Announcement was made Tuesday by the Barnes-Gibson-Raymond division of the Associated Spring Company of Bristol, Connecticut of the purchase by their company of the former Minehart property just east of Whitman-Barnes at 40370 Plymouth road.

The 50 acre plot was sold to the company by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Christenson, present owners of the farm. According to the purchasers they will start construction the first of the week on a large, modern manufacturing concern which will probably make some of the springs that the company produces in the east for the Detroit automobile trade.

The company manufactures springs for watches, automobiles and other machines that use any or all types of springs.

Within the next week or two an official announcement will be made by the company setting forth their complete plan of operation in this area.

Smith School Opening Is Delayed Until Next Monday- Others Open Doors Today

Though the opening of the new George A. Smith Elementary school is delayed until Monday, classes began today in all other Plymouth schools. All children in the first and second grades who will attend the Smith school were transferred for the next few weeks to the Starkweather school and Mill street school in the Baptist church.

Eight of the 13 rooms in the Smith school will be ready for classes on Monday and the remaining rooms will be completed in the next few weeks.

The children who attend the Smith school live in the area bounded by the C. & O. Railroad on the East, on the North by Ann Arbor trail from its intersection with the C. & O. Railroad West to Main street, thence West on the Elm avenue to Sheldon, thence West on Ann Arbor trail to McClumpha, on the West by McClumpha road and on the South by Joy road.

The unexpected hostilities in Korea have tightened up the supply of material and equipment needed in building trades, thus causing the delay in completion of the school. In spite of the material shortage splendid progress has been made at the Smith school. Many of the new school buildings in this territory that were to be ready for occupancy in the fall are far from completed.

According to Board President Robert Wesley, the contractors have extended every effort to move the project along rapidly and through the cooperation of General Foreman Fred Coverdill the work has been planned and scheduled so that eight rooms could be ready for occupancy next Monday.

Henry Holmes, club vice president and chairman of the banquet has announced that the following members will assist in arrangements for the banquet: Mrs. George Chute, dinner chairman; Mrs. Edwin Schrader, decorations chairman; Miss Gertrude Fiegel, student guest chairman, and Evered Jolliffe and Dr. Henry Walsh, entertainment chairmen.

Parents of all students entering the university for the first time and of those now attending the university are cordially invited to attend the banquet.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Dr. Hayward Kinniston, dean of the college of literature, science and arts at U of M.

Fire Dept. Has New Telephone

In case of fire, call 16561! That's the new telephone number of the Plymouth fire department that was installed last Thursday.

Fire Chief Robert McAllister urges that everyone write their new phone number near their home and business telephone for use in emergencies. The new phone facilitates fire calls as they now go directly to the fire hall instead of through the city hall switchboard. For other calls to the fire department the city hall number, 93, is still used.

After five years of developing the land the nursery was opened for business in 1940 and September of this year marks the 10th anniversary of the undertaking. The Mail joins with other friends of the Merriwethers in extending congratulations on their anniversary.

The Bird Elementary school on Sheldon road is well ahead of schedule and will be completed in time for the opening of the second semester in February.

Untiring efforts on the part of members of the board of education can be credited for the work now being done to relieve the over-crowded conditions in Plymouth schools. By next winter, when both new grade schools will be completed, the present

George E. Bowles Favored in Race For State Senate

Attorney Geo. E. Bowles who resides at 884 Palmer street in the city was given the preferred rating by the Detroit Citizen's League as the Democratic candidate for the State Senate in this district.

A resident here with his wife and three children since March 1947, Mr. Bowles has been active locally in the work of the Parent-Teachers association and the Methodist church.

He is a graduate of Grove City college in Grove City, Pennsylvania where he majored in history and political science. Following two years of high school teaching he received his law degree from the University of Michigan Law School in 1941.

This is Mr. Bowles' first candidacy for public office although he served as disputes director of the Detroit Regional War Labor Board and has acted as public representative or chairman of numerous boards and panels adjudicating labor disputes, notably, Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Bull Dog Electric Products company, Kaiser-Frazier corporation, Radio Station WXYZ and numerous others.

Formerly associated with the law firm of Prentiss M. Brown, Mr. Bowles now maintains his own office in the Majestic building in Detroit.

This marks the first time that Plymouth has had two candidates for state office, Mr. Bowles for the Senate and the Democratic ticket and George A. Smith for state representative on the Republican ticket, each being given preferred ratings by the League for their respective offices.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Keller left Labor Day for a two weeks' vacation at Ft. Worth, Texas. Mrs. Edward Keller, who has been visiting here, returned home with them.

Welcome Dawn Patrol Pilots Saturday

Bob Mettetal of Mettetal Airport indicates on the map one of the many Michigan airports from which private pilots will come to attend the Dawn Patrol to be held at Mettetal Sunday morning, September 10. Committee members working on the annual affair are left to right, standing, Emery Monnier, Mettetal, Bill Zimmerman and Ed Robertson; seated, Paul Marcoit, Bill Ray, Doris Lodge, John Lodge, Joanne Zimmerman and Mary Ann Cylk.

Funeral Services in Detroit For John S. Haggerty

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon in Detroit for John S. Haggerty, well known Detroit brick manufacturer and resident of this area since 1918. Mr. Haggerty passed away at his home early last Sunday morning after ailing for the last several months. However, during this time he traveled to his Detroit office daily until last Thursday when he said he didn't think he felt like making the drive into the city.

He was 84 years old at the time of his death. Born in Detroit he lived in that city until he purchased the 169 acre Milton Carlson farm on Canton Center road, five miles south of the city where he resided with his two nieces, Martha and Lucinda Campbell.

Active in affairs of the Republican party in Michigan for many years his acquaintance was state wide. He served four years as secretary of state in the Fred Green administration and was at one time Wayne County Road commissioner. He was active in Masonic affairs and a member of Maybury Avenue Presbyterian church in Detroit. Funeral services were held at the Hamilton Funeral chapel.

City Provides New School With Water and Sewers

After all the fussing and worrying about the ability or inability of the city to provide the new Bird Elementary public school being erected near the corner of Ann Arbor trail and Sheldon road, the city has found it is a simple matter to run a water line to the school from Sheridan avenue and to make a sewer connection with the city system on Ann Arbor trail.

The school is being built just outside the city limits—and that seemed for a little while to be the big stumbling block. But the school is just as much for Plymouth as it is the township and the rest of the school district, as all the boys and girls located in the area will attend the Bird school when it is finished.

It didn't take long for a decision to be made when school authorities took the matter up with Mayor Cass Hough and other members of the city commission. A way was quickly found to provide the school with both water and sewer services, and at very little trouble to the city or anyone else.

Bowlers desiring to bowl in the Plymouth Recreation Classic league on 7 p.m. Tuesdays should attend a meeting on September 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Plymouth Recreation alleys.

The league is to be remodeled and teams are to be divided so as to be equal in place of strong and weak teams. Bowlers who are interested should contact Lee Butler at 9187 or attend the meeting.

In Pearl Harbor Extended - Area Phone Service Change Coming

Mary E. Donnelly, daughter of Mrs. Gayle M. Donnelly of Harvey street, is now stationed in Pearl Harbor, T.H., with the WAVES. She is serving as a personnel man, first class, on the staff of the Commander of the Service Forces of the Pacific.

Amendments Go on November Election Ballot

Because of the desire of the city officials to secure as large a percentage of votes as possible on the two proposed city amendments, the city commission recently decided to submit to the voters, these questions will not go on the ballot until the regular November election.

Some had thought that the amendments might be submitted at the primary election, but it is believed that this might result in some election complications as well as not getting the expression of as many voters as at the November election.

Unfortunately the primary vote in Plymouth, as well as in most other cities of Michigan, is generally only about half of what the regular fall election vote is, and this small vote, say city officials, might not reflect the wishes of the majority of the people of Plymouth.

Report Three Burglaries Here

The holiday weekend chalked up three burglaries in Plymouth. The most serious was the raiding of the cash register of the Beglinger Oldsmobile agency at 705 South Main street. Besides a large amount of silver, $83.92 was taken from the register.

Burglars broke a window glass on the west side of the Parkway Recreation building on Ann Arbor trail and took $14 from the bowling alley. Michael Schuster is the owner of the alleys.

Money was taken from a wallet on a table in the home of Fred Fuller at 301 Elizabeth street. The front door of the home was open and Mrs. Fuller had left the house for a few minutes. She discovered the loss when she returned.

Primary On Tuesday Sept. 12

Primary election day, Tuesday, September 12, has more than ordinary interest for the voters of Plymouth.

Not only are local Republicans and Democrats interested in the selection of candidates for various county, district and state offices, but within the Democratic party there is a big fight on for the control of county and state conventions through the election of the "right" delegates.

Plymouth is especially interested in securing the nomination of George A. Smith for state representative on the Republican ticket.

Fortunately Mr. Smith is the only Republican candidate in this end of the district, which assures him of an especially good vote in Plymouth, Northville, Canton, Livonia and Nankin townships.

There are four other candidates, all living in the eastern end of the district. But few in this part of Wayne county know any of the contestants and from what can be learned they have been doing little, if any campaigning.

Mr. Smith, on the other hand, has put forth a special effort to see as many voters as possible before the primary. He reports a most encouraging interest in his

Fall Recreation Program Planned

The Plymouth Recreation commission plans to offer a wide selection of activities for this coming fall and winter, it was announced by Herbert E. Woolweaver, recreation director. The schedule of classes and events will be announced later.

A tentative program of classes is being made in ceramics, sewing, art, typing, swimming, badminton and a women's gym night. The commission also intends to obtain the services of an eminent psychiatrist to present a series of six lectures on mental hygiene.

Boys' football and basketball will continue the same as last year as will basketball leagues for men and women. The dates of registration for classes and sports and hobby clubs will be determined soon.

Speed Causes Death of Two Local Youths Saturday in Spectacular Car Crashes

Tragedy visited two local homes early last Saturday morning when car crashes claimed the lives of 21 year old Charles R. McClellan and 18 year old Ralph B. Stone.

McClellan's roadster crashed sometime early Saturday morning in the woods on Middle Rouge parkway near Plymouth and Ann Arbor roads in a spectacular accident that took the car and the youth nearly 1,000 feet along the edge of the road and up into trees that clearly showed signs of being barked as high as 25 feet off from the ground.

Spectators at the scene of the accident said it looked like an airplane had crashed in the woods. The accident was not discovered until noon on Saturday when Andrew Zelzer, a resident in the area, noticed a wrecked "Speed Control Zone" sign that had been hit by the car. On investigation he found the car and its occupant some 150 feet beyond the sign in a deep ravine where the car came to a halt.

McClellan was the son of Margaret J. McClellan who resided at 42035 Micol Drive in Eastlawn subdivision. They have made their home in Plymouth for the last 10 years. The youth was an employee of the Superior Furnace company of this city and had just had his physical examination prior to being called in the draft.

The body was taken to the Schrader Funeral home from where it was shipped to Perysville, Pennsylvania for burial on Tuesday.

The second crash, hardly less spectacular, occurred midmorning Saturday when young Stone, married and the father of two children, jammed his car, while traveling at full speed into the rear of a truck loaded with 3,000 pounds of cement on Canton

THE "TOPS" IN ADVERTISING.
The Plymouth Mail during the past few months has had the opportunity to publish a series of advertisements for The Plymouth United Savings bank that have been outstanding in more ways than one. In fact, in the minds of many, the advertisements have been the peer of the best of all display advertisements.

They have been exceptionally interesting, instructive and timely. At a time when business has been bounding upwards, the country is in deep distress and there hasn't been much of a pleasant nature to think about, these advertisements by picture and description turned back the pages of Plymouth history to the days when the citizens of this community were struggling to build "Plymouth Corners" into a progressive, clean business community, and at the same time win success for themselves in their chosen vocations.

That the citizens of this city and surrounding country agree with us as to the high merit of these ads, is attested by the interest that was shown in the series as it was published during the summer. It all seemed so timely, too, because it gave every one an opportunity to think of something more pleasant and encouraging than the current news of the day.

We commend the officials of The Plymouth United Savings bank for their thoughtfulness and public spirit shown in using this type of advertising—which really had for its object more benefit to the community than to the bank itself.

MARK THIS DATE DOWN NOW!

Next Tuesday, September 12, is a highly important day for every one in Plymouth, Michigan and other states that will hold primary elections on that date.

In Plymouth it is an especially important date—because this city has as a candidate for nomination and election to the state legislature one of the finest citizens that ever walked the streets of any town in Michigan or any other state.

You know George A. Smith, our former superintendent of schools as well, if not better than the writer. For more than 20 years we have known him well—we have not only known him but we have admired his work for the benefit of all of the boys and girls of this and surrounding communities.

No school teacher ever lived who showed such devotion to the welfare of the boys and girls of a community as did Mr. Smith. This, if for no other reason, should merit him EVERY vote that Plymouth citizens will cast in next Tuesday's primary election.

We not only owe it to him for what he has done for Plymouth during the years gone by, but we owe it to him because we know that if he is nominated and elected to the state legislature he will give to the state a record that Plymouth and all of the rest of the state will be proud of.

Mark it down right now so you will not forget it—vote EARLY next Tuesday morning, September 12.

WILL THE THIEVES, GRAFTERS AND CROOKS WIN AGAIN?

It was reported a while ago that the prosecuting attorneys of Michigan at their recent convention voted to ask the legislature to re-enact the grand jury law that was killed by the signature of Governor Williams some months ago to a repeal measure that was slipped through the legislature.

As predicted at that time without this grand jury law it is almost impossible to get the goods on a public official who is selling his votes to thieves and special interests.

If the crooks and grafters have their way, the legislature will never enact another grand jury law. It is too tough a law for them.

It looks as though, as the results of the action taken by the prosecuting attorneys, that Michigan will have an opportunity during the next session of the legislature to see just how powerful the grafters really can get when it comes to defeating worthy legislation.

HE SPEAKS COMMON SENSE.

Noticed in the papers recently that State Treasurer D. Hale Brake doesn't think there will be any economy or improvement in the administration of state affairs by any such re-organization of the state government as is now being proposed by a group of citizens who have set themselves up as experts on state governments.

There is no need to deny the fact that some steps should be taken to readjust certain public duties up in Lansing.

The solution is an exceedingly easy one, however, and it will not take the time, money and energy that the governmental re-organization committee proposes to spend to bring it about.

All the committee has got to do is go back to the Groesbeck administration, study the operations of the state government as it existed at that time, get the legislature to repeal the hamstringing amendments that were passed by subsequent administrations to the state administrative board act, and see to it that the executive office and the administrative board function as under Governor Groesbeck—and the reorganization problem will have been entirely solved.

At no time before or since the period that Governor Groesbeck served the state as its chief executive has Michigan had such a highly efficient, economical and businesslike administration as he gave the people of this state.

The administrative board met at least once each week and sometimes more often. Now it meets, the good Lord only knows when.

The present Governor thinks it more important to be running around the state calling square dances, riding merry-go-rounds with giggling children, crowning huckleberry queens—doing everything under the sun except tending to business up in Lansing.

What a farce some of the people who have been elected to the Governor's office in recent years, have made of the job! Yes, they have made the governorship of the state look like a fool's paradise.

No—there is no need for a re-organization of the state government.

All that we have got to do to get back to sanity in the administration of our state's business is to re-act the state administrative board bill just as it was passed in 1921 when Michigan's government WAS reorganized and put on a basis that merited the acclaim of the entire country. For some six years under Governor Alex J. Groesbeck Michigan did enjoy the best state government this or any other state ever had. It was during that administration when the Michigan Conservation department was created, the state health department established, the department of agriculture and many other important state agencies were brought into existence. It saw the real beginning of the concrete highway system of the state, snow removal and dust laying. He established through the administrative board the state highway department ferry system at the Straits.

Yes, about everything that has been of any benefit to the state was started under the Groesbeck administrative board system of running the state government. As we see it the committee on governmental reorganization has a very simple duty to perform—but will it do it?

Barbara Green Weds James Davis In St. John's Episcopal Church

Following a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the new Mrs. James Davis returned to the WAC base station at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, to await her discharge from military service.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were married last Saturday evening in St. John's Episcopal church. The bride is the former Barbara Jane Green, daughter of Mrs. Richard Gray and the late Carlton Green. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Willard Davis of Schoolcraft, Michigan.

The Rev. Alexander Miller performed the wedding ceremony. The bride wore an ivory satin gown with a fingertip veil and she carried a white prayer book with an orchid and satin streamers.

The bride's sister, Patricia Ann, was maid of honor. She chose a white organza gown for the ceremony with a matching picture hat and a nosegay of red roses. Edmund Davis, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers included Ralph Mascow of Detroit and Jack Nelson, brother-in-law of Mr. Davis.

Mrs. Marie Bonamici provided organ music before the ceremony.

A wedding reception immediately followed the ceremony in the church hall. Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Davis and the bridal party. Out of town guests were from Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Detroit, Traverse City, Niles, St. Joseph, Dearborn and Belforte and Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Both mothers wore figured silk dresses and pink rose corsages.

The bride is a graduate of Plymouth High school and Mr. Davis was graduated from Hillsdale college. He served overseas during World War II with the Marines and is former coach at Farmington High school. At the present time he is employed by the Standard Oil company in Big Rapids, Michigan.

A number of parties feted the couple prior to the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Myers, grandparents of the bride, gave a bridal dinner before the ceremony Saturday for 35 guests. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Willard Davis, parents of the bridegroom, were hosts to 20 guests at a rehearsal dinner at Rosemund Hills. On August 30 Mrs. Raymond Toll, Mrs. Ralph Stiss and Mrs. Albert Earl Myers gave a miscellaneous shower in honor of the bride. Twenty-seven guests were present.

Would Give Some Historical Name to New Street

Shall a new street soon to be laid out by the city running alongside the new George A. Smith grade school being erected just off Ann Arbor road near Rose street and Simpson avenue, be called Pilgrim avenue, Puritan way, Mayflower thoroughfare or just plain Tomato avenue because at one time there used to be a tomato patch near where the school is located?

Superintendent of Schools Helmer Nelson thinks the name of the new street should be tied in with interesting historical background of the city of Plymouth—named after the Plymouth that was established centuries ago by the Pilgrim Fathers so they might enjoy the freedom all decent citizens should possess.

He thinks the street should bear some historical name which ties in definitely with the name of Plymouth.

"There are many, many names associated with the Pilgrim Fathers and the original American city of Plymouth that could be used," he said recently.

Others who have heard the suggestion agree with Mr. Nelson. The new school is going to be a beautiful structure and the landscaping possibilities in the area are ideal. It is for this and other reasons that no one wants to see the new street named Tomato avenue or Turnip street or some other such meaningless name.

On his day off, a Richmond (Va.) policeman, W. B. Gist, went to court to testify against a suspect. Somebody stole his hat.

Ladywood High School to Open on September 11

Final registrations at the new Ladywood High school will be taken today and tomorrow at the school on Schoolcraft road. New students may still be accepted but pre-registration indicated capacity attendance in the ninth and tenth grades, the only two to be conducted this year.

The new school, supervised by the Pelician Sisters and built on the grounds of Madonna college, offers general, commercial and college preparatory courses. The classes will begin September 11. Bus transportation will be furnished and students will be notified of the bus routing.

Sister Mary Laudine, principal, announces that the 11th and 12th grades will be added next year. Faculty members at the new school include Sister Mary Claver, freshman homeroom teacher, and members of the Madonna college faculty.

Trailer Truck Hits Two Cars

A large inter-state trailer truck smashed into two cars last Thursday when it went through the stop sign at the intersection of Farmer and Harvey streets.

The truck, driven by William Gunn, Jr., of Detroit and owned by the Baker Cartage company, was traveling south on Harvey street when it struck the car driven by William L. Campbell of Ann street and then careened into the car of Donna Spanier of North Harvey street.

The Spanier car had stopped at the stop sign on the south side of Harvey street when it was hit by the truck. Campbell was driving west on Farmer, a through street. The truck driver claimed he did not see the stop sign and was issued a court summons by police.

Thelma Swan and Barbara Campbell, passengers in the Campbell car, were slightly injured in the accident.

Fine Driver on Hit-Run Charge

Calvin Williams of 15830 Northville road was fined $75, had his license revoked for a year and was put on two years probation by Judge Nandino Perlongo in Municipal court Tuesday. He pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

According to Acting Chief Carl Greenlee, Williams sideswiped the car of Edward Carl Long of 34685 Five Mile road Monday on Northville road. From the description given by Long, Plymouth police identified Williams' car and picked Williams up Monday afternoon.

Beglinger Loses to Allen Park in MRA Tourney

With the defeat of Beglinger Olds last Wednesday by Allen Park, the softball program has drawn to a close. Beglinger Olds was downed by Allen Park 2-1 after the teams had fought it out for 10 innings in the MRA tournament.

The various softball leagues had a very interesting and successful season. Only one league, the Industrial league, was a run-away with Dunn Steel the winner with only one defeat. Whitman & Barnes was the only other team with a 500 percent winning record putting these two in the playoffs. However, in the playoffs Dunn Steel met a very keyed up team, Whitman & Barnes, and they were beaten in the playoffs in two straight games. Part of Dunn Steel's failure was due to the absence of John Sandmann, their star performer.

The Old Timers' league was also full of surprises as four teams tied for the number one slot at the end of the regular season. This forced a four team playoff with the Contractors finally com-

Dedicate Home Bibles at Church

A dedication service of the Family Home Bibles will be held in Calvary Baptist church Sunday evening, September 10, at 7:30 p.m.

A special feature of the service will be the showing of the film, "Bearing Precious Seed." This film, produced for the American Home Bible League, is in technicolor with sound.

The film tells the story of the practical results of God's word and is proof of the promise given in the Bible, that His Word will not return void but will accomplish the purpose where it is sent.

In this hour of national and international chaos and conflict, the American Home Bible League is making an all-out effort to put the Word of God into homes throughout the world so that each family may have a book that will be a lamp and a light to their pathway if it is read and obeyed.

By CARL PETERSON

Sprague, Wash., is a town that is afflicted with rats, so a clarinet player named Norm Lindgren has offered to pipe them all out of town the way the Pied Piper of Hamelin did. Only Lindgren claims the Pied Piper was a minor leaguer. Lindgren says he'll blast his horn with such finesse the rats will head for the hills faster than a jet-propelled jackrabbit. Sounds like a fellow we heard playing on the radio recently. Lindgren didn't say whether the rats would follow him or run from him. If the clarinet player can get rid of pests by blowing his horn, he's got a lucrative future ahead of him.

The first day of school will be here before you know it, boys and girls. Stop in for a special Peterson fountain treat at lunch-time or going to and from school. And remember, Peterson's is headquarters for all your school needs—we've a complete selection of supplies to help you get ready for school again.

A tribe of Indians in southern Arizona just found that the ore they were using to make war paint was uranium. We'll bet their faces were red! There is still time for a few more picnics before the bad weather sets in. We just thought we'd remind you that we carry a complete line of supplies for the family outing. PETERSON DRUG, 840 W. Scherdt expressed confidence that Northville and South Lyon users will find extended-area service as "popular here as other places in Michigan which already have received it."
The new service was designed by Michigan Bell to meet the "community of interest" which has grown up between exchanges. In giving its approval of the plan, the State Public Service Commission called it a "forward-looking step" in telephony.
When it is introduced here, Northville's calling area will be enlarged to include not only the 2100 telephones in its own exchange, but the 19,400 telephones in the other four exchanges as well—a total of 12,500.

South Lyon's calling area will be enlarged to include not only the 1100 telephones in its own exchange but the 24,000 telephones in the other three exchanges as well—a total of 25,100.
When extended area service goes into effect, Northville and South Lyon customers will pay somewhat higher monthly rates as will Farmington business customers having extended area service.

Smith School Opening is Delayed Until Monday—Others Open Today

Central grade school rooms will be utilized by the Junior and Senior high school students.
Several offices in Plymouth High school were changed during the summer. Arthur Alford, junior high school principal, will occupy the offices formerly used by Cyrus Pierce, senior high school principal. Mr. Pierce will move into Superintendent Helmar Nelson's office and Mr. Nelson and his office staff will have new offices in the southeast corner of the building. This space was formerly used as a study hall but has been made into enlarged offices for school administration purposes.

The commercial building and adjacent buildings are being removed or torn down this week to make way for the new high school addition which would be completed by next year. The addition will house a large gymnasium, swimming pool and band rooms.

Speed Causes Death of 2 Local Youths Saturday in Spectacular Crashes

Center road near Warren.
According to truck driver Charles Tatro, Jr. of Northville, he was backing his load onto Canton Center road and noticed the fast approaching car of Stone's so he stopped on the edge of the pavement before going further. Stone apparently didn't see the truck and crashed into the rear corner where his car jammed so hard that it was necessary for officers to use a wrecking crane to free it.

Married at 15 Stone, also getting ready to enter the army, was the father of two small children, a son Floyd and a daughter Lorraine, both who reside with their mother Katharine in the city of Livonia. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stone who reside at 4770 Saltz road and he leaves to mourn his loss besides his parents and family, two sisters, Dorothy and Shirley, and a brother, Elroy.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Schrader Funeral home with burial being made in Riverside cemetery.

Contest and local Republicans who have made a check of the field believe that if local voters will get out and give Mr. Smith the big vote he is entitled to have from this part of Wayne county, he will be an easy winner.

There is no contest among the Democrats for nomination for Governor. Because of this fact it is not anticipated that the local Democratic vote will be more than the usual number.

Within the Republican party there is not only the interesting contest for state representative in which Plymouth voters are greatly concerned, but the fight for the Republican nomination for governor has brought out five energetic candidates.

Former Governor Harry Kelly, Secretary of State Fred M. Alger, former Lieutenant Governor Dr. Eugene Keyes, Congressman Albert Engel of Muskegon and Mayor Thomas Leith of Brighton, a resident of Plymouth during the time that his father was serving as minister of one of the local churches, are all active candidates.

Probably the most activity shown by any of the candidates personally in Plymouth has been that on the part of Mayor Leith who has frequently visited here in recent months.

Mr. Alger has an active local committee and the other candidates have enthusiastic Republicans working in their behalf.

There is plenty to indicate that there ought to be a good vote in the local Republican contests. While Congressman Dondero has an opponent from somewhere in the other end of the district there has been no activity in this locality except on the part of friends of Congressman Dondero who are out to see to it that he gets the biggest vote he has ever received in a primary election.

Voters seem especially interested in his renomination and reelection because of the fact that from the very beginning of American troubles with Dictator Stalin, Congressman Dondero has had enough sense to know what it was all about and tried to do something about it, even though he had plenty tough going most of the way. Local voters predict that he will probably top the list among all candidates.

Amendments go on November Election Ballot

Originally three amendments were to go on the ballot but at Tuesday's city commission meeting the commissioners rescinded and revoked the amendment, stating the rights granted by the amendment were already in the city charter. An error in the classification table in the charter caused the mistake.

Amendment III will now become Amendment II. The revoked amendment states that the commission may provide for the acquiring, establishment, operation, extension and maintenance of facilities for the storage and parking of vehicles within city limits.

In addition to three proposed amendments, the city commissioners have also decided to ask the voters if they desire to have a general revision of the entire charter. If the votes on the amendments should be favorable, those three regulations become effective soon after election.

In case a sufficient number vote for the charter revision this will not become effective for sometime. It will be necessary for a charter revision commission to be named to draft a new charter, and this in itself is a lengthy process, as hearings on various matters, will be necessary and after the final draft of the proposed charter has been made, it will be essential to submit it to the voters for their approval or rejection.

The revision question will also go on the November ballot, the commission believing that, like the amendments, a far better expression of public opinion can be received by a more general vote of the citizens of this city.

Food For Fed-Ups

By Melbourne Johnson
Pastor First Methodist Church

It must be admitted that there are a great many people in our day who are finding it extremely difficult to hold in to the old-fashioned faith that the background of this great universe in which we live is a God of love who cares and measurably controls. There are many things uniting to make that faith difficult, things that are in the natural order of the world's progress in thought and discovery, and that could not have been prevented by any possible foresight and planning. And it isn't willful and perverted and irreligious people who are having this difficulty; among them are some of the most earnest-minded and sincere people in the world.

What a man thinks and feels in his own soul about this matter does profoundly effect the whole tone and temper of his life, and modifies and governs his actions and his ideals and ambitions. In no sense is it a matter to be indifferent about, or to treat as it had only some secondary or far-away influence upon real life. It has a tremendous influence.

What then, does the situation demand? This, as it seems to me. There are only two possible theories—either there is this God of love and purpose in the universe, or everything is to be accounted for by a blind unconscious force to which moral purposes and ideals mean nothing. We cannot prove axiomatically that there is a good God, but we can bring ourselves to the place where we are sure that there is, and that is the finest certainty we have about anything.

Best trust happy moments. What they gave
Makes man less fearful of the grave,
And gives his work compassion and new eyes,
The days that make us happy make us wise.

In Paris, Fortune-teller Juliette Piatat, jailed for hitting her husband on the head with a club, explained: "I had read in the cards that my husband would suffer a heavy blow."

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

Live for the Day

HERE'S HOW one woman handled an emotional crisis and started herself and her family on the road to a happy life.

She is Mrs. Flora Cummings and she lives in San Diego, Calif. Ten years ago she was left a widow with two children. After a couple of years, she met a man who, she believed, would be both a good husband and a good father to her children. He seemed to like her children and certainly they liked him and found him entertaining. As for her, she saw in him if not a perfect man, at least one with so many wonderfully good traits, that minor traits could readily be overlooked.

Carnegie

But the trials that come from people living together, did not escape their family. Her husband was jealous of the great amount of time it was necessary for her to spend on the interests of her young son and young daughter. This jealousy was intensified when times became hard and she had to go to work to augment the family income. This she felt called upon to do because her children made an extra burden for her husband to carry.

Matters went from the proverbial bad to worse state. Her husband bickered and quarreled, found fault with the children; the children turned against him, seemed to prefer not doing the things he wanted done. He even struck her little 10-year-old daughter, which she says she can never forgive, but only overlook. On top of all this her widowed father had to come and live with them. He was always on the side of the children, so soon he and her husband were devout enemies.

Then one day her church announced a course in human relationships. She went more to get away from home after the children had gone to bed than because she felt any good would come of it. She says in that course, was advocated "living for the day", making the most and the best of what one had, and forgetting all other considerations. She began practicing that precept. Within a week, her family life was happier; within a month, both her husband and her father caught her spirit and fervor, and became peaceable; her children became more thoughtful. She says she had never before known what a human being in trouble could do for herself by just calmly living for the day and letting the future—and the past—take care of themselves.

One Killed, 7 Hurt in Accident

Leo Keifer of Dearborn was the driver of the other car. He was taken with the other injured to Wayne County General hospital. Keifer's car was traveling south on Lilley road when it hit Moore's car which was going east on Ann Arbor road. The Wayne County Road Patrol is investigating the accident.

Kroger Purchase In Michigan Hits 80 Million Mark

"Michigan's importance as a source of supply for the Kroger company has increased in recent years," C. Olaf Talla, head of the Kroger-Detroit branch said. Last year Kroger purchases in Michigan amounted to more than $80,000,000.

"Since we must first buy our products before we can sell them, increases in our sales have resulted in increased purchases from farm producers, many of them in Michigan," he added. He also pointed out that virtually all products sold in Kroger stores are either products of the farm or are processed agricultural products. Important product purchases in Michigan are apples, beet sugar and paper products.

In addition to its merchandise purchases Michigan residents received $12,000,000 in wages and salaries from Kroger last year and that the company paid approximately $5,000,000 in taxes within the state.

In Pasadena, California, Clarence A. Bunnell, cited for speeding, argued that he has "an intuitive sense of speed," persuaded Judge William E. Fox to go for a test ride, called his mile-per-hour so close to the speedometer that he was found not guilty.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Aunt Matilda of Chicago: "I remember when advertisers would seek your permission to post a bill about a forth-coming attraction on the road-side of your barn and in return for the privilege would give you a couple of tickets to the event."

From Minnie D. Cox of Ephrata, Pa. to Mrs. Mary Stewart: "Speaking of old-time songs, I remember the words to 'She Lied to Me.' Do you? They expressed the honest convictions of a married man of 50 years ago."

From Mrs. N. L. Burkhart of Berryville, Ark.: "Speaking of old-time songs, here are some I remember: 'I'll Be All Smiles Tonight,' 'The Saucy Little Bird on Nellie's Hat,' 'I'm the Bully of the Town,' 'My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon,' 'Daisies Won't Tell,' 'Rip Van Winkle,' 'Sweet Bunch of Daisies,' 'Sweet Cider Time,' 'When the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold,' 'Steamboat Bill' and 'The Gypsies' Warning.'"

From Helen Rodemyer of Chicago: "I remember the great big Christmas trees of yester-year, all lit up with red, burning candles and the men folk standing around with big sponges on sticks to put out candles burning too low to prevent a fire. How carefree we children were then! One toy, a bit of candy and an apple, and we thought we were rich—a far cry from the current cry for more, more from children of today."

Display Doll House.....

Miss Margaret Wilson, of the local Penn and Penniman-Allyn theaters, holds one of the tiny chairs that are being built to scale to complete the furnishings of the doll house that will be on display this week in the lobby of the Plymouth United Savings bank. Miss Wilson and Mrs. Harry Lush began the house as a hobby two years ago.

Building and furnishing a house is usually more than a hobby for most people but it's been a hobby for Miss Margaret Wilson and Mrs. Harry Lush, wife of the theater owner, for the past two years. Their building and furnishing is on a miniature scale, however, as their hobby centers around a beautiful white doll house. It will be on display this week in the lobby of the Plymouth United Savings bank.

The two women planned and designed the house and had it built to scale. It measures 80 inches in length and is built an inch to a foot. The roof is covered with green shingles which took 28 hours to cut to the exact size in proportion to the model home. Wiring in the roof provides light for the house.

At the present time the house is furnished with tiny plastic furniture but Mrs. Lush and Miss Wilson are having wooden furnishings built to scale for the home. The bedroom and living room floors are covered with carpeting. Inlaid linoleum is used in the kitchen, bathrooms and game room. The latter room has a decorative criss-cross pattern of tan and brown on the floor, and the walls are covered with wood paneling.

The doll house is kept in the basement of the theater where the two work on it in their spare time. They have made curtains for it and are decorating the dining room with brass and copper ware.

In Louisville, Kentucky, a traffic judge considered a policeman's testimony that Mrs. Katherine Mae Sahner had been "very talkative" when arrested for reckless driving, dismissed the drunken-driving charge against her with the comment: "Many women are talkative."

Mayflower post members are making plans for a picnic to be held in September at the Conservation club. The exact date will be announced in this column later. Lee Coolman is the general chairman.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Dick and Betty Neale who are the proud parents of a baby boy, born recently at the Detroit Osteopathic hospital.

The Auxiliary meeting, held on August 15 was presided over by Mrs. Kenneth Fisher, junior vice president, in the absence of Eleanor Gust, president. Ann Thompson was in charge of refreshments at the meeting, September 5.

The soft ball season is over and it seems only fair that a word of thanks and appreciation should go to the veterans who signed up for the team in the Old Timers' league; for their loyalty, the hours they put in and for the games they won.

Elephants Raid Farmer's Barn - Woman Doctor Saves Lives

Did you ever hear about a herd of elephants that got loose from a circus out on West Ann Arbor road and ate up nearly all of the oats in a farmer's barn?

Were you one of the enthusiastic boosters of the Suburban Electric Railroad that was going to be built from Plymouth to Ann Arbor, but never was started?

Or about the "woman doctor" who ministered, frequently without compensation, to the people who lived west of Plymouth, riding horseback through the thickly wooded lands in order to reach as quickly as possible the mother about to give birth to a babe or to provide medical relief to some one desperately ill?

About the Plymouth country lad who invented the device which enabled the early harvesting machines to tie knots around the wheat bundles as they were kicked out of the side of the harvester—only to have the idea stolen from him and patented by some Ohio concern?

If you never heard about any of these things it is all because you didn't happen to hear a most interesting talk given recently by Charles A. Root, Sr., son of one of the oldest pioneer families of Wayne county, before members of the Plymouth Historical Society when they were entertained at the Root Maple Lane farm.

The coming of the original Root family to the vicinity of Plymouth from down in "York State" as New York was then called, begins a most interesting story of pioneer life, tribulations and efforts that is of interest to everyone now living in this area. A portion of his talk follows:

After taking up government land February 22, 1826, Augustus Root and wife Catherine and cousins returned to New York state and moved their household goods and cattle over a trail to Cleveland, Ohio, and shipped by sail boat enroute to Detroit. On their way they stopped at Sandusky, Ohio, for a short stay. Augustus Root and his cousin Steven Root got off the boat to see the town, and while there the boat sailed without them. Some of the passengers offered the captain $10.00 to go back and pick them up, but he refused, so they walked to Detroit through forest and forded rivers and met friendly Indians. They arrived in Detroit a day after the boat landed. They loaded their goods on wagons drawn by oxen, and drove their cattle on the Indian trail to the land which they had taken up from the government, and this, in the year of 1850, is the farm owned and occupied by Charles A. Root, Sr.

The first building on this land was a log cabin. The timber was cut down and burned to clear the land. In this cabin my father, Curran Root, was born in the year 1830. It was in this cabin my grandmother was alone holding my father when he was a baby. She heard the Indians coming along the trail, and in order to keep him quiet she gave him his father's watch to play with. He threw it on the floor and then began to cry for it. The Indians heard him and they pounded on the wooden shutters. She had baked bread that morning, and she unfastened the shutters and threw the bread out to them, and they picked it up and went on their way.

My grandmother, Catherine Root, was a country doctor. She rode horseback, and had special saddle bags made to carry her medicine and other supplies, and traveled many miles through the timber to help those who needed her, and many other deeds. She brought many babies into the world. Her son Charles studied medicine and dentistry in Ann Arbor, and his nephew, Charles Root Sr., has in his possession a pair of crude iron forceps he used for pulling teeth.

In the early days stage coaches traveled along the Indian trail which is now U. S. 12. It has been straightened out from the original trail in many places. These coaches traveled from Detroit to Ann Arbor, Jackson and other towns to Chicago. Along this trail were many taverns in which postoffices were located. Among these taverns was one located at the corner of U. S. 12 and Ridge Road, Plymouth Township, called Borough Deno, present home of Henry Root, and another tavern, Borough Diana, located on U. S. 12 in the present home of Mr. and Mrs. William Grammel.

When Charles A. Root, Sr. was a boy ten years of age he was helping his father dig a ditch on the farm. They uncovered several large logs about three feet under ground. The boy asked his father how those logs got there, and why buried so deep. He was told that it was the old bridge where the trail crossed the creek, and the road ran in front of the present Root homestead.

Andrew Voorhies, an old resident of this district, told a tale of what happened when he was a boy, about Curran Root when he got married. All the boys in the neighborhood gathered up bells and anything to make noise with, to shewer him and his wife on their return from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. He helped the boys out with his shot gun, by firing over their heads! The boys all scattered to the four winds. Andrew said it was so dark that he ran into a spring and could not get out alone, and had to call to the boys to throw fence rails to him and help pull him out.

Another story about presidential election rally... The Republicans put up a flag pole and built a speakers' stand at the southwest corner of U. S. 12 and Godfredson Road. The Democrats put up a higher pole at the opposite corner, so as to attract the people to their side. Mrs. Mertie Chase Fuller remembered this rally when a little girl, and she was coached by a Democrat to call a Republican a pet name, which she did, and told her father about it. Her father was very angry, and he made her go with him to his neighbor's home and apologize.

Mr. Bert Bennett, who purchased land on the John Voorhies farm, found a Lincoln campaign brass button while digging out a large rock.

The early settlers had a hard task in clearing the land of stumps and rock, and building rail fences. The rails were split out of eleven foot oak and black ash logs. Also six foot stakes with caps in which were bored two large holes to bind the stakes that held the rails in place. William Geer owned a boring machine which was operated by horsepower, and did custom work for the farmers in the vicinity.

The farmers used oxen for plowing and dragging to fit the land for sowing their grain and plant the corn by hand with a hoe. The hay was cut with a scythe and the grain was harvested with a cradle, and raked and bound by hand. The corn was cut by hand, shocked and husked. The first harvesting machine was a reaper which cut and let it on the ground in bunches to be bound by hand.

Adelbert Geer, son of William Geer, attended the State Fair at Jackson, Michigan, where the first binders were being exhibited. One was using wire which was not satisfactory, and another twine, of which the knoter used more twine than needed. Adelbert said to his father, "I bet I can make a better knoter than that." His father told him to go ahead. He made one out of wood with some metal on it. He worked on this knoter for over a year. After he succeeded in making it work he showed it to an Ann Arbor farm implement dealer, and they told him to go to a certain implement manufacturer in Columbus, Ohio, which he did. They were very much interested and offered him a job in their experimental department at $15 a week, which was considered high wages in those days. Soon after he was employed they gave him a contract to sign, telling him it was to protect his and their interest. He signed it without reading it over, and they immediately sent it to Washington and had it patented in their name. It was eventually sold to other harvesting machine companies, and the principle is still being used.

This original model was in the possession of his brother, Ben Geer, until he passed on, and his daughter, Bessie Geer Penmar, 10 Elder street, Ypsilanti, has no recollection of what became of it.

Adelbert Geer also made a freight car automatic coupling and showed it to some manufacturing concern in Ohio, and they told him to leave it with them for a few days and they would look it over. In the meantime, they drew a sketch of it and got a patent on it for themselves. He also invented a hame buckle to take the place of a leather strap on a horse harness. A brother, Edgar Geer, invented a cow tail switcher holder, so as to hold the cow's tail while milking.

Arthur Stevens, father of Clarence Stevens of Plymouth, who was honorably discharged after the Civil War, taught the winter term in School District No. 4, Superior township. There were two girls and eighteen boys, whose ages were from 12 to 20 years. The fall and spring terms were taught by a lady teacher for the younger children.

During the older days the circus traveled over this highway, and the elephants always lead the procession, and when they came to a bridge and refused to cross, then it was considered not safe to cross until the bridge was strengthened. They stopped over night and camped in the field across the road from the old Thomas Geer home, which is the present home of Mr. Doane Black. The elephants got loose in the night and went into the barn and ate up all the farmer's oats.

The neighbors took turns every Saturday to go to town and bring the mail and groceries.

About the year 1887 William Geer applied to the Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., for an office in his home. He sent several names for the office, but all were rejected. Then he sent in the name Geer, and it was accepted. First the mail was brought from Plymouth, and then changed to Ann Arbor so as to include Dixboro. About 1900 T. V. Quackenbush applied to the Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., for a rural route out of Plymouth, which was accepted. Robert Walker, who resides in Plymouth, was the first carrier.

About the year 1885 the Superior Grange Band was organized, and they practiced every Saturday night in the Free Church basement at the corner of Ford and Godfredson Road. They played at the County Fairs, and many other occasions.

About the year 1897 a man who was the superintendent of all the Suburban Electric Railroad lines out of Detroit, by the name of Harry Boland, started to build a line on U. S. 12 from Plymouth to Ann Arbor, called the Boland Road. He purchased the land from several farmers and moved their buildings back from the road. He also had shipped in a huge pile of ties which were unloaded along side of the railroad tract a short distance south of Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. The farmers were very enthusiastic about it. Will Burrell, who owned a saw mill and threshing outfit, bought 17 acres on the southeast corner of U. S. 12 and Godfredson Roads, and built a barn and intended to build a house, but when the project was given up for reasons unknown, he sold the property.

Tells Effects of New Social Security Act

Here is what happened to old-age and survivors insurance in the Detroit Northwest area Monday when President Truman signed the 1950 amendments to the Social Security Act. Harry Baltuck, manager of the local office at 12065 Wyoming, gave the following information to the Plymouth Mail.

All monthly insurance checks now being paid to the approximately 6900 social security beneficiaries in the Northwest area of Detroit including Plymouth and Northville will be raised substantially, beginning with the September checks, according to Harry Baltuck, manager of the local office. Baltuck explained that these automatic increases, for September, are scheduled to reach local beneficiaries during the first week of October. Increases will range from about 50% to 100%. For example, the average primary benefit of approximately $26 per month for a retired worker will be increased to about $46. A widow with two children who had been receiving $55 a month will now receive about $110 altogether.

Mr. Baltuck said that under the old terms of the social security law the 6900 beneficiaries in this area would have received about $158,500 for the month of September. Under the new increases, however, total payments for September are estimated to be about $342,800, or an immediate increase of $184,300 monthly in insurance benefits to this area.

Under the new law the amount of earnings which a beneficiary may make in a month, and still accept his insurance payment for that month, is raised from $14.99 to $50. This applies to beneficiaries under age 75, and for earnings in a job covered by social security. After attaining age 75, a beneficiary may have any amount of earnings and still accept his insurance checks.

Approximately 9,700,000 more people may have old-age and survivors insurance under the revised law. For most of the new groups, coverage will be mandatory after January 1, 1951. However, employees of non-profit charitable, religious and educational institutions will come under social security only if the employer chooses and if two-thirds of the employees express a wish to participate. Employees of State and local governments may have social security coverage on an optional basis but the State government must take the initiative if it chooses to participate. An estimated 2,050,000 workers are in the two groups subject to optional participation in the program.

A very important aspect of the new legislation is the more liberal qualifying conditions. Baltuck pointed out that any individual now age 65 or more who has at least six "quarters of coverage"—one and one-half years of employment under social security—may be immediately eligible for monthly benefit payments. It has been estimated that about 750,000 old people in the United States may qualify for insurance payments under this clause. Many aged persons may now claim benefits even though they have not been employed long enough to qualify under the former requirements. Baltuck said that this would affect a considerable number of aged persons in this area who had once filed claims for social security benefits but had not, at that time been able to qualify. The social security office here has been reviewing records for several weeks to screen as many as possible of these persons and will send letters notifying them that benefits may now be payable if the claim is renewed.

Other persons not yet age 65—those now 63 and over—will also need six quarters of coverage—roughly a year and a half of employment in work covered by social security—to be insured upon reaching age 65 and retiring. A sliding scale requires longer employment for those reaching age 65 after 1953, but in no case will a person be required to have more than ten years of employment under social security in order for benefits to be payable.

It is possible for newly-covered workers to become insured for survivors benefits in as little time as a year and a half under another provision of the law.

The new definition of "employee" in the amended law accounts for an additional 350,000 to be covered by social security. This new definition extends Federal insurance to full-time life insurance, salesmen, agents, drivers or commission drivers engaged in distributing meat or bakery products, vegetables or fruit products, beverages (other than milk), or laundry or dry cleaning services. Full-time traveling or city salesmen (other than house-to-house salesmen) are included.

Still expected from social security coverage are farm operators, ministers and members of religious orders, and certain self-employed professional people.

A new type of payment is mothers' insurance benefits. These are monthly payments to a mother who has in her care a child entitled to monthly insurance benefits. Separation or divorce from the wage earner does not prevent the mother's receipt of monthly benefits, provided the wage earner was furnishing the greater part of her support. This changes the former law which did not permit payment to wives who were divorced, and did not permit payment to the wife of a retired wage earner until she had reached age 65. If she has children under 18, she may now receive benefits when her husband retires, even if she is under 65.

The amount of the benefit paid to dependent parents (in cases where the parent was dependent on a deceased worker and where no widow or child can be entitled to benefits) was raised from half the worker's benefit to three-fourths. The monthly benefit for the first child, in the case of a deceased wage earner, was also raised from half to three-fourths of the worker's benefits. The benefits will continue to be paid in the same way—by payroll taxes on the workers and employers involved—but since self-employed as well as employed persons are now covered, a new way of collecting part of the taxes was called for. Self-employed persons will report their annual earnings and pay their special social security tax (2 1/4% to start with) when they make their income tax returns at the end of each year.

Present tax rates will more than pay for the increased benefits at first, but higher contributions will be necessary as more people retire, or die. The law provides that "employee and employer will pay 1 1/2% of pay rolls through 1953, 2% until the end of 1959, 2 1/2% until the end of 1964, 3% until the end of 1969, and 3 1/4% thereafter. Only the first $3,600 of wages in a year will be taxed. This represents an increase from the $3,000 wage base which has been in effect since 1937.

Self-employed people, who are in effect both employee and employer, will pay 2 1/4% through 1953, 3% until the end of 1959,

3 1/4% until the end of 1964, 4 1/4% until the end of 1969, and 4 7/8% thereafter, on the first $3,600 of net self-employment income per year.

The new law gives wage credits of $160 per month toward old-age and survivors benefits for military service in World War II. These wages are to be used in computing all monthly benefits payable on the basis of veterans' wage records after 1949, whether the veteran died in service or after discharge, and regardless of whether pension or compensation is paid by the Veterans Administration.

Included in the social security program for the first time, and under special conditions, are household workers regularly employed in private homes. Household workers, including maids, cooks, laundresses, practical nurses, gardeners, chauffeurs, etc., will receive credit only for their cash wages, and will not be covered by the law at all unless they are employed 24 days or more and their cash wages are at least $50 in a calendar quarter.

Regular farm workers including household workers in farm homes, will be covered by social security beginning in January. To be affected, the worker must be employed by one farm operator for a period of not less than five months and those months must fall within two calendar quarters. After full three months employment in the first quarter, the employee must work for the same employer in the second quarter not less than 60 days with cash wages of at least $50 for work in that quarter. This bars occasional or seasonal farm workers and itinerant harvesters from coverage under the new social security law.

A representative of the Northwest Social Security Office will be in the Plymouth Post Office to accept claims and give information on Thursday, September 14, at 11 a.m. His services are free of charge.

Joyce Curtis and Dale Bentley Wed In Double Ring Ceremony

The Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian church was the setting of the solemn double ring marriage ceremony which united Joyce Curtis and Roland Dale Bentley Sunday evening. The Rev. Woodrow Wooley performed the 8 o'clock rites.

Marked by charming simplicity, the altar setting of palms was complemented with large baskets of white gladioli and dahlias and lighted by tall, white candles. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Mahlon Curtis and Mrs. Cunningham Curtis of Ann Arbor. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bentley of Berwick street, Rosedale Gardens.

The bride chose a gown of traditional white satin detailed with a basque waistline and decollete neckline. The long sleeves which formed a point at her hands were adorned with satin buttons. The graceful pick-up skirt revealed two tiers of lace and fell to a full, sweeping train. From a sweetheart shaped tiara of imported French illusion fell her fingertip, hand rolled veil. She carried a white Bible centered with a white orchid which was surrounded by Stephanotis and white streamers.

As her only attendant the bride asked Pat Hyland of Ann Arbor to act as maid of honor. Miss Hyland chose a white organdy and eyelet gown over turquoise taffeta. Her small hat was turquoise satin. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow rosebuds.

Before the bridal procession Fred Kendall, soloist, sang "I Love Thee, Dear" accompanied by the organ by Mrs. Edward Blankenhagen. During the ceremony he sang "Because."

Lawrence Bentley was best man for his brother, Raymond Kurtz of Coventry Gardens and Bruce Hoffman of Toledo, Ohio, a college classmate of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Hints For Plymouth Homemakers

When String Beans "Snap" Flavor and Texture Are Best

"Snap" is the perfect description for the green and yellow varieties of beans that are now so plentiful in Plymouth gardens and markets. It's only when they are fresh and young enough to snap when broken that the flavor and texture are at their best.

Whether you grow your own or buy them, you're likely to find yourself with a big enough batch for two meals. If you want to cook them all at once be sure to store those not served immediately in a tightly covered bowl in the refrigerator. Next day give them a change in flavor by adding a spicy sauce or serving them in a salad.

The blandness of both green and wax beans calls for robustly flavored partners. The Pennsylvania Dutch do handsomely by this vegetable when they cook it with the end of ham or serve it up with bacon.

In salads the addition of onion or onion juice is practically a "must." To enhance the flavor of the beans let them stand for about half an hour in well seasoned French dressing before tossing with the other salad ingredients.

A combination consists of cooked green beans, sliced or diced beets, onion rings and salad greens. Marinate both the beans and beets in French dressing, separately. Place crisp salad greens in a bowl and arrange mounds of beets and beans on top. Cover with thin rings of sweet onions, and for a heartier salad add sliced hard-cooked eggs.

Just before passing the salad, add French dressing to suit the taste and toss the mixture lightly until all the vegetables are coated with the dressing.

Another tempting salad is made by mixing cooked green beans with finely diced onion, varying the amount to suit the taste. Combine equal parts of mayonnaise and sour cream to use as the dressing. Arrange the mixture in mounds on salad greens and garnish with thin slices of mayonnaise.

For hot bean dishes try the following recipes, remembering that the best results are obtained when the beans are cooked in only enough water to prevent scorching.

DUTCH BEANS

One quart green beans, 3 slices bacon, 4 small onions, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ cup vinegar, ½ cup water.

Wash beans, remove stem ends and cut crosswise into ½-inch pieces. Cook in small amount of boiling salted water until tender. Drain, reserving liquid to use in making sauce.

Cut bacon into small pieces and cook over low heat until crisp. Reserve 2 tablespoons of fat. Add onion to bacon and cook until golden brown, then add to beans. Combine flour, sugar, mustard, salt and paprika. Add to bacon fat in the pan and cook over low heat, stirring until golden brown. Add vinegar and water drained from beans, adding more water, if necessary, to make the half cupful. Cook sauce until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour over beans, mix lightly and let stand in warm place for half hour before serving. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SNAP BEANS AND MUSHROOMS

One pound snap beans, 2 teaspoons minced onion, 1 cup canned sliced mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper to taste.

Wash beans, remove ends and cut in 1-inch pieces. Cook in half cup boiling, salted water with the onion for about 15 minutes or until tender. In the meantime brown the mushrooms lightly in the butter or margarine. If necessary, drain the beans. Combine with mushrooms and season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

PICKLED STRING BEANS

Select tender beans, wash and cut off ends. Leave beans whole. Soak overnight in brine made with ¼ cup salt to each quart water, using enough to cover them completely. Drain. Rinse in fresh cold water and pack in sterilized jars. Add a few bits of chili pepper, some mustard and celery seed to each jar. For each quart jar allow about 3 cups vinegar, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar and a small piece of horseradish root. Heat mixture to boiling point and pour over beans, filling jars to overflowing. Seal at once. It takes about 1½ pounds of beans for each quart jar.

CUT TRIPS from dining room to the kitchen by using trays or carts for bringing in dishes as well as carrying them out.

Dishes should be scraped as soon as they're cleared from the table and rinsed right after scraping to remove most of the food that can be dislodged. Stack the same sized dishes together.

You'll save both time and energy washing silverware if you have a small pan of hot water and suds sitting in the kitchen sink when these are removed. They can be placed right in the pan to soak and almost clean themselves.

Place dishes at the side of the sink in the order they're going to be washed, and your dishwashing will zip along at a fast pace. Glasses and silverware are nearest to you, plates and cups next, then pots and pans.

If your sink is low so that you have to stoop to get at the dishes, fix a rack at the bottom to cut down stooping.

If you're right handed, keep washing water at the right, rinsing water to left. You can then wash with right hand while left hand rinses.

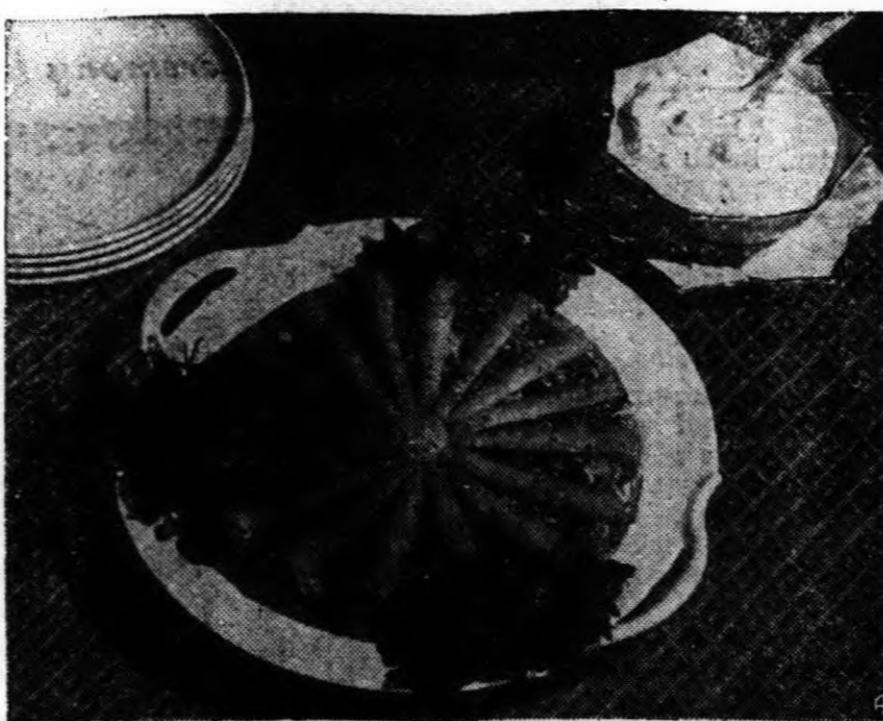

If you rinse by letting steaming hot water cover the dishes for about two minutes, then you have heated the dish thoroughly and can put it in a rack to dry in a very brief time.

Cart Wheel Salad

Vegetable salad molded to cart wheel shape in your round layer cake pan, and "spoked" with carrot strips, makes an easy-to-prepare and dramatic dish to serve the family, to take as your contribution to picnics, pot luck or covered dish affairs, to make in honor of this year's fine crop of healthful vegetables.

Be sure to let everyone see it whole. Serve it in pie-shape wedges with plenty of smooth mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Cart Wheel Salad

1 pkg. lemon gelatin dessert
1½ cups boiling water
1½ cups shredded raw cabbage
1½ cups chopped green pepper
4 small carrots
Watercress
Mayonnaise or salad dressing

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water. When cold and thickened fold in the shredded cabbage and chopped green pepper; season to taste with salt. Pour into an 8-inch round layer cake pan and chill until firm. Peel and cook the carrots, and when cold, cut them into thin lengthwise strips. Unmold the gelatin on a round chop plate and arrange the carrot strips on it to resemble the spokes of a wheel, with a round slice of carrot in the center to simulate the hub. Garnish the plate with watercress and serve each portion with mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Narrow Silhouette Predicted For Fall and Winter Suits

Arrow narrow from shoulder to hem, this is the silhouette of your suit for fall 1950.

Suit skirts are straighter than ever this season and are usually accompanied by jackets that follow the slim pattern closely with feminine neckline and hip detailing to serve as pleasing softening notes.

Three-and-four-piece suit ensembles will be much in evidence. Sometimes with a plaid or self-fabric weskit added, occasionally with a handy extra skirt and in the four-piece units, accompanied by its own matching topper.

Along with its pared-down lines, you can expect your jacket to be longer than last season, 26-inches at least. This mannish mood is greatly diminished, however, by the new Paris-inspired horseshoe neckline so effective when filled-in with a pastel or brightly hued scarf. Arched hip-lines, in contrast to the new gently fitted waist lines, often have the slightest bit of padding for extra emphasis. Braid and velvet trims add even more femininity.

In many instances, suit jackets will be belted low on the waist and drop-shouldered in continuation of this deepest effect.

Although more up-building padding is being used for shoulders than in recent seasons, the melted-in look continues high in fashion favor. Sleeves most often end in a tightly nipped shirt-waist cuff. They are popular, too, with tiny free-flying cuffs or with the cuffs eliminated entirely and substituted by miniature pleats at the wrists.

Deep, banker's grey flannel promises to become greatest in suit preference, with mixture and colorfully checked tweeds following close behind. Still at the fashion helm are sheen gabardines, new to see in the tawny color range and over-all fashionable wine tones.

Good Comics Can Be Found For Young Readers

Now that it seems "comics" are here to stay, efforts are being made to sort the good from the bad and even use materials presented in "comics" style for teaching.

Since most of us would find difficulty in sorting out good comics, Mrs. Lennah Backus, Michigan State college extension specialist, offers suggestions to help make wise selections for young readers.

Lettering should be large enough to be read easily with plenty of space between the lines. Paper should be white or light colored so that lettering and pictures stand out well for easy reading. Drawings should be clear cut and not crowded on a page. They should be interesting but not disturbing. Cover pictures should represent truthfully the stories contained in the publication.

Select comics which contain correct and authentic facts, authority portrayed with respect, and relationship between people set forth as human and understanding.

Those who have made a systematic study of comics say that some have made noticeable improvements in their publications and many new ones have been added. For example, amusing animal characters come to life in many of the stories, usually to the delight of young readers. There has been an increase in Western stories and some of them are rated as very good.

Plain or Fancy
Sweet juicy Bartlett pears are especially good for canning.

They should be firm and ripe without any bruises. As you are getting the jars and lids ready remember that twenty-five pounds of pears will fill about twelve quart jars.

Red or Green Pears
It's an easy trick to add special flavoring and coloring to some of the pears before canning them.

Minted Pears
Add oil of peppermint or mint flavoring and green food coloring a few drops at a time to the syrup in which the pears are to be canned.

Cinnamon Pears
There are two ways to make cinnamon pears. Add two or three tablespoons of "red hots", those little red cinnamon candies, to each quart of syrup. Or a stick of cinnamon and red food coloring may be used instead of the "red hots".

Pickled Pears
Pare three to four pounds of pears leaving whole with stems. Combine two and one-half pounds of sugar, one and one-half pints of vinegar. Boil ten minutes. Add one tablespoon whole cloves (tied in a bag) and one stick of cinnamon. Slip pears into boiling syrup and simmer until slightly tender. Cool and let stand overnight in syrup. Pack into clean hot jars and cover with syrup. Process in boiling water bath 20 minutes. Yield: 2 pints.

Ideal for Gifts
"Special pears in fruit cellar," noted on your Christmas list, will be welcome when the busy holiday season rolls 'round. Think how pleased your friends will be when they realize that you thought of their Christmas during the canning season.

Are Michigan Residents Being Used As "Guinea Pigs" to Fix Gas Prices?

Asks Editor Trepagnier of Motor News

Are residents of the city of Plymouth and the rest of the state of Michigan being used as "guinea pigs" by big oil companies in order to find out just how high gasoline prices can be forced without breaking the camel's back?

That is a question William J. Trepagnier, former resident of Rosedale, Mich., and well known in Plymouth, tried to answer with Leonard R. Barnes in an article published in a recent issue of the Motor News, official publication of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Editor Trepagnier and his companion took a long automobile trip to find out things about gas prices. They found out in Michigan that every Tom, Dick and Harry who drives automobiles, are being squeezed for every last dime that can be extracted from their pockets. Gas prices are higher in Michigan than in eleven other states Trepagnier visited.

And the funny thing about it is the fact that those who own and operate the gas stations can't do a thing about it. In Michigan some sort of a law keeps the retail-dealers from making any cut in price below a certain point, writes Mr. Trepagnier.

His article on what he found on his trip to various other states about gas prices is so interesting that it is published in full as follows:

They say everything that goes up must come down. Well, the guy who coined that cliché never heard of Michigan gasoline prices. They're on an ever-ascending elevator.

The latest increase in June was the 12th since the war ended. And the end is not yet in sight.

Are all the advances justified? Is there something to the claim of Standard Oil Company, which led the fight in raising prices early in June and credited it to "improved quality of Michigan gas"? What about the octane race some auto men say is going on, and is it good for both the Cadillac and Ford owner?

To answer these and many other questions that Auto Club members have been asking us, we took a flying trip through 11 states near Michigan. We checked prices and talked with dealers, wholesalers, gas station workers and people in Washington, D.C. We bought a one-gallon can of a leading brand of regular gasoline in each of 11 cities for analysis (the same brand in each city). And what we found makes interesting reading for every Michigan motorist.

Findings of the trip were reported early in June. A deluge of protests from members had poured into the Auto Club when the May price increase was announced. Another deluge—this time of compliments—flowed in following these news stories. Here then is what we found:

Prices taken right from gasoline pumps in the 11 widely-separated cities reveal that, exclusive of gasoline taxes, Michigan has the highest retail price of the 11 states. It ranges from .6 cent to 3.1 cents higher in price than the rest. State gas taxes ranged from Michigan's three-cent low to Virginia's six-cent high per gallon. We didn't hit the highest one of all—Louisiana, where the state gas-tax alone is 11 cents.

And one-gallon samples shipped via Railway Express from each of the 11 cities were tested by a Detroit scientific laboratory. The one real factor for rating gas today is its octane count, every expert we met on the trip agreed. Michigan's sample bought in Detroit, had practically the same octane rating as the other 11. None varied more than two octane ratings. None had any alarming quantity of gum or tar in it. Yet wholesale gas prices are higher in Michigan than in all of the 11 states we sampled. Why?

We sat next to a chap on one leg of our air journey who turned out to be an oil economist for a large group of oil companies. He tried to tell us why, using "oil" logic. He produces statistics and arguments for the oil lobby in Washington, D. C. His present project is to convince legislators that they should drastically cut imports of foreign oil. The reason he gives them for this is importing oil is what forces prices of gasoline up.

Sounds ridiculous when it rolls off our typewriter. But up there in the airplane he had us convinced that, if importation of foreign oil were not stopped at once, domestic oil companies would have to raise their gas prices from two to 10 cents per gallon, and might go broke even then. He could have gone further and proved to us that Cleveland was actually on Belle Isle and not on Lake Erie. But rational thought shows increased supplies never yet logically caused increased prices.

He confided that he even writes a speech or two for one or another Congressman occasionally. And it is just possible that Congress will fall for the oily reasoning and cut importation of oil. We hope not, though.

Using the same tactics, oilmen have defended every price increase.

Three years ago Michigan purchasers of gasoline were worried about inability to get all the petroleum products they wanted. It has cost something to assure them abundant supplies, but we believe they would rather pay a few cents more and have abundance than have the old price level and not enough." This is the statement of a large oil company's public relations man. Increased production and sales of most things mean lower prices, our teachers always told us.

The only logic about their argument is their continuing illogic. For instance: When fuel oil, a gasoline by product, was in short supply and everyone wanted it, what do you suppose happened to gasoline prices? Right, they went up. Reason given was that everyone wanted fuel oil and gas was hard to get. It's cold outside, they said. So gas prices went up. Recently fuel oil has been hard to sell in large quantities. It has flooded the market. Did gas prices go up? They did! Reason they give is that it costs a certain amount to refine the stuff, and nobody will buy all the fuel oil, so motorists must make up the lost fuel oil revenue. It's warm outside, they said. So gas prices went up.

"In a free market, advancing demand and advancing cost inevitably cause price advances," one oilman wrote us. Since when does one have to raise prices when he sells more—and still bear imports so he can sell cheaper? Demand for gas has increased 13.6 per cent since the last Michigan price increase prior to this May. How is that a reason for changing more to fill my tank with go-juice?

Gasoline economics don't make sense to Senator Homer Ferguson, either. In launching a Senate investigation of them, he said: "There seems to be neither rhyme nor reason to gasoline price increases.

Michigan's generally higher wholesale price than nearby states is due to "transportation costs for the longer haul on a major part of the supplies," oilmen say. But our investigation showed that Pittsburgh, which is within a few miles of the Big Inch pipeline where oil comes out of the ground, has a higher wholesale price than Detroit, and Cleveland is cheaper than either. Pittsburgh wholesale price of regular gas is 17.9 cents a gallon, highest of the 11 states visited. Cleveland's gas sells wholesale for 15 cents, and in Detroit for 15.9 cents a gallon. All three places get gas from Midland, Pa. These variations in price don't make sense, Ferguson says.

Oil companies have not explained why they continue to raise prices in Michigan while the national average price has shown an almost unbroken decline since August, 1949. They mention increasing quality, but then admit that other states have had better quality for many months. Price to dealers dropped a penny a gallon in Chicago only a month before we visited that city. The fact that Michigan has as low a gas tax as any state visited may have something to do with it.

"Are Michigan motorists helping subsidize driving and road-building expenses of other states? If so, we appeal to you to design legislation which will stop this practice." Auto Club General Manager Richard Harfst wrote Ferguson.

Chicago, which also has a low gas tax, has been having a series of price wars, which may explain why prices have been lower there and not in Michigan. It wouldn't do to have retailers go completely out of business.

Why doesn't Michigan have price wars (dealer margin wars)? Well, Rankin Peck, secretary of the Michigan Retail Gasoline Dealers, explains it this way: "A Michigan anti-discrimination law was passed in 1937 making it unlawful to sell gas below cost of the currently most-efficient operators for purposes of destroying competition. This searches out and rewards the most efficient dealers. Otherwise fatal competition would be encouraged by oil company chicanery. They'd play stations against each other with low prices and destroy all so they could take them over. Then the contest would be won by the one who survived longest. And he could set prices as he wished," he says.

Reason for increasing octane rating of Michigan gas is motorists' demands, the oil companies say. This we doubt. More than two-thirds of all auto owners fall in the low-price car and old-car class. Only high-compression engines can economically use highest-octane gas, AAA has repeatedly pointed out. And only these few can benefit from increasing octane of gas. Top octane gasoline serves their purpose very well.

Why then penalize the majority? Why make them pay two to six cents more per gallon for octane that merely fizzes through the exhaust pipe? Maybe after the initial cost of processing gas into higher octane is met, it is as cheap to produce as lower-octane gas. If so, this would mean more profit—to the oil companies.

In fairness to oil companies, it must be pointed out that prices of everything they use have increased, too. But by their own figures, their sales have gone up 13.6% since the last Michigan price increase. And earnings of several were reported by newspapers as the highest in history for the first quarter of 1950. These points we cannot reconcile.

What do the hose-wielders and radiator-fillers—the retail gas station operators—think of all this? A sampling of their reactions on the 11-state trip proved interesting. In Milwaukee, an attendant at Clement and Oklahoma streets said that there had been no recent increase in price. He said regular gas had been down to 20.9 in April in a vicious price war.

In Indianapolis, the station operator at 6240 W. Washington said a price war just ended had brought gas down two cents a gallon for a time. "A few motorists kick when prices go up. But we give Eagle stamps for merchandise. That cuts our price about half a cent a gallon," the operator at Bob and Joe's, 5437 Rocky River Dr., said. "Profits of gas just about cover overhead," he added. When asked if he thought gas prices were too high, his eyes sparkled as he said: "You get as much as they'll pay for your product, and so do I."

A small wholesaler in Cleveland said he absorbed the last raise in price himself. "When prices are up, the independent station owner gets a better break," he pointed out.

"But the terrific advertising campaigns of large companies and just plain habit of drivers are hard to break, price or no price," he added, refusing to have his name mentioned in print. "Those large outfits make mincemeat of any fresh independent with bug ideas," he said sadly. "Motorists are used to high prices," Francis Lutz of 3210 Lebanon Church Road, near Pittsburgh, told us. People use cars regardless of gas prices, although they may not joyride as much, he believes.

Another Pittsburgh station owner thinks prices are 'way too high.

"Gas companies claimed they weren't making money before the war. Well, they must be now. They sell gas two cents cheaper in Ohio than here where they make it, and it all comes from the distribution point down the road at Midland, Pa. This is not right," he said.

"Actually we dealers are out-of-pocket on the price rise. Our profit per gallon is less now than before," said Ernest Garside at Clifford and Elizabeth, Detroit. Some Washingtonians thought they saw a connection between Michigan's price rise and the historic General Motors labor contract and Chrysler settlement.

What is to be gained by protesting gasoline price raises and investigating confusing claims? Several Michigan state officials have told us that some oil companies were using Michigan as a testing ground for public opinion on the price raising. If no one made too much of a fuss, they planned another raise right away and a total of 1½ cents more per gallon in six months. They hadn't jumped prices again at date of this writing.

It also gave our members a rallying point for their otherwise disorganized protesting. As a result of their calls and letters to us, a telegram was sent by Club General Manager Richard Harfst to Senator Ferguson. It was read at the hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee to decide whether to investigate gas-pricing policies. It said in part:

"At no time in recent memory do we recall such furor on the part of Michigan motorists as has been caused by the latest gas-price raise. It is the straw that breaks the camel's back. In the name of the 285,000 car-owning members of Automobile Club of Michigan we urge that you present a strong case... for thorough study of the gasoline industry's pricing methods, particularly in Michigan.

"Our members ask what is justifiable in 12 price boosts in five years. They want to know why Michigan, with one of the nation's lowest gas-tax rates, has one of the highest at-the-pump prices in the land. They want to know why gas prices have been going down in states all around us while ours go up. We offer you the facilities of our organization for all aid in this undertaking."

Shortly after hearing this telegram, the Judiciary committee reported favorably to the Senate on allowing $50,000 to be used for an investigation. What it will reveal no one can say.

We have shown that Michigan gasoline is no better than that sold anywhere else. You are being deceived on this point. We have shown that only high-compression-engine cars can utilize all the octane in present high-priced gas. Maybe we have even helped stop an octane race which has been shaping up in the oil industry. Maybe they'll try the next raise somewhere else.

The findings of this trip have been given to Senator Ferguson and Michigan's Attorney-General. What they will accomplish remains to be seen. We wish them well and again offer all facilities of Auto Club to aid them.

Roger Babson Says...

Babson Discusses the Railroads
In view of the Railroad strikes in the United States and Canada, and the bullish tips that are being put out to get people to buy railroad stocks, I will this week discuss the Railroads as an investment. At the close of World War II in 1946 the Index of Railroad Stocks averaged about 69.00. This declined to around 44.00 in June, 1949 and continued around these low figures until the Korean War broke out. Since then the Railroad Index has gone up to nearly 65.00. This means that these railroad stocks are now selling for almost as much as they did at their height during World War II.

Reasons for Being Bullish
1. Railroads have always prospered during wartime. This applies not only to the railroads serving such industrial centers as Pittsburgh, Detroit and Chicago but particularly the transcontinental lines. This should especially be true so long as the Korean difficulty lasts.

2. During the last depression many railroads cut their bonded debts and reduced other charges which should help the stocks. Even roads that were not re-organized were able to spend huge sums on improving their roadbeds, bridges, equipment, machine shops, etc.

3. Most railroads have little to fear from excess-profits taxes because they have such a large basic investment. In other words, the railroads have no watered stock. In some cases the asset value of railroad stocks is 10 times the price at which they are selling on the market.

4. After the war the railroads will have no reconversion problems such as many industrial plants will have. This is because war traffic uses the same rails, locomotives and equipment that the peacetime traffic uses. The railroads should also benefit from the increase in population.

5. The railroads have been able to abandon much unprofitable mileage and to streamline their organizations. This latter is especially being illustrated by what the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company is now doing.

Reasons for Being Bearish
1. The oldest of the strong labor unions are in the railroad field. These unions in peacetime have usually "skimmed the cream" from the railroad earnings and have been a source of great trouble. If railroad wages could be reduced when earnings declined after a war, a fair readjustment could be made. As a matter of fact, the railroad wage increases given during the war, when the earnings are abnormally good, cannot be withdrawn after the war is over, when earnings again decline.

2. Railroads have (subject to disputed Government rate concessions) more or less, a monopoly during wartime; but after a war is over, they are confronted with more airplanes, more buses and more trucks than ever before. Therefore, railroads normally are subject to tremendous competition during peacetime. This will certainly be true as a settlement is gradually made with Russia.

3. When the Interstate Commerce commission was formed railroads had a monopoly of transportation. There then were no private automobiles, no buses, no trucks and no airplanes. Such highways as then existed were very poor. Hence, the regulation of railroad rates and service was a necessity. Today, this regulation has turned into a nuisance to all concerned—railroads, shippers and the public. Yet, the various Railroad Commissions, both Federal and State, continue in office. In order to hold their jobs, they feel obliged to continue to regulate the railroads in both an unreasonable and a costly manner. In addition, the Federal Government is now suing the railroads for "overcharging" on War II business.

4. These competitors of the railroads, such as the automobiles, trucks, buses, etc., have their roadbeds built by the Federal government and by the states, for which cost the railroads are obliged to pay their proportion in taxes. The railroads on the other hand, must pay the cost of building and maintaining their own roadbeds and terminals. In the case of the airplanes, they have no roadbed to maintain as they use the air; while their expensive terminals are built by the Federal or state governments, or by municipalities.

5. One third of the present railroad mileage is unprofitable and should be abandoned. Yet, when the railroads want to take up a little useless track, the shippers, the labor unions and the politicians combine to prevent it. Another fact to be considered is that each generation of young people will be less willing to patronize the railroads than are we older people.

A study of the above and other factors leads a conservative investor to avoid being tempted to buy railroad stocks at this time. Some railroads may increase their dividends temporarily, but very few which now pay no dividends will go on a dividend basis. They will need the additional money for buying more equipment, etc. It probably would have been smart to have bought railroad stocks immediately when our troops first landed in Korea; but to buy them today for investment will be risky.

Probably some cheap railroad common stocks, upon which I never expect a dividend, may go up more in price due purely to speculation on the part of small speculators. There are only a relatively few shares of these stocks outstanding; and a little increased buying could easily send them up in price. Furthermore, they have such a big leverage when selling at low prices, they could double or perhaps triple in price. However, after the war is over and earnings decrease, these very facts can cause these stocks to go down in price just as rapidly. Intrinsicly, the stocks go up only when there are more buyers than sellers; and go down when there are more sellers than buyers. Hence, purchasers of these cheap speculative railroad stocks may find themselves with good paper profits; but when they try to turn these paper profits into cash, it may be very difficult. If all speculators should attempt to do this at once, it would be impossible for any to cash in on their profits.

What About Street Railway Stocks?
Street railways and buses should profit from any war especially if the war leads to the

Lumber Business Booms in South Says Geo. Foster

George M. Foster, former well known Plymouth and Northville business man, who moved a number of years ago to Orlando, Florida has returned to his adopted state after making a brief visit with relatives and friends in this locality.

Mrs. Foster who has been here on a visit for several weeks, returned south with her husband.

During the past few years, Mr. Foster and his oldest son, Charles, have developed a lumbering business that keeps them exceptionally busy. He established a sawmill out in the pine districts some ten miles south-east of Orlando. Almost from the day they put the sawmill in operation they have been forced to operate it to capacity.

"We do not even have time to 'cure' the lumber we produce. The demand is so great that the builders buy it and use green lumber in nearly all construction work. Even though the lumber is green when used in new building, it doesn't seem to make much difference. It dries out quickly under the hot sun and used in such a way that even though there is some shrinkage, no damage to buildings results," said Mr. Foster.

Mr. Foster not only produces his lumber products, but he retails every foot of the lumber his mill saws.

"There has been such a tremendous building boom in Florida that it is getting difficult to get sawlogs at present. I see no end to the building boom in that state. People are coming in there by the thousands, buying and building homes—and they are going to keep on coming. I think Florida is one of the finest places in which to live one can find anywhere in the world," declared Mr. Foster, "and I am in a hurry to get back there, although I do enjoy visits with my old friends."

Mr. Foster is a most enthusiastic booster for Florida especially that section around Orlando.

"There are two things I enjoy very much, the delightful all year 'round Florida weather, and The Plymouth Mail," he added.

Hold Oldenburg Family Reunion

The fourth annual Oldenburg family reunion was held Sunday at Riverside park with 108 members and friends attending. A short business meeting followed the pot luck picnic dinner.

The reunion was such a success that the family decided to hold another reunion next year on the first Sunday in September. Relatives were present from Plymouth, Northville, Detroit, Dearborn, Lansing, Mason, Belleville, Farmington and from as far away as Orchard Park, New York.

rationing of gasoline, tires, etc. or to the curtailment of the sale of new automobiles. Street railway securities have not yet gone up in price as have railroad securities, in fact, in some instances, they are now selling for less than they have sold for many years. Although the market is thin for street railway securities, yet certain income bonds are worthy of consideration.

Annual Maybury Fair Sept. 10

The 14th annual Maybury fair, scheduled for Sunday, September 10, on the grounds of the Wm. H. Maybury Sanatorium near Plymouth, promises to be the finest in the Sanatorium's history, according to Mrs. Margaret Owens, chairman of the Maybury Fair board. Visitors are invited from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The entertainment program features a puppet show by Mrs. Josephine Alexander, pony rides for children, feats of magic by Arthur Whelpley, two groups of strolling troubadours who will play for the patients in the wards and a popular dance band to entertain visitors.

Special exhibits will demonstrate the services performed for patients to aid their recovery from tuberculosis and there will also be a display of articles made by the patients during their hospitalization.

Equipment for making candied popcorn in a wide variety of flavors—rum, mint, orange and pecan—has been developed. The new flavoring equipment works with any French-fry-type popcorn machine, the manufacturer says.

A compact ticket issuing and accounting machine makes it unnecessary for railroads, airlines and bus companies to keep large stocks of ready-printed tickets on hand.

Plymouthite Tells of Air in Korea

Local Air Force reservists have been invited to share their combat knowledge with student officers being trained in the University of Michigan's Air Force ROTC unit.

The plea was issued last night by Lt. Col. Wm. L. Todd, new commandant of the AF-ROTC, to the members of the 9614th Volunteer Air Reserve when the unit held its bi-weekly meeting in the University's Business Administration building.

Last night's meeting of the reserve unit was the second since a stepped-up training program was announced early this month. Capt. Frank Fitch of Plymouth presented a briefing on the air situation in Korea and the remainder of the two-hour program was devoted to study of the tactical use of helicopters.

According to Capt. Wm. A. Howard, unit commander, more than 450 Air Force veterans live in the Ann Arbor region. Adjutant Ralph E. Grogg of Ypsilanti indicated many of these men and women could still participate in the local reserve program.

In Memphis, Mrs. Mildred E. Jennings, seeking a second divorce from Floyd T. Jennings, declared that she had renounced him in 1949 "solely for the purpose of preventing him from annoying" her.
