

Taxi service rapped

Taxi service in Plymouth, or the lack of it, came before the City commission Monday night, and the Commissioners agreed to table the issuance of new license pending an investigation.

Several Commissioners reported they had at one time or another received complaints about taxi service in Plymouth. Mayor James Houk said he had received four in recent weeks.

Commissioner Arch Vallier asked if something couldn't be done to guarantee better service. He sought to issue the licenses with the stipulation that a certain standard of service would be required.

City Attorney Edward Draueglis wasn't sure this could be done and asked for time to study the matter.

The Commissioners reported of people complaining about taxi service, calling for one, and being told it would be there in ten minutes. Many times they never came, according to the Commissioners.

In general discussion it was asked if the licenses could stipulate certain number of cabs in peak hours.

Commissioner James McKeon sought to grant licenses for only those cabs that would be used in the City.

IN THE PAST, the Checker Cab of Livonia, Inc., had acquired eight licenses. Vallier noted that they had paid for eight licenses to "keep the other guy out" but never had put that many cabs into Plymouth.

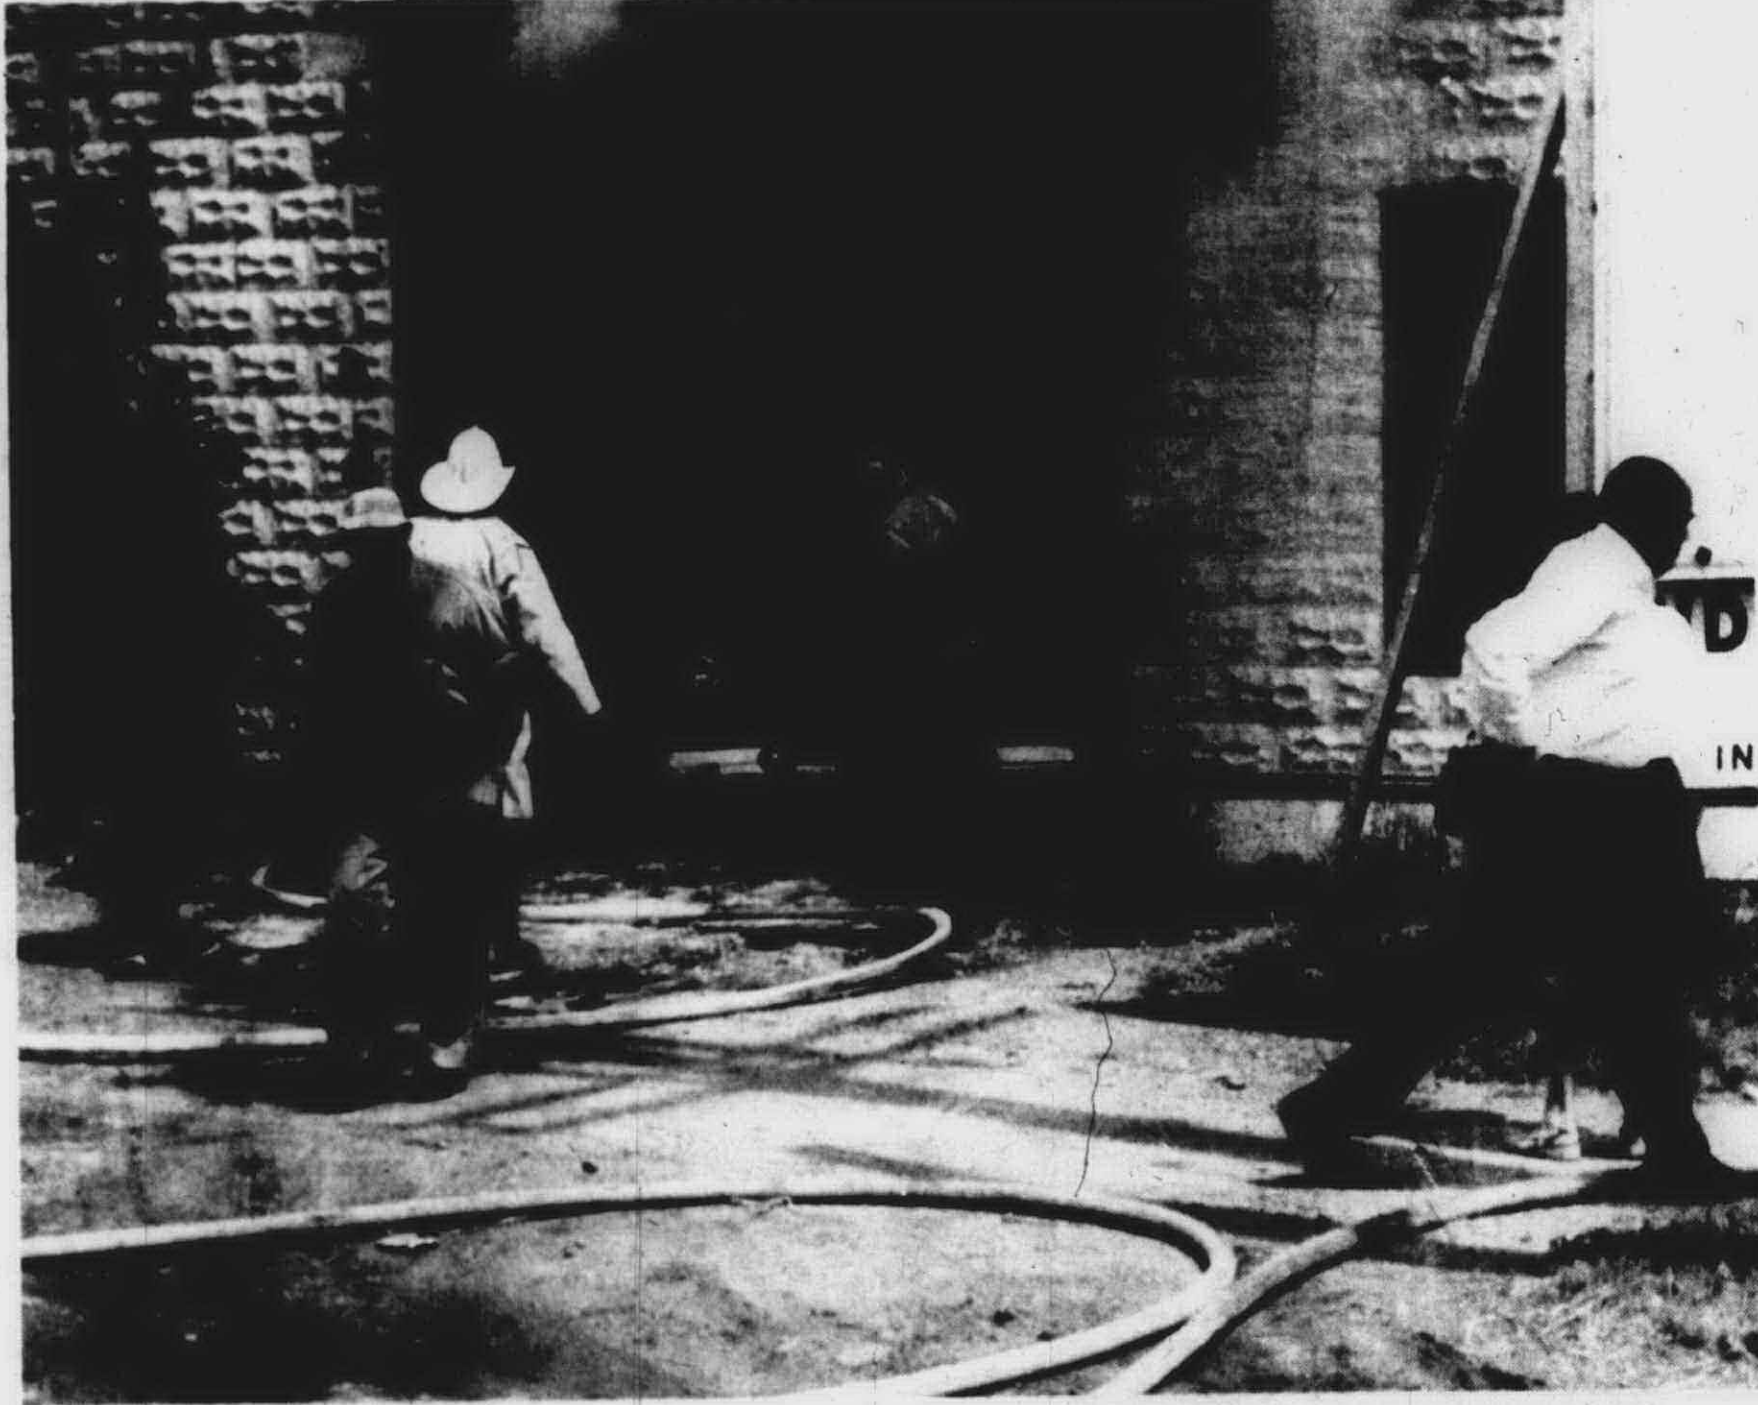

Houk said: "We should see if the license can guarantee some service. I have had numerous complaints. People have waited and waited and missed a doctor's appointment."

In other action, the City agreed to pave Maple St. between Harvey and McKinley. In doing so they overrode the written petition of 18 of the landowners on the stretch of street. It was noted after the meeting that the signatures did not represent the majority of the footage owned on the street.

Vallier had questioned why this street and not the adjacent Wing street was being paved. In the discussion it came out that Maple had curb and gutter, Wing did not.

Vallier wasn't satisfied and voted 'no' on the Maple Street project. In other action acting City manager Kenneth Fischer announced an administrative shuffle, naming treasurer Kenneth Fischer financial officer. This places the entire accounting staff under Way, and includes City clerk Richard Schafer.

It means that Way, is re-

GASOLINE IGNITED inches from a man welding in Ossie's Welding Shop on the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Mill Street Tuesday morning; no one was hurt. The building was gutted and smoke and water damage was extensive. The worker involved was welding underneath the car shown in the center of the picture. His welding arc hit the gas tank by accident. The fire spread rapidly, although there was no explosion. The roof and interior structuring were badly burned. Witnesses across the street said they looked in the open door of the garage and all of a sudden saw the car engulfed in flames.

Starkweather Y to sponsor grad party

Plymouth will have a visitor from the northernmost city on the globe, Hammerfest, Norway, in town this week as the guest of Karl Starkweather.

Anton Eide, the mayor of Hammerfest, will arrive at Metropolitan Airport June 11 around noon from Kansas City.

Starkweather was not sure of definite plans for the guest as the Mail went to press but said he thought they would tour Detroit. He also said Mayor James Houk had invited him to Kiwanis, and that Rev. Henry Walsh had invited him to Rotary.

He also will be the guest of the 40th anniversary of the Norwegian Club on Saturday the 12th in Detroit.

Starkweather, who is a member of the People-To-People movement (L. P. Cookingham, former City manager is an executive director) arranged the visit. Starkweather also hopes to take Eide to the Norwegian Consulate, William H. Caswell, in the Donovan Building in Detroit. He noted that none of the plans for the guest are final, and that he will only be here for two or three days.

An all-night graduation party, sponsored by the YMCA, will entertain PHS seniors June 17 beginning at 10 p.m. in the Ann Arbor Y building.

The party will last until sunrise. All the Y facilities will be available including the pool, the gym, ping pong tables and bumper pool tables.

A record dance will be held, and PHS amateur talent will be on hand, including Bob Davidson, Linda Hill, Jack Dean, Pat Turentine and others. Light refreshments will be available during the entire evening, and a dinner is planned for after midnight.

Miss Plymouth candidates still needed

The JayCees announced their plans for the annual Fourth of July festivities this week and issued a plea for more Miss Plymouth candidates.

One of the highlights of the Independence celebrations in Plymouth is the July 2 crowning of Miss Plymouth.

Contest director Staton Lorenz said Monday that more entrants and sponsors were needed.

He noted that the winner of the contest will win a $400 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Last year's Miss Plymouth, Krisan Fluckey, will be the first young lady to be sponsored by the JayCees for the Miss Michigan contest. She has been working at the U of M and intends to return to Western Michigan University this fall.

The scholarship represents a first for the community, and is being provided by the Chamber of Commerce and the JayCees.

The rules for entrants are, briefly:

- Entrants must be single, never married or divorced.
 - Entrant must be a high school graduate by September of this year, and

Graduation rites begin Sunday

Baccalaureate, the traditional religious service for PHS graduates, will be held Sunday, June 13, in the high school gymnasium at 8 p.m. The service precedes the Commencement activities on June 17.

The Baccalaureate service will begin with Prelude, Fred (Continued on Page 2)

Cost for the party is 50 cents per person; Seniors may bring one date.

The party is being arranged by Gregory Dean and Reverend Hugh White, and according to them is a plan to allow the kids to let off steam wholesomely.

Parents are needed as chaperones and to help with the food.

The event is patterned after the one held last year at which about 165 were present; this year Y officials expect nearly 300.

The graduates are not locked in, but cannot return after they have left the party.

According to Mrs. Eugene Crosby, a bus will be provided if enough students don't have transportation to Ann Arbor.

The Ann Arbor YMCA building is at 350 S. Fifth Ave.

Anyone interested is urged to report to the information desk at Plymouth High School.

Out of frying pan

It was out of the frying pan into the fire for John Close, 14576 Shadywood last Thursday afternoon, according to Township firemen.

His wife had just returned from the hospital. Close offered to fry some chicken for his wife. He greased up a pan and put it on the stove.

The grease went 'woosh' and soon the cupboards, joists and rafters near the stove were ablaze. The fire had ignited the stove vent.

Firemen who doused the midafternoon blaze said there was extensive smoke damage.

Skimpy crowd hears school candidates

Four school board candidates spoke to a handful of less than 30 voters Tuesday night at Farrand elementary school and, in a question and answer session, discussed pay-as-you-go financing.

The program was sponsored by a group of Lake Pointe parents, and was the only time all four candidates appeared before the public in one group.

The four hopefuls are running for the position created by the soon-to-expire term of Robert Utter. Voters will go to the polls June 14 for the election, and to vote for at-large candidates for trustee of Schoolcraft College.

The Plymouth candidates are incumbent Utter, Robert Jenkins, Mrs. Harland Smith and Roger Smithling. Schoolcraft trustee-at-large candidates are Sam Hudson and Mrs. Rosina Raymond of Livonia.

The sparsely attended meeting was moderated by Alex Howell of 41001 Greenbrook Ln. Here are some of the candidates' comments:

Mrs. Dorothy Smith praised the change she had seen since last year's election:

"When I ran last year I ran because even the incumbents seemed reluctant to run. This has been a pleasant change." She noted that only 900 out of 10,000 voters expressed their opinion at last year's election.

"BUT EVEN a group of this size can do a great deal," she said. She noted that she had been a member of the school finance committee last year and took part in the discussions and decisions. She urged each individual to come to school board meetings, and questioned the privilege of criticizing for those who failed to vote.

Roger Smithling pointed to his eight years at a teacher in Plymouth Community school and his active-participation in school affairs as qualifications for his election. Smithling expressed concern over the quality of the present school board and said:

"We have better qualified people than those we have experienced in the past." Later he said, "It is amazing how little concern is shown for the children."

Incumbent Utter commented on the changes during his four year tenure on the board, and praised the "climate of believability, the climate of faith" that was present. He said he felt the board had risen above the millage defeat a few years back, and the "bitter" fight over teachers' salaries.

"The last millage passed because people had faith and it had no active opposition," Utter commented.

Robert Jenkins, a Ford Motor Co. executive, presented his views via slides, screen and projector. He called for an advisory committee and said:

"IF I WERE elected I would institute immediate action regarding a new high school, be developing preliminary planning premises, and lay the foundation for community awareness, participation and support."

He also said he would establish a "program for progress," an immediate study of needs of the school system, both present and future. He rapped the present school board for failing to keep the community informed on educational needs, and said:

"There is a gathering storm of building," and that

City pow-wows with planners

The City commission moved towards a closer relationship with the City planning commission and planning consultants last Wednesday, as several of the City commissioners expressed concern over what the City was getting for its money.

It was the first of a series of regular quarterly meetings scheduled with the planning commission and the planners, Velican and Leman.

The meeting grew out of disgruntlement Commissioner Arch Vallier had expressed over the last two months with the way some of the money budgeted for planning was being spent.

At the Wednesday night meeting Commissioner Robert Smith said:

"I have been concerned with the results of the amount of dollars we've been putting into planning. Whether I haven't been looking or the planning commission has been negligent I'm not sure. Personally, I haven't seen the kinds of things that should be coming from the program."

The program Smith referred to is the 701 master planning program, a plan set up by a 1954 Federal housing act that established an urban renewal program, to be administered by the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Under the program the City pays about a third of the cost of planning; the program is administered by the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion.

AT WEDNESDAY'S meeting Commissioner George Lawton noted that the meeting was not a blanket indictment of the planners, but that it had grown out of individual opinions on a matter the com-

Canton twister rips roof in half, pair escape injury

Ivan and Mary Collins of 51500 Ford Rd. are considering themselves lucky this week after escaping injury from a small tornado that ripped the roof off of their business establishment Sunday evening.

The twister gave no advance warning; no warnings were announced by the U.S. weather bureau for the Detroit area.

The twister tore about half of the roof off of their nursery building; Ivan Miller was in it at the time.

The wind lifted the roof off, and left the plasterboard to fall. The clock stopped at 4:31 p.m.

Miller was at his desk as the plaster board fell, hitting him on the head and shoulders.

He was not hurt. "There was wind and hail stones the size of hens' eggs hitting the windows. It happened in a few seconds. I expected both windows to break."

"There was no warning, no creaking, nothing broke... just a bang. The next thing I knew the rain was hitting me in the head."

MILLER described the noise of the roof and tornado meeting as like a "slight explosion."

"The sheet rock fell in one big sheet," Miller added.

His wife had left the building, Mary's Nursery, and had driven towards the house when it hit.

"All I was doing was sitting and praying. I saw the funnel go by the garage. Another five feet and I would've had a free ride."

The twister pulled nails out of the boards, and ripped the top of the building in half. The roof carried a few feet and landed upside down in back of the building.

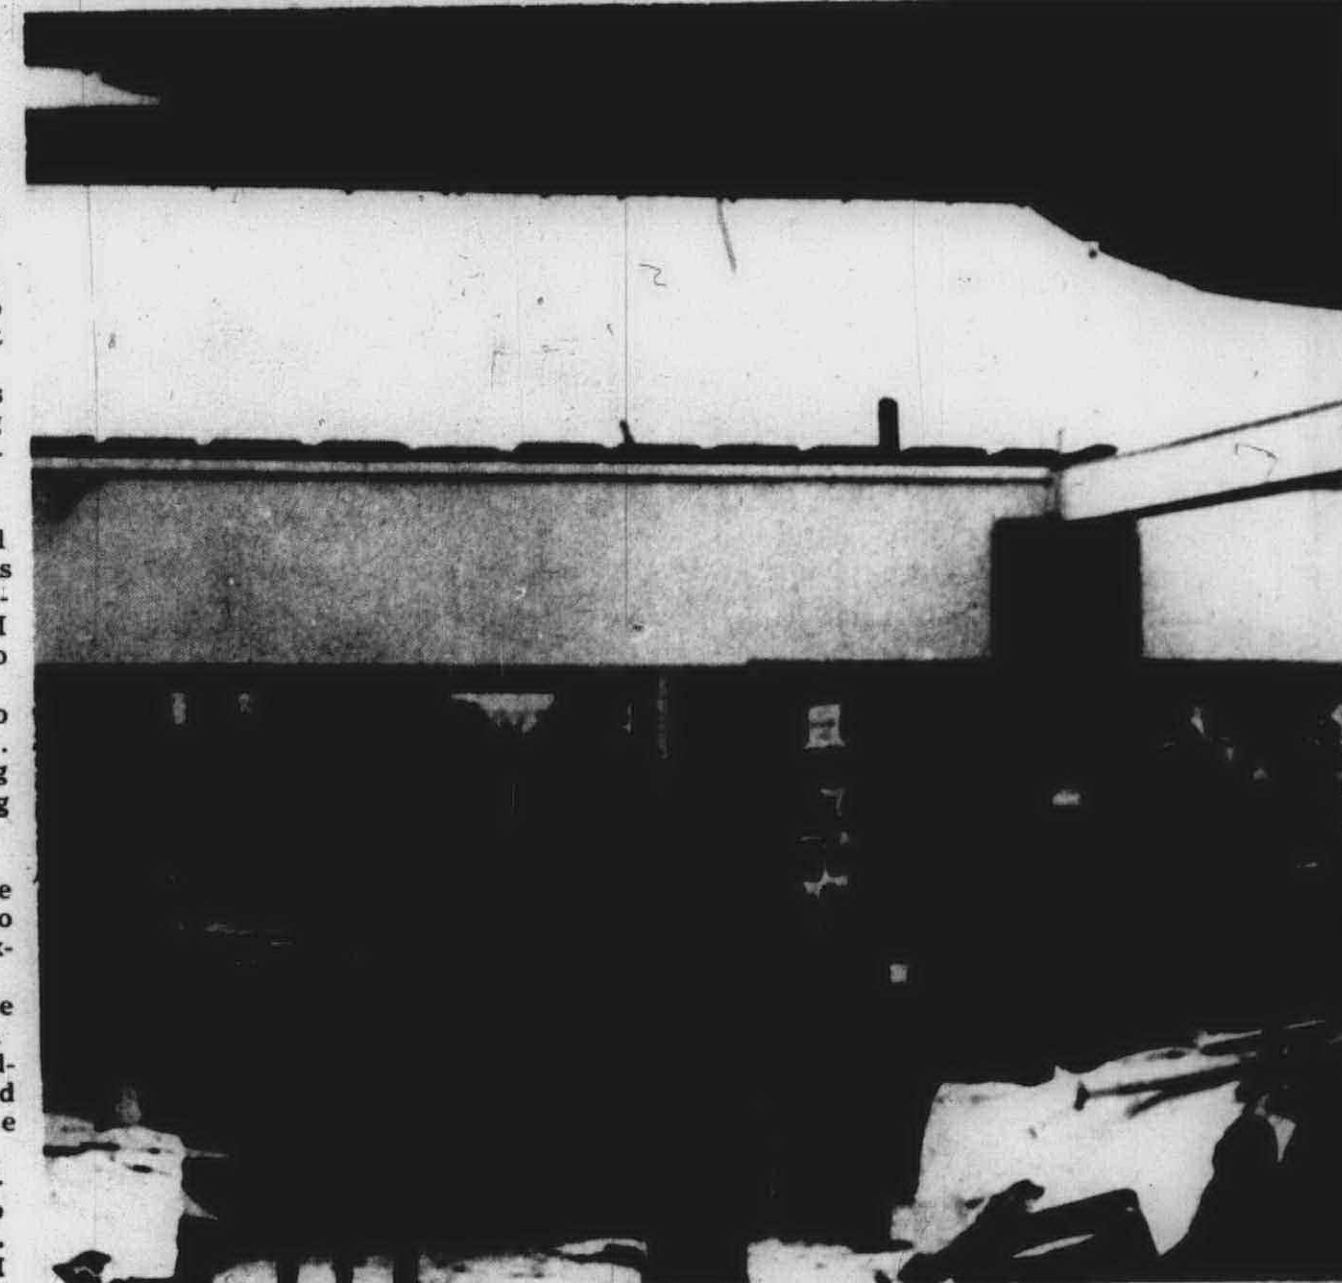

No windows were broken, and much of the damage was confined to the roof area. The wind pulled the heads off of some tomato plants near the nursery but didn't touch plants and trees inches away from the building.

Several tall trees in the area were reported damaged by wind, and many windows in hothouses down the road were shattered.

A MOTORIST driving along the road saw the roof lift off and veered into the ditch to avoid injury. The roof went the other way, however.

Miller scrambled out of the wreckage and helped the man out of the ditch with his truck. He was shaken, Miller

A TORNADO Funnel was spotted in Canton Township two miles south of Plymouth Sunday evening. It touched down at one point, Mary's Nursery, 41500 Ford Rd.  responsible for the business of running the finances of the City.

The City commission sidled discussion on the widening of Main St. from the Mayflower Hotel to Burroughs. They received and filed a petition with 15 signatures on it opposing the widening of the street, especially at home owners expense.

The City also agreed to give consideration to a request from the First United Presbyterian Church for the use of the land where the water tower stands. Superintendent of Public Work Joseph Bida said it would be down by September.

The church wants it for parking.

City's funds in government securities. The action came after commissioner Arch Vallier had sought to get more use out of some of the City's funds. The change arranged by Draugelis will result in considerable savings for the City.

The Commission heard from David Agnew, tenant in the building near the walkway from Main St. down to the central parking lot. Agnew, in a letter, asked for a one-year lease and told the Commission he had plans to remodel.

The Commission moved to hold up the request until a study is made of the walkway.

A Chamber of Commerce request for removal of the City-owned store and a beautification of the walkway has been made and is to be studied.

Specifications for oil and gasoline will be more strict after Monday's meeting. The Commission agreed to set up specifications to be sure that each bidder on the City's gas and oil contract knew what the city requires.

In final action the Commission approved:

- Appointment to Building Board of Appeals. Charles Cash, builder.
- Appointment to Board of Hearing Examiners, term to expire June 30, 1966; William T. Birge, Howard Dunlap, Richard Erdelyi and Kenneth Fisher.)
- Appointment to Building Board of Appeals. Robert Gilles.
- Appointments to Plymouth Police Youth Club, term to expire June 30, 1966. Kenneth Fisher, Ernest Henry, Roland Lutz, John Olendorf, Clifford Smith, Marvin Terry and Geore Lawton.

said, but not hurt. His name was not available.

Mrs. Joseph Berger, a few hundred feet east, said she didn't see it and said:

"I was back in our family room sitting tight. I don't know how long it lasted."

Earlier she had said to her husband:

"I wonder if that's a tornado?"

The Millers had no estimate of the damage pending a survey by their insurance company. Conservative estimates placed the cost of the roof alone at between three and four thousand dollars.

The twister struck less than two miles from the highly populated areas of The Plymouth Community.

Pow-wow

mission had never taken final action, beyond setting up the meeting.

Commissioner Arch Vallier said he wanted to have planning more "businesslike."

Lawton also brought forth a list of six things he felt needed attention by the planners:

- The widening of Harvey St. between Ann Arbor Trail and Penniman.
- The feasibility of another urban renewal project on a soon-to-be-vacated piece of land in the downtown area.
- The use of existing City land.
- The CBD plan and the existing traffic flow downtown.
- The acquisition of more land for industry, without annexation.
- A way to increase the quality of the multiple dwellings.

Jay Eldridge and Charles Leman of the Velican and Leman firm were present at the meeting and explained that all the things on Lawton's list were in fact being worked on.

Eldridge also noted: "This City has reached what many, many suburbs have a long time to reach. The problem is to renew yourself."

The Commission reviewed the planning contract to date. Vallier also pushed for an estimate of the new tax revenue to be received from the urban renewal project.

MAYOR JAMES HOUK noted:

"The City has learned some painful lessons over there and has sadly missed what we had started out to do."

Later in the meeting Lawton noted that the Bathey plant alone had created a $45,000 tax base, producing well over what tax monies had come out of the area before urban renewal.

A member of the planning commission, George Bower, expressed some misgivings about the City's questioning the planners:

"I am ashamed to be connected with the City on this particular item. They have acted childishly. No business concern is going to take this batting back and forth."

Sidney Strong, chairman of the City planning commission, said that there had always been "good understanding and relationships" with the planners.

In other action at the special meeting, the Commission questioned the planning consultants about the new zoning ordinance, which is the backbone of the new 701 plan, and were told that it would be ready by July 1.

Lawton also sought to set up better communications between City planning consultants and those from neighboring governmental units.

Leman noted: "The communication has been hit or miss. It could be more formalized."

LAWTON SAID he feared some of the individual plans might make moves that were not for the overall good of the entire community, and noted that there was a duplication of civic auditoriums, for instance, in two Plymouth Community master plans.

Commissioner George Hudson urged completion of present programs, to get out of the "state of limbo."

Vallier also continued to press for an exact accounting of what the contracts called for, and urged that some of the items be reconsidered, particularly a $2,000 allotment for an opinion survey.

Commissioner James Jabara called for another study of the overpass problem, but got little response to his comments.

The next quarterly meeting was tentatively set for September 15.

"the school board will find too many classrooms to build at the end of its money."

He presented charts and documented what he called a "six-room classroom deficiency by 1967," and as many as 140 by 1970. Much of the discussion centered on the school's financing methods.

Jenkins said the much talked about pay-as-you-go system has failed to keep pace with educational needs and said: "There will be a serious revenue gap in 1968. We are going to have financial problems."

When asked about the schools' financing method, Utter said:

• Entrant must possess and display a three minute talent presentation.

• Entrant must possess good character, personality and beauty of face and figure.

Sponsors of Miss Plymouth candidates receive their name in a program, a photo of the candidate and abundant use of the sponsor's name in publicity for the contest.

The July 2 contest will have Marty McNealy as m.c., and Lee Allen of WXYZ as disc jockey at a dance afterwards.

ON THE FOURTH, the parade will feature bands, floats, clowns and free candy for the kids.

An all-star air-show will cap the afternoon, beginning at 3 p.m., and the annual fireworks display will begin at 8:30.

The parade, which kicks off at 1 p.m. is still in need of bands.

Letters of invitation have been sent to Governor George Romney, Phil Hart, and Pat McNamara.

The theme of this year's parade is the "Good Old Days."

In Michigan, after a day's fishing beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport—on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport—bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening—a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment.

Farrand parents display rare interest

Parents and concerned citizens should take careful note of Lake Pointe parents and their interest in school affairs.

The parents of Farrand School children have, in recent months, been the midst of several controversies. Farrand parents have complained long and loud about several things, and have done much to arouse public interest in the schools.

They complained in late February about overcrowded conditions in Farrand elementary school; if nothing else they made it extremely plain that they didn't want it to happen again.

They also voted in strong numbers, and in the Lake Pointe precinct the March operating millage issue passed by its biggest margin - 448-207.

Once again this week they have taken the initiative in a school matter — not to complain, but to explain.

The Farrand parents organized a candidates' night for the school board candidates.

No other parents' group, or PTA, or club or just plain individual has shown such an interest.

The candidates night was held last night, Tuesday, at the Farrand school.

The parents involved asked all local PTA's to participate, and all schools concerned to send notes home with the children.

The result was, to say the least, disappointing.

One school said they weren't sending notes home until next week, and couldn't send this one asking parents to attend a candidates night.

We don't know what the excuse is, but we suspect there is no good one.

In an era when voter apathy at an election has become a national crime of sorts, we think this display of unwillingness to cooperate deserves a sound public cry of displeasure.

The parents in Farrand also report the PTA's were luke-warm to the idea. What is more important for a PTA than to meet and hear school board candidates? Surely this is more significant than tea and biscuits and a discussion on the social studies curriculum.

Less than 2200 people voted at the millage election. This must concern us all, and it is more than just getting out the vote. It is getting out all the opinions.

And no one can do it without total community co-operation.

The multi-purpose room should've been jammed last night.

It wasn't.

All the PTA's should have endorsed the Farrand effort, and sent representatives.

They didn't.

All the schools should have sent a brief note home with each child inviting parents to the meeting.

They didn't.

The Farrand parents should be concerned about all school issues, and particularly about the people who will run the schools.

Apparently they are, to the shame of every person not at the meeting.

The Grim Pilgrim
By DAVE WILEY

The melting pot.

Old sidekick and I took off the other evening to track down a James Bond movie "pitcher" and, in the course of shunting from one nickelodeon to another in search of a seat, we ended up in a line behind a group of teens who were of Oriental ethnic stock—Chinese to be exact.

They were talking, and as an inveterate eavesdropper, I was listening.

"We ran outa gas," said one, "on our vacation. And these cars, they just kept going by. You know, nobody even stopped."

"Yeah," said another, "Americans are so, you know, apathetic. They just don't care."

The conversation ranged far and wide, hither and yon, and it became apparent that, regardless of their background, the kids were not Chinese.

They were, in a hackneyed phrase, 100 per cent red-blooded Americans.

"Last week," one of them chimed up, "we went to this Chinese restaurant to eat. It wasn't even Chinese. The hostess was a blond and the waiter was Negro."

"It was too Chinese," a girl interrupted. "Mom talked to the owner."

"And besides," she continued, "they served all that icky Chinese food. Those long skinny things. You know,"

"Yeah," came the reply. "Bean sprouts. Aaack!"

I am a guy who doesn't like to see anyone get the short end of the journalistic stick. In the first place, as a practitioner of the trade, I have a little pride in my calling.

Secondly, it bugs me to see someone take an unjustified swipe at an innocent individual.

Last week, for instance, a newspaper that circulates in this area carried these words:

"The legislators from this area: John Bennett (D), Redford Township; Marvin Stempien (D), Livonia; and Jim Tierney (D), Garden City-Nankin-Plymouth, all voted for it (the legislative pay hike). Frankly we were disappointed in this."

I had noted earlier that Representative Tierney's name was conspicuously absent from a Detroit Free Press editorial published on May 27.

So I called to ask if he, in fact, did vote for the salary increase.

"That's entirely false," Tierney commented. He explained that he was absent from the legislative assembly when the ballots on the measure were cast.

He wasn't in Lansing because the lid had just blown off a plot that was being hatched to kill Tierney and two others. When he returned to the State House of Representatives, Tierney talked to his colleagues.

"I said this is the most cock-eyed and unwarranted thing I've seen," he told me. "With all of the unmet needs of the State, I do not approve."

Tierney said he was "extremely opposed" to the pay increase bill.

Community co-operation defined

Last week, in a brief letter to the Mail, a Mrs. B. Browning sought a definition of community co-operation. We would see co-operation as involving three things:

- (1) A willingness to talk anytime about community unity. Clearly a study could do no harm, and would give many area residents facts they have long been denied.
- (2) A willingness by civic leaders to pay more than mere lip service to the idea that someday the Plymouth Community might be united under one government each time it becomes a hot issue.
- (3) A willingness to do it now. Money can be saved by uniting basic services, and a study of that sort should be started now. Not next year.

People in the Township deserve paved and cared-for streets, adequate police protection and cheaper trash pickup.

We are particularly concerned about the way the Township police department study was dropped after Trustee Dick Lauterbach's special report two months ago. Not one formal word or action has been heard since.

At last week's historical panel discussion before the Kiwanis Club, Lauterbach had noted there had been no public pressure for more police.

Is the Township waiting for riots in the street. They will never happen.

But it is a slur on this rapidly growing community that an injured boy must lay and wait fifteen or twenty minutes as harried Wayne County Sheriff's road patrol cars rush to the scene, while no less than a block away sit the City police, their hands tied.

There is no burgeoning crime wave in the Township, and probably never will be. But two Wayne County Sheriff's cars and an occasional State police car cannot protect all of Northville, Canton and Plymouth township's. Not by the stretch of anyone's imagination.

We would see co-operation as more discussion of ways of saving taxpayers' money, and giving better services to boot.

Canton Township and the City of Plymouth have been outspoken in establishing willingness to discuss the issues, or undertake a study. Such forthrightness is to be commended.

MICHIGAN CHAPTER ARTHRITIS Foundation singled out Plymouthite Sterling Eaton as one of 20 citizens who have been "most helpful over the past years on behalf of the Foundation." H. J. McLaurin of Dearborn, one of the original founders of the chapter and present chairman of the board, presented Eaton with his certificate. Eaton was one of the founders of the chapter.

LETTERS:

Memorial Day brings aid to Canton Township cemetery

Memorial Day, 1965

Dear Editor:

We thank you for the fine coverage that you gave the Kenyon cemetery in a recent issue. If you were to visit it today, I am sure you would not recognize it as being the same place where we met.

Yesterday from North, East, South and West came parents with their children, mowers and tractors, even the township sent in heavy equipment, and removed the ancient rubbish pile, and up-righted all the grave stones that it was possible to up-right. This morning it appears finely manicured; once again a respectable place for those resting there.

Our hats are off to these fine people.

When we observed this high spirited group at work one could hardly believe how a monument with such deep heritage could become the victim of vandals and untidiness. For who could dare trod over so sacred soil?

However, we neighbors know from past experience that the first sunrise after the next full moon, it will have revealed itself again as having been the victim of our "modern" youth. It is on these nights that the breaking of glass, a scream, and the squealing of tires haunts us.

Many of the bodies that were laid to rest in this quiet cemetery were placed here over one hundred years ago. Many of their names are by now, from the passing of time, known only to God.

However, if it were not for them and people like them all over this great land, I would not be writing to you this day. All of them fought disease, and hunger, and the elements in order that they, and the future generations, could enjoy freedom from the anarchy in which many of them had fled. Others gave their lives in a battle to unite our nation from those who sought to divide it.

No matter how much wealth we acquire, or how educated we become we must never forget our heritage. Without their sweat and blood, none of what we have today would be possible.

I wonder what the commander-in-chief of the Union Army, Abraham Lincoln, would say if he could visit the graveside of some of his courageous soldiers, and be able to witness the deterioration society has allowed them to drift into, and in the short span of one hundred years.

I am sure that his famous Gettysburg address would suffer from what he would have to say.

John P. Schroeder
Sincerely,

TIMOTHY J. GRAVES, son of Mrs. Jo A. Graves, Sr. of 346 Auburn St., was commissioned an Air Force second lieutenant and received his bachelor of science degree at graduation ceremonies June 9 at the U.S. Air Force Academy. He will be assigned to Reese Air Force Base, Texas for pilot training. Graves received special recognition at the academy for his academic and military achievement by being named to the superintendent's merit list four times. He graduated from Plymouth High School.

Need courage

Dear Editor:

I want to thank you for the courage that you have shown in your Grim Pilgrim column of May 19.

How we need men and women of great courage who are not afraid to speak their minds regardless of the consequence.

Always speaking in truth that the facts may be known to all men and women. Simple facts which impose their own logic and cannot be denied.

Our Church leaders have had nineteen hundred and sixty-five years to search for the truth and they have failed completely to find it. They have only been interested in saving their own skins and have completely ignored the rest of mankind.

God give us courageous men and women who are not afraid to speak the truth in all boldness. Thank you again.

Sincerely yours,
Robert E. Rowland

Give reception for Pastor Miller

The pastor of Epiphany Lutheran Church, Five Mile Rd., the Rev. John Miller and his family were honored at a farewell reception, June 6, in the Church.

Miller is leaving the Plymouth church to become camp director of Mich-a-lu-ca, the Michigan Synod Camp of the Lutheran Church of America at Fairview.

The church presented a tape recorder to Miller and also presents to Mrs. Miller and the children.

Thanks for coverage

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the Michigan Week coverage provided in the Plymouth Mail.

As you know, virtually every segment of the Plymouth community was voluntarily associated in this year's celebration.

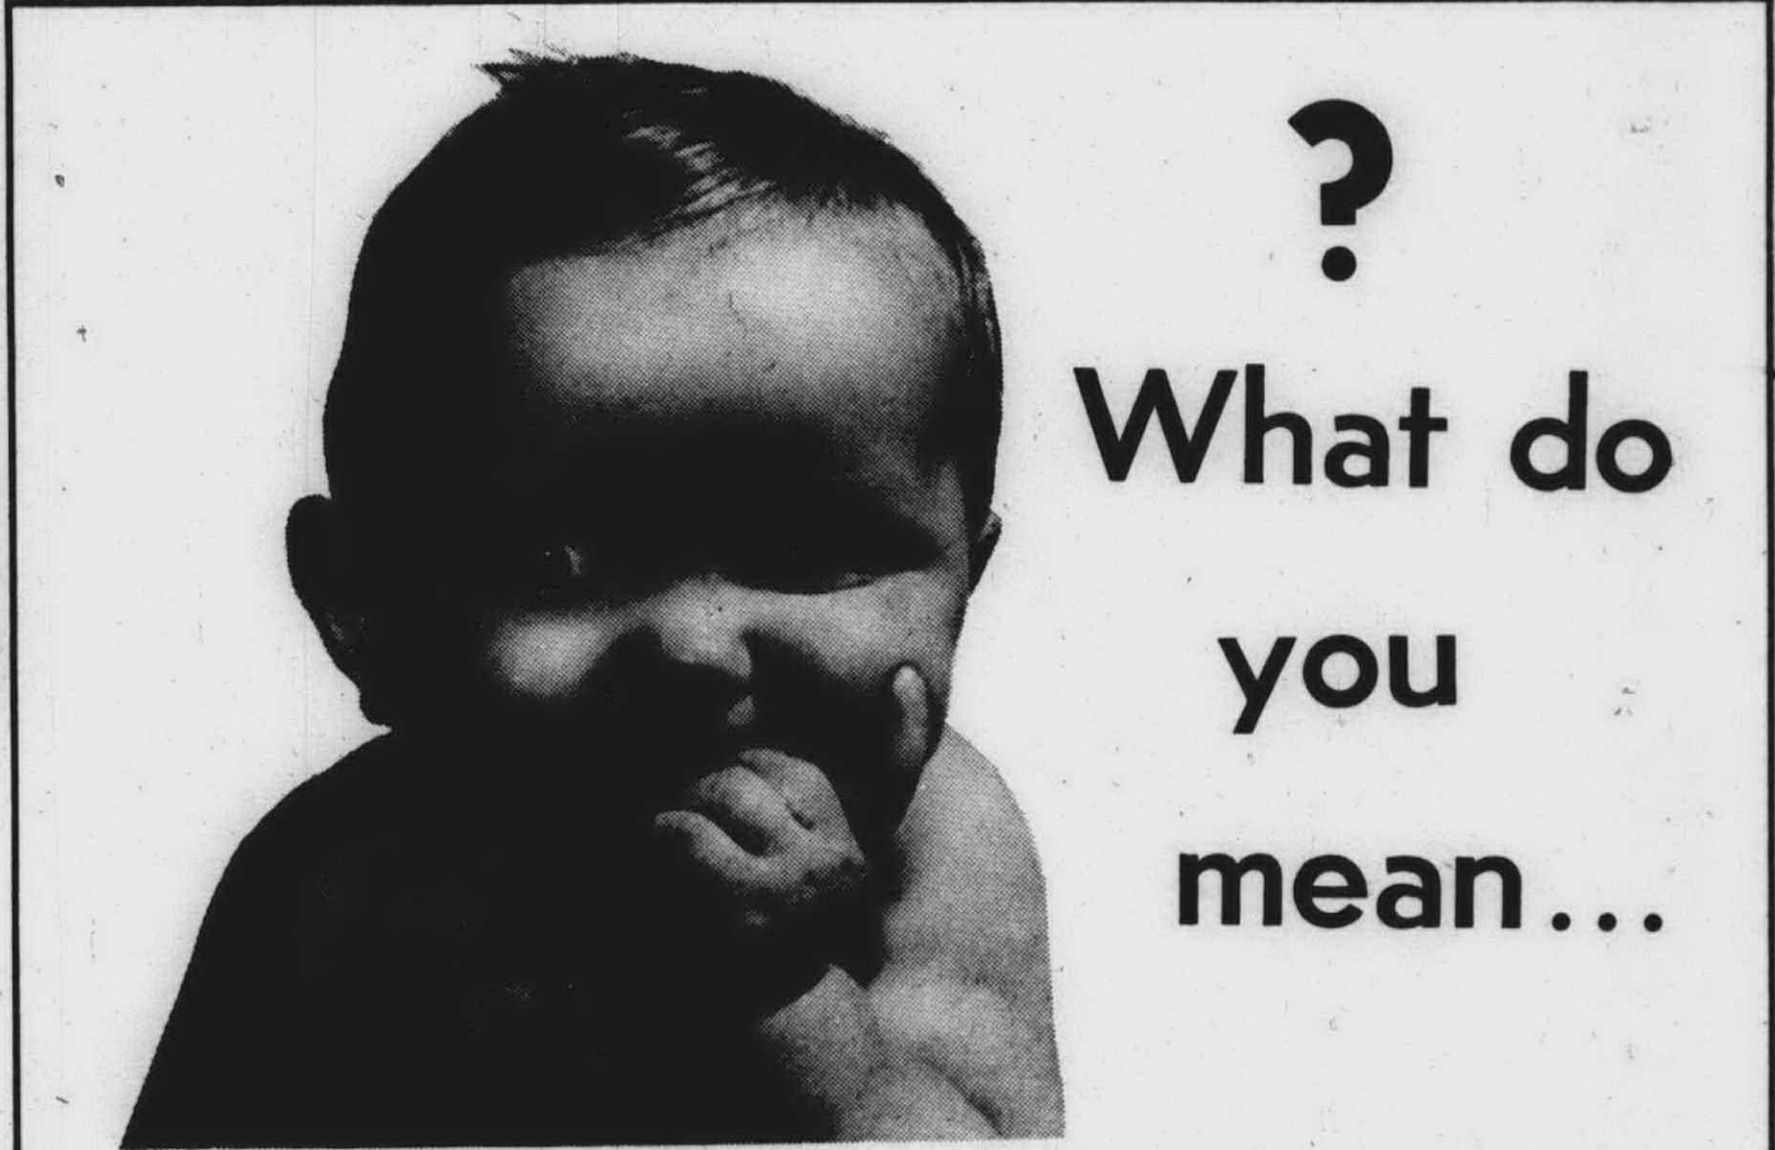

I would publicly like to express my appreciation to the individuals on the Michigan Week committee. Many relative newcomers to the community joined with longer-term residents in hard committee work, which insured the success of the week. Seldom has a chairman been blessed with such outstanding individual help.

Again, thanks for your efforts.

Cordially,
Bill

BOOKMOBILE STOPS

Washtenaw County Library has scheduled summer bookmobile stops at Frains Lake School, Plymouth Rd. and Prospect, on Mondays from 10:30-11:45 a.m. and at Geer School, Plymouth Rd. near Gotfredson, on Mondays from 12-12:45 p.m.

"Where the Plymouth Community Comes First"

Ah, what a perceptive little fellow. He noticed The Plymouth Mail's new catch line.

Well, son, it's really quite simple.

Plymouth is a unique community. It's got something you can't quite put your finger on that's a little bit different. It's identity.

And we think The Plymouth Community is deserving of its own personal newspaper — providing competently written, in-depth news coverage and editorial comment.

You see, Plymouth merits more than being lumped together in part of a faceless blob called the Detroit metropolitan area.

Plymouth is not just any old part of suburbia, whatever that is. Plymouth is much more than another hunk of Western Wayne County.

Plymouth is . . . well, it's Plymouth. And, with us, it comes first.

Mrs. Michael Knapp

Sarah Edison and Michael Knapp wed May 29 in Ohio

Sarah Kimes Edison and Michael Paul Knapp spoke their wedding vows in a double ring, noon ceremony May 29, in St. Wendelin Church, Fostoria, Ohio.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard McEwan Edison of Fostoria. Mr. and Mrs. Sanford L. Knapp of Irvin St., are the bridegroom's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length bell skirted gown of silk faced peau. The sleeveless bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace was topped with a fitted bolero jacket banded in matching lace. Her train was chapel length and her short full veil was held in place with a band of fresh stephanotis.

Gardenias and stephanotis with ivy streamers made up her bouquet.

The bride's sister, Judith Edison, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ann Edison, another sister, Beth Bower of Detroit, Lois Dirke of Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. William Newcomb of Ann Arbor.

The attendants were dressed in floor-length empire styled gowns with light blue skirts and white flower embroidered bodices accented with green velvet bands. They wore headbands of fresh flowers and leaves and carried white baskets filled with blue and white daisies, stephanotis and ivy.

Best man for his brother was Dennis Knapp of Plymouth, Reginald Wagle of Des Plaines, Ill., David Sheldon of Percival, Iowa, and William Prakken of Ann Arbor.

The bride's mother selected a pale green lace suit and matching accessories for the wedding. Mrs. Knapp wore a light bone crepe dress with lace bodice and a pink flowered hat.

A reception at Fostoria Country Club followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Knapp are living in Ann Arbor where he is attending University of Michigan law school.

The bride graduated from the U-M this year and is affiliated with Delta Delta Delta sorority. Her husband, also a U-M graduate, is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

A dream just came true for Ford and Louise Reich...they bought a boat this spring. Ford has been a customer of ours for 35 years and we've some idea how long he's been longing for that boat. Now it's theirs but the pleasure is partly ours. We floated the loan that floated the boat the Reichs had their eye on. If you've been dreaming about that special boat, motor or trailer, come to us for helpful financing or ask your dealer to handle it with us for you. After all, we like making dreams come true.

New books at Dunning-Hough VFW auxiliary

Among the new books at Dunning-Hough library are the following, according to Mrs. Warren Worth, librarian.

"Late Call" by Angus Wilson is a novel in which a woman of 65, widowed and retired, finds the fulfillment she has never had.

"Churchill, the Life Triumphant" is the historical record of 90 years, compiled by American Heritage Magazine and the United Press International.

"Situations" by Jean-Paul Sartre is a collection of highly personal essays on a variety of subjects, including literature, philosophy and music.

"Railways" by Howard Loxton is an illustrated collection showing changes from early horse-drawn railway to the latest for automation.

"Robert Louis Stevenson and the Fiction of Adventure" by Robert Kiely follows the trend of the author's work as he progressed from a writer of children's books to being a serious novelist.

"The Political Plague in America" by George P. Loweke expresses concern over the way the United States conforms to other nations in foreign policy and allows control by politicians instead of citizens.

"The Clown" by Heinrich Boll is a novel of a man who is shown against the background of German society under Hitler and in the post-war period.

"The Mother Tongue" by Lancelot Hogben discusses the origins of our language and the changes which have occurred in it with the passage of time.

"The Churchill Wit" edited by Bill Adler contains many fine examples from Churchill's speeches and writings.

"The Jealous God" by John Braine is a novel set in the north of England about an unworldly young man who expects to fulfill his mother's dream and become a priest, until his whole world is shaken by a controversial love affair.

"What Manner of Man" by Lerone Bennett is a biography of Martin Luther King.

"Bell Call" by Sylvia Ashton-Warner is a novel set in New Zealand in which a mother defies the law and the community for the right to decide when her child is ready for school.

"We Were Five" by James Brough is the story of the Dionne quintuplets.

"A Night of Their Own" by Peter Abrahams tells about an underground movement working against apartheid in South Africa which tries to enlist the sympathies of the Indian minority in Natal in their fight against the government.

At the last men's meeting the following men were elected for the ensuing year: commandr, Bill Cadaret; senior vice commander, Bill Kamen; junior vice commander, Henry (Bob) Smith; chaplain, Everett Salow; quartermaster, Lou Dely; trustees, Jack Olsaver, Joe Merritt and Harvey Jones; post advocate, Hal Young and surgeon, Jerry Olson.

Newest member is Marion Daly.

At the last women's meeting an additional Wayne County Council delegate and alternate were elected. They are Dorothy O'Reilly, delegate, and Mrs. Al Drake, alternate.

Department delegates and alternates were also elected. The delegates are Mrs. Hal Young, Mrs. William Fletcher, Mrs. Duane Johnson, Marion Daly, and Dolly Bouterse. The alternates are Mrs. Charles Skoglund, Mrs. Harvey Jones, Mrs. William Cadaret, Mrs. Jack Olsaver, and Mrs. Harry Krumm.

The annual drawing for two weeks at camp will be held at the next regular meeting of the Mayflower Auxiliary. It is open to girls 9-14 who have never attended. One girl will be chosen to attend and another as alternate. The child's mother must be present at the meeting in order for her daughter to win.

President-elect Mrs. Bill Cadaret, Mrs. Ed Kopsenski and Sally Shaw, daughter of Jim Shaw, all are ill.

Treasures from Plymouth pantries

MIXING the pastry for her Cornish Pasties is Mrs. David Roberts, 14929 Maplewood.

A recipe for Cornish Pasties has been given to Plymouth Pantries by Mrs. David Roberts, 14929 Maplewood.

The Robertses, who live at 14929 Maplewood, have been Plymouth residents for one year. They moved here from Detroit. They have two children Mark, 3½, and Rusty, one.

Mrs. Roberts is a member of Newcomers Club and has joined the knitting group of that organization. She said she likes to work in the yard and is planning to plant a vegetable garden this year.

Although the recipe calls for sirloin steak, Mrs. Roberts explained you can use any kind of steak or ground meat in the pasties.

CORNISH PASTIES (makes four)

- 3 C. sifted flour
 - ¾ C. shortening and lard, mixed
 - ¼ C. water
 - 1¼ lb. sirloin steak, diced
 - 4 medium potatoes
 - 2 medium onions
 - ¼ C. sliced rutabaga
 - salt and pepper
- Sift flour into mixing bowl; add shortening and lard and cut in until coarse crumbs form. Add just enough water to make soft dough, then divide into four parts.
- Roll each part into a circle. Pastry must be tender but also sufficiently thick to hold the heat of the meat and vegetables.
- Combine meat, potatoes, onions and rutabaga. Divide mixture placing a portion of it on one side of each pastry round. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and fold remaining pastry over filling, sealing edges together. Place in pie plates.
- Bake at 375 degrees for 45-50 minutes, reducing the heat during the last 15 minutes to about 350 degrees.

American Legion auxiliary

Passage-Gayde Unit 391 Americanism Chairman Irene Turk announced the winner of our Unit Essay Contest is Dale Bamford, of Junior High East. The winners of the 17th district essay contest are Senior Group, Catherine Begnocki of Ladywood, and Junior Group, Meredith Hart of Northville Junior High School. The two winners will next be judged in the Department contest, which covers the state of Michigan.

Doris Ann Hoelscher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoelscher, was presented by the Post as little Miss Poppa on Sunday in the Northville Memorial Day parade and on Monday in Plymouth Memorial Day parade. She was escorted by the Grand Marshall Commander Gilbert Williams and Auxiliary President Marcella Drake. Doris Ann's dress, a meticulous assembly of more than 2400 poppies, was made in a week of spare moments by her mother, Mrs. Mae Hoelscher, an active member of the Auxiliary and treasurer of the 17th district.

A CAVALRY OFFICER who pities the Indians he must fight is the role taken by Richard Widmark in "Cheyenne Autumn," new John Ford epic which opens today (June 9) at the Plymouth Art Theatre. Widmark stars in the Warner Brothers release with Carroll Baker, Sal Mineo, Dolores Del Rio, Gilbert Roland, Edward G. Robinson, Arthur Kennedy, Ricardo Montalban, Karl Malden and James Stewart.

CELEBRATING THEIR 50th wedding anniversary

June 13 will be Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Danielson of Haggerty Rd. The couple will be honored at an open house at the Masonic Temple from 2-5 p.m. on that day. Their son and his wife Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Danielson and their three children of Ann Arbor, are giving the party. The Danielsons were married June 12, 1915 in Girard, Ohio. They moved to Plymouth 23 years ago from Detroit, and Mr. Danielson was employed by Republic Steel before his retirement. He is a Mason and a member of the Order of Eastern Star.

Household hints from Plymouth homemakers

(Editor's Note: Want to know an easy way to solve a household or garden problem? A real homemaker will voice their tested solutions to various problems in this column each week).

Mrs. James Gilbert, president of the Plymouth branch of the National Farm and Garden Association, suggests running your fingernails over a cake of soap before working in the garden. Before the work under your fingernails prevent dirt from collecting under them, she explained. Her other gardening hints include:

Rubbing gardening tools with petroleum jelly after each use will keep them in good working condition.

Adding one teaspoon of sugar to each quart of water for cut flowers will keep them fresh.

Placing drooping flowers in hot water up to their necks will perk them up. Let them sit in the water for about one hour.

To remove colored candle wax from a damask or linen table cloth, Mrs. Carvel Bentley, 1381 Sheridan Ave., suggests a method she has found successful. First scrape off the wax, then use carbon tetrachloride to remove the color. After the wax has been removed, not before, she said, the cloth may be laundered by your usual method.

Mrs. Russell Maxwell, 9825 Beck Rd., suggests lining the bottom of your baking pans with aluminum foil to reduce the amount of time you have to spend cleaning up after cooking. She added you also can line the bottom of your oven with aluminum foil to make it easier to clean.

Do you know a way to make your housework easier

Move to Saginaw

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall North of Maple Ave., left Plymouth June 8 for their new home in Saginaw. Their daughter, Nancy, a Western Michigan University student, will join them for the summer. Before leaving Plymouth, the Norths were feted at several dinner parties, coffee hours and luncheons.

Sorority Convention

Mrs. Frank West of Amherst Ct., and Mrs. John Hopkins of Roberta St., will attend the Alpha Xi Delta sorority national convention in Houston, Texas, June 28-July 2. Both are members of the Western Wayne County alumnae chapter. Mrs. Hopkins will serve as an alternate delegate.

PLANNING NEXT YEAR'S ACTIVITIES are Newcomers' Club officers Mrs. Thomas Lewis, vice-president; Mrs. Don Suman, treasurer; Mrs. James Hothem, president; Mrs. Roy Jacobsen, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Robert Brandt, recording secretary.

Rocks blanked 7-0 by Franklin in tournament

Plymouth lost its bid for a share of the Livonia tourney last week, but won a close game, 2-1, over Clarenceville in the consolation round. They had beat Farmington 4-2 a week earlier.

Friday night they were shut out by Livonia Franklin, 7-0. Franklin went on to win the tournament which is sponsored by the Livonia-based Observer newspaper chain Saturday night.

Franklin's Cannon hurled the victory, allowing the Rocks only one hit, a single by Jim Lake in the first inning.

Coach Brian Boring said Dave Troutman, who pitched for Plymouth, did a "good job," but had no support in the field as the Rocks committed five or six errors.

The game was called after five innings; under tourney rules, if a team is ahead by 7-0 at the bottom of the fifth, the game is halted.

Franklin scored one run in the first, three in the second, and three in the third.

IN THE CONSOLATION game, Plymouth outlasted the Clarenceville diamond-men and won 2-1 in the tenth inning.

John Daniels was credited with the victory; Daniels relieved Fred Higgs after Higgs had pitched three innings.

Daniels fanned 13 men, including two in the bottom of the tenth.

Catcher Marlan Sutton was a hero again for the second time in two weeks as he banged a home run over the left fielder's head to tie up the game in the sixth frame.

Clarenceville had scored earlier, in the third. Sutton rapped a triple against Belleville a week and a half ago to beat the Suburban Six 2-1.

The game went scoreless until the tenth. Then a fired Clarenceville pitcher committed a balk, and a run scored.

Bob Gotro had drawn a walk and been moved to second on a sacrifice by Paul Carlson. Sutton dribbled out an infield hit, and Gotro was on third.

Ron White walked, then the Clarenceville pitcher hesitated in his pitch, balked towards third. Both umpires ruled Gotro in for an unearned run and the end of the ball game.

The victory left Plymouth with a 8-5 record, 5-3 mark in the league and a third place.

IT WAS a first year success for Boring, who is a math teacher. Boring will be replaced next year by a newcomer, Frank Fisher.

Boring will be on sabbatical

All boys in the Plymouth Community School District who will be eight years old before August 1, 1965, and not thirteen years old before September 1, 1965, who are interested in playing baseball in the Jr. Baseball League (Minor League) are urged to report to the league fields on Monday, June 21.

The fields are across from Burroughs Corporation on Plymouth Road.

Report to Max Sommerville.

For more information call: Joe Bida, 453-1556 or Max Sommerville, 453-8215.

Games will be played Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 1 p.m. each afternoon. You must have glove and tennis shoes and other equipment will be furnished.

All boys will be covered by insurance.

There will be a 15 game schedule.

leave to the U of M to work on his Ph.D.

A game with Bentley was called off by league officials at the last minute and could have pushed the Rocks into a second place position, had they won it. The cancellation was one of several schedule shuffles made this season as weather hampered a normal spring start.

Women's golf scores

The weekly spring tourneys at Braeburn golf course for the Women's Suburban Golf Association got under way last Friday.

Two scores are posted in each flight; the low gross score, and the low net, the score with the handicap.

In the championship flight, Mrs. Frank Langford shot a 97 for low gross, Mrs. Norma Schmeman an 86 for low net.

In the first flight Mrs. Ignatius Walters hit a 113, Mrs. Aldo Zeni a 94.

In the second flight, Mrs. Bernard Brier posted a 111, Mrs. Arthur Berneker an 81.

Michaels named to All-American team

Richard Michaels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Michaels, 575 Arthur St., was named to the All-American swimming team last week. The Ohio State student was a 1962 graduate of PHS, and placed 10th in the back stroke and eighth in the medley relay in the meet.

Plymouth 'Irish' sets pace in trials

The Irish Setter Club of Michigan announced its newest champion, Ivor Glen Cardinal Valiant, co-owned by E. W. McIvor, 40367 Ford Rd., Plymouth, and Mrs. Shirley Ford of Belleville.

Val's vital statistics are: whelped: October 18, 1960; sire: CH. Kinvarra Malone; dam: CH. Argo Lane's Golden Skylark; breeder: E.W. McIvor.

His show record is impressive:

May 1964, Lansing: best of winners, best of breed; May 1964, Oak Park: best of winners, best of breed, 4th sporting group major.

May 21, 1965, Livonia: best of winners, May 22, sporting group; May 22, Lansing, best of winners, best of breed, 3rd sporting group major; May 23, Oak Park, best of winners major; May 29, Kalamazoo: best of winners, best of breed, 2nd sporting group; May 30, Grand Rapids: best of winners, best of breed, 2nd sporting group.

Val was handled to his championship (in part) by Jack L. Funk of Chicago.

Bids let on Schoolcraft campus center

The Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College awarded contracts for the new $756,751 Campus Center at the June 2 meeting.

The J. V. Moriarity Company was awarded the general contracting in the amount of $413,500. Seven general contractors submitted bids.

The mechanical contract was awarded to the Benjamin Muskovitz Contracting Company, in the amount of $243,951. Eight companies submitted bids for the mechanical contracting.

The electrical contract was awarded to the Jones-Sherman Electrical Contracting Company in the amount of $99,300. The Board approved the low bidder in each case, pending review by the architectural firm of Eberle M. Smith, Associates, Inc.

The building is to be completed 315 days from the time of the filing of a letter of intent, so that the Campus Center will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1968.

This multi-purpose building will include study areas, bookstore, radio and television studios, publications office, and food facilities.

Bids for the new Vocational Technical Building will be opened on June 17. This is to be approximately a $900,000 building, designed by Ralls-Hamill-Becker Architects.

The Sporting Life The taming of Mr. McNasty

Doug Johnson

Last week while eating lunch at the Dun Rovin dining room overlooking the now green course, my mind wandered back to the summer I worked as a caddy for the Columbine Country Club in Denver, Colorado, not too long ago.

The life of a caddy is, to say the least, miserable. All of us (we?) caddies had a good time, but often suffered at the hands of the various and assorted duffers that belonged to the club. It was an exclusive club, and the people came in white Continentals and black Jags.

We were in our early teens, and envied their lot to no end. They were handsome; rich, polished, sophisticated and knew the difference between a Gibson and a martini.

They were also our bosses on the fairways, and some were nice, but most of them were surly. One particular man, McAllister, all of us hated and feared. We called him McNasty; he was the worst golfer on four continents, and the meanest man on all seven.

All of us sat outside of the clubhouse on a long bench-like affair waiting for the caddy master to call us. But McNasty always wanted to pick someone on his own, and would storm out from the locker room and start pacing up and down in front of us.

We all sat and stared at the ground, or told jokes and pretended to be asleep; anything to look lazy.

He would stop in front of us like a drill instructor, legs spread wide, arms akimbo, curl his lip and say; pointing his finger with a wicked little twist:

"Yourrunch it."

This meant "you are it," as best as we could tell, but we were never sure. Our eyes would follow his finger to our fallen comrade, who would have his eyes shut tight, looking like he was about to go into a severe coughing fit.

I had been there only two weeks when McNasty "Yourrunch-ed" me and we were off to the first tee.

"Whatcha your name?" he snarled.

"Douglas," I said, my voice squeaking.

"You're kidding," he said with a funny laugh, and then issued an unprintable string of foul language.

I handed him his four wood, and he teed off. The ball went straight down for about fifty yards, then curved west into a clump of pine trees.

"Oh no, why there?" he said weakly. McNasty played alone, and talked incoherently.

"I paid my income taxes last year. I bought Girl Scout cookies. I respect motherhood. I use the zip code. Why there?"

We marched in to the woods, found his ball, and he was on the green in two, and had three putted before he spoke again.

What's that for this hole, Douglas, three or four?" he said with the emphasis on the '-las'.

"Six" I said boldly, being new at the game.

"Aaaeecccchek," he gurgled.

He didn't waste any time. On the number two hole he hit his ball straight down the fairway 25 yards before it trickled to a stop on the edge of the fairway next to a tree.

"Do I seem like a nice guy?" McNasty asked. "I wouldn't hurt a fly, or even a fly's nest."

"No sir," I said. "I mean yes sir."

We went along quietly until the sixteenth hole. McNasty had merely snarled and grumbled along the way, playing what had to be world's record bad golf. He hit into sandtraps with ease, into water hazards with finesse, and into the rough with aplomb. He made bad golf look like a professional sport.

On the sixteenth it happened. He hit the ball pure and clean and straight down the short fairway, and it rolled to the edge of the green, and up on the green. He needed a two-putt for a par.

I couldn't stand the suspense. McNasty beamed and said: "My special putter, Doug."

It was a long putt and he hit the ball solidly. The ball rolled quietly toward the hole, and dropped gently in.

A birdie!

McNasty chortled, grinned, bubbled. He smiled and kicked at the sand and leaped into the air and clicked his feet together.

We finished the course in record time, and returned to the clubhouse, his arm draped over my shoulder. We appeared to be in earnest conversation as we rounded the turn to the caddies bench.

A look of respect, and I thought at the time, awe spread over the faces of the caddies. McNasty shook my hand, paid me handsomely and headed for the showers.

"What happened?" someone asked.

"He finally broke 130," I replied.

Residents earn college degrees

Numerous Plymouth residents are receiving degrees from colleges and universities across the country this month.

Kenneth Jacobus, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jacobus, of Elm St., will receive his master's degree in psychology from Ohio State University, June 11. An Albion College graduate, Jacobus will continue work on his doctorate degree at OSU where he also holds an assistantship.

A Bachelor of Arts degree from Hillsdale College was conferred upon William Graham, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Graham of Hartsough St., May 30. He majored in business administration.

First Baptists to mark anniversary

The First Baptist Church of Plymouth will observe its 135th anniversary Sunday, June 9, 1830.

President of Judson College, Elgin, Ill., the Rev. Benjamin P. Brown will speak at the 11 a.m. worship service. He is a former president of Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, Chicago, and of American Baptist Convention in addition to being a former editor-in-chief of American Baptist publications.

At the dinner meeting, the Rev. A. L. Farrell, executive secretary of Michigan Baptist Convention, will speak.

Mrs. Dale Arnold and Mrs. Kenneth Thrope are co-chairmen of the dinner committee.

Eric Gears works with boys in Okinawa

A Plymouth Marine, Pfc. Eric L. Gears, MASS-2, and three other men are involved in people to people efforts on their Far Eastern tour.

Stationed at the Marine Corps Air Facility at Futema, Okinawa, Gears, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gears, 538 Kellogg St., and LCpls. Robert L. Higgins, William P. Hunter and Charles R. Semer are teaching English, coaching baseball and sponsoring Boy Scouting for local youngsters.

Junior league all-star game June 12

The Plymouth Community Junior baseball league schedule, major division, is almost at the half-way mark, with the Indians leading the American league and the Cubs leading the National league.

The all-stars of both leagues will play this Saturday at 1 p.m. at the field across from Burroughs.

The candy sale of last week has been called a "100% success" by league officials.

A donkey baseball game will be played July 10th. Standings will be printed here beginning next week.

C of C forum told of workshop needs for mentally retarded

Robert Clogg, salesman, spoke before the Chamber of Commerce's Businessmen's Forum last Thursday on behalf of the sheltered workshop.

Clogg is the president of the Livonia Association for Retarded Children, and donates much of his time to seeking aid for the retarded.

He said his group is seeking a building whereby the trainable mentally retarded can be put to work, doing useful jobs.

The workshop would need a full-time director, Clogg said, and is in desperate need of a facility.

The Plymouth JayCees have spearheaded an effort to get the area communities organized and co-operating on plans. Communities involved are Northville, Livonia, Redford and Plymouth.

Clogg said an estimated 137,000 retarded are born every year.

He said the retarded children have been taught to pack parts, count, assemble simple machinery and do sorting jobs.

The opportunity center for many of them would be terminal, Clogg noted. Here they would be taught everything they would ever know.

"They need to have a place where they can work and earn a living... a wage they can look at and say that they are doing something useful," he concluded.

Pleads guilty

Paul M. Boatun pled guilty to charges of building a dam without a permit, and was given a year's probation, Monday.

The court ordered him to fix a proper spillway on his dam on Fellows Creek on the western edge of the Township, and to keep the impounded area under five acres.

He was also ordered to furnish a letter from an engineer guaranteeing the dam was safe. The dam, which was reconstructed, broke recently and flooded lowlands and backyards downstream from its Napier and Ann Arbor Roads' location.

Michigan ranks second among the 14 leading industrial states in manufacturing productivity as measured by value-added per employee.

Salem square news

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schmidt and their children, Debbie, Michael, and Ursula, have a house guest for the summer. She is Mr. Schmidt's mother, Mrs. Anna Schmidt, who arrived by plane on May 19, from her native Cologne, Germany. This is the first time the senior Mrs. Schmidt has ever visited the United States. The family resides at 11042 Terry St.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mohrhardt, Hammill Ln., were host and hostess for the Newcomer's couples evening bridge group, May 15. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Braun, Pinetree Rd., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rick, Crestwood Dr., and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Piller, Hines Ct. The next gathering will be on June 19, at the Brauns'.

Salem Square has two more members in the Plymouth Newcomer's Club. They are Mrs. Whitney Stevens, 40753 Orangelawn Rd., and Mrs. Herman T. Rugel, 11163 Terry St. Both women became active members in April.

A combined group of about 100 fathers and their sons participated in the "Y" Indian Guide's spring campout on May 22-23. The tribes gathered at the State Park on Bishop Lake outside of Brighton, and spent the week-end living in tents, cooking over camp fires, hiking and fishing. Participating in the affair, as members of the Shawnee Tribe were John Stanley and his two sons, Jeffrey, 10 and David, 7, of 11087 Terry St.

Over the holiday weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy H. Merchant, Sr., 40579 Orangelawn Rd., went on a shakedown cruise on their yacht, the Edie-Belle. They left from Mt. Clemens, where the boat is docked, traveled across Lake St. Clair, and up the Thames River to Chatham.

On Memorial Day, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Urban and their children, of Orangelawn Rd., were among approximately 30 guests entertained at an outdoor barbecue picnic given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Quartz of Southfield.

On May 31, the Urban family hosted a cookout for Mrs. Urban's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lopez from Detroit.

The final Newcomer's luncheon for the summer was held on June 3, at Lofy's on Ann Arbor Rd. Mrs. James Copeland, 40447 Pinetree Rd., and Mrs. William Bevier, 40718 Pinetree Rd., attended the affair and observed while the new officers were installed for the 1965-66 term.

Marine office to open Saturday mornings

The Marine Recruiting office, Veterans Memorial Building, 173 N. Main St., has announced additional office hours for the summer months.

The office will be open Saturdays from 8 a.m. until noon during June, July, August and September to accommodate persons unable to come in during weekday hours.

Hams in emergency field test

Field day is the day of the year when radio amateurs all over the world get an opportunity to test their ability to maintain communications under field conditions.

The Stu Rockefeller Amateur Society, composed of amateurs in Livonia, Plymouth, Northville and surrounding communities have their field day location set on and at their regular club meeting on June 15 will set up final teams.

Any local amateur is invited to participate. Meetings are held in the Plymouth Credit Union Building on the 3rd Tuesday of the month at 8 p.m.

All power to operate transmitters and receivers must come from a source other than commercial lines. Amateur radio clubs compete with each other to see how many contacts can be made in a 24 hour period.

This is the opportunity for groups to demonstrate emergency preparedness and the vital role played by the amateur radio service in time of need. The day is June 26-27.

Dr. Brown to retire as Northville chief

Philip N. Brown, M.D., superintendent of Northville State Hospital, will retire from state mental health service July 10 after thirty years with the Department of Mental Health.

The announcement was made today in a joint statement by Dr. Brown and Department Director Robert A. Kimmich, M.D.

"Dr. Brown was instrumental in designing Northville State Hospital and has provided high standards for his program," said Dr. Kimmich. "We shall miss his part in the guidance of hospital services for the mentally ill."

"No replacement has been selected," said Dr. Kimmich. Dr. Brown has been superintendent of the 2,200-bed state-hospital since it first opened in 1951. His work with the Department of Mental Health began at Ypsilanti State Hospital in July

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH broke ground for a new $400,000 building last week. The new church will be built on a 9 1/2 acre site located at 43065 Joy Road. Amos Roe Builders, Inc., of Warren, Michigan, have been awarded the contract, with Robert Foltz, of South Bend, Indiana, as the architect. The building is to be a modified colonial structure and should be completed early in 1966. The new facilities will provide a seating capacity of 700 at church services and Sunday School room for 1,000. Construction will begin within the next ten days. Pictured are Pastor P. J. Clifford and building committee, left to right, Ralph Alloway, chairman of the committee, Ray Flanagan, DeLoy Kelley, Pastor Clifford, William Hogg, Sr., Melbourne Sattler, Jack Stout, Floyd Fisher, Sr., and Kenneth Evans, Sr. Members of committee not present are Ferris Mills, Herman Warnemuende and Ed Houghtaling.

Men in service

Seaman Timothy W. Baldwin, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baldwin of 1199 Sheldon Rd., is serving with Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 27 at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va. The squadron was aboard the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Intrepid in March when the Intrepid recovered astronauts Gus Grissom and John Young after their Gemini Three manned space flight. The squadron flies the Grumman S-2E "Tracker" anti-submarine warfare aircraft, the Navy's newest carrier-based plane of this type.

Donald Avery, Airman Apprentice Donald N. Avery, USN son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair W. Avery of 6133 Canton Center Rd., graduated May 14 from the Aviation Machinist's Mate Jet Engine School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn. During the eight-week course he learned jet fundamentals, jet power plant operation and replacement, jet aircraft line operations, assembly and disassembly of jet power plants and power plant removal procedures. Before attending this school he graduated from two-week aviation familiarization and four-week mechanical fundamentals courses.

Cary Black, Army PFC Cary A. Black of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Black, 5845 Lilley Rd., took part in Exercise Frontier Post I, a major counter-insurgency exercise being conducted in the Olympic National Forest in Washington May 17-28. People you know
Mr. and Mrs. John Van Hoy returned home Sunday by plane from Indianapolis, Ind. where they were called by the death of his brother, Samuel Van Hoy. His funeral was Friday afternoon.

Mrs. O. H. Williams of Ann Arbor Tr., was hostess June 8 at a luncheon contract bridge party, the final one of the season for the members, Mrs. Guy H. Gley of Northville, Mrs. Glenn Fraleigh, Mrs. Harold Niemi, Mrs. Edward Dobbs, Mrs. E. L. Carney, Mrs. Lauren Wells and Mrs. William Reid, all of Plymouth.

Mrs. Agnes Theison of Detroit, entertained at a family gathering on Sunday as a farewell to her son, Gerald, and family who have moved to Sacramento, Calif. from Farmington. His sister, Sister Agnes Patricia of Chicago, Ill. and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Theison of Plymouth also attended.

Miss Iva Goyer of Detroit, visited her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Goyer of Church St., from Friday until Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Bernard Curtis of Auburn St., and daughter, Mrs. Don White, were joint hostesses June 5 at a baby shower for the former's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Curtis, of Muskegon. There were 16 guests present. In a week the Curtis will be moving to Urbana, Ill.

To be more specific about the test, it would be, or could be, a program whereby every six months each private automobile running on public roads would be brought, for instance, to a state-selected service station.

HERE THE VEHICLE would be checked for proper lighting, brake reaction, and would make sure all windows were properly intact, etc. If the car met requirements, the owner then would be given a sticker to place on one of the car's windows to show it is safe for driving on public highways.

I hope not for long.

A test such as this eliminates "paddlers," faulty brakes, and defective steering columns, before they cause, or help cause, an accident.

But it does take money. Pennsylvania was one of the first states to set up a program like this. To save the state's tax fund each driver had a minimum three-dollar fee to pay for the check. Three dollars every six months isn't much considering how many lives it could save.

A program like this in a city the size of Plymouth would prove ineffective with so much outside traffic. The only truly effective measure would be for the entire state to adopt such a plan. For such a forward-looking state, Michigan now seems to be looking into the backs of such states like Pennsylvania.

PHS Viewpoint
Let's get rattletraps off of our highways running order to insure his and others' safety. It is now apparent that with the ever increasing number of autos crowding our highways that this kind of "personal safety" policy is proving inadequate.

Too many new drivers with old cars are letting them slip into a condition that if they weren't licensed, they'd be parked away from a public parking place as junk, or for defacing city property.

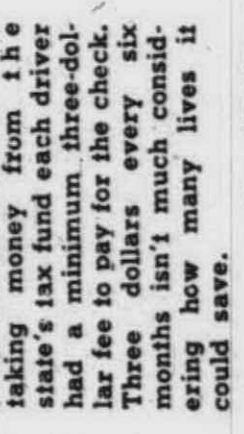

In Michigan there are few laws restricting what types of machinery may use the public highways. Anything with a license is eligible and almost anything can be licensed.

There are ways to correct this. In fact, Detroit, only five months ago began discussing a plan to rid at least Detroit's streets of unsafe cars, in hopes that it would catch fire state-wide.

But the plan ran into unforeseen difficulties. In early April, the Detroit Common Council voted down a bill which would make it mandatory to have private cars run through a periodic safety check. But this insane decision affected not only Detroiters but so influenced some surrounding communities, that were contemplating a similar "check," that they decided to disband the idea too.

The main premise the council used to reject it was lack of money. One Detroit council member, whose name shall not be revealed, saw fit to vote herself a raise but had the gall to turn around and deny Detroit safer automobiles by saying that such a "check" would be "economically sound in a city already in desperate need of more capital." This seems like rather unsound reasoning and raised the blood pressure of more than just Mayor Cavanaugh.

In The Good Old Days

10 YEARS AGO
There's every indication that Plymouth will have its biggest Independence day celebration when the national holiday rolls around in about three weeks, according to reports from a score of men and women who are working on Chamber of Commerce committees planning the event.

A setback in the plans to construct a new elementary school on Sheldon road because of a Wayne County Health Department ruling against septic tanks may be overcome if the township and city can unite their efforts to construct the long-proposed Parkside Arm sewer system.

A final report from the Plymouth Township Study committee has recommended that the township retain its present form of government, that water and sewer facilities be constructed as soon as possible, and that petitions for incorporating the township into a city and for annexing the township to the city be withdrawn.

County Treasurer Harold E. Stoll has announced that Plymouth township collected a larger percentage of its taxes than any other governmental unit in the county.

50 YEARS AGO
The Alter Motor Car Co. will soon commence the construction of another large factory building just south of their present buildings and they must have more room in which to increase the capacity of their daily output. If they even begin to appraise the demands of their agents, who are continually clamoring for more cars.

Marshall Springer discovered a man at the rear door of E. R. Daggett's store is a fine idea to have several ornamental flower beds between the curb and the walk on Main street?

Riverside cemetery presented a very nice appearance on Decoration Day. The improvements that have been made by the cemetery trustees in the past several years, in the way of improving the driveways, setting out the laying out of flower beds and ornamental shrubbery and kept appearance of the cemetery.

Kellogg Park certainly presents a much better appearance since the grass has been trimmed. Why would it not be a fine idea to have several ornamental flower beds between the curb and the walk on Main street?

June is the month honoring junior members in the American Legion Auxiliary. The Auxiliary now has nearly 100,000 junior members, who are daughters and sisters of American Legion members and deceased veterans under the age of 18. They carry out Auxiliary activities suited to their ages and learn the ideals of patriotic service by actual practice.

For the purpose of conducting activities, the juniors are divided into three groups by ages - infants through 8 years; 9 through 12 years, and 13 to 18 years. At the age of 18 they graduate into senior membership, and many former juniors are now among the Auxiliary's leaders, some holding posts of national responsibility.

On June 14 the flag will be 187 years old. Every Auxiliary and Post member is urged to celebrate the day by flying the flag of the United States over their home or business place.

Wednesday, June 16, is the next business meeting of Passage-Gayde Unit 391 with annual reports and election of officers.

Friday, June 18, Passage-Gayde Post and Unit will be host to the 17th District Memorial Services and annual meeting at the Veterans Memorial Home on Main Street.

Saturday, June 19, is the next "Why Are We" banquet at 6:30 p.m. at the Post Home. The Lions Club will be guests this week.

Africa and me Elephant walk

Lon Dickerson

When anyone comes to Africa, he usually expects to see an elephant sometime during his stay. Early in May this dream came true for me.

The African elephant is the largest land animal in the world. Distinguished from the Indian elephant by its large ears, it sometimes reaches a height of over 11 feet at the shoulders and a weight of six tons or more.

Until about 50 years ago large numbers of them roamed throughout West Africa. Hunters seeking the ivory tusks killed so many of them, however, that today the sight of an elephant is a very rare event.

I only know of two other people who have seen them here. I had gone with the primary school service bookmobile to Jaizama Nimiya, a remote village in Kono District. It had been impossible to reach this village during my previous visit to the district in November because sections of the road had been washed away by the rains.

After exchanging the books on loan to the school I went to see the paramount chief. In an unusual gesture of welcome he took me on a tour of the village.

INCLUDED was a visit to the village blacksmith and later a trip to the river. There the women were doing the laundry by beating the clothes on the rocks with large wooden sticks. In another section of the river I watched other women fishing with large woven nets. In another part of the village I watched the men playing two favorite African games, top spinning and warrie.

In short, it was an extremely interesting tour which presented numerous glimpses into the daily life of the village.

I had thanked the chief for his hospitality and was preparing to leave when a hunter entered the village. When he approached the chief, he presented to him the tail and tip of the trunk of an elephant. This is the traditional way of announcing that an elephant has been killed within the chiefdom.

Some of the men in the village immediately began to make preparations to return with the hunter to the place where the elephant had been shot to help cut it up so that it could be transported back to the village to eat. Seizing upon the opportunity, I asked the chief if I could accompany them. He consented.

THESE STEPS, in my opinion, could have a strong beneficial impact on our State. But much more can and should be done. We here in Congress as well as legislators and local officials in Michigan must do everything possible to guarantee our young people the finest in educational opportunities at the elementary, secondary, college and technical school level.

For these opportunities, well used, are ultimately the only sure ticket to future employment in our technological age.

We must do everything possible, at the State and local level, to provide the kind of climate which attracts, and holds, this kind of industry.

One step is to continue the support of our famous institutions of higher education, for it is to such institutions that science-oriented industrial management, and top-level researchers, are attracted.

The burden of providing an atmosphere attractive to the industry of the future depends on the people of Michigan and the Second Congressional District. Certainly, the Federal Government, representing the fifty states, cannot create a competitive advantage for Michigan; we must do this ourselves.

Only we can convince the companies that their future will be best served, located in Michigan—in our Second Congressional District.

One step is to continue the support of our famous institutions of higher education, for it is to such institutions that science-oriented industrial management, and top-level researchers, are attracted.

The burden of providing an atmosphere attractive to the industry of the future depends on the people of Michigan and the Second Congressional District. Certainly, the Federal Government, representing the fifty states, cannot create a competitive advantage for Michigan; we must do this ourselves.

Only we can convince the companies that their future will be best served, located in Michigan—in our Second Congressional District.

Gas Yard Light

SPECIAL OFFER
SAVE $2000

ON INSTALLATION
FOR LIMITED TIME

Again, as in the Gay 90's, the soft, mellow glow of gaslight has found widespread popularity. And it's no wonder when you consider all its advantages! The gas yard light is decorative... it sheds its golden light over lawns, patios and pools for nighttime relaxing or entertaining. It helps guard against unwelcome intruders. Homeowners like its dependability too... its unfading source of outdoor illumination. In addition to being highly decorative, useful and dependable, gas yard lights are economical to operate and simple to maintain.
