FAIR PROGRAM BOOKS OUT—BEING MAILED

NEW 252-PAGE BOOKLET GIVES COMPLETE SURVEY OF 1927 FAIR.

The premium book and program for the Washtenaw county eighth annual fair is off the press and being delivered this week by mail to all farmers of the county. The new bulletin has a gray cover, with design in red and black by Harold Golts, eighth grader of Lincoln school. The book contains 252 pages, including pictures of the county supervisors, fair officials, program of events, and regulations for exhibits. Contests and prizes in the many divisions are announced and this list is more extensive than ever in preceding years of the fair.

According to the announcement, Tuesday, opening day, August 30, will be children's day. One of the features of the day which is new to the fair is the special "mutt show." Any dog may be entered in this exhibit of canine curiosities, and the "mutt show" is always an occasion which evokes a quantity of fun and interest.

A feature of the second day is the judging, which will start at ten in the morning. Thursday is homecoming day, featured by the livestock parade, and Friday is merchants' and club day. Livestock parade, dog show and entertainment will be the headlines on the program.

Baseball Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and horse races Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will probably be supplemented by novelty auto races on Saturday afternoon. It is entirely possible that some sort of "junk driver" race will take the place of the usual auto races, which have hitherto occupied part of the program, much to the detriment of the track.—Washtenaw Post.

AROUND ABOUT US

The Michigan Seamless Tube company has resumed operations at their South Lyon plant.

On account of conflicting with dates of the Millford fair, the Northville centennial and home-coming celebration will be held Friday and Saturday, August 26th and 27th.

The Consumers Power company plans to lay a pipe line from its Pontiac plant to Farmington to supply the residents of the latter community with gas. It is expected this work will be undertaken soon.

Bell Branch cemetery, on Telegraph road, is more than 100 years old and holds the hallowed remains of many of the prominent pioneer settlers of this section of Wayne county. Mr. Roper, of Redford, who recently celebrated his one hundredth birthday, says the cemetery went back beyond his day.

Five thousand Maccabees from all over the society's international jurisdiction will gather in Detroit July 23 for the dedication of the new $2,500,000 Maccabee temple and international headquarters. Delegations will make the pilgrimage to Detroit from every state of the union and province of Canada in special cars and automobile caravans.

The state department of conservation is putting into operation a plan whereby a boys' camp is to be located in each of the eight state parks. Dodge park, near Highland, is to receive this consideration, and a combination kitchen, mess hall and recreation room 30x45 is being erected. This new camp building is supposed to be ready for occupancy some time this month.

Alger Graham, well known American aviator, who has just returned from Alaska, where he took part in the Captain Wilkins exploration trip of uncharted Arctic regions, was a Northville visitor Monday. He spent the greater part of the day at the Stinson Aircraft corporation factory. "The one Stinson plane that we had to leave out on the ice when we ran out of gasoline has probably gone down by this time. The ice had started to break up before I left, and there was no chance of saving it. It is the only plane that will be left in that part of the world," he stated.

The Stinson crafts worked wonderfully well up to that region. The one that Captain Wilkins has been using is acting perfectly. The other one that was lost worked just as well. It was left to far out on the ice that there was no opportunity to return to it. Captain Wilkins, when I left, had not just decided on his future plans, but he was still doing exploration work.—Northville Record.

TWO STOEPER PARK SITES ARE SELECTED

CITY PLAN COMMISSION PREPARES ALTERNATE RECOMMENDATIONS.

The members of the Detroit city plan commission have chosen two pieces of property from among twenty-five sites proposed for Stoepel park, for which the late William C. Stoepel left $330,000 for its establishment. In willing the money, Stoepel, who was a Detroit merchant, directed that the park be situated in the general direction of Plymouth.

The site selected is located within the square mile south of Six mile road and north of Five mile road, between Middle Belt and McKinney roads. As an alternate, a tract south of Seven mile road and west of McKinney road will be recommended.

Points discussed included topography, woods and water, play areas, cost of land, location with regard to River Rouge park, and location with regard to trend of population, according to Walter H. Blucher, secretary.

The establishment of the new park in the vicinity of Plymouth will be a fine thing for the citizens of the village and surrounding community.

TIGHE'S SERVICE STATION OPEN

Tighe's Service Station at the corner of Starkweather avenue and North Main street opened for business last Monday. A very attractive building has been erected with modern equipment. Sinclair gas and oils will be handled at the new station.

TAKES A BAD FALL

H. C. Doolin, car repairer, employed by the Pere Marquette R. R., had the misfortune to fall from the running board of an automobile, while riding home from his work last Saturday, breaking two bones of his left foot below the ankle. He was taken to his home and a physician summoned.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS INTERESTING TALK

Kiwanians of Plymouth sat at the feet of a boy last Tuesday noon—a boy well loved in this, his home town—and listened to an address that brought to them many points that may have been overlooked in the present crush of commercialism.

The speaker was Kenneth G. Bartlett, who graduated from Plymouth High school in 1923. His topic had to do with the fallacy of glorifying the spirit of winning in business and athletics.

"It is well to want to win," said Mr. Bartlett, "but when that spirit dominates at the cost of ethics and propriety it is entirely wrong."

"Throughout all my school days I have had impressed upon me the necessity of winning. It has been true in athletics, debating and scholastics; but when I survey life as I have known it I shall ask my son, should I ever be so fortunate, 'Did you play a good game? Were you square?' I should want him to win, but first, I should want him to play square."

Mr. Bartlett applied this same thought to commercialism. He cited many points that have come to his attention regarding this same spirit of winning to the law profession, toward which he is inclined. He deprecated the fact that lawyers will sometimes extend every effort to free a client when the spirit of winning the case was the only actuating motive.

After graduating from the local High school Mr. Bartlett attended Albion college, serving on the debating teams of that college against the University of Michigan, University of Sydney, Australia, Cambridge University of England and other formidable contestants. He is now connected with the William Wood Insurance agency, but will enter the U. of M. law school in the fall.

The Tuesday program was under the direction of D. F. Murphy and George Robinson. During the meeting a petition was presented for the paving of Moreland avenue, which was unanimously adopted.

Wednesday afternoon a golf tournament was participated in by the members of Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. The results are given in another column.

BASE BALL NEWS

DE-HO-CO WINS AGAIN

De-Ho-Co Club, top liners in the Inter-county League, showed the proud Wayne aggregation down a rung of the league ladder Sunday afternoon at De-Ho-Co Park, by defeating them 7 to 1.

H. German hurling for De-Ho-Co allowed only six hits to Wayne, scattering them where the least damage resulted.

Winters, Wayne's moundman, donated twelve hits to De-Ho-Co, all pretty well scattered, but made the most of by the farmers. Four errors by his support contributed to his downfall, while De-Ho-Co gave German errorless baseball.

Denniston, Jaska, Martin and Perry nicked Winters for two base hits, and Capt. Martin socked one of his offerings for a triple. The game was marred by the accident in the eighth, to Desteano, Wayne's shortstop, causing his removal from the game.

Next Sunday De-Ho-Co plays Belleville at Belleville, and the Detroit Fire Department meets Municipal Club at the local park. Fire Department-Munle game starts at 3:00 p. m., and fans are advised to arrive early to get the choice seats. Grandstand seats are 35c, and bleachers 25c.

Saturday afternoon, July 16th, the De-Ho-Cos play Oakland Boulevard, Detroit's travelling baseball team, composed of former minor league players, credited with being the fastest aggregation of ball tossers in Michigan. Admission to stands and bleachers is 25c. Plymouth fans are assured of a classy fracas if they attend Saturday's game.

NETHEM 4, ROUGE GRAYS 1

The Nethem boys journeyed to River Rouge last Sunday, in order to cross bats with the strong Rouge Grays—a colored team, black by birth. The Ump's usual call, "play ball," started a real contest, as the Nethem club was determined to defeat the Grays, who up to this date had suffered no loss. The colored boys were all there, when it came to baseball: their throws sailed through the air like bullets, and their gloves were made to pocket each throw, but Hy Gale's arm was too strong for the boys, and they were unable to connect for victory. The Grays were much surprised to learn at the end of the ninth that they were on the weak end, and as soon as the last man was called out, a very serious post mortem was offered by the colored gentlemen, an alibi for defeat. But for all of this, the score stood Nethem 4, Grays 1.

DONOVAN CHECKERS WILL PLAY MERCHANTS TEAM

The Donovan Checkers, representing the Donovan chain stores, will be the opposing team for the Plymouth Merchants at Burroughs Field, Sunday afternoon, July 17th, at four o'clock. This team has met and defeated some of the best amateur and semi-pro baseball teams in the state, losing only one game since the start of the season, and playing from two to five games a week. The Plymouth Merchants also have a long string of victories to their credit, having had only one defeat this season. With these two teams playing gilt edge ball, there is no doubt that the coming game is going to be a hot one. Make your plans now to see this game.

Next Sunday the boys will play the strong Maas Cartage team of Detroit, at the Rousseau Rouge, Park, Newburg, at 3:00 o'clock. Nethem 000100030-4 11 1
Grays 000001000-1 8 3
Nethem vs. Maas Cartage, Sunday.

Thursday evening, the Merchants went out to the House of Correction farm for a practice game, and then next Sunday, July 17th, they play the Donovan Checker Store team from Owosso, which is making a tour of the state, and have yet to be defeated. Come out Sunday and watch our boys take them down the line.

Last Sunday's game by innings:
Ypsilanti 000001200000-3 2 4
Plymouth 000100200001-4 6 2
Batteries for Ypsilanti: Houpt and Olett; for Plymouth: Quinn and Straen. Umpires—Gray and Trimble. Time—Two hours, 40 minutes.

NEWBURG HAS NEW BASEBALL TEAM

Newburg now has an organized baseball team, who played their first game with the Inkster Merchants on July 3, defeating that team by a score of 10 to 5. On Sunday, July 10th, they defeated Hawthorne Valley Golf Club, 5 to 3. Next Sunday, July 17th, the Newburg boys will travel to Garden City where they will meet the team of that place.

PLYMOUTH MERCHANTS WIN OVER YPSILANTI, 4 TO 1

One of the best ball games that has been played in these parts in a long time was played at Burroughs field last Sunday, when the Merchants won a victory over Ypsilanti in a twelve inning game. It was a pitchers battle from start to finish. Our pitcher, Quinn, was supported a little better than the Ypsilanti man. Our boys only had two errors while the Ypsilanti team had four. In most of the innings, it was three up and three down for both sides.

It was stated a week ago that if our boys ever got up against a team that could play ball, they would give them a good game. Sunday's game proved it, and it still shows that we have one of the strongest teams in the country. We haven't been playing poor teams. It just goes to show our strength and playing ability over the others.

There were really no outstanding plays as they all played bang up ball, although we must not forget Millross was there all the while, getting two of Plymouth's six hits, and making one of the prettiest plays that will be seen in any league. It was in the third inning after Quinn had walked the first man up, and he had stolen second. Patterson hit a liner that was going a mile a minute for what looked like a sure enough double, and "Seed" went into the air about four feet and knocked it down and recovered in time to get him at first, retiring the side in time to save the run.

His first hit was a triple and the last one was at least as good if not a home run. It was made in the twelfth after VanBonn had got on through an error and stole second. Then "Seed" made this terrific drive which brought in Van, and the winning run with no one out in the twelfth.

Thursday evening, the Merchants went out to the House of Correction farm for a practice game, and then next Sunday, July 17th, they play the Donovan Checker Store team from Owosso, which is making a tour of the state, and have yet to be defeated. Come out Sunday and watch our boys take them down the line.

Last Sunday's game by innings:
Ypsilanti 000001200000-3 2 4
Plymouth 000100200001-4 6 2
Batteries for Ypsilanti: Houpt and Olett; for Plymouth: Quinn and Straen. Umpires—Gray and Trimble. Time—Two hours, 40 minutes.

DR. STAUFFER MOVES OFFICE

Dr. Fred H. Stauffer, chiropractor, has moved his office from the rooms over Whipple's store to the E. C. Robinson residence, adjoining the Penniman Allen building on Penniman avenue. Dr. Stauffer will use the front part of the house for a suite of offices, and the rest for living apartments. He has everything conveniently arranged in his new location, and will be pleased to welcome his patients and friends in his new office. We call attention to his announcement in today's paper.

AUTOMOBILE BURNS UP

In passing another car at the intersection of the Plymouth and Ann Arbor roads, east of the village, late last Sunday night, John Stremich got too near the edge of the road and the car went into the ditch. A heavy fog prevailing at the time made it difficult driving. When the car landed in the ditch, it quickly burst into flames, and although Mr. Stremich and passing motorists made every effort to extinguish the blaze, they were unsuccessful, and it was completely destroyed. Mr. Stremich was unhurt.

ROTARY AND KIWANIS GOLF TOURNAMENT

Members of Plymouth Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs engaged in a golf tournament at the Plymouth Country Club golf links, west of the village, Wednesday afternoon, followed by a dinner at Dye's Inn on Grand River road at 6:30 o'clock. Following the dinner, which was one of those wonderful steak feeds that have made Dye's Inn famous, and thoroughly enjoyed by the hungry golfers, Rotarian B. E. Champe announced the winners of the tournament, and awarded the prizes. The gross score was Rotary 21, and Kiwanis 14. It was a most enjoyable occasion and more of them will follow.

There were several nominations for trustee to succeed William Sutherland, whose term of office had expired. The result of the ballot gave a total of 141 votes being cast, of which Mr. Sutherland received 84, Mrs. F. W. Hillman 15, and Walter Postiff 42.

A resolution was presented asking that an appropriation be made to resurface the tennis courts in the rear of the school building with either concrete or asphalt. The sum of $1,000 was voted by the meeting.

The annual financial statement of the school district will appear in next week's paper.

STATE HOME DEMONSTRATION LEADER WILL SPEAK

The women of Wayne County are to have a very special privilege of meeting Mrs. Louise Campbell, State Home Demonstration Leader, who will be here on July 18th, 20th and 21st. Mrs. Campbell will meet women in different sections of the county for the purpose of talking over home problems and helping to analyze the wishes of the women for some line of home economics to be carried on during the winter. It is hoped that every woman will consider this announcement a personal invitation to attend at least one of the meetings and to help organize the county for a bigger home economics program for the coming year. Bring with you as many women as the car will hold to any of the following places: On July 18th in the afternoon at 2:00, to the Wayne Methodist church, and in the evening at 8:00 to the West Sunnyside church; on July 20th, in the afternoon at 2:00 to the Brighton Community Center, and in the evening at 8:00 to the Plymouth High school; on July 21st, in the afternoon at 2:00 to the First Rock High school.

The annual school meeting of District No. 1, Fr., was held at the High school building last Monday evening and was very largely attended. J. W. Henderson, president of the board of education, presided over the meeting. Mrs. D. F. Murray, secretary of the board, read a statement of the receipts and disbursements for the past year, and the report was accepted and adopted by the meeting.

The budget of expenditures as estimated by the board was then read by the secretary. The board has estimated an expenditure of $118,624.00. Together with the estimated receipts from the primary school fund, the board recommended the sum of $86,624.48 be raised by taxation in addition to the $7,000 mill tax which the law provides for.

In addition to the above total sum, $1,000 will have to be added to provide for putting the tennis courts in proper condition, this appropriation being voted by the meeting.

A recommendation was made by the board and fully presented by C. H. Bennett, asking for an appropriation of $800.00 toward the expense of maintaining the services of the Red Cross nurse. The appropriation was granted.

A resolution to purchase the Kuhn property with a frontage of seventy feet on Adams street, at a cost of $5,000 was made and supported. The president appointed O. H. Loomis and Charles Dickerson, tellers. The ballot showed a total of 139 votes being cast of which seventy voted yes and sixty-nine no. The proposition was lost.

The meeting then proceeded to elect a trustee to succeed Mrs. D. F. Murray, whose term of office had expired. The ballot showed a total of 130 votes being cast of which Mrs. Murray received 119, Mrs. F. W. Hillman 16, and scattering 6.

PAVING THE WAY.

The failure of Commander Byrd and his party to land safely on French soil, though they descended within easy distance of the shore, has caused genuine regret throughout the world. Everyone wanted to see these brave fellows accomplish what they set out to do. But their attempt was so near a complete success that it is not counted against them, and they take their places in the front ranks of world heroes just the same. They did accomplish one thing, and that is to prove that we are a long step nearer the day when trans-Atlantic passenger service by airplane will be a reality. Lindbergh proved it possible to fly across the ocean; Byrd has proved that it is possible to take passengers across. The balance will be worked out in due time, and Plymouth school boys of today are almost certain, as a result of these experiments to see the day when swift and safe passage across the Atlantic by airplane will be nothing unusual.

CHANGES TO COME.

Of course, it is not probable that anyone in Plymouth will live to see it, but we feel confident the time will come when a frame house or a frame barn will be a novelty here, and almost everywhere else. We read where a Michigan farmer erected a barn of steel three years ago, and that experts have declared it will outlast four built of any other materials. It is rat-proof, wind-proof, fire-proof and capable of bearing enormous loads of hay and grain. Insurance is hardly necessary on either the building or its contents. We have for years been building skyscrapers of steel and today ready-made garages can be had of the same material. Experiments are being made with thin steel joists and beams for use in residences, and not many years will pass until the steel residence will leap into favor, especially in places where lumber and brick and other building material is scarce and high in price. It certainly would be interesting to come back here a hundred years from now and note the changes in building, and in the materials used in them.

HOW TO KEEP COOL.

The hot days we have been longing for are here, or at least they have been with us in sufficient number to cause considerable discomfort. But those who realize that it takes warm days and warm nights to mature vegetation and to make crops and gardens grow are not complaining. None of us want to pass through a famine, and that is about what would happen to us if Old Sol failed to warm up during July and August. It's a little hard on us, of course, but look around and you'll see that the Plymouth citizen who suffers least in summer is the one who refuses to lose his temper and who will not let himself become agitated over trivial matters. Keep the head cool and you'll keep the whole body cool. An irritable, complaining person never knows what it is to be comfortable in summer. Just try smiling, and refuse to frown and fuss, and see how quickly you forget all about the heat and its attendant annoyances.

A DEAD GIVEAWAY.

According to a statement in a Memphis paper a man's character is revealed by his automobile. Oscar Cornelius, of Little Rock, says he can tell you by your car that a dangle license plate, muddy fenders and dirty windows reflect slovenliness. A dusty top, even though the body is clean and shiny, shows that the owner likes to revel in outside appearances and doesn't care about cleanliness beneath his clothing. He says the selfish, inconsiderate character is shown by the man who cuts in ahead of others and hogs the road for himself, and that the hot-tempered man or woman who can't leave their tempers at home but display them in some little way or another falls in this class.

It's disconcerting to know that not even our private affairs are any longer our own, but that the auto can tell the world exactly the kind of person we are. But Plymouth motorists who may be inclined to worry over it should remember that there is always a way to beat anything, and this is no exception. They can fool the character readers by keeping their autos clean, by driving carefully, by not losing their temper, by not venting their anger on another motorist and by saving their profanity until they are out of hearing distance of everyone.

No need then to worry because your auto can give you away. Just avoid being thoughtless and profane and you'll fool the best of them. And besides, it may result in your acquiring a new disposition that will make you the best-liked person in the entire community.

Our liner ad column has helped many people find their needs.

EPISCOPAL NOTES

Rev. J. Hanna, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal parish, Detroit, visited Plymouth last Sunday, and preached in St. John's church at the morning service.

During the offertory, Joseph Tracy sang “My Loved One's Rest,” accompanied by Miss Pierson at the organ. This was very much appreciated by the congregation present.

George Merryweather and Edward Henry returned Sunday evening from two weeks camp at Camp Williams, beyond Port Sanilac. There were about thirty young lads camping there, under the supervision of Rev. Charles McCurdy, late rector of Birmingham. All report a very fine time. George did the cooking, which has been his job for the past two years.

The Men's Club sent two boys to Camp Frisbie, near Pontiac. Sunday being visitors day, several of the congregation went to visit the camp in the afternoon. Camp Frisbie is under the supervision of Irwin C. Johnson and A. T. Mifflord of St. Paul's Cathedral.

The Sunday-school will be on vacation during the warm months of July and August; reassembling again in September. The Sunday-school picnic will take place in September.

SALE BRINGS BACK LEGENDS OF YOUTH

Romance Inseparable From Robin Hood Country.

Eleven thousand acres of Robin Hood country in and around the village of Hathesage, in the heart of the Derbyshire peak district, have been sold by the duke of Rutland. Hathesage was the birthplace and burial place of one John Nallor, known to all lovers of English ballads as Little John, the giant henchman of Robin Hood, finest of all archers and gentlest of all robbers.

Little John's birthplace and his grave are still pointed out in Hathesage, but his green cap and his bow, which used to be suspended by chains in the village church, have long since disappeared. The cottage in which he is said to have been born, and to which he returned to die, is obviously of great antiquity. It is a low, thatched building overgrown with ivy and heavily screened by great old trees, and stands a few yards distant from the church.

It used to be tenanted 20 or 30 years ago by a widow of almost equal antiquity, whose belief in the Little John story was both valuable and implicit. She said she remembered the opening of his grave in the churchyard and digging up of a thigh bone, which measured 32 inches in length. The grave is almost opposite the porch on the south side of the church and is marked by headstones and footstones placed 10 feet apart. The widow also said she distinctly remembered having seen Little John's green cap hanging in the church. Its present whereabouts are unknown, but the bow is known to have hung for more than a century in Canon hall, near Baronsley, and may still be hanging there.

The Little John story belongs to the realm of English legend rather than to history, but this in no wise detracts from the high importance of Hathesage village. The peak district of Derbyshire is a kind of English Yellowstone; a green and virgin jewel of hot springs and stags' head caverns; a wild tract of crag and torrent isolated in the smoky midlands, with the cotton mills of Manchester on one side and the steel mills of Sheffield on the other. Suffcient history attaches to it to satisfy the hungriest seeker after fact, but old lore in far greater abundance thrusts up like primroses everywhere in its mountains, its ruined castles and its hidden villages. In fact the sale of 11,000 acres of the duke of Rutland's estates in the peak district might easily be described as the sale of 11,000 acres of legends.—New York Times.

Sensation for Londoners London this winter had an ice-skating rink. Hitherto if one wanted to skate one had to go all the way to Manchester. Rare indeed is the English winter that permits skating upon natural ice, so this new pleasure was a great novelty, and such a sensation did its opening produce that, it is reported, one of the entrance doors was burst open by the throng waiting to get in. The Englishman is nothing if not optimistic—with a keen sense of irony for seasoning, as some one once pointed out, Londoners would like very much to be able to go skating on the Thames, but since that is not possible, they flocked to their rink and had a jolly time.—New York Times.

Mrs. Albert Stever entertained the Kale Sanzophia club Friday, July 8th, at a subscription luncheon. Members were present from Grosse Ile, Highland Park, Detroit and Northville.

FALSE FRIEND STOLE IDEA OF MAGAZINE

Benjamin Franklin Victim of Duplicity.

The first magazine in the United States was called the American Magazine, and was issued in Philadelphia February 13, 1741, by Andrew Bradford, printer, business rival of Benjamin Franklin. It was edited by John Webber. It appears that the idea of starting a magazine in this country, on the lines of the famous Gentlemen's Magazine of London, originated with Franklin. But he incautiously divulged his scheme to Webber, with the result that Bradford offered his publication to the Colonies three days before Franklin's General Magazine was out. Neither publication lasted very long, however. Webber's expired with its second number and Franklin's with its sixth. The Saturday Evening Post, another Franklin publication, dates to 1773, but it was not originally a magazine.

Down to the Revolution, 16 magazines had been launched in America. They included such titles as the New England Magazine or Knowledge and Pleasure, begun in Boston in 1738; The American Magazine and Monthly Chronicle, started in Philadelphia in 1757. None survived more than a few years.

Charles Brockden Brown, the first American novelist, established in New York in 1799 the Monthly Magazine and Literary Journal, which lasted three years. And in 1801 there was launched in Philadelphia the Port Folio, which survived until 1827—a remarkable record among early periodicals. An excellent magazine of this time was the Anthology and Boston Review (Boston, 1808-1811), to which Everett, Ticknor and John Quincy Adams were contributors.

In the century thereafter there were published many very good magazines which no longer survive, or perished soon after their birth. Washington Irving was for a time the editor of the Analectic Magazine, issued in Philadelphia from 1813 to 1820.

Graham's was a widely populated periodical from 1840 to 1850; The Dial (Boston, 1840-44), was edited in turn by Margaret Fuller and Ralph Waldo Emerson, and the Kullerbocker Magazine flourished from 1833 to 1800. Century and St. Nicholas are published today, but not the Arena. Century was founded in 1870, St. Nicholas in 1873.

At the Movies "Times has changed," philosophically said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "My children has blessings they never thought of a few years ago. Take the picture show, for instance. They'd go to church or school or mebbly the courthouse, and probably get to fighting for exercise or something that-a-way. But at the movies there is always something to cheer 'em up. No sooner do they get seated in the Oriental Grotto than they begin rowing and kicking about what they see on the screen, and pretty soon they get to yelling and fighting over what this feller is doing or that feller is going to do. I generly let 'em go on till they draw knives on each other, and then I slap 'em down and it's all over in a few minutes."—Kansas City Times.

Automobile Slaughter Scarlet fever and measles together caused only 178 more children's deaths than automobiles throughout 41 states during the year 1925, according to figures recently compiled by a life insurance company. In that year automobiles killed 4 children to every 7 killed by diphtheria. Nearly 40 per cent of automobile fatalities happen to children under fifteen, while the mortality is particularly heavy between the ages of five and ten. Approximately 11 out of every 20 lives lost in accidents to pedestrians were those of children, say the statisticians. Though the automobile deaths of little children run into thousands annually the statistical survey indicates that it tends to become higher rather than to decrease.

MARCH OF MONGOLS HELD RECORD FEAT

Not Duplicated by Cavalry in Any Age.

A march of 90 degrees of longitude was made by the Mongol Horde of Genghis Khan early in the Thirteenth century. It was the most remarkable feat performed by cavalry in all history.

Starting from the northern Gobi, 20,000 horsemen crossed the ranges of Central Asia, passed over the Kizil Kum desert, took Samarkand and Bokhara, went through the Hindu Kush and looked in on Delhi, turned west over modern Afghanistan and northern Persia, including the great salt desert, continued on west into a corner of Armenia, turned north and passed through the Caucasus, entered the Russian steppes, swung down into the Crimea on the Black sea, and into Europe as far as the Dnieper river, then returned to the Gobi through the heart of what is now Russia.

This trek of a wandering army is remarkable in itself. But every foot of the route lay through hostile country, and battles were the order of the day. Moreover, the march from Afghanistan westward was made by two of the Mongol Eagles, or marshals—Subotai and Chepe Noyan—with two and a half tumans, a tuman, or cavalry division, numbered 10,000. So the two Eagles could not have had more than 25,000.

They were ordered by Genghis Khan to set out in pursuit of the Mubammedan emperor, to ride him down wherever he went in the world and not to come back until he was dead. They did.

Many of us have been given the impression that the Mongols were a migratory people, vast multitudes moving over and conquering half the world. Also that the Mongols were Chinese.

They were no more Chinese than the Arabs or Turks. They conquered Thirteenth-century China. The Horde was a disciplined body of cavalry that could go anywhere.

It was untiring. As for its rate of progress, Subotai once galloped with 20,000 men 290 kilometers in a little less than three days. It was handled with all the genius of Genghis Khan and the veteran Eagles, who had waged war for a generation in China. The victories gained by the Mongols—invariably, swiftly, and with terrible losses to the foes—seem incredible until we reflect that the armies of the Middle Ages were accustomed to fight in compact masses, either standing their ground or charging. The Mongols maneuvered in detached divisions, and their bows outranged anything opposed to them.—Harold Lamb in Adventure Magazine.

No Record Exists of World Without Wheat

While the public revels in the marvels of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb the Egyptologists have dropped back another couple of millenniums and are earnestly discussing the diet of the prehistoric Egyptians. Careful study of their mummified stomachs reveals traces of barley husks, but not of wheat. Therefore, argues Elliot Smith, that remote people lived in a preheat civilization. Professor Percival disagrees, insisting that the Egyptians would have removed its husks before eating it, leaving nothing tough enough to resist decay.

Time may bring new data, but for the present Elliot Smith seems to have the better of the argument. All prior guesses as to the kitchen habits of 5,000 or 6,000 years ago are a bit uncertain. But if the Egyptologists have already discovered a preheat civilization they have divined deep into the past. For wheat grains are found back through the numbered dynasties of Egypt, in the ruins of the first neolithic settlement which underlies the site of Homer's Troy and in the prehistoric dwellings of the Swiss lake dwellers. Wheat, too, was one of the five plants solemnly sown each year by the emperor of China, according to rites which seem to go back to 2500 B. C.

Where wheat originated no man knows. Efforts have been made to trace it to its ancestral plant, but they have never been certainly successful. As soon as a botanist discovers a wild plant closely akin to the "wild" plant is a degenerate escaped from cultivation. The Swiss lake dwellers had two distinct species, one of which is quite different from anything found in the ancient Egyptian tombs. The earliest Persian writings note wheat as an old-established plant, but the usual guess is that it originated in Mesopotamia. Some day, doubtless, the sands of Mesopotamia will be as carefully raked as those of Egypt and yield as rich additions to man's knowledge of his origins; today it is safe to attribute the origin of almost anything to Mesopotamia, because we know so little about it.

Bridge Easily Operated

An entire bridge weighing 8,000,000 pounds is folded up like a jack-knife or unfolded in 45 seconds by eight 80-horse-power electric motors in Brooklyn, N. Y. It is a new bascule bridge over Flushing creek—the largest lift bridge in the world—which is now nearing completion for electric train and vehicular traffic. The bridge is composed of two leaves 152 feet long, each weighing 4,000,000 pounds, and each counterweighted so delicately that a small amount of electric power will handle it. The bridge has to be raised periodically to permit the passage of vessels in the river. The speed of the motors in opening and closing the "knife blades" will cut down traffic delays.

Got Desired Notoriety

"That gent strutting along on the other side of the street in Anson Inch-ways, the most extravagant man in the hull of New England!" said the landlord of the tavern at Oxoboxo. "Actually and truly he lit a cigar with a brand-new dollar bill! They arrested him; thought he was crazy—but they found out after a spell that he was doing it just for the notoriety. He got it, too, for there ain't anything that will make a man famous quicker here than being a spendthrift."—Kansas City Star.

Won Out on His Point

In checking up on the time cars were parked at Redlands, Calif., the police found a horse and buggy that had been there more than the allotted time. A ticket was placed on the whip socket ordering the owner to appear in court. And in a short time F. G. Chevalier did appear and said, "Judge, that ordinance applies only to motor vehicles and you can't book me." The judge got the ordinance and found that Chevalier was right.

Thread Quickly Prepared

The process of treating flax for the purpose of making linen is a prolonged one, the same as was made use of 4,000 years ago. The flax is treated to a bath in running water for several days and then the stalks are beaten to remove the undesirable part, leaving only the lengths of fiber. A recent announcement is to the effect that a mechanical treatment has been devised by which the operation is accomplished in a few hours.

From the Heights

Roger Wolfe Kahn, Otto Kahn's musical genius of a son, praised, at a dinner at Pierre's, a new novel. "It's already in its eighteenth edition," said Mr. Kahn. "The poor devil who wrote it was on his last legs—starving and freezing in an attic. In fact, when success came to him, Well, nothing surprising about that." Mr. Kahn smiled and added: "It's from our attics that we get our sellers."

Oil Production a Gamble

The average life of an oil well is quite variable. The rate of development is very important. Rapid drilling and rapid production will lessen the life, while gradual drilling and gradual production will lengthen the life. New methods of recovery and other things enter into it. Oil wells in the United States now in operation seem to produce between 10 and 25 years, according to location.

Many a man who never had much of a family tree of any kind has branched out for himself quite successfully.

CROP REPORT

Michigan's corn acreage this year is eight per cent smaller than last year and the low condition of 64 per cent of normal indicates that the 1927 crop will be the shortest in the last ten years, according to a statement issued today by Herbert E. Powell, commissioner of agriculture, and Verne H. Church, agricultural statistician for Michigan. The forecast is for 38,468,000 bushels of corn from 1,466,000 acres, which is the lowest acreage since 1906.

Farmers were also unable to carry out their intentions to plant oats, and the acreage is 1,549,000 this year, or two per cent below last year. However, the condition of 82 per cent shows that oats progressed better during June, with more seasonable weather, and the outlook now is for a harvest of 32,372,000 bushels, compared with the 1926 crop of 31,810,000 bushels.

With the winter wheat harvest close at hand, the out-turn is expected to be larger than last year and above the average. Latest information places the acreage for harvest at 920,000 acres, with a condition of 88 per cent, which forecasts a total production of 18,378,000 bushels. Since the intended acreage of winter wheat could not be sown last fall, the spring wheat acreage was increased from 5,000 acres in 1926 to 9,000 acres this year. This acreage indicates 140,000 bushels of spring wheat as Michigan's crop this year.

The barley acreage in Michigan this year is 190,000 acres, or 57,000 acres above last year, and the condition is two per cent above average, so that with average weather conditions until harvest time a crop of 4,817,000 bushels will be realized.

Tame hay acreage in Michigan is one per cent larger than a year ago and is now nearly up to the large acreages of a few years ago. The increase came from larger plantings of alfalfa, sweet clover, legumes and smaller classes rather than from clover and timothy, which showed an acreage lower than in 1926. The forecast from 4,097,000 acres of tame hay is 4,372,000 tons, or 275,000 tons more than cut last year.

The disastrous weather conditions last fall caused such heavy losses to bean growers that some have reduced their acreage this year and only 662,000 acres were planted, compared with 728,000 acres planted in 1926. However, the heavy abandonment last fall reduced the harvested acreage to 552,000 acres, from which 6,624,000 bushels of beans were harvested, the salable portion of which was approximately 5,300,000 bushels. The condition on July 1 was 11 per cent below average at 75, and this condition forecasts a crop this year of 6,206,000 bushels.

A sugar beet condition of 81 per cent forecasts 778,000 tons of beets from an acreage of 117,000. Last year's production was 793,000 tons.

Michigan growers increased their potato acreage 12 per cent this year and planted 279,000 acres. Although a marked increase, this acreage is still considerably under the ten-year average. The July 1st condition was 85 per cent of normal, which is three per cent below the ten-year average, and forecasts a production of 29,644,000 bushels; however, July 1st is too early to give accurate indications of the final crop.

The outlook for the apple crop declined heavily during June, due to cold and cloudy weather, which interfered with pollination, and much fruit either failed to set or dropped shortly after setting. Scab is prevalent. The condition is only 48 per cent now, which forecasts a short crop of 6,743,000 bushels, of which 1,128,000 barrels is rated as commercial. This is 2,302,000 bushels short of last year's total crop and 361,000 barrels short of the commercial crop.

The peach crop will be light and is largely confined to orchards close to Lake Michigan and other select exposures in southwestern counties. The forecast is less than half the 1926 crop at 607,000 bushels on a condition of 35 per cent. Elberta, the leading commercial variety, is reported to have a very light setting.

The pear crop outlook is also discouraging, following a heavy drop, and the remaining scab-infected fruit. From a condition of 43 per cent a crop of 580,000 bushels is expected, compared with last year's crop of 889,000 bushels.

The sour cherry crop was hurt hit by spring freezes and the crop is very light in important sections, with less than one-half a crop everywhere in the state. The sweet varieties are better and show 60 per cent of a crop in many localities.

Among the other fruits the grape crop was injured more than expected and is backward in growth. Only about one-half of last year's plum crop is expected. Dry weather threatened blackberries and raspberries, but recent rains have improved the prospective production.

The United States corn crop will be the shortest since 1906 and the prospects are for a very short crop of fruits. Reports on other crops were more favorable.

Chiropractic Restores to Normal Conditions

CHIROPRACTORS do not treat effects, disease, people or anything else. They fix, adjust, repair, put to rights, replace to normal conditions. Effects can only be treated. CAUSES CANNOT BE TREATED. They must be made right by replacing the subluxated (displaced) bones where they belong. A person has a headache—the old way would be to treat the headache. The CHIROPRACTOR finds a subluxated cervical vertebra pressing on the nerves, causing the ache. He gives an adjustment, the pressure on the nerves is relieved and the ache ceases. Inaction of painful sensations of stomach, liver, kidneys and other organs are caused by nerves being pinched at their exit from the spinal column. Relieving the pressure allows mental impulse to act and flow uninterruptedly to the various organs. Digestion, assimilation and circulation are improved; strength, vigor and tone are given to the physical and mental thus making men and women better prepared to perform their business avocations and to enjoy life. CHIROPRACTIC is for YOU. Give it a fair trial and you will be more than satisfied.

The Neurocalometer locates the nerve pressure where the cause of your disease exists. CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS given according to the NEUROCALOMETER relieves the pressure upon the nerves, which results in a 100% function to the diseased organs. And HEALTH is the RESULT. IF you are in doubt that CHIROPRACTIC will help your condition, consult your LOCAL CHIROPRACTOR and he will tell you TAKE CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS FIRST, not last, and enjoy good HEALTH. ACUTE cases respond very readily to CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS.

Questions and Answers

- Q. Have Chiropractors been successful in dealing with the "flu"?
- A. Absolutely. During the epidemic of 1918 when a severe type of "flu" prevailed very few cases were lost by Chiropractors. A wonderful record was made.
- Q. Can you do anything for Asthma?
- A. Yes, good results have been obtained in such cases. When the vertebrae are adjusted and the pressure is removed from the great nerve trunk supplying your bronchial tubes your breathing difficulties will eventually leave.
- Q. Are Chiropractors successful in cases of insanity and other mental disturbances?
- A. Yes. Misplaced vertebrae cause nerve pressure and in many cases insanity and other mental disturbances result. There are at least two Chiropractic Psychopathic sanitariums in this country. Only Chiropractic methods are employed in them. Only mental cases are taken. Remarkable results are being obtained constantly. Competent Chiropractors also handle mental cases in their regular practice.
- Q. Can catarrh be relieved by Chiropractic Adjustments?
- A. Certainly. Catarrh of any tissue or organ is simply a weakened condition caused by lack of enervation. When the nerves supplying such parts are freed from pressure and life-giving nerve force is turned on to the catarrhal membranes, they become healthy and strong again. This holds true not only with throats and stomachs, but with all other parts of the body.
- Q. What can Chiropractic Adjustments do for an inward goiter?
- A. There are several kinds of goiter. Chiropractors have very good results with all kinds if taken in their earlier stages. Well-developed goiters do not respond so satisfactorily to Chiropractic.
- Q. Is Chiropractic successful with Yellow Jaundice?
- A. Yes, we have splendid success with Yellow Jaundice. This is a liver or gall bladder condition. The cause is a misplaced joint of the spine causing pressure upon nerve trunks to the liver. Through our Adjustments splendid results are obtained.
- Q. If my heart is diseased will Chiropractic Adjustments help me?
- A. In a majority of heart diseases, yes. The heart does its work perfectly and remains healthy and strong as long as the nerves supplying life to it are not interfered with by pressure. Chiropractic Adjustments will remove that pressure.
- Q. I am troubled with gas and constipation. I have tried all kinds of drugs and dieting without any help. What would you advise?
- A. Your digestive organs are sick. They are not receiving their supply of life from the nervous system. A Chiropractor will correct this and you will have no further trouble.
- Q. Do you get results in acute diseases like pneumonia?
- A. Yes, and our best results are obtained with such cases. They respond very rapidly to our methods, while chronic diseases like asthma, rheumatism and paralysis recover more slowly. These, however, recover by allowing more time and Adjustments.
- Q. How do you explain that boils or carbuncles could be helped by Chiropractic Adjustments?
- A. These are conditions of faulty elimination. People who are troubled with faulty elimination have one or more sick vital organs. For example, let us assume that the kidneys are diseased. They do not work properly. Elimination is not thorough. The result will be boils, carbuncles, pimples, sores and skin eruptions. If that part of the spine affecting nerves to the kidneys is corrected, normal elimination will result. Chiropractic removes the cause of these troubles.
- Q. How can Chiropractic Adjustments affect my liver?
- A. In the same way you press the electric button in the wall and see the light turned on several feet from the button. When the misplaced vertebra (small bone of the spine) is put back into place the human electricity or nerve force is turned on to the sick liver and it at once begins to get well. The twist in the spine pinches the nerve trunk and stops the vital force from flowing normally.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Simmons returned home last week, after several days' visit with Mr. Simmons' brother in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walker, Mrs. Edna and two children of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Wm. Appling of Northland, Mich., spent Thursday and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stevens.

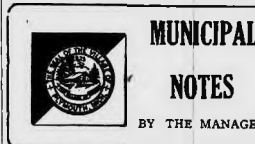

Mrs. Albert Stevens of Plymouth, called at the home of her sons, Edgar and Calvin, last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stevens and children drove to the Irish Hills, Sunday afternoon, calling on Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Lewis at Chelsea, on their way home.

Miss Hazel Lomas spent last week with her aunt, Mrs. Hepp, in Detroit.

Mrs. John B. Campbell of Detroit, visited her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Campbell, at Mrs. Henry Grimm's, Sr., Tuesday.

There was quite a crowd at school meeting Monday. The result of the election was as follows: Director, Alfred Bakewell; treasurer, Donald Ryder; moderator, Wm. Lomas. They decided to sell the house that is on the school grounds, making more room for play grounds.

The wind-storm of Tuesday afternoon caused quite a lot of damage to trees and Edison wires. A large branch off of a 24-inch maple tree in front of 193 Main street was blown down across the D. U. R. trolley wire. A large maple tree on the northwest corner of Maple and Hamilton streets was broken off by the wind, and completely blocked Hamilton avenue. These trees were both removed by the village men. A 10-inch maple tree on the southwest corner of Wing and Main streets, which had been transplanted about a month ago, was completely uprooted, and fell east across the west side of Main street. This tree was raised and put back in its place again.

The D. U. R. are now removing the poles on Ann Arbor street. They intend to remove the remaining ties on this street, at once.

The village is being held up with the building of their underground work since there are no paving petitions being received. If we can't get the underground work in this year, there will not be any pavements laid next season.

The risk is greater than the saving and not worth while when the home, eyesight or maybe life itself is endangered by "home cleaning" of apparel or fabrics to save a few cents.

Let us do your dry cleaning—first because ours are the most modern methods—therefore best; second, because we can do it so much better because we are equipped to do such work; and third, because we can give you prompt service at very lowest prices—and really much more cheaply than you can do it at home. ### AUTHORIZED DISTRIBUTORS

FORD BENZOL for All Motor Cars

"Better than any gasoline for all makes of cars."

MORE POWER

Because it has more available heat or power units per gallon than gasoline.

MORE MILES PER GALLON

Because it burns more completely. Benzol has a tendency to vaporize more completely and therefore operates on a leaner mixture to the best advantage.

GREATER EASE IN STARTING

Because it vaporizes more rapidly and therefore mixes more readily with the carburetor air, thus forming an explosive mixture more quickly.

For PERFECT performance—REAL driving pleasure—ECONOMICAL operation use Ford Benzol for any make of car.

SMOOTHER RUNNING MOTOR

Because the expanding properties of Benzol within the piston chamber produce a constant pressure stroke rather than a sharp explosion stroke which dies before it is completed.

LESS CARBON—NO KNOCK

On account of the toluol content which tends to dissolve the carbon in each charge as it is burned. The absence of knocks is evidence of this.

LESS CRANKCASE DILUTION

Since quicker vaporization and complete burning allow no flooding of the cylinders and consequent thinning of the crankcase oil.

LESS MOTOR TROUBLE

Because better lubrication, less carbon and smoother action insure a longer lived motor.

PROVING THE VALUE OF LITTLE THINGS

Misplaced and Missing Letters as Examples.

What's in a letter? A good deal, if the letter is inserted in the wrong place in a news dispatch, or if it is missing. So the Manchester Guardian discovered when it reported that "Elihu Root died on Tuesday, his eighty-second birthday, at his home in New York." It was no fault of the Guardian that in cabling the message the letter "n," which apparently needed a guardian, had been lost. The message should have read: "Elihu Root died on Tuesday, his eighty-second birthday, at his home in New York."

By being a w. o. l. this little letter completely changed the purport of the dispatch. Had it occupied its proper place, as did Mr. Root at the dinner table, readers of the Manchester paper would have known that he was not dead. They would have received assurance, moreover, that he was able to sit up and take nourishment. Indeed, if the truth were known, it is entirely probable that the statesman ate an extraordinarily hearty meal in celebrating his eighty-second birthday, such a meal as no dead man and few octogenarians have ever consumed.

This is not by any means the first time that an errant or wrongly placed letter has led to misunderstanding and embarrassment. Commas and other punctuation marks have caused all kinds of mistakes in meaning and set a few legal tangles, and even spacing between words has produced disarming results, as in a line of poetry by Ella Wheeler Wilcox intended to read, "My soul is a lighthouse keeper." The typographical error which caused the line to appear, "My soul is a light housekeeper," indicates why poets, as a rule, die young. But she had no greater reason for perturbation than did Mark Twain—a report of whose death was also prematurely circulated, and humorously denied—when the editor of his first published manuscript printed the name of the author as "Mark Swain." Not only is it necessary to watch one's "p's and q's," but also one's "t's and n's." However, it is fortunate for Mr. Root and for the country that mistakes in spelling, though they may result in an erroneous report of a man's death, are not so serious as mistakes in medicine or surgery.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Motor Organ Players

Pipe organs are now played by electric motors so skillfully that listeners in a recent demonstration at the great architectural show in New York were unable to tell the difference between machine operation and manual playing by an artist at the console. The motor compresses air which is released by a perforated paper roll crossing a slotted bar. Each release makes an electrical connection which is commutated to one of the organ keys or controls, thus replacing the touch of fingers and feet. The new mechanism makes it possible for theaters, lodges, and public halls to employ large pipe organs without musicians.

Catapult Airplanes

To save time, it is suggested that Atlantic liners approaching their ports should discharge small airplanes laden with specially urgent mails and parcels, or, in exceptional cases, even passengers. It has already been proved that airplanes can be launched from the confined decks of ships by the catapult system.

It has been shown that airplanes with no human being on board can be propelled on to objects thirty-five miles distant, and it is expected that this range will shortly be increased to one hundred miles.

Corbina Furnishes Sport

The corbina, or surf, is well known to beach fishermen on the Pacific coast. This fish, gamey and fastidious, the golden trout of the shore, is well worth the efforts of the sportsman. When hooked it will put up a splendid fight and will do everything except stand on its head to escape. During the season, rock worms and sand crabs are in great demand for corbina bait. Packages of bait are reserved days ahead by enthusiastic surf fishermen, and there is a great deal of competition for the largest fish.—H. R. Peterson in Adventure Magazine.

Electricity in the South

Tremendous forward strides in industry and agriculture that have been taken by the South are illustrated by the fact that five southeastern states, including Alabama and Georgia, increased their electric power consumption 2,500 per cent between 1912 and 1926. This is partially due to stimulation of farming, mining and steel making; and the fact that more than half the cotton weaving spindles of the nation are now in the South. It is anticipated that the increase in electric power consumption by 1935 will have reached 6,000 per cent.

Thoughtful Wife

A South Carver citizen offers this contribution as the best joke of the week. He arrived home from work to find himself locked out. After considerable trouble he succeeded in prying open a window, through which he entered and found a note from his wife on the table. The note read: "I have gone to the movies! Will be back at 10:30. You will find the key under the big stone at the right of the doorstep."—Boston Globe.

If these young Americans don't stop these flying stunts they are going to turn all the big city newspapers into aviation sheets.

No Pleasure in Trip

With Horse and Baggy

The passing of the horse has been brought again to attention through the experiment of a New England farmer who has hitherto resisted the metallic call of the motor car. His experiences in making a 100-mile trip with a horse and baggy are recounted by the Woman's Home Companion.

When he last jogged over the same route, 42 years ago, it was a simple enough journey, with pleasant leisure on the highway and simplified comfort at the wayside inns. But this time the 100-mile drive was a queer stunt, racking the nerves and even fraught with hardships.

Refreshment for man and beast, the traveler soon learned, is now but a tradition. There is still plenty for man if his digestion be strong, what with hot-dog stands and chicken-and-waffle houses, but where is the kindly watering trough? Oil and gas flow at every cross-roads, but oats and hay have become scarce and elusive. Where once the hitching post stood sturdy and staunch, the "No Parking" sign now leers from behind a double row of parked cars.

The old farmer reports that every hotel now boasts its garage, but the clerk raises an eyebrow when he is asked to stable a horse. The farmer found himself constantly crowded into the ditch by whizzing automobiles. The hard paving made the horse's feet sore, and by the end of the 100 miles all four shoes were worn out.

Whiskers and Decadence

Representative La Guardia was talking about Mussolini's recent declaration that whiskers mean decadence.

"There's a story that bears Mussolini out," said Mr. La Guardia, "for it shows that whiskers mean uncleanness, and what is more decadent than that?"

The scene of this story is a brigands' camp in Sicily. A brigand points his knife at a young Roman captive and says to his bultheaded old chief:

"That pioneer there, chief, combs his hair every morning. Haw, haw, haw!"

"The chief looked astonished. 'How can the fellow stand it?' he said. 'Why, I only comb my whiskers once a month, and then it nearly pulls my chin off.'"

Youthful Expert

Little Margaret Hill, of Portland, Maine, is believed to be the youngest talking machine operator. She is two years old and she has been operating the machine since she was one and one-half, having taught herself and become an expert in the face of strenuous opposition. She winds the machine, deftly places the record, and adjusts the needles and no one is quicker to detect when it is running down. She treats herself and her family to long concerts ranging from operatic arias, to rhymes and jingles by Mother Goose. Her latest achievement was tuning in on the radio, says the Boston Globe.

Plan Historic Carving

Mount Rushmore, in the Black hills of South Dakota, will have huge busts of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt carved out of its granite face to commemorate important phases of American history. Congress has approved the project, which was originally intended to be a national monument to Washington. An unusual interest in the plan resulted in the present arrangement, which is devised to perpetuate the founding of the country, its expansion, its preservation and the digging of the Panama canal. Each figure will be sixty feet high.

Wind Played Little Joke

A Pittsfield (Mass.) parson was awakened by the roar of a fire whistle which shattered the early Sabbath silence. Hastily slipping from bed, he rushed to a front window to see what the sky might tell him. In the meantime a gentle breeze closed his bedroom door. The spring lock snapped and the parson was left out in the cold parish house with his keys and his clothes beyond his reach. And there he stayed for more than two hours until aid arrived in the form of the sexton with an extra key, relates the Boston Globe.

Beef Favorite Meat

In a recent survey of American kitchens undertaken by the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States Department of Agriculture to determine the preferences of the meat-consuming public in sixteen representative cities, two-thirds of the native white populations put beef first on their marketing list. Pork, lamb and veal came next in the order named. Five per cent of this group ate no meat at all. This vegetable tendency was noted by the home economics experts to increase as the standard of living of the families rose.

Makes 1,500 Arrests

James Black, ex-superintendent of police of Birmingham, England, recently celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the day he joined the city police force. He has arrested more than 1,500 criminals, ranging from petty thefts to murder and treason. His first important case was that of Michael Davitt, who smuggled arms into Ireland in 1870. Black's diary for the thirteen years following contains records of Fenian plottings and of his thwarting of attempts to blow up the houses of parliament and government buildings in Whitcomb.

THE CHURCH ON TOP. TUBERCULOSIS AND CANCER. WHO WILL RIDE? WHEN OLD AND POOR.

Man builds the house for God to dwell therein was the old idea. The modern idea is a combination skyscraper church, stores, offices, apartments, swimming pools, gymnasium. New York's Manhattan Congregational church will spend $2,000,000 on such a building, twenty-three stories high. The clergymen will live on the ground floor.

The Frenchman, Doctor Calmette, has developed an anti-tuberculosis vaccine, so successful that its use for all children is suggested.

There is no injection of tuberculosis germs. The vaccine merely "suggests" the disease, and rouses to activity the anti-tubercular bacilli in the body. The new remedy, called "BCG," was tried on monkeys and other animals for thirteen years in Pasteur institute before experiments were made on humans. "BCG" is said to reduce consumption in twenty-five cases out of twenty-six.

The famous American doctor, William J. Mayo, believes that science will find a way to immunize against cancer. A woman, Doctor Maud Slye, of Chicago, has bred mice in which cancer can be by no means developed, and other mice invariably born with cancer.

When consumption and cancer are conquered, as they will be, men will be rid of their most deadly microscopic enemies. They already know how to deal with the deadly plagues from Asia, one of which, "the black death," wiped out nearly half the population of Europe.

Commercial flying, including ocean flights, may become a reality soon. Commander Byrd was besieged by would-be passengers willing to pay "any price" if he would take them to Europe. Young Lindbergh casually flew from St. Louis on a little trip to New York via Washington.

Bellanca, the Italian genius, builder of the Chamberlin-Lerine airplane, is building airships for a commercial air line between Chicago and New York. Five ships are ordered, guaranteed to make the trip in seven and a half hours. Each car will carry twelve passengers, have three engines, and cost $28,500.

When you ask yourself, "Who will ride in them?" remember that when the French built the railroad from Paris to Versailles actors and actresses were hired to sit in the train looking out of the windows, smiling as though they enjoyed it. And when the first elevator with a steel column under it was installed in the Grand hotel in Paris, about sixty years ago, old French ladies and gentlemen continued to walk upstairs to the fifth floor.

The world is a sad place for the old and poor, and children are cruel.

Long years ago Anna Noveke sang before the Emperor Franz Joseph in Vienna. Now, seventy-seven years old, she is ejected from her one-room dwelling, "not so much because she doesn't pay her rent, but because she had twenty cats in the room with her."

Bent, old and gray, she stood on the sidewalk with her twenty forlorn cats, and children that called her "old witch" threw stones at her. A year ago as she hurried along the street to work they tripped her and broke her shoulder. She had been earning $1.60 a day doing fine embroidery. Cold charity will take care of her somehow—or at least see that the cats do not starve.

If past forty please read. The head of the American College of Surgeons says: "After forty comes the dangerous age."

Five great dangers that threaten you are kidney trouble, heart disease, tuberculosis, Bright's disease and paralysis.

It is possible, but fortunately unusual, to have all of them. Also with a little thought and common sense you may avoid all of them, or get rid of them if they haven't gone too far.

For all diseases there are five remedies: Fresh air, cheerful thought, moderate exercise, slow, temperate eating, regular sleep.

PAIGE OBTAINS MODERN WAYNE BODY FACTORY.

Another important advance in the plans for expansion of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company was revealed recently with announcement of purchase of the Wayne body plant by the motor company from the new Paige heads, the Graham brothers.

The transaction was closed without profit to the Grahams, the three brothers having turned the plant over to the motor company at the same advantageous price at which they purchased it shortly after initial announcement of their plans to obtain control of Paige and return to the automobile manufacturing field. In the meantime workmen under the direction of the Grahams have been busily engaged enlarging the plant and preparing for installation of modern machinery for the manufacture of custom automobile bodies on a quantity basis.

The move is further assurance that the Grahams are actively pursuing their previously announced plans to make the Paige company one of the leaders in the industry.

Shortly after entering into the original contract by which we later gained control of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company we took advantage of the opportunity to purchase the Wayne body plant at a very fair figure," Robert C. Graham, speaking for the brothers, said. "At that time we announced that we would proceed immediately to remodel the plant and install the machinery and personnel necessary to make it a thoroughly modern body plant and turn it over to the company at the exact figure at which we purchased it, plus the cost of improvements during the intervening period. We have followed out this program and the body plant is now a part of the Paige company, giving the motor company a new branch which cannot but prove an asset to it."

The Wayne plant, acquired by the Grahams from Wayne Body corporation, was built by Harroun Motors and recently was appraised at $1,250,000. The original plant affords 200,000 square feet of floor space and an addition of 40,000 square feet is under construction. The site embraces 40 acres, 30 minutes by motor from the Paige-Detroit plant. It is just west of the Wayne city limits on Michigan avenue, giving a wide thoroughfare into Detroit for motor transport. Main lines of the Michigan Central and Pere Marquette enter the grounds over switch connections to the loading platforms.

Both the plant and its surroundings are unusually attractive to labor. The plant is of the all-day-light type and is equipped with a modern sprinkler system throughout. The town of Wayne affords a fine community center for the employees, with workmen's homes well above the average, being neat and roomy and having plenty of garden space. Capacity production at the body plant, with a force of 1,000 skilled men, is expected to be reached during the fall of this year.

WHITE-COLLAR JOB NOT ALWAYS BEST

Comparison of Youth in City and Country.

The woman's father, her grandfather and her great-grandfather, each in his turn, had cleared a piece of land, made a farm of it and wrested from it a living for himself and his family. The woman herself had been born on a farm. Now she was visiting a branch of the family in the Middle West.

The farm work was in the hands of a seventeen-year-old son, and it was harvest time. The morning after the woman's arrival she was awakened by the sound of a tractor and a harvesting machine, and after breakfast she and her hostess, the boy's mother, went out to the field.

On the seat of the tractor sat the boy, driving, and beside him Rex, the dog, his tongue hanging out, and every muscle tense with interest and delight.

"It was a big field—acres and acres of grain," says the woman. "It had been no small task for the boy to sow and care for it, and it seemed to me a heavy undertaking for one of his age to harvest it. The machines made too much noise to allow us to talk, but every time he came round to where his mother and I were stacking the sheaves he smiled, and there was a look on his face that thrilled me. It said, 'I can do it!'"

"As he sat there on the seat of his tractor, swaying easily to the irregular motion, flushed with the heat and wet with sweat, he seemed to me to represent the very spirit of youth as we like to think of it, self-poised, confident and unconquerable; and the tractor seemed a more fitting chariot than a sport roadster would have been.

"Then I came back to the East and to the city and saw the long columns of little advertisements under the heading 'Situations Wanted,' 'Good-looking, well-dressed youth, quick at figures, desires position in bank,' 'Young man, high school and business college education, desires position as bookkeeper or stenographer.' And I found so many upstanding, sturdy, good-looking young men running elevators! I can't help wondering what future they see for themselves. To be sure, an elevator man is 'going up' a part of the time, but he always comes down again; and it is not at the top that he comes to rest, but at the bottom.

"I find myself frequently recalling the picture of the boy on the tractor. He wasn't asking anyone for a job or a 'position.' He was making his own, and bossing it himself. Somehow he brings to mind the answer that Dallas O'Mara, the young artist of Edna Ferber's 'So Big,' made to the architect whose mother had smoothed his every path by her own hard work:

"Some day I'll probably marry a horny-handed son of toll, and if I do it'll be the hands that will win me. . . . I like 'em with the scars on them. There's something about a man who has fought for it; I don't know what it is—the look in his eye, the feel of his hand. He needn't have been successful, though he probably would be. I well, you haven't a mark on you—not a mark. You're all smooth. I like 'em bumpy.'"—Youth's Companion.

General Suspicion

"It's a strange thing," said a New York actor, "but Rudolph Valentino always had a horror of appendicitis operations. He always suspected them. Well, since his death this suspicion keeps growing sharper and sharper in the general public's mind.

"Fact is, the general public's attitude towards appendicitis is illustrated in a paragraph in a country weekly that said:

"Our esteemed fellow-townsmen, H. Smith Jones, president of the First National bank and proprietor of the Jones blast furnaces, will be operated on tomorrow for appendicitis by the world-renowned surgeon, Cutler Berry, M. D. Mr. Jones will leave a widow and three children."—Detroit Free Press.

Wise-Cracking Nut

"Two naval balloonists were drifting low over land one day," writes Lieut. Walter Hinton, famous aviator, in an article in Liberty. "Passing a group of buildings that appeared to be an almshouse or possibly an institution for the demented, they sought to determine their exact location by learning its name. One of them leaned over the edge of the basket and shouted to a man on the ground:

"Hey, there! Where are we?"

"Throwing back his head until the aeronauts could see his collar button, the man replied:

"Ah, you can't fool me; you're up there in that balloon, and I am not half so crazy as you."

Thirteen o'Clock

In Poe's famous tale, "The Devil in the Belfry," a sensation is caused in the quaint Dutch town of Vondervat timetis when the tower clock strikes thirteen. But thirteen o'clock has become a European commonplace. The state railroads and postal service and telegraphs of the German reich have now decided to adopt the twenty-four-hour clock, already in use in France, Italy and other countries. In speech, however, the old system generally maintains, thirteen o'clock still being called one o'clock and twenty-four o'clock twelve. The twenty-four arrangement applies largely to print.

It is Like That.

A thrifty young fellow named Fred hid a quart of gin under the bed. But the cork it corroded. The bottle exploded, and blew the hair off his head.

Perhaps Home Talent.

"Did that play have a happy ending?"

"Yes, everybody was happy when it was over."

Indian Hunters Made Good Use of Blow-Gun

The blow-gun was a curious weapon used for bird-hunting among certain tribes of North American Indians. It was usually made of cane, some 11 feet in length, with a bore of around half an inch. The darts were about 2 feet in length, made of hardwood and "feathered" with some kind of vegetable fiber.

As far as we know the use of the blow-gun within the boundaries of what is now the United States was confined to such tribes as the Cherokee, Choctaw, Yuchi, Hama and other Muskogean tribes dwelling in the southern states. The Iroquois also used it, their guns being made of alder stems 4 and 6 feet in length, the arrows being slender slivers of pointed wood from 8 inches to 2 feet in length and "feathered" with the down or floss of the thistle. These tubes were used solely for bird-shooting, and were never poisoned or used against human adversaries.

A magical formula was recited by the Cherokee bird-hunter as he stood before his fire—which he addressed as "Ancient White"—rubbing his hands together as he repeated the prayer. Before starting on the hunt seven blow-gun arrows were first prepared in order that he might have them in readiness for the work at hand.

One of the seven was a short one, a magical arrow which he shot away at random, making no attempt to follow its flight, giving it to the powers that be as sort of a propitiatory gift. Then the hunter uttered a peculiar blessing sound which was supposed to draw the birds to him. The favorite hunting method was to climb into a gum tree, haunted by the smaller birds for its berries, and there ensconce himself and pick off the birds as they feasted. When all of his darts were used up he dropped to the ground, drew the shafts from the bodies of the slain birds and repeated the performance.—Mr. Woodward in Adventure Magazine.

Paper Bricks for Houses

Houses of paper may be possible with the development of a new process recently perfected by Yovan Peshitch, a Serbian sculptor. Paper is the principal ingredient in his method of making brick, he says, although he uses seven other ingredients, which are kept secret by the inventor. He claims that the bricks are waterproof, that the material cannot be damaged by nailing and that it is especially suitable for buildings one and two stories in height. Peshitch says that the brick may be made economically. The possibility of the success of the idea is shown by the fact that paper fire buckets and paper car wheels have been in use for many years, say those interested in its development.

"Electric Home" in Paris

The American "electric home," which was presented, complete to the last shingle and lamp, to the French nation two years ago by American manufacturers, has finally found a location in the Paris Latin quarter, where the government made room for it. The Buenvenete, Francaise, which is a society to encourage good will between France and the world, uses the electric home as its headquarters, and will there entertain visitors from everywhere. The home, in crates and boxes, has been in France for a long time awaiting a site. It is equipped with the latest things in switches and toasters and lights for the travelers of the world to enjoy.

Moving Work Bench

The mile-and-a-half-long main conveyor line of the great Highland Park auto plant gets more attention from visitors than anything else, yet few know that this moving platform is controlled by electric-light signals. Because of the great length of this conveyor line and the heavy weights carried, 12 electric motors are needed to operate it. But unless all of these motors operate together the conveyor line, instead of moving, will break. To obviate this a series of electric lights has been placed above the electric motors so that they may all be started simultaneously.—Detroit Free Press.

THE THEATRE

"SENORITA"

Bebe Daniels has done it again! The fascinating Bebe has not only scored another triumph but has given new proof of her versatility. In her latest Paramount picture "Senorita," which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre Sunday and Monday, July 17 and 18, Bebe appears in a distinctively different role.

"Senorita" is unquestionably one of the best things that Bebe Daniels has done, for in this picture Bebe has had an opportunity that surpasses any she has had in her recent pictures. In the first place the story was written expressly for her, and in it she is said to realize an ambition of several years standing.

As the glass smashing fury of "A Kiss in A Taxi," we saw a fiery, tempestuous Bebe Daniels. Here we have a dashing, swaggering, high-spirited "gentleman" of ancient family, who proves "himself" more of a man than the sons of the pampas themselves without ever losing the glorious charm of her femininity.

The story of "Senorita" is a rollicking romantic comedy of love and adventure in South America. Bebe herself, is in the role of a North American girl of Spanish ancestry who visits her paternal grandfather at the ancestral home in South America. Upon her arrival she learns that her grandfather has always understood her to be a boy and that for her to appear in other guise would break his old heart.

With characteristic impulsiveness she masquerades as a boy and appears to her grandfather in that guise. Situation follows situation in bewildering sequence. Not only is she accepted as a boy but finds herself in a position where she must make good as the youthful head of the family. She does, to the satisfaction of everybody concerned.

Bebe plays the masculine role with skill and a conviction that is refreshing. Opposite her is James Hall, her hero of "The Campus Flirt" and "Stranded In Paris," doing some of the best work of his sensational screen record.

William Powell, that smooth, suave villain of society drama is seen in one of his best roles as the swaggering bully of the pampas.

Joan Standing, Josef Swickard and Raoul Paoli complete the cast. Clarence Badger directed from the original screen story by John McDermott.

Picked Up About Town

"The only animal in the world that has a hind-sight is the mule," says Dad Plymouth, "and he kicks about it."

Maybe some time a wise legislature will decree that it is not murder to slay the fellow who is always asking: "Is it hot enough for you?"

In Africa it costs eight spearheads to buy a wife. In this country a single bonehead can get one any time.

"It won't be long now," says Dad Plymouth, "until last June's graduates will be far enough out in the world to realize how little they know."

"I suppose Eve was just like the rest of the grandmas," comments Dad Plymouth, "in that she was always telling her grandchildren how wrong it was to steal apples."

"The trouble with the man who is always yelling for a square deal," asserts Dad Plymouth, "is that he always wants to umpire the deal."

Dad Plymouth insists that the fellow who toots his horn the loudest doesn't always have the biggest bank account.

Another trouble about a coal strike is it has to last a long time before anybody gets excited about it.

College students who think they are pulling something new in advocating "trial marriages" only show how young they really are. They'll learn that most of these modern marriages are only trials.

"THE LADY IN ERMINE"

How would you decide if you were a bride of three hours and your husband's life was to be forfeited for his country, but you could save it by paying the highest price that can be asked of womanhood?

Would you pay the price or see your husband shot?

That is the dramatic situation that confronts Corinne Griffith, as Countess Mariana Murillo, in her newest emotional drama of war, "The Lady in Ermine," which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Wednesday, July 20th.

Playing what is considered the greatest emotional characterization of her whole motion picture career, Miss Griffith's newest dramatic offering is laid amid a martial background of Italy during the Austrian invasion of 1830.

Dealing with an incident that really occurred during that colorful war, the film again gives the famous star an opportunity to appear in settings of regal magnificence and splendor in the type of role in which she is considered best fitted. Supporting her in this vivid picturization of armed conflict is an ideally chosen cast, including Francis X. Bushman, Einar Hanson, Ward Crane, Charles Sellon, Jane Keckley and Bert Sprotte.

"THE OUTLAWS OF RED RIVER"

"Outlaws of Red River," which comes to the Penniman Allen theatre, Saturday, July 23rd, with Tom Mix in the stellar role is a western thriller of a kind that is sure to please even the sophisticated theatre-lover. For it is a picture that has a story which interested millions of readers when it first appeared as a magazine feature. Transferred to the screen the story gains in suspense, thrill and humor, and is easily one of the best film offerings of recent months.

It deals with the life of Tom Morely, played by Mix, who as a boy was forced to helplessly watch the killing of his foster parents and the abduction of his foster sister. Grown to manhood he joins the Texas Rangers and soon becomes known as the Falcon, because of his almost uncanny ability to hunt down outlaws. But all his talents in this direction seem useless when it comes to finding his lost foster sister.

At last he is given orders by his commanding officer to bring to justice a gang of outlaws who raid the surrounding country from a secret valley somewhere along the Red River.

While hunting them he discovers that they make use of a beautiful girl spy to inform them when the stage coaches bear treasure. How he discovers the identity of this girl and tracks the outlaws to their valley is told in a series of breath taking episodes, admirably touched with humor. Marjorie Daw and a cast of screen favorites support Mix.

Today's Reflections

Despite the auto, a farmer's idea of a useless dude still consists of a fellow who can't harness a horse.

We've never learned the secret of how a Plymouth woman can look cool on a hot day when she isn't and warm on a cold day when she is freezing to death.

Elbow length gloves are fashionable when they wrinkle at the elbows, but it's different with knee-length stockings.

Love may not make the world go around, but you'll have to admit that it makes a lot of people look giddy.

Plymouth parents can tell you that in a home where there are five or six kids there isn't any need in buying antique furniture.

Next to teaching a calf to drink milk out of a bucket, the most fun comes in watching a girl chase a calf out of a flower bed.

There is a closed season for bass and trout but you can fish for compliments all the year round.

One reason we'd like to be president is because when a president goes fishing they won't let anybody else fish in the same creek.

It won't be long now until the hardest thing our aviators will have to do will be to find some place to go.

Why is it that the Plymouth man who is careless with his clothes is always careful to see that the hair is brushed over the bald spot on his head?

How many of you around Plymouth can remember when all a man had to do to be a presidential possibility was to be born in a log cabin?

Courts are funny. They swear a man to tell the truth and every time he starts doing it some lawyer objects.

Don't forget that when you call the other fellow a knocker you become one yourself. It's best to keep on sawing wood.

We never saw a horse laugh, but when a horse sees a four-year-old filver staggering along the street in Plymouth it must be hard for him to keep from it.

It appears that the proper definition of a "Christian nation" is one in which a prize-fighter makes more money than a preacher.

GRAHAM BROTHERS REPORT HIGHEST SALES RECORD FOR YEAR IN JUNE.

June sales shipments of Graham Brothers trucks and commercial cars to Dodge Brothers dealers, who sell and service them throughout the world, broke all previous monthly records for the year, the company announces. The total of 5,730 Graham Brothers units produced and shipped during the 24 working days of the month exceeded the record month of May and brought Graham Brothers sales for the first six months of the year to the huge total of 29,677 trucks and commercial cars.

The June record is all the more noteworthy when it is known that in previous years truck sales in general have shown a falling off in June over earlier months of the year. Graham Brothers 1927 sales curve, however, has shown an upward trend since January 1st and dealers report that prospects are bright for even higher sales during the second half of the year.

The present great demand for trucks follows a series of remarkable improvements in design and appearance which add to the qualities of dependability, strength and long life—for which Graham Brothers trucks have always been noted—even greater economy, more power, speed and striking beauty. Despite these advances, prices have remained at the same low level for three-quarter, one, one and a half and two-ton capacity models.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

DON'T HOLD WAKE FOR DEAD ISSUES.

The Rev. Edwin Du Bose Mouzon, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, speaking recently in St. Paul, deplored the division of north and south in his denomination.

He said: "It looks as if we Methodists might come to the Kingdom at such a time as this if we might fling our differences away and move like a mighty army. It is now probable that the Methodist Church South will not have the necessary majority to carry out the unification plan at this time. This adverse vote means not a failure, but simply a delay in getting together."

The Methodist church was split into the divisions of north and south by the issue of slavery. That issue is now dead. But the division continues by the force of momentum.

As far as that is concerned, almost all the differences in denominations at present are over dead issues, questions which were once very much alive, but which have now passed out of general interest.

Nobody knows or cares much now about the subjects which separated the Methodist from the Episcopal church, the Baptist from the Presbyterian, or which otherwise were the original issues upon which denominations were founded. The fences which divide religious people are almost all made of dead timber.

If anyone were to go into a Presbyterian, a Methodist, or a Congregational church at present he could not tell in what conventicle he was worshipping. Almost all preachers emphasize the same doctrines and stress the same morals. There is no considerable difference in the actual gospel preached in one denomination from that preached in another.

Denominations continue largely for other reasons than doctrinal. It is mostly a matter of machinery.

It is much easier to start a sect than it is to stop it. Our only hope is that as time goes on sectarianism will pass and there will be brought about some kind of workable unity among all the denominations, for they are all striving for the same goal in very much the same way.

All the denominations amount to anyhow is that a man who joins one is in Section B, Pigeonhole A, or in Regiment Five and Company Three.

Just why one should be in one company rather than in another it is pretty difficult for the average modern man to say.

PLAN CO-OPERATION SCHOOL AT M. S. C.

PROBLEMS OF FARMERS' ORGANIZATIONS TO HOLD IMPORTANT PLACE IN COUNTRY LIFE WEEK CONFERENCE.

All of the problems of farmers' co-operative organizations will be dealt with in the school of co-operation to be conducted by the American Farm Economics association at the Michigan State college August 1, 2 and 3.

The trend toward co-operation is perhaps one of the most important agricultural developments of the past decade and this phase of the problems of farm life will hold a prominent place in the country life week conference at East Lansing July 31 to August 6. The most outstanding agricultural economic authorities in the country have been secured for the school of co-operation as speakers.

Hon. William Jardine, United States secretary of agriculture, who is scheduled for an address August 1, will be the leading speaker.

Special attention will be given to supply buying, supply selling and local advertising and sales campaigns. The Michigan State Farm Bureau supply service and seed service departments will have charge of this part of the program. The problems of office management and accounting will also be given special consideration. There will be separate meetings of the various commodity exchanges.

TEMPLE THEATRE Detroit, Michigan

George Choo's "Petite Revue" headlines the bill at B. F. Keith's Temple theatre, starting Sunday, July 17th. "The Petite Revue" is a typical Choo's production, lavishly staged and perfectly presented. The team of Carrie and Eddy are featured players. Their assistants include Webster Taylor, Harriet Cole and Gloria Lee. It is a singing and dancing revue staged by J. J. Hughes, member of the famous American dancing team of Adelaide and Hughes. Gene Lucas supplied the music. Others on the bill include Frank Holland and Frances in an original offering; Mickey Feeley, a personable comedienne who sings and dances, in "Little Miss Melody"; Edwin Burke's comedy riot "The Monologist"; The Gabsby Bros.; Les Ghend, "Equilibrists Extraordinary"; other Keith Albee vaudeville, and the new screen program.

"BROADWAY" BEGINS FOURTEENTH WEEK AT THE GARRICK THEATRE, DETROIT.

Having broken all records for long runs in Detroit, with the single exception of "Abie's Irish Rose," Jed Harris' production of "Broadway," by Philip Dunning and George Abbott, enters upon its fourteenth week at the Garrick Theatre, Detroit, Sunday night. "The Student Prince," which opened the Shubert-Lafayette nearly two years ago and remained there for thirteen weeks for its first engagement in Detroit, was the runner-up. The next nearest contender was "The Vagabond King," with eight weeks. No dramatic play other than "Abie" has lasted in Detroit longer than four weeks and "Broadway" must necessarily come under the dramatic classification although it has all elements for musical comedy.

"Broadway" is unique in that it has never received an adverse criticism and its popularity is so strong that many persons have witnessed the performance for three, four and five times and seemingly get as much satisfaction from the later visits as from the first.

The company is exceptionally good, including in the cast Wallace Ford, Joseph King, Grace Huff, Marshall Bradford, Harriet E. MacGibbon, Gustave Roland, Lee Smith, Jay Wilson, Joseph Craunby, Katherine Collins, Maurine Mayo and Allen Jenkins.

Seizing upon the idea of having a night off training, Sammy Mandell decided to take in a night's entertainment by seeing "Broadway" start its fourteenth week at the Garrick theatre, Detroit, last Sunday night.

By a coincidence, Phil McGraw thought of the same thing and arrived with a party at the theatre a few minutes after the arrival of the light-weight champion. Sammy and his friends had been placed in a box on the left side of the theatre, and the management placed the contender in the corresponding box on the other side of the house.

The two boxers did not meet during the performance, but at separate times they were taken back stage and introduced to the various actors in the cast.
