Set Twp. Hearing on Micro-Wave Tower

Following another lengthy session with a representative of Michigan Bell Telephone Company's engineering department, Plymouth Township Planning Commissioners last Wednesday set a public hearing on the company's request for their regular January meeting.

See Editorial, Page Two, Sec. Three

The session marked the third appearance of Bell representative Edward Lees before a Plymouth Township body.

Twice before, in meeting with the planning commission and the Township Board of Trustees, Lees has spelled out in lengthy detail Bell's request for permission to erect a 300-foot micro-wave tower at the northeast corner of Powell and Napier Roads.

In his first appearance before the planning group, Lees spent over an hour detailing the micro-wave project. On Nov. 5, he came before the Board of Trustees to repeat what he told planners.

Lees repeatedly emphasized defense aspects of the project which would be used to relay toll communications in the event of national disaster or attack. Primarily, however, the tower will serve as a relay point for educational television programs originating in Ann Arbor.

Trustees referred the matter back to the planning commission with the recommendation that normal procedures be followed.

Last Wednesday, after agreeing that re-zoning was not necessary, the planning group set a public hearing on the matter for their January meeting and backed a recommendation from Township Attorney Earl Demel that the Wayne County Co-ordinating Committee be notified of the project.

DEMEL NOTED that more information on the tower should be supplied to the public before the hearing is held. Commissioners raised questions about the effect the tower would have on surrounding land.

"Would a 300-foot tower blight the area around it?" Commissioner Austin Stecker asked. Stecker said he didn't think the subject of national defense should be repeatedly interjected.

"If the Defense Department wanted it (the tower), they would have someone here," he commented.

Commissioner W. C. Koch expressed concern at the defense implications and said he was in favor of speeding up the project as much as possible.

Supervisor Roy R. Lindsay who spoke against the project at the Nov. 5 board meeting was present at the planning commission session. Noting that Plymouth Township is a relatively small area, Lindsay said:

"This is no asset to us and is merely a great big accommodation to Bell Telephone Co. It is a sacrifice on the part of the Township." The supervisor said the tower would "deadend" the area for some distance around it.

In other action at the Wednesday meeting, commissioners approved the preliminary plat of Beacon Estates subdivision, a 24-home development to be built by Plymouth builder-developer

PLANNER SAYS NO:

Can Area Handle More Apartments?

Has The Plymouth Community reached the limit of its need for apartment dwellings?

Plymouth Township Planning Consultant W. C. Johnson of Waring and Johnson of Detroit thinks it has.

In a report submitted to Township planning commissioners last Wednesday evening, Johnson spelled out his views. He wrote:

"We believe that the Plymouth area is near the saturation point for multiple dwellings and that no further re-zoning for multiple dwellings take place until the present sites have been developed and further evaluation of the market be made . . ."

Johnson's report came simultaneously with submission of a marketability survey by Thomas Notebaert on behalf of Alice E. Luibrand, representing Postiff Estate who submitted a request last month to re-zone 31 acres south of Ann Arbor Road and west of Lilley Road to R-2A, garden apartments.

Johnson said the present area zoned for multiple dwellings in The Plymouth Community will provide about 800 dwelling units. In the City of Plymouth, he said, about 460 units have been built or approved.

"REPORTS indicate," Johnson wrote, "that some of the apartments are having trouble keeping the units occupied. In talking with the F.H.A. Site Plan Division there was an indication that the Plymouth area was reaching a saturation point in regards to apartment units.

"It is our opinion," he concluded, "that Plymouth Township should and will remain predominantly a community of single dwellings, and that its character has been pretty well established."

TRAGIC TESTIMONY to the fact that death visited the D. W. Williams home at 125 Hartsough St. early Sunday morning was this outline on a bedroom floor, above, where the body of 15-year-old Dalton Lee Williams was found as a fire raged through his home. Below, a companion, Miller Banks, 21, of Wayne, managed to escape by smashing the glass in an upstairs window and jumping to the ground (arrow).

Youth, 15, Dies in Weekend Blaze

A 15-year-old Plymouth boy died early Sunday morning as a $15,000 fire swirled through his home at 125 Hartsough St., completely destroying its interior.

Dalton Lee Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williams, became the first Plymouth fire fatality in over 20 years, according to Superintendent of Public Safety Kenneth Fisher.

Assistant Fire Chief George Schoenemann said the Williams boy died of smoke inhalation in his bedroom, shortly after midnight. His parents were in Union City, Tenn. attending a funeral.

A companion, Miller Banks, 21, of 35449 Brush, Wayne, managed to smash a second-floor bedroom window, drop 12 feet to the ground and run to a neighbor's to call firemen, Schoenemann said.

When firefighters arrived on the scene, the lower window on the east side of the house had been blown out by heat pressure and flames were licking up the walls to the upper story.

FIREMEN SMASHED windows to vent the house and, told that a person remained in the dwelling, gained entrance and found the Williams boy lying on the floor of the northwest bedroom.

They were too late to save him. Ironically, the lad was scheduled to spend the night with a brother and his family, fire department officials said, but apparently elected to remain at home.

Banks told officers he and the boy had spent the day working at the Williams family's sausage business in Romulus. After leaving there, he said, he and Dalton stopped for a bite to eat and returned to the Hartsough St. house.

In the house, Banks told firemen, the two lifted weights in the recreation room on the first floor for a while. Then they sat in the living room and talked before going to bed about 9 or 9:30.

BANKS IN THE bedroom next to Dalton's, told officers he woke up hot and choking. The house was filled with smoke. He said he yelled to Dalton that the house was on fire.

The Williams boy answered him just once. Banks said he called two or three times more but received no answer. He told officers he tried to locate the boy but was unable to because of smoke and heat. After smashing a window with his elbow, Banks leaped out and ran next door to summon the fire department.

When firemen arrived, one crew was put to work extinguishing the fire and a second concentrated on rescue, Schoenemann said. They vented the windows and gained entry as soon as possible.

The boy was found lying next to his bed. Schoenemann said the main body of the fire was centered in the living room on the first floor in back of the bi-level dwelling. Flames moved from there, he said, up the stairwell to the second floor.

The only fire on the second level was in a den at the head of the stairway. But smoke blackened every inch of the interior and intense heat caused laminated doors to peel and aluminum window frames to melt.

THE BLAZE was fought by 21 firemen, two pump trucks, ladder and squad trucks. Banks, who cut his arm when he smashed the upstairs window (Continued on page 4)

Parade to Start Holiday Season

With Christmas just around the corner, The Plymouth Community this week began intensive holiday season activities as decorations were raised in the downtown area and a gala parade was set for Saturday to herald the arrival of Old Saint Nick.

Beginning Friday evening, most Plymouth businesses will inaugurate holiday hours — remaining open until 9 p.m. from then until Christmas.

Saturday's activities will get their start at 10 a.m. with a parade headed by Jo-Jo the Clown who will lead Santa Claus into town.

Promoted by Plymouth Jay-Cees, the parade will feature Jo-Jo's Storybook-on-Parade Mardi-Gras Heads with colorful costumes depicting storybook characters.

OVER 20 storybook characters will be supplemented by nine JayCee clowns who will assemble near the Plymouth City Hall and proceed along Main Street, south to Kellogg Park.

Immediately following the parade, Jo-Jo will do a 30-minute comedy novelty act in the park. It will include balloon sculpturing and comedy magic tricks. Balloons will be given away to youngsters.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Past President Wendell Smith told the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce retail committee recently that the parade would kick-off the Christmas sales season from a common point and attract shoppers to Plymouth.

Following the parade, Santa Claus will take up residence at the Santa Claus house in Kellogg Park where he will maintain regular hours until Christmas.

This Saturday, he will be in the park from the end of Jo-Jo the clown's show until (Continued on page 4)

...in the Spirit of Thanksgiving

"... and be ye thankful." — Col. 3:15

WHY GIVE THANKS?

By Brigadier Ernest V. Hammer

Why indeed? To be sure it is an emphasis called to our attention by the calendar, and by our American tradition. Yet, one who thinks deeply about this matter would surely hope it is not the furtive, temporary, dutiful thanksgiving of the moment.

If there are genuinely valid reasons for giving of thanks at this time of year, one may not improperly assume that there are extremely valid reasons for thanksgiving throughout our year.

If this is true, and I sincerely believe it is; one might, with profit, enumerate some of these reasons. Of highest importance, I believe, it is the Christian thing to do; moreover, ample evidence exists that it is also a fundamental tenet of Judaism. Therefore two great religions espouse it as a noble and highly desirable thing to do.

The very natural question may then come, to Whom shall I give thanks?

The obvious answer to this one is, first of all, to God, our Creator, and to His Son, Jesus Christ. One may feel that they have reason to believe that God is not thinking of them, has done little for them and has no plans for them. Yet, the Scriptures plainly show God's deep concern for every man. He says:

"For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end." — Jeremiah 29:11.

God is interested in the friendship and fellowship of man, and He is responsive to man, who needs fellowship with the Divine, as man seeks to know God and be thankful to Him in harmony with His revealed will in the Scriptures. Then of course, we need to be thankful to one another, and especially to those who are near and dear to us, but more of this later, after we have enumerated other reasons for thanksgiving.

U-M Prof. Talks About Prejudice In U.S. Life

American culture is prejudiced, Prof. Martin Gold of the University of Michigan psychology department told his audience at the Plymouth Assembly for Equal Opportunity program, Nov. 19.

In discussing "Who's Prejudiced?" Gold said studies show even at pre-school age children have already absorbed the belief that Negroes are inferior. He added because prejudice begins so young it should not be considered a sickness.

Pointing out that people who are anxious and uncomfortable about their natural impulses to hate and for lust need scapegoats, Gold said they then use the scapegoat to picture as having these evil impulses.

He said Negro is a ready-made scapegoat in our culture and without him many whites might become neurotic for lack of a target for their unacceptable impulses.

The ability to recognize gray areas and to tolerate ambiguity without being disturbed distinguishes the tolerant person from the prejudiced, Gold said. He characterized the intolerant person as making quick, firm judgments, failing to seek new evidence to update those judgments and finally even ignoring new evidence if it contradicts the first judgment.

In concluding his talk, Gold suggested that cultural norms insuring the form prejudice will take must be attacked if we are to overcome it. He said the built-in belief in Negro inferiority needs to be attacked, by and education and example.

The final program in the fall series sponsored by Plymouth Assembly will be a lecture on the American Negro culture, Thursday, Dec. 3, at 8:30 p.m. in Plymouth High School annex.

Free Chest X-Rays to be Given Here

Free chest X-rays will be available at three locations in Plymouth starting Monday, Nov. 30. The tests, available to anyone 21 years or older, are highly recommended by Dr. John J. Hanlon, new health director of Wayne County.

A chest X-ray is a quick and easy way to find tuberculosis and other chest abnormalities early. Tuberculosis can be cured most quickly when found and treated early — before signs and symptoms appear.

SET COOKIE SALE

The Re-organized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Schoolcraft at Bradner Rd., will hold a cookie-tasting party, Friday, Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. Christmas cookies may also be purchased at that time.

The Wayne County and Michigan Health Department and the TB and Health Society (Wayne County's Christmas Seal organization) are co-sponsors of the survey.

THE MOBILE unit providing the free chest X-rays will be at Beyer's Drug Store, 1100 W. Ann Arbor Road on Monday, Nov. 30, from 3 to 4 p.m. and 5 to 9 p.m.

On Tuesday, Dec. 1, it moves to Kroger's, 240 N. Main Street, where it will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 5 to 9 p.m. The unit will move to Kellogg Park at the Masonic Hall for the last three days of the survey, open at these hours:

Friday, Dec. 4 — 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 12 noon to 4 p.m.

PLYMOUTH MAYOR Richard H. Wernette, center, and Livonia Mayor Harvey W. Moelke, left, met last week with Dr. John J. Hanlon, new Wayne County Health director, right, to discuss plans for forthcoming chest X-Ray surveys in their communities. Free Chest X-Rays will be available in Plymouth beginning Monday.

Twp. Hearing

APPROVAL followed a public hearing in which Township Trustee Ralph Garber, a resident of the adjoining area, questioned flood-plain restrictions along the Tonquish Creek.

Garber said he thought the restrictions called for setting aside too much land along the creek bed and wondered how far west the restrictions will be carried.

Investigation revealed no one who could remember a flood in the area in over 20 years, Garber said. Commissioners directed planning consultant W. C. Johnson to investigate flood restrictions and report back.

A representative of Carl S. Andrews and Seymour Finkel of Plymouth Heritage Apartments submitted a new plot plan for all two-story units at the site located south of N. Territorial Rd. and west of Sheldon.

The revised plan includes 172 units in contrast to 176 in the original plan. Three-story units were contained in the original layout. Commissioners tabled the new plans for further study. Because no representative appeared for Arbor Village Subdivision No. 4, planners tabled the matter for further information.

Another reason for giving thanks, it improves our personality. A person who is likable and appreciated will invariably be a person, who is himself, appreciative.

Yet another reason for giving thanks, it is good business. Successful business is built on good will and a sound way to build good will and good public relations is to be thankful and express that genuine thankfulness to our contemporaries with whom we do business.

In a complex society, we are not isolated people from the lives of others; we are, in a very real way, members one of another. We are dependent upon one another in almost every avenue of life: health, education, economic welfare, etc. Shall we not then, show our thanksgiving both to God and man by a very definite "thank you" at the appropriate time?

True thanksgiving sets the tone of our lives: for our day, at each beginning, if we give thanks, it will give color to our entire day. Such thanksgiving sets the tone for our day, our week, our years; and our lifetime.

The ones all too frequently left out of our thanks are those who do the most for us: who do the common things of our daily lives, which lack public glamour. Those who do the dishes, prepare the meals, tenderly care for the little children, bring home the pay-check.

It will make all our lives the brighter if somehow, we can be a little more thoughtful of one another. So let us proceed to give thanks; not now only, but throughout the year.

Calls Plague Fire Department

Plymouth Township Fire Department was plagued by calls during the past week.

Firemen were summoned to a home owned by Ken Eicholtz, 46730 Ann Arbor Rd., Nov. 20 at 7:24 p.m. where there was a fire in the bedroom. A lamp had caught a wall on fire causing $100 damage, firemen said.

On Nov. 21 at 9:11 p.m. firemen answered a call at the A. D. Bundy residence, 46255 Ann Arbor Tr., where smoke and fire around a light switch caused an estimated $150 damage, according to firemen.

A fire in a wood stove in the garage at 11218 Gold Arbor was extinguished by the fire department, Nov. 22 at 11:53 a.m. Darrell Brockwell owned the property and damage estimated was $200, firemen said.

The cause of a fire, early this morning, Nov. 24 at the new Crest Park Apartments on Wilcox Rd., is still under investigation and no damage estimate has been given. Firemen answered the call at 1:04 a.m. Tuesday. David Powell, of Detroit, owns the apartments.

Girl Scouts Prepare for Next Summer's Roundup in Idaho

Four Plymouth girls active in Girl Scouts since they joined Brownie troops when they were seven or eight years old have been selected as delegates to the International Roundup in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho next summer. Two others have been named alternates.

The girls were picked by references, camping skills, initiative and personality to help represent Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. A total of 24 girls from the district will attend the Roundup.

In September the Scouts began training for their summer excursion. They are learning phrases in four languages — German, French, Spanish and Japanese — so they can converse with other representatives. They also are practicing outdoor cooking skills and learning to plan their time. The girls meet twice a month for these sessions.

The roundup will be July 17-26 at the Faragut National Wildlife Center, Coeur d'Alene.

INSURANCE HINTS INSURANCE PLANS 1965

by Chuck Finlan

"I hear a lot of talk about a new plan that may mean a change in my auto insurance premiums. What is it all about?" a motorist asks.

This plan is scheduled to take effect in January. It takes advantage of modern high-speed computers to classify motorists more accurately and thus distribute more equitably the cost of auto insurance.

This is not a change in premium levels, although the reclassifying of certain groups of drivers will mean lower premiums for some and an increase for others. The principle is simply that driver groups with the least claims will pay less for auto insurance while those responsible for more claims will pay higher rates.

In summary, the new program will mean lower premiums for most men under age 25, for women age 30 through 64 who live alone or are the only drivers in their households, for many families owning two or more cars and for many parents of youthful drivers who live at schools more than 100 miles from home.

There are now 27,500 possible categories in the United States and are sure to qualify for one of them, thanks to computers.

For details, call us.

Town Cryer

Yes, Blondes Really do Have Lots More Fun

By Jacquie Town

Speaking from recent first-hand experience, I can verify the fact that blondes have a ball.

Normally I'm a washed out brownette and I readily admit to being envious of the champagne hair that graces gals in the magazines and some of my neighbors.

So I finally talked myself into becoming a gorgeous blonde — by proxy instead of proxide. I bought a high fashion wig, the latest thing on the beauty market, and I might add, a totally unreturnable item.

Once the decision is made, you're stuck with it, but at least with a wig you don't have to moan about what you've done to your hair, all you do is take it off and park it on a shelf.

There are other advantages as well. For instance, I intend to have my New Year's style done two weeks before the day. No waiting at the dryer, you simply drop your hair, and go shopping. Sort of like having your laundry done.

I had looked at wigs for some time before I finally succumbed to the saleslady's "Your husband will adore it, why, it's like getting a new wife and not nearly as expensive."

That took some serious thought. I wasn't sure if I liked the idea of my husband with a new wife, but the desire to become blonde was strong. I carried my new head out of the store absolutely dying to put it on. I could see the stares if I changed heads in the parking lot, and besides, I needed new make-up, a new outfit, and the time to view my entire look. The rear-view-mirror would never do.

I broke all records getting home and quickly transferred "it" from its other head to its new home — me.

The effect was startling. I couldn't stay away from a mirror. I ran to the phone and called my sisters.

"Hurry, you'll never believe it," wait until you see what I bought!"

Well, that was the last I saw of my hair. Sister number one arrived and snatched it off my head. Quite an unnerving experience to say the least.

"Oh, I've always wanted to try on one of those things." She primped and pranced, and used my lipstick while I stood looking like yesterday's reject. "It's me, it is absolutely me." Finally after re-arranging the style, viewing herself from one angle to the next, and making admiring remarks about how divine she looked, she left.

I put my wig back on my head and barely had time to adjust the adjuster, when I walked sister number two. No use fighting it, the same procedure as before only she carried the mirror with her. Change of lighting and all that.

After I told her how lovely she looked and broadly hinting that she should buy one of her own, she grasped the idea and returned my head. I replaced it once more and, being a glutton for punishment and also a ham, I ventured over to sister number three's. She was talking to her neighbors when I arrived, but stopped and ran toward me like a wild woman. Her eyes blazed with the same insane look that marked the others and, not wanting to be scalped in public, I dashed into the bathroom.

I walked in as a blonde, and she walked out as one.

I have three more sisters who haven't yet seen the new me, and the result, if the same, will be frightening. My neighbors thought I had been hitting the bottle, bleach, that is, and the chaos I created with my rapidly changing appearance was a riot.

My prize possession has been sitting on its fake head for some time now. My husband tried to make a pass at me in the airport, and I decided it was a much too dangerous weapon to fool with.

When I do wear it, it's a fight to keep it on. The line, "Blondes really have more fun" applies only to other people trying on my wig, my husband and children included.

"If I have one life, let me live it as a blonde," or "leave my hair alone gals, this time it's for real."

You build a new home to get exactly what you want

why not get the heating system that gives you exactly what you want

Electric heat is custom heat. There's a thermostat in each room so you can dial the exact warmth you want . . . in the baby's room, the den, the kitchen, every room! Electric heat is the clean, modern heat. No drafts or cold spots. You get even heat from head to feet. Ideal for your new home.

It's also a good choice as supplemental heat for your present home—to warm up a chilly bedroom or new family room.

The cost? That depends on your particular home. Electric heat may be your most economical heat. It won't cost you a penny to find out for sure. Just call Edison for a free estimate.

PS. A lower all-electric rate saves you as much as 20% on your heating bill if yours is an All-Electric Home. More reason than ever to enjoy all-electric living.

An easy-to-fix "Date Nut Bread" that is perfect to serve around Thanksgiving or Christmas or to give to friends was suggested this week by Mrs. Joseph McCann, of 8830 Morrison St.

Mrs. McCann belongs to Newcomers Club and likes to play bridge, she said. The family came to Plymouth from Bay City two years ago. The McCanns have two children three-month-old Kevin and three-and-a-half-year-old Jill.

The "Date Nut Bread" recipe is one that has been in Mrs. McCann's family a long time, she said. She explained they usually begin making the bread about Thanksgiving time.

DATE NUT BREAD
1 C. finely chopped dates
1 C. boiling water
1 tsp. soda
1 Tbsp. shortening
1 C. granulated sugar
1 egg
pinch of salt
2 1/2 C. sifted flour
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 C. chopped walnuts

Dissolve the soda in boiling water and pour over dates. Let cool and add to other mixture before adding flour. Bake one hour at 350 degrees.

PREPARING her "Date Nut Bread" a family favorite for the holiday season is Mrs. Joseph McCann, of 8830 Morrison St. She said the recipe is easy-to-make and only takes 15-20 minutes to prepare.

Young Love, Is It An Unmixed Pleasure?

By Anna Jung

Many adults look back to their own adolescence with nostalgic feelings, remembering their first love affair as an idyllic experience.

They have forgotten, or repressed, all the painful accompaniments; they have exalted the emotional satisfaction that is idealized in memory; they may yearn for a repetition of this early experience when their children reach adolescence.

Young love an unmixed pleasure? We need only to observe and listen to some of the young people who reveal their feelings in the privacy of a counseling session to know that adolescent love is often an instrument for the communication of feelings which may have nothing to do with love.

Young people speak of "falling in love" as a process over which they have no control, and in which they have no conscious choice of the love-object.

It seems that they recognize that unconscious forces are operating for the purpose of fulfilling unconscious needs.

Let's look at some of the components found in adolescent love. "Falling in love" may be a symbolic expression of the desire to grow up, to mature, to become an adult by practicing the feelings of an adult.

At age seven Sally likes to pretend she is grown up by wearing mother's dress, jewelry and high-heeled shoes.

At age 14 or 15 she may play at and pretend to be in love; but because biologically and psychologically she is capable of experiencing some of the feelings of love, she mistakes it for love.

In some primitive cultures attention is directed toward the needs of young people to experience an orderly transition from childhood to adulthood. Tasks are assigned at various ages and stages of development.

Successful completion of these tasks signifies progression toward maturity, with increased responsibilities and privileges.

In our culture the road to maturity is less clearly marked, and the boundary between childhood and adulthood is poorly defined. There is a greater need, and a greater opportunity, for overlapping of roles.

Young love may be a reaction on the part of a boy or girl to parents who are trying to keep the child from maturing as a way of denying the parents' own advancing age.

For some middle-aged parents the thought of having grandchildren is abhorrent.

They want to keep their children young at all costs.

These children may need to rush into adulthood out of fear of being thwarted by their parents.

Kiwianians See Fashion Show

Fashions were the order of the evening last Tuesday as Miss Clara Jordan of the Alice Rebecca Salon in Farmington presented a showing for Plymouth Kiwanians and their wives. Arlene, Corin, Margaret, Mary and Patty modeled garments with accessories from sportswear to formal, in a wide variety of styles, fabrics, colors and prices. Velvet was popular in 1964 fashions and indications are that pastel colors will be tops in popularity this coming spring. The items modeled were all brand name merchandise found in better shops in this area.

Kiwanian Norb Batterman read a letter from Edgardo Lim, the 14-year-old Philippine boy who has been sponsored by the Club for almost two years under the Foster Parents Plan.

The Club contributes at least $15 per month for this boy of which at least $13 goes directly to Lim or his family. In return, the Club receives at least one letter per month and occasional pictures of Lim and his family.

Guest speaker on Dec. 1 will be Peter J. Sarris on the subject of investments. Committee Chairman Fred Foust urged the members to attend the Kiwanis Golden Anniversary party on Saturday, Jan. 23. Bud Guest will be guest speaker.

Church of Christ To Show Film Of World's Fair

The Plymouth Church of Christ has contributed money and personnel to the exhibit of Churches of Christ at the New York World's Fair. A report of this work will be given at the Plymouth church, 9301 Sheldon Road (south of Ann Arbor Road - M-14), Sunday, Nov. 29 at 3 p.m.

Among other things on the program will be a 35-minute, color film. The film is documentary production—featuring scenes of New York, the Fair, and the exhibit of Churches of Christ. It also includes the entire footage of the popular film, "What Is Christianity?" which had good reception at the Fair.

Reeder Oldham, minister of the Plymouth Church of Christ, worked at the Fair during the closing days for this season. He will serve as chairman for the program Sunday afternoon. A former Plymouthite, Floyd Brandon, is one of the key men in planning and executing the work of Churches of Christ at the World's Fair.

PUTTING finishing touches on a Christmas wreath are David and Steve Mogle, sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Mogle, of Beck Rd., and members of Boy Scout Troop 1534, who are soliciting orders for their wreaths. The troop, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church, also is selling cedar rope. Proceeds from their sales will be used for camp funds.

Plymouth Plant Sells Machines To Pakistan

An order for $57,780 worth of bookkeeping machines sold to Pakistan through the United States foreign aid program has been filled by the Burroughs Corp. plant, 41100 Plymouth Road, according to the Agency for International Development aid.

Purchase by a firm in Karachi was financed under a U.S. development loan to Pakistan in 1963 to enable procurement of $70.5 million worth of goods from the United States. Needed to help meet requirements of the South Asian country's industrial and commercial development, commodities being purchased include iron and steel, industrial machinery and equipment, medicines, chemicals, dyes, motor vehicles, and engines.

A PLYMOUTH MAN; Ferris (Slim) Mathias was awarded the Silver Beaver Award, one of the highest honors given to an active adult Scouter at Sunset District's annual meeting Nov. 17 at Franklin High School. In the past 30 years only three other Plymouthites — Sidney Strong,

A bouquet for steadfastness

A bouquet for reason and steadfastness should be issued to the planning commission of the Township of Plymouth for their refusal to bypass customary avenues of approach in connection with the request of a public utility to construct a micro-wave tower in the southwestern corner of the Township.

A representative of Michigan Bell Telephone Company came before the planning group for the second time last Wednesday evening. His appearance followed a recent session with the Township Board of Trustees and an earlier meeting with planners.

Using the same wordy approach that he had in his first audience with the planning commission, Bell's engineering department representative did his best to convince trustees at their Nov. 5 meeting that denial of the request would be a serious blow to national defense.

The township board was not impressed.

They referred the matter back to the planning commission with the recommendation that it be handled the same as any previous public utilities application and that a public hearing be set.

On Wednesday evening, the planning group — again in the face of implications that the matter was of grave importance — set the hearing for their regular January meeting.

The commissioners, and particularly chairman Irving Rozian, deserve credit for their action. In addition, Township Attorney Earl Demel should be commended for his thoughtfulness in recommending that planners should request more detailed information on the project for submission to the public and that the Wayne County Co-ordinating Committee be notified.

Township residents should be proud of officials who have shown their ability to act with forethought and reason on a request in which the highly emotional subject of national defense was over-exaggerated.

We reluctantly extend regrets

It will be a distinct loss to the City of Plymouth on Dec. 15 when City Manager Albert F. Glassford terminates a 16-year association with local government to assume the reins as manager of the City of Albion, Mich.

Some are asking why Glassford, who has done so much during his tenure as Plymouth City Manager, has decided to leave.

The answer is really quite simple: Challenge.

When the affable City Manager took over here, Plymouth City government was in a state of shock and chaos. A heated local controversy had resulted in a special recall election in which a portion of the city commission was removed from office.

If ever a challenge presented itself, it was then.

Last week, in conversation, Glassford noted that the City of Albion has just adopted the manager-council form of government. The situation there is akin to unplowed ground and, again it presents challenge — a challenge that Al Glassford wanted a chance at.

In reviewing the progress which had been made here, Glassford noted that things were ticking along well. "One thing I don't want to do," he noted, "is to vegetate."

Over the years, Glassford has distinguished himself in his field. He was recently named president of the Michigan chapter of the International City Managers' Association.

He has served well as head of the Plymouth Community Fund, as a Rotarian, as a member of the Plymouth Community Fall Festival Committee and in other areas. Glassford is almost universally well-liked.

The Plymouth Mail reluctantly joins Commissioners of the City of Plymouth in extending regrets to Albert F. Glassford on the occasion of his leaving.

He has directed a good portion of his life toward handling the business of this municipality.

His presence at City Hall will be missed.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT CAME to Plymouth this past week as DPW crews began stringing decorations in the downtown area. Greens circle Kellogg Park and Santa Claus heads and bells decorate street lights on Main St. Stores also are putting up their Christmas window displays.

November 19, 1964

Dear Editor:

I write in reference to Dave Wiley's column in the November 17 issue of the Plymouth Mail.

I want to express my appreciation of the frankness of your approach to this subject. The slipshod approach of parents in the matter of child raising has long been a great concern of mine.

It is good to see that men in other fields are able to see clearly into the problem that perplexes this country. If a solution is to be reached it is going to come about by an ever increasing number of emotionally and mentally mature adults realizing that double standards and hypocrisy are enemies to stability, growth, and upright moral standards.

May I be so bold as to encourage you in your efforts in helping to bring understanding out of confusion.

Sincerely,

Chips from the Rocks—A hurricane tour through the north covering some 700 miles revealed to this writer that all wasn't work as far as local deer hunters were concerned. As a good example of that fact was tired Daisy purchasing agent, Floyd Reddeman found fast asleep under a stump. Another classic example as to why there were no bucks in Glenn Smith's camp at Pettibone Lake was we found, Mr. Smith and Henry Hanchett busily engaged in a checker game opening day. The camp consisting of Donald Gray, Vern Grimes, Bruce Kidston, John Covach, C. F. Grimes, Harold Von Bonne and Blaine Yeager scored seven bucks by Thursday of opening week.

The Grim Pilgrim

By DAVE WILEY

One of the finest critics of the journalistic scene was the late A. J. Liebling of "The New Yorker" magazine who, for years, authored that publication's "Wayward Press" column.

Since Detroit metropolitan papers are gearing for production and preparing to expose the public, once again, to mass news coverage, I thought it would be fun to point out a distinction which Liebling drew often.

Given a view of the kinds of reporting, readers can enjoy a game of analyzing news stories and determining whether the writer is reporting what are, to the best of his knowledge, facts; or simply writing off the top of his head and injecting a generous amount of personal viewpoint and interpretation. Liebling once wrote:

"There are three kinds of writers of news in our generation. In inverse order of wordy consideration, they are:

(1) The reporter, who writes what he sees.

(2) The interpretive reporter, who writes what he sees and what he construes to be its meaning.

(3) The expert, who writes what he construes to be the meaning of what he hasn't seen.

To combat an old human prejudice in favor of eye-witness testimony, which is losing ground even in our courts of law, the expert must intimate that he has access to some occult source or science not available to either reporter or reader.

"He is the Priest of Eleusis, the man with the big picture."

"Once his position is conceded, the expert can put on a better show than the reporter. All is manifest to him, since his conclusions are not limited by his powers of observation."

"Logistics, to borrow a word from the military species of the genus, favor him, since it is possible to not see many things at the same time."

Leaving the late Mr. Liebling's glowing words and returning to my own, not-so-sparkling prose, I would suggest that the "expert" school of reporting may well have gotten its start in the steamy recesses of this nation's shower rooms where sports pundits were free to plump for the home team a favorite player or a personal friend.

Since The Plymouth Mail's "Sporting Thing," Bill Nelson, is convinced that I have a sort of obsessive prejudice against athletics, I say all this with misgivings.

But take a look at the sports pages. For example:

"Onlookers were convinced today that the Podunk Cavaliers were on the verge of collapse in the wake of the Monday appointment of Sam Sputz as manager of the team."

"It has been known for some time that Sputz was being groomed for the job. Many have expressed the opinion in recent weeks that he was the front office's fair-haired boy."

"It became apparent that Sputz would get the position when a top-level meeting was summoned hurriedly last night at club headquarters."

"Indications are that a far-reaching club shake-up is in the offing. One hears that Sputz's first move will be to replace pitching coach Lefty Lotski. It is well known that Sputz and Lotski are not on the best of terms."

The perceptive reader will notice certain key phraseology in this example of the locker room mentality. The term, "onlookers were convinced," means the reporter doesn't hold any love for Sputz and thinks he will do a poor job.

"It has been known" indicates that the reporter has heard rumors. Whether founded or unfounded, he could care less.

After all, it makes juicy reading, doesn't it? Turning Liebling's big picture on the writer notes "it became apparent" and, given his 20-20 hindsight, it becomes apparent that it certainly did become apparent.

"Indications are" and "one hears" and "it is well known" make it a foregone conclusion that the writer had no other place to express his considered opinion; so he threw it into the news story.

Very cute. That is, opinion is cute as long as it's restricted to the field of sports. There, we expect it and enjoy it.

Elsewhere in the paper, I can darn well do without opinion unless it appears on an editorial page.

But, my views to the contrary, it's not going to stop. Look for the opinion makers in your reading.

They're Fun. Look for words like "appeared," "it has been known," "probably," and "indicates." Check to see if the writer, like Norman Mailer, affects the technique of "one hears" or "one can assume."

One can assume, in that case, that he isn't making any attempt to be objective.

Liebling, rest his nasty soul, managed to make things pretty uncomfortable for the experts.

His efforts to bring an increased degree of integrity to journalism should be applauded.

It's too bad his needle has been laid aside.

Lon Gets African Ants In His Peace Corps Pants

By Lon Dickerson

Sierra Leone is blessed with an abundance of palm trees. They come in several shapes and sizes. And everywhere they add dignity and beauty to the landscape. But more importantly they are a valuable source of income.

The palm kernel is one of the nation's leading export items. Only diamonds and iron ore exceed it in importance in this field.

Products from the palm tree have wide usage at the domestic level too. For instance, one of the most popular drinks in the country is palm wine.

All one has to do to obtain this highly potent liquid is to bore a hole in the trunk of a certain variety of the oil palm, insert a short tube, and bingo, you have a bottle of palm wine within minutes.

Another remarkable aspect is that every 24 hours you can go back to the same tree for a refill.

This process is very similar to tapping a maple tree in the United States for maple syrup. Except, with the palm wine, no boiling or refining is necessary. As you drive through the country a common sight is a cart loaded with palm wine being taken to market. Or women and children carrying it on their heads is another standard sight. The usual container is the dried, hollow shell of the calabash. Several of these jugs can be carried on a long, slender pole.

Palm leaves are used for roofs and fences. And the fibers of the tree once twisted are employed in making hunting and fishing nets, looms, and brooms. Palm kernels are used to make soap and candles.

The most important derivative from these reddish colored kernels about the size of an almond, however, is palm oil.

On a recent trip to Njala, I saw palm oil being made on a large scale at one of the agricultural stations at Njala University. To reach the site I had to cross the turbulent Taia River in a dugout canoe. Safely ashore I passed through a grove of palm trees.

I stopped to take a picture, and as I backed up to get a better range I stepped into the midst of a colony of biting black ants.

Needless to say, I never did take the picture, but, instead, made a hasty retreat. And the next few anxious moments were spent picking the ants off me.

Rocks Prepare for Opener Against Lakers

The Sporting Thing

By Bill Nelson

By reputation with the Plymouth coaching fraternity basketball coach Charles E. Ketterer is a man who has some trouble resisting a challenge.

In 1951 he took over a floundering Plymouth football program and put together three Suburban Six League Championships in four years — during his last three years as head football coach Plymouth lost only one game.

So it wasn't much surprise to his fellow coaches when Charley showed up in the basketball job at the beginning of the 1961 season after Plymouth had been a long time without a top cage team.

It was another challenge.

Ketterer wasn't completely new at the game. He had coached the Rocks for two seasons in 1955 and 1956 and earlier at the University of Michigan he played varsity basketball.

His first season back coaching basketball in 1961-62, Plymouth won more than they lost in posting an 8-7 record, which was an improvement. In '62-'63, the Rocks slipped to 6-9, but Ketterer got them back up there last season to post a 9-6 season's mark and a substantial 5-5 mark in the powerful Suburban Six League.

Of this season's schedule, he says "We play Walled Lake December 4th — I'll worry about the rest after that".

The second game is with league champion Bentley at Bentley, after the opener against Walled Lake at home. The Bentley game is the first of five games in a row in which the Rocks will only be home once.

Plymouth basketball teams have encountered a good deal of trouble in not being able to win away from home in recent years. This is a trouble that Ketterer hopes to correct this season.

How well the Rocks perform on the road in the early season will determine greatly their chances for the upcoming season.

Ketterer concentrates on the first game with Walled Lake and points out that they "are a strong team." He adds that "We are in contention for the league championship until proven otherwise".

He is backed up by some noteworthy size this time. Of his 17-man squad currently working out in the high school gym, seven are six feet or better with the tallest measuring six feet four. Four more measure five feet ten inches and another just misses six feet at five feet eleven inches.

Things have not always been so tall at Plymouth and, in high school basketball, height is particularly important.

Coach Ketterer can personally impart something to those who don't tower tall physically. At the University of Michigan he played varsity basketball, although he measured only five feet eight inches and weighed less than 150 pounds.

He also played varsity baseball at U of M and played 150 pound football, which was a varsity calibre game for light weights at Ann Arbor.

Ketterer's U of M career started in 1941, but it wasn't until 1948 that he ended up with a masters degree in physical education to add to a B.S. in physical education. World War II slowed the process a little, as it did for millions.

And Ketterer would have you think of it as nothing special for him. He was a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, and maintains that he spent the larger part of his three years fighting the battle of Washington.

Then he mumbles something almost inaudible about Hawaii and Guam. It's an area of the world where some things happened about that point in time, but he will say no more.

Along the way he spent a year in Northville as a football and basketball coach and then on to River Rouge before coming to Plymouth in 1961.

He went to Northwestern High School in Detroit where he played football, basketball and baseball.

Without having seen a shot taken or a play made, it is a little too soon to make a prediction about the Rocks for this season.

But there is that height, which is new. And there is some experience, which is helpful. And there is this challenge about Plymouth basketball, which is not new.

And then there is Ketterer and his fondness for a challenge.

It should be worth your time to go to Plymouth basketball games this season.

Under the direction of head basketball coach Charles E. Ketterer, the Plymouth varsity basketball team has been practicing once a day in the high school gym, six days a week in preparation for the opening game.

The Rocks will entertain Walled Lake at 8 p.m. here in Plymouth for the opening game on Dec. 4.

Seven letter winners from last year are expected to lead the Plymouth attack this fall. They are all seniors and include: Center-forward Dave Tidwell, Center-forward Jim Lake, Guard Gary Grady, Guard John Hannula, Guard-forward Dave Hollingsworth, Forward Don Cranford and Guard John Daniel.

ACCORDING to Coach Ketterer, the starting five may be made up of Tidwell, Lake, Grady, Hannula and Hollingsworth. He emphasizes, however, that this could change before the opening game.

If this starting line up holds, the Rocks will present a quintet with two six-foot two inch front men (Tidwell and Lake) and another (Hollingsworth) at an even six feet. Grady is five-ten and Hannula is five-nine.

Backing up these seven returning letterwinners are ten players up from last year's junior varsity team. They are: Center-forward Jim Sharrman (six feet-four), Center-forward Jim Burgerfer (six-three), Guard Curt Irish (five-ten), Guard-forward Jim Bruff (five-eleven), Guard Don Stamper (five-seven), Forward Chuck Catlett (Six feet even), Guard-forward Bob McCaill (five-eleven), Guard Rick Jones (Five-ten), Guard Chuck Mattsen (Five-nine) and Guard-forward Bill Burrows (five-ten).

BURGENER, Bruff, Stamper, Mattsen and Bill Burrows are seniors, while Sharrman, Irish, Catlett, McCall and Jones are juniors.

Ketterer says that he hopes to work out a balanced type of attack which will include some fast break capability. "You need both," he adds.

"The enthusiasm of the team for this time of year is good," Ketterer says, "and they are a fine group of young men."

Last season the Rocks built a 9-6 record. Bentley, the traditional league power of recent seasons, won the championship again last season.

"We're in competition for the league championship, until proven otherwise," Ketterer says of this season.

Tidwell and Coach Ketterer. All seven returning players are seniors and it is likely that the starting five for the opening game against Walled Lake will be picked from the group above.

Two Plymouthites on College Cage Roster

Two former Plymouth Rock cagers are expected to play a role on Schoolcraft College's basketball team this year in the school's first season of inter-scholastic competition.

Gerald Kisabeth and George Luibrand, both PHS grads, are on the roster of Schoolcraft's team. They will play on three "home" courts — Clarenceville, Franklin and Plymouth High School.

Emphasizing that Schoolcraft will have a year of building, Athletic Director Marvin Gans, noted that an impressive list of schools will be played this year.

Included on the list is Adrian J. V., University of Windsor J. V., Michigan Lutheran College, Muskegon J. C. and Henry Ford Community College. Sixteen games will be played with eight at home.

It is anticipated that Schoolcraft's gym will be completed in time for the 1966 basketball season.

Says Community Center Is Badly Needed Here

By Mike Ross

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many of the things discussed by Mike Ross in this column are currently under consideration. Plans are underway to open a Teen Drop-in Center in the former K of C building behind the City Hall. A citizens committee is being appointed to investigate the feasibility of auditorium facilities. And the City of Plymouth is presently looking into questions regarding swimming pool construction.

Anyone would have to be blind not to notice the prosperity Plymouth is experiencing. The flourish of new business has raised Plymouth, monetarily to second in the state, with Grosse Pointe in first place.

The new RCA building on Plymouth Road with the Kaiser offices close by, the professional center on Sheldon, and new apartments, like Lake Pointe on Five Mile, all testify to the great expansion sweeping The Plymouth Community and its ever increasing population. In fact, only Ann Arbor, in building of apartments, is leading Plymouth.

These are great accomplishments and make the residents proud to say they live here. But amidst all the confusion of a soaring economy stands a black mark.

There is money being lavished by the millions of dollars on various private buildings but very little, if any, on a Community Center, something Plymouth needs badly.

If this were Salem, Dixboro, or a small town where lack of money prevents such a center, it would be completely understandable. But Plymouth has no excuse. It can allocate the funds without too much of a burden. And the burden would more than be made up for by the good a center would do.

The high school swimming pool, only nearby public pool, is far too inadequate for a community the size of Plymouth. This problem of finding something of Plymouth. The auditorium stage has long been called the "match-box theatre." The band room can barely hold the Plymouth High band let alone the Community band.

Juvenile delinquency, always a steaming topic of discussion, is another drowning victim for which the Community Center could serve as a life raft. Though we don't have the problems of Lincoln Park, Pontiac or Detroit, it still exists to some degree. The most accepted answer for delinquency is that most young men and women must make a good time for themselves.

Some students find good times for themselves, some make bad times for others.

Making your own good time may have been fine in grandpa's day, but grandpa didn't have a car.

The automobile didn't revolutionize only transportation, it revolutionized teenagers.

To do, someplace to go, would be partially alleviated by a Community Center. Many people argue that the "grease" wouldn't go even if it did exist. But it wouldn't be built entirely for them anyway. A few would come and so would many students who would otherwise go to a show or just "bum around."

Not only the students but the city would then have someplace to present plays, the Community band a decent sized room to practice and a place where many people could swim.

How much research has been done on a Community Center is known only to the people who have done it. I'm sure the majority of Plymouth would like to know what, and if anything, is being done.

Plymouth has solved the needs of many private businesses, now let's see her solve a social problem of her own.

Plymouth Township Minutes

TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH BOARD OF TRUSTEES TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1964 REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

Supervisor Lindsay called the meeting to order at 8:02 P.M. with all Board members being present. The minutes of October 13, 1964, were approved as distributed and the minutes of the Special Meeting of November 5, 1964, were approved as corrected.

A communication from the Michigan State Department of Health approving the 1964 Sanitary Sewer Program plans, which is to be known as the Wayne County Road Commission S-216, was received and filed.

At the request of Mr. Frank J. Mocerri a hearing was held regarding the Board's refusal to grant permission for the sale of beverages on the concourse area of the bowling lanes. A number of interested bowling participants were present with some speaking against the Board's action on this restriction alleging that a privilege had been taken away from them. It was pointed out that when the license was issued it was agreed that a liquor would be served within the Board's action on this restriction requested to know if this Board wanted to make any decision as to their previous action and after some moments of waiting it was moved by R. Garber, supported by D. Lauterbach, that the Board proceed with the next item on the agenda. Carried unanimously.

Communications from the Evans Products and Burroughs Marketing Company, were read by the Supervisor relating to their progress on smoke abatement, with Evans Products stating that they were to receive two new boilers by November 9, 1964, one to be installed immediately in the new car building plant, gas fired, and the other to be installed at a later date.

Burroughs communication indicated that they would be converting to gas fire boilers which would be used 7 or 8 months of the year and during the winter months coal fires would be used with ash and soot resistors. It was moved by D. Lauterbach that these encouraging communications be received and filed.

The amended resolution establishing a Plymouth Township Fire Administration Board, as discussed at the Special Meeting of November 5, was carried unanimously upon motion by D. Lauterbach, supported by E. Holmes, that final action on the Fire Administrations Board appointments be tabled until next month's meeting. Carried.

Supervisor Lindsay stated he had two names submitted to him for possible appointments and requested names of other Township residents who may be interested in participation on this Board. It was moved by E. Holmes, supported by D. Lauterbach, that the names be tabled until next month's meeting. Carried.

Service Stations To Give Candles To Customers

Ashland Oil service stations are giving away a heap of candles — more than 150 tons of them, in fact. That's enough candlepower to light Yankee Stadium for a night baseball game, or enough to stretch from New York City to Pittsburgh, if pieced end to end. Between now and the first of next year, customers will receive a free tapered red candle with a purchase of seven or more gallons of gasoline. The offer is in keeping with the Thanksgiving-Christmas holiday, and also is symbolic of Ashland Oil & Refining Company's 40th anniversary, which is being celebrated this year.
