Incumbents retain seats: chaos reigns in Plymouth Twp.

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Chaos reigned at Plymouth Township Hall Tuesday after a mix-up necessitated the recount of approximately 500 ballots.

Frustrated early-morning voters found polls closed and some had ballots dishonored while election workers scrambled under pressure to get the election back on track.

Ed Carey, director of elections in Wayne County, said ballots destined exclusively for Detroit were accidentally sent to Plymouth Township.

One election worker said Plymouth Township's test run had used the demonstrator cards supplied but had not used actual ballot cards. (Canton Clerk Loren Bennett said Canton's test included actual ballot cards which were then destroyed.)

Precinct workers discovered the mistake soon after polls opened, according to Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing. The polls were closed for about an hour and a half and reopened by 9:30 a.m., she said.

"We're going to do our best to re-tabulate these ballots," Carey told township officials, inspectors and representatives from the Democratic and Republican parties. "It's going to be a long night."

By 1:30 a.m. only one township precinct had been tabulated.

Carey then set up five teams of three persons — two inspectors and one staff worker — to compare a 312 ballot (designed for Detroit) with a 235 ballot (which was supposed to be used in Plymouth Township) and determine which holes the voter meant to punch.

Democratic or Republican challengers were free to inspect the teams' work and make objections, Carey said.

"It's going to be a long tedious process," he added. "I'm sure that things will work out if everyone is patient and tries to understand."

Despite the delay and pressure, tempers at township hall were mellow. Precinct workers sat in a line waiting to drop off the rectangular metal boxes containing ballots.

The workers — mostly older women who had been at the precincts since 6 a.m. — joked about the wait, but kept their tempers intact.

"We're too tired to be ornery," said worker Myrtle Pallister.

Hulsing said she understood some of her precinct workers had gotten a earful from angry voters. "I don't blame them for being irate, but they shouldn't take it out on the poor precinct inspectors," she said. "They're supposed to call me."

Glenn Whitehead was one voter who cared enough to show up at township hall to protest.

Schools forecast funding; millage unlikely

BY KEN VOYLES

Despite the worsening state revenue picture, a special two-year, four-mill increase approved by Plymouth-Canton voters in 1989 for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will not be renewed in 1991.

Ray Hoedel, the district's associate superintendent for business, said Friday that the administration will recommend to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education that the schools not seek a renewal of the four mills next year.

The district already faces a major millage renewal ballot next year of 17.74 mills (not including the four additional mills still in the budget). It is possible, said Hoedel, that the 17.74 renewal will go before voters in June during the school board election.

On Monday, Hoedel and Superintendent John M. Hoben gave the board a forecast of the school district's potential 1991-92 budget.

The overview, prompted partly by moves at the state level, included a look at the budget without those four mills, said Hoedel.

"Our early projections are not based on renewing the four mills next year," Hoedel said.

Revenues are projected to increase 5.3 per cent in 1991-92 up from $70 million to $73 million, while expenditures are projected to increase 8.2 per cent up from $68 million to $74 million.

To stop delinquency City rejects firm's request

BY PHILIP TARDANI

The Plymouth City Commission Monday night turned down a local firm's request to ask the state to withhold sale of its property for delinquent taxes.

BMC Manufacturing, 100 S. Mill St., is now under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), according to City Attorney Ronald Lowe. If the commission had granted the company's request, he said, BMC would have had another year to pay off its debts.

According to City Treasurer Judy Zirblis, BMC has not paid land and building taxes since 1979.

"We have a company that has not paid property taxes since 1979," said

Despite recent track collisions

State inspector: gates not needed

BY PHILIP TARDANI

A state transportation inspector has found that visibility at the Beck Road railroad crossing just south of Five Mile Road does not warrant crossing gates there.

Don Riel, assistant administrator of the state department of transportation's railroad safety and tariffs division, sent an inspector to the site after two trucks collided with a train there within five days of each other.

"He couldn't understand how in the world somebody could have got hit by a train there," Riel said. "He didn't have any problem with it."

The latest incident at the crossing occurred Oct. 30 when 37-year-old Kurt Frederic Sells was injured after he smashed into the lead engine of a CSX train, which derailed farther down the track.

Sells, of Ann Arbor, had just exited from westbound M-14 and was traveling north on Beck when he collided with the train, according to police reports. He was removed from his vehicle -- a garbage truck -- with the "jaws of life" and flown to St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor. He was later released from the hospital after being treated for facial injuries.

Witnesses said the railroad lights were working and the train had blown its whistle. One witness also stated that Sells accelerated as he approached the tracks.

On Oct. 26, a truck southbound on Beck ran into a train at the same crossing. The driver, Robert Lee Boyd, told police the sun was in his eyes and he couldn't see the railroad crossing lights activated.

Riel said visibility is a big factor in determining whether or not crossing gates are necessary.

"We look at the visibility that a motorist would have as he approaches a crossing," he said. "The motorist must be able to see some distance down the track."

The investigator found that there was sufficient visibility and the crossing lights were activated in time for the motorist to stop, Riel said, and the train was equipped with "ditch lights" located near the track.

"With the ditch lights and headlights and flashers, that should have been sufficient warning," he said.

Lloyd Lewis, CSX spokesman in Jacksonville, FL, said a safety program such as the company's "operation lifesaver" campaign might help prevent accidents.

"I would suggest a good safety awareness campaign for the truck drivers," Lewis said.

Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said his investigators have not completed an investigation into the latest accident yet.

City Attorney Ronald Lowe said that in his interpretation, all business was being conducted at 575 S. Main, where the Personalized Nursing LIGHT House is located.

Canton Supervisor Thomas Yack warned that Plymouth Township's efforts to assume sponsorship of Mettetal Airport -- located in Canton -- will have a "chilling effect" on relations between the two governments.

2nd accident in week

Crash claims 2 lives

BY MIKE GUINN

Two people were killed and one seriously injured early Thursday in Canton's second fatal automobile accident in less than a week.

Jason Allen Voight, 23, of Canton, and Paul Edward Dorsten, 28, of Belleville, died early Thursday morning when the pickup truck Voight was driving broadsided a semi-trailer as it was turning east onto Michigan Avenue from the south-bound I-275 freeway.

A second passenger in the truck, 24-year-old Dawn Marie Mancee, of Westland, was taken to the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor where she remained hospitalized Monday. A hospital spokesperson described Mancee's condition as "good."

The driver of the semi-trailer, not identified by police, was uninjured in the crash.

Karla Keefner, a spokesperson for the state police, said that alcohol may have been a factor in the accident.

"(The report) states that alcohol may be involved," Keefner said. "We won't know for sure until the autopsy has been completed."

Patrick Nemecek, Canton police public relations officer, said the state officers handled the accident since they were already near the scene investigating an earlier mishap.

The two deaths are the 10th and 11th road fatalities Canton has experienced this year. Nemecek said the number of deaths was slightly higher than 1989.

"That's a little up from last year," Nemecek said. "We only had nine all of last year."

Michigan State trooper Richard Percy said no determination of charges will be made until results of the investigation are released.

The investigation is not expected to be completed until Friday at the earliest, Percy said.

Use it or lose it

Voter apathy dangerous

There was an attitude that affected many people this year, one that has been coming for sometime. Maybe you were a part of it.

It has been whispered for a lot of years. Some spoke it quite loudly, others remained silent but agreed with it nonetheless.

Very dangerous, this idea that many seem to believe. It probably will not affect you in your lifetime or your children's, but if not curtailed, one day it could drastically change the lives of every American.

There are examples of how this belief has already altered millions of lives all over the globe. Each example is a person. And they have no say in their government.

This attitude -- that voting is a waste of time -- is dangerous because voting is how a normal citizen can alter their leadership. Through the ballot you can make known your opinion of your legislator.

Crying out loud

By Mike Guinn

It's not easy to become familiar with the candidates and what they stand for, especially in the era of the "30-second soundbite." But contrary to popular opinion, sorting out the people and the issues is possible.

Three debates were televised in the gubernatorial race this year. Newspapers routinely publish where candidates stand on issues. Forums were held by various non-partisan groups interested in helping people make informed choices.

Maybe you've heard this message before. But it needs to be said again, especially if officials' estimates of voter turnout ranging from 15 to 50 per cent come true. It seems like Americans are the only people who don't realize how pathetic this number is.

If you can't find a candidate you feel strongly enough about, look for an issue. The person elected to represent you will be managing your interests. Being "exciting" or "charismatic" makes little difference on how they do this, but their positions on the issues will.

Election Day was yesterday. It's too late to speak for 1990. But there's always next year.

If enough people vote, there will be a next year for a long time to come.

Crier ignored Canton soccer team

EDITOR:

We were very disappointed in your article on the Canton-Salem district soccer match on Oct. 22. Not only was the article severely slanted toward the Salem side, but it failed to include important information about the Canton team. After reading our letter, we hope you will realize the disrespect you have shown to the Canton soccer team.

Going into the district match, Canton had a 9-8 record. Five of those losses went to three of the top teams in the state. Moreover, the games were within one or two goals at all times. Going into the Salem game, we had lost 2-0 and 1-0 in our two previous encounters.

Considering that Canton was an inexperienced, non-ranked team, their near upset of Salem exceeded all expectations. To our dismay, this was never disclosed in your article.

Moreover, significant details about Canton goals and assists were never mentioned. The Canton seniors' outstanding performances including co-captain Mike Presley's three goals in the game went untold. Since all the Salem goals and assists were reported in the article, we feel that it was improper to ignore Canton's efforts, however brilliant.

In the article, the Salem coach was quoted several times. Strangely, neither the Canton coach, Don Smith, nor any of the Canton players were quoted. We ask why this was the case if The Community Crier claims to represent both Salem and Canton high schools?

We could understand this biased reporting if Salem opponents had not of been subscribers of yours. Yet, this was not the case and thus we consider the article as a blatant disregard of Canton's efforts. In the future, we hope that there will be more consideration for both schools.

CEP entertainment exemplifies true spirit

EDITOR:

Attending the annual Canton-Salem football game last Friday (Oct. 26) night brought the usual trepidation and anticipation:

How would the students handle the "cross campus rivalry" and maintain school spirit without offending lifetime friends from opposing schools? They did an amazing job.

Instead of worrying about what color the combined (state championship) band would wear, the directors set a happy, cheerful tone for the festivities by becoming the CEP Halloween band. The costumes were wonderful and the "spirit" of rivalry was illuminated with excellent music played by a band having fun.

The Rockettes and Chiefettes choreographed an exceptional combined routine that was not only great but would make Radio City jealous. The alternative red and blue pom poms sent chills of appreciation through the crowd both for the performance and the "spirit" they exemplified.

When the game was over and the players mixed together for the usual "nice game" and "good luck at states" -- friends congratulating friends -- the curious worries adults seem to have when competition and rivalry are mixed dissolved.

The crowd filed out feeling good about a very nice, unique experience that they had just participated in and enjoyed.

We should all be proud of our CEP schools, and the proper way to show "spirit."

Train should have been honored

EDITOR:

I am ashamed that you didn't honor that old steam train which went through the City of Plymouth on Saturday, Oct. 20.

I did not know it was going through the city or I would have been down there looking for it. Honor that historic steam train (No. 1225) right on the tracks where it ran.

I am disappointed. Many local retirees would have been right down there looking for it.

J.E. MCMEEKIN

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Crier did in fact publish information on the train's planned journey through Plymouth prior to its arrival. Some of the details were tentative at the time of publication and times changed. Also, a front page photograph of the train ran in the Oct. 24 edition of The Crier.

Mettetal is about taxes

EDITOR:

In the Oct. 17 issue of The Crier, Thomas and Judith Ranta accuse me of political mudslinging. Not so, I have done nothing other than state the facts and ask direct questions. To date these facts have not been refuted nor the questions answered.

However, I consider it more important to stick to the facts surrounding the purchase of Mettetal Airport. For example, land acquisition. One of the requirements of the FAA and State grants is the acquisition of 20.6 acres of land south of the runway and eight acres of land north of the runway on the north side of Joy Road.

If you compare the taxes generated by the 14.1 acres of light industrial property adjoining the airport with the 56 acres of land now occupied by Mettetal, then Canton is losing $750,000 in annual tax revenue. With the land acquisition that amount is increased to $1.1 million.

That is a deprivation of $687,500 in school taxes alone, just to support a recreational airport.

As you can see, there are many items that must be funded by the local sponsor. The Rantas state that the taxpayers' money is not at stake. They further imply that the federal funds are not tax dollars. All the taxes paid by the commercial airlines are reflected in the cost of shipping freight and the cost of passenger tickets, including eight per cent tax on the price of each ticket.

Regarding the implication by the Rantas that I have something to gain because I am a Novi resident, let me set the record straight. I am a Canton resident and I pay my school taxes to the Plymouth-Canton school district. In answer to their question regarding my motivation, I have nothing to gain. It's what I have to lose that motivates me, and that is listed below.

Now I'm asking, what do the Rantas have to gain? What motivates them? It's a matter of public record that an identical first initial and the last name of one of the Rantas appears on the tenant roster of Mettetal Airport. Could this mean that the Rantas have a vested interest in supporting the airport? If so, this means they could continue to use the airport at great expense to the local taxpayers.

Regarding the Rantas' claim of invasion by Metro Jets, here is a quote from a letter addressed to Canton, and read at a meeting by Supervisor Tom Yack: "...we have determined that the existence or non-existence of Canton Mettetal Airport would have no effect on operations over Canton Township." This letter was signed by Dean Nitz, supervisor, Michigan section of the Federal Aviation Administration.

In 1975 Canton and Plymouth Township went through this same ordeal and because of strong public opposition any consideration to purchase the airport was abandoned. If Maurice Breen persists in pursuing the purchase of the airport, the least he could do is give the voters a voice in it. However, I believe that Breen knows that if it is put to a vote it will be defeated.

Enforcement should be fair and consistent

EDITOR:

Last night as I was driving home from work, I was stopped for a traffic violation by a Plymouth Township Police Officer. But wait, this is not just another sob story for I freely admit that I did run the yellow light at Ann Arbor Road and Lilley and if that is an ordinance violation, then I was undoubtedly in violation.

My question and concern, however, is whether or not it is indeed an ordinance violation or merely a judgment call on the part of the police officer. I am somewhat confused by the impression I came away with.

One of the first things the officer asked me was relative to my driving record. Was it good or bad? I beamed with pride as I credited myself with the fact that I considered myself to be a careful and conscientious driver and had never been given cause to be pulled over in my 20 years as a licensed driver. In retrospect, however, I am now wondering as to the significance of the officer's question. The fact that it was asked at all leads me to believe that the answer somehow influenced the officer's decision as to whether or not I would be issued a ticket.

The reason it concerns me is because I now have to logically wonder whether a different response on my part would have resulted in a different outcome. Suppose I had admitted to a bad driving record and was in danger of losing my license? Would the officer have then opted not to issue a ticket? And what would his reasons have been? A quota to fill leading him to issue a ticket since a couple of points wouldn't hurt?

Our society uses a system of reward and punishment. We use this method to teach our children right from wrong all the way down to training our pets to obey. Since I was raised within this system of reward and punishment, I sincerely believed that maintaining a good driving record would be recognized in terms of being given the benefit of the doubt if running a yellow light is a judgment call on the part of the officer. The mere asking of the question indicates to me that it is just that ... a judgment call and not an actual ordinance.

Having been given this ability (curse?) to logic, I then have to wonder exactly what the role of a Plymouth Township Police Officer entails. Is it his job to interpret the laws or to enforce them? If it is to interpret the laws, then what role does the 35th District Court play... do they serve merely as a cashier's office for acceptance and processing of fines?

If an ordinance indeed exists making it illegal to run a yellow light, then it is illegal each and every time and the driving record of the violator is irrelevant. In this case, I have no problem with being issued a ticket... I was in violation. But it alarms me to think that a person who has repeatedly violated traffic ordinances could be given a "break" and be allowed to stay on the road that much longer thereby endangering all others. I believe that the odds will catch up when bad driving is a proven habit and not possibly a mistake.

Please don't misunderstand my intentions... I feel the Plymouth and Plymouth Township Police Departments do a fine job all in all. But perhaps they should make a determination of exactly where their authority begins and where it ends so that society as a whole can respect the laws as they are written with no doubt that we truly are all created equal and each and every one of us will be treated as such each and every time.

Candidate misled on airport

EDITOR:

On Oct. 23 a few members from the Plymouth-Canton Airport Association attended a Canton League of Women Voters question and answer forum in Canton.

Near the end of the question and answer period we approached Dennis Shrewsbury, who is running for state representative 36th District, and asked him why he was misleading so many people with his ad on Mettetal Airport. We also showed him proof with a letter from the FAA that his ad was made up of lies.

We went on to explain:

1. The educational benefits to our communities, along with skill trade jobs that could be filled with people from our communities.

2. The airport would never be funded with homeowner property taxes or state income taxes.

3. The state report showed Mettetal has a $3.5 million impact on our communities.

4. And, if operated in the interest of the surrounding communities and businesses, not just their pilots, it could be a real asset to our communities.

I then asked if he would retract his statement that misled people in the paper. His answer was, "No way - that ad has helped me too much politically. Maybe after the election. But, that's politics."

My question is -- why would voters want to elect a person who is deliberately misleading and depriving the community he wishes to represent with his ~~everything but the truth~~ ad for his own selfish and personal gain?

Geake, Law hold on to seats in legislature

BY MIKE GUINN

Michigan state legislators Robert Geake and Gerald Law retained their seats in Lansing Tuesday, heading off challenges by Patrick McDonald and Dennis Shrewsbury, respectively.

In the 6th District State Senate race, Republican incumbent Geake held off a challenge by Democratic candidate McDonald. Unofficial totals showed Geake ahead by a 9,209 to 5,983 margin.

Geake's showing in Canton, where he led McDonald 6,955 to 5,261, helped him attain his wide margin of victory.

McDonald said that he wasn't surprised by the results.

"We're not elated with it, but it wasn't all that unexpected," said McDonald. "We ran very well ahead of the prior challenger to Mr. Geake. We put on a good campaign and people responded."

Geake was unavailable for comment Tuesday night.

Law retained the 36th District House of Representatives seat by a two to one margin, besting Shrewsbury 8,290 to 4,127 according to early reports. Canton reported Law with a lead of 5,874 to 3,123.

Although disappointed with the results, Shrewsbury said the results were what he expected.

"I'm stronger than anyone who has run against (Law) before. It's a message that some of the voters were not satisfied," said Shrewsbury. "I hate to tell you this, but you're going to see more of me."

Law was unavailable to comment Tuesday on the results.

McDonald and Shrewsbury both said they felt their races were partially influenced by Governor Blanchard's poor showing against John Engler in the governor's race.

Totals were incomplete Tuesday, partially due to incorrect ballots being distributed throughout Plymouth Township and the malfunctioning of a vote counter after polls had closed.

Kosteva wins easily

BY MIKE GUINN

State Representative Jim Kosteva retained his 37th District house seat in an easy victory over Republican challenger Dolores E. Carmichael Tuesday, taking 62 per cent of the vote.

Unofficial results showed that the Democratic incumbent bested Carmichael by a 9,825 to 6,275 margin in incomplete returns. Kosteva scored a margin of victory in each of the precincts throughout his district.

"I really feel privileged to be returning to the house for another two years," Kosteva said. "I've listened intently to the message people are saying, and I hope I can continue to be a part of change in Lansing."

A Canton resident since 1979, Kosteva has represented the 37th District in the state house since 1984. He gained entry into the general election via a primary victory over Robert Bell, in August.

Ford bests Adkins

BY MIKE GUINN

Democrat William D. Ford appeared to be well on his way to returning to the 15th District U.S. House of Representatives seat by nearly a two to one margin Tuesday, easily defeating Republican challenger Burl C. Adkins.

Ford, who has represented the 15th District since 1964, unofficially logged 20,824 votes in the district compared to Adkins' 12,300. Libertarian candidate David C. Hunt also picked up 753 votes.

Adkins was making his third try for the 15th District seat, his second as a Republican. He was defeated in the 1986 Democratic primary for the seat before switching parties, in 1988.

Ballot mix up in Twp.

Whitehead explained that he had difficulty punching his ballot and explained the situation to a worker, who put the ballot in the box. He said he was there to "say that I have the right to vote."

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen invited visiting candidates, judges and lawyers to his office to watch the other election results on T.V.

"There was human error today, you do the best you can to correct it," Breen said. "That's all you can do."

Carmichael, a Romulus resident, appeared to base her candidacy on the Department of Natural Resources handling of wetlands property. She ran unopposed in the August primary.

Carmichael was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Kosteva showed a plurality over Carmichael in Canton, while Wayne and Romulus showed similar results.

Kosteva said he expects to make cost cuts a priority in his next two-year term.

Mack edges Gustafson

BY KEN VOYLES

Milton Mack retained his seat on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners last night, beating back the solid challenge of Victor Gustafson, a Canton businessman seeking the position for the first time.

Mack, who has been on the commission for eight years, led unofficial vote tallies throughout the 11th Wayne County District.

With only partial results available, Mack was in front of Gustafson by a 13,277 to 10,032 margin, taking what appeared to be about a 56 per cent to 44 per cent edge.

Gustafson, a member of Canton's Planning Commission, led in votes in his home community, but trailed the other communities that make up the district.

"It's always nice to win and this was a tough election because a lot of the fallout in Washington affected the local races," said Mack after it became clear he would retain his seat.

Gustafson said he felt he presented a solid challenge in the race. "It was a strong challenge," he said. "On the other hand I have to respect the electorate for speaking.

The situation was further confused when some voters were allowed to vote a second time. Carey said a total of seven people -- in four different precincts -- voted twice. In those cases, he said, elections officials would randomly select a number of ballots equal to the number of people who voted twice and take them out of the count.

Plymouth Township's voting problems were compounded around midnight when the township's vote counting machine broke down, but it was back on line in about one hour.

Pursell downs White

BY KEN VOYLES

Plymouth's hometown Congressman, Carl Pursell, easily defeated Elmer White, an Ann Arbor attorney, in the race for the 2nd U.S. Congressional District.

Pursell, who is a life long resident of the community and has been in Congress since 1977, bested White throughout the district yesterday, according to unofficial results last night.

Results showed Pursell leading by more than a three to two margin over the challenger. His average voter margin was 65 per cent, according to some election watchers.

Campbell looks to hold library board position

BY KEN VOYLES

The future of the Dunning-Hough Library in the City of Plymouth may be at question still, but it looks like the race yesterday for the lone seat on the governing library board was decided in the city.

With unofficial results in from the city only, incumbent board member Janet Campbell was holding off challenges from Mary Kleam and Virginia Tornga to retain her seat on the board.

Campbell, who has been on the board for six years, garnered 1,200 votes in the city. Kleam finished in the city with 603 votes and Tornga grabbed 298 votes.

Results from Plymouth Township were unavailable at press time following difficulties earlier Tuesday over the use of incorrect ballots from Wayne County.

"I'd certainly rather be ahead than behind at this time," said Campbell, a resident of the township. "I have to thank those who supported me and hope do to a good job."

Kleam, a resident of the city running for the first time, said, "I don't know if I'm disappointed. I'm just being realistic (about the results)."

Kleam felt that if she could not carry the city, she would not be able to defeat Campbell for the four-year term.

"At this point it's probably decided," said Kleam before any results were forthcoming from the township.

The election results, although incomplete at press time, are brought to you with the help of many volunteers.

Up to date coverage from The Crier office was carried on Omnicom throughout the evening.

City audit shows deficit

The regular annual City of Plymouth audit shows that budget problems still plague the city and that spending controls will continue to be a topic at City Hall.

According to the audit, a city deficit of $197,811 remained in the general fund after the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

"We recommend that the city file the necessary deficit reduction plans with the state," says the auditor's letter, written by David Williamson of Post, Smythe, Lutz and Ziel.

The auditor's management letter also cited numerous technical errors and spending practices which violate the city code, the city charter and stated practices.

Additionally, said the auditors, the city's travel and entertainment funds have paid for alcoholic beverages in apparent violation of the Michigan Attorney General's ruling.

"The State of Michigan is still in the process of conducting (its) review of the former City Manager (Henry E. Graper, Jr.) expenses. While the results of this review (are) still unavailable,

Roe St. zoning

"At this time I believe the use of 303 Roe St. to house clients participating in the LIGHT House at 575 S. Main is in compliance with city code," he told commissioners, program participants and Roe Street residents.

Lowe added, however, that if the Personalized Nursing's funding agency -- Southeast Michigan Substance Abuse Services (SEMSAS) -- requires strict adherence to its rules, the Roe Street situation would probably violate city zoning rules.

"If SEMSAS should require them to comply with their rules and regulations to the letter, then the LIGHT House would be in violation of the city code," Lowe said. "We'll have to see what SEMSAS requires."

Geoffrey Smereck, attorney representing Personalized Nursing, said his clients can comply with both SEMSAS rules and city laws.

"The regulations of SEMSAS are not easily quantifiable," he said. "We believe we are in complete compliance with SEMSAS regulations."

Lowe said SEMSAS will be doing a review of Personalized Nursing on Nov. 30 and the city would know more of what SEMSAS requires then.

At the request of Commissioner Jerry Vorva and Roe Street homeowner Sarah Bechler, Mayor Dennis Bila said he would ask the administration to investigate for zoning violations. He added the city would make its concerns known to SEMSAS and work closely with the agency.

Carol Levitte, attorney representing homeowners on Roe Street and Ann Arbor Trail, said her clients were fighting a zoning violation.

"I believe that if the city takes Mr. Lowe's legal opinion, what we would end up with is allowing a business in a residential area and that is not the intent of a planned community," she said.

Levitte said the aftercare participants -- who participate for a maximum of six months -- would not "bond" to Roe Street. The fact that the participants are recovering substance abusers is secondary to the zoning question, she added.

"They (the participants) belong in Plymouth, they belong everywhere it is properly zoned," Levitte said. "I'm looking at land use, I'm not looking at substance abuse."

Marcia Andersen, president of Personalized Nursing, again invited two Roe Street residents to serve on her advisory board.

"If any problems or concerns come up, we'd really like to have an on-going mechanism for dealing with them," she said.

Karol Hardy, who lives a few houses away from 303 Roe, said she objected to the density of the program.

"I'm concerned that if they let it go through, we'll have genuine problems," Hardy said.

Levitte agreed.

"Once you decide it's okay, all those units on Roe can go. Is that a neighborhood?" she said. "No. That's not the intent of zoning."

Bila expected a further update at the Nov. 19 commission meeting.

School district has next move

Woods status remains unresolved

BY KEN VOYLES

It looks like Miller Woods will be designated as a nature sanctuary by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools before Plymouth Township moves ahead with any attempt to write a special ordinance to protect the rare climax-beech forest.

At a meeting last week among school and township officials, members of the Friends of Miller Woods, and several neighbors of the 10-acre site, it was resolved that the school district needed to take the next step, according to participants of the gathering.

Ray Hoedel, the schools associate superintendent for business, said no details on a recommendation to the board of education were ready yet, but that he expected some kind of action by the end of the year.

"We're working with the DNR right now," Hoedel said, "telling them what we'd like to do to maintain and designate it as a nature preserve, forever. We want to know how would we go about that."

Hoedel said any administrative recommendation to the board would probably include a provision to make any designation as a part of the permanent deed.

"I hope we can get something to the board by the first of the year," Hoedel added. "Once we do that and the board approves it we'll write a letter to the township requesting an ordinance. We want to do this right."

James Anulewicz, the township public services director, said the township is ready to move on an ordinance to protect Miller Woods, but that the woods first need to be designated to enhance any future enforcement effort.

"I think we're all moving in the same direction," he said. "We identified the problems, now we are looking at all of the alternatives. We wanted to define some course of action."

Anulewicz said he is working with a U-M professor to define the impact surrounding development has had on the woods and the degree of vandalism in the woods itself.

"We're also trying to form some linkage between the Friends and those residents that live nearby," he said. "To begin with we need to educate -- this is not a woods, it's a preserve."

Township officials have said they do not want to put up a fence, as suggested by the Friends and approved by the school board earlier this year, except as a last resort.

Anulewicz said he is convinced the woods can be protected without resorting to a fence, but is prepared to go that route if all else fails.

Beverly McAninch, president of the Friends group, said she expects the school district to declare the site a sanctuary, but said she it is likely that "you can't hold fencing in abeyance forever."

The local Kiwanians have said they would help fund the fencing project. McAninch said it would be a "shame" to lose that group's funding.

"I think the community can protect it," she said. "We got a lot of positive feedback (on designating the woods)."

"The ordinance is a great effort but how would you enforce it," McAninch added.

"I think we're all on the same side," Hoedel said. "It would be a good thing to have such a preservation effort. It would benefit the community."

Hoedel, who visited the site Friday, said the area being looked at for a sanctuary designation includes about 10 acres.

The rest of the site, he said, may one day be used for a new school. But, if that happened, he added, the district would probably end up fencing in the woods anyway.

Commission denies BMC request

Commissioner John Vos III. "I think the only leverage we have is to turn down the request."

The vote was 6-1 to deny BMC's request, with Commissioner James Jabara voting for it.

Zirblis said the Wayne County treasurer's office told her that BMC would have to pay $1,264,545 to avoid the state taking over the property deed. The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' share of that would be about $700,000, while the city's share would be about $300,000, according to Zirblis.

Lowe said the DNR could deed the property to the city or auction it off.

Jerome Porubsky, comptroller for BMC, said the company employs 87 hourly and 16 salaried employees.

CEP marchers grab regional crown

For the first time the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band has won the Marching Bands of America Mid-East Regional competition held at the University of Toledo Saturday.

The CEP marchers — made up of students from both Canton and Salem highs — bested 29 other bands from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey and Pennsylvania for the championship trophy.

In the final round on Saturday, the CEP band earned a 93.7 score and trophies for Best Music Performance, Best General Effect, Best Visual and Best Auxiliary.

"The success of this year's show is a combination of the hard work of the students and the staff," said Glen Adsit, the CEP band director.

The band is now in final preparations for the Marching Bands of America Nationals at the Hoosierdome in Indianapolis on Nov. 16-17.

That competition features the top 50 bands from across the United States. Preliminaries are set for Friday (Nov. 16) with the finals on Saturday (Nov. 17). The band's percussion section will also compete in a separate competition on Friday.

Prior to leaving for the nationals the band will practice at the Pontiac Silverdome on Nov. 13 to get accustomed to the acoustics of a domed stadium.

The band's final performance for the season will be during the halftime show of the Detroit Lions' game on Thanksgiving Day (Nov. 22).

Eleven former marching band members have assisted with this year's show, said Adsit, including, Chris Johnson, Ben Wharton, Chris Romanowski, Shawn Barieau, Steve Gartner, Brad Flowers, Dave Warunek, Jason Smigell, Jennifer Jencks, and Sandee Connors. Adsit is also a former CEP marching band member.

Publishes collection

Author overcomes rare form of MD

BY MIKE GUINN

Hell, I envision, is like a drab, doorless, windowless cell, where eternity is spent doing absolutely nothing.

Joseph Barnett, "Heaven Or?"

There are few people who can comprehend this type of existence as well as Joseph Barnett, but then there are even fewer who could escape this "hell" as well as he did.

Afflicted with a rare form of Muscular Dystrophy since 1962, Barnett's condition has progressively worsened, confining him to a wheelchair at a Farmington Hills nursing home.

But the former Canton resident has fought against the disease, using his talent to create images of watercolors and words.

A collection of his work in the latter scheme was recently printed by Winston-Derek Publishers, Inc. Titled "Clouds, Clowns and Rainbows," the book is a gathering of Barnett's poetry and essays he has written through the years.

"A few friends that read my writing encouraged me to get published," said Barnett. "When I saw the book, I was real pleased by it."

Although the 65-year-old Barnett has written as a hobby for many years, he first started to write seriously after his medical retirement from Chrysler Motor Company, in 1977. A lab technician with Chrysler for 25 years, Barnett said he took up writing to fill his time.

"My main concern was to keep my mind occupied, not just sit and do nothing," Barnett said. "I didn't want to sit around and be a couch potato."

While this is Barnett's first book, it is not the first time he has seen his name in print. An essay he authored, "So You Think You're confused," was published in the New England based Yankee Magazine, in 1981.

After locating a publisher willing to print the book, the lengthy process of editing the collection via mail began.

Barnett's wife of 37 years, Ann, said the company helped polish her husband's work.

"They took out a lot of commas. Joe used to use a salt shaker putting the commas in," Ann said. "There were some things Winston-Derek could tell him that his wife couldn't."

Much of Barnett's work reflects joy and humor that he sees through life events. The themes, Barnett said, pretty much reflect his own views of his existence.

"I had an aunt say that there's nothing so tragic there isn't some humor in it," Barnett mused. "That's kind of my philosophy."

While the first printing of the book produced a somewhat limited supply of 2,000 copies, there are plans to put it in bookstores across the nation. Locally, plans are in the works for Barnett to conduct a "book signing" (due to his condition, he uses a rubber stamp to imprint his signature) after Thanksgiving at the Little Professor on the Park.

What about a follow up to his first book?

"People have asked me when my sequel is coming out," Barnett said. "But right now, I want to digest the book that's out."

Besides the poems and essays, Barnett also has a piece of advice to offer those who may face hardships in life.

"Use what you have got," said Barnett. "If you can think and talk, then you can explain things to people. Don't throw in the towel."

Worthy advice coming from someone who teaches by example as well as words.

The glory of each new day lies not in just another sunrise, but rather in the opportunity each one affords to change the course of our lives.

Joseph Barnett, "The Glory of Each Day"

Joseph Barnett, of Canton, discusses his new book, "Clouds, Clowns and Rainbows," while his wife Ann looks on. Barnett has overcome MD through his talent as a wordsmith. (Crier photo by Barb Cheiman)

Tell it to Phyllis

By Phyllis Redfern

In case you didn't notice, there was a full moon last Friday. Whether or not you believe the full moon has an affect on people, you have to admit last week was strange.

You can blame "it" on the weather, the elections or the economy, but whatever "it" was, "it" made for a long week.

Police departments and hospital emergency rooms notice a big change in dealing with people during a full moon, so maybe there is some truth to its affects. Although I've never studied astrology, I have read my horoscope on occasion. I've heard that Scorpios are supposed to be stubborn and independent and I admit there are times I stand up for what I believe in and voice my opinion. However, my horoscope in the paper hardly ever relates to anything about me.

It seems like everyone I talked to last week complained about the strange moods of friends and co-workers. There certainly was some grouchiness around our office.

The weather was nice last week so I don't think we can attribute bad moods to that. Although it was unseasonably warm, so maybe that had something to do with the strangeness.

Elections always seem to bring out the bad, the good, and the strange in everyone. Politicians are a breed all on their own (that doesn't necessarily mean bad, it means they are just a little different). To run for political office you have to be strong enough to stand up for what you and the voters in your district believe in, willing to handle whatever is thrown at you and perhaps be a little crazy to put yourself in that position. Now that the elections are behind us, maybe the mood will lighten (at least for the winners).

Then there is the economy. What is there to say that hasn't already been said? If nothing else I guess it's nice to know most of us are in the same boat -- sinking together. We've been in tight situations before and no matter how scary it seems, we'll figure out some way to adjust and get through it.

Whatever the reason for last week's strangeness, it's time to move on to some fun. Just think, two weeks from tomorrow is Thanksgiving and then it's only a little over a month until Christmas.

Students from Canton receiving degrees from Kalamazoo College are: Sung Woo Kahng, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heejin Kahng of Wedgewood; Diana Knickerbocker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Knickerbocker of Peachtree Court; and Ronald Young Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Young of Quaker Hill Drive.

Students from Canton included on the Honors List at CMU are: Martin Adamian of Barchester and Robert Beede of Elmhurst. Plymouth students included on the list are: Marlene Kowalski of Oakcliffe, Kathy Ross of Ann Arbor Road and Dustin Wyman of Schoolcraft.

Over Mettetal Airport Townships trade barbs

port. In August, the Canton Board of Trustees voted 5-2 against purchasing Mettetal.

"In the event you wish to alter the posture of Canton Township, I would be willing to work in any way you suggest to amicably put together an authority that would purchase and operate the facility," Breen wrote.

The Federal Aviation Administration will cover 90 per cent of the approximate $4 million purchase price for Mettetal, while the state bureau of aeronautics will pick up another five per cent. A state matching grant covering the remaining five per cent must first be approved by Canton.

Yack said his position remains unchanged.

"To this day Canton has not received a rationale or list of reasons why it's necessary for a local government to own and operate an airport," he said.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees voted 6-1 in August to act as a sponsor and apply for the federal and state funds.

The township now wants to set up an authority with other local governments to assume ownership of Mettetal, Breen said.

The Canton board is taking exception to an outside governing body trying to decide the destiny of an airport within Canton's borders, however, Yack said.

"If Plymouth Township were in Canton's position, how would (Breen) and his board react?" Yack asked. "I think they would be outraged.

"I don't think we're outraged, but we're getting close."

Breen said the authority has until September of 1991 -- when the fiscal year ends -- to obtain the state grant money, but added that he expects it will be done "long before that."

There is also "sufficient support" to finance the remaining five per cent with private funds if Canton does not okay the matching grant, Breen said.

Yack said he thinks "economics will dictate that somebody can make more money by selling the airport land off for development purposes."

Breen counters that Mettetal helps to define the character of the community and should be preserved, hopefully with Canton's cooperation.

"I can assure you that I have no personal animosity towards anyone in regard to the effort to finalize the authority question for the purchase of Mettetal Airport," Breen wrote to Yack. "Everybody involved would prefer to have Canton Township as a participant as opposed to a continual opposition party."

School finance outlook

certainties out there that could make the fund balance swing quite big," said Hoedel, who added that his projections are based on an SEV (State Equalized Valuation) increase in 1991-92 to $1.7 billion (up from $1.5 billion) and a Headlee rollback of 5.4 per cent.

He also based the projections on salary increases, fringe benefit increases (5-10 per cent) and increases in utility costs (10 per cent).

Major expenditures include an expected increase of salary costs to $64 million; $8.4 million for other costs (major maintenance, buses, roofs, textbooks); and $1.9 million for federal projects.

Without the four mills the district will be authorized to levy 37 mills, said Hoedel.

The state has already recaptured $987,000 from the district, but with $4.9 million subject to further recapture, he said. The recapture plan, which many districts including Plymouth-Canton are opposing in court, takes money from out-of-formula districts in the areas of categoricals, FICA and retirement.

In 1991-92, Hoedel said, the recapture could potentially take $2.5 million from district coffers.

Hoedel, and Hoben, stressed the likelihood of executive order cutbacks in the state following the election. They said the district might lose as much as $3.8 million if that happens.

"The probability of this happening, I think, is very good," said Hoben, who called the recapture plan a drive to "educational mediocrity."

Hoben told the board that the lawsuit filed by more than 40 districts is the "best hope" for relief from further recaptures during this school year.

Board member Roland Thomas said that the only ones suffering from the state's moves are students in the district.

Thomas also suggested that the school district administration prepare budget scenarios that look at one, three, and five per cent district spending reductions.

"I don't think we can wait," he said. "We have to be prepared for the downturn in state revenues."

Board member Lester Walker said the district was looking at how badly the fund balance -- "our buffer" -- is being eroded.

At the same meeting Hoben outlined a list of priorities facing the district, many of them costs not in the forecast prepared by Hoedel.

Among the priorities: implementing the middle level education plan (in excess of $1 million); reducing class size by .5; developing a district research program; and adding elementary school counselors.

"This is Nov. 5, a lot of these things will not be determined for a couple of months," Hoben said.

"We face some big decisions come the first of the year," Hoedel said last week.

No mosque soon says ICA

BY PHILIP TARDANI

Plans for an Islamic center and mosque in Plymouth Township are five to 10 years from realization, according to a spokesman for the Islamic Center of America (ICA).

Haj Hussein Hamood, chairperson of the ICA board, said his group does not have the funds to start building on its 89 acre parcel at the corner of Napier and Powell roads.

"We don't want to say things that we are not able to do," he said. "There is no complete decision now at this time."

Plymouth Township Community Development Director Shirley Barney confirmed that she has not heard from any ICA representatives.

"No plan has been filed with the township," she said. "No one has ever called me or asked me anything."

Hamood said his group, headquartered in Detroit, bought the land as a financial investment. Growing membership in the ICA has also prompted the need for bigger facilities, he said, though there is no room at the Detroit center.

New fire station a year away

By this time next year, Plymouth Township will have a brand new fire station.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees recently awarded a $1,062,500 contract to Ann Arbor Design/Build Inc. for construction of the township's new fire station.

The station -- it will be the third firehouse in the township -- is located

DDA traffic plans studied

The City of Plymouth's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has proposed a number of changes in downtown traffic patterns, and an Ann Arbor firm will study traffic to see if it is not adversely affected.

Kent Anderson, an architect working with the DDA on its plans, said the study is to reassure the DDA the changes will not wreak havoc with traffic downtown.

"We have a plan, we want to build a school and larger Islamic center," Hamood said. "We have between 400 and 500 children in the Sunday school and Arabic classes."

There are more than 10,000 members in the ICA, he said, about 95 per cent of whom are of Lebanese descent.

The ICA teaches its members to be "good American citizens and good Muslims," he said. Muslims respect Jesus Christ and share the prophets Solomon and David with Christians, he added.

The ICA has members from such communities as Sterling Heights, Warren and Dearborn -- where the majority reside -- and would consider buying land and building in other places if the opportunity arose, Hamood said.

If the ICA did decide to build in the township, Barney said, the plans would need special condition approval, which requires a public hearing.

The plans would then need site plan approval, she said.

at the corner of North Territorial and Beck Roads.

Plymouth Township Fire Chief Larry Groth said the new facility will shorten response times in the area considerably.

"It's going to improve the service to all the businesses and all the residents in the western end of the township and that's what we're here to do," he said.

"It's basically just a check on the design and whether it works with traffic engineering standards," he said. "It's an affirmation that we're not causing any traffic problems."

The DDA's master plan calls for changing the direction on Penniman Avenue between Main and Harvey streets to one-way east; making Fralick Street one-way west; and adding a left-turn lane on Main at Ann Arbor Trail.

Chiefs ground John Glenn Rockets

BY RITA DERBIN

Karl Wukie picked apart Westland John Glenn last Saturday afternoon.

The senior quarterback extended the Chiefs' season at least one more game when he led the Canton football team to a 22-16 victory over the Rockets.

With the victory, the Chiefs (9-1) advanced to the Class AA Region 2 finals against Detroit Catholic Central (8-2). The game will be this Saturday at Pontiac Wisner Stadium, Centennial Educational Park based WSDP 88.1 will broadcast the game live at 1:30 p.m. to The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Wukie and the Chiefs' offense put 22 unanswered points on the board before the Rockets, the top seeded team in Region 2, scored with less than a minute left in the first half. A two point conversion by John Glenn made the score 22-8 at the half.

"We stuck it to them in their end and got ahead," said Chief senior Jason Riggs, who led the Canton rushing game and also made some key defensive plays. "We took them out of their game early.

Catholic Central next on Chiefs hit list

BY RITA DERBIN

The underdog Chiefs (9-1) promptly proved they belonged in the state football playoffs by defeating Westland John Glenn, 22-16, in the first round.

They will be the underdog this week, too, when they face Detroit Catholic Central on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Pontiac Wisner Stadium in the Class AA Region 2 football finals.

The Shamrocks defeated Ypsilanti, 17-6, to advance to the finals. In the game, Jon Barbara scored a touchdown on a 17-yard run, quarterback Jason Carr completed a 27-

"Glenn isn't a real catch up team," Riggs added. "They like getting a lead and running it down your throats but we didn't let them do it."

The Chiefs' defense recovered a fumble midway through the first quarter to set the stage for Wukie, who completed 10 of 18 for 138 yards passing in the game, including two touchdowns.

On fourth down and three yards to go on the Chiefs' seven yard line, Wukie connected to Roger Eaton for a touchdown, and then ran the ball into the end zone on a fake field goal attempt to complete a two-point conversion making the score 8-0.

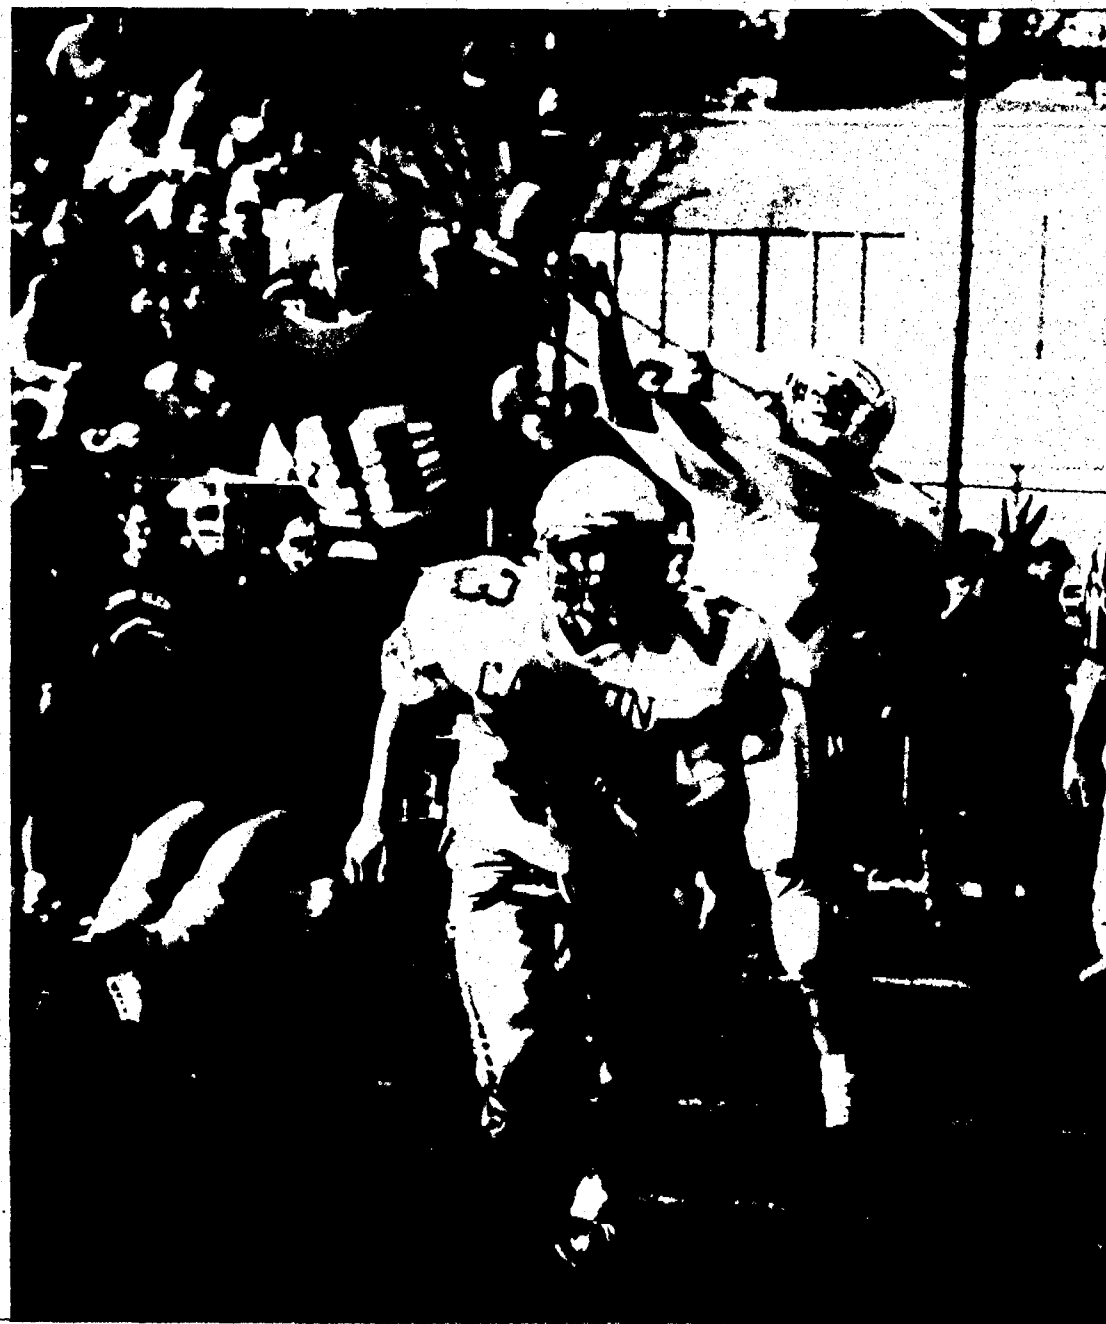

"Right off we recovered a fumble," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle. "That's the name of the game -- taking advantage of turnovers."

Later in the first quarter, Wukie completed a 21 yard pass to Brett Howell to set up a 33-yard touchdown run by Riggs, who finished the day with 55 yards rushing, to make the score 14-0 Canton.

In the second quarter Wukie connected with Howell for a 15-yard touchdown pass. The Chiefs then completed another two-point con-country meet at the University of Michigan golf course last Saturday.

In team competition, the Salem girls finished 18th in the state, despite losing their top runner, Stacy Whittoff in the last 100 yards of the race to dehydration.

Whittoff was disappointed about the meet but, according to coach Mike Krafchak, about 15 girls had to drop out of the race. "She was running a great race and shouldn't feel bad," he said. "Overall we did what we wanted to do, the kids did a fine job all year long."

Rock finishers included Corey Gulkewicz, 54th; Emily Farrell, 59th; Julie Cutting, 77th; Kelly Morante, 92nd; Beth Turomsha, 121st; and Jill Czaplicki, 132nd.

The Salem boys squad finished 21st at the meet. Derek Cudini was 43rd; Mike Patterson, 64th; Andy Hellmers, 96th; Steve Boudreau, 107th; John Thomas, 133rd; Jayson McDonald, 144th; and Matt Cifaldi, 158th.

"I'm disappointed with where we finished but not with the way the boys ran," said Salem coach Geoff Baker. "We were happy to be there and ran well, we're just not a warm weather team."

The Canton boys were 23rd in the team competition. Mike Ream led the team with an 18th place finish. The senior missed making the all state team by three places but, according to coach Jim Hayes, "had a great season and ran a great race." He was followed by teammates Dave Yack, 91st; Chris Nelson, 102nd; Jim Carnes, 128th; and Kirk Stewart, 170th. Jason Crain, who ran second for Canton, was injured during the race and Jason Napolitano was disqualified.

Rock hoopsters crush Raiders

BY RITA DERBIN

The Rocks rolled over the North Farmington Raiders, 66-25, last Thursday night in the opening game of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs.

Salem scored early and often against the Raiders, who handed the Rocks their only conference loss of the season last week.

The Rocks, who struggled offensively in their first meeting with North Farmington, never looked back after taking a 14-4 lead in the first period and 30-8 halftime lead.

"We did a nice job in the first half holding them to eight points," said coach Fred Thomann. "The team played real well, it was a real good game for us."

Darcie Miller led the Rocks with 23 points. Sarah Ruete added 19 and Yolanda Jackson chipped in 12 in the victory. Eve Clair scored 19 for North Farmington.

"Teamwise we did a much better job (than in the Rocks' earlier loss) against them," said Thomann. "We made the shots and the team defense was outstanding."

The Canton basketball team won their playoff opener, defeating Walled Lake Western, 84-36. Leading the way for the Chiefs was Stephanie Gray with 25 points. Mary Barna and Julie Nicastro each added 13 points in the game.

Salem (15-3) played Northville last night, and Canton (12-6) played Uxonia Franklin. The winners of those two game will meet on Saturday at 7 p.m. in the conference championship game and the losers will face off at 5 p.m. in the consolation game. Both games will be played at Northville.

Steelers win

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers freshmen and varsity teams are Superbowl bound after winning semifinal games on Sunday.

Kevin Salla scored the lone touchdown in the freshmen's 7-0 victory over Ann Arbor West Wildcats. Salla scampered 55 yards for the TD and converted his own extra point.

The defense was led by Eric Hoganson, Ben Herman, Bradon Urban, Joe Kanaan and Brent Mellis.

The Varsity squad won its playoff game 19-14 over the Northville-Novi Colts.

Lenny Gardner scored two touchdowns for the Steelers in the first half and Dan Kanaan scored later in the game with Gardner converting the extra point.

The defense was led by Jeremy Swanagun, Dan Krueger, Dave Rezabek, Kevin Grim and Mark Wesner.

Both squads will play at Central Middle School this Sunday (Nov. 11) in the Western Suburban League Superbowl. The freshmen take on the Westland Meteors at noon and the varsity face the Ann Arbor East Eagles at 3 p.m.

On Saturday (Nov. 10), the Steelers will also host the first "Cheerleading Rally," for the Western Suburban League at Salem High School starting at 9:30 a.m. There will be 27 squads on hand for the rally.

yard pass to Frank Yoakam for another touchdown, and Kerry Zavagnin kicked a 27-yard field goal to complete the Shamrock scoring.

"They are very good," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle. "They're well disciplined and have a very sound, very good defense that is much bigger than ours."

The Chiefs, however, have played well all season despite their lack of size and have had much success. Canton defeated a much bigger John Glenn team and will play the Shamrocks the same way -- by using the team's speed to offset their lack of size, according to Khoenle.

"We have a good team but they (Catholic Central) are a lot bigger than we are," Khoenle said. "But so was John Glenn."

version to make the score 22-0 Canton.

"We put Wukie in a position to do what he can handle," said Khoenle. "He has the talent and ability and is executing well right now."

"He's doing a great job for us," added Khoenle of his senior quarterback. "The kid makes things happen out there -- and Howell, he's doing a good job gaining some yards on receptions."

While the Chief offense has been putting numbers on the scoreboard, the Canton defense is a little more susceptible, according to Khoenle.

"We did a good job in the first half - I think we had momentum and intensity," said Khoenle. "But then we lost it in the second half."

"I thought that letting Glenn get a touchdown would bring the intensity back to the defense but it didn't," Khoenle added. "They've been giving

"We'll come to play and give them a good game," he added. "We're not big but we do have some things going for us -- speed, talent and quickness."

Khoenle has confidence in his offense, led by seniors Karl Wukie and Jason Riggs, but said that defense will be the key.

"I know our offense can do the job," he said. "So our defense is going to have to do it in the game."

Catholic Central coach Tom Mach has the same philosophy.

"The key for us is defense," he said. "We are going to play hard and try to stop the passing game," he said. "They have two good backs (Riggs and Chris James) but their quarterback is the key -- he's real versatile, he's a good runner and can pass the ball."

Canton runs a wide open offense, which Mach wants to contain. "They throw a lot, run a little and play the option," he said. "They can do a lot on offense, they run a variety of plays up too many points lately."

Riggs on defense, however, saved the Chiefs by knocking away at least two John Glenn passes in the end zone.

"I just stayed back and played defensively like I do in centerfield," said Riggs.

"Riggs is real important -- he's doing a good job on both sides -- he's really the only kid we have that goes both ways," Khoenle said.

"He plays the whole game and is one of the best all around athletes we have," Khoenle added.

The Rockets scored again with less than two minutes in the game and made the two point conversion to make the score 22-16 Canton. John Glenn then attempted an on side kick with 1:22 in the game and the officials appeared to give the ball back to them, but after a conference it was ruled that the ball did not travel 10 yards and Canton got the ball back and ran out the time.

and we have to stop that."

Catholic Central (8-2) is playing well as a team, according to Mach, controlling the ball on offense and keeping their defense off the field.

"Against Ypsilanti, we did well in all phases of the game -- we controlled the game and our kicking game was real good. It was a great performance," he added.

"We don't know much about Canton but it's anyone's ballgame at this point," said Mach who coaches seven players from The Plymouth-Canton Community. According to Mach:

- Senior John Brand starts at defensive back and is a very steady player. He intercepted a pass and ran it back 40 yards for a touchdown against Brother Rice.

- Senior Eric Wiklendt plays steady at the center position and is a fine blocker.

- Junior Dan Kelly does a good job at noseguard and on defense.

- Junior Kerry Zavagnin handles all the kicking, has developed into a fine kicker this year and is very valuable to the team.

- Senior Rob Sylvester has a 3.8 grade point average, and was selected to the All Catholic team this year. He has done a fine job for the Shamrocks as both an offensive guard and a defensive tackle, and is one of the top linemen around.

- Junior Matt Roney has done a tremendous job the past two games after working his way into the starting lineup. He made two interceptions at key times against DePorres in the Prep Bowl.

- Senior Mitch MacDonald has done a good job at wide receiver all year long.

Huntington Falls PUD plans face approval

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

The 926 acre Huntington Falls development begins its way through the Northville Township planning process tomorrow night.

Initial plans for the Planned Unit Development (PUD) were submitted late last week to the township by R. A. DeMattia Company, managing general partner of the group which bought the former Wayne County boys' training school and child development center.

Sale of the site to the developers was contingent upon approval by the township within seven months.

The initial PUD does not list exact number of home sites, office sites, multiple and attached family residential units or industrial sites, but does list total acreage in those categories. (Zoning and density maximums are set by ordinance by zoning categories.)

Almost one third -- 30.3 per cent -- of the property will be devoted to open space and recreation including an 18-hole golf course and club house and an equestrian area, according to the plan submitted.

The plans set out 29.5 per cent (273.2 acres) for non-residential (industrial, office, shopping, research and development) uses and 40.2 per cent (372.3 acres) for residential.

If the township board approves the initial filing tomorrow night, the Huntington Falls PUD will start through the planning commission process, said Georgina Goss, Northville Township supervisor.

"We're going to take a look at the overall concept and whether or not it fits within the PUD ordinance," said Goss.

"It's going to take cooperation between the board, the planning commission and the developer," she added.

If approval is granted, actual construction of the project could begin next year with the golf course being the first area of work, said Gary D. Roberts, vice president of the DeMattia Company in Plymouth Township.

After that, "development will all follow the infrastructure," Roberts said. That could mean that some of the light industry-research and development and office uses would be first built and occupied.

Business shorts

Former City of Plymouth resident Erich J. Miller, 26, has begun work with Toyota Motor Sales based in California.

Completing a nine-month technical service training program, Miller served as district service manager of the New York region for Toyota. Miller began his California assignment for the carmaker earlier this year.

Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit recently announced promotions for two members of The Plymouth-Canton Community.

Scott K. Boothroyd, of Plymouth, was promoted to investment officer. He will be in charge of capital markets-fixed income.

Pamela Davis, of Canton, was promoted to accounting officer. She will be in charge of controllers.

Unisys layoffs uncertain in Twp.

BY PHILIP TARDANI

It remains unclear how announced layoffs of 5,000 workers at Unisys Corporation will affect employment at its Plymouth Township plant, according to a company spokesperson.

Peter Hynes, at the Unisys headquarters in Blue Bell, PA, said the company should have more information on the subject later this month.

"At this time we have no specifics on how that number will break down," he said. "It's not an across-the-board cut."

The plant at 41100 Plymouth Rd. employs about

1,500 hourly and management workers, Hynes said.

The former Burroughs plant manufactures check sorters for the banking industry, according to spokesperson Joan Morrison.

Unisys announced the layoffs two weeks ago after the company reported it lost $356 million in the third quarter of 1990.

Besides the Plymouth Township plant and headquarters in Pennsylvania, Unisys has several other divisions in Detroit.

An audit of Graper's expenses has been conducted by the State Treasurer and is now on the desk of the Attorney General who has called in the State Police for further investigation. That audit is separate from the regular annual review from the city's auditors.

The latest annual audit will be discussed at the next City Commission meeting. State law requires the city to file its plan to deal with its deficit.

"scholarship" form for families that do not have any direct insurance coverage.

According to Peter Wedesky, outreach coordinator at Growth Works, money is available for many families, but it is not based on income or whether or not the family is indigent.

"The nice thing about it is that a family can make $38,000, for example, and get 55 per cent of the treatment cost covered," Wedesky said. "Getting substance abuse help can be very expensive."

This is the second year for Growth Works' Adolescent Day Treatment Program, Wedesky said, but the local agency has been involved in after-care programs since 1984.

"We're trying to fill a need through this," he said. "I believe it serves the community quite well. We've got a quality program and we're serving a lot of folks in our community."

"The payoff is unfortunately not real quick," he continued. "But the benefits are tremendous."

The day treatment program features intensive out-patient chemical dependency treatment for youths ages 12-18 over a six week period, eight hours daily. Treatment includes group therapy, individual therapy, lecture and discussion, school support and commitment groups.

There is also a parent "component" to the program that includes five weeks of direct parental participation as well as the use of home contracts.

Once the day program is complete Growth Works also offers an aftercare program, which usually involves patients in a year-long treatment follow-up effort.

Wedesky said some 56 per cent of the youths who go through the program "do well during their first year of recovery."

Based on that, he said, "we feel it is a successful effort."

Vets day celebration

The laying of a wreath at the Plymouth Rock and Vietnam-Korea veterans' memorials Sunday highlights memorial services in honor of Veteran's Day this year.

Both the members of the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble VFW Post 6695 (and auxiliary), and the Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans of America, will be on hand for the service in the City of Plymouth's Kellogg Park. Also, expected to participate is the American Legion.

Scheduled for 11 a.m., the ceremony features the wreath laying, a color guard, and honorary firing squad. The event will continue even in bad weather.

The public is invited. Following the service, which is expected to last about 30 minutes, a brunch will be held at the Elks Club for all participants.
