required to "sign-off" after the training, but that maintenance personnel at the high schools did not sign off.

"We are rectifying that and reviewing it again with all of the staff," said Hoben.

The school's own Right To Know manual, which follows state guidelines, says that "suspicious formulas or chemicals" should not be included in "routine school trash." The manual also notes that a container of "unknown and/or an unlabeled chemical or a container of a known hazardous chemical" is considered an "imminent danger."

It also says that employes should contact the district's maintenance director for "disposal of chemicals."

District officials said Monday that they did not know yet how much the incident will cost.

Against Omnicom

Complaints in writing

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Canton residents now have the chance to "get it in writing" when making complaints against Omnicom Cablevision.

The Canton Cable Advisory Committee unveiled a complaint form designed to document problems with Omnicom at a Sept. 4 meeting with the Canton Board of Trustees.

"We feel the form will be a good tool for the committee to get a handle on how Omnicom is dealing with the problems of our residents," said committee member Hal Winters.

Residents are encouraged to contact Omnicom first about any problem with their service, such as the quality of service, power outages or installation, Winters said.

He added that if a call to Omnicom doesn't solve the problem, residents can then call the Canton Supervisor's office to register their complaint. Winters said the complaint would then be passed on to Omnicom.

If the complaint isn't then answered, the committee will step in to handle the problem, Winters said.

"The committee can then go back to management and find out why they aren't handling the problem," he said.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said the form will allow a "paper trail for each complaint" to be created. He said the result should mean better service for residents.

"The township doesn't have anything on file (about complaints) for the last eight or nine years," Yack said. He added that the form will provide a written record for Canton.

According to Philip LaJoy, committee chairperson, the advisory group was created to solve problems and help determine Canton's future with Omnicom. The township must inform the cable company by July of 1991 if it intends to renew the contract.

The City of Plymouth must also notify Omnicom by July of next year if its contract will be renewed. To that end, the Plymouth City Commission recently appointed a three-person cable commission.

Serving on the group will be: City Commissioner John Vos III, Assistant City Manager Paul Sincock and Plymouth resident Candace MacGillivray.

The cable commission will also handle complaints against Omnicom and conduct a review of other cable vendors, Vos said.

Getting down to business

N'ville eatery offers dinner, theatre

BY MIKE GUINN

What cities come to mind when classic dinner theatre locations are being discussed? New York. Hollywood. Northville?

Thanks to the teaming up of Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall Restaurant and the Marquis Theatre, owned by Inga Zayti, that last town may just start popping up in some local conversations.

Toni Genitti, who owns and operates the eatery and gift shop with her husband, John, said that dinner theatre has been offered since 1979. Genitti said its origins came about through a diner's request.

"A customer said, 'We're going to the theatre, why don't you cook for us?'" Genitti said. "That's where the idea started."

The dinner theatre package may be one of the better entertainment bargains in the area. For $25, diners receive a seven-course Italian dinner and a reserved seat for the evening show.

The meal, which is served family-style, is preceded by John Genitti's introduction and banter with his guests and relatives. Genitti's presentation might be described as an Italian Don Rickles comedy routine, tailored to residents of the Metro-Detroit area.

Dinner (all you can eat) includes soup, pasta, salad, chicken, Italian sausage, veal and dessert. Beer and wine are also available at an extra cost.

Art Rizzo, director of the Marquis' productions, stressed that the productions put on at the theatre are not amateur acts.

"This is not community theatre," said Rizzo, who has directed plays at the Marquis for five years. "These are professionals who make their living acting. Most of them do commercial work, radio, television."

Rizzo said that the actors and other talent are recruited from all over the country, not just Michigan. "We've had a choreographer in from New York in the past," he said.

Attendance for the shows average 200-250, Rizzo said, with the children's shows drawing "even better."

"We hope to have dinner theatre from now on," said Genitti.

"Driving Miss Daisy," with a three-member cast, opens at the Marquis Sept. 14. Shows are offered on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings through Sept. 30, along with a Sept. 19 matinee. The dinner theatre package is available each Friday and Saturday.

Dinner theatre reservations can be made in advance. Restaurant seating takes place at 6 p.m., with the show beginning at 8 p.m.

Don't forget that appetite.

Rocks defeated in home opener

BY RITA DERBIN

Salem was rocked on Friday night. In their home football opener, the Rocks (1-1) were downed by Northville, 21-14.

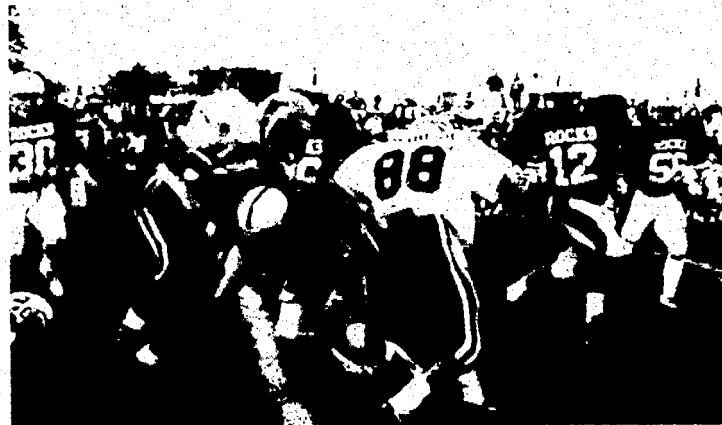

"Northville played well," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "They were enthusiastic and really wanted (the victory) bad ... they executed everything well and won the game."

The key to Northville's victory, according to Moshimer, was the Mustangs' ability to control the ball for 61 plays, 20 more plays than the Rocks could manage.

"They made at least six (big conversions) that I can think of," Moshimer said. "They made the third and longs and a couple fourth down conversions that kept their drives going."

Rock quarterback Chris Tebben engineered a long drive of his own in the fourth quarter. With five minutes left in the game and Salem trailing 21-7, Tebben engineered a five-play 75 yard drive that included three passes and ended in a two-yard touchdown run by the quarterback to close the gap to 21-14 with 3:30 left.

Salem had one last possession with 1:52 left and the ball on the 48 yard line but failed to convert a fourth and one opportunity.

"Chris (Tebben) has been doing an excellent job directing the offense and leading the team," Moshimer said of his senior quarterback. "He reads the option well and has been throwing the ball well ... he's exceeded our expectations."

Also on the offensive side of the football, tailback Leon Hister ran for a 128 yards in 17 carries against Northville including a second quarter 58-yard touchdown run that put the Rocks on the scoreboard.

"We've showed poise on the offense in our first two games," said Moshimer. The Rocks won their first game 33-7 over Trenton. "But I thought in some spots the defense didn't look too good."

Moshimer added that the Rocks will have to improve and play nearly flawless football in order to beat perennial Lakes Division powerhouse Westland John Glenn this Friday night.

"We have to be on top of our game to beat them ... they're talented and probably one of the two best teams in the conference along with North Farmington," Moshimer said. "It would take a superior effort on our part to win the game but it's possible."

The key to the John Glenn game and the rest of the season for the Rocks to continue to improve with each game.

"Offensively we improved from the first game to the second game," added Moshimer. "Defensively we need a lot more improvement. The good thing is that we have made correctable mistakes ... we just have to execute."

Salem will host the Rockets Friday at the Centennial Educational Park stadium. Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

Chiefs cruise to win

BY RITA DERBIN

The Karl Wukie led Chiefs have left their opponents in the dust early in the football season.

After a 33-0 victory over Monroe in their season opener last week, the Canton football team traveled to Farmington on Saturday and the results were just as favorable.

The Chiefs (2-0) were ahead 30-13 at halftime and cruised to a 43-19 victory over Farmington in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game.

Quarterback Wukie threw two touchdowns and was 8-14 passing for 143 yards. The senior also led the team in rushing gaining 80 yards, including

Varsity loses, J-V wins

The Canton Lions opened their 1990 football season at home against Ann Arbor West last Sunday.

Varsity lost 13-0 despite quarterback Kevin Kovachevick's 45 yard pass to Jermy Eaton, and another pass of 20 yards to John Stropela. Eaton and Shawn Petras had quarterback sacks in the game, and the standouts on the Lions' defense included David Bracht, Rick Wood and Terry Zelek.

Junior varsity won their game, 12-0. A second quarter touchdown by Bill Styles and a last second pass from an eight-yard touchdown run.

Brett Howell made four receptions on the afternoon for 114 yards including a great catch in the end zone for a 32-yard touchdown reception, and Roger Eaton caught an eight-yard touchdown pass from Wukie.

The Chiefs' running game was on, too.

Jason Riggs had 60 yards, including a one-yard touchdown run. Mike Wogaman added two more touchdown runs of nine and two yards, and Chris James finished the afternoon with 60 yards rushing.

Romeo Cairo to Chris Sample in the fourth were the differences in the game. Styles, Alexis Ponce and Kurt Larson combined for 100 yards rushing.

Freshman lost their matchup, 20-0. On defense, the Doug Kenny, Phil Bahrou, Brett Burleson and Danny Nairn combined for 20 tackles in the loss.

The Lions' Homecoming is Sept. 22 at Central Middle School against the Belleville Cougars with the games beginning at 5 p.m.

Ranked second in state

Rock kickers undefeated

BY RITA DERBIN

Rock solid.

That's the only way to describe the defense on the undefeated Salem soccer team.

The Rocks, ranked second in the state coaches poll this week, are 5-0 and have only given up one goal all season.

"The boys on defense take great pride in the zeros they're putting up," said coach Ken Johnson. "They got used to all the shutouts last year and it's carried over."

"(Keeper) Derek Olson hasn't given up a goal yet," Johnson added. "He's done a fine job for us."

On Monday night, the Rocks defeated Farmington Harrison 5-0 behind Olson's fifth shutout of the season.

For Salem, Brad Fisch scored two goals; Joe Nunez, one goal and two assists; Ryan Kramer, one goal; and Andy Cosenza added two assists.

Last Wednesday the Rocks lost midfielder Tom Baker for two weeks with strained knee ligaments but defeated North Farmington, 5-0.

In the game, Brad Fisch, Tom

Baker, Andy Cosenza, and Joe Tippmann (2) scored goals. Assists went to Chris LaJoy (2), Cosenza, Ryan Fitzpatrick and Ryan Kramer.

Salem won the Plymouth Invitational Saturday, Sept. 1, with a 4-0 victory over Portage Central and a 2-0 victory over Canton.

In the Portage Central game, junior Dave Sudia scored twice and Fisch and Tom Baker added a goal apiece. Assists went to Fitzpatrick, Cosenza (2) and Eric Stemmer.

The Rocks outshot Canton 21-5 in the championship game after Canton defeated Grand Blanc, 4-2.

Senior sweeper Jake Baker scored his first varsity goal on a header from a Nunez corner kick at the 36 minute of the first half to put the Rocks ahead. Nunez then took a header from John Truskowski pass to complete the scoring at the 39 minute mark of the first half.

Salem will play the next three games at the Centennial Educational Park stadium. Tonight they host Livonia Franklin at 7 p.m., Saturday they will take on Kalamazoo Central at 1 p.m. and Monday night the Rocks will take on Canton at 7 p.m.

Mercy defeats Salem

BY RITA DERBIN

The grueling pre-conference schedule is over and the Rocks are ready for the conference, according to coach Fred Thomann.

"We're all looking forward to league play," said Thomann, whose girls basketball team is 4-2. "I think the team dealt well with a difficult pre-conference schedule and they're ready for the conference."

On Saturday, the Rocks lost to Mercy, 43-40 in a close game that went down to the wire.

In the game, Yolanda Jackson scored 14 points and Betsy McAllister added 12.

"Both Jackson and McAllister did a nice job of scoring," said coach Fred Thomann. "It was an exciting game that went right down to the wire -- we had a chance to win but didn't make the shots at the end."

Last Thursday, Salem defeated Trenton, 47-28. In the game, Jackson scored 20 and Darcie Miller chipped in 18.

In the first six games, the Rocks have had big scoring nights from Jackson, Miller, Sarah Ruete and McAllister and both the forwards and guards have been scoring. "We've had a nice balance inside and outside," said Thomann. "Everyone is playing very well now."

The Rocks will host Farmington Harrison in a crossover conference game tomorrow night with junior varsity beginning at 5:30 p.m. The varsity game will follow at approximately 7:30 p.m.

Chiefs off to 4-2 start Canton kicks Franklin

BY RITA DERBIN

When the going gets tough ...

The Canton soccer team (4-2) defeated Livonia Franklin Monday night 4-1, despite playing most of the second half shorthanded.

The Chiefs were ahead 1-0 at halftime following a Craig Miller goal, but according to coach Don Smith, Canton did not pick up their game until Mike Hayes was red carded in the second half.

"We didn't play well the first half but our intensity really picked up after we lost a man," Smith said. "We seemed to spread out the field much better playing shorthanded."

Following Mike Hayes' ejection from the game, the Chiefs scored three times to put the game away on goals by Scott Jones, Ray Rogissart and Chris Hayes. Assists went to Mikeal Wdowiak, Mike Presley and Miller.

On Saturday, the Chiefs defeated Brighton, 2-0. Quang Quach and Mike Hayes scored in the victory with Rogissart and Presley picking up assists.

Last Wednesday, Canton defeated Farmington, 6-1, in a conference crossover game. Scoring in the game for the Chiefs were Chris Hayes, three goals; and Quach, Brett Kearney, and Jason Ripp, one goal apiece. Assists went to Ripp (2), Miller and Jones.

Last Tuesday, Canton lost 3-0 to Trenton in a game coach Don Smith feels they should have won. The loss helped the Chiefs, Smith said.

"We shouldn't have lost but they (Trenton) scored a couple bad goals and we didn't play good," he said. "The kids know now they have to go out and play well if they are going to win."

The Chief participated in the Plymouth Invitational Sept. 1 and defeated Grand Blanc, 4-2 before losing to Salem, 2-0 in the championship game.

In the Grand Blanc game, Presley, Quach, Gordon Wei and Wdowiak scored. Presley, Quach, Chris Hayes and Jones each had assists.

"We played well against a very good Salem team and we're progressing nicely," said Smith. "We're improving every game and the kids are playing with lots of intensity."

"There's been a good overall team effort," Smith added. "I'm playing everyone and everyone is playing well."

The Chiefs will travel to Livonia Churchill, the top ranked team in the state, tonight and will play Salem on Monday night at the Centennial Educational Park Stadium. Both games begin at 7 p.m.

Chiefs winning, improving on gridiron

Despite being happy about the victory, coach Bob Khoenle saw some room for improvement for his team before the Chiefs' game against Farmington Harrison, the team that handed them their only divisional loss last season.

"On defense, I'm concerned about the points we gave up," he said. "Taking nothing away from Farmington, we shouldn't have given up that many points.

"And the offense needs to be more consistent," Khoenle added. "We want to get it working all the time."

Khoenle did praise the efforts of several players on the offensive side of the football.

Howell made some great catches and Jeff Kennie and Mike Teller did a good job blocking up front on Saturday, according to Khoenle. He added that Wukie had a very good game running and passing.

The team as a whole, however, is striving to improve every game, Khoenle said.

"Overall things weren't too bad but we gave up too many points on Saturday," he said. "We want to improve every game.

"Defense is the name of the game," he added. "That's how you win."

Canton will travel to Harrison on Saturday to take on the defending Western Division champions. The crucial matchup begins at 1 p.m.

PCJBA hoop registration

With fall just around the corner it's time again to think about a little hoop action.

Find out about the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association's (PCJBA) 1990-91 season during registration to be held Sept. 15 at Canton High School's Phase III athletic facility.

Youngsters in the third through eighth grades can sign up from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on both days. Registration for grades nine through 12 will be announced in the near future.

League rules state that all players must play at least 40 per cent of the game and no more than 60 per cent.

The leagues this year are boys "A" and "B" and girls "B."

There is also a "C" League, made up of third, fourth and fifth graders. This is an instructional league and all players will be involved in 50 per cent of the games.

Adults are also needed to volunteer as coaches. Referees are also needed for the league. Inquiries can be made during player registration.

Football, food

Football and food will be served up when the University of Michigan Club-Plymouth Community holds its fourth annual scholarship dinner Sept. 20 at the Mayflower Hotel.

Ron Kramer, a former player for the Detroit Lions and the Green Bay Packers, will be the guest speaker at the event. The dinner is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Tickets are $30 and $20 for students. Call Bill Carter at 455-2912 for more information.

Youth revived in store

Witnesses told police that the youth picked up a can of the refrigerant and then sprayed the material into his mouth.

Witnesses also told police that the youth then walked about two aisles over from where the refrigerant was located and collapsed.

Canton Fire Department Lt. William Grady said a rescue unit responded to the scene at about 1:17 a.m. He said the youth was in full cardiac arrest and showed no vital signs when the unit arrived.

Paramedics performed cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), but were unable to revive him, Grady said. An electric defibrillator was able to get his heart going again, however, he added.

"After the shock and continued CPR, his pulse came back," Grady said.

The youth was then taken to Oakwood Hospital in Canton and was later transported by helicopter to Mott's Children Hospital of the University of Michigan, Grady said.

Great Scott is gone

BY SCOTT DANIEL

Grocery shopping in Canton became a little less convenient over the weekend.

Canton's Great Scott! grocery store, located at Ford and Lilley roads, closed its doors Saturday as a result of the firm's sale to the Kroger Co., according to company officials.

Ronald Spurlock, director of merchandising for Kroger's in Michigan, said Kroger's will operate 25 former Great Scott! stores in the state.

But, he added, the Canton store was being closed because of an existing Kroger's already in the township.

The sale of Great Scott! to Kroger's was completed on Aug. 31, Spurlock said. He said a total of eight Great Scott! stores are being closed in the state.

Employees of the Canton operation will retain their jobs, Spurlock said, and be given the opportunity to relocate to other Kroger stores.
