MIXED IN with cheerful Christmas greetings arriving via mail to Plymouth residents this week were these tax bills shown being addressed and stamped by Carol Olear in the City Treasurer's office. Treasurer Kenneth Way had a crew busy on the tax notices during the latter part of last week and all were in the hands of the mailmen by Saturday morning.

Here and there these days we read the conjecture by some who suggest that Governor Romney might have become so discouraged with the course of tax reform events in the Legislature that he could be pondering whether to abandon politics and return to a normal" life.

This is not our impression.

I don't believe the following letter was meant to be confidential, and it vividly doesn't come from anybody

"Dear Representative Chandler:

"I am sorry I could not personally thank you for to study and clarify the Board's your efforts on behalf of our tax program before you The defeat of tax reform at this time is a serious one, and as you and I know, tax reform was needed, is needed, and will continue to be needed in Michigan until responsible members of both parties-like yourself-work out a solution beneficial to all Michigan citizens. "Much of the ground work for fiscal reform has been laid. We have a sound base upon which to build, and we have far greater support within the Republican party and the Republican members of the Legislature than ever before. By our continuing to work together, this strength will be augmented in power and numbers within a year's time. "My sincerest thanks for your personal effort on behalf of the tax program and myself.

It was decided to check the Plymouth branch of the Michigan Employment Service Commission and University of Michigan officials to learn if information is available on the employment needs of the area for semi-skilled labor.

The committee is trying to get answers to the problems of What are the needs for the area?" and "What jobs will be provided if classes are arranged to prepare persons for semiskilled work?"

The committee is chaired by

"Best regards, "George Romney."

Long ago, even while still slogging through the political science textbooks en route to our precious B.A., Facts and Opinions regarded two-party government as useless folly on a local level.

It virtually has disappeared, of course, in Michigan cities where almost all elections now are nonpartisan and few go through the pretense of trying to determine whether the policies of Jefferson are preferable to those of Lincoln, when it comes to how to zone land or buy baseball bats or sweep streets or remove snow or hire road workers, and all the other specialized administrative detail of running a city.

But our Townships-such as Plymouth, Redford, Nankin and Canton-still wage ballot war every two years running "Democrats" against "Republicans" for local office. To be sure, there have been differences of attitude between the local rivals, but they never have involved anything Lincoln or Jefferson ever thought about, nor were they ever discussed in the national party platforms, save for the rarest instances.

Under the new Constitution for Michigan, it appears inevitable that Township elections henceforth will be held at exactly the same time as National elections.

Since the partisan ballot will prevail, the Township candidates will be far down the ticket, names lined up in columns underneath those of the President, Vice-President, Senator, Congress, and many more.

This will leave the Township office-seekers at the mercy of the straight-ticket voter from now on. He is the fellow who comes out for the big election only, and hits the straight lever.

It is the belief here that the virtues of a nonpartisan form of government are going to become startingly obvious to many devout partisan Township office holders in the very near future.

As this observer matures he seems to acquire more built-in resentment about the education he received as a youth.

So many things Teacher never told me . . .

For instance, the smallness of the land of the United States . . . as contrasted to the huge dimension built into a lad's imaginative mind. There was the home town, then the State of Michigan, then the United States, and beyond that . . . well, a few strange and unusual islands and continents, all small and none too important, and reserved for the last three weeks of the semester.

How long has it been since you gazed at a map of the world? Have you ever laid the total area of the U.S. against, for instance, Africa? Or Peru? Or Greenland? What if those places ever became full of hostile people who didn't like us?

And if you really want to know what they didn't

The Assembly is made up of the teachers' organization representatives in each of the school system's buildings. Said LEA President Richard

Its price tag must not be made to show a reduced cost lest it likewise reveal a reduced quality. You get what you pay for in education, just as you do in the clothes you wear, the food you eat. That is why we are confident that the citizens of Livonia who insist their children receive quality education will transmit that insistence into a favorable vote at the polls next month."

To Women It May Concern By MYRA COX

(P-4, R-4)

Every once in a scattered while a person has an Alice-In-Wonderland experience that gives spice to their life. Stepping from the mundane world where people eat to live through the doors of the charming Round Table Club in the Hotel Mayflower, Plymouth, to a world where people live to eat, delightfully, graciously with meticulous care was such an experience.

The occasion was the gathering of the "Confrerie de la Chaine des Rotisseurs. If your French suffers from lack of exposure as does mine-vaguely translated this means "society of wine and meat."

Members and their guests were hosted by fellow member Ralph Lorenz and his wife Mabel, owners of the Mayflower Hotel. Although many of the "Confrerie" are professionals (so indicated by the color of the ribbon they wear around their neck and the metal of the heavy chain adorning it) none, positively, have hosted a more elegant cuisine or surroundings.

Taking advantage of the Colonial decor of the Round Table Club Lorenzes duplicated, for their guests, the first Thanksgiving dinner menu used by the Pilgrims in 1621 (with a certain few liberties).

Mr. Lorenz told some of the history of each of the many courses-about the pumpkin soup with pot iron croutons, the native turkey and wild goose stuffed with chestnuts and wild grapes, the baked corn custard and Plymouth succotash in pottery which he proved to his guests was the original frozen foods (long before Birds Eye) - Pilgrims put a string in small crockery-poured in their food and left it to hang outside where it froze solid and was eaten through the winter. This was served in the same type pottery.

All of the food was more pleasurable because it was served by pilgrims in their dark red and grey homespun dresses with shawl-like collars and crisp white aprons.

Stepping into the Round Table Club, which is a fun experience in itself, a stranger might have thought the Lorenzes planned the entire decor for the occasion. Actually the family has been collecting Colonial and antique items for many years on their travels through the United States and abroad.

On the walls are antique cooking and baking implementsan early American tool was taken right off their wall to make the appetizing, scored butterballs used at the table. No detail was overlooked.

Place cards were a wooden Hornbook used as the first primer for Colonists' children and was duplicated on one side, as in the early days, with the alphabet syllables and the Lord's Prayer. A Christmas wrapped package was a gift to each of the ladies of a pewter spoon, hand made in an antique mold at the Henry Ford Museum.

With each course a particular wine was chosen by a connoisseur; also a member of the club, John Leone, who was invited to comment on the wines as the meal progressed. Other members were also invited to comment on the wine choices for each course. Amazingly a great many things can be detected by these experts from one sip of wine - which is the way it is supposed to be enjoyed.

To me it was like I had just flown my first kite and got into a conversation with a man who just came from the moonbut then my experience with wine has always been limited to a nodding acquaintance with Mogan David-and please I shouldn't say it in the same breath (and I didn't).

Cards TurnInto Christmas Tree

by DOROTHY FINNEY

The Greeting Card Christmas tree in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hill of 356 Sunset is perhaps the most unusual tree in the Plymouth community.

Made completely of Christmas cards, it stands 7 feet tall, is 4 feet in diameter and 121/2 feet in circumference. It is mounted on an aluminum clothes line prop which is fastened to a revolving Christmas tree base.

No tree ornaments or colored lights are needed. The white flood lights bring out the various colors of the 21/2 inch circles which are cut from the Christmas cards. These pictures are backed by a slightly larger circle of crushed aluminum foil and stapled in three places to form a 2-inch triangle. The crumpled foil backing forms a glittering frame aroung each picture. These triangles are then assembled and stapled into the design of the tree.

Mrs. Hill started the tree with a 121/2 foot circle of heavy wire at the bottom to which she fastened three rows of triangles. Then rows of triangles stapled together start at the top and taper down to the circle at the bottom in a sort of May-pole fashion. Another smaller tree designed the same way is placed inside the outer tree, giving it an unusual three dimensional effect.

Mrs. Hill originated and worked out the whole project, but had the help of husband Wilbur in fastening it to the revolving base. Mr. Hill plans on helping his wife set up the tree next year as he thinks it may be a little out of plumb.

The tree can be easily dismantled for storage and can be re-styled the following year. This is the second year for this tree.

Mrs. Hill has also made a large flat tree in the same man- in the flurry of activity at the ner which can be fastened to the wall; also nut cups, baskets, candle holders and tallies from old Christmas cards.

More than just a Christmas tree, but sort of an album of memories from dear relatives and good friends is the way Mrs. Wilbur (Minnie) Hill regards her tree which she has assembled and designed herself from interesting Christmas cards she has received through the years.

The season thus far at the Fisher has been a series of musical comedies that almost make the grade. Looking back at "Sophie", "Here's Love", and "Hello Dolly" it's difficult to remember anything spectacular about any of these expensive theatrical ventures.

Musically all three were below par. You can't whistle or hum a tune from any of the three. The dialogue sections of each of these three needed tremendous touching up. In other words, the Fisher is still looking for that first smash hit prior to Broadway. "Foxy" with Bert Lahr is due Jan. 13 fo ar four week trial run. The story was about the same for Redford Union as the Townshippers bounced back from a slow start to crush Allen Park, 75-57.

Meantime, Plymouth's stalwarts almost engineered a major upset. The Rocks invaded the court of highlytouted Trenton and it required an overtime session before Trenton was able to squeeze home with a 55-51 conquest.

As a result it's Bentley, Redford Union and Trenton on top after one week of league action. Something must give this Friand Redford Union goes to Plymouth.

They made only 28 percent from the floor and a feeble 50 percent from the foul line where they missed on 13 out of 26. Bollin with 18 points was alone among Bentley players to day as Bentley hosts Trenton score in double victories. The Bentley reserves, mean-neighboring Northville in a nonleaguer and emerged an 82-35 winner.

"Why couldn't we have made a few of those points the night before?" declared Coach Ketterer.

An amazing thing happened n the last quarter. Northville didn't make a single point.

By quarters Plymouth outtallied the opposition, 15-10, 22-14, 32-11 and 13-0. It takes some doing to recall when a team in modern basketball went through an entire quarter without registering a point.

The win over Groves shot Thurston off on the right foot as far as basketball is concerned in the new Northwest Suburban League.

The score doesn't tell the story of the game. It was a tight struggle for one half. After the first quarter, Thurston led, 12-9. At the intermission, the Thurston advantage stood at 27-25. Thurston decided matters in the third period by resorting to a full-court press. The tactics upset the opposition from Groves.

"We forced them into a lot of mistakes and we were quick to capitalize as we started to perform as a team should," declared Thurston coach Mike Pasternak. In the period, Thurston had a 26-14 edge.

John Page tossed in five baskets and 11 free throws for 21 points with six coming in the third period. Jerry Samuelian totaled ten in the third period and 19 for the game. Paul Lawson came up with 17 points and shared rebounding honors with Rick Stefani, who made only five points.

In reserve play, Thurston triumphed by a 41-35 score with Bob Elsner's 15 points high.

Thurston had only one game scheduled this week, meeting U. of D. high on Tuesday. The team's next action comes on Dec. 26 against Ecorse in the first round of a holiday tournament at Riverside.

and healthy.

The basketball fortunes for Clarenceville high school, which started on a high note when the Trojans won their opener, since have gone into a tailspin.

Three straight times now Clarenceville has finished on the short end of the score. Last Friday it was by a 56-38 count to Milford in a Wayne-Oakland League game.

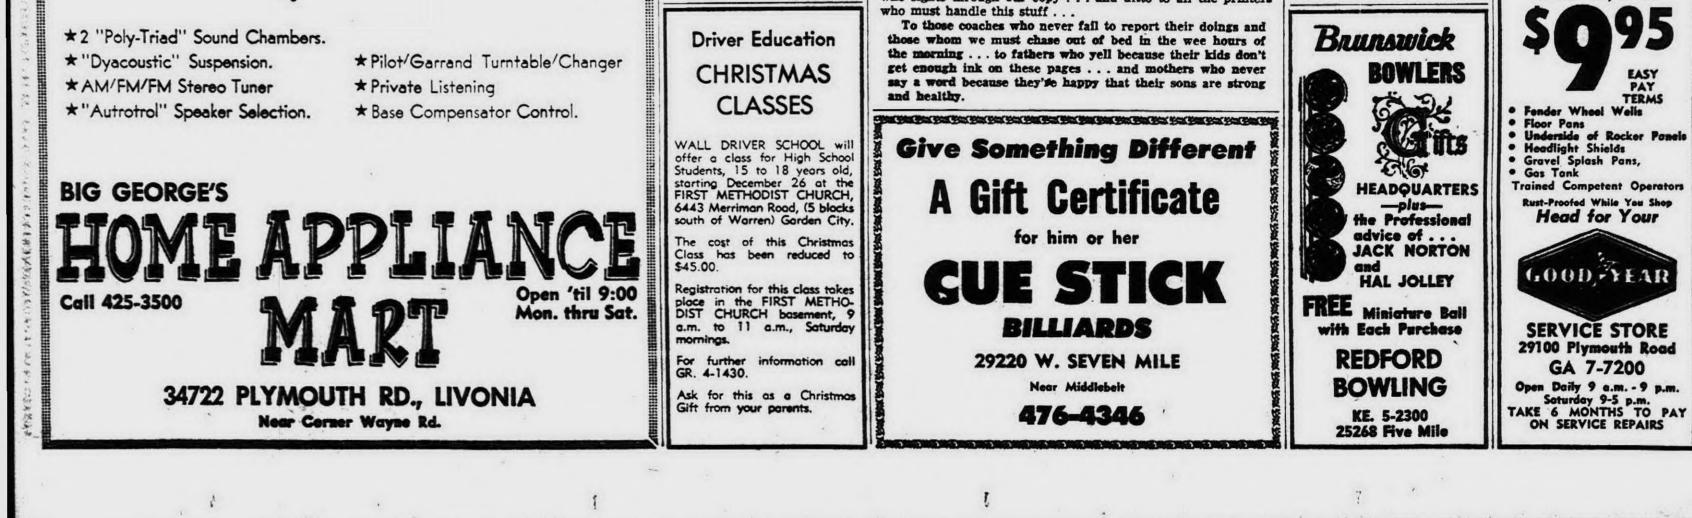

Milford held a five-point bulge after one quarter and reached halftime with a 31-23 command.

Free-throw shooting murdered the Clarenceville chances. The Trojans had 35 chances to cash points from the charity line. Only 14 of them were good. Dave Graves had 16 points to top Clarenceville. Dan Freels made eight and Gary Gearhart five.

The reserves took an 83-46 beating at the hands of Milford. In this Friday's action, the last for Clarenceville until after the new year, Northville will invade the Middlebelt Road gym for reserve and varsity competition.
