Crash kills local woman

BY JIM TOTTEN

A 63-year old Canton woman died Monday after her car was struck by a pick-up truck on Joy Road, east of I-275, in Plymouth Township.

Jenevieve Szewczul was transported to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia after the accident and pronounced dead upon arrival, said Sergeant Robert Antal, of Plymouth Township Police, Tuesday.

Antal said the medical report determined she "died from multiple injuries sustained in the accident." Szewczul was wearing her safety belt, he added.

According to Plymouth Township Police Sergeant Robert Smith, Szewczul was exiting Holly Drive onto Joy Road at 4:53 p.m. when the eastbound pick-up truck struck her car on the driver's side. The 32-year old Westland man driving the truck was not injured, Smith said. There were no passengers in either vehicle.

The accident is under investigation by township police, Smith said, but added no charges have been filed.

"I don't believe drinking was involved," he said. "Preliminary examination does not indicate any excessive speed on the part of the driver of the pick-up," Antal said.

The accident was in the township "by a matter of inches," Smith said, since Joy Road is the border between Canton and the township.

Planners debate library location

BY JIM TOTTEN

The City of Plymouth Planning Commissioners were given a preview of several proposals for a new, expanded Dunning-Hough Library during their Wednesday meeting.

Mark McPherson, an architect involved in the proposed project, presented the planning commissioners with different concepts that had been discussed by the library board.

"We're looking at what is the best location," said Carol Davis, president of the library board, during the meeting.

The board is currently reviewing several concepts proposed in the library expansion feasibility study conducted by Farmington architectural firm Merritt McCallum and Cieslak.

Several options have been ruled out by the board due to financial costs and the disruption it would cause to surrounding homes. Several or all of the homes on Union Street south of Church Street have been proposed to be leveled

Canton fire chief retiring

BY KEN VOYLES

Long time Canton Fire Chief Mel Paulun has applied for a medical retirement and is awaiting formal word that he can leave a township government he has been a part of for 28 years.

Paulun, 59, was hired in 1963 and has been a fixture in the township ever since. He was in fact the first township employee, wearing a variety of hats besides being with the fire department.

"It's pretty sure," said Paulun, of the approval he expects shortly from Canton's personnel department. "I've got to start taking care of my health. The doctor made the decision for me."

Geer program set to fly

BY STEVE O'LEARY

In 1829, a one-room schoolhouse, which came to be known as Geer School, was built in Superior Township at the corner of Plymouth and Godfredson roads.

In 1982, the school was closed down by the Plymouth Canton Community Schools Board of Education. There had been numerous attempts through the years to close down the antiquated school, but parental and community support had kept it open.

For example, the board voted to close the school down during the 1969-70 school year, but when petitions with 90 signatures of people wanting the school to stay open, arrived, the board relented.

Now, possibly within the next few weeks, Geer will once again open its doors as a district school.

But a most unusual one... Each of the district's 1,094 fourth grade students will have a chance to attend the rebuilt one-room schoolhouse as part of their social studies class.

Schools serve up balanced meals

Hoben Elementary shows off new healthy menu

BY STEVE O'LEARY

A little more broccoli with that hamburger, please?

Parents may not believe it, but those might be the words of students as the district's new high-tech menu, which features low fat and less sodium, takes the place of nachos and cheese in the kid's diets.

At a lunch today at Hoben Elementary, students will be joined by administrators and a spokesperson (eatsperson?) from U.S. Congressman Carl Purcell's office for a meal of either a low-fat hamburger deluxe or turkey on a whole wheat bun, corn, grapes and milk.

The lunch is in celebration of National School Lunch Week, and will show administrators what a typical lunch is like at elementary schools in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools District. The healthy menu was piloted, thanks to a grant of nearly $7,000 from the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

The grant allowed the district to purchase a special computer and program, which analyzes each food for the amount of fat and sodium, teaching materials for students and instructors, and paid for a variety of different "test foods" last May at two schools, Hoben and East Middle School.

According to Sherri Chamberlain, the district's assistant food services director, while the grant money has run out, the knowledge has stayed on.

"We learned a lot, and we now -- with the help of the computer program -- are able to serve a balanced meal to our elementary students that comes in at about 30 per cent fat per calorie total and has less than 1,000 mg. of sodium per meal," Chamberlain said.

First PO offer made DDA debuts newsletter to inform merchants

BY JIM TOTTEN

The first edition of the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority (DDA) newsletter is hot off the presses.

The DDA newsletter came out Monday, and is an effort to inform downtown business owners and residents about what is happening in the DDA district.

With the streetscape surveying work in its first stage, Steve Walters, city manager and director of the DDA, said the newsletter will "educate merchants about things that are happening downtown and that they are seeing." He added another purpose of the newsletter is to keep the general public abreast of DDA activities.

DDA members approved the idea of putting out a newsletter at a September meeting. The newsletter, suggested by DDA member Dave Pugh, had been discussed previously. The newsletter will be issued once a month.

The newsletter is available at Plymouth City Hall and the Chamber of Commerce. Residents may also call the city and place their names on a mailing list being compiled.

A DDA project currently underway is the planned purchase of the downtown post office property.

Walters will be acting as the chief negotiator for the DDA with U.S. Postal Service officials.

The first written offer from the DDA, he said Monday, has been sent to U.S. Postal Service officials in Chicago. Along with a financial offer, guidelines for occupancy terms and clarification of items that will be taken out of the building were also included in the letter.

He said the purchase deal is in the "negotiation phase" and will be a "back and forth process."

Walters said one item postal officials want taken out is the secret passageway and one-way glass panels that U.S. Postal Inspectors use for spying. The passageway is raised about seven feet off the floor and encircles the main receiving room.

The one-way glass panels allowed the inspectors to observe workers without being seen. The inspector enters the passageway from outside the building so none of the employees know when they are being watched.

The spying passageway, Walters said, is standard for postal buildings, adding the new Beck Road building is also equipped in the same fashion.

Lee Harrison, chairperson of the DDA, said Monday that the marketing firm Hyatt-Palma has been hired to conduct a survey of the area. The purpose of the survey is to determine what types of businesses would be best for the downtown.

Downtown residents and businesses, Harrison said, will be surveyed.

The DDA will use the information from the survey, he said, to "recruit businesses that will attract and serve customers."

"The kind of businesses that people would like in the downtown district," Harrison said, are the ones that will be recruited by the DDA.

The next Plymouth DDA meeting will be tomorrow (Oct. 17) at 7:30 p.m. at Plymouth City Hall.

P-C board approves firm

Barton Malow Co. to oversee bond

BY STEVE O'LEARY

Schools Board of Education approved hiring the Barton Malow Company as the construction management firm overseeing the 1991 bond projects at its meeting Monday.

The cost for their services is not to exceed $2.5 million, according to the motion. The contract covers 40 months.

Among other things, the firm will keep the board updated on plans and work being done, report on all management and financial aspects of the bond monies, and furnish a six month post-occupancy audit to ensure the district's satisfaction with the work.

Raymond Hoedel, associate superintendent for business and operations, told the board he had checked with other districts around the state to see if the fee was comparable to other construction management costs.

"It was like pulling teeth to get figures from some districts, but I found the cost here to be very reasonable,"

Hoedel said.

"We're very pleased to be working with you, and we have some ideas we want to look at. We want our planners to look ahead so we won't be tearing up roads five years from now," said James Giachino, vice president of Barton Malow. "We want to look at where we'll be and take that into consideration."

He was asked to provide a tentative work schedule to the board prior to the Nov. 4 workshop meeting, and he agreed, adding that he would attend the meeting to address any concerns of the board.

"This (fee) is based on 40 months," Giachino stated in a letter to Hoedel. "Beyond 40 months, personnel costs will be based on hourly rates plus payroll taxes and fringe benefits."

Giachino told the board he was certain the projects would be completed within the 40-month timetable.

The board also approved the hiring of six architectural firms to work on the 440 projects at 26 locations addressed in the bond.

"Rather than just use one architectural firm, as is often done, we thought it best to do it this way because of the scope of the projects," Hoedel said. "We interviewed 16 firms and chose those we felt best suited our needs. We played to the strengths of each firm."

Costs for the architectural firms came in at a total of $5,676,094, which is over $2 million less than was budgeted for.

The money saved will go towards the approximate $6 million cost of the bond projects over and above the bond amount passed by voters. The rest of the money is expected to come from interest on the bonds, Hoedel said.

Mettetal debate possible

Canton, Twp., approve different airport JOAs

BY KEN VOYLES
AND JIM TOTTEN

Two different joint operating agreements (JOA) were approved by Canton and Plymouth townships last Tuesday for the acquiring and operating of Mettetal Airport.

While the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved the document as written, Canton's Board of Trustees made one key change that could become the subject of further debate when the two communities seek a federal grant for acquiring the airport.

The JOA agreements supersede a memorandum of understanding put together by the townships in August and allows the communities to proceed with negotiations for the FAA grant.

Canton's board struck a sentence from the agreement that read, "Any surplus funds remaining shall be equally divided between the parties hereto." The line refers to the sale of the airport at the end of the 20-year JOA.

Canton board members, especially Bob Shefferly, said that any possible surplus funds generated by the sale (after the communities return the grant money) should be divided so that Canton obtains the larger percentage.

"I don't think that should be equal," Shefferly said. "I can't see giving them any special deals."

Shefferly suggested the township negotiate with Plymouth Township so that Canton will receive 75 per cent of any excess funds following a possible sale. He said the townships can amend the agreement during future talks.

Tom Yack, Canton supervisor, said the JOA allows the township to proceed on discussions with the FAA, but added that the JOA does not answer all of the questions. Both communities will still have to come to agreement over the grant application when it is ready to be submitted to the FAA.

Canton officials expect the grant application to be prepared sometime over the next month.

"We're ready and I think Plymouth is," said Canton Clerk Loren Bennett.

Yack said he expected work on the grant to begin this week.

"It's the exact same agreement word for word," said Township Supervisor Gerald Law last Tuesday before Canton made changes to the agreement on Wednesday.

Under the agreement, the two townships will make a joint attempt to receive state and federal funds for the purchase of Mettetal. It also set up a four member Mettetal Airport Board, with two members from each township, to govern the airport. The positions will be filled by appointment.

The board can lease space, approve improvements or grant concessions on or at the airport for aeronautical purposes. The board may not, however, acquire, sell or lease real property or modify or expand the existing facility without the approval of both townships.

The agreement also creates a Joint Airport Zoning Board of five members, but legal advisors for Canton said the zoning board is a formality and will unlikely ever meet. Its power is limited under the Mettetal Airport Board.

Ronald Witthoff, attorney for Plymouth Township, said the zoning board would "provide regulation of areas that contain an airport hazard." If a resident wanted to build a structure that might interfere with airport safety, he said the zoning board would have power to rule against the development.

The agreement also creates a joint fund but does not allow general fund expenditures by either township. The airport will operate on user paid revenues or other revenues generated by the airport.

The agreement will initially remain in force for 10 years. After that Canton shall have the only option to terminate the agreement during the next 10 years. After those 20 years, the agreement may be terminated by either township.

14 seeking SC board vacancy

Three former board candidates lead the list of 14 people seeking to fill a vacancy on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

The three candidates ran for a previous board vacancy during the June elections. They are Bruce Patterson, Ronaele Bowman and Patricia Watson.

Patterson, a Canton resident, finished second behind Steve Ragan for a four-year seat on the board, while Bowman, of Livonia, was third and Watson, of Northville, was fourth.

The other 11 applications seeking to fill the seat left when Wendell Smith resigned last month include: Jane Smiley, Ves Spindler, Arthur Rockall and Kevin O'Brien, all of Northville; Mark Wira and Peter Bec, of Plymouth Township; Daniel Dalton and Elizabeth Johnson, of the City of Plymouth; Linda Carnahan, of Garden City; Arthur Hamparian, of Livonia; and Ray Byers, of Novi.

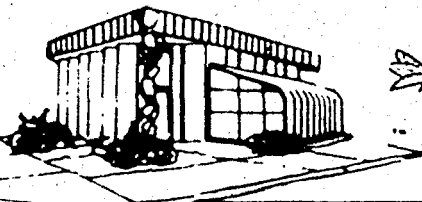

The Schoolcraft trustees will interview the 14 candidates for the slot over two days, Oct. 21-22. A new trustee is likely to be selected at the Oct. 23 meeting and sworn in at the November meeting.

Patterson is an attorney and a member of the Canton and Plymouth chambers of commerce. He has also been on the Canton Merit Commission.

Wira is a financial consultant with an Ann Arbor firm and Bec is an attorney.

Dalton is a law clerk and a member of the Plymouth Zoning Board of Appeals. Johnson is an attorney with a Plymouth-based firm.

The City of Plymouth Commissioners have a duty to give what's left of $205,000 from the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority (MMRMA) settlement directly back to the taxpayers.

Essentially, it is the taxpayers' money.

When the city did not have money to pay the Ed Talbot settlement, about $157,000, back in 1989, a special assessment (called a judgment tax) was issued against taxpayers in the city. Residents and businesses alike paid an additional .8 mill to raise the money and pay off the settlement.

For a resident who owns a $100,000 home, the additional tax worked out to $40.

At the time, the city did not have many options. The money needed to be paid by a certain deadline, and the city did not have the funds to cover the expense.

Under state law, the city can levy a judgment tax to pay for such non-budgeted expenses.

But newly-elected City Commissioners John Vos and Jerry Vorva did not think the city's insurance carrier, MMRMA, fulfilled its duties. By failing to notify the city that it was not covered under the Talbot suit, the commissioners felt the insurance company had breached its contract.

Vos, who pushed for the lawsuit when most felt it was a wasted effort, and Vorva who supported the effort, were looking out for the city when they took MMRMA to court for not properly notifying the city when it was not covered.

Now, a couple years later, the city won its lawsuit against MMRMA in an out-of-court settlement for $205,000. Of course, the final amount will be less after legal fees.

Regardless, whatever remains should be returned to the taxpayers. Even if the city is not legally bound to do so, the path is clear for city commissioners -- who neglected to pledge the return last week.

With the city in the midst of its new budget projection process at the department head level, it would be a crime to see the settlement mushed into a new line item for computers in the city manager's office.

Give the money back!

Meetings: The importance of being there

"I try and go to every meeting. I feel it's important to see what's going on. Besides, this is better than anything on television, in my opinion."

Those were the words of Jack Farrow following Monday's meeting of the Plymouth Canton Community Schools Board of Education. He was the only resident to sit through the entire meeting that didn't have something to say to the board or representing one of the architectural firms the board hired to work on bond projects.

"I think there were a few other 'just residents' here, but they left early," he said.

He added that it's a shame that more people don't take the actions of the board more to heart, after all, they control the education of the children in the community.

I agree.

While it may be true, as some have said, that the people in the community know the board and administrators do a good job, any public body still bears watching.

The public showed a great trust in the district when it passed the recent bond package so overwhelmingly, but for residents to think that their job is done would be a great mistake.

They need to know you're watching.

Being new to the community and having only attended two board meetings, I was shocked at the low turnout among the audience. When only one member of the public feels it's worthwhile to sit through a two-hour meeting where the fate of the children's education will be decided, something is wrong.

The district I formerly covered --

Never leave prints

By Steve O'Leary

Dearborn -- had 40 or so residents at every meeting. People vied for the better seats so they could hear every word, and for 10 or so residents to address the board on an issue was the norm.

Farrow said that it's a shame that the only time the public shows up at meeting is when something affects them personally or when something highly controversial is going on. "What the people fail to realize is that every decision the board makes does affect them," he said, and he's right.

By not showing up at board meetings residents -- and parents in particular -- are showing an apathetic attitude toward the education of their children. It's easier to vote for a bond issue and then to forget about it than it is to attend board meetings on a regular basis.

I'm not saying that the board or administrators are going to try and pull the wool over your eyes, but no body should go unchecked by the public. And maybe you can offer the board some insight on matters from your point of view.

There is a workshop Monday at 7:30 and a regular meeting at the same time on Oct. 28. Both will be held upstairs at the administration building at Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey in downtown Plymouth. I hope to see more of you there next time.

Community Opinions

Bond group says thanks

EDITOR:

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all the citizens of the community for the total effort involved in the recent Plymouth-Canton Community Schools bond election.

The passage of the issue by 3,930 votes in favor, versus 1,461 votes against, reflects the strong support that every precinct gave to this proposal.

This vote of confidence for our community translates into new buildings, additional rooms, updating facilities and technology to match the needs of the year 2010. When districts throughout the state were saying "no," our community was responding with an overwhelming show of positive support.

It was an extreme pleasure to work with a diversified group of citizens, including staff personnel, in this effort. This represented team work, from young parents with their first child in pre-school to the seniors who worked and supported the campaign.

On behalf of the Citizens Election Committee, we thank you for this magnificent affirmation to the educational process in our community. The community is now prepared to "build the future together."

Again, thank you for your efforts and support.

Plan flawed, P-C leaders say

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has been making a lot of waves in The Plymouth-Canton Community with a report it recently released.

The report, called the Regional Development Initiative (RDI), addresses the issue of "urban sprawl" and how communities in the Detroit metropolitan area should combat the trend.

Tom Yack, Canton supervisor, and Gerald Law, Plymouth Township supervisor, are opposed to RDI because tax money would be taken from their communities and given to poorer communities. Taking home rule away will not be tolerated by local officials.

Plymouth Township Trustee Abe Munfakh wrote a letter to SEMCOG denouncing the report's conclusions.

"The contention that racial discrimination is the cause of this problem is presumptuous and incorrect," he wrote.

He also wrote, "I foresee mass exodus by many communities from membership in SEMCOG. I further foresee this report to be equivalent to a poison pill that could start the demise of SEMCOG."

But although SEMCOG's recommendations for change might find little support in the Detroit suburbs, something should, and must be done to prevent Detroit from collapsing completely, and turning into a waste land. And it definitely is spiraling downwards to such a devastated level.

Folks can argue for hours about why conditions are so bad in Detroit. And so much better in places like Plymouth

horse's mouth

By Jim Totten

Township, Canton and other surrounding areas.

Racial discrimination cannot be ignored. The initial reason many whites left Detroit is because they simply did not want to live near blacks. They could afford to go elsewhere.

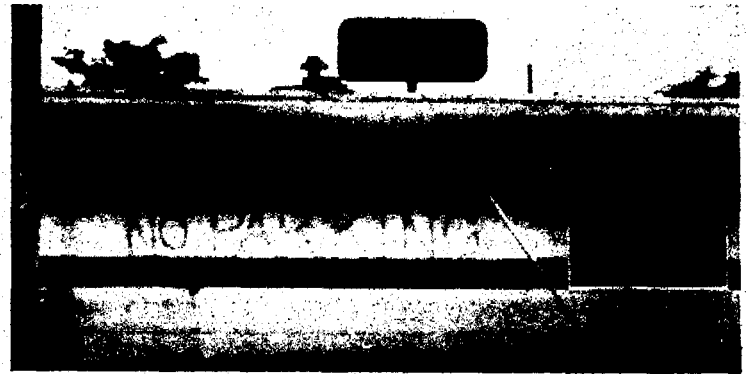

Now, I think many would want to leave Detroit because it is dangerous. Crime has become so rampant that innocent folks are often caught in the middle, resulting in death or serious injury.

On the other hand, poor leadership in Detroit must also take the much of the blame. Poor management and blatant misuse of government money has happened too often in Detroit.

But the longer the crime and poor conditions are left to spoil Detroit, the more difficult it will be to turn the situation around when it begins to spread to surrounding communities.

And believe me, it will spread to places such as Canton and Plymouth Township.

Giving money may not be the answer, but pounding out some plans to improve these conditions needs to begin. And communities such as ours could and should lead the way.

Vandals just cowards

EDITOR:

In July of 1983, we opened Quicksilver Photo. At the time we took a vacant building, which was an eyesore, and turned it into a viable community service business.

We are an active supporter of many community and school groups.

Since July of 1990, we have been plagued by senseless vandalism.

Every two to three weeks we have a new hole shot in one of our windows. The windows have been replaced but are almost immediately shot out again. We currently have 16 holes in our windows and equally as many in our awning. Our drop box has been ripped from the back of the building, and over 300 hours of surveillance have been logged at the building.

This past Friday night a new twist has been added. A "No Parking" sign was painted on the side of the building and trash was dumped on the side street. We can only conclude that this current senseless act was committed by someone in the immediate area who thinks that the way to change local ordinances is by criminal acts. Neither this person nor our staff is responsible for parking regulations.

We have been a supporter of the community and an employer of six local young men and women. We do not deserve the cowardly attacks on our place of business. It seems that the local community deserves the eyesore that it is creating. If you prefer vacant buildings you are well on your way. If anyone is willing to step forward, both the Plymouth Township police and our staff would be very appreciative. We can be contacted at Quicksilver Photo, 1313 Ann Arbor Road, or phoned at 455-3686.

With malice toward none

Pretty soon there'll be one less lawyer in town.

For those of you who share my general belief that a great deal of unnecessary mischief is created because there are too many lawyers, this might come as good news.

Or, as the blues singer Robert Cray said,

"Buy me a new car, fill up the tank, tell me a boatload of lawyers just sank..."

But, it's not that simple.

Lawyers might be easy targets to pick on for humorous columnists and songwriters, but, as the Ghost Busters said,

"Who you gonna' call?"

There are lawyers and then there are lawyers.

And one, sadly, is leaving town.

Michael Pollard is joining the east of L.A. Law. (Well, actually, he's just going to join a law firm out there.)

Mike was a professional here who paid his dues. He was president of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce and of the Fall Festival -- two jobs that most intelligent folks approach with the "Dirty job, but..." attitude if they approach them at all.

He represents the Plymouth-Canton School Board, the Community Federal Credit Union, and a number of businesses (including this newspaper's parent publishing corporation).

Not only was his style of law such that he resolved problems quietly, but his general demeanor was a low key "don't take myself too seriously" approach.

This style contrasts with many other lawyers.

Mike's community service makes him stand tall.

Many professionals would do well to emulate his dedication and sense of community-family. (Mike's leaving to hopefully spend more family-time with his daughter and his wife -- an always-on-the-go executive with an airline.)

This is one lawyer who'll be missed.

Satellite program makes learning fun

Lowell students are talking on-air

BY STEVE O'LEARY

The students in Kathy Jenaras' seventh-grade math class at Lowell Middle School were having more fun than students should be allowed to have. Especially in math.

But, thanks in large part to a satellite hook-up and a two-way communication setup with a Flint classroom, kids have discovered that math can be enjoyable.

"This is my favorite class. It's great!" exclaimed 12-year-old Plymouth-Canton Community Schools student Amber LaGrow. She had just gotten "off-line," where she was answering a question about multiples of the numbers three and four.

With students in classrooms in four states listening to her, she was understandably nervous as she responded to a question from Flint middle school teacher Liz Smith, but Amber answered correctly, despite fellow students hollering out other responses for her, many of them incorrect.

Carissa Yeager had fallen victim to that only minutes before, but she quickly looked at her own computations and gave the correct answer.

"It's a lot of fun to talk on the phone, but it gets confusing sometimes, especially when everybody is yelling out different answers," she said.

When a student is done answering, it's up to Jenaras to choose who to give the phone to next, as nearly everyone raises their hands and says "Me! Me!"

"I'm going to have to get a hat to draw names from to be fair," she laughed. "Most of the kids love to talk on the phone, but a few of them are still kind of shy about it."

As if to prove her point, she asks one youngster if he'd like to be next, but he declined.

"He'll get over it after he talks on-line a few times," Jenaras said. "Quite a few of the kids were afraid at first, but once they do it, they overcome that fear, the shyness."

Jeff Opalinski is one of those students who has yet to talk over the air. He was game Thursday, but the opportunity never arose.

"I like the class a lot, especially the television part of it," he said.

As Erich Meixner is on hold, he hears Smith say onscreen "We'll go to Plymouth next," and the excitement -- and tension -- builds.

The tension is due to the fact that after the student answers a question they already have figured out the answer to, Smith is likely to throw another question at them.

"I like to talk on the phone, I like the challenge of it," Meixner said. I don't get nervous about it -- well, not really, anyway," he said with a laugh. "I like math anyway, and the television part of the class makes it even better."

"I think this is a highly-motivational tool for the kids. It makes them feel special that they're part of a unique program like this," Jenaras said.

Currently, Lowell is the only school in the district able to use the program, which requires a special satellite dish which is located on the roof.

The programs air for one-half hour periods, four days a week. The remainder of the 55-minute classes are used up completing assignments or experiments started on the show.

Lowell seventh-grader Amber LaGrow anxiously awaits her turn to interact with other math students via the district's pilot satellite program. "This is my favorite class," she said. (Crier photo by Steve O'Leary)

Jenaras and science teacher Stephen Roth are the two teachers whose classes are involved in the program currently.

Shows are taped to show other classes, but they naturally can't interact with other students.

Judy Suszko, an eighth-grade teacher at Lowell who doesn't use the program but was instrumental in setting it up, said it's being looked at as a pilot program and may be expanded in the future.

"Right now, we only use it for one science and one math class. And it's still so new that we haven't gotten that much feedback yet, but what we have gotten has been extremely positive," Suszko said. "The teachers said the students are extremely enthusiastic, which is just what we had hoped for."

According to Suszko, seventh-grade math and science were two primary target areas the district felt needed a boost.

"They wanted to increase interest in those subject areas, and the hope is that a program like this will be the key," she said. "The kids don't just sit down with a book, they get the chance to interact with other students and a 'master teacher.' They do experiments, play games, things like that. It helps their attitude and increases their interest when they work like this."

Suszko donated much of her summer setting up the program, but feels it was worth it.

"When you see kids enjoying themselves in science and math, you can feel like you're witnessing a miracle!" she exclaimed with a laugh. "And learning more as well."

When the bell rings in Jenaras' class, she says "Remember, test tomorrow!" loudly to the kids quickly gathering up their books for their trek to the next class.

Technology may be on the move, but some things never change.

CEP band takes 2nd place

The Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band finished second in the Bands of America Mid-East Regional Championship held Saturday at the University of Toledo.

The CEP marchers, the defending regional champions, tallied a score of 90.5 but were edged out by the Lake Park High School Marching Band from Roselle, IL, which had a score of 91.15.

There were 27 bands from five states at the regionals.

The CEP band was awarded the highest achievement award in the finals for best general effects and an outstanding auxiliary award for the color guard's performance.

This Saturday (Oct. 19) the CEP Marching Band will travel to the west side of the state for the Jenison Invitational.

Then on Oct. 26, the marchers defend their Michigan state title when CEP plays host to the state championships.

The band season concludes when the marchers try to defend their national title at the Bands of America National Championships Nov. 15-16 in the Indianapolis Hoosier Dome.

Foundation seeks funds for services

The Canton Community Foundation will be taking to the streets this Saturday (Oct. 19) in an effort to generate more funds for human service programming in the township.

The foundation will distribute a brochure outlining the group's various activities. A pledge card with the brochure offers residents a chance to designate money for one of five program areas -- arts, human services, scholarships, local organization or community service.

"We will use 100 per cent of the money raised from this campaign for the area designated," said Rev. Bill Myers, president of the Canton Foundation. "It is our hope to raise levels of conscience regarding the programs of the foundation, specifically as it relates to our support of human service needs."

Residents who want to help distribute the information door to door Saturday should plan on meeting at the Ford Road Elias Brothers at 10 a.m. for a free breakfast provided by foundation board member Mitch Howard, owner of the Big Boy.

For further information about the drive or the foundation call 454-5427.

Time to give some thought to winter safety

BY JIM TOTTEN

The snow, biting cold temperatures and salt will soon be here, submitting automobiles to several months of rough use. Sometimes this leads to an automobile's breakdown, and a telephone call to the local mechanic.

But owners can take extra steps during the winter to keep their automobile running steady and strong.

In the cold temperatures, it is important to have plenty of gasoline in the tank.

"It's vital to keep the gas tank at least half full at all times during the winter months," said Gerald Gutowski, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service Manager. "When the tank is less than half full, condensation can occur and possibly result in a fuel line freeze and costly repairs."

One problem that can be avoided with a few preventive steps is battery trouble.

"While battery trouble is the most common culprit in winter," Gutowski said, "it is also among the easiest problems to prevent."

He said battery cables should be replaced if frayed and loose ones should be tightened.

Also, a stiff brush and a solution of baking soda and water can be used to clean corrosion from battery posts and clamps. A light coating of petroleum jelly smeared over the battery posts and connections will prevent corrosion from returning.

Owners should also check for cracks or bulges in the battery case and for loose terminal parts.

With the large amount of salt used on the roads, washing an automobile to prevent body corrosion should be done regularly.

John Morano, president of Colonial Collision and Reconditioning Inc., in Plymouth, said a fresh coat of wax should be applied just before winter and during the spring.

"You can't put enough wax on a car," Morano said. Fluids should also be checked regularly during the year, especially during the winter.

"All the fluid levels should be checked once a month," he said. Anti-freeze should be checked for automobile protection, and if discolored or rusted, Morano recommended flushing out the radiator.

The transmission fluid, brake fluid and power steering fluid should also be checked for proper levels.

He also recommended changing the oil just before winter to insure easier starting during the cold months.

"There are certain items that should be inspected and changed according to the manufacturer's guidelines," Morano said, which are listed in the owner's manual.

Gutowski also stressed reading the owner's manual before adding fluids to an automobile.

During the winter, tire pressure should be checked when the air is cold, and not after the vehicle has been driven a long distance.

Ken Belanger, general manager of March Tire on Main Street in Plymouth, said the proper maximum tire pressure can be found in the owner's manual.

"People should not pay attention to the maximum pressure on the side of the tire," Belanger said.

He said the best two tires should be on the front if the automobile is front-wheel drive and on the back if it is rear-wheel drive.

Checking the condition of wiper blades before winter sets in, he said, can save a lot of trouble.

He also recommended using a quality washer solvent that works for temperatures below 25 degrees.

Following these tips could save many owners from a long walk to the gas station for a tow-truck.

Cleaning away that grit and those automobile blues

BY CHERYL VATCHER

Car Blues? Does your car's interior and exterior need a total cleaning? If so, Dyna Car Auto Cleaning may be the best answer.

"We have a deluxe package that will clean the exterior, and interior of your car," said Fred Groth, owner.

"This includes on the outside, your car being washed by hand, as well as waxed, and then it is towel dried," said Duane Pittman, Groth's partner.

"On the interior, you can have steam cleaning of your floors and upholstery. We use an industrial steam cleaning machine that sucks up liquids out of the upholstery. We are not just vacuuming it," said Pittman.

"Another part is that we clean the dashboard, door area, console, and doorjams, as well as floor mats," Pittman said. "For the interior and exterior deluxe package we charge $59.95."

The concept of Dyna Car came about as an idea between both Groth and Pittman -- they wanted a car cleaning center that would be beneficial to the customer.

"A lot of individuals don't want to get a general cleaning of their car because of the cost which is about $100 elsewhere. But we've let people know that they can get a total package without steam cleaning here but for $25," Groth said.

"With an auto detailing shop, they do a good job, and are very thorough, but they can be inflexible. They would like you to purchase a total detail package," he said.

The Canton auto cleaning center covers 4,800 square feet, which gives plenty of room for up to 10 cars.

"Some customers don't have the time to wait for their car to be worked on," Pittman said. "We tell the customer to give us a call and for a nominal charge we have pick up and delivery service. We would like at least a few hours notice or one day's notice is better. It seems that a lot of business people do use our pick up and deliver service more."

Customers often feel comfortable with the overnight service.

"When a customer drops off a car overnight, it is left on the inside, instead of left out in a parking lot. Allied, located down the road, utilizes our overnight services. They leave their 13 foot cabs with us. I don't know of any other place that does this," Groth said.

"People will come in and say that they want to sell their car. And after we have totally cleaned their car, they sometimes change their mind about selling it," Pittman said.

The Dyna folks also offer some helpful tips to maintain a car between visits.

"If you get our deluxe handwash, don't go to a mechanical car wash afterwards. If you are to wash it, hand wash it. And if you have it hand waxed by us, you need to hand wax it too, so that the finish is maintained. And when you wash your car, you can purchase the car wash solution at Murray's," Pittman said.

Calling all car phone owners

BY STEVE O'LEARY

Car telephones have made a quite a dent in the American automobile industry over the past few years, according to Kelly Littrell, manager of Car Fone, which opened its doors at 620 Ann Arbor Rd. in July.

And while the majority of buyers are still businesspersons looking to turn their auto into a mobile office of sorts, there has been a major upsurge in the amount of families purchasing mobile telephones to keep in touch with one another, and to make sure they can get help in the case of an emergency.

"Just the other day I had one woman buy a hand-held model, because she works in Detroit and has to walk to her car at night. The telephone makes her feel safer, because she can quickly dial the police if she sees something out of the ordinary," Littrell said.

According to Littrell, the mobile phones offer "security on the road -- especially in case of a breakdown."

A lot of families purchase a portable car phone that can be taken in any of the family cars rather than purchase multiple phones.

"But we are also seeing more young couples buying a phone for each of them, particularly if they both work and are on the road a lot," Littrell said. "They can decide where to meet for dinner, let each other know who will pick up the kids at day care, things like that."

But the portable model that can be transferred from one car to another remains the most popular from a safety point of view, he said.

"If the family has kids and the woman -- or anyone, really -- is driving them somewhere and they break down, especially on a freeway, they can call for help without having to take the kids outside into the weather where they may have to walk for miles or where they may be in danger," Littrell said.

"If another car hits you from behind, it's safer to wait inside the vehicle for police to arrive, because there are a lot of instances where a person will hit another car with the purpose of getting them out of their car to rob them or do something worse," he said "With crime the way it is, it's better to be safe than sorry, and mobile telephones are now one of the resources that can improve that safety factor."

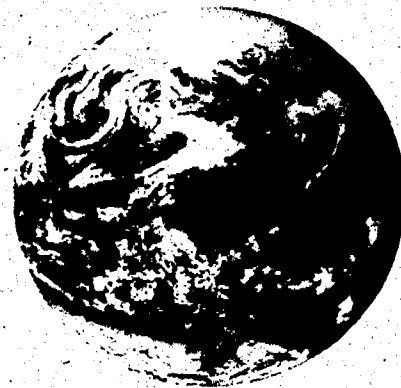

According to Littrell, families with teenagers often purchase the phones for them, so that they can call if they're going to be getting home late before worrying the family.

You'll Save More Than Just Time And Money When You Drive Into Victory Lane.

At Victory Lane, we're committed to changing your oil without changing the environment. That's why we've taken the environmental leadership role by becoming the first quick oil change shop in our industry to recycle the used oil filters from our customer's cars. The Victory Lane used oil filter recycling program is an environmentally safe process that recycles the internal and external metal components of your used oil filter into other marketable metal materials. Here's how the used oil filter recycling program works. When you drive into Victory Lane to get your oil changed, our oil technician will remove your used oil filter from your car and completely drain any excess oil remaining in the filter.

THE USED OIL FILTER RECYCLING PROGRAM

(This oil is also recycled under our existing oil recycling program.)

Your used filter is then compacted, re-smelted, and finally recycled into other metal materials such as reinforcement rod used in the highway and building construction industries. At

Victory Lane, it's our goal to change your oil without changing the environment. It's nice to know when you drive into Victory Lane to get your oil changed, you'll now be saving more than just time and money. Thanks to the used oil recycling program, together we'll be doing our part to help save the world in which we live too.

Lake flow halted Dam repairs ongoing

BY KEN VOYLES

Repair work to the Phoenix Lake dam along Northville Road could be completed in the next few weeks, according to Wayne County Parks officials.

The repairs at Phoenix are part of a parks-wide program mandated by bi-annual inspections, said Dan Navarre, deputy director of the county's parks division.

Besides tree and brush removal, the county is planning to fix up the facing of the dam, which flows from Phoenix Lake south into the Rouge River water system.

system.

"Over time the cobblestone parts of the dam have disintegrated," said Navarre. "We've started on that work and plan to get it done shortly, depending on the weather."

"It's part of the work we're doing on all the dams in the park system," he said. Work at the dam at Wilcox Pond was completed last week. Repairs to the dam sides were not necessary, Navarre said.

The work is being done following bi-annual inspections required by the state and performed by the county, he said.

For anniversary display Exhibit input sought

BY KEN VOYLES

As a part of its efforts to organize a special exhibit commemorating the 50th anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the Plymouth Historical Museum needs your help.

The museum has been circulating a questionnaire to gain as much first hand information and the remembrances of residents for the upcoming exhibit, said Beth Stewart, museum director.

"We especially want to reach those folks living in this area at the time," said Stewart. "It will help make the exhibit all that much better."

The questionnaire is available at the museum or by calling 455-8940.

It includes questions about any memorabilia residents might have for the exhibit, what kind of "home front" work people may have done, what family members served with the armed forces and in which branches, and what the home front was like in Plymouth in 1941.

Stewart hopes to receive responses by the first week in November.

The exhibit opens on Saturday, Dec. 7, and is part of a special 1940s weekend that includes a showing of the movie "Rosie the Riveter" and a special presentation on "war era" music by Dr. Weldon Petz.

Admission to the museum will be free all weekend.

"We really want the exhibit to focus on an era and the changes that came about by this one dramatic event," said Stewart.

The exhibit will feature "tribute" displays for each branch of the armed forces on the lower level of the museum, while displays upstairs center on the home front.

There will be uniforms, letters, photographs, military equipment, 1940s clothing, a 1940 Coke machine, possibly a Norden bombsight (made in Plymouth during the war), Life magazines, kids toys made out of non-rationed materials and even a U.S. Army Jeep.

Stewart said residents living in the community at the time will also be asked to videotape their remembrances of the era for the museum archives.

"We also want folks to remember that we are commemorating an event, not celebrating Pearl Harbor or the war," Stewart said.

Prior to the exhibit opening, on Friday, Nov. 22, a gala USO-style show is planned as a museum fundraiser at the Mayflower Hotel. There will be plenty of music, dancing and skits with local residents taking part.

Seniors to host City candidates

The Current Issues Group of the Plymouth Senior Citizens are hosting an afternoon forum to introduce the seven candidates running in the Nov. 5 Plymouth City Commission election.

The meeting will give seniors a chance to hold an informal discussion with a chances to ask questions of the candidates.

The event, planned for Friday, Oct. 25, is open to the public. The forum begins at 1:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

For further information call 455-6620.

Paulun

Paulun, who became fire chief in 1964, said he was told a couple weeks ago by doctors that he had medical concerns which would likely sideline him.

"I certainly hadn't planned to leave yet," he said yesterday. "I'm probably the oldest full time chief in the area."

Paulun moved to Canton in 1962 and plans to stay in the community once his retirement becomes official. He has a total of 35 years firefighting service, including several years as a volunteer.

John Santomauro, Canton public safety department director and Paulun's boss, said the retirement had not been officially resolved, though it was expected any day.

Two years ago, in July 1989, Paulun saved the life of a young child when he rushed into a burning mobile home trailer before other township fire units arrived at the College Park complex.

Grants may allow expansion District tries new healthy lunch menu

"For instance, if we serve pizza, we balance that with, say, broccoli and cauliflower," she said.

In addition, high-sodium -- and popular -- foods such as nachos, toasted cheese sandwiches and chicken pot pies are limited in their availability, and salad bars and fresh fruit cups are suggested.

In district middle schools, the menu lists the fat and sodium content of each item, allowing the students to make their own healthy choices if they so desire.

"At that age, the thing the kids really want to do is make their own decisions, and this allows them to do that," Chamberlain said. "We're mainly concerned with educating the middle school-aged children about nutrition. They're at the age when it really comes into play."

Because of the large size of the menus at the high school level, the program has not been implemented there. Future grants may allow for that, Chamberlain said.

The schools can't afford to buy any more special lowfat or low sodium items because, according to Chamberlain, "They cost quite a bit more than regular foods."

If a grant request to continue the program goes through, there will be more foods with extra-lean makeup in the cafeterias, she added.

"Given the choice, people would be surprised at how many youngsters like the healthier foods," said Cheryl Schafer, Hoben cafeteria manager. "And it's great to see kids eating and enjoying things that are good for them."

Library

to make room for the expanded library. "It is more than likely that we will not re-route Church Street," McPherson said. When reviewing the concepts, he said the goal is "to have as minimal an impact on the surrounding structures."

The concept favored, McPherson said, would require building a new library at its current location. This concept would entail moving the Baker House and demolishing four or five homes on Union Street, to allow space for adequate parking.

"This had much less impact on the neighborhood than the other concepts," McPherson said. "No final decision on any concepts" have been made, he said.

But Planning Commissioner David Schaff said the Baker House would be "very difficult to move" since it is made completely of masonry.

Little concern, however, was expressed for the Union Street houses south of Church Street.

"These homes can't hold a candle" to the Baker House or others in the city, said Jack Wilcox, owner of the Wilcox House. "I don't see any aesthetic value in any of them."

Douglas Miller, chairperson of the planning commission, said that the "historical value" of the Union Street homes should be the criteria deciding whether those homes are to be demolished.

One reason for keeping the library at its present site, Davis said, is because the property has been deeded for use as a library by the Dunning family. Other sites in the city, including the downtown post office property and the vacant Farmer Jack, have been considered for a new library site.

Pat Thomas, library director, said financing for the new library should be secured by October, 1992. Construction would then begin in 1993.

Ryan gets probation

A Plymouth Township man accused of leaving the scene of an injury accident after he struck 14-year-old Melissa Chisholm along Ford Road last year has been sentenced to probation following a plea bargain deal last week.

Joseph Ryan, 39, pleaded guilty Thursday as part of the agreement with the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office. In exchange, Ryan was sentenced to probation. Under the charge he could have been sentenced to five years in prison.

Wayne County prosecutors said that they did not have enough evidence to charge Ryan without a statement he made to Canton Police.

Ryan, a former neighbor of the Chisholms, struck Melissa on May 14, 1990 while she was trying to cross Ford Road.

District readies Geer for antiquated opening

They will use inkwells and quill pens along with chalk and slates to write with; they will use reproduction of "McGuffey's First Eclectic Reader," first copyrighted in 1879 as a text; they will sit in either reconditioned desks or new ones built in the fashion of that era, and other furniture will be the same.

During recess, there will be no modern playground equipment or sporting goods, but rather marbles, jacks, and chalk to draw hopscotch lines with on the ground.

As much as possible will be done to make everyone involved feel as if they have stepped into a time warp.

According to Smith Principal Cheryl Clason -- who will also oversee Geer -- "There are teachers just biting at the bit to get in there with their classes."

But the honor of being the first teacher in the classic school will go to Rita McClumpha, who taught at Geer for five years prior to the 1982 closing.

The Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education decided during the summer to bestow that honor on the former Geer instructor, who now teaches at Hulsing Elementary School.

Curriculum is still being discussed, as are final budgetary concerns. A meeting of the committee involved in curriculum development is yet to be rescheduled. Following a recent postponement, according to Clason.

An operations and budget meeting is scheduled for Friday.

Because of the lack of a certificate of occupancy, a definite opening date for the school is still "up in the air," according to Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent of instruction for the district.

"I hope to see it open sometime next month. I think that can be accomplished," Homes said.

The certificate of occupancy will be issued following an inspection of the building to ensure it meets code requirements by the Superior Township building department.

The inspection had not been scheduled, as of Tuesday, according to David Weil, Superior Township building inspector.

Teachers and students will be encouraged to dress in the style of the early 1900s, and most seem eager to do so, Clason said. They will go in one class at a time, for as little as one day or as many as five.

When a student raises his or her hand to "be excused," the bathroom they go to will not be of the porcelain and marble-type they are used to. It will be an outhouse.

But there will be some modern conveniences: the outhouse, while it won't have modern plumbing, will be made of modern materials and have chemicals added to help break down the waste and get rid of the smell synonymous with outhouses.

"It'll be an interesting experience for the children, without a doubt," Clason said.

Also, instead of depending on a woodburning stove as the original school did, the building will have modern heating. "We don't want to take chances where health is concerned," Clason said.

Kate Otto, chairperson of the Geer School Preservation Committee, has been involved in the project for five years.

"We had our first meeting in September of 1986," she said. "We had decided that, rather than just preserve the school as a historic site, we would like to do this. After all, we have always taken our children on field trips to Greenfield Village or other places where they had schoolhouses like this one."

"It was getting too hard to book time at Greenfield Village, and costs kept going up," Otto said. There are no plans to book other schools into the Geer site, despite the fact it could bring money into the district.

"This was not conceived as a money-making project," Otto said. "Besides, if we brought in all of our fourth-grade classes for one week, the school year would have to be extended -- we have more than enough students to occupy the building."

The date surrounding Geer's beginnings are clouded. Some sources state it was built in 1829, while others cite 1880 as the year the school opened. Actually, the school was built as a log building in 1829, but had a new brick facing added in 1880.

While Clason deals with the scheduling of classes and curriculum aspects of the one-room school, Otto has been dealing with the less-glamorous factors.

"I've been dealing with the tradespeople, the architects, keeping the books, paying the bills, all of that," Otto said. "I've been involved in just about every phase of this project."

The cost of the project is estimated at $100,000, all of which has been gathered through fundraisers or donations, she said.

"We had to do the project in phases, with a lot of time in between," Otto laughed. "We'd work until we were out of money and then we'd have more fundraisers and work some more."

And while there were fiscal donations, the biggest boost of that sort came from volunteers, who did everything from making things to sell at outdoor bake sales to putting on old dungarees and painting parts of the old schoolhouse.

"A lot of people worked very hard to bring this project this close to conclusion," Otto said.

Canton grid squad wins in overtime

BY JAY KEENAN

Canton's grid squad showed how important it is to stress the emphasis of the foot on the football Friday night.

Senior kicker Jeff Nafe booted a pair of yard field goals in overtime as the Chiefs edged Livonia Churchill, 20-17, before an electrified homecoming crowd at the CEP football field.

It took three overtimes before Canton defeated the Chargers, who have not won a game in the 1990s.

The contest ended when Churchill muffed a 25-yard field goal try. On that

Canton ends in regionals

Salem netters going to states

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

It was an exciting week of competition for the Canton and Salem girls tennis teams as they competed last week in their conference and regional meets.

The week ended on a happy note for the Salem squad as the Rocks came in second in the Class A Regionals Monday and will advance to state competition in Midland this week.

The Canton squad did not fare quite as well as the Chiefs scored one point less than Salem and ended their season with third place at the regionals.

The regional competition was played in Dearborn over the weekend and was delayed for rain both Friday and Saturday. The match was moved to the Dearborn Racquet Club and played inside Monday. Complete results were not available at press time.

The week began with the Western Lakes League conference meet where 12 teams competed, Canton finished in fifth place with 10 points, and Salem finished in seventh with six points.

Canton had a flight winner in the number four singles position which Ellen Gaston brought home a medal for the Chiefs.

Kelly Blanke and Anne Zachary, playing in the third doubles team for Canton and won the third flight

It was real tight competition at the regionals.

Dearborn came in first place with 18 points, Salem came in second with 17, and they both advanced to the state. Canton came in third, ending the meet one point behind Salem with 16.

Natalie Graves and Melissa Kawolis took first place, winning in the number two doubles position for Salem.

The Salem squad was seated first in the number two singles position, and Fordson upset the Rocks defeating Kathy Marschak.

Susie Bozell placed second in the number three singles position as she was defeated by Dearborn.

The number three doubles team from Canton of Kelly Blanke and Anne Zachary were upset in their competition as the number two seated team from Dearborn knocked them out of the competition.

"We thought it would be wide open," said Salem coach Judie Braun. "It was real tight all the way down the line."

Canton ended its season Monday when the squad placed third in the regionals. "This was a fairly new team," said coach Carol Michaels. "We had lost four starters and we have a good record for the team, we did real well this season."

Canton ended its season placing fourth in the conference with a 7-4 record. The team's overall record was 8-5.

As Canton ended their season, Salem looks forward to one more week of competition.

"There are going to be a lot of tough teams at the state," said Salem coach Judy Braun, including Livonia Stevenson, Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Dearborn.

"The team played very, very well. Going to the state is a rare opportunity," she continued. "I'd like to see them relax enough to play to their fullest potential. If they are playing to their fullest potential, they will have a good time."

It has been five years since the Salem squad made it to the state finals.

Chief hoops take a pair

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

The Canton High girls basketball team traveled to Walled Lake twice last week, and brought home a victory both times.

The Chiefs defeated Walled Lake Western, 49-31, Thursday.

Leading scorers Thursday were Stephanie Gray with 13, and Lisa Nicastri with 12. Gray was also the leading rebounder for the Chiefs with 12. Kelly Holmes grabbed eight and Nicastri pulled down seven.

"Both our offense and our defense was solid," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "We tightened our defense in the middle quarters."

The Chiefs were on a roll after coming from behind Tuesday when they defeated Walled Lake Central, 62-57.

Canton's overall record now stands at 9-2, and 5-0 in the division.

Rocks stay on a roll

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

Teamwork works. The Salem High girls basketball team proved that Thursday as the Rocks defeated Walled Lake Central 60-46 at home.

The consistent play of Darcie Miller and the support of her teammates carried the Rocks to victory.

It was an opportunity for coach Fred Thomann to play his entire team and watch his whole squad perform. Miller was the key player of the night, tossing in 28 points.

"It was a combination of Darcie being a good player and her teammates getting the ball to her on time," said Thomann. "We had some outstanding passes, where she (Miller) just had to catch it and lay it in the hole. It was her best score and the best we've had this year."

The Rocks now have won six games in a row, improving their overall record to 7-4 and 5-0 in league competition.

Salem golfers win division title

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

It was a sudden-death playoff at the conference meet that kept the Salem High golf team from sending one of its teammates to the regionals this year.

Only the top three teams and the top five golfers move up from the conference meet to the regionals.

Senior Dave Weaver was a medalist at the conference meet for Salem, shooting an 81. But he and five others tied for fifth place, and only one could advance.

Unfortunately for Weaver and the Rocks, he was knocked out of the running when he bogied the number three hole.

But the team holds its head high. The Rocks were undefeated in the Western Lakes League, winning the division golf championship. It is the first time in the nine years Rick Wilson has coached the squad that they are bringing home a division trophy.

"This was an outstanding season," said Wilson. "Having six seniors to play the varsity matches and one first year senior who lettered was a luxury."

Captain Brian Botwinski and all-division Weaver played for Wilson for four years.

At the conference meet last week, the Salem squad scored 338 points, placing them in the number 10 spot out of 20 teams.

The Rocks all shot scores in the 80s, but Wilson said that two of his golfers would have had to break 80, and the rest shoot in the low 80s if the team was going to advance. "They were disappointed that they didn't advance to the state, they all hoped to advance," said Wilson. "They shot typical average scores."

Wilson was pleased with the performance of the squad. "This team is comparable to the 1985 and 1986 teams, which did advance to the state," said Wilson. "They made it to the state, taking second and third (respectively) at the regionals, but those teams didn't win the division title."

Golfers go undefeated Chiefs win league

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

"It was an excellent year that will be pretty tough to top," said Canton golf coach Fred Libbing after his Chiefs went undefeated in the Western Lakes League to take the conference championship.

The Chiefs ended their season last week with an 8-0 record, and a 5-0 mark in their division.

"I'm happy with the team," Libbing said. "They put out excellent rounds when it was needed."

Canton also shot a 340 at the Class A Regionals and tied with Westland John Glenn for 11th place out of 20 teams. Mike Ross, Canton's number three golfer, was unable to play due to illness.

Brad Paskievitch, a junior shot an 82 at the regionals for Canton's best score.

Salem takes football win

BY JAY KEENAN

Even though Salem's football team didn't play up to its potential Friday night, the Rocks still managed to draw plenty of oohs and ahs in their 28-7 triumph over Livonia Stevenson in a Western Lakes League contest.

The visiting Salem squad gave its followers their money's worth, largely due to a stalwart defensive rush along with two long and exciting touchdowns runs by standout running back Leon Hister.

The Rocks are now 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the league. But despite the three game winning streak, Salem coach Tom Moshimer said that he would like to see his team get back to playing on the level that it did in its victory over Westland John Glenn (28-7) on Sept. 27.

"That's our goal right now, to get back to playing on that level," Moshimer said. "We played a great game with John Glenn two weeks ago and that was the high point. We've sort of slacked off a bit, but I think we'll get better. I think there's a lot of areas where we can improve in."

The Rocks got a strong effort on defense out of Agron Ujkaj, who was switched from defensive tackle to middle linebacker in place of the injured Boyd Rudy. He responded with two interceptions in the fourth quarter.

Moshimer also cited the efforts of defensive linemen Allen August, Tim Galda, Bob Smith, Hugh Blake-Thomas, along with outside linebackers Andy Szydlowski and Alfonso Hysko. Ed Gundry also performed admirably in the secondary, said Moshimer.

Hister, a senior, finished with 197 yards on 19 carries. He now has 903 yards on the season.

Salem, which is in second place in the Lakes division behind North Farmington (4-0), will travel to Walked Lake Central Friday night to close out its division schedule. Kick-off for that game will be at 7:30 p.m.

Canton, Salem tankers shine in duals

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

It was a victorious meet for the Canton girls swim team as they defeated Farmington Harrison, 119-647, Thursday.

The team was competing on a high after defeating cross campus rival Salem High the previous week.

"Jill Mellis was a three time winner," said Canton coach Hooker Wellman. "She swam two relays and two individual events."

Battling sicknesses on the team, Wellman was pleased with the performance of his squad, who took nine first places against Harrison.

Mellis took first place in two events, the 200 yard individual medley, finishing it in 2:21.70, and in the 100 yard

Amy Kodrik took first place in the diving competition, scoring 219.15 points for the Rocks.

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

"It was a team thing," said Salem girls swim coach Chuck Olson. "Everyone swam for points, and it was fun for the girls in that respect."

Salem chalked up a big win defeating Westland John Glenn, 125-60, Thursday. The win improves Salem's overall record to 3-3, and 1-0 in the division.

Salem walked away with nine first places.

Mandi Ras took first place in the 100 yard butterfly in 1:11.2. First place in the 500 yard freestyle went to Julie Hickey, for Salem, in 5:52.39.

Katie Williams won the diving competition, scoring 178.7 points.

Jane Seidelman took first place in the 200 yard freestyle at 2:09.9.

"It was nice to be able to swim a lot of girls in a lot of different events," said Olson.

play, the Charger holder mishandled a high snap from the center, and then threw the ball in desperation against an onslaught of Chief defenders. Steve Hohl intercepted the errant pass as Canton snapped a four game losing streak.

"I'm pleased that we won, because we needed a win," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle, whose team upped its record to 1-3 in the Western Lakes League and 2-4 overall.

Hohl collected 60 yards on 12 carries to pace Canton's rushing attack. The senior running back also had 83 yards on punt returns, which included a 54-yard run back. Mark Meszaros, the Chiefs other back, picked up 31 yards in five tries.

In the first overtime, Hohl scored for Canton on the first play from 10-yards out.

Churchill scored first in the second OT on a 20-yard field goal, but the Chiefs answered back with a 25-yard kick by Nafe to make it 17-all.

"Churchill played a good game," Khoenle said.

Canton will host league rival Walked Lake Western Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Canton begins golf course market study

BY KEN VOYLES

Plans for a major golf course/residential development behind Canton's Administration Building on Canton Center Road are moving forward.

Last week the Canton Board of Trustees awarded a contract for a market and financial feasibility study for a possible 18-hole municipally owned golf course.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said the study was necessary if the township plans to build the project itself using revenue bonds. He added, though, that the study would also be useful if a developer is brought in to build and operate the course.

Yack said the $7,900 study, to be completed by Golf Resource Associates, of Kennesaw, GA, will take about a month.

The township also authorized a survey last week to determine the location of wetland areas on the proposed golf course site. Those areas were originally flagged in September but township officials said they want more precise information before moving ahead with any other plans.

Yack said that plans for the golf project have "accelerated" in the past three months but there have been fewer and fewer changes.

The project, estimated at $3-4 million, will be the subject of a joint meeting between township trustees, planning commission members and the township's recreation advisory group, toward the end of November.

Featuring dinner, prizes Chamber hosts auction

Do we have a $25 bid? Going once, twice, sold!

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce will be presenting its 38th Annual Dinner/Auction on Nov. 1 at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

The evening will begin with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres at a special sponsorship preview from 5:30 - 6:30 p.m.

The excitement and bidding will then start at 6:30 p.m. with the silent-live auction. Cocktails will still be served, and a raffle for two airline tickets to Florida for one week will leave someone very happy.

A gourmet dinner of caesar salad, chicken wellington, red skin potatoes, mixed fresh vegetables will be served at 7:30 p.m., with raspberry torte for dessert.

After feasting, it will be time to put on dancing shoes as a DJ plays tunes until 1 a.m.

All guests will receive complimentary portraits.

Tickets for the auction/dinner are $35 per person. Seating is reserved.

For tickets or further information call 453-1540.

Phoenix dam

"The main thing is the brush removal," Navarre said. "Generally the dams are in pretty good shape."

To make the work possible at Phoenix the county has had to lower the water in the lake. A spill valve north of the dam was opened earlier this summer and will be closed once the work is completed. Lower lake levels have exposed parts of the Rouge flowing in to the lake at the north end.

Water over the dam will flow again once the work is completed, said Navarre.

A member of the county's maintenance division said the repairs are basically cosmetic. "There's nothing wrong with that dam," he said.
