FOLLOWS DETROIT REJECTING SCRIP

PLYMOUTH UNITED BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS MONDAY

This City Again Enjoys Services of One of Oldest Banks in State--Approval Saturday By Circuit Court and Banking Department

Having successfully met every test applied by the courts and the state banking department, the Plymouth United Savings bank opened Monday morning for business, again providing Plymouth and vicinity with the services of one of the oldest banks in Michigan.

With the announcement of the success of the bank in having been able to meet every requirement of both the courts and state, came also the election of the new executives by the board of directors.

Mr. Voorhies during his long and successful practice in Detroit following his removal to this city from Plymouth, has always retained his business connections in Plymouth. He has been personally interested in the success and growth of the community.

Mr. Crowe has spent his entire life in the banking business and was for years connected with the state banking department as examiner. His father is one of the well known bankers of western Michigan.

Those who retired from the board were L. W. Goodenough of Detroit and Charles M. Mather. The other new director was named to take the place of E. K. Bennett, who has been in the bank since the first week of this month.

It will conduct business as usual, permitting complete withdrawals of all new accounts. The officials are highly pleased over the new business that has come to the bank since the opening.

A LONG WAY TO GO

Announcement comes out of Lansing that the state budget for the next fiscal year is going to be some where around $24,500,000. Governor Comstock just before the last spring election said he hoped to cut state expenses to something like $12,000,000. The budget that is about to be adopted is considerably over twice what he had said he hoped it would be. It is still many millions of dollars higher than at any time during the Groesbeck administration. Many of the millions raised during Groesbeck's term in office was for new construction at hospitals, normals, the university and other state institutions. All of these building expenses came out of the total state budget of something like $17,000,000 that he raised. There is no building going on at any state institution at the present time. None is planned. So it can be readily seen that there are many millions of dollars going into salaries, expenses and similar luxuries that the state seemingly is unable to get rid of. Someone said during Governor Groesbeck's last campaign that the state could well afford to pay him a salary of $100,000 a year to run the affairs of Michigan. The state could pay him a million dollars per year and then it would be about another $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 per year. He knows what to do and he knows HOW to do it. The state's need for Governor Groesbeck was never greater than it is today. But unfortunately for Michigan it is exceedingly doubtful if the former Governor, who put millions out of the pockets of Michigan taxpayers and ran Michigan like a big business concern, could be induced to even consider the acceptance of the task again.

POSTOFFICE HOARDING

Withdrawal of funds from local activities and depositing them in postal savings may be good as a "safety first" measure but it is hoarding on a colossal scale. The president's edict should also have closed the deposit windows in the postoffices. What sense to send people for hoarding and then encourage it in this way? Originally this function of the government was to encourage savings. While it remained such the business at the local post office at least was almost nil. Information is that the same was true everywhere. But with the depression instead of "postal savings" it speedily became "postal hoardings." Within a few months a vast amount, estimated at hundreds of thousands, has left this community via the post office.

Certainly in this emergency the bars should be put up against this form of hoarding. Indeed it would help if the government would at once call for withdrawal of these hoardings in some form of currency that would have to go to work to be valid.—Daily Sentinel, Fairmont, Minnesota.

THE PRESENT—THE FUTURE

To say that we are just now going through a history making period in world affairs is merely to repeat a statement that has become a common saying. We as individuals fully realize that we are all a part in some great event of some sort of an economic development that is bound to have some important bearing upon the future. Just what it is all about, just what is happening, is hard for us to know and understand.

We see it in our affairs. In national affairs, in our state and in our city. Out of it all must come some good—to just what extent depends largely upon ourselves. Whatever it is, we should make an effort to seek out the right thing and do it with an enthusiastic belief in the justness of all things.

CHAIRMAN PICARD

Governor Comstock could have looked over the state from one end to the other and he could not have found a better chairman for his liquor control commission than Frank Picard of Saginaw. The selection was an exceedingly fortunate one. In places in control of the beer situation of the state in a citizen of high standing and who possesses the right sort of qualifications. Mr. Picard won state-wide recognition some fourteen or fifteen years ago when as head of the Kiwanis clubs of Michigan he made that organization one of the most outstanding in Michigan in worthy accomplishments. Congratulations, Governor, you have served the state well by this appointment.

It is with considerable pleasure that we read in the newspapers the announcement of the appointment of Rev. Albert M. Ewert of Grand Ledge as the new chaplain of Jackson prison. He takes the place of Reverend Doctor Philosopher McLain, one time misrepresentative of Branch county in the legislature. McLain, who styles himself a preaching doctor, was rewarded with the job as chaplain at Jackson for his political activities in the first Green campaign for governor. The new chaplain is a preacher instead of a politician. This change ought to bring some satisfaction to the inmates of Jackson prison who are spiritually afflicted.

Now if the city officials will ask someone to donate a sufficient number of ivy plants to partly cover the stone wall built along the north edge of the school park, it can be said that the improvement is one of more than ordinary merit.

All doubt as to the benefits of President Roosevelt's inflation program passed from our mind the other day when we noticed that Andrew Mellon was against it. One may rest assured that anything Mellon favors is not for the good of the people. Anything he is opposed to can be regarded as for the benefit of the public.

SALES TAX BILL MAIN SUBJECT

As End Of Session Nears An Effort Is Made To Clear Docket

Lansing, Mich.—With the time for final adjournment of the legislature fixed for May 20, there is a rush to dispose of the many hundreds of bills that have been introduced as well as pass some sort of a sales tax bill that will provide the state with additional revenue that Governor Comstock says he must have. As indicated in the legislative letter of last week, the sales tax bill would be the chief legislative subject for the next two or three weeks.

There seems to be a general sentiment that a retail sales tax of 2 per cent has more favor in the house and senate than any other plan, but there is plenty of opposition to this tax. It passes the tax burden of the state right back onto the hands of those that have found it impossible to carry, the little fellow. Most anything he might purchase under this proposal would be taxed.

The small town merchant cannot afford to carry the sales tax burden and he must pass it along. Just naturally the lawyer is the one who must pay.

There is an exceedingly wide variety of ideas in the legislature on the sales tax question and the various sales tax bills are in for plenty of mauling before they get very far.

The lower house of the legislature went down into the sewer the other day and passed a bill permitting dog races in the state. Fortunately for the good name of Michigan there were some 35 or 40 members of the house who opposed the measure. Any number of members tried to dodge a vote on the issue, but escape was not easy. Many who voted for it were ashamed of their vote but thought it necessary to do so in order to get some support for some legislation they were personally interested in. The bill now in the senate is doomed for defeat in the upper house. If present sentiment should change, and the bill be passed, Governor Comstock has announced that he will veto it.

Michigan taxpayers are asked in a bill that has just made its appearance in the house to provide a pension of not more than $9 a week to any needy person above the age of 65 years. A Detroit representative would have the state collect the money for this purpose and supervise its payment.

Another one of Representative Vernon J. Brown's economy bills, introduced in conjunction with Representative Hartman, has found its way successfully through the legislature. The measure provides the legislature with power to fix the salary of the commissioner of public safety.

The notorious "beer" bill that has been battered about legislative chambers for weeks and weeks has finally been made into law. Legislative observers declare that the future of the prohibition question in Michigan lies entirely upon the success of this measure. Insistence of house and senate members gave the cities and villages of Michigan outside of Wayne county some control over the permits to be issued and the regulation of the business.

As originally planned local committees would have nothing to do with it. Permits must first have the approval of village or city councils and commissions. The tax goes entirely to the state and it is estimated that it will bring between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 of revenue into the state treasury. The tax is $1.25 per barrel and a barrel is 31 gallons. As originally framed the bill did not permit restaurants with counters to serve beer, but this was changed so that beer can be served over these counters. There can be no free lunches and customers must sit at tables. In public places to drink beer. No drinks can be given away. Counties have the right to vote local option on beer if they care to do so, petitions bearing 20 per cent of the names of electors being required for a vote of the people. Candy stores, drug and confectionery stores cannot sell beer. State officials announce that they are going to see to it that the bootlegger is put out of business now that Michigan has legalized the sale of beer.

While the Michigan legislature is advancing a bill towards the governor's office which has for its object the complete discontinuance of the Chelsea cement plant where Michigan for a number of years employed prisoners to make cement for road building, the state of Illinois has under consideration a plan to start up a cement plant. When the Chelsea plant was taken over a number of years ago it was because of the fact that cement companies combined to regulate prices as well as output. It was just at the beginning of the state's extensive road building program. So the officials in Lansing decided to end the combine to making its own cement. This they did and for years the price of cement was held down. During the Green-Brucker administration agitation was started to get rid of the cement plant. It was finally closed down and now the state legislature proposes to get rid of it altogether. Information from Illinois is to the effect that that state is facing the same cement problem that Michigan did when it took over the manufacture of cement.

If delinquent taxes are paid by July 1 of the present year, there will be no penalties, interests or additional sums of money to be paid. The Governor having signed the bill which makes this provision for the delinquent taxpayer. The law does not apply to city taxes.

A bill has been introduced in the state legislature to abolish the tax commission, a branch of the state government held by a large percent of the taxpayer's troubles. Advocates of the bill insist that the state can get along without the commission much better than it can with it. Not only is the abolishment of the commission urged because of its alleged uselessness, but because of the economy that would result to the state.

Members of the state legislature during the past few days have been studying over the payroll of the University of Michigan. Copies of it have been provided each member. One member stated that he doubted if there was any manufacturing company or public utility organization in Michigan that had as many $10,000 salaried men as the University. The University has many on its payroll who draw considerably more than $10,000 per year.

A group of visitors stood in a window of one of the offices of the state office building in Lansing the other day, looking out towards the driveway. The new chairman of the labor commission, Claude Carney of Kalamazoo, drove his car in and left it parked in the driveway so that if any other car in order to get past it would have to be driven partly over the curb. The state maintains an officer in back of the building to regulate the parking of cars. The watchers could not hear what the conversation was, but apparently from the gestures that the new labor commissioner was making, he was protesting strongly at what the officer had requested him to do. At any rate the car was taken from the driveway by Mr. Carney and parked in another spot where it would not block traffic as the group upstairs stood laughing at the row, the words of which they could not hear.

Even the boys and girls of Michigan will have to pay taxes if a bill introduced during the past few days becomes a law. The house has a measure in one of the committees which provides a tax on ice cream sodas, pop and all other soft drinks.

State regulation of retail milk prices would be possible if a bill introduced by Representative Paul Teachout of Flint should be passed. The measure provides a three-man commission to control the milk business. The measure has not yet been considered in committee.

Bills provided for unemployment insurance have been presented in both the house and senate. Both measures require employers to set aside a certain per cent of their total payrolls for the insurance fund.

Thousands of trout fishermen appeared on the streams the opening day without licenses, the state having been unable to get them printed and issued in time so that trout fishermen could get them. This was due to legislative delay in passing the rod license bill. The measure went back and forth from the house to the senate, the senate to the house, and even its final passage in the senate was delayed for hours by argument. Many opposed the bill because it requires everyone who fishes in Michigan to get a license, the fee being fixed at 50 cents. The measure finally passed, but the conservation department had necessarily been forced to hold up the printing of the new permits until it knew just what the legislature was going to do. It was Thursday before the bill reached the governor's office, leaving only two days for the department to print and distribute the fishing permits. Trout fishermen have paid $1.75 for trout licenses. The amount was raised from $1.00 to the larger figure during the Brucker administration when it was a popular thing to make taxes and license fees of all kinds. Some members of the legislature wanted to return the trout license fee back to a dollar and not charge every fisherman a license fee. But advocates of the general fishing license of 50 cents won out, even though it did compel trout fishermen to visit the streams within the license the state was unable to provide in time.

Many Present At W.C.T.U. Meeting

A very enjoyable meeting was held by the Plymouth Union, April 27th at the home of Mrs. Clemens of Newburg. The attendance was large as a good time is always anticipated when Mrs. Clemens entertains the Union. After the business meeting a short play entitled "A Luncheon and More" was given under the direction of Mrs. McNabb. The tea served by the hostess and her committee, was dainty and appetizing.

Plymouth Union will commemorate the 60th anniversary of the Woman's Crusade by joining in the "Crusade Crucible," a plan for collecting old gold and silver and converting it into funds to be divided equally between the national and state organizations. Such articles as old watches, silver spoons, rings, lockets, dental gold, etc. will be collected—all of which are to be found in any home. Many of them broken and discarded, long ago, may now be brought forth and the metal used to aid the temperance work.

The next meeting will be held May 25th at the home of Mrs. Wm. Smith, Dodge street.

GET THE BANKS GOING

We agree fully with Senator Vandenberg when he says it is a very debatable question whether or not we need any more printing press currency and that the present need today is to get the banks going in the normal way which will do more to stimulate business and bring back prosperity than any one thing that could be done. In this connection it is gratifying to know that the senate committee and the president have had a conference on this matter and seem to be getting together to some extent on the idea of insuring bank deposits. We definitely believe that if banks were to be opened to morrow on the pre-closing basis that it would be equivalent to starting a boom tomorrow.—Frank Bryce in The Grand Ledge Independent.

A BUM POLITICAL JOKE

Someone who may get his finger in the wiggler is playing what he thinks to be a joke on aspirants for political appointment in Michigan. Telephone messages are being sent to some of these aspirants, purporting to come from Governor Comstock. One day last week a Detroit man walked into the Governor's office to announce that he was ready to take over the safety department as per notice by telephone from the governor. No such notice has been sent him. Next day a man from Muskegon arrived in Lansing in response to a phone call telling him that he was to have a state job. Governor Comstock is quite amused, as he has a right to be, at this so called joke and if the joker is caught it may go hard with him.—Tom Conlin in the Diamond Drill.

(Continued from last week) The Rocks won their third game Tuesday in as many starts, from the Detroit Country Day club. The weather was rather cold and took two or three innings for the players to get warmed up. For five innings the pitchers had a real dual but in the sixth inning the Detroit pitcher weakened and walked some men. Another pitcher was put in who was responsible for six Plymouth runs. Bassett had nine strike-outs in six innings and he allowed only one hit which was a scratch bunt in the first inning that Ehrich beat out. W. Bassett of Plymouth lost a home run in the second inning with nobody on the bases. Summary of the teams: Plymouth AB R E H H. Historic Cemetery Now Under Control Of New Association

By Agnes L. Clizbe After a number of years of strenuous and continued agitation, during which time hundreds of people, and township, city and state officials have been interviewed, lawyers consulted, old records looked into, it is with great pleasure to announce that at last the historic Redford or Bell Branch Cemetery has passed into the hands of those who have burial rights therein, and to those whose ancestors are buried there. The descendants of Redford pioneers have incorporated, and under the name of Redford Cemetery Association will control, beautify and care for this historic spot. They hope to endow it so that it will remain perpetual care. On Decoration Day a very interesting service will take place. When the grave of one of the soldiers of the American Revolution will be marked by a bronze tablet, the gift of Judge Arthur Gordon, a descendant of Ephraim Daines, a person representing the Soldiers of the Revolution. There are a number of Ephraim Daines' descendants living in Plymouth at present, among them Mrs. George Hesse, her daughter Mrs. Koryon Olds and Mrs. Frank Everett, and Mrs. Wm. Roe.

Many Plymouth residents are interested in this announcement, as their ancestors have been buried there in the old cemetery for more than a hundred years. Or all the cemeteries about Wayne county and vicinity this is one of the most historic as it holds in its embrace the sacred dust of the early pioneers, soldiers of the Revolution, Civil and World War, and descendants of English, French and Scottish nobility - this spot will now be kept for future generations. Petitions were circulated by Mrs. Frank Clizbe, Mrs. Perry Prindle, Mrs. Samuel Reid and Miss Margaret Dunning, and over four hundred names obtained begging the proper authorities to beget the duly organized descendants of Redford pioneers this spot.

On Decoration Day at 10:15 the program will take place. Judge Arthur Gordon will be accompanied by a number of the Sons of the American Revolution. There will be a short speech by a Civil War veteran, also there will be a number of the ladies of the G. A. R. present, and Jerome Mettetal will speak in memory of the World War veterans, a number of whom are buried in this cemetery. It also contains the remains of a nurse, Mrs. Susan Miller served our sons, Mrs. Ella Miller Bencil is in charge of the musical program, assisted by Roy Burgess, Arthur Sauter, Frank Clizbe, Olive Bliss, Floyd Apple-Cross.

Mrs. Frank E. Clizbe, a granddaughter of the pioneer who redeveloped the land where the cemetery is located, with many other acres, has been the leading worker to obtain this city of the dead. Mrs. Clizbe has been assisted by representatives of descendants of the pioneer families - of Redford. Mrs. Clizbe is the director of the ladies group in this work, they number about two hundred at the present time.

Rosedale Gardens

The Arts and Letters Club met at the home of Mrs. M. Stover on Chicago Blvd., Tuesday evening. The program, under the direction of A. Baker, consisted of a drama entitled, "Song of Songs of Solomon." The hostess served refreshments. The annual Mother and Daughter program will be held Friday, May 19 at the Presbyterian church. This year it will be necessary to make your reservations before the above date as the number is to be limited. It is hoped a good congregation will be out to welcome our new pastor at his opening address Sunday.

The Sunday school officers and teachers met at the home of Mrs. Frank Ames on Thursday evening. After a pleasant evening refreshments were served. The regular meeting of the ladies auxiliary will meet next Wednesday evening at the church. Please come.

Rosedale Gardens P. T. A. met Wednesday evening. After the regular business meeting, the new officers were installed. The program was one of recreation under the supervision of Mr. Schofield of Fishers school. Rev. R. Miller and family will occupy the home recently vacated by the John W. Miller family. A program will be presented at the Presbyterian church Sunday night. Everyone is urged to attend.

Metal articles that are not used for food serving may be protected from tarnishing by covering them with a water-tight lacquer. They can be wiped occasionally with a damp cloth.

Newburg

Miss Anna Youngs, ably assisted by several of our young people, are helping the pastor in the morning service, which is greatly appreciated by all who attend church service. Next Sabbath will be Mother's Day. Remember to wear the red flower for the living and white for the mother that has passed on. There were 97 in Sunday school. Jens Pedersen played a violin solo, "Himmoresque," accompanied on the piano by Oscar Lattimer. The red side in the recent contest will entertain the winning side Tuesday evening, May 16 at the L. A. S. hall. For over 100 years there has been a bridge across the old Newburg road. Last week it was wrecked and is just a memory to the boys and girls attending Newburg school, who fished and played there. The road is closed to traffic. The cloud burst of Sunday night raised the water on the flats, where the construction crew were working on the new dam, to such an extent that the big steam shovel, was almost entirely submerged. After a delay of three weeks on account of the banks closing, the men had just nicely started to resume work.

Mrs. Jessie Thomas spent the first of last week with her cousin, Mrs. Chas. Shepard at South Lyon. She also attended the funeral of Mrs. Dunning Saturday at Wayne. Mrs. Dunning directed the play, recently given here, "Where is Grandpa?" Mrs. Mary Monroe of Novi spent the week-end with Miss Marion Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LeVau of Osoda and their mother, Mrs. B. F. Landis of Oklahoma City, called on Mrs. Emma L. Ryder Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Vivian Smith took her grandmother, Mrs. M. Eva Smith, to see "Green Pastures" at the Cass theater last week Wednesday afternoon. Rev. and Mrs. Pryor also attended, speaking very highly of it. Mrs. Gladys Ryder entertained the auxiliary of the American Legion last week Thursday afternoon. Mesdames Ryder, Clemens and Drews and Miss E. Matheson of Detroit, attended the cooking demonstration at the Plymouth M. E. church last Friday afternoon. A lovely tea was laid at the W. C. T. U. meeting at the home of Mrs. L. Clemens last week Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. James Norris and their father, Clark Mackender, called on Mrs. Elizabeth Grow last Sunday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Shirley in New Hudson. Mr. and Mrs. James McNabb motored to Indiana Sunday to visit Mrs. McNabb's sister. Bartlett's greenhouse on Plymouth road presents a beautiful appearance these days. Bert Karhl was in Indiana last week. Raising the car windows when parking in a busy street is one way of keeping the interior of the car clean.

Lee Cool and sons of Stockbridge have made several business trips to Plymouth this week. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Richwine from Detroit visited the former's brother George Richwine Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. James Gates visited at C. W. Honeywell's Monday. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Root entertained Mr. and Mrs. Hurd of Ann Arbor Thursday evening, and Sunday they had as dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Truesdell and Mr. and Mrs. Claud Truesdell and little daughter, Donna Jean. Little Miss Betsy Ross is attending Nursery school. Miss Betty Wiseman of the Methodist Children's Village was a week-end guest at the Miller Ross home. Sunday dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. Miller Ross' were Mr. Abella from India, a student in the U. M. college of engineering, and also Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Cobb. The Household Furnishing Club of Plymouth met at Mrs. Miller Ross' home Monday.

George Arliss, who returns to the screen at the Penniman Allen Theatre Saturday, May 6 in his latest picture for Warner Bros., "The King's Vacation" appears in a role said to be perfectly fitted to his unusual talents, and a story believed to be the finest of all his screen productions. The screen play is a rare combination of humor, dramatic scenes, suspense and spectacular sequences, tinged with a delightful romance. Dudley Digges, O. P. Heggie, Marjorie Gannon, Florence Arliss, the star's wife, Vernon Steele, James Bell and Maude Leslie, other important players, are well known both on stage and screen.

"THE CALIFORNIA TRAIL" The spirit of the gay caballero is revived by Buck Jones in the Columbia picture, "The California Trail," at the Penniman Allen Theatre, Saturday, May 6. As Santa Fe Stewart, a trail scout of the days when California wasn't even a state in the union, Buck Jones brings to life the shades of those devil-may-care buckaroos who roamed the West from job to job, riding hard, fighting hard, and always on the lookout for a lady in distress, or poor people oppressed by tyrannic overlords. Helen Mack, charming brunette from the New York stage, plays opposite Buck Jones in his adventurous role as a buckaroo wagon boss in the days when California never had heard of the gold rush of '48. Allan Garcia, George Humbert, Luis Alberni and Charles Stevens also have prominent roles.

Coming Attractions At Penniman Allen

"OUT ALL NIGHT" Laugh! You'll roar! Never has the Penniman Allen Theatre presented a more hilarious comedy than "Out All Night," the gay universal farce which will appear at the Penniman Allen Theatre Sunday and Monday, May 7 and 8. Miss Sumnerville and ZaSu Pitts, the screen's funniest team, are starred in this side-splitting comedy gem, in parts that were just made for them, and the action finds them, as a pair of bashful newweds, embarking on an eventful trip to America's honeymoon centre, Niagara Falls. Their experiences would make the Sphinx break into loud giggles.

IN MEMORIAM In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Ernest Frank, who passed away 2 years ago on May 3. Two long years ago on this day, passed our dear wife and mother, passed away. We saw her suffer, we heard her cry; with aching hearts, and weeping eyes, we saw her sinking day by day. Our prayers were long and many, but all they did not stop death from taking her away. As we think of her in her silent and lone grave, as the sun, the moon, and the stars are shining on one we so dearly loved, it is more than hard to believe she was one that we couldn't save. We know she is with God and her Savior, where there is no sin, sorrow or pain, waiting there to meet us some day again. Husband and children. 2511pd

Eight long years ago today, since our dear mother passed away, we saw her suffer, heard her sigh, with aching heart and weeping eyes. We saw her sinking hour by hour. Yet we could not stay death's awful power. But now she calmly sleeps at last. All pains, all aches, all suffering past. The moon and stars are shining on a lone and silent grave. Beneath there lies one whom we loved. But whom we could not save. Sadly missed by Mrs. Chas. Rengert, Carl Schmidt. 11pd

Albert Miller Joins Navy - Now At Great Lakes

Albert R. Miller, 24 Irving avenue, Plymouth, better known to his host of friends in Plymouth as "Red" has enlisted in the navy and is now at the Great Lakes Training station north of Chicago where he will remain twelve weeks before being assigned to the fleet. He will take a special course prescribed by the navy before getting into active service. The young man, a graduate of the Plymouth high school, has been exceedingly anxious for some time to get in either the army or navy. He is of the type who will make good, and if he remains in the services of the navy, there is little doubt as to his ability to make progress. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Miller, are well known residents of Plymouth. A card from the young man to his friends on The Plymouth Mail staff where he had been employed recently, states that he thoroughly enjoys the work at the training camp, that the men are excellent and the government provides excellent sleeping quarters. His address for the present will be Co. 16, U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Illinois.

Automobile Sales On The Increase

The sale of automobiles in Michigan has shown a steady gain each week for the past six weeks, according to records of the Department of State.

More new and used automobiles changed hands last week than during any week since June 1, 1932, while registrations of new automobiles alone were more than 250 per day. For the week ending July 2, 1932 a total of 8,595 were reported sold. But the next week the sale dropped to 1,316 cars. From that date there was a steady decline in sales until the week of November 12 when but 317 new cars were registered. From that date the demand continued to increase weekly until the week ending February 11, 1933, the last week before Michigan's bank holiday was declared. During that week 1,628 new cars were sold while the next week the sales dropped to 865.

After this setback, the number of new car sales again has continued to gain steadily so that during the week ending April 22, 1933, the total sales were 11,413. For the first four days last week 1,632 new cars were registered, so that last week will continue the steady increase. Automobile dealers inform the department that a greater percentage of new automobiles are being bought for cash than for many years.

The sale of used automobiles is more seasonal than new cars. In June, July and August 1932, registrations of sales of used cars by the Department varied from 4,500 to 6,500 per week. During October the registrations dropped to approximately 3,500 a week and reached a low ebb of slightly over 2,000 a week during November and December. After Jan. 1, 1933, the demand for used automobiles increased to around 3,800 a week and with the exception of two weeks at the start of the bank holiday, has grown steadily. For the week ending April 22, a total of 9,198 used cars were registered while for the first four days last week the used car registrations were 6,106.

Canada and New Zealand have more motor vehicles per capita of population than any other countries except the United States.

Chicken Thieves Get Prison Terms

Reuben Dingley, Woodside, Ohio; Jesse Austin, Harry Hill, and Walter O'Brien, all of Detroit, were sentenced by Judge George W. Sample in circuit court at Ann Arbor on Friday to serve from two and a half to five years in the Michigan state prison at Jackson, with the recommendation of the minimum term.

The four men were implicated in the theft of a barnyard at the Frank Burgess farm near Worden and of a series of chicken thefts in Salem and Northfield townships. Dingley and Austin were returned from Ohio for the barnyard theft and they implicated the other two men which resulted in cleaning up the chicken robberies.

Officers who worked on the case were Deputy Sheriff George Randall, Deputy Sheriff Thomas Knight, Sergeant Bruce McElone and Corporal Frank Walker of the state police.

Austin admitted stealing chickens from eight places and Dingley admitted 10. Places which Austin admits having visited in this county are: January 7, 45 chickens from the Michael Fitzgerald farm in Northfield township; January 3, 45 chickens and two ducks from the Louis Underhill farm, Northfield; March 29, 20 chickens, from the same farm; March 21, 100 chickens from Ronald Ketchum, Salem township; March 5, double barnyard from the Fred Burgess farm, Northfield; December 29, 1932, 35 chickens, from Ray Combs, Northfield; December 6, 60 chickens and one duck from John Maier, Northfield; and on one other occasion, 60 chickens from J. H. Braun, Northfield. Austin admitted having gone to one other Washtenaw county farm with intent to steal chickens but decided against doing so because the fowls were of inferior quality.

Former High School Youth Makes Record

Little more than a year ago Charles Dreyfous, a seventeen-year old Cooley High School junior of Detroit, who formerly lived in Plymouth reached what he thought was the peak of his high jumping career when he cleared five feet.

Today Dreyfous, an outstanding member of the Cardinal track team, starts warming up six inches higher than that and regularly scales better than six feet.

Few prep athletes have shown as much improvement in a single year. And now he looms as a likely candidate to succeed Willis Ward and George Spitz as the national interscholastic high jump champion. He has another year at Cooley.

Dreyfous got his inspiration to be a high jumper from a picture of Harold Osborne, former Olympic champion, going over the bar set at 4 feet 7 inches. Osborne used the Western farm.

That was last winter. The Cooley lad began working out his own interpretation of the trick way to flatten himself out over the cross bar. During gym classes he practices. He was like hundreds of other youngsters turned loose in a gym with one exception—he had unusual persistence. And this finally won the attention of Coach Claude Sneathy.

One day it was an outstanding one for Dreyfous—Sneathy walked over to the jumping youngster and offered a few suggestions. Within an hour Dreyfous added an inch to his best effort and Cooley had gained another track candidate.

Dick's Interfering Muse

By MILDRED WELLS

WHEN Dick Williams decided to try his luck at short-story writing, he made just one mistake. He told Margie.

Margie was his very charming next-door neighbor. Dick's mother, with whom he lived in the house where he had been born twenty-six years before, was away on a month's visit to a sister. And when the managing editor of the paper on which Dick was a reporter told him to take a day off the next week in celebration of the completion of a good series of interviews Dick had written, felt that he must talk over his idea with someone.

"You see," he said to Margie the evening before the great day, "I know I could write if I had a chance—anyway I think I could. Fiction, I mean. So when old man Ellwell passed out this day off to me, I just decided I'd try my luck. I'll just begin early in the morning and work right on. If I get a good story under way, all right. If not, then that's all right, too. I'll feel better to have had a chance to try." After an early breakfast next morning, Margie, the maid, started happily forth with an unexpected day off before her.

"Peace and quiet," sighed Dick—"and no interruptions." Then he made ready for work by a cheerful living room window—and the telephone rang.

"Is Margie there?" came a rich burred voice.

"I'm sorry, but she's off for the day," answered Dick, still cheerful. "Anything I can do?"

"No, it's nothing very important," answered the voice, "just tell her to call cousin Annie tonight?"

Dick hung up and went back to his desk and began to plot his story. Hero's name—Stanley Weymouth. Heroine's name—well, what? Margie seemed to fit best. Yes, Stan and Margie. He'd lay the story in—the front doorbell rang.

Five minutes later, after an argument with the landlady, Dick was back to his table.

"Colorado, that was the place for his story. He put down some notes about how his characters looked. "Margie—small, brown, soft eyes, fluffy hair." And then there was a knock at the back door. The butcher's boy and chops.

Dick's muse was a coy one, and after he had answered the telephone to talk for ten minutes with a friend of his mother's, had gone again to the front door to frown crossly at a boy soliciting magazine subscriptions, had gone to the cellar to let in the gas meter man—by that time Dick's muse was distinctly upset.

Patting footsteps on the side porch.

"Well, darn!" exclaimed Dick mildly. He went to the door.

There was Margie, a basket on her arm. It was then he realized it had been a mistake to tell Margie his plans.

"Oh—" she said. He looked tired and irritated and uncomfortable. "Well, anyway, here's your lunch. Where you going to have any?"

She pushed her way past Dick and laid out a tempting lunch. "I've been watching your house this morning, and it seemed as if every Tom, Dick and Harry's been here to bother you."

"You don't know the worst. Telephone's been going the whole darned day. (Gosh, this tastes good.) "It's cold," said Margie. "Oh, hang it," exclaimed Dick. "Guess I've let the furnace fire go out."

"You shouldn't try to write and keep house too," said Margie. "I suppose you think I'm another bother. Good-by. Just settle down to work again and try to forget all the bothers."

He didn't notice that the side door didn't slam shut. And he didn't hear Margie's investigating steps into the cellar. But five minutes later she slipped quietly back into the room, a log and some kindlings in the basket on her arm. "Furnace is all right," she said reassuringly. "I've opened the draughts. Just stop worrying." And she put the kindlings and log in the fireplace, touched a match to the paper under them, and, when they were blazing, cleared up the lunch things and then sat down quietly beside the fire with a magazine.

The Print of the Hand

By SIDNEY WALDO

THE body lay close to the rows of corn, and the sheriff was bending over it. Then he straightened up slowly and turned to Will Granger, the older of the murdered man's two nephews.

"You and Ruth and Tom Hathaway drove to church together in the car?"

"Yes."

"You left your brother, Dan, and your uncle at home here—arguin'?"

"They stayed home. Yes."

"Arguin'?" the sheriff insisted. "That can't be covered up, Will. Plenty people heard 'em, hot at it, as they went by to church. The winders was open."

"Yes, they was arguin'."

"And you three come home from church separate?"

"Yes, separate."

"For the first time the sheriff looked directly at Daniel. "And how about you, Dan?"

"We—got through arguin'; and I went for a walk in the woods."

The sheriff studied the lowered, stubborn face of the twenty-year-old boy. Then he made a little gesture of distressed helplessness and began to lead the way toward the open shed door.

Once inside, the sheriff crossed the uneven plank floor to a broad wood-bench which ran along one side. Over part of the rough surface of the bench, smooth gray cardboard had been tacked. Cartridge boxes, powder cans, small tools and a set of scales were neatly arranged on this clean surface.

From his pocket the sheriff drew an empty brass shell. Taking a loaded cartridge from the nearest box, he compared the two. He did not make the obvious statement that the two matched.

Instead he turned to Tom Hathaway, the tall spare elderly white man. "I reckon you know the old miser, Tom, jest about as well as anybody livin'."

"I reckon," the other agreed. "I guess there ain't hardly been one cussed meanness he's put on 'em you ain't knowed of, and tried to help 'em hear."

"I tried to help the boys just so far as I could, sheriff," was the calm reply.

"I tried to show 'em the way of patience," Tom went on. "Especially Dan and Ruth after they'd fell in love, and was crazy to marry."

"And, this morning?" the sheriff suddenly broke in, "their uncle told the boys—because of hard times—he'd have to cut down their tiffin pay. When they knew he had plenty and more hoarded in the bank. Money they wanted, now. Needed, now. Money, Dan had to have, now. Ain't that what his uncle and him was arguin' over?"

"That can't be denied," Tom said at last, and his expression became deeply thoughtful. "My mind was running along them same lines, too, sheriff, as I sat in church. It seemed to me Dan and Ruth ought to have that money, some way. While they could still be young and happy with it."

"Sittin' there, I took a good look back over my own life—which all lies behind me now, any way you figure it, and it come to me how different things would of been, if I'd had any kind of a start. So, all in all, I couldn't hardly blame Dan for the stand he took."

And, once more, the sheriff broke in abruptly. "That's just the point, Tom. Just what has been leadin' to. We all know you'd like to ease things for Dan. But here's where you weren't able to help any—and can't. Certain things the law says neither man nor boy can do. About your only way to help Dan now, is counsel him to come along with me, peaceably."

But Tom Hathaway merely looked at the sheriff in feigned surprise. "How so, sheriff?" he asked. "You appear to of forgot somethin'. We all come home from church, separate. We got here, separate. Dan's gun was here, for any of us to use. We all hated the old man equal. How's the law going to tell—which of us to take along?"

"Just this way," the sheriff declared, with forced patience. "The gun's been cleaned and oiled. There'll be no finger prints on it, likely. That, I grant you. But it's a long reach, over the bench, to put it back on them pegs. A man would do it with his right hand. His left, he'd put flat on the bench—palm down—to steady his weight on. His hand would of been oily. There on the cardboard, is a clean fresh print of a man's whole hand."

The tense silence that followed this announcement was short. Dan sent a swift startled glance at his brother. Then he urged sharply: "Quick, Will! Rip that cardboard off. He can't stop us. Chuck it in the stove. Then they never can tell which of us it was."

It was Tom Hathaway, however, who moved, stepping forward to stand beside the sheriff.

"No, Dan," he said. "The sheriff's right enough. Certain things neither boy nor man can do. Not without payin'. So leave the cardboard be. The print of the hand—is mine."

Starling Threatens Cherry Crop - Bird Becomes Real Pest

The European starling which can mimic the song of the meadowlark or the blue jay and which can give a fair imitation of a canny in disposing of cherries is the subject of a warning sent to Michigan residents by the zoology department at Michigan State College.

The starling is another foreign species brought to this country by well intentioned but uninformed persons who do untold damage while trying to improve on nature. The bird was introduced in New York City in 1890 and now has increased and spread until flocks are common occurrences in Michigan.

The starling is black in the spring, has a short drooping tail, and is about the same size as a male redwinged blackbird. When the bird moult its spring plumage, the new feathers are tipped with white or buff and the bird has a mottled appearance.

The starling destroys some noxious insects and may not be an unmitigated nuisance in all places but it has a bad record in the cherry districts. The manager of one canning company in Michigan reports that starlings appeared in flocks of thousands in orchards at Crosswell and destroyed 20 tons of cherries in a few days.

No protection is given the starling by Michigan laws. They can be destroyed by any means which does not kill other birds at the same time. This pest will enter buildings in search of feed and this trait can be utilized to trap and destroy them. The nests of the species should be destroyed if the identification is certain. Community shoots to thin out flocks congregating in the fall have been successfully staged in some communities.

Ship Launching Plans Are Delayed

Plans for the official launching of the famous ship "Blue Gill" have been temporarily upset by a tempest raging over the place as to just where this famous boat should take the water.

Its builders, William Gayde and Alex Vateck, are way out at sea as to just what to do.

There has been a persistent rumor that the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce is going to withdraw its invitation to have the ship launched at Phoenix.

But the two shipbuilders say they don't care if Phoenix does renig.

"We've got invitations from Waterford, the Nusterka Mills Business Men's organization, the Nankin Mills Commercial club and the Yacht club of Frains Lake. We don't care a thing about the Phoenix lake rumor," stated Mr. Gayde.

"Well maybe it is because some of us voted the Democratic ticket," explained optimistic Alex.

"But they want to be careful of what they do. When we launch that boat, there is going to be a big crowd present and it is going to help whichever town we decide to go to for the big event," he added.

There will be no additional news, they state, until all arrangements have been completed for the official launching of the boat that still remains on the ways in back of Mr. Gayde's house.

Two Killed On Ann Arbor Road Sunday Morning

Harold R. O'Connell, 23 was burned to death and his companion, Earl Sibert, 34, of Ann Arbor died at the St. Joseph Mercy hospital in Ann Arbor a few hours later following a crash of a Ford car in which they were riding with a General Motor transport truck, driven by F. J. Sillman, 24, Lansing, on the Plymouth road at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Sillman and his companion, Vern Livingston, 28, Flint, are being held at the county jail for questioning by Prosecutor Albert J. Kapp. The accident happened near Dixboro.

The truck was travelling east on the highway with a Locke coupe and a Studebaker chassis being transported from South Bend to Detroit. It is believed the Ford car driven by either O'Connell or Sibert coming to Ann Arbor from Detroit collided with the truck while it was travelling at a high rate of speed. The Ford car caused the truck to turn around and burst into flames as it landed on a fence. The body of O'Connell was lifeless and burned to a crisp when taken from the wreckage and Sibert was badly burned, never regaining consciousness.

Members of the sheriff's department and state police responded to the call and Coroner E. C. Ganzhorn called a jury immediately and an inquest will be held if witnesses can be obtained. The members of the jury sworn in are Charles Bristol, 912 Brown street; A. B. Skinner, Dixboro; Charles Fisher, Dixboro; James Dunstone, 1728 Jackson avenue; Forrest McKay, 1105 Spring street; Roy Zeigler, Manchester.

An automobile belonging to a passing motorist who stopped and left the car motor running was stolen by two young men who had been riding on the trailer.

PLYMOUTH TEAM TO OPEN SEASON SUNDAY

The Plymouth Schenck-Hagerty Baseball Club will open their season Sunday, May 7th, at the new Plymouth Riverside Ball Park, Oakland Dairy, of Pontiac, has been selected as the opposing team. The contest will start at 3:00 p. m.

Manager Leroy Simmons, who is directing the local team for the third consecutive year, states that he expects the club to be the best in many years. There will be a number of the old members back, and also a number of new faces will be seen in the line-ups. During practice sessions this spring, thirty-one players reported for trials.

In an exhibition game last Sunday, Plymouth swamped a Detroit team 18 to 4, which is evident that the local club has some good material. In the opening game with the Pontiac delegation, Plymouth will have a chance to show their power.

Three Bears and Goldilocks

ONCE upon a time there were three bears—a great big bear, a middle-sized bear and a little bear.

The great big bear was John Holman. He was twenty-four, and he was an exceedingly attractive young man. He was a bear, Barbara said so.

The middle-sized bear was Hollis Holman. He was fifty-five, and an exceedingly attractive middle-aged man. But he was a bear—Barbara said he was.

The little bear was Darius Holman. He was seventy-nine, and he was a most lovable old man. Barbara said he was.

Barbara was the Goldilocks of this story, and she lived in the house of the three bears. She had recently come down to live, as the wife of the great big bear. Now, on a soft June morning, she sat at breakfast looking most tantalizingly attractive.

"You're just bears, all of you," said Barbara. "And I'm not going to pay a bit of attention to what any of you say. I'm going to take John's car, and Father Hollis' raincoat, because I haven't any and I might have to get out, and Grandfather Darius' money, and I'm going right straight over that mountain all by myself, no matter what you think. Give me ten dollars, grandfather, will you, because John's so cross I don't like to ask him for any."

Grandfather Holman chuckled as he reached for his wallet. "I think you're a stubborn young lady, Barbara," he said, "but as you'd go whether I helped you out or not, why here it is." He took out a twenty-dollar bill and handed it to his grandson's wife.

"I wish you wouldn't, Goldilocks," said young John. "It'll be skiddy as the dickens on those high hills. Why can't you telephone—send 'em a check and telephone you can't come?"

"It isn't just the money they want—though grandfather was a darling to give me all this. But it's that they want me, too. I've got to go."

But be careful, cautioned her husband as he and his father got into his car to drive to business. "What time'll you be home?"

"Oh, by five o'clock, anyway. Don't worry, John. I'll be careful."

When John and his father got home that night from work they entered the warm, lighted house with anticipation. A howling storm raged outside.

"Here's grandfather," called John from the living room. "Where's Goldilocks?"

"I don't know," said the old man. "I just got in three minutes ago."

John dashed upstairs. Their room was empty. And just at that moment his father came running breathlessly in from the garage. "Just ran the car in," he said. "I got it out of the storm. Goldilocks' car isn't there."

"I know," said John. Grandfather Darius joined them in the hall.

"Those slippery roads," said Darius.

"What'll we do?" demanded John. "I'll telephone the hospital," said Hollis.

"I'll go upstairs and get my raincoat on," said John—"so if I have to drive over that wau, you know—"

Hollis had trouble with the telephone. But finally he was told that the wires were down.

"Well," John said—"guess I'll have to go over to Brompton—over the road she took."

Extension Group of Canton Center Meets

The fifth meeting of the Canton Home Extension group met Friday, April 28 at the home of Mrs. H. S. Travis on the Canton Center road. The lesson entitled "The Background of the Room," proved very interesting to the seventeen women present.

Our leaders, Mrs. S. W. Siler and Mrs. J. M. Swales, gave an outline of the program for the County Achievement Day to be held at Wayne in the Methodist church on Thursday, May 11. There will be a potluck dinner at noon, each group taking care of their own table. Exhibits of work accomplished by the women throughout Wayne County will be displayed and a very interesting program is planned for the afternoon. All who are interested are invited to attend this all day meeting.

Mrs. Kahrl and Mrs. H. S. Travis have volunteered to take the rugs to Wayne that are to be an exhibit and all the ladies who have rugs made are asked to leave them at Mrs. Kahrl's or at Mrs. Travis' home before Wednesday, May 10. We hope to have a fine display of rugs from the Canton group.
