OBSERVER IS QUARTER-CENTURY OLD!

25 Candles on Our Cake Today!

The first edition of The Livonian, predecessor and parent of The Observer Newspapers, came off the press on Wednesday, Feb. 28, 1940.

Today—25 years and many milestones later—the newspaper you are reading marks this event with a special edition.

That first issue hit the streets of a sprawling, agricultural community which was just beginning to feel the start of urban growth. "Please close the gate so my livestock can't get out," pleaded the owner of a well in a Seven Mile Rd. barnyard on page one of the first issue.

But the front page also reported that 500 new homes were going to be constructed in the coming year. Livonia was starting its role as one of the fastest-growing suburbs when the first Livonian hit the icy, slippery roads of that winter a quarter-century ago.

During this 25-year span, many changes have come to the 36-square-miles which The Livonia Observer continues to serve. And the changes, both good and bad, have continued to be chronicled without interruption in the pages of this paper.

Livonia has increased its population more than tenfold since that first issue; Livonia boys have marched off to the battlefields twice; the old Township form of government has been streamlined into a modern city; and an unbelievable transformation has come over the city's landscape.

Where once only fertile farmland punctured by a couple of subdivisions, a few stores, and a scattering of schools existed, Livonia today is a sprawling suburban community racing to add to its many fine residential subdivisions. Livonia today boasts the state's fourth-largest school system, two giant shopping centers, and an industrial belt that plays an important role in the metropolitan area's auto production.

The farms? They've almost disappeared. But if you look carefully, you can still find evidence of Livonia's rich agricultural heritage in parts of the city.

And if you look again, you'll find reminders scattered throughout the city of Livonia's past. An old schoolhouse, an aging church, weather-beaten tombstones, tell the story of Livonia's past.

It's this story—of the growth and progress of Livonia, and of our city's aims for the future—that this special section of the Livonian attempts to tell. We hope that you enjoy reading about your city's past as all of us begin looking toward the next 25 years.

War Claimed Pioneer Brothers

ALFRED RYDER

Two Livonia men, both killed in the Battle of Gettysburg, were part of a Livonia family who pioneered settlement here and which continued contributing to the city's progress right through the 20th Century.

Alfred and John Ryder, born in 1842 and 1843 respectively, were the first children of George and Henrietta Ryder. George, in turn, was the son of David Ryder, the original settler of the family.

The Ryders (before they changed the spelling of their name) settled in Livonia in 1827—138 years ago—after a trip down the Erie Canal into the old Northwest Territory.

The family has remained here since, and have contributed much to the material and spiritual growth of the city. The deed to the land formerly owned by the family was signed by John Quincy Adams and remained in the family until 1950, when it was sold to the Ford Motor Company for the Transmission plant.

The two grandsons of David were killed at Gettysburg, after having joined the Union Army in 1861, and were later brought home to be buried in the Newburg Cemetery. The G.A.R. post of Livonia was named the John and Alfred Ryder Post and the post flag, charter, ceremonial sashes and tombstone markers are located in Bentley High School until such time as a permanent and appropriate resting place for them can be found.

The Ryders have been prominent in local and school affairs until the turn of the century, with one of them being on the school board at Newburg almost from its beginning. In 1922, Don Ryder was put in charge of the Newburg Cemetery, where so many of the city's pioneers are buried.

Thanks to Historians

Today's special section marking The Livonia Observer's 25th Anniversary draws on many sources for its material.

Much of what you read in today's paper appeared originally in the special edition commemorating Livonia's tenth birthday which appeared in June, 1960. Since more than 35,000 people have been added to Livonia's population in the last five years, The Observer's editorial staff felt this material was worth repeating.

Dominic Paris, Franklin High teacher and one of the founders of the Livonia Historical Society, is responsible for the long well-written story of Livonia's history. Our thanks, too, to Mr. Paris for his consultation on other matters. Other material is culled from two out-of-print books: the 10th Anniversary Booklet issued in 1960, and "The Heritage of Livonia," published by the Optimist Club in 1962. The Livonia Public Schools' community relations director, Paul Lutzner, and the school text, "Our City, Livonia, Mich." by Leonard Servetter, were other aids.

Thanks also to Mike Costello, Kitty Schable, Mrs. George Eckenswiler and Mrs. Betty Donnelly.

To Start New Bus Fare Plan

Parents of the children attending the Wilcox, Livonia Center and Elm schools will be approached within the next few days on the plan of purchasing tickets for school bus fares. A committee, headed by Mrs. D. W. Donnelly, has worked out a plan which it hopes to put in operation March 1 with the Coach company where parents will be sold tickets that will provide their children with one month's transportation at perhaps a slightly reduced rate.

The problem of supporting the bus has been an effort for the parents in view of the fact that some of the children who are given money to pay for their ride, hitch hike back and forth to school and the minimum fee that must be paid often runs less than it should.

A straight charge of $10.00 a day is made for the bus and only through the financial aid of the Coventry Corporation has its maintenance been possible. Although, in the event all of the children did ride there still would not be enough to cover the total cost, per month.

Tickets will be sold to parents every month, each being a different color so that the driver can distinguish them at a glance. Each will bear the child's name and also be countersigned by some other person.

With this plan in operation, the several real estate firms and the Coventry Corporation, who now help pay the expenses, would be called upon to do less from a financial standpoint.

Softball Teams to Organize Soon

According to an announcement by J. B. Folsom and Bill Miller of Rosedale Gardens, softball teams similar to those which were organized during the summer months last year will begin organization on April 1. Mr. Miller and Mr. Folsom will again have charge of the project.

Four teams were included in the Rosedale Gardens league last year. The directors report that as many or even more will be sponsored this year. If present plans materialize, from the four or more teams officials will pick a team to compete in the Community softball league at Plymouth.

The Rosedale league will play on the newly developed recreation field in back of the club house at the Gardens. Men who wish to play are requested to see Mr. Folsom or call Mr. Miller at Livonia 4291. The directors report that within two weeks a full schedule including teams and captains will be published in The Livonian.

This project is a part of the seasonal athletic program which is put on by the Recreation committee of the Rosedale Gardens Civic association. The program includes bowling as well as softball.

Registration at All-Time High

According to a report from Township Clerk Harry S. Wolfe, there are more registered voters in Livonia township at the present time than ever before. Figures compiled preceding the primary elections last week indicated that 2,326 individuals are on township records as qualified voters.

The record number of registered voters is an indication of the interest of Livonia township residents in their community and civic affairs and points toward a rapid growth in population during the last five years.

Request Residents to Vote April 1

Although candidates at the Livonia township spring election to be held Monday, April 1, will be unopposed, voters are requested to go to the polls as there are several vital township issues which may be decided upon at that time. Supervisor Jesse Ziegler reports that information concerning the issues cannot be given out at the present time. However, sometime during the next few weeks, a complete report will be made by The Livonian.

As a result of last week's primary election, the following Republican township officers will be voted to office: Jesse Ziegler, supervisor; Harry S. Wolfe, clerk; Arthur Trapp, treasurer; Leo Nye, Justice; Albert Nacker, member of board of review; Charles S. Wolfson, highway commissioner; and Ray Owens, Charles H. Canfield, John W. Whitehead and Miles Helm, constables.

Jesse Ziegler, supervisor, led the ticket with 301 votes. Clerk Harry S. Wolfe was a close second with 296 votes and Treasurer Arthur Trapp received 294 votes. Leo Nye was nominated again for his office of full term justice with 263 votes and Albert Nacker as a member of the board of review received 231 votes.

Present Cripple With Wheel-Chair

Probably the happiest boy in this part of the state this year on his birthday anniversary was Billy Rotarius, 13, who received a wheel-chair as a gift from the Elm Girl and Boy Scout troops and Parent-Teachers' association. From childhood, Billy has been a cripple. He has a brother, Bobby, who is similarly afflicted, but Bobby can stand up and walk with the aid of another person.

The two-boys are part of the five-child family of Mr. and Mrs. William Rotarius whose home is near the intersection of Plymouth and Middle Belt roads. Mr. Rotarius works at a cemetery about five miles from the home.

In order to raise money, the Scout troops sponsored a benefit party, but as no appreciable amount of money was raised, cash had to be taken from their treasury. The P.T.A. furnished the remaining difference.

The Rotarius family, especially Billy, is deeply appreciative for the thoughtful birthday present and wishes through the columns of The Livonian to publicly thank all those who had anything to do with securing the gift.

Harry Wolfe Jr. Will Pitch Again

Harry Wolfe Jr. will start his fifth year in professional baseball when he reports March 19 to Bartow, Florida, spring training quarters for the Birmingham ball club.

Wolfe recently signed his contract as a pitcher on the team. He received his prep training at the Farmington high school. Later, Harry played at Charleroi, Pennsylvania after graduating from high school. Last summer he pitched for the Birmingham ball club.

The Cooper school P.T.A. will hold a card and dance party Friday evening, March 1, at the school on Middle Belt road and Ann Arbor Trail.

The Livonia Garden club has postponed its 28th annual meeting until March 28 at which time it will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert and Mrs. ...

Predict 500 New Homes in Livonia

Early indications are that Detroit's expected spring building boom will have a far reaching effect in Livonia township. A survey of local real estate men shows that there is an unusual amount of interest among people in this area who are looking for future home sites.

In anticipation of the building boom, township builders and suppliers are preparing for the rush and future Livonia home owners will be able to secure their workmanship and their supplies from concerns within the township.

A conservative estimate arrived at after compilation of the activities of such real estate firms as Edward Luttermoose, Harry S. Wolfe, Knight and Menard and Sheldon and Sons, places the total of new homes to be constructed well over the 500 mark.

Announce Double Wedding Plans

Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, of Stark road, announce the coming double wedding of their daughters Sarah to Vincent A. Fox, of Highland Park and Edith to Ernest T. Durbin, of Merriman road. The ceremony is to take place March 8, at the Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian church. Rev. Forsyth will read the ceremony.

Miss Sarah Davis is a graduate of Redford high school and her sister, Edith, graduated from the Northville schools. Mr. Fox completed the education course at Ferndale high school. Mr. Durbin is a native of North Dakota.

Presbyterians Buy New Organ

The Esjay organ which was on trial last Sunday in the Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian church was approved by 95 percent of the persons who voted as to its adaptability to a church of that size.

This heavy vote for the acceptance of the organ makes it almost certain that it will be purchased according to needs of the organ committee which was organized last April. The committee at that time was authorized to purchase an organ as soon as the money was raised.

The organ is on approval from Grinnell Brothers. The instrument has an electrically driven bellows, but is of the type commonly known as a "read organ." L. Spinner, a representative of Grinnell Brothers, played the organ at the church service Sunday. He accompanied the choir in their anthems. The regular church organist, Miss Adelle Sweney, will play the organ regularly.

Although it is comparatively small, the organ has ample volume for the needs of the church, according to those who heard it played Sunday. Under experienced hands it accomplished the lowest bass to the highest flute tones with equal volume.

The organ will be left permanently in the church choir loft. Grinnell Brothers were to have sent a used organ for approval, but the unexpected sale of the other organ led to send the new one which will be returned. It replaces a piano which has been used since the church was built.

Introducing The Livonian

For many years residents of Livonia township have desired a newspaper of their own. Township officials and leading citizens have been hopeful that a publication might be available so that township activities might be assembled in one place and spread about the community systematically.

The gathering and dissemination of news is the primary feature of a newspaper. Due to the several divisions of the township it has been almost impossible to focus the attention of all of the residents in any one place and it is with this thought in mind that The Livonian makes its appearance.

Until such time as is deemed advisable to open an office, several of your local stores have been designated as pick-up stations where regular calls will be made by employes of this paper to gather news items and advertising which you may desire to give us.

We feel you will appreciate that the continued success of your newspaper, The Livonian, will depend upon the support given it by every resident of Livonia township. The activities of your family, your friends and your relatives will be of interest to your neighbors, so do not hesitate to see that they are given us for publication.

In case you are desirous of placing news or advertising in the paper and are unable to visit a pick-up station, you may call telephone number 6 in Plymouth and designate your call as for The Livonian.

The Livonian will be published every Tuesday and mailed to its subscribers from Plymouth on that day. News or advertising copy will be taken up to 11:00 o'clock on Monday. It will be impossible to secure publication of anything for that particular week's edition after that time.

We will do everything in our power to give you a good newspaper and we know that you will cooperate and help us bring another service to your home community which all helps to make it a better place in which to live.

Close the Gate!

"Please close the gate so my livestock can't get out." That is the only request made by John Grimm who has been supplying drinking water from a well in his barnyard to neighbors in the vicinity of Seven Mile road near his home in the Wilcox district for about 19 years.

It is reported that residents of that particular district have cisterns to collect water for washing purposes but have never been able to obtain a water main.

The Livonian is desirous of obtaining information relative to the reason why a water main has not been constructed in this district of modern homes.

Residents of that locality requested that The Livonian publicly express their gratitude to Mr. Grimm for his patience with them during the past 19 years. And until another arrangement can be made by which they can obtain drinking water, they said that they will remember and "close the gate."

Wilcox P. T. A. Card Party Next Saturday

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Baron Benoit, arrangements for the card party and dance to be held at Wilcox school next Saturday night, are all completed.

The evening's entertainment is being put on by the Wilcox P.T.A. Mrs. Arthur Laing is president of the association. Residents of the community are urged to attend the party because the funds raised at the affair will be used in the purchase of playground equipment for the school. The committee plans to serve refreshments to all who attend.

IN 25 YEARS: From Country Weekly To Modern Journal

It's not the kind of news that changes... it's only the people.

A glance at the headlines on page one of The Livonian's first edition 25 years ago, reproduced to the left, would seem to back up this statement.

Stories then and now evolved around the same general topics.

Officials were urging residents to vote April 1. Today, the same call is going out for the general election April 5.

Voting registration was at an all-time high. Township Clerk Harry S. Wolfe reported. Today, City Clerk Addison Bacon reports the same. Only then it was 3,326. Today, it's close to 40,000.

Construction of a record number of new homes was chronicled in that first edition. Today, the issue of how many and where to build new homes occupies much of the city fathers' business. And even a story about buses appears on both the first edition of The Livonian and on today's regular front page.

But, although new homes, elections, and bus service are still the things that interest Livonia, there's been a great change in the kind of newspaper which serves this city.

A quarter-century ago when the first issue of this paper came off the old flat-bed press in what is now the Plymouth Mail plant in Plymouth, distribution was limited to around 1,500 copies.

Today, because of the mushrooming population growth of this city and due to a modern concept of newspaper circulation, THE LIVONIAN OBSERVER goes to more than 27,000 homes every Wednesday afternoon. And that's only part of the story. Together with its three affiliated publications, THE PLYMOUTH OBSERVER, THE REDFORD OBSERVER and THE FARMINGTON OBSERVER, its newest, more than 50,700 families get and read the paper carefully. And the press run rises almost weekly.

The growth of The Livonian over these 25 years is a story of marked, steady progress which has kept pace with the population increase in its home town.

When first we started, the paper—owned at the time by Sterling Eaton of Plymouth—was operated from a Plymouth office.

For most Livonia Township residents, this location wasn't convenient and shortly afterwards THE LIVONIAN had opened an office in a gift shop in Rosedale Gardens owned by Walter and Marie Clark. Mrs. Clark later became Livonia City Clerk.

In the early fifties, THE LIVONIAN had its headquarters at Surrey and Five Mile in Coventry Gardens before moving to its present building at 33050 Five Mile Rd.

During the past year, The Observer Newspapers has opened two other offices, in the First Federal Building in Plymouth and at 33425 Grand River in Farmington.

The Observer has also kept pace with the community in the size of its weekly edition, in the growth of its personnel, in the editorial content of its publication.

Starting out as an eight-page, four-column paper in 1940, THE LIVONIAN grew even skimpier as wartime paper shortages cut the supply of newsprint to all publications. In 1943 and 1944, the paper took on the appearance of an 8½x11" sheet with limited advertising and editorial coverage.

Then, following the war, in 1946, The Livonian underwent a major face-lifting and assumed its full-size format which it has maintained through today. The paper now averages 40-page editions weekly, a ten-fold growth from its first issue 25 years ago.

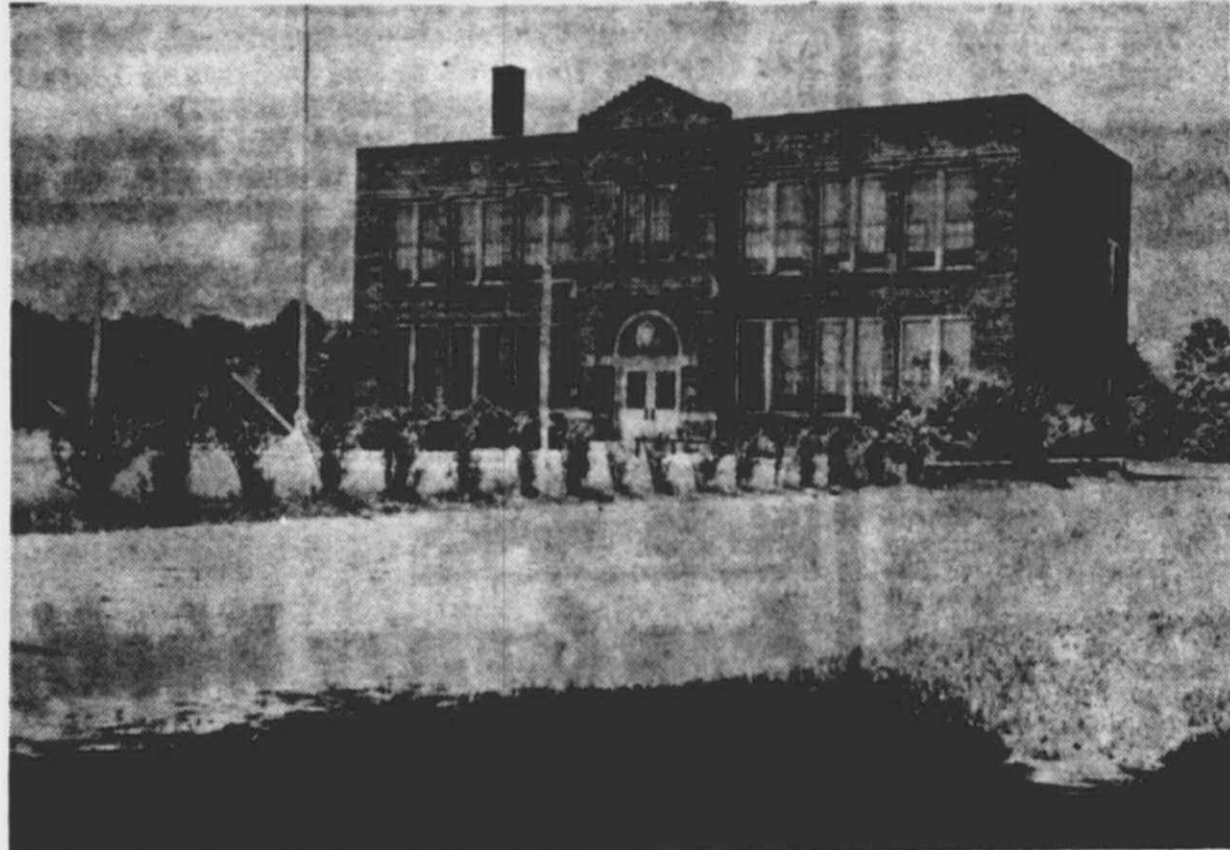

In 1953, The Observer was purchased from its former publisher by Paul M. Chandler who helped the paper continue to grow through the nine years up to his death last December. Chandler founded The Observer Newspaper chain and brought to the community an intense dedication and vibrant personality which was reflected in the lively coverage of community events in THE LIVONIAN'S pages.

Chandler's "Facts and Opinions" column was the (Continued on Back Page)

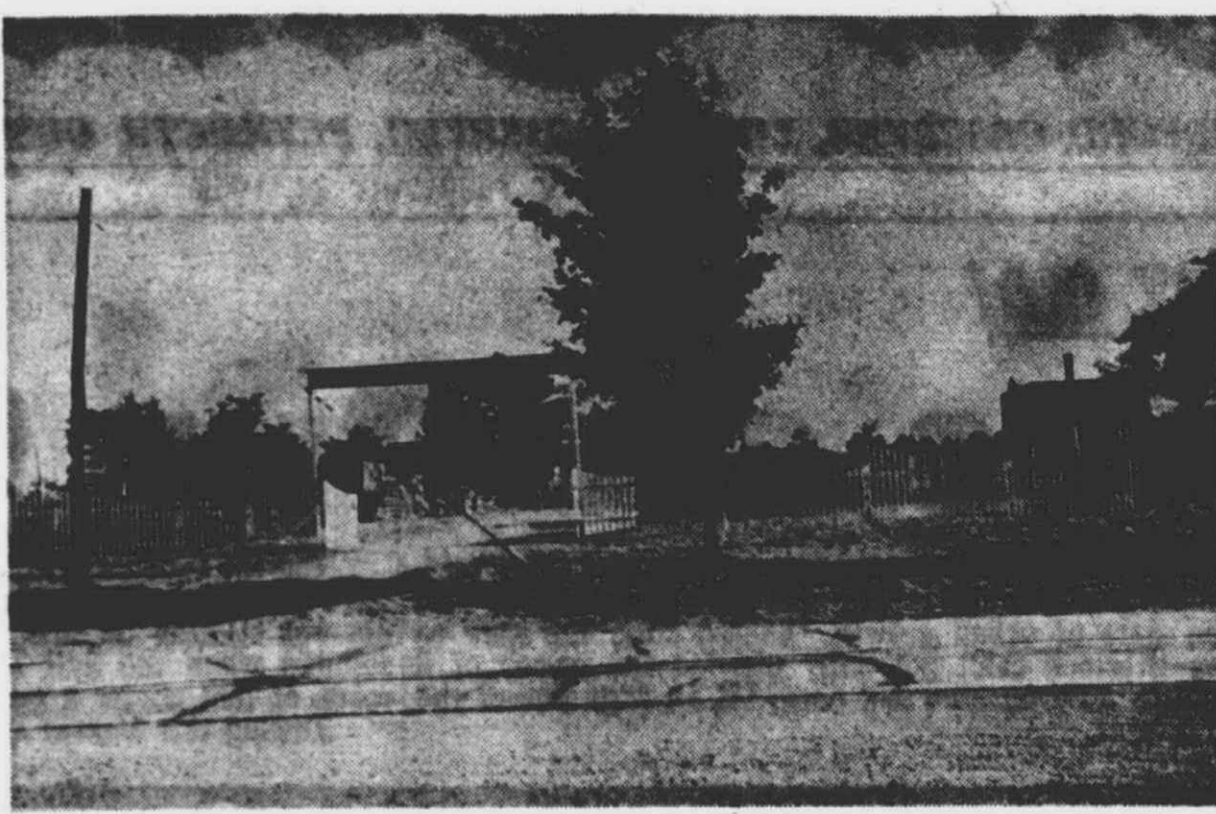

Remember These? - the 'Good Old Days' in Livonia

AN HISTORICAL MARKER was erected last year at the site of Livonia's Newburgh Cemetery on Ann Arbor Trail west of Wayne Rd. The reason? Livonia pioneers organized the burial society that established the cemetery as long ago as 1832—and it continues to be properly maintained. Containing 2.35 acres of land, the cemetery contains the remains of three Revolutionary War veterans and more than 50 persons who fought in the Civil War. Although 75 tombstones were vandalized some seven years ago, most have been restored.

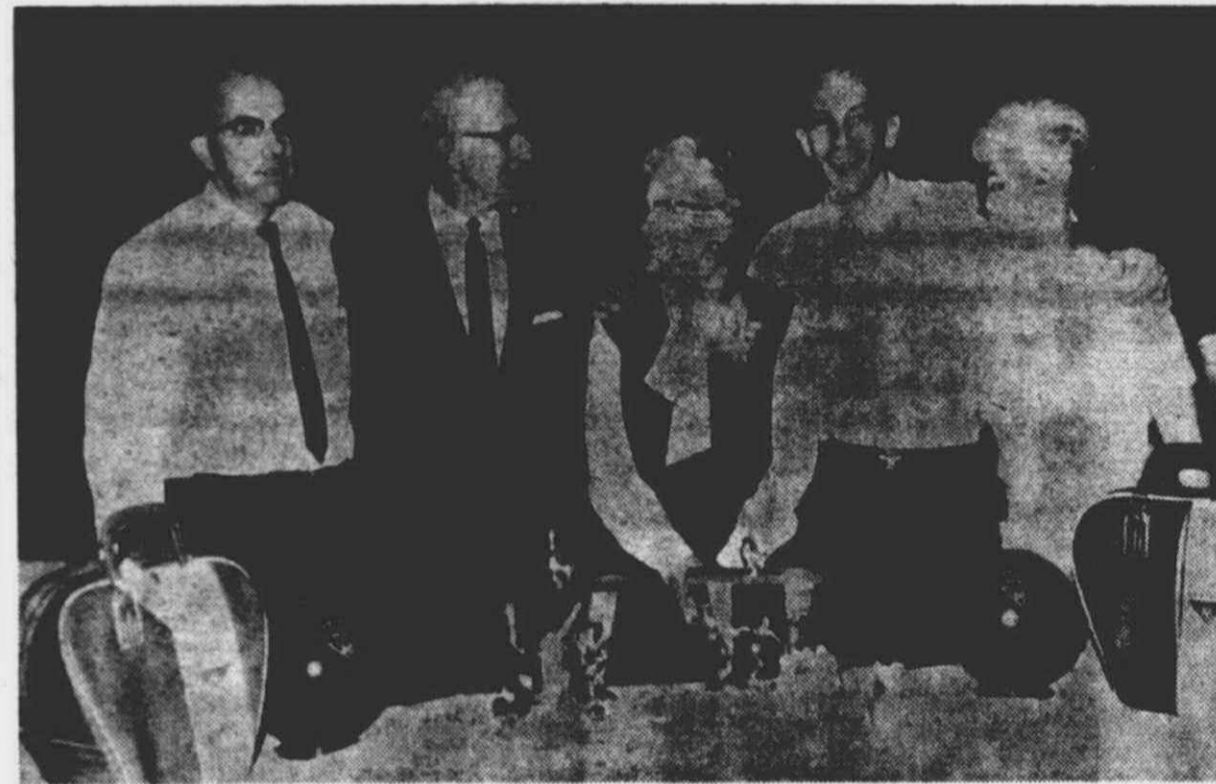

LIVONIA CENTER — 1940: That's when this photograph of one of the community's old schoolhouses was taken. Modern-day residents can still see this brick structure if they peek behind the new Board of Education building on Farmington Rd. south of Five Mile.

FIVE MILE AND Farmington Roads —now one of the major intersections in modern Livonia — once looked like this —and not too long ago, either. Sitting on the southwest corner of the intersection, where a modern shopping center now stands, was Harvey Jahn's lumber yard. The Jahn family later built a hardware store at the location. The old Livonia Center School, now part of the Board of Education complex, is visible at the rear of the picture.

OLD WATER TOWER, which is shown in the process of being torn down in this photograph, once stood on the corner of Five Mile and Farmington Roads. This and the other photographs on this page were kindly lent to The Observer by Mrs. Elizabeth Donnelly, who has lived in the city for more than 30 years.

Livonia Lanes 25 Years Old

By W. W. Edgar

Strolling down through Memory Lane the other evening, alternately grinning and choking back the tears as events of the past came tumbling through the years, I came upon two men standing in front of a vacant piece of property just west of Merriman, on Plymouth Road.

This was back in 1940, long before we knew of such a place as Pearl Harbor . . . F.D.R. was just completing his second term in the White House and Livonia Township (B.I.—before incorporation) was a sprawling rural country side, with twenty-seven farms under cultivation and its 8,000 population was almost like one big family.

round seats for the bowlers, telescopes, spectator seats, pin racks, and lockers finished in matching colors and the alleys will have center ball returns.

"William Miller is the architect and James Kinahan is the contractor (both of Rosedale Gardens). The building will be 50x128 feet with plenty of parking."

THE TWO MEN were standing there chatting and looking and just wondering and one of them spoke up:

"We're thinking of building a bowling establishment here—about eight lanes."

Nothing like that existed in Livonia at the time. In fact there were no recreation facilities except for those who liked horses and went riding over the many paths in the wooded areas.

"Yes," the taller of the two remarked, "we've been bowling up in Plymouth and are no longer pleased with conditions and the lanes, so we thought we'd build our own, for the folks down here."

Thus was born the Livonia Recreation, at 31360 Plymouth Road and the two hardy pioneers in the recreational field were Clarence Hoffman, then the owner of a meat market in a nearby grocery, and Victor Petschulat, a representative of the Kurtz Company, manufacturers of venetian blinds.

Petschulat has long since gone to his reward, but "Hoff" is still carrying on as the instructor and the kindly statesman who sees that you get a proper fit when purchasing a new bowling ball.

On this morning, in the long ago, when they studied the layout of the land and the "bowling alley" was just a dream, several miles away another group was pioneering in another field and it wasn't long until this dream, too, came into being as Livonia's first newspaper, "The Livonian."

IN THE APRIL 24, 1940, edition, appeared this story on the front page:

"Announcement was made last weekend by Clarence Hoffman and Victor Petschulat, of Rosedale Gardens, of plans to construct a new bowling alley.

"It will contain eight of the finest bowling alleys in the country and will be installed by the Brunswick Company that is celebrating its 100th year in business this year.

"Features of the alleys are

J.A.R. Corp. Questions Legality of Zoning Ordinance

See High Court Verdict Aiding Township Case

A decision, that may have considerable bearing on the suit of J.A.R. Corporation against the Plymouth Township Board and the Planning Commission, has been handed down by the State Supreme Court in favor of the Farmington Township Zoning Ordinance.

J.A.R. Corporation, which owns a parcel of land adjacent to the Woodlure subdivision between Ann Arbor and Beck Roads, took the matter to court attacking the constitutionality of Plymouth Township ordinance when the Planning Commission refused a request to allow 60 foot lots in an area which required half-acre or 90 foot lots.

The Supreme Court decision upheld the population controls underlying the Farmington Township Ordinance. In four separate opinions, the Court voted 6-2 to affirm the ruling of Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick Ziem.

The case, which began in 1961, involved an attack upon the minimum lot sizes required by the ordinance. The plaintiffs owned property on 14 Mile Road between Inkerster and Middlebelt Roads where the ordinance required a minimum of 20,000 square feet per lot or a density of 1.8 homes per acre.

The plaintiffs contended the restrictions were unreasonable since sewers were available, the lot size restrictions were not necessary for public health and safety and therefore were unconstitutional.

Farmington Township defended on the grounds that the zoning was based upon a comprehensive plan for the development of the area.

The J.A.R. complaints and the defense of Plymouth Township are similar to those in the Farmington case and thus it should be interesting when the case comes up in Circuit Court.

Township Attorney Earl Demel received word Thursday that the hearing, originally set for last Friday, has been delayed until April 19 at the request of the J.A.R. counsel.

It was evident in the various opinions of the Supreme Court Justices that the Farmington Township case presented problems.

Justice Eugene Black wrote: "This case has turned out to be one of unusual difficulty. All members of the Court are agreed that our judgment is apt to influence permanently the development for residential purposes of many like tracts of vacant land; also that it is bound to have a broad unpredictable effect upon suburban life in ever more populous Southeastern Michigan."

In an opinion joined in by Justices Souris and Kavanaugh, Justice Adams wrote: "One would not hesitate to condemn the designer of a modern building who failed to make provision for its use for a reasonable number of years.

"Surely the function of zoning is to plan a modern day community for continuance and growth over a period of years. The growth cannot possibly come at once any more than a seed can spring into a tree overnight.

"Unless the pattern is set and followed, proper growth can never materialize. The alternative is to pay the price in crime, juvenile delinquency, inadequate parks, and worst of all, inadequate human beings—a pattern that has been all too clearly

AS SIGN INDICATES, hunting days are over for the Plymouth School Board for a site for an elementary school building in the Lake Pointe subdivision area. Four parents from the Farrand School district are shown looking over the acreage the Board has an option on for the new building which is expected to be ready for use by the start of the 1966-7 school term. Announcement of the site was made at Monday's special meeting of the Board of Education.

School Board Asks Plymouth Voter OK on 3.25 Millage Hike

Voters in the Plymouth School District will be asked to approve a 3.25 millage increase for operations in a special election on March 29.

That was the decision of Board members in a meeting Monday night at which President Gerald Fischer also announced a tentative site for the new elementary school in the Lake Pointe area.

funds to take care of whatever additional is given the PEA. President Fischer told the Board that there is a half-mill voted for operations a year ago when the Building and Site millage was renewed, that hasn't been assessed yet and will be available for salary increases.

The site, which has a 350 foot frontage on Five Mile and extended 1338.5 feet north has a total of 10.9 acres. It is owned by George Condos of Detroit.

The option calls for payment of $4,000 per acre for a total estimated cost of $43,600. The deal is subject to survey and to an opinion from Board of Education Attorney William Sempliner upon the deed.

Although the site is Northville Township, it is in that portion within the boundaries of the school district. School Board members hope to consummate the deal before the end of the week.

In the meantime, the Trustees are busy with plans to start a campaign to sell the importance of the additional millage to the electors during the next three weeks.

The Board acted in accordance with recommendations of a Citizens Study Committee, headed by Wendell Smith, which indicated the School Board needed a minimum of $336,000 additional for operation in the 1956-56 school year.

The recommendations were made on the basis of increased facilities, enrollment and an anticipated greater enrollment than was predicted a year ago.

The School Board nets approximately $100,000 for each mill levied and thus the 3.25 additional mills would place the Board in a position where it would have almost all of the recommended $336,000.

However, there are other financial matters that enter into the picture, as pointed out by the Citizens Committee—the recommendations did not include any salary increases for teachers over and above the normal increment.

Inasmuch as the Plymouth Educational Association, which represents a majority of the teachers, is already negotiating for a general increase, the Board will have to find additional

YOUTH HURT When Struck By Auto

Michael Hotchkin, 16, of 837 N. Holbrook, Plymouth, suffered a brain concussion, bruises and cuts when struck by an auto driven by Chester Fleming, Jr., of 24186 Broadview, Farmington, at the corner of Amelia and N. Main.

Michael, who was walking east on Main Street, stopped at Amelia for a truck which was making a right hand turn onto Main. The driver waved him across and he started across the intersection and was struck by the Fleming car making a right turn to go north on Amelia.

He was rushed to Wayne County General Hospital where examination showed the brain concussion and the body bruises.

Fleming, who told Plymouth Police officers he was partially blinded by the bright sunlight according to the reports, said he didn't see Michael until the car struck the youth, the reports show.

Fleming was ticketed for reckless driving.

Symphony Concert Postponed

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra concert scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 28 has been postponed until Sunday, March 14 at 4 p.m. in the Plymouth High School auditorium.

That was the announcement Monday afternoon by Conductor Wayne Dunlap after learning that Violinist Emily Mutter Austin, who was slated to headline the concert, would be unable to appear.

Miss Austin, a member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, informed Dunlap that she would be unable to appear because of a previous commitment with the orchestra.

Dunlap and officials of the Plymouth Symphony immediately made arrangements for a two-week delay at which time Miss Austin will be able to perform as violin soloist.

Draugelis, Cutler Are Certified As Primary Winners

The names of Edward Draugelis and J. Rusling Cutler have been certified as winners of the Plymouth primary election and eligible for the final election on April 5.

The action was taken by the Board of Canvassers last Thursday after checking the official returns which showed Draugelis running in the No. 1 spot with Cutler second and Clifford Manwaring third.

Acting in accordance with instructions from the State Director and the Wayne County Director of Elections, City Clerk Richard Shafer, who is head of the Plymouth Board of Elections, made the official report after receiving the certification from the Board of Canvassers.

Meanwhile, there is still a cloud over the eligibility of Draugelis who fails to meet five-year residence clause required in the City Charter but which he feels has been abrogated by a state statute passed in 1954.

An opinion has been given by the Attorney General upholding the City Charter but this is not binding to the City Election Board which must await an official challenge and a court ruling before taking any action.

Although no definite word has been received from any sources, it is believed the eligibility of Draugelis will be challenged at his request to clear the air once he is on firm ground in lieu of the state statute and two court rulings on similar cases. However, this feeling is not felt in many quarters where interested parties are referring to the opinion.

Draugelis knows there is only one place to settle the issue and he plans to have the challenge in the courts within a short time.

PHS Artists Win Awards In Contest

Four Plymouth High seniors and two juniors were honored by having work chosen for exhibition in the annual Scholastic Art competition in Detroit.

Three of the six received gold keys for their entries and the remaining trio was awarded certificates.

Keys went to John Schaufele, a senior, for a pencil drawing; Bob Thompson, a junior, for a silk screen print; and to senior Carol Hinote for her hand-hooked rug.

Certificates went to Torbett Guenther, a junior, for his large black and white oil painting; to Dan Decker, a senior, for a wire sculpture; and to Kay Orborn, a senior, for her pin of hand-crafted pewter.

Mrs. Jessie Hudson and Mrs. Carolyn Sam are the high school art teachers.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Scholastic Magazine, Crowley's and the Detroit News, is open to the public in Crowley's seventh floor auditorium during store hours.

Schools from area suburbs and the city of Detroit have a total of 1,168 pieces of art work on display of the total of 5,000 submitted.

Fire Hits Two Apartments Sat.

Fifteen Plymouth firemen battled an incinerator fire in a seven-month old unit of the Crestwood Park Apartments last Saturday afternoon.

According to Plymouth Assistant Fire Chief George Schoeneman the blaze started in the incinerator and spread through the partition to two apartments above. The fire followed the course of the heat ducts up into the apartments.

Damaged by heat and fire were the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Kent E. Robertson.

Opal Dedek, who lives across the hall from the Richardson apartment, told The Observer that she noticed smoke in the hall and arranged to have the fire department summoned. A baby was asleep in the Dedek apartment at the time the alarm was turned in.

Neither the Richardsons nor the Robertsons were at home at the time of the fire. Clothing and furniture in both apartments were damaged.

Partitions were broken and windows smashed by the firemen while combatting the fire. A mattress from the Richardson apartment was thrown from the second story window to the back lawn.

Assistant Chief Schoeneman said that the firemen spent about an hour at the scene of the fire. The department returned a few hours later to check all the gas connections before turning the heat on in the building again.

The fourth apartment in the unit is occupied by Jean Brock.

Louis Norman Heads Area Recreation Group

Plymouth's new Recreational Planning Commission outlined plans for future meetings in the initial gathering of the eight-member group which includes representatives of the Plymouth Community School Board, the City of Plymouth and Plymouth and Canton Townships.

Louis Norman, Plymouth Township trustee and a strong advocate of a community recreation area, was named temporary chairman with Dick Lauterbach, also a Plymouth township trustee, serving as acting secretary.

The appointments were made on a temporary basis due to the fact that neither of the official representatives of Canton Township was able to attend due to a previous meeting in the township.

Present were: Norman and Lauterbach from Plymouth Township; City of Plymouth Commissioners Robert Beyer and James Jabara; School Board members John McLaren and Carl Schultheis; and Forrest Truesdell from Canton Township. The official representatives from Canton are Phil Dingley and Paul Richmond.

The commission devoted most of the meeting to a discussion of its aims and goals and how it hopes to reach them.

After considerable discussion, the members agreed on the following policy:

- 1.—To study long range needs of the community for a recreational area and facilities.
- 2.—To study and discuss the possible directions the community (which is meant to include all within the boundaries of the school system) may take to meet the needs.
- 3.—To provide a vehicle through which residents of the community may express their thoughts and wants. The Commissioners are thinking of several open meetings to which citizens will be invited to express their views.

The next meeting is scheduled for March 11 in the Commission chambers of the Plymouth City Hall at which time a permanent organization will be affected.

The world famous Dale Carnegie Course is coming to Plymouth under the sponsorship of the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce and interested persons will have a chance to participate in a free demonstration Wednesday, Feb. 24 in the multi-purpose room at Junior High East starting at 8 p.m.

That was the announcement Monday by Jaycee President Joseph Fletcher in announcing plans for the course.

"We believe the Plymouth Jaycee sponsorship of this adult education program is a community service," said Fletcher, "Businessmen, professional and sales people, housewives clubwomen, office personnel—in fact every adult will benefit by this training. It will build a new enthusiasm, develop self-confidence and increase a new understanding among the citizens of our City."

Poindexter on Panel Of Farmington Forum

"States Rights" will be the subject of a panel discussion, at the Universalist-Unitarian Church of Farmington, at 8 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 25.

The panel ranges the political spectrum from left to right. In point of fame, the speakers are headed up by controversial Detroit Councilman Thomas L. Poindexter. He indicates he will make his stand somewhere in the middle of the group—which includes a Bircher and a pair of members of the Freedom Now Party.

The Bircher is Virginia Crawford of Redford Township. She is a Chapter Leader, but points out that she will be speaking for herself and not as a representative of the Birch Society.

The Freedom Now representatives are Mr. and Mrs. James Boggs. He is Negro. His wife is of Chinese descent. They are both well known as authors and left wing intellectuals.

Another member of the panel is George Crockett, a noted Negro attorney. He was one of the leaders of the integration drive in Mississippi last summer.

Rounding out the panel is Allen Rosenfeld, a member of the editorial staff of the Observer Newspapers.

The Universalist-Unitarian Church is located at 23604 Warner.

230 Start Adult Ed Courses Here

Adult Education classes for more than 230 persons began in the Clarenceville School District Feb. 15, but two or three openings must still be filled before classes in Accounting, Bookkeeping, English Grammar, Lapidary and Modern Math for Parents can begin.

Persons interested in any of these classes should send their names, addresses, phone numbers and classes desired to James Leary, 28830 W. Eight Mile, Farmington.

Eating Contest Draws 56 Boys

The building was jam-packed (or should we say "cherry-pie packed") on Saturday, February 20, and 56 of the boys took part in the pie-eating contest.

The winner of the Cadet division was 9-year-old Greg Melvin, 18676 Centralia, and the winner of the Junior Division was 11-year-old Bobby Johnson, of 18836 Norborne.

Meanwhile more ambitious members were busy with the wood-shop contest entry for next Friday's judging — the making of model army tanks. More than 60 boys have taken the materials for this project, so it looks like a lot of competition.

17 Foreign Students Gather for Thanksgiving Dinner

International flavor and historic atmosphere combined in Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel Thursday to make The Observer Newspapers' first annual Foreign Exchange Students Banquet a huge success.

From Redford Township, Livonia, Plymouth and Farmington, 17 students and their American families came to eat a replica of the first Thanksgiving Dinner, hear a talk by Mrs. George Romney and sing along in an international hootenanny.

Students from ten nations, studying in the four suburbs on either the American Field Service or Youth for Understanding programs, along with their American host families, were The Observer's guests and a total of 130 attended the affair.

Under the direction of Mayflower owner Ralph Lorenz, the students were treated to the original Thanksgiving Dinner, starting off with hot spiced cider, and including everything from marinated venison and pumpkin soup to turkey, wild goose, corn custard and cranberry tort.

Choosing the topic of international understanding, Mrs. Romney spoke on the value of student exchange programs, and the need to develop a spirit of love and brotherhood among mankind.

"We want to show our student guests who study in America the real spirit of friendship which we feel toward them, and we want to learn from them the rich heritages of their nations," she said.

John Kamego, manager in Plymouth for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., was master of ceremonies for the event, and The Rev. Jay Coulton, pastor of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Livonia, delivered the invocation.

Guests were brought from Mrs. Myra Chandler, president of The Observer Newspapers, on behalf of the publication. The idea for the banquet had originated with the late Observed publisher Paul Chandler, who died in December, and the present staff hopes to make a yearly tradition of it.

Skip Rosenthal, Livonia chief city librarian, an accomplished banjoist and folk singer, led the students in group singing, including selections in Spanish and German, and a Norwegian song learned during the dinner from some of the exchange pupils.

Germany, North Farmington High; Venus Korkkovi, Greece, Redford Union High; Anatolio Figueroa, Chile, Redford Union High; Jose Barretto Araujo, Brazil, Thurston High; Olivia de la Salas, Colombia, Clarenceville High; Lars Egnell, Sweden, North Farmington High; Bjorn Backman, Sweden, Franklin High; Eduardo Rodrigues, Brazil, Franklin High; Clinton Starr, Australia, Farmington High; and Dorothy Navrides, Cyprus, Bentley High.

Others included: Mr. and Mrs. Winston C.

Hudson, Area A.F.S. Representatives; Mrs. Gene Nielson, Bentley High School A.F.S. Chapter President; Mrs. Mary Lee Hendee, Farmington High A.F.S. Chapter President; Mrs. Marion Lam, N. Farmington High A.F.S. Chapter President; Mr. Lloyd L. Dobbert, Thurston High A.F.S. Chapter President; Mrs. Della Littleton, Redford Union High A.F.S. Chapter President; Mrs. Joyce Wilson, Clarenceville High A.F.S. Chapter President; and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McKay, representing Franklin High A.F.S.

Newspapers; Mrs. Lenore Romney, wife of Michigan's Governor; and master of ceremonies John Kamego of Michigan Bell's Plymouth office.

CHARMING CO-HOSTS of the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lorenz, gaze at one of the colorful table decorations as they discuss the unusual First Thanksgiving menu which was explained to the audience by Lorenz. He is the manager of the Mayflower Hotel.

MRS. LENORE ROMNEY (seated, third from right) greeted foreign student guests at The Observer's banquet in the Mayflower Hotel on Thursday night. Among the 17 present were Bjorn Backman, Michael Hortmann, Edward Rod-rigues, Lars Egnell, Clint Starr, Anatolio Figueroa, Jose Barretto, Gisliind Steinhauer, Olivia De La Salas and Kerstin Boije; Kay Schuster, Dorothy Navrides, Venus Korkkovi, Gilla Rynning, Lina Ribeiro, and Randi Grenstad.

Livonian Place High In Insurance Sales

APPLETON, Wis. — Donald W. Henrion and Kenneth D. Mueller, Livonia, district representatives in this area for Aid Association for Lutherans, each placed more than half a million dollars of life insurance during 1964, announced George V. Krampien, senior vice president and director of agencies. AAL is a legal reserve fraternal life insurance society serving eligible Lutherans.

Livonian Hits Jackpot; Wins $6,000 and A Car

The first Ford Motor Company maximum suggestion award—$6,000, plus a new car—presented this year in the Detroit-area went to a Livonia Transmission plant hourly employ-a machine repairman who resides at 35452 Parkdale, Livonia. He was presented his check and keys to a 1965 Mercury Monterey convertible by Plant Manager Richard L. McNulty at special in-Plant ceremonies.

Burrell gained the auto industry's largest idea payment when he devised a inserted bar end which can be inserted into lengths of tubular steel, thus permitting additional pieces of stock to be cut from each length of tubing.

Prior to adopting his idea, upwards of six inches of steel was scrapped from each tube because there was no means of gripping and cutting the small tube ends.

Commenting on his success under the Suggestion Program, Burrell said: "Receiving an award like this could only happen in America and, particularly at Ford Motor Company."

Burrell, a native of England and the plant's first maximum award recipient, explained that he and his wife, Elsie, often talked of traveling abroad and visiting his relatives. "Now that I've struck it rich with my idea," the 10-year Ford veteran commented, "We plan to make the trip to England this summer."

Since the new Employee Suggestion maximum award was inaugurated by the Company in January 1964, a total of 27 Ford hourly and salaried suggesters have been honored by management for outstanding on-the-job thinking.

Woodcock Heads Study Group For College

Leonard Woodcock, UAW Vice-President and Director of UAW General Motors and Aircraft Departments, has accepted the general chairmanship of the Wayne County Community College Citizens' Participatory Study Committee.

Schoolcraft Board Hopes to Start New Campus Center in April

Barring unforeseen difficulties, the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees hopes to see construction start on the new Campus Center building by mid-April. That was the decision reached at the monthly meeting at which building plans were presented by the architectural firm of Eberle M. Smith Associates Inc.

The proposed Center will provide much needed dining facilities and also will include a study area for 300 students, a bookstore, publications office and counseling facilities.

The kitchen will be designed in such a way that it will be used as a laboratory in a foods program which will be developed by the College administration. The preliminary plans include an instructional and a kitchen laboratory area for training those who wish to become chefs or pursue some other phase of foods.

The Trustees hope to receive detailed plans from the landscape architectural firm of Eichstedt and Grissim Associates for the landscaping of the campus at the March 17 meeting.

The project will include sodding, seeding, planting of trees, low-spreading evergreens and flowering trees. Paving of parking lots also will be a part of the general landscaping development.

The Board adopted the official academic college calendar for the 1965-66 college term which opens on Aug. 26 with the start of the first semester and closes on Aug. 25, 1966 with the final day of classes of the second summer session.

The calendar includes: Semester I—Registration, Aug. 25-28; first day of classes, Aug. 31 and the final day on Dec. 22; Semester II—Registration, Jan. 3-5; first day of classes, Jan. 6; closing day, April 27; First Summer Session—Registration, May 4; classes start, May 5; closing day, June 29; Second Summer Session—Registration, June 30; classes start, July 1; closing day, August 25.

Dr. Eric Bradner, Schoolcraft College president, has been notified that the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has appointed Dean Robert Ray as consultant. Dean Ray will visit the campus twice during the year, in the fall and again in the spring to assist in setting up the studies and evaluations which must be made when the college applies for North Central accreditation.

Dr. Bradner indicated the college and college board plans to take every step possible to receive NCA accreditation at the earliest possible date.

Schoolcraft College Hires Police Officer To Protect Campus

Tony Choike, a retired City of Detroit police officer with 25 years service, has been employed as security for the Schoolcraft College campus. He is fully deputized by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and has complete police authority on the campus.

The Board of Trustees recently passed a resolution asking the City of Livonia to include the campus traffic regulations as part of the city code so that traffic regulations of the area will have uniformity.

JA Workers to Make Final Reports Thursday

Workers in the annual Junior Achievement fund raising campaign will learn Thursday noon whether the drive went over the top or not in the final report luncheon at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in downtown Detroit.

Chester Ogden, administrative vice president of Detroit Edison, is general chairman. He reported a week ago that the drive had netted $234,627 of the $290,000 goal.

"We feel certain we'll go over the top again," Ogden said. "More than 600 workers have been busy on this month long campaign and not a single one has the slightest doubt but that we'll go over the top with something to spare."

Junior Achievement has a proven record of helping our young people acquire that knowledge by 'doing'. The purpose of this campaign is to provide the funds so that this non-profit, educational organizational can offer that opportunity to more of the hundreds of teen-aged applicants who could not be accommodated in the 16 JA business centers again this year."

Assisting Ogden are four co-chairmen: Albert Berdis, president, Great Lakes Steel Corporation whose team reported 72 per cent of its goal a week ago; George Higgins, Secretary, Chrysler Corporation, 79 per cent of goal; Clark Pearson, Finance Manager, Chevrolet Motor Division, General Motors, 75 per cent; and H. L. Misch, Vice President Engineering and Research, Ford Motor, 93 per cent of goal.

Burl Woodward, owner and manager of the Hines Motel, is director of the Livonia campaign and Arnold Johansson, general manager of the Western Electric plant in Plymouth, is heading the drive in that area.

Township Planning Board Ponders Denial of All Rezoning Requests

The Plymouth Township Planning Commission made it quite clear last week that it won't move in any direction on rezoning requests until members have a chance to study the master plan that is being prepared by Consultant W. C. Johnson of the planning firm of Waring and Johnson.

After rejecting a request of Rose Hill Development Co. for rezoning of the Postiff estate, which is near the intersection of Ann Arbor and Lilley Roads, pending additional study, the Commission decided to table additional rezoning requests until it had the master plan in hand.

Chairman Irving Rozian told members "it is urgent that we get the master plan as quickly as possible. However, I don't feel we should declare a moratorium on requests."

His opinion was reflected by members in a poll but it was decided to withhold decision on requests until the master plan is studied.

This will be accomplished in a measure next Monday in a special meeting for the express purpose of discussing the master plan.

The matter of the master plan was brought to a head by Secretary Maurice Breen who told the commission he thought it "inconsiderate to do rezoning without the master plan. We are doing rezoning in a haphazard manner without full knowledge of what our planner has in There's little excuse for a poor excuse when the world is full of little white lies.

"We are getting a quit work of rezoning," he said. "We should either work from a master plan or forget it entirely. We are now going into the east and west sections, the only ones in which large tracts of land are available, we should know that any steps we take are in

High Court Ruling

"A city, village or township is entitled to work out a better destiny for itself under such clear statutory authority."

Wrote Justice Otis Smith in an opinion supported by Justices Adams and O'Hara: "There is a need to plan for expected population densities so that community needs may be based thereon: such things as adequate sewage, streets capable of handling anticipated traffic, recreation areas, schools and other community facilities are merely some of the items which must be anticipated."

"Community planners and municipal officials also have a duty to plan within established principles of zoning law and their projections must be realistic and not fanciful."

"Valid postulates of the several professional disciplines involved in planning must be not only asserted but convincingly proved where the occasion demands."

In the fourth opinion, written accordance with the master plan."

Supervisor Roy Lindsay urged the Commission not to take hasty action in rezoning.

"We don't have to rush into these things just because people hurry in and want service at once," he said. "We're not operating like a grocery store."

We should all think these matters over carefully and make decisions on what is best for the township not for developers and builders."

Prior to delaying action on the Postiff estate, the commission held a hearing at which 23 residents of the area, headed by Township Treasurer Mrs.

Elizabeth Halmes, expressed opposition to the proposed apartments.

Rose Hill plans to build apartments within the section in an area that is bounded on the north by manufacturing and commercial zoning and on the east and west by single family dwellings.

It was after the hearing that the Commission voted to table the request pending additional study.

After considerable discussion, the Commission approved changes in the Ordinance 14-S, r-2A for Garden Apartments to eliminate provisions that had prevented issuance of building permits to builders for whom apartments rezoning has been approved.

In other actions, the Commission:

Approved public hearings at the next meeting on the requests of Earl Smith and John Guettler for rezoning to construct do-it-yourself car washes on Northville Road and on the southeast corner of Main and Ann Arbor Road.

A tabled pending additional study, a request of Richard Fritz for rezoning of property on Beach Road and Ann Arbor Trail from Country Estate to Country Home district.

Millage

School Supt. Russell Isbister told the Board that paper ballots would have to be used for the March 29 vote for the first time in several years.

Voting machines in the Township and City are not available for use since all are locked and must remain sealed for 30 days after the recent primary. Then, too, any machines the School Board would use, have to be locked for 30 days pending a request for a recount—there aren't that many machines available.

Supt. Isbister also called attention to the final day for resignation of qualified electors to participate in the March 29 ballot. The final day is Monday, March 1 at 5 p.m. in the clerks' offices at the City of Plymouth, or the township in which the electors reside.

He urged all those who have to register to do so at once and thus become eligible for the vote.

Plymouth Gardeners Hear of Switzerland

Plymouth Branch of the National Farm & Garden Association met at the home of Mrs. James Starr on Linden Street, with Douglas Sanders, as their guest speaker. Douglas, a Senior at Michigan State University majoring in Horticulture, spent six months in Switzerland as an International Farm Youth Exchange Delegate.

He had the pleasure of living with six different families and participated in an agricultural school during his stay in Switzerland. Chairman Russell Isbister indicated the Commission has received two written applications thus far and numerous inquiries. Members plan to interview all applicants.

The Planning Commission, which has the financial backing of the City and Plymouth and Canton Townships, was organized for the purpose of adding to the industrial and commercial tax base of the school district.

The City of Plymouth and Township have pledged $5,000 each for two years and Canton Township $2,500 over the same period. Each unit has made one payment for a total of $12,500.

Hiring of a director is the No. 1 item for the Commission which is looking for a person to handle, supervise and promote the area planning.

The Commission also plans to take a school district map and mark the commercial and industrial sites now being offered in the district. It will be displayed at the Chamber of Commerce Office for the use of any groups interested in locating and thinking of locating in the area.

Realtors or individual property owners who wish to have their land located on the map may do so by leaving descriptions and locations at the Chamber offices on S. Main Street.

Painter, son of Mrs. David Painter and the late Mr. Painter of Livonia were united in marriage. The candlelight ceremony on Feb. 13 was at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia, performed by Rev. Dr. William Whitlege.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and chose a floor length gown of bridal satin with trimming of Allison lace embroidered with seed pearls on the bodice and sheath skirt with attached chapel train. A crown of seed pearls and crystal secured the silk illusion veiling. Her bouquet was a crescent of white roses accented with red velvet hearts outlined in seed pearls.

Maid of honor, Karen Stahl, was gowned in floor length red velvet. The bridesmaids in identical attire were Cathy Schmidt and Sylvia Tartoni. The bridesmaids carried like bouquets of red and white carnations accented with hearts.

The bridegroom chose as his best man, Stanley Edwards, Ushers were David Palmer, Frank McLegi and John Evers.

Mrs. Casselman, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a coco brown georgette lace dress accented by beige accessories and coral corsage of corresponding color.

Mrs. Painter, mother of the groom, wore a tourquoise silk crepe with matching corsage and accessories.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held at Rosedale Gardens Civic Hall.

After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Plymouth.

Show Billy Graham Movies

"WORLD'S FAIR ENCOUNTER" is an unusual colored movie, based upon the story of two young people who actually visited the World's Fair in New York this past summer. A Swiss-French exchange student in New York meets a graduate nurse from Montana. The growing friendship of these two persons blossoms during the day at the fair. We see the fair through their eyes as they are entertained, informed and inspired.

If one has not visited the fair this movie will provide an opportunity to see the beautiful pavilions from the various nations along with America's pavilion and that of Illinois which gives an interesting treatment of the life and times of Abraham Lincoln.

The story is climaxed in a trip to the Billy Graham pavilion where the audience sees the unusual and much talked about motion picture "Man In the Fifth Dimension."

Thousands were turned away from seeing this picture in New York. This showing in the Redford Baptist Church will allow many to see the outstanding film who cannot go to New York World's Fair. The showing of the picture begins at 6 p.m. in the Redford Baptist Church, Grand River and Seven Mile.

Keep Your Child Well, Arrange Immunization Now!

For 10 years there has been a group of community-minded women who have operated a Child Health Conference in Livonia known as the Well Baby Clinic.

This Clinic serves Redford Township, Plymouth, Nankin, Garden City and Livonia babies from three months to five years for a small fee. There is no financial stigma attached to the clinic.

Any child in this age category who resides in out-Wayne county is eligible to attend the clinic the first and second Wednesday of each month at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Parish House, Five Mile and Cavell in Livonia.

The Livonia Health Guild assisted to a limited extent by Wayne County Department of Health support the clinic.

The clinic is held in clean, pleasant surroundings and each child is treated by the doctor on each visit, for which a fee of $1.00 per child, where feasible, is collected by the Department of Health. None of this revenue reverts to the clinic.

The doctor is a pediatrician from University Hospital, Ann Arbor. As much time is spent with each child by the doctor as is deemed necessary to completely satisfy the needs of the child, the mother and the doctor. Referrals are made to appropriate agencies when needed. Supplemental vitamins are provided gratis where indicated. Public Health follow-up is also included in the service.

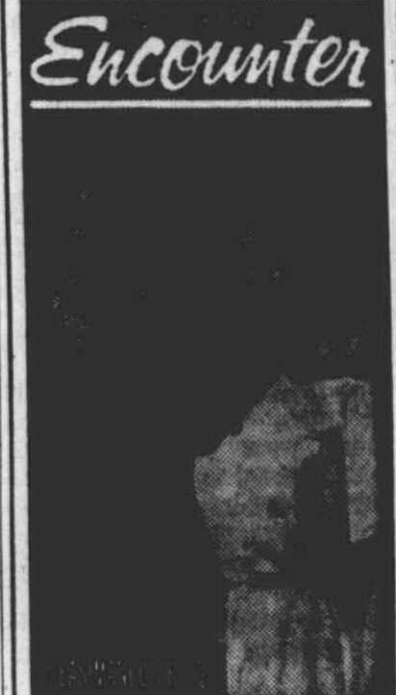

Preventive immunization starts with a primary series of vaccine for diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough (DPT's) in conjunction with Salk vaccine at 3 months. Reads small-pox vaccination is given at 4 to 5 months at the discretion of the physician in charge. At 9 months to 1 year a booster of the DPT and Salk vaccine is given. A booster is administered again at 2 years and again at 5 years prior to entrance to school. A repeat small-pox vaccination is given at 5 years also.

Ideally, too, a physical examination is given at 3, 6, 9, 12, 18 and 24 months, again at 3 and 4 years. The preschool examination is done at 5 years.

All help, with the exception of the supervisory and the doctor, are unpaid volunteers, even the RN who assists the doctor. All equipment with the exception of the immunizing material and the clerical supplies is provided by the Health Guild. Only source of income to cover these expenditures are monetary gifts by local organizations.

Clinics are open from 1 to 3 p.m. at St. Paul's. For an appointment or more information call Mrs. Clifford Johnson, GA 1-0386.

Brian-Mulla Wedding Ceremony in Birmingham

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Mulla

Miss Nancy L. Brian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brian of Birmingham, and James D. Mulla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mulla of Farmington, exchanged vows in a candlelight ceremony at the Redeemer Lutheran Church of Birmingham, on Saturday, Nov. 27, at 6 p.m.

The Reverend Theodore Wugazer officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown fashioned with a chapel length train of white satin and trimmed in Alencon lace and seed pearls. The long sleeves tapered to a bridal point at the wrist. Her bouffant veil was made exclusively to match her gown with Alencon lace and seed pearls. Over her family prayer book the bride carried a bouquet of white roses and cymbidium orchids garnished with a string of pearls.

Miss Mimi Newton of Birmingham served as maid of honor. Her floor length sheath gown was in shocking pink crepe with an empire waistline and modified bell sleeves. Her headpiece was a bouffant veil falling over a matching bow. Miss Newton carried a bouquet of pink roses garnished with iridescent grapes.

The bridesmaids, Miss Carol Brodie, Miss Linda Haack, Miss Marty Creteau, all of Birmingham, Miss Joan Gay, a cousin of the bride, from Detroit, and Miss Janet Brain, sister of the bride and junior bridesmaid, were attired in identical gowns and carried identical bouquets.

Daniel Mulla, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. James Brian, brother of the bride, served as head usher. Larry Brian, also a brother of the bride, Charles A. Borst, of Deerfield, Ill., William F. Porter, and Jack H. Smith, both of Livonia, served as attendants.

For the wedding the bride's mother choose a floor length sheath in shocking pink crepe. It was styled with a high waistline caught with a bow in front and a lace jacket over the top. She wore a tiny feathered hat in shocking pink with matching accessories. Her purse, corsage was a white orchid. The groom's mother was attired in a floor length gown of shocking pink crepe, styled with a straight skirt and a full sleeved jacket trimmed in satin with a bow at the back of the waistline. Her accessories were in shocking pink and her purse corsage was a white orchid.

Following the ceremony an elegant buffet reception was held in the penthouse ballroom at the Hillcrest Country Club for the 350 guests who attended the ceremony. Music for dancing was by Hal Gordon's Orchestra.

At the reception each of the ladies received a corsage from the groom which expressed a personal note of thanks for attending.

After the reception the newlyweds jetted to Florida and then on to Nassau in the Bahama Islands for a week. For her traveling attire, the bride choose a pink brocade suit with black accessories.

The couple is now making their home in Royal Oak.

Livonia Plans Two Great Books Programs

Would you be interested in an adult education program that aims to build the intellect, sharpen the insight and improve one's expression while "easing the mind?"

That sounds like a tall order, but organizers of Livonia's two Great Books discussion programs promises this result to participants.

Noting that there are openings in both discussion groups for interested persons, Mrs. Velma Kastner of Livonia, said: "One of the founders of the Great Books movement, Mortimer Adler, claims, The Care and Feeding of the mind is just as important as the Care and Feeding of the body. The mind, not sustained by the continual intake of something that is capable of nourishing it, or challenging it, will shrink and shrivel. The mind unexercised, like a muscle unused, atrophies, grows weak, becomes almost paralyzed."

"The Great Books program is designed to activate the intellect and stimulate its continual growth. It is a program of readings . . . often short selections . . . from the greatest thinkers, past and present, produced by Western Civilization."

"Great Books experience works out best for those who seriously seek self improvement, and are willing to undertake the time and the discipline to stick with rather difficult readings. The program is open to all adults. One does not have to have had college training."

Participants meet every two weeks and hold an organized discussion on their current assignment. Group discussions are directed by leaders trained by the Great Books Foundation.

Reading assignments generally run from 20 to 150 pages and are part of a carefully developed program of readings in the classics developed by the Great Books Foundation of Chicago, Illinois.

Livonia's two active groups have openings for those who have had Great Books Leader training in the past, for those who have had Great Books experience, and also new members who have had no experience in the Great Books.

Both groups are holding Open Houses and the dates are as follows:

The Fourth Year Group meets every other Thursday, at the Carl Sandburg Library, 30106 W. Seven Mile Road, holds Open House on Thursday, March 4, 8:15 p.m. and welcomes all newcomers. The reading is Shakespeare's "The Tempest."

The Second Year Group meets every other Monday at the Whitman Jr. High School Library, 32306 West Chicago Rd., and will hold its open house on Monday, March 22, 8 p.m. The reading is Jonathan Swift's "Gulliver's Travels." Those interested in joining Great Books or just observing a discussion should come to one of the Open Houses or contact Mrs. Kastner, GA 1-2619, as soon as possible.

Livonia Mall Plans Display Of Paintings

Eleven events out of Michigan's past will be brought dramatically to life beginning Tuesday, March 2 through an exhibit of the first in a series of original oil paintings on the state's history.

The paintings, colorful and amazingly realistic in their detail, will be displayed for the general public in the Livonia Mall, Seven Mile Road at Middlebelt.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Livonia Mall Merchants Association, will be on view for five days, March 2 through March 6—during the following hours: Tuesday-Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The canvases are the work of artist Robert Thom of Birmingham who has been commissioned by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company to do the series on "A History of Michigan in Paintings."

Since much of Michigan history can no longer be seen or photographed many scenes must be reconstructed. Michigan Bell feels that by uniting the ability of a talented artist with the work of a noted historian, the history of the state can be dramatically and accurately portrayed . . . and be preserved as part of the tradition and heritage of Michigan citizens.

CITY GOVERNMENT

Members of the Anna Smith Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Carl Finney last Wednesday evening. In the absence of club president Mrs. Carl Caplin who is vacationing in California, secretary-treasurer Mrs. Russell Rochte was in charge of the meeting. Guest speaker for the evening was George Hudson who had been invited by the club to discuss city government and to describe a commission meeting. Mr. Hudson's very interesting talk was followed by a question and answer period. The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Hill.

clubroom quarters at the Elks Club with more than 300 attending.

The affair is presented annually by the new members under the guidance of an older member. Mrs. Lawrence Becker was this year's advisor and received a big hand when introduced.

Ten members served as models for the fashion show which featured dresses, suits and hats from Zueback's Suburban. The show was a preview of spring and featured high crown straw hats and tweed suits.

The models were: Mrs. Chester Clum, Mrs. Carvel Bentley, Mrs. Robert Probeck, Mrs. Frank Allison, Mrs. Marvin Sackett, Mrs. John Gaffield, Mrs. John Leet, Mrs. Craig Bowlby, Mrs. Robert Stewart and Isabelle Ames.

ACCIDENT VICTIM

Mrs. Thomas Battle of 667 Herald Street was seriously injured in an automobile accident on Friday, Feb. 12. She is a patient at Wayne County General Hospital and will be there for an indefinite period. She would appreciate hearing from her many friends in the community (Room 445).

GETTING IN THE SWIM

An enthusiastic group met at the multi-purpose room of the Junior High West last Thursday evening to hear more about the Colony Swim Club. Vice-president Paul Malboeuf chairmanned the meeting. Bill Kloote described the slides that were shown of a typical swim club set-up.

With 200 members by March 15, the contract can be let by April 1 and the pool will be ready by the middle of June.

It should be a wonderful summer for swim club families. Membership chairman Mrs. John Pulker has been busy with phone calls from interested citizens. If you have any questions, her number is GL 3-9247.

ATTEND COUNCIL MEETING

Mrs. James Gilbert and Mrs. Robert Spayth attended the winter council meeting of the Michigan Division Women's National Farm and Garden Association. The all-day session and luncheon was held at the Detroit Yacht Club on Thursday, Feb. 18.

Tickets are now available for the Flower and Garden Show at the Michigan State Fair Grounds, Feb. 27-Mar. 7. By calling Mrs. James Gilbert, GL 3-7646 or Mrs. Robert Spayth you may take advantage of advance sales prices—just 85¢. Admission at the door would be $1.35. The show will include floral exhibits, lectures, demonstrations and entertainment and there will be no charge for children under 12 years of age.

Livonia Dems Hear About Labor in Politics

The Livonia Democratic Club had to select a "pinch hitter" for its guest speaker, Monday evening, when Ken Morris, Co-Regional Director of Region 1 of the U.A.W. was suddenly hospitalized.

In his place, Club chairman, Sid Diamond selected James Doddie, assistant Co-Director of Region 1A (UAW), who spoke on "The Union's Role in Politics."

Doddie stated that "labor is engaged in political activity because of every aspect of a worker's life is involved in politics. Every member is a part of the community, and receives the benefits gained in the political arena."

"We have found that oftentimes benefits gained in contract negotiations with employers are subsequently taken away by legislation. Therefore, the union had to become concerned with political activity."

"For this purpose labor created a ward and precinct organization, which is to work in conjunction with the political party we found serving our interests the best—the Democratic party. This organization is known as COPE, which is coordinated through the Wayne County AFL-CIO Council," Doddie continued.

"COPE is financed, primarily, through voluntary contributions by our members. We also put a small percentage of a member's dues into our Educational Fund, but any worker who requests can have his contribution to the fund used for non-political purposes."

"For those who charge labor with self interest, it would do them well to study the out-plant activities of all workers," Doddie concluded.

Livonia CD Will Sponsor Emergency Training Class

Would you know how to handle an emergency medical situation—say a broken leg, a badly bleeding wound, an emergency child-birth situation? Could you trust yourself to do the right thing for yourself and your family in the event of a nuclear attack? You can learn the proper methods of "survival" as well as learning how to handle emergency medical Self-Help training course to be conducted in the Emergency Operating Center, Police Administration Building, 15050 Farmington Road.

Among the subject to be taught are radioactive fallout and shelter, healthful living in emergencies, artificial respiration, bleeding and bandaging, fractures and splinting, burns, shock, transportation of injured, nursing care, infant and child care and emergency childbirth.

Officials are hoping that at least one member of each family will take this course. However, there are many instances where several members in a family have been trained in Medical Self-Help. There is no charge for this course and anyone who is interested is asked to call the Office of Civil Defense 421-3000, Extension 297, between 8:30 and 5 p.m.

DPW News and Notes

By SUPT. JOSEPH BIDA
Plymouth Dept. Public Works

The Department of Public Works last week installed a 1½" water tap and a 6" sanitary sewer tap on Industrial Drive. A service leak was repaired at 202 Maple avenue.

Water gates were checked where the new mains were installed last fall. A hydrant was replaced on General Drive at Pilgrim Steel, hydrant repaired on Blanche at Sheldon, and an extension put on a hydrant on Sheldon Road just north of Ann Arbor Road.

Major and local streets were patched with blacrete and holes were filled with gravel. The business section and all main streets were swept. This is unusual for this time of year.

Voting precincts were set up and cleared away. Work was done on various traffic signs. Streets were salted and all city owned sidewalks were cleaned. Repair work was done on truck No. 79 and it was repainted.

Sanitary sewer pumps and manholes were flushed out at Byron Pit. Water pits were pumped out on the 16-inch main. The big tube and grate on South Harvey street was cleaned as well as all catch basins on Main street from M-14 to N. Mill street.

Don't forget that beginning March 1, all alley pickups of rubbish and garbage will be made at the curb until further notice.

College Teacher Lends Talents To St. Maurice

New talent has been discovered on the Schoolcraft College campus with the announcement that LaSalle Mays, a teacher in the English Department, recently designed and created the Stations of the Cross for St. Maurice's Parish in Livonia. He also painted a large Christmas mural for the church.

The Stations are about two feet high, made of a new type composition that resembles plaster of paris. After the molds were struck, Mays painted them in silver and black tones.

Mays has been asked by Father Cain, head of St. Maurice's, to design other Stations for the Parish Convent and to put original statues of their patron in each of the eight classrooms that will be opened

Guest Editorial:

... On The Right To Criticize

Some recent columns have aroused the letter writers. If I question the soundness of the administration's fiscal and foreign policies, I am denounced as "anti-democratic" for not abiding by the will of the majority who elected LBJ; if I hint that the halo surrounding every move of Dr. Martin Luther King is not pure gold, but contains some elements of demagogic alloy, I am "anti-Negro." And when I point out some of the utter bigotry enunciated in the Anti-Defamation League's "Danger on the Right," I am "anti-Semitic." Had the writers seen a doctor's report which said I was allergic to some of the new drugs, I might have been called "antibiotic," too.

And this piece will probably prove me "anti-intellectual" as well, since it conflicts with the judgments of the literary critics who have hailed "Another Country," by James Baldwin. I had heard the author was one of our authentic geniuses, but had never read him. Then I saw him on several TV panels, breathing fire and threatening genocide for the whole white race unless it met his terms, and decided to order "Another Country."

When it came, I opened it casually, read one page, cried, "Oh, no!" and took a shower, determined henceforth to confine my fiction reading to "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew." But the other day I caught the tail end of a news broadcast which indicated the Baldwin volume had been okayed by a Chicago school board, in spite of some criticism, as required reading in a junior college.

If that stunned me, it also stirred me into giving the book another chance. This time I started at page one and forced myself to go through it at one sitting, interrupted only by three baths.

I was right, you see, the first time. The philosophically opposed to censorship, I would insist there must be some other book the school board could find that might be more valuable in molding the young mind. Frankly, I'm damned if I can see how this story of the sex life of a bunch of abysmal slobs and sluts, told in a dialogue that never uses a five-letter word when a four letter synonym can do the trick, can be classified as literature.

Not that I'm opposed to any mention of sex. As a matter of fact, I have some very pleasant recollections on the subject and am grateful to primitive man for discovering it. Indeed, in my book it is ranked above the invention of the wheel.

Politics.... As Usual

In last week's Observer, we reported a warning from Thomas R. Nolan, Farmington Township Republican Chairman, to his fellow Township Republicans, that the Township was threatened with a political takeover by the "Union Democrats." He was referring particularly to the UAW.

We feel this statement was neither constructive nor correct. Our two-party political system differs from the multi party system which exists in most countries. Unlike the European political parties — which are relatively small groups of true believers — the Democratic and Republican Parties, in this country, are loose coalitions of small groups that ignore each other much of the time.

Periodically, at conventions, these groups manage to achieve a consensus on certain issues and candidates. And they manage to work together for varying periods of time.

This system does not sound very stirring. But it has had much to do with the stability and rational progress of this nation.

Labor is an important element within the Democratic Party — though a number of important labor leaders supported Dwight Eisenhower, and later Richard Nixon. Labor while important to the Democratic Party, is only one of a number of important groupings within it. Most recent evidence of this fact is the victory of Albert Lee over labor backed Richard Austin, for the post of Michigan's Auditor General.

We recognize the intense pressures under which political leaders work. Nolan voiced his warning against the unions on the eve of an important election. Unfortunately, it is standard operating procedure in elections, to pull out all the stops in last-minute campaign oratory.

The results of such oratory is often unfortunate. Reckless charges sometimes produce immediate political success. But their long-range results are usually unfortunate. They have a tendency to lead to equally reckless countercharges, and make agreements between the parties far more difficult.

Farmington Township is faced with plenty of real problems. There are more than enough legitimate issues separating Democrats and Republicans in that community—without having to resurrect a whipping boy as ancient as the UAW.

ALLEN ROSENFELD

But there is, I maintain, a demarcation line, albeit concededly shadowy and well-nigh impossible to trace with exactitude, that marks the difference between honest sex and sheer smut. And the Baldwin work clearly invades the 38th parallel, so to speak.

In this highly praised volume, any time two people—whether of the same or opposite sexes—get together, desire lifts its ugly head. Boy gets girl, to be sure, but boy also gets boy. There's action on every page.

The only good I can see in it is that no kid who reads this novel is ever again to be satisfied with the pornographic "comic books" that have aroused PTA groups all over the nation. Still, if "Another Country" had pictures, it might be an even better seller. And who knows? They may appear in the next edition.

I'm not sure, feeling as I do, I'm qualified to discuss the art of creative writing. But if I remember my Aristotle correctly, one of his precepts was that the audience, in order to achieve catharsis, must be able to identify itself emotionally with one of the characters.

Not necessarily the completely virtuous one. In "Crime and Punishment," for example, we suffer all the tortures, the fears and the doubts of the assassin. And the most memorable Shakespearean performance I ever saw was a portrayal of the misshapen body and soul of "Richard III" by John Barrymore, in which he played the murderous king's faults to the hilt and yet somehow kept him human and by the Barrymore magic made you completely identify yourself with him.

But I doubt even the famous "Profile" could do anything for the Baldwin cast. Would the members of the Chicago school board mind stepping forward and tell us—even if we don't pay taxes in their city—just which one of the unsavory characters in "Another Country" they identify themselves with—and why?

It might make interesting reading, even though they might not retain their jobs next time around.

MORRIE RYSKIND in the Los Angeles Times—

"Another Country" is a dirty book, BUT I do not doubt it is written realistically about life in a particular depraved part of New York City few of us are ever exposed to, think about, or would have the ability to imagine. . . . And to carry Ryskind's theory another step further, those of us who criticize the John Birch Society for its book burning attempts in public schools are called Communist and anti-America.

HELEN CRAFTON.

Violent acts are performed by people, not by pieces of land. A park will not turn a good young person into a criminal. But a well-balanced recreational program with adequate land and facilities may prevent the idleness and boredom which leads some young people into trouble.

Let us assume that possible future problems can be solved as they arise. But let us prepare for the certain future needs of our young people.

Parks To Save Taxes Editor: Remaley's letter about John and Pete objecting to Parks as a "dishonest deal" is laughable! The Recreation Commission recommends sites for Parks but final decision on money matters is up to the Council. Surely they don't think the Council is dishonest, now, do they? Let's have confidence our Council will consider each parcel of land on its merit.

Pete's the same guy who fought the golf course. What does he want, one row of houses and apartments after another with no parks for kids to play ball in? The thought of building schools for all of these kids scares the hell out of em. That's what puts our taxes up. You can't blame the schools since they're a victim of circumstances.

No thanks, Remaley! It's less taxes with parks, so it's more parks for me.

TAX CONSCIOUS.

Food For Thought Editor: Methinks poor Mr. Remaley may be the one who has been "duped" by the two gentlemen he mentions.

What a pity he'd pay higher taxes unknowingly by voting against the only land control he has that would help him keep his taxes down and bread in the mouth of his children.

My sympathy to you Mr. Remaley. Please get all the facts and you'll vote, YES, YES, YES to keep your taxes down.

"INTERESTED IN KEEPING BREAD IN MY KIDS MOUTH."

READER SPEAKS UP:

'City Needs New Parks'

Editor: As one of the majority of Livonia voters who voted "Yes for Parks" last November, I am concerned about the fears expressed in recent letters to the Editor. This parks proposal will provide for facilities such as tennis courts, skating rink, swimming pools and baseball diamonds which will mean lights, activity and people in the parks.

No one urging voters to support the parks proposition can guarantee that nothing bad will ever happen on the 1,200 acres, but who can guarantee that nothing bad will happen on the same 1,200 acres covered with houses and apartments? Yes, there is violence in our country. Some violent acts occurred in parks. But some have occurred in the streets within sight of the residences of people who did not care enough to call the police.

Violent acts are performed by people, not by pieces of land. A park will not turn a good young person into a criminal. But a well-balanced recreational program with adequate land and facilities may prevent the idleness and boredom which leads some young people into trouble.

Let us assume that possible future problems can be solved as they arise. But let us prepare for the certain future needs of our young people.

No More Taxes Editor: I'd like to address this letter to the poor man's Inez Robb, Myra Chandler. I disagree with her on her economy package of buy parks and save money. Do you know why? Because I'm not going to approve money for more schools either.

If our schools used to full capacity which we have already built it would be different. We have got to educate the rest of the kids in Livonia—and more if they come—but we have to do it with what we have—no more money for building or buying.

Although we disagree on this issue I want to be counted as one who is grateful the paper is maintaining the same policy as set by Paul (who I didn't always agree with either)—at least you take a honest stand.

Please keep on being the watch dog, if you can, for that Council.

JACK DRUGG.

Thank you Editor: On Thursday, Feb. 18 we were guests of the Observer Newspapers at the first annual Foreign Exchange Students' Banquet at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

In attendance were 17 foreign students (representing 10 countries, as well as their American families, the American Field Service area representatives and those from seven chapters in the Livonia, Plymouth, Farmington and Redford Township areas.

We wish to express our appreciation to Mrs. Chandler and the Observer Newspapers for sponsoring the banquet (which we understand was conceived by the late Paul M. Chandler), to Ralph Lorenz for the tasty dinner and interesting commentary about it, to Mrs. George Romney for her inspiring remarks and to Skip Rosenthal for his lively entertainment.

We believe that the foreign exchange programs of the American Field Service and Youth for Understanding contribute to better understanding and peace in the world, and we are grateful to those who lend encouragement.

The Joseph A. Bone family (including Jose Barretto de Araujo, of Brazil)

Nolan "Sour Grapes" Editor: The front page article in The Observer of last week setting forth some of the quotes from a statement by Thomas R. Nolan, local GOP chairman, seems to indicate a very bad case of anticipated "sour grapes." He seems to be blinded by the obsession that mere association a union renders anyone, Republicans, Democrat or Independent alike, ineligible to examine and criticize the morality or even the legality, of some of the official acts of the Township Board.

The assumption by any governmental officials of a "sacred cow" aura is not in keeping with the hard-won tradition of American democracy and will not be a free people, as evidenced by the more than two to one vote to repudiate the morally questionable previously action of their pay raises.

Mr. Nolan should realize that the more uninformed invective he spouts to uphold the "sacred cow" atmosphere the less effective he is in performing a useful service to the community.

W. ALLEN NELSON.

Reasons for Parks Editor: Recreational land for Livonians, especially children and young people, is important, and so is the probable savings to taxpayers in purchasing park lands which might otherwise become subdivisions with increased government costs.

But also important to most of us is the mere presence of open land with stands of mature trees and natural vegetation. Other cities impress not just with buildings and highways, but by concern for preservation of open spaces and interesting or beautiful natural features. President Kennedy, in hoping for "ordered, handsome cities," stressed this kind of planning. The 400 acres of land along the Tarabusi Drain is one of the few remaining large pieces of such land which can be saved for public enjoyment of its slopes and valley (of which Livonia has few), its trees, vegetation and bird life.

This is a natural drainage area, absorbing and draining surplus ground water from surrounding areas. Trees and vegetation use this water, retard its flow, and prevent the washing away of the soil. Allowing this area to remain a natural drainage area, undisturbed by earth moving, buildings or paving would make for less soil erosion and ugly gullying of its slopes and help retain its native beauty for us. Incidentally, we can help a little too in this way to reduce the silting and pollution of rivers and lakes down stream to which water from this drainage area eventually lead. And we can also preserve a little of Livonia's natural countryside.

MRS. KING ADAMSON

Worry About Litter Reader: This is my answer to Editorial, "Integration—Plan For It."

Our suburbs is not integrated yet—buy why the "no need to panic?" We have property here that is over run with neighbors dogs and litter which could never be found or allowed in Detroit—or any city!

Negro property owners take a pride in their land and home and a ride around Livonia will show you many white property owners who do not. We moved here thinking it an area we could be proud of but if negro families is all we have to worry about—quit worrying.

Maybe good neighbor laws can start being enforced in the area. We can't walk into our own yard without a pack of dogs—large and small running to us and barking until you have to go inside. We never see our neighbors—just their pets and children. Maybe integration will get our neighborhood cleaned up.

LIVONIA PROPERTY OWNER

Observing the Scene...

By MYRA CHANDLER You might say it's like having 1290 babies. Every issue (and in 25 years there have been 1290 Livonia editions) is like giving birth—the same breathless anticipation, sense of emergency, stress, anxiety, and finally delight—an edition is out—another miracle performed!

From the first 1500 copies delivered on Wednesday, Feb. 28, 1940, to this issue of 27,750 Livonia editions, there has been loving care given by all the editors and publishers connected with the paper down through the years. To them, and to us, who still carry the cudgels, God be with us.

There is no question in my mind that our late publisher, Paul Chandler, was the conscience of the community and kept a watchful eye for unsavory deals involving land, money and the biggest bugaboo, liquor licenses. A watchful eye has been cast over the Livonia scene, looking for any outbreak resulting from the death of the watchdog.

M'thinks a trial balloon went up last week with the recommendation for a liquor license by the City Council. The applicant is George (Pete) alias Delmar, alias Clarence, G. D. Howard.

The proposal was made by James McCann, which is not strange at all. What is strange and interesting is the fact that two Councilmen voted against the application—Dr. Dan Allen and Rudy Kleinert. Liquor licenses are usually approved by the Council unanimously. Why? There are 125 applicants, some going back to 1940 and Mr. Howard's is a new application just recently referred to the "Committee of the Whole." But it came to the Council without discussion. Most unusual.

Also the applicant's address on Norman Street in Livonia is not the same as his voting address on Greenland Court. Now that the application has been approved by five Councilmen, it will, of course, receive scrutiny by the state enforcement division in a routine way. If there are any irregularities involved they will be so stated.

On the positive side, Mr. Howard is also the Michigan Trenching Company whose contract was just renewed by the City and who does a satisfactory job. But that is a different hat.

It is always a source of disappointment to me when School Board members or administrations buckle under pressure from a few. Schools should be leaders and must protect, yea, encourage, the exposure to new ideas.

In my 10 years of viewing the school scene, I have observed the South Redford school officials under tremendous pressure, yet they have always refused to capitulate on their progressive programs.

In Plymouth this week there was immediate capitulation.

A team of young people has been speaking in high schools around the state issuing an invitation to attend the Moral Re-Armament Assembly Center this summer on Mackinac Island. An assistant principal in Plymouth heard the young people speak and approved their approach and their attendance at the Monday assembly in Plymouth High School.

A teacher, several parents, and some students protested on the grounds of "religious overtones," whatever that means. Moral Re-Armament replaces no religion. It does exactly what it says. It extends an opportunity for people to rearm morally. It seeks to uplift the character of people—young and old. It makes no point that is not already stressed in the Pledge of Allegiance or Star Spangled Banner. For the Plymouth High School Principal and the Superintendent of Schools to coldly cancel this engagement without observing what the assistant principal had approved was short-sighted. They bent to the pressure of a few. It was a loss to many.

Build Musical Closet To House Hi-Fi Set

People who appreciate good music demand good equipment. But how do you house that sprawling mass of wires, amplifiers, pre-amps, tape decks and changers in the average home? The problem is compounded when equipment changes are taken into consideration. Minor—or major—modifications appear yearly, and the real enthusiast will want to keep pace with those changes that make a difference in sound quality.

Building special cabinets that fit into a wall of built-ins will serve the need for present music equipment. But such cabinet-style built-ins can't allow for unknown changes that may be needed or desired tomorrow.

The only way to lick the problem is to install all equipment, excepting speakers, of course, in a large, walk-in closet. There it is readily accessible, and plenty of space is allowed both for working on equipment and for housing additional pieces.

The closet can be built in one corner of living room, dining room or hallway, wherever convenient, and it can be a handsome addition to the room.

In one elegant home, the music closet was built of tongue-and-groove, V-joint western hemlock boards, the door matching and designed with touch latches to conceal all hardware.

If desired, a companion closet of matching design and proportions can be built into another corner of the room, and the wall between also paneled in the hemlock boards for decorative unity.

Fold-Up Design Tops for Sewing

Any woman who sews would like a separate room where she can leave a job mid-way and not worry about the clutter.

But few women are lucky enough to have space for a separate sewing room. Instead, most must do with a corner of the family room.

When that's the situation, the secret to convenience and good appearance is a fold-away sewing desk, which works something like a good office desk.

The work surface will be a shallow desk top which is doubled in depth by pull-out boards built like breadboards. The sewing machine is mounted on another board which pulls up and out of the desk, locking into counter-height position. Its design can be based on the typing stand of a secretary's desk.

One drawer of the sewing desk should be shallow to keep thread, needles, bobbins and other small items in precise order. Another drawer should have files for patterns. A third drawer should be quite deep—deep enough to hold a quantity of fabric—a winter coat in progress, for example.

With a sewing desk like this, the job can be interrupted and folded away in seconds—but made ready to go again in seconds.

The desk should be handsomely designed in a prestige western wood like western hemlock, ponderosa pine or Douglas fir. To disguise its purpose, panel the wall behind the desk with boards to match the desk and install some shallow, wall-hung shelving for books.

When folded up, the corner won't look a bit like a sewing nook and can double as a writing desk.

Barbecue Fans Go Inside When Weather Turns Cold

Now is the time of the year in many sections of the country when "outs" become "ins."

This transition is taking place in millions of households where families enjoy the year-around tantalizing taste and aroma of food prepared over glowing wood charcoal briquets.

Neither snow, sleet or rain discourages the true barbecue fan. He simply converts from cook-outs to cook-ins by moving operations from the patio or breezeway to the fireplace, kitchen or garage.

Figures recently released by the Wood Charcoal Briquet Producers Association prove the popularity of year-around barbecuing. Fall and winter briquet sales which only four years ago were virtually dormant from Labor Day to Memorial Day have shown steady yearly increases since 1961. Retailers who did not carry stocks during the off-season now are ordering throughout the year.

Total briquet sales in 1964 were expected to exceed 290,000 tons, the equivalent of $20 million wholesale, according to the producers association.

Indoor barbecue equipment sales also are booming. One leading manufacturer reports that he sold more than 3,200 built-in kitchen barbecues in 1964. Sixty per cent of these were fueled by wood charcoal briquets.

Swing-away and hearth-style grills for permanent and prefabricated fireplaces, hibachis and all-purpose portable grills also are rolling up record sales. The grocery, paper plate and cup, spice, foil and meat industries also report substantial increases.

It is difficult to corral figures on just how many families are going in for charcoal barbecued meals indoors these days, but spot checks indicate the number runs into the millions and is increasing steadily.

14 Project Plans Given In Booklet

On informative new do-it-yourself booklet, "14 Wonderful Ways to Decorate With Grillework," has been created to help decor-conscious homeowners seeking new and inexpensive ways to add texture and dimension to home interiors.

The 24-page illustrated booklet provides complete step-by-step instructions for using decorative and practical Panelaire hardboard grillework in the 14 "most desirable" home improvement projects.

Plans for the 14 projects, designed in response to the questions most often asked in the many thousands of letters that pour in to the American Home Improvement Institute, include robe closet, a storage wall, radiator enclosures, suspended ceilings, kitchen cabinet modernization, folding screens and decorative lamps.

To receive a copy of "14 Wonderful Ways to Decorate With Grillework," send 25 cents to cover printing and mailing to the American Home Improvement Institute, 222 Pacific Street, Newark 14, New Jersey.

Give Family Extra Room To Breathe

Everybody gets that "closed in" feeling once in a while, and that goes for youngsters as well as adults.

Here are some ideas which might help the situation at your house:

Even when there's no extra bedroom, children of widely-different ages and interests can be "separated" by building a divider or partition between the twin beds. Woodgrained Peg-Board on each side of the divider framing will give each child a place for his own hobby equipment, souvenirs, pictures, knick knacks.

Unused space in the basement or even on a porch might be converted to a recreation room where teen-agers can entertain their friends right at home. Royalcoate woodgrained paneling is economical and easy to install in such conversions. Add an acoustical ceiling, too.

Dad needs a corner where he can "get away from it all" without leaving the house. It might be a workshop, a paneled den, or some other place but when the occasion demands, it should be a spot he can call his own.

Something as simple as a portable screen made of the new Masonite filagree hardboard can give Dad that little bit of privacy he'll appreciate.

Color Range

One of the best natural wood insulators, western red cedar is used extensively for paneling. Its color ranges from almost pure white through gold to a deep red brown. Panel boards are usually selected to show the range of colors, but, if desired, boards may be chosen to create a wall of uniform color.

How to Dim Home Noise That Annoys

Too much noise around the house irritates most persons and builds up nervous tensions that often make them short-tempered with members of the family. As a health measure, steps should be taken in the majority of U.S. homes to eliminate as much of the din as possible, advises the American Home Improvement Institute, national clearing house for design and building information.

The Institute reports that "home noise" represents about one-fourth of the annoying noise Americans hear today. Major culprits are blaring radio and TV sound, rattling windows, banging doors, creaking floors, mechanical household equipment, dripping faucets, clanging pipes, phones and doorbells.

Here are a few practical ways to quiet "home noise":

1. Heavy draperies and curtains which absorb noise should be used wherever possible.
2. Carpeting on floors is another noise absorber and large, thick mats should be used in bathrooms.
3. In rooms where carpeting may be impractical, such as kitchens and bathrooms, rubber floor tile can be used. It is resilient and springy underfoot and acts to retard and absorb noise, traveling through walls and ceilings.

4. Ceilings can easily be made sound-absorbent. Best way is to install a simple dropped ceiling using either a standard suspended ceiling system or by making your own with wood moldings. Fiberglass matting installed above Panelaire hardboard ceiling grillework will reduce noise 25 per cent or more.

5. Use rubber or carpet tread on stairs.

6. Oil the hinges and metal working parts of fixtures, stoves, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, furnaces, garbage cans, heaters and mixers.

7. When replacing windows, use thicker glass. Quarter-inch panes are better than standard 21-ounce glass and double window panes four inches apart are as soundproof as a nine-inch brick wall and serve as insulation against cold as well.

8. Put in a muted telephone bell and use door chimes instead of a buzzer.

9. Never raise radio, TV or phonograph volume excessively.

10. Repair loose boards and shingles on the exterior so they will not creak or flap in the wind.

11. Install silent electrical switches.

12. Rubber weatherstripping on doors and windows will help deaden noise.

13. Use soft-humming electric clocks wherever possible, instead of loud-ticking hand-wound clocks.

14. Glue rubber, cork or fabric coverings to the bottoms of small appliances, ash trays and other items that are frequently used in the home. This will soften the sound of picking them up and putting them down.

LOUVERED DOORS

Louvered ponderosa pine doors give a traditional look to cabinet work and may be painted or finished natural.

Friendly Charcoal Grill Good Traveling Companion

Look who's riding the tailgate these days — our friend, the charcoal grill.

It's a genie that produces a delicious hot meal when sport enthusiasts take to the road.

Many a football fan celebrates a game on the spot with a barbecue party around the tailgate of his station wagon. When the air is nippy, charcoal grilled hero sandwiches, frankfurters, hamburgers or economy steaks and a cup of hot coffee or cocoa hit the spot in any crowd.

Some people keep a picnic basket ready in the car, packed with paper cups, plates, napkins, plastic flatware and, of course, a bag of wood charcoal briquets.

The wide choice of portable grills makes outdoor cooking easy. There are bowl-shaped ones with folding legs, small hibachis and tripod models with firebox and cooking rack attachments.

The hunter, too, enjoys the convenience of the charcoal grill and briquets when he returns to camp. In a short time glowing coals will roast his game outdoors while he enjoys the serenity of nature around him, instead of searching for firewood.

To the ski buff the grill and wood charcoal briquets are as important as the skis and wax.

Home Owners Urged to Make Use of Yards

A yard is like a house in many respects. You should get the maximum use out of all areas, even a hidden corner.

The corner of a lot, tucked away in between fences and shrubs actually offers a good chance to become a most popular part of your yard.

For instance, you can build a simple little structure, with benches joining at the corner and a small canopy overhead, to create a quiet spot where you can get away from the noise of a growing and busy family.

This can be built of western softwood lumber which is easily obtained at any lumber yard. The framing need not be heavier than 2x4 and any small boards can make up the rest of your wood needs.

For added emphasis, you might even want to install a reflection pool to provide interesting detail to this rest area.

Vertical Panels Beautify Divider In Living Room

A combination living-dining room has many advantages, but some separation between the two areas is almost always preferred to the wide open plan.

A token division can be created with a long, low divider designed to double as a buffet and serving sideboard.

It can be built of any of the fine western woods like Douglas fir or western hemlock.

The divider should be constructed with drawers and cupboards opening to the dining room side.

On the living room side, it can be paneled with vertical boards for handsome effect.

At the skating pond the charcoal grill will be voted champion by all who welcome a food break in the crisp and clear outdoors. And a slow burning charcoal fire is handy to warm hands. Mittens, wet from building snowmen, dry nicely near the grill, too.

With so many family and sports activities taking you traveling these days, it's no wonder that grilling is now popular the year around.

Disposals Available For Septic Systems

Contrary to some long-held beliefs, garbage disposers can be installed on septic tank systems, providing the system is large enough to handle the increased load.

Ernest J. Priaulx, national service manager for In-Sink-Erator Manufacturing Company, Racine, Wis., reports that as of Jan. 1, 1964, there were approximately 750,000 garbage disposers in use in homes served by septic tank systems.

Priaulx pointed out that an extensive report detailing the effects disposers have on septic tank systems was published a little over two years ago by the U.S. Public Health Service's Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati, O.

During the preparation of this report, hundreds of septic tanks and absorption systems were dug up in different soils.

The basic conclusion of the 91-page report was that disposers can be used on septic tank systems meeting the design standards already called for in the FHA Minimum Property Standards, and in the Public Health Service's booklet, "Manual of Septic Tank Practice."

Boiled down, these standards are as follows:

Home washers and dishwashers can also be accommodated within these standards.

A free folder explaining how a septic tank system works, and detailing the U.S. Public Health Service report, is available free of charge from In-Sink-Erator, Racine, Wis.

TO ALL "WHAT'LL I SHOOT-ERS"

The question I'm asked most often is "What'll I shoot? What makes a good subject?" My answer is always, "What are you interested in?"

Since the people who compile statistics tell me that young couples with children are the biggest buyers and users of cameras, you can readily guess what they take pictures of the most: their homes and children... for this is what they are most interested in.

No matter what your interests are, the chances are pretty good that you'll find there's no place like home for pictures. Got a hobby shop in your basement? Try coupling your interests in photography with your interest in a hobby such as model building, your collections, paintings, or what have you. Seriously interested in art? You can sharpen your artistic talents with still-life photography or "life" photography — both of which can be handled nicely in your home "studio."

Are you a gardener? Some of the world's loveliest photography is of flowers and flower gardens.

Whatever kind of picture-taking around the home catches your fancy, you'll find booklets and other literature are available to provide helpful pointers. Kodak publishes a great many of these and we have many of them on hand all the time. You're welcome to come in and browse.

Religious Services of Three Major Faiths Will Highlight Girl Scout Week

NEWBURG CHURCH still stands—Ann Arbor Trail and Newburg Roads in Livonia—one of the oldest churches in the metropolitan Detroit area. Its congregation recently moved down the street to a new edifice. The church was originally built in 1848 and was used by a Presbyterian congregation before its affiliation with the Methodist Church in 1888. It was originally constructed across from the Newburg Cemetery, moved to its present location in 1915.

The Metropolitan Detroit Council will open activities for national Girl Scout Week, March 7-13, 1965, with special religious services for members and their families of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths, according to Mrs. William E. Wilson, council president.

The first major Vesper Service scheduled for Girl Scout Sunday in the Detroit area will be held on March 7 at the Metropolitan Methodist Church, 8096 Woodward Ave.

The 21st annual Holy Hour, sponsored by the Detroit Archdiocesan Catholic Committee on Scouting, will be conducted on Sunday, March 7, at 4 p.m. in the University of Detroit Memorial Building.

Synagogues through the Detroit area will hold special services on March 6 for Girl Scouts of the Jewish faith.

The public is invited to join

Girl Scouts and their families for the Holy Hour and Vesper Service. A total attendance of over 12,000 is expected at the two services.

In announcing the Girl Scout Sunday programs, Mrs. Wilson said, "It is the spiritual force behind Girl Scouting which gives life and meaning to its activities. Living with her promise to 'try to do my duty to God' is an essential part of a Girl Scout's experience. Through this emphasis on her spiritual life, Girl Scouting encourages each girl to become a stronger member of her own religious group. We are most grateful to the United Church Women and to the Detroit Archdiocesan Committee for sponsoring the Girl Scout Sunday family services."

Programs of the Holy Hour and the Vesper Service will recognize and feature Girl Scouts who have earned religious awards for Girl Scouts in the past twelve months. The Marian Award, available nationally by 191 Girl Scouts of the Catholic faith. A similar award is presented to Girl Scouts of the Jewish faith.

According to Mrs. Wilson, it was not until 1962 that local Girl Scouts of the major Protestant faiths could earn a religious award. Since there is no national organization for all Protestant groups, the United Church Women of Detroit, in cooperation with the Metropolitan Detroit Council, developed the Alpha Omega Award for local use. During the past year, fifty-eight Girl Scouts of the various Protestant faiths have earned the Alpha Omega Award.

All religious awards for Girl Scouts recognize outstanding service to church or synagogue; require a broad knowledge of the history and beliefs of the individual girl's religious affiliation and participation in church or synagogue activities; and specify that the Girl Scout must show evidence of a spiritual force as a guiding factor in her life. Awards are under the supervision of the individual girl's priest, minister or rabbi. Presentation is made at an appropriate religious service.

Lakeland College, located in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, is a Christian liberal art college identified with the United Church of Christ. Established in 1882, the college has 500 students and 50 faculty members.

The entire community is invited to attend this unusual presentation. For information call Nativity Church at GA 1-5406.

James Del Rio To Talk Feb. 26 At Temple Beth Am

James Del Rio will discuss "Integrated Housing: What Can We Do About It?" on Feb. 26 following the Temple Beth Am 8:45 p.m. Sabbath Service.

Rabbi David Jessel of the Temple explained that Mr. Del Rio's talk is part of a continuing program to keep the congregation and the community informed on significant and relevant issues of the day. The talk is being sponsored by the Temple's Social Committee.

The nation's first Negro mortgage banker, Del Rio is president of the Metropolitan Mortgage Company and a director of the Supreme Life Insurance Company.

In his capacity as a real estate broker and salesman, as well as a residential builder, Del Rio has served as a member of the National Legislative Committee of the National Association of Home Builders and was also an original incorporator of the National Association of Real Estate Brokers.

The Reader "Speaks Up" About Various Topics of Interest

Jaycee Dissenter

Editor:
In all due respect to Lou Wilking and Redford Jaycees, one of the finest organizations in Michigan, I feel that another opinion of the Jaycees involvement in the Medicare issue may shed light in a different vane. First of all, I feel it is the Jaycees' responsibility to be involved in any issue that affects the masses and especially one which could be a key to future issues. It is important that all organizations and as many individuals as possible be heard in an issue that could change the basic responsibilities of the United States government. True, this Medicare Bill has become a political issue but any bill of great importance or radical change in the past had this same flavor.

We as Jaycees in the past have denounced Communism in 1934, supported the Draft Bill in 1940 and, because of strong Jaycee support, 84 percent of the provisions of the Hoover Report became law. These were all political issues but because of unified Jaycee involvement they became law. It is quite possible that without our efforts these statutes may not be law today. We, an independent organization not associated with either major party, carried a great deal of weight.

It is not expected that all individual locals agree on every issue. The main objective is that we as citizens become aware of the total implications and work by the direction of our convictions either on the group or individual level if necessary. However, we must be mindful that group strength is essential and usually necessary to carry any controversial issue.

I feel it is the responsibility of the USJCC Executive Board of Directors to make a decision in either direction on an issue so critical as Medicare. It is also the responsibility of the State and Local chapters to follow their own desires. Because the Jaycees are a democratic organization, the majority must rule regardless of those with dissenting opinions. We look to the state and national organizations for leadership while they look to the local chapters for direction. When we limit a state or national organization, we limit the effectiveness and strength of that organization. I feel the Jaycees must never campaign for individuals or for straight party politics, but certainly we can't feel the same about resounding political issues.

'Be Kind to Horses'

Editor:
I'm writing this letter to all people who think it's funny to scare a horse and rider half-way out of their wits. People go speeding down streets, screaming, yelling and honking their horns.

Did you know that I've been in the hospital 10 or 11 times because of my horse? You know people don't get thrown from their horses now because the horse was spooked from other animals. No, now it's cars.

Last year, my cousin died because a car full of kids came speeding down the street. They threw out paper bags and all other stuff. Her horse threw her. She was dragged a few miles. When we stopped the horse, she was dead.

You can't imagine what damage you do. Please stop.

Complains of Rats

Editor:
I have never been one to complain about the amount of taxes we have to pay for living in this area, Livonia, but now I will, and am.

The conditions under which we live in this city are atrocious. We are located by Botsford Park, through which runs a polluted and rat infested creek. We keep our children away from the creek, but yet they have to walk to school alongside the creek, across an open, and usually, muddy field. Rats are found in our own backyards.

We certainly did not realize when we bought property here, we would be living in a slum area.

Why can't this mess be cleaned up. Don't ask me to vote for more parks.
MARIETTA DRUCKER

Tax Criteria

Editor:
It seems to me that our tax qualifications are wrong. People who keep their property nice and who are always improving it are not the ones who should get the tax raise. Doing these things doesn't mean you have more money, as today we get it done on credit with three years to pay and interest on top. It's just that people who like it nice are willing to go into debt to make it nice for themselves and their neighborhood. It's true, many people have no need for a garage or an addition. This is up to the individual's needs and wants. I know people who need and want these improvements, but because of the tax hike don't go ahead and do it. It seems to me that improvements give work to the local merchants and are good for the economy of the community. What caused me to write this letter is that so much is put on the homeowner who improves, and nothing is done about those that don't. I'm not speaking of adding garages or additions, but of plain neatness. This takes no money—just a little effort with a broom, a lawnmower or a junk collection. If the inspectors of Livonia would get into the backyards of some of the areas, it would see what eyesores some people have to look at. Each homeowner should consider the guy next door, whether it be from the back, the front or the side. Only in this way will our homes hold their price and our neighborhood its attraction.

LIVONIA MALL, 7 MILE AT MIDDLEBELT, LIVONIA

Livonia's 146 Years of Growth! From a Rural Township to a Sprawling City

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following history of Livonia, from its early Township days up to 1960, researched, compiled and written by Dominic P. Paris, the head and an organizer of the Livonia Historical Society.
(Paris, a teacher at Franklin High School, is a graduate of Northern Michigan University in Marquette. He holds a master's degree from Wayne State University. For his master's essay, he wrote a history of Livonia. Since that time the city's history has been his hobby.)

The story of Livonia began about 1819 when Mr. A. C. Johns settled in what is now the Newburgh area and where he later became a storekeeper and postmaster.

At one time Livonia was part of Bucklin Township, established in 1827 and named after William Bucklin, a justice of the peace.

In 1829, Bucklin Township was divided into two townships, one of which was to be named Lima and the other to be named Richard. But those two names were felt unsatisfactory because of existing postoffice names elsewhere in the United States.

To find names that were not already being used, "Nankin" and "Pekin" were selected and the Bucklin Township division was approved.

By 1934, the population of Livonia had grown considerably and the residents petitioned for local government. The division from Nankin was approved on March 17, 1835, and the present boundaries of the city were set.

FIRST ELECTION

The first election was held on the first Monday of April in that year with A. Brigham being chosen supervisor; Silas Joslin, clerk; David French, treasurer; and A. Bingham, Thomas Harper, and Silas Joslin, inspectors of election.

The first election was held on the first Monday of April in that year with A. Joslin, clerk; David French, treasurer; and A. Bingham, Thomas Harper, and Silas Joslin, inspectors of election.

The first meeting of the board was held at the Tamarack School House on the farm of Silas Joslin at what is now the Board of Education School.

Among the earliest settlers was J. Simmons, who settled near Northville in 1824. He was closely followed by John Welsh and William Smith who moved here the next year. Others followed in rapid order so that by 1832 there were at least 20 families residing in the northern half of Nankin Township.

These included Dexter Briggs and David Maiden, who took up land on the township in 1825. Others were: Luther and Lewis Briggs and Dan and James McKinney for whom the McKinney station was later named and who also operated a steam sawmill near Schoolcraft and Merriam Roads.

Adolphus Brigham, the first supervisor; Thomas Bennett, H. L. Cudworth, Edwin Fuller, George Kator, E. C. Leach, William Lambert, Anthony Paddack, J. M. Simmons, and many others. Another was William F. Shaw, a physician and surgeon, who came to Livonia in 1842, settling in the Seven Mile-Inkster area.

GETS RUSSIAN NAME

Actually, "Livonia" was originally the name of the province in Western Russia where the hunting grounds of the famous Baron Munchausen were located. Livonia was a relatively flat territory with few hills and many swamps. The native trees were tamarack, beech, oak, and elm. In many of the areas these stands were quite heavy. Several of the early farms had large swamps and were a problem to drain, especially in the spring.

It is interesting to note that Bell Creek was named for Azaria Bell, the first settler of Redford Township who settled there in 1818.

The early crops here were wheat, corn, oats, hay and fruit. Large flocks of sheep were raised for both wool and meat until early in the 1870's. At that time, coyotes and dogs raised havoc with several flocks and the farmers killed the remaining sheep and took them to Detroit where they were sold for 75 cents a carcass. After the sheep were gone, the farmers replaced them with cows.

With the coming of the railroad in 1870, milk became an important cash crop with most of the farmers bringing the milk to Detroit.

Others brought their milk to the five cheese factories in the township. One of these cheese factories was at Elm, another at Newburgh and Eight Mile Rd. on the Power farm, a third was on the Kator farm at Seven Mile and Levan Rds., while still another was near Seven Mile and Farmington Rds. in what is now known as the Pierson district.

All told, more than a million pounds of cheese were manufactured annually and sold in Detroit. The price was 7 cents a pound wholesale and 10 cents a pound retail. As more milk was needed in Detroit, the cheese factories here were forced out of business since they could not compete with the dairies in the price paid for milk.

VILLAGES SPRING UP

Around these farms and villages along the main roads, villages were named Elmwood, Livonia Center, Newburgh or Nankin and Livonia Station.

Livonia Center is located at Farmington and Five Mile Rds. in the exact geographical center of the area. Two churches, a school, a store, the Grange Hall, the own hall and several family residences were built there and a cemetery was started in 1835 and is still in use.

Newburgh was perhaps the first village in the township. It was there that most of the early settlers resided. It was first called Nankin but was later named Newburgh because as one account explains it, Anthony Wayne Paddack, who settled here in 1831, came from Newburgh, N.Y.

Another explanation was that it was so named because it was a "new burgh."

Besides the school built there about 1831, Newburgh has the oldest church and the oldest cemetery in the township. The church was established in 1834, and the cemetery had its first use in 1827.

STAGE-COACH STOP

Long before the coming of Levi B. Stark in 1848, there was a small community at what is now called Stark Rd. This was the third toll gate of the Plymouth Plank Rd. and was also the location of MacFarlane's Tavern, a changing place and an overnight stop for stage coaches.

Because Zachary Taylor, a former president of the U.S. once stopped there, the area became known as Rough and Ready Corners.

This tavern was also the local headquarters for election rallies and it has been said that many an election was won and lost there. It was also a depot for the underground railroad and when it finally burned to the ground about 1910, it was the home of John Daugherty, an early settler, age 85, who died as a result of the fire.

With the coming of the railroad about 1870, some of the business moved half a mile northward and only the inn and tavern remained. A postoffice and railroad depot were built in the new area and the place came to be known as Stark or Livonia Station.

Elm was perhaps the best known of the villages. It was settled about the year 1832 and by 1875 boasted a school, a post-office, established before the Civil War; a cheese factory, a store, and half a dozen homes, several of which are still standing.

RAILROAD CAUSES SHIFT

Elm too, had its start on Plymouth Rd., but with the coming of the railroad it moved north a half mile in order to be on the line to Detroit. About 1900, the post office was discontinued due to the establishment of rural delivery with all mail coming from Plymouth.

Looking at a map of the township as it was in 1876, it is strange to note that most of the stores, post offices and business establishments grew up south of the center of the township and paralleling the railroad or the early Plymouth Plank Rd. Persons in other parts of the township were rather isolated and evidently used Northville, Farmington and Redford as their shopping and marketing centers.

Up to the time of better cars and better roads, Livonia was dependent of Elm, where the track and the G.M. plant were located, attempted to incorporate as a city in order to get the $500,000 tax returnable to cities where a race track is located.

SUPREME COURT FILES

After a court case and petitions to incorporate by both Livonia and the Elm district, the Supreme Court ruled that the Livonia petition was valid and the voters were given an opportunity to vote for incorporation as a city.

Accordingly, in the election of May 23, 1950, the citizens voted to incorporate, and Livonia, became a city with a strong mayor-council type government.

It has been said that where a Yankee goes he takes his school with him. As this area was settled by Yankees, the school rule prevailed and one of the first things they did was to construct one on the north corner of Wayne Rd. and Ann Arbor Trail.

The size of this building was 18' by 24'. It was built by tax under the territorial law of 1827, long before the area was divided into school districts. The house was clappedboard on the outside with the inside finished to the height of the windows.

The writing desks were made by fastening a board in an inclined position against the walls. The seats were made by driving legs into auger-holes in the side of soft wood slabs. These with a chair, pall, cup and a whip, constituted the entire furniture. The whip was sometimes quite conspicuous, for in many an instance the whips were of such length that the teacher could reach every part of the building with it.

School was open from three to six months and was usually divided into the winter and summer sessions. The winter sessions usually started around the middle of November after the crops were in and was attended by youngsters ranging in age from four to 20 years. As many of the students were boys, a man was usually hired to teach this term. Sometimes the teacher was whipped by the larger boys.

TEACHERS UNDERPAID

The summer session usually began about May 15 and was usually attended by the girls and the smaller boys. For this reason a young lady was hired to teach them and rarely had difficulty. Wages of teachers were very low. In the 1840's the average wage for males in the Detroit area was $14 a month and $5 a month for females. With this went the privilege of boarding around with the parents of the scholars as they were then called.

Books were almost unknown. The Bible was a standard text for reading, and such necessities as blackboards, chalk, pencils, ruled paper and erasers were unknown. Maps and shirts were also few and far between. As there was no graded system, the scholars stayed in school until the teacher had to offer.

In 1831 and again six years later, Livonia was divided into school districts. Each district was composed of four sections with the school to be built somewhere in the center of the district so that no child would have more than two miles to walk.

Changes were made in the districts by transfer of certain farms to other districts for the convenience of the owners. The best example of these changes can be shown by the Clarenceville School District which takes in part of two counties and three townships.

Roads were a problem in the 19th century as well as in the early portion of the present one. As most of Livonia is quite level, the building and maintenance of these roads presented a problem. Even with the rebuilding of Plymouth Rd. as a corduroy road in 1838, a trip to Detroit was a three-day affair.

Some of these roads were impassable a good part of the time and a map of the township in 1841 shows the condition of the roads as being anywhere from good to bad and impassible. Plymouth, Six Mile and Seven Mile Rds. were in good condition most of the year while Five Mile and Schoolcraft were very bad and scarcely usable. Six Mile Rd. later became a plank road.

What is now Plymouth Rd. was on the direct coach route to Chicago. By 1832 there were three coaches weekly to Ypsilanti, all of which passed through Plymouth. In 1837, the service was extended to Chicago. The trip took over four and a half days. This service was terminated in 1873. The trip to Ypsilanti in 1849 took two days.

PLANK ROADS ARRIVE

Plank roads became popular in Michigan in the 1840's. The most famous of these was Grand River which cuts through the northeast corner of Livonia.

An account of the building of the Plymouth Plank Rd. makes interesting reading. This road was incorporated in 1850 with the right to lay-out and construct a plank road from Plymouth through Livonia, Redford and Greenfield until it intersected Grand River.

By the Plank Road Act of 1848 there was a toll gate every five miles. The first gate west of Grand River and Plymouth was at Wyoming and Chicago Blvd. The second gate was at Coon's Tavern at River Rouge Park. The third gate was at the southeast corner of Stark and Plymouth Roads at MacFarlane's Tavern. The fourth gate was at the intersection of Plymouth Rd. and Mill St in Plymouth.

The original road planks were 16 feet long by 12 inches wide and three inches thick. An excavation four inches by six inches was made in the road-bed. Stringers were laid and then the three-inch oak planks were laid on top. After several years many of the stringers and the open spaces filled up with mud and water. Some of the roads were 10 feet wide while others were 16 feet. Running parallel to some of the 10 foot roads was a gravel road which was used by the empty wagons returning from Detroit.

As the planks rotted and the holes filled with water, it became the custom to fill these holes with gravel. It soon became apparent that gravel was doing a better job and the maintenance of them was much cheaper. Accordingly, in 1873 the legislature granted the plank roads the right to sell and released them from all obligations.

Before the coming of the plank roads and also during their greatest popularity, there were railroads being built in the state, but none touched Livonia until the late 1860's. The railroad runs between Schoolcraft and Plymouth Rds. At it runs on the half section line, most of the land in the Township was donated by farmers living on the right of way.

The Detroit Union Railways also built a branch line serving the northwest section of the country. This line ran from Redford to Farmington, to Newburgh and Eight Mile Rds. then into Northville, Plymouth, Newburgh, Wayne and back to Detroit. This line was called the Hawk Line but ceased operating about 1925.

For the newcomers to Livonia, a listing of historic sites might be of interest. Perhaps the most interesting is the Newburgh Methodist Church, located at Newburgh and Ann Arbor Trail. This building was constructed in 1834 and stood opposite the cemetery. It was sold to the Methodists in 1835 and moved to its present location in 1915 where it has been used as a place of worship until recently. This appears to be the oldest place of worship in the Detroit area.

FIRST BURIAL IN 1827

About a half mile east of the Methodist Church is the Newburgh Cemetery where the first burial took place in 1827. Here can be found the G.A.R. monument and burial plot named after John and Alfred Ryder, two local boys who lost their lives at Gettysburg. Also located here are the graves of at least three Revolutionary War veterans. Back to Newburgh Rd. and north to the small plant and dam built by Ford in the late twenties. This used to be the site of a cider mill owned by Nicholas Bovee. The mill burned about 1875. The area around it was known as Vinegar Hill because of the odor from decomposing apples.

At Newburgh Rd. and Six Mile is the oldest school building in Livonia. The Briggs School was until shortly after consolidation of the school districts in Livonia in 1944.

A short distance north is the home of Miss Caroline Riddle, a granddaughter of William Riddle, who settled here in 1830. This farm has been in possession of the family since that time and in recognition of this was granted a plaque by the Michigan Historical Commission.

Near Farmington Rd. on Seven Mile is an old Quaker meeting house built in 1846. It was so used until 1860 when it became a private home. Purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gullen in the 1940's, it has been restored to as much of the original as possible.

And last but not least is the old Blue courthouse located on Middlebelt Rd. north of Schoolcraft. It was here that Dan Blue held court as Justice of the Peace for 28 years.

The old and the new blend softly in Livonia on this vital occasion, the City's 10th birthday.

Lanes Also In 25th

The Bowling Alley of Tomorrow
League Bowling Starts—Seven Leagues in Weekly Playoff
St. Michaels League Now Forming
MAKE BOWLING A BEAUTIFUL HABIT
Free instruction by Mr. Shoemith.

These two young upstarts—Livonia Lanes and The Livonian—survived the wars and the depression and the hills and valleys of the economy and now, arm in arm, are celebrating their 25th anniversary.

And as you look back, many changes have been made along the way.

The sprawling, rural country side of those days, is now an incorporated city, boasting a population of more than 80,000, and considered one of the fastest growing cities in America.

And in the transition, we now boast such things as the Ford and General Motors plants, one of the biggest race tracks in the country, two high schools, and junior high schools and elementary school buildings that go with them.

With them came a hospital, two colleges and the vast shopping centers—Wonderland and Livonia Mall—and other things that go to make up a big city.

The two pioneers in business have grown, too. The Livonian, which was just a small publication, has blossomed into the Livonia Observer and the major link in a chain covering the suburban area.

The little eight alley establishment also has prospered through the years.

IN THE TRANSITION, it became a 16 lane establishment, equipped with all of the modern facilities produced by the AMF Pinspotters Division of the American Machine and Foundry Company.

The seven original leagues have grown to 22 adult leagues, six groups of children in the age brackets from five years through seventeen years and a Senior Citizens League, along with the ladies morning leagues.

Many of these were innovations in bowling. Livonia Lanes was the originator of Senior Citizens leagues and pioneered in the movement to make every bowling establishment a "Senior Citizens Club." It was the originator of afternoon leagues for youngsters through the Department of Recreation.

Livonia Lanes was among the first in the country to have the famed automatic pinsetter installed (1955) and a year later, to meet the growing demands that were the fruits of their own labor, an eight-lane addition was opened.

With the passing of Petschulat about nine years ago, the lanes became a family affair—the Hoffman family—and the younger members, all good bowlers in their own right, took over.

There's Clarence, Jr., Warren and Lois and behind them stands "Red" with a broad smile.

He had reason to smile, too, for his pioneering efforts of long ago have paid off.

strictly a farming community with its narrow sectional interests including fruit, farm produce, milk or general farming. It was not until the late 1930's that it awoke and labor moved in and the farmers moved out.

Since the start of World War II the city of Livonia has grown rapidly. In 1920 the population was slightly over 1,600; in 1940, 8,500; in 1950, 17,000; and in 1960, 66,000.

The early growth was due primarily to the advent of war industries in Detroit and the influx of war workers from many other parts of the nation. Livonia became "bedroom" community, with most of its people living here but working elsewhere.

This created a problem, not only for the schools, but also for the rest of the community, because new roads and streets had to be built with little or no tax money to pay for the needed work.

Industry was slow to enter the township and it was not until 1948 that General Motors became interested and built its Hydromatic plant at Plymouth Rd. near the railroad. Ford Motor co. followed soon thereafter.

Few events in Livonia have ever created as much controversy as the Michigan Racing Association's plant at Middlebelt and Schoolcraft Rds. This $5,000,000 track was first discussed in 1948 and immediately raised cries of protest from church groups and nearby residents who objected to having a race track in their immediate vicinity.

When the voters gave the race track the green-light, the resi-

QUAKER ACRES IS destined, someday, to be historical monuments. Built in 1847, it served as a Quaker meeting house and contains many replicas of the mid-nineteenth century. It continues to be privately occupied and is maintained by the Livonia Historical Society, which has a continuing interest in it. The old house is located on Seven Mile, west of Farmington Road.

Thomas Shaw... Livonia Pioneer

KITTY SCHAIBLE, NOW a resident of the Livonia Nursing Home, was the talented artist who back in 1950 designed the official seal of the City of Livonia. She had worked as a commercial artist for the Ernst Kern Co.

The Story Behind the Seal of Livonia

The official seal which graces the letterheads and all official documents of the City of Livonia had its beginnings more than 15 years ago.

And the person who designed it is still a resident of the city.

Although bedridden and living in a convalescent home, Mrs. Kitty Schaible recalls how she first put the design on paper.

"It lay on my desk for several weeks," she said, "while I was working on it and completing it." The design shows a sprig of grain, reminiscent of Livonia's agricultural past, and a group of buildings surrounded by the words "City of Livonia" and the motto in a shield at the top, "In God We Trust."

Mrs. Schaible, now in her seventies, had been a commercial artist for the old Ernst Kern Company in Detroit.

When Livonia changed its form of government in 1950 from that of a Township to a City after a vote for incorporation, Mrs. Schaible was designated to design an official seal for the city's use.

She now lives at the Livonia Nursing Home on Plymouth Rd. between Inkster and Middlebelt.

Condemnations OK on Merriman

Condemnation proceedings "if necessary" for the "widening and changing" of Merriman Rd. between Schoolcraft and Seven Mile were authorized by the City Council Wednesday.

Council's action was taken on a request of the Wayne County Road Commission, which will undertake the paving project along the three-mile stretch.

The Wayne State football team will increase its schedule to nine games in 1967.

Among the early settlers in Livonia was Thomas Shaw, who was born at Walsall, Nottinghamshire, England, in 1786.

Early in March, 1836, Thomas Shaw—along with his wife, Hannah, and the couple's three children, Ann, Eliza and John—started their migration to America.

Their destination originally was Indiana. But strange circumstances prompted them to make their new home in "Newburg," on "The Ann Arbor Trail," four miles east of what was then known as Plymouth Corners.

The story of Thomas Shaw's migration and settlement in Newburg—now a part of the booming City of Livonia—has been told by Robert Doane Shaw, a descendant of Thomas Shaw, in a book.

Robert Shaw is a fourth generation descendant of Thomas and Hannah Shaw. Now 70, Robert Shaw is a retired executive of Dow Chemical Co., at one time lived (as a child) in Livonia, later in Northern Michigan, and now makes his home in Florida.

His compilation of the Shaw family history appears in a privately published form under the title "Thomas and Hannah Shaw and their Descendants in America." It makes numerous mentions of Livonia, inasmuch as this area was the original home-stead site of the Shaw family.

The following report is extracted in part from Robert Shaw's book:

The Thomas Shaw family traveled by river boat from nearby Nottingham, England, to Liverpool. There they boarded the ship "Macon", bound for New York City and their new home in America.

Bad weather made it a seven week voyage on rough and stormy seas, but finally in the middle of May, 1836, they landed at New York.

With Indiana's bountiful farming lands as their objective, the Shaw family took a packet boat up the Hudson River to Albany. By barge, they traveled the Erie Canal to Buffalo.

The "General Macomb," one of the first steam boats on the Great Lakes, carried them across Lake Erie to Detroit and at "Springwells," later a part of what is now Detroit, they spent their first night on land since leaving England nearly two months earlier.

The next morning, the family arose early.

Thomas purchased a yoke of oxen and a lumber wagon at Springwells and the five of them started for Indiana on a road known as "The Ann Arbor Trail."

That first day, Thomas Shaw and his wife and their three children traveled 18 miles, stopping at a farmhouse in Newburg, a tiny farming settlement.

The master of the farmhouse was a friendly man named Andrews and it would appear that Thomas Shaw and his host struck up a quick friendship.

It also happened that the next three days were poor ones for traveling. Heavy rains prompted the Shaws to remain with Mr. Andrews in Newburg.

During this delay, Andrews persuaded Shaw to give up his plans of settling in Indiana. Andrews knew of a good farm for sale nearby and Shaw decided to buy it.

The farm, said Andrews would be much nearer a good market (Detroit) than would any farm in "the faraway country of Indiana."

On June 1, 1836, Thomas bought an 80-acre farm in Section 18, Livonia Township, on what was later to be known as "The Six-Mile Road."

Thomas Shaw's son, John, bought another 40 acres in 1850 at a cost of $565. An 1876 plat of Livonia Township shows that the Shaw farm consisted of nearly 200 acres, so apparently additional acreage was purchased during the intervening years.

The Shaws' first home on Six-Mile Road was a log cabin.

But Thomas prospered as a farmer in Livonia and a new house was started in 1843. It had a spiral stairway as a central feature and Thomas' daughter, Ann, wrote to her cousin in England telling of the spiral stairway and of other aspects of the new home.

Thomas Shaw died in 1844 and his wife, Hannah died in 1856.

The Shaw farmhouse—the newer one—is still standing today on Six Mile Rd. in Section 18.

(Robert Shaw's history dwells on the development of Thomas and Hannah Shaw's three children for some length, but only the son, John, carries any great amount of additional interest.)

The Shaw farm was located about 10 miles west of the present Detroit city limits and four miles northeast of Plymouth. The Shaw family retained possession of the farm for more than a century as it was passed from Thomas Shaw to his son, John, and then to John's son, William.

The new home, built in 1843, was John's upon his father's death the following year. It was the first frame home in the Livonia vicinity, the book reports.

In 1904, at the age of 80, John Shaw bought a home on Union St., in Plymouth, and left the farm in Livonia Township in the care of Alfred White.

John Shaw's grandchildren, Carolyn and Robert, recall the good times on the farm.

They recall the fun of going to the spring to get water for the farm animals on the old "stone boat" which carried two large casks. A team of two horses hauled the stone boat.

Coming back, the boat juggled and jounced over stones and the water splashed the children.

Then there was the day when the hired man let Carolyn Shaw ride on top of the spike-tooth drag, up and down the dusty plowed field.

The book continues, telling now of John Shaw's second wife, Mary Ann.

She was 20 when she married John Shaw in 1850. He was 26. A wife on a pioneer farm worked hard and made a great contribution to the success of the farm and to the welfare of the farm family.

There was usually more work than the wife could handle alone. So a hired girl was employed to help. There was no electricity, of course, nor running water, so there were no electric lights or electric household and kitchen equipment.

It was necessary to drive over eight miles to and from town to get supplies. The drive was usually made on a Saturday behind a team of horses.

Another Shaw descendant was Charles Frederic Milroy, who was born in 1866 in Livonia. He spent his boyhood days on the family farm and attended country school and Northville High.

During the early part of the 20th century, Fred operated a sawmill. One of his important contributions dealt with the "Plank Road," now known as Grand River Ave.

Fred bought wood and cut planks for the Plank Rd.

Each plank was eight feet long and they were laid on top of the ground on the lane over which the heavy loads of produce were carried into Detroit. The other lane—the one going out of Detroit—remained a dirt road for the lighter loads coming from Detroit.

Fred Milroy died in 1951 at 85.

Another descendant was John Thomas Shaw, the second child and oldest son of John and Mary Ann Shaw. John Thomas was always called "Tom" by his friends and relatives.

His business acumen is worthy of mention and is a tribute to him. He went to work with the First National Bank of Detroit in 1875 as a messenger boy. His wage was $5 a week. From 1875 to 1891, he worked in most of the numerous departments within the bank. In 1891, he was named Assistant Cashier and in 1893 he was promoted to Cashier.

Six years later, he was elected Vice President and in 1909 was elected President of the bank. It was a position Tom held until his death. He was greatly respected across the nation for his banking ability and business knowledge.

Robert Doane Shaw's book continues about other descendants of Thomas and Hannah Shaw, but in few instances are there any apparent vital links to Livonia Township of the years long gone by.

Thomas' courage to migrate to America and the strange set of circumstances compelling him to settle in the Township of Livonia 125 years ago bespeak of the nature of the pioneers.

Many others helped to settle what has now become one of America's busiest cities—the City of Livonia.

Growth of a Newspaper

first thing that many readers turned to when they picked up their copies of the paper, and his views, often controversial but always honest, probably did more than anything else to help stimulate community thought and action in public affairs.

On Jan. 17, 1962, The Livonian purchased and combined with another weekly newspaper which had been published for two years, The City-Post, and in May, 1962, added the name Observer to its masthead to give it identity with the rest of the Observer newspapers.

Paul Chandler's death last December left the newspaper with a great void. Today's team of 35 employees on the four Observer papers is dedicated to producing the kind of newspaper in which he strongly believed.

With the help of our readers in the community, we will try our best to guide this newspaper along the same paths that have given it the confidence and support of Livonians since 1940. We look forward to one day serving the community with even a larger paper, one which will be published with greater frequency, but one which will never lose its sense of dedication to the community.

North Farmington Again Reigns as Cage Champs

Hail to the champs! For the second straight year, North Farmington high's basketball team can do no less than share the Northwest Suburban League title.

A 61-64 conquest at Birmingham Groves last Friday night shot North Farmington to the top of the ladder with a final league standing of eight wins against two defeats.

Now it's up to Groves to play catch up. If the Birmingham team can win at Franklin this Friday night, it will wind up as co-champs with North Farmington.

A year ago, North Farmington tied with Thurston for the league crown.

All of which means — North Farmington under Coach Dick Wilson now has cashed the golden chips in the conference in both the years the circuit has operated.

What's more, North Farmington this year as last season proved itself a comeback team.

In 1963-64, North Farmington had to win the final game at Thurston to tie for the flag. And North Farmington did.

Last Friday's encounter again was the last in the league for the Raiders. Once they had to go on the road.

But that didn't stop North Farmington. With the chips down, North Farmington put on a rally in the final two minutes to haul in the conquest.

The two games left on the regular schedule for North Farmington pit the team against Farmington Friday and Kettering on Saturday. A week hence, North Farmington goes to Farmington for the state district Class A tournament.

A lucky basket helped North Farmington to beat Groves. The host team held a 63-61 lead with just under two minutes to go.

North Farmington put the press on a Groves player deep in the Birmingham end.

In trying to throw the ball, the Groves' player toss hit the outstretched hands of North Farmington's Curt Schumacher. The ball was deflected back to the hoop at which North Farmington has been shooting. It hit the backboard and dropped in. A fluke basket, true, but it nonetheless tied the score at 63-63 all.

Then Rick Lorenz fired in four straight free throws and that was the game — for North Farmington.

And, the championship, too. North Farmington rolled into an early 18-5 lead as Lorenz and Rick Schultz each knocked in eight points in a hurry. But Groves countered with the last nine points in the first period to trail by an 18-14 count.

Each side made 19 points in the second period with Bill

Bowles notching eight to pace North Farmington. In the third period, 10 points by Mike Rafferty helped Groves to go ahead by one point.

The Groves lead swelled to four points in the final quarter before the pressing North Farmington defense eventually produced a series of Groves errors and paved the way for North Farmington to roar back.

Schultz had 19 points for the winners, Lorenz 17 and John McDonald 13. The latter was also a giant in the rebounding department, snaring 25.

The victory was the eighth in a row for North Farmington after breaking even in its first six games. It also helped to avenge an early season loss administered by Groves on the North Farmington court.

"We're running better and playing better defense," said Coach Wilson in explaining the fine North Farmington showing of late.

Roger Schultz had 25 points for the North Farmington reserves, who lost by a 58-53 score.

The varsity box score for North Farmington:

North Farmington	G	F	P
John McDonald	5	3	13
Rick Schultz	7	5	19
Curt Schumacher	1	2	4
Bill Bowles	3	2	8
Rick Lorenz	5	7	17
Larry August	2	4	8
Totals	23	21	67
North Farm.	18	15	57
Groves	14	19	53

RICK SCHULTZ, of North Farmington, drives over a Birmingham Groves player to score. North Farmington won the game 67-63 to place themselves in a tie for first with Groves.

BENTLEY BECOMES LATESTS VICTIM:

RU Streak Up To Four

Time can solve a lot of problems.

In the early going this season, Redford Union high's basketball team was a soft touch. Or comparatively so.

In the first round of Suburban Six League action, Coach Milo Karhu's forces won only two of five games.

But in the second half, it has been a much different story. Unfortunately, for RU, the championship isn't based on a split-season performance.

Since embarking on the second round of action, RU has won four straight in the league, leaving only Trenton's newly crowned league champions to contend with Friday night in the RU gym.

How does Karhu explain the change which has come over his team?

"We just began to jell," says the happy coach. "Most of our kids just hadn't played together before this season. They needed time to adjust."

"Then, too, we have been hustling... hustle... hustle, hustle..."

The Township certainly hustled last Friday night in beating neighboring Bentley, 68-62, to knock the champs from the last two years clear down to fourth place in the standings.

Redford Union led all the way against Bentley which has been experiencing second-half blues in contrast to RU's spurt since the middle of the season.

The Townshipers gained a 22-14 lead by the end of the first period as Orin Newton pumped in 10 points to force Bentley to shift from a man-to-man to a zone defense.

The change in strategy cut down on Newton's scoring the rest of the way. He added only four more points in the final three periods.

But Al Maibach, along with Leland Bjerke and Mike McCrea started to find the range for RU and by halftime, the Townshipers held a 36-30 lead.

With Nick Bonder, Tim Dull and Fred Matevia the big guns, Bentley struck back in the first period to cut the RU advantage to 51-46 entering the final chapter.

Bentley kept right on going... and in short order the RU lead had shrunk to just 54-53.

Then Maibach, who topped all scorers with 23 points and in addition grabbed 13 rebounds and also held Matevia to five baskets, hit for a couple quickies. Bjerke tossed in three jumpers from the corner and RU won going away.

N. Farmington Hopes So Can Franklin Lend a Hand?

Can Franklin High's basketball team help North Farmington? This is the big question of the week as Franklin prepares to face Birmingham Groves Friday night in the Franklin gym.

A victory for Franklin, which would come under the category of an upset, would enable North Farmington to reign as undisputed Northwest League champs.

If Groves wins, North Farmington would have to share the flag with Groves.

Franklin staged a strong finish last Friday night, but it still wasn't enough to beat Thurston. The final score read: 63-58.

The second period told the story of the game.

After the initial quarter's action, the score was knotted at 21-21.

The Thurston brokeout to to score 16 points to seven for Franklin in the second period. Terry Rothwell with six points, Gary Samelson with five and Gary Knock with four led the Thurston uprising in the second quarter.

While Thurston was exploding, Franklin had to settle for just three baskets and one free throw.

As a result, Thurston reached the halftime intermission with a 37-28 lead.

Franklin fell back two more points in the third period as Don Block and Rich Stefan continued to pace the Thurston charge. However, in the closing period, Franklin had the upper hand, outscoring Thurston by a 17-9 margin.

Thurston came up with fine scoring balance as Block had 13 points and Samelson 10 to lead the way.

Any item, which deals with spring, tends to warm one up at this time of the year.

All of which explains why the big city newspapers go so heavy in February and March when it comes to what is taking place in various training camps in Florida, Arizona and California.

In our immediate midst, two major events to be held in May were announced during the past week.

One deals with baseball, the other with track.

It's with particular delight that the Observer Newspapers will join with the City of Livonia and the Livonia Optimist Club in staging what is hoped to become an annual invitational baseball tournament at Ford Field.

Ten teams have been invited to contest. They are Bentley, Clarenceville, Farmington, Franklin, North Farmington, Our Lady of Sorrows, Plymouth, Redford Union, St. Agatha and Thurston.

Call it coincidence. But these are the 10 high schools about whom we happily report their athletic doings from late August through June.

John DuFour, of Livonia's recreation department; George Williams, of the Optimist Club, and Tommy Thompson, the Observer newspapers' editor, have been named to supervise the tournament.

All games will be played under the lights at Ford Field on Farmington road. Two games are booked for May 15 to cut the field in the single-defeat eliminations to eight survivors.

Further preliminaries are carded for May 21-22 with the semifinals for May 28 and the finals for May 29.

Plymouth Falls to Parkers

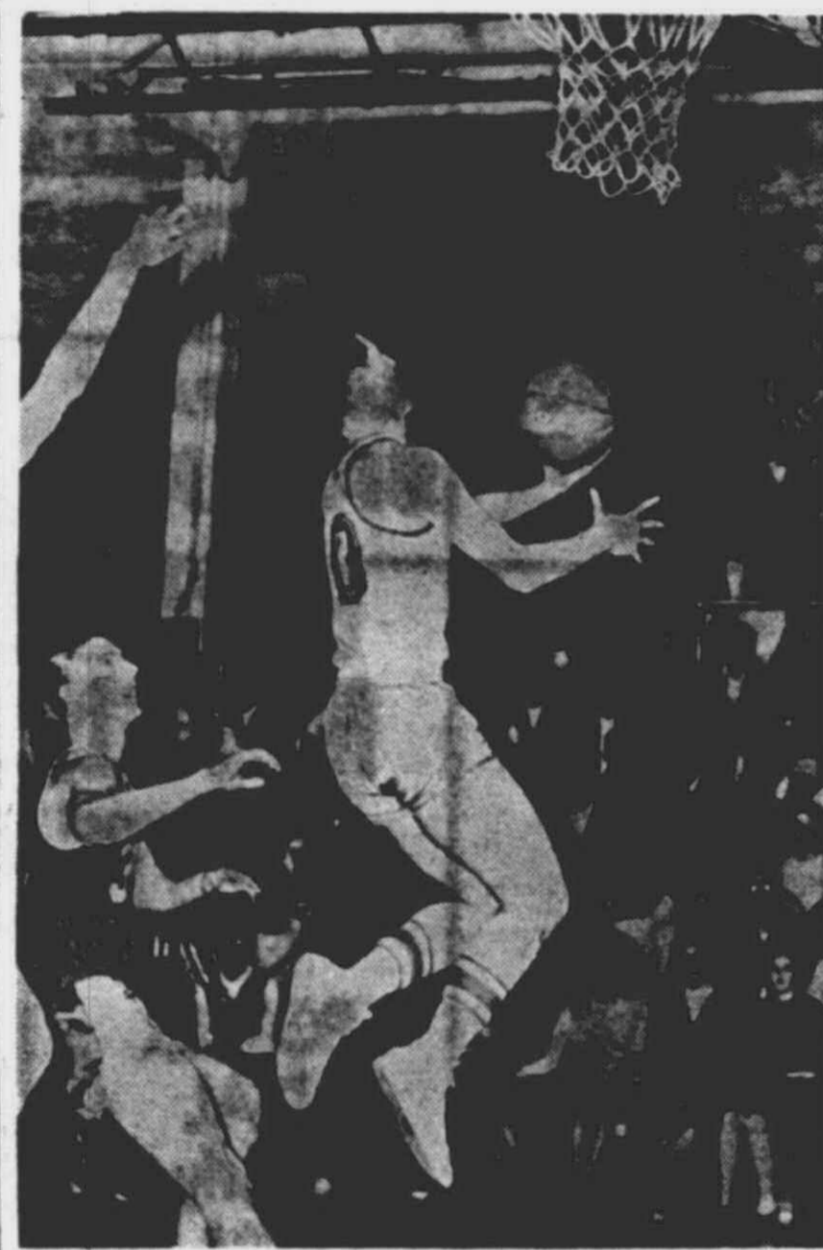

One more game... at home Friday night against Belleville remains before Plymouth high wraps up its 1964-65 regular basketball schedule.

Then it will be on to Eastern Michigan next week for the district tournament.

The Rocks lost a toughie last Friday night at Allen Park by a 69-63 score.

Plymouth, down almost from the start, fought back to tie the score with six minutes left in the game. Then Ron Howell, who has been the big gun all season for Allen Park, knocked in six straight points while the Rocks went without a tally.

The Rocks managed to recover with about three minutes left to trail by three points. But Allen Park had enough to hold on and take the victory, which enabled the Parkers to remain in a tie for second with Redford GOING IN for two points in the 68-62 victory over Bentley High is Redford Union's Orin Newton. Tim Dull, of Bentley, moves in too late to block the hook shot.

The victory enabled RU to take the season's series from Bentley, two games to one. RU first beat Bentley in the Christmas tournament. Bentley got even on its home floor and then RU flourished last Friday.

If there's a fourth meeting this season, it will have to be in the state tournament.

In addition to Maibach, Bjerke, McCrea and Newton each scored well for RU. All finished with 14 points as the victors hit on 27 of 60 shots from the floor for 45 percent.

Bonder's 19 points led Bentley. Tim Dull had 14 and Matevia 10.

RU also has a game on Saturday this week, battling Thurston to ring down the curtain on the regular-season's action. Bentley winds up against Allen Park on the Five-Mile Road court Friday evening.

Bentley's reserves came through with a 62-33 victory.

2nd Half Kills Falcons

Only Two Hoops In 2 Periods

Coach Jack Quiggle shook his head.

He couldn't believe it could have happened to his Farmington high basketball team.

The Falcons had reached last Friday night on the short end of a 30-27 score.

When the third period rolled around, Farmington's shooting went dead.

The team made only six points in the third stanza—all via free throws.

In the fourth quarter, Farmington wasn't much better, totalling just seven points on two baskets and three charities.

"Imagine," said Quiggle after the game, "just two baskets in an entire half."

Quiggle added that his charges over dribbled in the final half.

"We didn't pass the ball we should have," the coach groaned.

There was one item that cheered Quiggle, the work of sophomore Mike Ames.

The youngsters made only eight points, but he was "fantastic" on the boards in the rebounding department, according to his coach.

John Olander with 14 points paced the losers, who have games with North Farmington and Roseville Friday and Saturday evenings, respectively, to ring down the curtain on the regular season.

Next week will see Farmington as the host to a state district Class A tournament.

Here's the Farmington box score against Mt. Clemens:

Observing Sports

The schools will contest for a traveling trophy—an award which may be retired after one school wins it three times.

There'll also be a special trophy for the championship team. This cup will become a permanent part of the winning team's trophy case.

Sponsors of the meet will provide the game balls and the umpires.

Needless to say, the chronicler of this column hastens to raise cheers over the announcement of such a tournament.

We long had advocated for a lighted field for Livonia—and we'd like to see similar facilities in Plymouth, Redford Township and Farmington.

More important, we have felt for many years that there is a place in high school baseball for tournaments — yes, even a state meet.

A competition, such as the one being held at Ford Field, could lay the groundwork for the State Prep Association one of these days seeing fit to sponsor a Michigan-wide tourney.

AS FOR THE TRACK MEET mentioned in an earlier paragraph, Les Anders of the Livonia Public Schools lets it be known that the fourth annual Claude Snarey relays will be held at Bentley on Saturday, May 29.

The Livonia Optimists again will be one of the co-sponsors. Eleven events will make up the relay agenda and there'll be a trophy both for the winning and runner-up schools.

Anders notes that this year's relay has been moved ahead one week and will take place during the long Memorial Day weekend.

"We hope to do our part in at least keeping some people off the highways and yet give them some form of activity in which to participate," Anders declared.

On the subject of track, two other items come to mind.

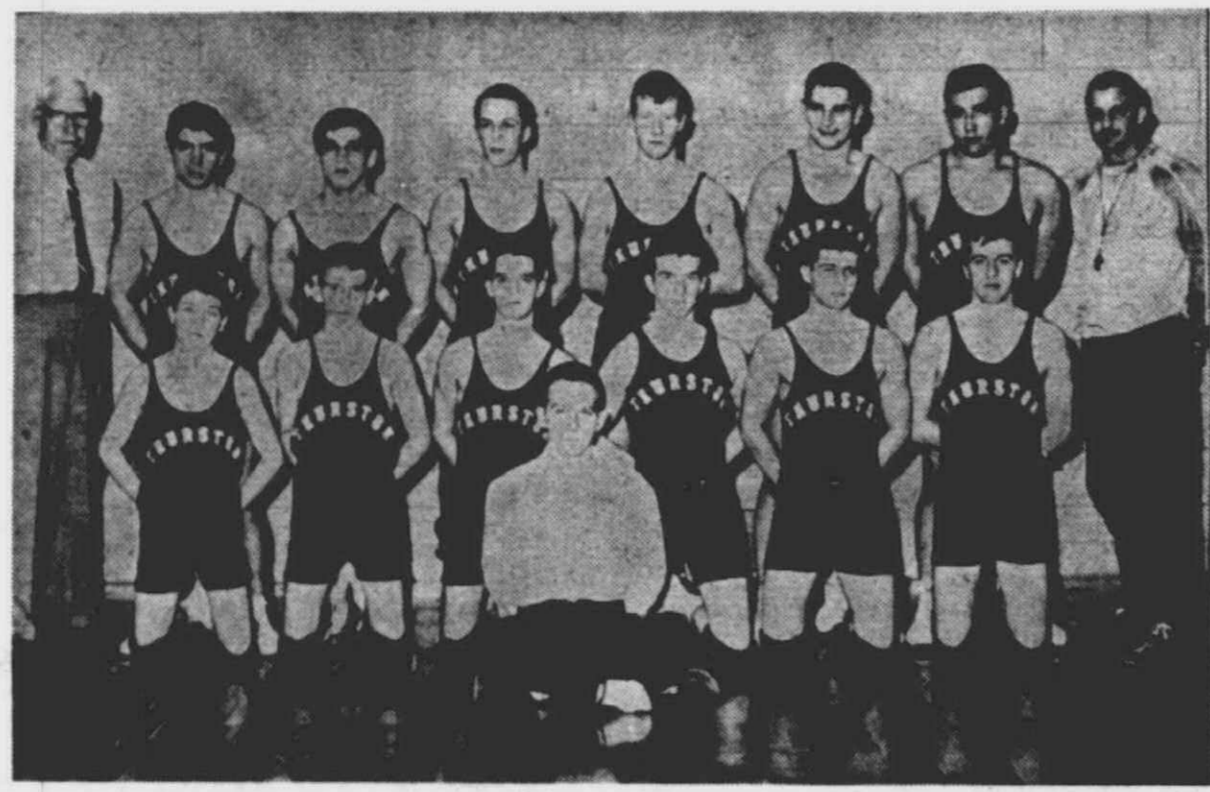

The first deals with the international prep school meet for deaf boys to be staged in Washington during the summer. Hayes Jones, the Michigan winner in last year's Olympics in Tokyo, tells of one Michigan youngster who may have to miss the Washington trip because of a shortage of funds.

"This boy is Michigan's best. We should do something to help him," Hayes declared.

If you'd like to make a donation, send it along to the School for the Deaf, Flint.

THE SECOND TRACK item has to do with horse and harness racing. We're told that last year's action in Michigan brought in something like $13 million to the state treasury.

As previously reported, records for crowds and wagering were set during both the middle and trotting seasons at the Detroit Race Course on the Riddlebelt Roads. All indications point to even a bigger year in 1965.

It was Thurston in a runaway last Saturday for the Northwest Suburban League wrestling championship.

Coach Jim Knotts' Townshipers won nine individual titles in piling up 132 points to take the team crown.

North Farmington was second with 92 points, followed by Franklin with 47, John Glen with 30, Groves with 27 and Oak Park 20.

The team title never was in doubt as Thurston grabbed off five of the first six signals.

Trojans Lose to Titlists

The game went one quarter too long as far as Clarenceville high's basketball team was concerned last Friday night against Bloomfield Hills.

For three periods, the Trojans turned in what Coach Bob McKillop described as one of "our best efforts" of the season.

Then the roof fell in . . . Bloomfield Hills outscored Clarenceville, 16-5, in the last eight minutes . . . won the game by a 68-44 score and also hauled in the Wayne-Oakland League crown.

"I'll admit we were down 13 points after three periods," said McKillop. "But we really were playing well until then."

Top honors for Frankin went to Paul Katohh, who nailed five baskets for 10 points.

The reserve game was a thriller. Thurston won, 63-62, when Ray Rybka dropped two free throws with less than five seconds to go.

Thurston Swim Squad Too Much for Franklin

Thurston high's swimming team had too much power for Franklin scoring a 59-45 victory last Friday night. Thurston won eight of the events with honors well spread.

Union in the Suburban Six League standings.

Allen Park shot in front, 24-18, after one quarter. The count read 36-32 at halftime in favor of the Parkers and the hosts still commanded a four-game bulge going into the closing period.

It took some brilliant shooting by the Parkers to win. They hit on 54 percent of their shots from the floor. Plymouth's 46-percent totalling would have won most games.

However, the Rocks had some troubles at the free throw line and this ultimately proved the difference in the final result.

"But we played very hard," said Coach Charles Ketterer at the end of the game.

Rick Jones paced Plymouth with 19 points while Jim Lake had 14 and Dave Tidwell 10. High for the winners was Howell, who knocked in 35.

Tigers Sign Pair From Suburbs

An infielder from suburban Detroit who led the Ivory club of the Detroit Amateur Baseball Federation to a national championship and a lefthanded pitcher, also from greater Detroit, are among a half dozen prospects signed to contracts with clubs in the Tiger minor league organization.

Wayne Ginste, of Ferndale, batted .531 for Ivory in the 1964 national Class A amateur tournament. He is 21, stands 5-10, weighs 160, and alternated between second and third base on the Detroit sandlots. He will report to the Jamestown club of the New York-Pennsylvania League in spring training at Tigertown, Lakeland, Fla.

The pitcher is Phil Bartolone, a 6-2, 175 pounder from Madison Heights. He had a 10-6 record for Madison Lamphier High School and, doubling as a first baseman, hit over 400 in three seasons of scholastic ball, clouting three home runs in 1963 and four in 1964. He was signed to a contract with the Daytona Beach club of the Florida State League.

Also signed as pitchers are Nicholas Klein, of Williamstown, N.J.; George Korince, of Merritt, Ont., and Frank Vezie, of Stateline, Calif., all righthanders, and an outfielder acquired is Tony Moreno, of West Orange, N.J.

Klein was tendered a Jamestown contract. Korince, Moreno and Vezie will join Daytona Beach in spring training.

The Tigers will continue to sign free agents until April 30, after which all their prospects will be frozen for the free agent draft adopted by the major leagues.

P-A Theater Offers Treat To Music Lovers

Acting on the theory that music lovers in the Plymouth-Livonia - Northville - Farmington - Wayne-Garden City area would appreciate again viewing some of the great musicals of Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, the Plymouth Art Theater on Penniman Ave. will bring back "Sweethearts" for a special three-day showing, Feb. 28 through March 2.

Stewart Dodge, new manager of the theater, also will present "The Student Prince," which features the late Mario Lanza, in the second half of the double bill. Both are in color.

"We feel this area has many culture minded movie lovers who will appreciate seeing these favorites again," said Dodge, "Especially in view of the death of Miss MacDonald a few weeks ago."

The theater management will offer a special bargain price during the three days to area high school students and is making an effort to have as many band, orchestra and choir groups as possible attend.

All students will be admitted for the special price of 50 cents on all three days, including Sunday.

The box office opens at 3:30 p.m. daily.

"Sweethearts" is considered one of the best MacDonald-Eddy films and has been held in high esteem by music lovers throughout the world since it was first shown back in 1937.

Clarenceville Gets Tutoring Aid From Madonna College

Over 40 Madonna College students give up one to two hours a week to tutor students at Clarenceville Junior High School.

Tutoring has blossomed into a dynamic activity on the college campus within the last year. Although students provide their own transportation, receive no remuneration for their work, their enthusiasm and interest indicate that they are pleased with the service they give and the satisfaction they receive.

Statistics for 1964 indicate that an estimated four out of ten students will never finish high school.

The gravity of the drop-out situation was brought to the attention of Madonna College at a National Federation of Catholic Colleges meeting in 1964. The problem within the state was further emphasized by Governor Romney at a special meeting for College Presidents called in Lansing in the spring of 1964.

In response to the challenge to do something about our future citizens, Madonna College organized a tutorial program to alleviate the contemporary drop-out situation. Basic field work for the program began in May of 1964. Since September, 1964, forty students of Madonna College go out in carloads each day to tutor Clarenceville High School students in reading or math.

The program, organized by Victoria Gabrys, senior, is planned on a one to one or one to three basis. The small groups of those being tutored encourage a friendly and informal atmosphere in which much remedial work can be done.

L. E. Schmidt, Superintendent of the Clarenceville Public Schools, feels that the program "thus far has been a fine assistant especially helpful to many students."

Victoria Gabrys who sees that the tutoring runs smoothly claims that "... tutoring is evidence of a wonderful display of generosity." She says, "Many of the girls receive much personal satisfaction in aiding those students who are seeking someone's help. The students volunteering their time to the project feel that they are being of some definite use to the children. Youth needs a challenge, and the students of Madonna were challenged, and so they have taken up this project with sincere and unselfish enthusiasm."

One of the teachers at Clarenceville says that "... the especially an attractive young student—would take time from a busy day to come at a set time and offer regular assistance. . . . They speak possessively of 'my tutor' and . . . reluctant learners are trying hard to do the assignments." No academic credit is given for tutoring. However, seminars are held once a month for the benefit of the students participating in the program. The seminars are directed by professors familiar with the techniques of remedial work.

In many instances the help given is not purely academic; much of it falls into areas of psychological assistance. Many students are pleased in having a college student interested in their progress and respond with wholehearted cooperation. As one student said, "It's like having an older sister ready to talk students seem impressed and touched that an outsider — with you anytime."

Redford Union Thespians Perform; New Construction Well Underway

By Pam Ziemiak
On Thursday and Saturday evenings, February 18 and 20, the Thespians presented a one-act play entitled, "They Put on a Play."

At the completion of the play, R. U.'s faculty presented their "hammed up" melodrama, "The City Slicker and Our Nell." Under the direction of Bob Gregory, the faculty members produced a hilariously funny comedy. The Thespians will put their proceeds in a fund to sponsor the all-school play, "Li'l Abner," and the spring Talent Show. The faculty will give approximately $100 toward a teaching scholarship, and the remainder will be spent on improvements in the teacher's lounge.

REDFORD UNION is under construction at the present (or is it destruction). An addition of 23 rooms, a larger library and office, and a new cafeteria are hoped to be completed by the next school year.

The new additions will provide adequate room for students, so it will not be necessary for split schedules next year.

On Friday, after the Bentley basketball game, the Senior Class sponsored a dance. Live entertainment was provided for by the Mystics. The Senior Class has also been busy taking orders for Senior pins.

Tryouts for the all-school play were held Monday and will be held today and tomorrow in the auditorium. The play this year will be "Li'l Abner." Let's see all you "dogcatchers" come out for this fun-filled experience.

Something new has been initiated in the procedure of the Student Council meetings. The Pledge of Allegiance will be reserved as first on the agenda of all meetings in the future.

The Council has passed three new club's constitutions this year. The organizations are the Physics Club, the French Club, and the Debate Club.

Gry Karlson and Gloria Pascual, foreign students attending R. U., have been made honorary members of the Student Council.

Cheri Dunn has replaced senior representative, Toni Luke, who has moved away; and the sophomore Vice President, Phillip Stebert, has replaced a sophomore representative.

Skip Kruse, President, and Karen Vargo, Secretary, represented the Council at a planning board meeting for the Suburban Six Student Council Conference at Plymouth High School on February 16.

THE VOTING is completed and the senior superlatives for the Class of '65 are Spud Kendrick and Barb Tober, Most Athletic; Steve Crane and Karen Vargo, Most Active; Fred Turek and Judy Littleton, Class Cut-ups; Jim Kirkpatrick and Pam Ziemiak, Best Dressed; Greg Semonick and Lori Filipeck, Class Scholars; Bill Watt and Barb Trailer, Class Flirts; Jack Devine and Sue Nichols, Most Friendly; and Skip Kruse and Liz Parr, Most Likely to Succeed.

The annual "Queen of Hearts" dance brought the festive Valentine season to R. U. students once again. On Saturday evening, February 13, the Pep Club held this girlish affair.

During the evening, the Ugly Man for '65 was announced. The winner, Chuck Srock, received $15 and the opportunity to draw the winning ticket for the Queen of Hearts.

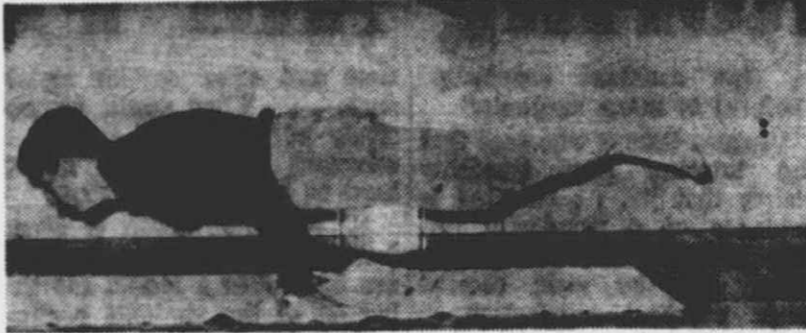

The winning ticket was number 129, which belonged to Karen Vargo. Karen received a white gold bracelet with a heart-shaped charm. Engraved on the charm was "Queen of Hearts." The new Queen and Ugly Man led off a dance together.

The Pep Club worked hard on this dance and was rewarded with the largest turnout so far. Chairmen of the various committees were: Judy Littleton, Band; Cheryl Nissen, Tickets; Leslie Houghton, Publicity; Barb Tober and Barb Trailer, Bracelets; Cheryl Turkowski, Refreshments; and Hollie Moffitt and Pam Ziemiak, Decorations.

On Saturday, February 27, at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, February 28, at 1:30 p.m. the Ford Motor Company will present the Serendipity Singers and the Oscar Peterson Trio at the Detroit Masonic Temple.

Funds from this program will go to the American Field Service students, so let's see all of you there. Tickets will be priced at $1, $2.50, and $3.50; and they may be purchased from International Club members.

The sixth hour drama class presented Alfred Hitchcock's movie, "Psycho," on Tuesday, February 9. There were two showings—one at 3:30 and the other at 7:00.

PEOPLE EVERYWHERE in America, whose lives are constantly under strain and whose schedules demand top physical and mental fitness, have learned the value of the intriguing study of yoga. Age is no factor in yoga's effectiveness, sickness and disease are no deterrents. Vocation and occupation make no difference. It is said that after nine months of serious practice the body could be completely renewed. The class will start on Tuesday, March 2, at 10 a.m. at Dickerman Dance Studio at 22784 Orchard Lake Rd. just off Grand River. The class is for men and women. Wear loose clothing, no zippers in back please. Bring a rug or mat. $12.50 for 10 week course. Ruth Gill will be the instructor. For further information call the dance studio at GR 6-1236. The student demonstrating the Peacock Pose is Tom Sayres of 25505 Elba, Redford Township.

Juniors, Sophs Select Next Year's Courses

By Susan Dowell and Marcia Wilson

By the middle of February, sophomores and juniors will be beginning planning their course selections for next year. Selections made by the student will be sent home for parent approval.

THE PROGRAMS of Study booklet is available to assist in making final course selections for next year. Following the written approval of the course selections by parents, no changes will be made prior to the end of the semester.

Following June 6, changes will be made only if a student fails to satisfactorily complete his current instructional program, plans to attend summer school, or changes his education plans which would require a change from one program to another. If there are any questions on their next years schedule students should see their counselors now.

The Bentley High School instrumental department held a mid-winter concert Feb. 6 in the Bentley auditorium. The concert featured three main groups, the Junior Varsity Band, Livonia High Schools Symphony Orchestra, and the Concert Band. The music theme of the program consisted of various classical and popular pieces.

The Junior Varsity Band played such songs as "His Honor March" by Fillmore, "Little Suite for Band" by Erickson, and "Tango for Band" by Osser. The Livonia High Schools Orchestra presented "Meister-singer Overture" by Wagner and "Eight Russian Folk Songs" by Liadov. The Concert Band featured "Song of the Vagabonds" arranged by Billik, "Overtures to Candide" by Bernstein, and selections from the Broadway musical, "Carnival."

Students who participated in the program were prepared for the event under the direction of Mr. Robert Ballard, Junior Varsity Band; Mr. William Savola, Livonia High Schools Orchestra; and Mr. Robert Clark, the Concert Band. Altogether 190 students participated in the program.

Anyone who's future education plans are in doubt will need the information offered the evening of March 11 at Bentley High School. This is the night the Bentley-Franklin Guidance Departments are planning an evening for all students and parents interested in continuing education planning. This evening is especially designed for students in the 9th 10th and 11th grade. Representatives from state and private colleges and universities, business institutes, technical schools, and community colleges will explain their particular advantages and answer questions at the meeting.

One of the most cultural clubs at Bentley is the Latin Club. It consists of a group of students interested in Roman history, the Latin language, and modern uses of the Latin language.

At the present time the club is planning a Roman banquet just like the ones held in ancient Roman times. A huge dinner will be served to the club members consisting of foods similar to that which Winners in the intra-scholastic speech competition were selected on Feb. 10.

On Feb. 10 in the narrative poetry category, judge Mrs. Elizabeth Monahan chose Davida Dow first place winner with her selection "How Hard It Is to Keep from Being King When It is in You and in the Situation." Runners-up was David Brown. Tying for third place were Nancy Berger and Laura Propp.

Lyric poetry was judged by Mrs. Josephine Brown. Mary Lou Mangold, whose selection was "Renaissance," placed first; Christine Olinzock was second and Terry Dillon third.

In religious poetry, Sandra Cindric, reading "Canticle of Canticles," was first. In the Shakespeare category, Ruth Brown, who presented a cutting from Romeo and Juliet was the winner.

Dramatic interpretation was won by Bob Schrock, who gave a cutting from My Fair Lady. Donna Maker placed second.

Serious prose, judged by Miss Charlene O'Leary, Miss Marilyn Pettit, and Donald Portwood, was won by Juliana Brown, reading "But For This." Susie Behrend and Pat Walsh were second and third.

In humorous prose, Jessie Garden's interpretation of "The Waltz" won first place, Anne Wegener, second, and Jill Sliwa, third. James Brown was judge.

Sharon Halo was awarded first place in children's literature, with a cutting from Mary Poppins. She was followed by Pat Barbour in second place and Sandra Wilkerson and Janet Parents, who tied for third. The judges were Sister Gilmery and Mrs. Nemes.

Placing first in the Bible reading was Mike Brown. Second was Gerard Harvey. Marke Copeland won in the non-original oratory, followed by Joe Huhn and Brian Chabala.

Both categories were judged by Sister Jean Ellen and Mrs. Urban. Love Is a Fallacy," presented by Kathy Boyle, John Sliwa, and John Minahan, was chosen by Sister Grace Esther and Mrs. Jean Mc Alpine as the winning presentation in the multiple reading category.

Ribbons will be awarded to first, second, and third place winners. First place contestants will compete in the Genesee Festival, co-hosted this year by Marian and Brother Rice high schools on February 28.

TRYOUTS for female roles in Harvey took place on Wednesday, February 17. A cutting from this play will be presented at the Genesee Festival.

ON FEBRUARY 12, the Sodality and Y.C.S. hosted a Valentine's dance entitled "Heart of My Heart."

The gym was bedecked with myriad red, white, and pink hearts which draped an entire wall and created a false ceiling effect. Main attractions were the wishing well filled with pink punch, and the bandstand where the Dave de Clark band entertained.

Excitement mounted as 10 o'clock approached, for that was the hour of revelation. Who would be the king and queen?

The seniors succeeded in maintaining their precedent. Their candidates, Karen Mrazik and Tom Anthony, reigned for the evening. One freshman room, whose representatives were Donna Kovarik and Brian Chabala, gained second place.

Report cards were distributed last week. Many students must be pleased with their results since there were quite a few on the honor rolls.

Eight seniors, 17 juniors, nine sophomores, and 15 freshmen earned first honors this quarter. Second honors were merited by five seniors, five juniors, three sophomores, and eight freshmen.

Last week two Sisters of Mercy from Sacred Heart Junior College in Belmont, N.C., visited with the junior and senior girls. They showed slides of campus life and described Sacred Heart's expansion program.

Friday night, the senior and freshmen will compete against the juniors and sophomores in the annual "tin can" game.

Tryouts will be held next week for roles in the annual school play. This year St. Agatha's will present the musical comedy The Sound of Music on May 12 and 13.

Bands Will Present Great Concert Saturday

By Jan Bonner
Although "the night of Jan. 16" is relegated to the unimportance of last month's calendar, Franklin's Play, "The Night of January 16th," remains a memorable event to the audiences who saw this suspenseful drama.

The play is a courtroom drama, written by Ayn Rand, involving the murder of Mr. Bjorn Faulkner by Karen Andre, the accused.

This play is very different from the ordinary courtroom drama because the audience plays a direct part in the action. Twelve people from the audience made an unheard-of appearance on the stage as jury members.

A different cast performed each night. On Thursday, Feb. 18 leading roles were filled by Kent Ebere, Kenn Crawford Dianne Michalke, and Nancy Drost. On Friday night, Feb. 19, the leading roles were played by Don Mills, John Allen, Pat MacKenzie and Mary Jo Castiglione.

Balloons floated about and horns squealed unmercifully, as costumed Frankinites celebrated FHS's first Mardi Gras last Saturday night. The Mari Gras, sponsored by the journalism classes, proved to be a gala event with confetti, streamers, and a huge clown decorating the gym.

The highlight of the evening was at midnight (New Orleans time), when everyone revealed his true identity by removing his mask.

The Franklin High School bands, Varsity Band and the Symphonic band, will present a joint concert on Saturday, Feb. 27, at 8:30 p.m. in the Franklin Lecture Theater.

Three students, Tim Topolewski, Doug Rose, and Jim Fisher will be featured as soloists.

Highlights on the Varsity Band program will be: "March-manship" by Gable, "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach, a Concerto in B by Mozart, "Bunker Hill" by Harr, "Toccata" by Erickson, and "Amparito Roca" by Texidor.

"The Gallant Seventh" by Sousa, "The Force of Destiny" by Verdi, "Carnival of Venice" by Staigers, "Prelude and Fugue in F Minor" by Bright, "Suite of Old American Dances" by Bennett, and "American Salute" by Gould will be featured by the Symphonic Band. Roy E. Ernst will conduct both groups.

FRANKLIN SENIOR, Helen Lisoll, won the Betty Crocker Home-Economics Award, given through General Achievement. Helen received a pin, and her name was entered in the state contest. If she wins at the state level, Helen will be given a $1,500 scholarship and a trip to New York.

No longer a nameless newcomer to F.H.S., the creative arts magazine has been given a very respectable, very "Franklin" name. Appropriately enough, this name was suggested by the publication's most creative artists — the mice who were housed in the showcase last December for publicity purposes. Not even Miss Kangas or Mr. Sauls, sponsors of the publication, had anticipated how creative these advertisers really were.

By the following Monday "Molly and me" had become "and babies make seven!" Now the famous couple boasts a family of 16—and are fast outgrowing their present home. Since the mice show such creativity and promise, the staff felt it entirely fitting to name the magazine after a mouse. Not just any ol' mouse of course.

It would have to be one of significance—namely Amos, the mouse who kibitzed Ben Franklin's greatest inventions and even assisted with the writing of the Declaration of Independence.

The magazine and its staff are happy to have a name finally—"The Amos."

FOR THE REST of the school year, Franklin is operating on a new seventh hour schedule. Seventh hour classes last 15 minutes longer, or until 3:45, except one night a week, when they are not held at all. The new schedule allows seventh hour students to participate in school activities, of which they had previously been deprived.

The Annual Typewriting Contest was held Feb. 23, with many Franklin students participating. A winner and runner-up were chosen from each class level and will be announced next week.

Choral Club Plans Candy Sale; Finish Work on Annual Play

By Mary Rzemik

Fleeting shadows scurry back and forth behind stage as final rehearsals are "run through" for the school's production of "One with the Flame."

These obscure figures move about changing props and lighting to produce the total effect of Joan's "trial." The unsung heroines behind the curtains have worked long hours into the night in readying the play. Settings and props have been built, insignias and shields have been painted, and costumes have been sewn. Two freshmen "prop crewers" even remarked, "We helped God make a tree."

Senior girls, armed with sewing-machines, needles, and thread, cheerfully attacked the tremendous task of making frocks needed for the play. Lucille Glenn, Kathy McManamon, and Barb Jepson worked unselfishly for many hours on the sewing of costumes, while Sr. M. Janine, play director, traveled to Our Lady of Mount Carmel High School, where she taught for 12 years, and "scrounged" around for props she could use.

Choral Club Activities
Members of the Choral Club with their moderator Sr. M.

Huberta will join the forces of other high school students in the Archdiocesan Liturgical Day, at the U. of D. Memorial Building, on Saturday, February 27.

High school students at this liturgical fete shall sing the part of the Congregation during the first Mass in English, celebrated by Archbishop John F. Dearden. The main choir will be composed of choruses from various Michigan Colleges and Universities.

The newest liturgical scheme is scheduled to begin in the parish churches March 1. The vernacular low Mass has already been enacted since December. These changes in the liturgy of the Roman rite are the results of sessions of the Vatican Council II.

Attend Classes

Frederick "Ted" McDonald and John B. LaDue, insurance claim representatives in Livonia, have returned after completing several weeks of technical study at claim schools.

McDonald studied at Vale Technical Institute at Blairsville, Pa., and LaDue attended classes in Bloomington, Ill.

The Choral Club also will hold a Home-made "Cookie and Candy Sale" in the school gym Tuesday, March 2. Proceeds from the sale will help defray royalty and rental expenses of the operetta The Red Mill which the Choral Club will present on May 7 and 8.

Debate To Be Held

A debate will be held Monday during a student assembly. This intra-squad debate will be held to instruct the students in the art and techniques of debating.

The affirmative side junior Carolyn Frietarg and senior Marianne McPherson will take on the negative opinions of junior Sue Morris and Catherine Begnoche on the topic Resolved: That Nuclear Weapons Should Be Controlled By An International Organization. Sister M. Damascene, English instructor at Madonna College, will act as judge.

Sock Hop Planned

The annual "Mardi Gras Sock Hop" will be held Friday, February 26, in the school gym. Admission is fifty cents, time is from 8:00 to 11:00 p.m. and the dress is casual.

A CONGRESSMAN'S WORKBOOK

By CONGRESSMAN BILLIE S. FARNUM Representative, 19th Michigan District

Because I've been tagged "watchdog of the tax dollar" so often... as a result of my work as Michigan Auditor General... some apparently view me as a miser who wouldn't give his starving mother a dime.

all right, but don't go carrying it too far. If you don't vote for decent education for kids we'll see you get it at the next election.

ANSWER: If you "get me" it will have to be for some other reason. I'm for economy — getting full value for every tax dollar spent — but that doesn't mean I'm against progress. Particularly in education.

Much recent progress has been made in developing the nation's educational resources and you may be sure that I'll back necessary additional measures so long as spending your tax money seems to me to be a good investment.

Unless some "hooker" is introduced in the bill, I'll vote to help improve the quality of education in schools serving low-income families. There is evidence this will turn many who might grow up to be welfare recipients into men and women able to carry off the responsibilities of citizenship.

That's a "good investment" in our future — worth every dollar we can reasonably spare for practical programs.

I favor opening supplementary elementary centers — for humanitarian reasons, of course — but also because making it possible for the retarded or handicapped to earn a living is good business for all of us.

I favor establishment of educational laboratories — to make available to all schools everywhere the latest in educational methodology. I think it is a good investment, also, to strengthen state educational programs through grants designed to help solve educational problems requiring long-range planning.

I also favor — if it proves itself on close examination — the general plan designed to make higher education more widely available. This program has many aspects.

One has to do with university "extension" education — making it possible for adults to continue to get educational advantages missed earlier. Another has to do with assistance to small colleges — a field offering great returns per tax dollar invested.

Still another aspect is college assistance — to help the needy to help themselves. This has appeal to me particularly because some of my own education came in Government-financed CCC classes in the depths of the Great Depression.

Along the line just discussed, I think it is good business for all of us to encourage work-study programs and also reduced-interest loans to students.

This, I hope, is proof that I am not a miserly "penny-picher" but proof also that when I vote for anything I want to see that all of us get full value for our tax money.

Mrs. M.W. may also like to know that after I explained this position to various groups concerned with education — both educators and parents — I received widespread endorsements from them.

BRENDA MARSHA LIEBRODER, a 1962 graduate of Lee M. Thurston High School, was recently formally initiated in the Eastern Michigan University chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Liebroder of 14020 Lucrene, Brenda is a junior majoring in the social sciences.

With 3rd Battalion

Marine Corporal Bruce W. Freels, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Freels, 20157 Angling Road, Livonia, is serving with the Third Battalion, Sixth Marine Regiment, a unit of the Second Marine Division based at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

As the fall semester came to a close the home economics classes of Mrs. Benson and Mrs. Buller planned, prepared, and served a luncheon with mothers and teachers for guests. Each of the four, separate kitchens selected their own theme and prepared a menu to coincide with that theme.

The boys and girls from room 59, accompanied by Mrs. Silberstein and her student teacher, Miss Colby, took a field trip on February 5. They reached Plymouth by bus and then took the train back to downtown Detroit. For many students this was their first train ride.

On February 4 the eighth grade basketball team played a winning game. The score was, Pearson 36, Marshall 27. The team of Dale Bjerke, Rick Kenyon, Steve Isner, Don Maki, and Jim Lagana played their best.

When the ninth grade basketball team played against Marshall they were defeated. The score was 39-37. Bill Mieras and Tom Booker starred for Pearson.

There are two new student teachers at Pearson. They are from Wayne State University and they are learning to teach. One is Miss Martha Colby, who is helping Mrs. Silberstein, and the other is Mr. Sam Clark, who is working with Mr. Bosma.

Livonia Thespian Gains Danny Thomas as Agent

At 42 years old is a Hollywood life about to begin for Arthur "Ace" Azar, 30018 West Chicago, Livonia?

"Ace" Azar has for the past twenty years been serving his apprenticeship for such a Hollywood break. His many community theater roles in musical comedy, straight drama, and hilarious melodrama have proven the versatility of this local thespian. Every performance as done by Ace was as professional and polished as any seen on the Hollywood screen.

Last week Ace jetted out to see his second cousin Danny Thomas. Years ago Danny Thomas lived with the Azar family. Ace's Dad treated Amos Jacobs as one of the family while Danny Thomas was getting his start in show business.

Showing Danny Thomas all his show business productions convinced the producer of such TV favorites as "Gomer Pyle" and "The Joey Bishop Show" that his long-lost Detroit cousin should have a few doors opened. Ace and Danny spent the better part of a day together reminiscing and planning his new career.

When Ace asked who he should contact in Hollywood for his agent, Danny countered with "Ace, let me handle you." What better agent could any person have!

Danny Thomas invited Ace to have lunch with Meridith Wilson and Dick VanDyke at the studio commissary. Ace reports that Danny showed Meridith some of his clippings from the local papers and indicated he was in the process of becoming Ace's agent.

Rumors have been flying faster than the speed of the jet that brought Arthur Azar back home to Livonia this week. Many folks already have him signed to a long term Hollywood contract at $800 a week. Others say "Ace" has already filmed a pilot TV program and the sponsors have rejected it.

The truth is that Ace is waiting for the telephone for Danny to call him back. In an exclusive interview with the Observer Azar has indicated that no action will be taken on his new Hollywood career until the end of May. Right now all the TV films have finished for this season and will not start operation until the middle of May.

TIP TO MOTORISTS
 Don't expect the government to reduce highway traffic accidents—it's up to you.

DASHING AND GALLANT most aptly describes Earl Harrison, who portrays Gaston in the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford production of "GIGI." Above he greets Madame Alvarez (portrayed by Louise Martin) in the continental manner. The comedy will be presented at the Redford Union Auditorium this weekend. Tickets may be obtained at Dunn's Pharmacy or by calling 422-8339 or KE 7-8109.

CURTAIN GOING UP
 By WALLY ROBERTS

Three hundred years ago (1665) the first English newspaper, The London Gazette, appeared and the newspaper industry began. In 1833, The New York Sun as the first paper to be sold for one penny opened the way for mass circulation of newspapers.

All these communication events of importance may well be pushed into the background for the true star or top performer wasn't to appear on stage until Feb. 28, 1940. The Livonia took center stage on that auspicious date and has held the rank of number one attraction in this area ever since.

Old Wally has been associated with the Observer chain for the past nine years. Over 400 columns and thousands of plays have been reviewed. On this silver anniversary date I am looking forward to sharing the golden anniversary of a newspaper that reflects the heartbeat of Western Wayne county. A couple of weeks ago old Wally attended the premiere of "Oedipus Rex" and "The Ridiculous Young Ladies", a double bill at the Hilberry Classic Theater. Space was at a premium — as it always is — and so we are catching up now.

Does modern man have to accept the vengeful nature of an unjust God? Do we bow our hapless heads and submit unwillingly to all catastrophes merely mumbling that this must be the will of God? Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex" as presented at the Hilberry Classic Theater poses these questions and answers them decisively and dramatically. King Oedipus becomes involved in a sorry state of affairs before the play gets to the mid-way point. In fact, as the show opens we find the city in great disfavor with the gods — a famine and plague has descended on Thebes.

"Oedipus" has been rated as one of the greatest of all Greek tragedies. As such most directors approach its revival with a sense of awe and reverence. Director Richard Spear is to be commended for his sensitive handling of so noble work from our theatrical heritage. His movement patterns for the chorus add new vitality and meaning to a usually staid, immobile group of actors.

The staging of "Oedipus" was brilliant and rose to a crashing crescendo as the blinded King is led off at the finale. Old Wally could carp at only one minor point: the length of the piece. The total impact might have been more forcefully had Spears cut the script to an hour's playing time, especially since another play was on the program.

James Barton Hill does a superb job as King Oedipus. His final scene with two of his children touches you and you truly feel the smallness of man as he tries to rise against the inexorable push of divine forces. K. Lyle O'Dell's short messenger scene has a masterful touch. It's a short, taut bit of powerful exposition.

The second half of the bill contains "The Ridiculous Young Ladies" which represents the Golden Age of France in the Hilberry Classic theater's design to present dramas from all the great periods of the world's theater. Moliere wrote this long one-act play in 1659 to poke fun at the absurd artificiality and the extent to which folks would go to gain social status. Three hundred years later most of Moliere's sly digs are as penetrating.

The Classic theater repertory company favors grandly doing this lighthearted bit of satiric fluff. Too often though some of the nonsense carried on too long and so much of the point was lost. Robert Fusillo's costumes for this Moliere romp were breathtaking and deserved a separate round of applause. John Criner, usually at home on a comic role, seemed a bit lost and didn't carry off the part of Jodelet as might have been expected. His wife, Pat, put real bounce and galey in her role as Marotte, a zany maid. John more than made up for the deficiency in this wild potboiler by doing a superb job as the Shepherd of Laïus.

A complete evening of Moliere or a solid evening of Sophocles might have made more sense. Combining these two great periods in theatrical history tended to pit one against the other. However, Old Wally enjoyed both presentations. "Oedipus" would still get my nod as the evening's more satisfying production. Wonder how it would be if the Moliere play were put on first as a curtain raiser? Might be worth a try.

RU Students Cast and Direct Own Production of Comedy

Student members of Redford Union High School's players group, The Thespians, proved their ability beyond the shadow of a doubt this past week, when they presented the one-act comedy, "They Put on a Play," as the first part of the Thespian-Faculty "A Grand Night of Comedy."

Under the direction of senior Judy Littleton, and with Russ Neal as assistant director, the students cast, rehearsed, and presented their very successful comedy. Capacity audiences filled the RU auditorium both Thursday and Saturday evenings to see the student production and the faculty melodrama which followed. Performing in the student production were Lynda Crichton, Skip Kruse, Mandy Northrup, Kathy McCurry, Terri Sue Crabtree, Larry Blum, Dianne Sucharski, Don Scarborough, Tim Kelly, and Pete Yori.

Mr. Robert Gregory, RU dramatics coach and sponsor of the Thespians, wasn't even able to witness the success of his students—he was "on stage" as one of the actors in the Dearborn Players production of "You Can't Take It With You" during the past week!

Wayne State University is leading eight other Presidents' Athletic Conference schools in the All-Sports trophy race with 18 points. Bethany and Eastern Michigan are second with 15.

Double Bill at Varsity Not for Fainthearted

BY ALLEN ROSENFELD

If movies are a form of diversion or escapism for you pass up the current bill at the Cinema Varsity, Livernois and McNichols Rd.

But if you are given to deep thinking about the eternal verities of life; or if you are concerned about the film as an art form; an important experience awaits you at the Varsity.

Both film—"Black Orpheus" and "The Seventh Seal"—rank among the movie masterpieces of this generation. But, while both have marvelous action and comedy breaks, the qualities are beside the point.

"Black Orpheus" is a revival of the ancient Greek drama of Orpheus and his ill-fated lover Euridyce—up-dated into a Brazilian Negroes tragedy. It won the Cannes Film Festival Award the first time around.

"The Seventh Seal" is regarded by many critics as the greatest of the films of Ingmar Bergman. It is a brooding account of a doomed knight's travels through plague ridden Sweden in the 14th century. The knight carries on a chess game with Death. He remains alive only as long as he is able to check mate the Grim Reaper.

Life, Death, God, Man, and Love all get a thorough examination in these films. They run through Thursday.

The instrumental program is under the direction of Mr. Donald Ross, Band Instructor, and Michael Endres, String Instruments teacher. The band will play Melody March, Western Medley, Aloha Oe, Skaters Waltz, and When The Saints Go Marching In. The string ensemble will give their rendition of Theme and Variations, Grand Father's Clock and Hymn to Diana.

Livonian Cast

KALAMAZOO — William Lawrence of Livonia has a role in Kalamazoo College's forthcoming production of "Androcles and the Lion." The play will be presented Feb. 25-27 by the Theatre Arts Department of the College in the Dalton Theatre of the Light Fine Arts Building. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Lawrence, a senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Lawrence, 14336 Brentwood, Livonia.

OPENING MARCH 3 in an exclusive first run showing at the Terrace Theatre is the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film "36 Hours." Nurse Eva Marie Saint stands by in the above scene as Rod Taylor makes certain that James Garner is unconscious. The story casts Garner as an American Intelligence Officer who is captured by the Nazis. An "aging" experiment is performed on him in an attempt to gain information about the Normandy invasion. "Wyoming Snapshot" will also appear on the bill.

Of course, he gave her the money he got for the things he sold. So, it's no wonder she thinks he's the smartest husband in town. Articles that were just "gathering dust" are gone — and instead, she has the cash that means she can have some of the new things she's been wanting . . . And, fast-action Classified Ads will work the same profitable way for you, too. Here's all you do.

Take a careful look around your home. Make a list of the worthwhile things you find that aren't being used or enjoyed by your family anymore. Things like musical instruments, cameras, power tools, sports equipment, childrens' outgrown furniture, clothing, toys, appliances, rugs, drapes and much more are being sold through far-reaching Observer Classified Ads everyday.

When you have your list, just dial GA 2-0900 for the courteous Ad Writer who's waiting to help you. That's all there is to it. Soon, instead of the clutter of things you didn't use anyway, you have the extra cash that lets you and the family you love have more and do more.

Easy? You bet! And, Classified Ads are inexpensive too. A 15 word ad in all four papers is just $2.00 . . . So why wait? Get your money-making Observer Classified Ads started right away. You'll be soooo glad you did.

America, by the very nature of its inspired Constitution was, is, and must be a continuing, successful proof of the essential God-given dignity of man.

And this proof begins with each of us, particularly in our culture-sheltered suburban areas, to see beyond the racial, ethnic and cultural distinctions which we, so often, in ignorance, assume to be the total personality of men, to the inner being whose aims and ambitions to achieve their ultimate end must be nurtured in the same atmosphere of intellectual and economic freedom.

These differences will always be with us but they dissolve into the insignificance they de-
