Changes in School Hours Proposed

NEWS BEAT

When the former City charter was approved in 1932, the Commission Chambers at City Hall were designated as the Commission's meeting place. The last charter adopted in 1951 said that the Commission, by resolution, shall designate the time and place of its regular meetings. Not until a few weeks ago did anyone discover that this resolution has never been passed, so last Monday night it became official—the City Commission will hereafter meet in the Commission Chambers.

FIRE RUNS: Twenty-five acres of grass were burned off Friday along the C & O Railroad, west of Sheldon Rd. Township Fire Chief Howard Holmes said that carbon sparks from a locomotive touched off the fire. City firemen were called to an empty house at 550 S. Main where boys playing with matches started the garage fire. Flames were climbing the walls, but damage was slight.

POLICE BEAT: A tape recorder was stolen last Tuesday from the locker of Bruce Hudson, Plymouth High School student, police reported.

THIS IS IT: There are lots of good things to say about spring, but one of the unwelcome things accompanying the season are the grass fires. Both Plymouth City and Township firemen are appealing to residents to watch those trash fires. City firemen made two runs last Saturday alone and Township firemen have had several. They ask residents to stick with trash fires until they burn out and if you plan to burn other material other than household trash, first obtain a permit from the department.

Burglar Seen, But Gets Loot

An early-evening burglar loading up pillowcases of loot from the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Westover on Maple Ave. last Saturday night was caught by surprise when a member of the family returned home—but he has made good his escape so far with at least one sackful of goods.

The Westovers had left home at 6:30 p.m. Their son David, 17, returned at 8:10 to take the dog for a walk.

Entering the front door, Dave noticed several items lying inside the entrance and then saw a slender-built man reach over for several pillowcases full of loot.

"What are you doing here?" Dave demanded. But the burglar ran out the door to his car. The car sped down Maple toward downtown.

Police said that the intruder evidently had taken his time to go through the house. Nearly every room was ransacked. Clothes had been pulled from closets, drawers pulled out and cabinets gone through.

Missing were a ring worth $100, a rifle, watch, suitcase, electric razor, a coin collection, $70 in American currency and $19 in silver dollars. Sacked up but left behind were such things as silver service, rifle, shot-

Elementary and secondary children in the Plymouth Community School District will be starting and dismissed from classes an hour apart starting next fall, should a proposal before the Board of Education be approved.

The recommendation calls for starting elementary children at 9 a.m. and dismissing them at 4 p.m. Students in Junior and Senior High would start at 8 a.m. and be dismissed at 3 p.m.

At present, all students start at 8:30 a.m. and are dismissed at various times between 3 and 3:30 in the elementary level and at 3:30 at the Junior and Senior Highs.

Supt. of Schools Russell Isbister said that the recommendation has not yet been approved by the Board of Education, but that the Board appears to be in accord with the proposal.

One of the major advantages to the staggered times, the superintendent said, is the utilization of transportation. With bus transportation becoming more costly each year, the staggered hours would offer more efficient use of the system, he added.

Secondary pupils would be picked up in the morning first and after delivered to their schools, the buses would return to pick up elementary children. Separate runs would also be made after school. This would ease the rush of transporting all of the "bused" pupils at the same time.

At the High School level, the earlier dismissal time would mean that boys involved in athletics would do their practicing after school. Now, they use the last period for athletics.

It is also proposed to add some after-school courses at the High School which students may take on an optional basis. "This would offer a wider use of facilities," the superintendent declared. This would be a situation (Continued on Page 14)

Final Member Of Burglary Ring Arrested

All five men originally named as being allegedly involved in a long series of school burglaries are now in custody and are bound over to circuit court, the Wayne County Road Patrol reported.

James Carter, 32, of 921 Sutherland, was picked up by Road Patrol detectives at Crown Point, Ind. He waived extradition. Appearing before Justice of the Peace Ralph Foote in Canton Township, Carter pleaded guilty, waived examination and posted $1,500 bond.

Carter had originally been named as one of the five involved in the thefts but he had not been arrested at the time of the others.

The other four are James T. Joyner, 37, of 897 Sutherland; William McCants, 37, of 814 York; Billy Gunn, 18, of 18095 Ridge Rd.; and Roger Moss, 44, of 746 Blunk.

The men were allegedly involved in various combinations, in 26 school safe crackings, including three in Plymouth.

Corner Creates Zoning Problem

City, Township Face Decisions

Planning Commissions of the City and Township, owners of property, real estate men, and a host of neighbors are wrestling with troublesome decisions involving two properties at Sheldon and N. Territorial Roads where a service station is proposed for one corner and apartments the other.

The Township Planning Commission held a public hearing last Wednesday night for the southwest corner upon which a service station would be erected if the zoning were changed. This Commission will not make its decision until next month.

Meanwhile, on the northwest corner, the City Planning Commission held a hearing last Thursday and with a 3-3 tie voted to turn down the zoning change that would allow erection of a $300,000 apartment house project.

It was "standing room only" at the Township's hearing. The Ohio Oil Co. has offered to purchase the corner property from Mrs. Mable Johnston if the zoning can be changed from its present one-family residential to commercial. A year ago the Township Planning Commission turned down the same request.

Most of the meeting hall was filled with neighbors and other interested parties who did not want to see the zoning change. One neighbor's letter, however, supported the change. Planning Commissioners will probably make their decision at their April 19 meeting.

The opposite corner of three acres, located on the Roderick Cassidy property in the City limits, is also of concern to many people. When Planning Commissioners last week voted 3-3 to reject the change, it meant that it could not be brought up for another two years, unless the City Commission asked for reconsideration.

At Monday night's City Commission meeting, Commissioners unanimously voted to have the planners reconsider and a special joint meeting between the two bodies will be held either tonight or Thursday night.

Most City Commissioners declared Monday night that they favored apartments on the land and feared that if someone may fight their way through court to place a commercial building there, one family residence at a located across Sheldon Rd. and north of the proposed apartment site.

Joseph L. Hudson, local real estate man, appeared before the Commission Monday to plead that something be done quick if the project is to be saved. He declared that his client who wants to build the $300,000 project has threatened (Continued on Page 14)

It's Town Hall Night In Plymouth March 28

A chance to meet candidates for Plymouth Township and City offices and ask them questions will be given voters next Wednesday, March 28, when another Town Hall meeting takes place.

Held in the Junior High School starting at 8 p.m., the meeting is sponsored by the Plymouth Community Town Hall Committee.

Chairman Ted Campbell said that candidates for the City Commission, the Township Board and the City's representative to the Board of Supervisors have been invited to appear.

Following a short talk by each candidate, the audience will be given an opportunity to ask questions.

Canton Seeks Water From Plymouth Twp.

A request for the extension of Plymouth Township water service into Canton Township was made last week by Canton's engineer before the Plymouth Township Board.

The meeting also brought about resolutions to condemn a piece of Livonia property for a pumping station, to purchase the Lake Pointe Village water tower and to conduct another dog census this June.

Edward Orr, engineer for Canton Township, made the request for supplying water to Canton Center Rd. buildings. He noted that about 100 homes are in need of water. Wells which presently supply water are inadequate and are presenting a critical health problem, Orr told the Board.

Plymouth Township is just starting expansion of its water system to include most of the eastern half of the Township. One main would go as far west as Canton Center Rd. on Ann Arbor Rd., but would not extend south to the Canton Township border at Joy Rd.

Joseph L. Hudson, local real estate man, appeared before the Commission Monday to plead that something be done quick if the project is to be saved. He declared that his client who wants to build the $300,000 project has threatened (Continued on Page 14)

Or said that Canton would be willing to pay additional pumping costs and the costs of hooking into a Canton line. Canton now has a main extending north from Michigan Ave. on Canton Center but it was halted because of inability to obtain a right-of-way on the long frontage of a farm.

Township Supervisor Roy Lindsay told Orr that the Board could give consideration to the request.

To Condemn Land In other business, a resolution to condemn a quarter-acre of land owned by the Centri-Spray Co. of Schoolcraft Rd., Livonia, was adopted. The Township needs a location in the Schoolcraft-Eckles Rd. area for a booster pumping station for its new water system.

Centri-Spray has refused to give up any of its property, the Board learned, even though it may be just for several years. The property desired is along the C & O Railroad. The resolution adopted last week gives the Township attorney, Earl Demel, the authority to start condemnation proceedings, but Township Clerk Fred L. Miller said this week that condemnation will be avoided, if possible, by trying to locate another site.

Will Buy Tank The 400,000 gallon elevated tank in Lake Pointe Village will officially become property of the Township when current negotiations are completed. The Board agreed to pay the Fred L. Greenspan Building Co. $38,946 for the tank. The tank was built at a cost of around $12,000. At that (Continued on Page 14)

Victims of Fire Now Resettled

Most of the occupants of the apartment house at 900 N. Mill St. that was destroyed by fire March 9 are now sheltered and set up in housekeeping. It was reported this week.

There were around 26 people displaced by the fire that quickly raced through the two-story building.

Immediately swinging into action to help the victims were several social and welfare agencies. The American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, and the Wayne County Department of Social Welfare combined their resources to render aid.

Some of the individuals, who had only a room in the building, were self-sufficient and able to care for themselves immediately. They were supplied a few necessities, such as shaving cream, toothbrushes and clothing.

Other victims needed additional help, to the extent of setting up entire households. The American Red Cross, whose local disaster chairman (Continued on Page 14)

Pros Join Students In Band Show

Professional entertainers will join at least 60 music students for the second annual band show, "Rockets in Rhythm," at the Junior High School this Friday and Saturday.

Special music arrangements and novelties will salute the 49th and 50th states. The Junior High gymnasium was crowded last year when the first annual band show was held.

Ferry Aicini, better known as Rhythm Willie, a five-foot-five bundle of melody and rhythm, will be one of the professional entertainers. Tap dancing and playing his huge electronic harmonica, Willie plays the standard favorites like "Peg of My Heart." He is a former member of the Harmonicis trio and is now a star in his own right.

Dick Fitzgerald, an outstanding baritone vocalist from Detroit, will also be a featured performer. The Junior High Rocket band will play selections from "South Pacific," and Vincent Youman's "Fantasy." The Junior High Choir will offer a salute to Alaska, "Alaska's Flag." Carl Taylor, a faculty member, will narrate the show. Novelties and many musical groups will perform during the two-hour evening entertainment.

Proceeds will be used to purchase instruments and uniforms for the 100-piece Junior High School Band. (Continued on Page 13)

Charter Township Discussed Tonight In Canton Township

A discussion on the advisability of a chartered township will take place tonight (Wednesday) at the Geddes Rd. Hall in Canton Township. Canton electors will vote April 3 whether they want to adopt the charter township form of government.

The meeting, called by Supervisor Louis Stein, will start at 8 p.m. Authorities on the charter township will attend to answer questions and discuss the proposal.

Con-Con In Spotlight

What do you know about Con-Con proposal that will be on the April 3 ballot?

To many voters, the proposal is still vague—but it need not be. A forum that will see debate on both sides of the proposal will be held tonight (Wednesday) at the Junior High starting at 8.

Speaking in behalf of Con-Con will be Robert E. Pickup, executive director of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan. Presenting the opposite view will be former State Treasurer D. Hale Brake.

The public meeting is sponsored by the Plymouth Republican organization, but discussion will be non-partisan. The audience will be invited to ask questions.

Oh, for a Cinnamon Roll and Milk! Student Reports on U-M Band Tour of Russia

Apparently weary, somewhat homesick but having a great time is Larry J. Livingston of Plymouth, one of 94 University of Michigan bandmen touring Russia and other "Iron Curtain" countries under a cultural exchange program of the U. S. Department of State.

Several letters have been received by the Livingstons as Larry keeps a day-by-day account of his travels. The band this week completed a triumphant five-concert stay in Kiev and is moving by train on to Odessa, 15 hours away. "Our meal, eaten at 11:30 p.m. consisted of appetizers of a silver chalice of cherry fruits and juice, some good tough bread, a slice of roast beef, a pickle and chopped cabbage. Vegetable beef broth was delicious. For the main course, there was French fried potatoes, chopped cabbage and steak." Carrots and cabbage are served all the time, Larry later found.

After sleeping until 11 a.m. the next morning, Larry went down to Red Square to have pictures taken for the Associated Press. Rehearsal was at the Sports Palace, a huge gymnasium seating 15,000.

Volunteer moppets will meet at the Bronson Building central parking lot Friday afternoon, March 24, for the first of the two-day Easter Lily Parade for Crippled Children Sale. This year the Lily Sale is in the hands of co-chairmen Blanche Johnson and Hazel Sessions. Hours of the Friday sale will be from 4 to 6 p.m. and Saturday the young people will again be located throughout the downtown section from ten in the morning on.

Plymouth Rotary-Anns was first organized in May of 1948 and the first handicapped sale occurred the following December. The original Easter Lily Sale was born 11 years ago this April. Following this year's two-day sale, the young people will be the guests of the Rotary-Anns for refreshments:

The Mail Attitude

All elections are important, but there is one coming in June for this area which has more portent than any our voters will face in 1960, and possibly for years thereafter.

It is a proposal to establish the machinery and elect a board to plan and build a Community College for the northwest Wayne County area.

Such a college would offer hope and a way for thousands of youngsters growing up hereabouts to obtain training beyond high school.

For many, it would be the only way such training could be obtained.

For local taxpayers, it is the least expensive way to provide it.

It would keep control at the local level, and not in distant Washington and Lansing.

For the State, such colleges offer a solution to a dilemma which is almost hopeless today.

For the Nation, it would be a movement at the grassroots level toward our people "keeping up" with the job of producing as much skilled manpower as our international rivals.

For the local area, it would be a priceless community asset.

As with anything "new," the proposal is receiving cautious analysis from some local residents. After all, it sounds like more "tax expense."

We urge the most cautious, careful, thorough inspection of the idea. Anybody who pauses to think it through will see the value ... will realize the urgency.

The problem (and the need) can be separated into items:

(a). Our high schools today do not provide the technical training for youth to step into a well-paying job in an age when unskilled labor is a glut on the market, when the unemployed ranks are jammed.

(b). Huge numbers of youngsters with academic skills are not continuing to develop them after high school because they do not have the finances to do it.

(c). Other hordes are not going into college because their high school marks weren't high enough. Many of these have aptitude and would develop later if given a chance.

(d). Our big universities have neither time, space, nor money to accommodate any except the very top high school scholars. The big universities are turning to graduate training, research, specialization—as they must. (Forty percent of those on the U. of M. campus today already hold a B.A. degree.)

(e). Adults need and want more education in an age where time hangs on the hands.

(f). Our new suburban area is starved for a major cultural center.

To fail to meet these problems is to sink as a people into the swamp. The price we will pay for ducking responsibility, as a nation and as a community, will be dreadful.

What are the alternatives?

One is to do nothing, feed the unemployed, see our youth wandering the streets, waiting dumbly for "military service," or "to get married." They will be disintegrating. This involves a calculated destruction of our human resources.

Another is "to let the State do it." This means high state taxes, big administration, dollar loss as the funds slip through the bureaucracy pipeline, delay, politics, loss of control.

Then there is "Federal education." It offers the same drawbacks as "State control," further compounded by time and distance.

The local community college is the correct answer for today's problems. It wasn't a generation ago. Today it is sound. This is a different world.

Scores of intelligent, trained citizens in six local school districts have been researching this subject on their own time for months. They recently published a 180 page report of their findings and conclusions. These all are local taxpayers who share your problems and mine.

They have concluded that the community college must be built. They say that in 10 years it would be training 10,000 students at one time—some learning a trade, some in the early years of academic work, some adults.

They say it will cost $7 to $8 million dollars to build.

They say one mill of tax will build it and operate it. This is $5 to $7 a year for a home owner.

The college is financed three ways: (1) by tuition; (2) by State aid; (3) by one mill locally. Each covers about one-third of the total budget. Control stays in local hands.

Many good sites are available in the area. The college would sit on about 150 acres.

The June election won't bring up the subject of millage. It only will ask that a Board of Governors be elected and the project given a formal start. Millage requests would come later.

Please take the time to think the problem through, analyze it with your friends, consider the alternatives, weigh the gains ... and be informed when the time to vote comes on June 12.

A real crisis is involved in this one.

Girl Scout Camping Schedule Announced

The 1961 Girl Scout camping schedule for the Plymouth area was announced today by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. Saturday, March 18, was observed as "Out-of-Doors Day" of National Girl Scout Week across the nation by more than 3 1/2 million scouts and adult leaders.

There will be four established camping sessions of two weeks each for Intermediate and Senior scouts at Cedar Lake, west of Chelsea, from mid-June to mid-August. Day-camping for Brownie and Intermediate scouts will be held at Haggerty and Edward Hines Dr., June 19-23.

There will be a capacity of 200 Brownies and Intermediates at the Day Camp. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with a fee of $2. There will be an overnight for Intermediates on June 22. Mrs. Harger Green, 595 Simpson, is the session registrar.

"Primitive" camping experience will be available to older Intermediate (Pioneer Adventure) and Senior (Senior Sojourn) scouts at the newly-acquired Huron Valley Girl Scout Council campsite on Hogan Road near Howell. Senior scouts are also eligible for a canoe trip on the Au Sable River, an 8-day camping excursion (Gypsy Trip) to the northern Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula, and a two-week camping trip (Heritage Caravan) through Canada, New England and the Adirondacks, including sight-seeing trips to Boston and the United Nations.

Health examinations are necessary for all camp sessions and excursions except day-camp. Medical personnel will be available on call at all camps.

Registration for Cedar Lake camp sessions begins on May 1. Applications postmarked prior to May 1 will be returned. Day-camp registration will start April 1 and will continue to May 1 or until filled. Senior scout programs have varying registration dates.

Cedar Lake sessions are scheduled to begin on June 25 and end on August 18. The cost is $42.50 for each girl for the two-week session. A booklet titled "Let's Go Camping with the Girl Scouts, 1961" contains registration forms along with additional information regarding refunds, health examinations, and certain specialized activities such as Counselor-in-training and Program Aide training. Copies are available through Troop Leaders and at the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council office at 201 N. Washington St., Ypsilanti.

Old Mementoes Recall Good Old Days in Canton

By Esther Sprengel
 GL 3-0184

So hence no news last week's little-did-you-know item, which interested me and amazed me a little is the fact that Canton Township cannot boast of one barber shop, or a barber hereabouts. The ladies, however, fare better than the gentlemen, we do have a beauty shop, owner and proprietor, Mrs. Alphonse Huettner, who resides and operates her beauty shop on Cherry Hill. The shop's services have been until recently only available to my ladies two days a week, but news reaches us that once again, appointments may be had for any day of the week. The Sheldon School PTA will hold its annual family Pot Luck Supper on Wednesday evening, March 22, beginning at 7 p.m. The group will be entertained by the Westside Junior High School band. Also on this evening's program, the members of the PTA will be presented with questionnaires which they will be asked to fill out, to aid their executive board in planning meetings and programs that will interest the parents of the Sheldon School.

Judy McKim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McKim, Jr. was the flower girl at a wedding to Clifford Bellers of Willow Run, on April 8. The miscellaneous shower was given by 10 ladies, members of the Cherry Hill Methodist Church. It seems everyone your reporter contacted was very busy with plans and busily making dainty petite-fours for the 75 expected guests. The beautifully decorated bridal table was centered with an old-fashioned mosaic bouquet of lily of the valley, rose buds and tulips encased in lace. On either side of the bouquet were pink candles with dainty flowers winding from the base of each candle to the top.

An invitation has been extended to one and all to the Easter Breakfast March 29, at 10 a.m., Wednesday at the Cherry Hill Methodist Church. Also invited to join the members at their breakfast are the members of the Sheldon Methodist Church and Denton Methodist Church. Mrs. W. B. Waltire of Inkster, a Methodist pastor's wife and mother of the Cherry Hill's pastor's wife, will give an Easter talk. A free will offering will be taken following the breakfast. March 28 is the date set for the combined meeting of the Ruth, Esther and Faith Circles Mission Night. The speaker will be Mrs. Johnson, a former missionary in India. Reports have it that the members of the Cherry Hill Methodist Church have done a wonderful voluntary job in remodeling the kitchen and painting of the church. The Outlying School's PTA (including Hough, Truesdell, Canton Center and Cherry Hill) will hold their Easter Bake sale on April 1 at the Kroger store in Plymouth. President of the group is Mrs. Shirley Rumberger.

Remember the group of ladies who were getting so much pleasure in making things for the mental patients at the Ypsilanti State Hospital? Well, in speaking with the group, we find that the group has been told that mittens are greatly needed by the 150 children at the hospital, so, no sooner said than done, the ladies started a knitting project on mittens. However, the ladies could use wool for their project. If you have any wool left over from one of your projects or wool you no longer want and would like to contribute, the girls would be ever so grateful. Just call Mrs. George Daubresse, GL 3-3305.

As election day, April 3, draws closer, township residents will have to decide what will be best for the township, as we are now on a Chartered Township Act. Again this week we have a couple more questions and answers. QUESTION: Is a Charter Township required to hold the Annual Meeting? ANSWER: No. However, there may be public hearings on proposed budget. The budget must be available to the public one week before the public hearing. QUESTION: How often does a Charter Township Board meet? ANSWER: The Act requires at least one meeting per calendar month. QUESTION: Will becoming a Charter Township stop annexation? ANSWER: No. Annexation cannot be stopped no matter if you are under a city, village, charter township or regular township form of government.

Mrs. Howard Moyer of Hartford Rd. came across some old papers belonging to members of the family. In looking over the papers, she found a contract dated 1869. It was a contract between a teacher Mary A. Brown and director of Schools D. P. Whitacre. It was a contract for teaching in a local primary school. I don't know when the teachers of our schools signed their contracts, but I'm sure this one wouldn't meet with their approval. The contract Miss Brown signed was for four months commencing on 3rd day of May 1869, for the sum of $3.25 per week. Also in the contract was notes on a program; a tribute to teachers of local schools. A teacher named Edith Sayles taught from 1892 to 1894. The following was noted: It was with fear and trembling that she accepted the offer of the home school after one year's absence from her old schoolmates, many of them larger and nearly as old as she (primary school), for the skeptical predicted trouble. It went on to say that all turned out well and that her pupils were kind and treated her with respect.

A tribute to Henry S. Griffith, 1883 to 1885. It read thus: All his pupils will remember him as the jovial, red-faced yankee (how is that for a description), who believed in taking life easy, so easy, in fact, that he brought a rocking chair to school and often made himself comfortable in it, with his feet on top of the desk during recitations. (I wonder how our students today would take this?) The pupils will remember his frequent and popular exhibitions, largely minstrel shows, and the reading of "Peck's Bad Boy" aloud to the school as a reward for work well done. The notes went on in great length about this teacher even to the fact that his family tree held evidence of his being a direct descendant of some of the pilgrims who came over in the Mayflower, namely Priscilla Mullins and John Alden, made famous by Longfellow's poem. The tribute went on to mention other pupils, names which still are known in these parts and we wonder if they are relatives of our present residents. Other teachers, whose names were mentioned were Mary Tillotson, Clarence Stevens, Kate Grant. From those of you I have the opportunity of speaking with, I find most readers enjoy articles about things happening in the "Good Old Days." Can you add to our column?

Front Row Center

by George Spelvin
Bumped into Bob Wall as he was returning home from a study club meeting. Bob had been the guest of some gals that gather on an evening to discuss various and sundry matters. Bob's subject, as per their request, had been "Famous Playwrights Through The Years."

William Inge, Sean O'Casey, George Bernard Shaw, and Shakespeare met their just deserts as breezy Bob rattled on at great lengths about their plays. Phil Ashton, a fellow drama critic, has pointed out to me that Bob tends to be a bit prolix on matters theatrical at times. Be that as it may, the evening passed swiftly as bouncing Bob darted from play to play reading many a favorite passage for the assembled guests.

Before Bob left my company, I slyly asked him if he had told the fair ladies of this study group about his true favorite. Sheepishly, Bob hung his tousled head and replied in the affirmative.

"George, you know the terrible temptations that man is heir to."

"Aye, Bob, that I do," I replied with a bit of brogue that I had left over from all my St. Patrick's Day celebrating ... a fortnight ago.

"In short, George, I did read to them from my own play."

"Phil Ashton told me that you might do just that," I said cautiously, hoping that Bob would give the sordid details. And true to his profession he launched into a word-by-word analysis as only a frustrated playwright can.

"I read a few lines, well, really a few pages."

"How much, Bob?"

"Well, to be honest, most of the last scene. But George they kept laughing and I didn't have the heart to stop. It would have been too cruel."

"There was little need to continue the colloquy. All too well I knew the rest of the conversation line for line. Old George had heard our local playwright before. His troubles with 'Oh, Nurse', the beguiling title of the comic masterpiece, were as close to me as though they were my own troubles."

One of these days, a brave community group will call Bob and ask him to produce "Oh, Nurse." It's a hilarious story with situations that could happen to anyone. I'm sure we will see it on the boards somewhere before too long. Meanwhile, Bob has gone back to his typewriter and is busy pounding out another hours interpreting his efforts, a friend of Phil's tells me that Bob has deserted the comedy field and has entered the dramatic arena. His next play has a working title of "Mercy Comes in Small Packages."

All we've said this week is a long, rambling introduction to the subject of new plays and that perspiring groups of dedicated folks, the playwrights. At the Vanguard Theater in downtown Detroit there is an example playing nightly called "Easter Song." James Hatch has written the play. Some highly talented people (Jan Koste, Howard Green, Dolores Viola, George Hunter, etc.) spend two hours interpreting his brilliant lines. Mr. Hatch seems to be a cross between Christopher Fry and Eugene O'Neill. Unfortunately, not enough of the humor found in a play by Fry comes easily to Mr. Hatch's pen. His play is somber, the mood fraught with sinister qualities, and the dialogue replete with beautiful imagery.

If "Easter Song" had symbolic overtones, your reporter missed the apparent analogies. My ear was tuned in to the poetical lines. My eyes filled with wonderment as I gazed on the superb settings designed by Robert Williams. This gentleman produces veritable miracles on the jewelbox Vanguard stage. My advice is for all true drama lovers to judge "Easter Song" for yourselves. You'll have a delightful time discussing its many pro's and con's. Call WO 3-3863 for reservations.

The Wayne State University Players continue with the absorbing Norwegian drama, "An Enemy of the People" for the balance of this week at their theater on Woodward Ave. This version of the drama prospered on Broadway a few seasons ago. Arthur Miller did this adaptation of the original version by Ibsen.

"Man and Superman" by G. B. Shaw is playing this weekend at the University of Detroit repertory theater. Here's a chance to drift away from some of the more somber and heavy hearted works of Shaw. It is at his satiric best in this intellectual comedy of manners. Call UN 2-6000 and ask for the University Theater box-office. You'll enjoy the intimate surroundings of the U of D theater on the third floor of the University Library.

Let's look ahead to April for a moment. It's but a few rain squalls away. The Riviera Theater plans to bring in several top stage shows. "Sound of Music" finishes a highly successful run on April 2. On April 3, the one, the only Ethel Merman will fill the spacious Riviera with a sound of music that has been several top stage shows. The past 30 years. Ethel has finally consented to go on the road. "Gypsy" is the musical comedy. And I concur with Mr. Walter Kerr of the New York Herald Tribune ... "It's the Best damn musical ..."

Get your tickets now for this show as it will be at the Riviera for only two weeks. "Beckett" with Sir Laurence Olivier follows "Gypsy." Sir Olivier will stay with us for three weeks. Again we are honored to have one of the top actors of London, Hollywood, New York — well, you name it and he's ace-high — coming to Detroit.

Who said that matters get slightly sleepy in the spring in our local theaters? Stage productions are popping into view with the same rapidity and promise as those "Open signs on the local soft ice cream establishments. Before we know it, Ma and Pa Robin will be moving in from their Southern surroundings.

A last-minute correction: Rock 'n' roll fans were being castigating me severely after a boo-boo that appeared in last week's issue. Seems that I said under a picture of Eddie Howard that he recorded for Dot records. United Artists Records is his company. Also, he appeared through the courtesy of the Ann Arbor radio station WPAG. Now is all forgiven, friends? Good, if you'll just un-hook that pair of earphones that you clamped over your ears last week. I'll hobble off into the sunset and look for my rocking chair.

Watch 'Model Re-siding' Racket, Chamber Warns

Homeowners in this area were warned today by the Chamber of Commerce to be on guard against a vicious scheme that is prevalent today — the "Model Re-siding Job Racket." Although this scheme may victimize homeowners regardless of their circumstances, it is particularly reprehensible, the Chamber stated, because it frequently works a severe hardship on those who can least afford to suffer any financial loss.

They emphasized that although the vast majority of firms engaged in home repair and maintenance work are reputable businessmen, a small, shady element in this field operates one of the costliest, rackets to which the public falls victim.

The promoters of this scheme are itinerants who usually approach a homeowner with the yarn that they are just coming into the neighborhood and would like to use their home as a model to demonstrate to others what a fine home re-siding job they do. They stated that according to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the Chamber is affiliated, these promoters offer $50 or $100 as commission on every subsequent sale made in the area, and a bonus for every customer the victim recommends. The homeowner is led to believe that the cost of the job will thereby be liquidated in short order.

The Chamber reported that victims learn to their sorrow that everyone is given the same sales pitch, the price stipulated generally is higher than the prevailing costs for such work, the work is apt to be sub-standard, oral promises are not kept, and that the commissions and bonuses are a myth. Their obligation to pay, however, is set forth in a signed contract, which contains none of the salesman's misrepresentations.

Perpetrators of this scheme," the Chamber stated, "usually select homes which obviously require re-siding. Since the owners of such homes frequently are lacking in funds, they are obliged to take out loans, or mortgage their homes. Thus, the costs which may run as high as several thousand dollars victimize those who can least afford it."

How to Avoid It: "Homeowners can avoid being victimized on a re-siding job, or on other home repair work," the Chamber concluded, "if they will heed the following guide:

1. Take your time! Don't rush into any important home improvement job.

2. Beware of the salesman who represents at the outset that your home is desired as a 'model' and promises a commission for each sale lead or sale in the area, and who states, or implies, that such commissions will defray substantially all of the cost of the job.

3. Deal only with firms whose dependability and reliability are known to you, or which you have established through intelligent inquiry.

4. Get several estimates from reliable local firms and make sure that you understand exactly what each bid includes and what work is excluded.

5. Get the names of several others in or near your home town who have done business with the contractor selected and find out from them whether their experience was satisfactory or otherwise. Don't rely on written testimonials.

6. Make sure that the salesman you are dealing with represents the company you think he does, and that the firm handles the brand, or brands claimed by the salesman.

7. Read and understand the contract before you sign and keep a copy of it.

8. Make sure that the sales representations made to you are set forth in substance in the contract. If they are not, don't sign it.

9. Wait until the job is in fact complete before signing a completion contract.

10. Understand the specific terms and conditions of any guarantee that is given and be sure that they are incorporated in the contract. Beware of any implication that because a loan is insured by a governmental agency, the agency guarantees material and workmanship."

SOME LEFTOVERS NEW YORK (UPI) — A week after hurricane Donna passed, New York City's Department of Sanitation reported it had picked up 7,000 tons of debris — mostly fallen trees and branches — and was still going.

A NEW HOME for the Passage-Gayde Post of the American Legion became a reality last week when papers were signed to purchase the former Plymouth Wholesale building on Sheldon Rd. The post, which has been meeting at the Veterans Memorial Center, is now making improvements in the building. Shown with the deed are Harry Burleson and Ray Gardner, members of the building purchase committee.

ANGOLA, N. Y. (UPI) — A huge wrought-iron anchor nine feet long, with flukes six feet across, was recovered from 40 feet of water in Lake Erie by three skindivers — one with great imagination. Asked what he would do with the anchor, believed lost about the time of the War of 1812, Albert Greenwood, 19, replied: "Make a lamp out of it, I guess."

Experts Advise: Use Right Form for Income Tax

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a series of four articles presented by The Plymouth Mail. They are based on information provided by the Michigan Assn. of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.)

The Right Form
Millions of dollars are unintentionally "contributed" to the government by American taxpayers each year. These contributions are from people who pay more than their share in taxes simply because they do not take time to find out how much they owe the government.

Taxpayers have a choice between taking a standard deduction or itemizing their deductions, which may result in larger tax savings. All too frequently, some taxpayers pass up the greater tax saving possibilities of itemizing their deductions because the procedure appears complicated.

To help readers gain confidence in preparing their return, and in figuring the tax they must pay, this newspaper is printing a series of articles, prepared with the help of the national and state organizations of Certified Public Accountants.

By following the line-by-line explanations given in the instruction booklet received from the Internal Revenue Service and by noting the general advice contained in this series of articles, most taxpayers will be able to handle Form 1040A, Form 1040W or Form 1040 without a ny need for outside help.

Today's article considers the choice you have between the various individual income tax return forms. If you choose the wrong one, you may automatically cut yourself off from many legitimate tax savings.

The Simplified Card Form
The simple card Form 1040A can be used if your income was less than $10,000, and if your total income included no more than $200 above the amount of wages shown on your W-2 slips. Your name, your address, and a few other facts are all that this card requires.

If you use Form 1040A and the card, you must file either your gross income is less than $10,000, or you have overpaid, or you can have the government do it for you. In any event, the form must be filed with a copy of a W-2 slip from each of your employers.

Before you get too enthusiastic about the simplicity of the card form, consider these facts:

1. Your tax determined by Form 1040A will be figured from a table which allows you a deduction of about 10 percent of your income. This is fine if your allowable deductions for contributions, taxes, interest, medical and dental expenses, and so on, would be less than 10 percent of your income. But if they aren't, watch out! The simple form may cost you a legitimate tax saving.

2. There is no allowance for filing as a "Surviving Spouse," "Head of Household," (which means that you lose the benefit of lower rates) or for claiming special credits for dividends and retirement income.

3. Sick pay can't be excluded if included in total wages on your withholding statement.

Your goal is to pay the right, minimum tax. If you are sure that these points would not cost you any tax savings, and your income is within the limits for filing Form 1040A, you might as well join the millions of other taxpayers who will be using this form on or before April 15.

Form 1040W
For individuals who cannot use Form 1040A because of the income limitation or who wish to itemize their deductions or take advantage of the lower tax rates granted to a "Head of Household," "Surviving Spouse," etc., Form 1040W is available. This form may be used regardless of the amount of income received as salary or wages or the individual's tax status such as a "Head of Household," etc. The only limitation is that income other than wages and salary must be from interest or dividends and must not exceed $200.

Whether to Itemize
If, for one of the reasons outlined, you cannot file Form 1040A, but would still prefer to take a standard deduction, you can do so on Form 1040 or Form 1040W. The standard deduction is $1,000 ($500 for a married person filing a separate return) or 10 percent of your adjusted gross income, whichever is less. If your adjusted gross income is $5,000 or less, you can use the tax table in the instruction booklet to compute your income tax. The tax table automatically allows for the standard deduction.

If you decide to give a second thought to itemizing your deductions, you will find that it is not nearly as complicated as it first appeared. It may be worthwhile to make the extra effort. Perhaps you own real estate, or had unusual medical expenses or deductible child-care expenses. Perhaps you made fairly large contributions, or suffered losses from fire, storm, accident, or theft. You may even have had deductible expenses in connection with your work.

Unless you have a large income or derived your income from many varied sources, chances are you can handle your own tax return with very little effort.

Dependents and Exemptions

Each exemption you can claim is worth between $120 and $546 in federal income tax dollar savings, depending on your income bracket. With this thought in mind, you can look kindly at your five children when they jar you awake tomorrow morning. Because for once every year they are each worth $600 of tax free income on your tax return. Five kids times $600 is $3,000, plus $600 each for you and your wife, amounts to $4,200 of tax free income. If your total income is $4,200, you don't have a dime of tax to pay. You don't have any problems at all—or hardly any.

Children—Married or Single

With so many tax dollars at stake, it is worth emphasizing some points about exemptions that may otherwise be overlooked. For example, if you claim an exemption for a dependent, then that dependent must not file a joint return with someone else. Such a situation could arise if you have a married daughter. Many parents today are finding that it costs them more when their offspring gets married than it does when they are single. Young couples often find it hard to cope with the high cost of living. Your daughter Alice may find it with pride that "George and I are independent now. We don't want any handouts. We'll live in a basement if need be, but we intend to struggle along on whatever we make." All this as she gracefully accepts your $500 check (a washing machine, a refrigerator, washing machine and bedroom set (to get them started), a weekly and so on. The value of these donations of food (left-overs), gifts can be considered in determining whether Alice was supported by you.

If she receives more than half of her support from you, does not have too great an income, and meets the other requirements for a dependent (see instruction booklet), you can continue to claim a dependency exemption for her. However, if you do, then she must not file a joint return with her husband. You would probably talk over the situation with your daughter and son-in-law to find the method of handling which results in the greatest tax saving. Your biggest problem may be convincing your daughter that she is still a "dependent." You may even find that you would be better off to forego the possible tax savings to maintain harmony in the family by preserving your daughter's pride.

If you claim an exemption for a dependent, it does not necessarily follow that the dependent will not file a return. It may be that your 17-year-old son earned himself about $1,200 from odd jobs and summer work, most of which he put in his savings account toward a college education. Since he earned more than $600 he must file a return, and will claim an exemption for himself. He may even get part of any tax withheld back as a refund. However, if you provided more than half of his support, and he met the other requirements for a dependent, you can claim an exemption for him also. If your son had earned less than $600, but had income tax withheld from his income, then he would still file a return in order to get a refund of the tax withheld.

Births and Marriages

Your claim of a dependency exemption for each of your children regardless of when they are born during the year. As long as the children are born before Jan. 1—even one minute before—you can claim them as dependency exemptions for the entire year.

Whether you get married in January, June or December, you can file a joint tax return with your wife as though you were married for the entire year, and can in most cases enjoy a tax-dollar saving from the income splitting benefits of a joint return.

Multiple Support Agreements

If you shared with others in the support of a dependent, but none of you provided more than half of the support, you may still be able to arrange among you for one of the group to have the $600 exemption. You might agree, for example, to take turns in having the exemption from year to year.

The one who claims the exemption must have contributed more than 10 percent of the support, and he must be a member of a group who together provided more than half support. He must also meet the other requirements for claiming a dependency exemption (see instruction booklet).

In order for one of the group to have the exemption, all other members of the group who contributed more than 10 percent must sign declarations that they will not claim the dependent. The Internal Revenue Service provides Form 2120 (Multiple Support Agreement) for this purpose.

The amount of support a person receives is not always in money. For example, say you are claiming your widowed mother as a dependent. She owns the house she lives in, and has a small income from investment.

Green Thumb Course Opens Next Week

A course intended for persons interested in landscaping around their home or developing an attractive flower garden will begin Thursday, March 30, at Plymouth High School.

Called "The Green Thumb," the course is sponsored by the Adult Education and Recreation Department with a special money grant offered by the state. The instructor is Dr. H. L. R. Chapman, professor of botany at Michigan State University.

The course will be practical and useful in character, according to Director Herbert Woolweaver, but it is intended at the same time to widen the participant's horizon of knowledge and appreciation regarding botanical aspects of gardening.

Further information can be secured by calling the Adult Education office at the High School.

Newest Fabrics Found in Fashions

Fabrics reach the "here's what they thought of next" stage in the spring of '61. New yarns, new fabric finishes, new ideas, new fabric insulating materials offer advantages both in beauty and practicality.

Nylon stretch yarns give pliability to an increasingly wide range of fabrics. There are stretch silks, satins, denims, worsteds and laces. Stretch nylon and rayon combine in fabrics with a poplin appearance, "peau" or corded effects.

Pliability of the stretch fabrics, along with firmness for tailoring, appeals to designers, who have developed experimental fashion - applications that they feel will interest American women.

The "laminates" are attracting attention. One such material is a multicellular plastic foam with insulating properties. The foam can be permanently laminated, it is said, to virtually any fabric, and because the foam is an insulator, the fabric with which it is united becomes suitable for outerwear.

The fabric remains drapable and light in weight, and the insulation results in garments that are comfortable in both cool and warmer weather.

Still another new development is a fabric finish that is said to make fabrics "as waterproof as rubber," yet the fabric keeps the ability to "breathe."

New synthetic yarns are used in a variety of fabrics. Improvements are all in the direction of higher fabric quality, more interesting appearance and wash-and-wear dependability.

Two factors place the emphasis on light weight in spring woolsens and worsteds, and an increasing use of silks, cottons and blends. One is travel. The same clothing must be comfortable in widely differing climates.

The other factor is the early Easter, with an accompanying interest in spring apparel that can start early and continue after Easter.

Tweeds, open weaves, knit and crochet effects create an airy impression. The liking for ribbed effects continues, with twills and ottomans. There's a new softer look to many worsteds, achieved by the addition of mohair loops.

Knits take an important place. They're practical for travel, and beautiful for spring's plant silhouettes.

As a quality fabric with an any-climate character, silk receives much attention from designers. Both smooth sophistication and rustic textured effects are noted in the new silks.

Among the many cottons and blends, an old favorite bids for a comeback. See a sweater - probably the original "wash and wear" fabric - seems headed for renewed popularity.

There's Foreign Intrigue in Men's Raincoats

To satisfy the ever growing demand of American men for raincoats, more manufacturers are turning to foreign countries for design ideas as well as new sources of supply.

As a result, there is a greater variety in design. American producers also are offering new models in colored and patterned fabrics, giving these utility garments new importance.

Raincoats probably will gain favor again this spring at the expense of topcoats.

One reason being that the rainwear weighs less than other coats. The range of colors, fabrics, and styling is such that many of the new raincoats can double as dressy garments in any weather. The repellent coats include muted plaids and India madras effects.

Science boosts the appeal of today's rainwear to make it extra special for a man's busy life. New finishes such as "Scotchgard" repel water, oil and a wide variety of stains from fabrics.

Wash and wear qualities, topcoat styling, removable linings and more color are all rainwear dividends this season.

Lilac Leads Color Parade For Missie and Moppets

An early Easter sets the pace for spring for young misses with a fashion parade of pretty pastels, led by the season's favorite, lilac. Other new pastels on the scene this spring have more tang and more intensity than their conventional counterparts.

The warm undertones in pastels such as orange ice, lettuce green, banana, strawberry pink and aqua mist, add new dimensions to spring's annual rainbow display of pale shades.

Whether our miss is six or twelve, her dresses are as femininely bouffant as ever with many of them now accompanied by jackets, a reflection of the current trend in women's fashions. Pastel ensembles, gay checked or neat gray suits are also making a strong bid for fashion attention.

Coats with matching bags and hats will be seen in the Easter parade of new spring styles. Again, lilac is very popular for coats, and fabrics range from colorful, breezy wools through most of the many blends.

To accessorize her new spring outfit, her Easter bonnet in straws especially, feature the wide brimmed look, neat roller styling and, of course, the always - popular head-tugging styles.

New in little girls' bags is "marshmallow," a soft foam-backed plastic. Straw bags are gaily decorated with flowers, fruits and ribbons, while black and white patents continue as spring accessory favorites.

Of particular interest is the cleverly detailed, young-mood smock look of animated dress, coat and sportswear fashions for the tiny little miss.

New Easter pins, pendants and charm bracelets feature cute little bunnies, chicks and other animals.

Little sister pairs up with little brother in matching outfits for spring "togetherness" and she's also copy-cutting older sister with butcher boy and crop-topped long pants and pedal pushers. The French smock look has carried over into her playwear, with cobbler-topped long pants. Pique continues as the tried-and-true fabric leader for tiny fashions.

Just for Fun

The playwear world of girls up to subteens is bright with "mad, mad, mad" prints and hotter-than-hot colors in new leisure-wear fashions and culottes (these are seen in both dress and skirt styles), plus standard playtime wear.

Textured and patterned knits, woven plaids and other cottons are all making a big splash in bathing suits and all have a very feminine look about them, with ruffles and pleats, trimming of laces and eyelets. Single piece suits are seen most, with baby bikinis and three-quarter styles available for the more "daring" of the young fun set.

Color interest in bathing suits is centered on gold and lavender... while still very much in the picture, are the brighter hues and the new, off-color, exciting pastels.

Among the many cottons and blends, an old favorite bids for a comeback. See a sweater - probably the original "wash and wear" fabric - seems headed for renewed popularity.

Suit Skirts, Jacket Lines Meet Demand

New generous coat shapes make room for suits beneath, and so increase the importance of a new suit for the spring wardrobe. Suit styles, and especially the many colors, meet the demand beautifully.

Silhouettes show news and variety. Jackets are fashionable in every length from bolero to tunic. Shorter ones are interesting because they reveal the gathered waistlines of newly eased skirts. Gores, pleats, bias cuts assist in the trend to more skirt fullness.

Jackets Vary

Jacket shapes offer a choice ranging from relaxed cardigan and boxy styles to tightly fitted, with back blousing. Necklines follow the little-or-no collar trend. Draped or scarf necklines and away-from-the-neck collars also are notable.

The longer, easier jackets are often belted in leather or loosely sashed in self fabric.

The varied suit styles all emphasize figure flattery and wearability. The big accent is on color, with vivid strawberry pink leading the way. Designers see these bright suits as especially effective under light or dark coats.

Fabrics are Airy

Boldly patterned tweeds, big checks and plaids appear.

As for fabrics, they have been selected with a view to making suits comfortable for wear either under coats or in warmer weather. There are many silks, and woolsens tend to airy, meshy textures and light weights.

Ribbed fabrics, such as ottoman in wool or crisp cotton, continue important, and knits are a special favorite, liked by designers for their adaptability to supple silhouettes.

Since color is rampant, decorative detail has been kept to a minimum. Yoke seams and excitingly-shaped large buttons are two important accents for simple silhouettes.

Separates Help Wives Dress Up Homes Too

"Go-togethers" are favorites of the American woman for her own wardrobe, and now she is finding the same idea increasingly helpful in dressing her home.

Manufacturers get together to provide drapery fabrics and wallpapers designed to mix and match just as those indispensable sweaters and blouses, skirts and pants do. Even carpeting and other floor coverings are part of the pre-planning.

This season the idea is carried into upholstery fabrics. Several patterns and textures are offered in coordinated colors, plus appropriate accent colors. For instance, there are striped fabrics accompanied by coordinated plains, to match the stripes.

These home fashion go-togethers show a lively interest in color, with elegance favored in patterns from dramatic abstracts to authentic early American designs. Upholstery fabrics, soft and luxurious, are often enhanced by quilting and embroidery.

A.A.U.W. to Sponsor Fall Lecture Series

The "Plymouth Listening Post" will be a new addition to the cultural attractions of the Plymouth-Northville-Livonia area next fall, when a lecture series sponsored by the local branch of the American Association of University Women opens in the Plymouth High School Auditorium.

Designed to appeal to both men and women and to older students, the "Listening Post" will offer a program of three or possibly four outstanding speakers or artists in various fields. The program committee is discussing dates with speakers now under consideration in the areas of the arts and music, foreign affairs, space exploration, atomic energy and similar subjects of current interest.

While active planning is now under way to obtain a varied and stimulating program for the coming year, Mrs. John W. Moehle, planning committee chairman, announced that sale of season tickets, at a nominal price for the series, would begin in the late summer. She presented the committee's recommendations to the branch meeting Thursday evening, March 16, when the group voted to initiate the series.

The Plymouth-Northville Branch of the A.A.U.W. is undertaking the "Listening Post" series as a contribution to the cultural life of the community, an objective which is in keeping with the purposes of the A.A.U.W. organization.

Members of the planning committee include: Mrs. John H. Haas, Mrs. W. V. Clarke, Mrs. J. M. Hopkins, Mrs. Richard N. Fritz, Mrs. W. V. Robertson, Mrs. Howard Raafaub, Mrs. D. H. Sutherland, Mrs. L. T. Scharman, Mrs. R. E. Houston, Mrs. W. Secord, branch president and ex-officio member, Mrs. Kenneth L. Hulsing and Miss Betty Demorest.

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES of the late Edward C. Hough attended a ceremony last Friday afternoon at Dunning-Hough Library where an oil portrait of the benefactor was unveiled. Wayne County Librarian Walter Kaiser, left, facing camera, and Mrs. Agnes Pauline, Plymouth librarian, took part in the ceremony. Mrs. Bessie Dunning and daughter, Miss Margaret Dunning, donated the original library building and site. The Edward Hough and Mary Hough Kimble Foundation later provided the colonial addition and much of the interior furnishings.

Sally Williams Soloist in N. Y. Vesper Concert

Sally Williams of Plymouth was soloist for the Vesper Concert at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, in New York, Sunday, March 19.

Miss Williams is part of the 30 member choir from Chatham College in Pittsburgh that sang excerpts from Scarlatti's "Stabat Mater" under the leadership of Mr. Lorenzo Malfatti of the college's music department.

Chatham College, the fourth oldest woman's college in the United States, has been described by national educational experts as having one of the finest liberal arts courses in the country.

Shades of Cicero's Orations! The Local Forensic Contests (the word forensic coming from the Latin word meaning "of the forum") were held on Thursday afternoon and Friday morning in the auditorium last week. Actually though, there was more than a just speechmaking, as the list of categories and their respective winners shows.

Capturing top place in Original Oratory was Judy Paslaski, with Doug James taking second place and Marilyn Finley coming in third. Paul Rawley was first in Interpretive Reading, while Adelaide McCabe and Jane Vallier took second and third places respectively. Winner of first place in Declamation was Nadine Criger, who was followed up by Robin Toll in second place.

First, second and third place winners of the Ex-tempore Speaking category were Paul Malboeuf, John Wimsatt and Jim Yost, respectively. And, providing the judges with a bit of laughter were Bob Evans, Linda Wall and Bonnie Szakaly, who took first, second, and third places in the Humorous Reading, in that order.

The judges, by the way, were Miss Louise Spence, English teacher, Mr. Robert Southgate, guidance counselor and English teacher, and Mr. Thiede, a student teacher from Eastern Michigan University. The first place winners are now anticipating the District Forensics, to be held at Allen Park this Friday, where they have a chance for further accomplishments. Best of luck to them!

A number of PHSers are presently polishing up their acts for the big Talent Assembly that has been announced for the morning of March 29. During the 50-minute period these students will put their various gifts to work to entertain the entire school and provide a pleasant break in the routine of studies. Assembly chairman Ann West says that a satisfactory program has already been worked out and that things are progressing smoothly.

Two delegations of students of the International Relations class journeyed to the Model United Nations Assembly at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, last Friday and Saturday to represent the countries of Cuba and Mali Federation. Long weeks of studying the UN, world events, and rules of procedure paid off, and the Plymouthites, who arrived home Saturday evening, having spent Friday night in Hillsdale, said that they had a very rewarding and worthwhile experience.

Gary Mirto was chairman of the Cuban delegation, which, true to form, walked out of committee on a procedural matter. One of the "Cubans," Dee Wernette, added color to the General Assembly with his fiery speech, given in Spanish with the use of an interpreter. The Mali Delegation was headed by Gerry Fischer.

A feather in Plymouth's cap was the election by the General Assembly of Paul Malboeuf as chairman of the Special Political Committee.

Other class members traveling to MUNA were: Ann West, Norbert Voss and Edith Ellison, as members of the Cuban group, and Suanne Smith, Martha West and Janet Mackie as part of the Mali delegation.

That same Saturday Paul Rawley, Shiela Lorenz, Rosemary Kubick, and Sue Utter went to the University of Detroit for a preliminary conference in preparation for the International Relations class' participation in the UN Assembly of that university.

now president of Daisy Manufacturing. Mayor Harold Guenther, left, and Librarian Mrs. Agnes Pauline, also took part in the ceremony.

Edward Hough Portrait Unveiled at Library

By JEAN CAMPAU

With the unveiling ceremonies of the Edward C. Hough portrait last Friday afternoon in the Dunning-Hough Library, the circle has closed on the succession of events leading to the construction and completion of Plymouth's library.

It all started with the donation of the property by Bessie and Margaret Dunning in 1945 to the City and was followed by the offer in 1957 of the Edward C. Hough and Mary Hough Kimble Foundation to provide funds necessary for the erection of the front section of the library.

Formal dedication of the handsome colonial building took place a year later, on March 2, 1958, with Edward Hough officially presenting the library to Mayor Harold Guenther who accepted it for the city.

On the anniversary of his 88th St. Patrick's Day birthday last Friday, the philanthropist's portrait was given to the City on the family's behalf by Cass Hough. His sisters, Mrs. Athalia Archibald, who lives in Connecticut, attended the ceremony; Mrs. Corette Jennings of Savannah, Ga., was absent because of illness.

In her welcoming remarks, Mrs. Agnes Pauline, chief librarian, spoke of the kind and gentle man she remembered Edward C. Hough to be. Walter Kaiser, Wayne County Librarian, recalled the pleasure of his relationship with the man who was responsible for final development of the Dunning-Hough Library.

To the small group of family and friends of the late Mr. Hough, Mayor Guenther in his acceptance of the portrait for the City said, "It seems unjust that a man's work, accomplishments and contributions come to light posthumously. Though Edward Hough was a man of modesty and humility his true stature shone through."

The portrait itself was the work of a Chicago artist, Joseph Alworth, done from photographs and word pictures given him by the Hough family. "My father," said Cass Hough, "had a rather austere facade and I am delighted that the artist was able to bring out his innate warmth."

A similar ceremony took place earlier the same day at Cleary College in Ypsilanti where the Plymouth philanthropist had made contributions.

During his lifetime, his generosity was felt in many quarters. Through the Hough-Kimble Foundation grants have been given to the University of Michigan and Michigan State as well as smaller state colleges and prep schools. He was a generous contributor to the Rotary Foundation and St. Christopher's Inn, a home for homeless men in Graymore, N. Y.

Other donations included the cemetery entrance to Riverside Cemetery, an equipped playground at the western end of Elm St., and every church in Plymouth was the recipient of gifts. Some received organs.

As a friend of the late Henry Ford and Thomas Edison, Mr. Hough gave a number of historical articles to Greenfield Village.

Immediately following the unveiling, the library staff served tea to the gathering.

Jean's Jottings

By Jean Campau, Women's Editor

Philanthropy, according to Webster, is defined as a love for mankind, benevolence, charity, liberality and well disposed toward all mankind.

Many cities across our nation have been the recipients of someone's generosity. Pittsburgh had Andrew Carnegie; New York had its Altman's, Macy's and Rockefellers; Houston, Texas benefited from the M. D. Anderson Foundation; Tennessee had George Thomas Hunter; Battle Creek, William Kellogg; Dearborn, Henry Ford; Detroit had Kresge, Dodge, Ivory and Booth, to cite but a handful and Plymouth had Edward C. Hough.

The Hough family goes back 160 years, emigrating here from Vermont by way of the Erie Canal. Ancestors of the present Houghs can be traced to Plymouth's earliest beginnings. Ira Hough, early in 1827, was chosen as captain for a newly formed military company. Ten years later when the Village was laid out and recorded, Ira was among the first trustees to be elected to office. L. K. Hough was listed as one of the first teachers of the pioneer community and in 1885 L. C. Hough was named treasurer of the Plymouth Fair Association. Each generation of the family has added something to the growth of the town.

So it was with the late Edward C. Hough, a quiet philanthropist, many of whose contributions have gone unsung. His most familiar donation was the gift of $140,000 from the Edward C. Hough and Mary Hough Kimble Foundation for the erection of the colonial unit of the Dunning-Hough Library.

On the anniversary of his 88th birthday, March 17, unveiling ceremonies took place in the library lounge. In her introductory remarks, head librarian, Agnes Pauline, described the late Mr. Hough as a kind and gentle man. Typifying his quiet effectiveness, she recalled her first encounter with him, when on a hot July afternoon, he stood before her at the book check-out counter and handed her a substantial check with the remark "There, buy whatever you need."

The money was used for interior furnishings. "There were never any strings attached and his gifts were always quietly given." The only condition of the original gift was that it remain anonymous. "The staff," said Mrs. Pauline, "was always aware of his interest in the children and his great love for young people."

For Cass Hough, who unveiled his late father's portrait, it was a moment of mixed emotions. He was sure, he said, his father would have been pleased and happy on this occasion at seeing so many of his colleagues in the gathering, including Jack Reamer, gentleman who had shared his St. Patrick's Day birthday mutually with Mr. Hough for many years.

"It gave my father extreme pleasure to see the completion of the Dunning-Hough Library, and the advancement of knowledge it would provide. For in this era when we take higher education for granted and as an accepted part of our heritage, in my father's day it did not come so easily. My father's formal education ended with high school, though throughout his entire life he had a deep and abiding thirst for knowledge."

And so it is that the fine, warm portrait of the kind and gentle man, who was Edward C. Hough, hangs in the library lounge for all who enter the building he made possible to see and possibly give pause to think on brotherly subjects.

CO-CAPTAINS Gary Wright, right, son of G. F. Gary, who graduated in 1957, from Plymouth, placed high for the Broncos in the 200 yard backstroke as well as being on the

Plymouth Leads Title Parade

It Was Hot Winter for Preps

So what if it was a cold winter — weatherwise — around these parts? Most athletes in the area's Class A high schools probably hated to wrap up their campaigns and turn in their gear in favor of equipment used for the various spring sports.

All totaled it was the greatest winter on record — from a sports standpoint — for the preps performing in Plymouth, Livonia and Redford Township.

Gaze over the list of achievements:

- Plymouth produced the state's No. 1 Class A swimming team.
- Thurston boasted one king and two runnersup in state prep wrestling.

- There was another district crown in basketball for Coach Bob Bentley and his cagers at Livonia Bentley.
- The dingdong struggles on the hardwood courts between Bentley and Redford Union — their sharing of the Suburban Six League crown, something which never before has happened.
- Thurston's reign in the North Suburban Swimming League.
- Ditto for Plymouth's monopoly again in Suburban Six League swimming.
- Record-breaking efforts by prep tankers at Plymouth, Thurston, Redford Union and Bentley.
- A brilliant performance by Tony Giacobazzi at Clarenceville High as he almost personally helped the Clarenceville team gain the district finals against Redford

St. Mary.

The big orchids, of course, belong to Coach John McFall on his Plymouth swimmers.

Few of the experts, a way from the immediate area, gave the Rocks much of a chance in the state meet. The "know-it-alls" talked about Grosse Pointe, Battle Creek Central, Jackson, Birmingham and Ann Arbor — names which have dominated the prep tank scene in recent years.

"Sure Plymouth might be up there among the leaders," one noted outside coach was quoted as saying before the state meet at Michigan State. "But you can't figure them as possible champs because they haven't compiled their record against any of the big shot teams."

So the McFall forces showed off all their might. Plymouth proved again that when you can produce a team effort, you stand a better chance of coping the glory than when most of your eggs are packed in one box or two.

The Rocks had only one individual winner. But the points they received for seconds, thirds, etc., added up to 4½ and a comfortable margin of eight over runnerup Battle Creek.

The continued rise of Thurston in state prep wrestling, the same for the school's swimming team would indicate that the Eagles are not too far away from cracking the state championship barrier.

Thurston now has heralded a state individual king in wrestling for the last two years. Dave Post copped the 145-pound crown last winter and missed by a fraction of repeating this season.

Where Post failed, however, Bob Puffer, a 112-pounder, succeeded. He took

46 Events Listed at R. Union

Spring sports teams at Redford Union High School will vie in 46 contests. Athletic Director Howard Kraft has announced.

Redford Union again will field teams in track, baseball and golf, but will pass up tennis, a popular sport at most other schools in the area. Lack of courts prevents RU from vying in tennis.

The RU golfers, coached by Jim McDonald, will be the first to compete this spring, taking on Taylor Center in a home match on April 10.

The trackmen, under their new coach, Jim MacKenzie, will try off the lid 24 hours later, battling Belleville in another home match. Baseball won't start until April 20 when RU invades Thurston. Jim Cook will guide the baseballers at RU.

The track schedule includes trips to Mt. Pleasant for the annual Central Michigan Relays and also to Monroe for the Monroe Relay carnival.

Redford Union also has been awarded the Suburban League track meet to be held on May 25, five days after the state meet.

The golf schedule consists strictly of dual meets except when RU enters the regionals at Farmington. The league meet is slated for May 22 at Bentley.

The schedules:

BASEBALL
 April 20 — at Thurston (4 p.m.), April 24 — at Bentley (4), April 27 — Belleville (3:30), May 1 — Trenton (4), May 4 — At Plymouth (4), May 8 — At Allen Park (4), May 11 — Bentley (4), May 15 — At Belleville (3:30), May 18 — At Trenton (4), May 22 — Plymouth (4), May 25 — At Allen Park (4), May 29 — At Cherry Hill (4).

 Len LaPla of Redford Union and Dennis Snarey of Livonia Bentley were honored with places on the All Suburban-Six League basketball team selected by The Detroit News.

Tony Giacobazzi of Clarenceville was picked on the Wayne-Oakland League All Star quintet.

No players from the area were named on any of The News All-Suburban rosters.

Broncos 400 yard free style relay team, which along with the points picked up by Co-Captain Tom Meisel, proved enough to give the Broncos their margin over Miami, former Mid-American power in swimming. Western Michigan was the last of the conference schools to adopt the sport in an intercollegiate way but has been building strength rapidly and could perhaps do even better next season, when still another Plymouth swimmer, Bob Isbister, will be a co-captain with Charles Lott, Lansing.

SPORTS OBSERVER

By George Maskin

Pardon the Sports Observer for these nostalgic words.

What else could pour forth from this typewriter on this week when the state high school basketball championships come up for decision on the Jenison Field House floor at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

These typewriter keys haven't missed a state finale since Uncle Sam said "Go home, boy, we don't need you any more for our army" back in 1945.

Just how many thousands — maybe even million — words have rattled off this machine about the state preps we never will know.

But there were those moments we'll never forget if we live to 150. Nor will those thousands of others who happened to watch the particular games.

You think back some ten years when a kid by the name of Frank Tanana not only played for St. Andrew of Detroit in the championship game, but he actually coached the school to the state Class B title.

This is how it happened. The regular St. Andrew coach, a gent by the name of Nap Ross, had to leave his post after the regionals to take over his summer job as a scout for the Cleveland baseball team in the American League. St. Andrew managed to find an adult to act as coach for the quarters, semis and finals.

However, it was the 18-year-old Tanana, a man among boys, who made the decisions as well as the starting plays as St. Andrew became the first and only team ever to win two state crowns in a row in different classes. The year before St. Andrew had copped the Class C crown.

About the same year that Tanana reigned, there was a team from Highland Park which turned in one of the classic comebacks of all time at East Lansing.

With 2:45 remaining in the final quarter, the Parkers trailed by 15 points against Holland. But with George Lee (now with the Detroit Pistons) and George Duncan in tremendous roles, the Parkers tied Holland in regulation time, then won out in overtime. The next night saw the Parkers annexed the state pennant.

You remember the year that three teams came down from the Upper Peninsula and all of them went home with state crowns in their possession. And there was the next year when two of the state flags went north above the Straits. Was the Lower Peninsula red faced?

Yes, and how about that overtime between Flint Northern and Muskegon Heights. Northern had registered a free shot just a few seconds after the extra session began. The Heights took over and stalled for some two and a half minutes.

With 10 seconds left on the clock, a Heights cager made his move. The referee blew his whistle. Two shots for the Heights and when both tries meshed neatly in the hoop, the title went to the gang from Western Michigan.

Arguments raged for months afterwards. Had the referee made the right call? Wasn't the Heights dribbler guilty of charging instead of the Flint defender the victim of a blocking foul?

Coaches and other experts looked to the official films of the game for a possible answer. But in editing the pictures, somebody saw to it that there was only a blur on the questionable call. So the hollering from Flint continued until another tournament rolled around and the past was forgotten.

Who'll forget a kid by the name of Allen from Jackson throwing one in from mid-court as the final buzzer sounded to beat Flint Central?

Or the Lansing Sexton rally to beat Hamtramck a couple years ago on a shot which bounced twice on the hoop as the gun went off and didn't actually bounce through for the winner basket until after time had elapsed? But the two points counted and Sexton went home a winner.

Yes, and wasn't it a thrill to see Dave DeBusschere (now at U. of D.) and Chet Walker (now of Bradley) dueling one another three years ago when Auston with Big Dave beat Benton Harbor? The two young men gained All American acclaim this season.

One might say that nothing which happens next Saturday in the daylong finals at East Lansing can surpass the moments already recorded in the history of the prep tournament.

But don't bet on it. You never know what'll take place next in sports, especially when you have a bunch of teenage kids.

It's great to hear that the television barrier finally has broken in Michigan when it comes to the state prep finals. Unfortunately, no Detroit area station had indicated when these words were chronicled — that it would carry any of the Saturday finals.

The TV masters don't know what they're missing. We'll wager they'll change their minds by March of 1952.

Livonia Smells Summer

Kids' Baseball Plans Set

The Little Football League of Livonia and the Department of Parks and Recreation will again operate a baseball league this summer for boys 9 through 13 years (as of Sept. 1, 1950).

This year, the nine and 10-year-olds will be in a separate Class "G" league, playing somewhat simplified rules. The older boys will be formed into a Class "F" Minor League as in previous years.

Boys who wish to play, and men who wish to manage, in either Class "G" or Class "F" Minor Leagues, should contact one of the following District Directors before April 15, 1951.

Note that if you live near one of the schools listed in a certain district (but do not attend that school) you still belong in that district.

District 1: Including the elementary school areas of Jefferson, McKinley, Cleveland, and Willson Schools. Robert Jacquemotte, GA 1-3889.

District 2: Including elementary school areas of Rosedale, Grant, and Stark Schools. Daniel McGreevey, GA 2-5429.

District 3: Including elementary schools Washington, Johnson, and Garfield. Joseph Lynch, GA 2-1851.

District 4: Including elementary schools Wilcox, Madison, Roosevelt, Harrison, and Adams. Henry Desote, GA 5-2073.

The third regular back is George Borth who, as a sophomore played shortstop, then went to second base last spring and this year looks like he'll be returning to the shortstop slot.

Catcher Dave Merrill and infielder Steve Powers both earned their letters last season and add experience to this year's squad.

But the big headache facing Hudnut is the pitching. Ken Wigle is the most experienced moundsman on the team from the standpoint of working in previous prep action. And he pitched ONLY three innings for the Bentley varsity a season ago.

Hudnut is banking heavily on Don Just, a right-hander, who hurled impressively last year for the Northwest Optimists in Detroit.

"If Wigle and Just can do a job for us," we could cause some trouble for the other clubs," Hudnut said.

The coach has been working his forces in the gym for the last few weeks and hopes to get them outdoors for batting and fielding workouts before this week ends.

Bentley's opener is against Wayne on April 14 which doesn't leave Hudnut too much time to ready a team.

Going to Drive Through Ann Arbor in 1967? New Freeway Plan Will Make It Easy

Residents of this end of Wayne County who travel beyond Ann Arbor welcomed news this week of the State Highway Department's second five-year road building program that will provide a by-pass around the city.

The Highway Department's first five-year program, from 1957 to 1962 has called for an estimated $30.3 million to be spent on highway construction in Washtenaw County. The second five-year period (1962-67) will see an additional $8.2 million spent.

Projects to be built during the second five-year period program, will include a freeway starting near the intersection of Plymouth Rd. (M-14) and Ford Rd. (M-153) that will run three miles westward to what will be called the Ann Arbor North Belt Freeway. This will cost an estimated $2.2 million.

Another road will be built from U.S. 23 southwestward to the East-West freeway (Ann Arbor to Jackson). It will connect to the freeway at Wagner Rd. and will cost $3.9 million.

A three mile section of the North Belt from US-23 east to the vicinity of Earhart Rd. (which crosses Plymouth Rd. just before entering Ann Arbor) is scheduled for construction by the end of next year.

Many other projects are scheduled for the Ann Arbor area. The Highway Department's first five-year program—1957 to 1962—for the area called for construction and modernization of 77 miles of highway, including nearly 40 miles of Interstate 94 and US-23 freeways.

So far, projects totaling $14 million have been completed during the first five-year program or are under construction in Washtenaw County, while contracts totaling an estimated $16 million remain to be awarded between now and June 30, 1962.

Highway Commissioner John Mackie said there has been "outstanding cooperation" between Washtenaw county officials and the State Highway Department's Planning Division in the development of plans designed to meet the areas mounting traffic problems.

Mackie said the Highway Department's 1957-1962 program, which totaled $1.25 billion, will give Michigan "a basic framework of efficient highways."

"Now we must go back and fill in some of the details to get the best use out of that framework," Mackie said. "We will concentrate during the second five-year program, on penetrating cities and making them more accessible to the cross-country freeway and arterial highway system. At the same time, we will continue our program to modernize existing highways in outstate Michigan."

Mackie said the Highway Department will spend an estimated $850 million during its second five-year program.

Promote Plymouth Mentor

One change in the coaching staff for spring sports at Plymouth High School for this year has been announced.

Bill Brown will move up from the junior varsity team to direct the Rocks varsity baseball forces. He's taking over for one season only from Mike Hoben.

Keith Baughman will remain in charge of the track team while Jim Doyle again will lead the tennis team and John Sandman retains control of the Plymouth golfers.

Plymouth copped the Suburban Six League track crown a year ago in a squeaker from Livonia Bentley while the Rocks shared the league baseball championship with Trenton.

The baseball team started practice last week under Brown while Baughman assembled the trackmen for the first time this past Monday.

The coaches will have to work fast since opening action for all sports is booked during the third week of April.

Knipschild To Tour with Team

Ken Knipschild, former Plymouth High School athletic star and now a junior at Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant, will be among 19 baseball players making a 10-game southern trip.

Central will play 10 games in eight days on the tour through Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri. The Chippies will leave March 25 and will return to campus April 5.

Coach Bill Theuisen has reported his pleasure with progress of his two pitching veterans, Knipschild and Bob Veach of Detroit.

Colleges on the schedule are Austin Peay College, Clarksville, Tenn.; Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn.; Southeast Missouri, Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Paducah College, Paducah, Ky.; and Southwestern Tennessee, Memphis, Tenn., two games.

Taylor Township School For Blind Works Miracles

Training a child who has been blind since birth is a tremendous job — but it is being performed with amazing results in a privately-supported school in nearby Taylor, Mich., one of the few such schools in the nation.

Called the Penrickton Nursery School, it was founded in 1953 by Mrs. Lillian Ricker, who is now almost blind herself from a disease of the cornea and from cataracts.

The school is supported by parents of those children in the school and by several organizations and individuals. Among those who have long taken interest in the school is Mrs. David Galin, wife of the well-known Plymouth merchant.

Founded in 1953 by Mrs. Lillian Ricker, the school was inspired by twin girls born blind to a neighboring couple. Mrs. Ricker cared for the twins, Patty and Sandy Penman, five days a week. Sandy received partial vision at the age of 10 months and launched ahead of Patty in everything.

At the age of two and a half, Patty was like a six-month-old baby. She could only sit up and ate only strained foods. Her parents were ordered to place her in a state institution, saying she would never learn.

Mrs. Ricker, however, refused to let Patty go. She found help in a nursery in Los Angeles, the Nursery School for Visually Handicapped Children. Mrs. Ricker went there and was given instructions on how to train Patty. Patty responded immediately and is now progressing as a happy child. The twins entered the Michigan School for the Blind in Lansing in 1957.

In 1954 Mrs. Ricker started a temporary nursery in St. Paul's Reformed Church in Taylor Township and the following year moved to Grace Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Lincoln Park. The present nursery building was opened in 1958.

The aim of the school is to teach pre-school blind children the essentials of living, such as walking, talking, feeding and playing — requirements for entry into public schools.

Children from points outside Michigan are also brought there. One family from St. Cloud, Minn., recently arrived with their three blind children for a month's stay. The parents lived in the building, not being able to afford motel or hotel bills.

Rates are scaled down according to the parents' ability to pay. Ever with volunteer help and some aid from organizations, it is difficult to make ends meet.

"When things get too tight," Mrs. Ricker explained, "I pray awfully hard."

Editorial Why These April Elections Shouldn't Be Brushed Off

In the midst of both state and national legislative sessions, and at the initial stages of the new administrations, Michigan again is faced with more elections. Important local, county and state offices will be filled in the General Biennial Spring election of April 3, 1961.

This election is preceded by a series of political events that require the attention of all citizens in Michigan who are concerned with sound government.

Selection of able, capable, competent, dedicated public officials in this April 3 election is a task that should get the same intensive attention that marked the recent gubernatorial and presidential elections. If precedent is followed, even relatives of candidates will need artificial stimulation to get them aroused.

No election to any public office is of so little significance to justify inattention by any citizen who believes in representative government.

The fact that these offices may be less glamorized in no way makes them less vital to the conduct of public affairs. The decisions they make affect the lives of the citizens of the state. The issues on which all of the office holders will make decisions will be of major concern to Michigan's businessmen and community leaders.

Consider some of the problems that we delegate to these public officials. City and village officials must find revenues to meet increasing costs for increasing services demanded by a demanding public. Property taxes are the primary base.

Urban growth, annexation difficulties, physical redevelopment created by population explosions — or in larger cities by population migration to outlying districts — are important problems needing first rate leadership. They cannot be solved with second rate office holders.

Streets, roads, utilities, police and fire protection, tax assessing and collection, zoning, planning, building code enforcement, public recreation — are these public duties so insignificant in community life that they can be entrusted to anybody but the most trusted, most respected, most skilled in the community. Look over the candidates who may be given these responsibilities. ARE THEY QUALIFIED to take over these duties FOR YOU?

The nine state supported institutions for higher education in Michigan have approximately 100,000 students. In fiscal 1958 these universities spent $216,500,000, which included tax money and income from self-supporting activities.

(Reprinted from Michigan Challenge)

Can this major responsibility be ignored in any election?

The Superintendent of Public Instruction is responsible "for the general supervision of the public schools and of the state educational institutions." He apportions school monies from the state, supervises private, denominational and parochial schools, approves plans for school buildings, and is a member and secretary of the State Board of Education. He is an ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees of Michigan State University, the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, and the Board of Governors of Wayne State University.

The State Highway Commissioner has full control over roads built and maintained by the state. He allocates and spends more than $300 million each year, and must be sure of proper sharing by local units of government and of proper allocation of funds from the Federal program under complex formulae. What about the caliber of this person? Is a high level, business oriented executive needed?

The Supreme Court interprets the laws of the state. The man makes the office... the office does not make the man. A small minded, slanted individual before election remains a small minded, slanted individual after election.

Supreme Court decisions can decide the fate of an individual — a business — a state. Look at some of the items that came before the court in the last several months.

... Workmen's Compensation — a decision which might make mental illness a valid claim.

... A case concerning Senate apportionment upheld by a narrow split decision.

... The Ford "Cannon" case, which according to many can force a business to finance a strike against itself.

... A case making additional state taxes applicable to national banks.

... Important questions affecting annexation by cities.

This April 3 election is a BIG ELECTION too. It needs participation by big businessmen... little businessmen... all businessmen... all citizens.

Urban growth, annexation difficulties, physical redevelopment created by population explosions — or in larger cities by population migration to outlying districts — are important problems needing first rate leadership. They cannot be solved with second rate office holders.

Streets, roads, utilities, police and fire protection, tax assessing and collection, zoning, planning, building code enforcement, public recreation — are these public duties so insignificant in community life that they can be entrusted to anybody but the most trusted, most respected, most skilled in the community. ## How's Business?

About That Farm Situation

By ROGER W. BABSON

At this time a year ago, most forecasts of 1960 industrial trends were optimistic. At that time, however, the experts held out little hope for farmers. Predictions were that output of agricultural production would do well to match that of the previous year and that a coincident rise in costs would mean a decline in farm incomes for 1960.

As matters turned out, however, the agricultural segment of the economy proved to be one of the strong points which ran counter to the tide of recessionary forces in 1960. Crop production soared to new heights 3 percent above the previous record of 1958 and 4 percent above 1959. In terms of yields per acre planted, the output was a near-peak effort. Meanwhile, production of meats, poultry, and dairy products posted a year-to-year gain and set a new high.

In the all-important aspect of income, 1960 turned out to be a satisfactory year for farmers. Instead of the marked reduction predicted, realized net income edged upward from 1959. There is nothing more beneficial to sentiment in farm regions than to have a bumper crop plus a rise in farm profits. More often than not, the influence of a huge crop outturn sends prices skidding. Fortunately, the dip in prices during 1960 was less than expected.

Thus, the atmosphere in farm regions at this time is encouraging to the farm implements industry, and to local merchants. The outlook for 1961, moreover, is for another good year for farmers. With fall-sown grains in good condition, the 1961 crop year is off to a good start. Barring severely adverse weather, outturns should again be large.

Production of meats, poultry, and dairy products should exceed the 1960 peak — the amount of increase depending partly upon whether business can revive sufficiently to spur consumption. Gross revenues, expenses, and net earnings of farmers this year are not expected to vary greatly from 1960 results.

Under 21 . . . By Dan Halligan

Dear Dan: I'm a girl 14 years old and my best friend and I are just like sisters. If you see me, you see her. Well, our mothers let us stay at each other's houses and we think that when two girls are that close, they should also be able to share the same clothing.

My mother disagrees and says her mother buys her dresses for her and not for me — and vice versa. Once in a while I'm allowed to wear my friend's clothes and she's allowed to wear mine but only once in a while. I like her clothes better than she likes them and she likes mine better than her own dresses and skirts.

Don't you think it would be okay if I wore her clothes more than I now do and she wore mine more often? Her mother doesn't care.—Troubled Eighth Grader.

Dear Eighth Grader: It's all right for girl friends to wear each other's clothing. Once in a while it's okay but to go too far. Before you know it, you'll be writing to me and asking if you couldn't swap mothers.

You know, if you wore your friend's dress and something should happen to it, even getting slightly soiled, your mother would be expected to have it cleaned or washed. Your mother would expect the same of the other mother. Once in a while it's okay but not regularly, I say.

if she does, I think she's being more than fair.

Personally, I don't know of any girl who has to have five phone calls a night, night after night, and as far as the 15-minute deadline, if you're on a party line, 15 minutes is long enough. If you're on a private line, it's still long enough.

The timer bell ringing probably irritates you and I don't see any reason for it. If your mother says 15 minutes, that should be that and bells aren't necessary.

Dear Dan: I'm going with a girl who has a very annoying habit of pulling out her comb and combing her hair 20 times a night no matter where we are. We can be sitting in the movies, in a restaurant or just standing with a group of friends and out comes the comb.

I'd like to say something to her because several people have remarked about it but I don't want to make her mad. She's very fussy and the wrong word from me might cause a big argument. Can you help?—D.C.

Dear D.C.: The wrong word might cause an argument but telling your girl she's going too far wouldn't be far wrong. I'm sure her girl friends have noticed this annoying habit and if one of them would bring up the subject, perhaps at your request, she probably would take the hint and there wouldn't be hard feelings. They might tell her some boys mentioned she has a very bad habit—which it is.

Dear Dan: My girl bought me a pair of knee-length shorts for my birthday and expects me to wear them this summer when we go on picnics. I don't want to because I'd look silly in them. But I don't know how to tell her and still not hurt her feelings. Do you?—Embarrassed.

Dear Embarrassed: You could give her the "mobby knees" routine but if you really don't like them, (I don't), simply say you're not going to wear them. I think men look a little silly in them.

Cemetery Rates Go Up; Discount for City Taxpayers

An increase in rates for Riverside Cemetery lots and burial fees with a discount for City taxpayers, residents or registered voters was approved Monday night by the City Commission.

The increase was approved following a recommendation of the Cemetery Board of Trustees.

City Commissioner Carl Shear originally proposed the increase with a discount for residents and taxpayers several months ago. He noted that over the years the Cemetery fund has accumulated a deficit of some $9,000. Last year, however, the fund broke even.

Shear expressed the opinion that since City taxpayers had to stand the deficit, they should receive some cost advantage over those who do not pay City taxes.

A survey of seven cemeteries in the area revealed that Riverside had the lowest rates for opening and closing graves and burial lot prices. Most two-grave lots here cost $200, while seven other cemeteries charged from $230 up to $300 minimum.

The average cost of a two-grave lot under the new price will be $20.

The cost of an interment at Riverside has been $90, as compared with $90 to $125 at neighboring cemeteries. This rate has been increased to $111 Monday through Friday and $130 on Saturday.

These prices are for non-residents or non-taxpayers. Those living in the City or paying taxes to the City will receive a 10 percent discount, starting April 1.

Show Benefits Madonna's Building Fund

The "Gay Nineties" is the theme for the annual Madonna College Building Fund festival which is to be sponsored Saturday, May 13, 1961, from 12-3 p.m. by the Student Association.

According to plans, old Model-T's, bustle-gowned ladies, and gentlemen of the time will pervade Madonna's campus on that day.

Highlighting the day will be a drawing for seven valuable prizes — the first of which is $1,000 cash.

Club committees are making plans for numerous booths which will be set up on the college grounds. Booths will include dart shooting, nickel pitching, grab bag, stuffed animals, bean bag, fish pond, blue ribbon prizes, pluck-a-flower, doll, jewelry, postal exchange and few others.

Intensive preparation is being made for a vaudeville variety show which will be presented at intervals throughout the nine-hour festival.

Two new features will be added to attract both young and old—the Gold Fish Guess and the Andersonville Jail.

In charge of the festival are Senior Betty Czarnocki and Junior Florence Kijek. "Our goal is $15,000 which will top last year's proceeds by approximately $5,000," announced Florence.

Door prize tickets are available from any Madonna student.

"DO UNTO OTHERS..."

Dear Amy: I know of a woman who lives in a neighborhood of devout churchgoers and none of these so-called "Good Christians" will speak or have anything to do with her. The reason is, their children have told false tales about her and the parents choose to believe the children.

They let their children treat this woman like dirt and do nothing about it. She tries to get the children to behave but they get smart with her and the parents won't believe anything she tells them about the children's behavior.

Before this started, she went out of her way to help her neighbors anyway she could. She would move, but she owns her home and hates to sell.

Disgusted

Dear Amy: For six years my husband belonged to "AA" and now he's back doing the same things again. He got a $100 Christmas bonus and promised to pay the mortgage but it but didn't. Instead he spent it all on having fun. He likes company at the bar and treats them all. For 13 years we were always paying off different cars. He finally wrecked the last one completely.

I'm sick to think of all our money being spent foolishly. I work two or three days a week to help out. After 16 years of marriage, I'm tired of struggling and worrying to get the money together to get him out of the mess that he always gets himself into.

How or what can I do to help him acquire responsibility? I'm desperate!

Mrs. A. G.

Dear Mrs. A. G.: You will never help him acquire responsibility if you continue to make it easy for him to avoid it. You should have secured professional assistance many years ago. Contact your local office of THE FAMILY SERVICE AGENCY. Don't expect miracles, but if he can be helped, they will help him!

PERSONAL to M. H. (Ohio): According to my mail, you are not alone with your problem. Don't be too embarrassed to tell your family doctor. He has heard of everything and will offer some helpful suggestions.

PERSONAL to Stu: Take a tip from nature: Your ears aren't made to shut, but your mouth is!

Dear Amy: I read in your column about the girl who is 18 years old and dates a man old enough to be her grandfather. You said she should have her head examined. I think you are wrong. If they love each other, I don't think the differences in their ages has anything to do with it.

Dear Black and Blue: Get in touch with your local chapter of THE SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO CHILDREN. They are listed in your telephone directory. They will see that your home life improves or provide you with a suitable place to live. Good luck, child!

Engineers to Study Problem of Useless Water Storage Tank

A water tower that perhaps hasn't functioned properly since it was erected 12 years ago will be one of the main subjects of an engineer study authorized Monday night by the City Commission.

The tower located along Byron St. was erected in 1949 under the supervision of an Ann Arbor firm, McNamee, Porter, and Seelye, but during a survey of the City's entire water system last year it was discovered that the tower is not providing any pressure for the system because it is lower than the other tower near Church St.

City Manager Albert Glassford, who was not in the administration at that time, said that he had learned from the water consultants that they deliberately planned the new tank to be lower, but that the firm still hasn't given any reasons why they did—or why it has apparently been useless.

A new consulting firm, Johnson & Anderson, Inc., has offered to evaluate repairs necessary to the Church St. tank and offer several alternatives concerning additional storage.

They will figure out how much it will cost to raise the Byron St. tank 15 feet, how much a new reservoir east of Plymouth could be constructed for, or whether a pumping system could be placed on the Byron St. tank.

The firm will also draw plans and specifications for re-evaluating chlorinating equipment and flow meters. The estimated cost of the engineering is $2,000.

How's Business?

How Serious Is Inflation Threat?

By ROGER W. BABSON

Recently this column discussed the factors underlying the rise of inflation psychology, as manifested in the quickened pace of stock market activity. Though based partly on hopes of improved business, the market's climb largely reflects inflation-hedge buying.

The inflationary implications of expanding government spending are not to be shrugged off. This is particularly true, since the national budget is likely to show a deficit. Also the monetary authorities are injecting additional credit into the banking system. Furthermore, to the extent that artificially depressed long-term interest rates increase borrowing from banks, the inflationary potential is accentuated.

Fortunately, certain conditions in our economy can blunt some of the important of inflationary forces. The most potent of these is our vast productive capacity, — and, indeed, that of the world in general. Commodity prices have already been hammered down by excess supplies of nearly all commodities relative to current and near-term effective demand. The danger of inflation is most acute when there is a scramble for goods due to real or imaginary short supplies.

Moreover, the debt-burdened condition of government, business, and consumers weighs heavily against the possibility of a prolonged and unbridled borrowing binge such as occurred in the late 1940's and in the decade of the fifties.

It would seem that our major concern now is that the threat of renewed inflation may further erode confidence in the dollar. Unless inflation is contained, there could be a resumption in gold outflow.

Another precarious condition is that inflation psychology in the stock market may be carried to excess. If the anticipated business upturn lacks vigor, and if world troubles simmer down for a while, the bulls in the market could find themselves in a dangerous position. This is surely not the time to fall prey to speculative temptations.

City Vacates Elmdale Ave.

Elmdale Ave., a street that was never built, was vacated by order of the City Commission Monday night after a lengthy discussion about where easements should be located.

Elmdale was a street platted between Penniman and Sheridan Ave. The vacated street runs from Sheldon to Evergreen.

There were no objections raised at Monday night's hearing from property owners but trying to fix the location of utility easements in relation to the platted street was a problem. A motion was finally approved to vacate the street with "pole lines to exist in their present location."

At the next meeting on April 4 (Tuesday) instead of Monday, due to the election, the assessment roll for the N. Mill St. recapping will be presented and a hearing held.

Plymouthite Reports

In Moscow, Larry went sight-seeing often. Photographs can be taken freely — except of bridges, men in uniform or anything military, Larry reported.

On Feb. 23 the band left by train to Leningrad. Hotel accommodations were generally nicer than in Moscow, Larry found. The concert hall there holds 2,300 people and Larry admitted that the opening concert was rather poor, but it "gassed the audience." It lasted two and a half hours.

"The second concert was fine and there was another enthusiastic reception. Afterward, we went to hear a fine, big band jazz group at a dance hall. We later talked to some of the members. Very interesting indeed!"

On Feb. 26 and 27, Larry was sick and was under treatment of the band doctor. While the band played in the Lenin Conservatory of Music, Larry stayed in bed. On the night of the 27th, he had to board the train with the rest of the band for the long trip back to Moscow. "The Doc's shot helped me sleep," Larry added.

At the Feb. 28 concert back in Moscow, Larry rejoined the band. It was the first performance of "The Victors" and so tremendous was the popularity of the song that it is included in every concert.

On March 4, Larry wrote that he is "feeling really well and I'm even starting to like some of the screwball stuff I'm eating. The band is well-received everywhere and the people here have been wonderful to us. Last week we saw the "Barber of Seville" in Russian, today we see the Bolshoi Ballet and tomorrow we go to the circus."

The Ukraine Hotel is neat and well-kept, Larry reported, "but the service is bad. The atmosphere is dark. Each floor has a place to buy goodies to eat and has a floor clerk — a woman who keeps your room key while you're not in the room." Concluding the letter, he wrote: "I'd give anything for just one of those cinnamon rolls and a glass of milk!"

There is very little to buy in stores in Moscow, Larry wrote, and it is very expensive and low quality. The temperature has been averaging between 20 and 40 degrees and it is fairly cold, dry and not much wind.

The band still has some long train rides ahead. The train ride to Leningrad from Moscow, was 500 miles each way. After that, some 133 hours, or five and a half days will be spent in travel. The entire trip will be 25,000 miles. The trip from Kiev that started yesterday to Odessa is 15 hours. On Sunday the run from Odessa to Kharkov is 24 hours.

One custom that the band soon learned was that the audience remains outside the auditoriums until just minutes before the concerts begin. This brought concern to faces of musicians who found only a few seats occupied as the concert neared.

The band has for years tuned up instruments back stage and again tuned en masse on stage before concerts. In Russia this is frowned upon, so students have to go far away from the stage to "tootle" while waiting for word to go on.

But despite the great education Larry and other bandmen are receiving, Larry sums up his feeling in one sentence — "I will be glad to get home — I miss everyone."

He will not get back to this country until Friday, June 2.

Sympathy Extended

A resolution was approved expressing sympathy to the widow of William Webber, a former Township Board member and justice of the peace who died this month.

College Support Asked

Appearing before the Board to ask for support of the Northwestern Wayne County Community College was Harold Fischer, Plymouth School Board member and president of the Community College's executive committee. Fischer reported on the purpose of the college and of the vote coming up June 12. The Board decided to study the matter further before deciding upon any supporting measure.

Board Appointment

Gene Overholt, 11606 Brownell, has been appointed by the Township firemen as their representative on the new Civil Service Commission. At the Biennial Spring Election in February, electors voted to establish the commission that will handle the hiring, firing and personnel problems of firemen and of policemen, should there be a police force some day.

Firemen Extend 'Thanks'

Firemen this week expressed their thanks to all of those who offered their help during the March 9 fire on Mill St. that destroyed an apartment house.

Safety Director Kenneth Fisher said that the department would like to write each one personally — but that they aren't sure where all of the help came from.

Firemen were served coffee and rolls, spaghetti, pizza and sandwiches during the day and night-long fire. "We really don't know who all of the people were who donated the food," Fisher said, "but it was really wonderful the way they helped out."

The Red Cross reported that cooperation between the social agencies and the City was the finest they have seen.

The Salvation Army, under the leadership of Capt. John Cunard, supplied household goods, such as used washing machines, refrigerators, beds and other household necessities.

Local service clubs supplied cash to the Salvation Army from which bedding and clothing for babies were purchased. The Plymouth Ministerial Association appropriated $100.

Even students of the Wilson School in neighboring Livonia offered clothing from a drive they conducted.

The Salvation Army picked up the clothing and the fire victims were able to get many items of apparel which otherwise would have cost hundreds of dollars to supply.

The Wayne County Department of Social Welfare was helpful in making investigations and offering immediate emergency housing. Medical attention was also necessary for one of the elderly citizens.

Even false teeth which were lost in the fire and eye-glasses which were broken are being supplied for those unable to pay for them.

A temporary headquarters was set up at the City Hall for the disaster relief program. Mrs. Betty Moss, a temporary employee of the City, served as secretary and coordinator of the various agencies.

Jerry Seibert Says...

Are you a lady ostrich, fashionwise? Meaning a woman who says, "I love clothes, but being fashionable just isn't for me!" ignoring the fact that you're bound to wear clothes and make-up the rest of your life — so it makes sense to learn to understand and enjoy them.

"Too expensive," is the reason most often given. But today good fashion is available at the same price levels as bad fashion. You can be well dressed or dowdy on exactly the same amount of money.

Truth is, many women don't want to take the time and trouble to learn basic fashion principles and to use them to dress smartly and attractively. In effect, they want a fairy godmother to let in and transform them with a wave of her wand. (Don't look now, girls, but 1961-type fairy godmothers are firm believers in do-it-yourself — and they do mean you.)

Fashion doesn't require unlimited money; merely a sound knowledge of basic principles, long range planning, and firm self-discipline in sticking to your plan. If "planless" women would add the amounts they spend on dowdy-making "impulse buying," they might find a clothes plan would help them dress fashionably for less money.

And don't overlook the intangible dividends: self-confidence and the heady feeling that goes with knowing you're looking your very best.

Some women feel that owning a smart wardrobe is pure frivolity and feel guilty if they spend money on fashion. Psychiatrists take the opposite view. They class a woman's lack of interest in her looks as neurosis — a refusal to face reality.

Fashion also has an effect

Kiwanis Wins Foundation Annual Award

Kiwanis International has won its tenth top award in the annual Freedoms Foundation citizenship contest, it was announced today by John Wallace, president of the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth. The high honor, specified as the Distinguished Service Award, came to Kiwanis on Feb. 22.

It was presented at the annual Freedoms Foundation awards ceremony at Valley Forge. The award was made for Kiwanis' CQ (Citizenship Quotient) project which encouraged citizens to determine the extent and kind of their individual citizenship activity (citizenship quotient) and to take steps to correct any deficiencies noted. Kiwanis has won a top award in all but two of the 12 Freedoms Foundation citizenship contests.

According to Wallace, "The Freedoms Foundation Award has long enjoyed the same stature in the community service field as the 'Oscar' in the motion picture field, and the 'Emmy' in the television field."

About 1,200 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada are currently operating CQ programs, and several hundred organizations of other types, including manufacturers, other service organizations, trade associations, etc. have also started CQ programs.

Approximately 800 awards were made on Feb. 22 by the Freedoms Foundation, Wallace said.

Leads Burroughs Quality Activity

John J. O'Brien has been named to head a new quality assurance activity at the Plymouth Manufacturing and Engineering Division of Burroughs Corp. located in Plymouth. It was announced recently by D. E. Stromback, general manager of the Plymouth Division. The new activity will consolidate the quality control and reliability functions on Burroughs products manufactured at its Plymouth Division. O'Brien joined the Electronic Instruments Division of Burroughs Corp. in Philadelphia in 1954. He became engineering services manager at the Plymouth Division in 1959. Prior to joining Burroughs he had 13 years' experience in the digital computer and automatic control fields.

Toppers Look New

New fashion significance this season goes to the topper. Always a basic in most spring wardrobes, now the short topper is making news, too.

First of all, it's shorter — hip length or above. Along with the new length goes new styling, which carries out such spring themes as the no-collar cardigan neckline, shortened sleeves and color aplenty.

Survey Shows Growth To Conservative Style

It wasn't long ago that a pair of faded blue jeans and a raveled sweater made up the complete wardrobe for the young man about the town or campus. But times' styles are changed, as evidenced by this spring's vivid array of slacks and sports jackets, styled specifically for the younger generation. The emphasis is on 'natural' styling and a look that's slim, tapered and tasteful, which is precisely what the youngsters themselves said they wanted in a recent survey of high school and college sportswear preferences.

The Gilbert Study, in which 3,081 youngsters were interviewed by this major youth survey organization, pinpointed the styles, fabrics and colors favored by the younger generation. It also made clear that today's young men are determined to be well dressed — at school or on their own time. The project was commissioned by the H. I. S. Sportswear Company, which used it as a guide in creating its spring line. Most of the young men say they want pencil-slim, tapered leg slacks with no cuffs — about 50 percent want no belts, the others will settle for side tabs and/or extension waist bands. Favored fabrics are twill, cord and tropi-cloth; favored patterns range from solids to district checks; and most wanted colors include charcoal, olive and loden. As young men grow older, reported the statisticians who conducted the study, they become increasingly conservative in taste. For those who want youthful styling with a more traditional flavor, there are slacks that feature subtly tapered legs, pleated styling, pre-sewn cuffs and blind-stitched belt loops. Nearly everyone of the more than 3,000 young men whose opinions helped determine spring styles, agreed on one factor — they want to look well all spring and summer. Thanks to an abundant variety of fabrics, colors and styles, they will get their wish.

Country Look Of Homes Gains In Popularity

Home fashion thrives on color and variety this spring, with a deepening importance for elegance paralleled by growing popularity of the country look. Perhaps the most interesting trend is away from "trends." Modern, traditional, contemporary, early American, English country, Spanish country look—these, and more, all have their place in home fashion, and there is no rigid emphasis on any one style or way of decorating. The homemaker, whether she works with or without a decorator, has free play in expressing her family's preferences through a creative, imaginative approach to decor. She may decide that home beauty and comfort can best be achieved through a combination of styles and designs — modern with traditional, for instance. Whatever her choice, the guiding rule is not, "Early American is very important this season," but, "Will my family enjoy this?"

Must Endure The fact that furnishing or remodeling projects are usually expected to endure for from five to eight years emphasizes the importance of expressing individual, personal tastes rather than following a passing whim for a particular style in furnishings. In decorating colors, too, there is a stimulating range of choices. Whites, off-whites and earth tones continue much in evidence, and now they are joined by an increasing number of rosy tones, such as lilac or dusky pink. Turquoise remains a favorite. Color is found not only in drapery fabrics, floor coverings and upholstery but also in painted wood furniture. More and more manufacturers are offering painted chests, chairs and other pieces as an attractive means of bringing color into a room. Color Takes Part In the elegant look, color and fabrics play an important part, and so do upholstery materials. This spring, elegant-looking furniture derives its opulence not from added-on ornaments but from clean, graceful lines, luxurious cushioning and rich colors and fabrics. The country look includes not only America's Colonial past, but English, French and Spanish influences. Commemoration of the Civil War Centennial has led to an increase of interest in American designs. Fabrics and wallpaper often carry out the American theme.

Don't Overlook Inventory Of Cosmetics

There's a bright, colorful outlook in beauty for spring that complements the excitement of the fashion scene. And, this new era of color calls for an inventory and appraisal of cosmetics and coiffures. With so much emphasis on the period of the Thirties when glamour was spelled with a capital "G," skin care and hair styles come in for loads of attention. For spring, hair is smooth, short and polished looking—often with an upswept wing or a kissing curl at the cheek very much "the thing." Rangs are usually casual looking; the most flattering hair length stops just below the ear, and there's modified fullness at the crown.

High-rising and swept-brim hats put the eyes into focus and call for careful attention to mascara, liner, shadow and pencil artistry. Completing the new picture — a complexion that's creamy, translucent-looking and cared-for. Lips are well-defined with deep, gold-glowing tones and colors that reflect the spectrum of the season. Lipsticks are non-glossy, with a subtle brilliance. Color goes to the hair in highlight colors, in eye shadows that are gentle reflections of all the colors of the season and in the delicate look of the skin. For the total look of beauty, add a natural smile, good posture and a fragrance that reflects your personality. Be the woman worth giving that admiring second look.

Nautical Togs Designed With Sailing Alphabet

A walking and sailing nautical alphabet is one of the exciting innovations of the sports fashion world. America's estimated 40-million sea-going jackets in any lion boating enthusiasts can now purchase light, weather-letter of the sailor's alphabet from a new nautical group introduced by the Mighty Mac Division of the Cape Ann Manufacturing Company. Now 26 jackets based on the 26 letters of the International Code Flags, in every color under the sailing sun, duplicate the pattern of codes in the International sailing lexicon. Because boating is a family sport, Mighty Mac offers these jackets in sizes for every member of the family. Boys' jackets for sailing will really be most notable. There's an introduction of fairly new styling in the nautical theme. All the basic classical jackets are taking on the 'yachting' look with new dashing interest, sure to please every boy. These up-dated classics feature both good looks and function. Fresh interest includes underarm insets for freer movement of a ruffled rope tie closings that replace the zipper; reversible jackets that turn a boat with gay new season fabric linings; new two-way collars and light outer fabrics with warm linings or no linings at all. For the boys who are sailors at heart, and those who just want to look nautically nice, this is the season with their right fashions.

Bowling Styles Score With Men and Women

Baseball had better watch out, because there's a sport that's rapidly rising toward the number one spot of America's favorite sports. It's bowling! About 26 million people in the United States flocked to the lanes last year, and new fans are made every day. One of the biggest reasons for this increase is the change in the character of bowling centers. Not too many years ago these were called bowling alleys, and the change of name is not the only change. Bowling centers today are becoming lavish entertainment headquarters, complete with cocktail lounges, bowling boutiques, restaurants, art galleries and baby care nurseries. Bowling, being a sport the entire family can enjoy, has attracted many women ... and when women take up a sport, they must have the proper (smart) clothing. Traditionally, bowling outfits take their style cue from the need for freedom of action. But, tradition has been broken! What's new in fashions for bowling? Culottes get big play with the abstinence reasoning that they are awkward, but the abstiners are few. Tunics over tights or slim jims are also popular as they are both attractive and comfortable. For those who refuse to appear in slacks, skirts with matching tops take on a new look with gores that are the look that they are trying to conceal themselves! One definite, rather than having example is a skirt with multi-colored insets that show when the skirt flares out. So, all in all, bowling fashions for 1961 look as though they will be very striking!

Gay Belts Set Mood
Smart leather belts circle most tailored waists this spring with neat, colorful "clasp." Although fewer contour belts are in evidence than last year, widths vary all the way from spaghetti hoops of suede leather to five to six-inch bands of supple, smooth and slightly grained leathers. Narrower belts are being worn with fuller skirted dress in daytime and late-day ensembles.

Area Red Cross Volunteers Take Part in Disaster Exercise Saturday

Red Cross disaster representatives, who would be responsible for coordinating Red Cross volunteer services in case of disaster in the Northwest area will participate in a Red Cross Disaster Exercise, Saturday, March 25. Lansing M. Pittman, chairman of the Detroit Red Cross chapter disaster service, in announcing the Exercise said it was designed to test the efficiency of plans involving members of the key communities which would be called on in case of a local disaster.

Red Cross disaster representatives in the Northwest region are:

Plymouth, James Houk, 346 Irwin, and W. J. Kincaid, 3243 Rocker.

Livonia, Karl Heinzman,

31181 Schoolcraft and Mrs. Olson Hensley, 11531 Cavell, Redford Township, John B. Koenig, 18275 Brady; Earl Patchett, 11399 Mercedes; Joseph Patchett, 15016 Beech Rd.

Northville: Charles Carlington, 112 E. Dunlop and A. E. Jones, 791 Horton.

Garden City, Mrs. Olav Barikmo, 30920 Hennepin; William A. Hamilton, 31538 Sheridan; Victor A. Pierson, 28310 Hennepin.

Enso V. Bighinatti, Assistant National Director of the American National Red Cross, will come from Washington, D.C., to observe the Exercise and help evaluate the procedure.

Each of the 21 communities in Wayne County has a volunteer Red Cross disaster committee trained to discharge specific duties in a disaster. Red Cross volunteers would be alerted immediately when the disaster strikes and the speed with which they are activated, actually on the scene, and ready for action will be the focal point of Saturday's exercise, based on a simulated disaster. The exact time, place and type of simulated disaster will not be announced in advance.

Red Cross services during the acute or emergency phase of a disaster include canteen feeding for victims and rescue workers; shelter for victims; medical and nursing service in shelters and hospitals where victims are taken; survey of disaster area to determine extent of damage and probable relief needs; registration of victims and relay of welfare information to persons inquiring about those affected.

Pittman said: "This area was fortunate not to have a major disaster last year, but we dare not relax our preparedness for such an emergency."

Last year the American Red Cross conducted 325 disaster relief operations, providing emergency service to 299,972 persons and rehabilitation services (such as rebuilding homes) to 25,000 families. The total cost was $6,464,532. . . . all of it given as an outright gift from the American people to disaster victims."

A new 25-man life raft is now available for planes on overseas flights.

Rekindling of Inflation Fires

By ROGER W. BABSON

In late November, following the Presidential election, the prime concern in business and financial circles was the business downturn and deflation. At that time, however, this column warned that . . . "public sentiment will bear watching for signs of inflation fears." This alert was predicated upon the probability of activation of President Kennedy's campaign call for expanded government spending.

Indeed, the flow of events since then have borne out, perhaps all too quickly, the timeliness of that prediction. Wheels have been set in motion for action on such fronts as increased aid to the aged, beefing up the defense and "space" programs, easing long-term interest rates to encourage building, and raising the minimum wage.

Certainly we would agree that all of these, as well as some others on the agenda for future action, are inherently beneficial to both the populace and the welfare of the nation.

The point of contention is the selection of the timing and extent of the federal spending program, from the standpoint of its sparking or rekindling inflationary fires. With tax receipts rates, hopes for a balanced national budget are fading into oblivion, and prospects of an inflationary deficit loom large on the horizon.

Considering the fact that the economy as a whole has come through the year-long recession with a minimum of adverse effects and with a turn for the better in business not far off, it would seem that the battle against inflation might best be served by "starving the fever" a while longer.

In any event, actions of the stock market indicate that inflation psychology has regained the ascendancy. This in itself is a danger which, if carried beyond reason, can prove to be more detrimental to the economy than is the threat of a more remote inflation. There are guards against the latter, but the former lies in the hands of the public.

Scouts Prepare Fish Fry For Parishioners

Three times during the season of Lent, the Boy Scouts of Our Lady of Good Counsel school prepare a Friday fish fry for the parishioners. This past week the second such affair was staged, and this coming Friday the third dinner will be served.

The boys serve the meals which are cooked by the fathers in the church kitchen. Both servings have been well attended so far and the troop plans to serve 250 meals this coming Friday. All profits from this activity go to purchase equipment for the troop and to add to their camping out facilities.

At present Troop 781 possesses 14 small tents and two larger tents, along with their "kitchen range" outfit which furnishes home type meals when on weekend or week camp outs.

Husband-Wife Among New Art Exhibitors at Library

Three more artists, Kate Edgerton of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herig of Plymouth, are displaying their work at the Dunning-Hough Library.

Each month the Three Cities Art Club supplies paintings and other forms of art for the library. Last Saturday the three new exhibitors placed their work on display.

Mrs. Edgerton is displaying ceramics. She is a craft teacher in the Lola Valley Junior, Friday, March 24, at the Redford Union School District. She also teaches ceramics, jewelry making and leather work in the Redford Union Adult Education program and conducts private classes at her studio.

She received her art schooling at Wayne State University and has recently displayed her work in the Ann Arbor Association's 38th Annual Exhibition.

The Herigs, who live at 805 Parkview Dr., are displaying oil paintings. Mr. Herig studied under Joseph Gies in Detroit a year and attended Detroit School of Fine Arts three years. He spent eight years as a designer and artist for the Photo-Chrome Corp. in Detroit and 27 years in general lithography in Paris and Detroit. He is now owner of Herig's Nurseries, Belleville.

Mrs. Herig, who is a home service advisor for Detroit Edison Co., received art training at Detroit Arts & Crafts, Chicago Institute of Arts and Provincetown School of Art. She received her degree in home economics from Wayne State University. Mrs. Herig's specialty in pursuing her hobby of oil painting is doing children's portraits.

Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 242 has certainly had a busy month so far. March 6 found the girls attending the City Commission meeting at City Hall in conjunction with their work on their Government badge and the Good Grooming Badge came in for attention when they made a trip to downtown Detroit to attend a Teen Fashion Show at the J. L. Hudson Co. March 11.

Seven members of this troop also attended the Marion Holy Hour at the University of Detroit on March 12 after helping their troop set up their Scoutarama display. The girls are Susan Scarpulla, Mary Blunk, Mary Lee McMahon, Patricia Fraser, Luanne Gendreau, Mary Ann Sincoc and Maureen Yezbick.

The Good Grooming Badge has been completed by Intermediate Troop 274. Their leaders Mrs. William Feight and Mrs. C. W. Rank would like to thank Mr. Jim Houk of Fishers, Mrs. Donna Campbell of Don-Mar Beauty Salon and Mrs. Leo Roberts of the Maxine Sheldon Beauty School. These people donated their services to help make Troop 274 one of the best groomed troops in Plymouth.

The past two weeks have found Girl Scout Troop 262 exhibiting a particularly fine bit of cooperation with their sponsors, the Plymouth Theater Guild. The girls acted as ushers at the performances of "Inherit the Wind," and Girl Scout cookies were served as refreshments. This Monday, March 20th, the girls furnished the entertainment for the Theater Guild's regular monthly meeting by presenting a one act play entitled "Pussycat" that the girls originally produced as their contribution to the Scoutarama. The Professor was played by Stephanie Sanocki, Angora by Susan Vandervoort, Mazie by Jo Ann Marcoe, Mehitabelle by Jennifer Smith, Dora by Wendy Lambe, Veronica by Sandy Chapman, Kitnip by Jeannie Plymale and Old Uncle Tom was Julie Ann Penland.

The United States Marine Band, the oldest military band in the country, played its first official concert on March 4, 1901 at the inauguration of President Thomas Jefferson.

PLYMOUTH

By HUGH BRONAUGH, Mgr.

WHAT'S "ALL NUMBER CALLING"? It's the latest development in telephone numbering. Now, in many communities throughout the country, you dial seven numerals to make a local call—no letters. For example, KL 5-2368 becomes 555-2368—a true telephone "number." Why was this done? Simply because we're running out of usable letter-number combinations. If we're to continue to grow and provide good service, we need to use the more flexible "all numerals" system. Some Michigan communities already have it. More will begin to use it soon. You'll find this new system more accurate and we think you'll like it.

Metro-Calling Service trial underway in Plymouth

A new optional extended area telephone service is now being offered in Plymouth to all residence customers with GLenview telephone numbers. Under this plan, known as Metro-Calling Service, GLenview subscribers may dial calls throughout the Detroit metropolitan area (see map) for a total of four hours' phoning time for a flat rate. The cost of this new service, including private line and unlimited local calling to shaded areas on map, is $9.50 per month (plus 75 cents or mileage charges now in effect for some subscribers) plus tax. Additional phoning time to points in the new extended area costs 30 cents, plus tax, per 15 minutes or fraction.

Metro-Calling Service will undergo a one-year trial to determine if it meets the needs of Plymouth residence telephone customers who frequently have occasion to call Detroit and other communities in the metropolitan area.

If you would like more information about Metro-Calling Service, please call us at GLenview 3-9900.

Three from Here Win Ford Community Service Awards

Three Plymouth men were among the 99 who have been presented Community Service Awards from the Ford Motor Co. for their outstanding voluntary work here.

The three were Harold Niemi, Gerald Fischer and Charles Root, Jr.

Six Detroit-area Ford employees received "Citizen of the Year" awards while 99 others received Community Service Award plaques bearing an engraved commendation from Henry Ford II.

The awards were presented last week (March 14) at a banquet in Ford's central office building in Dearborn. Charles F. Moore, Jr., company vice-president in public relations, made the presentations.

The award recipients represented 43 metropolitan area communities. They were selected from among more than 800 nominees.

Nominations were asked from local governments, chambers of commerce and service clubs.

Fischer, who is controller of the Automotive Assembly Division, serves on the Board of Education and has worked with the Plymouth Symphony Board in many capacities.

Niemi is also in the finance department, working at the Wayne plant. He is president of the Board of Education and has been active in 4-H work and with the Planning Commission.

Charles Root, employee of the Engine Plant, received his award for his participation in politics, having served as president of the Plymouth Democratic Club.

New Novels by Old Hands

Most of us like to do business with an old established firm.

We are cheered, then, to see several writers who have satisfied the customers for upwards of thirty years represented this week with brand new work which is peculiarly their own, who have unmistakable styles and who tell stories with the smoothest professional skill.

One of the three deals in somber tones, two dispense high spirits. The world being what it is today, we are pleased with the ratio.

Life Is A Leper Colony

By anybody's reckoning Graham Greene ranks among the first half-dozen novelists of our time. For 30 years his novels have depicted a world so vivid that the reader would recognize it after a few pages even without the author's name attached.

This world of Graham Greene is a drab, seedy one, peopled largely by unheroic men in the process of being pursued.

In what Greene calls his "entertainments" - Brighton Rock is perhaps the most chilling - the pursuit is by the law or society. In his serious novels it is pursued by God or conscience, as in the unforgettable The Power and the Glory or The Heart of the Matter.

Greene's last book was Our Man in Havana, an "entertainment." This week he reverts to a more serious role with A Burnt Out Case. The scene here is a leper colony in Africa, the leading character is an English Catholic who has lost his faith and his will to live. Highly praised by advance reviewers, A Burnt Out Case is an important novel. The rumor is, incidentally, that Greene is being seriously considered for the next Nobel Prize in Literature.

Life Is A Loony Bin

There is no rumor whatsoever that the Nobel folks are considering P. G. Wodehouse, probably because no one suspects such an august committee of doing anything so sensible.

Wodehouse is, of course, the Oldest Master of them all. His first book came out in 1902, his latest, The Ice in the Bedroom, just last week. This is an incredibly long period for a popular humorist to survive and - barring a durable congressman or two - we doubt if another clown will ever equal it.

During those 60 years Wodehouse has kept us posted on the genial goings-on in a world that never was, a world of added aristocracy in an eternal Edwardian springtime. (Last fall's omnibus, The Most of P. G. W., is a generous introduction to the sagas of Jeeves, Bertie Wooster and the rest.

We haven't seen The Ice in the Bedroom yet. We suppose it won't be quite up to the stuff the author was turning out in, say, 1925 - is anything, today? - but we are confident it will contain enough fine and foolish behavior for a pleasant evening.

Another old hand - if we may use the term in referring to a lady - is Margery Sharp, whose frequently zany and always entertaining stories have delighted a large audience for three decades. Cluny Brown, the enterprising lady plumber, is just one of Miss Sharp's many engaging heroines remembered fondly. Although her novels are generally what is called light comedy they often exhibit more shrewd psychology than many supposedly serious books. Her new novel is called Something Light; we are sure it is that - and a very clever tale besides.

Fifth Symphony Concert Offers Rhythm Contrasts

The fifth concert of the season for the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra was presented March 19, Wayne Dunlap, conducting. "Street Corner" an Overture by Sir Alan Rawsthorne, opened the program. An energetic, restlessly driving, contrapuntal design provided contrast to the second number. Miss Emily Mutter Adams interpreted the solo violin line in Max Bruch's first concerto.

This concerto, intensely romantic and lyrical is one of the best-liked elaborate works for violin. The slow second movement explores profound depths of musical beauty. The other movements offer great variety with the last one a proper finish with its fast exciting Hungarian dance rhythms. In the third movement Miss Adams' poise was more than equal to an instrumental mishap, a loosened peg, so it did not impair her inspired performance of this great composition.

After the intermission Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" Overture, was played with the verve and gaiety it rightfully deserves. The "Bachiana Brasileira No. 2" contains the "Little Train" Toccatina which is well-liked by Plymouth audiences. But the other movements from broadly flowing melodies to percussive interjections, are interesting and pleasant to hear.

Suite from "Der Rosenkavalier" by Richard Strauss, great master of orchestration, concluded the program with its complicated demands of the orchestra and conductor but rich, lovely melodies for the listeners.

The Junior League of the Symphony are to be commended for their valued services in providing supervision of the little ones who come to the concerts with their parents.

Good Counsel Confirms 105 at Sunday Service

The Most Reverend John A. Donovan, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Detroit, conferred the sacrament of Confirmation at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church this past Sunday. One hundred and five boys and girls were recipients of this sacrament as it was administered in the church at 4 in the afternoon.

As a preliminary to the service, the choir intoned the pontifical chant "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus," as the bishop and his ministers entered the body of the church in procession.

After a brief interrogation of the children concerning their knowledge of the sacrament they would receive, the bishop requested each child to approach the altar and kneel before him. With the assistance of the eight visiting priests in the sanctuary, Bishop Donovan announced the forehead of each child, invoking God's protection in the spiritual life, and conferring a "new" name for each child.

This name is to be their confirmation name, an additional invocation of a particular saint as guardian. At the conclusion of the hour long ceremony, the bishop addressed the sponsors of the children, enjoining upon them the necessity of being constant good examples to the youngsters. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament closed the religious service, which is held annually at Our Lady of Good Counsel.

(Editor's Note: The author of this column is paid to write it by Republicans. We print it when it's interesting.) BY FRANK G. MORRIS Listening to Detroit election officials testify in Lansing last week that a cleanup is needed in the voter registration system in that city, I was reminded of young Mary Jo and her disillusioning experience as a Republican challenger in the last election.

Mary Jo is sweet and charming and not far above college age, and she is a dedicated Republican. She is the daughter of a prominent Port Huron attorney, and she was a secretary for an important Detroit public relations firm. Having been overseas for a couple of years for the State Department, she really was not as naive as she sometimes appeared. But Mary Jo had been taught that the ballot is sacred and that election laws were written to be observed. She sure raised a lot of hell in Detroit last election day when she discovered she had been misled. At one point during her adventurous day she was surrounded by emissaries from the UAW, the Democratic Party and the City Election Commission. Everyone was saying: "Shush, Mary Jo."

But she couldn't understand why police whistles weren't penetrating the city; why grand juries weren't being called; why prosecutors weren't issuing warrants left and right. For Mary Jo had discovered the election was not strictly following the rules. Being dedicated to a cause, Mary Jo joined the Young Republicans when she arrived in Detroit. She was the willing kind of young voter who attended all meetings, organized rummage sales to raise funds and toured her neighborhood in an attempt to convert Democrats to a better way of life as she saw it. For many years, the Republican Party has been missing a bet by not sending challengers to the east side precincts where Republicans are almost as scarce as American flags in the Kremlin.

But there are 1,742 precincts in Wayne County. Enlisting even a couple of hundred volunteers has been difficult. So the Wayne County Republican Committee turned for aid last November to the Young Republicans.

And Mary Jo, of course, was as willing as ever to serve. By some twist of fate this conscientious, dedicated young woman was assigned to an east side precinct in the 1st Congressional District where a Republican challenger had not been seen since 1928. Although Democratic election veterans were surprised by her arrival shortly before 7 a.m. at the polling place, they quickly regained poise when they discovered that Mary Jo was acting as a GOP challenger for the first time.

SHINE 'EM UP

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The shoe shine business is big business. Industry sources say Americans buy about 300 million cans and bottles of shoe polish every year. This adds up to about 10 billion polishes each year. All this buffing leads Americans to spend about $75 million just to keep their shoes shined.

The Male Plumeau Touch
Spring '61 accents in male plumage points up acceptance of feathers and ornaments to spark new hats. New adventures in trimming takes the conventional bow, unchanged for a century and replaces it on casual hats with swirls of rope or braided bands, with pin or feather as a finishing touch.
Rings and belt buckles are used to join the band ends. More feather bands are shown. And the trims are not confined just to casual hats. Plumage of rams and raffia now dress up the straws. Sport caps have symbolic embroidered ornaments, too!
Every male who desires just a flash of color this spring will get the color flash with lots of dash.

THEY'RE AIRY
Airy-thin blends of silk and mohair create a new fabric for late-day dresses, costumes.
