Board Holds To Policy on Buses

A request to have parochial school students transported by public school buses was denied by the Plymouth Board of Education Monday night by means of a motion that establishes a policy concerning use of school plant and personnel by "religious or religious-connected groups."

There was an hour and a half discussion among church laymen, pastors and the board before the motion was approved by a unanimous vote of the seven-member board.

Thirteen visitors were in the room to take a stand on one side or another of the question. And despite the controversial aspects of the request, the meeting remained orderly.

Chairs had been set up in the Junior High library in anticipation of a large crowd, but the audience was small enough to hold the meeting in its usual place, the faculty room of the Junior High.

It was a month ago that Father William Child, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel church, appeared before the board asking that they change their policy regarding transportation of parochial children.

More petitions were presented at the start of Monday night's discussion by the Our Lady of Good Counsel group while a representative from St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Roger Gearz, delivered petitions carrying about 90 more names.

The Lutheran petitions were in the same form as those presented by Fr. Child. Gearz said that the petitions should not be interpreted as a pressure group. His church, he said, also defends separation of church and state but does not feel that the granting of bus service encroaches upon the concept.

One of the spokesmen favoring parochial transportation was Paul Bollinger who asked what the reason was for the board's original policy.

Board President Austin Stecker replied that he could not speak for previous boards, but Superintendent Russell Isister said that as he recalled board action some seven years ago, there were no reasons given in the minutes.

Fr. Child made it clear, and board members appeared to accept the fact, that the courts have decided that school boards have the right to grant transportation. Pointed out several times during the evening was the U.S. Supreme Court decision in a 1947 New Jersey case, Everson vs. Board of Education, which ruled that bus transportation was not a grant to the school, but was a welfare service to the child.

Mr. Bollinger declared that he is now a Catholic and once was a Protestant, so he realized the feeling of each. But he said, the issue is not a religious one. He asserted that if any of the board members were driving along one morning and saw a little boy cold and shivering on the way to school, he would stop and pick him up without question about his religion or worry about division of church and state.

"This is a matter of being a good neighbor and nothing else," Mr. Bollinger added. But taking exception to this was Kenneth Bisbie, of N. Harvey St. who declared that "this is a great deal more than an individual matter."

He first declared that those opposing parochial school transportation could also have presented petitions in opposition to those who signed petitions favoring the issue.

He added that the situation is a matter of "basic fairness." While he acknowledged the right of any group to start its own school, he believed that tax money should go to the tax-supported schools, and "not one penny to private and parochial schools."

Another member of the audience, J. Robert Mitchell, then asked Bisbie a question that came up many times during the evening—whether he and the board felt that the parochial school or the child benefited most from granting transportation.

Bisbie said that in his opinion the school would benefit most since they would not need to stand the expense of providing two additional buses, plus the cost of operation, that would be needed to haul parochial pupils. He quoted additional operating costs of $4,000 yearly, plus the need of two new buses and drivers.

(Bisbie said he obtained his figures from school authorities, but the subject of cost was not brought up by school board members, because, according to President Stecker, "this is a matter of principle at this point—the mechanics of providing transportation would need to be worked out later.")

Stecker was asked the same question about who benefits by Fr. Child and answered that he felt the child was benefited first, followed by benefit to the parent, school and church. Board member Esther Hulsing replied the same.

Rev. David Rieder of First Baptist Church expressed his opinion that the bus issue was a religious one since the only reason that these children do not ride on buses now is because they go to parochial schools. He added that he felt there was nothing wrong with attending parochial schools, and has a son attending a Baptist college instead of a state institution.

"I must pay the difference," Rev. Rieder explained further, but the state does not enter in the church college affairs.

Richard Mitchell brought up a point he mentioned earlier—whether it is right for municipalities to spend tax money to offer police and fire protection to churches and institutions such as the Baptist college mentioned. If this is right, then it is also right for tax money to be used for parochial transportation, he indicated.

It was board Treasurer Harold Fischer who made the motion that led to the board's decision. The motion was "to establish a policy that the school administration deny all requests for use of the school plant or personnel in their regularly assigned duties, by religious or religious-related groups."

Fischer said he made the motion because "it is the philosophy of my thinking." Seconding the motion was (Continued on Page 8)

Mr. Raymond decided to call it a year and turned in at 10 o'clock on New Year's Eve. He works for Ford as a general maintenance man, on call 24 hours a day, and part-time at the Northville Lanes Bowling alley. So he welcomed the chance to go to bed early.

Shortly before midnight his wife Lucille woke him. The baby was on its way. Couldn't be, thought Mr. Raymond. It wasn't due till Jan. 25th. They bundled up the other two children, Richard, age four, and John, age two and a half, and started out the front door.

It was then that they realized it had been raining and freezing. Nevertheless they had to reach Ann Arbor. A neighbor, Mrs. Edna White, noticed the Raymonds' lights go on just about the time the bells started ringing announcing the New Year.

They made the 17 mile trip at 15 miles per hour. Dr. Banghart had been notified and he too started the trip to the hospital. Living near Ann Arbor he didn't have as far to come but he too experienced trouble on the ice covered roads. Had it not been for a push from some men, he wouldn't have been present at Carl's debut.

Three hours after the Raymond family left home, Carl was born. Gerald expressed relief that his son was no longer in the car on the way over. There was a time when he wondered if they would make it or not.

Lucille said that John, at the present time, has little to do with the new arrival but Richard likes to try and help.

Born 3 Hours After Midnight Ice Hazard Fails to Stop First Plymouth Baby of '59

Babies, like letters, must be delivered. So doctors, like postmen, must toil through all kinds of weather. Plymouth's first baby made sure his mother's doctor earned his money, but almost ended up in the cold.

Carl Gene Raymond, Mr. Plymouth of 1959, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Raymond of 15574 Park Little Carl was born in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, at 3:05 a.m. with Dr. Norman L. Banghart attending. Once Carl reached the hospital, the normal chain of events took place as does any other delivery. But what happened previous to the quiet of the medical building is indeed different.

Mr. Raymond decided to call it a year and turned in at 10 o'clock on New Year's Eve. He works for Ford as a general maintenance man, on call 24 hours a day, and part-time at the Northville Lanes Bowling alley. So he welcomed the chance to go to bed early.

Carl Raymond won the title of Mr. Plymouth 1959 but he did have competition. Born on January 2 was a son for Mr. and Mrs. Norville Cranford, 11698 Morgan. He was delivered at 5:47 p.m.

Following the Cranford's son was a son for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tait, 42465 Parkhurst, on January 3 at 1:03 a.m.

Home Construction Goes Up During '58

Construction of new homes during the past year in Plymouth city and township surpassed the previous year, a survey of building permits revealed this week, but construction of business and commercial buildings fell off drastically.

There was $3,314,170 worth of construction listed in the township and city in 1958. Of this total, $1,923,809 was in the township and $1,390,361 was in the city.

During the previous year (1957) the total construction cost reached $6.5 million, but $2.5 million of this was for the Western Electric Co. plant.

Looking back still further, permits during 1956 hit $4 million while the 1955 building reached $3.6 million. This is the first time in many years that new construction has failed to establish a new record.

While commercial and industrial expansion was down last year, new home construction increased by 18 units. There were 130 homes built in the township during the year.

City Safety Inspector Charles Thompson issued his largest permit during the year for the Food Fair Supermarket now under construction on South Main St. It had an estimated cost of $135,000.

Looking at the other permits, the 67 home building permits carried total values of $898,900. There was also a two family dwelling constructed at $33,000.

There were 102 permits for residential repair and additions of $98,616; 52 garage permits for $49,795; 20 commercial permits for $245,050; and six industrial building permits for $65,000.

A large share of the township home building activity was in the Lake Pointe Village development and this is expected to continue this year as there was a total of 293 homes go up north of Schoolcraft Rd.

There were also five commercial permits issued for $134,200; five industrial permits for $89,600; 70 private garage permits for $79,467; 67 permits for additions and alterations at $81,032; eight permits for repairs costing $7,850; two permits for new churches costing $128,000; and six sign permits at $2,160.

Sewer Disposal Rates Being Hiked by County

The directive to the Plymouth Township Board from the Board of County Road Commissioners on an increase of rates for Township Sewerage and disposal was an untimely pre-election blow.

Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes, township treasurer, was particularly distressed over the possibility of having to re-contact all the residents she had assured in the Green Meadows subdivision area they could tap into the sewer for $400. This sum does not include the new increase.

For single residences having an unmetred water supply, the rate shall be $14. The previous rate was $6.

For commercial units the rate shall be $37.50 as opposed to the previous rate of $25.

This increase is county wide in order to finance the large interceptor drain to service the entire area.

Mrs. Holmes brought out the fact that between now and April 1, when the increase goes into effect, everyone that is hooked into the drain should be paying for it. The people in the Edge Rd. trailer park as well as some residents along Northville Road were cited as some residents not paying at the present time.

The Board voted unanimously following their discussion to make a detailed survey on the sewer and disposal hook-ins if they were unable to secure an accurate one from Wayne County.

FHA Approves City's Urban Renewal Program

The first significant hurdle in the city's attempt to launch an Urban Renewal plan was passed this week when the Federal Housing Administration approved the city's "workable program."

A phone call from the Chicago office of the F.H.A. Tuesday informed city officials that city's program offered enough merit to proceed further. The next step is obtaining approval of the city's reservation for $638,000 in federal funds.

The "workable program" as submitted by the city and their planning consultants, Vilcan Lemman & Associates, included a survey of the areas being studied, copies of city ordinances, and much other material.

Included in the city's first anticipated Urban Renewal project is the strip of land between Bathey Manufacturing Co. on Mill St., southward to Fairground St., and a section of the vacant Daisy Manufacturing plant.

The city sent its reservation for funds application to FHA on Sept. 30.

Garden City joined five other school districts last week in the planning of a Community College for Northwestern Wayne County.

Carried along for several months by Plymouth, Livonia, Redford Union, South Redford and Clarenceville districts, the project currently is in a "feeling out" stage.

Symphony's Concert For Family Next

Wayne Dunlap and the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will present the "Family Concert," Sunday afternoon, January 25 at 4 p.m. in the Plymouth High School Gymnasium.

Assisting in the concert will be the string sections of the Plymouth, Livonia and Milford Youth Symphonies; Joanne Hulse narrating and Stanley Hench drawing cartoons to accompany a representation of "La Boutique Fantasque," a work that was performed at the December concert.

The denotation "Family" refers to the fact that this concert, of all those performed during the year, is especially designed to appeal to children. A look at the music for the first half of the concert will help.

New Column On Schools Begins

Making its first appearance this week in The Mail is a column devoted to Plymouth's schools and what they are attempting to achieve.

It is written by a committee of teachers representing a joint committee on teacher welfare from the Board of Education and Plymouth Education Association.

Since the largest share of our taxes go to the schools, it should be of interest to learn more about the Plymouth system.

For more about what the column will contain, The Mail recommends turning to Page 1 in Section 3 and reading "From the Teacher's Desk."

The delegates instructed Brashear to bring the revised law before each of the participating Boards of Education for their review. Then it will be taken to Lansing for introduction into the Legislature—during the current session, if possible.

And in the near future students in the upper grades of all the high schools in the area will be surveyed by a carefully prepared questionnaire. These will ask the student his "definite plans for post high school education."

Firemen Count Losses During Worst of Years

Last year was a bad one for firemen of Plymouth City and Township—a year they would just as soon forget.

Final reports of 1958 fire losses have been filled out by the two departments and are being readied for sending to the State Fire Marshal's office, a division of the Michigan State Police.

Looking at the total, City Fire Chief Robert McAllister reports fire losses during the year at $214,212.74 while Township Fire Chief Howard Holmes reports his losses at $35,035.

During the previous year (1957) the city had losses of only $8,928.99 and the township $12,806.

The Daisy Manufacturing Co. fire last May proved to be the most disastrous for the city. Fire got into an old metal warehouse building and caused damage of $201,630 to air rifles and other stock. The only injury due to fire also occurred in this blaze when a stack of boxes fell on Jack Price, causing a multiple hip fracture. He is expected to be on crutches another six months.

The township's most costly fire in its 10-year history was on Easter night when the Calvacade Inn burned, causing building and contents damage of $28,000.

Chief Holmes reports his department made 113 fire calls during the year, 16 emergency runs (resuscitator) and made eight assists to other departments.

Downtown Plan Reviewed

The Downtown renewal plan announced last week has received much favorable comment. The city commission and planning commission met Saturday morning to become more familiar with the recommendations. A meeting on Feb. 9 has tentatively been set to explain the renewal plan to the public. Meanwhile, copies of the 77-page report are available at city hall for $10, and three copies have been placed in the library. The chief complaint seems to be from those who feel that 20 years is too long to wait for completion of the project. Most people realize that getting a department store here is one of the first important steps in rounding out a "shopping center" type of downtown, and more effort than before will be placed in that direction. Presence of the plan is expected to go far in "selling" Plymouth to prospective businesses and industry.

NEW SUBDIVISION: City wave radio announced that the barrel would be returned tonight for "Symar" Subdivision, a development being planned for west and north of Northville station, being brought by the South Lyon Department.

TRIPLE DUTY: A Plymouth woman who advertised in the Plymouth Mail classified that her kitten was lost. After her kitten was returned, it walked away twice more and each time was brought back by readers of the ad. Each time a reward was paid too.

FORGIVENESS: Treasurers' offices aren't the best places to find citizens in good humor during these tax collecting days, especially since nearly all tax bills are higher than ever. But on the desk of Plymouth Township Treasurer Elizabeth Holmes is a bouquet of mums brought in last week by a property owner who was paying his tax bill. As the petals started falling this week, Mrs. Holmes realized that it may be a long time before another taxpayer replaces the fading bouquet.

SPACE DEPT.: There's a was about the size of a basketball, he said, and fell to earth about 40 rods (2 blocks) away. He was too frightened to investigate immediately, but few days later returned to the spot and found nothing. He wonders if anyone else saw it.

NEWS BEAT

Besides the Daisy fire, there were two other costly industrial blazes—one at Continental Can costing $45,000 and another at the Midwest Banknote Co. at $29,000.

Chief McAllister states that this is the largest fire loss in the city during his 13 years as chief. The figures listed, he said, are actual amounts paid out by fire insurance companies.

Society Hears of Horse and Buggy Days

It was "Horse and Buggy Night" at the Plymouth Historical Society meeting at the Veteran's Memorial Center, January 8.

The large photograph of downtown Plymouth on a gala day 50 years ago with streets crowded with horses and buggies including the surrey with the fringe on top (no automobiles even though it was 1909), inspired the members present to relate some of their off-the-cuff stories of the old horse and buggy days in Plymouth.

The story tellers were Roderrick Cassidy, Helen Herick, Helen Farrand, Ernest Henry, Charles Root, Sam Spicer, Karl Starkweather, and Austin Whipple. Mr. Spicer, being a healthy octogenarian and a lifetime successful farmer, naturally had the most to relate, however, all were varied and interesting.

The next meeting of the Plymouth Historical Society will be at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 5. For this occasion the 14 officers of the Plymouth Grange have been

Board Action
The Salem Town Board members at their regular meeting last Monday evening, heard an outline of disaster procedures based on Civil Defense. Gerald Miller, director of Civil Defense for Washtenaw County, told of the great importance of each county unit doing its part in case of a disaster. Washtenaw County is divided into 8 zones. Salem and Northfield Townships are zone 8.

Viril Guesila of North Territorial Road, is the director for Salem. At this time Northfield doesn't have a director. Mr. Miller stated that one of the most difficult obstacles for Civil Defense would be in case of a man-made or natural disaster and that problem is adequate communications. Experience has shown telephone lines are vulnerable in such cases, so the C. D. would have to rely on radio and because of this the C. D. would like to see at least one radio unit in each zone and for each fire dept. in the County.

In other action of the board, the transfer of the S.D.M. license for the H and G Trading Post on Seven Mile Road, was approved. The new owners are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeJohn.

Local Boys Play Hockey

Plymouth has one entry in the Junior Hockey League which is made up of eight teams, mostly from Wayne and Romulus.

The local group has played two games so far this season winning one and losing the other. Plymouth Optimists, the official name of the group, played the Hawks on Jan. 5 defeating them 11-2. Last Friday the tide was turned as the icemen were downed by a scant one point, 4-5, by the Wayne Bulldogs.

Don Crowther, goal tender for Plymouth, made 30 saves in Monday night's competition.

Monday evening is the scheduled playing night for the local icemen. The rink is located at Ford and Wayne Rd.

Mail Attitude: 'Incorporation' Idea Is Wrong

By PAUL CHANDLER

It is none too soon for us to record our total opposition against the forthcoming ballot proposal to incorporate a new "city" named "Plymouth Heights." The election is rushing close.

Both as a matter of principle, and as a practical device, this "gimmick" is a dangerous and unnecessary thing in the life of every citizen in our joint community.

To refresh memories, this plan, if passed, would set apart about two thirds of the present area of Plymouth Township as a new "City." The remainder of the Township (west of McClumpha Road, sparsely settled today) would be left dangling as a township.

The move was engineered by a small number of persons who defend it as being a counter-attack on the attempt by the "City of Plymouth to grab Township land."

It followed an attempt or two by the City to annex land lying adjacent to its boundaries.

If the incorporation should pass, somehow, in February, a charter commission would still have to go to work and there could be a period of up to two years before the new "city" would be in existence. Even then, the voters would have to approve the charter before the matter would be sealed.

The entire maneuver is destructive.

First, it has the effect of indicating there still is a conflict of interest between the Township and the City, when really there is none. Their fate hangs together and the gulf between is not genuine, but an image which has been conjured up and "sold" by a few people. This was not true about a couple of years ago, but two years ago and today are two different periods, and the balloting is being conducted today, not then.

Second, there is no economic, political or social grounds upon which the new "city" can be justified in the proposed location. It is a scattered area with virtually no existing "city" facilities; it has no center or "heart"; no central business district; no historical tradition all its own.

Third, the plan would leave the families in the western part of the Township without government assets of any kind, though they have contributed to everything which Plymouth Township has acquired so far.

But let's talk about the "practical" matters upon which this issue has been judged by some.

Plymouth Township today has a large industrial tax base compared to its percentage of residential base. This is the sort of ratio every community seeks because homes by themselves do not pay their own way in a suburban community.

Somehow, there has grown a notion that it would be wrong for this industrial tax base to be thrown under the City of Plymouth, along with the Township of Plymouth—and for that reason, we must resist any attempts to combine the two agencies, under any and all circumstances.

But the rarely-discussed fact is that the biggest portion of the tax problem in both City and Community is absolutely identical. Both belong to the same school district, and 60 or 70 percent of all tax expenditures for at least the next 35 years will go to build schools. Most of these schools will arise in Plymouth Township.

To schools' 60 or 70 percent can be added another 15 percent, more or less. This is the Wayne County tax. It applies equally to City and Township.

So when you're done, the ONLY difference in tax problems between the two areas is in the final 10 or 15 cents of the dollar. The question thus is one of how, and who, shall spend that 10 or 15 cents for purposes of local government.

Home owner taxes are lower in Plymouth Township today than in the City of Plymouth, because the latter is paying for streets, fire, police, parks, water supply, drainage and other "services." Plymouth Township has only begun to furnish these things.

Meanwhile, many thinking people are wondering whether there is not some way in which the City's services and tax base can help in the general project of building the Township.

A specific example is that of a new factory which might seek a location hereabouts. The open land is in the Township. The water supply today is in the City.

With "cooperation" the two assets theoretically could be furnished and the factory established, to take its place within the tax base and help us build schools. Without a joint effort, the factory undoubtedly would show up somewhere where there is no such political confusion.

When any industry goes somewhere else, everyone is hurt—factory in the Township, residents in the City, residents in the Township—because it is one less contributor to the common school and County taxes.

It is possible to look at the "incorporation" coin from the underneath side, too—and this, too, rarely is debated.

If the principle is established that Plymouth Township shall "go it alone" and seal off the present City within its present boundaries, then the City of Plymouth has every right and reason to detach itself from outside responsibility.

Namely, the schools. City home-owners obviously would rebel at building schools in distant areas when they were struggling to provide services in town; struggling, because they don't share in the bulk of the area's total industrial tax base.

The whole thing is utterly wrong, in principle. Nobody really wants this community carved up like a turkey.

By the way, we are not urging "annexation" in any form today. All we beg for is joint planning, common participation in the areas where it is economically prudent.

Off in the distance we have heard "inside" explanations of the bid for incorporation. "We're not serious about it," the man says, "it's just a device to keep the city from grabbing our land for a couple of years. Then we'll let incorporation die a natural death."

We've heard it, and that approach is as shallow as any other. For one thing, it is cynical. It says, "we talk one thing but mean something else." A taxpayer is entitled to know exactly what is meant by his elected officials.

Secondly, whatever the motive, the entire maneuver tends to divide our good community in the most important way—mentally, psychologically.

Third, at any point where the "incorporation" instrument comes into being, there is danger. Its present stewards may plan to fold it up within two years, but what if those custodians pass from the scene, by election or some other method? And some less enlightened pressure groups grab control and decides to set up its own little political empire?

The Mail does not regard this election on incorporation as any light political caper in the interests of good, clean political fun.

It's wrong in principle, it's dangerous, and thinking voters will say "No" at the ballot.

The Reader Speaks Up

Editor:

As the proud possessor of a fine education made available to me through the public schools of America, I feel obligated to defend your editorial of December 24, and hope that you will see fit to print my letter.

The issue of parochial school bus aid from public funds is a POLITICAL, not a financial issue! The amount that public schools are being "saved" by parochial schools is not the issue at all.

As American citizens we take upon ourselves responsibility for public education for all. This involves not only our financial support, but our sharing of time, thought, and talents that education for all children might be a reality. This is the heritage that America offers every child.

However, there are those, who, for religious reasons prefer not to have their children participate in the system of public education, but to attend special church schools. Since this is America, that right is granted.

I see no reason, however, for those who choose to send their children to parochial schools to complain about having to carry out their financial responsibility to the public school system. These people are still American citizens, are they not?

In response to one letter, let it be said that the Lutheran and Roman Catholic Churches are not a minority group fulfilling a public job; they for religious reasons are duplicating services already provided for by our public education system.

Separation of Church and State has been, is now, and God willing, always will be part of the unique greatness of America. The constitution provides for education to all children, Presbyterians, Methodist, Seventh Day Adventist, Christian Scientist, agnostic, atheist, Lutheran, Roman Catholic. Why should it give support to the Lutheran and Roman Catholic Churches for their particular brand of religious teaching?

If the Lutheran and Roman Catholic Churches choose parochial education as one against public education, that is their choice, and their responsibility, for text books, salaries, teacher training, bus service. As we have been so listed in two letters to the editor, let it be hoped that we Presbyterians, Methodists, Seventh Day Adventists, Christian Scientists, agnostics, and atheists still prefer the separation of Church and State. How about it, do we believe this?

In parting, I commend the reading of Paul Blanchard's book, "American Freedom and Catholic Power," which deals in part with this basic parochial versus public school issue.

Citizens of Plymouth, be not confused by arguments of financial difficulties if it were not for parochial schools—freedom for ourselves and our children is always costly. Let us be concerned enough about this issue to defend America's historic freedom!

Gratefully yours,
Virginia Sale

Editor:

In these days of the pressure group and mob conformity it is very refreshing to read of a responsible newspaper entertaining discussion on controversial issues.

Many people seem to have lost the proper perspective of what freedom of speech and the press on such issues as separation of church and state really mean. Nor do they seem to appreciate the fact that the use of abusive language and the boycott only exposes the bankruptcy of the argument they are trying to support.

Looking at it objectively the excitement is uncalled for. If people wish to exercise their freedom to educate their children in private schools, (religious or otherwise) then why should there be any difficulty in understanding why a government or community committed to recognizing no religion or doctrine preferentially must refrain from rendering any financial support to such institutions? Property tax exemption for all is equitable and sufficient.

Certainly the furor over this matter has nothing to do with religious freedom or the gospel of Christianity.

Your example is to be admired. When a newspaper backs down from these important issues for fear of the pressure groups it becomes more than a medium for carrying the obituaries and the month end specials at the local haberdashery.

Very sincerely yours,
D. N. Hoffmann

Editor:

I for one am not in favor of a State Income tax, as I see it, this only makes this State of Michigan, "Socialistic." While Banks, Radio and TV stations and firms, telegraph and telephone seem to get the brunt of it or the so-called soaking, we the people pay for it not only personally in the State income tax but by the sweat and toil of the honest dollar we earn in paying higher cost to offset the added burden.

In other words we pay a number of times our own, the wholesalers and the "Corporations" through added cost and increases.

Underneath it all we are the ones, "The People" who get "THE SOAKING." How long can we keep this up without losing respect, freedom and the pursuit of Happiness?

Stewart Dodge

Editor:

As a Catholic resident of Plymouth, with children attending the Parochial school here, I feel very strongly in favor of bussing these children on public transportation facilities. But it is with a sense of shame that I read the insulting letters sent to your fine paper on this touchy issue.

I only wish all these dedicated people would take as much time and extend as much effort toward letting the School Board know their feelings in a more level-headed manner, by REQUESTING this service be extended to all school children, rather than to blast a newspaper and its publisher for printing its ideas.

When personalities dominate discussion such as this one, I can't help but feel a sense of responsibility to speak out FOR such people as Mr. Chandler, whose sports writing past still is providing the enthusiasm and courage to write what HE THINKS, and not what will please the most people. Hasn't his controversial editorial jarred a goodly number of people into at least formulating an opinion and taking a stand on the school bus subject? Certainly nothing un-American about that.

While I don't agree with what you wrote December 25, I say more power to you name-calling and subscription-cancelling don't resolve issues, but a thinking, well-informed public can.

Certainly this isn't a personal matter, Mr. Chandler, and you should be told publicly that some of us directly concerned take no personal issue with you or Michigan's Finest Weekly on the subject, "8 AM CHAUFFEUR"

District Ritualistic Contest Won by Plymouth Elks

Plymouth Elks Lodge 1780 were both hosts and winners of a Ritualistic Contest held last Friday and Saturday by the Southeast District, Michigan Elks Association.

Following Plymouth was Ann Arbor, second; Royal Oak, third; and Jackson, fourth. Also competing were Detroit, Farmington, Adrian, Pontiac and Ferndale.

In addition to the team trophy won by the local lodge, and accepted by E. R. Warren Markle, he was also presented with the "Traveling Trophy," which will remain with them for one year. Esteemed Leading Knight Gregory Sides and Esteemed Loyal Knight Willard Lorenz won the best officer awards for their stations.

The Plymouth Officers will now compete in the State Contest held at the convention in Port Huron in May. They will compete with the winners of the other districts throughout the state, with the winner of this contest to attend the National Convention in Chicago in July representing

SPORTSEEN

By Lee Sechler

What a week! WE won a basketball game, a light dropped from the ceiling of the pool into the water and a lady bowled a 275 game.

Congratulations Jim and team. That was a good win Friday night.

Have not figured why the light dropped out of the ceiling into the pool Thursday evening. It dropped near the official as he was judging the diving. One of two things could have been the cause. 1. The Allen Park diver went higher than it looked or 2. Somebody higher up didn't like the way the divers were being rated. In any event it missed the poor misguided official.

According to John McFall that's the first time a light has dropped out since the pool was put in. Not bad for seven years service.

Saw a girl in bermuda shorts at the game Friday night. Someone should tell that poor girl that this is the winter season and bermudas are summer wear.

Now that we have started winning games it might be time for a look at how the Suburban Six league play could end up come Saturday morning. Bentley will beat Allen Park, Redford Union over Trenton and Plymouth over Belleville. That would make the standings read like this:

Bentley	4-0
Redford U.	3-1
PLYMOUTH	2-2
Belleville	2-2
Trenton	1-3
Allen Park	0-4

That throws us into a tie for third place with Belleville. Then up the ladder.

Congratulations are in order for Joyce Crimmins, who proves that the weaker sex can be a good bowler. Joyce rolled a 275 the other night at Parkview. She bowls in the Ladies Sr. League. According to my information that's the highest women's game this year. Her team sends congratulations to the lucky lady. Lots of luck the rest of the season. Understand Joyce has a 120 average. Is that right?

Thank the bright stars above. A kind reader, probably the only one I have, answered my plea and told me what she thought of having a holiday tournament. I won't tell who it is, that way I will always have one reader. Her comment was favorable. So there!

Talked with Herb Woolweaver today and he told me that there is a Fun league organized for men. They meet every Wednesday afternoon from 5-7. This must be the replacement for the Men's League.

Understand that there is an Ice Fishing Derby, 7th annual, to be held at Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens. The Derby is slated for Saturday, January 24th. Prizes are awarded for the longest perch and the heaviest total catch. All the prizes are fishing or outdoor equipment. Might even go myself.

Was watching some little fellows play at basketball the other night. What we need are lower basketball nets for the small fry. Why don't we have some special baskets for them?

Belleville Next

Heads up basketball and a foul shot in the last seconds of play were the deciding factors Friday night when Plymouth defeated Allen Park 44-43 in Suburban Six competition.

Tomorrow night the Rocks will play host to Belleville and try for their second league win. Belleville is now tied with Redford Union for second place, after last week's play.

Last year the Rocks dumped our friends from the South 56-46. Plymouth compiled a 20-7 lead in the first stanza to get the game off to a flying start. Belleville managed to cut the deficit to 31-18 at the half. The scoring was even in both the second and fourth quarters.

This season Belleville tied for second position in the league. (See Sportseen for possible results of this week's play)

Plymouth was forced to play a "thinking" game Friday night as the Rocks shifted their defenses in an effort to rattle the Rocks. The Rocks failed each time, as the Rock guards slowed down their forward movement to check the defense, then allowed our men to organize and score.

A foul shot by Wade Schultheiss in the final 2 seconds of play kept the Rocks from going into overtime ball.

Wade made the score 44-41 and 10 seconds later DeAngelo Allen Park scored to give the Jaguars 43 points as the game ended. This proves again, how important that charity throw is.

The Rocks drew first blood as Al Runge took the ball in to score in the opening seconds of play. Orend of Allen Park then tied the score.

Allen Park was held scoreless from about half way through the first stanza until after the two minute mark in the second quarter. Plymouth was able to cope with the zone press the Jaguars used and turned it into an asset rather than a hindrance as planned by Allen Park. The half ended with Plymouth in the lead 21-14.

In the third quarter Plymouth and Allen Park traded 17 points, more or less as a warm up for the last act.

The fourth stanza found Al-

'Cats' Dunked As Plymouth Captures Eight of Ten Events

Running true to form the Plymouth tankers drowned the Allen Park mermen 70-26 Thursday night as they took eight of ten events.

Tonight the local swimmers will travel to Belleville. Last season they romped to a 72-23 win over the boys in the first in every event but none and ran up 73 points in diving first in every event bar none alone.

Allen Park scored their firsts in the diving and 100 yd. breaststroke. They did, however, give the Rocks a bad time in the 200 yd. freestyle relay when the Jaguars finished a mere one and a half seconds behind.

Plymouth is still weak in diving and will undoubtedly be that way the rest of the season. Come next year the story may be different, as the present divers will have that much needed experience under their swim trunks.

Nation Is Embarking Upon New Economic Era, Resident Claims

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This story concerns an address delivered today, Thursday, Jan. 15, in Philadelphia by Stahl Edmunds, 1347 West Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A Ford economist today said recent events indicate the United States is at the end of the so-called post-war economic era and the beginning of another where the amount of prosperity will depend upon the number of creative ideas and the new products brought into being to provide an even higher living standard.

Stahl Edmunds, manager of Ford Division's economic studies department, said the period ahead would see a transition from the post-war phase of the economy where effort was devoted to producing "more of the same" to a new era, he said, which will depend upon industry's ability to create new markets for new things. "New products and new ideas," he said, "are the very essence of the growing economy."

Speaking before the fourth annual Forecasting Luncheon in Philadelphia, he said: "The fact is that we need a series of technological explosions in consumer markets to launch a strong, new business cycle for the 1960's, just as great missile and rocket advances were needed to launch the military into the space age. The pressure upon private business management is to bring these technical advances in consumer markets into being rapidly enough to stimulate broad new demands, to create the vision of a new way of living, to generate a surge of buying based on new consumer wants and, through this new demand, to foster new capital investment."

"These are the conditions upon which an early and expansive boom will be based. If management cannot do these things, if business tries to get by, just making more of the same, we could encounter some very indifferent years until the mid-sixties when new family formation by itself will stimulate economic activity."

He added, that "American business already is off to a good start in creating the new products needed for a new boom. But a more massive effort is required to carry a business cycle into a strong upsurge from 1959 to 1970. After all, the boom of 1946 to 1958 was built upon all the accumulated innovations generated in the fifteen years from 1930 to 1945, as well as upon its own inventiveness. Today we have no backlog of ideas to draw upon. We must propel the next business cycle by our own efforts. It will be a "think-as-you-go" boom if there is to be any boom at all.

Edmunds said a "think-as-you-go" boom may require a different approach to management than we have had during the past dozen years. The past dozen years were a "more-of-the-same" boom. Three developments in management seem to promise that industry will meet the needs of the coming decade, he said. The developments are:

1. The redirection of product plans toward filling consumers' latent wants rather than their recent wants.
2. A reversal in organizational thinking — at least in research and planning activities in which jobs will be fitted to creative men, rather than men fitted into jobs.
3. The continued development of rapid and comprehensive information systems on the physical actions in business.

"The creative side of management can be strengthened by a new outlook on organization. Instead of assigning duties from the top down, management can generate a tremendous reservoir of ideas by seeking solutions from the bottom up."

Housework Simplification Class Opens Here Feb. 4

Homemakers who are looking for better, easier ways of doing tasks about the house are invited to attend free classes in housework-simplification sponsored in Plymouth by the Michigan Heart Association.

The series of four "Heart of the Home" classes are conducted in cooperation with Wayne State University and will be held weekly at the same hour and day beginning February 4 at the Dunning-Hough Library.

The course was developed originally for women with heart or blood vessel disease who must "take it easy." While medical reasons make it necessary to take the drudgery out of housework for women with a disability, eliminating drudgery is every woman's dream, therefore the Michigan Heart Association opened the classes to all women several years ago.

The classes stress planning, according to work-simplification principles, which a homemaker can apply to all of her various tasks. The course was adapted from time-motion study principles used in industry by the Home Economics Department of Wayne State University.

Mrs. Hannah R. Pretzer from the staff of the Home Economics Department conducts the classes. "With proper tools and techniques, up to fifty percent of the time and energy commonly spent cleaning, ironing, preparing meals and the like can be saved," Mrs. Pretzer said.

She indicated that the classes are designed to benefit any economic level and that energy and time can be conserved without remodeling or buying expensive equipment.

Homemakers may register for the free classes by calling Plymouth Recreation and Education for Adults at GL 3-3100 - Ext. 23 or the Michigan Heart Association, Temple 1-8550. The classes will meet on February 4, 11, 18 and 25 at 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. at the Dunning-Hough Library, across from the High School.

No medical advice, diagnosis, treatment, or examination is given in the "Heart of the Home" classes.

The Wayne County Medical Society has endorsed the entire program and doctors of medicine will be urged to refer their patients to the classes.

The "Heart of the Home" program is made possible by the Michigan Heart Association through funds received from the United Foundation Torch Drive.

Charm, Personality Class Being Offered For 1st Time

Plymouth High School is offering many courses to appeal to the feminine this year. Particularly new will be the course on BEAUTY AND CHARM, instructed by Mrs. John A. L. Adams who has had a wealth of experience in this field.

A native Detroit and a graduate of Wayne State University, with a degree in Clothing and Textiles, Mrs. Adams also finished the John Robert Power Modeling Course and worked for them for five years. As such she gave lectures to Women's Clubs and Adult Education classes; wrote, directed and narrated a show for the Michigan State Fair; appeared on television as a model and instructor, made commercial movies for TV and managed the Detroit Agency for two years. She has taught textiles in a small college and make-up in a modeling school in Louisville, Ky., and has had as her pupils, teenagers, home-makers, mothers-to-be and older women.

She will include clothes styling for the individual, how to look well on a limited budget, walking and posture, correct cosmetics and their application, voice, and personality, exercise and diet. If you want to improve your appearance, sign up for Mrs. Adams' course and you will be sure to come out as a new and more beautiful individual.

Other classes to consider when you enroll from January 19 to the 23, will be Parry Cooking, American Short Story, Interior Decorating, Psychology of Human Relations, and Effective Speech.

Call GL 3-3100, Ext. 4 or 23 for further information. Plan to enroll starting Monday at Plymouth High School Adult Education Program.

Symphony's Concert

The second half of the program caters to children too, first by featuring them as musicians and second by presenting a visual dimension to accompany the music.

Mozart's "Serenade in D Major" will be the vehicle for the youthful musicians of the Plymouth, Livonia and Milford Youth Symphonies to play. A chance to perform real grown-up music for a live audience has been the goal of these youngsters now for many months.

The final work on the program is "La Boutique Fantasque" by Berlioz, a work performed in part at the December concert. This time there have been additions and subtractions from the earlier presentation and some totally new ingredients added.

The story of the action in a fantastic toy shop will be narrated by Joanne Hulce. The story concerns the attempts of some doll-buyers to separate a pair of delightful French dolls, but the other dolls in the shop conspire to hide the French dolls and so prevent their separation.

Accompanying each section of the piece, eight in all, a Plymouth art teacher, artist and resident, Stanley Hench, will illustrate the action by means of cartoons. He will do his work in front of the orchestra on a large sketch pad and easel.

Mr. Hench teaches in three Plymouth Schools and enjoys the vice-presidency of the Three Cities Art Club. He came to Plymouth by way of Manistee, Northville and Birmingham, and was the winner in 1952 of the John Heron Award for Self-Portrait from the Art Museum of Indianapolis. He has also displayed his work at the Detroit Institute of Art and the Michigan Artists Gallery.

As at previous concerts, a supervised nursery is provided for families who doubt the ability of their little children to appreciate a full-length concert. It is arranged for both pre-school and primary-school aged children. Children will be welcomed in Room 15 of the Plymouth High School for a charge of 15 cents per child.

As this concert is usually quiet crowded, those families holding memberships in the Plymouth Symphony Society are urged to make their reservations early for seats by calling Mrs. James Randall, GL 3-1826 by the Saturday before the concert.

Civil Service For Township Firemen Studied

Lt. Paul Albright as spokesman for the Plymouth Township firemen, made inquiry of the Township Board last week on the possibility of having a Civil Service proposal go on the February ballot.

The lengthy proposal for Civil Service for Plymouth Township had not been studied thoroughly by the Township attorney or entire board and the decision was postponed.

There are two ways the Civil Service Act may appear on the ballot, (1) by Board action; (2) by 300 names on a petition filed with the Township Clerk 45 days prior to the election, according to Lt. Albright.

The Civil Service Board is a three man governing body and takes the power of hiring and firing away from the elected officials.

The Board decided not to take action the night of their Jan. 7 meeting, promising the Firemen present they would "study" the act, await their attorney's decision on the necessity of petitions, and hold a special meeting to discuss the subject of Civil Service for Plymouth Township.

Other business before the board included these items: At their last regular meeting the Plymouth Township Board raised the salary of the Township Clerk from $4,500 to $5,200 per year. The raise will not take effect until the beginning of the fiscal year July 1, and is considered payment for a full-time job.

The Board, in accordance with a directive from the Electrical Joint Council, raised the electrical rates to $5.00 for the electrical contractors and journeymen's annual fee. The previous fee was $1.00. This is paid in every community in which they work and an additional $25.00 fee is paid to the municipality from which they receive their license.

The Board voted to accept the sewer and sanitary sewer system and water system in Lake Pointe Village Plat No. 3 under the condition that a bond of $2,000 be posted in case there is a loss of time or money by the township in repairing a damage caused while homes are built.

We've been back almost two weeks now after a long, restful vacation... and it was very hard to get back on the groove.

But now we've finally to think about (coming up at the end of the month) plus all the extra-curricular activities.

Upon return, PHS'ers were reminded that the price of hot lunches has been upped 5 cents. Prior to the plan, which went into effect January 5, Plymouth was one of two schools in Wayne County which sold lunches for less than 35 cents.

Not all's seriousness in the Dolphin Clubbers proved this by throwing a party for members and their dates last Saturday night in the high school gymnasium and pool. Asked one Dolphin Club member what they were going to do - he replied "swim, play volleyball, dance, etc."

Usually Dolphin members run swim meets, attend sports activities, play football (what's that?), participate in the water show... and have parties. Officers are President Bruce Wood, Vice-President John Vincent, Secretary Don Williams and Treasurer Dave Graves.

The Triple Trios are scheduled to appear at the Mayflower Hotel on January 16 (that's tomorrow). Triples are seniors Sharon Matts, Lois Austin, Betsy Edgar, Karen Stevens, Betsy Mueller, Julie Stecker, juniors Barb Browne and Leslee Huxley and sophomore Ann West. Dorothy Strenich is the piano accompanist; Fred Nelson directs the group.

The annual picture-taking-of-clubs stint took place yesterday when all club members posed for group photos for the 1959 Plythean. Students intermittently trooped out of classes in order to say "cheese" for the photographer.

Yearbook Editor is Pete Signorelli. Others working on the publication are Fran Smith, layout; Sue Mather, drafting; Peggy McFarlane, copy; Bob Goodale, photography; and Elaine Berry, business.

The local chapter of Quill and Scroll, the honorary journalistic society, is making plans for the admittance of new members. Quill and Scrollers must have a "B" scholastic average, boast 50" inches in print, and have a

(Continued from Page 1) petitions decided to remain on Tungate's. But two who signed both Shekell's and Supervisor Lindsay's petitions decided to stay on Shekell's. This gave him the required 29 and kept him in the race.

In the matter of the city commissioner, some people owning city charters were left somewhat confused when Commissioner Marvin Terry decided to run again. The charter specifies that no one who held the office for two consecutive terms can succeed himself.

Terry came into office in July 1953 by way of appointment and then was re-elected to a four-year term in 1955. However, the charter defines a "term" as holding office for at least two years.

Since Terry's appointive tenure was from July 1953 until April 1955, he lacked but three months of completing an official term. Hence, he has lost one term of office during nearly six years. According to City Clerk Kenneth Way, the city attorney was consulted on this matter before the filing deadline.

Commissioner Terry is one of the four who filed for the four vacancies.

School Board Seeks Clarification Of Equalization on Next Tax Bills

Treasurers of political subdivisions within the Plymouth Community School District will be asked by the school board to state on future tax bills to citizens exactly how much of the school tax is due to state equalization.

Board member Harold Fischer made the suggestion at Monday night's meeting and it met the approval of other members.

According to Fischer the board is being blamed for the growing tax bills when actually the school's tax rate has remained the same — 21.95 mills ($21.95 per $1,000 assessed valuation).

The increase, according to Fischer and Board President Austin Stecker, is due to state equalization of local assessments. State tax people tell the county that assessments are low by a certain percent and so the "equalization" factor is applied. The County Board of Taxation does the same to local cities, villages and townships under its jurisdiction.

They suggested that a letter be written to treasurers of the city and townships within the school district to ask if it would be possible to specify on tax bills exactly what the assessed amount is and how much more is added through equalization.

There were a number of committee reports, one of which concerned teacher relations committee. Fischer asked committee member James Mitchell about the consideration of raising salaries. Fischer said that he would like salaries raised if consideration is given to lengthening working hours, such as a half hour longer in primary grades and one hour in secondary grades.

Fischer himself gave a report of a committee looking into the matter of expanding facilities at Starkweather School. He said that buying a residential property next door seems impossible because of a family situation which makes it impractical to sell now. This would leave constructing an addition to the rear of the school, probably a two-story building because of a steep hill.

Mrs. Esther Hulsing reported on the Northwest Wayne County Community College study group which met recently and is studying enabling legislation that would permit formation of a community college by two or more school districts. The bill will be introduced in this session of the legislature.

The board approved Mrs. Hulsing's recommendation that two points in the bill be cleared first. One deals with the selection of college board members and the other with deciding who should assess one mill to operate the college.

Wesley Kaiser who explained that he feels the question boils down to a matter of choice. The choice must be made by us and it must be made by parents in choosing the way their children should be educated. He added that after polling opinions of others, he felt it was his duty to make the decision he did.

Mrs. Hulsing maintained that she would much rather see all children in public schools because she believes that much of America's greatness as a "melting pot" is due to the equal opportunity offered to all in public schools.

President Stecker advanced this same opinion earlier.

Fr. Child, however, insisted that this opinion had nothing to do with the question — that whether the board believes the granting of service would be of benefit most to the child or the parochial school. He admitted that this question was "splitting hairs, but that's law. We must keep out irrelevant things."

President Stecker then took a roll call vote on the motion with all answering "yes."

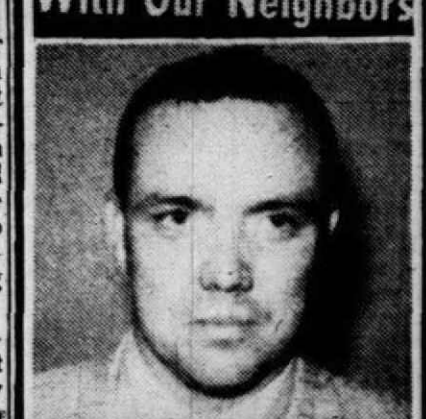

Bollinger then posed another question. Would the motion denying requests for school plant or personnel use to religious or religious-related groups prevent the holding of baccalaureate services? And would it prevent a minister from teaching Adult Education courses, or parishioners of a church from using school parking facilities on Sunday?

To this President Stecker replied that the board must first clear these questions at a time when they come up.

Fr. Child said that he would accept the board's decision as such, since it was the board's prerogative under state law. He expressed his disappointment that the board "missed the point" in its consideration of who was being benefited.

Last to speak from the board was James Mitchell who declared that state law and the Supreme Court decision still give school boards the right to make the decision — and that parents

Army Now Offers Enlistment Choice

The U.S. Army is now offering the finest enlistment choice in its history, according to SFC William J. Allen, local Army recruiter. Under this new plan, you can choose the exact Career Group in which you would like to receive training. Called the "choose it yourself" Vocational Training System the new plan offers a young man the opportunity to choose service in an Army Career Group that satisfies his own desires and aptitudes. The plan offers more than 50 Career Groups to choose from.

Here's an example of how the plan works, according to Sergeant Allen: If you want to work in electronics - and have an aptitude for that kind of work - you are guaranteed on-the-job training or schooling in electronics after your complete basic training. The guarantee is entered on your Army record when you enlist.

For further information about this new Army program, call Sergeant Allen at GL 3-1540, or contact him at his office at Chamber of Commerce, Plymouth, between the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Nazarenes Start 232 Churches In Golden Year

Impressive gains in every area made the 1958 golden anniversary year one of the best in denomination history for the Church of the Nazarene.

The annual statistical report by Dr. S. T. Ludwig, general secretary, showed that 232 new churches were established. These increased the total number of churches to 4,587. The previous high was 202 new churches established in 1951.

Church membership climbed about 9,500 persons to 301,700, or a gain of 3.8 per cent. During the decade of 1948-58, the denomination gained 85,000 members, or an increase of 39 per cent.

Three large anniversary year goals were exceeded. A total of 1,126,500 persons was witnessed to during the first church-wide week of witnessing, Oct. 5-12.

Also, for the first time in denominational history, the special offerings for world missions at Easter and Thanksgiving each exceeded $1-million. The Easter offering went to $1,040,000. On Jan. 5, the Thanksgiving offering passed $1,030,000 with gifts still coming in.

Sunday school enrollment gained 48,000 to total 673,750. The Foreign Missionary society gained 18,500 to a total of 155,778, and the young people's society grew 2,800 members to 93,000.

Total giving increased about $1-million to a total $40,000,000. Per capita giving was $133.05, a decrease of 72 cents from 1957. The Plymouth Church of the Nazarene, located at 41550 E. Ann Arbor Trail, during the last church year enjoyed an eight percent gain in Church membership, a seven percent increase in Sunday School attendance and the per capita giving of the local church for the year was $195.75.

To The Editor

Editor:
How many folks will recognize the newly proposed graduated State income tax as the second plank of Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto? A good many people have because this proposed tax has been voted down in 1922, 1924, 1934 and 1936. But a lot of younger voters are coming of age who have not been taught the truth about Communism.

Michigan has just paid $8,000 for the printing of the Michigan Tax Study Papers, a guide for the legislators. On page 493 appears this fact:

"The progressive income tax is an instrument for leveling inequalities in the distribution of wealth and income."

This is a vicious, destructive tax; it is not designed to raise revenue for the State but to destroy the very capitalism that has made this country the envy of the world.

Moore has designated the week of Feb. 1 to 8, 1959, as American Legion Religious Emphasis Week in honor of the four Army Chaplains who lost their lives in the sinking of the U.S. troopship, Dorchester, on Feb. 3, 1943.

ALL AT SEA NEW YORK (UPI) - Lt. Comdr. Robert L. Blake, senior operations engineer for Pan American Airways, at Idlewild Airport, rowed himself out into Jamaica Bay one day to study jetliner noise levels near the field.

Notwithstanding his reserve membership in the U.S. Navy, Blake ran his rowboat aground.

From The TEACHER'S DESK

(Prepared by a committee of teachers representing a joint committee on teacher welfare from the Board of Education, and the Plymouth Education Association.)

The past few months much attention has been given to various phases of education. Many ideas have been expressed concerning the many problems communities are faced with today in trying to establish a sound educational system. A lot of misunderstandings have also developed on the national, state and local level about such things as: school personnel policies, salaries, an evaluation of the curriculum, and the need for more buildings and equipment.

The Plymouth Education Association, along with the local Board of Education, will endeavor through a series of articles in The Plymouth Mail to inform the residents of this school district on what our schools are trying to do for the welfare of the children, and the betterment of the local community as a whole.

This article is the first in a series that will regularly appear in the local newspaper under the above heading. The sponsoring group would like this to become a regular feature of this paper, and one which will appeal to those persons interested in our schools.

We definitely do not want the public to think that these articles are being prepared by a pressure group for selfish motives, because that is totally untrue. We feel that parents have a right to know what their children are doing in school, and that the local taxpayer has a right to know what value he is receiving for his tax dollar.

What do we hope to accomplish by all this? We wish to convey to the local citizenry an insight on a teacher's duties and his responsibilities in regards to the position he holds in the community. We hope to create a better understanding, and a closer relationship between the school and the home.

Through this column we plan on covering all forms of school activity from the kindergarten through high school. We will spend some time with various teachers at different grade levels; special education teachers, vocational and guidance instructors, recreation and sports, and those from the academic departmental classrooms. We hope to have a few pictures of actual on-the-scene activities to supplement these articles.

Some people have a feeling that a teacher has a fairly easy six-hour day, good vacations and a salary based on ten months work a year. We will discuss the requirements for becoming a teacher, the financial costs, how long it takes in college, the pay, the sacrifices a teacher has to make, or the hours of work outside the classroom preparing for coming assignments and checking the hundreds of papers necessary for grading students.

All of these will be brought into focus in future articles. We invite suggestions from the citizens of this community on any phase of education they would like explained in this column.

Next week you can look forward to reading an interesting article on how education in the Plymouth Public Schools compares to that advocated by some of the foremost critics of the past year.

More than four million Africans are crowded into the Belgian colony of Ruanda-Urundi, a slice of Africa only slightly larger than the state of Maine.

LACK OF SPACE
To begin to list and describe all the terrific bargains in fine furniture that await you when the doors open to this great sale would take volumes of newsprint. We guarantee you everything in our mammoth stock will go at slashed prices—reductions to 65%.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO THE PUBLIC
We certainly don't claim to be philanthropists in offering this first complete store-wide sale in our 19 year business career ... or using the above reasons merely to have a sale! Frankly, our business volume for 1958 was many thousands of dollars below our expectations ... leaving us jammed past our ears with an extremely overloaded "BOTTLENECK" inventory! Therefore, good business judgement demands immediate lowering of merchandise investment ... REGARDLESS OF COST OR LOSS! To accomplish this vital purpose within the next few days, our entire "world famous" stock of home furnishings is legitimately offered at — BELOW OUR COST PRICES.

WARNING
A sale of this nature is bound to attract crowds of eager buyers, perhaps more than our large store can hold. If such is the case, we will be compelled to close our doors at intervals to prevent overcrowding our selling space. If we are forced to do so, please be patient because the big bargains to be had will be worth your waiting, and there are plenty of bargains for all.

True Christian Spirit Displayed At Newburg Methodist Church

MRS. EMIL LAPOINTE 36830 Joy Road GA. 1-2023

During the Christmas season, many fine folks make a habit of calling at the Riverbank convalescent home on Ann Arbor trail to bring gifts, sing seasonal songs, and visit with the men at the home. During the past season the Lion's club of Livonia visited on Dec. 17. They were represented by Dr. French, Mr. Ventura, Mr. Fogel and Mr. Carney. They brought the men an individual gift and visited with each one for about an hour.

On Dec. 20, Mrs. Donley and Mrs. Coult, who represented the Apostleship of Prayer from St. Michael's Catholic Church, visited with literature for the Catholic men as well as candy for all. They brought with them, Miss Patricia Balysh who played the accordion.

Also visiting on the same day were the seventh grade students from the Newburg Methodist church Sunday school and their teacher, Mrs. Emil LaPointe. This group presented the home with a Bible. The youngsters sang Christmas carols for the men.

Monday evening, Dec. 22, a girl scout troop from Dearborn visited. Their plan is to come every month during the entire year. Representing this group as leader was Mrs. W. Brubaker. Later, the same evening, a group representing the choir of St. John's Lutheran church on Oakman Blvd. in Detroit, sang traditional carols. One of the men at the home is a member of this church. Leader of this group was Mrs. J. Brendos.

On Tuesday, Dec. 23, a choir from Good Hope Evangelical Lutheran Church in Dearborn held a session of singing. This group too, came because they have a member here. A large Brownie group from Wilcox school entertained the men by walking through the house singing and taking time to visit with them with Mrs. Pelleran, Mrs. Auten and Mrs. Janaulas as leaders of this group.

On the evening of Dec. 23, the Methodist Youth Fellowship, Methodist church along with Mr. and Mrs. Emil LaPointe and Paul Nixon called to sing Christmas carols.

To bring this fine season to a close, a group of girls who are seniors at the Garden City High school came on Jan. 30 to sing and chat with the men. This group of young ladies have formed a club known as the Future Nurses and make a part of visiting hospitals and nursing homes. These many callers representing civic groups and religions are most welcome any time of the year and Mrs. Frank Baze, who take charge at the home, are always glad to have groups come in any time of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Foreman and children Randy, Jill and Michael of Horton Avenue, Livonia, are home after spending the entire Christmas-New Year's holiday visiting at the home of Mrs. Foreman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Blackburn in Parsons, Kansas.

It is so nice to report that Mrs. Harry Gilbert of Newburg, who is home after spending some time in the hospital and is recuperating nicely. She wishes to express her gratitude to all those who remembered her with cards and flowers and to the young folks of the Newburg Methodist Youth fellowship for having called and sung Christmas carols outside her window.

New Years Day guests for dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Desmond on Joy road were Mr. and Mrs. Gail Leckner and daughters, Marie and Gail of Hoy Ave., Livonia and Fred Nubel of Detroit.

Mrs. Melvin C. Gutherie of Newburg had the honor of attending and pouring at the wedding of Joan Carson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Verle J. Carson, on Saturday, Dec. 27 at the Ford Memorial church on Warren avenue. Miss Carson was united in marriage to Lester Cottrel. Mr. Cottrel is a student at Georgia Tech and the young couple will reside in Atlanta, Georgia. The bride was given in marriage by her father and also united in marriage by her Rev. Carson and his family are former residents of the Newburg area and Rev. Carson is a former pastor of the Newburg Methodist church.

Sunday afternoon, Jan. 7, Mr. LaPointe and I, along with our children, Bruce, David, Mark and Nam visited at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Surman and also at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Frahm in Detroit.

The Joy Road Canadiana Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Clifford Hocking on Narise Drive, Tuesday evening, Jan. 20 at 8 p.m. Please notify your hostess if you are coming so she may know on whom to plan.

Since Sunday, Jan. 4, we have had the pleasure of entertaining many friends to get the New Year off with a bang. Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Weiss, Jr., of Judd road, Belleville along with their son Stephen paid a belated Christmas call. The hostess of Stephen having had Chicken Pox during the Christmas week. Mrs. Robert Curry and children Stephen, Robert, Caren and Evie of West Chicago, Livonia spent an evening visiting and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kline and son Boule Krauter ave., Garden City were our guests for an evening.

In celebration of her 75th birthday, Saturday, Dec. 27,

Mrs. Susan Tice was honored at an open house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baze on Hanlon avenue. Mrs. Tice's brother and family from Port Huron, Mich., as well as her grandson and family from St. Louis, Mo., spent the day with her. Throughout the late afternoon and evening many neighbors and friends called to wish her well.

Many events of momentous import will be taking place at the Newburg Methodist church and it would be well to mark your calendar and keep them in mind. Through-out the Lenten season, beginning with Wednesday, Feb. 11, there will be a Lenten potluck supper and special program. This program will be observed every Wednesday of the Lenten period through March 18. Also the church on Thursday, Feb. 19, with all proceeds earmarked for the Wesley Foundation, there will be a Chinese dinner served at 6:30 p.m. On Thursday, March 12, at 12:30 p.m. the Ladies of the Lydia circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will present "Luncheon is Served." A lovely lunch to which they must sell no less than 100 tickets. You may call for a writer if you wish to purchase a ticket. Also another date, Saturday, April 11, another "Smorgasbord a la Newburg." If you came to the last one, Oct. 11, you'll not want to miss the coming one. Be sure to tell your friends and plan to make this the must on your calendar. There will be three different hours of serving with plenty of wonderful cuisine for all.

Happy news is right up my alley and to report that Edward Grosjean of Newburg is home after spending quite some time at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital in Detroit. Gives a great deal of pleasure. Get well soon are the wishes of all your neighbors and friends.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Newburg Methodist church will meet in the sanctuary of the old church on Monday, Jan. 19 at 7:45 p.m. for their first general society meeting of the new year. A program centered around the religious of the Far East will be presented by the Rhoda circle. This subject is the foreign mission study for the group of women for this church year.

Well, we certainly have had a nice long chat this week and it has been so nice being with you. Don't forget call each week with your news. See you next week?

The CITY MANAGER'S CORNER

By Al Glassford

Every year, almost every one of us slips, or actually falls, on an icy or snowy sidewalk. Usually, the only thing that is hurt is our pride, but it is always embarrassing, struggling to regain our balance or scrambling to our feet.

Sometimes, though, serious injuries occur and the question of liability rears its head. This situation does not have to be, indeed, it should not be. Of course, the only way to prevent slippery sidewalks is to keep them free of ice or snow.

The City Commission passed a snow removal ordinance in May, 1957, to provide for snow and ice removal from sidewalks by each property owner or occupant of land within the City of Plymouth. This is Ordinance No. 232, entitled "An Ordinance to Provide for the Removal of Snow and Ice and Dirt or Debris from Sidewalks."

According to this ordinance, if a citizen owns or occupies a parcel of land where there is a sidewalk running along side a street, he must, by the next day, clear off the snow or ice which has fallen or formed. If he neglects to remove the snow or ice, or if he refuses to do so, the City Manager may have the snow or ice removed, at the owner's or occupant's expense.

Dealing with ice, which has formed on a sidewalk, is a different task. The best thing to do is to put rock salt or chloride on the sidewalk so that the granules will fall to about 4 inches apart. Our local building supply houses will deliver 50 pound bags to your house. The cost is nominal. This will break up the ice and will make scraping or shoveling the ice a way much easier. If still unable to remove the ice, the next best thing to do is to spread cinders or sand on the ice, and wait until warmer temperatures help break it up.

There are a lot of boys in your neighborhood who would like to earn a small fee and rid you of the shoveling work and a major hazard.

Some Personal Notes: Our best to Marion Warner while she is out of circulation. Hear that Jim McLean is a victim of burisitis and hope he is out soon. Also that Jane and Bob Diekmann have moved into a new home in Lake Pointe Village. Had word that Mary Grubeshich was ill but no one knew cause. Hope she is better. A cheery hello goes to Joe and Georgina Elliott and Bill and Marie Norman in California and to Harry and Maria Terry in Florida.

Post members were in for a pleasant surprise at the Jan. 7 meeting. The Auxiliary presented the Post with a check paying the balance on the mortgage. With the generous help of the Auxiliary all obligations on the Post Home over a six year period are paid. It is now planned that the post will enter into the realm of community service more actively since "our home is paid for."

The Post is now sponsoring a basketball team in the Plymouth Recreation League. Chairman Bartel completed the arrangements. Other such sponsorships are on the agenda.

Through the efforts of several Post members a needy family in Canton Township is being helped through its present situation involving illness. Gerry Olson at GL 3-1339 can fill you in on details should you want to lend a hand. The Post is planning a work party at the home of the family Jan. 17 to install insulation and make other building improvements.

Correspondent Begins A to Z Calling of Canton Twp. Families

Esther Sprengel GL. 3-0194

Well I am embarking on my "do try" campaign, of getting everyone I can possibly reach in our column at least once this year. I am starting at the beginning of the alphabet and working my way down. Now if you are new to the township, or do not have a phone I can't call you, so I'll have to hope you will call me. If I don't get in touch with you please don't hesitate to call me. Well, on with my campaign.

At the beginning of the alphabet found the name Mrs. Ada Alexander. I was greeted by a very cheerful voice and was supplied with the holiday events of the Alexander family. Mrs. Alexander held a Christmas Eve dinner for 18 friends and children, Harold, Jim and Juanita. Mrs. Alexander also told me that her son Harold told the winning ticket for first prize at the Elks Christmas party, the prize was a Kelvinator washer and dryer combination, which Harold presented to his mother. The Alexander family reside on Gordon Rd.

House guests of the Howard Saleys of Ford Rd., Mr. and Mrs. James Strain of Cleveland and Mr. Ronald Witt of Harvard University returned to their respective homes after a round of dinners and visits with relatives and friends. One of the homes visited before their return was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Palmer, cousins of Mrs. Strain and Mr. Witt. They had dinner with the Palmers and their two children Connie and David. Mr. and Mrs. Strain were returning to Cleveland and their studies at Western Reserve. Mrs. Strain is working for her degree as a dietitian and Mr. Strain is in his first year of Medicine. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Palmer and family were host to Mr. and Mrs. Robert White and family, Robert, Jim and Craig at their home for dinner.

Another family at the top of our alphabetic list was the George G. Alimphichs of Michigan Ave. Christmas Eve the Alimphichs entertained Mrs. Alimphich's mother, Mrs. M. Khabaef and three other families. The family had a gathering on New Year's Eve, with Mr. Alimphich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Alimphich and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Mayher and three children of Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Batalucco of Taylor Township and their three children. Before hanging up the telephone, I extracted a promise from Mrs. Alimphich to inform us of future events of the family.

I called Mrs. John Abertson (Winifred) of Maben Rd. and was told over the holidays they, "Had fun". By her voice I knew they did. The Albertson's and their two daughters, Carol and Mary Lou spent Christmas at Pleasant Lake, Mich. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terwilliger and daughter. New Years Eve, the family celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Hix of Warren Rd.

I was caught off guard for a moment, when the very efficient voice of Mrs. Maxwell Allen, answered the phone with "Allen Printing Shop". I soon found that Mr. Allen runs a printing shop in his home on Ridge Rd. Mrs. Allen stated that quite often she called do get confused by her way of answering the phone. Mrs. Allen asked if I had heard about the neighborhood New Years Eve Party. The neighbors get-together each year for this event. This year the party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Parker of Ridge Rd. with a pot-luck supper. Present for the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Wright and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Magraw and family, Mr. and Mrs. Delaney, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lindstrom of Detroit and family.

With each call, I asked if the person I was talking with had any new neighbors. Mrs. Allen stated that they will have new neighbors in the Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Don Sutherland now of Plymouth, are building a new home next to the Allen's on Ridge Rd. Mr. Sutherland is an established Public Accountant, with offices in Plymouth.

A call to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Allor of N. Haggerty Rd. found that the Allor's spent Christmas at home due to the virus that has struck so many of our families. The Allor's daughter Vicky was ill over Christmas, but the family was able to attend a New Year's Eve party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Henning of Plymouth. Mrs. Allor said that the party consisted of many of the Henning's former neighbors and friends from the township.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Alloway of Haggerty Rd., spent Christmas in New Matmor, Ohio, visiting with Mr. Alloway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Alloway and Mrs. Alloway's father, Mr. W.P. Knowlton. Mrs. Alloway was another victim of the flu bug and stated she was just starting to feel better. The Alloway's also had a very nice dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Troesch and son of Ypsilanti.

Well I'm still working on the A's in the township and of course this included the Eugene Armstrong family of Canton Center Rd. Mrs. Armstrong (Alice) said they had spent the holidays home. The children had a camp-out in the living room, spending the night in their newly Christmas acquired sleeping bags. The Armstrongs I know for a fact are a very busy family. Mr. Armstrong is cub master for the cub scouts and Mrs. Armstrong is leader of a brownie troop. Their oldest son Eugene is busy raising pheasants. One thing this family doesn't have to worry about is spare time.

A special congratulations goes to Richard Aspenwall of Lotz Rd. Mr. Aspenwall took as his bride December 27, Joyce Heniman of Wisconsin. The couple plan to reside in Wayne, Michigan. Richard is the son of Mrs. Martha Aspenwall of the township.

A call to the William Barnhart home on Michigan Ave., found that Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart were host for dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bogitta of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. George Schooley of Pontiac and Grace Lesby of Wayne, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Barton and their daughter spent a quiet holiday at home. The Bartons are building their own home in between Mr. Barton's busy schedule in his business of sign painting. As you notice, I am progressing in the alphabet, but every now and then I hear of some news. On one of these occasions, I heard that Beverly Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison, of Lotz Rd., had been home from Bethel College in Minnesota for the holidays. Sunday evening the Harrison's were host to Beverly's fiancée's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.F. Amann, her fiancée Carl and brother Neal. The Amman's are from Garden City, Carl also attends Bethel college in Minnesota.

Mrs. Hanson stated that a former resident and neighbor of theirs, Mr. Wilbur Price and wife, stopped by for a short visit before leaving for a vacation in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Price now reside at Sears Lake.

Well I have finished the A's on my list in the township, but I am sure that I didn't get everyone, so help me out if I left you out, and please don't wait for me to call you, give me a ring anytime. I had just wound my column up for the week when a phone call from John Newport (Oma) revealed an item of interest. Mrs. Newport called to ask if I had any usable item for the March of Dimes Rummage Sale to be held January 31, at the Township Hall at G eddes Rd. I promised to look about and said I would also ask the rest of our township folks to help. If you have anything usable, clothing, nick-nacks, books or anything saleable you can contact Mrs. Newport at GL 3-4455, or give me a call and I will let Mrs. Newport know. Just a about everyone has something that someone else would buy.

by George Spalvin

January meeting of the Plymouth Theater Guild is but a few days off. Monday night, January 19 to be calendar-correct is the date for you to circle. The guild meeting has a professional treat for all members and anyone else that would like to drop over to the High School next Monday evening.

William Halstead of the University of Michigan Speech and Drama Department will be talking with us about the staging of dramatic production. Mr. Halstead just recently had charge of the U of M's riotous production of "The Matchmaker." Anyone that can transfer a high-flying, fast-moving play of that nature the stage is worth listening to.

"Bill" Halstead has acted, directed, and written plays for more years than I know he would want old George to reveal. Take time to attend this next meeting. I guarantee you have an entertaining yet educational evening.

Detroit's now darkened theatrical houses will brighten a bit in a few weeks when two Broadway productions come our way. "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," a comedy-drama by William Inge will arrive first. Let me urge you to buy tickets for this show. As I mentioned over a year ago, when it opened on Broadway, this is Bill Inge's fourth hit in a row. Not too many authors can make that statement.

One of his plays from "Come Back Little Sheba" to "Bus Stop" have made people think, laugh, cry a little, think some more, and finally leave the theater conversing intelligently about the underlying theme. When a playwright does this to an audience, he accomplished quite an objective. I'm looking forward to the New York company of the "Dark at the Top of the Stairs."

A week or so later in February "My Fair Lady" is going to be back at the Riviera Theater for six weeks. Now is the time though to order your tickets. Don't wait until a week before you decide to go. Best tickets are available right now. This is the maddening part about the theater. You must get in the habit of buying tickets so far in advance. Of course, it always gives you something to look forward to. The "My Fair Lady" company has been in Chicago for over 66 weeks. The New York and London companies are still doing S.R.O. (Standing Room Only) business in both locations.

About the only reason for moving out of Chicago is that the box office began to dip below $50,000 per week. Average gross per week during their year's stay was right around 61,000 clams each and every week. Actually the show could have stayed at least another six months without losing any money.

Producers of "My Fair Lady" want to get this show out on the road. The production is still a fairly hot item. Get your tickets early for this warm one from Chicago. All the top leads have left the show, but they have done the same thing with the New York company. All the original leads (Rex Harrison, Julie Andrews, and Stanley Holloway) are over in their original or native country — London. "My Fair Lady" is the one show with a British background and Londonish flavor that first became a hit over in the provinces (United States) and then later played London. With most productions it is the reverse order.

Broadway is getting back into the swing of things with several openings and many of the shows getting rave notices from the critics. Sir John Gielgud with his Shakespearean readings gave the critics an enjoyable evening. All seven of our sages of the great White Way gave him the nod. Incidentally, Sir John presented the exact same program in Ann Arbor last December.

Another show opened that we were privileged to see first. "The Third Best Sport." Celeste Holm, after 17 weeks of polishing the show out of town, came into New York last week with her comedy. The critics liked what they saw and it looks like Celeste will be able to rent an apartment in New York with more than a six month's lease. The Detroit critics liked Miss Holm in this play when it opened at the Cass last fall, but I was dubious since as I pointed out Detroit loves Celeste Holm for some unexplainable reason. By now it appears that old George was over cautious on "The Third Best Sport." Oh, well, you can't pick all the winners.

Former Resident Tells of Bicycling to World's Fair

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the story of a 100-mile bicycle trip through Belgium and Holland made by a former Plymouth resident, Mrs. Allyn Highfield, mother of two, whose husband, Capt. E. R. Highfield, is stationed with the Air Force in England. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Williams, 1328 West Ann Arbor Trail. She made the trip with the wives of two other officers, Mrs. Donna Watson and Mrs. Margaret Suter and the three stayed at Youth Hostels where they must work for their lodging.)

By Mrs. Allyn Highfield
The lady athletes of Alconbury. That's what they call us here now. There were many skeptics who didn't think we'd make the trip, but we did and enjoyed every bit of it.

We were thinking about taking sleeping bags but decided to become members of the Youth Hostels Association. We were limited as to baggage of course, but it's amazing what I packed into a little blue flight bag which I strapped on my back carrier.

The big day arrived. The Suters were in London and would meet us at the boat at Dover. So with the Watsons in one car and us in another, we started for Dover. Somehow we became separated. In Dover we found there were the Eastern Docks and the Western Docks. We tried both and found that bicycles were to go to the Western Docks—but there were no Watsons or Suters. We waited and I finally checked through immigration and boarded ship.

I decided not to go alone across the channel to Ostend, so got off. Then my husband (Ray) found out there was another boat about the same time, so I picked up my gear and got on again.

The four-hour crossing wasn't too pleasurable. It was cold and windy and I was nervous about the whereabouts of the others. At Ostend there was no sign of the others. At the enquiry office I found that they had been there—landing at three and I had landed at four.

It was 8:30 before we got together at the Youth Hostel. They had taken a car ferry over, I found out. I didn't have much for supper that night—a bag of french fries and a can of juice, but it sufficed and we all slept well, dreaming of the trip ahead.

Our first hostel breakfast was a surprise. About six slices of bread, butter, jelly, two pieces of luncheon meat and a bowl of coffee. After doing our hostel chores of sweeping down the stairs, we set off.

Merrily we rode out of town and were just about to turn up our road when a policeman rode up behind waving his hands and shaking his head. We finally realized that we were on the Autobahn (new super highway) and we couldn't ride bicycles on it. He showed us which way to go, which turned out to be the wrong way. Going back to town we started out again on a different road.

Belgium is flat along the coastal area so cycling was easy. We encountered only three hills by the third day. So much of the population cycles that there are special cycle paths along most all roads. Riding is pretty smooth except in towns where they still have old cobblestone streets. The stones are slippery when wet. Then there are the tram lines (streetcars) to dodge and cross. On the third day in Aalst, the cycle path changed from one side of the road to the other and as I rode over the wet cobbles and tram rails I took a swan dive—resulting in two bruised knees and a skinned elbow.

In Brugge we had lunch in a sidewalk cafe in the market square. Brugge is a very old city and is known as "The Venice of the North" because it is interlaced with canals, upon which we boated. Guides go through their spiel in French, Flemish, English and German. Brugge is also a lace making center and of course I brought a few pieces home. In the center of town is an old belfry about which Longfellow wrote in one of his poems.

That night we checked our bicycles in town (cost, four cents) and took a bus to the Youth Hostel. This hostel was a new brick one. We took showers, but froze as they didn't have any hot water as usual.

Arriving the next day in Ghent we saw cathedrals and works of art by the Flemish masters. Our hostel was a converted abbey and was quite nice. I bought a bottle of milk but ugh—no refrigerator you know. And another cold shower.

It was raining the next morning but off we went for Brussels. We hit a few long hills but by putting our cycles in low gear we made it to the top without a stop. We hit the outskirts of Brussels still in the rain. Heading down a long hill, we ran into traffic from a plant letting out. You should have seen those workers go whizzing by. We found out later that on the continent the cycle tires are larger and don't carry as much pressure as our English lightweight bikes. That makes riding on cobbles easier.

Checking in at the Brussels hostel, we sat down to a dinner of soup, one sausage, boiled potatoes, greasy gravy, celery stewed in tomatoes and an apple. No bread or drink.

Our table was tabbed to eye potatoes. They had a mechanical peeler but we got what the peeler missed. Afterward we wandered down the street for a few candy bars to augment our dinner.

Donna and I tossed a coin to see who would get the upper and lower beds. Donna won and took the lower and as she crawled in said, "No one is getting me out of this bed tonight."

But at 11:30 we awoke to a big commotion. A big middle-aged woman was trying to get Donna out of her bed. She was pointing to everything around and saying, "Mine, Mine." Donna showed her the bed tickets but that didn't do any good. She showed some tickets for the same bed but they contained no date. Two Norwegian girls who spoke some German tried to get her to take another empty lower but she said the window bothered her eyes.

Donna asked her how come she got to stay out after 10 and she replied that she was a schoolteacher. Poor Donna muttered that she was a mama with three kiddies, but finally gave in and moved her bedding to the other bed. At 8 a.m. our door flew open and a big male voice boomed, "Hey Lene!" and our German friend left for the day. We stayed in that hostel five nights with our job assignment being the cleaning of the downstairs bath.

In Brussels we didn't bother with breakfasts at the hostels, but took them instead in pastry shops. All had tables and you would pick out the pastry you wanted and have coffee with it.

In Brussels we didn't bother with breakfasts at the hostels, but took them instead in pastry shops. All had tables and you would pick out the pastry you wanted and have coffee with it.

We took in the Worlds Fair and of course I had to lose my ticket and paid twice to get in. We visited the American, Russian, Thailand and Vatican City pavilions. We got a good look at Prince Rainier and Grace Kelly of Monaco as they toured the fair.

We didn't think the American pavilion was as wonderful as some described it, but it wasn't so bad either. What we liked most there were the free lavatories with HOT water! That was a luxury to us by this time.

While there, a man came in with his wife and nonchalantly held her handbag while she used the conveniences.

That evening at the German pavilion restaurant we had a wonderful meal of different types of sausage, mashed potatoes, sauerkraut and beer. Then we hurried back to our lodgings to meet the 10 o'clock curfew.

Our tours continued the next day with a tram trip 17 miles to Waterloo to see the site of the famous battle of where Napoleon met you-know-what. That night we had supper in a small cafe on the market square and watched the Queen of Flowers go by on her float.

Tuesday we splurged and took an all-day bus trip to Holland. Lunch was in Amsterdam and Donna and I she couldn't see undoing her hair that she had done at a beauty shop the day before. It took us only two hours to reach Ostend. Our policy during the trip was to ride 50 minutes and stop for 10. We arrived at Dover and the custom's officer couldn't believe me when I told him of the baggage I carried.

Arriving home, I had my first hot bath in 10 days at 2 o'clock in the morning. We had a marvelous time and I would gladly do it again. Perhaps I shall average under $8 a day and that included everything. And I spent the most.

So if you're willing to use your muscles, overlook a few inconveniences, but anticipate a lot of fun, get yourself a bicycle and a host card and ride off for a great adventure.

Donna and I started off on our cycles for Ostend. We couldn't let it be said we had taken the train all the way back and besides we found the cycling more fun. We couldn't get Donna to join us because

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

Q.—"Dear Elinor: When a girl invites a boy to her house for the day (he lives out-of-town), who pays for whatever they do that day? The boy or the girl?"

Ans.—Even when the boy is invited only for the day and is not an overnight guest, the girl should provide tickets for entertainment, such as movies, dance, school or church events, . . . and buy them in advance to prevent awkwardness or embarrassment. But if you have a soda or a snack while you're out, the boy should pay for it as your escort.

Q.—"Dear Elinor: What does a boy of 12 look for in a girlfriend?"

Ans.—It depends on the boy. Because an interest in girls is new to many 12-year-olds, they like girls who help them feel at ease and are easy to talk to without feeling conspicuous or embarrassed. Some 12-year-old boys rate good looks first; others know that personality is more important. Like all boys, they also prefer girls who are interested in them and in their feel important and "special," each in his own way.

Q.—"Dear Miss Williams: What can you do about a boy who seems to like you . . . he stares at me, flirts and teases me . . . but never asks me to dance or go anywhere?"

Ans.—It sounds as if shyness prevents him from asking you to dance, etc. Perhaps if you choose him for your partner when you have a chance, it will help. You could also ask him to dance when there's a "girl's choice," invite him to a girl's party or dance, a church social event. This might give him the encouragement he needs.

Local Committee Lays Plans For Conducting Easter Seal Campaign

Plans are underway now for the 1959 Easter Seal Campaign to run this year from February 27th through March 29th.

According to Sidney D. Strong, chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee of the Plymouth Rotary Club, which spearheads the drive in Plymouth, 5,000 letters carrying the Easter Seal appeal will be mailed in Plymouth this year.

Strong is assisted by a committee composed of M. L. Kirchoff, Clifford W. Tait, Gail C. Mason, and Edward C. Hough.

The Easter Seal Society of Western Wayne County relies on the distribution of Easter Seals, Local Liberty Parades and Special Events connected with this annual Campaign, always geared to Easter season, for most of its support.

Last year 104 adults and over 350 children in the Western Wayne County area received help from the Society. This includes the payment of fees for diagnostic medical examinations, the purchase or loan of special equipment, counseling, or help with social adjustment through classes, groups, summer Day Camp, or other recreational activities at the Center.

The Center located in Inkster, near Michigan built through special contributions from individuals and groups, but is maintained by

Michigan Bell Introduces 'Call Director'

A streamlined pushbutton business telephone, the "Call Director," was introduced this week according to Mr. William Dunn, Michigan Bell Telephone Company manager.

The new equipment was described as providing inter-office communication, transferring of calls, signaling, conference calling between extensions, and the "adding on" of other extensions to incoming calls, all at the touch of a button.

Clear plastic pushbuttons light up to indicate incoming calls, lines in use, and lines on which calls are being held.

The new instrument is a low, compact button-studded unit with the hand receiver cradled at its side. It was developed for businessmen, and for secretaries or clerks who answer calls for a number of people.

Mr. Dunn stated that the new "Call Director" fills a need that has become more evident in recent years with both large and small businesses having requirements for more than just basic services.

income from the Easter Seal Campaign. The local Easter Seal Society is an affiliate of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. These groups carry on a program of research into the causes and treatment of crippling conditions, as well as public education toward the development of opportunities for the physically handicapped through special education and treatment facilities. Dr. John J. Lee, who heads the Department of Special Education and Rehabilitation at Wayne State University, is president of both the Michigan and National Societies.

Martin L. Kirchoff, Nevada Lovewell and legal advisor William Splimber of the Plymouth area, are active members of the Board of Directors of the Easter Seal Society of Western Wayne County.

Mayflower Hotel Listed In Duncan Hines Book

The Mayflower Hotel has revealed, have been "extensively revised, have new full-color covers, and contain more listings than ever before. This year we increased the total listings by more than a thousand."

He explained that the listings in the books are "authoritative and unbiased" and are based on "thorough inspection by the field inspectors and surveys and analysis by the Institute headquarters staff. No establishment ever pays for a listing."

Roy H. Park, Vice President, Duncan Hines Institute, Ithaca, N. Y., said, "We are happy to give deserving recognition to this establishment by including it in a selected group. This establishment is truly one in 100. For our listings of selected eating establishments represent only 1 per cent of the total in America."

This marks nearly a quarter of a century of publishing "Adventures in Good Eating" (384 pages). The other new Duncan Hines book just out is the companion edition, "Lodging for a Night" (384 pages) which lists 4,500 of the best places to spend the night.

Build An Indoor Barbecue To Entertain Informally

To guarantee that the chef loses none of his skill during winter, the cook-out can be done indoors. This permits the family to enjoy one of their favorite meals or to entertain informally any month of the year.

The chef doesn't have to work outdoors in the cold at his barbecue fireplace. But the portable unit is used so successfully outdoors is not satisfactory for indoor use. A cook-out indoors calls for special arrangements and sometimes special equipment.

Special equipment includes small units for cooking a barbecue meal in the house. These appeared on the market last fall. Most of them provide heat for cooking by means of electricity or small cylinders of bottled gas.

It's the charcoal fire that makes the barbecue as far as most devotees are concerned. And a charcoal unit cannot be used anywhere in a room except in the fireplace. This has the disadvantage for the chef of working at a low level, and this disadvantage is one that is shared by some of the gas units, too.

An outdoor barbecuing unit can be made to work "like a charm" indoors, according to a Long Island couple who solved this problem eight years ago. Steaks from the barbecue in one corner of their dining room in January are as succulent as those cooked outdoors under the maple tree in June.

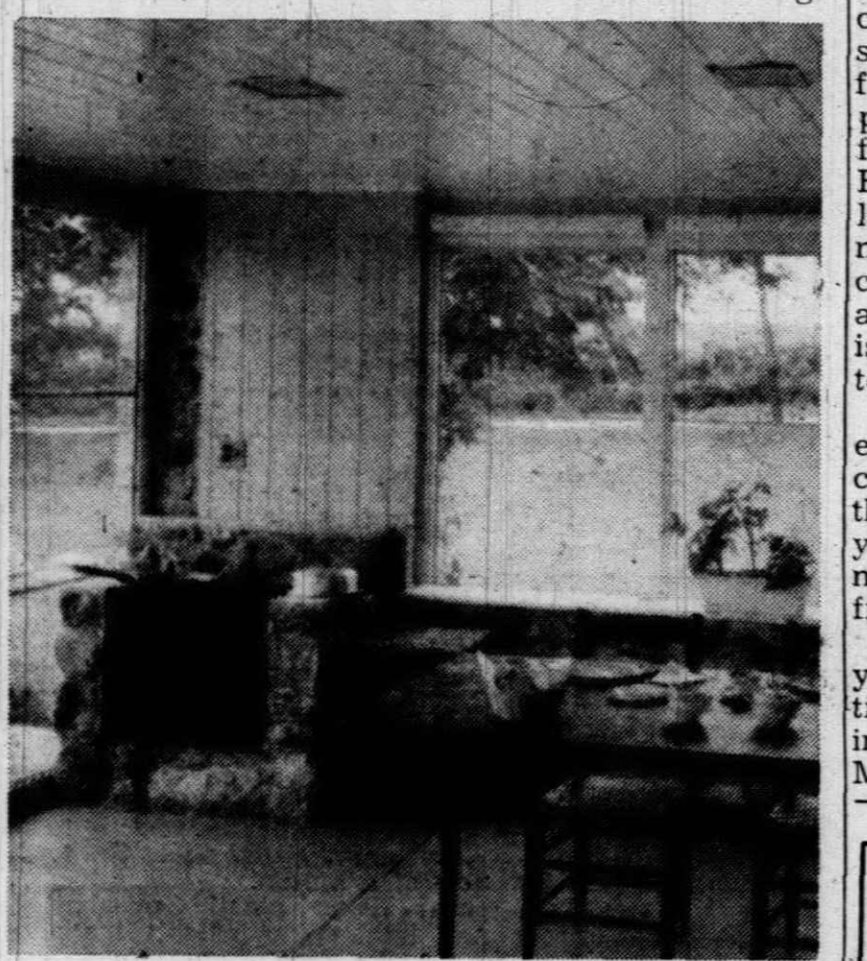

Of course, this couple was lucky in discovering that the chimney was behind one wall of their dining room. It wasn't much work to connect the outdoor cooking unit by means of a length of stovepipe to a flue in the chimney. No smoke in the room, only the tantalizing odors of barbecue cooking.

Having accomplished their hook-up so successfully, this couple proceeded to conceal the outdoor cooking unit. The hook-up necessitated its permanent placement in one corner of the dining room. So, the cooking unit was concealed and made an architectural part of the room by being bricked up on two sides.

The bricks were laid in the simplest pattern. The bricks also provided a working surface and place to lay equipment and warm plates around the grill.

The key to comfortable cooking indoors on a charcoal fire is the pipe connection that will carry off smoke. The location of the chimney will determine where such a unit can be installed and how much work it will be to do so. A short and tight connection is preferable.

It isn't making the charcoal fire that is the trick. The one that is built right will be down to coals for cooking 10 to 15 minutes after it's lit. Then it's ready for the steaks, hamburgers or whichever barbecued dish is the menu for the cold winter evenings.

COOK-OUT INDOORS: A barbecue unit can be built as an indoor fireplace at a convenient height for the chef. Cooking is on the grill; there is no oven.

Lets Plan a Winter Party Barbecue

Well now that you have built your indoor grill, the next thing to do is to have some people in and try it. It might be a good idea not to have 40 in for steak for your first indoor-barbecue (besides who could afford it). What we had in mind were two other couples in for spare-ribs.

If Father built the grill he should have a hand in using it—first get out his big white apron and his asbestos gloves and then he is all set until after the lady of the house has parboiled the ribs for about an hour.

Then, the artist takes over and puts the ribs on the grill, turning them every few minutes, basting them with the succulent sauce that also has been previously prepared by the Mrs.

- Barbecue Basting Sauce
- 1/2 cup of catsup
 - 1-3 cup of Chili Sauce
 - 3 dashes of Tabasco Sauce
 - 1 cup water
 - 1/4 cup vinegar
 - 1 t. sugar
 - 1 t. salt
 - 1 t. celery seed

Combine all ingredients, bring to a boil, and simmer for 30 minutes.

Since Father will be so busy with the main event, the lady of the house will find time, I'm sure, to set the table with checkered cloth and bright candles, make a tossed salad with chi-chi, beans (don't forget the dash of garlic salt), wrap a half dozen baking sized potatoes in foil to lay on the coals an hour before serving time, whip up a little sour cream with chives or little green onion tops finely chopped, and put on the table for the skinny people to put on their baked potato (salt free butter for we fat ones) partially slice a long, fat loaf of French Bread, butter it, and wrap it in foil for a last minute warm up on the grill, and of course make a tart lemon sauce for that little bit of fruit cake that was left from the holidays that we might as well indulge ourselves in (after all Christmas is a long time away and we have been really trying to cut down on the calories.)

The above mentioned little tasks and what Father is doing with such great skill should just about come out even and you both greet your guests with that heavenly barbecue aroma in the air—you in your pretty frock (because Father has been doing most of the work) and he in the apron all flushed from cooking!

HI-FI
By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press International

Japanese components are making a small dent in the American high fidelity market. The word from Japan is that they are making a big dent among American servicemen over there.

Ronald G. Robertson, who runs several hobby shops in the Tokyo area around Fuchu Air Station, reports selling about $40,000 worth of components a month to U.S. soldiers, sailors and airmen.

Airman First Class Clarence White, who interviewed Robertson and checked the pulse of the high fidelity business in Japan, says Robertson sells American, Japanese, German and British components.

"We interest about 700 Air Force men in hi-fi each month and about five percent put together their own equipment in the evenings in hobby shops," Robertson told White.

"Stereo became popular about six months ago and now about one person in four gets it.

"Most of the speakers we sell are made in Japan, with National, Pioneer and Coral leading. A 12-inch co-axial speaker is a good buy and all speakers are at least a third lower than in the United States.

"Much equipment can be sold for about one-half the U.S. price because of our volume purchases from the factory and exemption from taxes.

The Far East Audio Association, an organization that started at Tachikawa Air Base, Japan, sends all members a monthly letter carrying the latest information on hi-fi and stereo.

Home Owning Families Join Choice Group

Families planning to buy or build a new home this year are joining one of the nation's favored economic groups, a western economist reports.

They will soon learn that homeownership pays cash dividends, says Arthur Prialux, western lumber economist.

The money you pay out in monthly payments, Prialux points out, will go to the credit of the homeowner in increased equity in his home, not to the landlord.

In these days of inflation, Prialux said, homeownership offers the ordinary family its chief protection against the devaluation of the dollar. Home values increase, he observed, as the cost of building goes up. Homes may increase in value as much as 50 percent in the 15 years it takes to pay off the average mortgage, so the home is worth more when it is paid for than when it was bought.

Most other purchases depreciate with years and use.

Prialux said home ownership is increasing rapidly, and a recent survey shows that 81.7 percent of the families in Denver own their own homes—the nation's highest ratio. Of more than twenty large cities surveyed, only Chicago fell below the ratio of 50 percent home ownership.

To maintain highest values in a home, the lumber leader said, ordinary maintenance must be taken care of as required.

Resale values are important when buying a home, he said. Certain styles seem never to go out of date. Wood paneling, for instance, is a popular feature which has a high buyer preference. The more builtins you can pack into obscure corners, the better the potential woman owner likes it. Well designed and well kept kitchens of wood such as Douglas fir or west coast hemlock, are a good selling point.

Tight-fitting storm windows and doors can help reduce the amount of heating fuel consumed during an average winter by 20 percent or more, according to many studies.

Storm sash and doors of ponderosa pine are considered by many home owners to offer the greatest fuel savings because wood does not conduct heat outside as many other materials do.

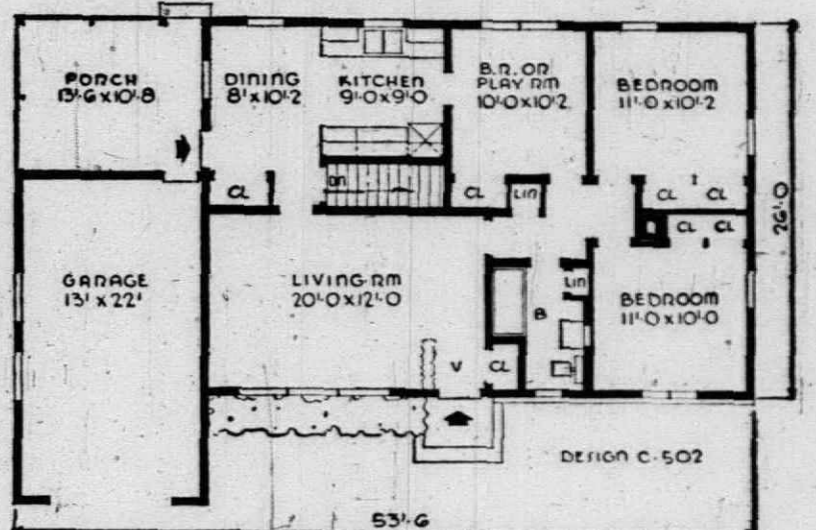

A further advantage of wood storm sash and doors is that wood can be painted to match or harmonize with other exterior colors.

In most parts of the country, a new roof of asphalt shingles can be applied in winter as well as in other seasons, says Andrew C. Lang, author of the book, "Home Repairs."

One advantage of reroofing in winter, says Lang, is that work schedules of roofing contractors are not as heavy in cold weather as they are during the warmer months.

The flowers, fruit and foliage of many a southern shrub can be enjoyed in winter, even if there's no Florida vacation in the offing. Many shrubs that grow in gardens from North Carolina to Kentucky make accommodating house plants in northern homes. They never grow as large indoors, but a hibiscus only 3 feet tall opens a flower after another all winter in a Michigan window. Blue plumbago, rosy camellias, fragrant jasmine, leafy podocarpus, coral berry are a few that add color and interest from the Southland to northern window gardens — and with a minimum of care.

One favorite is hibiscus, of which several rooted cuttings were brought back to Michigan eight years ago. They are now plants about 3 feet tall and almost as wide and are growing in wooden tubs. The hibiscus bloom intermittently both summer and winter, and rest in between seasons. The chief care is pruning every fall so they won't grow too big.

Related to the yew which is sure a popular evergreen for northern gardens, is podocarpus. This handsome evergreen shrub grows 10 feet or more tall in gardens from North Carolina southward and is used much as yew is farther north. Leaves are almost as narrow but longer than those of yew. Plants grow slowly indoors and may be had from 6 inches to 6 feet tall.

Suburban Living

Odds and Ends For The Homemaker

Good As New
Holiday entertaining may have been hard on furniture, especially tables. White spots on wood can be removed without lasting damage. If the wood has a natural finish, get some FFFF pumice powder, lightweight oil and a pad of 3-0 steel wool. Dust the pumice over the spot or ring. Dip the steel wool pad into a lightweight oil (mineral, olive or pure lemon oil), and rub lightly with the grain of the wood. Wipe with a clean, soft cloth. If necessary to remove a spotty appearance, give the same treatment, lightly, over the entire wood surface.

All In The Family
Daffodils and narcissus are one and the same flower, whether it's big or little, yellow or white, has a trumpet or a shallow cup, one blossom or several per stem. Daffodil is the common name and narcissus the botanical name for the flowers that bloom in spring from bulbs planted in fall. In fact, paper-white narcissus start to bloom outdoors in gardens in South Carolina in November when northern gardeners are planting these bulbs in bowls of pebbles and water to flower indoors. The daffodil with a yellow perianth and yellow trumpet, with a white perianth and yellow trumpet, and a white perianth and yellow trumpet or vice versa, pink perianth with white trumpet is a daffodil regardless of color. The jonquil is another member of the large family known as narcissus, and a very distinct branch of the family. A jonquil always has two to several small blossoms on each stem and is sweetly fragrant. Stems and foliage are slender and rush-like. Jonquils do well in southern gardens and some varieties are hardy even in New England.

New Gas Heaters Especially Suitable For Add-On Space

Popularity of add-on projects and conversions to provide additional living space for growing families has helped spur development of a number of new models of gas heaters particularly suitable for such use.

At least four manufacturers now are making gas heaters that are vented directly through a wall — no vent pipe or chimney is necessary. The heater's self-contained vent and its sealed combustion chamber are so designed that air for combustion is not drawn from the room but directly from outdoors. Products of combustion are expelled outdoors by means of an invisible and ingenious built-in duct which projects directly through the wall behind the heater.

Most models do not require electricity but may be had with an optional electric fan for added circulation. Some are power vented and may be placed in windows, much like a room air conditioner, as well as in walls. In all instances, electricity used is ordinary 115-volt house current and no special wiring is needed.

Heating capacity varies from 14,000 to 45,000 BTU input—sometimes two of them will heat a whole house—with prices starting at about $130 and going to several times that amount. Installation often is accomplished in three hours or less.

Also popular in add-on space are recessed wall heaters with conventional venting. The vent pipes are concealed in the wall, and there is no intrusion into living space.

Gas-fueled individual room heaters come in an unusually wide variety of styles and sizes. Each unit generally is selected to heat the particular room or other space in which it will be located, and some offer warmth by both radiation and air circulation.

For information where these space heaters may be purchased in town phone GL 3-5500.

Convenient Measure

The rule that thread should be broken off no longer than an arm's length when a skirt is to be hemmed is a good one for any kind of hand sewing. An arm's length of thread, when placed in the needle, is less likely to knot and then break than a longer piece. It's an efficient length, too, that permits a person to sew faster and become less tired. An added advantage of this length for hemming is that, if a hem is ripped, the tear will stop at the knot.

Unwanted Guests

In spite of their antics and friendliness, squirrels aren't always welcome guests. They'll loosen the husk and eat kernels of sweet corn in apples, eat rose hips and haws when they're ripe, and in winter steal food from the bird feeder. About the only protection against marauding squirrels is a metal band around a fruit tree or any tree from which a bird feeder hangs. Attach a 2-foot wide shiny metal band around the tree 3 or 4 feet above the ground. The feeder attached to a post can be protected with a wide metal disk about a foot below the feeder. These metal guards may prevent squirrels from climbing up trees and posts. How to stop squirrels that jump sideways from branch of one tree to those of another tree is still the problem.

Cleaning Up Toys

Dirty and finger-marked game boards and toys can be kept clean and new looking. First wash and let the toy dry thoroughly. Then, apply one or two thin coats of clear shellac over the toys and game boards. The advantage of this treatment is that dirt and finger marks can be wiped off all toys with a damp cloth, and the finish will stay tough.

Care Before Storage

Lawn mowers, power or hand, must be "conditioned" before storing them away. All mud, grass cuttings and other debris should be removed from blades and other surfaces, otherwise oxidation and eventual rust will chew away the metal.

As a "Happy Homemaker" if you have any suggestions to submit for this column we will pay you $1.00 for every one printed. Send your ideas to this paper marked Att: Odds and Ends for the Homemaker.

Growing almost as exuberantly as the North is leadwort (Plumbago capensis). You see it growing as hedges in Florida, which manage to put out small pale blue flowers even though they are clipped. Plumbago also needs heavy pruning every fall to keep it to house size. It starts to flower in October soon after it's brought indoors, and then again in late February.

Shrimp plant (Beloperone guttata) doesn't grow quite as luxuriantly indoors. But it's a rare week in winter when it doesn't have a terminal cluster of the odd flowers that give rise to its common name. Plants will be leggy and the lower stems bare of leaves by the end of winter. A summer outdoors preceded by a cutting back, encourages fresh, new leafy growth.

Almost as popular in the North as a Christmas gift plant as it is a shrub in Southern gardens is coral berry (ardisia). This shrubby little plant has a single stem with a round head of green leaves. Just under the foliage are thick clusters of scarlet berries. Coral berry makes a wonderful house plant, for it requires a pot not wider than 4 inches and the berries hang on until May or June. Then, just when it's time to move it outdoors for summer, tiny white blossoms appear.

Gardenia produces its fragrant white flowers in spring on shrubs outdoors in the South, and jasmine opens its smaller but equally fragrant white blossoms on a vine. Gardenia is perhaps the most temperamental of these southern plants to grow as a house plant, but many people are successful in making it flower if they are careful about watering and preventing drafts. Jasmine will climb 6 feet or more at a sunny window and produces flowers heavily in the fall, intermittently during winter.

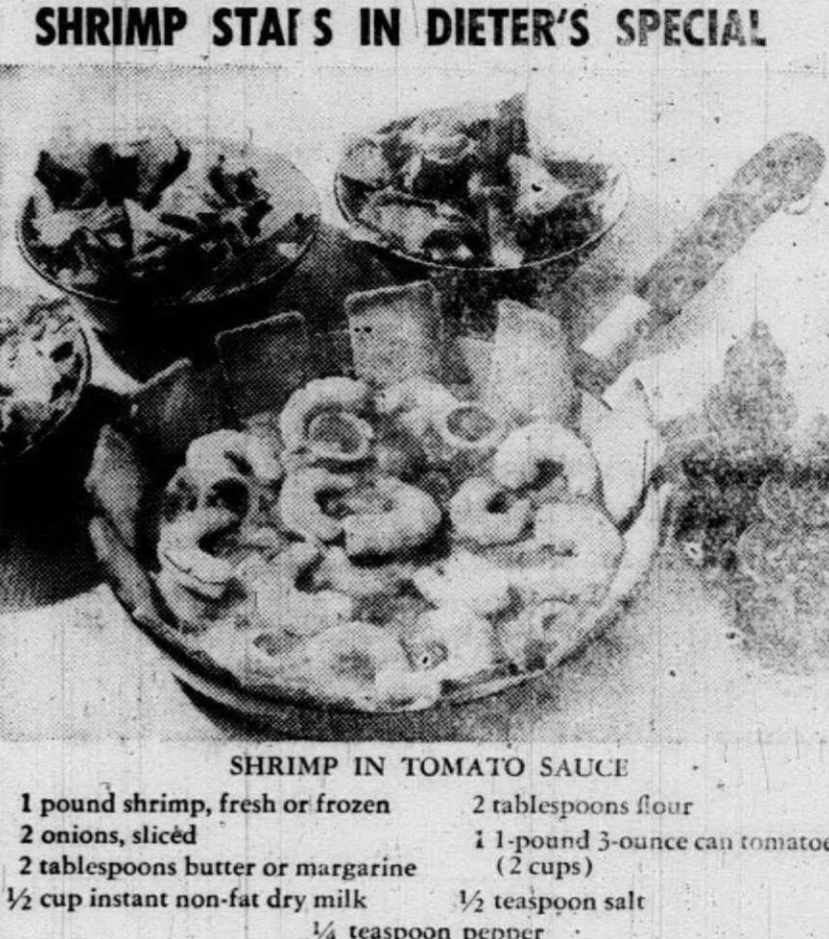

Camellias, most popular of all southern shrubs, can be grown indoors or outdoors in the North. A few of the hardiest varieties bloom outdoors in spring in the North; others bloom on sun porches or in cool, light rooms during winter.

CAMELIAS in the Norfolk, Va., Municipal Gardens reach peak of bloom in March. Farther north, most varieties can be grown indoors as house plants for winter bloom.

PODOCARPUS, another southern evergreen, is an excellent house plant in the North. It, too grows slowly, and doesn't require full sun.

Winter and Spring Fashions

The Empire look has left a ladylike influence on resort sportswear. Sweaters have a jacket look, pants have longer legs, and Empire swimsuits are ultra-feminine. Swimsuit skirts are softer and many are pleated in Grip-Dev, non-wrinkling fabrics.

Fur stills dominate the fur-trimmed coat as 1959's highest fashion competitor. The trend started five years ago, and is expected to last 10 percent of all coats sold in the United States are fur-trimmed in 1959. Fur-trimmed coats are expected to be made of a new material, even in coats have fur, including a water-repellent poplin model with an oversize ruffled collar.

Look for another spring of pale colored shoes. Most important color are expected to be yellow-green, light green, pale yellow and black pinks. Dressy shoes will come in rich blues, mainly in light leather, and white also will be stronger. Silhouettes will be lighter, with fewer sidelines, openings or vertical lines, and lots of straps.

No matter how you dress, you can't hide your throat. The winter blouse, sweater, and jacket with stand-away collars and simple necklines have made neck and face the focal point of fashion. Necklaces go up to the collar, down the chest in tub-fashion. They're big, bold, and chunky, and generally avoid opulence.

Remember the summer that hubby admired last summer? Well, it's back again, this time for women. Millinery has whipped up a variety of skimmers to sport. From the overgarmented bouffant styles to simple, low-cut styles, as many as 1500 styles. Another popular item is fruit, in new and interesting forms.

Evans Bike Vice-President Forsees Good Year Ahead

By George Faurie
 Vice-President of Bicycle, Velocipede Division
 Evans Products Company

The New Year seems to have all the earmarks of being "right"—psychologically and economically—for the bicycle and wheel goods industry.

Psychologically, reports indicate that the American public is beginning to relax after a year of recession jitters and is not only buying more consumer goods but is in a post-recession "playful mood"—that is, purchasing for recreation, for outdoor family fun.

Boat manufacturers—as just one example among many—foresee, generally, a bright year as the public turns from economic worries to outdoor sports and a "new outlook."

Auto sales, of course, are a meaningful barometer of the public's outlook for a New Year. From all indications, it looks like Mom and Dad will be taking the vacation this summer that they may have missed last, and that Junior will have the new bike for a major role in the increasing family trend to "take to the countryside."

Recreation areas—from the mountain resort to the neighborhood park—are preparing for what many are predicting as a record year in outdoor activity as the nation again takes to wheels of all sorts. This involves buying, spending in a public psychological environment conducive to a more healthy bicycle business.

Supporting this all-important "public mood" of more spending and more outdoor fun, our studies have shown, are three important economic factors soundly behind a continued, long-range expansion of the bicycle market:—The continuing population shift to the suburbs for more rural, outdoor life. Bicycles play a traditional, vital role in that way of life.

—The increase, of course, in consumer purchasing power.

—The continuing increase of the bicycle-age population. Regarding this third factor, it might be pointed out that the so-called "baby boom years" of the late 40's are delivering a markedly increasing crop of young prospects reaching "bicycle-age." Our "new market" studies indicate that more than one million children will be added to the "bicycle-age" market this year. Additionally, children are getting on two-wheel bicycles at an earlier age.

And in the "replacement market," the time seems to be ripe, in keeping with the public mood, for a sizeable number of the 24 million bikes on the road at year-end to be replaced this year—as those in the 11-13 age group approach their relaxing parents for one of the bright new space-age models.

Because the public seems to be in "model-change-over-mood" for the New Year, Evans Products Company is redesigning lines to capitalize on this potential. We're coming out with new tank and frame designs, for example, for racier, more streamlined bicycles with more eye-appeal than ever. It's a major re-tooling, and costly. However, it is our opinion that this is one method of keeping ahead of foreign competition.

With the New Year and the "new outlook" about business and family activity in general, eye-appeal should

C&O Discloses Excellent Year

Lower Interest Farm Loan Now Made Available

City workers with a yen for part-time farming now may be able to make their desire a reality with a boost from a Federal Land Bank special home loan program which recently became available in this area, through the National Farm Loan Association.

Families who want to buy a farm or to rehabilitate "farms" as small as one to five acres or more may be able to qualify for low interest rate (5 per cent), long term (20 years or more to pay) mortgages offered under the plan.

Furthermore, income from farming efforts may be added to that from regular, full-time jobs to help home buying families qualify for loans. The maximum loan permitted—no more than 50 per cent of the appraised value of the property—may be a stumbling block to families with little cash, or little equity in an existing home, however.

The part time farm loans are made by national farm loan associations. There are 18 of them in Michigan. They operate under the cooperative land bank system, a federal program which has been used by the nation's full time commercial farmers for 41 years.

The basic requirement for a loan in addition to the usual good credit report, etc., is that the part time farmer make enough money from his crops each year to meet his farm expenses (cost of seed, tools, animal feed, etc.), plus enough to pay all property taxes excepting that portion chargeable to the dwelling. Even money saved by a family in growing its own food can be counted as "income" under the part-time farm loan plan.

The farming operation itself could be a small truck garden, berry patch, orchard, sheep herd, etc., according to Robert Hall, Secretary-Treasurer of the National Farm Loan Association at 2221 Jackson Ave., Ann Arbor which serves Livingston, Washtenaw and Wayne Counties.

A NEW parking lot has been developed on Ann Arbor Trail beside the Pixie Shop. Merchants in the area banded together to develop the free parking space.

To The Editor

Editor: Your write up about the bus service for parochial school children and letter signed Carol Wieland seems to be what was needed to bring this problem before the voters and taxpayers of this area. One fact overlooked so far is that some parochial school pupils live near enough to school to walk to it so that bus service would not be needed for ALL parochial school pupils. Any extra bus purchase therefore would be little indeed, compared to what would be needed should these parochial schools close.

The Rt. Rev. Archie Henry Crowley, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Michigan, will visit St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth this Sunday, Jan. 18, to administer the Apostolic Rite of "The Laying on of Hands" to a large class.
Presenting the class at the 4 p.m. service will be the rector, the Rev. David T. Davies.
Bishop Crowley was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1929 and the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., in 1934. Before entering the latter he taught in public schools in Lynn for two years.
After two years as Curate of Grace Church, Lawrence, Mass., he became Rector of that parish, serving until he came to the Diocese of Michigan in 1949. From that time until his election in 1954 he served as rector of St. James' Church, Grosse Ile.
As Suffragan Bishop his responsibilities include the Department of Christian Education, Department of Christian Social Relations, College Work, Laymen's Work, Diocesan Camps and Conferences and the Marriage Commission of Advice to the Bishop.

Plymouthite's Father Holds Title Of 'Watchdog' of Capitol Hill

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The subject of this United Press International feature story received by The Mail is Joseph Campbell, the U.S. Comptroller General. Mr. Campbell is the father of Frederick Campbell, Beck Rd., Plymouth, and makes occasional visits to Plymouth.)

By JOHN A. OLDSMITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Comptroller General Joseph Campbell is a public paradox. He spends money and saves more than he spends.

This year, Campbell, a 58-year-old accountant, will spend about $33 million of the taxpayers' money. By doing so he will recapture perhaps three times that amount for the Treasury.

Campbell heads the General Accounting Office. His agency, functioning as an arm of Congress, is chief auditor for the government's $79-billion-a-year spending budget.

Cast by capital cliché as the Congressional "watchdog" on spending, Campbell belongs to the breed which muzzles the bark, the better to apply the bite.

From a shiny modern headquarters building here, Campbell directs the activities of some 5,300 GAO employees. He runs 18 field offices in the United States plus offices in Paris, London, Frankfurt, Rome, Madrid and Tokyo.

Accountants and investigators from those offices ride herd on the expenditures of most government agencies. Only a few, such as the super-secret Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Reserve System—other wise audited—close their doors to Campbell's men.

But Campbell, watchdogging in Washington where few hesitate to blow their own horns, makes little noise. His agency has no press officers and no newsroom. He shuns interviews and makes few public speeches.

When his accountants put the bite on a defense contractor for a refund—or take the hide off a government official for an administrative lapse—some congressional committee usually discloses Campbell's findings and steals the GAO's thunder.

That suits Campbell. He believes that his agency speaks best to the Congress and the agencies through its carefully detailed reports which are prepared at the rate of several hundred a year.

Appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for a single 15-year term, the comptroller general can only be removed from his $22,500-a-year post by congressional action. Thus insulated from the partisan pressures which beset other public officials, Campbell can well afford to issue his reports and let the chips fall where they may.

Generally the views of the GAO are much respected throughout government—even when those views are highly critical. Traditionally, GAO auditors give first priority to getting mistakes adjusted, preferring correction to criticism.

Campbell and his aides are sometimes criticized, however, for pushing their audit inquiries into policy questions. The Air Force, for example, recently refused to give the GAO a full copy of an inspector general's report criticizing missile activities on grounds that such action would be against the nation's best interests.

The history of the GAO offers some insight into its current role in government and its attitude toward such disputes. Although the government has had an auditing agency almost from its creation, the present General Accounting Office was not established until 1921. For years it stressed paper audits in which its Washington accountants were satisfied to make sure that each expenditure was supported by a proper voucher.

With the advent of multi-billion-dollar budgets, however, the emphasis has changed. Since about 1950 the stress has been on audits conducted "on the site" where auditors can go behind the paperwork. The stupid as well as the corrupt have come increasingly under GAO scrutiny.

So, while the GAO claims no policy making authority—for example—in deciding whether to send U.S. military aid to tropical nation X, it would thoroughly air the "policy" behind any shipment of Arctic boots to troops who might be stationed there. Just how much money is saved by GAO operations is hard to estimate. The agency's own collections run to about $52 million annually but they are primarily refunds claimed on transportation.

He had decided to leave the commission to return to Columbia late in 1954 when Eisenhower named him comptroller general to succeed the much respected Lindsay C. Warren, a former North Carolina Congressman.

Because Campbell had not had legislative or legal experience and because he had voted, as an Atomic Energy Commissioner, for the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract, some Democrats opposed his appointment to head the GAO.

One of the leaders of the unsuccessful Democratic drive against the appointment—Sen. Albert Gord (D-Tenn.)—has since stated publicly that he now believes his opposition to the appointment was ill-advised.

The steel industry in the U.S. reinvited 54 per cent of its nearly seven billion dollars in total earnings between 1950 and 1957.

Dun & Bradstreet Polls 264 Local Businessmen for Book

J. H. McDonald, District Manager of the Detroit office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., announced today that 264 businessmen in Plymouth are receiving requests for financial statements during the first week in January.

This mail-out is an annual practice of Dun & Bradstreet. Nearly 3,000,000 requests will be mailed to retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers throughout the country.

The 264 Plymouth businessmen to whom the statement requests are directed are all listed in the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book. Reference Book, incidentally, lists only manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops and stock and real estate brokers.

It is published every sixty days to keep listings current. During the past sixty days, nearly 70,000 new names were added and many names were removed. Credit ratings were changed during this period on more than 110,000 business concerns.

As one phase in revising credit ratings and keeping them up-to-date every year the credit reporting agency writes to all businesses who are listed in the Reference Book to request their balance sheets. Mr. McDonald says that this letter speeds up the flow and processing of some of the facts on which credit ratings are based. "More than 95 per cent of all commercial transactions in the U.S. are made on credit terms," he added. "The purpose of the Reference Book is to help businessmen in any part of the country make prompt and accurate credit decisions to ship or sell to businessmen in any other parts of the country."

The credit rating is one of the key factors in approving orders to ship or sell. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or tangible net worth of the business. The second symbol is a number. It reflects a composite appraisal of the background, operations, financial stability and payment record.

Each Reference Book listing, which includes the rating, is a condensed summary of the information contained in the Dun & Bradstreet credit report. The report includes a history of the business (who owns it, who runs it, and how long it has been operating); a description of what the business does and how it does it; a financial section which usually includes the latest financial statement; and a record of how the concern pays its bills.

While credit reports are primarily used by businessmen who want to evaluate the credit risk before shipping or selling, insurance underwriters also use credit reports to review risks, rates and coverage for fire and other types of insurance.

The Reader Speaks Up

Editor: their education reduce the tax burden of the taxpayer. Most arguments have ignored one side to argue the other. But both must be considered.

For the following reasons I feel one should take some middle course between the two extremes.

In the first place, to refuse to offer bus transportation may be construed as an unfair burden upon the parents of parochial students. This leads to Constitutional questions concerning legal interpretations of the separation doctrine as well as to the question of the right of parochial schools to exist. With due respect to your fine readers, these questions are too deep for every person to give thorough study.

Nor are they important. In general, the national government is not nearly as responsible to the individual as the local government. The national government, in deciding difficult issues may be forced to sacrifice undivided welfare for the common welfare.

Local government however, is responsible for the welfare of the individual within the limits of the decisions of the national government. We are within these limits. The Supreme Court in the Everson case upheld bus transportation for parochial students in a close 5 to 4 decision. As a result, we may allow our great principle of separation to be somewhat blighted and thrust into the background in favor of consideration for your next door neighbor or for a friend across the street.

This means that bus transportation should be offered to parochial students to repay their parents for reducing the taxpayer burden. But this also means that religious texts should not be offered.

I hope these considerations may assist your readers in making their decisions.

Yours truly,
James Gibson

Notice Of Registration Biennial Spring Primary Election City of Plymouth, Michigan

Notice is hereby given that registrations of qualified electors for the Biennial Spring Primary Election to be held Monday, February 16, 1959, will be taken at the office of the City Clerk Monday through Thursday from 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., and on Friday from 8:00 A.M. to 8:30 P.M. up to and including Monday, January 19, 1959, to receive registrations and after said hour, no further registrations will be received for the February 16, 1959 Biennial Spring Primary Election. Publication of this notice is required by State Law which provides that no Clerk shall register any person during the 30 day period preceding any election.

Qualified Electors who are now properly registered with the City Clerk will not have to re-register.

Kenneth E. Way, City Clerk

Editor: As a willing taxpayer for schools I have this to say, I would gladly pay for all children to attend the public schools. In a democracy this is the way it should be. If people do not wish to use this privilege which is offered to them, then in my opinion they must assume the obligation of all expenses.

Yours truly,
R. L. Dougherty

Editor: Allow me to congratulate you on your recent Editorial concerning the use of public buses for private schools, and for printing the rabid letters of the persecuted minority.

As you stated very plainly, nothing is being denied them. The public schools are open to all. We can't expect the state to pay our expenses when we send our children to private schools of any sort, whether they be grade schools or college. But as usual, while we argue, the innocent suffer. Perhaps instead of sending the buses back to the garage after their runs they could take the others to school on a pay-as-you-go basis. I don't know if this would be legal but it would certainly make it a lot easier on the kids.

Again, let me congratulate you, and whatever you do, don't go soft on your Editorials.

Yours truly,
Charles E. Childs

Editor: I have a copy of the December 25th paper with the article on aid to parochial schools. Very few editors have the courage to tell the people the truth about this dangerous condition, rather they fawn on the principals who perpetrate these schemes; witness the late frantic efforts by the News and Free Press to cover every detail of the elevation

MRS. JOHN Lamb and Ellen look on as Mr. Lamb and Wendell Lent fold a top coat to place in the box of clothes in front of Laurel, age five. The Lamb family plans to return to Argentina by boat. Their son John was visiting friends when the picture was taken.

Former Residents Living In Argentina Return for Shopping

By Lee Sechler

It's a long way from Cordoba, Argentina to Main Street in Plymouth, but the Lamb family was here Friday night to do some shopping.

The Lambs, who used to live at 1300 Hartsough Ave., moved to Argentina three years and three months ago when Kaiser Motors asked Mr. Lamb if he would like to transfer to the operations there. Before the move, John was at Willow Run.

John and his wife weighed moving carefully. They had their home and friends here. On the other hand John had lived in Panama for ten years - age six to sixteen - and for the children to experience living in a new land and to learn a new language first hand would be a luxury not many children are allowed.

They arrived in Argentina on September 25th, 1955, fifteen days after the second revolution in that country. Many times their car was stopped and bare bayonets were thrust through the open car windows followed by demands for an explanation of their late travel on the streets. The marshal law thrown over the country had a seven o'clock curfew to keep people off the streets.

Cordoba is a small village and the inhabitants are friendly to our Plymouthites. There is definitely an anti-American feeling, John noted, but they have not experienced it.

The mode of living is a great deal like America 50 years ago, John remarked. Complete with horse drawn carts, with a Model T Ford being a luxury. The climate - they love it.

John is superintendent of trim in the Kaiser plant where they turn out jeeps, station wagons and other Kaiser motor products.

The Ebs and the Mielbecks also live in Cordoba making it more or less Plymouth in Argentina. The Lambs, who receive The Plymouth Mail a month late, pass it on to the other families.

It was hard for Ellen, now 13, to adjust to the school system, at first, but all is well now. In order for a school to be accredited in Argentina, it is mandatory to teach subject in both Spanish and English from the first
