Mrs. Gerald K. Swain

Couple Exchange Vows At Afternoon Ceremony

Katherine Ann Porter became the bride of Gerald Kenneth Swain at an afternoon ceremony, Saturday, Aug. 16 at the First United Presbyterian Church. Rev. Edward Caster officiated. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in white silk organza with a rounded decolletage etched in pearls and iridescent paillettes on embroidered Alencon lace. A tiara of jeweled lace held her fingertip veil.

She carried white glamillias and stephanotis.

Linda Roose was matron of honor and Susan Elles and Marjory Downs were bridesmaids. They wore blue polished cotton sheaths with chiffon print overskirts. The bow headpieces were of matching chiffon. Their bouquets were composed of pink glamillias.

John Roose was best man and Michael Porter, David Swain and Merle Hamlin ushered.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony.

For their honeymoon trip to the Smokey Mountains, the new Mrs. Swain wore a toast colored linen jacket dress with brown accessories.

The couple will make their home in East Lansing.

City Wins Pedestrian Award

Four straight years without a pedestrian death have won for the City of Plymouth an award "for excellence of pedestrian record" from the American Automobile Association. Plymouth was among 30 Michigan cities receiving the award which resulted from the city's entry in the 1960 national pedestrian protection contest.

Robert Cain, manager of the AAA Plymouth office, presented the award to Mayor Robert Sincock at the City Commission meeting Tuesday night.

Plymouth competed against 646 other cities in the below 10,000 population class.

Cain cited the work of police, school and other civic officials in "carrying out an obviously effective pedestrian safety program, but added that the award was made possible through the cooperation and careful driving and walking practices of all citizens."

Offered by the Division in the Plymouth High School will be "Reading Efficiency" on Monday evening starting Oct. 2 with Barbara Cheris. Registration for this class may be made at the Plymouth Adult Education Department or at the Division's offices, 60 Farnsworth Avenue, Detroit.

— The Plymouth Community Industrial Development Corp. was formed to attract industry to the community. It is now engaged in meeting commitments to Distribution Services, Inc., a firm that recently moved into the long-vacant Daisy Manufacturing plant. This is the first of what can be a long series of successes in attracting industry here.

— Why do we need more industry? It is certain that homes will be going up in our community for years to come. This means more people — and more people mean more schools and teachers and City and Township services. A sound tax base composed of good balance of industry and homes lightens the tax load for everyone.

— What does the Plymouth Industrial Development Corp. do? It gives financial assistance, if necessary, to firms interested in Plymouth. Money received from shareholders is loaned to the industry. When repaid, the Development Corp. then intends to put this money to work in helping other industry into the community. The corporation has set the cost of a share at $25 so that hundreds can afford to participate in this "grass roots" project.

DISHING UP barbecued chicken to some 3,000 people last year was quite a feat and a similar scene is to be found this Sunday when Rotary has its Fall Festival at Kellogg Park. Carry-out orders will also be filled. What if it rains? "We're not counting on it," the committee says confidentially.

To Make Parts For Chevy II

Chevrolet Motor Division's Spring & Bumper Plant on Eckles Rd. has begun producing parts for the Chevy II, a new line of cars with new dimensions in size and function for the American public, it was announced.

Edward N. Cole, Chevrolet general manager and a vice-president of General Motors, told newsmen attending a preview of 1962 Chevrolet products that the Livonia plant is one of several manufacturing facilities producing parts for the new vehicles.

Chevrolet - Livonia will make front coil springs, rear single leaf springs, front and rear bumpers, front bumper brackets, front bumper braces, steering knuckle lower control arm stops, rear spring and shock absorber anchor plates, and front stabilizer shafts for the new models.

Cole said the tapered plate spring which the Livonia plant will make for the Chevy II fulfills a long-time objective of the auto industry. It climaxes years of research for rear axle cushioning which would cut the weight and assembly time of multiple leaf and coil suspensions while providing ride quality equal to or better than traditional springing systems.

The new spring is a five-foot, shot-peened steel bar which varies in thickness and width to provide uniform stress distribution.

Chevrolet-Livonia employment currently totals about 1,600 persons.

MEA Advises How to Succeed in College

The freshman year of college is the most critical drop-out and flunk-out period, the Michigan and National Education Associations report. After you have cleared the first-year hurdle, your chances of completing college are considerably higher.

Getting into college is only half the battle, according to the MEA and NEA; the other half is staying in.

The five booby-traps described here are most frequently identified by college deans and counselors as responsible for the high rate of freshman "fallout."

- Lack of effective study habits and skills.
If you haven't learned how to take comprehensive, well-organized notes; if you are a slow reader; if you don't know how to track down research materials; if you lack a ability to express your thoughts clearly in class, in themes, and in essay-type assignments — you may have great difficulty in coping with college.

What can you do about it? If you do not read rapidly, with good comprehension, take a special reading course now. If note-taking is one of your weaknesses, ask for help from your English or business education teacher. Then practice taking class notes. Use them for study and review. If finding resources and study materials is hard for you, ask your librarian for help. If you have trouble expressing your ideas in speaking or in writing, ask your English teacher for advice.
- Lack of incentives to become a competent student.
Teachers are familiar with the type of student who, although he has a high IQ, flunks out in his first college year. They also have known freshmen who, while they exhibited no exceptional brain
- Unrealistic concepts of college life.
Do you have the idea that campus life will be all social adventure — a whirl of football dates and fraternity dances? Do you expect suddenly to be "the most popular person on the campus"? Are you searching for a husband or wife? When unexpectedly confronted by college regulations, heavy class assignments, and little time for dating in the freshman year you could easily develop feelings of defeat unless you know the real purposes of college and what to expect.

What can you do about it? Expect strictly enforced college regulations, heavy class assignments, much related reading, and little time for dating. College is a place to sink your roots into scholarship and to prepare for a career, so get ready to prove yourself as a student and as a mature, thoughtful campus citizen.
- Unprepared for hard work.
Accustomed to less difficult textbooks, to shorter study hours, and to personal supervision by teachers, some students are swamped by freshman requirements and never quite catch up. Those of you who "go away" to college no longer have parents at your elbow reminding you to study or helping you with homework. Have you learned to study independently, to budget your time, to set up definite study schedules and to stick to them?

What can you do about it? Start today to budget your time for study, school activities, and social life. Make a chart and stick to the schedule you set for yourself. Efficient study habits will be one of your greatest assets in college. Choose "solid" subjects plus electives in your own field of interest. The harder you work to master your high school studies, the more confident you can be of success in college.
- Inability to adjust to people.
Students who depend heavily on their families for companionship, who are slow to make friends, and who wait for others to begin friendships can be so lonely in the first year of college that they may not return. If you are too shy or too independent to warm up to new people — including your instructors — you may face a difficult adjustment period when you enter college.

Disabled Take Advantage of Social Security

"Over 200,000 persons under 50 years of age — disabled workers and certain of their dependents were awarded social security disability benefits the first six months (November 1960 through April 1961) after the 1960 Social Security amendments became effective," reported Harry Baltuck, manager of the Detroit Northwest Social Security office.

"Prior to these amendments cash disability benefits were only payable to disabled workers age 50 and over. Benefit payments during this six month period amounted to over 12 million dollars", Baltuck added.

One provision of the law is that benefits may be paid to an adult son or daughter of a disabled, retired or deceased insured worker if the disability occurred before age 18. Some 34,000 childhood disability beneficiaries are in this group.

As of April 1961, over 800,000 disabled workers and their dependents were receiving benefits totaling nearly 56 million dollars monthly.

To be eligible for social security disability benefits a worker must have worked for at least five years in the 10 year period before he became disabled. His illness or injury must be one that shows up in medical examinations and tests. It must be a long term illness or injury so severe that it prevents the worker from doing any substantial gainful work. If an illness or injury is one that is expected to improve with medical treatment, the worker is not eligible for social security disability benefits.

The 1961 amendments to the social security law extended the time for filing for social security disability benefits to June 30, 1962. Workers with long standing disabilities may lose all or some of their rights to these benefits if they do not apply for them before June 30, 1962.

A disabled worker age 62-64 whose disability claim has been disallowed may apply for a reduced retirement benefit. If he does this he will continue to receive a reduced retirement benefit at age 65.

If you are disabled, be sure to check with your local social security office about your rights to social security disability benefits. Materials on the provisions of the law are available at the social security office. The Detroit Northwest office is located at 18500 Grand River, Detroit 23.

New Interceptor Route Wayne-U of M Adult Courses Listed in Catalog

ENGINEER'S MAP showing the pathway of the huge sewage disposal system which serves the Middle Rouge Valley, of which all communities in this area are a part.

The small broken line traces the route of the existing Middle Rouge Interceptor, built about seven years ago. It became too small because of swift suburban building and the lack of capacity caused the State Health Department to invoke a building ban until new capacity was provided.

The heavy broken line shows the routing of new facilities which recently were approved by 14 communities involved. The building ban was lifted after the contracts were signed. Work on construction will begin in the near future.

Do you wish to study the philosophies of the East with a professor from India, or would you rather learn to appreciate and enjoy the architecture around you with one of Detroit's leading architects?

On the other hand, your interests may lie in the identification of rocks and minerals or studying calculus, or discussing literature for children, or learning how to write a technical report. These are but a sampling of the new subjects among the 100 university-level courses offered by the Division of Adult Education, Wayne State University - University of Michigan this Fall.

In response to public request, morning and afternoon classes have been increased in number and scope this semester with sessions meeting in the Detroit Cultural Center Area. Some of the day-time courses include: Basic Food Preparation, Dramatic Appreciation and Criticism, Child Psychology, Interior Design, Adult Mixed Choir and Technicals of Poetry Writing.

Registrations may be made at the Division's office, Room 120 of the Rackham Educational Memorial Building, 60 Farnsworth Avenue at Woodward, Detroit, beginning Sept. 11. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. for two Saturdays, Sept. 16 and 23. Classes begin the week of September 25.

Fall catalogs are being mailed to those previously registered with the Division. Others may obtain them by writing to the office or by calling TEmple 3-1400, ext. 371.

Test for Our Leaders

We have long heard about "peace at any price." And increasing numbers since Hiroshima have apparently decided it is worth any price.

But, there is still some question as to whether or not technology, and the adiposity of mind and body it has engendered, has completely smothered that troublesome thing called "spirit" that has elevated man above the beasts.

The spirit of man has been conquered elsewhere — over more than half the globe, in fact. Why should it flourish longer on our shores?

The chips are down and we shall soon find out the answer. To become slaves is the safe and easy course — however unpleasant the aftermath. The alternative is less certain. It requires that we shake dice with Fate in a game of keeps — to retain our freedom or to embrace oblivion.

Which course we follow depends on our leadership. This is a good time, therefore, to remind every local official that, under the American traditions, his community looks to him as a leader — a leader who is poorly rewarded, frequently imposed upon, but respected according to his deserts.

The same thing pertains, we might add, to those who carry the trust of a local newspaper.

Young Man, Be an Accountant

If you have been thinking of our days as the aspirin or even the atomic age, you are behind the times. Evidence is mounting that we are living in the age of the accountant. Anybody who wants to get a head should learn to make with the figures or hire somebody who can do so in the latest fashion.

This we learn from "Young Man, Be An Accountant," a recital in Esquire by Carolyn Bird of the achievements of David Boyd Chase, a virtuoso of the profession who is a special hero to the 600,000 private entrepreneurs whose closely held businesses seem a special target of the Internal Revenue Service.

He has fought that agency in court and won and is famous for showing business men how to raise cash without losing control of their family enterprises.

A recent survey of 1,700 companies listed on the stock exchange showed that more of their chief executives started in finance and accounting than in any other department. The Secretary of Defense is an accountant. So at the moment are the top men at General Motors and Chrysler. There is no doubt about the climb of accountants to respect and power in recent years.

But it was not always so. Elbert Hubbard, who went down with the Lusitania, described the typical figure man as "past middle age, spare, wrinkled, intelligent, cold, passive, noncommittal, with eyes like a codfish, polite in contact but at the same time unresponsive, calm and damnably composed as a concrete post or a plaster - of - Paris cast; a human petrification with a heart of feldspar and without charm of the friendly germ, minus bowels, passion or a sense of humor. Happily they never reproduce."

A feed store is the only place in town where you can buy a chicken dinner for a dime.

How's Business?

Chart Reaches New August High

By ROGER W. BABSON

While public attention was focused upon the "brink of war" crisis in Berlin and an equally taut labor problem in the domestic automobile industry, the pace of general business advanced resolutely to another new all-time high in the month of August.

The Babson Composite Business Chart rose to a level of 122, up one point from July, and two points above the reading of a year ago.

lumber, and paperboard products. In addition, fields related to defense activity operated at a brisk pace. Expenditures for new construction increased; electric power production also advanced.

The most noticeable exception to the rising trend of business was the automobile field. Production of new cars was cut to a virtual trickle as plant facilities underwent the necessary changes for turning out new models.

Furthermore, auto producers were apparently aiming to clear off the inventory of 1961 cars to insure a favorable market for the new models.

With the summer lull behind us, prospects are that the economy will gather steam. If the sharp pickup in retail trade in the back-to-school selling season is any indication, consumer spending should at last more actively support the economic upswing.

Red Cross Recruiting

A training course for new volunteers in the Detroit Red Cross Canteen Service will start on Tuesday, Sept. 19, with an introductory class from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at chapter headquarters, Elizabeth at John R., in downtown Detroit. Subsequent lessons will be conducted at the Elizabeth St. Building on Monday, Sept. 25, and if the number of prospective volunteers living in the suburban area warrant, this same lesson will be presented at the West Regional office, 2440 S. Telegraph Rd., Dearborn, on Tuesday, Sept. 26. On Oct. 3 and 10 classes will be either at a bloodmobile installation in a suburban neighborhood or chapter headquarters.

Mrs. Robert C. Artner, chairman of Canteen Service, said new volunteers are needed to replace current workers whose other responsibilities make it necessary for them to devote less time to Red Cross and in order to extend the services of the chapter.

Red Cross canteen volunteers serve snacks to blood donors before and after their trip to the donor room. Usually local volunteers are called on when the bloodmobile is in a given community. Canteen volunteers also serve regularly at the Blood Center on Elizabeth St. and are 'on call' for disaster service if it should be necessary.

Women interested in taking this training are asked to call the following number for further information or to enroll: Northwest Regional Office, GA 4-0220. Following the 16-hour training period, volunteers select their day and hours for service and provide their own uniforms for on-duty wear.

Why Catholics Believe As They Do

People on the outside often wonder why Catholics keep "running" to church.

"Catholics," they have heard it said, "go to church because they are obliged to do so. The priests keep telling them it is a sin if they don't... that they risk eternal damnation if they don't obey the Church."

It may be possible to "fool all of the people some of the time." But it is not unbelievable that literally billions of people could have been deceived over a period of nearly 2,000 years?

Religion to a Catholic is not merely a worthy and virtuous activity. It is an absolute duty. It is, we believe, the means provided by God for the fulfillment of the God-given purpose of our lives.

Rocks Get First Scrimmage Saturday

CANDIDATES for the 1961 varsity squad of the Plymouth High football team are pictured here as they worked out one night on the practice field. Only 48 turned out for practice—one of the most disappointing turnouts in recent years, according to Coach John Hoben. Thirteen are returning lettermen. The opening game is Friday, Sept. 15 at Northville. The opening home game will be the following week, on Sept. 22.

Three Sophs Impress Coach

With the opening game at Northville still more than a week away, Friday, Sept. 15, Coach Mike Hoben and his Plymouth football team worked through the hot weather to get ready.

"We've got some trouble," Hoben said. "Rick Sweet has a knee injury and is doubtful." Sweet is a tackle. "Hugh Sarah has a pinched nerve in the shoulder." Sarah is a full-back.

"We have only 39 ball players and we're supposed to make two squads out of that," Hoben said. "We aren't running well," he added.

Three sophomores have lightened Hoben's pessimistic mood, however. "Al Smith, a guard, Kevin Huntington, a tackle, and Dick Egloff, an end, look good," Hoben said.

Others, who have impressed Hoben to date, include Dale Hauk, a tackle, Brian Gilles, a half-back, and Jim Gavigan, a tackle. After the first scrimmage, the coach wasn't particularly satisfied, but worked the team through a heavy conditioning program, including a grueling assortment of wind sprints.

"We're in pretty fair shape," he said.

A regular game scrimmage is scheduled for 9 a.m. this Saturday, when Plymouth will play a half each against Holy Redeemer and Taylor Center. "They're pretty fair ball clubs," Hoben said, "and they ought to be a good test."

"We're nursing a lot of injuries," Hoben said, "but things will get better before they get worse." He's a pessimist by trade at this time of year, but he actually said it.

SPORTSEEN

By Bill Nelson

"September Song," Don Mossi and Mike Hoben ordinarily don't figure to have much in common. "September Song" is a sentimental thing that seems to survive the years with its touching plaints of seasons and life. It's a kind of musical "Our Town" in its mood.

In part it goes... "The days grow short when you reach September. When the autumn weather turns the Leaves to flame, One hasn't got time for the waiting game."

At Yankee Stadium in New York last week, Don Mossi, one of the older fellows on the Tiger staff, didn't have time for a waiting game. So he pitched his heart out and lost, 1-0, on three simple singles after frustrating the Yankee power, represented in 1961 by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle.

Now, like the song, Tiger "days dwindle down to a precious few."

But, there is another part of this lecture. Mike Hoben is concerned about the young people in town. As a football coach, he is concerned that only 41 turned out for football out of a high school male population of over 700.

He is not alone. During the past two years, other coaches have echoed his concern. To a man, they are well aware that a particular sport isn't the end all of human existence, but what scares them is the substitutes that the young people are choosing.

Somehow, as coaches, every inexperienced youthful mistake becomes a part of their knowledge. What happens at the drive-ins around town on Saturday evening is common knowledge to the coaches on Monday morning. It's their job to know, and they take it seriously. They are seldom fooled.

So, in Hoben's case, he works hard. One of the results, of course, is that he has had good teams. Another, less direct result, is that many of Plymouth's athletes have gone on to college and more preparation for success in life.

"Maybe it's the tense times we live in," Hoben remarked the other day, "with the threat of the draft and the unsure situation in the world. But, something is happening to today's youth."

It was a moving indictment. We have come to know the Plymouth coaches a little, however, and have confidence that Hoben will do what is necessary. The players that want to play (there are still a few) will learn in little ways. It will be an extra wind-sprint, or something else. Then in the season they will respect the wisdom of the coach.

Area Airport Approved for FAA Examining

National Flying Service, 39205 Ford Rd., Plymouth, has been approved by the Federal Aviation Agency to authorize and examine student pilots for private pilots' licenses without the grades taking a formal FAA flight test.

The airport is the first in the Detroit area and one of the first in the nation to be appointed as an FAA examining agency, according to Johnnie Parker and Charles Spicer, Jr., operators of the facility.

This is in no sense a "give-away" program by the FAA, since it assigns prime responsibilities to the management of pilot training schools and in return extends examining privileges. The new regulation extends to pilot training operators the policy that aviation safety will be a cooperative effort of government and industry and additionally provides the necessary tools for FAA field inspectors to conduct realistic supervision and surveillance of the approved airman agencies.

Local FAA inspectors will continue to monitor the operation and from such surveillance and spot checks determine that the school is operating satisfactorily.

A student enrolled in the course must complete the program within the nine months of enrollment. This means that an average of at least one flight and ground school hour per week must be maintained.

The school holds approvals from the Michigan Department of Aeronautics, Michigan Department of Public Instruction and Veterans Administration.

Here are the backgrounds of the four candidates:

George Montgomery

Was once candidate for State Senate. His father is George E. Montgomery, a State Representative from the 6th District in City of Detroit. He will be granted leave of absence from Livonia schools if elected. Has been active in Democratic groups.

Weldon Yeager

holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Wayne State University. Has a wife and two children. Member of Republican State Central Committee from 17th District. Candidate for State Representative once and Senator twice. Since he is self-employed, he states that he will have to struggle to spend time on the job.

teacher in the Detroit Public Schools, Hahn holds a B.A. degree from the University of Detroit and M.A. degree from University of Michigan. He is working toward his doctorate. He is a supervisor of student teaching at Wayne State and teaches evening classes at Cody High School. Member of Democratic organizations and Detroit Federation of Teachers. Has a wife, two sons and two daughters. Would also be granted leave of absence if elected.

Anna M. Conklin

A former secretary, she is now a homemaker for her husband, Arthur, a daughter and two sons. Attended Framingham (Mass.) High School. Has served in numerous civic and club posts in Livonia and is a former Republican State Central Committee woman and was alternate delegate to 1956 GOP convention. Since she is a housewife, she states she would have no problems to make the convention.

The four candidates have met in debate before audiences at the Mason and Pearson Junior High School in Redford Township and Plymouth Junior High in Plymouth. This Wednesday night they will again express their views at Jefferson School in Livonia and Friday night they will be at Bentley High School at 8 p.m.

It is estimated that it will take at least six months to rewrite the constitution.

The Mail Attitude

BY PAUL CHANDLER

Next Tuesday (Sept. 12) is the day for the final election of Constitution Convention delegates.

This newspaper's recommendation goes to the two Republicans. They are Weldon O. Yeager for the seat from senatorial district and Mrs. Anna Conklin for the one from the representative district.

Mrs. Conklin is a Livonia resident. Yeager comes from Detroit's 22nd Ward in the eastern end of the senatorial district. Both carry "Preferred" ratings from the Detroit Civic Searchlight and are competent, reasonable, moderate.

The main issue, as we see it, however, isn't one of personalities. We want the Convention to be in the hands of independent-minded, non-captive, free delegates.

In the present state of political development it is impossible for Democratic candidates to so operate. Both of the Democrats on the ballot sought and obtained CIO endorsement for this election, and the CIO will be cracking bullwhips all over Lansing once the delegates are seated.

Aside from their debt to special-interest labor, both the Democrat candidates also are school teachers by profession, which leaves them vulnerable to another special interest which will be swarming at the convention, the powerful education lobby.

Without meaning to appear lazy, we'll let The Detroit News argue the point from here on. The News wrote an editorial in May which just about describes our opinions in this Con-Con election. It follows:

AFL-CIO Betrays Con-Con

"A SLATE OF ZOMBIES"

"Constitutional convention delegate candidates who have bartered their independence for AFL-CIO endorsement have betrayed those who fought for an over-all revision.

"Included in the list of AFL-CIO entries are union and public payrollers who are little more than mercenaries and economic captives. To win union endorsement, the candidates were obliged to pledge themselves to union 'rule and ruin' objectives.

"The one hope for the convention was that delegates would run as free men with open minds, not as pressure group or partisan puppets. The union's action unmarks forever the myth that the AFL-CIO and Democratic political organizations are separate entities in Wayne County.

"Our Glenn Engle quotes Alex Barbour, AFL-CIO Wayne County Council president, as saying the Democratic selections will coincide with the union endorsements. Barbour adds cynically:

"Let's face it. Without the AFL-CIO, Democrats in Detroit and Wayne County couldn't go anywhere."

"To win endorsement, the favored candidates had to agree to support political election of the judiciary; the present vague bill of rights; retention of the present awkward initiative and referendum provisions; election of both the House and Senate on a straight population basis.

"We long ago urged delegate candidates like State AFL-CIO President August Scholle and UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, not union porkchoppers. We asked election of community leaders, not City-County Building elevator operators. We still do.

"We once were proud of Miss Adelaide Hart, Detroit schoolteacher and state Democratic vice-chairman for many years. We have spoken fondly of Mrs. Mildred Jeffrey, although unhappy she served both as Democratic national committeewoman and a union payroller. Now both march under the orders of their masters.

"The union now touts Anthony J. Wilkowski as a businessman candidate. Our memory is longer. He went to Jackson Prison for trying to steal an election while a state senator, later was re-elected and refused a seat by Senate colleagues.

"Two years ago, former Democratic State Chairman Neil Staebler told his party that Michigan need elect only a one-chamber House if the one and only basis for Senate elections was population, without regard for geographical interest. In the resultant furor, the unicameral proposal by Democrats was swept under the rug to avoid a party row.

"Outstate Democrats and Republicans won't go for a purely population-basis Legislature or a constitution preconceived at Solidarity House. So, the only logical conclusion is that the union's objective will be defeated in the convention, and the AFL-CIO will be out to prevent adoption of the first new constitution offered the state in 52 years.

"The union action points up this fact: The locked up and delivered minds, blind to all negotiation, compromise or statesmanship, anxious for selfish gain, aren't all owned by rural Republican legislators."

Issues Debated

vored a compromise solution — that of basing the House of Representatives on population, but working out something for the Senate that will be based on both population and area. "If both are constituted on population," Yeager said, "you will, in effect, have one legislative branch — a unicameral system."

While the Democratic candidates argued that the legislators should represent the people — not "trees and swamps" — Mrs. Conklin said that "we should all have our rights guaranteed, whether we live in a big city or in an upstate forest."

"Should the administrative board (secretary of state, treasurer, etc.) be elected or appointed?"

The two Republican candidates and Hahn felt that these people should be appointed, but Montgomery felt that election should continue. "I have confidence in the choice of the people," he said. As these "ad-board" people campaign throughout the state, they are in more contact with the people than if they did not run for election," he added.

"Should the office of justice of the peace be abolished?" someone asked.

All four were of the opinion that it should, but they were not sure what type of system would be substituted. Township governments are against this abolishment proposal. Yeager felt that there should be some type of district court and that the fee system be eliminated. Mrs. Conklin also suggested that the judge have legal training. Hahn went as far as to suggest that justices be compelled to be a member of the bar.

There was also a question concerning the point of whether judges should continue to be elected on a non-partisan basis. Montgomery said that he felt that they should be elected on a partisan basis. "The present method is a sham," he asserted, since everyone knows which party is behind the

The guests were Miss Irene Graninger, the Misses Bessie and Laurabelle Wileden, Miss Ardath Baker, Miss Martha Ingall, Mrs. Harlow Ingall, and Mrs. Lawrence Ingall, the members of the Ross family. Games were played, the honored guest winning the first prize. Miss Ingall was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. George David Michelin, Jr., announce the marriage of their daughters, Ruth Lois, and Beatrice Mae, to Joseph James Freshman, of Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Freshman and H. Charles Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lee of Farmington. The ceremony took place at 10, Thursday morning, in the Grace Episcopal Church in Detroit. The brides were given away by their father.

50 Years Ago

The great excitement of the bridge collapse of Belle River is about over. Hundreds of people came to see the wreck. The separator has been taken out by Mr. Cooper, who has the job of cleaning up the affair and they are still working at the engine. It was certainly a lucky accident in that no one was injured.

There is a tent show running at the Center this week. The office of director in District 7 is being filled with energy and vigor. Mr. F. F. Becker, our capable director, has offered a little red pig as a prize for scholarship, and if a pupil comes to school with uncombed hair, he receives a black mark in the demerit book, the same to be counted against the scholarship. The only criticism we have to offer against this system is that clean fingernails and teeth should also be included.

Miss Nettie Purdy has obtained an excellent position in the schools of Mosherville near Adrian, at a salary of $50 per month. Miss Purdy is a graduate of the Michigan State Normal and of Cleary's Business College.

Max Hillmer of Lansing visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hillmer, over Sunday and Monday.

Miss Pearl Jolliffe started Wednesday for Huntingburgh, Ind., where she will teach music and physical culture.

A building to be used as a bakery is being put up on Depot St., opposite to the Hamilton factory. Fred Secord is to be the baker.

President Taft will visit Michigan this month, arriving in Detroit on the 18th, when he will open the State Fair.

The Tonquish Sunday School will have a carpet rag social at Philip Dingledey's. There will also be a professional fortune teller present, who will read your palms while you wait. All professional ball players are especially urged to be present. Ladies, please bring all the grub you can scrape up. There will be special music.

Under 21

By DAN HALLIGAN

Dear Dan: I have a problem. I'm sure you can help me with it. It's about a boy I met while swimming at a public beach a little distance from town. I don't know his name, age, address or town but yet he knows everything about me. He asked me to go underwater and kiss him but I refused because my friends and their parents were looking at us.

Dan, please print this and give me some help. — Lonely For Him.

Dear Lonely: In this business you receive all types of letters — sincere, from smart-alecks, from "Monday morning quarterbacks," threats and some that are nauseating. Yours is one of the latter, sorry to say. You have a problem, all right, but it's nothing I can help you with.

You're going to have to find out for yourself what constitutes being a lady and being otherwise. Wake up, girl, before you lose out.

Dear Dan: I'm an unmarried girl with a son living with someone else and I'm expecting another baby in January. I want to keep this baby but I don't know if I can. Do you think I should make the father pay or give up this baby too? I want to do what is best for the baby. — Marty.

Dear Marty: For factual information, see your local Legal Aid Society, your county welfare department or juvenile authorities. Talking over this problem with your clergyman would be a good idea too. Don't waste any time on this. Good luck.

Dear Dan: The longer I know this boy who lives on my block, the more I like him. My brother says he is always talking about me so he must like me too. The big trouble is that I can't get him to ask me for a date. What do you think I should do? — J. H.

Dear J. H.: If I knew your age and your dating status, I could probably give you as much help as anyone but I don't. If you're allowed to date by your parents and this neighborhood boy dates girls, then there's no reason why you shouldn't be his date some evening — providing he's not more than a year and a half older than you are. It seems to me if everything is ripe for this date, your brother could speak to the boy, supposedly without your knowing it. That could do it — get you your date and solve your problem.

While we're on this subject of dating, you boy readers would be surprised at the nice girls you know you could date if you would only speak up. I have dozens of girls write to me every week, all of them with the same complaint. They like certain boys and want to know how they can get those boys to start liking them. You boys know as well as I do that in 90 per cent of those "liking" cases, you like these girls as much as they like you. However, you're just too bashful to speak up or to even smile and the poor girls have the idea you don't even know they exist.

You fellas would have a lot more fun during the rest of this summer and during the coming high school year if you'd swallow your shyness, convince yourselves the girls you like just might like you and at least start speaking to these lovely creatures.

Remember, if you don't, you're only cheating yourselves and you're making life pretty tough on the girls too!

Dear Dan: I'm going with a boy whom I've lost interest in. I want to give him back his ring but my mother won't let me because she says he's nice and a gentleman. He is a gentleman but how can a girl stay with a boy when she's lost interest in him? Can you tell me how to change my mother's mind? — Confused.

Dear Confused: It would probably be a lot easier to change the boy's mind about you than trying to get your mother to change her mind. Be honest with the boy and tell him you'd rather not date him steady anymore. You don't have to go into detail but I'm sure if he's as smart as he should be, he'll immediately suggest the best thing to do would be to break up.

That way, with the boy wanting to break up too, your mother won't be able to do too much to keep you going together. She may mean well but she would be doing considerable harm to the boy and you if you didn't bring up the subject to the boy.

Dear Dan: My problem is I like this girl who is in the seventh grade and I'm in the ninth. Would it be all right to go out with her? She's now going with another boy but he's messing around with other girls and the girl I like is going to break off with him.

I asked her to go to the movies with me Saturday night and she said she would. Do you think this will be a successful courtship? — George.

Dear George: I hope not, not when the girl is only a seventh grader. Her parents must be a little vague in their upper stories to allow a girl of her age to be dating. You'd do well to concentrate on girls of your own age and class.

Foreign Student Report Made By University

The 44,536 foreign students who studied in the United States last year far outnumbered the 9,000 foreign students in the USSR.

But while the Soviet Union has created special facilities and even special institutions for foreign students, a report from Homer Higbee, assistant dean of International Programs at Michigan State University, indicates that the Soviet effort now where approaches what is being done in the United States.

Higbee's study, made for the National Association of Foreign Student Advisers under a grant from the Dean Langmuir Foundation, covered 1,365 institutions of higher learning.

He found that the major problems facing foreign students at American colleges and universities are too little knowledge of the English language and insufficient funds.

There is urgent need for the establishment of additional English language centers in the U.S., he reports.

Such a center will be opened this fall at Michigan State University. Under the new procedure, foreign students will be tested on English ability. If their command of English is found to be inadequate for classroom work, the students will receive instruction in the English training center.

TWO AREA girls were given a thrill last week when they helped TV disc jockey Dick Clark congratulate the winner of the eighth race at Wolverine Harness Raceway. At left is Harold Fisher, driver of Linda's Indian; Joyce Rousseau, 9945 Hillcrest, Livonia; Dick Clark; and Sharon Bongiovianni, 308 N. Center, Northville. The event took place Friday night.

How to get up to 30 extra miles per tankful

Shell test drivers add a "fifth wheel" to their cars for precise distance measurement during mileage tests. It helps them record performance to a decimal point.

Here are some tips from Shell's experts on how to get maximum mileage from your car. If you practice these good driving habits — and if you use today's Super Shell, with 9 ingredients for top performance — you may well save a pretty penny on gasoline bills.

SHELL scientists spend much of their working lives figuring out how to get the most mileage out of a gallon of gasoline. Here are some of the things they've learned.

1. Don't race a cold engine. When your engine is cold, it uses up more fuel. You're also in danger of underlubrication. You pay in greater engine wear.
2. Use a light touch on the accelerator. Tromping down on the pedal is an expensive habit. Starting up, it holds your automatic transmission in a lower "gear" longer — makes the engine turn faster, wasting fuel. Under way, uneven pedal pressure is costly, too. Feed just enough fuel to maintain even speed.
3. Drive "ahead of your car." Watch for slowing traffic and red lights as far ahead as you can see. Then coast up to the stopping cars, instead of braking heavily when you get there.
4. Don't let fuel costs creep up at the stop light. If your car "creeps" when idling with the automatic transmission engaged, have your idle speed adjusted. If you drive a stick shift, remember that pumping the accelerator won't change the light. It only uses up gasoline.
5. Don't indulge in jack rabbit starts. Racing starts are fine on race tracks — but the drivers of those cars are lucky to get 6 miles per gallon.
6. Check your tire pressure regularly. Under-inflated tires increase friction and cut mileage.
7. Check for dragging brakes. Have your Shell dealer check for wheel drag next time you're in for a lubrication. If brakes drag, you pay for it every mile.
8. Get these fuel-saving adjustments. If spark timing is off, for example, you pay in wasted gasoline — and possibly in engine damage. A compression check can reveal power-wasting valve and ring conditions. Other essentials:
 - A. Keep your spark plugs at peak efficiency. Use Super Shell gasoline with unique TCP* additive to give them extra life.
 - B. Adjust carburetor.
9. Get regular oil changes and lubrication — including transmission and differential. Your Shell dealer knows what to do. And he has the finest equipment and lubricants. Your car will last longer. Your gasoline will go farther.
10. Show this advertisement to everyone who drives your car — especially if you pay their gasoline bills. We can't guarantee 30 extra miles per tankful — but the closer these suggestions are followed the better your mileage will be. To start off right, fill up with today's Super Shell. Its nine ingredients mean top performance.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients for top performance

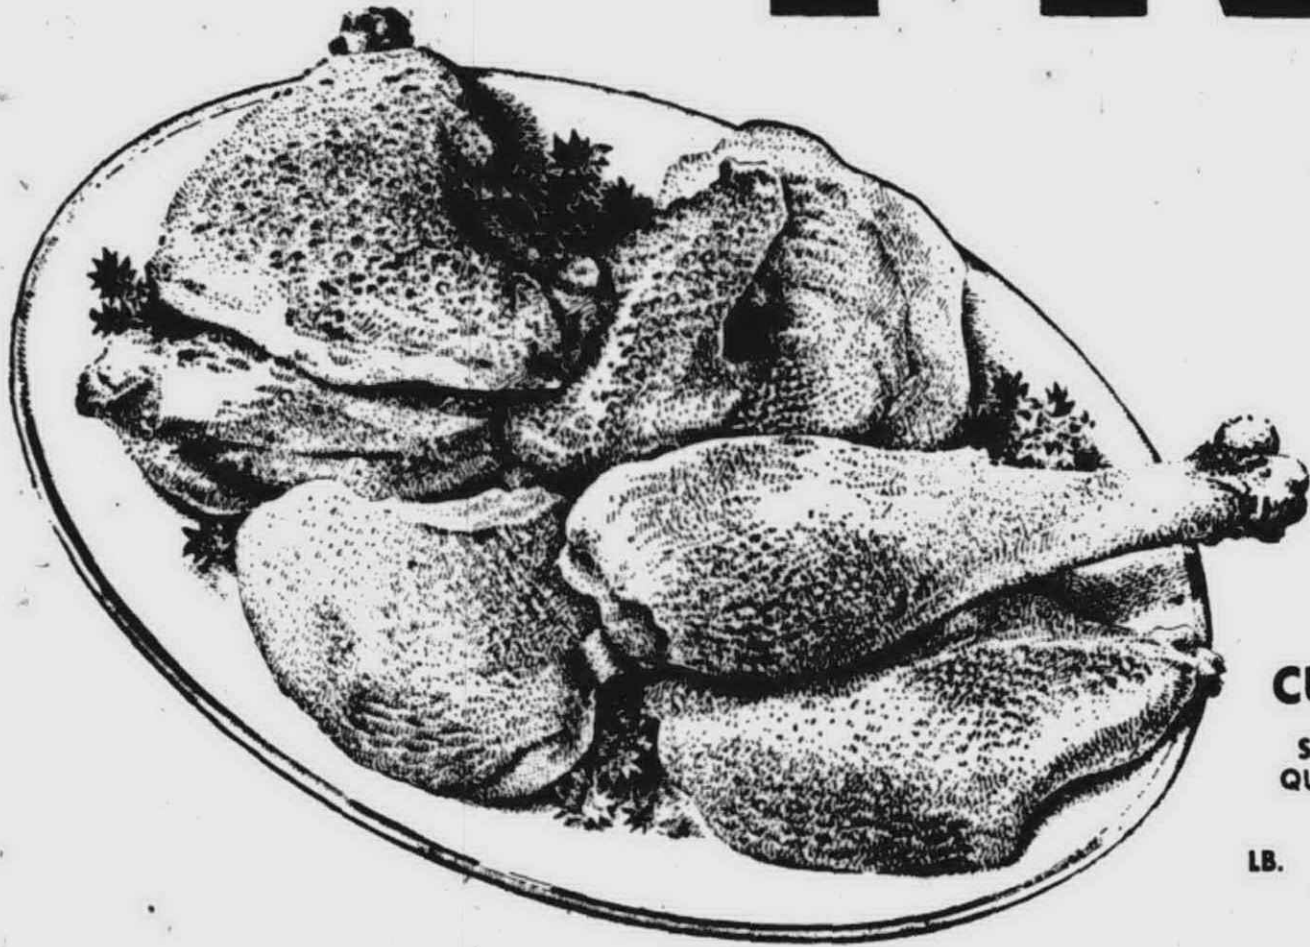

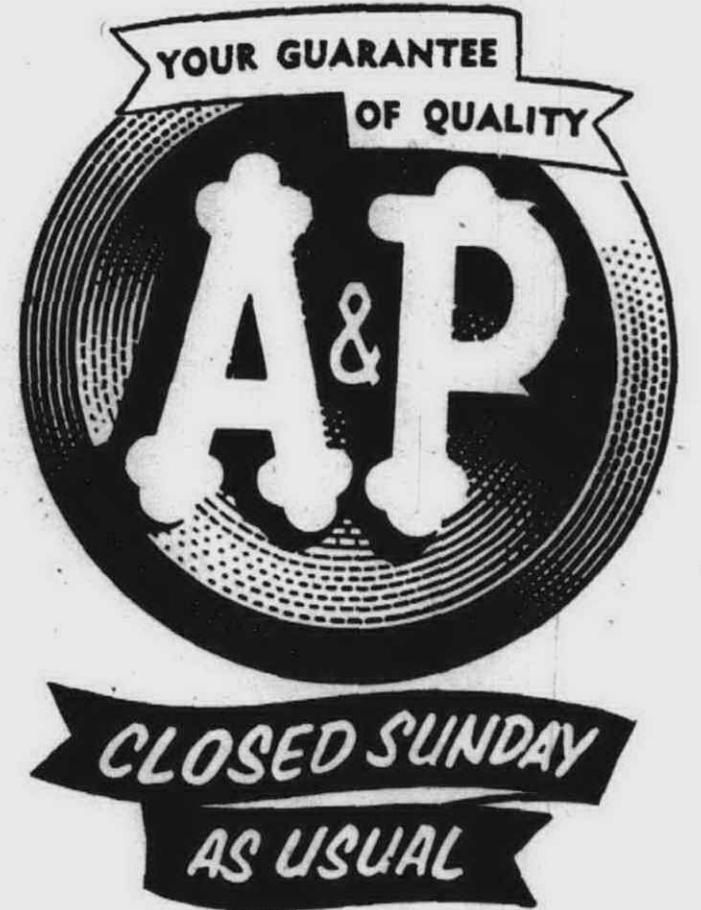

- #1 is TCP for power and longer plug life.
- #2 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all knocks.
- #4 is Alkylate to control "high-speed knock."
- #5 is Butane for quick starts.
- #6 is "anti-crack" gasoline — for power.
- #7 is "anti-ice" — added in cold weather.
- #8 is gum preventive for clean carburetors.
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

At Shell, 1967 scientists are working to make your car go better and better.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U. S. Patent 2889212.

Canton Homestead In Same Family for 100 Years

By Esther Sprengel
Mrs. Dorothy Anders of Livonia, field coordinator of the Wayne Chapter of the March of Dimes, called to let us know that they are once again planning their drive for the year. Mrs. Anders said that they have prepared a film, taken of actual local cases helped by the March of Dimes. The pictures were taken in the hospitals and homes of persons receiving help. Mrs. Anders felt by putting this film on a local basis, it would help persons to better realize the great work this organization is doing. The film takes 25 minutes and is in color. Someone from the Chapter office will accompany the film and narrate it. The film is available to any group or organization free of charge, and can be shown either in the evening or afternoon. The title of the film is "Opening Door." To have this film presented to your group you may call Mrs. Anders at GA 1-8750 or the main office at Woodward 1-4153.

nual Harvest Home Festival. This service is one of the most impressive. At this time the altar is decorated with the many wonderful harvest items that members of the congregation have been blessed with. The food items brought by the members will be given to the home of the aged in Chelsea.
When we say the Weist Homestead, this would ring a bell for only the oldesters in the Township. However, when we say the homestead of Allen Bordine, this would be familiar to a great many more families. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bordine of Salt Rd. have purchased the Weist Homestead from Allen Bordine, who now resides in Detroit with his son, John Bordine. The homestead has been in the family for over 100 years and by the purchase of a direct descendent, Roger Bordine may apply for a centennial plaque. The homestead is comprised of the house and 10 acres.

Mrs. Roger Bordine's mother, Mrs. Sarah Stewart, is now residing in the newly acquired home. Mrs. Stewart was just released from the hospital, due to serious burns. Upon her arrival at her new place of residence, Mrs. Stewart was hostess to her sister, Mrs. Melissa Lynn of Jacksonville, Fla. Also here to visit her during her recent illness was her other sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rhoden and daughter, Barbara, also from Jacksonville, Fla.
While we are on the Bordine family, may we add birthday congratulations to Mrs. Roger Bordine (Florence). Her birthdate is Sept. 3.

While we are on the subject of birthdays, the Sprengel family held their annual birthday party over the Labor Day weekend. The reason it is called our annual birthday party is the fact that four of the six Sprengels celebrate their birthday in September. Mom (that's me) born Sept. 1 some 38 years ago; son Mark 13 years ago, Sept. 5; son Keith, 6 years ago Sept. 8 and daughter Kathy, 3 years ago Sept. 16.

The birthdays are all celebrated with a family get-together cookout, with the usual big birthday cake. On each member's respective birthday date, he or she receives his gift and has a personal birthday cake.
Have a list quite long of families away on vacation, but couldn't find them home as yet. Perhaps next week we'll hear from them. By the way, don't forget to vote on Sept. 12.

A little late, but happy birthday greetings are extended to Beth Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson of Beck Rd. Beth celebrated her first birthday with the help of her relatives at her home. Steve Lang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leonard of Beck Rd., spent the Labor Day weekend with his sister and family at Higgins Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley West of Ridge Rd., proudly announce the birth of their second grandchild, a grandson, born to Mr. and Mrs. Terry West of Plymouth. The young man was named Victor William (a name that has become tradition to the family). Victor weighed 7 lbs., 10 oz., and arrived on Aug. 26.

And while speaking of the Stan West family, we are glad to report Russell recovering nicely from a broken wrist, which he suffered from a fall from a tree while burning a tree fort. Russ spent three days in the hospital.

The Cherry Hill Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Jeanette Ridley to Jim Lobbenstael. Jeanette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ridley, former Township residents, and Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lobbenstael. The ceremony took place on Sunday, Aug. 27.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Simmons of Geddes Rd., was the scene of a reception given in honor of the recent wedding of their daughter, Salley, and her husband. The newly wedded Lufts were married in Marquette and were the guests of honor at an open house reception on Sept. 2.

The Cherry Hill Methodist Church will hold a Sing-spiration on Sept. 10. At the same time the congregation will hold a reception for their new minister, Pastor Nieman. Pastor Nieman has been teaching the word of God for 44 years and has served the Newberg and Wayne congregations.

On Sept. 17 the Cherry Hill Church will hold its annual

Plymouth Man Helps Bring Plant to State

A Plymouth resident was credited this week with helping to bring a General Mills plant to Michigan which this Saturday is holding an open house.

N. G. Stokes, 12731 Beck Rd., a long-time resident of Plymouth, was handed much of the credit for selling General Mills on the idea of locating in Michigan and he presented a project outline which located the plant near Chelsea.

Stokes, who is sales manager of the Animal and Poultry Feed Manufacturing Plant, serves Michigan, Northern Ohio and Indiana. General Mills manufactures its products for 23 states in a huge single plant at Rossford, O., near Toledo.

The new plant is three miles east of Chelsea on the Chelsea-Dexter Rd. General Mills is the first major feed manufacturer to locate a mill in Michigan. Michigan's boom in agricultural growth was listed as one of the reasons for building a plant in Michigan. Products here can be utilized in the manufacture of feeds and will make more capital available for agricultural expansion in Michigan. Stokes said that Michigan's highway system was also a factor in locating here. "It will enable General Mills to give better service," he said. The modern push-button plant employs 25 people. It has a capacity of producing 100 tons of finished feeds and concentrates per eight hour shift. Most of the area feed stores handle General Mills products.

Tours will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. this Saturday at the mill. It is 30 miles from Plymouth.

By George Spelvin

With August '61 safely tucked in the eternal-diurnal archives, the new theatrical season can cast clear eye toward the coming '61-'62 season with a hopeful, enthusiastic flutter. Peering into the backstage area around the canyons of New York, your bright-eyed reporter views the frenzied activity of a score of petulant producers whipping their directors into a fine state of nervous prostration. Now comes the time when all of us sit back and say ... "I wonder if it's all worthwhile?"

Let that first show of the new season smash its way across the Great White Way. Suddenly, we read with envious eyes about the bundle of greenbacks flying into the box office and, without a doubt all those early wonderings drop into oblivion. Noel Coward's "Sail Along," his first venture into the difficult art of musical comedy, will drop anchor at a local New York pier in October.

Out-of-town reports give this show only a 50-50 chance.

"Let It Ride" with lonely George Gobel, another musical comedy entry, comes to the big town in October. I look for this show to be a big success. The musical is based on "Three Men On A Horse," a top comedy in its time, and the men responsible for the tunes, Mr. Ray Evans and Jerry Livingston, seldom make sour music with their tunes. In the serious play category "Blood, Sweat, and Stanley Poole" with Darin McGavin from TV "Riverboat" fame heads the list of new plays and appears to be mighty promising. "Man of All Seasons" and "The Compliant Lover" are two London imports that have already proved attractive to British audiences.

Whether or not they will repeat their English success in cruel New York remains to be seen. Many times the London cheers have turned to hisses on this side of the ocean and vice versa. No one has been able to explain this to any producer's satisfaction in the past 200 years.

Locally, the Plymouth Theater Guild launches their 14th season with a series of comedies. The guffaws will come long and loud from the Plymouth High School Auditorium during the 1961-62 season. "The Remarkable Mr. Penny packer" opens the season on Nov. 1; "The Biggest Thief Town" steals into town on March 1; and "The Curious Savage" will leave you smiling and with a good feeling.

The Livonia players with their home base in Thurston High School are opening in mid-October with "Send Me No Flowers," a sophisticated comedy that takes pot-shots at funerals, heart attacks, and doctors. Following "Send Me No Flowers," The Livonia Thespians will turn to more serious fare with Tennessee Williams' "Glass Menagerie." And they will clear the air of the gloomy Williams' sentiments with a rousing musical comedy, "Bells Are Ringing." Old George looks a bit askance at the choice of "Bells Are Ringing" as a first musical for any group. "Bells" is too sophisticated and New Yorkish for the hinterlands. My advice would have been to take either "Damn Yankees," "Pajama Game," or "Annie Get Your Gun." Any of these musical comedies are sure winners for amateurs since they are loaded with whistle-able tunes.

Before I forget it, let me advise you that the Campus Theater in Ann Arbor has scheduled some provocative foreign movies for the month of September. Saw "The Summer Wind Blows" and "A Lesson In Love," a couple of saucy Swedish cinema-buns the other evening. And let me tell you they were mighty spicy. You chuckled all the way through at the high-spirited adventures of those Svenska lovers.

I hope Mrs. Granberg has these two back for a full week's engagement during the winter. She can turn off the furnace if she does—that "summer wind" in the aforementioned movie title blew in a fairly torrid fashion during most of the film.

Look for these films in the coming weeks at the Campus Theater: "Mein Kampf" (Sept. 10-12); "Ritual of Love" (Sept. 13-16); "The Long, the Short, the Tall" with Laurence Harvey (Sept. 17-23). Also, some Japanese and Russian pictures will be shown at later dates.

Paul B. Fitch, 29-Year Navy Career Man, Retires Friday

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N. M. — A 29-year career in the Navy Supply Corps will be brought to an end Friday when Lt. Cmdr. Paul B. Fitch retires at the U.S. Naval Ordnance Missile Test Facility here.

Lt. Cmdr. Fitch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fitch and the brother of Dr. Gerald Fitch and Mrs. Elmer Bretz, all of Plymouth.

Following retirement, he, his wife, Mildred, and daughter, Sarah, will reside in El Paso, Tex., where he will be associated with the Government Personnel Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Lt. Cmdr. Fitch, a native of West Baden Springs, Ind., enlisted in the Navy in October 1932 shortly after graduation from high school. After attending recruit training at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill., he reported for duty aboard the battleship Oklahoma at San Pedro, Cal.

Other duties he has performed during his long career have included assignments as officer-in-charge of commissary stores at the Naval Air Station, Banana River, Fla.; at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and at Coco Solo, Canal Zone.

He has served in the Receipt Control, Issue Control, Storage and Shops Stores Branches of the Navy Supply Depot, Bayonne, N. J.; as supply officer of the repair ship Luzon during that ship's participation in the 1958 Taiwan Straits crisis and at the Naval Air Station, Memphis, Tenn.

During the next nine years, he was promoted through the enlisted ranks to Chief Storekeeper. In these years, he served aboard the destroyers John D. Edwards and Alden, the transports Henderson and U.S. Grant and aboard the cruiser Indianapolis, visiting ports in Panama, Hawaii, China and Russia.

In June 1942, he was selected as an Acting Pay Clerk and assigned to the hospital ship Pinkney as assistant Supply Officer. He later was promoted to Chief Pay Clerk.

Shortly after being commissioned as an Ensign in January 1944, he was transferred to the Receiving Station, Pascagoula, Miss., where he served as Supply and Disbursing Officer of the station and of the pre-commissioning details at Ingall's Ship Building Corp.

ANYBODY CAN LEARN TO DANCE, says Amy Vanderbilt. She didn't know a cha cha from a waltz until, after years of "sitting this one out," she determined to learn, and now she sits right along with the best of them. How did she do it? This month she explains and adds a dozen valuable pointers for others who have more than one left foot.

 Eric Nicol and Peter Whalley are two bright, new, and brash talents from Canada who have just written a hilarious history of the United States for people who are not going back to school. Here is a sampling of Mr. Whalley's cartoon low-down on what was obviously left out of authorized versions of the lives of Lincoln and Ponce De Leon and the Pilgrims and other Founding Fathers.

A Den Mother's Lament . . . page 14
 There are 310,298 Den Mothers in this country. They are dedicated, hard-working women, but sometimes even their best efforts fall on the deaf ears of boys who are bored, tired, restless, and just plain not interested in repeating the same handicrafts that took up a lot of their time during the school day. Out of hatted experience, one thoughtful mother tells how she would improve Cub Scouting.

 World Champion Louise Suggs (twice winner of the U. S. Women's Open) believes that short-course or par-three golf will become the nation's top sports attraction some day. She reports the story of this new sports boom to date, with notes on its great appeal for older people, for beginners, for mixed games, or for any good golfer with limited time.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

HERE ARE A COUPLE of firsthand reports on the activities of brand-new five-year-old scholars: the first, from Elsa Badger, is about little Martha Drummond, of Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, who was looking forward to her first day in school. When the great morning came, she bounced out of bed, got ready, and thoroughly enjoyed being taken there with all the responsibility of being left alone and of taking the school bus home by herself. The next morning, when her mother went to wake her up, Martha protested, "What? Again?"

The other story comes from Mrs. Hy Rosenthal, in Millburn, New Jersey. It's about a five-year-old boy who had just started school. Every day, when he returned from the morning kindergarten session, his mother would ask him what he had made in school. One day the little fellow, in answer to the standard query, just looked up at her and said, "I made two new friends, Mommy."

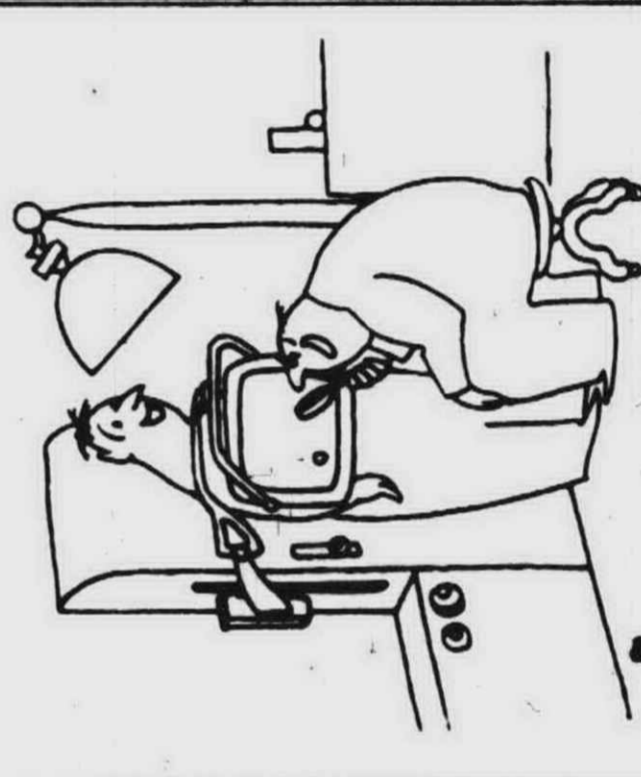

America is still the land of unlimited opportunity for those who know where to look for it. Take the young man Mrs. Irene Rawson of Normandy, Missouri, told us about. He found out that there was a city law which prohibits dogs from the beaches, so he went into the business of taking dogs swimming. Three times a week he makes his rounds, picks up his charges, and takes them to a sheltered breakwater where they can swim, romp, and exercise to their hearts' content. The dogs love it, their owners are de-

"Unfortunately, sir, our circle of friends is complete."

"Take your time, Doc. If it's heads, I win a hundred bucks!"

The Greatest Land Boom in Our Nation's History!

Right now is the golden opportunity to own a big, beautiful homesite in the Black Sand Beach Subdivision in Hawaii. This investment opportunity in Hawaiian real estate is unique because of the tremendous growth since statehood and the increasing popularity of Hawaii as a tourist attraction and retirement haven.

There is a scarcity of land as only a small percentage is available for private ownership. The tremendous future predicted for Hawaii and the ideal year-around climate... temperature varies between 70.3° in January to 75° in August in the Black Sand Beach Resort Area... have already interested thousands of wise mainland investors into purchasing homesites in Hawaii.

Here is Why You Should Invest in Hawaii Now!

Through peace and war... through depression and prosperity... the history of land in Hawaii has been that of a steady increase in land value and price over the years, making it a gilt-edged investment. People who acquired land in Hawaii some years ago are now wealthy because of this steady increase in land values.

And if you have ever dreamed of an Island Paradise... a place of your own where you could "get away from it all"... you will want to own land in the Black Sand Beach Subdivision. Hawaii is the Land of Opportunity, a place to live and raise a family under ideal conditions; perfect climate; wonderful people and a bright future.

Hawaii's facilities for the sports-loving are unlimited. Within a short distance from the Black Sand Beach Subdivision are golf courses, tennis courts, bowling alleys, big game hunting reserves, skeet shoots, spectator sports stadia for baseball, football, basketball and polo, and the Blue Pacific for fishing, swimming, sailing, water-skiing, etc. And up in the mountain areas there is skiing.

Now you can own a homesite in the Black Sand Beach Resort Area for just $10.00 down, $20.00 per month; total purchase price is only $1495.00. All homesites have road frontage, taxes less than $2.00 per year and there are no assessments. This beautiful area is AA, considered the finest land available in Hawaii.

You receive a deed and title insurance policy at no additional cost. Your property is sold on a six-month, money-back guarantee. You can lease out your homesite, build on it, or hold it as an investment for your future. It is located just a short distance from the world-famous Black Sand Beach of Kalapana in the heart of the Kalapana Resort Region. Also, you are less than twenty minutes away by paved highway from the largest city on the Island of Hawaii. Many of these homesites have a view of the Pacific Ocean.

When you get the flowers from a nursery, planting procedure is much the same as that outlined above. Soak the soil in the container well to insure that the soil adheres around the roots in a ball.

Tin containers should be slit in two or three places down to the base so that the sides can be bent outward, thus freeing the root ball. Be careful of the containers' edges!

As chrysantheums come into bloom, visit public gardens and nurseries to make notes of those you particularly fancy.

However you use them, you can be sure of bushels of bloom all autumn.

Flowers By The Spadeful

From now on, in full bloom, chrysanthemums transplant happily

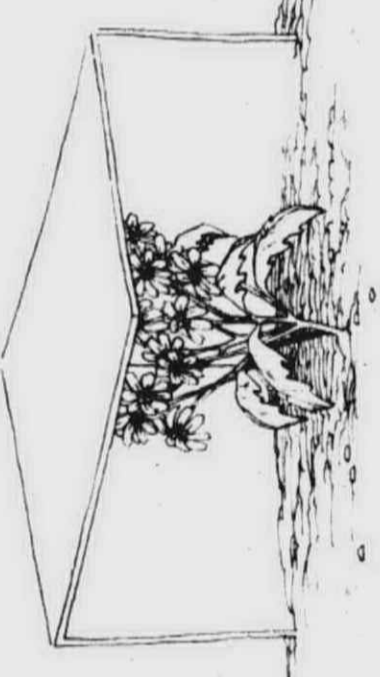

BY JOHN BRIMER

DO YOU NEED FLOWERS to fill a bare spot in your border, something that will give you bushels of bloom right up to winter's first cold breath?

Chrysanthemums are your answer—they can be transplanted successfully and easily when they're in full bloom, and they will hardly know they've been moved, provided you follow a few simple rules. Here is the procedure:

If you have chrysanthemums growing in your garden already, water them thoroughly a day or two before lifting. Late-afternoon transplanting will give them the benefit of the night's coolness for recovery, but it is perfectly possible to transplant them at any hour. Gently tie the stems together to prevent breakage when you are digging and transporting them; an old stocking or other soft cloth is ideal for this. Insert a spade on all four sides of the plant at least six inches out from the stems and six inches or more deep, then lift out a good, deep spadeful of soil and roots. If you have soaked the soil deeply, the soil ball won't break up as you tote the plant to a new home. Dig a hole deep enough to contain the soil ball comfortably, and stir the soil at the bottom, mixing in well a handful of complete plant food, or compost if you have it.

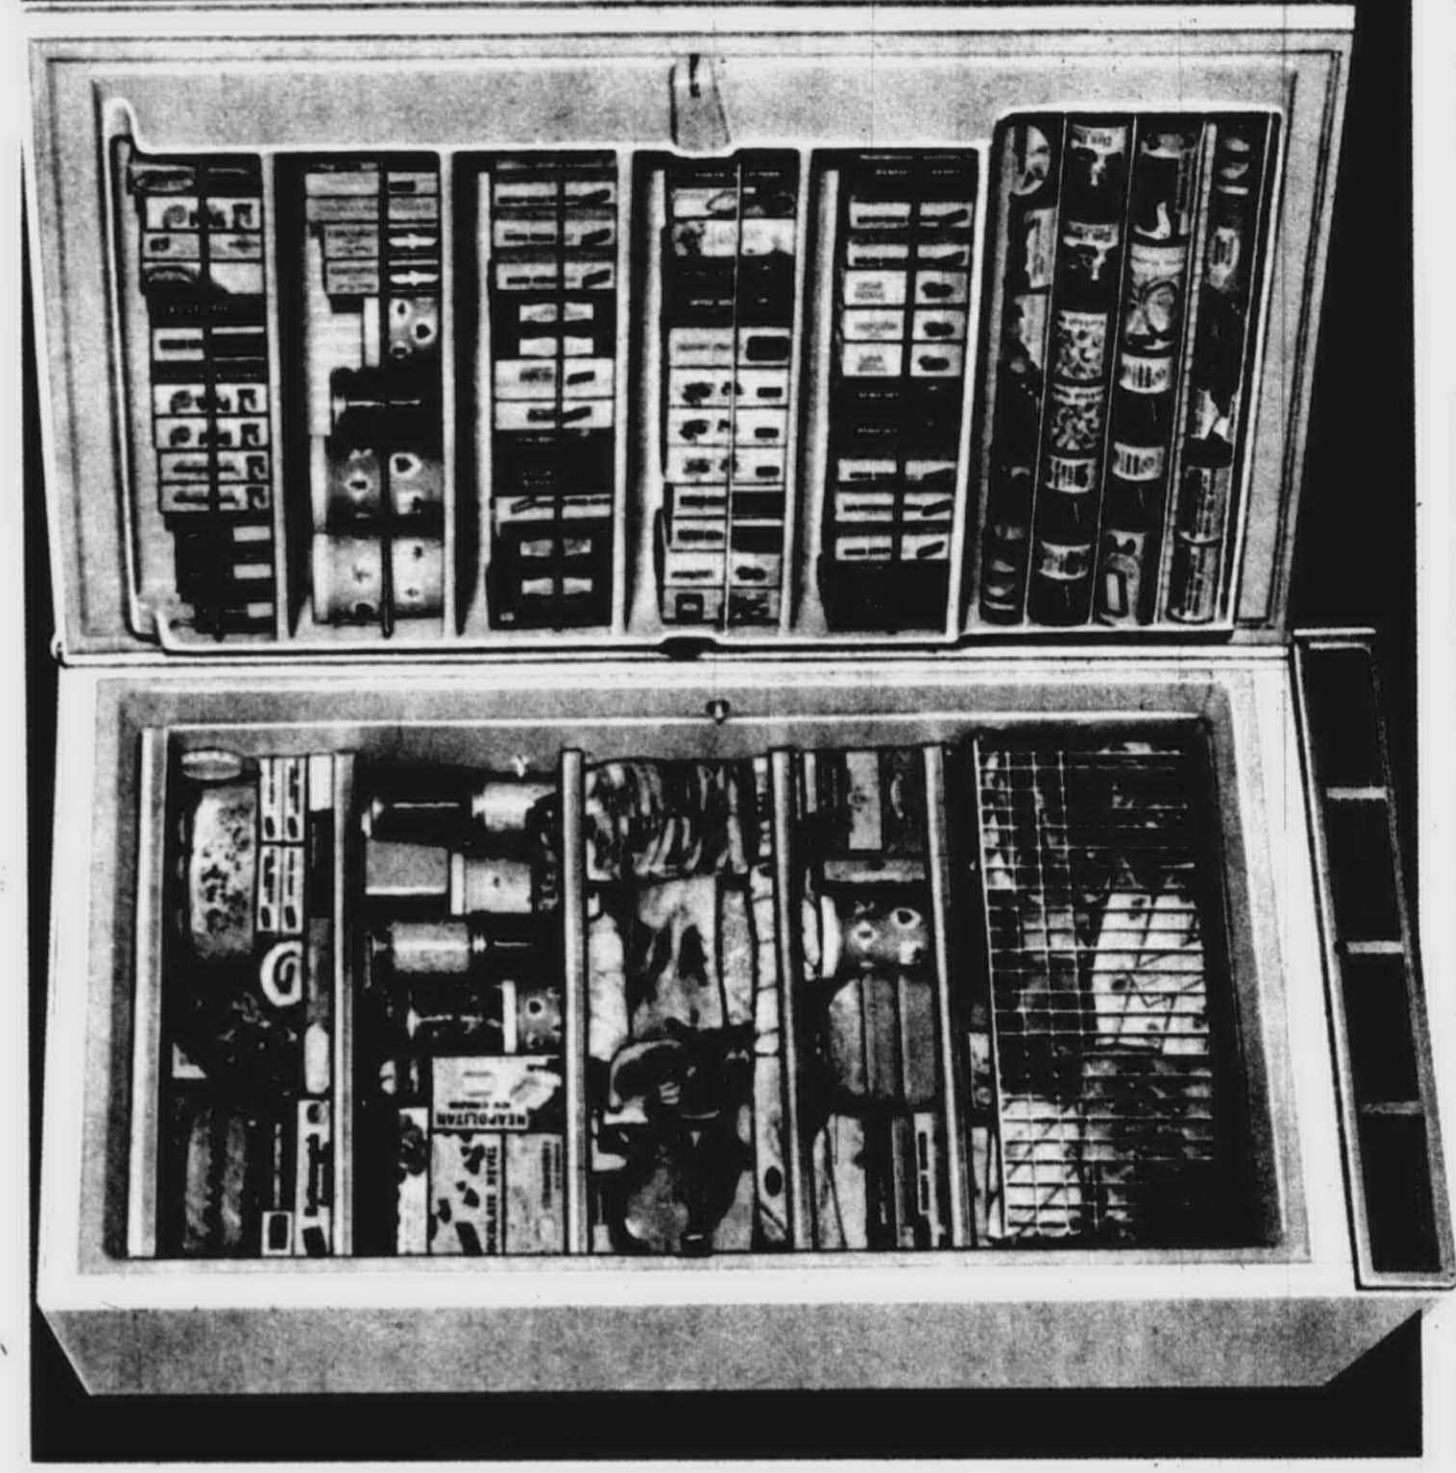

Water well, and when it has soaked in put the root ball in place, fill around it with soil, and tamp lightly. Water again, then fill up even with the soil and soak the plant well. Untie the stems, and there you are. If the weather is hot and dry at transplanting, it may be well to shade your flowers for a day or two with a carton which is open on two sides for ventilation, thus allowing them to settle into their new home without undue strain. Keep watering two or three times a week unless you have enough rain to take care of the plant's needs.

Now is a good time, too, to get chrysanthemums from nurseries, for you can tell exactly what you are getting in height, color, and blossom size. They may be in pots or tin containers, or the nursery may have them balled and tied in burlap. Any way is good, provided the burlapped ones are freshly dug. I've used all three methods and never had a failure, probably because chrysanthemums are surprisingly tough for plants which seem so delicate.

Par-Three Golf Course

BY

stay...and more people play the short courses every year

Today many beginners edge into the game the par-three way, where before they might have quailed at the expense and all the paraphernalia that are required for sampling regular golf.

Setups, of course, vary throughout the country. Many of the most beautiful par-threes, as in Florida and Texas, are run as adjuncts to hotels. California, which tops all other States with a total of 76 par-threes, leans to swimming pools and restaurants as extras. Some establishments night-light their courses for more hours of play, some provide children's play areas—supervised.

Whether all this is really "golf" is no longer a serious question. Bobby Jones boosted par-three into permanent standing by staging a warm-up round on his new nine hole "Little Masters" before the start of the 1960 Masters Tournament at the Augusta National Country Club in Georgia. The event, won by Sam Snead with a 23, not only delighted the spectators but dramatized the possibilities of par-three golf as a supplement to regular golf.

At the new Merrywood Country Club in Smithtown, Long Island, Club officers and the Club professional are happily forecasting the benefits to come from the 18-hole short course they are building. It will provide a quick and stimulating substitute for many players, who for some reason are unable to go a regulation course round—the five-thirty player, for instance, or the lady whose time is limited, or the older player. Beginners, they say, will start with more assurance there; it will drain traffic from the large course. The short course will tend to equalize the game between men and women (with the premium on accuracy), and it may give rise to a new kind of tournament featuring men, women, and teen-agers as the contestants.

Golf planners tell us that, with our present golf boom and rising population figures, by the year 2000 there will be a demand for ten times the golf facilities we have today. This is a strenuous outlook, and the par-threes figure prominently in some strenuous advance planning, which has to take into account the realities of the population explosion, overcrowding, the dwindling of available land, and rising costs. On economic grounds alone, the par-threes are bound to prosper.

Besides, they're lots of fun. Golf, everybody?

SWAP YOUR CRABGRASS FOR A GOOD LAWN

Here's how:

1. Blast crabgrass now. Fill the Scotts Spreader with clean, granular Clout, set the dial and walk. Clout quickly dooms even toughest crabgrass—yet it lets good grass grow unharmful. Leave the dead crabgrass plants right where they are. They'll disintegrate soon enough. Meanwhile, they make an ideal seed bed.

2. Seed one week later. Sow all-perennial, 99.91% weed-free Scotts seed at the economy spreader rate—for the most good grass per dollar. Choose the Scotts blend that gives the kind of lawn that's right for you. Family is the most popular. It thrives in sun or shade, takes good wear with only moderate care.

3. Feed the same day. Give new and established grass the balanced diet it needs to thrive. A Scotts Spreader application of protein-building Turf Builder promotes stronger rooting and thicker, healthier growth. Turf Builder is clean, odorless, non-burning. For best results, apply the same day, immediately before or after seeding.

Follow this simple three-step program and Scotts guarantees your results—a good lawn this very fall or your money back!

NEWS! The

It's respectable...it's here to

TODAY THERE ARE four times as many short courses round the country as we had in 1955, and Gene Sarazen is predicting that in fifteen years they'll outnumber the long. If they had been promoted twenty-five years ago in his heyday, he says, par-three golf would now be the nation's number-one sport.

With the term "par-three," which came into use about ten years ago, short-course golf took on its fully developed character: nine or eighteen complete holes, each of them short enough for a possible score of three (on or near the green in one, down in two more). Except in scale, the short courses are similar to the layouts of their conventional relatives in all details of tees, greens, fairways, and hazards—including, sometimes, such trimmings as a clubhouse and elaborate service facilities.

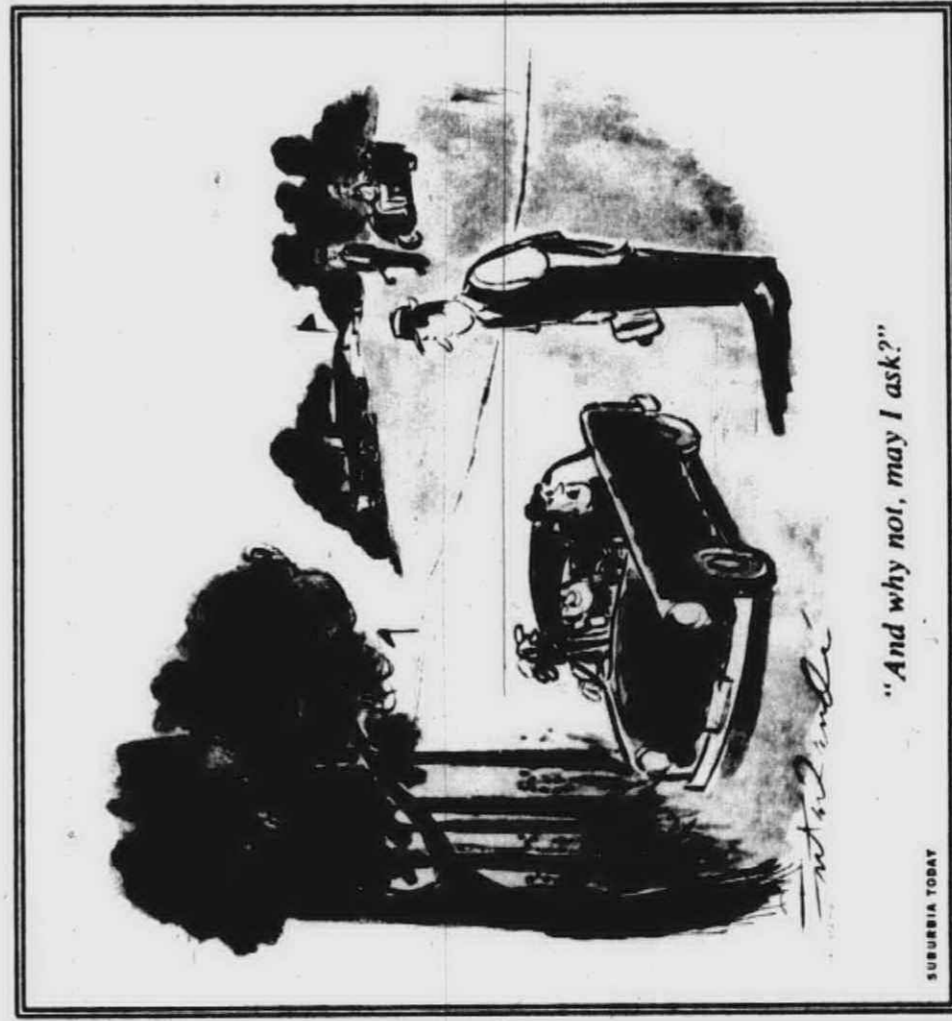

As of now, over-all lengths vary widely from course to course, but a growing number of purists insist that the real par-three will call for the use of every club in the bag and will run to enough length to accommodate some long wood shots.

In any case, from under 600 to over 2700 yards is the present eighteen-hole length range, with individual hole length limited only by the USGA rule which sets 250 yards as the maximum yardage allowed. In practice, it may all work in much the same way as it does at the Oak Lawn Golf Center outside Chicago.

THIS PAR-THREE COURSE, like many of the other 374 spread across the country, functions as part of a community center, which has added to its attractions by including the course. It spreads altogether over seventeen acres, with nine holes as follows:

1. 110 yards
2. 185 yards
3. 140 yards
4. 205 yards
5. 125 yards
6. 150 yards
7. 170 yards
8. 230 yards
9. 160 yards

The Oak Lawn player can not only get a challenging round on such a course for the moderate fee of, say, 75 cents, but for a little extra outlay he can also sharpen up on the driving range or practice green, while a nongolfing companion, in the meantime, can find diversion on the Tom Thumb course unless he wants to rent some sticks and balls and give the real game a try.

Anyone Can Learn To DANCE

—I Did!

BY AMY VANDERBILT

The noted author and etiquette authority tells how she finally learned and adds some invaluable tips

AS A CHILD I was the little, chubby girl with stringy blonde hair they put in the last row of the ballet class. The fifth position never meant a thing to me until—I hate to say how many years later—I learned of its relation to the break in the rumba.

Not that I didn't have dancing lessons. I was literally dragged there, and then dragged around by my partners. Although I had the theory of the dance well-drummed into me throughout my pre-teens and late teens, I could just never learn to coordinate. The waltz made me dizzy, the fox trot was a shambles. When Latin dancing took over, I couldn't even understand the beat. When my eldest son began to jitterbug, he tried to teach me the rudiments, and we both collapsed with laughter. I was worse than squaf, I was hopeless, but you should see me now. I became a good dancer when I was 45 years old.

I laid the foundation, I think, for my successful dancing when I decided to take some routine psychological tests to see if there was any ascertainable reason for my lack of coordination. The tests showed almost immediately that I was born left-handed.

DURING MY childhood it was fashionable to switch left-handed children to right-handedness on the ground that it is a right-handed world and that one shouldn't be too different from other people. The nice man who gave me the test asked me if I had trouble in kindergarten with pegboards, basket-work, beadwork, and so forth. I explained that this was another desperate period in my life. He laughed and said it was a wonder I got into the fifth grade because, before that time, so much depends on dexterity.

I was told that I could be retrained in matters like learning to do arithmetic (I can't), learning to play the piano (the hours I spent fruitlessly at this!), and in other things, but that it was rather pointless. There were things, however, that I could learn, like dancing, through patient teaching and, in the case of dancing, by literally being dragged through the steps over and over again until they made a pattern. I gather, on the left side of my brain, which is the side for me that acts. It was explained to me why, if the teacher said, "You put your left foot here and your right foot there," it made absolutely no sense whatsoever.

I struggled along with my form of dancing for many years, but when Latin dancing actually began to take over, I just sat down.

Then, five years ago, I met a strong-minded man who wouldn't let me say no when the Latin music started. He was Captain Frederico Gladulich, then commanding officer of the S.S. Nassau. He and I used to dance together a lot, and like most Italians he was an excellent dancer. When I tried to sit down as the rumba started, he held me in a firm clutch, but strong-minded as he was, he finally had to give up. "Well," he said quite flatly, "you're going to Nassau. While you are there, why don't you take Latin dancing lessons at the Emerald Beach? Who's going to know the difference? You could learn."

These mildly encouraging words sped me to the private dance studio of the resident instructor at the hotel. My approach was strange. I said, "I can't do any of the Latin dances. I don't understand the beat. I am very awkward at anything like this, but if you are willing, I will try." I wish I could remember the name of that kind man.

He promptly gave up trying to show me that you put this foot here and the other one there. He was tall and strong and he did drag me through the steps, over and over and over again. At night, when the dancing started in earnest at the hotel, he would dance dutifully with me and his other pupils. Every time I had to go on the dance floor with him I suffered more than I did in infant dancing class. I realize now how much he must have suffered, too.

I was in Nassau two weeks that time, and on my return on the S.S. Nassau I was a relative surprise and delight to Captain Gladulich, and at least I understood the box step in the rumba, although I had not at this point even heard of Cuban rhythm, an undulation difficult to describe in print but an integral part of a flashy rumba. I can do it now.

WHEN I GOT HOME, I was sufficiently encouraged to continue my dancing lessons. I knew it was useless to join a class where I would have to dance with a variety of partners, some of them probably even worse than I. Instead, I had two lessons a week at home with a cheerful young man who had graduated from being an instructor at Arthur Murray's to the job of selling advertising for our local newspaper. My lessons kept his car in gas. Slowly, under his expert administration, my ego began to bloom. I guess it is perfectly clear by now, learning to dance—really learning to dance—did all kinds of wonderful things for me.

Learn To Dance

For one thing, it gave me a form of exercise I really enjoyed (calisthenics bore me and I'm not very good at them), and of course it widened my social horizon. I began to attract good dancers because, as one of them said, "You make a man look good on the dance floor." These good dancers were not necessarily men I would have found fascinating during my mainly intellectual years. I remember the thé dansant where I had a terrific time with a man well over 70 and, it seemed to me, seven feet tall. He knew every step of the tango ever invented. Men thirty years younger sat listlessly on the side lines and watched us.

Also, I had found something I could do better than my children—that is, in a physical way. My activities have inspired the younger ones to look at their dancing classes as pleasure instead of torture. They want to be able to beat me at my own footwork. My eldest boy, addicted to the curious shuffle of his generation, has even willingly taken a couple of tango lessons, and he sometimes brings a young thing to view his mother at her dancing lessons.

MAYBE I should no longer call them lessons because I am pretty satisfied with the steps I know, and if I progress much further I will soon narrow the field of my partners. One with whom I used to go dancing in the old days of my two left feet said to me after I had had about a year of lessons, "You're no fun for me to dance with any more. You've been taking dancing lessons."

I've become a kind of dancing snob. But I must admit that I still don't know what I am doing with my feet, and I am completely unsuccessful in trying to teach anyone else even a rudimentary dance step. I can, however, not only give hope to others who imagine they can't dance, but I can give some pointers I had to absorb myself.

These are all for the girls:

1. Take your dancing lessons, if possible, in something that will give you complete freedom. Tights and leotard, shorts and ballet slippers (or certainly shoes of some kind that will be completely comfortable). Dancing instructors prefer shoes with a slight heel, but they will put up with ballet slippers, and I do think that they give a beginner more confidence. Barring leotards or shorts, a full skirt of some kind is far better than a tight skirt for lessons.
2. Be particularly conscious when you are being propelled backwards to keep your feet together. One famous New York dancing teacher used to tell his little girl pupils that they shouldn't dance backward with their feet apart, for they then looked like a horse being backed into a stall. Keep your ankles together.
3. Don't be a drag on your partner. Each partner should be able to dance as if independent of the other. In other words, it's a fallacy that you need to have a "strong lead" or a "good dancer" in order to dance well. When you really know what you are doing, a partner with fairly modest ability won't bother you.
4. Never try to lead. If you get stuck with an impossible dancer, relax and try to follow what he is doing. If you really can't, plead thirst or a headache and sit down.
5. Never suggest a step to a man with whom you are dancing or try to show him a new step on the dance floor, even if he asks you to. Any such requested instructions should be strictly private. The man should always be in charge on the floor.
6. Don't be so overcome with delight when you are asked to dance that you barge ahead of your partner.

Most boys, says Mrs. Hutchison, are naturally good-natured and well-behaved as these shown with her here, but boredom can convert any active Den into a group of restless, uninterested Cubs.

Add to this the Cub Scout Oath, two announcements, a salute to the Flag, and light refreshment.

There'll be no need for the clever little games and pleas for "Quiet" while the adults attempt to enforce the format of a young business-men's meeting in defiance of scuffling feet and scraping chairs.

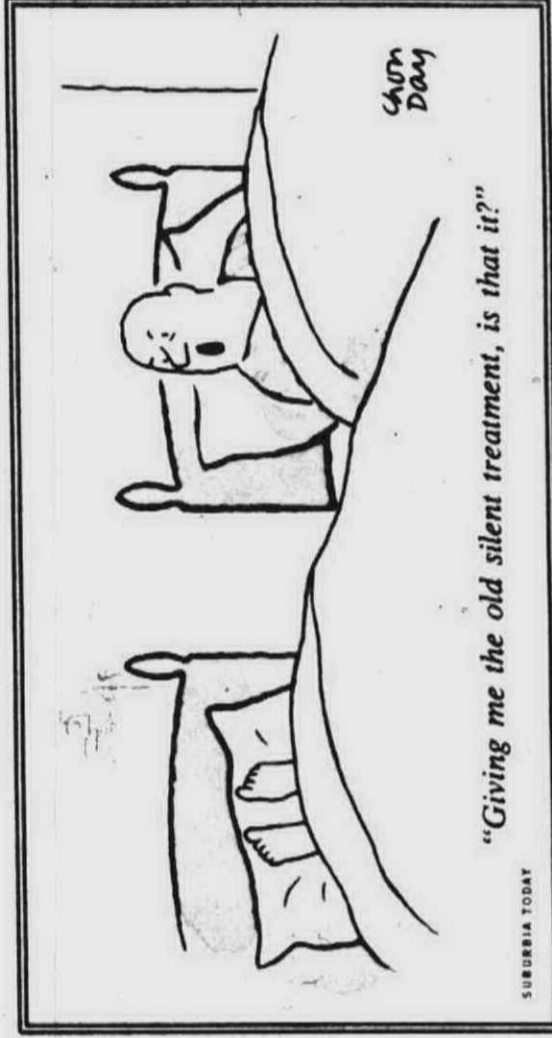

I'm sure that Scouting councils will be more than happy to help pull together a program that is better adjusted to the needs and interests of the boys. After all, that's what they're there for, isn't it?

The kids would still have their eye-catching uniforms to wear; they'd still be part of the gang. The gang would now be honestly accomplishing something. Benefits to the Cubs would be real, not just fancied. They might even look forward to becoming Boy Scouts!

As it stands, we've been trying to fit Scouting to Cubs. The trousers are not only too long, they are too big around to use the shears and cut a whole new pattern—Cub size!

EDITOR'S NOTE: There are 310,298 Den Mothers in the United States. This article is the result of one woman's personal experience. The editors of SUBURBIA TODAY neither endorse nor condemn her views. Which came first, Gordon's or the Martini?

When Alexander Gordon introduced his gin to London in 1769, the martini had not yet been invented. So when the martini finally did arrive—around 1850—it had ready access to Gordon's remarkable dryness and flavor, and the martini's success was thus assured. Tonight, when you ask for a Gordon's martini, you'll be glad to know the gin harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula. Why should we tamper with a good thing, especially when it's the world's biggest seller.

AMERICA'S FINEST BASEMENT DOOR

my little one, sleep

bringing up baby.
*Hints collected
 by Mrs. Den Gerber,
 Mother of 5*

Many a new mother is apt to worry about whether her baby gets enough sleep. Strangely enough, most babies get the amount of sleep they need. Reassuring to remember that sleep patterns vary, just as all baby behavior patterns do. A high-voltage baby tends to sleep less than a take-things-as-they-come baby, but there is no evidence that a wide-awaker does not thrive as well as a sleepyhead.

Night owls or sleepyheads have a tendency to eat with special relish when menus feature Gerber Strained Foods. And small wonder! They're "custom" cooked for babies. Flavors are delightfully natural, the texture ever so nice to the tongue. And they're mildly seasoned the way they should be for a young baby. All are prepared by specialists who are wise in the ways of infant nutrition.

- Gerber Menu Delight
- Ham High Meat Dinner
- Green Beans
- Custard Pudding with Peaches
- Formula or milk

Baby will snooze more happily if he's comfortable. Night togs should be loose and nonrestricting. Check to make sure there's at least 2 fingers of space between baby and his diaper.

Fun and games plus mild exercise, to keep baby reasonably active during waking hours, usually help baby sleep longer and more soundly. Peace and quiet just before bedtime has a lulling effect.

Convenience for you . . . nourishment for baby. Now, all Gerber Strained Foods come in Wide-Top® jars with Quick-Twist® caps and Shop-Easy labels. A quick ¼ turn and baby's food is ready to spoon out easily . . . right down to the bottom of the jar. Another quick ¼ turn recaps the jar to refrigerate any unused portion. New labels speed shopping time because the variety names are right at the top. "r. n. . . etc

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business . . . our only business!"

THE DIN OF THE DEN

they're draped in blue and gold. With this camouflage, I find, you often can't recognize the same child at all.

The problems that Den Mothers endure are caused by two things. We're cramming "another helping" into days already crowded by school, and the Cubs are telling us quite clearly that they're bored. Secondly, they are still too young to be interested in such "organized club work." You'll notice that any back-yard club they set up themselves is very elementary.

They may have a few rules, but mainly it's a place to sit and visit or hide from the rest of the world. Why are we so deaf to the message the Cubs are sending us? They aren't benefiting from this "grand experience" we're providing for them. Their behavior clearly proves that remedies are necessary to make Cub Scouting the worthwhile venture it was intended to be.

Put away the crayons and paste, I say. Hold gatherings less often during the school year. And please! Let's cut out the feeble schemes to earn badges and all the book-keeping about who "earned" what. If they enjoy being classified as "Bobcats" and "Lions," why not do it simply on the basis of attendance?

Stop imposing on already full school days—Den meetings should be held during summer months only. A weekly meeting with more distant friends might be good diversion then. Without the limitation of school hours, a variety of interesting activities becomes possible.

Properly, the man is supposed to lead the way through crowded tables and so forth to the dance floor, then turn and take his partner in his arms. If there is plenty of room for the approach, then walk side by side with him. Remember, at the end of the dance when he thanks you (and I hope he does), to say something pleasant in return, even if it is a lie.

7. Don't slump on the dance floor or assume what used to be called the debutante slouch. Keep to your own center of gravity and lean your body slightly forward, never dragging on your partner. You take guidance from him by sensing the movement that his body will take through the light pressure of your hand against his shoulder blade. Don't drape your arm around his neck or in any other esoteric position.

8. Forget what you learned in ballet dancing class as a child. Most social dancing is not done on the toes or in Latin dancing, and when you are danced backwards you are often right on your heels.

9. Especially in the Latin dances, dance with a restrained body. The movement should come from the hips down. Shoulder shaking is strictly for the gypsies.

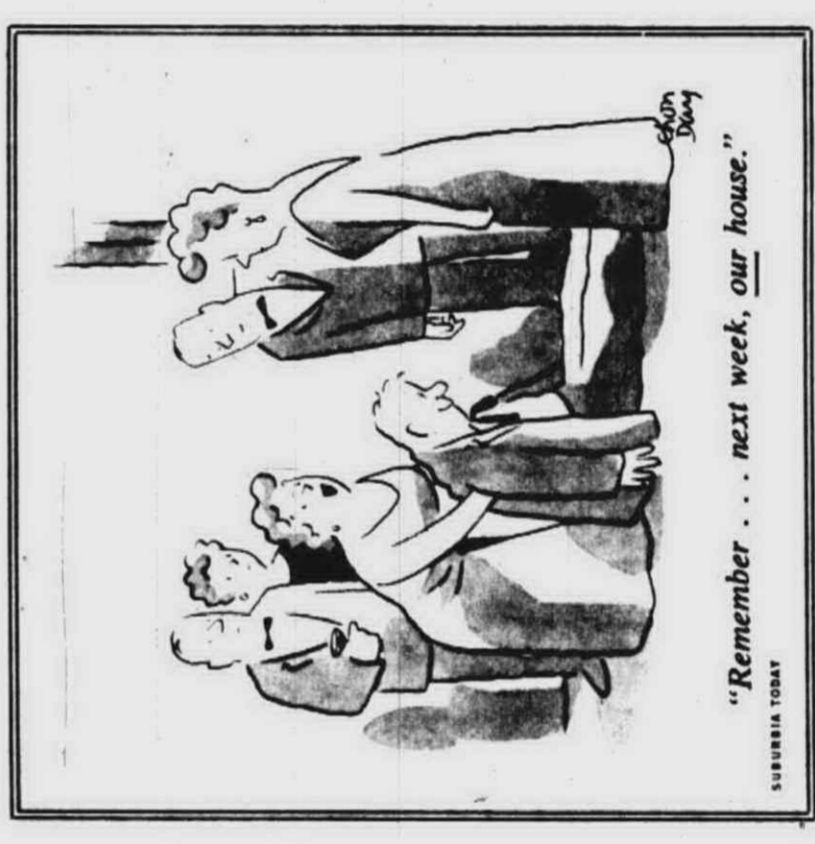

10. Your hands are a very important part of your dancing. In the breaks in the Latin dancing hold your hands as if you were inspecting your rings—avoid the look of the claw.

11. Watch your head. Its proper movement can help to balance your body in intricate steps. The general rule is to look in the direction of the step you are about to take. Don't feel you must keep up a constant chatter with your partner. You'll dance better if you keep your gaze, when he is holding you in a close position, just past his right ear instead of full in his face.

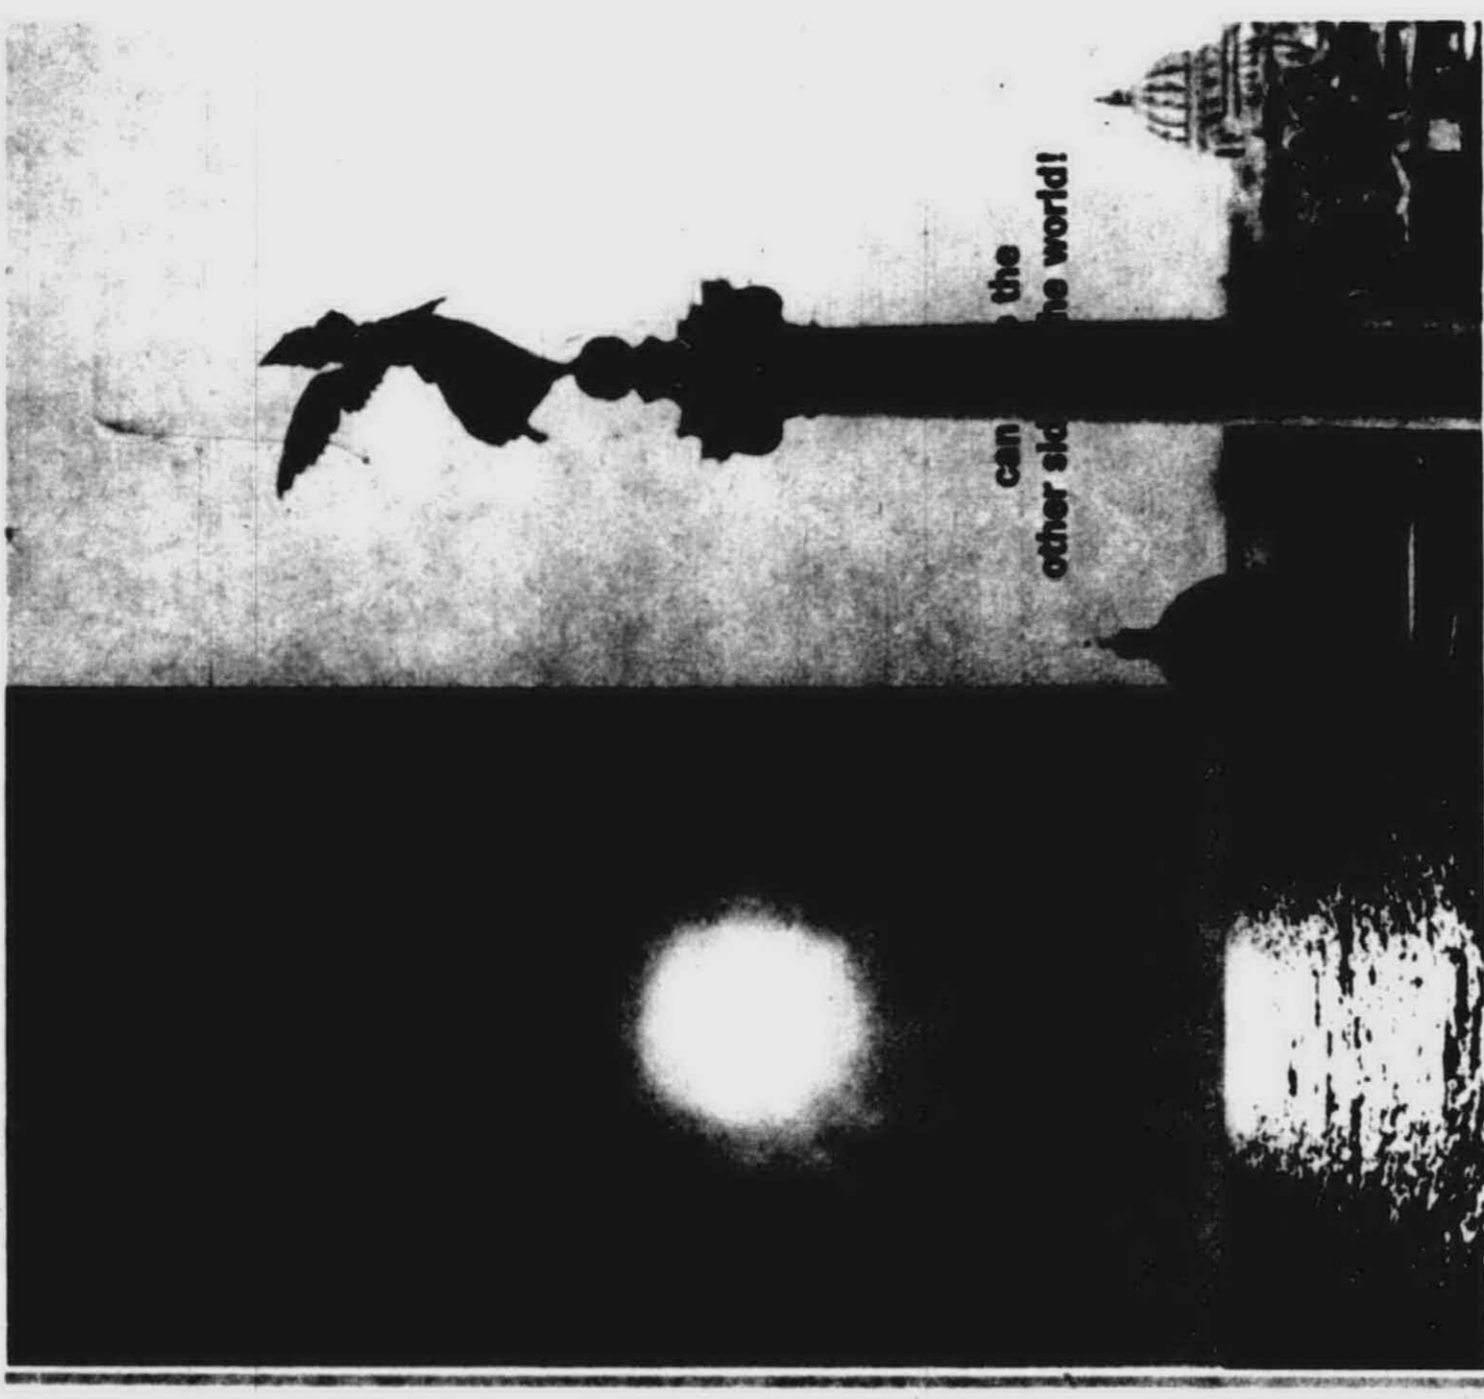

12. And finally, relax. If you misstep — and even the best dancers do — it is easy to cover up if you are relaxed.

Once you have learned to dance more or less to your own, and other people's satisfaction, practice your dancing as much as possible. Inspire other people to learn to dance, too. If you form a little dance group of your own, you can bring new fun into life.

Dancing — and especially Latin dancing — is an activity that you can easily keep up, with great benefits physically and psychologically. Busy as I am, I find time for it. I have even added square dancing to my repertoire this past summer — and that is exercise!

an object out of soap that was at least vaguely connected with that locale. My little Cubs had been delighted with the suggestion that they carve sleds, sled dogs, igloos, whales, or a number of other simple objects, but the minute they felt that soap give easily under their touch, destruction rather than creation took over.

Visualize these fellows flaying chips of soap like hungry termites! Fortunately, I had given each boy a tin for scraps which kept fifty-percent of the shavings off the floor, but such butchering at a bar of soap has seldom been seen, even back when Grandma shaved her washday supply.

While this was going on, the air was shaking with the volume of unleashed running and jumping still held insecurely under those Cub uniforms!

Cub Scouts aren't really villains and varmints. Under other circumstances these are the same boys who get into a few scrapes here and there, are active, noisy, interesting, and normal children. They're the same kids that visit and play with my offspring and yours all the time. They come in a number of flavors of dispositions and interests, but almost all are quite acceptable in homes—one at a time or six at a time—until

A Den Mother "sounds off" and tells what she thinks should be done to improve Cub Scouting

BY MARTHA HUTCHISON

"DO THESE kids act that way at home?"

"What am I accomplishing?"

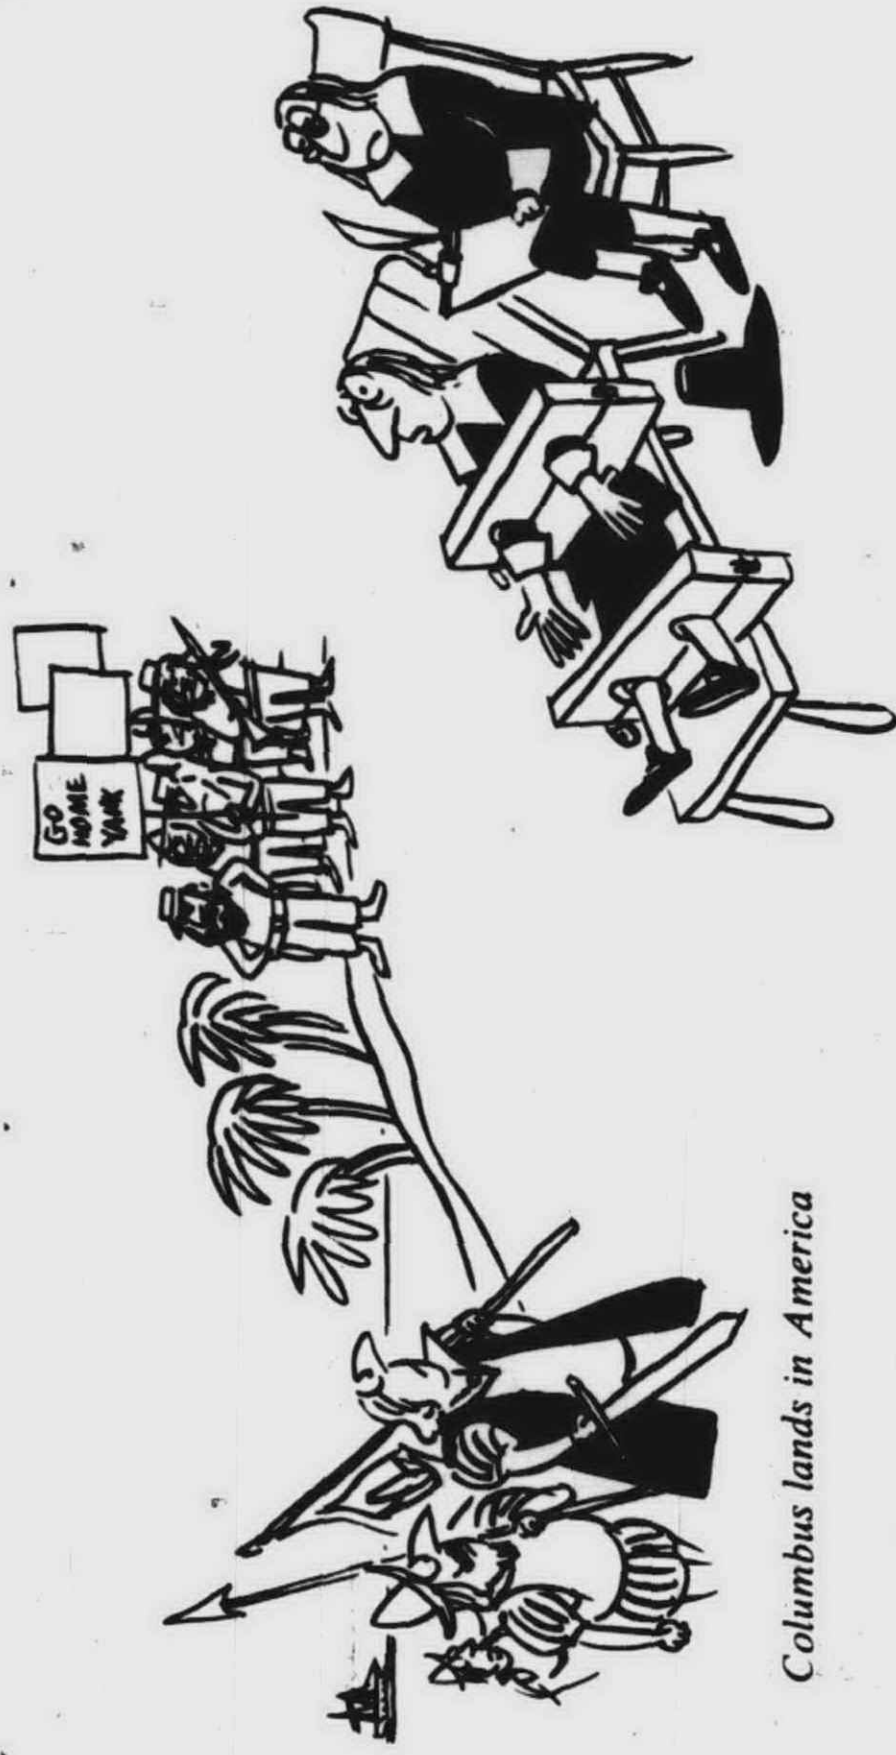

"I don't know whether to take tranquilizers or feed them to the Cubs!"

You're reading (word for word) just a few of the comments I have listened to from other harassed Cub Scout Den Mothers over the years. Much of the work they do—and it's hard work—seems to them to be a waste of time and effort. And, I must admit, most of the time I have shared their frustrations.

This is the way it usually goes. Six or eight gold-trimmed, blue suits assemble for a Den meeting. In each suit is housed a boy who has sat in school long enough that day, pasted, cut and squooshed clay enough; studied about Canada or Alexander Graham Bell or pioneers enough. Now he figures he has earned his medal for the day and is entitled to act like a growing child who has much unfinished business of his own invention left over from yesterday. The "club is met," however—and the Den Mother is obliged to make it work. Dependent upon the personalities of the group, or the mood at the time, she may exhaust every persuasion she knows but with little success.

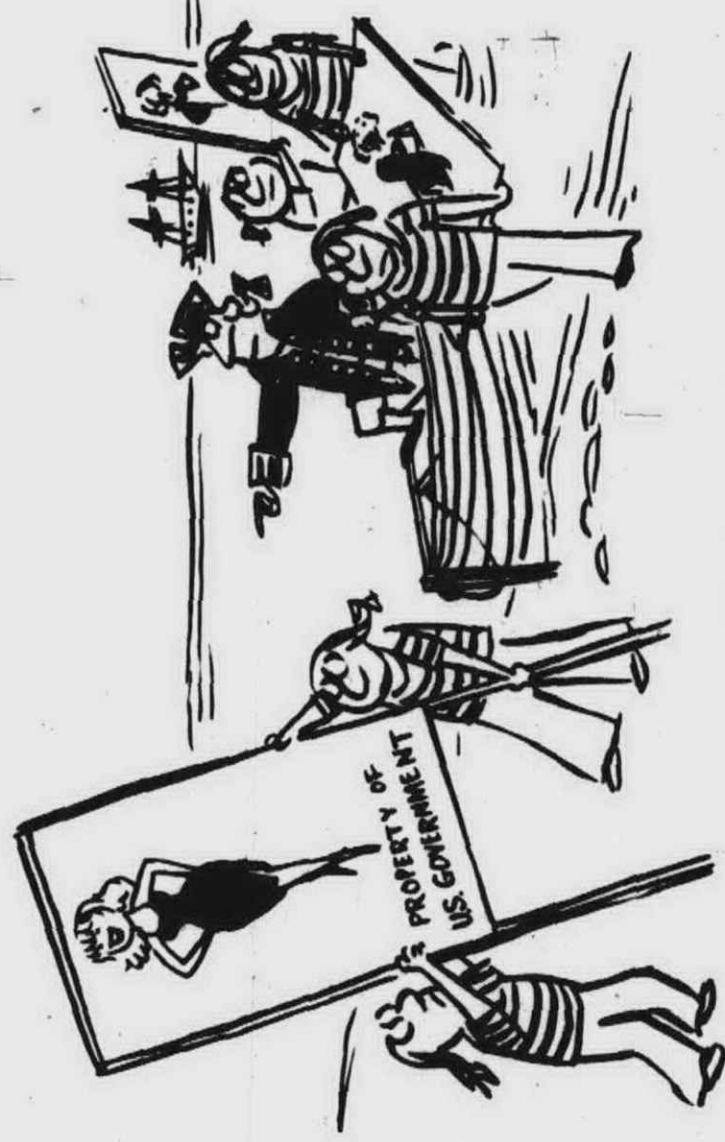

Here is one experience I remember vividly. The subject for that month was Alaska, and the whole idea was to carve

Tips on
WOOD FINISHING

Floors never need rescraping
When you put the finish in the wood—not just on it—your floors will last a lifetime. Minwax goes deep into the wood... leaves no brittle surface to scratch or mar... You have a choice of Natural Minwax or a wide range of color tones. Maintain with liquid wax and you never have to refinish your floors.

Today's trend is to paneling
Easy-to-use Minwax brings out wood's natural beauty. Simply apply Minwax Wood Finish to the panel after sanding it thoroughly. Then add a light touch of Minwax Finishing Wax. The result is a rich, hand-rubbed look. For authentic Colonial effects try Cherry, Ipswich or Puritan Pine. Modern effects include Drift-wood, Straw or Spruce Gray.

Unfinished furniture
Minwax imparts a rich, warm glow to unfinished furniture... cabinets... new shelves and wood trim. Choose wood with uniform grain and sand silk-smooth. Finish as above in your choice of Minwax quick-drying colors.

For over 50 years Minwax Wood Finishes have been the standard of quality with architects, custom builders and antique dealers. Also economical and easy to use are Minwax Finishing Wax, liquid or paste, and that wonderful new repair stick for surface scratches — Blend-Fix.
