Merchants Pleased With Response to First Xmas Showing

An estimated 2,000 Plymouth residents attended a two-day pre-Christmas showing of gift articles staged by Plymouth merchants and sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Thursday and Friday of last week in the gymnasium of the Methodist church.

Each evening of the exhibition from 7 to 11 o'clock standing room in the gymnasium was crowded with residents of Plymouth who were interested in seeing just what their merchants had to offer in the line of Christmas gifts. The exhibition was staged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to show residents of the city that as fine a line of gift articles may be secured in Plymouth as in any larger city in the vicinity.

Much credit for the success of the affair goes to President R.O. Wesley and John LaCachlan and Byron Becker, co-chairmen of the exhibition. It was their careful planning and untiring effort that put the exhibition across. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is desirous of taking this opportunity to publicly express its appreciation to each individual exhibitor for his part in making his booth one of originality and evidence of forethought.

As a result of the showing last week, few Plymouth shoppers will contract the dreaded disease, "List-itis," which is said to attack both young and old. The malady is caused from putting

Two Plymouth youths, Thomas Brock and James Bristah, have been selected members of the Albion college men's debate team recently by Clarence A. Peters, coach. Both veteran debaters, who have participated in a practice tournament with Wayne university, are scheduled to take part in a triangle meet at Michigan State Normal college Tuesday, December 5, and will represent Albion in a series of group events in the college sponsored by the Michigan Intercollegiate Speech league to be held at Michigan State college, December 7.

Livonia Goodfellows Plan Newspaper Sale, Christmas Benefits

Saturday, December 9, is Goodfellows' days in Livonia township, according to an announcement just made by the committee that plans to bring Christmas cheer into the homes of unfortunate mothers and fathers residing in Livonia.

Because of the fact that there are so many small communities scattered all over the township it will be necessary for the Goodfellows' newspaper sale Saturday to be made from house to house. So prepare tomorrow to meet your Goodfellow newsboys and pay what you can towards the Christmas cheer fund of Livonia township.

But that is not the only plan the committee has worked out by which it hopes to raise a sufficient amount of money to take care of the unfortunate boys and girls and some of the afflicted elders of Livonia.

Saturday night, December 9, there will also be a benefit dance given at the American Legion hall in Newburg under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Livonia Goodfellows' club. A small admission charge will be made, and all of the money will go towards the Christmas fund.

Then on Tuesday afternoon, December 12, there will be held at the township hall on Five Mile road, a dessert bridge party. The ladies have arranged for this affair, hoping that they can raise a fairly good sum for the Christmas fund. The event will start at 1:00 o'clock and Mrs. Harry Wolfe and Mrs. Grant Boner, who have the details in charge, extend a general invitation to every one to attend.

The general committee in charge of most of the Livonia township Christmas fund activities is composed of Mrs. Louis LeBar, who resides on Shady Side avenue, general chairman; Mrs. Leonard Graham, Mrs. Joseph Stone, Mrs. Walter Dann, Mrs. Leo Nye, Mrs. Harry Wolfe, Mrs. Jesse Ziegler, Mrs. Clara Smith, Mrs. Grant Boner, Mrs. M. McKinney, Mrs. Arthur Trapp, Mrs. Millie Hubensmith and Mrs. Victor DeWulf.

Plymouth Boxer Goes Three Rounds With World Champion Aspirant

If you were an amateur boxer, and if you had battled with some pretty good scrappers, but had never aspired to meet any of the wizzo-bangs of the ring, and if you had planned to take part in a three-ring exhibition expecting to meet some ordinary, every day boxer—and then happened into the ring and found in the other corner, the aspirant to the bantam weight champion of the world, just what would you do?

Well, that's what happened Tuesday night to Forbes Smith, Plymouth's light weight boxer, when he went over to Northville to take part in the charity boxing tournament staged by Dr. Lynnwood Snow and Orlow Owen, of that place.

Forbes, who spends his time during the day helping to make Daisy air rifles for the boys and girls of the world, does some pretty good boxing for a light weight, so he was invited to take part in the Northville affair.

As he climbed into the ring at the high school gymnasium, he expected to see in the other corner some "pud" he could play with for the three rounds.

"Why, that's KO Morgan over there," whispered Forbes to his seconds as he went through the ropes. His face turned red, then white and maybe his knees shook a bit, but if they did nobody saw them.

Who wouldn't get the "shakes" to suddenly wake up in the ring with one of the best boxers in the country? But those who witnessed the three-round go, declared that Forbes took good care of himself with the Champion and made a very creditable showing. At any rate, they didn't have to carry him out at the end of the three rounds.

KO Morgan is over at Northville training for his next big bout.

Jack VanCoevering Gives Illustrated Lecture to Wildlifeers

"Those pictures certainly looked to be exaggerated work of an artist," one member of the Western Wayne County Conservation association was heard to remark in describing the colored photograph slides which were shown by Jack VanCoevering, Wildlife editor of the Detroit Free Press when he appeared in Plymouth before the association Monday night.

The camera is able to catch every hue, just as it is in nature," Mr. VanCoevering declared following the "oh's" and ah's" exclaimed by several of those present after the very first picture, that of a beautiful Wayne county sunrise, was shown.

The Wildlife editor, who is also a member of the conservation association gave a lecture in connection with the event.

Woman's Club Invites Husbands

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock in the Crystal room of the Hotel Mayflower the members of the Plymouth Woman's club will entertain their husbands and guests. Following dinner, Dr. Howard McClusky of the University of Michigan will speak to the group and Mrs. J.T. Chapman will present music especially arranged for this meeting.

Next week, Friday afternoon, December 15, the Woman's club will resume its regular schedule of afternoon meetings. At this time the program committee is happy to present a most unusual program and one that promises to be a rare treat.

This is the club's Christmas meeting and through the efforts of Miss Marian Bayer, program hostess, club members and their guests are to be afforded an opportunity to hear an organ recital of Christmas music by Eric Franker, organist and choir director of the Highland Park Baptist church.

Mr. Franker, who is an organist of outstanding ability and much in demand for recitals, is also well known as a teacher of organ and piano.

Mr. Franker's program is as follows:

Choral Prelude, "Now Let Us Sing With Joy," J. S. Bach; "Pastorale" from Second Sonata, Alex. Guilmant; "In Bethlehem's Town," Carl F. Mueller; "Variations on an Ancient Christmas Carol," Gaston Dethier; "Christmas in Sicily," Pietro A. Yon; "The Christmas Pipes of County Clare," Harvey B. Gaul; "Festival Toccatina," Percy Flet-

Chapman, Mrs. Bessie Dunning, Mrs. Sterling Eaton, Mrs. W. S. McAllister, Mrs. Maxwell Moon and Mrs. Maurice Woodworth.

Christmas Lights Are Turned On

City employees are making every effort to have all of Plymouth's Christmas decorations completed by Saturday night, according to City Manager Clarence Elliott, who is directing the placing of lights and trees in conjunction with the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

A slight delay was encountered early in the week because wreaths which were ordered in North Carolina did not arrive on schedule but the big trees in both city parks were lighted Thursday and the two large stars on the flag poles were also lighted at that time.

The office of the Chamber of Commerce stated that they were able to raise sufficient funds to buy the new strings of lights necessary for the small trees and that they thought they had enough money to defray the other expenses in connection with the decorating.

It's Christmas Time Again!

Plymouth shoppers report that Plymouth stores are filled to overflowing with as fine an assortment of Christmas gifts this year as were ever available in this city. Merchants say that they have bought more Christmas items for this year's holiday shoppers than ever before, and, from all early indications it's going to be one of the best Christmas seasons ever known in Plymouth.

Local industries are at their peak productions and many of them have been running that way for the last several months. Employment in Plymouth is at a new all-time high and local bank deposits are much higher this year than they were last. The building industry in Plymouth, which incidentally is one of Plymouth's biggest industries, has had an exceptionally busy year and right now an estimated $100,000 worth of building is under way. Santa Claus, with very little effort, can easily find gifts for every member of any family right up and down the main streets of the city this year. Santa Claus can also find many of the articles being advertised in bigger stores and in bigger cities right here in Plymouth and in many instances at lower prices.

Yes, all in all, it's going to be a grand Christmas in Plymouth and we know you'll do your part in helping to make it so for your neighbor. Just remember, before you buy, try your Plymouth merchants first.

Donor Breaks Ground for New Church House Her Gift Made Possible

For several years members of the Newburg Methodist church have been aware of the inadequacy of the present church hall and have wished that means could be found to provide the community with a new church. Now, with a much appreciated generosity of certain individuals this necessity is going to be realized. Last Sunday, immediately after church school, members of the church gathered on the property immediately east of the church and broke ground for the new church hall.

Mrs. Emma Ryder, who made a gift of the property on which the completed hall will stand, wielded the shovel while Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith, who made the gift possible by an exchange of property, looked on. In addition to Mrs. Ryder's gift of property another gift of $250, given by a friend, brought the total dream of a much needed hall into the definite realm of possibility.

The architect for the building is Edward Clapp, of Detroit. Construction is already under way and by next Saturday members of the church hope to have the new church hall completed. Plans call for a building 75 feet long by 40 feet wide which will cost $2200. It will be a one-story building made of cement block and covered with stucco. On the first floor there will be a foyer, large auditorium, stage, and dressing rooms. In the basement there will be a large dining room with adjoining kitchen, furnace room, and lavatories.

The building will be made so that it will provide room for an enlarged church school and at the same time give the community an excellent recreation center. The entire church and many other people in the Newburg community are giving whole-hearted support to this ambitious project. Much of the labor is being contributed by men in the church while every organization in the church is laying plans for raising their share of the expense. Financial reports already indicate that the hall will be dedicated completely free of any debt.

Wild Life Club To Have Venison Feed January 8

Arrangements have been made for the Western Wayne County Conservation association to have a venison dinner, Monday evening, January 8, at the Mayflower hotel. It was announced by Dr. B. E. Champe, president of the association, at their meeting Monday.

The dinner is made possible through the generosity of Dr. Paul Baner, who presented the group with his 140-pound seven-pound buck which he shot during the deer season.

A special program is now being arranged for the event. Further details will be announced by The Plymouth Mail at a later date.

Santa Claus Will Be Here Dec. 16th

All of the kiddies of this section are invited to meet Santa Claus in person at 7:00 o'clock Saturday evening, December 16 when he will arrive at Kellogg Park on Main street and pass out bags of candy and nuts to all those who come to see him.

The visit of Santa was arranged by the Plymouth Civic committee headed by Floyd Eckles in an effort to create more Christmas spirit and help wind up the Goodfellow paper sale which will take place on that day.

Arrangements for the event are being planned by a committee under the direction of Howard Stark. It is planned for Santa to arrive in Plymouth at the State weather park and proceed from there to Kellogg park where he will be accompanied by the high school band.

The committee in charge of the program made it clear that all of the expenses for the undertaking will be defrayed by the Civic committee out of a surplus they have left from the Halloween party.

Mothers and fathers are asked to accompany their children if possible because it is expected nearly a thousand local kiddies will be on hand to greet Old St. Nick.

Demand for Company's Products So Great New Building Is Immediate Necessity, Wall Wire Officials State

New Masonic Master

FRED A. HEARN

Masons Elect F.A. Hearn Master

Members of Plymouth Rock lodge elected Fred A. Hearn their new master to direct the affairs of the masonic order during 1940. James Nairn is the retiring master and under his direction the lodge lists many accomplishments during the year just closing.

Installation of the new officers will take place Friday night, December 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic temple and Ray Mettetal will be the installing officer.

Other officers elected and elevated at the annual meeting are: Richard Straub, senior warden; Claude Rucker, junior warden; Oscar Alsbro, secretary; Clifford Tait, treasurer; Samuel Flaherty, senior deacon; Lester DeWitt, junior deacon; Merritt Crumbe, Tyler; Robert Chappel, chaplain; Alonzo Brocklehurst, marshal; Fred Erb and Harry Mumby, stewards.

Committee appointments will be announced within the next few weeks by the new officers and all are hopeful of a most successful year.

Officers of the company stated that the excellent cooperation from the employees in the plant and the fact that the men had become acclimated to the machinery and surroundings sooner than expected played an important part in their being able to increase their production schedules.

Work will be completed this week by the H. M. White company of Detroit on the installation of a blower ventilating system throughout the plant. This system will change the air completely every four minutes and will carry out all of the fumes that might arise from the wash tanks in the plating department.

Total cost of the building construction and other incidents, improvements planned by the company is estimated in the neighborhood of $25,000. Officials expect to be operating in the new addition not later than January 15.

The company at the present time is devoting its production mainly to refrigeration parts, supplying a large number of the prominent refrigerator manufacturers with shelving for their products. Because of the demand of this market the Wall Wire plant has been unable to start production in other fields where their products can be used.

Spokesmen for the company stated that their highest expectations had been exceeded from the standpoint of demand and reception for their products. The Plymouth Mail has a large display of the products that are now being produced each day by the Wall Wire company.

Strong Appointed Oak Park Head

Sidney D. Strong, who lives on Auburn avenue, was appointed city manager of Oak Park by the village commission Monday night. Mr. Strong's appointment marks the third mayor of the village has had within the year.

Oak Park has a population of twelve hundred and is located in metropolitan Detroit, adjacent to Ferndale, Huntington Woods and Pleasant Ridge. Plymouth's city manager, C. H. Elliott, was manager of Oak Park some years ago. Radio station WJWJ is located there and the village has two private swimming pools in addition to many other features.

Mr. Strong is 55 years old and has had experience in municipal management. He was manager here for seven years between 1920 and 1927. He is a registered civil engineer and also Plymouth district commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America. For the past six years he has been connected with the Detroit City Health department as a superintendent for the Works Progress Administration. He also served as a member of the City of Plymouth planning commission.

He began his work at Oak Park immediately upon receiving notice of his appointment, Wednesday. With Mr. Strong's appointment, the resignation of Jay H. Sikkenga, former manager, automatically became effective. Sikkenga served five months, during which his right to hold office was contested by his predecessor, Alexander Garrett.

Miss Marie Johnson entertained the members of her bridge club, Wednesday evening.

D. A. R. Members Hear Cameron Speak Optimistically of Future

Greenmead, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin A. Hill, Northville, was the scene Monday evening of the annual Christmas party of the Sarah Ann Cochran chapter of the D.A.R. and their guests.

Mrs. J. Merle Bennett, regent, welcomed the guests in the name of the chapter. All joined in singing the first and last verses of "America" and repeated the pledge of allegiance.

Mrs. Bennett introduced Mrs. Allan Buckley, second vice regent and program chairman. Mrs. Kenneth Kitchen sang two lovely songs. The group was then entertained by the dancing of Marcia Sparling, daughter of Mrs. Sparling of Northville.

It was then the pleasure of Mrs. Buckley to introduce to the Daughters and their guests, W. J. Cameron, of the Ford Motor company, whose familiar voice comes to us each Sunday over the Ford Sunday Evening Hour.

The title of Mr. Cameron's address was "The American Revolution." A number of sentences stand out for their constructive suggestions. Mr. Cameron stated, "The last word has not yet been said about the revolution. It has been prophesied from 50 years after the time of Christ that there would be a new empire to the West that would lead the world in new thinking."

Mr. Cameron believes that the very air of America engendered the revolution, an air of liberality which permeated the religious, scientific and political thought of the people.

True Communism was first established here where everyone, in the early days, shared in a division of land, crops and government. Communism as now practiced is the lowest type of imperialism. Cautioning against criticizing the government, Mr. Cameron said, "The government is unassailable, it is the administration of it which may be criticized."

"The next American progress will be along economic lines. We will adopt whatever is good because we are a progressive nation and will not deny the individual his right to good," he declared.

After this most interesting and delicious refreshments were served, Mrs. Gladys Jewell and Mrs. Charles Garlett, of Plymouth; Mrs. Robert K. Leary and Mrs. Nelson Schrader, of Northville, were assistant hostesses.

Residents during the past few days have reported the killing of three goats, a number of turkeys, some sheep, and one farmer recently had a calf killed by the stray dogs. Farmers have seen two of the dogs, one a big police dog and the other a collie, but before they could get their shotguns, the dogs had disappeared. It has also been reported from other localities that stray dogs have been causing much damage.

Curtiss Named on Mythical Reserve-Eleven

Plymouth H. S. Senior Receives All-State Mention

Niel Curtiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Curtiss, 859 Irvin avenue, and a senior in Plymouth high school, was given honorable mention on the Detroit Free Press All-State football team which was named Wednesday morning.

Candidates for the mythical team are picked from football players from all over the state who have been outstanding in team play for the season.

According to an article published in a Detroit paper last week, Curtiss, who played center for the Rocks, was named by Glenn Chapple, one of the better high school football officials, to be one of the best all-around high school linemen he has seen in some time.

This week he received an invitation to attend a football banquet at Michigan State college at which there will be present most of the outstanding football players in the state, coaches and officials of the college.

Governor Luren D. Dickinson, Charles Bachman, head football coach at Michigan State, Ralph Young, athletic director, and president of the college, Robert S. Shaw, and others are scheduled to appear on the program.

For Plymouth, Curtiss has played football each year of his four-year terms. This year he played every quarter except one when he was benched because of injuries.

Besides football, his extra curricular activities include band, orchestra, baseball and basketball.

junction with the colored slides, describing a trip he took in August and September through the southwestern part of the United States, depicting in such a way that every person at the meeting felt that he was also on the trip.

"We will stop just once before coming to our main topic of interest," declared the speaker as he showed a picture of the flat lands of Iowa and Nebraska. "Our next stop will be in the Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado and New Mexico."

It was here that Mr. VanCoevering showed many mountain scenes most of which on the mountain peaks there was snow which never melts.

The next place of interest visited was the Colorado National monument. "The monument as it is called is a horseshoe-shaped mesa, or flat-topped mountain, which appears when one gets to the top of it, to be nothing more than a big hole. That is just what it is." Evidence of the fact was seen when the speaker took his audience to the top where there was a road constructed on the rim for many miles around it.

"From Colorado, our itinerary takes us further south to New Mexico, near Santa Fe, to the home of Ernest Thompson Seton, who has written many books about nature and animals, both tame and wild." Mr. VanCoevering continued. "We happened to arrive at the author's home on the occasion of his seventy-ninth birthday. There was much celebration by his friends, the Pueblo and Navajo Indians."

At this point in the lecture, the Wildlife editor showed some rarely-photographed scenes from the Indians' Buffalo and Kai-Wai, or war dance. For Mr. Seton's birthday, the Indians put on their tribal costumes, which were made even more beautiful through the accurate lens of the traveler's camera.

As gifts to Mr. Seton, the Indians brought prayer-flowers, which are brightly-colored tufts of feathers mounted on sticks of wood and "planted" in the famous author's garden. Before sunset, each feather was burned in a huge bonfire, according to tradition.

Pictures of the hogan, or natives' homes, were shown. These huts were usually of cylindrical-shaped building with a rounding roof, all made of stone and mud. In each case, the only opening was a door which faced the east. Mr. VanCoevering explained that the east-facing door was probably the advice of some Indian medicine-man to keep evil spirits away.

After visiting Mr. Seton, the traveler took his interested audience to Mesa Verde, which means "green table-top," a flat mountain, and to the homes of the Indians and Cliff-dwellers in the Southwest.

The Cliff-dwellers are said to have lived in the country starting about the time of the Christian era and becoming extinct at the time of the Crusades in Europe. This evidence was determined from tree-rings-near their homes. Much of the course of their lives may be followed from the growth of rings on the trees. It has been said that, according to calculations made from the rings, the civilization expired because of a long period of drought. It is thought that during this period, the dwellers partially constructed a huge temple with a number of "prayer-pits" in which to pray for rain.

The temple was never finished. Each home had a pit for prayer which was sometimes used for men's club rooms.

Most of the Cliff-dwellers' homes were very difficult to gain access to, because of the fact that each community was built up high on the side of a cliff, where access could be only by means of climbing down the precipitous side of the mountain or down deep in a hole in the top of a mesa.

None of the beautiful scenes of the southwestern United States surpassed the last slide which Mr. VanCoevering showed, which was that of a Wayne county sunset, taken from near his home in Rosedale Gardens. Included with the pictures of the mountains and scenery, the speaker obtained some very good shots of animal life along his journey.

Mr. VanCoevering recently finished writing a nature book, "Real Boys and Girls Go Barring," which was published by the Lippincott Publishing company. The volume received highest honors for children's books published in September and it now has sold over 8,000 copies. The author brought several copies of the book with him to Plymouth which were purchased by various members of the association. Mr. VanCoevering personally autographed the books.

Aside from members of the association who were present at the meeting, there were present in biology class from the high school with their teacher, Leo Wallace.

It's Embarrassing

Cold shoulders will be a dime-a-dozen Thursday, December 14 at the annual White House diplomatic reception in Washington. Politic enemies will include Dr. Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affaires, and Lord Lothian, British ambassador, whose nations are at war. Bottom row: Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador, whose nation was seized recently by Russia, represented by Ambassador Constantine Oumansky.

Police Arrest House-Breaker—Prisoner Admits Burglary Attempts

William Jarrett, 39, colored, who lives at 4046 Milford, Detroit, was arrested Tuesday morning following the complaint of a Plymouth resident that an attempt had been made to break into his home Monday night.

At 3:35 o'clock Tuesday morning, Plymouth police received a call from Earl Becker, of 1055 Beech avenue, that someone had attempted to break and enter his home.

Officers Sackett and Hawk were on duty at the time and investigated the call. At 4:00 o'clock they saw an automobile coming out from the Hough woods. They immediately stopped the car and placed the driver, Jarrett, under arrest.

Jarrett admitted to the police that he had attempted to break into several other homes in the city, among them being that of Peter Delvo at 634 Harvey street. Jarrett's method of breaking was by means of prying open a window with an iron bar.

It was learned that the colored man has previously served 17 months in Jackson prison in 1932 for the larceny of an automobile.

A warrant will be asked for his case on a breaking and entering charge. Police Chief Vaughan Smith declared that it is likely he will be bound over to circuit court.

off Christmas shopping. Time passes until the last two or three shopping days before Christmas. One then frantically grabs pencil and paper. He jots down names and gift suggestions. He tears his hair, racks his brain, breaks it out in a cold sweat—that is "List-it."

Plymouth Christmas shoppers now are informed as to just what the local merchants offer as gifts and may leisurely take their time making out the gift list. Then when plans are made, these fortunate individuals who attended the showing will know in which store each and every gift is to be found.

Wendell Lent, a J.C.C. member, very capably acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the program as arranged by Netter Worthington of the Art Barn. Mr. Worthington brought a group of entertainers from the Art Barn, and in conjunction with other persons from the city and vicinity put on a program appreciated by all those who were present.

The two-hour program included the following entertainers: the Stevens sisters, Margaret and Thelma, who sang and danced to two popular numbers of the day. A girls' double quartet from the high school sang two numbers during the course of the program. One of them was "God Bless America," to which they were accompanied by Noel Curtiss on the trumpet.

A young accordionist from Rosedale Gardens, Kenneth Hanna, was popular with the audience in his rendition of accordion solos. Edward Cullinan and J. Offenbach, faculty members of the Art Barn, appeared on the program. Mr. Cullinan played swing piano to several popular numbers, among which was his version of the classic, "Nola." Mr. Offenbach gave an original interpretation of an air from Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "The Mikado."

Mrs. Inez Locke, of Plymouth, played piano solos and Toby Rice of the Art Barn, tap-danced. Ruth Hadley, popular Plymouth

Plymouth Women Return From West Coast Trip

Mrs. Arnold Leach, who lives on Mill street, and Mrs. Robert Ingram, Amelia street, returned from a trip to the western coast, Wednesday, November 29.

The two Plymouth women traveled by train to Los Angeles, California, where they met some friends who took them to Hollywood. There they were shown many interesting things, including all the large movie studios. The visitors saw an immense building with 52 bowling alleys all under one roof.

The beautiful homes of various movie stars were visited and Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Leach said that they were invited to pick flowers from Harold Lloyd's garden.

From Hollywood they went to Malibu beach where there are many beautiful summer homes. They bathed in the Pacific ocean and collected many sea shells which were brought home with them.

At Richmond, California, they visited relatives and then proceeded to San Francisco. Chinatown interested them.

November Traffic Tickets Mark New Low for Year

44 Less Than July, Record Month Thus Far

The month of November was recorded by Police Chief V. R. Smith as being the one for the least number of traffic offenses so far this year. There were 22 tickets issued by police officers, netting the city a total of $86 in fines. In sharp contrast with July, the record month for the year, the past month was 44 violations lower. Fines for July amounted to $274, $188 more than for November.

Speeding, in November as in July, was the cause for the most tickets to be issued. There were 42 speeders arrested in July and only six for November. Four persons were arrested for reckless driving and two were given tickets for improper parking. Failure to have an operator's license was cause for the arrest of two individuals.

Two tickets were recorded against persons who failed to stop at a stop-street intersection and a similar number failed to stop at a red light. One person was found to be driving against traffic on a one-way street and two were given tickets for over-time parking.

One individual was arrested for going past an intersection while the traffic light there was amber in changing from green to red.

Municipal Judge John S. Dayton convicted one individual of reckless driving and subjected him to a fine of $50 and costs of $5. Other city ordinance cases netted fines of $107 and costs of $9 for the city.

For November there was one felony case and ten misdemeanor cases which were cleared. Forty-six lodgers were accommodated in jail. Three dogs were killed by police authorities and four were impounded.

Each night the police officer on duty is required to investigate to determine whether or not doors of business establishments have been left open. During November officers found 33 open doors.

Three persons were reported missing from Plymouth.

The police department issued 11 chauffeur licenses and 84 drivers' licenses. There were 53 individuals who requested that the addresses on their licenses be changed to a Plymouth residence.

Seven persons requested that guns be registered. Four gun license permits were granted.

Other items on the miscellaneous report included that policemen attended two fires and responded to three reports that street lights were out. Three Plymouth citizens requested that their homes be watched while they were out of the city.

There was one report of peddlers in the city. Night officers answered 75 telephone calls and the police chief answered 170 calls during the days. Two sick or injured persons were taken to hospitals by police authorities. The officers responded to 17 dog complaints.

Time to Mulch Strawberry Bed

Whether it's just a small home garden planting or a large commercial acreage, it's time for strawberry growers in Wayne county to put on a suitable winter mulch.

Materials suggested by Professor R. E. Loree of the horticulture department at Michigan State college include marsh hay if it can be obtained at low cost, or straw from wheat, oats or rye if they are free from weed seeds or grain.

Mulching reduces winter damage, insures cleaner and brighter berries and helps reduce loss of soil moisture.

Effectiveness of the mulch depends on the time and manner of application, says Professor Loree. Application should be soon after the soil begins to freeze in the fall—in Michigan in late November or early December.

How thick a mulch? There should be two to three inches when settled, to provide ample winter protection. Depending on the material, this takes from two to three tons of straw for an acre.

If the mulch is comparatively heavy it will be necessary to open it over the rows next spring when the plants try to grow through. Otherwise the mulch need not be disturbed until after the harvest.

ing season. This one question is one frequently submitted to the small fruits specialist at the college in meetings and through correspondence.

Some delay in spring can retard blossoming and help escape damage from late spring frosts, but this must be timed well, otherwise plants will smother. Any of the periodic examinations in spring showing indications of bleaching of the plants means the mulch should be opened regardless of the calendar.

Dress Committee to Also Give Boys' Clothing

The community dress committee which will make some 200 young Plymouth girls happy this Christmas is also undertaking to supply boys with new clothing. Never before has the committee attempted to make clothing provisions for both boys and girls.

It is reported that because the dress quota is being filled so readily, the committee will have ample time to take and fill orders for the boys.

All new clothing, whether for boys or girls, is to be taken to the home of Dr. Alta Rice on West Ann Arbor Trail by Saturday, December 16. Other Plymouth women on the dress committee include Ruth Hadley, chairman; Mrs. E. E. Wilson, Mrs. Herbert Swanson and Mrs. A. Ray Gilder.

City Employees and I. O. O. F. Have Blood Typed

Hospital Buys Transfusing Apparatus

As a result of a recent drive sponsored by the Plymouth chapter of the I. O. O. F., and also carried out by city employees, almost any common type of blood may be found in this vicinity. Some time ago, two members of the Odd Fellow organization appeared before the city commission and requested that the city financially assist them in having blood typed so that it will be on call for emergency purposes in Plymouth and also to aid those who need it and cannot afford that of a professional donor.

There were 45 city employees, 13 members of the I. O. O. F. and five women members of the organization who responded to the call and had their blood typed. A transfusing apparatus has been purchased by the Plymouth hospital and is installed in that place now. The hospital also has a complete list of the blood types.

Any Plymouth physician is privileged to call on the person whose blood has been typed for the purpose of giving blood for a needy cause.

Earl Gray and Harry Hunter, co-chairmen of the drive and members of the I. O. O. F., also have the blood type list which may be consulted by physicians in the vicinity.

Box Elder Bugs Inhabit Homes

He's piped in red, but don't be alarmed, it's likely he's a box elder bug rather than a bedbug.

Cold weather drove swarms of box elder bugs indoors, if the inquiries and samples reaching the Michigan State college entomology department are good guides. These bugs won't do any damage, unless they get squashed on walls or wallpaper—they merely want some free heat until they can get outdoors to their favorite box elder tree next spring.

In fact, say the college entomologists, the bug will even stay in hiding, unless the house warms up to such an extent as to fool him into believing spring has arrived prematurely.

Besides the "red piping," the box elder bug's description includes such details as length, one-half to three-fourths of an inch, and color, gray-brown.

What's the remedy?

Professor Ray Hutson recommends a sharp axe or hatchet, used in pruning the box elder tree "close to the ground." One unsuspecting person visiting Hutson's office recently asked if that wouldn't kill the box elder tree.

And the entomologist replied, "That's just what I mean."

Among Nobel Prize Winners; Nazis Must Refuse

These scientists are among winners of the 1940 Nobel prizes which will be awarded Sunday, December 10 by King Gustav in Stockholm, Sweden. Each prize approximates $40,000. Left to right: Emil Sillanpaa of Finland, winner of the literature prize; Dr. Ernest Orlando Lawrence of California, physics; Gerhard Domagk of Germany, physiological medicine; Leopold Ruzicka of Switzerland, who shared the chemistry prize with Prof. Adolph Butenandt of Berlin. Because of a German ban on Nobel prizes, both Domagk and Butenandt must refuse them, as must Prof. Richard Kuhn of Berlin, who was awarded last year's chemistry prize.

Cold Promotes Home Butchering

Low livestock prices and cool temperatures are reviving the homely but economical practice of home butchering on Michigan farms. Freezer lockers, points out

G. A. Brown of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college, are stimulating meat preservation and storage.

Dressing of animals should take place when the temperature is between 15 and 30 degrees so that the carcass can cool, but not freeze, 24 to 48 hours before cutting up. Professor Brown urges farm butchers. Thorough cooling after thorough bleeding means better quality meat.

Meats stored in frozen lockers should be cut first into chops and roasts and wrapped in moisture proof cellophane before placing in the freezing locker within a few days after butchering.

In addition to such storage and preservation by canning there is a third method that of curing in the form of hams, bacon or corned beef.

For 100 pounds of pork a suitable cure consists of seven pounds of salt, two pounds of sugar and two ounces of saltpeter in four gallons of water. Pork should go into the cure within 48 to 72 hours after dressing out the animal. After the meat is cut up, salt should be rubbed on surfaces and some worked in about the bones at either end of hams and shoulders and the meat left stand for 24 hours before it is placed in the liquid cure.

An earthenware crock thoroughly cleaned and without cracks is most satisfactory for curing. Bacon strips, says Professor Brown, should be in the cure two to two and a half days for each pound but hams need to remain three to three and a half days for each pound. Brine should not become cloudy or rosy—if it does the meat should be washed off and placed in new brine.

"The Home Meat Supply," Extension Bulletin 151, is available in offices of county agricultural agents or by writing the Bulletin Room, Michigan State college, East Lansing. Illustrations and complete information on butchering and curing beef, pork, veal and lamb are included.

According to a report by the Committee on Population Problems, the Southeast bears 13 per cent of the children, but receives only 2 per cent of the national income.

New Cage Rules Go Into Effect

Plymouth high school plays its first home basketball game, Wednesday evening, December 20. At that time Plymouth residents at the game will notice a number of changes in the game rulings which go into effect this year. The changes were made by the Michigan High School Athletic association at its rules meeting at Ann Arbor, December 2.

Probably the most important rule which goes into effect this year is as follows: The captain's request to waive the free throw and take the ball out of bounds must be made prior to the placing of the ball by the official in the hands of the player who is entitled to the throw at the free throw line.

Another new rule is that the referee shall examine and sign the official score book at the end of the first half and at the end of the game.

A rule which was adopted by the committee last year but still misunderstood by a number of spectators is that a free throw, following which the ball ordinarily is in play, must enter the basket or touch the ring, otherwise the ball is awarded to the opposing team out-of-bounds.

In 1937 a rule was passed which still is not known by many who attend high school basketball games. The rule follows: The referee shall bar from participation in any game in which varsity or first teams compete, any players whose playing jerseys are not numbered both on the front and back. Another is, it is not an "air dribble" when a stationary player throws or passes the ball from one hand to the other.

Last year the committee passed a rule relative to the initial time-out of the game. In games where the players are of high school age or younger, an official's time-out shall be taken in the second quarter and in the fourth quarter, provided there has not been a charged time-out or time-out for injury for either team during the first four minutes of that quarter. This time-out is to be taken the first time the ball is dead after four minutes have expired, and is to be of two minutes' duration. A player in possession of the ball in his back court is not to be considered as having gone into his front court, or vice versa, until both his feet are entirely across the line and in contact with the floor.

The Extras are in the CAR—and not in the Price!

YOU look this smooth-stepping Buick honey over, and its very manner tells you here's a one-in-a-million kind of automobile.

You look at the advertised prices, add something more for transportation and accessories—and there you begin to go wrong!

For one of the things that give Every Buick comes to you with automatic choke and an efficient oil cleaner—it's surprising how often they're sold as "extras."

Every Buick has dual horns, dual sun visors, locks on both front doors, electric lighter, assist straps, robe cord, glove compartment lock, front-door armrests, gas tank lock—all things often charged for elsewhere.

Every Buick has a Dynaflex valve-in-head straight-eight engine, micropoise-balanced after assembly. Every one has two stabilizers, and rear coil springs that never need lubrication.

All have torque-tube drive, battery under hood, two ways of starting. Super and Roadmaster have front seats close to five feet wide and all models have Safety Plate Glass all around.

And all this is included in the at-the-factory price. Why not see the nearest Buick dealer and see how little more it costs delivered to your door?

Can you FIND YOUR STORE from a block away?

If you can't, neither can your customers... and you may be losing possible sales. That is why an electric sign is a paying investment. Bright signs and bright windows attract crowds. Look down the street after nightfall in any shopping center: Successful stores, theaters and progressive places of business mark their location with a brilliant flood of light. Names in lights are names noticed.

If your store has a transom built over the door and window, it can easily be converted into an attractive silhouette sign. These fascia signs are thoroughly modern and do a very effective job at a minimum expense. Thanksgiving Day Marks Fifth Year of Operation

Employees of the Newburg Ford plant, located about three miles from Plymouth on the shore of Newburg lake, thought themselves fortunate. Thanksgiving day, for it was then that they had passed the fifth milestone since the construction was started on the plant. Up to this time there had not been a single lost time accident. This record among such plants, was bettered by only one, the Plymouth plant where taps are made, which has been in operation for 16 years, since March 23, 1923, without an accident.

who helped construct them. In both the Newburg and Plymouth Ford plants more than 50 percent of the original employees are still working. Five years ago when the Newburg plant was opened, the men who were employed had been out of work for a considerable length of time. When they started work on that Thanksgiving day five years ago, they, indeed, had something to be thankful for. This year, they also express their gratitude and are thankful that they have had continuous work since that time.

City Repairs Sidewalk Section

Monday, city employes rebuilt a section of sidewalk on the northeast corner of Starkweather and Liberty streets. In building the corner over, the walk was raised three inches and leveled so that water which formerly collected in a low area on the walk will now run off into the gutter.

City Engineer S. L. Besse declared that by rebuilding the walk a pedestrian hazard has been eliminated. In recent years water from fall rains and early snow has collected in the depressed portion and has frozen with the onset of cold weather making a dangerous area of slippery walk.

The new sidewalk is constructed in such a way that water will flow off and not remain in puddles on the concrete.

Other committees which are scheduled to meet are Civil Identification, Christmas Decorations, Americanism, Conservation, Agriculture and Industrial Relations. Plymouth chairmen of the preceding committees are J. Rusing Cutler, Garnet Rush, Ernest Henry, William Rambo and Walter Ash. In all probability these members will be present at the Lansing meeting. If not, representatives from the local chapter will be sent.

When It Comes to Efficiency, We Have It Here in Plymouth

Two unusual duties of city employes were carried out last week Wednesday afternoon. Motorists driving by the city hall were surprised to see City Manager C. H. Elliott directing traffic following the dismissal of school and persons in another part of town were equally astonished at seeing Police Captain Charles J. Thumme in hot pursuit of a runaway horse.

"I never expect other city employes to do a job that I wouldn't do," declared the city manager, but when confronted to

Early Law Proves Puzzle Today

While Michigan legislators may have been conservation-minded a century ago they were not so scientific in designating wildlife species as are present-day conservationists.

Act 109 of the Public Acts of 1840, for the preservation of woodcock, quail, partridge and pheasant in the county of Wayne, provided that there should be no killing of woodcock between February 1 and July 1, and no killing of quail, partridge or pheasant between March 1 and October 1.

Section 2 of the act provided a penalty of one dollar for illegal killing of partridge or pheasant, and a 50-cent penalty for woodcock and quail. But revenue clearly was not the purpose of the act. Half the penalty went to Wayne county and half to the informer. Persons selling or possessing the birds illegally were deemed guilty of killing.

What puzzles the modern reader is the word "pheasant." Separate references to pheasant and partridge indicate two different birds were meant, though the partridge, or ruffed grouse, was often called a pheasant a century ago. Game men of the conservation department believe the reference was to some other grouse, such as the prairie chicken, found in Wayne county a hundred years ago.

The pheasant of today, the Chinese ringneck which now supplies more than 900,000 cock birds a year for small game hunters, was not introduced in quantities before 1918 by the state conservation department. Earliest known private plantings of ringnecks in Michigan were made in 1892.

City Employes Widen Street Approach

Work was started last week to widen the approach to Roe street from South Main by city employes under the direction of City Engineer Stanford Besse.

When the present construction is completed, Plymouth motorists will find it less difficult to both turn on and off Main and Roe streets.

The first part of the week linemen from the Consumers Power company moved a pole that was near the intersection so that when the street was made wider, the pole which then would be near the curb would not be too close to obstruct motorists' vision or present other traffic obstacles.

So when Captain Thumme asked Mr. Elliott which he wished to do, if either, he, being Police Commissioner, fell into his line of duty, and told the kiddies when to and when not to cross the street.

The city manager said that quite by accident there were no traffic mishaps. The only casualty was a wounded finger, which he caught in the traffic directing apparatus.

Captain Thumme, who is known to always get his man, got the horse. Needless to say, everything was smooth sailing for the ship of the city by 4:00 o'clock that afternoon.

The Candle in the Window

By Margaret Hill McCarter

SYNOPSIS
It was a blustery December evening when Ted Winters, who was wearing a thick fur coat, and a group of men in the Star City hotel. They were in a story-telling mood and Ted always told them the story of his best Christmas. It was the story of little "Plike" Gabel, whose name came from his habit of saying, "let's play like." Ted often takes "Plike" home from school with him, and grows to love the little boy. Plike is a very lively, mischievous, kindhearted, and "spunky" fellow. He lives with poverty-stricken Grandma Gabel and her son, Tobin, a slow-witted, kindhearted, but "spiky" fellow. Ted school at District 33, where he is one of Ruth Ravenshaw's brightest pupils. Ruth, who is a very kind, cheerful, and generous girl, is unhappy, she makes no friends in the district. One day, just before Christmas, Ted calls on her and tells her how very cheerful she seems. She calls on the other families along the street, and is glad to see that they cannot afford even the slightest Christmas pleasures.

Ted looked up at us with that mischievous grin that made us all love him.
I AIN'T no preacher, but, as I told you, this was the best Christmas I ever had, and I guess I got sort of softened down in spirit, like it does a body good to get once a year. It was a night full of a big idea. What's the use preachin' to other folks about cheer and good-will, and doin' little things to make folks happy, if they can't do big ones, when you ain't liftin' a finger to be and do the same your own self? I made up my mind right then I'd do my bit along with the free gratis advice I was sheddin' on my route so willingly. I'd take every mail-box out there a good wax candle to set up in their windows Christmas eve, far off lonely little homes, miles apart, and out of sight of anybody. But I'd learned to love the folks out there, and hein' a bit sentimental down under my alligator hide, I just wanted to once help spread the Christmas spirit in what simple way I could. Makes you all grin to think about it now, but you remember how much we needed peace and good-will in 1917!

She got by little Plike as slick as anything.

We were not grinnin, not a man of us. Ted Jennings and Elbert McCullon and old Abram Star were very still; even the New York City commercial traveler sat like a stone man. There was something in Plike's words that held us all. And if we said nothing it was because nobody wanted to risk the sound of his own voice just then.

The next day I wrapped up a candle for every single mail-box I had. Wrapped it in pretty paper, and tied it with a red silk cord. Cost more'n a red ribbon, but didn't look quite so cheap as this here papery ribbon. And I put a pretty little Christmas card, with the season's greetin's on it, in with every candle, askin' the folks at every box to take it with my best wishes, and the hope they'd light the same and send it to the window Christmas Eve. Something the Smoky Hill valley I hadn't never seen in all the long still centuries its brown waters has run down from the high plains to the Kaw.

"I wasn't that the candle was worth so much. It just stood up with its tiny light to say that the Bible is the biggest, saddest thing in all our outcomin's and higher developin's. You know, gentlemen, gettin' right down to brass tacks, once in a while, that we can psychologists and are rich men's sons, in particular, and get away with it fairly well, at least for temporary purposes; and we can educate the youth, each comin' generation a little more'n the one behind it, at our high-priced colleges, and make the State, I mean, government, and all it stands for, a lot safer for our posterity than it was for our ancestry. And we may domestic-economize and decorate our homes with all money can put there and be wiped up on these here calories, and salads, and dra-house on the upper Smoky route that holiday of 1917. You see I was tryin' to do my share.

Ted paused, but nothing broke the stillness of the room save the swish of the blizzard-lashed snow against the Star House windows.

The day before Christmas was a corker that year. Started in well enough, but 'the end of that perfect day' was a good deal like the one we had on us tonight, only fiercer, a lot. And while I wasn't as loaded with holiday mail as some rural carriers, and actin' at all like town and city postmen, I was pretty well worked down, helpin' in the office, till I hadn't had enough sleep in a whole week to match more'n one good night's rest. Added to that I had taken a cold that settled in my eyes. Say, if you gentlemen think the winds have forgot how to blow, because Kansas is higher civilized, and intensiver cultivated, just start up the Smoky Hill valley some day like this one's been, and you won't need three guesses on how long it will take to sliver your eyeballs to pieces. One of my eyes was bloodshot, and half blind; and the other one would never been eligible for no labor union, and do all the time and half time it has to for nothin'. That was how it happened I got so I couldn't hardly read the addresses on my mail, unless it was writ big, and plain, or type-writ clear. I just had to depend mainly on the rural box number. If that was all right I let it go at that.

right at all. For even if she did live by herself, and had forgot how to smile, even with children—and that's the acid test of an over-matured sorrow—there must have been a time somewhere back in her life when she had Christmas in a pretty home, mebby.

I got so worked up over her case I nearly forgot to have a thrill when I caught sight of a letter for Box 33, the Gabels, and the very first one they'd ever had. But mail was pullin' on my curiosity, as it will on a carrier's by the mornin' of December twenty-four every year. I was thinkin' only of Ruth Ravenshaw, when I stopped at the school-house to check up little Plike, and yes—to chat a minute with the pretty girl. I guess all men are alike about things like that. I don't suppose Methuselah ever really got over it, though you can't say it hastened his end. I knew she was in for a silent Christmas in her little room off the old sod schoolhouse, alone in a lonely land, shipwrecked on the earth billows of the canyons out there. She'd told all the children but Tully Gabel, good-by, and switched them tradin' off out of sight. Then—I don't know yet just how she did manage it. Women's home economics is clear beyond my feeble intellect, but somehow she got by little Plike slick as anything, and slid a big-sized bundle into my cart before I knew, myself, what she was up to, sayin':

"It's the photograph for Grandma Gabel from Tully. He wants one for her so much, it will be better than any gift I could give him if I had one. I've taught him how to use it, and I want her to have it. I shall not want it any more."

ARE YOU A "NO" MAN?—EDITORIAL

There has been a lot said about the typical "yes" man of Hollywood who does what his boss tells him without question. We never think much about the "no" man. He is the person who sits tight, says "no" or "I don't like that" and offers no constructive suggestion.

ADVICE TO ADOLESCENTS

The present question before the house—and school—concerns the growth at the side of the school. Starting as a one story addition, it has doubled after the manner of an amoeba and even now threatens to quadruple.

THE ROCKETTES WRITE: A TRAMP

A tramp is sort of a parasite; one who roams around eating whatever he can find, beg, or steal, sleeping wherever he can, loafing most of the time.

BIOLOGY CLASS HEARS JACK VAN COEVERING

When the Western Wayne County Conservation association met at the Mayflower hotel on December 4, many of Mr. Wallace's biology class were present as guests.

BASKETBALL TEAM OBTAINS NEW UNIFORMS

If new clothes make a man, this year's basketball team should have the best they have ever had. The new uniforms have been ordered to protect the players from floor burns and ten pairs of blue socks have also been ordered.

This year's senior prom, engineered by Dick Dunlop, Eugene Bakedwell, and a corps of assistants, is going to be a colorful affair.

BOB HANCOCK PING-PONG CHAMPION

Bob Hancock, a sophomore, champion of the boys' division of the ping-pong tournament, defeated Ruth Drewe, also a sophomore and winner of the girls' tournament, last Thursday noon.

TWO PLYMOUTH BOYS IN FORD'S CAMP LEGION

Food, fun, work and money—these are the selling points of Henry Ford's Camp Legion to Harold Wood and Jack Dempsey, two of the 68 boys who worked for six months on the 300-acre co-operative vegetable garden.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

More should be known about the debate teams since the members of each team have been responsible for some of the laurels presented to Plymouth high school.

SOUTHERN SMALL TALK

Well, here we are again. That small item that said, "I wonder who the Southern Gals are," certainly brought us to life. It's too bad that most of you have been behaving yourselves lately, but we'll catch you doing something yet.

HERE AND THERE

The girls' double quartet, accompanied by Vera Essig and Neal Curtis, sang at the Junior Chamber of Commerce exhibit which was held at the Methodist church, Thursday and Friday, November 30 and December 1.

As usual the boys have gathered together in a "locker-room discussion." It seems that the question being debated is who those minus girls for the Prom are going to take!

DENTISTS EXAMINE TEETH

Drs. Todd, Olsaver, Champe and Robinson, assisted by Mrs. Strawn, the school nurse, last week examined the teeth of students in grades as well as in high school. Mrs. Strawn said that the main purpose of this was to make pupils more conscious of the fact that their teeth should be examined at least once every six months.

LAST SHOWING OF JUNIOR PLAY TONIGHT

The second cast in this year's junior play will present "Jane Eyre" tonight, Friday, December 8.

A large crowd is expected tonight to contrast this dramatization with the original best-selling novel of a century ago from which the play has been adapted.

Cleverly adapted by Wall Spence, author of other stage successes, the play has a cast of 11 women, and five men. The showing last night had a wholly different cast.

Miss Winifred Ford and Miss Doris Schmidt have directed the play.

YPSI WINS OVER ROCKS IN DEBATE

In a close debate December 5, Ypsilanti high school's debate squad nosed out the Plymouth team and thus virtually eliminated all hope of Plymouth's gaining even a second place in the T.V.A.A. Mr. Allison of the University of Michigan, the sole critic judge, awarded his decision to Ypsi. For in his opinion, their case remained standing at the conclusion of the debate despite the objections raised by the negative.

The winning Ypsi team was composed of Gordon Gable, Louis Spencer and Otis Hardy. Plymouth's team was composed of Virginia Rock, Bob Daniel and Jim Zuckerman.

At the present Ypsilanti has 12 points, Plymouth nine points and Escor at least nine, and should she defeat Wayne December 7, she will have 12 points. Supposing for the moment that Wayne wins, the Rocks would win to win one more debate than Escor at the tournament on December 9. If Escor wins, Plymouth would still have a chance to enter a tie for second place should either Ypsi or Escor lose at least three debates at the tournament while Plymouth won all of hers.

ROTARY HONORS FOOTBALL WARRIORS

In honor of the 1939 Plymouth high school football team, which was not so successful this year as last, the Plymouth Rotary club sponsored a dinner at the Mayflower hotel on Friday, December 1. Twenty-three letter men were present and were introduced separately to the Rotary club by Coach Anthony Matulis. Last year's captain, Doug Prough and Neal Curtis, were presented a rose after which the 1940 co-captains of the football team, Jack Gettleton and Shirley Dunham, were introduced. Following the dinner, songs were sung by the band and the presentation presented to Plymouth high school.

When one hears our fellow debaters, he really thinks that they have done a good job. Their speech work seems especially well done this year. Whether they will be rewarded or not depends upon the team's work.

However, nothing is ever said as to what goes on behind those doors. It seems that when a debate is over the team is lectured on their bad points, whether they win or lose. Practice debates are contested between the students and also in the early part of the season debates were waged among other schools.

With their late success, which ties them with two other schools for first place, credit should be given to these members. Wishing them good luck and bidding you readers good day, it's time to say—I'll see you next week.

MAKIN' THE ROUNDS

As usual the boys have gathered together in a "locker-room discussion." It seems that the question being debated is who those minus girls for the Prom are going to take! Remember, boys, there are plenty still wandering about...

Mr. Oh my! Here is a choice bit of gossip. A group of members in the junior class was truly upset because a very important officer in their class refused to sell play tickets; however, he has reconsidered. Hooray for some of the girls!

Surprisingly enough most have indicated a mutual agreement of buying but only for each school year, and was to be unto those who back out...

These meetings after school are certainly one of the best places to do the weekly gossiping. If one stays around, in time he probably would be able to blackmail a few of the subjects discussed, oh what?

DENTISTS EXAMINE TEETH

Drs. Todd, Olsaver, Champe and Robinson, assisted by Mrs. Strawn, the school nurse, last week examined the teeth of students in grades as well as in high school. Mrs. Strawn said that the main purpose of this was to make pupils more conscious of the fact that their teeth should be examined at least once every six months. She said even if one has tiny cavities, he should go to a dentist before anything serious develops.

COWARDLY, BRUTAL RUSSIA!

If you were walking down the street and saw three or four 200-pound thugs beating and kicking one little four- or five-year-old child until the child was nearly dead, you would have a pretty fair example of what has just happened in Finland. The assault made upon the peaceful, progressive people of Finland by the immense war machine of Russia will go down through history as one of the most brutal, most cowardly and inhumane acts of all time.

Let us hear no more in this country about the "equality" of Russian Communism. The cur that opens his mouth in defense of Stalinism should be taken to the dock in New York, and shipped to the land of "liquidating" squads, hunger and brutality. Make up your mind to one thing—the ONLY type of person in America who advocates Communism is exactly the same kind of a coward as typified by the Communist invasion of Finland. If a Communist would discover one to be in a helpless position he would jump at the opportunity to stab in the back his defenseless opponent. If he had to meet him face to face, under equal conditions, the typical Communist would sneak away like the cur he typifies.

A Communist seeks all that you possess, but he wants it without working for it or paying for it. The best object lesson of Communism and its purposes has just taken place in little Finland.

All power to the American Legion in its efforts to stamp out of American life this political rattlesnake that strikes before it rattles!

POLITICAL ASSESSMENTS.

Recent newspaper dispatches say that a grand jury has been summoned to continue the investigation into the sordid political mess in Kansas City that resulted in prison sentences for some of the big bosses of that place as well as the state of Missouri. It is anticipated, so it is stated, that many more indictments will be returned, with the prospects of more being sent to jail.

The inquiry has so far revealed that the political bosses required that all public job holders pay into the political machine a certain portion of their monthly wages. Not only were the public job holders assessed, but people or firms that did business with the city had to pay into the political jackpot so much money out of their "earnings."

Of course all of this money came directly or indirectly out of the pockets of the taxpayers. They, the taxpayers, are not only forced to pay to keep the various governmental units functioning, but they are forced to "grease" the political machines as well. That dual system has taken millions out of the pockets of the people of Missouri.

But what about Michigan? There has been developing during the past few years a similar system of political assessments of public employes in this state. It reached its highest state of perfection during the administration just previous to the present one. How many hundreds of thousands of dollars were taken away from state employes will never be known, but the total must have been an immense one. Not only was there regular assessments to pay, but state employes were compelled to sell tickets to dances, moonlighting and other social affairs. If they couldn't sell the tickets they had to buy them anyway.

The legislature during its recent session endeavored to put an end to that thing by strengthening the political activity clause of the civil service act.

But notwithstanding the facts revealed during the past two years as well as what the new law attempts to prevent, it is pretty well known that at least two persons occupying high places, are permitting, if not actually requiring, these practices be continued.

If so, there should be an immediate investigation of the scheme, and proper steps taken to end it once and for all time before Michigan has a scandal that will rival the affair that has smeared the good name of Kansas City. Political assessments seemingly go hand in hand with crooked politics. There is no place for any such thing in Michigan.

IS BUSINESS GOOD?

There seems to prevail a general sentiment that business just at present is good in most parts of the country, except in Detroit. Of course the strike situation in Michigan's metropolis during the last two months has kept business there below the average throughout the country.

But is business really good when federal reports show that there are practically as many people in idleness today as there was six or eight years ago?

The present Washington administration said it was going to end unemployment in these United States but it has failed to do so if the reports from its own departments are to be believed.

Now comes along a Washington proposal that we spend millions and millions of dollars in building war equipment to protect us from what? If the present rate of shipping destruction continues among the nations at war, there will not be left at the end of another six months enough ships to carry a corporal's guard from Europe to America.

So why not take the money that the administration proposes to use for war equipment and spend it for purposes that will create permanent jobs for our idle people, doing something that will not only provide employment, but national benefits as well?

There are so many things that should be done, so many ways that money can be spent in peaceful pursuits that congress should give but slight thought to appropriating vast sums for war purposes.

American citizens will not object to spending millions for peace, prosperity and jobs, but they should object to spending any immeasurable sum for the building of a vast destructive war machine. And business cannot be called good until all of our unemployed people are working in some occupation that does not produce equipment for war.

WHITE PAINT.

"I think Plymouth is one of the most attractive little cities in the country," declared a recent visitor to The Plymouth Mail office. "It has so many good looking homes, all painted white. I never saw in any other place I was ever in so many houses painted white as you have here. That's what gives Plymouth such a clean, well-kept appearance."

Here's a thought for we who live here to consider. Our attractive, light painted homes are common-places to us, but to the visitor they create a most favorable impression. White painted homes, especially when surrounded by so many trees and shrubs as we have here, do help to make a good looking city. When paint-up, clean-up week arrives in the spring, it might be a good idea to use a bit more white paint than we have in the past. There is no question but what it does help to make a city look clean and progressive.

WHAT A JOKE!

Safety campaigns are good things, there is no question about that. Anything which will impress the public with the necessity of being careful in driving automobiles is always advisable. But there should be some common sense used along with it, especially when it comes to the use of tax dollars to spread propaganda.

At various times we find at least three state departments apparently contesting with each other to see which one can get its name used most frequently in connection with these so-called safety campaigns. So energetic are some of them that, if not for the expense of it, it borders on the ridiculous.

There is but one place for this work to be handled, and that is by the state police. It is their job to see to it that the public drives safely and that traffic regulations are properly enforced.

Right now is a good time to do a little economizing as well as placing all safety educational promotion where it belongs—with the state police. No one in this department will use safety campaigns for political purposes. Here is one place where a bit of economy can be started and no one suffer from it.

IS THIS FREEDOM OF SPEECH?

Every one of us has at some time been disgusted with a radio speech of one kind or another. There have been Communists, Socialists, Townsendites, Dorothy Thompsons and General Johnsons. In other words every party, every individual and every differing group has expressed partisan, radical or any other kind of view it espouses. It is our privilege, however, to turn the dial, theirs to talk, because of their American birth-right.

Now comes the ruling by the National Association of Broadcasters to prevent spokesmen of controversial issues from buying radio time to discuss one side of a question. The exception to this rule is, of all people, politicians! This ruling is made in the interest of the people, it is inferred.

But the committee passing this ruling repeatedly mentioned Father Coughlin and his present talks on the neutrality act. Father Coughlin, however, expresses no more bias than does Dorothy Thompson and many newscasters who by voice inflection and editorial insinuation express definite personal views on controversial public issues. This is free America with freedom of speech for the Father Coughlins, John L. Lewis, Dr. Gallups or Dr. Townsends, as well as Democratic, Republican and Communist politicians! When we allow radio censorship we have started the muzzling of all freedom of speech!—Robert Rowe in The Milford Times.

THE RIGHT EXPLANATION

When we speak of the capitalist system it is well to think of just what that means. Too many people think of it as a system favorable only to those of great wealth who can furnish capital for big business. As a matter of fact, the capitalist system is in reality a property system, and for a better understanding, should be called that. It is a system under which every citizen is permitted to own property—any kind of property from a humble home to a business worth millions, all depending upon one's ability, initiative, ambition and desires. The owner of small property is a capitalist the same as the owner of large property, the difference being only in degree. To do away with the property system, as some socially minded persons advocate, is to do away with the right to own property—even to own the home in which one lives. Don't let these carping critics of the property system fool you and prejudice you against the system just because they use the word capitalistic. It will be a sorry day for everyone when the right to own property is denied the individual.—William Berkey in The Cassopolis Vigilant.

What's the Answer?

THE veins and arteries in your body through which the heart is constantly pumping blood are round. When you stretch, you flatten those arteries and veins so that the blood cannot pass through them so easily. In order to overcome this the heart sets to work to pump faster and faster to force the blood through the flattened passages. So at the end of a good hard stretch this faster pumping of blood puts new pep into your veins and makes you conscious of a feeling of well-being.
