Miss Angeline Mead, of Detroit, who for a number of years had studied with the well known violinist, Henri Ern, has formed a class for violin instruction at the home of Chauncey Baker.

Charles Miller, having secured the appointment of carrier for rural route No. 4, concluded he did not want it and resigned. The next in order of standing was Albert Gates and he will undoubtedly secure the job.

The trains were all delayed Tuesday more or less by the severe storm and no mails arrived until afternoon. Consequently the rural carriers did not make a trip that day, a circumstance they did not regret for that day.

F. D. Schrader will have an auction sale of farm stock and utensils, including 16 head of cattle and three horses, at his place two miles west and 2 1/2 miles south of Plymouth, on Thursday, Feb'y 4th, at 10 o'clock a. m. John Bennett, auctioneer.

There were a couple of runaways Monday, neither doing any damage. Ed Tyler was driving one of the rigs which tipped over in a snowbank on Main street. The horse started on a run and did not stop until he brought up within six inches of the Savings bank window, jumping the street railing in front of the building.

Mrs. Margaret Polley, widow of the late Orson Polley, who died several weeks ago also passed away early yesterday morning. Deceased was born in Paisley, Scotland, Nov. 9th, 1828, but had lived in Plymouth for many years. She was the mother of F. D. Polley. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Albert Gayde had quite a fall last Saturday. Noticing a dog who acted as if he wanted to get inside the store of D. A. Jolliffe, he turned to open the door for him, when he slipped and went up into the air, striking on the back of his head. Albert saw stars for several seconds, but managed to crawl into the store of Mr. Jolliffe where he fainted away. Later he was able to go home, but for the rest of the day he felt rather sore and broken up.

The street car company are having a great time this week. The freeze-up after the thaw last Saturday left the track in many places covered with ice. In attempting to reach Northville Sunday with a double-header, both cars went off the track. The snow Monday buried the road out of sight, every foot of the way between Plymouth and Wayne having to be shoveled out, and no cars were running until yesterday between these points. Yesterday men were opening the line between Plymouth and Northville.

A CARD.—I wish hereby to extend thanks to all friends who assisted in the burial of Frank Outhwaite, and especially to E. C. Laufer for his many acts of kindness.

OER RATHBONE.

Found His Frozen Body.

When Wm. Creiger, night watchman for the Daisy Co. returned to his home early yesterday morning he found the dead body of Jacob Bruner, a near neighbor, lying in a summer kitchen of the house. It was clad only in shirt and stockings. Mr. Creiger informed Justice Valentine and this gentleman thought it was necessary to impanel a coroner's jury, which was done. The jury heard all the evidence in the matter and returned a verdict that Bruner had come to his death through exposure and as a result of his own carelessness.

Bruner was 96 years old and childish. He often wandered away. Last night he left his bed and wandered out into the cold and in some way got into the place above mentioned. Mrs. Creiger was awakened by a noise and got up and went to the door and asked who was there. Receiving no answer she went back to bed. Mr. Bruner was one of the old residents, having lived here over fifty years.

The Matrimonial Agency.

There was a big rush last Wednesday morning to secure reserved seats for the first evening of the "The Matrimonial Agency," at the Plymouth Opera House. The sale of tickets opened at 8 o'clock and in less than an hour all the seats were sold. That the play came up to the expectations of the crowd last night was evidenced by the hearty applause awarded the actors. This is a thoroughly up-to-date comedy, full of fun and interest throughout, and was written by Miss Nettie H. Pelham expressly for presentation by local talent. Miss Pelham has written a number of successful plays, several of which have been presented here, but it is considered by her friends that this is the best of her productions. Of the caste which presented "The Matrimonial Agency" we cannot speak too highly. But space forbids us to say more at present and we will give a more detailed account next week. Don't miss "The Matrimonial Agency" tonight.

Oscar Huston Died Wednesday.

Oscar Huston died at his home in this village Wednesday morning, death resulting from paralysis. Mr. Huston was one of the substantial citizens of the village, highly esteemed and a man of sterling worth and character. He had been in failing health for a year or more, but had been able to be around until last Friday. Deceased was born in Canton 68 years ago, and always lived on the farm until about five years ago when he came to Plymouth. He was married in 1861 and of this union five children were born, three of whom, with the widow, now mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband and father. The funeral takes place at the late home at 10:30 this morning. Services will be held in the Cherry Hill church at one o'clock. Rev. W. Stovall conducting services. Interment will be at Cherry Hill.

NOTICE.—Having sold our furniture and undertaking business to Schrader Bros. we wish all persons having accounts with us to call and settle at once.

We also wish to thank the people of Plymouth and surrounding country for their liberal patronage and the courteous treatment shown us.

Show us the lobster who said the present winter was to be a mild and open one. It may have been a mild and pleasant one thus far for a Greenland winter, but we have had nothing but winter since last September. As to the open part of it, feels as though the door is open clear to Alaska.—FX.

The North Side

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilkinson have removed to Detroit.

Stephen Jewell, of Kalamazoo, visited friends here a few days.

Eugene Heath, who recently moved to Detroit, has moved back here.

Miss Louise Stever is visiting her sister Mrs. Jacob Miller in Tecumseh.

Adolph Ehnis, of Flint, visited his brother, Rev. G. O. Ehnis and family, here Sunday.

James McKnabb has been appointed Jamp inspector for the Pere Marquette system, dating from Feb. 1st.

Albert Stever is taking a vacation. Charles Wilske has taken his place on the meat wagon until his return.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Peterhans are on the sick list—both improving slowly. Their daughter, Mrs. E. H. Lincoln, of Detroit, is with them for a few days.

Bert Toncray left Sunday evening for Munising, in the upper Peninsula, where he will join his gang putting in automatic sprinklers in a large factory there.

J. C. Drayton received eleven hundred dollars for one year ending, Jan. 1st, 1904, for the milk of 15 cows (four of which were heifers). Milk was sent to Plymouth cheese factory.

A minister who was in dire straits financially had his affairs further complicated by the arrival of a bouncing baby boy. Realizing his predicament a number of members of his flock took up a subscription for him and presented him with a purse of $100. The following Sunday a couple of sporty members of the congregation made a bet as to which he would mention first the donation or the new arrival. Here is the way he concluded his morning prayer: "And we thank Thee, oh Lord, for the succor Thou hast sent." And now there is a dispute as to which won the bet.

A family reunion of the McLaren family was held at the home of James McLaren sr. in Lima last Sunday. Those present were Dr. J. L. McLaren, Eugene, Cal., John McLaren of Plymouth, Will Brewer of Saginaw, H. L. Barney of Belmont, N. Y., D. C. McLaren and family and James McLaren and family of this place.—Chelsea Standard.
