The other evening I was wandering down a side street here in Plymouth when I spotted two men at the side of the curb next to a parked car; and, as I approached, I thought I recognized the smaller of the pair.

Yep. The closer I got, the more certain I was that it was my old friend Philmore Tankman — a guy I hadn't seen in years. Philmore, who stands about four feet tall, had his ear glued to the gas tank of the vehicle: and his companion, who'd make Wilt Chamberlain look short and Alex Karras seem puny by comparison, was gently rocking the automobile with one hand.

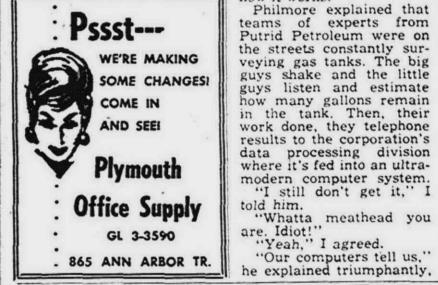

"By golly," I shouted, "Phil! Haven't seen you in years. "Shh." he said. "Ya wanna mess everything up?"

"Well, heck." I replied, "I'm sorry. But what are you doing?" "Be quiet, you numb-skull," he remarked and, turning to his elephantine buddy he ordered: "Shake, Moose." Moose shook and a faint sloshing noise escaped from the recesses of the gas tank around Philmore's ear. Phil scribbled a note on a pad of paper and then, addressing me, said: "O.K., nitwit, let's go get a cuppa coffee and I'll clue you in." "Hey," I said when we

Urge Votes for Fischer, Mrs. Hulsing

Voters will find themselves faced school system, attended Nazareth with three choices for two vacancies on the Plymouth Community School District Board of Education when they go to the polls Monday for the annual school election.

Incumbents Gerald J. Fischer, school board president; and Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing, secretary, will be running against Mrs. Harland B. Smith of Plymouth.

Fischer, a graduate of Rutgers University and past holder of a fellowship in economics at Princeton University, is divisional controller for Ford Motor Company's automotive assembly division.

A veteran of four years on the board, he has championed the school district's building and site sinking or "pay-as-you-go" construction plan -pointing out that the method has saved the schools more than $500,000 in interest costs to date. He is articulate, forceful and adept with figures. Mrs. Hulsing holds a B.S. degree from Montana, State College, an M.S.

from Ohio State University and has spent 10 years on the school board. Her work in the curriculum review field during these years has been noteworthy.

Mrs. Smith, a lifelong Plymouth resident and graduate of the local

them. Election is Both Unusual, Significant

Plymouth Community School District electors and the voters of the Northwest Wayne County Community College District will go to the polls next Monday, June 8 to cast their ballots in an election unusual and yet significant.

The election's unusual aspect involves Schoolcraft College, scheduled to open at its Seven Mile and Haggerty Road campus this August.

At no additional cost to themselves, voters can authorize college trustees to bond for an additional $1,250,000 enough to enable Schoolcraft to construct up to $2.8 million worth of new buildings with state and Federal assistance. Included could be an additional classroom building, a student center, a technical and vocational education building and physical education tions will depend on the problem, the circumstances and the possible solutions. Because she is unfamiliar with the issues, she said, she has been unable to form opinions regarding school district activities. Because the Plymouth Community School District is on the verge of a tremendous population expansion, and because informed knowledge is virtually perquisite to good performance as a board member, The Plymouth Mail urges retention of Fischer and Mrs. Hulsing on the board.

While Mrs. Smith, after more thorough familiarization with school activities, may form meaningful opinions in the future, we feel - by virtue of past performance - that the present situation calls for the demonstrated competence of the two incumbents.

We feel retaining Gerald J. Fischer and Mrs. Kenneth Hulsing is essential to continued progress in the Plymouth Community School District. We urge district voters to cast their ballots for as long as 24 years to get the four structures, according to Schoolcraft President Dr. Eric Bradner.

Enrollment at Schoolcraft College has exceeded the most optimistic estimates. Not yet opened, the new school is literally bulging at the seams. The Plymouth Mail goes solidly on Z record in favor of authorizing Schoolcraft trustees to bond for the additional amount. In light of the fact that it will not cost taxpayers a cent, it would be unwise not to take advantage of an opportunity which may never again present itself.

The chance comes at this time, only because of the addition of the Northville School District to the college district because of growth within existing Schoolcraft College communities. 2 We urge a solid yes vote Monday. 7 It could spell the difference between

It came as a complete surprise to The Plymouth Mail and its publisher last week to learn that the Detroit Press Club, in a special Michigan Week salute, had chosen former Mail owner-publisher Elton R. Eaton as the only weekly newspaperman among 18 journalists to be honored.

A photograph of the late Mr. Eaton, father of present publisher Sterling Eaton, was displayed in the window of the J. L. Hudson Department Store at Woodward and Gratiot Avenue in Detroit.

Accompanying his picture were photographs of such distinguished members of the fourth estate as Detroit News founder James E. Scripps; John R. Williams, first mayor of Detroit and one of the founders of the Detroit Free Press; John C. Lodge, Free Press city editor, councilman and Mayor of Detroit; Detroit News reporter and well-known fiction author Clarence Buddington Kelland; and Free Press reporter and nationally known poet Edgar A. Guest.

The following tribute was given to the 18 men:

"As part of Michigan Week, the Detroit Press Club and Hudson's salute outstanding Michigan journalists. Through men like these, Michigan's press has helped make this state great.

The Plymouth Mail feels both proud and humble that its former publisher was so honored. Here in Plymouth, and throughout the state, Elton R. Eaton was known for his courage, integrity and outspokenness. Writing under the title, "What I think and Have a Right to Say," he attacked undesirable aspects of our society and defended principles which he firmly believed had contributed to the greatness of Plymouth, the State of Michigan and the United States.

Two more generations of the Eaton family have followed in his steps.

This newspaper, too, salutes its late publisher. Together with Murl DeFoe of Charlotte, Schuyler Marshall of St. Johns, Vernon Brown of Mason, George Averill of Birmingham, Harry Myers of Lapeer and others, Elton R. Eaton made weekly jounalism a respected power in this state.

The Plymouth Mail sincerely hopes to live up to the reputation created for it by its former publisher. He made this newspaper great. We intend to keep it that way.
